Mr. Guillim's
PREFACE TO THE READER.

HOW difficult a thing it is to produce Form out of Things ſhapeleſs and deformed, and to preſcribe Limits to Things confuſed, there is none but may eaſily perceive, if he ſhall take but a ſlight View of the Chaos-like Contemperation of Things, not only diverſe, but repugnant in Nature, hitherto concorporated in the generous Profeſſion of Heraldry: As the Forms of the pure Cœleſtial Bodies, mix'd with groſs Terreſtrials; Earthly Animals, with Watery; Savage Beaſts, with Tame; Whole-footed Beaſts, with Divided; Reptiles, with Things Greſſible; Fowls of Prey, with Home-bred; theſe again, with River-Fowls; Airy Inſecta, with Earthly; alſo Things Natural, with Artificial; Arts Liberal, with Mechanical; Military, with Ruſtical; and Ruſtick with Civil. Which confuſed Mixture hath not a little diſcouraged many Perſons (otherwiſe well affected to the Study of Armory) and impaired the Eſtimation of the Profeſſion. For Redreſs whereof myſelf (tho' unableſt of many) have done my Beſt, in this my Diſplay of Heraldry, to diſſolve this deformed Lump, diſtributing and digeſting each Particular thereof into his peculiar Rank; wherein, albeit the Iſſue of my Enterprize be not anſwerable to the Height of my Deſires, yet do I aſſure my ſelf my Labour herein will not be altogether fruitleſs; foraſmuch as hereby I have broken the Ice, and made Way to ſome After-comers of greater Gifts and riper Judgment, that they may give a fairer Body to this my delineated rough Draught, or Shadow of a new framed Method. For if Men of greateſt Skill have failed to give abſolute Form to their Works, notwithſtanding their beſt Endeavours, with little Reaſon may ſuch Perfection be expected from me, whoſe Talent is ſo ſmall, as that I am forced to build wholly upon other Men's Foundations; and therefore may be thought to have undertaken an idle Task, in writing of Things formerly handled and publiſhed by Perſons of more Sufficiency and greater Judgment. Notwithſtanding, who knoweth not, that as every Man hath his proper Conceit and Invention, ſo hath he his ſeveral Drift and Purpoſe, ſo as divers Men writing of one ſelf Argument, do handle the ſame diverſly? Which being ſo, what letteth that every of us, writing in a diverſe kind, may not without Offence to other, uſe our utmoſt Endeavours to give unto this erſt unſhapely and diſproportionable Profeſſion of Heraldry, a true Symmetria and proportionable Correſpondence of each Part to other? Inaſmuch (if I be not deceived) both they and myſelf do all aim at one Mark, which is ſo to adorn and beautify this Science, as that it being purged from her wonted Deformities, may become more plauſible to many, and be favourably entertained of all; which could not be otherwiſe better effected, than by diſſolving of this Chaos-like, or confuſed Lump, and diſſevering of each Particular thereof from other, and diſpoſing them under their peculiar Heads, which is the full Scope of theſe my Travails. Now to the End I might the better acccompliſh this Task, after I had carefully collected the chief Grounds, Principles, Rules, and Obſervations that Ger. Leigh, Boſwell, Ferne, Bara, Chaſſaneus, and other beſt approved Authors in their ſeveral Works have written touching the Rudiments and firſt Principles of Armory; then did I ſeriouſly bethink myſelf for the orderly Diſtribution of thoſe their diſperſed Notes and Obſervations ſo by me collected, and digeſting of them into ſome Form of Method, or at the leaſt into ſome Methodical Reſemblance, wherein, I hope, I have in ſome Sort accompliſhed my Deſire, and have, for thy better Underſtanding and Apprehenſion (Gentle Reader) firſt diſtributed this Work into Sections, and thoſe into Chapters, briefly ſhewing their ſeveral Subſtances and orderly Connexions; and throughout the Whole I have begun with the Genus of each Kind, and ſevered them into their Species, which alſo are ſubdivided into Individua's, annexing particular Rules to each ſeveral Sort. Moreover, I have added Definitions, Diviſions, and Etymologies of the Artificial Terms peculiarly pertaining to this Art, beſtowed the chief Grounds, Principles, Rules, and Obſervations under their proper Heads, and manifeſted their Uſe by Examples of ſpecial Choice, whereby they receive not only Warrant, but alſo lively Senſe and Vigour, in Default whereof they would become deſtitute of all Force, according to that ſaying of Aretius, Præcepta, quantumvis bona & concinna, mortua ſunt, niſi ipſe Auditor variis exemplis ea repræſentat. Finally, to the end that nothing ſhould be wanting that might give thee full Contentment, I have prefix'd before every Section an Analogical Table, briefly comprehending the Subſtance of each ſubſequent Section, and that with ſuch Coherence, that each of the ſaid Tables anſwereth in a Relative Reſpect of the one of them to the other; ſo as all of them do jump together in an univerſal Coherence, as by their particular References doth manifeſtly appear; whereby I have brought to paſs (though with long and difficult Labour) that in this my Diſplay of Heraldry, thou mayeſt eaſily find (beſtowed according to Order) whatſoever thou deſireſt concerning the Principles of this Profeſſion: So that thou in ſhort Time, and with much Eaſe, mayeſt reap not only a profitable Gleaning, but a plentiful Harveſt of this my long and painful Lucubrations. Farewel.

THE INTRODUCTION.

' This Comma shows what was in Mr. Guillim's own Edition.

" These show what was added in the last Edition.

Those Paragraphs without any, are peculiar to this Edition.

WHOSOEVER shall address himself to write of Matters of Instruction, or of any other Argument of Importance, it behoveth, that before he enter thereinto, he should resolutely determine with himself, in what Order he will handle the same: So shall he best accomplish that he hath undertaken, and inform the Understanding, and help the Memory of the Reader: For so doth Chassaneus admonish us; saying, Priusquam ad Scientiam perveniatur, bonum est, modum præscribere docendi, & ordinem; quia per ordinem res intellectæ magis delectant animos, mentes nutriunt, Sensus magis illuminant, & Memoriam reddunt clariorem: Before you proceed to treat of any Science, it is best to lay down the Method and Order you intend to observe in it. For whatsoever is learn'd in good Order, is on that account more pleasing to the Soul, more apt to inform the Understanding; the Senses are clear'd, and the Memory strengthen'd by such a Method. Such Order and Course of Writing doth also procure in the Reader a Facility of Apprehension, as Erasmus noteth; saying, Facilius discimus quæ congruo dicuntur ordine, quàm quæ sparsim & confusim: We are apter to learn Things which are taught in a pertinent Method, than Things which are confusedly huddled together. What Order is, St. Augustine doth inform us; saying, Ordo est parium, dispariumque rerum distributio. Order is the Ranging of Things, of the same, or different Kinds, under convenient Heads. This Order is twofold; the one of Nature, the other of Discipline: The Order of Nature (as Doctor Casius noteth) is a Progression from Simples to Things compound: Contrariwise, the Order of Discipline is a Proceeding from Things compound to Simples. As touching the Order that I have prefixed to my self in this Display of Heraldry, you shall understand, that forasmuch as the handling of one of those alone, sufficeth not to the effecting of my intended Method, I must of force make use of them both in some sort, according to their distinct Kinds.

Wherein, albeit the Order of Nature in Right should have the Precedence, as the more worthy, Quia Natura regitur ab intelligentia non errante: Because Nature is directed by unerring Wisdom: Nevertheless, in regard my principal Purpose tendeth to the prescribing of a Form of Discipline, whereunto these Tokens which we call Arms must be reduced, and therein to manifest rather their Location than their Generation, their Use than their Essence, their Shadow than their Substance; I am constrain'd to prefer the latter (which serveth directly for my Purpose) before the former, which tendeth thereto but collaterally; whose Dignity notwithstanding I purpose regardfully to observe, when I shall come to the Distribution of Things natural in their proper Places.

But before I enter on my Method, I hold it expedient (though I do somewhat digress) by way of Introduction, to the better conceiving and understanding of that which shall be herein handled, briefly to offer to the Consideration of the judicious Reader, some few Things of neces'fary Note, touching the Subject of this Work: 'Such are those Ensigns or Marks, which we call 'Arms in English, and in Latin Arma; which 'being a Word of Equivocation or Ambiguity, 'needeth some Explication: Digredi enim quan-'doque licet ex causa, non autem divagari: For 'so it is very requisite, to the end it may be cer-'tainly known in what Sense this Word is to be 'here taken; Quia discenti ponenda sunt vera '& certa. A Learner must have nothing for his 'Lesson, but what is true and certain.

'It is therefore to be observed, that this Word 'Arma, in Latin, is sometimes taken for very 'natural Instruments; and in this Sense doth 'Doctor Casius use the same, where he saith, 'Arma belluis natura dedit, ut Leoni Dentes, Ser-'penti Aculeum: Nature hath given Arms to the 'Brute Creatures, as Teeth to Lions, and Stings 'to Serpents.

And so Lucretius, when he wrote, Arma Antiqua Manus, Ungues, Dentesque fuerunt: The Ancients fought with Hands, and Teeth, and Nails.

'Sometimes it is taken for all manner of In-'struments, pertaining to mechanical Trades, as 'Arma Rusticorum Rastra, Ligones, & hujusmo-'di: Husbandmens Implements are Rakes, Spades, &c. Also, Arma Coquinaria, Lebes, Patella, 'Tripus, Olla, &c. A Cook's Utensils are a Ket-'tle, a Dish, a Skillet, a Pot, &c. And Virgil 'Æneid. 5. speaking of the Necessaries pertaining 'to Shipping, saith, Colligere Arma jubet, vali-'disq; incumbere remis: Handle your Tools, and 'ply your sturdy Oars.

'Sometimes it is taken for all sorts of Warlike 'Instruments; and in this Sense doth Doctor Ca-'sius take it, saying, At hominibus Arma industria 'finxit, eòque finxit, ut pro imperio rationis eis 'uteretur: But Men are supplied with Arms by 'their own Industry, in the Use of which, Rea-'son hath the Direction. But this Word Arma 'here meant, is not understood in any of these Sig-'nifications, but must be taken in a metaphori-'cal Sense, for that they do assume a borrowed 'Name (by way of Figure called Metonymia Sub-'jecti) from the Shields, Targets, Banners, mi-'litary Cassocks, and other martial Instruments, 'whereupon they were engraven, embossed, 'embroidered, or depicted: Which kind of Fur-'niture and Habiliments, are peculiar unto mar-'tial Men and professed Soulders, to whom on-'ly it pertaineth to bear Armour: Which even 'at this Day we do usually call by the Name of 'Arms. And of them in process of Time did 'these Ensigns or Marks receive their Denomina-'tion; and were called Arma, in English Arms, 'or else alluding to Surcoats, Coat Armeurs or 'Coat Armours, as Abra. Fra, noteth, saying, Ar-'ma appellantur, quòd olim solis Militibus data 'fuerunt, qui Arma gerere solent. Nam cum ista 'sit gloria Armis, ut Instrumentis, comparata, pla-'cuit ipsam quoque mercedem Arma appellare: 'Arms are so called, because they were formerly 'given to none but Soldiers, who bear Arms. For 'they being the Instruments whereby Glory is ob-'tain'd, they came in process of Time to signifie that 'Glory which is the Reward of them.

Therefore * Isidore derives them ἀπὸ τοῦ Ἄρεως, from Mars the God of War; because by the Use of Arms in War came the Knowledge, Use, and Nature of these Tokens, which originally, as is before said, were only the Figures and Pictures on Arms (i. e.) Shields, &c. and which Time and Use has transfer'd to the Accommodation and Glory of the Posterities of those who first receiv'd them. For though they have now invented other offensive Weapons, thereby rendring such Habiliments useless, which created the present Difference betwixt Insignia, and the Arma whereon they were placed; the first being now become the Figures on Seals, Rings, Walls, Monuments, and such other Concomitants of civil Society and Order; yet in Remembrance of their first Use, do they give them the same Names, viz. in Latin Arma, in English Arms.

* In Verbo Arma.

" Claudius Fauchet saith, That Arms have " their Denomination, because military Men " bare their Devices, or Inventions, depicted up-" on their Coat-Armours; and in and upon their " Shields.

The Civilians (saith Mackenzie) call these Arms, Insignia, l. 2. in princip. f. de his qui not. infam. l. eos, Sect. 2. f. de falsis. But Barth. (adds he) is taxed for Insignius & Insigniorum; whereas the true Latin is Insignibus & Insignium. Some (saith my Author) call them Insignia Armorum, the Latin of which is also doubted by Tiraquel. Cap. Num. 19.

" Aldrovandus believes that this Name Insignia " might proceed of the Barrenness of the Latin " Tongue: His Words are these, Insignium no-" men ex Linguæ Latinæ videtur fluxisse inopia, " & certè vix aliud vocabulum huic magis qua-" drat, quod hæc præcipuè virtutis, & gentilita-" tis sive nota sive signum sit: The Word Insig-" nia seems to be made choice of, because the La-" tin Tongue would afford no better: For certain-" ly there is not a fitter Term in that Language " to express the Ensigns of Nobility and Valour.

By Insignia we are to understand all Signs or Marks which distinguish Men one from another, as they differ in Merit or Desert: Nam Insignia à signo derivatur; quasi aliquo Signo ab aliis discretus & separatus, saith Festus. And hence (as Waterhouse observes) it is, that we read of every more than ordinary Thing, either good or evil, expressed by Insigne. † Virgil tells us of superbum Insigne belli, and Tacitus, of insignire annum Cladibus, and * Tully of insigne flagitium, and insigniter improbus, and Livy of dies insignis duplici Clade, and Quintilian of prodigiosa corpora & Monstris insignia.

* Lib. 6.

" Of the Number of Ensigns, are those Notes, " Marks, and Shapes of Animals, that martial " Men used to adorn the Crests of their Helmets " withal, to make themselves more eminent in the " Field: And to the end there might be better " notice taken of their valorous Actions, when " they

" they encountered their Enemies in Battel, or " ſhould draw on their Forces to fight; whereof " we ſhall have cauſe to ſpeak hereafter in place " more convenient, when we ſhall come to treat " of them particularly.

" The Uſe of theſe was yet extended farther " than the adorning of Shields and Helmets on- " ly; for Ships alſo and other navigable Veſſels, " were garniſhed and beautified in their Fore- " Decks, yea, and that in very ancient time, for " the diſtinguiſhing of one Ship from another, as " we may ſee, Acts 28. 11. where St. Paul ſaith, " he went in a Ship whoſe Badge was Caſtor and " Pollux; alſo the Fore-deck of the Ship that " carried away Europa, had the Form of a Bull " painted thereon, which gave occaſion to the Fa- " ble, That a Bull had ſtoln her away. Neither " did the Ancients only uſe this, but it hath " been a receiv'd Cuſtom in all Ages ſithence, " and yet continues with us unto this Day. " Hereof it cometh that we give the Ships the " Names of the Things that are depicted upon " them, as the Bull, Bear, Lyon, Tyger, &c.

* In Verbo Σύμβολα.

Arms are alſo call'd Symbola, which Suidas * terms by Σημεῖα, μέτρα, οἷον σημεῖον τῦ φθαρτὸν εἶναι τὸν ἄνθρωπον ἀφ' τῦ δυνάτε, οἱ δερμάτινοι χιτῶνες, making the Sepiment of Skin which Man is bounded, with a Symbol of his Mortality. Theſe Symbols were anciently (for that the World was a long time without the uſe of Letters, all Men, if any thing acquainted with Antiquity, know) the only way of expreſſing the Nature and Meaning of Things; the Ægyptians, Chaldees, Greeks, and Latines, all us'd them and tranſmitted many brave Atchievements thereby to Poſterity for their Examples, as Lilius Giraldus out of * Jamblicus, Plutarch, and other Authors, hath largely obſerv'd. Therefore what Plautus and Pliny expreſs by Teſſera and Syngrapha; elder times, as Waterhouſe obſerves, did by Symbola, which in reſemblance are like Parables in Speech: For though Symbola is alſo apply'd as a Name or Denomination, yet it is more properly the Cypher that ſets out the Nature of Arms, for the Arms or Device on the Shield is but an Idea of the Bearer, a Repreſentation of ſomething more excellent, which is conceal'd, and to which that is but the Feſcue or Finger.

* Lib. de Symb. Pythagoræ & partis ſecundæ, p. 460. Caſt. Catal. gl. Mund. p. 58.

But theſe Arms (as Mackenzie obſerves) are diſtinguiſhed from thoſe Hieroglyphicks, Symbols, Emblems, and Devices of old which have given them Name, in that thoſe require no fix'd Colours, as Arms do. The Emblem repreſents ſome moral Leſſon, but Arms are the Teſtimony of ſome noble Action; Arms are Hereditary, but theſe aſſum'd, and altered at Pleaſure.

Arms are called by the Germans, Wappen *, or Clenodia; by the Italians Carmas; and by the French Armoiries. Mackenzie, cap. 1. p. 1.

* Whence, I preſume, comes our Word Weapon, and Wapentakes; the latter being Places of Rendezvous, where Men aſſembled in Arms.

' Arms then, as they are here meant, accord- ' ing to their original and firſt Uſe, may be ' thus defined: Arms are Tokens or Reſem- ' blances, ſignifying ſome Act, or Quality of ' the Bearer. Thus Arms are, generally and according to their preſent Uſe, hereditable Marks or Signs of Honour, taken or granted by Sovereign Princes, to reward and diſtinguiſh Perſons, Families and Communities in War and Peace.

" Theſe Arms are ſometimes compoſed of Na- " tural Things, as of ſome Kinds of celeſtial " Bodies, viz. of the Sun, Moon, Stars, &c. " Sometimes of four-footed Beaſts, or of Birds, " or of Serpents, or of Fiſhes, or ſome other " Reptiles; or elſe of ſome kind of Vegetables, " as Trees, Shrubs, Flowers, Fruits, Leaves, &c. " or of ſome ſolid Things, as Caſtles, Towers, " Mountains, &c. or of Things pertaining to " Arts Liberal, or Trades Mechanical, &c. " Sometimes again they are compact of none " of theſe, but do conſiſt only of the Variations " of Simple Colours, counter-chang'd by occa- " ſion of Tranſverſe, Perpendicular, or what- " ſoever other Line uſed in Coat-Armour, whe- " ther the ſame be Streight, Crooked, Bunch- " ed, &c. whereby paſſing through the Eſco- " cheon, either Tranſverſe, Oblique, or Direct, " the Colours become tranſmuted or Counter- " chang'd; of all which I ſhall have Occaſion " to ſpeak hereafter in their particular Place.

' As touching the Antiquity of theſe Signs ' which we call Arms, Diodorus Siculus maketh ' mention, that Oſyris, ſurnamed Jupiter the ' Juſt, Son to Cham the curſed Son of Noah, ' called of the Gentiles Janus, being baniſhed ' from the bleſſed Tents of Shem and Japhet; ' by reaſon of the Curſe fallen upon his Father, ' was conſtrained to ſeek ſome remote Place, ' wherein he might ſettle himſelf, his Children, ' and People. For which purpoſe he aſſembled ' a great Army, and appointed Hercules his ' eldeſt Son Captain; and in this ſo Ancient an ' Expedition of Wars, as well Oſyris himſelf as ' Hercules, Macedon and Anubis, his Sons and ' others, did paint certain Signs upon their ' Shields, Bucklers, and other Weapons; which ' Signs were after called Arms; as for Example, ' Oſyris bare a Scepter Royal, inſigned on the ' Top with an Eye: Hercules a Lyon Rampant, ' holding a Battle-Axe: Macedon a Wolf, and ' Anubis a Dog.

Now as their Inſtitution you ſee is not new, but ab initio Religionis, viz. from Oſyris and Iſis more than four Hundred Years before the Iſraelites departed out of Egypt; ſo neither was their Uſe limited or reſtrain'd to a few Nations, but general; which Argument Mr. Bolton makes uſe of to prove the Notion natural; alledging that whatſoever is ſo taken up as that it is found practis'd by all Nations, muſt certainly claim Foundation in Nature, or (which is the ſame) that whatever all Countries, civil or barbarous, agree to in the main (though differing perhaps in ſome Circumſtances) muſt undoubtedly proceed from the Dictates of natural Reason: This being true (as Nisbet observes) 'tis more than probable that Arms are founded upon Nature; for that Signs and Marks upon Shields, &c. have been constantly made use of, both by the ancient and modern Inhabitants, not only of this, but likewise of the new discovered World of America, might be easily made appear from many Passages to be met with in sundry Historians. By which it seems probable that Insignia were at first the rude Productions of Nature, and not the Invention of any particular Person, or Set of Men. And had it been otherwise, 'tis likely we shou'd have had an Account transmitted to us by some one or other of former Ages, at what particular Time, and by whom the Use of them was first introduc'd; for want of which it is scarce possible to know perfectly the Progress of Arms, from their first Beginning to their present State and Condition: Yet as Nisbet continues, if we consider the Figures in Heraldry, whether natural or proper, with the Tinctures and Pieces, whether ancient or modern, whereof Arms are composed, we may arrive at some probable Conjecture concerning their gradual Improvements; and we shall thereby most readily learn how that Arms, from a rude and simple Beginning, have grown up to their present Perfection and Splendour; but of this anon. I will first shew that the Use of Armorial Ensigns was general, by a short Catalogue of such Nations, and Persons, as I find to have born them of high Antiquity, viz.

Essay on Cadency, p. 4.

The Nations of the bear for their Ensigns.

Israelites	The Hebrew Letter Tau.
Scythians	A Thunder-Bolt, or (according to some) Lightning.
Egyptians	An Ox.
Phrygians	A Swine.
Thracians	Mars.
Romans	An Eagle.
Persians	Bow and Arrows.

The

- Syrians a Dove.
- Indians a Dragon.
- Athenians an Owl.
- Thebans Sphinx's Head.
- Rhegini a Hare.
- Corinthians a Pegasus.
- Lacedemonians the Greek Letter A.
- Messenians M.
- Danes a Raven according to Asserius.

The Corali, a Savage People of Pontus, two Wheels.

And the Mexicans, an Hand holding many Arrows of Reeds, as Josephus Acosta informs us; adding that their Use was continued in Memory of Acampixtli the Assumer thereof, and first King of Mexico, whose Name in their Dialect signifies the same.

" Paulus Æmilius saith, that anciently the " French Kings did bear Argent three Diadems, " Gules: Others say, they bare three Toads " sable, in a Field Vert, alias Sinople.

" We find also in Homer and in Virgil, that " the Heroes had their Signs or Marks, whereby " their Persons were distinctly known, and dis- " cerned in Battel, as well as their Kings and " Commons had their publick Ensigns.

" Achilles had his Shield beautifully adorn'd " with great Variety of Things celestial; as the " Motion of the Sun, Moon, Stars, Planets, and " other the celestial Spheres; the Situation of " the Earth, and the adjacent Islands; the Seas, " with the Ebbing and Flowing thereof, &c. " whereof I shall have better Occasion offered to " speak more at large hereafter; also Amphia- " raus (as Pindarus the Theban Poet affirmeth) " in his Expedition to Thebes, bare in his Shield " a painted Dragon. Capaneus one of the seven " Captains that besieg'd Thebes, bare the many- " headed Hydra that Hercules fought withal, as " Statius the Neapolitan Poet reporteth.

" Polynices a Sphinx. Agamemnon a Lyon, " with a Greek Motto affix'd thereto, which " translated is, Terror hic est hominum, quique " hunc gerit est Agamemnon, and denotes that " even then they were not used without Thought. " Ulysses a Dolphin, and a Typhon breathing out " Flames of Fire. Perseus Medusa's Head. An- " tiochus a Lyon, with a white Wand. Theseus " an Oxe. Seleucus a Bull. Augustus a Sphinx. And Aventine the Herculean Badge, or a Resemblance of the Serpent Hydra, which was slain and assum'd by his Progenitor, as Silius Italicus remembers in these Words, Centum angues idem cælatum insigne ferebat: A hundred Snakes engraven on his Shield. And many Years before that, on the same Occasion, the celebrated Poet Virgil had

——Clypeoque insigne Paternum
Centum angues, cinctamq; gerit serpentibus Hydram.
His Father's Coat into the Field he brings,
An hundred Snakes, and Hydra arm'd with Stings.

Ingua was the Hereditary Name of the Kings of Peru, and their Gentilicial Arms a Rainbow and Two Snakes; as Bolton in his Elements of Armory, p. 45. informs us out of Josephus Acosta. And these, I suppose, were the Passages that induced Mr. Nisbet, Pag. 6. to call those ancient Assumptions Hereditable (not Hereditary) distinguishing Marks; and such as these have led some into unwarrantable Conceits.

I might to those aforegoing, add numerous other Instances of the Antiquity of personal Bearings, not only in this politest Part of the World, Europe; but Asia, Africa, and America, collectable out of Modern Authors; as Leigh, Cambden, Bolton, Waterhouse, and others, who have sifted the best Authors of Antiquity: But I rather refer the Curious to their Writings, partly because (having undertaken here to illustrate an Introduction, not frame a Treatise) I wou'd be brief; and partly because (according to my humble Opinion) all they have written, or that may be reasonably conjectur'd from their Works, can never prove our present commendable Use of Arms so ancient as some seem to insinuate. I very much reverence both Arms and their Admirers; yet I cannot agree with some some Writers, concerning their Antiquity, no more than I cou'd believe that any commendable or profitable Invention is despiseable, because unknown in the last Century.

The Ingenious Mr. Nisbet, in his Chapter upon Cadency, makes the Difference betwixt those ancient Assumptions and Arms, as now regulated and established, no more than the Difference betwixt an ancient Piece of Painting, or Building, and the Master-piece of a Modern Artist in either Science; by which, I think, he wou'd instruct us, that Heraldry or Armory was then in being as a Science, only improv'd by succeeding Ages, as most Arts are, to a nearer Perfection: Which though I shall not contradict, I cannot agree to, because, though the Notion of Ensignment, as Bolton has it, is natural; or though Signs and Marks of Honour, State, and Condition are allow'd on all Hands to have been made use of by the Ancients, yet I never cou'd find that those Figures on their Shields, Targets or other Arma, are any where prov'd to be those Insignia or Marks of Distinction, being at the best but only conjectur'd so, by such as cou'd not prove it; and I doubt not but the ordinary and common Men in those ancient Times, as well as their Leaders, us'd them at their Pleasure. The Romans and others, did indeed use National Ensigns, that is, Military Standards, and the like, just as we do: They might also use Notæ or Insignia on their Sheilds, Bucklers, &c. for Emblems, personal Distinction, or Ornament; but not as the Rewards of Merit, Hereditary, or Family Distinctions. They had indeed their Images, and other Matters, which told as effectually what they were, and whom they came from, as our Arms of Families at this Day.

But then the Methods of knowing these were so different from ours, according to their Representation by Budæus, Lipsius, and many others; and as I have partly hinted, that I think them altogether out of the Verge of Armory, to which I intend to keep, and of which the said Budæus, when speaking of their Relation to the same End with those elder Ceremonies, writes thus, Pro iis, (ut opinor) posteriora Tempora Insignia Gentilitia habuerunt, quæ Arma vulgo vocantur, quæ ipsa quoq; primum ac simile est veri, virtutis præmia fuerunt, ac rerum præclarè gestarum decora. In the Room of these, I suppose, succeeding Times used those distinguishing Marks of Families commonly called Arms; which, as 'tis most probable, were the Rewards of Valour, and the Ornaments of brave Exploits.

Therefore I humbly conceive, that Arms cannot be said to be founded upon Nature, because those ancient Bearings were the Signs and Marks of Honour, State, and Condition, to those that carried them; it being doubted whether they were or no, so much as for the Reasons following, (viz.) Mankind in general being naturally wont, not only to imbellish and adorn their Shields and other war-like Instruments, but also to seek all Ways and Means of rendring themselves terrible to their Enemies, did to that End (Hieroglyphicks being invented) paint or imboss the Figures of Monsters and dreadful Beasts thereupon, intending by the Courage and Strength of those Creatures, to represent the like in themselves. And thus the Use of Figures on Shields, Helmets, &c. became common among all Nations, Civil or Barbarous. But that these ancient Figures in process of Time did become Arms, as we say, that is Hereditary Rewards of Merit, and Family Distinctions, I do not deny: But then this was in late Ages (with respect to those elder Times we have been talking of.) For Princes and Great Commanders having descern'd first the Benefit which thereby accru'd in distinguishing the Persons of such as by their Armour wou'd otherwise have been obscur'd; And Secondly, the Respect which in general they began to find among their Bearers, who gloried in nothing more than to carry some witty Emblems, notifying such glorious Actions as they had the good Fortune to atchieve, thereby proclaiming their Valour to both Friends and Enemies, spurring on the former to an Imitation, while the latter were daunted by those Victories thereby manifested, making Room for their further Procedure in Glory. Princes and great Commanders having, I say, took notice of these Things, did restrain the frequent Use under certain Laws and Punishments, which induced those who were set apart to deal in Matters of Honour, to devise certain Rules to be observ'd by such as shou'd lawfully obtain them, in the Bearing them, that no one might injure another by assuming or using the Note of his Merit and Honour. So thus as it were Pedetentim, was Heraldry form'd into, and and became a Science, as I shall endeavour to make appear with its gradual Progress, as clear as my small Study is capable, when I shall have delivered one Paragraph more, concerning their first being used, which is from Mackenzie.

Some (saith he*) think that the giving of Arms, arose from the Example of Jacob blessing his Children, in which he gave them Marks of Distinction, as Judah a Lyon, &c. And certain it is (adds he) that the Tribes did bear these upon their Ensigns. Others ascribe their Invention to the Germans, and some to the Romans: Some think the Goths and Vandals gave the first Arms, to excite their Soldiers to noble Actions, upon their invading Italy. Others ascribe the Exactness of this Invention to Charles the Great. Aldrovan. l. 1. Others to Henry I. in Anno 986. Hop. cap. 3. But then (adds he) by comparing all these Opinions, it is clear that the wearing these Marks of Distinction is, à Jure Gentium, and a Part of the Law of Nations: For even the Barbarous Nations, such as the Cimbri, Teutones, &c. were observ'd by Plutarch, In vita Marii, gessisse in armis Pictas ferarum imagines; to have born the Images of Wild Beasts painted upon their Armour. And Hopping asserts, That he hath seen a Shield from China, charged with a Panther in a Field Or; which Shield, I suppose, is that delivered also by Bolton from Marcus Velserus, a Learned and Principal Gentleman

Gentleman of Augspurgh; who adds too, that a Helmet, Mantle, and Creſt, reſembling our Manner in Europe, was affix'd thereto; which is not a little ſtrange, ſeeing America at that Time had no ſuch great Knowledge of theſe Parts of the World, as to imitate our Cuſtoms: But be that as it will, certainly (adds Mackenzie) the digeſting theſe Cuſtoms into an Art, and the ſubjecting them to Rules, muſt be aſcrib'd to Charlemaign and Frederick Barbaroſſa; for they did begin and grow with the Feudal Law, Paul Jov. & Mart. Cruſ. Lib. II. Part II. Cap. ult.

So that, as a late Editor of this Book remarks, their Opinion is not extravagantly wide, who hold that their Diſcipline in the Reign (or rather) during the Imperial Government of Theodoſius, and in the Time of Charles the Great, was brought to great Increaſe, and withal more generally propagated and diſperſed; according to that Saying of Abra. Fra. Carolo Potentiſſimo Imperante hæc & diſtinctiùs explicata fuiſſe, & frequentiùs uſurpata eluceſcit. Under the Empire of Charles the Great, it is certain, Arms were more diſtinctly explained, and more frequently uſed.

About the Reign of King Arthur, or a little before, viz. in the Days of Pharamond, firſt King of the Gauls, Anno 420. there * began a Diſtinction betwixt Metals and Colours, ſomething after the modern Manner: For the Ancients did only Sketch, or rather Dead-colour theſe excellent Tokens, leaving Poſterity to give thoſe Maſter-touches which (according to that Saying, Invenit antiquitas, Poſteri perfecerunt) Time having given them Opportunity to improve Invention, they have perform'd in their more general and orderly Uſe, after a gentilitial Manner, making them appropriate to Families, as Teſtimonies of their Virtues and Loyal Deſcent; which Cuſtom is ſaid (and that, as Waterhouſe obſerves, very probably too) to have come in Mode at the Irruption of the Saracens and rude Barbarians into Chriſtendom; becauſe againſt them did great Numbers of Chriſtians from all Parts unite themſelves, and in their Expeditions againſt them, perform'd many memorable Atchievments. For as Waterhouſe further obſerves, thoſe that were in Command in the Holy Wars, and did uſe Inſignia or Arms on their Banners, Shields, or Surcoats, did upon their Return from that Service, either aſſume and take thoſe Devices as their Due (for then it was permitted to every Man to take what Arms he wou'd, ſo none bare them in his own Nation; Nam ſicut nomina ſunt inventa ad recognoſcendum homines, ita arma & inſignia.) For as Names, ſo Arms and Enſigns were invented to diſtinguiſh Men one from another) or elſe, had Indulgence from their Sovereign, or his Chieftains, to bear them.

Thus as Religion at Stake is the greateſt Spur to true Courage, ſo thoſe Arms which had been diſplay'd in its Defence, became of moſt Eſteem; inſomuch, that not only their Aſſumers did continue the Uſe of them during their Lives, but their Iſſues did the ſame, glorying in nothing ſo much as thoſe open and plain Demonſtrations of their Parents Piety and Virtue. Neither did the Reſpect ceaſe here; for all, even thoſe of no Kin, paid them a Reverence as the Enſigns under which their Religion and Liberties had been preſerv'd, and valued their Owners as the Preſervers. Hence it is that no one Nation can boaſt themſelves the Authors of this commendable Improvement of Arms, there being preſent at this War many from all Parts of Chriſtendom, who by ſuch their Uſe of Arms, inſtructed their Countrymen to do the ſame, which Time and Uſe has improv'd into a cuſtomary, legal and rightful Appropriation to their Iſſues, and to their Deſcendants, and to none other in that Nation, without the deſerv'd Cenſure of Uſurpation; for which an Action of Injury lies, and Tryal by Battail was allow'd, yea, ſtill is, as Waterhouſe obſerves, in ſome Countries.

Mill's Catal. Honor. Milit. & Civil. p. 157.

Having in the aforegoing Lines briefly ſhew'd the Riſe of Arms and Armory in General, it may not be amiſs, though I ſhou'd further digreſs, to ſpeak ſomething in particular concerning the Antiquity of Gentilicial Arms in Britain; which I doubt will prove of far later Date than many of our Gentry wou'd willingly be thought to have born them. For if Conſideration be had, that for ſome hundred Years this Nation was under the Harraſs of War, in the Storm of Foreigners Aſſaults, and after troubled with Civil Wars, there will be little Reaſon to be over confident in Matters of Pedigree and Arms much beyond 400 Years. This is the Opinion of the Learned Sir Hen. Spelman, who adds too, Neſcio an eâ prorſus antiquitate. For though we might receive the Hereditary uſe of Arms juſt after the Holy War, (as is alſo Mr. Cambden's Opinion, and what Peter Pitheu aſſerts of the French) it being in thoſe Days accounted, as I have ſhew'd, moſt honourable to carry ſuch Arms as had been diſplay'd in the Holy Land againſt the profeſs'd Enemies of Chriſtianity; yet was not the ſaid Hereditary Uſe eſtabliſhed or made general, until the Time of K. H. III. for (ſaith *Cambden) the laſt Earls of Cheſter, the two Quincyes Earls of Wincheſter, the two Lacyes Earls of Lincoln, &c. varied ſtill the Son from the Father, as might be particularly prov'd.

* Rem. per Philipot. p. 208.

I do not find any mention in Mackenzie, or elſewhere, at what time this Gentilitial Uſe of Arms began in Scotland to be a general Cuſtom. I have ſeen many ancient Inſtances of Coat-armour among them, and cou'd produce as many among us; yet neither inferring a general Hereditary Uſe, I omit them; not that I will ſay they did not gain the Start of us in this Particular; becauſe they pretend (and for ought I know, with Juſtice) to be much more particular in ancient Deſcents, as alſo do our Welſh Gentry.

But to return. As the Riſe of Arms in the preſent Manner in England, is reckon'd to commence mence from the aforesaid Time: So Waterhouse (though for what Reason I know not) will needs conceive that the first Users of them were such of the British Nobility and Saxon Line, as kept their Honours, Fortunes and Seats, or some of them in the Changes of Government; they being fortunate and not frown'd upon by K. William and his Sons, but held their Stations, though his Normans had both the Places in Court and Camp; and as these grew more and more habituated to his Government, and he abated of his Rigour, and became by peaceable ruling more calm; so they shew'd themselves more openly, owning their Rights with greater freedom. But however let that be as it will, it is certain that from these, and from the new Lords, sprang most of the Families of our now ancient Gentry, being Issues from them, Dependents on them, or preferred by them, yea, dignified with Badges of Trust and Honour, nearly ally'd to those Great Mens bearings: So true is that of Giraldus Cambrensis, where speaking of the Great Men, he says, Clientes hos suis quasi armis instructos Armigeros suos fortè vocant, & Militum Feoda cum armis suis, suis armigeris dedisse: 'Tis likely they call'd their followers Armigeri, or Esquires, as being furnished with their Arms; together with which they bestow'd Knights Fees upon them: For by this grateful Bounty of the then Great Men (whose Brave Spirits took delight in remunerating such Servants as were so faithful as to attend them and theirs with Love and Trust) have the Families of the lesser Nobility in a great Measure been increased. There is no one acquainted in this History, but knows that of Old most of the great Estates and Commands in England were in the Hands of such Families of the Conqueror, and his Issue, as they granted them to, who by Tenure, in their Persons, and with their Tenants, Servants, and Dependents, were to attend their Sovereigns in their Wars: These Great Men granted Parts of their Tenures to Persons, either related to them by Match, Service, or Affection, upon such Terms as they themselves either were obliged to the first Granter of them, or else on other Conditions of Advantage to them; giving them also Coat-Armour, which were usually Parts of their own, with such Differences as best pleas'd them. Thus among others that bore Arms by this Bounty of Lords, &c. or according to Mr. Cambden's * Expression, by borrowing from their Lord's Arms, were many of the Principal Gentry of Cheshire, whose Houses grew by the aforesaid Means, from the Earls of their County, who had Power to erect Baronies, and other Titles within their Limits; which they did, and granted them ever to hold as freely of them, as they themselves held of the Crown. These, I say, in Similation of the said Earls Arms, which were Garbs or Wheat-sheaves, did many of them bear Garbs, with Alterations additional or substractive, or by diversifying the Colours only: Thus also grew from the Houses of Albany, Vere, Strange, and Ufford, many Noble Families in Norfolk: And thus whereas the old Earls of Warwick bare Chequy, Or, and Azure, a Cheveron Ermine; many thereabouts bore Chequy and Ermine. In Leicestershire, and the Country adjoining, divers bare Cinquefoiles, as Astley, Moton, Martival, and others; for that the ancient Earls of Leicester bare Gules, a Cinquefoile Ermine. In Cumberland and thereabouts, where the old Baron of Kendall bare Argent, two Barrs Gules, and a Lyon passant Or, in a Canton of the second; many Gentlemen thereabout took the same in different Colours and Charges in the Canton. Vipount, an ancient Baron in Westmorland, bearing for his Coat six Annulets, 3. 2. 1. was imitated by the Musgraves and Louthers, both eminent Barons Families, who each of them bare six Annulets 3. 2. 1. and by many others in and about the said County. Hubert de Burgo, Earl of Kent, who bare Gules seven Lozenges vaire 3. 3. 1. granted Lands to Anselme de Guise, in the Counties of Buckingham and Gloucester; Therefore the said Anselme bare the same Coat with a Canton Or, charged with a Mullet of six Points pierced Sable. Thus also the ancient Family of Hardres in Kent bears Gules, a Lyon rampant Ermine debruis'd by a Chevron Or, denoting that they held their said Mannor of Hardres by Knight's Service of the Castle of Tunbridge in Kent, which was the ancient Seigniory of the Clares, Earls of Gloucester, who bare Or, three Chevrons Gules; with many others (mention'd by Mr. Cambden, in his Remains) of this County of Kent; yea, I know no County, but upon diligent Search, might furnish us with numerous Instances of this Kind, especially such of their Gentry as have receiv'd Denomination from the Lands they held in Fee or by Tenure.

Now touching the granting of Arms from some great Earls, and passing of Coats from one private Person to another, which also was a Matter sometimes acted before the Reductions of the Heralds under one Regulation, the following Precedents, which I take from Learned Mr. Cambden, may not be impertinent.

Grant of Arms from Daniel to Savage.

The Family of Savage received a Grant of the ſame Kind for Margaret, Daughter and Heir of Sir Thomas Daniers of Bradley in Appleton, commonly call'd Daniel, having Iſſue by her ſecond Husband John Savage of Cliſton (in her Right) a Son of the ſame Name. She granted him and his Heirs the Liberty of Uſing and Bearing her Coat of Arms which deſcended to her after the Death of her Father. The Arms were, Argent, a Pale fuſilé Sable ; and the Creſt an Unicorn's-Head eraſed, Argent ; and were both uſed for ſeveral Years, by vertue of that Grant or Deed, which as Sir Peter Leiceſter, p. 231. who ſaw the Original, tells us was written in French, bore Date 3 H. V. and was to be ſeen among the Evidences of Tho. Earl of Rivers, at Rock-Savage, Ann. 1669.

Another Example of the like Nature you have in the Family of Booth, from whence the Right Honourable the preſent Earl of Warrington is Deſcended ; Their Arms were anciently, a Cheveron engrailed, and a Canton charg'd with a Mullet ; as appears by a Charter of Thomas del Booth, bearing Date 43 E. III. But at preſent Argent three Boar's Heads eraſed and erected Sable ; Which Coat was the ancient Arms of the Bartons of Barton in Com' Lanc', and granted to John the Son of Tho. Booth of Barton, per Cartam Thomæ Barton de Barton predict'. Ann. 5 H. IV. 1404.

And

And thus from the aforesaid Custom of the greater and lesser Nobility, very probably (as Waterhouse observes) came in the Titles of Knight, Esq; Yeoman, which were at first Badges of personal Service. For though Miles be acknowledg'd as a noble Dignity, and is generally understood to import a choice Person, quasi ex millibus Electus, the great Orders of Majesty in the World being those of Knighthood; yet anciently was it a Name of Service, not only in order to Tenure (the greatest Estates of England being in Knights Service, to which Upton is thought to have an Eye in those Words, Miles est quasi servus Reipublicæ: A Soldier is as it were a Servant of the Common-wealth) but also in regard of Attendance on the Body of some Lord, Peer, or great Person, on Horseback; who from being his Armour-bearer was stiled Knight, or in Saxon Cnicht; of this Sort were Knights Bannerets. These Knights are call'd by Bracton Radcnichts: Gallants bound by Tenure and Service, to attend their Lords on Horseback, as Esquires did on Foot. Hence the Phrase Esquires of the Body, an Office well known in the Court, Utpote qui antiquitus militem à latere insequendo, arma ejus ut commilito fidissimus, tulerit: Because antiently the Esquire marching by the Knight's Side, as a faithful Fellow-Soldier, bare his Arms for him, saith Mr. Mills.

Pag. 66.

Lib. 1. c. 2. p. 7.

Lib. de Nobil. p. 147.

Therefore Gentlemen, or Esquires, which differ little in Antiquity, are both call'd, Scutiferi & Armigeri, and till Edward the 4ths Time, Lords (if not Knights) were but stil'd Armigeri, bearers of the Arms of their Chiefs, and by them dignified to bear Arms in their own Right; it being usual in elder Times for great Men, both of the Clergy and Laity, to give Dignities, not only that of Arms-bearing, but also Knighthood, as is noted by the learned Selden; though of late it be only restrain'd by Law to Sovereigns and their Deputies; or to Supreams in their respective Dominions.

2 Instit. p. 665.

Titles of Honour p. 667, 771. Upon lib. de off. milit. c. 2. p. 7.

But to proceed; Though it was usual for great Men, both of the Clergy and Laity, to give Arms and Titles, with Places of Dignity to inferiour Gentry; we must not infer from hence, that all our ancient Gentry, or lesser Nobility, who did acquire Arms at that Time, did gain them by that Means: No, Mr. Cambden informs us, that in this and the succeeding Ages, at every Expedition, such as were Gentlemen of Blood, would repair to the Earl-Marshal, and by his Authority take Coats of Arms, which were registred always by Officers of Arms, in the Rolls of Arms, made at every Service, whereof many yet remain (saith my Author) as that of the Seige of Caer laveroc, the Battel of Sterling, the Siege of Calice, and divers Tournaments. At this Time (continues he) there was a distinction of Gentlemen of Blood, and Gentlemen of Coat-Armour, and the Third from him that had first Coat-Armour, was to all Purposes held a Gentleman of Blood.

Camb. Rem. p. 9. Philipot. p. 223.

'In the first assumption of these Signs, every 'Man did take to himself some such Beast, Bird, 'Fish, Serpent, or other Creature, as he thought 'best fitted his Estate, or whose Nature and in 'Quality did in some Measure quadrate with his 'own, or whereunto himself was in some respect 'in Quality like, or wished to be resembled unto: 'Ex iis quibus quisque maxime delectatur, qualis 'etiam sit ipse, cognoscitur.

"The Reason is, for that no Man is delighted "but with Things that are like himself: There- "fore wherein any Man is specially delighted, "himself also is found to be in Quality much "like unto them. Zanchius de immortalitate "Animarum, 133.

There are divers asserted Occasions of the Charges or Figures found in Armorial Bearings, and of the Pieces which compose them. Unlook'd for Accidents and Events, the singularity of a County, the inclination to certain Exercises and Things, Offices or Employs, Devotion, the Nature and Situation of the Fiefs, or Possession of the Nobility, a Conformity to the Arms of a Superiour, Adherence to a Party, Pilgrimages, Tournaments, Descent and Extraction of Blood, Filiation or the Adoption into other Families, Concessions of Princes, new Discoveries and Inventions, Jesting and the Conformity to the Name; are said to be the principal Causes.

The last of which is not the least Considerable. For the Names of Persons and Families is the most usual; and if many Families had not chang'd those Names they had at first, for others, there wou'd be abundance more Arms implying their Bearers Names to the Beholders. For it is but Ignorance to fancy such allusive Bearings to be altogether novel, when we have reason to think the Contrary; the Bearers thereof believing their Names illustrious enough without their affecting other Devices to notify themselves. Yea we may averr, that there are not very many Families whose Names signify any thing, but originally they have had some Pieces in their Bearing alluding thereto. Wherefore in Dispute when different Persons lay Claim to one and the same Coat, a late Editor of this Book, rightly conjectures, that he whose Appellation is agreeable therewith, is the most interested therein.

But in allusive Arms we must not expect all imaginable Exactness; for the Nature of the Thing will not admit of it. It is sufficient to denominate them such, when there is some near Resemblance.

Gasparo Bombasci Cap. 9. Araldo. has collected the allusive Arms of the Boulognese Families, wherein we may see all the Ways; such may be metaphorical, symbolical, ænigmatical, and in rebus; but omitting his Division as too intricate, allusive Arms may be five fold.

1. In reference to the Name of the Person.
2. In reference to the History of some Event.

3. In reference to the natural Properties of the Things whereof they are compoſed, and the Qualities of the firſt Bearer or Perſon; but with Caution to exclude fabulous Applications made afterwards.

4. In reference to ſome Poſſeſſion, Habitation, Juriſdiction, Employ, &c.

5. In reference to ſome Patron, or more or leſs noted Perſon, which has relation to the Bearer; as the Arms of Ireland, becauſe of David one of their Kings, wherein there is a ſophiſtical Tranſlation of the Charge, which is ſome way alluſive to the prior Perſon, and not the conſequent one. As Alexander's Arms to the Deviſe of Alexander the Great, &c. And ſometimes no way alluſive to either Perſon, but only as the conſequent Perſon ſtands in relation to a prior or antecedent one, whether by Family or by a bare Name. So Le Neve bear Fleur de Lys, becauſe that Vegetable was the Deviſe of one of their Anceſtors. Elfred alludes to the Arms of Alvert, becauſe their Names are ſemblable; Walker and Walter, Clark and Clarkſon, are further Examples.

So thus grew the preſent Conformity betwixt Arms and Names: For ſince Names given for diſtinction were conform'd to the Nature of Creatures, and the Emergency of Accidents, as is evident in holy and prophane Stories; and as is clearly made out by Sigonius amongſt the Romans; and is in all Nations own'd, yea as in our Land the Stories of it appear: So ought and ever was the ſame Rule obſerv'd in Arms and Bearings of Honour; for it is a Maxim, A nominibus ad arma ſequuntur argumenta, or according to Mr. Guillim's Quotation, Bonum deducitur Argumentum.

Here then is a fit Place to inſtance ſome few noted Names with their Occaſions, as alſo the Arms of ſuch of them as are found referential or conformable to the ſame. Prince Arthur was a valiant Man, and from his Infancy perceived Cruel; therefore he had that Name, which ſignifies an horrible Bear or Iron Mall: Briewre, ſo call'd, becauſe born in a Heath, as the Norman Word imports. Henry Percy, call'd Hotſpur, Propter ſuam probitatem, eo quod aliis ſopori deditis ipſe ſuper hoſtes invigilare conſueverat: On the Account of his Activity, becauſe when others were aſleep, he was vigilant againſt his Enemies. Graſvenour or Groſvenour, ſo call'd from his great Skill in Hunting. Latimer ſignifies a Truchman or Interpreter (poſſibly ſaith Waterhouſe) from the Skill in Languages, which their Anceſtor had. So likewiſe, as is ſhewn in King Arthur, did many others receive Names from Beaſts (whoſe natural Qualities ſeem'd to indicate the Diſpoſition or natural Temper of thoſe ſo named) and they not only of the leſſer Nobility, and of late Ages, as Cammel, who conformable thereto bare a Camel, Moile a Mule, Urſone a Bear, Bernard a Bear, &c. but even of the firſt Rank, both in Honour and Antiquity; as Hugh Lupus, firſt Earl of Cheſter, who bare a Wolf's Head; and others whoſe Coats alſo were conferential to the ſame. Some alſo among us have, as we may ſuppoſe, receiv'd Names from Birds. Thus the ancient Family of Arundell, who accordingly bare ſix Swallows; and ſo Cockaine whoſe Arms are three Cocks; with Sheldon, whoſe Coat is three Shell-Drakes, &c. Others may be conceiv'd to take Name from Fiſhes, as the Family of Herring, who bare three Herrings; and Lucy who bare three Lucies; with the Family of Sprat, whoſe Arms are three Sprats, &c. Some alſo have taken their Names from Plants or Vegetables; thus did Sheffeild, whoſe Deſcendant (now Duke of Buckingham) from him bears three Wheat-Sheaves, or a Field of Sheaves; as alſo the Family of Oak, whoſe Arms are three Acorns ſlipp'd, &c. Some alſo from ſuch Poſts or Places of Honour as they held: Thus did, inter alios, the Illuſtrious Houſe of the Butlers, who in their Arms give three covered Cups: Some from their extraordinary Accompliſhments, as their Skill in commendable Science and ſuch like: Thus among others may be ſuppoſed the Family of Sweeting, whoſe Arms are three treble Violins: Others from Inſtruments Military, Civil, and Mechanical; thus did Chambers, who bears three Chambers, i. e. Cannons or Culvering-pieces; and Staple, whoſe Arms are three Staples; with many others too tedious to inſert.

All which are referential to the Names to which they belong, though not directly, and without ſome Conſideration, underſtood. A Matter which, as I ſaid before, we are not in Affairs of this Nature to expect. For the reference of Arms even to Names (which is but one of the five alluſive Ways before mention'd) may be underſtood ſix Ways, as

1. By ſimple Cyphers, or the initial Letters of the Names; as Thurland, Tofte Bette, Altham; in Germany, Aquin; in Dauphine, Kocks; the City Menda in Spain, Bridlington Priory in Com. Ebor. The City of Sulmo in Naples, Salucces in Piedmont, and others.

2. By natural or artificial Things, which ſimply expreſs the Name; of which Sort are Camell, Herring, Sheffield, Chambers, Sprat and Staple aforementioned; as alſo Towers, Ouſle, Cheverne, Boare, Sole, Salmon, Harrow, Bell, Trevet, and many others too tedious to inſert.

3. By Things which come near the Sound; as Bernard and Cockaine before ſaid; alſo Alcock, Keat, Elphyngſton, Tenton, Coneſby, Pigot, and others.

4. By Things which have relation to the Name; as Carter, Cartwright, Forſter, Armitage, Archer, and others.

5. By Things which in ſome Dialect or Tongue bear reference to the Name; as Urſone, Hugh Lupus, and Arundell (from hirundo, or hirundellus) aforeſaid; alſo Florio, Sneyde, Penarthe, Roet, Clovell, and others.

6. In

6. In Form of Rebus or Ænigma; as Springat, Handcock, Leman, Trowbridge, Morewood, Nadal, Freebody, Dobell, and abundance more.

And this Conſideration of the conformity of Arms with Names it was, that occaſion'd my Author Mr. Guillim to inſert, that as it was not lawful for a Man (but upon great Occaſion) to change his Name, Sic neque Arma (ſaith Caſſan) mutare licet, niſi magna & honorifica aliqua cauſa acceſſerit: So neither ſhould he change his Arms, except a weighty and honourable Reaſon ſhall induce him to it. And for that, as another ſaith, A nominibus ad Arma bonum deducitur Argumentum: A good Argument of a Man's Arms is drawn from his Name.

Some alſo, and that very many too, as I'm inform'd by Mr. Cambden, and my own Obſervation, and as before was ſaid, have had Denomination from the Lordſhips they have held; as Draycot, Wileſley, Biſhopſheir, Malpas, Bermingham, and ſuch like others; ſome from Waters, as the Lord Stourton from the River Stowre, Wallop from Wellhope, or (as it is now written) Wallop, whoſe Coats alſo ſeem referential to the ſame; the firſt bearing as part of his Arms ſix Fountains, the other as his Coat a Bend Wavy; ſo likewiſe ſome have been nam'd from bodily Remarks; as Blunt from their yellow Hair, Fairfax from their fair Buſh of Hair: Others from corporal Defects, as Crevequer, quaſi decrepido corde, of which Mr. Cambden every where in his Britannia makes mention, and to which I cou'd, from my own Obſervations, add many more of the like Nature, but I wou'd not clog my Diſcourſe with impertinent Allegations; there being, as Waterhouſe hath noted, hardly any Name or Family, but what has, in ſome Meaſure, participated of this Prerogative of Time, to be and bear what the unavoidable Viciſſitudes of Life have produced.

P. 262.

Sir George Mackenzie in his Science of Heraldry, agrees to what I have written on the various Occaſions of Arms and their Bearings, and not only becauſe Cambden (whom he quotes) aſſerts it: For, ſays he, thus moſt of the Surnames in Annandale, carry the Arms of the Bruce; in Murray, ſome part of the Murray's Arms, and in Tevidale the Dowglaſs Arms, or ſome part thereof, which he terms taking part of their Superior or Over-lords Arms.

Pag. 5.

He confeſſes alſo, that Arms are ſometimes derived from the Names of the Bearer; as Peacock bears a Peacock, Cockburne a Cock, &c. And theſe (ſaith he) are call'd Arma cantantia by the Latins; ἀγναμονικὰ, by the Grecians; Des armoiries parlantes by the French; and Rebus or canting Arms by the Engliſh. He takes notice alſo, that they are preſum'd not to be noble Arms when ſo elected, becauſe if the Bearer had done any great Actions, he had had no Occaſion to have agreed with his Name: But then this Fancy he immediately rejects; adding, that the Rule holds not ſtill true. Some Men, ſays he, get their Lands as Rewards of great Acts, and Surnames came not in the Mode with us, till the Reign of Malcolm Canmor, who gave Surnames to all his Nobles, and then many took their Surnames from their Lands they poſſeſt, as the Cockburns and others, and ſuited their Arms to their Names, to the end it might be known that they were Heritors of ſuch Places. For which Cauſe likewiſe we find, that Chiefs of Families are ordinarily of that Ilk, that is (ſaith he) to ſay with us, that their Names and Lands are the ſame. Some alſo (adds he) derive their Names as well as Arms from ſome conſiderable Action; and thus a ſecond Son of Struan Robertſon, for killing of a Wolf in Stocket Forreſt by a Durk in the King's Preſence, got the Name of Skein, which ſignifies a Durk in Iriſh, and three Durk Points in Pale for his Arms. Some likewiſe (adds he) got Names from their Arms: For being Strangers, the People amongſt whom they came, not knowing their Names, gave them Names from the Symbols or Arms they did bare. Thus the Fowlis were call'd from the Leaves they carried: Monſieur Des Feules, and the Herriſes or Herriſons, with us, got their Names from the Porcupine, or Herriſon in French, which was their Arms, as Brothers of the Houſe of Vendoſm: And Hiſtorians obſerve, that the French were call'd Galli, ex eo quod gallos in conis galeæ, ſeu pro Criſtis gerebant. And therefore Limneus, cap. 6. num. 1. concludes, That Omnia arma quæ cantant, non ſunt inſignia illiberalia, ſive vilium hominum: All Arms agreeing with the Name of the Bearer, are not ignoble. He reminds us alſo, that Places and honourable Employs, have given Birth to Bearings in Scotland as well as with us. Thus, ſaith he, the Earl of Southesk's Predeceſſors did bear a Cup in an Eſcutcheon upon the Eagles Breaſt, to ſhew that his Predeceſſors were Cup-bearers to the King, Regi olim à Pateris, ut prælibaret & auro, iſta notis certis perhibent inſignia gentis. And Wood of Largo two Ships, to ſhew that his Predeceſſors were Admirals. Thus Burnet carries a Hunting-horn in his Sheild, and a Highlander in a hunting Garb, and Greyhounds for his Supporters, to ſhew that he was his Majeſty's Forreſter in that Northern Forreſt, as Forreſter of that Ilk is in the South: For which he alſo carries three Hunting-horns. The Earl of Holderneſs, Ramſay, carried a Sword Paleways, to ſhew that he and his Succeſſors had Right to carry the Sword of State, the Day of Gowrie's Conſpiracy, as a Reward for killing Gowrie.

Arms, ſaith Mackenzie, are ordinarily aſſum'd by Kingdoms, and Towns, either to repreſent what they moſt glory in, or moſt abound in; as the Kingdom of Granada, a Pomegranate. The Earl of Buchan three Garbs, becauſe Buchan was more fertile in Corn than other Parts of Scotland, which were then full of Woods. Sometimes they aſſume Arms from their Situation, &c. of which he gives Examples in Pag. 5. After which he concludes thus: I have ſeen (ſays he) the Book of Arms in moſt Nations, and I have in general obſerved, that every Nation hath ſhew'd their Humour. For the Arms of moſt Families in Spain are given to ſignify ſome Undertaking for the Chriſtian Religion againſt its Enemies the Moors, Turks, or other Hereticks; and their Shields of late are fill'd with Ave Maria's, I. H. S. and ſuch other devout Characters. The Arms of the Italians are ordinarily Emblems and witty Hieroglyphicks. The German Atchievements conſiſt of Multitudes of Coats, marſhall'd in one, to gratify the Humour of their Country; who are vain of nothing ſo much as their Pedigrees. Thoſe of Poland and Denmark are as wild and monſtrous, as the People who bear them. But the Frenſh who are great Artiſts where-ever they ſtudy, do ſuffer their natural volageneſs to be confined and fixed by Rules of Art. And the Scots to expreſs their Friendſhip to the French, have of old imitated them in their Heraldry, as much as we do the Engliſh ſince we were happily united with them under one Monarchy.

The Turks (ſaith he) take oſtentimes Letters of the Alphabet as a Cognizance, becauſe their Religion diſcharges them to uſe Images; and it is obſervable that the Spaniards uſe oftentimes Letters, in imitation of the Turkiſh Moors (their Neighbours.) Or elſe theſe have been left with them ever ſince the Moors poſſeſt their Country, or elſe (as I may add) they are born in Honour of ſuch Anceſtors as had vanquiſhed the prior Owners thereof.

I am not ignorant of the wonderful Events and Accidents to which ſome aſcribe the Cauſes of ſome particular Bearings; but omit them as too often written already. Though thus far I think my ſelf oblig'd to ſay concerning their Authority, that I take them to be, ſome, a parcel of Fables deſign'd by Monks or ſuch like, to raiſe the Sanctity of ſundry Grandees, or the Inclinations and Approbations of Men, to ſome particular Enterpriſes, &c. by impoſing on the implicit Credulity of their Readers: Others, Fictions from Romances made upon Tournaments, &c. wherein Things were repreſented for Diverſion only; as inchanted Caſtles, Giants, and the like; which late Ages (I will not, as ſome, ſay Heralds working upon) were careful to invent for the Arms of Knights, whoſe Anceſtors had been in Tournaments, &c. of which I have ſeen Golut the French Herald tax'd for his relation of the Original of the Arms of Grammont.

What comical Origines have you in Cambden's Remains, and other Places? As in particular that of Lorein's Coat, which no Hiſtorian of the Time makes mention of, and which, if true, is ſo remarkable, as it cou'd never have eſcaped them, as I believe you'll grant: The Story is this, There being three Allerions on David's Tower in Jeruſalem, a certain Prophetick Perſon told Godfrey of Bulloigne, the famous General in thoſe Wars, that if he cou'd at one Shoot kill them, he ſhou'd take the City; which he thereupon attempted, and accordingly perform'd, and for that Reaſon ever after bore three Allerions on a Bend.

Now whether you will believe this, or give better Credit to what an ingenious Gentleman of my Acquaintance thinks was the whole Myſtery, viz. Alerion being an Anagram to Loraine, I know not. And much ſuch another Story was that of Vere's Shooting-Star, which I ſuppoſe was only a diſtinction from the Arms of the Lord Say's Family (a flouriſhing Houſe at that Time, and in the ſame Service) which excepting that Star, did bear the ſame Coat: And as I told you, two different Families in one Nation could not bear one Coat.

The Names of Families alſo have contributed very much to theſe Fables. It is written that the Padilla's in Spain, bare for their Arms a Peal of an Oven, which in Spaniſh is called Padilla, becauſe a Knight of their Family defended a Caſtle with a Peal, againſt the Moors who Beſieged it. Vargas laughs at this Original, and ſays, after Argote de Molina, that we need not ſeek any other Myſtery than the Conformity of the Name, for which he gives us an excellent Reaſon, viz. That the firſt Arms of Spain being only thoſe of Caſtile and Leon, which were allufive Bearings, moſt of their Nobility in imitation of their Prince, made their Arms allufive; and after that Time ſince, other later Families compos'd their Arms out of their famous Actions, during the ſaid Wars with the Moors, where they often received them from their Sovereign as the Rewards of their Proweſs: Theſe more ancient Families, ſeeing they had not ſuch honourable Reaſons for their Bearings, began to frame Romances and Fictions, to the End their Arms might not appear leſs conſiderable than thoſe which were known to be the remunerations of Valour.

If we were now to conſider what Profit or Advantage has enſued by theſe Impoſitions, either to thoſe Arms or Armory in general, I doubt we ſhould find none; but on the contrary, a great deal of Hurt, eſpecially to the latter; ſuch Stories being what hath much leſſen'd the Eſtimation of Arms in many Mens Opinion: For Men of Senſe will not ſuffer their Paſſions to be moved in favour of any thing, before their Judgments are convinc'd of, if not the reality, yet the reaſonableneſs of it; which is what every one ought firſt to aim at, if they deſign to enforce a Reſpect to the Practice of this or any other commendable Cuſtom.

Cambden among his accidental Alterations of Arms in the Holy Land, remarks, that the Lord Barkeley's, who firſt bare Gules a Cheveron Argent, after one of them had taken upon him the Croſs (for that was then the Phraſe) to ſerve in thoſe Wars, inſerted ten Croſſes patee in his Shield, which are continued by his Deſcendants to this very Day. Yea, I could inſtance, beſides, Beauchamp Earl of Warwick (who alſo added to his Arms, which before his Expedition to the Holy Land, were Gules a Feſs, Or ſix Croſs-croſlets of the ſame) many more, but think them needleſs, becauſe every one acquainted with Hiſtory, knows the great Eſteem in which thoſe Services were were held, being in Defence of the Christian Religion, of which such Bearings were the most proper Emblems, and excellent Marks of Distinction, from the Infidels their Enemies. And at this Port of Crusades and Pilgrimages, most probably came in Use the numerous Forms of Crosses, which we find among the Arms of our ancient Nobility and Gentry. Nicholas Upton has set down thirty, yet cannot promise them to be all. Jam ad Quæstionem præscriptam redeo (says he) viz. quot cruces inveniuntur in armis portatæ? Ad quam quidem quæstionem sub certo numero ipsas describendo respondere non audeo, quia Cruces innumerabiles in dies jam portantur. I return now to the Question propounded, viz. How many Crosses are found in our Coats of Arms? Which Question I dare not answer by determining any certain Number, because Crosses are multiplied every Day without Number. I may say there are above Sixty.

Mackenzie instances other Bearings besides these, occasion'd by Croisades; for, says he, the Pringles and others bare Escallops, to shew their devout Pilgrimages: Of which these Shells were the Badges, and for which they were first call'd Pilgrims, and thereafter by corruption Pringle. For a like Reason, adds he, doth the Family of Douglass carry an Heart, in remembrance of their Pilgrimage to the Holy Land, with King Robert the Bruce's Heart, which was to be, and is buried there, at the special Command of that pious Prince, about Anno 1328. Besides all aforesaid, Mr. Nisbet and Mackenzie tell us, that both Bezants and Martlets found their first use there; and probably by the Wars with France and the Turks, were introduced great Numbers of Fleurs de Lys, Crescents and Letters. I shall give but one late Instance, which was Sir Cloudsly Shovel, who had granted to him a Cheveron between two Fleurs de Lys in chief, and a Crescent in base, indicating two great Victories over the French, and one over the Turks.

'The principal End for which these Signs were 'first taken up and put in Use, was, that they 'might serve for Notes and Marks to distinguish 'Tribes, Families, and particular Persons each 'from other; but this was not their only Use, 'for that they served also to notify to the ingenious Beholder of them (after some Sort) the 'natural Quality and Disposition of their Bearers; and so behooveful was this Invention 'thought to be, and their Use so reasonable, as 'that they have been entertain'd of all succeeding Posterities, among all Nations, and continued (even to this Day) without any Immutation 'or Alteration of their primary Institution.

'These Armorial Enfigns thus ingeniously devised, had a further Use; for they serv'd also 'for the more commodious distribution of Nations, Tribes, and Families, into Regiments and 'Bands: As also for assembling, conducting, and 'governing them in Martial Expedition, and distinguishing (as I have shew'd) of particular

'Persons in Wars, as well amongst themselves as 'from their Enemies; because it often falleth out 'by reason of the likeness of Armour and Weapons, of Discipline of War, and of Language 'and Voice (in default of such Signs) that much 'Treachery is wrought, and many Men after 'Battel or Skirmish, do make their Retreat to the 'Troops of the Enemy, to the Danger of their 'Surprise, or Loss of Life: So then it is 'clear, that this is one Use of these Notes, or 'Marks of Distinction called Arms; that if a 'Man shall meet or encounter us, we do forthwith discover by the Note or Mark that he 'beareth, whether he be Friend or Enemy: And 'for some of these Uses and Ends which I have 'formerly shewed, these Armorial Enfigns have 'received Approbation in the highest Degree, 'even from the Mouth of God himself, who, 'when he prescribed unto Moses and Aaron a 'Form of ordering and conducting the Israelites 'in their Passage towards the Land of Promise, 'did expressly Command the Use of Armorial 'Signs, saying, Filii Israelis quisque juxta Vexillum suum cum Signis secundum domum Majorum suorum Castra habento: Every Man of the Children of Israel shall pitch by his own Standard, with the Enfign of their Fathers House, Num. ii. 2. Which Order he required to be 'observed, not only in the Conduction of them 'in their Journey, but also in the pitching and 'raising of their Camp.

'In which Precept we may observe, that God 'maketh mention of two Sorts of Enfigns; the 'one General, the other Particular; and that 'these Latter were no less needful than the Former, for the orderly governing and conducting of so huge and populous a Multitude as the Israelites were, in a Journey so long, and withal subject to infinite Dangers. The first Sort of 'these Enfigns, God calleth Vexilla, that is to 'say, Standards or Banners, which served for the 'Conduction of their several Regiments; for the 'Israelites consisted of twelve Tribes, which were 'divided into four Regiments, that is to wit, 'three Tribes to each Regiment, of which every 'one had a particular Standard, which as they 'differed in Colour one from another, so did 'they doubtless comprehend in them several 'and distinct Forms, Et erant in illis vexillis 'picturæ notificantes Tribus quæ erant sub illis 'vexillis: And there were in those Standards Pictures, denoting the Tribes which belonged to 'them. So Tostatus.

'Here may arise a twofold Question, concerning these Standards before mentioned: The one, 'what Colour each of them were of: The other, 'what Forms and Shapes were depicted on them. 'As to the Colour, Lyra upon the second of Numbers saith, Qualia sunt ista Vexilla in textu 'non habetur, sed dicunt aliqui Hebræi, quod 'Vexillum cujuslibet tribus, erat simile colori lapidis positi in rationali, in quo inscriptum erat 'nomen ipsius Reuben, & sic de aliis: What sort 'of Standards these were, the Text doth not ex- expreſs; but ſome of the Rabbins ſay, they were of the ſame colour with the Stones on Aaron's Breaſt-plate, wherein the Name of every Tribe was written.

And as to their ſeveral Forms, Martinius Borhaus in his Commentary upon the ſame Place, hath this Saying, Tradunt veteres in Reubenis vexillo mandragoram depictam fuiſſe, quam ille in agro collectam matri Liæ attulerat: in Jehudæ leonem, cui illum benedicendo pater Jacobus contulerat: In Ephraim vexillo, bovis ſpecies: In Danis vexillo, ſerpentis Imago, qui ſerpenti & colubro à Jacobo comparatus erat; Fiat Dan coluber in via. And in Concluſion he ſaith, Sit fides penes Authores. Ancient Authors tell us, that Reuben's Standard bare the Mandrake which he gathered in the Field, and brought to his Mother Leah: Judah's the Lion, Dan's the Serpent, to which their Father Jacob had compared them; Ephraim's an Ox, &c.

R. Abraham Aben Ezra, though he will have their Banners charg'd with Inſignitions of Diſtinction; yet (as Waterhouſe relates of him) the Figures on them muſt needs be thoſe Four in Ezec. 10. An Eagle, a Lion, a Bull, and a Man; but that Conceit Toſtatus rejects, and adds a good Reaſon, Revelatio illa de quatuor animalibus nondum fuit facta; fuit enim facta poſtea per multa tempora, cum Propheta eſſet apud fluvium Chebar. The Revelation of thoſe four Beaſts was not yet made, but a long Time after, when the Prophet was by the River Chebar.

Defence of Arms and Armor, p. 42.

'This ſort of Enſign according to Calepine, 'is called Vexillum, quaſi parvum velum, & accipitur (ſaith he) pro ſigno quo in exercitu vel claſſe imperatores utuntur. Vexillum is a Diminutive of Velum, and ſignifies the Colours which Generals uſe at Land or Sea. The uſe of theſe Standards doth conſiſt herein, that they being born aloft upon a long Pole or Staff, apparent to every Man's View, the Soldiers may be thereby directed (upon all Occaſions of Service) and by the Sight of them may be diſſevered and united at all times, as the Neceſſity of the Service ſhall require. Of this uſe, Lyra upon the Second of Numbers, ſaith, Vexilla in perticis elevantur, ut ad eorum aſpectum bellatores dividantur & uniantur: Theſe Colours are mounted upon Poles, that the Soldiers ſeeing them, may ſeparate or joyn, as there ſhall be Occaſion: For, like as a Ship is guided in the ſurging Seas by the Stern or Ruther, even ſo are the Soldiers ordered in their Martial Exploits by their Standard or Enſign.

'The other ſorts of Enſigns God calleth Signa ſecundum domum majorum ſuorum; whereby is meant (if I be not deceiv'd) the particular Enſigns or Tokens of Each particular Family; for ſo do I underſtand that Expoſition of Lyra upon the ſame Place; Signa propria ſunt in veſtibus & ſcutis, quibus bellatores mutuo ſe cognoſcunt, & ſuos ab adverſariis diſtinguunt. 'Theſe Enſigns are wrought in Garments and 'Shields, by which the Soldiers know one another, 'and diſtinguiſh their own Party from the Enemy. 'And of this Opinion is * Lorinus.

* In Locum.

"But here we ſhou'd put a Difference be"tween theſe Words Arma & Inſignia, and "ſeparate thoſe Things that are proper to Arms, "from ſuch as pertain to Enſigns.

"Arms therefore being taken in the largeſt "Senſe, may be ſaid to be either Publick or "Private.

"Such are ſaid to be Publick Arms, which "have ſome Sovereign Authority or Juriſdiction "annexed to them.

"Of the Firſt ſort are ſuch Arms as are born "by Emperors, Kings, and abſolute Princes, "and Free Eſtates, having Sovereign Authority "and Power within their ſeveral Empires, Kingdoms and Territories: Theſe in propriety of "Speech cannot be aptly ſaid to be the Arms "of their Stock or Family, whereof they are "deſcended; but do rather repreſent the Nature "of Enſigns, than of Arms, in regard of the "Publick Authority to them annexed; as alſo "in reſpect that whoſoever ſhall ſucceed them "in thoſe Supream Governments, ſhall bear the "ſame Arms, as the expreſs Notes and Teſtimonies of ſuch their ſeveral Juriſdictions, "though they be extracted from Aliens or Foreign Families; for ſo neither is the Eagle the "peculiar Coat of the Houſe of Auſtria, nor "Lyons of the Family of Plantagenet, nor the "Fleurs de Lys of the Houſe of Valois; but "born as the Sovereign Enſigns of ſuch an Empire or Kingdom. And theſe Arms or Enſigns "may no Man elſe bear, or yet mark his Goods "withal, unleſs it be that in token of Loyalty, "he will ſet up the King's Arms in his Houſe, "and place his own Arms underneath. There "are alſo certain Enſigns of Dignity and Office, "which every Man having the ſame Dignity or "Office, may lawfully bear, as the Enſigns of "a Proconſul, or a Biſhop; and theſe are peculiar "to thoſe only that have the Exerciſing of ſuch "Dignity or Office; for if any other ſhall uſurp "the bearing or uſe of them, he becometh Criminal for ſo doing. Private Arms are ſuch as "are proper to private Houſes and Perſons, whether they be numbered in rank of the greater "Nobility, as Dukes, Marqueſſes, Earls, Viſcounts and Barons, having no Sovereign or "Abſolute Power; or of the leſſer Nobility or "Gentry, Knights, Eſquires and Gentlemen; "neither yet are they Enſigns of any ordinary "Dignity, but peculiar to their Family, and "may be infinitely transferred with proper Differences to their Poſterity lawfully begotten.

The Reaſons which that learned Scotch Author, Sir George Mackenzy gives for the Invention of this Art, are certainly good; being Firſt, the great Deſign that Men had to perpetuate their own great Actions. Secondly, The deſire that Governours had to encourage others to great Things, by rewarding with a cheap kind of Immortality what what their deſerving Subjects did. Thus, ſaith he, K. Robert the Bruce, gave the Houſe of Wintoun a falling Crown ſupported by a Sword; to ſhew, that the Seatons had ſupported the Crown when it was in a diſtreſſed Condition: Which Seaton of Barns yet bears, becauſe he got the Land which was diſpon'd by Adoption with the Arms: And to Veitch, a Bullock's Head, to remember Poſterity, that the Bearer had aſſiſted that King with Aliment in bringing ſome Bullocks in his great Diſtreſs. The Third and following Reaſons are in effect the ſame, which I have lately mention'd as their principal End. And to this agrees Mr. Guillim: For, ſays he,

'After long Tract of Time, theſe Tokens, 'which we call Arms, became Remunerations 'for Service, and were beſtowed by Empe- 'rors, Kings, and Princes, and their Generals 'and chief Commanders in the Field, upon 'Martial Men, whoſe valorous Merits, even in 'Juſtice, required due Recompence of Honour, 'anſwerable unto their worthy Acts, the Re- 'membrance whereof could not better be pre- 'ſerv'd and deriv'd unto Poſterity, than by 'theſe Kinds of honourable Rewards.

For though Arms, in their firſt Acceptation, were (as is ſhewed) taken up at any Gentleman's Pleaſure, yet hath that Liberty for many Ages been deny'd; and they, by Regal Authority, made the Rewards and Enſigns of Merit, or the gracious Favours of Princes; no one being by the Law of Gentility in England allowed the bearing thereof, but thoſe that either have them by Deſcent, or Grant, or Purchaſe from the Body or Badge of any Priſoner they in open and lawful War had taken. Therefore H. V. by Proclamation did inhibit, * Quod nullus cujuſcunque ſtatus, gradus ſeu Conditionis fuerit, hujuſmodi arma ſive tunicas Armorum in ſe ſumat, niſi ipſe jure anteceſſorio vel ex donatione alicujus ad hoc ſufficientem poteſtatem habentis, ea poſſideat aut poſſidere debeat, & quod ipſe arma ſive Tunicas illas ex cujus dono obtinet, demonſtrationis ſuæ perſonis ad hoc per nos aſſignatis ſeu aſſignandis manifeſte demonſtret, exceptis illis qui nobiſcum apud Bellum de Agen-court Arma portabant, &c. That no Man of what Eſtate, Degree, or Condition ſoever, ſhall aſſume ſuch Arms, or Coat of Arms, except he hold, or ought to hold them by Right of Inheritance, or by the Donation of ſome Perſon, who hath ſufficient Power to give them; and that he ſhall make it appear to Officers appointed by us for this Purpoſe, by whoſe Gift he enjoys them: Except thoſe who bare Arms with us at the Battle of Agen-Court, &c. And Budeus, who ſpeaking of our Arms, as I ſhew'd you, p. hath, Veri virtutis præmia fuerunt. They were the Rewards of true Valour.

* Ann. Regni Memb. 15. dorſo in Archivis Turris.

Yet ſome Lawyers (though vers'd in Heraldry) as * Mackenzie obſerves, have been of Opinion, that every Man can aſſume Arms to himſelf at his Pleaſure without Authority, provided he aſſume them not (as the Civilians ſay) in æmulationem alterius, to the Prejudice of another: And of this Judgment were Bartol. tract. de Arm. num. 5. and Panorm. c. dilectis, de exceſ. Prælat. becauſe (ſaid they) every Man may chuſe a Name for himſelf, ſeeing this is not forbidden in any written Law. But Tiraquel and others, have very juſtly maintained, that none can aſſume Arms, but that all muſt owe them to Authority: For as Magiſtrates of old only beſtowed jus Imaginum, ita hodie tantum illi jus inſignium vel armorum conferre poſſunt: Ann. Rob. Lib. III. Sunt enim Arma Teſſeræ, & Symbola Dignitatis, & nemo poteſt dignitatem ſibi arrogare ſine Principis licentia, l. nemo f. de dignit. & licet hoc jure ſcripto, non ſit interdictum, eſt tamen rationabili conſuetudine, & communi Gentium conſenſu interdictum; & ideo obſervandum, per l. quod non ratione f. de legibus. The Right of Images, ſo they only at this Day can beſtow the Right of Arms or Enſigns. For Arms are Badges and Symbols of Dignity; and no Man can arrogate a Dignity to himſelf, without the Prince's Leave. And though there be no written Law which forbids this, yet laudable Cuſtom, and the common Conſent of Nations forbid it. But to quiet all Debate in this Controverſy, moſt Nations have diſcharged the carrying of Arms to any, ſave Gentlemen, or ſuch who have a Special Warrant: Which, ſaith my ſaid Author, is alſo done in Scotland by the 12th. Act. 12. Parl. Jacob. VI. The Words whereof you may read as follows, viz.

* Science of Heraldry, p. 11.

Our Soveraign Lord, and the Eſtates of this preſent Parliament, conſidering the great Abuſe that has been amongſt the Leidges of this Realm, in their bearing of Arms, uſurpand to themſelves ſuch Arms as belong not to them, ſo that it cannot be diſtinguiſhed by their Arms, who are Gentlemen of Blood by their Anteceſſors, nor yet may be diſcerned what Gentlemen are deſcended of noble Stock and Linage: For Remeid whereof his Highneſs, with Advice of the ſaid Eſtates, has given and granted, and by this preſent Act gives and grants full Power and Commiſſion to Lyon King of Arms, and Bethzen-Heralds, to viſit the whole Arms of Noblemen, Barons and Gentlemen, borne and uſed within this Realm; and to diſtinguiſh and diſcern them with congruent Differences, and thereafter to matriculat them in their Books and Regiſters; and put Inhibition to all common Sort of People, nought worthy by the Law of Arms to bear any Signs Armorials, that none of them preſume to take upon Hand, to bear or uſe any Arms in Time coming upon any their Inſight and Houſhold-geer, under Pain of eſcheating of their Goods and Gear, ſo oft as the ſamine ſhall be fonnd graven or painted, to our Soveraigne Lords Uſe; and likewiſe vnder the Pain of One Hundred Pounds, to the Uſe of the ſaid Lyon, and his Brethren-Heralds; and failying of Payment thereof, that they may be incarcerat in the neareſt Priſon-houſe, therein to remain upon their own Charges, during the Pleaſure of the ſaid Lyon.

From which Act Mackenzie draws theſe Concluſions. 1. That only Gentlemen by Blood can carry Arms; which Opinion is alſo received now into the Law of Nations, Hopping, cap. 6. Par. X. But it was firſt enacted by Frederick the Emperor, Lib. 2. feud. tit. 27. De pace tenenda.

2dly, That the Lion cannot give Arms to ſuch as are not Noble by Deſcent: For the Reaſon inductive of this Statute, is, That there may be a Difference betwixt ſuch as are Noble, and ſuch as are not; but there would be none, if it were lawful to the Lion to give Arms even to ſuch as are not Gentlemen by Birth. For as he cannot Nobilitate, ſo neither can he beſtow the Marks of Nobility. Like as by that Act he is commanded, to inhibit all ſuch as are not Noble, to carry Arms: But yet the Prince may ſtill beſtow Arms, without any Reſtriction, tho' he cannot properly make a Gentleman; for that comes by Blood, and not by Patent. For of old, there was a Diſtinction betwixt a Gentleman of Blood, and a Gentleman of Coat-Armour; which Diſtinction I have ſhew'd you already out of Camden. And albeit, ſaith Mackenzie, the Letter of that Law doth only forbid to wear and uſe Arms without Authority, upon Inſight, or Houſhold-gear; yet per paritatem rationis, they cannot uſe them upon Tombs, Seats in the Church, or elſewhere; & de praxi, the Lion with us doth raze and deface all ſuch Arms: But whether the Uſers of falſe Arms do incur the Penalties in ſuch Caſes, may be doubted, ſeeing Pœnæ ſunt reſtringendæ, and are not to be extended beyond the Letter of the Law.

Pag. 12.

3dly, By that Act, The Lion is to diſtinguiſh and diſcern Arms with congruent Differences; from which Words it may be inferred, that not only Arms muſt be originally given by the Lion, but that Marks and Differences amongſt the Cadets, and Deſcendants of the ſame Family, ſhould be given by the Lion; and that theſe Cadets cannot aſſume them. And this is (ſaith my Author) ſuitable to the Opinion of the Doctors, who teach, that non ſolum poteſtas conferendi nova inſignia, ſed poteſtas augendi, mutandi, diminuendi & confirmandi inſignia Vetera, eſt Penes Principem & ejus Heraldos. Hopping, c. 8. membro 5. Not only the Power of giving new Arms, but the Power of enlarging, altering, leſſening and confirming the Old ones, is in the Prince and his Heralds. But it may be doubted, if Preſcription of Arms by Predeceſſors, be not ſufficient to infer a Right to the Bearing of Arms, and to defend againſt the Penalties of this Act; as to which Points, the Doctors deliver theſe Concluſions.

1. That no Man can preſcribe the Right of uſing Arms belonging to another Noble Family, without immemorial Poſſeſſion; but that they may preſcribe a Right to bear indefinitely, or to bear the Arms of any other private Perſon, per ſpatium decem annorum inter præſentes, & viginti annorum inter abſentes, vult. conſil. 17. volum 3. For the Space of Ten Years betwixt Perſons preſent, and of Twenty betwixt Perſons abſent. But (ſaith Mackenzie) by our Law, where Preſcription is not allow'd, except in the Caſes wherein it is introduced by a ſpecial and expreſs Statute, it is probable, that Preſcription might well have defended before that Act, Jac. VI. But ſince that Time it ſhould not, ſeeing that Act ordains all Arms to be matriculate in the Lion's Books and Regiſters.

The Penalty appointed by this Scots Act on Offenders is, That the Moveables and Furniture whereon theſe falſe Arms are painted, or engraven, ſhall be confiſcated: Which Words muſt (ſaith Mackenzie) be taken disjunctively, and not copulatively, notwithſtanding of the Particle (and); for if the Arms be either engraven or painted, they are to be eſcheated: as alſo the Criminals are to pay One Hundred Pounds to the Lion and his Brethren-Heralds. But, by the Civil Law, He who bears and uſes another Man's Arms, to his Prejudice, vel in ejus ſcandalum & ignominiam, or to his Reproach, is to be puniſhed arbitrarily, at the Diſcretion of the Judge, l. eorum f. de falſo; But he who uſurps his Prince's Arms, loſes his Head, and his Goods are confiſcated, l. Sacri afflatus, C. de diverſ. reſcript.

Suitable to which, the Duke of Norfolk was executed by H. VIII. for no other Crime, ſaith Mackenzie, than bearing the Arms of England, though his Predeceſſors had born them an Hundred Years. But Camden ſaith, That among other Matters, he was attainted for that alſo. Rem. p. 164.

Now though in England, by the Proclamation of Henry Vth. aforeſaid, 'tis inhibited that none ſhould preſume to take upon him Arms, unleſs entituled thereto by Deſcent, or a Grant from ſuch as were ſufficiently empowered to Grant by his Sovereign, excepting ſuch as bore Arms at the War or Battle of Agencourt. By which it is plain, the voluntary Aſſumption of Arms is deny'd by the Kings of England, as well as held illegal by Tiraquel and other Civilians, whoſe Opinion I mention'd before. Yet Preſcrition of Arms by Predeceſſors is not hereby forbidden, but rather allow'd; the Words being niſi jure anteceſſorio, not unleſs he have them by Deſcent from ſuch as had them by Grant, or had left ſomething elſe to prove their Right from from his Anceſtors: For almoſt every one knows, that at the Holy War, Gentlemen were either allow'd to chuſe a Bearing for themſelves, ſo it were different from others, or had but a verbal Authority at moſt from their Prince, or his Chieftains, to bear ſuch or ſuch Arms; and that in after Days, when Arms became hereditary, and Heraldry a Science, that even then, by the eſtabliſh'd Law of Arms in all Nations, thoſe ancient Aſſumptions were allow'd the lawful Arms of the Iſſues of thoſe who aſſum'd them. And though other Nations, as Mackenzie ſays of the Scots, may have later Statutes or Laws to invalidate this Method of proving Right; yet I do not any where find that England has. Nor (as I conceive) is this Matter contrary to the Civil Law, which only makes an Aſſumption of Arms criminal; becauſe Dignity, of which Arms are the Notes, is alſo aſſum'd therewith, whereby the Aſſumer breaks in upon the Prerogative of his Sovereign, who (as the Fons Honoris from whom all Honours ſhould ſpring) can alone nobilitate. For the Arms thus diſputed might poſſibly be taken before Arms were made the Inſignia Nobilitatis in England, which then could be no Encroachment on the aforeſaid Prerogative, and ſo conſequently no Breach of a Law unmade; but, on the contrary, allow'd amongſt the reſt. Beſides, a Coat might, with reſpect to this Law, have been legally uſed, and the Authority loſt, through Time, more eſpecially when Accounts were ſo indifferently taken, with reſpect to thoſe taken in later Days, and many of thoſe, though ſo indifferent, loſt.

'How great the Dignity and Eſtimation of 'Arms ever hath been, and yet is, we may ea-'ſily conceive by this, that as they do delight 'the Beholders, and greatly grace and beautify 'Places wherein they are erected; ſo alſo they 'do occaſion their Spectators to make ſerious 'Inquiſition, whoſe they are, who is the 'Owner of the Houſe wherein they are ſet up, 'of what Family their Bearer is deſcended, and 'who were his next, and who his remote Pa-'rents or Anceſtors.

The Eſtimation of Arms may alſo be conſidered in this: As Honours in their Donation are generally attended with Eſtates ſuitable thereto, which are given to ſupport the ſame, if there was not a Sufficiency before; and thoſe Eſtates with theſe Honours being ſettled by an Entail on the Heirs Male, ſo Arms enabled thoſe Heirs to hold and continue in the ſame. For, by the Practice and Uſe of Arms, Gentry are inſtructed to keep often entering of their Pedigrees and Deſcents in the Heralds-Office; by which means, Cogniſance is taken of what Houſe Gentlemen are, whether legitimate or illegitimate, and of what Branch of that Houſe; as how near ally'd to the main Honour and Eſtate, in caſe ſuch a Queſtion ſhould be needful, as it very often happens. But how great the Benefit or Eſtimation of Arms, or how great the Satisfaction of Gentry in this their Uſe is, I ſhall leave to be defin'd by ſuch of our Nobility and Gentry, who from being the Iſſues of younger Sons, are thereby become entituled to the Honours, Fortunes, and Eſtates of the once elder Houſe.

We may alſo find in what Eſteem Arms were by this: 'There is, ſaith Mr. Guillim, between 'theſe Arms and their Bearers, a kind of Sym-'pathy, or natural Participation of Qualities; 'inſomuch as whoſo diſhonourably or irreve-'rently uſeth the Arms of any Man, ſeemeth 'to have offered Indignity to the Perſon of their 'Bearer, ſo as (according to ſome Authors) their 'Owner ſhall right himſelf againſt ſuch an Of-'fender or Wrong-doer, Actione Injuriarum, by an 'Action of Treſpaſs.' And Tryal by Battel was allow'd, of which we have Inſtances among ancient Writers. Yea, ſo heinous has this Offence been held, that the injured have ſought Revenge even on Majeſty itſelf, as too well teſtify'd the Impriſonment of King Richard I. together with an hundred thouſand Pounds, which was paid as his Ranſom, he being made Captive by the Duke of Auſtria or Auſtrich; for that (as was reported) he ordered the Banner of the ſaid Duke to be ſtricken down (whereby it was trod on) to give Place for his own on the Wall at the Holy Land, into which the Duke firſt wrought his Paſſage. I could here, ſince I have touched upon an Abuſe to Armory, give ſundry other Ways wherein theſe Tokens are abuſed by our Moderns; but for their Numbers rather refer you to Camden's Remains, and Wyrley's Ancient Uſage of Arms for ſome, and to your own Obſervation for the reſt; which, beſides the preſent horrid Miſmanagement of Funerals, by Painters, Undertakers, &c. are far too numerous to find Room in this Introduction.

Arms may be farther conſidered uſeful, from the following Lines.

Firſt then, They often ſhew from what Country, or Perſon, their Bearers did deſcend, and therefore (as Mackenzie doth well obſerve) they are call'd Teſſeræ Gentilitiæ. Thus the Maxwels and Ramſays (ſays Mackenzie) bear the Eagle, to ſhew their Deſcent from Germany: The Ruthwens the Arms of Portugal, from which King they are ſaid to be deſcended: And the Name of Marjoribank bear the Cuſhion, to ſhew that they were Johnſtowns originally. Thus the Weems and Fyfe, are known to be Cadets of Mackduff; and the Colquhouns and Mc Farlans, Cadets of the Family of Lennox; and theſe (ſaith Mackenzie) are ſurer Marks of Conſanguinity than the Surname, as may be known by many Inſtances; and among others, the Shaws in the North are known to be Mc Intoſhes by their Arms. Science of Heraldry, p. 3.

Secondly, They ſhew us the Alliance of their Bearers to other Families by the Heireſs from whom whom they descend, whose Arms are quartered by the Descendants; and by this Means the Memory of great Families, and even of Clans and Surnames in Scotland, saith Mackenzie, is only preserved. Thus Scotland (adds he) by bearing a double Tressure Flory Counter Flory, is remembred of their League betwixt France and them in the Reigns of Achaius and Charlemaign; and thus there are no Monuments (as he asserts of the Scots, by Instances, p. 3.) to preserve the Memory of many ancient and worthy Families in England, but the quartering their Arms by their Successors.

Thirdly, These Arms let us know, if the Bearers are Noblemen or Gentlemen, and what their Dignity is; that appearing by their Helmets, Coronets, &c.

Fourthly, The Shield, and oftentimes the Signet, made the Bearers who were killed in the Crowd to be known, that they might be honourably buried.

Fifthly, They being appended inform us of the true Surnames of the Granters, which are become illegible; and thus, by the Seals, I have (saith Mackenzie) found some Charters to be granted by Menzies of Weems, when we could hardly read the Name; and I have been (adds he) in Processes, wherein Charters were alleged to be false and forged, because the Granter's true Arms and Seal were not appended. For the Scots were very punctual in sealing with their Arms, being enjoin'd by Law and Statutes in that Particular.

Sixthly, By these Arms we are instructed of the right Originations and Writings of Surnames And thus we know (says Mackenzie) the Name of Tarbet to be wrong written, and that it should be written Turbet, seeing they have three Turbets fretted for their Arms. He gives other Instances in p. 4.

Seventhly, These Arms shew who have been Founders of Towns, Castles, or Churches. Thus the Church of Durham is known to be built by the King of Scotland, and the Town of Erfort is known to be built by the French King, because they bear their Arms. And thus most of our publick Buildings in England, such as our ancient Abbies, Churches, and our Colleges in both Universities, do, for the most Part, expose to publick View the Arms of their Founders, as well as the ancient Seats of our Gentry do those of their Owners. Wherefore one of the late Editors of this Book did well observe, that in case a Dispute should arise concerning the Right to any ruined building, or the like, he whose Arms are found affix'd thereto, is most interested therein.

Dresser, p. 227.

Eightbly, These Arms infer a presumptive Right of Superiority, Quando Arma in Portis, vel Curiis pinguntur, Bart. Tract. de infig. When they are painted in Gates and Courts. And thus when the Millaners did engage to be Vassals to the Emperor Frederick the First, they undertook to carry the Arms of the Empire upon the Steeple of their Chief Church, Limn. de jure publ. cap. 6. num 126. And when Orkney and Zetland were fully resign'd to the Kings of Scotland, it was agreed, that the Arms of Scotland should be affix'd in their publick Courts: And thus the Dukes of Venice are known not to have an absolute Jurisdiction, because they are not allow'd to represent the Arms of their Family upon the Coin of the Publick, Alberi, ad l. Si qui C. de oper. publ. And one of their Dukes was severely censured by the State, for having contravened this Rule in Heraldry, Tessaur. decis. 270. Arms do presume Propriety in Moveables especially, to which Men have only Right by Possession, and not by Writ, Hopping, c. 13. And this is an ordinary Presumption in all Judicatures, Nam sicut ex signis signatum, ita ex insigniis Domini rerum cognoscuntur, Tusk. Tom. 1. Concluf. 516. For as Signs declare the Thing signified, so Arms shew the Owners of Goods.

Ninthly, By these the Ships of Enemies are known, and are accordingly confiscated, if taken at Sea; which Lawyers extend so far, that if a Ship carry the Flag of an Enemy, it will be declared Prize, though it belong to a Kingdom in Amity with the Seizer, Jason, consil. 163. b. 19.

Tenthly and lastly, They are most necessary for signing Articles of Peace between Princes, Contracts and other Writs among private Persons.

Having briefly run through the Antiquity, Rise, Eminency, Use and Behoof of Arms, it might be worthy our Enquiry to know, who are the Persons, that by the Law of Heraldry have Arms given them by the King of Arms, with or without a special Commission from the Prince: But this, as it falls under the Power of the Heralds, as limited in their Patents, I shall refer to those Tracts which I have set apart, for to shew their Administration, &c. and proceed to offer some few Considerations, wherein Arms, though legally bestow'd, may be forfeited.

First then (as Mackenzie observes) they are forfeited by leading a vitious and profligate Life, l. Si qua C. de fecund. nupt. where it is ordain'd, that ob Scelera & vitæ turpitudinem, honestæ nobilitatis decore privetur: For Crimes and Lewdness of Life, a Man shall be degraded from a genteel or noble Rank. And the Reason given for this is, Quia nulla sine honestate est Nobilitas: Because there can be no true Nobility without Honesty. And Nobility thus forfeited, is not re-assumable by their Children: But this, with many other virtuous Laws is gone into Oblivion: For only Crimes and a Sentence do now take off the Sacred Character of Honour. And Cassaneus would have no Crime but Treason exclude the Issue of Criminals from bearing Arms. And with us (saith Mackenzie) upon reading the Sentence of of Forfeiture, the Arms are torn, (which Cuſtom hath been known among our Predeceſſors alſo) and the Decree of Forfeiture, ſays Mackenzie, bears an Order for this. But no other Sentence (adds he) for other Crimes diſcharges the Bearing of Arms with us: Nor, as I may add, with us in England: Albeit, by the Civil Law, it ſeems, that all Crimes diſcharge the Bearing of Arms, Statuas detrahendas ſcire debemus, l. 24. f. de Pen. cap. 1. c. decis 130. Nor can ſuch as are condemn'd for Capital Crimes get Arms, Treſſer. de exiſtim. l. 3. c. 25. And whatever renders the Bearer infamous, doth likewiſe render him incapable of getting Arms, though every Infamy forfeits them not.

Mackenzie's Science of Heraldry, P. 14.

Thirdly, This Right is loſt by exerciſing mean Trades, Viles & Mechanicas artes, l. nobiliores, c. de Comer. But when they leave off theſe, they return to their former Dignities, Pap. deciſ. 196.

When Arms are once taken, as Mackenzie, cap. 20. p. 69. obſerves, they ought not to be changed without ſufficient Cauſe. The ordinary Cauſes of changing Arms he hath ſet down to be ſix. Firſt, When the Bearer becomes ſubject to another; and thus William the Conqueror changed the Arms of England. Secondly, The ſucceeding to a greater Fortune; and thus the Family of Stewarts Arms were changed by our Kings, when they ſucceeded to the Crown of England. Thirdly, Adoption. Fourthly, Some conſiderable new Exploit; and thus a Savoyard having preſerv'd Francis I. at the Battle of Pavia, crav'd Liberty to change his Arms, and take a Sword Argent, accompanied with a Fluer de Lys. Fifthly, Some new devout Enterprize; as thoſe who went to the Holy War. Sixthly, Marks of Cadency and Marriage. I ſhall conclude this long Introduction with a Diſcourſe upon Seals, and Mens ſealing with Arms; which I take out of Mackenzie's Science of Heraldry, beginning Page 6.

Of SEALS.

BY the Civil Law, Teſtaments and all Writs of Importance were to be Sealed. And by our Law, Quilibet baro, vel alius tenens de Rege, habere debet ſigillum proprium, ad ſerviendum Regi ut de jure tenetur. Stat. Rob. 3. cap. 7. num. 5. and by the 130 Act. 9. Parl. Jac. 1. Every Free-holder ſhould appear at the Head-Court with their Seals; and if he cannot come, he ſhall ſend his Attorney with the Seals of his Arms: And thoſe who want ſuch Seals, are to be amerciat by the foreſaid Statute, Rob. 3. And therefore, till of late, every Gentleman ſent his Seal to the Clerk in Lead, which the Clerk kept by him; many of which are yet in their Hands: Examples whereof, I have ſet down, Chap. Supporters, fig. 5, & 6. Of old, the appending of the Seal was ſufficient in Charters, without the Subſcription of the Party. Reg. Maj. lib 3. cap. 6. Si recognoſcit ſigillum ſuum in Curia, debet illum warrantizare, ſuæ autem malæ cuſtodiæ imputetur, ſi damnum inde incurrat, per ſigillum ſuum ex inſolentia, aut negligentia cuſtodum: Whether the Seal affix'd be the Granter's Seal, that then the Truth may be ſearch'd for, by comparing many Sealings together, per comparationem plurium ſigillorum, & alias chartas eodem ſigillo ſignatas. It was lawful amongſt the Romans, for ſuch as wanted Seals, to append the Seals of others, §. Poſſunt. Juſt. de teſt. And this was very ordinary with us; but then the Notary was obliged to expreſs, that this was ſo done. Thus I have ſeen a Charter granted by the Lord of the Iſles to the Abbacy of Aberbrothock, which ſays, Et quia meum ſigillum eſt minus notum in Scotia, ideo appoſui ſigillum Epiſcopi Roſſenſis. Commiſſions from Shires, to their reſpective Commiſſioners in Parl. were alſo to be ſealed, Act. 101. Parl. 7. Jac. 1. and this Cuſtom of ſealing Papers without Subſcriptions, continued in vigour till March 1540. At which Time, King James V. by the 117. Act. 7. Parl. did ordain, that becauſe Men might loſe their Seals, or their Seals might be counterfeited; therefore all Evidences ſhould for the future be ſubſcrib'd, as well as ſealed. And yet Queen Mary did afterwards, Parl. 6. Act. 29. appoint that all Reverſions, Bonds, and Diſcharges of Reverſions ſhould be ſealed; and afterwards Jac. 6. by the 80. Act. Parl. 6. appointed all Papers importing heritable Title, to be both Sealed and Subſcribed. And tho' by the 4. Act. Parl. 9. Jac. 6. Papers which are to be regiſtrated, need not be ſealed, becauſe the Seal was ſupply'd by the Regiſtration: Yet I ſee no poſterior Law diſpenſing (without Regiſtration) in other Cases: And it would be a further Check upon Forgers of Papers, that the Granter's Seal were to be appended: For many can forge a Subscription, who cannot forge a Seal. So that each Forger behov'd to associate at least another with himself; which would discourage them before the Cheat, or help to discover the Forgers after the Cheat was perpetrate: But Retours must yet be seal'd with the Seals of the Inquest. Statut. Rob. 3. cap. 1. 4. and Decreets of Apprisings, with the Seals of the Assizers and Verdicts of the Justice-Courts, are also to be seal'd by the Regulations, 1670.

I cannot here forget to inform, that of old our Acts of Parliament had oftentimes the King's Great Seal appended to them: Upon the right Hand were appended all the Seals of the Ecclesiasticks; and upon the Left all the Seals of the Nobility; with which the whole Act was surrounded. Of these I have seen many, and particularly a Ratification granted by King James the IVth, to Hepburn, Earl of Bothwel, upon the Forfeiture of the Ramsay, Ann. 1480. Which bears, In quorum omnium fidem, ac corroborationem, & laudationem eorundem, præfatus supremus Dominus noster Rex, & regni status per se singulariter requisiti sua sigilla, quorum nomina sigilla repræsentant, præsentibus appendi jusserunt.

I conceive that Seals may very well represent not only the Bearing itself, but the Colours; which I first order'd to be practised: For the Seal may be varied in its Cut, as the other Figures of this Book are, which may be very useful, seeing many Mens Arms differ only in the Colours.

CHAP. I.

'SO much by my Introduction of 'ſuch Notes as are neceſſary to be 'obſerved for the better under- 'ſtanding of thoſe Things that 'ſhall be hereafter delivered, 'touching the Subject of this 'Work. Now we proceed to the practick Exer- 'ciſe of theſe armorial Tokens, which pertain to 'the Function of Heralds, and is termed Armory, 'and may be thus defined: Armory is an Art 'rightly preſcribing the true Knowledge and Uſe 'of Arms.

'Now, like as in Things natural the Effects do 'evermore immediately enſue their Cauſes, even 'ſo Diviſion, which is a Demonſtration of the Ex- 'tent and Power of Things, muſt by immediate 'Conſequence follow Definition, which doth ex- 'preſs the Nature of the Thing defined. Divi- 'ſion is a Diſtribution of Things common, into 'Things particular or leſs common. The Uſe 'thereof conſiſteth herein, that by the Aſſiſtance 'of this Diviſion, Words of large Intendment 'and Signification, are reduced to their definite 'and determinate Senſe and Meaning, that ſo 'the Mind of the Learner be not miſled through 'the Ambiguity of Words, either of manifold or 'uncertain Interpretations. Moreover it ſerveth 'to illuminate the Underſtanding of the Learner, 'and to make him more capable of ſuch Things 'as are delivered, Ea enim quæ diviſim traduntur 'facilius intelliguntur.

'The Practice hereof ſhall be manifeſted in 'the Diſtribution of the Skill of Armory, with 'all the Parts and Complements thereof through- 'out this whole Work.

'This Skill of Armory conſiſts in { Blazoning, and Marſhalling.

Blazon is a Term not ſignifying of itſelf what we uſually underſtand thereby, being a Word borrow'd from the common Cuſtom of Knights, when they deſign'd to enter the Liſts, of cauſing ſome one to wind a Horn to ſignify their Intent to the Heralds, who were Knights appointed to be Judges of the Performances of the Juſters, and who likewiſe deſcribed and recorded their armorial Bearings and Atchievements; for Blazon properly ſignifies the Winding of an Horn; but to blazon a Coat, is to deſcribe the Things borne in their proper Tinctures and Geſtures, whch, as I told you, the Heralds when ſo ſummon'd us'd to do.

Marſhalling is a conjoining of diverſe Coats in one Shield, as both Guillim and Mackenzie have well obſerved; tho' Carter in his Analyſis p. 180. makes no Difference betwixt Marſhalling and Blazoning, being guided in that Opinion by the French and Italians, who as Mackenzy obſerves p. 16. have no ſuch Diſtinction. The Marſhalling I ſhall refer to a Place more ſuitable, and proceed now to the firſt Member of this Diviſion, viz. Blazoning.

Blazon (ſaith Guillim) is taken, either ſtrict- 'ly for an Explication of Arms in apt and ſignifi- 'cant Terms, or elſe, it is taken largely for a 'Diſplay of the Vertues of the Bearers of Arms: 'In which Senſe Chaſſaneus defineth the ſame in 'this manner, Blazonia eſt quaſi alicujus vera lau- 'datio ſub quibuſdam ſignis, ſecundum prudentiam,

'justitiam, fortitudinem, & temperantiam. A certain French Armorist saith, that to Blazon, is to 'express what the Shapes, Kinds, and Colour of 'Things borne in Arms are, together with their 'apt Significations.

But, with Submission to Mr. Guillim, I must hold Sir George Mackenzy's Opinion, when he will have Blazon to be barely Description, to be far more reasonable and just than his; because, in the first Place, we know not the particular Occasions of the Bearings in many Coats, one and the same Thing being taken to instruct very different Accidents or Events, as my Tract of Differences sufficiently shews, yet all witty and allusive. Secondly, Though we should suppose such or such Bearing was devis'd in the natural Qualities of the Thing represented, to indicate some excellent Disposition or Quality in the Bearer; yet, sure we cannot ascribe this same Disposition to every one of that Person's Posterity as may have a Right to his Arms: 'I wou'd be an hard Case if Nature cou'd so deal with the Descendants of all that are vicious, as to oblige them to the same Course, but we see the contrary. That Nobility in a worthy Descent is of high Estimation, all allow; and most wise Princes in all Ages have entrusted such in great Post, believing, as they had the Benefit of such Education, and the Example of their Ancestors, that nothing could induce them to forfeit those Honours, &c. which they had transmitted to them. That Arms were taken allusively I have shew'd in my Introduction, and to consider the Pieces of which each Coat is compos'd, and so seek thence to join with History in the Rise of this or that Family, is a commendable Work, and becoming the Science: But to pretend that this or that Colour compounded with this or that, was intended to signify this or that Vertue, is bombast and unbecoming it, let Gerard Leigh's, &c. Advocates assert what they please: And what Chassaneus means by Blazonia in that Place, is no more than Arma, asserting them. The Emblems of Merit which every one hath, or is thought to have, when distinguish'd by his Prince with any Mark of his Favour. But to proceed.

'Like as Definitions are Forerunners of Divi-'sions, even so Divisions also have Precedence of 'Rules. To speak properly of a Rule, it may be 'said to be any straight or level Thing, whereby 'Lines are drawn in a direct and even Form. In 'resemblance whereof, we here understand it, 'to be a brief Precept or Instruction for knowing 'or doing of Things aright, as witnesseth Cate-'pine, saying, Regula per translationem dicitur, 'brevis rerum præceptio, that is to say, a compen-'dious or ready Instruction of Matters.

'It followeth therefore, by due Order of Con-'sequence, that I should annex such Rules as are 'peculiar to blazon in genere. For other parti-'cular Rules must be reserved to more proper 'Places.

'The apteſt Rules for this Place, are these im-'mediately following: In Blazoning you must 'use an advised Deliberation before you enter 'thereunto; for having once begun, to recal the 'same, doth argue an inconsiderate Forwardness 'meriting just Reprehension.

You must take special Heed to Words in Bla-'zon, for a different Form in Blazoning maketh 'the Arms cease to be the same: Diversitas enim 'nominis inducet diversitatem rei, in tantum quod 'nomina sunt significativa rerum.

You must not be too full of Conceits in Blazon, or as Mackenzy renders it, too curious or inventive, but keep to the ordinary Terms; for otherwise every one out of Vanity might invent a peculiar Way and new Terms, so that not any two Heralds would understand one another.

'You must use no Iteration or Repetition of 'Words in Blazoning of one Coat:

'Especially of any of these four 'Words, viz. { Of, Or, And, With.

'The Reason of Guillim's particularly cautioning 'you concerning those four Words, I take to be, 'because they are most apt to offer themselves; 'though the Meaning of the Rule is no more 'than that as in other Sciences, so in this, you 'must be Concise, observe Grammar, and avoid 'Tautology.

'In Blazoning you must have regard of the 'Things that are borne in Arms: As also where-'unto they may be resembled, whether they be 'natural or artificial, and so to commend them 'accordingly. I have delivered my Mind already 'as to this Particular.

'In the Blazoning of any Coat, you must ever-'more observe this special Rule. First to begin 'with the Field, and then proceed to the Blazon 'of the Charge, if any be. Moreover, if the 'Field be occupied with sundry Things, whether 'the same be of one or diverse Kinds, you must 'first nominate that which lieth next and imme-'diately upon the Field, and then Blazon that 'which is more remote from the same. What 'Field and Charge are, shall be shewed in 'their proper Places; Interim oportet discentem 'credere.

'Chassaneus holdeth, that where the Chief of 'an Escutcheon is of one Colour or Metal, or 'more, you shall blazon the Chief first; but I 'hold it more consonant to Reason, to begin with 'the Field (because of the Priority thereof in 'Nature, as also in respect that it is the Conti-'nent) rather than with the Charge, which is 'the Thing contained, and so consequently last 'in Nature. Nevertheless the French Armorists 'for the most Part do blazon the Charge first, 'and the Field after, which is a Course meerly 'repugnant to Nature; by whose prescript Order, 'the Place must have Precedence of the Thing 'placed, and the Continent of the Thing contain-'ed: Wherefore our Heralds Manner of Blazon 'is more agreeable to Reason than theirs. There 'be divers Forms of Blazon. A certain Dutch-'man, who liv'd in the Time of King Henry the 'Fifth, used to blaze Arms by the principal Parts

'of Man's Body, as Ab. Fra. writeth, pag. 63. 'Malorques, a French-man, made uſe of Flowers 'for this Purpoſe. Faucon, an Engliſh-man, who 'lived in the Time of King Edward the Third, 'performed it by the Days of the Week. But in 'former Times their Predeceſſors uſed only theſe 'three Kinds following: Firſt, by Metals and 'Colours; ſecondly, by precious Stones; and 'thirdly, by the Celeſtial Planets. Out of which 'ſundry Forms, I have made choice of theſe three 'laſt, which are moſt ancient and neceſſary, in 'reſpect that theſe, above all other, do beſt fit 'my Purpoſe; which is, to apply to each parti-'cular State of Gentry, a Blazon correſpondent. 'As for Example: To Gentlemen having no Ti-'tle of Dignity, blazon by Metals and Colours: 'To Perſons ennobled by the Sovereign, by pre-'cious Stones: And to Emperors, Monarchs, 'Kings, and Princes, blazon by Planets.

'The two Laſt of theſe three ſelected Forms 'are not to be uſed in the Blazoning of the 'Coat-Armors of Gentlemen that are not advan-'ced to ſome Degree of Nobility, unleſs they be 'rarely qualified, or of ſpecial Deſert.

Theſe ſelected Forms of Blazon do ſeem to imply a Neceſſity of their Invention; to the End that as well by Blazon, as by Degree, Noblemen might be diſtinguiſhed from Gentlemen, and Perſons of Majeſty from thoſe of noble Lineage, that ſo a due Decorum may be obſerved in each Degree, according to the Dignity of their Perſons; for that it is a Thing unfitting, either to handle a mean Argument in a lofty Stile, or a ſtately Argument in a mean.

Mr. Guillim hath here us'd the beſt Arguments which I believe can be brought for theſe different Ways of Blazoning, and yet Mackenzy in his Science of Heraldry, calls the Inventers thereof, fantaſtick, and ſays, they have been condemn'd for them by the Heralds in all Nations, except the Engliſh, who have ſo far own'd the Fancy, as to make thoſe three Ways which Mr. Guillim has choſen, a Rule, which he cannot by any means allow, ſaying, they are Fancies alſo, and very unfit for the Art in which they were employ'd; and which, I think, is clear from his following Reaſons.

Science of Heraldry, p. 18. 19.

1. The French, from whom the Engliſh derive their Heraldry, and to whom they conform themſelves, not only in Principles and Terms of Art, but even in the very Words of the French Language, do not only omit thoſe different Ways of Blazoning, but conſtantly treat them as ridiculous Notions.

2. The Italian, Spaniſh, and Latin Heralds uſe no ſuch different Forms, but blazon by the ordinary Colours and Mettals, Non variari nomina debent metallorum, vel colorum in Magnatum, aut in Regum inſignis: pro hac re provoco ad ſcriptores cæteros, qui Gallice, Germanice, aut Latine hac de re diſſeruerunt, Per. Sanct. p. 58.

And one of the great Deſigns in Heraldry is to have the Art univerſal, and to have the Arms they deſcribe generally underſtood in all Nations.

Carter in his Analyſis of Honour, p. 187, hath theſe Words. 'This (meaning the Cuſtom) is 'only a fantaſtick Humour of our Nation, and 'for my Part I ſhall avoid it as ridiculous, be-'ing no where in the World us'd but here; 'and not here by any judicious Herald'.

3. Art ſhou'd imitate Nature: and as it were an unnatural Thing in common Diſcourſe, not to call red, red, becauſe a Prince wears it; ſo it is unnatural to uſe theſe Terms in Heraldry: and it may fall out to be very ridiculous and unnatural in ſome Arms. As for Inſtance: If a Prince had for his Arms an Aſs couchant under his Burthen, Gules; it were very ridiculous to ſay, That he had an Aſs couchant Mars; for the Word Mars will agree very ill with Aſſes, Sheep, Lambs, and many other Things which are to be painted red in Heraldry. An hundred other Examples may be given, but it is enough to ſay, That this is to confound Colours with Charges, and the Things which are born with Colours and other Things not to be perceived in the Arms.

4. As this is unneceſſary, ſo it confounds the Reader and makes the Art unpleaſant, and deters Gentlemen and others from ſtudying it, and Strangers from underſtanding what our Heraldry is: Nor could the Arms of our Princes and Nobility be tranſlated, in this diſguiſe, into the Latin, or any other Language.

But that which convinces me moſt that it is an Error, is, becauſe it makes that great Rule unneceſſary whereby Colour cannot be put upon Colour, or Mettal upon Mettal; for that cannot hold, but where Mettals and Colours are employ'd, of which here is no mention; but if you will admire ſuch Fancies, you may find in Fern's Glory of Generoſity, eight or nine different Ways from what has been here touch'd upon: But he rejects them as Trifles.

CHAP. II.

SO much of the Definition and general Rules of Blazon. Now will I proceed to the Deſtribution thereof.

'The principal Means of Teaching, and the 'chief Part of Method conſiſteth in Diſtinction; 'therefore in the Explanation or Unfolding of this 'Fabrick of Arms or armorial Signs, I will uſe 'ſome manifeſt Kind of Diſtribution.

'The Blazon of Arms { Parts, and Accidents, of which later hereafter. } 'conſiſteth in their

The Parts of Arms are the Eſcutcheon or Shield, and the Ornaments without the Shield; of which latter I ſhall treat in the laſt Section, and proceed now to my firſt Diviſion; the Shield.

Arms, as I informed you in my Introduction, were uſually Figures or Emblems painted or emboſs'd upon the Bearer's Shield, which Shield was term'd by the Ancients, Scutum (perhaps from the Greek Word σκύτος, corium, becauſe their Targets were covered with Skins) or Parma.

The Scutum was long and four-ſquare, the other two Forms in uſe, round: But our Shield is made up of the Figure of both. Of old, Soldiers carried Cognizances on their Shields, that they might be known, Veget. de re Milit. lib. 2. c. 18. and thence it is that we carry ours in Cuts or Draughts imitating their Shields.

The Shield was made of Wood, but the Buckler of Braſs; the former is now call'd l'Eſcu by the French, Scudo by the Italians; ſometimes Shield and ſometimes an Eſcutcheon by the Engliſh and Scots, which laſt Name we have borrow'd, (according to Sir George Mackenzy's Obſervation) from Eſcuſſon, what the French call a little Shield.

The Greeks, as Waterhouſe obſerves, called theſe defenſive Weapons by ſeveral Names, according to their Figure and Proportion: A Target, (which my Author derives from Tergus, in regard of its covering) or Shield they call'd Ἄσπις, of orbicular Form, for which Cauſe Virgil compares the great Eye of the Cyclops to thoſe Clipei argolici he ſaw in uſe, which Dionyſius calls Ἀσπίδες ἀργόλικαι, as doth Homer and other Authors.

They alſo had other Muniments and Shields which they call'd Θυρεός, in Faſhion oblong, and of greater Dimenſion than Bucklers, Θυρεός, Scuti genus quoddam à magnitudine: That this Shield was in uſe alſo among the Romans no Man can queſtion, ſince every Author mentions it, Polybius eſpecially; who, deſcribing the Roman Armature, writes thus, Ἔτι δὲ ἡ Ρωμαϊκὴ πανοπλία, πρῶτον μὲν Θυρεός, which his Annotator Lipſius has notably illuſtrated, lib. 3. de Militia Rom. Dialog. 2. p. 106. ſo Turneb. Adverſ. l. 9. c. 17. and how it came in Uſe Livy tells us, Romanos antea Clypeis uſos, deinde poſtquam facti ſunt ſtipendiarii Scuta pro Clypeis feciſſe, l. 8.

The moſt ancient Form of a Shield Sir George Mackenzy takes to be Oval, (which Shape the Italians ſtill retain;) afterwards they became round as in Figure 1. Such the ſaid Author informs us are frequently found among the Seals of ancient Charters. But the moſt common Form uſed both in Great Britain and France is as Number 9. The Engliſh, French, and indeed the Italians, ſometimes carry their Coats in Cartoſh Shields, or Compartments, ments, which, I preſume, they learn'd of the Germans, whoſe conſtant Cuſtom it is.

The moſt frequent Manner of placing the Shield is upright; tho' ſometimes it has been carried hanging from the Helmet by the Right, and ſometimes by the left Corner. Sir Gerge Mackenzy tells us, That upon the Gate of Craigmiller he had ſeen the Arms of Preſton, a Scots Family, diſpos'd in that Manner: and (though not upon Seats, &c.) in old Monuments, ancient Manuſcripts, and Paintings, I have ſeen ſeveral Examples of the like Kind in England. This Form of Bearing the French term Eſcu pendu; the Italians ſcudo pendente, and the Engliſh and Scots an Eſcutcheon or Shield pendant.

The Riſe of this Form, Mackenzy thinks, is owing to a Cuſtom among the Ancients, viz. When Tilting or Tournaments were proclaim'd, they hung two Shields upon a Tree at the appointed Place, and he that offered to fight on Foot ſignified as much by touching the Shield which hung by the right Corner, whilſt on the contrary, he who choſe rather to exerciſe on Horſeback, touch'd that which hung by the Left: For in thoſe Days it was adjudg'd more honourable to fight on Foot than on Horſeback.

In the Form of the 10th Figure did the Coribantes, according to Leigh, uſe their Shields: The Trojans, eſpecially Horſe, as in Number 11; and the Greeks as in Number 12. But the two next are domeſtick Inſtances, the former being the Pavis or Target of the famous Edward, ſirnam'd the Black Prince, and the other of John of Gaunt Duke of Lancaſter, as they were hung up with their Trophies, thoſe of Prince Edward in Chriſt-Church in Canterbury, and thoſe of the Duke in the Cathedral of St. Paul's, London; which latter (though whether by Age only, or Deſign, my Author knew not) is very convex next the Bearer, above three Quarters of a Yard in Length, and above half a Yard in Breadth. Next to the Body is a Canvas glued to a Board, upon which are broad and thin Plates of Horn nailed faſt, and again over them twenty-ſix thick Pieces of the Like, all meeting about a round Plate of the ſame in the Navel or Center; over all is a Leather clos'd faſt to them with Glue, or ſome ſuch Stuff, upon which is painted his Coat.

Bolton's Elements of Armory, p. 67. and p. 69.

Some Families carry their Arms in a Banner repreſented by a Shield that is quadrangular: As the Perez in Spain, for having recall'd the Army by putting up his Handkerchief as a Standard; and the Sieur de Coucy in France, for recalling the Army, by raiſing the Banner. Hopping, cap. 5. ſub. diviſ. 12.

I have here ſet down ſeveral Forms of Shields to ſhew what various Figures were employ'd for that Uſe by the Ancients; but that Figure 9, is now the moſt uſual, as the Lozenge, Fig. 7, is for the Ladies; which Loyſeau obſerves, was once allow'd only to the Wives of conſiderable Perſons who had no Power to raiſe their own Banner. But Cuſtom has now tolerated all Women, deſcended of Parents poſſeſs'd of Coat-Armour, to carry it in a Lozenge.

Sir George Mackenzy finds that Muriell, Counteſs of Strathern, carried hers in a Lozenge, Anno 1284; which ſhews how long the Scots have been converſant in Heraldry.

'Thus much for the Shield or Eſcutcheon it 'ſelf, now for its Accidents.

'The Accidents in this 'Eſcutcheon are { Points. / Abatements.

The Abatements here meant by the Author, are certain Additaments which, he ſays, upon ſuch and ſuch Crimes are to be added to the Coat of the Offender, that ſo his Crime may be known to every Man. I ſhall not here inſiſt upon it as a ridiculous Whim, though I think I might with great Reaſon; nor yet ſhall I altogether omit them; I refer them only from hence to a Place more ſuitable, where the Reader ſhall ſee them, when he ſhall firſt have view'd the Enſigns of Honour and Merit.

Points

'Points are certain Places in an Eſcutcheon 'diverſely named, according to their ſeveral Po-'ſitions.

'Whereof ſome are { Middle. / Remote.

'The Middle Points are thoſe that have their 'Location in, or near to the Center of the Eſ-'cocheon.

'Such are theſe, viz. the { Honour / Feſs / Nombril } Points.

'The Feſs Point is the exact Center of the 'Eſcutcheon. The Honour Point is the next above 'the ſame in a direct Line. The Nombril is next 'underneath the Feſs Point, anſwering in a like 'diſtance from the Feſs Point, as Gerard Leigh 'hath ſet them down.

'Remote Points are thoſe that have their Situa-'tion naturally in Places further diſtant from the 'Center of the Eſcutcheon.

'Of theſe there are { Superior. / Inferior.

'The Superior Remote Points are thoſe that 'have their Being in the Upper-part of the Eſ-'cutcheon.

'Of theſe there are { Middle. / Extremes.

The Superior Middle Point doth occupy the 'preciſe Midſt of the Chief, between the two 'Extremes. The two Superior Extreme Points 'do poſſeſs the Corners of the chief Part of the 'Eſcutcheon.

'And are termed { Dexter. / Sinifter.

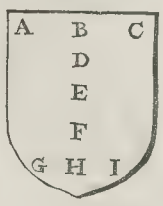

'The Superior Dexter Point hath his begin-'ning near unto the right Corner of the Eſ-'cutcheon, in the Chief thereof. The Superior Si-'nifter Point is placed near the left Angle of the 'Chief, in oppoſition to the Dexter Chief; where-'unto, as alſo to the Middle Chief Point, it an-'ſwereth in a direct Line.

'The Inferior Points do occupy the Baſe of 'the Eſcutcheon, and thereof have their Deno-'mination, and are called Inferior, becauſe they 'are ſeated in the lower Parts thereof.

'Of theſe alſo there are both { Middle. / Remote.

'Note, That each of theſe do anſwer in oppo-'ſition unto the ſeveral Superior Chief Points 'abovementioned, in a direct Line, inſomuch as 'by them the Location of theſe might be eaſily 'conceived without any further Deſcription of 'them, Quia poſito uno contrariorum, ponitur & 'alterum. Nevertheleſs, becauſe thoſe Things 'that are delivered dividedly, are beſt conceiv-'ed and underſtood, I will particularize theſe 'as I have done the former, beginning with the 'Middle Point.

'The Middle Baſe Point doth occupy the ex-'act Midſt of the Baſe of the Eſcutcheon, and an-'ſwereth perpendicularly to the Middle Superior 'and Inferior Points. And in like Sort do both 'the Inferior Baſe Extremes anſwer in an equi-'diſtant Proportion to the 'Extremes of the Superior 'Points placed in the Cor-'ner of the Eſcutcheon. 'That Extreme Baſe Point 'on the right Hand is nam-'ed the Dexter Baſe Point; 'and that on the left Hand 'is the Siniſter Baſe. And 'for the better Explana-'tion of that which hath 'been here delivered touching the Points of an 'Eſcutcheon, I have here (becauſe Examples add 'Light) expreſſed the ſame by manifeſt Demon-'ſtrations, placing ſeveral Letters upon every of 'the ſaid Points, according to the Deſcription be-'forementioned. As there is a Preheminence in 'the priority of Nomination of Things, ſo is there 'alſo in their local Diſtribution; wherefore you 'muſt have reſpect unto the Points of an Eſcut-'cheon, for therein alſo conſiſteth a Dignity, in-'aſmuch as one Point or Place of the Eſcutcheon, 'is more worthy than another, whereunto you 'muſt have regard in Blazoning, Qui à digniori-'bus ſemper eſt incipiendum. What thoſe Points 'of an Eſcutcheon are, appeareth in the laſt pre-'cedent Eſcutcheon, and is here made more ma-'niſeſt, as in Example.

'A	Signifieth	Dexter Chief	Point.
'B		Preciſe Middle Chief
'C		Siniſter Chief
'D		Honour
'E		Feſs
'F		Nombril
'G		Dexter Baſe
'H		Exact Middle Baſe
'I		Siniſter Baſe

'The Knowledge of theſe Points is very re-'quiſite, in reſpect, that when diverſe of theſe 'Points are occupied with ſundry Things of dif-'ferent Kinds (as oftentimes it falleth out in ſome 'Eſcutcheons) you may be able thereby to aſſign 'unto each Point his apt and peculiar Name, ac-'cording to the Dignity of his Place: For no 'Man can perfectly Blazon any ſuch Coat, un-'leſs he doth rightly underſtand the particular 'Points of the Eſcutcheon.

Mackenzy obſerves, p. 24. cap. 6. That the Names and Deſignations of theſe Points are from the ſeveral Parts of a Man, who, in Heraldry, Architecture and Painting, is the true Meaſure of all Symmetry and Perfection, and therefore he differs from the foregoing Obſervations in ſome particular Points. Imagine (ſaith he) a Man ſtanding in the Field, his higheſt Point is his Head, Head, which in French is Chef, and ſo then Chief or Chef Point is not ſo call'd becauſe it is Chief or moſt Excellent, as Guillim obſerves, but becauſe it is the Head of the Shield, wherefore the Engliſh write it wrong. And, as he obſerves, this Point is fitteſt for ſuch Emblems as argue Precedency or Wit.

The Second he calls the Neck, as it were, or Honour Point, and thinks it fitteſt for all Augmentations of Merit or Honour, becauſe a Man generally wears the Badges of his Honour about his Neck, as may be ſeen by the Knights of the Garter, who ſo wear the Collar of their Order on St. George's Day.

The Third Point he tells us is, cœure or Centre Point, the Heart Point, holding Guillim and other Engliſh Heralds in an Error when they call it Feſs Point, notwithſtanding they follow Bara; but Bara, ſaith he, calls it Feſſe or Face; which laſt is more proper, becauſe Face is one of the Ordinaries and paſſes through this Point: For Feſſe ſignifies the Flank or the Buttocks, which are not the middle Part of a Man: And the Italians, ſays he, call cœur Point, il centro, and the Latins, centrum parma.

He alſo differs in the Three laſt Points which we call the Baſe Points, dividing them into two Flanks and a Baſe, in which he follows the French, with whom alſo agree the Latin and Italian Authors, as is clear by Petra Sancta, cap. 20. For, as he obſerves, the Shield we uſe has but one Baſe, which comes pointing down lower than the Flanks and makes two other Points; but the Scots, adds he, by following the Engliſh, have, in ſome of their Books, been led away with this Miſtake: The cœur Point he thinks might well beſeem the Enſigns of Courage, and the Flanks thoſe of Support.

The learned Spelman divides the Shield into three Regions; the Higheſt he calls Cephalica, the Middle he calls Centrica, and the Lower, Perigæi; but theſe, ſaith Mackenzy, p. 25. not being follow'd by other Writers, and differing only from others in the Way of Expreſſion, are not to be us'd.

Meneſtrier, the Jeſuit, divides the Shield into ſixteen Points, diſtinguiſh'd in five Threes, and a ſingle baſe Point: The firſt Three he calls the three Points of the Chief; the ſecond Three he calls the three Points of Honour; the third Three he calls the Heart Points; the fourth Three he calls the Nombril or Navel Points (for Nombril ſignifies a Navel in ordinary French); the fifth Three he calls ſimply the Points; and, the ſingle and loweſt Point he calls, the Baſe Point: And thus he deſigns the ſeveral Situations of any Bearing expreſs'd in the Shield, by ſaying, It is placed in ſuch a Point, or in the Canton Dexter, or Siniſter of ſuch a Point: If it poſſeſs all the Three, he terms them couch'd or laid along the Chief or Nombril, &c. But I conceive this Term will not ſerve for a Beaſt, or the like, unleſs couchant, but only for Ordinaries, &c. ſo tranſpos'd.

The Uſe of theſe Points is to difference Coats exactly: For Arms having a Lyon in Chief, differ from thoſe which have a Lyon in Nombril Point; Poſition being ever held a Difference in Bearings, and therefore by the Doctors they are call'd Alveoli, ſeu Cellulæ ſoli. Mack. p. 24. cap. 6.

But when Bearings are deſcrib'd without relating or expreſſing the Point where they are to be plac'd, they are then underſtood to poſſeſs the Center of the Shield, call'd by Plutarch, Homer, and others, τῆς ἀσπίδος ἐπίσημον, the Seat of the Arms.

But ſometimes you ſhall find Bearings whoſe Poſition ſeem to form one of the Ordinaries, in ſuch Caſe, regardleſs of the Points, you ſhall blazon them by the Name of the Ordinary they repreſent, as in Pale, in Bend, in Saltire, &c.

CHAP. III.

THUS much ſhall ſuffice for the Shield with its Accidents; I will now proceed to the ſecond Member of my late Diſtribution, viz. the general Accidents of Arms.

'I call thoſe Notes or Marks, Accidents of 'Arms, that have no inherent Quality or Parti-'cipation of the Subſtance or Eſſence of them, 'but may be annexed unto them, or taken from 'them, their Subſtance ſtill remaining; for ſo 'doth Porphyrius define the ſame, ſaying, Acci-'dens poteſt adeſſe & abeſſe ſine ſubjecti interitu. 'Accidents may be ſaid to be Coſin-germans to 'Nothing: For ſo, after a Sort, doth Ariſtotle 'reckon of them, ſaying, Accidens videtur eſſe 'propinquum non enti, Metaph. 6. For they have 'no Being of themſelves, but as they are in 'Things of Being, or annexed to them. As the 'ſame Author further noteth, Metaph. 7. Acciden-'tia non ſunt entia, niſi quia ſunt entis.

'Such Accidents as are here meant are theſe, viz. { Tincture, and Differences.

Differences are generally additional Figures added to the principal and original Coat which they alter not, though they diſtinguiſh: But this being an extenſive Subject, I am conſtrain'd to remove it to the ſixth and laſt Section as a Place more proper.

'Tincture is a variable Hue of Arms, and is 'common, as well to Differences of Arms, as to 'the Arms themſelves.

'And the ſame is diſtributed into { Colours, and Furrs.

'Colour may be ſaid to be an external Die, 'wherewith any Thing is coloured or ſtained, 'or

'or else it may be said to be the Gloss of a Body 'beautified with Light.

'And the Colour here mentioned is both { General, and Special.

'By general Colour, I understand the proper 'and natural Colour of each particular Thing, 'whether the same be Natural or Artificial, of 'what Kind soever, that are depicted and set forth 'in their external and proper Beauty. In this 'respect all Colours whatsoever (without exception) may seem to pertain to this Art, for so 'much as there is nothing in this World subject-'ed to the Sight of Man, but either is, or aptly 'may be born in Arms; so spacious and general 'is the Scope of Armory. In blazoning of Things 'born in their natural or proper Colour, you shall 'only term them to be born Proper, which is a 'Blazon sufficient for Things of that Kind, and 'well fitting their Property or Nature, for there 'are no Terms of Blazon allowed to Things born 'after that Sort.

'By special Colours, I mean such Colours as 'by a certain peculiar Propriety (as it were) do 'belong to this Art of Armory.

'These are both { Simple, and Mixt.

Simple Colours are those, whose Existence is of such absolute Perfection (in their Kind) as 'that they need not the Participation of any other 'Colour to make them absolute, but do communicate their natural Qualities to all other 'Colours, to make them perfect, in which respect they are called elementa colorum, as shall be 'shewed hereafter.

'And those are { White, and Black.

'To these in right belongeth the first Place 'amongst Colours, because in the Order of Nature they were before all other Colours: Priora 'enim sunt compositis incomposita: and are of Aristotle called, Elementa colorum, saying, Albus & 'niger sunt elementa colorum mediorum. Only 'White and Black are accounted simple Colours, 'because all other Colours whatsoever are raised 'either of an equal or an unequal Mixture or 'Composition of these Two, which are (as I 'may term them) their common Parents. These 'are said to be the common Parents of all other 'Colours, in respect they have their original Be-'ing from these, either in an equal or disproportionable Mixture. Therefore I will begin 'with them, and so proceed to the rest that we 'call colores medii, in respect of their Participa-'tion of both. Now forasmuch as Practice is the 'Scope of Doctrines (to the End those Things 'that are, or shall be delivered, may be the bet-'ter conceived or born in Memory) I have 'thought good to manifest them by particular 'Examples of ocular Demonstration, in the plain-'est Manner that I can devise, Quia qualis est 'rerum demonstratio, talis futura est hominum sci-'entia.

'White is a Colour that 'consisteth of very much 'Light, as it is of Scri-'bonius defined, Albedo est 'color simplex in corpore 'tenuiore multa luminosi-'tate constans: to which 'Black is contrary. Note, 'As Colours may be re-'sembled to Things of 'greatest Nobility or Re-'putation, so is their Worthiness accounted of 'accordingly.

'The Colour White is resembled to the Light, 'and the Dignity thereof reckoned more worthy 'than the Black, by how much the Light and 'the Day, is of more Esteem than Darkness and 'the Night, whereunto Black is likened. Furthermore, White is accounted more worthy 'than Black, in respect of the more worthy Use 'thereof. For Men, in ancient Time, were ac-'customed to note Things well and laudably per-'formed (and esteemed worthy to be kept in 'Memory) with White, and contrariwise, what-'soever was holden reproachful or dishonou-'rable, was noted with Black, as the Poet noteth, 'saying,

'Quæ laudanda forent, & quæ culpanda vicissim,
'Illa prius cretâ, mox hæc carbone notasti.

'Moreover, White challengeth the Precedency of Black (according to Upton) in respect of 'the Priority of Time, for that it was in Nature before Black, which is a Deprivation there-'of: Like as Darkness, whereunto Black is re-'sembled, is an Exemption of Light, Omnis enim 'privatio præsupponit habitum. Finally, Upton pre-'ferreth White before Black, in regard that White 'is more easily discerned, and further seen in the 'Field.

'This Colour is most commonly taken in Bla-'zon for the Metal Silver, and is termed Ar-'gent, whereso ever the same is found, either in 'Field or Charge. It represents Water, which, 'next to the Air, is the noblest of all the Ele-'ments.

'In Composition of Arms, it is accounted a 'Fault worthy of Blame, to blazon this other-'wise than Argent; but in doubling of Mantles, 'it is not so taken: For therein it is not under-'stood to be a Metal, but the Skin or Furr of a 'little Beast called a Lituite, so named (as I con-'ceive) of Lithuania, now called Luten, a Part of 'Sarmatia, confining upon Polonia. This Furr 'hath been heretofore much used by the ancient 'Matrons of the honourable City of London, 'even by those that were of the chiefest Ac-'count, who wear the same in a Kind of Bon-'net, called, corruptly, a Lettice Cap. The Spa-'niards call such Fields as are all Metal, Campo 'de Plata.

Black

'Black is a Colour contrary to White, having 'little Participation of 'Light, and is of Scribonius, 'thus defined, Nigredo est 'color in corpore crassiori exigua luminositatis particeps. 'Whereby it is apparent 'that Black is of less 'Perfection than White. 'For what Thing soever there is that hath in it 'either Light or Heat, or else a Life, either 'Animal or Vegetable, the same being once extinct, the Thing it self becometh forthwith 'Black, which is said to be the Colour of Horror and Destruction; for which respect mourning Garments are made of that Colour, that 'doth most significantly represent the Horror 'of Death and Corruption, Farnes. 3. 104. This 'Colour is called in Blazon Sable, of the Latin 'Word Sabulum, which signifieth gross Sand or 'Gravel, in respect of the heavy and earthy 'Substance, wherein it aboundeth above all 'others'. But Mackenzie supposes it so nam'd, because the best Sable Furrs are Black. 'And 'this Colour is reputed far inferior in Dignity to White, and is likened to Darkness, called in Latin, Tenebræ, eò quod teneant, id est, 'impediant oculos, & visum prohibeant. Note, 'That the Rest of those special Colours before-'mentioned, besides White and Black, are called Colores medii, for that they have their primary Essence from these, either by an equal 'or uneven Concorporation or Mixture of these 'two together: And in regard of these two 'Extremes, from which they have their Being, 'cannot properly be called, Colores, nisi per 'participationem. This Colour is expressed in Graving, by Lines hatched cross each other, in 'Pale and Barr.

'Now as touching Colores medii, or mixed Colours, it is to be understood that they are raised by the Contemperation or Mixture of the 'two Simples formerly handled, as may appear 'by the Definition of Scribonius, who saith, Mixtus color est, qui ex Simplicium contemperatione 'producitur.

'All mixt or middling Colours, that we call 'Colores medii, are reckoned more Noble or Ignoble, by participation; that is to say, as they 'do partake more or less of the Nobility of 'White, which is resembled to Light; or of 'Black, which hath a Resemblance to Darkness, or Deprivation of Light.

'Of these according to Scribonius, some are { Exactly compounded of both Simples / Declining more to the one than the other, in an unequal Proportion.

'That Colour which is 'said to be exactly compounded, doth participate of the two Simples 'indifferently in a just Proportion, as Red; which 'Scribonius thus defineth, 'Rubedo est color æquali simul Albedinis & Nigredinis combinatione constans'.

This Colour representeth Fire, which is the chiefest, lightsomest, and clearest of the Elements, and, in blazoning, is termed Gules.

Mackenzie supposeth it to be so nam'd from the Hebrew Word Gulude, a Piece of red Cloth; or from the Arabick Word Gule, which signifies a Rose, a Flower commonly red, as, saith he, Menestrier observes. It is express'd by Lines drawn Perpendicular.

'This Colour is bright 'Yellow, which is com-'pounded of much White, 'and a little Red, as if you 'should take two Parts of 'White, and but one of 'Red. This Colour in 'Arms is blazed by the 'Name of Or, which is as 'much as to say Aurum, 'which is Gold: And it is commonly called 'Gold Yellow, because it doth lively represent 'that most excellent Metal, the Possession 'whereof inchanteth the Hearts of Fools, and 'the Colour whereof blindeth the Eyes of the 'Wise. Of the Excellency of this Metal, Hesiodus hath this Saying: Aurum est Corporibus 'sicut Sol inter Stellas. And therefore such is 'the Worthiness of this Colour, which doth re-'semble it, that (as Christine de Pice holdeth) 'none ought to bear the same in Arms, but Emperors and Kings, and such as be of the Blood 'Royal, though indeed it be in Use more com-'mon. And as this Metal exceedeth all other 'in Value, Purity, and Fineness, so ought the 'Bearer (as much as in him lieth) endeavour 'to surpass all other in Prowess and Vertue. It 'is expressed in Graving by Pricks or Points.

'This Colour is Green, 'which consisteth of more 'Black and of less Red, as 'appeareth by the Defi-'nition; Viridis est color 'Nigredine copiosiore, & 'Rubedine minore, contem-'peratus. This Colour is 'blazoned Vert,' that being the French Word for Green, and sometimes Sinople; for so the French term Green in Heraldry, never using the Word Vert: And the Reason why it is call'd Sinople, is from a Town in the Levant where the best Materials for dying Green are found, and not from the Greek Words σὺν ὅπλων, becauſe it being contraverted at Conſtantinople, whether Green was a proper Colour to be us'd in Heraldry, it was determined, That it ſuited with Heraldry, cum Armis. Meneſtrier derives Sinople from πεφύκα ὅπλα, green Arms, by ſuppreſſing the firſt Syllable, as the Greeks often do. 'The Latins call 'it Viridis à vigore, in regard of the Strength, 'Freſhneſs, and Livelineſs thereof; and there'fore beſt reſembleth Youth, in that moſt Ve'getables, ſo long as they flouriſh, are beauti'fied with Verdure: And is a Colour moſt 'wholſome and pleaſant to the Eye, except it be 'in a young Gentlewoman's Face. This Colour 'is expreſſed in Graving by Lines drawn diago'nal from the Dexter chief Corner to the Sini'ſter Baſe.

'Blew is a Colour which 'conſiſteth of much Red, 'and of little White, and 'doth repreſent the Colour 'of the Sky in a clear Sun'ſhining Day. This in 'Blazon is termed Azure. 'Cæruleus color, à Cælo di'ctus eſt, quod tanquam ſo'lers & diligens neſcit otia'ri. Farneſ. 2. 18. In Graving, this Colour is 'expreſſed by Lines drawn traverſe the Shield.

'Purpure is a Colour 'that conſiſteth of much 'Red, and of a ſmall Quan'tity of Black, and is thus 'defined; Purpureus color 'eſt, qui à multa Rubedine, '& pauciore Nigredine com'miſcetur. Chaſſaneus ha'ving formerly handled 'thoſe former ſix Colours, 'viz. White, Black, Red, Yellow, Green, and 'Blue, ſaith, that of them all (being compound'ed and mixed together according to Propor'tion) this Purpure Colour is raiſed. This 'Colour uſually hath no other Name in Bla'zon.

'This Colour hath its Denomination of a 'certain Fiſh called in Latin, Purpura, a Kind 'of Shell fiſh, whereof in Times paſt, great 'Store have been found near to that famous Ci'ty of Tyrus, ſituated next to the Sea-coaſt in 'the Country of Phœnicia: This Kind of Fiſh 'hath in the Mouth of it an excellent and pre'cious Liquor, or Juice, of ſingular Uſe in Dy'ing of Cloaths, the Invention and Uſe where'of was firſt found out by the Tyrians, for 'which Cauſe this Colour is called Tyrius Co'lor. They muſt be taken alive, and that 'chiefly in the Spring Seaſon, at which Time 'this Juice is moſt plentiful in them, at other 'Seaſons it is more ſcarce: They are gathered 'alive, and caſt together on a Heap, that ſo by 'their continual Motion they may vent out 'this rich Liquor together with their Spirit, 'which done in ſome neat Place or other pro'vided for the clean keeping thereof, it is ta'ken up and ſpared for neceſſary Purpoſes. 'This Colour in ancient Time, was of that pre'cious Eſteem, as that none but Kings and Prin'ces, and their Favourites, might wear the 'ſame, as we may ſee, Dan. 5. 16. Now if thou 'canſt read the Writing, and ſhew me the Interpre'tation thereof, thou ſhalt be cloathed with Purple, 'and ſhalt have a Chain of Gold about thy Neck. 'Hereof (perhaps) it cometh that this Colour 'is found of ſo rare Uſe in Armorial Signs.

The French admit this a Colour in Heraldry; tho' Favin and ſome Heralds of that Nation take it for tarniſhed Silver, which appears like Purple to the Eye. They likewiſe allow of Carnation or Pink-colour, which we do not.

Sir George Mackenzie, p. 21. obſerves, That this Colour has been particularly priviledg'd, having ſeen it us'd both as Metal and Colour; which he conjectures, in one Place, is becauſe 'tis a Royal Colour: But I rather believe, that in ſuch Coats it may be Silver tarniſh'd, and ſo in Time taken for Purpure, and this he himſelf, in another Place, ſeems rather inclin'd to believe. 'Tis expreſs'd in Engraving by Lines diagonal from the ſiniſter Chief to the dexter Baſe Point.

'Tawny (ſaith Leigh) 'is a Colour of Worſhip, 'and of ſome Heralds it 'is called Brusk, and is 'moſt commonly born of 'French Gentlemen, but 'very few do bear it in 'England. In Blazon it 'is known by the Name 'of Tenne. It is (ſaith he) 'the ſureſt Colour that is (of ſo bright a Hue, 'being compounded) for it is made of two 'bright Colours, which are Red and Yellow: 'Neither ſhall you have any Colour ſo made 'among all that may be deviſed; and not to 'be ſtained'.

Mr. Guillim mentions this Colour to be us'd of the French, and the French obſerve that the Engliſh uſe it: But Mackenzy, p. 17. thinks Mr. Guillim in the Wrong and the French in the Right; for, ſays he, the French uſe it not, but the Engliſh do. It is expreſs'd in Engraving by Lines diagonal from the ſiniſter Chief and traverſe.

'The laſt of the ſeven 'mixed Colours, we do 'commonly call Murrey, 'but in Blazon, Sanguine, 'and is (as moſt truly ſaith 'Leigh) a Princely Colour, 'being indeed one of the 'Colours appertaining of 'ancient Time to the 'Prince of Wales. It is a Colour of great Eſti'mation,

'mation, and very ſtately, and is in uſe in cer'tain Robes of the Knights of the Bath. Some
'Heralds, of approved Judgment, do hardly 'admit theſe two laſt mentioned for Colours of
'Fields, in regard they are reckoned ſtainand
'Colours. Yet ſome Coats of Arms there are,
'and thoſe of reverend Antiquity, whoſe Fields
'are of thoſe Colours, for which reſpect they 'have been allowed for Colours of Fields, as
'Sir John Ferne, in his Glory of Generoſity, no-
'teth. This Kind of Bearing Leigh doth in-
'ſtance, in two Engliſh Gentlemen of ancient
'Houſes, that have of long Time borne Tawny
'in their Arms; the one of them he nameth
'Hounzaker, and the other Finers.

This Paragraph favours Columbier, who obſerves, That the Engliſh uſe this Colour, and not Mackenzie nor Carter, who contradicting him ſays, they do not; though the Germans do ſometimes. It is expreſſed in Engraving by Lines hatch'd croſs one another diagonal, both Dexter and Sinifter, Analyſis of Honour, p. 190.

Theſe are the ſundry Metals and Colours us'd in Arms; but the two laſt, as being accounted ſtainand Colours, my Author tells you, have hardly been admitted by ſome Heralds of approv'd Judgment; and I may ſay, tho' they ſometimes may have been us'd, as Guillim tells you by Inſtances, yet is their Uſe very rare and ſeldom, the common and moſt uſual in all Nations being Or, Argent, Gules, Sable, Azure, Vert, and Purpure: Though why Heralds made choice of them only, Mackenzie thinks is, becauſe they thereby reſolv'd to fix the Uncertainty of vagrant and capricious Artiſts, even as, ſaith he, Lawyers have fix'd Preſcription to forty Years and Minority to Twenty-one. But yet there are, ſaith he, ſome original Colours: Ariſtotle reduces them to four, White, Black, Yellow and Red. Cardan makes them ſeven, Albus, Croceus, Purpureus, Puniceus, Viridis, Cæruleus, Niger. Scaliger chooſes Album, Flavum, Rubrum, Purpureum, Viridem, Cæruleum, & Nigrum, Exercit. 325. But the Chymiſts obſerve, That White, Blue, Red, Green and Yellow are the original Colours, and from them he ſuppoſes Heralds have choſen theirs. But Mr. Nisbet, an ingenious Scots Author, has another Conceit, for, ſaith he, Colours and Tinctures in Heraldry were at firſt arbitrary, but afterwards reſtrain'd to a certain Number, which were taken (as 'tis ordinarily thought) from the Liveries of the Companies who acted upon the Roman Theatres, which were Red, White, Blue and Green. Domitian added two other Companies, the one cloath'd in Yellow and the other in Purple Livery; ſo that there wanted nothing but Black to make up the Number of Tinctures now made uſe of.

Science of Heraldry, p. 18.

Nisbet on Cadency, p. 8.

After which, Juſts and Tournaments being introduc'd by the Subverters of the Roman Empire in Place of their publick Shews and Plays, the Knights who appear'd at thoſe martial Exerciſes were wont to cloath themſelves ſometimes with Black, either to ſhew their Grief for the Loſs of a Miſtreſs, or to ſignify their Diſpleaſure for ſome other Diſappointments. So the Duke of Anjou, King of Sicily, after the Loſs of that Kingdom, appear'd at a Tournament in Germany all in Black, with his Shield of that Colour, ſemé de Larmes, i. e. beſprinkled with Drops of Water, to repreſent Tears; and thus he thinks Black became introduc'd among the other Tinctures.

Theſe Colours, ſome will tell you, have their own myſtical Repreſentations in Heraldry: For Or is us'd to expreſs the Bearer's Faith, Juſtice, Temperance, Riches, Generoſity, or Proſperity: Argent, his Humility, Innocency, Beauty: And a white Shield was given to Novices when they went to the War, and before they had done any glorious Action, Parmâ inglorius Albâ, Virg. Azure, his Charity and Victory: Gules, his Magnanimity, Courage, Love and Charity: Sable, his Grief, Prudence, Honeſty: Sinople or Vert, his Courteſy, Civility, Youth, and Abundance. But let this ſuffice; thoſe who would read more on the Elements, Vertues, &c. of theſe Metals and Colours, may ſatisfy themſelves out of Ferne in his Blazon of Gentry, or out of Leigh's Accidence of Armory, who have taken the Pains to inform you what they repreſent, when two or more are join'd together, if you credit Notions which I believe were propagated only to repreſent Myſteries in a Science, wherein all Things ſhould be accounted for.

Sometimes (ſaith Mackenzy) theſe Colours have been us'd to diſguiſe and conceal the Bearer's Origine. Thus ſome were originally Murrays, but being forced to change their Name and leave their Country, they retain'd their Arms, but chang'd their Colours: For whereas the Murrays bore Azure, three Stars Argent, they bear now Argent, three Stars Azure. Colours, adds he, have been chang'd upon very honourable Occaſions: And thus Ker of Ceſſoord did bear Gules till their Chief was kill'd at Gambſpath, upon the Border, fighting valiantly for his Country; whereupon King James IV, appointed, that for the future the Houſe of Ceſſoord ſhou'd carry Vert, in remembrance of that green Field whereupon he was kill'd. Sometimes alſo, ſaith he, Colours were choſen by Knights to their Arms, becauſe at Tiltings they us'd to appear in that Colour, and for that Reaſon the firſt Chrichtoun choſe his Lyon that he bears to be Azure.

Sometimes the Things borne, are allow'd in their natural Colours; and then, as Mr. Guillim obſerves, they are ſaid to be borne proper. But though this is allow'd in the Charge, yet, ſaith he, in the Field it is not; for that muſt be of either the ordinary Metals or Colours. Yet this ſuffers ſome Exceptions, as in the Arms of Count de Prado in Spain, who bears a Meadow proper, i. e. a green Field charg'd with Flowers of ſeveral Colours.

Some Heralds debate what Colours are nobleſt in Heraldry, and Bart. de Inſig. num. 29.

gives it for a Rule, Aureum esse nobiliorem, post eumq; Purpureum, & tunc Rubeum, sequi hunc Azorem, hunc Album. Cæteros vero esse nobiliores, aut ignobiliores, quo de Albedine, vel Nigredine plus participant.

But this Notion of their being more Worth in one Colour than in another, Carter in his Analysis of Honour, p. 188. thinks unworthy our notice, and that not without Reason; for of all that have written, there are scarce two of Opinion which are most worthy, some arguing one Thing, and some another: Therefore I humbly conceive with him, That the Debate is impertinent in many Cases; for Colours are or were chosen to suit best the Nature of the Bearing, or for distinguishing the common Charges, and therefore there can be no Precedency, for that Colour is best which is fittest for the Intent; and this I am sure is a more suitable Argument for the Art, which ought not to admit Fancies or Whims: Though otherwise it seems, that those Colours which have most Resemblance to Light are the best, and therefore is White preferable to all, to which Opinion my Author, Guillim, seems to lean: But others say Gold is the best, and Silver next unto it, as they are the worthiest Metals, and this, if any, seems most reasonable. But I think it better to omit such Fancies, seeing they tend to alter the Design and Species of Or and Argent, making them Colours, viz. Yellow and White, and then that great Rule in Heraldry against placing Colour upon Colour (which alone shews these to be Metals) wou'd be needless: Mackenzie is also of my Mind, saying, Colours are preferable only as they suit best with what is represented: As for Instance: Three Pales Gules being to represent as many bloody Draughts by the King, and a Hand Gules in the Macfersons Arms, could not so honourably have been represented by any other Colour; yet he seems to allow, that if the Bearing require no special Colour, it is given as a Rule, that the Shield should be of a nobler Tincture than the Bearing; whence perhaps it is we have so many Fields of Metal. The old Scots, saith he, I may say the old English too, us'd to express Colour by the Word Tincture.

Science of Heraldry, p. 21.

It is an indisputable Rule in Heraldry, as Mackenzie, p. 20. observes, That Colour and Metal must be us'd, or else Furr to supply the Want of one, and that Colour cannot be put immediately upon Colour, nor Metal upon Metal, that is to say, If the Field is Argent, the immediate Charge must not be either Or, or Argent, but of some Colour, as Azure, Gules, &c. and if the Field be of any Colour, then the immediate Charge must be Or or Argent. The Reason why I add the Word Immediate here, is, because though the Field be Or, yet the immediate Charge may be a Lyon or any Thing else: If that Lyon be charg'd with another Charge (which Heralds call Super-charge) then that Super-charge may be Or: This Rule was not taken notice of by the Romans, as Pier. observes cap. 19. Nam Herculeani Seniores gerebant ceruleam aqualam alis utrimq; expansis in puma rubra. But this Law was first authoris'd by Charles the Great, and afterwards improv'd by Henry, surnam'd Aucuper; Velser, lib. 4. and as Mackenzie observes, it is now stated in this Form by Heralds, In legibus Heraldicis non convenit Metallum supra Metallum ponere, ita quoque non decet colorem supra colorem pingere, Hoppin. cap. reg. 2. vid. Anton. thesaur. decis. 270.

The Reason why this their Use became a Law, he tells us, p. 17. was, from the several Colours us'd by Soldiers, and others in their Habits, whilst they were in Armies, as, saith he, Pet. Sanct. proves by many Citations. For it being a Custom to embroider Gold or Silver upon Silk, or Silk upon Cloth of Gold or Silver, therefore it was afterwards appointed, That in Imitation of the Cloaths so embroider'd, Colour should not be us'd upon Colour, nor Metal upon Metal; and not from the Differences which fell out in the Trojan War, betwixt the Followers of Achilles and Ulysses, whereupon Achilles's Friends blazon'd only Metals, and Ulysses's Friends Colours; that so by uniting them there might be an Union in Heraldry, and Arms might not be the Badges of Discord any longer, as was the Opinion of a fanciful Italian.

Notwithstanding this Rule is universal in Heraldry, yet, as Mackenzie observes p. 20. it suffers its own Exceptions, as, 1. Heralds allow'd to Godfrey of Bolloigne, King of Jerusalem, Crucem auream majorem, cum quatuor cruciculis aureis, in scuto argenteo, Chass. de glor. mund. consil. conclus. 70. To the End, that Men seeing his Arms, shou'd enquire after them, and so learn the Fame of the Bearer: And the French to this Day, call such irregular Bearings, des Armes à enquerir, Arms to be inquired into. The 2d Exception is of the Extremities of Beasts, such as their Horns, Tongues, Nails, and their Crowns upon their Heads, which may be Metal or Colour be the Field either, they as pertaining to the Charge being in the Nature of a Supercharge, are reckon'd to be on the Beast, not the Field. The 3d Exception is Marks of Cadency in Royal Families: Thus the House of Bourbon carry Battoons and Bordures Gules, on a Field Azure: The like, saith Mackenzie, is in our private Marks to younger Brothers, such as our Mollets, Crescents, &c. The 4th Exception is of the Colour Purpure; for Purple, as already said, is accounted Metal when it is upon Colour, and Colour when it is upon Metal, but I believe only through the aforesaid Mistake.

CHAP.

CHAP. IV.

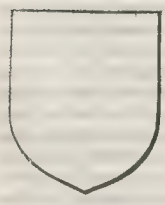

'HItherto of Colours and Metals: Now of 'Furrs, according to the Series and 'Course of our Distribution before delivered.

'Furrs (used in Arms) are taken for the 'Skins of certain Beasts, stripped from the Bo 'dies, and artificially trimmed, for the furring, 'doubling, or lining of Robes and Garments, 'serving as well for State and Magnificence, as 'for wholsome and necessary Use. And these 'thus trimmed and imployed, are called in La- 'tin, pellicei, à pellendo, of driving away, (quite 'contrary in Sense, though like in Sound, to 'pellices, à pellicendo, for drawing all to them) 'because they do repel and resist the Extremi- 'ties of Cold, and preserve the Bodies that are 'covered with them in good Temperature.

'These are used as well in Doublings of the 'Mantles pertaining to Coat-Armours, as in 'the Coat-Armours themselves.

Mackenzy finds fault with this his Reason for the Bearing of Furrs in Coat-Armour, and not without Cause; for, as he observes p. 22. Shields were covered with Skins as those of the High-landers now are; which Coverings gave Occasion to the Furrs or Skins now in mention; and this is certainly a better Reason for their being in Shields, than to say, because they were us'd in Mantles and Garments. This indeed may be a better Argument why they are us'd in the Mantlings of Princes and Noblemen, but not in Shields. Pet. Sanct. calls these Furrs, Vellera.

'Furrs do consist 'either of { One Colour alone, or, More Colours than one.

'That Furr that con- 'sisteth of one Colour a- 'lone, is White, which 'in doubling is taken for 'the Lituite's Skin, before 'spoken of; an Example 'whereof we have in this 'Escutcheon. Some per- 'haps will expect, that in 'the Handling of these 'Furrs, I should pursue the Order of Gerard 'Leigh, who giveth the Preheminence of Place 'unto Ermyn, for the Dignity and Riches 'thereof: But that Form suiteth neither with 'the Method that I have prefixed to my self; 'Nor yet with the Order of Nature, which ever 'preferreth Simples before Compounds, because 'of their Priority in Time: For as Aristotle saith, 'Priora sunt compositis incomposita: Which Or- 'der, as it is of all other the most reasonable, 'certain, and infallible, so do I endeavour by all 'Means to conform my self, in these my poor 'Labours, thereunto: Natura enim regitur ab 'intelligentia non errante. Note, That this, and 'all other the Examples following throughout 'this Chapter (as they are here placed) must 'be understood to be Doublings or Linings of 'Robes, or Mantles of State, or other Gar- 'ments, wherein (according to Leigh) they all 'have one general Name, and are called Dou- 'blings; but in Escutcheons they are called by 'nine proper and several Names. What those 'Mantles are, shall be shewed hereafter, when 'I come to the Handling of the second Mem- 'ber of Division before made. In the Blazon- 'ing of Arms, this Colour is evermore termed 'Argent, unless it be in the Description of the 'Arms of one that is Reus Læsæ Majestatis: But 'being a Doubling, it is no Offence (saith Chri- 'stine de Pice) to call it White, because therein 'it is to be understood only as a Furr or Skin.

My Author is certainly out, when he saith, this Colour must be ever term'd Argent: It must when intended for Metal, which I think it ge- nerally is; but should it be design'd for a Furr, it must be call'd White, not Argent.

'Furrs consisting of more than 'one Colour, are either of { Two Colours, or, More than two.

Such Furrs as are compounded of two Colours only, are sorted either { with, Black and are either { Black mixed with White, as { Ermyn, and Ermyns. or, Black, mixed with Yellow, as, { Ermynois and Pean. or, without Black; such are, according to Leigh, { Verrey, fez. A. and B. and Verrey, Or, and Vert.

'Knowledge is no Way better, or more rea- 'dily attained, than by Demonstration: Scire 'enim est per demonstrationem intelligere, saith Ari- 'stotle. I will therefore give you particular 'Examples of their several Bearings.

'Ermyn is a Furr con- 'sisting of White, distin- 'guished with black Spots. 'Albane Earl of Britain, 'unto whom William the 'Conqueror gave the 'Earldom of Richmond, 'and Honour of Middle- 'sham, bore this Coat. 'You must blazon this by 'the Name of Ermyn, and not Argent powder- 'ed with Sable. This is the Skin of a little 'Beast, less than a Squirrel (saith Leigh) that 'hath his Being in the Woods of the Land of 'Armenia, whereof he taketh his Name. The 'Tail

'Tail thereof is of a Thumbs length, which is 'of Colour brown'. Mackenzie saith Black, and the Beast White: But Gesnor, in his Book of Animals says, 'tis the Armenian Weezel, and changes its Colour according to the Season and Place in which it lives. And therefore our Heralds make Ermyn to be a Furr, whereof the Ground is White, distinguished with black Spots. It is hotly debated by Menestrier and his nameless Adversary, whether these be the whole Skins of Ermyns, or only their Tails that are represented in blazoning; but Mackenzie, p. 22. thinks them both to err; for, says he, It cannot be the intire Skin with its own natural Spots only, for some are very frequently spotted; nor can it be their Tails only, as Menestrier asserts, for their Tails are so little that they would make ill furring. Therefore he thinks, that these Spots are added by Heralds, not only in imitation of the spotted Furrs us'd by Ladies, for these are regularly spotted, and in Heraldry they are not, but to diversify the many Coats of Arms: And thus some bear one Spot in the Middle, some two, some three, some one in Chief, some in a Quarter, and some dispose them as a Cross, &c. they are called by the Italians, Armelini, and the Latins express them, per maculas nigras muris pontici.

'The Ægyptians did propose this little Beast 'for an Hieroglyphick of Chastity, Farnes. lib. 2. 'fol. 15. So greatly is this little Beast affected 'unto Cleanness, as that she had rather expose 'her self to the Hazard of being killed, or ta-'ken by the Hunters, than she would pollute 'her Coat with the Filth of the Birdlime laid 'before the Entrance of the Cave to take her 'at her going in. Leigh in his former Part of 'his Accidence, fol. 132. seemeth therein to con-'tradict himself, in that he affirmeth Ermyn to be 'no Colour, but a Compound with a Metal, and 'serveth as Metal only. For my own Part, I do 'not see how in Doubling of Mantles it should 'be reckoned a Metal, for that all Doublings or 'Linings of Robes and Garments, though per-'haps not altogether, yet chiefly are ordained 'for the Repelling of Cold and weather's Drift: 'To which Use Metals are most unfit, as King 'Dionysius declared, when coming into a Church 'where the Images were attired in most rich 'golden Robes, he took them away, saying, 'Such Garments were too cold for Winter, and too 'heavy for Summer. A fair Pretence to cloak 'his sacrilegious Avarice. The same Author 'in his said Accidence, fol. 75. making mention 'of this Furr, taketh occasion to commend a late 'prescribed Order for the Distribution of this 'rich and rare Furr, according to the Digni-'ty of the Persons to whom the Wearing there-'of is allowed, which is this; That an Empe-'ror, a King, or a Prince, may have the pou-'dering in their Apparel as thick set together 'as they please: A Duke may have in his Man-'tle's Cape, only four Raungs or Ranks of them: 'A Marquis three Raungs and a half: An Earl 'a Cape of three Raungs only. In some Coats 'these are numbred, but then they extend not 'to the Number of Ten. These Rows or 'Ranks before named are, of some Authors, 'called Timbers of Ermyn: For no Man under 'the Degree of a Baron, or a Knight of the 'most honourable Order of the Garter, may 'have his Mantle doubled with Ermyn.

Mackenzie, p. 24. says, That Guillim in this Place not only taxes Leigh of his Contradiction, but asserts Ermine to be a Colour, in which I think he is mistaken; for though he thinks it cannot be Metal, yet he doth not say positively it is Colour, or to be us'd only as such.

Mackenzy's Opinion is, That it is neither Metal nor Colour, and so may be put indifferently upon Metal or Colour, which certainly is good and allowable; but then his Reason I do not like, which (in his own Words) is, Seeing it is a Compound of Metal and Colour; or, (as a Line or two below that) Seeing it is Metal and Colour.

For certainly to compose Furr out of Metal, &c. is against Nature: And as Guillim tells us from Christine de Pice, That it is no Crime to call a Furr, White, I humbly conceive it ridiculous to call it otherwise, as a Furr, Silver, (which Argent implies) and that for the same Reason deliver'd by him, viz. because therein is to be understood only as a Furr or Skin.

Therefore I believe the Priviledge that Ermine has, in being plac'd either as Metal or Colour, is from no other Reason than that for all Animals or their Parts when borne Proper, viz. because they are neither Metal nor Colour; and that both have that Priviledge, may be seen by the Tresor armorique de France, by the Maccullochs in Scotland, and also by the Arms of Sir Griffith Williams, Bart. which are ancient, and furnish us with an Instance of both together, being Gules, a Chevron Ermine, betwixt three Hume Heads sidefaced, couped at the Necks Proper, and crined Gold: I have also seen this Coat where their Hair has been Proper also.

The first User (saith Mackenzie, p. 22.) of this Furr in Arms, was Brutus the Son of Sylvius, who having by Accident kill'd his Father, left that unfortunate Place, and travelling in Bretaigne in France, fell asleep, where when he awoke he found this little Beast upon his Shield, for which Reason he took for Arms a Shield Ermine, which are the Arms of Bretaigne to this Day. The Muschets, adds my Author, carry Ermine in token of their Descent from Bretaigne, and he observes, that many Surnames, who alledge their Extraction from France, do the same; by which he conjectures they came from Bretaigne, whose Inhabitants residing on the Sea-Coast were more enclin'd to travel than the other French. But some Families, as the Coupers of Scotland, do, for more Security, carry both Fleurs de Lis and Ermine, to shew their Descent from the said Province in France.

How great the Estimation of Furrs were, and of what Account, we may perceive by the Injunction of Pope Innocent the IIId, who, when when he gave Abſolution to Henry of Falkenburgh, who was acceſſary to the Slaughter of Conrad the firſt Biſhop of Wirtsburgh, injoin'd him for Penance, to fight againſt the Saracens, but never to appear in Ermine, Vaire, or any other Colour made uſe of in Tournaments.

'This is that other Furr 'beforementioned, to con- 'ſiſt of a Mixture of White 'and Black, and hath 'ſome Reſemblance of the 'Former: but differeth in 'this; that where that is 'compoſed of White pou- 'dered with Black; con- 'trariwiſe this is Black 'powdered with White. But neither in that, 'nor in this, ſhall you make any mention in Bla- 'zon of any ſuch Mixtures, but only uſe the 'Name appropriated to either of them, which 'doth ſufficiently expreſs the Manner of their 'Compoſition to the Underſtanding of thoſe 'that are but meanly skilled in Blazon; the 'Name peculiarly alloted to this Furr, is Er- 'mines.'

But this Mackenzie rejects as a Conceit or Fancy only of the Engliſh, and that becauſe the French, whoſe Heraldry we imitate, are ignorant of it. They, ſays he, p. 23. call it not Ermines, but Contre-Ermine, for which he quotes Columb. p. 52. and this certainly is moſt proper, becauſe it denotes to every one that knows the Colour of Ermine the Colour of this Bearing, which Ermines doth not.

He objects alſo againſt the Names of theſe Furrs following, viz. Ermynois and Pean, for the ſame Reaſon; adding alſo, that he ſuppos'd the Uſe of one of them to ariſe thus. The French, ſays he, call Furrs or Doublings des pannes or pennes, which poſſibly gave occaſion to this Miſtake Pean in ſuch as underſtand not the French Tongue, for they ſay only Hermine, if it be proper, viz. White powdered with Black; and when the Colours alter, they expreſs them as Or, powdered with Ermines Sable, or Sable with Ermines, Or; Semé D. or Hermins de Sable, Bara. p. 14. and Columbier, p. 53. But Mackenzy miſapprehends Guillim's quotation of Bara, when he ſays, 'tis to prove the Name of Ermynois a proper One; 'twas to ſhew that ſuch a colour'd Furr was in uſe, ſaying, there (viz. p. 14.) may the Uſe thereof be found, as you may ſee in the next Example. When this Error ſtole into our Engliſh Blazonry I know not, for all our Writers do uſe it, Carter from Guillim and Guillim from Leigh, though who was the Author I know not; but this I am certain of, that whenſoever, or by whomſoever it was invented, it was like the Diſtinctions of Vaire, Verrey, and Varry; which (tho' Sir John Ferne p. 86. aſſigns to each its particular Difference) is even by Guillim as well as Mackenzy own'd to be ridiculous; for no Nation can underſtand that Part of our Heraldry, if granted to either, nor will either bear an intelligible Tranſlation into any Language whatſoever.

'Mr. Boſwell is of this Opinion, That Ermine 'and Ermines ought never to be ſorted in Arms 'with the Metal of their Colour, becauſe (ſaith 'he) they are but Furrs, and have no proper 'Blazon with any Metal. Yet doth he parti- 'cularly blazon the Coat of Walcot, fol. 106. in 'the Atchievement of the Right Honourable 'Lord, Sir William Cecil, Knight, late Lord 'Treaſurer of England, where he might fitly 'have taken Exception againſt ſuch Bearing, if 'he could have produced any good Ground for 'warranting ſuch his Opinion; in default where- 'of he there paſſeth the ſame over with ſi- 'lence, knowing that Antiquity and Cuſtom '(which hath the Vigour of a Law, where there 'is no Law written) are powerful in Things of 'this Nature: He ſecretly relinquiſheth his Opi- 'nion, foraſmuch as it is manifeſt, that not only 'Walcot, but Kingſmell, and many others, both 'ancient and modern, have uſed ſuch Bearing 'without contradiction.

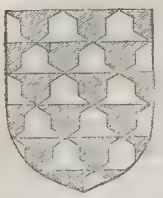

'Of thoſe Furrs before- 'mentioned, that are 'compounded of Yellow 'and Black, this is the 'firſt, and is termed in 'Blazon, Ermynois, whoſe 'Ground or Field is Yel- 'low, and the Powder- 'ings Black. Though this 'be rich in Arms (ſaith 'Leigh) yet in Doubling it is not ſo rich. Of 'the Uſe of this Furr, Bara maketh mention in 'his Book, entituled, Le Blazon des Armoires, 'p. 14. and Edel. Hiryſſen, in his Book, entitu- 'led, Le Jardyn d' Armoiries, in the Arms of 'Leefwelt.

' 'This is that other Furr compoſed of the 'ſame Colours, but diſpo- 'ſed in a contrary Manner 'to the Former; for where- 'as that conſiſteth of Yel- 'low powdered with 'Black, this is Black pow- 'dered with Yellow; and 'in Blazon is termed 'Pean.

'There are other Sorts of Furrs or Doub- 'lings, conſiſting alſo of two only Colours, 'which as they are much different in Form, ſo 'do they alſo receive a diverſe Blazon from 'theſe before ſpecified, which are theſe that fol- 'low, and their like.

'He beareth Vaire, Or, 'and Gules, by the Name 'of Ferrers, and is the 'Coat of Jo. Ferrers of 'Walton upon Trent in 'Derbyshire, Esquire. In 'Coats of this Sort of 'Bearing, in Case where 'it may be holden doubt-'ful whether should have 'the Precelence, the Colour or the Metal; the 'Metal must have the Preheminence as the 'most worthy. The French Men, from whom 'we do borrow our Terms of Blazon, do call 'all Sorts of Doublings or Furrs of this Form, 'by the Name of Vaire; perhaps, Quia ex di-'versis coloribus alternatim variantur. To this 'Sort of Bearing, there are no other Terms of 'Blazon allowed. If your Vaire doth consist of 'Argent and Azure, you must in Blazon thereof, 'say only, He beareth Vaire; and it sufficeth: 'But if it be composed of any other Colours, 'then you must say, He beareth Vaire of these 'or those Colours. The Latin Blazoners, ma-'king mention of this Sort of Bearing, do thus 'describe them, Portat arma variata ex pellibus 'albis & cæruleis, accounting them for Skins of 'little Beasts. For that in ancient Times they 'were used for Linings of Robes, and Mantles 'of Senators, Consuls, Emperors and Kings, 'and thereupon are skilfully termed Doublings. 'Of this Use of them, Alex. ab Alex. Genial. 'dierum, lib. 5. fol. 285. saith, Legimus Caligu-'lam depictas penulas induisse.

'If you observe the Proportion of this Vaire, 'you shall easily discern the very Shape of the 'Case or Skin of little Beasts in them; for so 'did ancient Governours and Princes of the 'World (saith Sir John Ferne in Lac. Nob. p. 68.) 'line their pompous Robes with Furr of divers 'Colours, sewing one Skin to another, after the 'plainest Fashion.

This Furr Mackenzie, p. 23. calls Vaire, vellus petasite, where (as he says some suppose) all the Pieces are made in the Form of little Glasses, and call'd Vaire from the French, Verre, a Glass; but others, he says, call it so from the Variation of its Colours, as Guillim mention'd. He agrees to the same Rules Mr. Guillim has laid down concerning it, both as to its Blazon and Composition, saying, It must always be of White or Yellow, and some other Colour, and that in Blazon you must begin with the Colour like Metal, that is, with the Yellow or White. But I think this to be a Rule so erroneous, unless you cou'd confine all Vaires to give the first Place to Yellow or White; which Practice has decry'd, that we, by Blazon, shall never know when the Colour of Metal, or the other Colours, shou'd be in the first Place. He condemns some Scots Heralds for blazoning the Arms of Straiton of Lauriston, Vaire, Argent and Azure; because, as Guillim hath told you, naming the Colours, when it is of those Colours it is needless.

Vaire (saith Mackenzie) is ordinarily of six Ranks; if they be more or fewer, they must be express'd: Which Rule the French still observe. The French likewise observe, That if the Pieces be of Metal, (that is of the Colour of either Metal) and made not in Form of a Glass but of a Bell, then they are to be call'd Beffroy, Colomb. p. 58. & on dit à la band de Beffroy de Vaire: d' une seul tire, That is, of one Rank.

The Origine of Vaire (saith Mackenzie, p. 23.) is from the Furr of a Beast call'd Varus, whose Back is a Blue-gray, its Belly being White, and therefore Heralds have express'd it White and Blue in Colours; and when the Head and Feet of that Beast is taken from its Skin, it resembles (as Guillim mentions) much the Figure of Vaire us'd by the Heralds, vid. Aldrovand. de quadruped. lib. 2. cap. 24. And why they are not us'd Blue-gray in Heraldry is, because that Art admits no mix'd Colours (unless in whole Beasts, &c. proper) but accepts Blue as the nearest to Blue-gray, and the Reason it is us'd neither all Blue nor all White, is, because the Skin is parted into those different Colours.

The first Use of them in Heraldry (adds Mackenzie) is said to be from le Segneur de Coucies, fighting in Hungary, and seeing his Army fly, pull'd out the Doubling or Lining of his Cloak, which was of those Colours, and hung it up as an Ensign: whereupon the Soldiers knowing his Courage, and confiding in it, return'd to the Battle and overcame their Enemy, Colomb. p. 58.

'There is yet another Kind of Furrs much 'differing from all other the Furrs before ex-'pressed, not only in Shape, but in Name also: 'As in Example.

'This Sort of Furr or 'Doubling was (as Leigh 'noteth) of some old He-'ralds called, Varry Cup-'py, and Varry Tassa, which '(saith he) is as much as 'to say, as a Furr of Cups; 'but himself calleth it 'Meire, for so he reckon-'eth it well Blazoned, ve-'ry ancient, and a Spanish Coat. But I hold it 'better blazoned, Potent Counter-potent, for 'the Resemblance it hath of the Heads of 'Crowches, which Chaucer calleth Potents, Quia 'potentiam tribuunt infirmis, as appeareth in his 'Description of old Age, in the Romance of the 'Rose.

'So eld she was that she ne went
'A foot, but it were by potent.

This is a Furr, of which I find no mention in Mackenzy or Carter, but as from Guillim, they follow him in the Blazon thereof, as you may see in the Analysis, p. 191. and Mackenzy's Plate of Furrs at the End of his Book.

So

'So much of Furrs conſiſting of two Colours 'only: Now of ſuch as are compoſed of more 'than two Colours, according to the Diviſion 'before delivered.

'Such are theſe, and 'their like, viz. { Ermynites. / Vaire of many Colours.

'This, at the firſt Sight, 'may ſeem to be all one 'with the ſecond Furr, 'before in this Chapter 'expreſſed, but differeth 'in this, that herein is 'added one Hair of Red 'on each Side of every 'of theſe Powderings. 'And as this differeth lit-'tle in Shape and Shew from the ſecond Furr, 'named Ermine; ſo doth it not much differ 'from the ſame in Name, that being called Er-'myne, and this Ermynites.

This is another Whim or Fancy (I ſuppoſe of Gerard Leigh's) receiv'd among the Engliſh; for Erminites in our own Language, as a Diminutive, can ſignify but little Ermines: So that if there is any ſuch Bearing, it ought to be expreſs'd according to the End of the Terms in a Science, or Language in general, for now it is not.

'The other Furr that is compoſed of more 'than two Colours, is formed of four ſeveral 'Colours at the leaſt: As in Example.

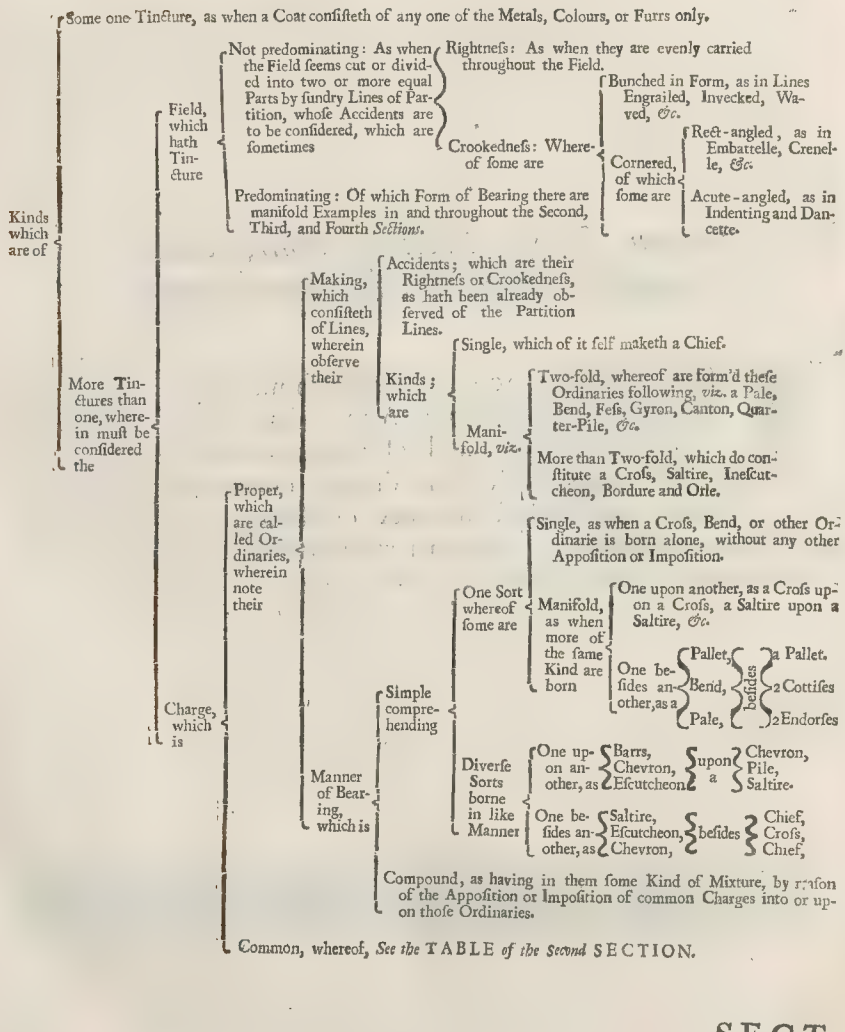

'This differeth much 'from all the other Furrs, 'and (according to Leigh) 'muſt be blazoned Vaire; 'this is compoſed of four 'diſtinct Colours, viz. 'Argent, Gules, Or, and 'Sable. Here I will note 'unto you a general Rule 'that you muſt carefully 'obſerve, not only in the Blazoning of theſe 'Furrs, but generally of all Coat-Armours, viz. 'that you deſcribe them ſo particularly and 'plainly, as whoſo heareth your Blazon, may 'be able to trick or expreſs the Form and 'true Portraiture thereof, together with the 'Manner of Bearing, no leſs perfectly, than if 'he had done it by ſome Pattern thereof laid be-'fore him.

Of this Sort of Furr, I find no Mention in Mackenzie or any other Author; Sir John Ferne indeed tells us, that their nominal Diſtinctions proceeded from Leigh's Fancies: His Words are, That theſe Differences of Terms, Verrey, Varrey and Vaire are meer Phantaſies of Leigh's Blazon, and newly by him deviz'd, without any Authority of Writers to infer the ſame; and that before Leigh's Time all Authors had called this Furr or Doubling, Vaire: And if it be varied or compos'd of Argent and Azure, then it is ſo call'd, and no Colours nam'd: But if it conſiſts of any other Colour, then it is blazoned of ſuch and ſuch Colours.

THE Second SECTION maketh mention of the ſeveral Kinds of Eſcutcheons: Alſo, what Field and Charge are: The ſeveral Kinds of Charges, and their Common Accidents: Of Lines, with their diverſe Forms and Properties: The Making, and diverſe Manner of Bearing of Ordinaries; and their Sub-diviſions: Together with diverſe Notes, Rules, and Obſervations to them particularly belonging.

THE TABLE OF The Second SECTION.

SECT-

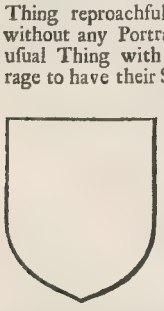

SECTION II.

CHAP. I.

'HAving formerly handled, in the firſt 'Section, the Common Accidents of 'an Eſcutcheon: Now I will pro- 'ceed to ſhew their ſeveral Kinds.

'Eſcutcheons are either of { One Tincture. / More than One.

'Thoſe Eſcutcheons are ſaid to be of one Tin- 'cture, that have only ſome one Metal, Co- 'lour, or Furr, appearing in the Shield of any 'Nobleman or Gentleman. Concerning this 'Form of Bearing, it hath been holden of ſome 'Writers, a Matter doubtful, whether one 'Metal, Colour, or Furr born alone in a Shield, 'be ancient and honourable: Sir John Ferne af- 'firmeth ſuch Bearing to be falſe Arms, and 'not worth the receiving, except in ſome ſpe- 'cial Caſes; being perhaps thereunto induced, 'becauſe it was reckoned among the Romans a 'Thing reproachful to bear a naked Shield 'without any Portraiture, in regard it was an 'uſual Thing with Men of Valour and Cou- 'rage to have their Shields painted.

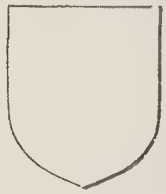

'White Shields were 'accuſtomed to be be- 'ſtowed upon ſuch as 'were Novices in mar- 'tial Affairs, or (as we 'commonly call them) 'Freſh-water Souldiers, 'to the End they might 'in future Time, merit 'to have them garniſhed 'with the Titles and Teſtimonies of their va- 'lorous Deſerts, until which Time ſuch Shields 'were reckoned inglorious; as Virgil noteth in 'his Æneid. lib. 11.

'Enſe levis nudo, parmaque inglorius alba:

'Quick he was with naked Sword,
'But white Shield did no Praiſe afford.

'Contrariwiſe, Leigh reckoneth ſuch unpor- 'traited Bearing to be good, and withal very 'ancient, grounding his Aſſertion (if I be not 'deceived) upon 1 Kings x. 16. where it is 'ſaid, that King Solomon made two hundred 'Targets of beaten Gold, and that ſix hundred 'Sheckles of Gold went to a Target; as alſo 'that he made three hundred Shields of beaten 'Gold, and that three Pound of Gold went to 'one Shield.

'That theſe Shields 'were void of Portrai- 'tures, it may be proba- 'ly conjectured, in that 'there is no mention of 'any; for otherwiſe, ſuch 'might have been the 'Curiouſneſs and Excel- 'lency of their Work- 'manſhip, as that it might 'have been priſed above the Worth of the Gold 'it ſelf: An Example whereof Ovid, in Metam. lib. 2. giveth, where, deſcribing the glorious 'Beauty of the Palace of the Sun, he ſaith,

'Argenti bifores radiabant lumine valvæ,
'Materiam ſuperabat opus; nam Mulciber illic, &c.

'The Two-leav'd ſilver Gates bright Rays did caſt,
'Rich Stuff, but Vulcan's Art therein ſurpaſt.

'Furthermore, we read that Alexander Severus the Emperor, had certain golden Shields, 'whoſe Bearers were named Chryſoaſpides, the 'Golden Shield-bearers. And as touching the 'Bearers of Shields made of clean Silver, we 'read that Alexander Macedo had ſuch, whoſe 'Bearers were named Argyraſpides, Silver Shield- 'bearers, which Manner of Bearing (ſaith 'Alex. ab Alex.) they borrowed of the Samnites. 'Neither is there any Mention that theſe were 'garniſhed with any Emboſſments, Graving, 'or Portraitures.

'Now to prove, that not only Metals, but 'Colours alſo, have been anciently born alone 'in Shields, I will note unto you the Words of 'the Prophet Nahum, Chap. ii. where it is ſaid, 'Clypeus potentum ejus rubricatus, bellatores coccinati, &c. The Shields of the mighty One's were 'red, &c. alluding to their bloody Fights.

'We alſo find that the Grecians uſed ruſſet 'Shields. The People of Lucania in Italy, ſitu- 'ated between Calabria and Apulia, had their 'Shields wrought of Oſiers, or Twigs, covered 'over with Leather. It was the Manner of the 'Scythians, Medes, and Perſians, to have their 'Shields of red Colour, to the End that the 'Effuſion of their Blood ſhould not eaſily be 'diſcovered (when they received any Wound) 'either to the Diſcouragement of themſelves, 'or Animating of their Enemies. Moreover,

'theſe

'theſe Nations uſed ſcarlet and red Colours in 'their military Garments and Shields, to the 'End they might thereby ſtrike the greater 'Terror and Aſtoniſhment into the Hearts of 'their Enemies.

'Of this Sort of Bear-'ing I find in a Note, 'worthy of Credit, a-'mongſt the Coat-Ar-'mors of many noble Per-'ſonages, and valorous 'Gentlemen, that did at-'tend the Perſon of King 'Edward the Firſt (in his 'Expedition that he made 'into the Parts of Scotland to the Siege of Kar-'laverock) that one Eumenius de la Brett, did bear 'in his Shield only Gules. Finally, that Furrs 'alſo have been alone in Shields (without any 'Charge) as well as Metals and Colours (be-'ſides the Coat-Armour of the Duke of Bri-'tain) I could produce many Examples even 'to this Day, were not the Uſe hereof ſo vulgar, 'as that it is altogether impertinent to give In-'ſtance therein.

'You have received a 'Rule before, how you 'ought to blazon a Furr 'of this Sort. This Kind 'of Bearing of a Furr 'without any other 'Charge in the Field, is 'both ancient and good, 'ſaith Leigh. And this 'Kind of Furr is much in 'Uſe with Perſons nobly deſcended, and Gentle-'men of good Reputation have long born the 'ſame; as Ferrars of Chartley, Beauchamp, So-'merſet, Marmion, Staunton, and others.

Vairé, Argent and Gules, was the Coat of Sir William Greſeley, Kt. Lord of Caſtle Greſeley and Colton, Anno Dom. 1566. who by his Wife Katharine, Daughter of Sir Edward Aſton, Kt. had Iſſue Thomas Son and Heir, Simon ſecond Son, and Haſtinges third Son; alſo Jane firſt Daughter, Mary ſecond, Elizabeth third, and Grace fourth Daughter. M. S. in Aſh. N° 854. Ped. per Glover.

Note, That the ſaid Sir William was Son of Sir George Greſeley, by his firſt Wife Margaret, Daughter of John Molſoy of Northamptonſhire; which Sir George, was Heir to his elder Brother Sir William Greſeley who died without Iſſue (though married) but ſecond Son of Sir Thomas, who was Son of Sir John, the Son of Sir John, who was Son of Sir Thomas, Son and Heir of Sir Nicholas, who was Son and Heir of Sir John, the Son and Heir of Sir Geffray, who was Son and Heir of Sir Peter, the Son and Heir of Sir Geffroye Greſeley, Lord of Caſtel Greſeley in the County of Derby.

'Yet will I note unto you one Coat-Armour 'conſiſting of Furrs, for the Beauty and Rarity 'thereof, and the fame of no vulgar Bearing, as 'you may ſee in this next Eſcutcheon.

'He beareth Verrey, Er-'mine and Gules, by the 'Name of Greſly; and is 'the Coat-Armour of 'Sir Thomas Greſly of 'Drakelow in the County 'of Derby. Sometimes you 'may obſerve in this Kind 'of Bearing, the Metal 'Part charged with ſome 'other Thing than Ermine, viz. with Drops, or 'ſuch like.

CHAP. II.

'FRom Shields or Eſcutcheons conſiſting of 'one Tincture only, we come to ſuch as 'have more Tinctures than one. Such Eſcut-'cheon is that, wherein divers Colours are re-'preſented to our Sight.

'Of this ſome have 'Tincture { Not Predominating. / Predominating.

Coats are ſaid not to have any Tincture predominating when the Field ſeems cut or divided into two or more equal Parts, by ſome Line of Partition, which may appear perpendicular, diagonal, traverſe, or otherwiſe, throughout the ſame: What theſe Lines are you will underſtand, with their Riſe, in my following Diſcourſe.

After Battels were ended, the Shields of Soldiers (ſaith Mackenzy, c. 8. p. 26.) were conſidered; and he was accounted moſt deſerving whoſe Shield was moſt or deepeſt cut; and to recompence the Dangers wherein they were known to have been, for the Service of their King and Country, by thoſe Cutts, the Heralds did repreſent them upon their Shields.

The common Cuts (adds he) gave Names to the common Partitions, of which the others are made by various Conjunctions. If the Shield was cut from the Chief to the Baſe, they gave a Line of Partition in that Form which the French term Parti; if traverſe or athwart, Coupé; if diagonal from the Right high Angle to the low-eſt left Angle, Tranché; if from the Left high Angle to the Right low Angle, Taillé: We have not follow'd the French in this, but have nam'd them from the honourable Ordinaries.: For what they call Parti, we term parted per Pale, and and ſo on, as you will ſee more plain in the following Examples. And this Cuſtom of ours Sir George Mackenzy prudently prefers, in that as he obſerves, we not only agree with the Latin and Italian Heraldry, but alſo avoid ſuperfluous Terms, and thereby much Confuſion. But indeed where the Lines cannot deſcribe the ſeveral Cuts there muſt be new Terms, and then only: And therefore Gyron's Quarters and Cantons were at firſt invented: of all which I ſhall treat in their proper Place. But firſt of theſe Lines.

Walgrave, a Suffolk-Family, bears for Arms, parted per Pale, Argent and Gules. This is what the French call Parti. Such Coat-Armours as are formed of partition Lines only, are generally Teſtimonies of ancient Extraction, as Hieronymus Henings in his Genealogies noteth (upon the Coat of the noble Race of the Ranzovii, which is born parted after this Manner, though of different Colours) in this Diſtichon.

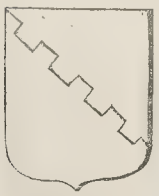

Forma quid hæc ſimplex? ſimplex fuit ipſa vetuſtas:
Simplicitas formæ ſtemmata priſca notat.

What means this Plainneſs? th' Ancients plain did
Such ancient Plainneſs, ancient Race doth ſhew.

Parted per Bend, Or, and Vert, is born by the Name of Hawley. I give Precedence here to the Metal, not in reſpect to the Dignity, but becauſe it occupies the Chief or moſt honourable Part of the Eſcutcheon according to this Diviſion: As in the former I did, becauſe it occupied the right Side, which is Superior and moſt Honourable.

Baron's l'Art Heraldique, p. 25.

This Kind of Bearing the French blazon d'Or Tranché de Sinople; and if it had been per Bend Sinifter, then d'Or Taillé de Sinople.

Parted per Bend crenellée, Argent and Gules is the Coat of the Right Honnurable Richard Boyle, Earl of Burlington, Baron of Clifford and Lansborow in England, Earl of Cork, Viſcount Dungarvan, and Baron Youhall in Ireland, &c. and with due Difference alſo, the Arms of his Lordſhip's Brother, Robert Boyle, Eſq; whoſe great Knowledge in Chymiſtry, and other occult Secrets of Nature, will preſerve his Memory to the lateſt Date.

This ſerves as an Inſtance alſo, to ſhew you how, not only the Ordinaries, but the partition Lines are ſubject to the ſeveral Forms beforementioned.

Parted per Feſs, Or and Azure, by the Name of Zuſto of Venice. This is what the French call, Or Coupe d'Azure.

So much of Arms conſiſting of ſingle Lines: Now follow Examples of ſome that are formed of more than Two.

Parted per Chevron, Sable and Argent, by the Name of Aſton.

This Coat, as well as ſundry others that will follow, is an Exception to the Rule ſet down by Mackenzy, cap. 4. p. 21. viz. when the Shield is compos'd only of different Colours, parted per Pale, or per Feſſe, that the Nobler ſhou'd be in the upper Part, or upon the right Side: Quoties arma ſiunt ex diverſis coloribus, ſemper nobilior color nobiliori in loco ponendus, Hopping, c. 11. lex. 4. And beſides this, you will find many other Examples in this Work.

The French, ſo far as I have obſerv'd, uſe no ſuch Partition as this, they ſay, in ſuch a Bearing, Sable, à la pointe d'Argent, as you may ſee in the Arms of S. Blaiſe, in Baron's l'Art Herald. p. 32. which is Azure and Argent, where the upper Part is made the Field and the Lower a Charge, which they call a Pointe, placing it among their honourable Pieces or Ordinaries; though, as I remember, the two Lines whereof they form this Pointe, are drawn rather more out of the Baſe than in this above Cut. But for my Part, I think the Chevron as well as the Pale or Bend, as it is by all allow'd an honourable Ordinary, may have given Birth to a Form of Partition; or if you go by the Cutting and Slaſhing before-mentioned, the Shield may poſſibly be cut in this Manner as well as the foregoing Forms; and if ſo, why the French ſhould make a Charge of it, and not a Partition, as they do of the Reſt, I ſee no Reaſon; and therefore do better approve of our Engliſh Cuſtom, who make it a Partition only.

So much of Arms conſiſting of ſingle Lines of Partition, both perpendicular and tranſverſe: Now follow Examples of ſuch as are form'd of a mix'd Kind.

Parted

Parted per Croſs, Gules, and Argent, was the Coat of Sir Henry Cock of Bruxborne, Knight, ſometime Cofferer to His Majeſty King Charles. Leigh holds that this Coat can be no other way blazon'd than Quarterly; but I think it better, as above; unleſs each Canton or Quarter of the Shield ſhou'd happen to be charg'd, and then I cou'd agree to his Blazon as the Beſt.

The French indeed ſay, Ecartelé de Gueules & d'Argent. Vide Baron's l'Art Heraldique, p 25. in the Coat of Gontault de Biron, which is Or and Gules.

Parted per Saltire, Ermine and Gules, by the Name of Reſtwold.

The French call this Sort of Partition, Flanqué, as you may ſee in Baron's l'Art Heral. in the Coat of Goblin, which is Flanqué d'Argent & de Gueules.

This, according to Leigh, wou'd be good Armoury, if charg'd in each Piece, with any Thing quick or dead; but it is better (ſaith he) when charg'd but with two Things of one Kind, and that eſpecially upon Gules; and better ſtill, when with one quick Thing all over the Field. Examples of each will be given in their due Places.

He beareth parted per Pile in Point Or and Sable. Leigh holds, that only the Pile-Part of this Coat may be charg'd, at which Time we may leave the Field untold: But I think ſuch reſtraint altogether needleſs. For becauſe ſuch or ſuch a Bearing is rare, or never to be found among the Ancients, are we to forbear the Uſe thereof? No: If it may be made ſubject to the general Rules, and they are obſerv'd; I think it is ſufficient. I cannot conceive what bad Armoury it wou'd be, if a Feſs or Bar, of one Colour or Counterchang'd, was laid over the Whole, and what Reaſon Leigh wou'd have given, why ſuch Reſtraint ſhou'd be put upon this, and not upon any other Partition; or why each Part charg'd in the Partition, ſhou'd not ſuit as well as when the Ordinary it ſelf is born; of which the Augmentation in the Coat of his Grace the preſent Duke of Somerſet, whoſe Name is Seymour, is an Inſtance.

Parted per Pile in traverſe, Argent and Gules, pertain'd, ſaith the late Editor, to the Family of Rathlowe in Holſatia.

Parted per Pile tranſpos'd, Or, Gules, and Sable; by the Name of Meinſtorpe or Mentdorpe in Holſatia. Vid. Jonas ab Elvet.

This is a rare Bearing, both in regard of the Tranſpoſition and its Field, being divided into three Colours. But I ſhou'd rather account both this and that which precedes Charges not Partitions.

Gyronny of ſix Pieces, Ermine and Azure. The moſt uſual Manner of Blazon is, to begin at the dexter Corner of the Eſcutcheon: But in this Coat, I begin with the middle Part: Not for that Medium eſt locus honoris, but in reſpect that the Ermine doth occupy the moſt Part of the Chief, and the Azure, but the Cantons thereof. Some blazon this Coat parted per Gyron of ſix Pieces. Gyrons may be born to the Number of Twelve, as hereafter ſhall be ſhew'd.

Gyroné, Or and Sable, is the Coat of his Grace the Duke of Argyle. But Mackenzy, cap. 8. p. 27. ſays, Where the ordinary Lines cannot deſcribe the ſeveral Cuttings or Partitions of the Shield, there muſt be new Terms, and there only they ſhould have Place; and therefore he blazons this parted per Pale, Face, Bend dexter, and ſiniſter, for authorizing him in which, he recommends us to Colomb. Fig. 11, and 12. Page 81. But I muſt diſſent from him in this Particular: Firſt, Becauſe he differs from all Authors, either Engliſh, French, Latin, or Italian, when Arms, as he confeſſeth, ought univerſally to be underſtood. And, Secondly, Becauſe hereby we ſhould have no Gyroné, viz. of Eight; nor could we have parted per Croſs, Quarterly; or parted per Saltire; being, by his Rule, oblig'd to change thoſe Terms for parted per Pale and Face, and per Bend dexter and ſiniſter; which neither himſelf, nor any one elſe, hath followed in their Blazon. Beſides, it is certainly not only a more conciſe, but a more proper Way (when we can) to blazon a Shield divided in form of one Ordinary, than two; and one of the honourable One's may as well give birth to a Partition as another.

Parted per Pale and Base, Gules, Argent, and Sable. This is a rare Coat, and belong'd to Jo. à Panowitz, who (among infinite others) was present at the royal Exercises on Horseback, and on Foot, perform'd without the City of Vienna, A. D. 1650.

These Lines often occasion Transmutation and counterchanging, and admit of all manner of Charges, as in the 6th Section will clearly appear.

Having shew'd you the various Lines of Partition in use among Armouristes, I will proceed to speak of their Properties not after the Manner of Euclid, but in such Sort as shall be fitter for our Practice and the present Subject.

The Properties then of those Lines are, their { Rightness. / Crookedness.

Duæ sunt lineæ ex quibus figuræ omnes componuntur, linea recta, & linea curva, Zanch. l. 3. cap. 422.

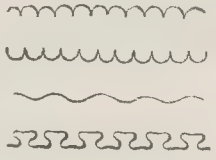

Rightness is a Property of a Line, whereby it is carried levelly or equally throughout the Escutcheon, without either rising or falling.

Crookedness is a Property meerly contrary to Rightness, in that it is carried unevenly throughout the Escutcheon with rising and falling.

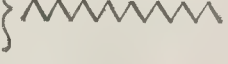

Now, as touching the Properties of a crooked Line, it is to be observ'd, that

A crooked Line is { Bunched. / Cornered.

A bunched Line is carried with round Reflections or Bowings up and down, making diverse hollow Crooks or Furrows, by reason of its sundry Bendings to and fro, as by these Examples following may appear.

Of these some are { Inveck'd, / Engrail'd, / Wav'd, or Undy / Nebule. } As in Example.

A cornered Line is fram'd of sundry Lines meeting together Cornerwise.

Of cornered Lines, some are { Rect-Angled: So called of their right Corners or Angles, and are form'd after this manner, and is term'd Imbatteled, or, Crenellé,  / Acute-Angled: So nam'd, because their Corners or Angles are sharp, and these we call { Indented after this manner  / Dancetté, which are form'd after this Sort  }

Note, That these two last mention'd Sort of Lines, viz. Indented and Dancetté, are both one secundum quale, but not secundum quantum: For their Form is all one, but in Quantity they differ much; in that the One is much wider and deeper than the Other. Of all these several Sorts of Lines, Examples shall be given hereafter, as Occasion shall arise, I will now speak somewhat concerning their Terms.

Inveck'd is deriv'd of the Latin Word Invehor, because it enters its Corners into the Part whereon it bordures. The French, as Mackenzy observes, though they use the same Line, have no Name for it but engresté, which they use also for the second Line I have set before you, viz. our Engrail'd, which in Form is just the reverse, and, in my Opinion, on that Account, requires a different Term; otherwise, what Guide will such Blazon be to a Draughts-man, who, perhaps, is to paint the same.

Engrail'd, saith Guillim, is deriv'd from the Latin Word ingredior, quia ingreditur rem circumscriptam; but as Mackenzy very well observes, he is mistaken, it being a Word that we have borrow'd from the French, who call ſuch a Line as was before obſerv'd, Engreſleé or Engrelleé; It's true Derivation being from Graile, a French Word, ſignifying Hail; as Engrailé, in common French, doth any Thing ſtruck therewith; the Form of which being round, notcheth the Edges of Tree-leaves, as repreſented by this Line.

Waved, every One knows its Signification; and for Undé, which is a Term as often given to the ſame Line, 'tis borrow'd from the Word Ondé, i. e. Wav'd in common French, and hath the ſame Pronunciation almoſt as Undé, or Undy in the Engliſh Dialect: And hence it is, I ſuppoſe, that our Armouriſts, through their Ignorance of the French Tongue, have corruptly writ it.

This Line repreſents the heaving Motion of the Sea; whence it becomes a ſuitable Emblem and Diſtinction for ſuch as raiſe themſelves by worthy Atchievements thereon: Thus did Sir Francis Drake, that famous Commander in the Reign of Queen Elizabeth, and, as a Cognizance, receiv'd, for Arms, a Feſs waved between the two Pole-Stars, his Travels being ſo great, as that he was ſaid to viſit them both. Another Inſtance is, the ancient Drnmmonds, a worthy North-Britiſh Family, who carry three Barrs waved, their Anceſter having, by his Skill, conducted his Sovereign, Queen Margaret, through many Storms. This Kind of Line is called, by the Latins, Undiformis or Undulata, Per. Sanct. p. 163. and ſometimes I have ſeen it written Undata.

Nebulé, or Nebuly, is a Word alſo which we are indebted to the French for, in whoſe Language it ſignifies the ſame as Nebuleux, i. e. cloudy; and Monſieur Baron, in his l'Art Heraldique, p. 34. uſeth the Word as we do: Tho' ſometimes (as Mackenzy obſerves out of Colomb. p. 102.) the French call this Line Nuancé, which properly ſignifies a Shadowing or Clouding with Colours of one Kind, and deriv'd it may be from Nuäux, i. e. Clouds: It is call'd by the Latins, Linea nubiloſa; and, as was obſerv'd of the waved Line, may be alſo a ſuitable Diſtinction for ſuch as are eminent for their Skill in Navigation and Pilotry, that Employment obliging them to ſeek Knowledge in Clouds and Storms.

Crenellé is a French Word, ſignifying the Battlements of Towers and Houſes, as the Figure of that Line repreſents; and deriv'd it may be from Cren, which, in that Tongue, is a Breach or Notch. This Line may well diſtinguiſh ſuch as have defended Caſtles, or are skilful and have perform'd ſomething commendable in Architecture, ſuch an one as the famous Sir Chriſtopher Wren, for his incomparable Judgment and Deſign, viſible in our glorious Cathedral dedicated to St. Paul, commonly call'd St. Paul's Church. The Latins call this Line Linea pinnata.

Indented, as you may perceive, is with ſmall Teeth, and Dancetté with deep and broad Ones; therefore the former is now term'd Dentata abſolutely, and the latter Dentes decumani in Latin, and Di non ordinaria grandezza by the Italians. But ſome, and that many too, think originally, that both theſe Lines were one, and thus the Latins and French have promiſcuouſly called them Dentatus, vid. Skinner. But indeed Baron, in his l'Art Heraldique, calls our Dancetté, Vivrée, and our indented, Danté. And Favin, in his Theatre of Honour, lib. 1. cap. 1. p. 11. has Endentée and Endenchée, by both of whom it ſhou'd ſeem as though latterly they have made ſome Diſtinction in their Names.

There is yet another Sort of Line ſometimes in Uſe in Armoury, which cannot be properly term'd Rect-Angular nor Accute, and that is this following, which we call Raguly.

This Form of Line I never yet met with in Uſe as a Partition, though frequently in compoſing of Ordinaries, rendring them like to the Trunks of Trees, with the Branches lopp'd off. And that (as I take it) it was firſt intended to repreſent.

Thus much ſhall ſuffice at preſent for ſuch Coats as I told you had no Tincture predominating; let us now touch upon ſuch as have.

'Tincture is ſaid to predominate, when ſome 'one Metal, Colour, or Furr is ſpread, or (at 'leaſt) underſtood to be ſpread all over the Su-'perficies or Surface of the Eſcutcheon, which 'we uſually call the Field thereof. In ſuch Eſ-'cutcheons as have in them more Tinctures 'than one (as is uſual with the greateſt Num-'ber of them)

'We muſt obſerve the { Field. / Charge.

'The Field is the whole Surface (if I may ſo 'call it) of the Shield overſpread with ſome 'Metal, Colour, or Furr, and comprehendeth 'in it the Charge, if it hath any. Look how 'many Metals, Colours, and Furrs there are be-'forenamed, ſo many ſeveral Fields of Arms 'there be. In Blazoning of any Arms, you 'muſt (according to the Rule before given) 'firſt expreſs the Metal, Colour, or Furr of the 'Field, ſaying, He beareth Or, Argent, Gules, '&c. or thus, The Field is Or, Argent, Gules, '&c. but you muſt not name this Word Field, 'when you uſe theſe Words, He beareth; ſay-'ing, He beareth a Field, Or, Argent, Gules, &c. 'but you ſhall only name the Metal, Colour, or 'Furr; thus, The Field is Or, Argent, Gules, &c. 'or, He beareth Or, Argent, Gules, &c. and 'then proceed to the Blazon of the Charge, 'if there be any. The firſt Metal, Colour, or 'Furr that you begin to Blazon withal, is al-'ways underſtood among our Engliſh Blazoners 'to be the Field. Alſo in blazoning of Arms 'compoſed of Field and Charge, if there be 'ſeveral Charges, whereof the One lieth nearer

'to

'to the Field than the Other, after you have 'nominated the Metal, Colour, or Furr of the 'Field, then muſt you proceed to the immediate 'Charge that lieth next to the Field, and after 'to that which is more remote.

'Whereas I have formerly made mention of 'Tinctures or Colours; when I ſpeak of the 'Tinctures or Colours of Fields, I underſtand 'thereby, thoſe ſpecial Colours before-named, 'which, as by a certain peculiar Right, belong 'to the Art Armorial; utterly excluding all 'thoſe that are named general or proper Co-'lours, as altogether unfit for Fields of Coat-'Armours.

But before I ſhut up this Chapter, it may not be improper to give my Opinion, why the Ancients term'd the Surface of the Shield, the Field; which is, becauſe they carry'd thereon thoſe Enſigns which their Valour, &c. had gain'd them in the Field.

CHAP. III.

'THESE Fields are the Parts of Arms, 'containing: Charges, which are the 'Parts contained, are next to be conſidered.

'A Charge is that Thing whatſoever that 'doth occupy the Field, and is in the ſame as 'Contentum in Continente, whether it be Senſi-'tive or Vegetable, Natural or Artificial, and 'is placed either throughout all the Superficies 'of the Eſcutcheon, or elſe in ſome ſpecial Part 'of the ſame.

'The common Accidents of Charges

'Are { Adumbration, or Tranſparency. / Tranſmutation, or Counter-changing.

'Adumbration or Tranſparency is a clear Ex-'emption of the Subſtance of the Charge or 'Thing born, in ſuch Sort, as that there re-'maineth nothing thereof to be diſcerned, but 'the naked and bare Proportion of the outward 'Lineaments thereof, or the outward Tract, 'Purfle, or Shadow of a Thing; and ſuch Kind 'of Bearing is, by better Heralds than Gram-'marians, termed Tranſparent, quaſi tranſpa-'rens, becauſe the Field, being (as it were) on 'the further Side of the Charge, or underneath 'the ſame, yet the Tincture and Colour there-'of ſheweth clean through the Charge, and 'that no leſs clearly than as if it were through 'a Glaſs.

'In blazoning of Coat-Armour of this Kind, 'you ſhall ſay that the Owner thereof beareth 'this Beaſt, Bird, Tree, &c. umbrated; for that 'by reaſon of the Exemption of the Subſtance 'thereof, which was intended to be the Charge, 'it affordeth no other Repreſentation than the 'ſimple Shadow thereof, which in Latin is cal-'led Umbra, and thereof is it termed umbra-'ted. And the portraying out of any Thing 'umbrated, is nothing elſe but a ſlight and 'ſingle Draught or Purfle, traced out with a 'Pencil, expreſſing to the View a vacant Form 'of a Thing deprived of all Subſtance, which 'muſt be done with ſome imperfect or obſcure 'Colour, as Black or Tawny, unleſs the Field 'be of the ſame Colour.

'Such Bearing hath undergone the ſharp Cen-'ſure of thoſe that judged it to have been oc-'caſioned by reaſon of ſome ungentleman-like, 'or unthrifty Quality, in regard that the ſame 'repreſenteth a Shadow void of Subſtance. Others 'are of Opinion, that their Owners were ſuch, 'whoſe Progenitors in fore-paſſed Times have 'born the ſame eſſentially and compleatly, ac-'cording to the true Uſe of Bearing: But for-'aſmuch as their Patrimony and Poſſeſſions 'were much impaired, or utterly waſted; their 'Nephews and Kinſmen ſeeing themſelves de-'prived of their Inheritance, and yet living in 'hope, that in future Time the ſame may (by 'ſome unexpected Accident) revert unto them-'ſelves, or to their Poſterities (laying aſide all 'ordinary Differences) chuſe rather to bear 'their Arms umbrated, that whenſoever either 'that Inheritance, or any other high Fortunes 'ſhould light on their Family, they might again 'reſume the wonted Subſtance to ſuch their 'umbrated Form, and ſo reduce their Arms to 'their ancient Bearing. And it is deemed a far 'better courſe (upon ſuch occaſion) to bear the 'Arms of their Progenitors, umbrated, than 'utterly to reject the ſame, whereby it might '(within a few Deſcents) be doubted much, if 'not denied, that they were deſcended from 'ſuch a Family.

'Whatſoever is born with Arms umbrated, 'muſt not be charged in any Caſe. In Blazon-'ing you muſt never nominate the Colour of 'ſuch Tract of the Thing that is umbrated, be-'cauſe they do only bear a Shew of that they 'are not, that is to ſay, of a Charge; and 'therefore is the Colour of ſuch Adumbration 'eſteemed unworthy to be named in Blazon.' But I do not remember to have ſeen any ſuch Bearings among ſuch Scots and French Coats as I have ſeen.

Tranſmutation or Counter-changing, the ſe-cond Part of our late Diſtribution, is an Inter-mixture of the ſeveral Tinctures of the Shield and Charge, occaſion'd by the Appoſition of ſome one or more Lines of Partition over the Whole. Of all which I ſhall give you ſeveral Examples.

'As touching the Distribution of Charges, it 'is proper to be observ'd, that 'All Charges of Arms are either { Proper, or, Common.

'Those Charges are said to be proper, which 'by a certain Property, do particularly belong 'to this Art, and are of ordinary Use therein, 'in regard whereof they are called Ordinaries: 'And they have also the Title of honourable 'Ordinaries, in that the Coat-Armour is much 'honoured thereby, forasmuch as they are oftentimes given by Emperors, Kings, and Princes, as Additions of Honour unto the Coat-Armours of Persons of Desert, for some special 'Service already past, or upon hope of some future worthy Merit. Moreover (as Leigh shew-'eth) they are also called, most worthy Partitions, in respect that albeit the Field be charged in divers Parts thereof, whether with 'Things of one or of divers Kinds, yet is every 'one of them as effectual, as if it were only one 'by the Sovereignty of these Partitions being 'interposed between them.'

But here both Leigh and Guillim, as Mackenzy p. 30. cap. 9. very justly observes, do erre; for Partitions and Ordinaries are different, the Partitions being those Lines already spoken of: And this is agreeable to the Practice of the French, Italians, &c.

'In these we must consider their { Making. Manner of Bearing.

'The Making of Ordinaries consisteth of Lines 'diversely composed. Lines therefore are the 'Matter whereof these Ordinaries are formed, 'and according to the diverse Tracts and Forms 'of Lines, they do receive a diverse Shape and 'Variation of Names.

'In blazoning of Ordinaries form'd of straight 'Lines, you must only name the Ordinary, 'without making mention of the Streightness of 'the Line, whereof the same is composed: But 'if the same be made of any of the manifold Sorts 'of crooked Lines, the Form of such Crookedness must be especially mentioned, as by Examples shall be made plain hereafter in their 'proper Places.

'These honourable Ordinaries before mentioned (according to Leigh) are in number Nine, viz.	Cross,	whose Content is	5. Part of the Escutcheon uncharged, and charged the 3.
	Chief,		3. Part.
	Pale,		3. Part.
	Bend,		5. Part uncharged, and charged the 3.
	Fess,		3. Part.
	Escutcheon,		5. Part.
	Chevron,		5. Part according to Leigh: The 3. according to Chassa.
	Saltire,		5. Part uncharged, and charged the third Part thereof.
	Barr,		5. Part.

But here we differ again from the French, who, according to Mackenzy, p. 30. c. 9. make 10 Pieces honourable, (for so they call the Ordinaries) viz. Chef, Pal, Band, Fasce, Barre, (i. e. Bend sinister with us) Cross, Saultoir, Chevron, Bordure and Orle; and by these, saith he, the French would express all the Parts of a Man's entire Armour; as by the Chief, the Helmet; the Pale, his Lance; the Band and Barr, his Sword and Belt; the Fasce, his Scarf, &c. But this he justly rejects as a Fancy of theirs only, and rather thinks they were invented for different Marks of different Qualities in the Bearer: As for Example: The Chief rewards those Actions which are the Product of Wit; the Cross, religious Exploits, &c. The French make the Chef, Pal, Fasce, Bande, Barre, Croix, Saultoir, and Chevron, to occupy but the third Part of the Shield, whether charged or not charged; in which, saith Mackenzy, they agree with the Italians and Spaniards, as Pet. Sanct. observes, and this is certainly more proper than our Way; because all the Ordinaries are of like Quality, and therefore ought to have equal Room in the Field, Nam ubi eadem ratio, idem jus est statuendum.

But Baron, in his l'Art Heraldique, Artic. 1. p. 28. hath set down twelve Pieces honorables, and those in this Order, Chef, Pal, Face, Bande, Barre, Croix, Sautoir, Chevron, Bordure, Orle, Pointe and Pairle.

La Pointe (saith he) est representée en forme de Triangle, and like our Party per Chevron (as we call it) being a Triangle form'd by two Lines drawn from what Guillim calls the Dexter and Sinister Base Points, and meeting in the Honour Point; tho' I think he hath drawn the Lines rather more out of the Base, than we do our per Chevron.

This is what both the English and Scots are unacquainted with, and I believe only a Partition, though erroneously, made a Charge; for I do not any where find that they use Party per Chevron, but always blazon Coats of that Form d'Argent à Pointe, d'Azure à Point, &c. making the upper Division the Field, and the lower a Charge.

The

The other Ordinary made use of by the French, Baron calls Pairle: Le Pairle (says he) est composé d'un demy Sautoir & d'un demy Pal assemblez au milieu de l'Ecu, compos'd of half a Saltire and half a Pale meeting in the Middle of the Escutcheon; which, in Figure, is like the Greek Letter Y, having its Ends extended to the extream Points of the Escutcheon. This is a Bearing (though no honourable Ordinary) of use among both English and Scots, as you'll see in the See of Canterbury, and other Instances in paternal Coats, which I shall shew in their proper Places; we call this Bearing an Episcopal Pall; the Scots sometimes a Shake-fork; but they there join it not to the Corners of the Escutcheon, as Mackenzy observes.

It is to be observ'd, That the English have never held the Bordure or the Orle an honourable Ordinary; nay, some of our Authors have asserted, That the former is never carried as a principal Figure, but as a Difference; but this is an Error, as I shall endeavour to shew when I come to treat particularly of that Ordinary, for so I must account it.

CHAP. IV.

HAving spoken already of Charges both Proper and Common, together with their Accidents, so much as serves for our intended Purpose; let us next take a View of the Charges themselves; and first, of those I term'd Proper, which I told you were form'd of sundry Lines drawn through the Escutcheon.

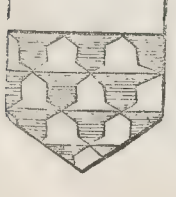

'Which are used { Single. / Manifold.

'Of both which Kinds and Forms are all the 'honourable Ordinaries composed, as we shall 'shew hereafter. And first, for the single Lines 'and their Use, it is to be understood, that one 'single Line doth make that Sort of Ordinary 'which we name a Chief. A Chief is an Or'dinary determined by some one of the several 'Forms of Lines aforesaid, added to the Chief 'Part of the Escutcheon: As in Example.

'He beareth Gules, a 'Chief, Argent, by the 'Name of Worsley, and 'is the Coat of Thomas 'Worsley of Havingham, 'in the North Riding of 'Yorkshire, Esquire. Or, 'a Chief, Gules, is born 'by Sir Martin Lumley 'Knight and Baronet.

Argent, a Chief, Gules, pertains to the Family of Menzies of that Ilk, and of Weem in the Kingdom of Scotland.

Vaire, a Chief, Or; by the Name of Tichborne of Kent, and Tichbourne of Shropshire.

Vaire, a Chief, Gules; by the Names of Bighwaies and Mainimar.

Vaire, Or, and Gules, a Chief, Sable; by the Name of Estoke of Dorsetshire.

Hercy. Gules, a Chief Argent, was also the Coat belonging to the Family of Hercy of Grove.

Coppin per Camden; Or, a Chief, Vaire.

Fitz-Herbert of Derbyshire, Argent, a Chief, Vaire, Or and Gules.

Gules, a Chief, Vaire, by the Names of Joynes or Geynes.

(M) Argent, a Chief, Sable, by the Name of Airth.

(M) Or, a Chief, Azure, by the Name of Dewar.

(M) Gules, a Chief, Or, by the Name of Carron.

Argent, a Chief, Gules, was the Coat of Robert Worsley of Banth, who marry'd to his first Wife, Eleanor, Daughter of Roger Hulton of the Park, and had Issue (saith Glover) Robert, Adam, Gilbert, Giles, Clemens, and others. The said Robert had, to his second Wife, Mabell, Daughter to Richard Dockett, of Graylynge in Westmorland, and by her had Issue Thomas.

Collect. of the North. per Glov. or per Cheft MS. in Ashmol. Numb. 334.

Robert, Son and Heir to Robert, married Alice, Daughter, and one of the Heirs to Hamlet Massie of Rigestone, and had Issue Robert, who married Alice, Daughter to Cherstone of Tylleseley.

Clement married to John Redysh.

Harcourt; Ermine, a Chief, Gules. This Coat was also born by the Name of Morteyn.

Arras; Ermine, a Chief, Sable. Born also by the Name of Orkesley or Okesley.

Or, a Chief, Gules; the Coat of Sir Martin Lumley of Great Bradfield in Com' Essex, Baronet, in the Time of King Charles I. I have seen it also by the Names of Molton, Wanton, Fitz-Henry, Motrines, Fitz-Simond, and Ablehall.

Penley; Or, a Chief, Sable.

Leseres, Leseurs, or Lisours of Lincolnshire; Or, a Chief, Azure. The same have I seen in an old Ordinary for Sauntene or Sampton, of the same County; for Beltoft, Beavill, Gascoign, and Mem.

Verney; Or, a Chief, Vert.

Horsley

Horſley of Northampton, or Herſey; Argent, a Chief, Gules. I have ſeen the ſame by the Names of Champaigne, Muſeubroke, and Worſley.

Velaine; Argent, a Chief, Sable. This Coat I have ſeen for the Names of Penlay and Barent.

Beltoft; Argent, a Chief, Azure, by the Names alſo of de Clun, Checky, Fitz-Alin, Monſtrell and Salline.

Charles; Gules, a Chief, Ermine, by Narborough and Newborough alſo, which I take to be one Name, by Error diverſely ſpelt.

Azure, a Chief, Ermine, by the Name of Suliard.

Fitz-Henry of Ireland; Gules, a Chief, Or, by Fitz-Simon and Wanton alſo.

Boyvill; Sable, a Chief, Or.

Azure, a Chief, Or; by the Names of Haſlewell, Benville, Beltoft, Leſours and Maſchant.

Verney; Vert, a Chief, Or; by the Name of alſo of Tichborne.

Gules, a Chief, Argent, a Label of three Points Azure, by the Name of Hercy of Kent; and without the Label, by the Names of Worſley and Wirkſley.

Sable, a Chief, Argent; by the Names of Penrey, Penley, and Velayne.

Azure, a Chief, Argent; by the Name of Monſhed.

'When I ſay that a Chief is determined by 'one Line, I mean not, that one ſingle Line is 'of itſelf a compleat Chief, but that the Bounds 'and Proportion of ſuch an Ordinary is deſign-'ed out, and limited by ſuch a ſingle Line: Or 'otherwiſe, to ſpeak more properly, a Chief 'containeth in depth the Third Part of the 'Field; and the ſame may be diminiſhed, but 'in no caſe divided into halves. The Chief be-'tokeneth a Senator, or honourable Perſonage 'borrowed from the Greeks, and is a Word ſig-'nifying a Head, in which Senſe we call Capi-'tanus (ſo named of Caput, the Head) a Chief-'tain: Though he ſpake wittily, who derived 'the Name of a Captain, à capiendo & tenendo, 'of taking and then holding: For,

'Non minor eſt virtus, quam quærere, parta tueri:

'No ſmaller Praiſe is in it,
'To hold a Fort, than win it.

'And as the Head is the chief Part in a Man, 'ſo the Chief in the Eſcutcheon ſhould be a Re-'ward of ſuch only, whoſe high Merits have 'procured them chief Place, Eſteem, or Love 'amongſt Men.'

The Engliſh, Scots, French, and indeed all Nations agree, That it has been given as a Reward, and as to its Dimenſions, and that its Name is from its Poſition, which is dans le Chef de l'Eſcu: Wherefore, as Mackenzy obſerves cap. 10. p. 30. we write it wrong; it ſhou'd be Chef, not Chief, becauſe it is the Head of the Shield; and not becauſe it is the chief Part, as my Author, M. Guillim, hath noted.

'This Ordinary as in our Example you ſee, is, 'formed of a ſtraight Line: You muſt therefore 'in the Blazon thereof, only name the Kind of 'Ordinary (as before we admoniſhed) making 'no mention at all of the Straightneſs of the 'Line; But if the ſame, or any other Ordinary, 'be framed of any other Form than ſtraight, 'then muſt you expreſly mention the Form of 'the Line whereof ſuch Ordinary is compoſed, 'be it Bend, Chevron, Feſs, Saltire, &c. ſhew-'ing the ſame to be either Invecked, Engrailed, 'Wavy, Indented, &c.

'He beareth Gules, a 'Chief Crenelle, Argent; 'by the Name of Rynce-'ſter.' Here you ſee one of the Accidents to which I told you the Lines of Coat Armour are liable. 'There 'is a Kind of Bearing 'much like unto this in 'Shew, but yet far dif-'ferent from it in Kind: Therefore good Deli-'beration muſt be uſed, leſt being carried away 'with a deceivable Appearance, we do utterly 'miſtake the Truth of Things in blazoning.

'Chiefs are made of all thoſe ſeveral Forms 'of Lines beforementioned, as well as other 'Charges, as ſhall be more fully ſhewed hereaf-'ter in other Kinds.

'The Field is Tenne, a 'Chief, Or, charged with 'a Shapournet, Ermyne. 'This Term Shapournet '(if I miſtake not) is de-'rived from the French 'Word Chaperon, which 'ſignifieth a Hood, where-'of this is a Diminutive, 'and beareth a Reſem-'blance. Leigh ſeemeth to take this Form of 'Bearing to be a Kind of Partition, and for 'that Cauſe doth extend the dividing Line (as 'in this Eſcutcheon) to the Extremities of the 'Chief; for which Cauſe I have inſerted the 'ſame (altho' untimely) in this Place, which 'otherwiſe I would have reſerved to ſome other. 'For my own Part, I take the ſame to be ra-'ther a Charge to the Chief, than a Portion 'thereof, diſtinguiſhed from the ſame only by 'a conceited Line of Partition, never heretofore 'heard of: Which mov'd me to ſhorten the 'Head of the riſing Line, whereby the middle 'Part hath the more Reſemblance of a Chaperon 'or Hood, in reſpect that it is made large below, 'and ſo aſcending with a comely Narrowneſs 'to the Top of the Chief: And if the Chief be 'the Head, as before we ſaid, what Place 'can be fitter for the Hood to be on, than 'the Head?

Guil-

Guillim is judg'd by Mackenzy, p. 31. c. 10. to be in an Error, when he calls this Kind of Bearing a Shapournet; and Carter for Shapernet; he allows it to be like an Epiſcopal Chapperon: But then, ſays he, p. 32. the French blazon it de Sable, au Chef d'Hermines Chapperonné d' Or; which, in our Language, is Sable, a Chief, Ermine-hooded, Or. And this is the reverſe of Mr. Guillim's.

'A Chief (ſaith Sir John Ferne) may be ho-'noured of another, as an Addition to the for-'mer: As in Examples.

'He beareth Gules, a 'Chief, Argent, ſurmount-'ed of another, Or. This 'is accounted good Ar-'moury, and ſignifieth a 'double Reward given by 'the Sovereign. So well 'may a Gentleman de-'ſerve in giving Counſel 'to his Sovereign, that he 'may be twice rewarded for the ſame, as was 'the Bearer hereof, a French Counſellor, which 'when it happeneth, muſt be placed in this 'Manner: Thoſe Additions of Honour that are 'given in Reward for Counſel or wiſe Actions, 'are thought to be placed moſt fitly on the chief 'Part or Head of the Eſcutcheon, Quia à Capite 'edenda eſt omnis ratio; becauſe all Reaſon pro-'ceedeth from the Brain. That contrariwiſe, a 'Chief may be alſo diminiſhed, this next Ex-'ample may teach us.

'He beareth Or, a Chief, 'Azure, a Fillet in the 'neither Part thereof, Ar-'gent. Some, perhaps, 'ſtrictly obſerving the 'Form of my undertaken 'Method, will conceive, 'that this Coat might 'have been more fitly pla-'ced hereafter among ſuch 'Ordinaries as are made of a two-fold Line. 'Nevertheleſs, though it may ſeem to be of the 'Number of thoſe, yet in very deed, one Line 'being added to the lower Part of the Chief, 'doth conſtitute a Fillet, whoſe Content muſt 'be the fourth Part of the Chief, and muſt be 'placed properly and naturally in the preciſe 'loweſt Part thereof. For a two-fold Reſpect 'was the Name of Fillet given it; the One in 'regard of the Thing whereunto it is reſembled, 'by Reaſon of the Length and Narrowneſs there-'of; and the Other, becauſe of the Place where-'in it is beſtowed. For as the Fillet is ſhaped 'long and narrow, for the more commodious 'Uſe of Women, in truſſing up of their Hair, 'as alſo for the Faſtning of their Head-tires, and 'reſtraining of their Hair from ſcattering about 'their Brows; ſo is this very aptly placed on the 'Chief, which is the Head of the Eſcutcheon, 'and doth confine and encompaſs the utter-'moſt Borders of the ſame. This Head-tire 'being taken from Women, may well fit an 'uxorious or luxurious Perſon, or ſuch an one, 'as in Matters of Importance is over-ſway'd by 'a Woman: Which doth not a little extenuate 'and impair their Dignity or Eſtimation among 'thoſe of graver Sort; for that they are deemed 'to have their Head fixed upon the Shoulders of 'others, and thoſe of the weaker Sex.

But Mackenzy, p. 31. c. 10. diſapproves of Guillim's Derivation of Fillet; for, ſays he, it is not from a Fillet, which is put about the Hair, but it is a French Word ſignifying a ſmall Thread.

Vert, a Chief, Argent couvert d'Azur. This (tho' very rare) is ſet down by Mackenzy, p. 31. c. 10. for a French Coat and good Armoury: By Couvert, ſaith he, is meant ſhadowed, or partly covered by the Foot of Hangings or Tapiſtry, for that is the Reaſon of this Bearing.

This alſo is a rare Bearing, and inſerted in the ſame Place with the laſt mentioned; 'tis thus blazon'd by the French, d' Azur au Chef couſu, de Gueules, bordé d'Or, by the Engliſh thus; Azure, a Chief, couſu Gules embordured Or: By Couſu here, the French mean a Chef ſew'd to the Field, and ſo avoid a Breach of that great Rule which forbids the placing one Colour upon another.

This alſo Mackenzy delivers in the ſame Place for a French Coat, and ſays, the Way that they blazon it is thus, d'Or au Chef d'Azur chappé à dextre d' Argent, by which, if I underſtand it, they mean divided, ſlit, or parted from the Dexter: Mackenzy calls it Or, a Chief, Azure, party per Bend ſiniſter in the dexter Canton Argent; and I think he expreſſes it more plain to Apprehenſion.

Note, That this Ordinary admits not only of Lines of Partition, but alſo Charges of all Sorts, Ordinaries, Animals, Vegetables, &c, as in the following Examples will appear under their proper Places.

CHAP. V.

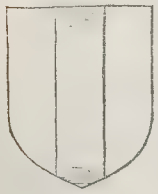

'HItherto hath our Pencil drawn out to 'your view, a ſingle Line, which doth 'create an Ordinary, or ſome other of the 'Charges laſt mentioned, it reſteth that I ſhew 'what a manifold Line is, and the Uſe thereof, 'according to the Project of our prefixed Me-'thod. I call that a manifold Line, when as 'more than one Line are required to the Per-'fecting of an Ordinary.

'Manifold Lines are { Two-fold. / More than two-fold.

'Two-fold Lines I underſtand to be there, 'where is conſtituted an Ordinary of two Lines. 'Of which Kind of Ordinaries are theſe only, 'viz. the Pale, Bend, Feſs, Barr, Quarter, 'Canton, and their like, as ſhall appear by Ex-'ample in their ſeveral Places: Firſt of a Pale.

'A Pale is an Ordinary conſiſting of two Lines 'drawn perpendicularly from the Top to the 'Baſe of the Eſcutcheon, comprehending the 'third Part of the Eſcutcheon. The Content of 'the Pale muſt not be enlarged, whether it be 'charged or not.

The French (as Mackenzy obſerves p. 32. c. 11.) ſay, that Soldiers of old carried Pales of Wood to encamp them, which they fix'd in the Earth: And as Varenus obſerves, they are beſtow'd on him who empaled a City for its Defence; for Palus ſignifies thoſe Pales with which Cities or Camps were guarded, l. 168. f. de verb. ſignifi. Pali & Pertiçæ in numerum materiæ redigendæ ſunt, & ideo lignorum appellatione non continentur. And, Aul. Gel. lib. 5. c. 6. obſerves, that Caſtra & ſſarum ſuperciliis palis præcingere moris fuit. Betwixt theſe they fix'd or ty'd ſmall Rods, and therefore the French expreſs no Diminutive of a Pale, but a Vaget, which is their ordinary Word for a ſmall Rod.

'He beareth Gules, a 'Pale, Or; which Coat 'was born very ancient-'ly by Hugh de Grandmeſ-'nil, Lord of Hinkley, in 'Leiceſterſhire, and Lord 'High Steward of En-'gland, in the Time of 'King Henry the Firſt, 'whoſe Daughter and 'Heir, called Parnel, was married to Robert 'Beaumont, third Earl of Leiceſter, who in her 'Right was Lord High Steward of England.

Stranſham, or Strabam; Argent, a Pale, dancy Gules.

Daargeſt; Argent, a Pale, dancy Sable.

Dixon; Argent, a Pale, dancy Vert.

Tiabary, or Tedbary; Gules, a Pale, Ermine: I have ſeen the Pale Argent, and thus I have ſeen Wakehurſt give it.

Moreſwith; Sable, a Pale, Ermine.

Alley; Azure, a Pale, Ermine.

Grandemeſnil; Gules, a Pale, Or.

Dalaforde; Sable, a Pale, Argent.

Okeburne; Argent, a Pale, Gules. I have ſeen it alſo by the Name of Calkin.

Wates of Shropſhire; Or, a Pale, Azure.

Pyner; Argent, a Pale, Azure: Which is carried alſo by a Family of the Name of Wakeherſt.

Marcarnes; Vaire, a Pale, Sable.

Chiſworth; Gules, a Pale ingrail'd, Or.

Or, a Pale indented, Gules, was confirmed by Robert Cooke, Clarencieux, 4th of May, 1577. 19th of Queen Elizabeth, to Thomas Streynſham of Canterbury, Gent. Son and Heir of George Streynſham, the Son and Heir of Lawrence Streynſham, ſometime of Feverſham in the County of Kent, Gent. and to their Deſcendants, and to the Deſcendants of the aforeſaid Lawrence Streynſham of Feverſham. M. S. in Aſh. Num. 834.

(M) Or, a Pale ingrailed, Sable; by the Name of Sawers.

'This Ordinary, by the Engliſh, 'is ſub-divided into { Pallet. / Endorſe.

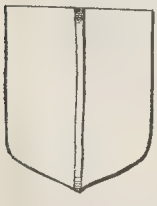

'A Pallet is the Moiety, or one half of the 'Pale, and thereof receiveth his Name of Di-'minution, as being a Demy or little Pale. And 'an Endorſe is the fourth Part of the Pallet. An 'Example of each enſueth.

'He beareth Azure, a 'Pallet, Argent. The Pal-'let is never charged with 'any Thing, either quick 'or dead, neither may it 'be parted in any Caſe in-'to two, as ſome Armou-'riſts do hold; but that 'it may be parted into 'four, Leigh maketh no 'queſtion: For he giveth an Example of the 'Bearing of the fourth Part thereof, which he 'termeth an Endorſe, as in the next Eſcutcheon 'appeareth: But Sir John Ferne ſaith, it con-'taineth the eighth Part of the Pale, which in 'effect is all one with the fourth Part of the 'Pallet.

The French, as I have told you before, own no ſuch Diminutive of a Pale, though they do ſuch a Bearing; as we may ſee in the Coat of Harlay de Beaumont ſet forth by Baron in his l'Art Heraldique, p. 36. which, with us, is Argent, two Pallets, Sable; but he indeed blazons them, d'Argent deux Pals de Sable, two Pales, Sable;

Sable; which ſeemingly by their own Rules, cannot ſtand; for, ſay they, a Pale occupies the third Part of the Shield as I mention'd before, which makes it impoſſible for more than one to be in it, at a Time, and have their due Proportion and Poſition; to avoid which Digreſſion they tell you, when more than one is in the Field they mean little Pales, though they call them barely Pales. Nor is our Cuſtom more reaſonable, becauſe neither do we keep up to the Rules we deliver; for tho' we never ſay three Pales we do three Pallets, which is much the ſame Thing; for as the Pallet is one half of the Pale, and conſequently the ſixth Part of the Field, ſo cannot three of them ſtand at once in one Shield and ſtand free, as all Ordinaries muſt, unleſs the Shield be divided into ſeven Parts to ſhew the Field on each ſide of the Charge, which wou'd be to rob the Pallet, making it a ſeventh Part inſtead of a Sixth; unleſs you would make thoſe Parts of the Field betwixt the Pallets, leſs than the Pallets, that they might retain the Size, which is a Freedom that I never ſaw taken or allow'd by any: Beſides, ſince as our Engliſh ſay, Ordinaries of this Kind are known by their Size, the Field muſt be equally divided, elſe they cannot readily be diſcern'd. 'Tis the ſame with our Barr and its Diminutives; for when we find a Coat divided into ſeven equal Parts, we blazon it three Barrs; yet tell you, the Barrs muſt ever contain the fifth Part of the Field, which then is impoſſible; nor can it be blazon'd three Cloſſets, becauſe a Cloſſet is ever the Half of a Barr, and the tenth Part of the Shield: Nor yet three Barrulets, becauſe a Barrulet is ever the fourth Part of a Barr, and conſequently the 20th of the Field: From whence it appears as reaſonable to ſay three Faces as three Barrs, three Pales as three Pallets, three Bends as three Bendlets; nay, if we will any ways have an Eye to Uniformity, more reaſonable in that it agrees with Foreigners, and hath no Variety of Terms. Mackenzy doth eſteem the French Way, and uſe it; and if we did, I think we ſhould do better.

'He beareth Or, an En-
'dorſe, Gules. This En-
'dorſe (ſaith Leigh) is not
'uſed but when a Pale is 'between two of them.
'But Sir John Ferne ſaith,
'he was very confident and
'bold to ſet down ſuch
'Rules of Blazon. And
'that an Endorſe may ve-
'ry well be born in any Coat-Armour between
'Birds, Fiſhes, Fowls, Beaſts, &c. But then
'(ſaith he) it ſheweth that the ſame Coat hath
'been ſometimes two Coats of Arms, and after
'conjoyned within one Eſcutcheon, for ſome
'Myſtery or Secret of Arms. And for the Ap-
'probation of ſuch Bearing, he giveth an In-
'ſtance of an Eſcutcheon of Pretence, or En-
'giſlet (ſo he termeth it) born over theſe four
'Coats, viz. of Auſtria, Burgundy, Sicily, and 'Flanders, which is, Or, an Endorſe between a
'Lyon ſaliant, and an Eagle diſplayed, Gules.

This is like unto what the French call a Verget; and when they find ſuch a Bearing on a Pale, they ſay a Pale charged with another little Pale or Verget. Mackenzy p. 32. c. 11. thinks Endorſe is alſo an old French Term, and ſignifies to put upon the Back of any Thing, in dorſo; (Endoſſé now ſignifies endorſed in French) and therefore Executions of Summons, are called Indorſations, becauſe they are written on the Back of the Summons. And poſſibly the Signification of Endorſe might lead Leigh to what he is above condemn'd for by Sir John Ferne, as bold.

'Now from the Pale, and the ſeveral Sub-
'diviſions thereof, let us come to the Bend, and
'the diſtinct Parts of the ſame. A Bend is an 'Ordinary conſiſting alſo of two ſold Lines
'drawn overthwart the Eſcutcheon, from the 'dexter Chief to the ſiniſter Baſe Point of the
'ſame; ſo that the exact Point of the dexter
'and ſiniſter Corners thereof, may anſwer to the 'preciſe Midſt of thoſe equidiſtant Lines where-
'of the Bend is made: As in Example.

'He beareth Or, a Bend,
'Sable. Which Arms were
'anciently born by Peter
'de Malo lacu, or Mawley,
'a noble Baron of this
'Kingdom, in the Time
'of King Edward the IIId.
'The Bend containeth
'in Breadth the fifth Part
'of the Field, as it is
'uncharged; but if it be
'charged, then ſhall it
'contain the third Part thereof. Of all the Or-
'dinaries there is none divided like this, as by
'Example ſhall hereafter appear.

Or, a Bend, Gules, pertain'd to Marke Cottle of North Tawton in the County of Devon, Gent. who married Amia, Daughter of Leonard Loves of Vgheer in the County of Cornwall, Eſq; which Marke was eldeſt Son and Heir of Tho. Cottle of the ſame Place, who by his Wife Alice, Daughter of Dunſtan Heywood of the ſaid Place, had Iſſue, beſides Marke his eldeſt Son aforeſaid, William, Anthony, Chriſtopher and Amias; alſo Jane, Mary, and Agnes; Jane was married to William Gilbert of Bovay in the ſaid County, Gent. and Mary to John Robage of Chagford, Gent.

Note, That the ſaid * Thomas was ſecond Son of John Cottle of Tombridge, in the County of Devon, Gent. which John was eldeſt Son and Heir of John Cottle of the ſame Place, by his ſecond Wife, he being Son and Heir of Thomas, the Son and Heir of John, who was Son and Heir of John Cottle alſo of the ſame Place, Gent. Grafton, de Devon. M. S. fol. 65.

* Query, 3*d Son*, for Grafton in the Pedigree ſays, fol. ibid. that the ſaid John had three Sons and three Daughters; the Sons, ſays he, were Walter, Hugh, and Thomas who there is third Son; tho' when he treats of his Marriage, &c. indeed he calls him 2*d Son.*

Theſe Arms were confirmed to Thomas Cottell of North Tawton, in the County of Devon. Gent. by Robert Cooke, Clarencieux, dated the 8th of November 1580. Anno 22 Eliz.

Wallis of Somerſetſhire; Ermine, a Bend, Sable.

Wallis of Dorſetſhire, and of Somerſetſhire alſo; Ermine, a Bend, Gules. I have ſeen the ſame Coat by the Names of Elmeſted, Cliſton, Apledorfield, and Barnake.

Burne or Bourne; Ermine, a Bend, Azure: I have ſeen this Coat to the Name of Engliſh.

Ermine, a Bend, Vert; by the Name of Langley.

Dabetto; Ermine, a Bend, Sable. The ſame is born by the Name of Iſley.

Devonſhire and Somerſetſhire Cottel's Coat born by Mawbye, Holwell Carthorpe, and to Dauncel.

Tetton or Teaton; Or, a Bend, a Sable; this belongs alſo to the Names of Bonaville, Foſſard, Marreley, Manley (who was at Cales Siege) and Gotham; and with a Label of three Points Argent, to the Name of Ryſer.

Blantone of Lancaſhire; Argent, a Bend, Sable. I find this Coat to have been born by the Names of Hogythe, Maller, Erſwyke, Gotham, Ditton, Delapoole, Ernelle, and Mounceux.

Terrell of Hertfordſhire; Argent (ſome give Or) a Bend, Azure. This belongs, as I find in old Ordinaries, to the Names of Badye, Cheuſton, Buſts, or Buſet, and Calthorpe.

Trentane of Lincolnſhire; Argent, a Bend, Gules, born alſo by the Names of Cheverſton, Chenſton, and Delayhay. It belong'd alſo to Heyland of Suffolk, and with a Label of three Points over all of the ſecond to Kendall of Bedfordſhire; yet in ſome Places I find their Arms to be, Argent, a Bend, Vert, which alſo pertains to the Kendalls of Devonſhire, as in Weare-Church in that County may, or, ſometime ſince, might be ſeen.

Paynell of Lincolnſhire; Argent, a Bend, Sable. This belong'd alſo to the Names of St. Barbe, Scopham or Stopham, and Sampter.

Swathing; Argent, a Bend, Azure. I find this Coat by the Name of Vorney, and with a Label of three Points over all, Gules, by the Name of Hovile.

Clyſton of Norfolk; Gules, a Bend, Ermine. This is alſo by the Name of Walwyn, and with and without a Label of three Points, by the Name of Refer in Lincolnſhire; alſo with a Label, by Rye of Yorkſhire.

Folliot or Fyliote of Norfolk; Gules, a Bend, Or, (ſome ſay Argent). This belongs alſo to the Names of Herman, Kellobery, (who ſometimes give the Bend, Argent) and Marſhall.

Hanſard of Weſtmorland; Gules, a Bend, Argent, a Mullet for Difference. This Coat without the Mullet pertains to the Names of Haward and Penſeart.

Carſwill of Devonſhire; Sable, a Bend, Or, over all a Label of five Points: This Coat is in Holberton Church.

Carminow or Carmeno of Cornwall; Azure, a Bend, Or; the ſame with a Label of three Points, Gules, as a Difference, was the Coat of Carminow of Devonſhire, as may or might be ſeen in the Church of Axminſter. Some give the Bend Argent. The former Coat without the Label, I find alſo to have been in St. Peter's Church in Devonſhire. The Scroops of Bolton in the County of York do alſo give the ſame Coat Whitenhall or Whitnall of Kent; Vert, a Bend, Ermine.

Hynton; Vert, a Bend, Or. This Coat is in the Church of Toryton, in the County of Devon. Some make the Bend Argent.

(♉) Schan of that Ilk; Azure, a Bend, Argent.

Argent, a Bend, Ermine of three Spots is born by the Name of Johnſon, and was confirmed by William Flower the 7th of May, 1579. 21 Queen Eliz. to Richard Johnſon of Gainsbrowe in the County of Lincoln, Gent. In this Blazon I follow the Patent, which makes the Ermine as it were a Charge, rather than the Bend a Furr. M. S. in Aſh. Num. 834.

Gules, a Bend wavy, Or, with a Chief, Vaire, and a Martlet for a Difference, have been born by the Name of Brewer, and pertains to the Family of Brewer of London, deſcended out of Somerſetſhire. Vide Lib. de Lond. C. 24. in Coll. Arm.

'The Bend ſeemeth to have its Denomination from the French Word Bender, which ſignifieth to ſtretch forth, becauſe it is extended betwixt thoſe oppoſite Points of the Eſcutcheon, viz. the dexter Chief, and the ſiniſter Baſe. Yet, in ancient Rules, I find the Bend drawn ſomewhat Arch-wiſe, or after the Reſemblance of the Bent of a Bow. Notwithſtanding, according to ſome Armouriſts, it doth repreſent a Ladder ſet aſlope on this Manner, to ſcale the Walls of any Caſtle or City, as ſhall be ſhewed hereafter, and betokeneth the Bearer to have been one of the firſt that mounted upon the Enemies Walls. This Bend drawn from the right Side to the Left, is called a Bend dexter; but you ſhall alſo find a Bend exactly drawn like to this on the contrary Side, having his Beginning from the left Corner of the Chief, and his Termination in the dexter Baſe Point of the Eſcutcheon, for which Cauſe it is named a Bend Siniſter, as in Example hereafter ſhall illuſtrate. In blazoning of Bends, if the ſame be Dexter, you ſhall only ſay, He bears a Bend, not uſing the Word Dexter; but if it be drawn from the ſiniſter Chief to the dexter Baſe, then you muſt,

'must, in Blazon, by no means omit the Word 'Sinister.

The Bend, or Bande as the French write, represents (saith Mackenzie p. 34. cap. 12.) the Belt of a Knight, and is call'd Baltheus in Latin; to which agrees John Gibbon Bluemantle, in his Introduction to Latin Blazon, and in Italian, Benda or Cingulo. It is born of different Colours and in different Forms by sundry Nations; for the French wear their Sword-belt as a Bend; the Germans as a Fasce about their Middle. The French (saith Mackenzy) wear their Bend White; the Spaniard, Red; the English, Scots, and Danes, Blue; the Barbarians, Black: And such French, adds he, as wear a Bend in their Arms with us, wear it generally White, to shew their Origine.

'Note, That the Bend, and diverse other Ordinaries following, are subject to Exemption 'or voiding. Voiding (as earst we shewed) 'is the Exemption of some Part of the inward 'Substance of Things voidable, by occasion 'whereof the Field is transparent through the 'Charge, leaving only the outward Edges, bearing the Colour and Quantity of the Charge, as 'appeareth in this next Escutcheon.

'He beareth Ermine, 'a Bend voided, Gules, 'by the Name of Ireton. 'Note, That if the void 'Part of the Bend were 'of a different Metal, Colour, or Furr, from the 'Field, then should you 'term the same, a Bend 'bordured, Gules, (according to the Opinion of some Armourists:) But 'I am of Opinion that it were better blazoned, 'a Bend of such and such a Metal, Colour, or 'Furr edged. For this Difference do I put between them, that when it is blazoned edged, 'it must be understood to be an Edge or Hem, 'running along the Sides only; but if it were 'termed in Blazon bordured, then it must be 'conceived that the Bend is invironed round, 'as well the Ends as the Edges.

'The Right Honourable Henry Earl of Sussex, 'Viscount Fitzwater, Lord 'of Egremont, Burnell and 'Botatoart, Knight of the 'most noble Order of the 'Garter, beareth Argent, 'a Bend engrail'd Sable, 'with the Arms of Ulster. 'It was the paternal Coat-'Armour of Sir Francis Radclyff of Dilston in 'Northumberland, Baronet. He is made, by the 'late Editor, to be of my Lord Sussex's Family 'aforesaid.

Argent, a Bend engrail'd, and in Chief sinister, a Mullet Sable, was the Coat of Samuel Radcliffe, D. D. and Principal of Brasnose Colledge, who dy'd the 26th of June 1648, and was buried in the Middle of St. Mary's Chancel, S. P. a great Benefactor to his Colledge. Vide A. Wood's Hist. and Antiq. Univ. Oxon. lib. 1. p. 302. 395, 396. 404. and lib. 2. p. 215. col. 2. 225. col. 2. M. S. of Ant. & Wood's Remarks de Com. Oxon.

The same as before, only a Martlet on the Mullet Argent for Difference, was the Coat of Samuel Radcliffe, M.A. of Brasnose, who dy'd the 20th of December, 1649. Aged 30, and was buried in Holywell Church-yard, near the Church-door. He was the Son of John Radcliff of Chester, Gent. and married the Daughter of Thomas Holt, a Yorkshire Man, and Architect or Builder of the new Shools in Oxon, but had no Issue by her: She was afterwards married to William Whelpdale, but bare him no Child. These Arms are on his Monument in Holywell Church-yard. M. S. of Ant. & Wood's Remarks de Com Oxon.

(G) Gamack of Clerkenshalls in Scotland; Gules, a Bend engrail'd, Argent.

(H) Gules, a Bend engrail'd, Argent, the Coat of Fenton of that Ilk.

Ermine, a Bend indented, Sable, was the Bearing of John West, Gent. Son of John West of Hampton Poyle, in Com. Oxon. Gent. who married Catharine, Daughter of Richard Seaman, late of Paynwick in the County of Gloucester, Gent. by Catharine his Wife, Daughter of Martin Wright lately Alderman of Oxon. M. S. of Ant. & Wood's Remarks de Com. Oxon.

'Argent, a Bend engrailed, Gules, is the pa-'ternal Coat-Armour of that ancient Family of 'the Colepeppers of Kent; the Chief of which 'is the Right Honourable Thomas Lord Colepep-'per, Baron of Thornsway, now residing at Leeds-'Castle in the said County. This Coat also appertaineth to Sir Thomas Colepepper of Preston-'Hall in Aylesford, in the said County, Baronet.

'This Ordinary is composed of diverse other 'of the Forms of Lines before-mentioned, as 'sundry other of the Ordinaries are, as by these 'next, and other subsequent Examples in their 'due Places shall appear.

'He beareth Argent, a 'Bend wavy, Sable. This 'Coat-Armour pertaineth 'to Henry Wallop of Far-'leigh-wallop in the Coun-'ty of Southampton, Esq; This is term'd a Bend Undé, (say some) of the Latin Word Unda, which signifies a Wave or Sourge of the Sea, raised by some turbulent Flaw of Wind and Tempest; or by reason of the Opposition and Encountring of some other Current. But I rather think, as I said before, it is called Undé from the French Word Ondé, which signifies waved, and which the French, whom we imitate, use to express this Line, they indeed might use it in their Tongue from the Latin.

This Family, as I observ'd in my Introduction, took its Denomination from the River Wallop, which induc'd them to carry a Wallop, or swelling Wave for their Arms.

Azure, a Bend wavy, Argent, is the Coat pertaining to the Name of Swale, and was declar'd to belong to Francis Swale of South Stainly, Esq; by Richard St. George, Norroy.

'He beareth Azure, a 'Bend Crenelle, Argent, by 'the Name of Walleyes. 'What Crenellé is, I have 'before shewn. After this 'Manner, Soldiers, in default of Scaling Ladders, 'used to nick or score a 'Piece of Timber with 'their Swords (for Want 'of better Tools) and so found Means to ascend 'the Walls, and surprize the Enemies.

This the French sometimes term Bretessée, as in the Coat of Scarron, d'Azure à la Bande Bretessée d'Or. Baron l'Art Heraldique, p. 48.

'He beareth Sable, a 'Bend flory, Argent, by 'the Name of Highlord, 'of Micham in Surry, Gent.

This Coat was allow'd by Patent under the Hand of Sir William Segar, Garter, May the 26th, 1630, 5th of King Charles I. to John Hellard alias Highlord and Zachary his Brother, both of London, Merchants, Sons of John Hellard alias Highlord of the same City, Merchant, who was the Son of William Hellard of Woodbury in the County of Devon, Gent.

'The Parts of 'a Bend are { Such as are deduced from it. / Bendelet.

'Such as are derived from a 'Bend, do contain { Half. / Less than half.

'That which containeth half the Bend is call'ed a Gartier, whereof you have here an Ex'ample in this Escutcheon.

'He beareth Or, a Gar'tier, Gules. This is deriv'ed either from the French 'Word, Jartier, or else 'from the Norman Word, 'Gartier, both which are 'the same that we call 'in English, a Garter, 'the Form whereof this 'Charge doth represent.

'It is a Name of honourable esteem in English 'Heraldry, and it gave beginning to the most 'renowned Order of Knighthood, of which 'Colledge and Society have been more Kings 'and Princes, and princely Peers, than of all 'the knightly Orders besides in Christendom. 'This containeth half the Bend in bigness.

'Such as do contain less than 'half the Bend, are { Cost. / Riband.

'Both which are exemplified in these next Es'cutcheons.

'The Field is Gules, a 'Cost, Or. The Content 'of this is the fourth Part 'of the Bend, and half 'the Garter, and is some'times called a Cotise, 'and also a Battoon (as 'Leigh noteth): But Bara 'maketh a Cotise and the 'Battoon two distinct 'Things. The Word Cost or Cotise is derived 'from the Latin Word Costa, which signifieth a 'Rib, either of Man or Beast. And Farnesius 'saith, Costæ à custodiendo sunt dictæ, Farn. 1. 45. 'When one of these is born alone, as in this Es'cutcheon, then shall you term it in Blazon a 'Cost; but if they be born by Couples in any 'Coat (which is never, saith Leigh, but when a 'Bend is placed between two of them) then you 'may name them Cotises: As in Example.

'He beareth Or, a Bend, 'Verrey, between two Co'tises or Costs, Gules. This 'Coat pertaineth to Sir Ed'mund Bowyer of Camber'well, in the County of 'Surrey, Knight. Not 'unfitly are these so term'ed Costs or Cotises, in 'respect they are placed 'upon each Side of the Bend, and do include 'the same, as the Ribs of Man, or of Beast, 'do bound and defend their Intrails. Con'cerning such Charges or Fields composed of 'Verrey, I refer you (for the Avoiding of need'less Repetition) to the Rules before deli'vered.

Some have highly condemn'd Leigh for this his Assertion: But I must crave leave to alledge he has much Reason on his Side in affirming, That Cottises ought never to be born, unless a Bend is between. For the Marshams of Hornsplace in the County of Kent, whose Coat for the generality is erroneously blazon'd Or, a Lyon passant, Gules, between two Cottises Azure, carry Bendlets not Cottises. And the Browns, Viscounts Montacute, whose Coat for the most Part is ignorantly blazon'd three Lyons passant double cottised, or between four Cottises, carry not Cottiſes, but two Gemells in Bend, between which are their Lyons. Nor did I ever ſee Cottiſes born in England by themſelves: Though in Baron's l'Art Heraldique, he gives them to the Number of Eight, and under: Yet, in my Opinion, that Advocate is out: He ſhould not term them Cottiſes; but little Bends, Ribbands, or any other Name; ſeeing a Cottiſe, in the Signification of the very Word, implies ſomewhat upon the Side of another, ribbing or hemming it in as it were, which in his Coat doth not appear.

I have obſerv'd but two Inſtances of Cottiſes in Mackenzy's Work, and in both they are join'd to the Edge of the Bend: But whether therein his Engraver did err; or whether he keeps ſo cloſe to the Signification of Coſte, as to make them the Sides or Ribs of the Bend, I know not; if he doth, I muſt crave Leave to ſay, I think him in an Error; as well for that he differs from all others, as that when the Bend and Cottiſes are but of one Colour, they cannot be diſcern'd, without ſome unnatural Line, as one of his Inſtances is, viz. Argent, a Bend cottiſed, Sable, &c. where 'tis impoſſible to diſcern the Cottiſes, unleſs ſome Line of Partition be made with White, Red, or ſome unnatural Colour. This Inſtance is in his Plate to cap. 12. p. 35. The other in his Plate of Birds, p. 58.

This Coat, had my Method been ſtrictly follow'd, ſhould have been among mix'd Ordinaries; but, for the Controverſy ſake, 'tis introduced here.

'Note, That as well the Subdiviſions of Or-'dinaries, as the Ordinaries themſelves, are form-'ed of the ſeveral Sorts of Lines before expreſ-'ſed, as may be gathered out of Upton, whoſe 'Opinion you ſhall hear when we come to ſpeak 'of Battoons.

'He beareth Or, a Rib-'band, Gules. This is 'that other Subdiviſion 'that is derived from a 'Bend, and doth contain 'the eighth Part thereof. 'The Name accordeth 'well with the Form and 'Quantity of the ſame, in 'that it is long and nar-'row, which is the right Shape of a Ribband.'

Theſe Diminutives Sir George Mackenzy, p. 34. cap. 12. juſtly terms Fancies of our Engliſh Heralds. For the French, whom we imitate, uſe them not; they call all Diminutives of the Bend Cotiſé: And if there be more or leſs than ſix Bends in one Shield, they expreſs the Number as in the Coat of Budes des Portes ſet forth by Baron in his l'Art Heraldique, which he blazons d'Azur à trois Bandes d'Or. And though this in a general Senſe, may differ from their aforeſaid Rule, That all their honourable Pieces ſhould contain a third Part of the Field: Yet, ſuppoſing, (as I hinted before,) to be obſerv'd only when they are ſingly born, it doth not. And we who have labour'd to make ſo many Diminutives to our Ordinaries, cannot avoid Digreſſions of that Nature; nay, we make more than they in the Rules to thoſe very Diminutives.

'Thus much may ſuffice touching the Bend 'dexter, and the Subdiviſion thereof: Let us 'now conſider the Bend ſiniſter, and how the 'ſame is ſubdivided. A Bend ſiniſter is an Or-'dinary conſiſting of a two fold Line, drawn 'traverſe the Eſcutcheon, from the ſiniſter Chief 'Corner to the dexter Baſe Point; and differ-'eth (as we ſaid) from the dexter Bend only in 'this, that it is placed on the oppoſite Part of 'the Eſcutcheon: As in Example.

'He beareth Argent, 'a 'Bend ſiniſter, Vert.' This is a Term to which the French are unacquainted, who call this Ordinary a Barr: And ſome Authors, as Baron in his l'Art Heraldique, p. 29. obſerves, Contrebande which, in my Opinion, is a much properer Name than the former; for as Bande or Bend is univerſally underſtood to expreſs a Bend dexter; ſo Contrebande ſhews as plain the reverſe in a Bend ſiniſter, which Barr I think doth not to any but themſelves.

Mackenzy finds the Bend ſiniſter to be ſeldom born in Scotland; and, I may ſay, it is alſo very ſeldom us'd in England.

'You may, perhaps, ſometimes find this Bend 'born jointly with the Bend dexter in one Eſ-'cutcheon, which, to look upon, are much like 'unto a Saltire. In Coats of ſuch Bearing, you 'muſt carefully obſerve which of them lieth 'next to the Field, and that muſt be firſt nam-'ed. And this Rule holdeth not alone herein, 'but alſo in all other Coat-Armours formed of 'divers Charges, whereof the one lieth nearer 'to the Field than the other, according to the 'ſixth Rule of Blazon formerly given.

'The Bend ſiniſter is ſub-'divided into a { Scarp. / Battoon.

'A Scarp (as Leigh noteth) is that Kind of 'Ornament (much in Uſe with Commanders in 'the Field) which we do uſually call a Scarf, as 'may be gathered by the Derivation thereof 'from the French Word, Eſbcarpe, ſignifying that 'Ornament which uſually is worn by martial 'Men after the ſame manner from the left 'Shoulder overthwart the Body, and ſo under 'the Arm on the right Side: As in Example.

'He beareth Argent, a 'Scarp, Azure. You need 'not in blazon thereof 'make any mention of 'this Word Siniſter, be-'cauſe it is never born 'otherwiſe than thus.' But the French have no ſuch Word as Scarpe; they call this Kind of Bearing contre Cottice: And if any Thing ſhould be call'd a Scarpe, Mackenzy thinks, p. 35. c. 12. that it ſhou'd be the Bend; not its diminutive: For it looks (ſays he) likeſt to a Scarf; and a Bend in Engliſh, is ſometimes un eſcarpe in the French, or a Scarf.

'Notwithſtanding this Charge hath ſome 'Reſemblance of the common Note of Illegiti-'mation: Yet, is it not the ſame; neither hath 'it any ſuch Signification; for that it agreeth 'not with the Content thereof, nor with the 'Manner of Bearing the ſame, as is plain by 'this next Eſcutcheon.

'He beareth Or, a Bat-'toon, Gules. This Word 'is derived from the French 'Word Baſton, which ſig-'nifieth a Wand or Cud-'gel. The Frenchmen do 'uſually bear their Bat-'toon (as it were) coup-'ed after this Manner; 'whereof I do better al-'low, than of that Form which is commonly 'uſed among us in England, becauſe the ſame 'being ſo born, doth better reſemble the Shape 'or Form of a Cudgel or Battoon. And tho' 'this hath the Form and Quantity of a Coſt, 'yet it differeth from the ſame, in that the Coſt 'is extended to the Extremities of the Eſcu-'tcheon, whereas the Battoon ſhall be couped, 'and touch no Part of the ſame, as by this Eſ-'cutcheon appeareth.

Some Lawyers, ſaith Mackenzy, p. 76. c. 22. call this Figure Barra ſive Baculum, Sintag. jur. cap. 6. num. 6. lib. 45. Some Tinea lutea, Hopping. Some linea, Tepat. cap. 5. Some call it diviſé Mar. queſt, 1140. The Germans call it Strich, and Bachovius moſt improperly Tignum, which ſignifies a Chevron.

'This is the proper and moſt uſual Note of 'Illegitimation (perhaps for the Affinity be-'twixt Baſton and Baſtards; or elſe for that 'Baſtards loſt the Priviledge of Freemen, and 'ſo were ſubject to the ſervile Stroke) and it 'containeth the fourth Part of the Bend ſini-'ſter; and being thus born, differeth from all 'the Subdiviſions of the Ordinaries before ma-'nifeſted ſufficiently, what conformity ſoever 'any of them may ſeem to have therewith. 'This Mark was deviſed both to reſtrain Men 'truly generous, from the filthy Stain of this 'baſe (but common) Sin, when they conſider, 'that ſuch Accuſation to themſelves, and Shame 'to their Iſſue, ſhall never be ſevered from their 'Coat-Armour, which ſhould be the Blazon of 'their Honour. For let the ſpurious Birth have 'never ſo noble a Father, yet he is Baſe-born; 'and Baſe will be ever the firſt Syllable in a Ba-'ſtard's Name, till by his own Vertues he hath 'waſhed off the Stains of his Father's Vice, as 'many high Spirits have done; who though ſo 'born, have attained to the higheſt Pitch of 'Glory. Every Baſtard may have his Battoon 'of what Colour he will, but not of Metal, 'which is for the Baſtards of Princes. At the 'firſt, Baſtards were prohibited to bear the 'Arms of their reputed Fathers. Then (ſaith 'Sir John Ferne in his Glory of Generoſity) they 'did ſince obtain a Toleration from Sovereigns 'and Kings, to be made Legitimate, and to be 'matriculated by the King's Grant, as Children 'lawfully born: Which Grant did enable them 'to be capable of many Immunities and Prero-'gatives which others lawfully begotten do en-'joy: And ſo by ſuch Legitimation they are diſ-'charged of all thoſe Diſhonours which in for-'mer Time they were ſubject unto; and were 'acquitted from the Stain of their Baſtardy, Ex-'cepto quòd ex tali legitimatione non admittebán-'tur ad Jura Sanguinis cum aliis Filiis: Except 'only, that they had not the Right of Blood 'and Inheritance thereby.

'By Pretence of theſe Legitimations, they 'bear the Coat-Armour of their reputed Ance-'ſtors, with a Sign of Baſtardy, now commonly 'known to every Man, by reaſon of frequent 'Uſe: Which Mark (as ſome do hold) neither 'they nor their Children ſhall ever remove or 'lay aſide, Ne ſordes per errorem inter præcipuos 'reputentur; leſt the Fruits of Luſt ſhould, by 'Error gain the Eſtimation of Generoſity.

'Upton calleth this Baſton or Battoon, a Fiſ-'ſure, and making mention of the variable 'Forms thereof, ſaith, Iſtæ Fiſſuræ tot modis va-'riantur, quod modis fiunt bendæ: Theſe Fiſſures 'have as many Varieties of Forms as the Bends 'have.

'For there are 'of them '(ſaith he)	Planæ,	Plain.
	Ingrediatæ,	Ingrailed.
	Invectæ,	Invecked.
	Fuſilatæ,	Fuſile.
	Gobonatæ,	Gobonated.

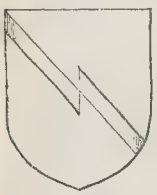

'And (he ſaith) it is commonly called a Fiſ-'ſure (which is a Cut or Rent) pro eo quod 'findit Arma paterna in duas partes; quia ipſe 'baſtardus finditur & dividitur à patrimonio patris 'ſui: In that it cuts or rents the Coat-Armour 'in twain, becauſe the Baſtard is cut off from 'his Father's Inheritance. In ſome Countries 'they uſed to diſtinguiſh theſe from the lawful 'Begotten, by ſetting of two Letters upon their 'Garments, S and P, quaſi, Sine Patre, without 'Father.

Cui

'Cui pater est populus, pater est huic nullus & omnis.

Brats are priviledg'd above any:
We have but one Sire, they have many.

'And perhaps S. P. did signify Satus Populo, 'the Son of the People. Chassaneæus saith, that 'Bastards are not capable of their Father's Patrimony, either by Law or Custom, Quia filius Ancillæ non erat hæres cum filio Liberæ: 'The Servants Child must not part Stakes with 'her Mistresses. Leigh is of Opinion, That the 'lawful Son of a Bastard shall change his Father's Mark to the right Side, observing still 'the Quantity thereof; for so I do understand 'him, in respect that he addeth immediately, 'that the same may, at the Pleasure of the 'Prince, be inlarged, or broken after this 'Manner.

'He beareth Azure, a 'Bend, double Dancett, 'Argent, by the Name of 'Lorks. This (saith Leigh) 'shall never be called other 'than a Bend, after it is 'thus parted: But Bastards '(saith he) have sundry 'other Marks, every one 'according to their un-'lawful Begettings; which, with hundreds of 'others, are the Secrets of Heralds.

This is an Opinion not altogether different from that which I told you the Scots had received, and Mackenzy condemn'd; because, as he said, all Marks of Bastardy should be sinister: That is (as I take his Meaning) when they bear the Coat of their asserted Father, with such an Apposition (denoting the Bastardy) as was not in the Coat before. Possibly Bastards may have been distinguish'd by broken Ordinaries, as in the Coat before us and their like: But then those Ordinaries, &c. were in the Arms of their asserted Father, and by being thus broken, when set by his, plainly shew'd the Abatement. But however, I will not as yet, pry too far into these mighty Matters, since they are term'd, The Secrets of Heralds, because I have reserv'd a Place in my Tract of Difference for that End.

Was I to blazon this Kind of Bearing, it shou'd be thus: A Bend, Rompu, from Rumpo, to break; for that it appears to me like the Chevron in a following Example, viz. Broken or Cut, and so one Part turning down, or lifted up; nor can I conceive it to be Dancetté.

'Besides those Bearings bendwise above de-'monstrated, we mentioned another by the 'Name of a Bendlet, which hath greater Re-'semblance with a Bend than any of the rest; 'and by the Name it may seem to be some Sub-'division of the Bend. It hath yet no certain 'Quantity, but containeth evermore a sixth Part 'of the Field (according to the Observation of 'Leigh) whereof you have an Example in this 'next Escutcheon.

'The Field is Argent, 'a Bendlet, Gules. Two 'Manner of Ways doth 'this Charge differ from 'the Bend: The one, that 'the Bend containeth the 'fifth Part of the Field un-'charged, and the third 'Part thereof charged. And 'this is limited to the sixth 'Part of the Field, which it may not exceed. 'Secondly, It is distinguished from the Bend, 'secundum locationem in Place, inasmuch as the 'Bend is so placed, as that the Corner of the Es-'cutcheon doth answer to the just Middle of 'the same, between the upper and nether Lines 'thereof: But the Bendlet beginneth in the ex-'act Corner of the Point of the Escutcheon; so 'as the lower Line is distant from the Corner 'thereof the full breadth of the Bendlet.' But the French know no such Ordinary.

CHAP. VI.

'OUR prefixed Order doth now call upon 'me to bend my course from Bends, 'with the Parts and Subdivisions thereof, and 'to proceed to the Fess, which challengeth the 'next Place.

'The Fess is an Ordinary, formed of a two-'fold Line, drawn overthwart the Breadth of 'the Escutcheon; in the Midst whereof is the 'very Center of the Shield. And it containeth 'the third Part of the Field, and may not be 'diminished, albeit the French Heralds do blazon 'three Barrs Gemels, for a Fess of six Pieces.

But here if I mistake not, Guillim is in an Error; for Baron in his l'Art Heraldique, p. 36. sets forth the Arms of Lomaria, which we blazon Argent, three Barrs Gemells, Gules, thus, d'Argent à trois jumelles de Gueules, by which it appears they call them jumelles, not Faces or Fesses of six Pieces.

'He beareth Vaire, Or, 'and Vert, a Fess, Gules, 'by the Name of Duffield. 'This Word Fess is a 'French Word, and doth 'signify the Loins of a 'Man. This Ordinary 'hath been anciently ta-'ken for the same that we 'call Baltheum militare,

' or Cingulum Honoris, a Belt of Honour; be-
' cauſe it divideth the Field into two equal Parts,
' it ſelf occupying the Middle between both,
' even as the Girdle environeth the middle Part ' of a Man, and reſteth upon his Loins.

Guillim is wrong here alſo, for Feſſe ſignifies (not the Loins) but the Buttocks, which are much lower than the Center, and therefore the French (Bara excepted) write it ſtill Face, and it repreſents, ſaith Mackenzy, p. 37. cap. 13. the Scarf of a Warrior, un Eſharp, Colomb. p. 118. and from bearing Argent, a Face Azure, the firſt of the Sharps who came from France with King David, was call'd Monſieur de l'Eſharp, and by corruption Sharpe: but whether it be the Belt or the Scarf, the Matter is not much, and Guillim's Definition of that Point is by many approved.

He beareth Argent, a Feſs, Vaire, Or, and Gules, by the Name of Hericke: This Coat was aſſign'd by Sir William Segar, Garter, and William Cambden, Clarencieux, Anno 1605. to Sir William Hericke of London, Knight.

Collect. of the North. per Cheſt. or per Glover in M. S. in Aſh. Num. 834.

Argent, a Feſs, Sable, was the Coat of Henry Kyghley of Inskip, Eſq; who married Giſley, Daughter to Sir Thomas Butler of Bewſe, and hath Iſſue Harry, Richard, George, William, John and Margaret.

Romſey of the Counties of Cheſhire and Southampton, Argent, a Feſs, Gules. I find the ſame Coat alſo by the Names of Depdene of Norfolk, Haſſeley of Suffolk, and Lacy of Ireland. It was the ancient Coat alſo of Devereux, Marmion, and Langham.

Everdon or Everingham of Yorkſhire; Argent, a Feſs, Azure.

Wading of Ireland; Sable, a Feſs, Or. The Coat alſo of St. Omer.

Winter; Sable, a Feſs, Ermine.

Lucy of Ireland; Sable, a Feſs, Argent: The Coat alſo of Orwell, Bewchaſtel and Waldrington.

Wallis; Gules, a Feſs, Ermine. The Coat alſo of Axton, Gowre, and Joley.

Gules, a Feſs, Or, was the ancient Coat of the Beauchamps (ſometime Earls of Warwick) before they added the ſix Croſſes, which they ſince carried.

Eliot of Surry; Azure, a Feſs, Or.

Button alias Bitton of Wiltſhire; Ermine, a Feſs, Gules. I find this Coat born alſo by Barnaby Temp, E. 1. by the Name of Barnacke, and of Iſley a Kentiſh Family.

Teſteley; Ermine, a Feſs, Sable.

Dine of Oxfordſhire; Or, a Feſs, Sable, Sir John.

Ablehall of Warwickſhire, and Ableſhall of Glouceſterſhire; Or, a Feſs, Gules. I find the ſame Coat to the Names of Dokenfield and Lacy; and to belong alſo to Sir Edward Colvill of Lincolnſhire.

Vernon; Or, a Feſs, Azure. The ſame Coat I find alſo by the Name of Skewres of Wiltſhire; and by the Names alſo of Vryen, Audencules, Bewmarris, and Brammeryfe.

' This Girdle of Honour may ſeem to have ' been in ancient Time given by Emperors and
' Kings, and their Generals of the Field unto
' Soldiers, for reward of ſome ſpecial Service
' performed by them: And it is not improbable,
' that ſuch a Reward it was, that the General of
' David's Army, Joab, would have given the
' Meſſenger that brought him News that *Abſa-
' lom* was hanged by the Hair of the Head in an
' Oak, if he had ſlain him; where Joab ſaith,
' Why haſt thou not killed him, that ſo I might ' have rewarded thy Service with ten Sheckles of ' Silver, and a Girdle (or an arming Belt?) for
' ſome tranſlate it Cingulum, ſome Baltheum.
' Amongſt the Macedonians, it was ordained by ' a military Law (ſaith Alex. ab Alex.) that the ' Soldier that had not killed an Enemy, *non mi-
' litari Cingulo, ſed capiſtro cingeretur:* ſhould
' not be girt with an arming Girdle, but with
' a Halter. And not without Reaſon is a Man
' adorned with a military Girdle, ſignifying he
' muſt be always in a Readineſs to undergo the ' Buſineſs of the Weal Publick; for the more
' ſpeedy Performance of which Charge, he ſhould
' have his Garments cloſe girt unto his Body,
' that the Looſneſs of them ſhould give no Im-
' pediment to the Execution of his aſſumed
' Charge and enjoined Services. And theſe
' Tokens of Chivalry were ſo highly eſteemed
' in ancient Times, that St. Ambroſe ſaith, in his ' Age, *Duces, & Principes, omnes etiam militantes,
' operoſis Cingulis auro fulgente pretioſis, ambiunt,*
' &c. great Captains, Princes, and martial Men,
' delight to wear their Belts curiouſly wrought,
' and glittering with Gold, &c.

' As the Beſtowing of this military Girdle,
' was reputed very honourable, becauſe none
' were to receive it but Men of Merit; ſo alſo
' was it ever accounted moſt diſhonourable for ' any juſt Cauſe to be again deprived of the Dig' nity thereof; neither ſhould ſuch an one be
' reſtored thereunto, but upon very ſingular
' and eſpecial Deſert, as Feretius noteth, where
' he ſaith, *Auguſtus laudabiliter militarem diſci-
' plinam geſſit ſeveriſſime: & privatos militari Cin-
' gulo nunquam reſtituit, niſi illos præ cæteris vir-
' tutum merita inſignirent: Auguſtus* the Empe-
' ror, got much Honour by the Severity of his
' military Diſcipline: For if a Man were once
' deprived of his arming Girdle, he never would
' reſtore it, unleſs he performed ſome excellent
' Service above all others. Notwithſtanding,
' there is alſo one Kind of putting off the Belt,
' of no leſs Honour, than the putting on of it;
' yea, much more glorious it is, in that it is the ' End and Perfection of the other; and that is,
' when the Victory is atchieved, Victory being
' the End of Arming, as Peace is of Battel. To ' which purpoſe is that ſaying, 1 Reg. 20. 11.
' *Ne jactet ſe qui ſe accingit, ut qui diſcingit: Let ' not him boaſt who girds himſelf, as he that doth
' ungird:* Meaning, we muſt not triumph (as ' the Saying is) before Victory; but it being
' once attained, it is the Honour of a generous
' Mind, to put off his Belt, and not to ſanguine

'his Blade with cold Blood. For thoſe Gallants, who in Times and Places of Peace, are 'ſtill drawing their Swords, like Warriours in 'Times and Places of War, prove (for the 'moſt Part) peaceabler and calmer than they 'ſhould be.

'But if a Knight be diſarmed of his military 'Girdle by his Demerits and Offence, he is 'therewithal deprived of all military Priviledges, 'like as it fareth with a Captain, who (if he 'happen to loſe his Enſigns) is diſabled to ad'vance any other in the Field, until he hath 'either regained the ſame, or by his Valour ex'torted ſome other from the Enemy. Which 'Kind of Deprivation of Knights and martial 'Men for any notable Tranſgreſſion, was of 'frequent Uſe in Times paſt, and in ſome Pla'ces is continued unto this Day with greater 'Severity and much more Infamy than in former 'Times. Depoſitio Cingulorum & Baltheorum '(ſaith Wolfgangus Lazius) quod genus pœnæ pro'prio ſeorſim vocabulo diſcinctura & rectinctura vo'cabatur, manet hodie adhuc in ordine Equeſtri, 'majori quam olim ignominia. Quo ritu (ut nos 'dicimus) Equites aurati degradantur. The De'priving of the Belt (which was wont to be 'termed the Diſcincture or Ungirding) is at 'this Day ſtill in Uſe amongſt Knights, and with 'more Ignominy than it was in ancient Times: 'Which is nothing elſe but that which we call 'degrading of a Knight. If any ask me, How 'this comes about that ſuch Degradation of a 'Knight is more infamous than of Old? I an'ſwer, It is becauſe it is more rare, and there'fore more remarkable. If again you ask, Why 'it is more rare than of Old? I anſwer, Be'cauſe it is more infamous, and therefore 'Princes are more unwilling to inflict it. How'ſoever, the Truth is, That baſe and unknight'ly Actions and Qualities, deſerve a baſe and 'unknightly Chaſtiſement.

'He beareth Or, a Feſs, 'Dancetté, Sable. Theſe 'Arms pertain to the wor'thy Gentleman Sir Tho'mas Vavaſour, who, in 'the Reign of King James, 'was Knight-Marſhal of 'his Majeſty's Houſhold, 'and of the Verge thereto 'appertaining; whoſe Fa'mily anciently had the Addition Le to their 'Name, as being the King's Valvaſores, being, 'in Times paſt, a Degree not much inferiour to 'a Baron, and given to their Family ex Regio 'munere, as Mr. Camden noteth in Yorkſhire, 'ſpeaking of Haſelwood, being the ancient Inhe'ritance of the ſaid Family.

He beareth Ermine, a Feſs dancetté, Sable; by the Name of Weſt. This Coat was confirmed by Sir William Segar, Garter, the 5th of November 1633, in the 9th Year of King Charles I. to ——— Weſt, of ——— ———

See Her. Off. Lond. C. 24.

(G) Leech of Scotland, Argent, a Feſs wavy Sable.

Ermine, a Feſs embattiled, Gules; was aſſign'd by William Flower, Norroy, the 11th of Feb. 1575. 18 Q. Eliz. to Chriſtopher Mather of Secroft, in the County of York. M. S. Aſhm. Num. 834.

(H) Argent, a Feſs wreath'd, Azure and Gules, the Coat of Carmichael, Lord Carmichael: I ſhould chuſe rather to blazon this a Wreath of ſuch Colours in Feſs; tho' I have, agreeable to Sir George's Blazon, rang'd it with Ordinaries.

The Face or Feſs has no Diminutive among us, which Mackenzy (p. 37. cap. 13.) admires at, ſeeing we aſſign ſo many to other Ordinaries: But the French, (ſays he) call little Faces, Trangles, if they be equal in Number; and Burells, if they be unequal, as five or ſeven. But I find, in Baron's l'Art Heraldique, p. 36. the Arms of Vignory, to be thus blazon'd, De gueules à ſix Burelles d'Argent, that is, Gules, ſix Burells, Argent; which Burells we call Barrulets. He blazons alſo the Coat of Grandpre, in the ſame Page, thus, Burelé d'Or & de Gueules de dix Pieces, making Burelé an adjective, and thereby expreſſing the Coat, Burely, as we might ſay in Engliſh: We term this Barruly of Ten, &c. Perhaps from Burelé the French Word. Baron, p. 39. ſpeaks of a Trangle indeed, which he terms half the Face; but gives no Rule concerning the Number, &c. as beforeſaid.

In Scotland, ſaith Mackenzy, p. 37. the Face or Feſs, is call'd a Barr, as he inſtances in the Earl of Perth's Arms, who is ſaid to bear Or, three Barrs wavy, Gules: Thoſe (ſaith he) ſhould be call'd Faces, according to the French; and Feſſes, according to the Engliſh: But here I think he is miſtaken; for though it differs from the French, 'tis agreeable with our Cuſtom, who never allow more than one Feſs to ſtand in one Field, becauſe of its Dimenſion, which is the third Part thereof; and becauſe of its poſition, which is in the Middle; though I hold his Blazon to be as good, becauſe neither the French Cuſtom nor Engliſh, agrees with their Rules. But Mackenzy will have it, that a Face or Feſs, of old, was truly call'd a Barr, and it repreſents (ſays he) in its Shape, one of thoſe Barrs which are us'd all over ſome Doors, and therefore the Latin Authors call it Verris, Skinner verb. Bar. But this I conceive is no Proof yet, for they and the Italians alſo call it Faſcia, or Benda, as he himſelf in the ſame Page allows; and, in my Mind, it rather repreſents the Belt and Scarf, as beforeſaid.

'So much of a Feſs: Now of a Chevron. A 'Chevron is an Ordinary, formed of a two-fold 'Line Spirewiſe or Pyramidal; the Foundation 'being in the dexter and ſiniſter baſe Points of 'the Eſcutcheon, and the Acute-Angle of the 'Spire, near to the Top of the Eſcutcheon: As 'in Example.

'The Field is Topaz, 'a Chevron, Ruby. This 'Coat pertaineth to the 'honourable and ancient 'Family of Stafford, now 'Barons, and ſometimes 'Earls of Stafford, and 'Dukes of Buckingham.'

Newbery of Ireland; Ermine, a Chevron, Gules. The ſame belongs to the Honourable Touchet, Lord Audley; and to the Name of Kinaſton.

Wynſtow; Ermine, a Chevron, Ermines.

Arras; Ermine, a Chevron, Sable. This Coat belong'd alſo to the Names of Plompſted, Hatfield, and Lanſtroder.

Hanningfield or Havingfield of Cornwall; Or, a Chevron, Sable. I find the ſame Coat to the Name of Heningfield of Suffolk, which two Names I take to be varied only by Time and corrupt Writing. I find alſo another Way of Writing this Name, viz. Hangefeeld, which was done by an Eſſex Family who carried the ſame Coat; as did alſo the Donwycks, Deuſton, Penley, and Ridenſhalls, though of different Names.

Cornill of Warwickſhire; Or, a Chevron, Vert. This Coat I find alſo by the Name of Ynge. It has been carried alſo by the Name of Jude of Bedfordſhire. Vide Burton's Leiceſterſhire.

Stafford of Middleſex; Argent, a Chevron, Vert. This Coat belong'd alſo to the Names of Burghepe, Chilton, Swellington and Trye.

Marler or Merler of Kent; Argent, a Chevron, Gules. This Coat belong'd alſo to the Names of Stockel, Thelton, and Tias.

Wanton of Eſſex; Argent, a Chevron, Sable. It was born alſo by the Names of Landon, Archdeacon, Bradley, Deuſon and Prodney.

Wallis of Suſſex and Surry; Gules, a Chevron, Ermine. I have ſeen the ſame Coat alſo by the Name of Kirkby.

Hadley; Gules, a Chevron, Or. The ſame Coat by the Names of Martesſtewe and Gounery, or Gouneris.

Drayton of Norfolk; Gules, a Chevron, Argent. The ſame belong'd alſo to the Names of Kinne, Teys, Dulford, or Fulford of Devonſhire, and Burnebury of Cornwall.

Baynard of Norfolk; Sable, a Chevron, Ermine: By the Name of Wiſe alſo.

Dabernon or d'Abernoun, an ancient Surry Family ſeated at Stoke Dabernon in that County, the preſent Seat of Sir Francis Vincent; Azure, a Chevron, Or. I have ſeen this Coat by ſeveral other Names, as Lathbrooke or Ledbrooke, Abernie, Prowſt and Kime.

Vert, a Chevron, Or, by the Name of Curle. Some give the Chevron Argent. This ſame Coat was confirmed by William Flower, Norroy, the 17th of December 1586, 29th of Queen Elizabeth to William Curll of Hatfield, in the County of Hertford, Son of Nicholas Curll, deſcended of the ancient Family of that Surname in Swaldale, within the Liberty of Richmond, in the County of York. Vide M. S. of Grant's in Aſh. Num. 844.

(G) Tailzeter; Ermine, a Chevron, Gules, a Scots Family.

(H) Argent, a Chevron, Sable, by the Name of Fochart.

(I) Ermine, a Chevron, Gules, by the Name of Tailzefer.

(K) Azure, a Chevron, Ermine, is the Coat of Lidderdale of St. Mary Iſle.

'This Ordinary is reſembled to a Pair of 'Barge-couples or Rafters, ſuch as Carpenters 'do ſet on the higheſt Part of the Houſe, for 'bearing of the Roof thereof; and betokeneth 'the Atchieving of ſome Buſineſs of Moment, 'or the Finiſhing of ſome chargeable and me'morable Work. This was anciently the uſual 'Form of Bearing of the Chevron, as appear'eth by many Seals and Monuments yet extant, 'and is moſt agreeable to Reaſon, that as it re'preſenteth the Roof of a Houſe (though I am 'not ignorant that Leigh ſaith, it was in old 'Times the Attire for the Heads of Women-'Prieſts) ſo accordingly it ſhould be extended 'to the higheſt Part of the Eſcutcheon, though 'far different is the Bearing thereof in theſe 'Days. In which reſpect it were fit that com'mon Painters, the common Diſorderers of 'theſe Tokens of Honour, were better looked 'unto; who both in former Ages, and much 'more in theſe Days, have greatly corrupted 'theſe honourable Signs, by adding their new 'fantaſtical Inventions; that ſo they might 'make the Things born in Coat-Armour more 'perſpicuous to the View, or becauſe they would 'be thought to be well overſeen in Heraldry. 'For indeed they want the Eye of Judgment, 'to ſee and diſcern that ſuch is the Excellency of 'theſe honourable Tokens, that the leaſt altera'tion either by augmentation, diminution, tranſ'poſition, or whatſoever other Means, doth 'occaſion a Change in them ſo great, as that 'they thereby differ from themſelves, not only 'in their accidental, but alſo in their ſubſtan'tial Parts, and ceaſe to be any longer the ſame 'they were before, and their Owners are de'barred to challenge any Propriety or Intereſt 'in them, in reſpect of ſuch Alteration. Modica 'alteratio in membro principali magnam alteratio'nem facit (ſaith the Philoſopher). A little Al'teration makes a great Alteration in a principal 'Part. As the leaſt Spot in the Eye, which is 'the worthieſt Part of the Face, doth more 'diſfigure the ſame, than ten times ſo much in 'any other Member of the whole Body.'

A Chevron is a common French Word ſignifying a Couple, by Vitruvius Capreolus; by the Latin, (ſaith Mackenzy, p. 37. cap. 14.) now it is call'd Tignum, or Cantherius; by the Italian, Capriolo or Caviletto, and is given by Heralds to ſuch as have ſupply'd their Prince, Country, or Family: And thus the Hepburns carry Gules on a Chev-

a Chevron, Argent, two Lyons pulling at a Roſe: The Reaſon of which was (ſaith he) that when the Scots were near beaten at the Battle of —— two Brothers of that Name came in with a freſh Supply and recover'd the Battle, (as Holinſhead, alſo, adds he, confeſſes) for which they got the Chevron to ſignify the Supply they brought, the two Lyons to repreſent the two Brothers, and that they were Scots pulling at a Roſe, which is the Badge of England: Alſo Robertſone of Struan got a Chevron added to his Shield, for taking Graham, who kill'd King James the IIſt, but he has not us'd it of late, ſaith he, becauſe he thought it a Mark of Cadency.

Mackenzy juſtly condemns Leigh for his above nam'd Whim, of its being an Head-tire; and ſays, it proceeded from want of French.

The French place 1, 3, 4, or 5 Chevrons at Pleaſure in one Field, and in this, as in many other Things, ſaith Mackenzy, the Scots follow them; and certainly this is as proper as their ſaying, three Pales, three Bends, and the like.

'The Content of the Chevron is the fifth 'Part of the Field (according to Leigh): But 'Chaſſanæus reckoneth the ſame amongſt thoſe 'Ordinaries that do occupy the third Part of the 'Field. You may have two Chevrons in one 'Field (ſaith Leigh) but not above; and if they 'exceed that Number, then ſhall you call them 'Chevron-ways. But I ſuppoſe they might be 'termed much better Chevronels; that is to 'ſay, minute or ſmall Chevrons; for ſo is their 'Blazon more certain. This Charge following, 'and the Subdiviſions thereof, are diverſely 'born, as well in reſpect of the diverſe Location, 'as of the variable Form thereof; for ſome-'times it is born on Chief, otherwhiles on Baſe, 'ſometimes Enarched, ſometimes Reverſed, 'ſometimes Fretted, &c. As after by Examples 'appeareth.

'He beareth Or, a Che-'vron in Chief, Azure. 'Note, That the lower 'Part of this Chevron is 'far above the ordinary 'Place of a ſingle Che-'vron; for it is pitched 'as high as the Nombril 'of the Eſcutcheon, where-'as others have their ri-'ſing from or near above the dexter and ſini-'ſter Baſe Points. The Anceſtors of this Bearer '(ſaith Leigh) have born the ſame otherwiſe, 'which was for ſome good Purpoſe removed, 'although it were better after the common 'Manner of Bearing. There are divers Acci-'dents incident unto this Ordinary, viz. Tranſ-'poſition, as in this laſt Eſcutcheon; Couping, 'Voiding, and Reverſing. Of all which I pur-'poſe to give ſeveral Examples in their proper 'Places.

'He beareth Ermine, a 'Chevron couped, Sable, 'by the Name of Jones. 'What Couping is, I 'have before ſhewed, 'whereunto (for ſhun-'ning needleſs Repeti-'tion) I refer you.

'He beareth Azure, a 'Chevron Ingrailed, void-'ed, Or, by the Name of 'Dudley. What voiding 'is, I have ſhewed before. 'In the Blazoning of 'Coat-Armours of this 'Kind, I mean of Charges 'voided, you ſhall not 'need to make any men-'tion of the Colour of the exempted Part there-'of, ſaying, That it is voided of the Field: For 'if you ſay voided only, it is ever underſtood 'that the Field ſheweth through the middle 'Part of the Charge voided. If the middle 'Part of this Chevron were of a different Metal, 'Colour, or Furr, from the Field, then ſhould 'you blazon it thus: A Chevron ingrailed, Or, 'ſurmounted of another, of ſuch or ſuch Co-'lour.'

This is a French Bear-ing, and very ſeldom to be found among us: 'Tis thus blazon'd, de Sable au Chevron d'Argent briſé ou eclatté par le haut, i. e. Sable, a Chevron, Argent, burſt or ſplit on the Top. By Syl. Pet. Sta. Capreolus fractus, diminutus capite, mutilus, &c. Mackenzy p. 39. I have ſeen ſeveral of theſe in one Shield, as I ſhall ſhew hereafter.

Argent, a Chevron, Rompu, is the Blazon of this Coat; though ſome ſay erroneouſly Rompé, not knowing the French. If the Manner in which this Chevron is broke, was mention'd, I think it would be better; for Rompu may as well be apply'd to a Chevron broken in another Form or Place.

Azure, a Chevron reverſed, Or. This is a French Coat, and placed by Baron in his l'Art Heraldique p. 47. to the Name of Ralet; his blazon is d'Azur au Chevron verſé d'Or.

This alſo is a French Coat by the Name of Doublet, and blazon'd by Baron in the ſame Place thus, d'Or au Chevron couché d'Azur.

'The Subdiviſions of this Ordinary are { Chevronel. Couple-cloſe.

'A Chevronel is a Diminutive of a Chevron, 'and ſignifieth a minute or ſmall Chevron, and 'containeth half the Quantity of the Chevron: 'As for Example.

'He beareth Argent, a 'Chevronel, Vert. Of theſe '(ſaith Leigh) you may 'have no more than three 'in a Field, except Parti-'tion. The other Subdi-'viſion of the Chevron 'is called a Couple-cloſe. 'A Couple-cloſe is a ſub-'ordinate Charge derived 'from a Chevron, and formed of two Lines 'erected Chevron-ways.

'He beareth Vert, a 'Couple-cloſe, Argent. This 'containeth the fourth of 'the Chevron, and is not 'born but by Pairs, ex-'cept there be a Chevron 'between them. Well 'doth the Name of this 'Charge agree with the 'Uſe thereof, which is not 'only to be born by Couples for the moſt Part, 'but alſo to have a Chevron between them, 'which they incloſe on each Side.

'The next in order to the Chevron is the 'Barr. A Barr is compoſed of two Equi-diſtant 'Lines drawn overthwart the Eſcutcheon, after 'the Manner of the Feſs before-mentioned, as 'in this next Eſcutcheon appeareth.

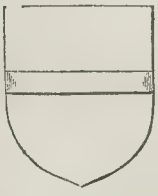

'This Ordinary differ-'eth from the Feſs, not 'only in that it containeth 'the fifth Part of the Field, 'whereas the Feſs occu-'pieth the third Part 'thereof; but alſo that the 'Feſs is limited to one 'certain Place of the Eſ-'cutcheon, to wit, the 'exact Center or Feſs Point thereof, whereas 'the Barr is not tied to any preſcript Place, 'but may be transferred unto ſundry Parts of 'the Eſcutcheon. But if there be but one only 'Barr in the Eſcutcheon, then muſt the ſame 'occupy the Place of the Feſs, as appeareth in 'this Eſcutcheon. This Charge is of more eſti-'mation than is well conſidered of many that 'bear the ſame. If you have two Barrs in the 'Field, they muſt be ſo placed, as that thereby 'the Field of the Eſcutcheon may be divided in-'to five equal Parts; ſo ſhall each of them re-'ceive their juſt Quantity.'

The French have no ſuch Ordinary as this; for they, as I told you before, call a Bend ſiniſter a Barr: And when they ſay he bears Barrs or Barreé, they mean a Bearing like our Scarpes or Bendy ſiniſter; and ſo on the contrary, when they blazon what we call Barrs or Barry, they ſay Faces or Facé.

'A Barr is ſubdivided into a { Cloſet. Barulet.

'A Cloſet is a Charge abſtracted from a Barr, 'and conſiſteth alſo of two Equi-diſtant Lines 'drawn overthwart the Eſcutcheon: As in Ex-'ample.

'He beareth Or, a Clo-'ſet, Sanguine. This con-'taineth half the Barr, and 'of theſe there may be 'five in one Field, and are 'very good Armoury. 'The other Subdiviſion 'of a Barr is called a Ba-'rulet, which (after the 'Opinion of Leigh) can-'not be born dividedly, but muſt be born by 'Couples, unleſs they be parted with a Barr, 'whereof you have an Example in this next 'Eſcutcheon.

'He beareth Sable, a 'Barulet, Argent. The 'Content of the Barulet 'is the fourth Part of the 'Barr, whereof it is a De-'rivative, as by the Name 'of Diminution impoſed 'thereupon doth mani-'feſtly appear. Barulets '(ſaith Upton) are diverſe-'ly born in Arms, viz. Plain, Engrailed, &c. 'whereunto good heed muſt be taken in Bla-'zon.'

Although I might ſeem to ſet this Chapter a-part for the honourable Ordinaries; yet, ſeeing there are other Ordinaries (ſomething leſs frequent) that are form'd by the like Lines, I thought proper to inſert them here, although they do preceed ſome of the honourable Ones, which being compos'd of more Lines, I am conſtrain'd by my late mention'd Method to treat of after ſuch as have leſs: The firſt of theſe Ordinaries is the Gyron.

'A

'A Gyron is an Ordinary consisting of two 'streight Lines drawn from divers Parts of the 'Escutcheon, and meeting in an Acute-Angle 'in the Fess Point of the same. A Gyron (as 'one saith) is the same that we call in Latin 'Gremium, which signifieth a Lap, and is the 'Space between the Thighs; and thence per-'chance do we call the Groyn; which Name, 'whether it be given to this Charge, because 'it determines in gremio, in the very Lap or 'Midst of the Escutcheon, or because it hath a 'Bending like the Thigh and Leg together, I 'cannot define.'

Mackenzy p. 27. c. 8. saith, That Gyron is the French Word for Bosom; and that Gyrons were so call'd, because they met in or about the Bosom: They were of old call'd, Contrarie-conid, because they did meet in Cono, portat arma contra conata ex octo partibus, Vid. Fern. 211. They are in the Latin call'd, Pinnulæ octonæ, and Merli octango-laxi by the Italians: And therefore if they be eight, saith he, the Number need not be express'd, but if there be fewer or more it must. Berengarius was so call'd, saith Mackenzy, Quia ejus Arma erant bene gyronata.

'Gyrons are born diversely, viz. single, by 'couples of six, of eight, of ten, and of twelve, 'as shall appear hereafter, where I shall speak 'of Arms having no Tincture predominating. 'For the Making this Ordinary, behold this 'next Escutcheon, where you shall find one single 'Gyron alone, which doth best express the Man-'ner thereof: As in Example.

'He beareth Sanguine, 'one Gyron issuing from 'the Chief dexter Point, 'Or. If these two Lines 'whereof this Ordinary 'is framed, were drawn 'throughout to the Extre-'mities of the Escutcheon, 'then would they consti-'tute two Gyrons, as in this 'next Escutcheon appeareth. But if this Gyron 'had stood in Fess in the dexter Part, and the 'Gyron Argent, then were it the second Coat of 'the Lord de Wolfo of Suessia, whose Daughter 'was married to the Marquess of Northampton, 'and after to Gorge.

'He beareth Argent, 'two Gyrons, Gules. You 'need not say, meeting 'in Point, the One from 'the dexter Chief, the 'Other in the sinister Base, 'because they do ever-'more meet in the Fess-'Point, be they never so 'many. Here you see, 'that as two Lines drawn, the one Bend-ways 'from the dexter Corner of the chief Part of 'the Escutcheon, and resting on the Fess-Point, 'and the other drawn Fess-ways overthwart the 'Escutcheon, and meeting with the same in 'the said Fess-Point, do make one Gyron: So 'do the same drawn throughout, produce two 'Gyrons.

'So much of a Gyron: Now of a Canton and 'Quarter.

'A Canton is an Ordinary framed of two 'streight Lines, the One drawn perpendicularly 'from the Chief, and the Other transverse from 'the Side of the Escutcheon, and meeting there-'with in a Right-Angle, near to the Corner of 'the Escutcheon, as in this next appeareth.

'He beareth Argent, a 'Canton, Sable, by the 'Name of Sutton. This 'Ordinary is termed a 'Canton, because it oc-'cupieth but a Corner or 'Cantel of the Escutcheon. 'Some Armourists do 'hold, That the Canton 'is a Reward given to 'Gentlemen, Esquires, 'and Knights, for Service done by them, and 'not to a Baron. Some others notwith-'standing are of a different Opinion, That a 'Canton may well beseem an Earl or a Baron 'receiving the same at his Sovereign's Hand; 'yet is the Quarter to be preferred in Dignity 'before the same: And before them both, 'Sir John Ferne preferreth the Escutcheon of 'Pretence, which he calleth an Engistet or Fessy-'Target.

In this Mackenzy, p. 27. c. 8. agrees pretty well with Guillim; for, says he, it is call'd Canton from the French Word Canton, which signifies a Corner; and it represents the Banner that has been given to the Bearer, as a Reward of his Service; or at least is equivalent, as if a Banner had been given to him.

'Note, That a Canton parted traverse-ways, 'whether it be from the dexter Corner, or from 'the Sinister, doth make two base Squires. And 'if the Canton be placed in the dexter Corner 'of the Escutcheon, you must in blazon only 'name it a Canton, not making any mention 'of the local Situation thereof: But if it be pla-'ced on the contrary Side, then must you in 'Blazon add this Word Sinister, as he beareth 'a Canton sinister. The sinister Canton is all 'one with the Dexter in Form, in Quantity, 'and in Estimation, but differeth from the same, 'both in regard of the local Position thereof (by 'reason that it is placed in the sinister Corner of 'the Escutcheon) as also in that it is not of so 'frequent Use.

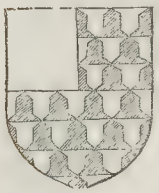

'Hitherto of a Canton, now of a Quarter.

'The Quarter is an Ordinary of like Compo-'sition with the Canton, and holdeth the same 'Places, and hath great resemblance thereof; 'insomuch as the same Rules and Observations 'that do serve for the One, may be attributed 'to the Other, Quia similium similis est ratio;

'of

' of like Things, the Reason is alike. The only ' Difference between them is, That the Canton ' keepeth only a Cantle or small Portion of the ' Corner of the Escutcheon, and the Quarter com- ' prehendeth the full fourth Part of the Escutche- ' on: As in Example.

Mackenzy, p. 27. is mistaken, where he makes the Canton and Quarter to be all one: And this I understand as much from his own Derivation of the Word Canton, lately mentioned, as any other Consideration; for, says he, the Canton is a Corner; and that a Corner of any Thing is improperly call'd a Quarter thereof, I need not prove.

' He beareth Verrey, Ar- ' gent and Sable, a Quar- ' ter, Gules, by the Name ' of Estanton. Albeit that ' (according to Leigh) the ' Quarter is for the most ' Part given by Emperors ' and Kings to a Baron (at ' the least) for some spe- ' cial or acceptable Ser- ' vice done by him; yet do we find the same ' bestowed upon Persons of meaner Dignity for ' like Occasion. Contrariwise, the Canton (be- ' ing received at the Sovereign's Hand) may ' beseem the Dignity of a Baron or Earl, as ' aforesaid.

' Having spoken of the Canton and Quarter, ' as much as for this present is requisite, I will ' reserve some other their Adjuncts to a more ' convenient Place. And will now speak of a ' Pile, shewing some variable Examples of the ' diverse Bearings thereof.

' A Pile is an Ordinary consisting of a two- ' fold Line, formed after the Manner of a Wedge; ' that is to say, broad at the upper End, and so ' lessening by Degrees throughout with a come- ' ly Narrowness and taper Growth, meeting to- ' gether at the lower End in an Acute-Angle, as ' in this next Escutcheon appeareth.

" The late Editor of this Book took the Pile, " to be derived from Pilum, an ancient Weapon " peculiar to the Romans, shaped somewhat like " a Dart without Feathers, but thicker at the " great End, and waxing smaller Taper-wise, " being about five Foot in length, and sharp- " ned at the Point with Steel: And such (saith " he) were the offensive Arms of the Hastati and " Principes, as Polybius of the Roman Militia af- " firmeth: And Generals themselves have born " them in their Marches, perhaps to encourage " the Soldiers by their Examples; all which is " proved by the excellent Lucan, lib. 1. who la- " menting the Misery of a Civil War, thus " complains:

—— " Totis concussi viribus orbis
" In commune nefas, infestisque obvia signis
" Signa, pares aquilas, & Pila minantia Pilis.

—— " where, arm'd to impious War
" The Force of all the quaking World from far
" Is met; dire Standards against Standards dash,
" Eagles 'gainst Eagles, 'gainst Piles, Piles do clash.

And Lib. 7.

—— " sceleris sed crimine nullo
" Externum maculant Chalybem, stetit omne coactum
" Circa Pila nefas ——

" But no dire Crime could stain the Stranger's Steel,
" Nought could do Mischief but the Roman Pile.

" Lastly, describing Cato's Magnanimity in " his rough March through Libya, he thus sing- " eth, Lib. 9.

" Ipse manu sua Pila gerens, &c.

Thus Englished:

" Himself a-foot, before his wearied Bands,
" Marches with Pile in Hand, and not commands.

But a Pile in Heraldry (saith Mackenzy p 27. c. 8.) represents that Engine whereby Soldiers and others secured the Foundations of their Buildings; and have since been given to such as were very useful in founding Commonwealths, Colonies, or Families: But three Piles are often mistaken (as he conceives) both in England and Scotland, for the Passion-Nails; which were ordinary Symbols assum'd by such as went to the Holy Land. And thus (saith he) I blazon the Wisharts Arms, Argent, three Passion-nails Gules, meeting in Point, for they resemble exactly the Jesuits Cognizance, which is three Passion-nails. And generally in France and Spain, where these Piles are Gules and meet in Point, they are call'd Passion-nails: And he the rather believes this, because Spelman, p. 572. relates, That the Wisharts got this Name out of Malice from the Saracens, whom Robert, the first of that Name, did much persecute, about the Time of the Norman Conquest.

But the Nails we very frequently see in English Coat-Armours, are like the real Nails which Antiquity us'd, and not like Piles. 'Tis probable, in those ancient zealous Times, Nails might represent the Passion-nails, and in such Coats the Blazon is not improper. But later Times have introduc'd them on other Occasions, wherefore I treat of them as Things pertinent to Building under their proper Head.

' He beareth Argent, a ' Pile, Gules. This Coat ' pertained to the right ' worthy and valiant ' Knight, Sir John Chan- ' dos, Baron of St. Savi- ' our's, le Visconnt in France, ' great Seneschal of Poictu ' High Constable of Aqui- tain.

'tain. All given him by King Edward the Third, 'who alſo made him one of the Founders of the 'moſt Noble Order of the Garter. In all For-'tifications and Buildings, in caſe the Ground 'be diſtruſted to be unſure and deceivable, Men 'are accuſtomed to build upon Piles, and by 'them to force an infallible and permanent 'Foundation.

Azure, a Pile, Ermine, was confirmed by William Flower, Norroy, June 28, 1587. 29 Queen Eliz. to Tho. Wyche of Davenham, in Com. Ceſt. Gent. (who married ——— Daughter and Heir of ——— Moreton, of the ſaid County) Son of Richard, by his Wife ——— Daughter of ——— Haughton, which Richard was Son of Richard by his Wife ——— Daughter of Beeſton) who was Son of William Wyche and Margery his Wife, one of the Daughters and Co-heirs of Richard Brett of Davenham aforeſaid. Vide M. S. of Grant's in Aſhm. N° 844.

'He beareth Or, a Pile 'engrailed, Sable, by the 'Name of Waterhouſe; and 'was the paternal Coat-'Armour of Dr. Edward 'Waterhouſe, a great Lo-'ver of Antiquities and 'Heraldry.' This was the Gentleman that writ the Octavo, Entitled, The Defence of Arms and Armoury, which I have quoted in my Introduction, and he that was ſuppos'd to have a chief Hand in Morgan's Sphere of Gentry.

'Sometimes you ſhall find this Ordinary born 'tranſpoſed or reverſed, contrary to the uſual 'Form of their Bearing, viz. with their Points 'upward, which naturally ought to be down-'wards, being ſuppoſed to be a Piece of Tim-'ber, whoſe nether Part is ſharp'ned, to the 'End that it may be more commodiouſly driven 'into the Ground;' and ſometimes two or three in one Eſcutcheon; as hereafter ſhall appear.

'The Pile is an ancient Addition to Armoury, 'and is a Thing that maketh all Foundations 'to be firm and perfect, eſpecially in Water-'works.

'When there is but one Pile in the Field, it 'muſt contain the third Part of the ſame at the 'Chief. This Ordinary is diverſely formed and 'born, as in this next Eſcutcheon doth ap-'pear.

'He beareth Argent, a 'triple Pile, Flory on the 'Tops, iſſuing out of the 'ſiniſter Baſe, in Bend, 'towards the dexter Cor-'ner, Sable. This Sort of 'Bearing of the Pile, hath 'a Reſemblance of ſo ma-'ny Piles driven into ſome 'Water-work, and by 'long Tract of Time, incorporated at their 'Heads, by reaſon of an extraordinary Weight 'impoſed upon them, which gave Impediment 'of their Growth in height.

'He beareth Azure, a 'Pile waved, iſſuing out 'of the dexter Corner of 'the Eſcutcheon, Bend-'ways, Or, by the Name 'of Aldam. As this Pile 'waved iſſueth out of the 'Dexter, ſo alſo may the 'ſame be born from the 'ſiniſter Chief Point. 'Moreover you ſhall find them born in Pale, 'and ſometimes iſſuing out of the Baſe with the 'Point thereof tranſpoſed, which I leave to Ob-'ſervation.

'So much of Piles, and their Variety, as well 'of Form as of Location. There reſt yet ſome 'other Sorts of Ordinaries, that are compoſed of 'a two-fold Line, not hitherto ſpoken of.

'Such are theſe, viz. { Flaſque. Flanch. Voider.

'In ſome Mens Conceit, perhaps, theſe Ordina-'ries laſt mentioned might have been more fitly 'placed amongſt ſuch as are before handled, 'and are compoſed of a ſingle Line (of which 'Number theſe may be well reckoned, if we 'conſider them each one a-part by themſelves:) 'but foraſmuch as none of them are born ſingle, 'but always by couples; for conveniency, I 'have choſen rather to ſort them with theſe that 'are formed of a two-fold Line: And firſt of a 'Flaſque.

'A Flaſque is an Ordinary conſiſting of one 'Arch-line, drawn ſomewhat diſtant from the 'Corners of the Chief, and meanly ſwelling by 'Degrees until you come towards the Midſt of 'the Eſcutcheon, and from thence again decrea-'ſing with a like comely Deſcent unto the ſini-'ſter baſe Points: As in Example.

'The Field is Or, two 'Flaſques, Azure. This 'Reward (ſaith Leigh) is 'to be given by a King 'for Vertue and Learn-'ing, and eſpecially for 'Service in Ambaſſage: 'For therein may a Gen-'tleman deſerve as well

'of

'of his Sovereign, as the Knight that serveth 'him in the Field. This is called an Arch-line, 'of the Latin Word Arcus, that signifieth a Bow, 'which being bent, hath a moderate bowing, 'void of Excess of Tuberosity. This Word 'Flasque is derived either from the French Word 'Flechier, or from the Latin Word Flecto, which 'signifieth to bend or bow.'

It hath its Name, saith Mackenzy p. 28. c. 8. as Skinner observes, à similitudine uterum antiquorum: Animi candorem notat, Herodian. in severo, p. 223. But Spelman (says he) asserts, that they are the Facings of Gowns which were of old so shap'd. Others also there are who think these Flasques to be the proper Rewards given by Princes, to such as have serv'd them as domestick Servants: For the Voider, which is the Diminutive of the Flasque, is acknowledg'd by Guillim (as you will by and by see) to be the Reward for domestick Service, & eadem est ratio totius, & partis.

'The next in Order is the Flanch, which is 'an Ordinary formed of an Arch-line, taking its 'Beginning from the Corner of the Chief, and 'from thence compassing orderly with a swel-'ling Embossment, until it come near to the 'Nombril of the Escutcheon, and thence pro-'portionably declining to the sinister base Point, 'as in this next Escutcheon.

'He beareth Ermine, 'two Flanches, Vert. This '(saith Leigh) is one De-'gree under the aforesaid 'Flasque, yet it is com-'mendable Armoury. This 'Word Flanch (as some 'do hold) is derived from 'the French Word Flans, 'which signifieth the 'Flank of a Man or Beast, that includeth the 'small Guts, because that Part strutteth out, 'cum tumore quodam, as it were a blown Bladder. 'Sometimes you may find this Ordinary made 'of some other Forms of Lines than plain, which 'when it shall happen, you must in the Blazon 'thereof make special mention of the Form of 'Line whereof it is composed.

'Last of all in our Ordinaries, cometh the 'Voider, consisting of one Arch-line moderate-'ly bowing from the Corner of the Chief, by 'Degrees, towards the Nombril of the Escu-'tcheon, and from thence in like Sort declin-'ing, until it come unto the sinister Base, and 'hath a more near Resemblance of the Bent of 'a Bow than the Flanch hath, in that it riseth 'not with so deep a Compass: As in Example.

'He beareth Tenne, two 'Voiders, Or. This is the 'Reward of a Gentlewo-'man for Service by her 'done to the Prince; but 'then the Voider should 'be of one of the nine Furs 'or Doublings. Such Re-'ward (saith Leigh) might 'the Dutchess of Mont-'fort have given to her Gentlewoman, who 'served her most diligently, not only while 'she kept the Town of Hanybot, but also when 'she rode armed into the Field, and scared the 'Frenchmen from the Siege thereof. These are 'called Voiders, either because of the Shallow-'ness wherein they do resemble the accustom-'ed voiding Plates with narrow Brims used at 'Tables; or else of the French Word Voire, 'which signifieth a Looking-glass or Mirrour, '(which in ancient Times were commonly made 'in that bulging Form) especially considering 'they are given to Gentlewomen in recompence 'of Service, unto whom such Gifts are accept-'able; and withal implying, that Gentlewo-'men so well deserving, should be Mirrors and 'Patterns to others of their Sex, wherein to be-'hold both their Duties, and the due Reward of 'Vertues. His Counsel was so very behoveful, 'who advised all Gentlewomen often to look 'on Glasses, that so, if they saw themselves 'beautiful, they might be stirred up to make 'their Minds as fair by Vertue, as their Faces 'were by Nature: But if deformed, they might 'make amends for their outward Deformity, 'with their intern Pulchritude and gracious Qua-'lities. And those that are proud of their Beau-'ty, should consider, that their own Hue is as 'brittle as the Glass wherein they see it; and 'that they carry on their Shoulders nothing but 'a Skull wrapt in Skin, which one Day will be 'loathsome to be looked on.

CHAP. VII.

'HAving shewed the Manner and Making 'of such Ordinaries as are composed of 'a two-fold Line; we will now proceed to that 'other Member of the Distribution before de-'livered, which maketh mention of Ordinaries 'consisting of Lines more than two-fold; and 'will shew how they also are made.

'Such Ordinaries do consist of Lines { Three-fold. Four-fold.

'Those that are formed of a three-fold Line, 'are the Inescutcheon and the Orle.

'The

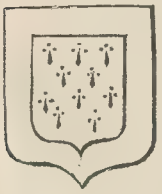

'The Ineſcutcheon is an Ordinary formed of 'a three-fold Line, repreſenting the Shape of the 'Eſcutcheon: As in Example.

'He beareth Ermine, 'an Ineſcutcheon, Gules, 'by the Name of Hul-'greve: This Name of 'Ineſcutcheon is proper 'only to thoſe that are 'born in this Place; for 'if the ſame were born 'in any other Place, than 'upon the Feſs-Point of 'the Shield, you ſhould term the ſame then an 'Eſcutcheon, and not an Ineſcutcheon; ſo muſt 'you alſo, if there be more than one in the 'Field. This Eſcutcheon is ſometimes termed 'an Eſcutcheon of Pretence, as ſhall hereafter 'appear.

I conceive both the Engliſh and Scotch are in an Error, when they ſay an Ineſcutcheon of Pretence; or that the 'Scutcheon of Pretence is an Ineſcutcheon: For an Ineſcutcheon is properly the Charge of a Shield, and born within a 'Scutcheon or Shield, as the Coat before us, whether in that or any other Poſition, let Guillim aſſert what he pleaſe; and therefore the French do more properly call our 'Scutcheon of Pretence, a 'Scutcheon Sur-tout, a Shield over all, becauſe it covers ſome Part of the Charge of the Coat or Coats whereon it is placed: But of this hereafter.

'This Ordinary containeth the fifth Part of 'the Field (ſaith Leigh, but his demonſtration 'denoteth the third Part) and may not be diminiſhed; and albeit it be ſubject to ſome Alter-'ation, by reaſon of the different Forms of 'Lines before ſpecified, yet it keepeth ſtill one 'ſett Form of an Eſcutcheon, as we ſhall ſee 'by and by.

The next Ordinary, in courſe, which is compoſed of a three-fold Line, is the Border as We and the French term it, i. e. a Border; for, as you may obſerve by the Cut, it borders round, and as it were hemms in the Field.

The French reckon this the Ninth among their twelve Honourable Pieces: But what is very remarkable, our Engliſh Heralds will by no means admit it as ſuch, nor as a principal Figure, but only as a Difference, though they do allow of its diminutive the Orle as ſuch: But, as both Mackenzy and Nisbet have very well obſerv'd, they are miſtaken; for 'tis an Ordinary, and a principal Figure, not only in France and Scotland, but in England too, as is evident in the following Coats, which conſiſt of no other Charge but Bordures; therefore Guillim, Leigh, and other Writers ſhould have better conſulted their Books of Ordinaries before they had writ ſo poſitively.

Ermine, a Bordure, Gules, is the ancient Coat pertaining to the Family of Hundeſcote. I ſuppoſe none will pretend that this is a Mark of Cadency from the ancient Dukes of Britany, and if not, the Bordure muſt be an Ordinary, and a principal Figure.

Or, a Bordure, Vaire, pertain'd to the ancient Family of Gwine.

I could here inſtance two or three more, as particularly the Families of Hunt, Swynburne, &c. whoſe Coats, by my Method, I am conſtrain'd to ſpeak of in another Place.

'The next in rank of this Kind is the Orle, 'which is an Ordinary compoſed of a three-fold 'Line duplicated, admitting a Tranſparency of 'the Field, throughout the innermoſt Area or 'Space therein incloſed. This hath the Form 'of an Ineſcutcheon, but hath not the ſolid Sub-'ſtance thereof, being evermore voided; as in 'theſe following Examples appeareth.

'He beareth Or, an 'Orle, Azure, by the 'Name of Bertram, Lord 'of Bothal. This Word 'Orle ſeemeth to be de-'rived from the French 'Word Oreiller, which 'ſignifieth a Pillow, and 'is attributed to this Or-'dinary, becauſe the ſame 'being of a different Tincture from the Field-'and formed only of a double Tract, in re-'gard of the Tranſparency of the Field with-'in, and the ſurrounding thereof without, it 'receiveth the Reſemblance of an emboſſed 'Subſtance, as if it were raiſed like a Pillow 'above the Field. Upton termeth it in Latin 'Tractus, which ſignifieth a Trace or Trail, be-'cauſe the Field is ſeen both within and with-'out it; and the Trail it ſelf is drawn thereup-'on in a different Colour. If this were flored '(ſaith Leigh) then muſt it be called a Treſſure, 'which muſt contain the fifth Part of the Field. 'And if two of theſe be in an Eſcutcheon, you 'muſt term them a double Treſſure.

But Mackenzy p. 40. derives this Orle from the Latin Word Orula, which ſignifies a little Bordure, and ſays, That as the Bordure, ſo alſo this was given to recompence ſuch as have afforded Protection and Defence, becauſe it defends what is within it. He makes the Treſſure or Treſſeur alſo to ſignify the ſame, becauſe he holds it to be the Diminutive thereof, as that is of the Bordure. What a Treſſure is, ſee the Examples following thoſe of the Orle.

'Chaſſaneus ſaith, that the Orle is ſometimes 'formed of many Pieces, and that they are born 'to the Number of Six.

'As touching the Doubling of this plain Orle, 'I will not here give Example, for that I pur-'poſe to preſent to your View a three-fold Orle 'or Tract, which doth include the two-fold, as 'in this next Eſcutcheon appeareth.

'He beareth Or, an 'Orle of three Pieces, Sable. That this Ordinary is born of many 'Tracts, it appeareth by 'this Example, taken 'out of Upton, for the 'Reader's Satisfaction; 'where it is ſaid, Sunt 'inſuper alii qui habent 'iſtum Tractum triplicatum & quadruplicatum, ut 'nuper in armis Epiſcopi Cænomanenſis, qui porta-'vit pro Armis unum Tractum triplicatum de ni-'gro, in campo aureo: Some bear the Orle tripled 'and quadrupled, as the late Biſhop of Maine, 'who bare a tripled Orle, Sable, in a Field, Or. 'This Ordinary is born diverſely, according to 'the ſeveral Forms of Lines before handled, as 'may appear in the Examples enſuing.

'He beareth Or, an 'Orle Engrailed on the 'inner Side, Gules.

Or, an Orle Indented on the inner Side, is the Coat of Landell of Coule; and without the Indent is the ancient Coat of that Name, as now quarter'd by the Earl of Hume.

'I found this Form of Bearing obſerved by an 'uncertain Author, whom at firſt I ſuppoſed 'to have either unskilfully taken, or negligent-'ly miſtaken the Trick thereof; but after I had 'found in Upton, that in blazoning of an Orle 'Engrailed, he blazoned the ſame; an Orle En-'grailed on both Sides, I took more ſpecial No-'tice of this Kind of Bearing, for that ſuch a 'Form of Blazon (proceeding from a Man ſo 'judicious in this Kind) ſeemed covertly to im-'ply a Diſtinction of That from this Form of 'Bearing. And becauſe diverſa juxta ſe appoſita 'magis elucescunt, Things differing give Light 'each to other, I will here produce the Coat it 'ſelf, and the Blazon thereof, as I find it ſet 'down by Upton.

'Il port (ſaith he) de 'Gules un trace engrailee, 'de chaſcun coſt d'Or. 'And in Latin thus: Qui 'habet iſta Arma, portat 'unum tractum ex utraque 'parte ingradatum, de Au-'ro in campo rubro. He 'beareth an Orle engrail-'ed on both Sides, Or, in 'a Field, Gules. And no doubt by heedful Ob-'ſervation you may find theſe Orles in like Sort 'born invecked, Similium enim ſimilis eſt ratio; 'for like Things have the like Reaſon and Re-'ſpect.

'Note, That diverſe Charges, as well Arti-'ficial as Natural, are born Orle-ways, or in 'Orle: As likewiſe in Form of Croſs, Bend, 'Chevron, Saltire, &c. the Examples whereof 'I muſt paſs over, until a fit Place be offered 'to handle Charges of thoſe Kinds Concern-'ing the Bearing of Orles, compoſed of the ſun-'dry Sorts of Furrs, I hold it needleſs to uſe 'Examples to expreſs them to the View, for 'that by Conſideration of the manifold Sorts 'of ſeveral Ordinaries before expreſſed, their 'diverſe Manner of Bearing may be eaſily con-'ceived: And therefore I will leave them to 'Obſervation.'

Argent, a Treſſure, Azure. This, as I ſaid, is the Diminutive of an Orle, and is moſt frequently born Flory, Counter-flory, particularly in Scotland, as in the next Eſcutcheon, and ſometimes double, as in the Arms of that Kingdom, to which it was added, as a Note of that memorable League betwixt their King Achaius and Charlemaign King of France. It is carried as a principal Figure in England, by the Family of Jaſon, as you will find hereafter.

'Hitherto have we conſidered the Making 'of ſuch Ordinaries as are compoſed of a three-'fold Line: Our Order calleth me now to ſpeak 'of ſuch Ordinaries as do require a four-fold Line 'for the Effecting of them.

'Of this Sort is the { Croſs. / Saltire.

'The Croſs is an Ordinary compoſed of a 'four fold Line, whereof two are Perpendicu-'luar, and the other two are Tranſverſe, for 'ſo we muſt conceive of them, though they are 'not drawn throughout, but meet by Couples 'in four Acute-Angles, near about the Feſs-'Point of the Eſcutcheon; to look upon (if 'they were couped, as they are ſometimes found) 'like to four Carpenter's Squares; as the Ex-'ample following will demonſtrate. This Or-'dinary is called Crux, à cruciando, or à cruciatu, 'becauſe of the unſpeakable Torture and Tor-'ment which they do ſuffer, who undergo this 'Kind of Death. The Content of the Croſs is 'not the ſame always: For when it is not 'charged, then it hath only the fifth Part of the 'Field; but if it be charged, then muſt it con-'tain the third Part thereof. To give you par-'ticular Examples of all the different Forms of 'Bearing of the Croſs, were as needleſs as end-'leſs, conſidering the Variety ſet down by other 'Authors: I will therefore content my ſelf with 'theſe enſuing.

'He

'He beareth Argent, a 'Croſs, Sable, by the Name 'of Raynsford, and is the 'paternal Coat-Armour of 'Sir Richard Raynsford of 'Dallington in Northamp- 'tonſhire, Kt. Lord Chief 'Juſtice of his Majeſty's 'Court of King's Bench.

'This Coat was alſo born by Henry Rayns- 'ford of Stanmore magna in Middleſex, B. D. 'deceaſed.

'Argent, a Croſs, Vert, by the Name of Huſ- 'ſey; and with the Arms of Ulſter, is the Coat- 'Armour of Sir Thomas Huſſey of Hemington in 'Lincolnſhire, Bart.

'Azure, a Croſs, Or: This Coat-Armour per- 'tained to the right worſhipful Family of Shel- 'ton in the County of Norfolk, whence deſcend- 'ed that honourable vertuous Lady, Mary Shel- 'ton, who was many Years of the moſt honou- 'rable Bed-chamber of that glorious Queen Eli- 'zabeth; and was alſo Wife to the right wor- 'ſhipful Sir John Scudamore of Home-Lacy in the 'County of Hereford, Kt. Standard-bearer to 'Her Majeſty's Honourable Band of Gentle- 'men Penſioners.'

This ſame Coat is alſo born by Theophilus Shelton, of Darrington, in the County of York, Eſquire.

(℔) Or, a Croſs, Gules, by the Name of Corsby.

Vert, a Croſs, Or, was born by Henry Sted- man or Stedmyn, of Brecknockſhire, Gent. who dy'd in the Houſe of —— Roſe behind, or on the North Side of St. Maries Church, the 22d. of Octo- ber, 1685. Aged 65, or thereabouts; buried by the Care of his Son Hen ry Stedmyn, M. A. (and Chaplain of All Souls Colledge) in St. Mary's Church.

M. S. of Ant. à Wood's Remarks de Com. Oxon.

He accompany'd Sir Leolin Jenkyns's Body from Hammerſmith to Oxon, and continuing there for ſome Time after, for the Sake of his Son, fell ſick and dy'd. He was the Son (as Ant. à Wood conceiv'd) of John Stedman of Loves- lodge in Caermarthenſhire, Eſq; and had been a Student in Jeſus Colledge with Sir Leolin Jenkyns before-mentioned.

Henry Stedman, the Son, was matriculated, of St. Alban's Hall, in Oxon, by the Name of Sted- min, Son of Henry Stedmin of St. B——chin, Gent. Aged 17, 1671. April 10.

Argent, a Croſs, Sable, was the Coat of Piers Leigh, of Bradley, who married to his firſt Wife Jane, Daughter to Sir Thomas Gerard of Bryn.

Coll. of the North. per Glover (or Cheſter) in M. S. in the Aſhmolian Library, Number 834.

'This Ordinary is oftentimes diverſely nam- 'ed, according to the Diverſity of Lines where- 'of it is compoſed: For as is the Form of 'Lines whereof it is made, ſo is the Denomina- 'tion thereof. In the ancienteſt Inſtitution of 'the Bearing of the Croſs (without all Con- 'troverſy) it had this Form; which is taken 'to be the true Shape of the Croſs whereupon 'our bleſſed Saviour Jeſus Chriſt ſuffered: 'Whoſe godly Obſervation and Uſe was in 'great Eſteem in the Primitive Church; tho' 'in latter Times it hath been diſhonourably 'entertained by two oppoſed Kinds of Fan- 'taſticks: The One, who ſo ſuperſtitiouſly dote 'on it, that they adore it like their God: The 'Other, who ſo Unchriſtianly deteſt it, that 'they ſlander the moſt godly and ancient Uſe 'thereof, in our firſt initiating unto Chriſt, as 'if it were ſome deviliſh Idol. But the true 'Soldiers of ſuch a Captain need not to be 'aſhamed to bear their General's Enſign. And 'this Bearing was firſt beſtowed on ſuch as 'had performed, or at leaſt undertaken ſome 'Service for Chriſt, and Chriſtian Profeſſion: 'And therefore being duly conferred, I hold 'it the moſt honourable Charge to be found in 'Heraldry. But the Form and Bearing there- 'of (as well as the Chevrons formerly ſpoken 'of) hath been alſo depraved through the in- 'conſiderate Handling of common Painters. 'For which Cauſe I have cauſed this prece- 'dent Croſs only to be cut after this Faſhion, 'in the Reſt I have enſued the vulgar Manner of 'Bearing now uſed, Nemo enim errantem arguit, 'qui cum multis errat.'

That which made this Ordinary ſo conſider- able, and ſo frequently uſed in Heraldry was, the ancient Expeditions into the Holy Land, and the Holy War; for the Pilgrims, after their Pilgrimage, took the Croſs for their Cog- nizance, and the Enſign of that War was the Croſs; and therefore theſe Expeditions were called Croiſſades. In theſe Wars (ſaith Mackenzy p. 42. cap. 16.) the Scots carried St. Andrew's Croſs, the French a Croſs Argent, the Engliſh a Croſs Or, the Germans, Sable, the Italians, Azure, the Spaniards, Gules, as Colomb. obſerves: Thus Montmorancy carry the Croſs becauſe they were the eldeſt Chriſtians among the Gauls, and the Dukes of Savoy becauſe they did aſſiſt the Rhodes againſt the Turks; and the Sibald, who are come from Sabaudia, carry the Croſs, becauſe Savoy or Sabaudia, from whence they came, carry the Croſs; for Sibandus or Sibaldus, is but the corrupted Name of Sabaudus. But the St. George's Croſs, i. e. the red Croſs in a Field, Argent, is now the Standard of England, he being our Patron.

Note, That the Latin Terms of moſt of the Croſſes following, are ſet down from Mackenzy, who gives them as ſet down by Syl. Pet. Sanct. Upton, and others.

'A like Form of Bearing of this, is that Croſs 'which we find born in the Shield of St. George, 'but diverſely from this, both in Metal and 'Colour: Which, of ſome Armouriſts in Up- 'ton's Time (as himſelf noteth in his Diſcourſe

'of Arms) received in those Days a very strange 'and absurd Kind of Blazon, which he there 'setteth down after this Manner; the Shield, 'Gules, four Quarters, Argent: Whose Reason 'herein (saith he) I do not allow, for that by 'such Manner of Blazon, the Bearing of a 'plain Cross shall never be known. Moreover, 'herein also may we observe the Blazon hereof 'to be erroneous, in that they say, Four Quar-'ters: Which are indeed but so many Cantons; 'else should they all four meet in the Center of 'the Escutcheon. This Ordinary is subject to 'voiding and couping, as these Examples fol-'lowing shew.

'He beareth Argent, 'a Cross voided, Azure; in Latin, Crux secta introrsim, seu perforata. 'Pa-'normitan writeth of Al-'phonsus King of Arragon '(what Time he besieged 'Puteoli, a City by the 'Sea-side in Campania) 'that he resorted daily to 'the Sea-shore for his Recreation, upon a Time he 'chanced to find the Corps of a Man of Genoa 'in Italy, that had been cast out of a Galley; 'and thereupon alighting speedily from his 'Horse, caused all others that were near him 'to light; and commanded some to dig a Grave, 'whilst others covered the naked Corps; and 'he himself, with his own Hands did make a 'Cross of Wood, which he sticked fast at the 'Head of the Man so interred; to testify that 'all Christian Offices may beseem the greatest 'Kings; and that whatever Death we die, it 'is not material, so we live to Christ. So great 'is the Resemblance oftentimes of Things born 'in Coat-Armour, which yet in their Existence 'are much differing, that a Man well seen in 'Heraldry, may easily commit an Error in the 'Blazoning of them, as by comparing of this 'Coat-Armour with the next, will manifestly 'appear: Wherefore you must use an advised 'Deliberation in Blazoning, especially of Arms 'of near resemblance.

'He beareth Argent, a 'Cross-wavy, voided, 'Sable, by the Name of 'Duckenfield in Devon-'shire. In Coats of such 'Bearing, you shall not 'need to say, in the Bla-'zon of them, that the 'Charge (whatsoever the 'same be) is voided of 'the Field; because when you say only Void-'ed, and no more, it is always understood to 'be voided of the Field.

'He beareth Or, a Cross 'Patee, Sable, Fimbriated, 'Gules.'

This is call'd a Cross Pâtée: Quia extremitates ejus sunt patulæ, because the Ends are broad and patent, and to this agrees Chass. fol. 28. Bara le Blazon des Arm. 67. though Leigh, I know, is of a contrary Opinion, and calls it Formée or Formy. In the Latin a Cross Patée is call'd, Crux patula ad scapos, seu Crux patens.

'This approacheth near to the former, in re-'spect of the double Tract thereof; yet doth 'it much differ from the same in Substance, for-'asmuch as the Charge of that is a twofold 'Cross, viz. one surmounted of another; and 'this a single Cross bordured or invironed with 'a Hem or Edge. Moreover, That this is not 'a Cross of Gules, surmounted of another, Sa-'ble, it is clear, because the Edge that goeth 'about this Cross is much narrower than is the 'Space between those two Crosses. Besides, 'it cannot stand with the Rules of good Ar-'moury, to bear Colour upon Colour, or Me-'tal upon Metal. This is called a Cross Fim-'briated, of the Latin Word Fimbria, which 'signifieth an Edge, Welt, or Hem for a Gar-'ment, and is to be understood to be of the 'same Thickness with it, and not to lie either 'upon or underneath.

'He beareth Or, a 'Cross Patée fitched in 'the Foot, Gules. This 'Coat was born by Gal-'fride de Scudamore that 'lived in the Time of 'King Henry the Second. 'It is termed Fitched of 'the Latin Word Figo, 'which signifieth to fa-'sten or make sure, because by the Means of 'the Sharpness added to the Foot thereof, 'it becometh more apt to be fastned any 'where.'

But Mackenzy, p. 43. c. 16. says, it is call'd Fitched from the French Word Fichée, which signifies fixed, and that the Writing it Fitchée with a, t, is an Error: But such Disputes as these, tho' unnecessary, vex the Reader to the Purpose, and therefore in my Mind it were better to say a Cross fixable; and for the same Reason, it were better to say a Cross crouch-wise, than to say a Cross Potent, or Potence: For a Potence signifies a Crouch in the French, but Potent and Potence are the same Terms: Nay, the French wou'd be puzzled to understand their own Language in some of our Books of Heraldry, and are highly to be commended for having their Terms in their own Tongue.

The

The Reaſon of Croſſes Fichée (or fixable, as I term them) being born in Arms, Mackenzy conceives, was, That the Primitive Chriſtians did always carry Croſſes with them as Marks of Devotion; and when they ſettled themſelves in their Journey at any Place for Devotion, they fixed theſe portable Croſſes in the Ground.

'There is another Sort of Fitching of Croſſes 'that have the whole fourth Part figetive, as 'in this next Eſcutcheon.

'The Field is Jupiter, 'a Croſs Patée on three 'Parts, and fitched on 'the Fourth, Sol. This '(ſaith Gerard Leigh) was 'the Shield of bleſſed 'Cadwallader, laſt King 'of the Britains, who 'ſlew Lothaire, King of 'Kent, and Ethelwold, 'King of the South Saxons.' This Sort of Croſs, in the Latin, is, Crux patula deſinens in Cuſpidem oblongam, ſeu cuſpidata.

He beareth Sable, a Croſs Patée Fichée, Or, by the Name of Collier. This Coat was confirmed October 10. 5th of King Charles I. 1629. by Sir William Segar, Garter, to Francis Collier of Darlington in Com. Staff. Eſq; deſcended from Robert Collier who came out of France into England in the Reign of King Henry the VIth, and ſettled at the above-nam'd Place, and whoſe Heir he was. Origin. Penes Collier de Litchfield. Her. Off. Grants Numb. 2.

'He beareth Ermine, a 'Croſs engrailed, Gules, 'by the Name of Norwood, 'and is born by Henry 'Norwood of Tulſey in Glouceſterſhire, Eſq; one of the 'Eſquires of his Majeſty's 'Body, and Deputy-Go-'vernor of Tangier: And 'by Francis Norwood of 'Lackington in the ſaid County, Eſquire.'

In Latin this Form of Croſs is term'd Crux ſtriata, cannaliculata, ſeu criſpata, and by ſome ingradata. By Dion. απαυσ παυλινοειδησ.

Gules, a Croſs engrail'd, charg'd with five Ermine-Spots, was the Bearing of Thomas Good, A. M. and Fellow of Baliol Colledge, Parſon of ——— in Com. Linc. who dy'd 1680, being Son of Richard G. Chandler of Oxon. and of ——— Daughter of Thomas Blagrave of Oxon. which Richard was buried the 21ſt of November, 1673. near his Father, being Son of William Good, Alderman of Oxon. who was Son of Richard Good of Allhallows Pariſh, Alderman, and twice Mayor of Oxon. who dy'd the 12th Day of Auguſt, 1609, and was buried in Allhallows Church. The ſaid William was by his firſt Wife Mary.

(M) Or, a Croſs engrail'd, Sable, is the Coat of Rait of Hall-green.

(M) Sinclair of Olbſter, Argent, a Croſs engrailed on the Outer, and waved on the inner Side, Sable.

'As this Croſs is formed of bunched Lines, 'ſo are there others that are compoſed of ſun-'dry other Sorts of Lines before ſhewed, as 'Experience will inform you, and as you may 'in Part ſee by Examples following.

'The Field is Jupiter, 'a Croſs Patonce, Sol. You 'may read in Leigh his 'Accidence of Armoury, 'p. 59. that King Egbert 'did bear in Battle a Croſs 'of this Form or Faſhion 'in his Left-hand, and in 'his Azure-coloured Ban-'ner likewiſe.'

He beareth Azure, a Croſs Patonce, Or, by the Name of Ward. This Coat was confirmed to John Ward of Great Ilford in Eſſex, Eſq; deſcended of an ancient and worthy Family of that Surname in Yorkſhire, by William Segar. Her. Off. Eſſex, c. 21.

Sable, a Croſs Patonce, Argent, was the Coat of Richard Greſnore of Teton, who married Katharine, Daughter and one of the Heirs of Richard Cotton of Hampſted Rudware, and by her had Iſſue Thomas, Richard, John, Anthony, Davy, Elizabeth, Eleanor, Katharine, Anne, Alice, Margaret, Maud, Jane, Dorothy, Mary and Urſula.

Collect. of the North. per Glover, or per Cheſt. in M.S. in Aſhm. Num. 834.

Thomas married Maude, Daughter to Sir William Poole, Kt. Eleanor was married to Thomas Rediſhe Son and Heir to Robert, Katharine to Thomas Rogecroſtes Son and Heir of George Rogecroſtes, and Anne to Roger the eldeſt Son to Edward, Son and Heir to Roger Appylyſdom, Knight.

'Here you may obſerve how this Croſs Pa-'tonce differeth from the Croſs Patée (demon-'ſtrated before in the Shield of Cadwallader) 'and alſo from the Croſs Floury or Fleurtée, 'which I ſhall preſently ſhew you in Penthar's 'Coat-Armour.

It

It differs alſo from the Croſs Flory, inaſmuch as that doth circumflex and turn down its Extremities like a Fleur de Lys, and this doth extend and ſtretch to a certain Patée Form. Morgan's Sphere of Gentry, lib. 2. p. 13. But it is call'd by Colomb. p. 142. Croix enhendée, and not Patonce.

'He beareth Or, a Croſs 'flory, Sable, by the Name 'of Lamplugh, and is the 'Paternal Coat-Armour of 'John Lamplugh of Lamp-'lugh in Cumberland, Eſq; 'deſcended from that an-'cient Family of the 'Lamplughs, he being the 'Three and twentieth in 'Deſcent, of which there 'have been Nine Knights; 'one of which was Sir Robert Lamplugh, who 'lived in the Reigns of Henry the Second, and 'Richard the Firſt. The Bearer hereof (who 'is now living) was Colonel of a Foot Regi-'ment in the Service of his late Majeſty King 'Charles the Firſt, in the Army commanded by 'his Highneſs Prince Rupert, and was in actual 'Service under the ſame Command at the 'Battel at Marſton moor in Yorkſhire, Anno 1644. 'and was in ſeveral other Services for his ſaid 'Majeſty.

He beareth Sable, a Croſs Or, by the Name of Braham; which Coat was confirm'd unto Sir Richard Braham, as a publick Acknowledgment of his Loyal Services in the Grand Rebellion of Forty One, by Sir Edward Walker, Garter, June the 10th, the 22d of King Charles the Firſt, Anno Dom. 1646.

Collect. of the North. per Glov. or per Cheſt. in Aſh. Numb. 834.

Argent, a Croſs flory, Sable, was the Coat of Richard Banyſter of the Bank, who had to his firſt Wife Margaret, Daughter to Nicholas Rigmadon of Weddaker, and hath Iſſue by her William, which William married Ellen, Daughter to Sir Henry Halſall.

The ſaid Richard had to his ſecond Wife Margaret, Daughter to William Kirkeby of Raclyf, by whom he hath Iſſue Henry and Iſabell.

(M) Anny of Dolphington, Or, a Croſs flory, Gules. In the Latin this is term'd Crux florida.

'He beareth Argent, a 'Croſs Patonce, voided, 'Gules, by the Name of 'Pilkington, a Knightly Fa-'mily of great Antiquity, 'and very numerous, ta-'king Name from Pilking-'ton in Lancaſhire. 'Tis 'reported, according to 'Fuller's Worthies, p. 110. 'That the Chief of the Family being ſought 'for, ſoon after the Conqueſt, was forced to 'obſcure himſelf under the Habit of a Threſher '(others a Mower) which occaſioned the 'Motto, Now thus, now thus. Others think this 'to have happened in the Wars between York 'and Lancaſter, when Sir John Pilkington, to-'gether with his Brothers Sir Robert of Ri-'vington, and Sir Thomas of Stanley, with their 'Father Sir Robert, had their Lands taken from 'them; and Sir John was bound by Indenture 'not to take up Arms againſt the King. Gef-'fery Pilkington, Grandſon of this Sir John, mar-'ried the Daughter and Heir of Sallow of Stan-'ton in Derbyſhire, whoſe Poſterity continues 'there to this Day.'

Argent, a Croſs Patonce voided, Gules, is born by the Name of Pilkington, and was confirmed by William Flower, Norroy, to Jacob Pilkington, Biſhop of Durham, deſcended of the ancient and worthy Family of Pilkington in the County of Lancaſter, at Aukeland, in the County Palatine of Durham, the 1ſt of Auguſt, 1575. 17th of Queen Elizabeth.

M. S. in Aſh. Numb. 834.

'Azure, a Croſs Avelane, 'Or. In Latin it is writ-'ten, Crux avelana: The 'Quarters reſembling the 'Filbert Nuts.

'Gules, a Croſs Patée 'Lambeaux, Argent, is 'born by the Name of 'Rudetzker.

'Or, a Croſs Furche, 'Gules.

'He beareth Vert, a 'Croſs Croſlet, Or, by the 'Name of Berry, and is 'born by Mr. Samuel Ber-'ry, Citizen of London.

(N) Dunning of Maler in Scotland, Argent, a Croſs Croſlet, Gules.

Sabl

Sable, a Croſs Croſlet, Ermine, in the dexter Quarter, a Creſcent for Difference, Or, was allow'd by Patent, by William Cambden in July 1606. to ——— Durant of Durant in Derbyſhire.

Vert, a Croſs Croſlet Fichée in the Foot. This is a French Coat by the Name of Ingon. l'Art Heraldique, p. 49.

'He beareth Argent, a 'Croſs Botone, Sable, by 'the Name of Winwood, 'and is the Paternal Coat-'Armour of Richard Win-'wood of Ditton-Park and 'Quainton in Buckingham-'ſhire, Eſq; Son and Heir 'of the Right Honoura-'ble Sir Ralph Winwood 'Knight, Ambaſſador Lie-'ger to the States of the United Provinces, and 'Principal Secretary of State to King James.'

This Sort of Bearing the French call Trefflée, from Treffle, a Trefoil or Three-leav'd Graſs, which the Ends of this Croſs imitate, as we may ſee by the Arms of Coudan, viz. Gueules à la Croix Trefflée d'or. Baron's l'Art Heraldique.

Tenné, a Croſs Urdée, Or. Leigh, fol. 38.

Gules, a Croſs, degraded Fichée, Argent. Leigh, fol. 35. By degraded, he means thoſe Degrees, or Sort of Steps which you ſee at each End.

'He beareth Sable, a 'Croſs Potent, Or, by the 'Name of Allen, and is 'the Coat-Armour of Sir 'Thomas Allen of Finchley 'in Middleſex; and of Sir 'Thomas Allen of the City 'of London, Alderman, 'Knight and Baronet.'

This Sort of Croſs in the Latin is, Crux patibulata; in French, à la Croix Potancée, or Potencée.

'The Field is Jupiter, 'a Croſs Potent fitched, 'Sol. This Kind of Croſs 'was born by Etheldred 'King of the Weſt-Saxons, 'who lived Anno Salutis, '946.

'What a Potent is, I 'have formerly ſhewed in 'the firſt Section, p. 16. It may alſo be blazon-'ed a Croſs Crouchée, for the Reſemblance that it hath of a Crutch, which Chaucer calleth a Potent, which is properly figetive: For were it that the overthwart or croſs Part hereof ſhould be exempted, then would the middle 'Part ſhew it ſelf to be a perfect Crutch, uſed 'for the Stay and Suſtenation of feeble and 'aged Perſons. Like as old Age is a Bleſſing 'of God, ſo, contrariwiſe, it is a Token of his 'heavy Diſpleaſure, to be cut off before a Man 'ſhall attain thereto: As appeareth by that 'Saying of God unto Eli the Prieſt, Behold, 'the Days come that I will cut off thine Arm, and 'the Arm of thy Father's Houſe, that there ſhall 'not be an old Man in thine Houſe, 1 Sam. 2. 31. 'And again, And there ſhall not be an old Man in 'thy Houſe for ever, Verſe 32. And further, And 'all the Multitude of thine Houſe ſhall die when they 'be Men, Verſe 33. Moreover, it is ſaid in the 'Prophet Zachary on the contrary Part, Thus 'ſaith the Lord of Hoſts, There ſhall yet old Men 'and old Women dwell in the Streets of Jeruſalem; 'and every Man with his Staff in his Hand for ve-'ry Age: Whereby is meant, that God would 'preſerve them in Life, ſo long as Nature might 'ſuſtain them.

Vert, a Croſs Calvary, Or: In this Blazon I follow Mackenzy, who p. 42. c. 16. ſays, That the Croſs has ſeveral Denominations not only according to the Lines whereof it is made, as Guillim mentions, but alſo according to the ſeveral Perſons or Places that originally did bear it in the Form given: This Croſs being being long in the Pale and ſhort in the Arms, reſembles the Croſs of our Redemption fixed on Mount Calvary; and Mackenzy, I think, follows Morgan, who in his Sphere of Gentry, lib. 2. p. 11. has not only this, but thoſe following; as alſo hath Mackenzy. Leigh, fol. 33. blazons this Sort a Croſs on Degrees.

"Gules, a Croſs croſlet "ſet on Degrees, Or, is "quartered by Edward "Jones of Lanuaire, in the "County of Denbigh.

This Form Morgan blazons Sable, a Croſs Patriarchal, Argent: It was the Coat (ſaith he) of Rodulphus, Archbiſhop of Canterbury.

Argent, a Patriarchal Croſs, Gules, is born by the Town of Aſchafenburgh in Germany. Mackenzy agrees to this Blazon, and ſays, It is alſo nam'd a Croſs of Lorrain becauſe Lorrain wears it; and thus the French call it, as you may ſee in the Coat of Mintes, which Baron in his l'Art Heraldique, p. 49. blazons d'Argent à la Croix de Lorraine de Sable. It is Crux Patriarchalis in the Latin.

This Coat Morgan blazons a Croſs anchored, Crux anchorata, becauſe the Points thereof are made ſharp like unto an Anchor. Mackenzy from Colomb calls it a Croſs of Maltha, it being born by the Knights of Maltha for defending the Chriſtian Religion.

But this differs in Draught from the Croſs which Baron in his l'Art Heraldique, p. 49. hath ſet down, as you will ſee in the next Example.

This is the Coat of Aubuſſon de la Feüillade, and by the French Author blazon'd d'Or à la Croix Ancrée de Gueles, Or, a Croſs anchored, Gules. Now the Form of this Croſs anſwers exactly to what Guillim calls a Croſs moline; and Guillim differs in his Croſs moline from Leigh; ſo that to reconcile theſe Diviſions is no eaſy Matter. But if we ſuppoſe Leigh's Draught to be trueſt, as I believe, and that Guillim has miſtaken the Croſs ancrée for moline, we pretty well do it; though if the French came nearer to Morgan's Draught it would do better.

Azure, a Croſs moline, was the Coat of Sir William Segar, Garter, Principal King of Arms, and is now born by his great Grandſon Simon Segar, a great Admirer of Antiquities and Heraldry, having written valuable Manuſcripts concerning both, though but one ſmall Tract is printed, viz. Honores Anglicani.

This is the Form of Leigh's Draught, and differs from Guillim's in that the Ends here turn rounder and cloſer to the Barrs of the Croſs; 'tis alſo leſs in dimenſion. In the Latin a Croſs moline is rendred by Upton, Crux mollendinaris.

Sable, a Croſs moline, Argent, was born with a Labell for Difference, by John Upton, Gent. Com. of Wadham Colledge, eldeſt Son of John Upton of Upton or Lupton, in the County of Devon. Eſq; which John, jun. dy'd on St. Thomas's Day (Dec. 21. 1686. Aged 17, or thereabouts) whereupon his Body being embalm'd (till his Friends had been acquainted and reſolv'd what to do with it) was at length buried in the outer Chappel of Wadham, on Monday the 10th of January following.

M. S. of Ant. à Wood's Remarks de Com. Oxon.

Azure, a Croſs moline, Or, was the Coat of Sir William Moleneux, Knight, who married to his firſt Wife Jane, Daughter and ſole Heir to Richard Ruge of Ruge in Shropſhire, and had Iſſue Richard, Ann and Jane.

Sir Richard (ſaith Glover) is married to Eleanor, Daughter to Sir Alexander Radclyfe, Kt. and Anne to Alexander Standiſh.

The abovenam'd Sir William had to his ſecond Wife Elizabeth, Daughter and Heir to Cuthert Clyfton of Clyfton, and hath Iſſue Thomas, Anne and Margaret; Anne was married to Henry Halſall, Son and Heir of Thomas Halſall of Halſall.

(99) Argent, a Croſs moline, Sable, is the Coat of Colvil Lord Colvil of Ochiltry.

Azure, a Croſs moline, Argent, was the Coat pertaining to the Family of Goldisboroghe of Goldisbrogh.

Argent, a Croſs moline, Gules, in the firſt Quarter an Ermine Spot, is born by the Name of Woodhall. This Coat belong'd to William Woodhall who married Mary, Daughter of James the Son of James, who was Son of James Woodhall of Cockermore in Cumberland, and had Iſſue Edmond Woodhall, William and James; alſo Deborah, borah, Elizabeth, Mary, Dorothy, Jane, Catharine, Joan and Grindall.

The aforeſaid William Woodhall who married Mary Woodhall was Son and Heir of John Woodhall by Elizabeth, Daughter of William Grindall, and Siſter of Edmund, Archbiſhop of Canterbury; which John was Son and Heir of John by his Wife Jennet, Daughter of ..... Crake Place, which John was eldeſt Son and Heir of John Woodhall of Ullock in the County of Cumberland, by his Wife, who alſo bare him a Son Thomas who married Joan, Daughter of ..... Longdale. Vide Viſit de Com. Eſſex, Anno 1614. fol. 29.

This is a French Coat, and ſet forth by Baron in his l'Art Heraldique, p. 49. for the Arms of Toulouze his Blazon is de Gueules à la Croix clechée d'Or.

This Kind of Bearing doth Leigh term Flurte and Morgan Flurry, but the French ſay, Fleurdeliſſée, l'Art Heraldique, p. 49. and Colomb. p. 136. which Way I like better. By ſome it is call'd in Latin, Patens Florida.

This is a French Coat, and a Bearing which I never ſaw, except in the Coat of Melin in Baron's l'Art Heraldique, p. 49. where he blazons it d'Azur à la Croix à ſeize Pointes d'Argent.

Argent, a Croſs milrine, Sable. Morgan, lib. 2. p. 15.

Argent, a Croſs pointed voided, Sable, was the Coat of ..... Dockingefeld of Portwood ..... who married Ellin, Daughter of Sir William Brereton of Cheſhire, Kt. and (ſaith Glover) hath Iſſue Ellen. This Coat was confirmed or granted to Robert Dokenfeild of Dokenfeild, by Richard St. George, Norroy King of Arms, 1623.

Argent, a Croſs Pall Sable. This is the ſame Bearing that I told you the French had choſen for their Twelfth honourable Ordinary, and is ſometimes blazon'd an Epiſcopal Pall. Morgan lib. 2. p. 15. reckons it among Croſſes, whoſe Rule I have here follow'd. This (ſaith Mackenzy p. 33.) is call'd a Shake-Fork with us, and ſhould not touch the Corners of the Eſcutcheon; it is born by Cunningham Earl of Glencairn in the ſame Colours. It relates to ſomething about his Majeſty's Stables, this being an Inſtrument whereby Hay is thrown up to Horſes; And ſome (adds he) think it was given to that Family, as one of them might be, Maſter of Horſe to one of our Kings.

This is call'd a Tau, or Croſs of St. Anthony. In the Latin, Crux Sancti Antonii. Morgan ſays, that of Old it was the Hieroglyphick of Security, for which I ſuppoſe he alludes to, kill not them upon whom ye ſhall ſee the Letter Tau.

'Whereas I have formerly made mention of 'Voiding, in the Chapter of Bends, and of one 'other Accident, namely Couping, in the Chap-'ter of Feſſes, I will now expreſs them both in 'one Example in this Eſcutcheon following.

'He beareth Argent, a 'Croſs voided and coup-'ed, Sable, by the Name 'of Woodnoth.

'There is another Accident whereunto this 'Ordinary is ſubject; that is to ſay, Piercing. 'Piercing is a Penetration or Perforation of 'Things that are of ſolid Subſtance. And it 'is Threefold:

That is to ſay { Round. / Loſengeways. / Quadrate.

'As touching round Piercing, you have an 'Example in this next following Eſcutcheon.

'He beareth Sable, a 'Croſs couped, pierced, 'Or, by the Name of 'Grill. If this Round in 'the midſt, were of any 'other Colour than of the 'Field, then ſhould you 'account the ſame to be a 'Charge to the Croſs; 'wherefore good heed muſt 'be taken in Blazoning of Coats of this Kind, 'and chiefly of the orbicular Form in the 'midſt of the Charge; to the End that you 'may know when to take the ſame for a Pierce-'ing, and when for a Charge.

'The Field is Azure, a 'Croſs moline pierced Lo-'ſenge-ways, Or. This 'is the ſecond Form of 'Pierceing before-menti-'oned, and the Coat was 'born by Richard de Mo-'lineux of Lancaſter, that 'lived in the Reign of 'King Richard the Second.

'Concerning this Croſs moline (ſaith Leigh) 'that if it ſtood Saltire-ways, then ſhould you 'call it Ferre de Molin, that is to ſay, a Mill 'rind, or the Ink of a Mill: Which, to me, 'ſeemeth a very Paradox, that Tranſpoſition '(being a Thing meerly accidental) ſhould give 'a new Denomination to the Thing Tranſpo-'ſed, and conſequently alter the Eſſence there-'of: Quia novum nomen dat novum eſſe rei; 'where are new Names, new Things are ſup-'poſed to be. It were a Thing worthy of 'Admiration, that Accidents ſhould have ſuch 'Power in them: For Ariſtotle, Phyſicorum 1. 'ſaith, Accidentia poſſunt miraculoſe, & non alias 'mutare ſubjectum; Accidents change not their 'Subject but by Miracle. Addition doubtleſs, 'and Subtraction, are of greater Force than 'Tranſmutation or Location; yet there is no 'ſuch Power in them as that they can alter the 'Eſſence of any Thing: Quia augmentum vel 'diminutio (ſaith Chaſſanæus) circa accidentia con-'tractuum, non reponunt contractum in diverſo eſſe, 'neque per ea intelligitur ab eo in ſubſtantialibus 'receſſus: The Adding or Diminiſhing of Acci-'dents, makes not the Thing loſe the Nature of 'his Being.

'He beareth Azure, a 'Croſs moline, Quarter 'pierced, Or. This Coat 'was born by Thomas Mo-'lineux of Haughton in the 'County of Nottingham, 'that lived in the Time 'of Henry IV.

"This Coat, with the "Arms of Ulſter, is born "by Sir John Molineux of "Teverſal in Nottinghamſhire, Baronet: And "with the Arms of Ulſter, with a due Differ-"ence, is born by Darcy Molineux of Mansfield "in the ſaid County, Eſq; Nephew to the ſaid "Sir John.

'Leigh, in blazoning of this Form of Croſs, 'maketh no mention at all of the Piercing 'thereof, perhaps becauſe it reſembleth the Ink 'of a Mill, which is evermore pierced. This 'is termed Quarter-pierced, quaſi Quadrate pier-'ced, for that the Pierceing is ſquare as a Tren-'cher.'

Monſieur Baron in his l'Art Heraldique, p. 49. calls this à la Croix anilée from anille, which in French ſignifies the Ink of a Mill.

'So much of the Croſs, with the Accidents 'thereof: Now of that other Ordinary that is 'framed alſo of a four-fold Line, that is to ſay, 'a Saltire.

'A Saltire is an Ordinary conſiſting of a four-'fold Line, whereof two are drawn from the 'dexter Chief towards the ſiniſter Baſe Cor-'ners, and the other from the ſiniſter Chief to-'wards the dexter Baſe Points, and do meet 'about the Midſt by Couples in Acute-Angles. 'I know the learned Geometer will find many 'more Lines here than I do mention: But '(as I ſaid of Lines in the Croſs) this our De-'ſcription agreeth beſt with Heralds, and our 'Purpoſe.

(M) Sable, a St. Andrew's Croſs, Argent, by the Name of Little.

Argent, a Saltire, Sable, is born by the Name of Wotton, and was in effect confirm'd to Edward Wotton of Kent, Eſquire, being allow'd, and with his Quarterings, marſhal'd by Robert Cook, March 18, 1580. 23d of Queen Eliz. in the Patent of his Wife's Coat, who was Heſter, ſole Daughter and Heir of William Pickering of Oſwaldkirk in Com. Ebor.

M. S. of Grants in Aſhm. Num. 834.

Or, a Saltire, Azure, was born by Edward Parez, Gent. Com. of St. Edmond's Hall, who died the 12th of March 1665. at Nineteen, or thereabouts, and was buried in the Church of St. Peter in the Eaſt.

This Time of his Death was noted by the Arms Painter, but (ſaith Ant. à Wood) in my Almanack wherein I ſet down the Obits of Perſons upon the Tolling of the Paſſing-Bell, I find that he dy'd the 29th of March 1666. He was the Son of John Parez of Burham in Berks, Eſq;

M. S. of Ant. à Wood's Remarks de Com. Oxon.

Upon his Plate in Edmund-Hall he is thus written, Edward Parez, Eſq; of Britwell in the County of Buckingham, Commoner.

' In old Time (ſaith Leigh) this was made ' of the Height of a Man, and was driven full ' of Pins, the Uſe whereof was to ſcale the ' Walls therewith, to which End, the Pins ' ſerved commodiouſly. In thoſe Days (ſaith ' he) the Walls of a Town were but low, as ' appeareth by the Walls of Rome, which Rhe- ' mus eaſily leaped over; and the Walls of Win- ' cheſter, which were overlooked by Colebrand ' the Chieftain of the Danes, who was ſlain by ' Guy Earl of Warwick, who was Champion for ' King Athelſtane.

Which ancient Uſe of the Saltire Mackenzy thinks might occaſion ſo many of them to be made Raguly, Engrail'd, &c. as alſo their Name among the French, which is Sautoir, from Sauter, to leap; becauſe, as is ſaid, it did help Soldiers to leap over Walls, by ſupporting their Hands and Feet in its Nicks or Notches. but he cannot imagine whence came our Word Saltire, and therefore thinks it a Corruption. Perhaps it came in from the Latin, Salto.

In Scotland this Ordinary is frequently call'd a St. Andrew's Croſs; and for this they aſſign a Miracle much like that deliver'd by Euſebius, one of Conſtantine's Biſhops, for his aſſuming the plain Croſs, viz. That St. Andrew appear'd to Achaius their King, upon that Croſs, when he fought againſt the Picts.

In the Latin it is call'd, Crux tranſverſalis ſeu decuſſis, vel Crux Sancti Andreæ, aut Crux decuſſata; and in the Italian, Figura, a Forma della Lettera X.

' He beareth Gules, a ' Saltire, Verrey, by the ' Name of Willington. ' This Ordinary is limited ' to the fifth Part of the ' Field, the ſame not be- ' ing charged, but if it ' be charged, then ſhall ' it contain the third Part ' thereof. This Charge ' alſo varieth his Name in ' Blazon, according to the divers Forms of Lines ' whereof the ſame is compoſed; for that it ' is no leſs diverſely made in reſpect of the ' Lineaments thereof, than the Croſs before ' handled.'

(ℴ) Argent, a Saltire couped, Gules; by the Name of Currie.

This Coat, according to Leigh, fol. 41. is blazon'd Argent, a Saltire croſſed, Sable, and is commonly call'd St. Julian's Croſs. The Bruers of London bear this Coat, marſhal'd with another. I have ſeen this Coat blazon'd, a Croſs croſlet tranſpos'd, or a Saltire croſs'd in its Extremities.

CHAP. VIII.

' HAving hitherto ſhewed at large the ſe-
' veral Forms of making ſuch Charges
' as we call honourable Ordinaries: Order re-
' quireth that I ſhould now ſhew their diverſe
' Manner of Bearing, according to our prefixed
' Diſtribution.

' Theſe are born { Simple. / Compound.

' Thoſe are ſaid to be born Simple, when only ' Ordinaries do appear in the Field.

' Theſe Ordinaries ' comprehend { One Sort. / Divers Sorts.

' Ordinaries are ſaid to be of one Sort, when ' only one Kind of them is born in the Field,
' without Mixture of any other:

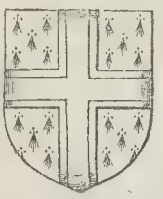

' Whoſe Bearing is { Single. / Manifold.

' By ſingle Bearing I underſtand ſome one Or' dinary born alone in the Eſcutcheon: Such
' are theſe precedent Examples before hand-
' led.

' By manifold Bearing of Ordinaries, I mean
' the Bearing of diverſe Ordinaries of the ſame
' Kind, whether the ſame be born of themſelves
' alone, or elſe conjunctly with ſome of their Sub-
' diviſions.

' Which Form of Bearing ' is two-fold, viz. { One upon another. / One beſides another.

' What is meant by the Bearing of Ordina-
' ries of one Kind, one upon another, may be
' eaſily conceived by theſe four Eſcutcheons next
' following.

' He beareth Ermine, a
' Croſs, Gules, ſurmount-
' ed of another, Argent, by
' the Name of Malton.
' Among the Croſſes for' merly exemplified, I have
' given an Example of one
' much like to this in
' Shew, but yet much dif-
' fering from the ſame, as
' you will eaſily find by comparing them toge' ther: For in the former, the Field ſheweth
' through the innermoſt Parts thereof; but in
' this it is far otherwiſe: Foraſmuch as herein
' are two Croſſes, whereof that which lieth next
' the Field is Gules, and the other that is placed ' upon the ſame is Argent; ſo as in this it can
' by no Means be conceived to be of that Kind
' before handled, for then ſhould the Ermines
' appear in the inner Part thereof, as well as in
' the Reſt of the Field, then might you boldly
' call the ſame a Croſs voided, as that formerly ' handled.

' He

'He beareth Vert, a 'Croſs couped, Argent, 'charged with another, 'Gules. This Example 'doth more apparently ex- 'preſs the double Charge 'ſhewed in the laſt prece- 'dent Eſcutcheon, for 'that the Croſs that lieth 'next the Field is made 'more ſpacious than the 'former: And withal, it doth inform our Un- 'derſtanding, that there is great Difference be- 'tween the Bearing of this, and of the Croſs 'fimbriated, herein, that in the Croſs fimbri- 'ated, the Edges thereof do occupy the leaſt 'Portion thereof; and in this the ſurmounting 'Croſs hath the leaſt Part of the ſame. This 'therefore cannot by any Means be underſtood 'to be a Croſs fimbriated, for ſo ſhould the 'Guard or Edge thereof be larger than the 'Thing that is ſaid to be guarded, which were 'a very abſurd Affirmation.

'He beareth Gules, a 'Saltire, Or, charged with 'another, Vert, by the 'Name of Andrews. What 'hath been formerly ſaid 'in the laſt precedent Ex- 'ample touching the Croſs, 'doth hold alſo in this 'and other like Bearings: 'For in Things having a 'Conformity or a Reſem- 'blance one of another, the ſame Reaſon hold- 'eth in the One as in the Other; where, con- 'trariwiſe, of Things having no Reſemblance 'or Likeneſs, the Reaſon is diverſe.

'Upton ſaith, The Saltire was an Engine to 'catch wild Beaſts, and therefore beſtowed up 'on rich and covetous Perſons, that willingly 'will not part from their Subſtance:' But his Notion as it is deſtructive of the End of Arms, muſt be wrong.

(M) Argent, a Bend Sable, charg'd with another waved of the Firſt, by the Name of Wigmer.

'Proceed we now to Examples of Ordina- 'ries of the ſame Kind born one beſides an- 'other: Such are theſe next following, and 'their like.

'The Field is Argent, 'three Pallets Gules. This 'Coat appertaineth to the 'ancient Family of Ber- 'chem, Lord of Berchem 'in Brabant, near Ant- 'werp. And as there are 'Ordinaries of this Kind 'born in ſtraight Lines, 'ſo are they alſo born in 'Lines Undé, as in Example.

'He beareth Argent, 'three Pallets Undée, Gules, 'by the Name of Downes 'of Debnam, Suffolk.

'Note, That ſuch Or- 'dinaries, as either of 'themſelves, or elſe by 'reaſon of ſome Charge 'impoſed upon them, do 'challenge the third Part 'of the Field, are exempted from this Kind of 'Bearing one beſides another, becauſe of ſuch 'the Field can contain but one of them at once. 'But their Derivatives or Sub diviſions may 'well be ſorted with them in the ſame Eſcut- 'cheon; as a Pale between two Endorſes, a 'Bend between two Cotiſſes, and ſuch like of 'of the ſame Kind.

'The Bearing of Piles, Pales, Bends, Barrs, 'and their extracted Parts, was called of old 'Heralds, Reſtrial, in reſpect of their Strength 'and ſolid Subſtance, which is able to abide 'the Streſs and Force of any Tryal they ſhall be 'put unto.'

But here I muſt take notice, that the Blazon of the aforeſaid Coat agrees not with Guillim's Deſcription of the Ordinary, which (ſays he) evermore contains the Half of the Pale, and therefore the ſixth Part of the Field; now you ſee the Field here is divided into ſeven equal Parts, therefore one of thoſe Seven which makes one of theſe Palets, conſequently cannot contain a ſixth Part; and an equal Diviſion in Coats of this Kind, is (I think) always required in Heraldry; that is, that Part which is to repreſent Part of the Field, muſt contain as much as the Charge: And how we ſhall avoid this common Error, I know not; unleſs we break the Rule, and ſay by our Palets as the French ſay by their Faces when they have more than can properly ſtand, that is, more than One, viz. That they are little One's. For a Diminutive of it we have none but the Endorſe, which Guillim, out of Leigh and Ferne, informs us, is never uſed, but when a Pale is betwixt two of them, or one of them betwixt two Coats; and to blazon it Paly of ſeven Pieces would (in my Mind) be worſe: For did Heraldry admit the Fields to be divided or parted into odd Parts, as I think it doth not, we ſhould never know when the Lines are to repreſent a Charge, or Partition only.

Gules,

Gules, a Bend cottised; Or; by a Patent was granted to Hugh Englebert of Laremy in the County of Pembrooke, George Englebert of London, John Englebert of Killington in the County of Middlesex, William Englebert of London, Son of Nicholas Englebert of Shirborne in the County of Dorset, Gent. &c. and Ann Coriat, Grandchildren of Roger Englebert and Katharine Berryman, being descended of a Family bearing Arms, dated the 27th of May, 1602. Anno 40 Eliz. by William Camden, Clarencieux.

Note, My Engraver hath (in this and the Coat following) made the Cottises too wide.

He beareth Azure, a Bend countercompony, Or and Gules between two Cotises of the Second, by the Name of Rowbache. This Coat was confirm'd in March, Anno Dom. 1604. by William Cambden, Clarencieux, to Giles Rowbache of Lytton in the County of Hertford, Son of Thomas, the Son of Peirce.

'The Field is Azure, a 'Bend engrailed, Argent, 'cotised, Or. This Coat-'Armour pertaineth to 'the worthy Family of 'Forteſcue of Devon, and 'is born by Sir Peter For-'teſcue of Preſton and 'Wood in the ſaid County, 'Baronet. As theſe Co-'tiſes are born plain, ſo ſhall you find them 'varied after the diverſe Forms of Lines be 'fore expreſſed, as in theſe Examples follow-'ing may in Part be ſeen: And Upton's Aſſer-'tion (before delivered) touching their Diver-'ſity of Shape approved; as by Practice, the 'diligent Obſerver ſhall eaſily perceive.

'He beareth Sable, a 'Bend, Argent, between 'two Cotiſes Dancett, 'Or, by the Name of 'Clopton, albeit theſe Co-'tiſes may ſeem to be of 'a diverſe Kind from the 'Bend wherewith they 'are forted: Yet is it 'otherwiſe, inaſmuch as 'they are Sub-diviſions abſtracted from the 'Bend, as hath been before ſhewed.

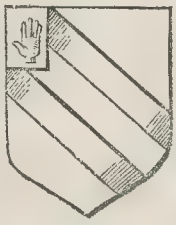

Argent, a plain Bend between two Cotiſes engrail'd, Sable, with a Mullet for Difference. This Coat was allow'd by William Segar and William Cambden, Anno Dom. 1606. to Thomas Whitfield of Mortlack in Surry, Eſq; Son of Robert (qui vixit, 1577.) the Son of Miles Whitfield of Newtonbury in Alſton more in Cumberland; which Miles was Son of Richard, the Son of another Richard of Whitfield-hall, who was Son of William, Son of John, the Son of William Whitfield of Whitfield-hall in Northumberland, by his Wife Mary, Daughter and Coheir of John Whetley. The Cotiſes here alſo are ſomething too broad.

This, with a Martlet in the Place of that Mullet, was born alſo by John Whitfield of the Middle Temple, London, Eſq; eldeſt Son of John Whitfield, who deſcended from a fourth Son of the ſaid Family of Whitfield of Northumberland.

"He beareth Sable, a "Bend Ermine between "two Cotiſes flory, Or, "by the Name of Keck, "and was the Coat of An-"thony Keck of the Inner "Temple, London, Eſq;

And now by Francis Keck of Great Tew in the County of Oxford, Eſq;

"He beareth Or, two "Bends, Azure, by the "Name of D'oyley, a Fa-"mily of good Antiqui-"quity: For Robert Lord "Oyley or D'oyley, came "into England with the "Conqueror, and found-"ed the Caſtle of Oxford "within five Years of the "Conqueſt, whoſe Son "Robert was Conſtable to "King Henry the Firſt, and founded the Abbey "of Oſney. Of this Family is Sir John D'oyley of "Chiſleyhampton in Oxfordſhire, Kt.

"The Field is Argent, two Bends, Gules. "This Coat-Armour I find in an ancient Ma-"nuſcript of Collection of Engliſhmens Arms in "Metal and Colours, with the Blazon in French, "of the Time of our Henry the Sixth, as it is "apparent by the Character of the Letter: Over "which Coat-Armour is there written the "Bearer's Name, viz. Monſieur John Haget; "from whom Mr. Bartholomew Haget, late Con-

" ful of Aleppo, deriveth his Deſcent. This " Book at this preſent, remaineth in the Cu- " ſtody of a worthy Friend of mine, a curious " Collector and careful Preſerver of ſuch an- " cient Monuments.

" Gules, two Bends, the Upper, Or, and the " Lower, Argent, was born by Milo Fitz-water, " who by King Henry the Firſt, was made " Earl of Hereford, and Conſtable of England, " and Lord of the Foreſt of Dean, in Right of " his Wife, Daughter and Heir of Bernard New- " march, Lord of Brecknock. This Coat is now " quartered by Sir Ralph Verney of Middle Clay- " don in Buckinghamſhire.

Glov. Alph. of the North. M.S. in Aſhm. Num. 834.

Argent, two Bends Sable, was the Coat of the Family of Kaye of Woodſomn; and with a Martlet for a Difference, it belong'd to the Kayes of Dalton.

" Gules, two Bends " Vaire, with the Arms " of Ulſter, was the Coat " of Sir John Fagge of Wiſ- " ton in Suſſex, Baro- " net.

Or, two Bends engrail'd Sable, was the Coat of Richard Braithwayt of Ringwood, in the County of Southampton, Eſq; who dy'd in St. Giles's Pariſh in the North Suburbs of Oxford, and was buried in the Chancel of that Church (as Mr. Wood thinks). He died April 1645.

M. S. of Remarks per Ant. à Wood, de Com. Oxon.

In the Year 1639 he gave to the ſaid Church of St. Giles a Communion Table, a Carpet of Purple Velvet fairly fring'd, a Damask lining Table-Cloth, and two Napkins of the ſame; a ſilver Flaggon, a ſilver Chalice with a Cover to it, and a Plate of Silver for the Bread.

Argent, two Bends raguly, Sable, the lower One rebated at the Top. This Coat was granted by Richard St. George, Norroy, Auguſt 1611. to Anthony Wagſtaff, then of Haſeland in the County of Derby, who married Elizabeth, Daughter of Thomas Wray of Richmondſhire, Brother to Sir ..... Wray, Knight, Capit. Juſtic. Ang. and had Iſſue John (Son and Heir) aged 12. 1611. Alſo Anthony, Samuel, and Bethulia. See M. S. of Ant. à Wood, F. 3. fol. 55.

Note, That Anthony of Haſeland firſt mentioned, was Son of Thomas Wagſtaff of Wingfield in the ſame County, which Thomas was the Son of Richard.

Or, three Bendlets Ermines, was the Coat of Sir John Guevara of Stanigot in the County of Lincoln, Knight, who married Anne, Daughter of Robert Sanderſon of Fillingham in the County of Lincoln, Eſq; and had Iſſue Francis Guevara, who married the Daughter of Nicholas Smyth of Calkewell in the County of Lincoln, and William Guevara, Second Son.

Note, That the ſaid Sir John was Son and Heir of Francis Veles de Guevara a Spaniard, Brother of James Veles de Guevara. See M. S. of Ant. à Wood, F. 3. fol. 60.

(Ꝑ) Argent, three Bendlets, Sable, by the Name of Sanderſon.

" Pearl, three Bendlets " in Chief ſiniſter, Ruby. " This is the Coat of the " Right Hon. William By- " ron, Baron Byron of Roch- " dale in the County of " Lancaſter.

'He beareth Argent, 'three Bendlets wavy, A- 'zure. This is the an- 'cient Paternal Coat-Ar- 'mour belonging to Wil- 'braham of Cheſhire, as 'appears by diverſe Re- 'cords in the Office of 'Arms, and elſewhere. 'The Chief of which 'Name is Sir Richard Wil- 'braham of Woodhey, Knight and Baronet, li- 'neally deſcended from Sir Richard Wilbraham, 'Knight, who lived in the Reign of King Hen- 'ry the Third, and was High Sheriff of the 'aforeſaid County in the Beginning of King 'Edward the Firſt. From which Family of 'Wilbraham of Woodhey, deſcended Sir Roger 'Wilbraham, Knight, lately one of the Maſters 'of Requeſts in Ordinary to King James, and 'Surveyor of his Majeſty's Court of Wards and 'Liveries; who at Nantwich (the Place of his 'Birth) and elſewhere, hath by his charitable 'Acts left pious Monuments of his Name and

'Me-

'braham of Woodhey in the said County, Ba-
'ronet; as also Roger Wilbraham of Dearfold,
'and Roger Wilbraham of Nantwich, both of the 'said County, Esquires.

'Mr. Boswell, in his Works of Armory ob-
'serveth, That the Bearer of such Bends as
'these, or of the like Coat-Armour, may be 'thought to have done some great Enterprize
'upon the Seas, worthy of perpetual Commen-
'dations.

(𝔐) Argent, three Bendlets cotised and engrail'd, on the outer Side, Gules, by the Name of Honyman.

Gules, two Chevrons Argent, was the Bearing of George Hyde of Bla grave near Abingdon in the County of Berks, who married Elizabeth, Daughter of John Keit of Eberton, in the County of Gloucester, who dy'd (having out-liv'd her said Husband) in the House of John Galloway, Draper, in the Parish of All Saints in Oxford, on Thursday the Second of August, 1677. and was buried by her Husband at Sutton by Abindon, having first, and in his Lifetime, born him these Children following, all which were living at her Death, viz. John, who married the Daughter of James West of Banbury, in the County of Oxford, Mercer; Thomas unmarried, Humfrey beyond Sea, Richard Heir to the Estate at Blagrave, who married Mary, Daughter of Humphry Hyde of Wyke, by Abindon, William, Francis, and Hastings unmarried; as also Margaret and Elizabeth unmarried. The said Elizabeth bare also another Daughter named Mary, who was married to ..... Bowreman of the Isle of Wight, sometime of Christ Church Colledge in Oxford.

M. S. of Ant. & Wood's Remarks de Com. Oxon.

Gules, two Chevrons, Argent, was born also by Edward Fettiplace, M. A. and Batchelor of Physick, Sen. Student of Christ Church, a younger Son of Thomas Fettiplace of Fernham, near to Farringdon in Berks; which said Edward dy'd at Fernham the 8th of July at four in the Afternoon 1687, Aged 68, or thereabouts, & cælebs; whereupon his Body was buried at Longcot, in the Church there, among the Graves of his Fathers.

"is the Coat-Armour of
"Sir Edward Wise of Sy-
"denham in Devonshire, Kt.
"of the Bath.

"This Coat, with a due "Difference, is born by
"Mr. John Wise of the "City of London, Master
"Plummer to the Office of His Majesty's Ord-
"nance.

Argent, two Barrs Azure, is the ancient Coat of the noble and warlike Family of Hilton alias Hylton de Hilton-Castle in the Bishoprick of Durham; whose Antiquity appears by a Present of 3 Censors to the Monastry of Hartlepoole, from Robertus de Hilton in the Time of King Athelston, and the Works of that great Historiographer Malmsbury, which mention that one William de Hilton-Castle, with the other great Lords, was call'd to Pizzeazemoz, i. e. their Wittenagemott, or Great Council, like our Parliament.

In

In the Reign of King William the Conqueror, Henry de Hilton was one of the Four Lords that treated with him for the Northern Counties. This Henry (as the Family report) receiv'd of his Gift, a Stag lodg'd and chain'd for a Cognizance or Creſt, which his valiant Son Lancelot declin'd for that of his Family; but, however, caus'd it to be plac'd on the Backſide of his Caſtle, as a Memorandum to Poſterity. In the Front of this Caſtle is yet the Standard of England. It has a Chappel of moſt exquiſite Architecture, adorn'd with great Variety of ingenious Sculpture, and contains divers ancient Coats of Arms and Badges.

But afterwards this Family unfortunately loſt their Peerage, in the Reign of King Edward I. nor had William de Hilton and his Son, who liv'd about the Time of Edward II, and Edward III, whoſe Diſpoſitions were too turbulent, any Summons to Parliament. But yet the Biſhops of Durham, while they had Power to nominate Barons, gave them that Title; and Neighbours, in courteſy, ſtill call them ſo.

Of this Family, beſide others of great Learning, Wiſdom, and Courage, are recorded Nineteen Knights, the laſt of which (temp. Q. Eliz.) leſſen'd the Fortune of his Family, by his charitable Diſpoſition, in giving great Part of his Eſtate to pious Uſes, &c. as to the Chamber of London Five Thouſand Pounds per Annum, for Ninety Nine Years to put out Apprentices, and for the Poor of Twenty One Pariſhes. Alſo for the like Term about Two Thouſand Pounds per Annum. But being a melancholy Man, he retired to Mitchel Grove in Suſſex, where he dy'd.

The great Grandſon of this generous Gentleman is Richard Hilton of Hilton-Caſtle, Eſq; (aged, Anno 1718. about Twenty One Years, and at this preſent a Student in Oxford). Of the ſame Family alſo is the ingenious John Hilton, eldeſt Son of Richard, late of Rea Hall in Staffordſhire, now of London, Eſq; who gives the ſame Coat differenc'd by a Creſcent; the ſaid Richard being Son of John, the Son of Richard, the Son of John, the Son of Robert, who was the Son of Thomas, the younger Brother to the Grand Great-Grandfather of the above-named young Gentleman Richard of Hilton-Caſtle.

Note, That this Family have preſcrib'd a Right to Supporters, which are two Lyons Azure, and the Gentleman above ſpoken of, may lawfully uſe them, though no Baron. Their Creſt is Moſes's Head upon a Wreath, Proper; and their Motto, Tant que je Puis.

Argent, two Barrs, Gules (with a Creſcent for a Difference) pertain'd to Henry Barry of Wynſcott, in the County of Devon, Eſquire, Son and Heir of John Barry of the ſame Place, Eſquire, deſcended from the Baron Barry of the Kingdom of Ireland. This Henry aforeſaid, married Margaret, Daughter of Nicholas Speccot of Speccot in the ſaid County, Eſq; and had Iſſue Michael, William, Henry, Lawrence, and Anne.

'Twas, with a Creſcent on that Creſcent (for a Difference) the Coat alſo of Hugh Barry of Byndon, in the County of Devon, ſecond Son of the ſaid John Barry of Wynſcott, who married Alice, Daughter and Coheir of Richard Wykes of Byndon, aforeſaid, Gent. and had Iſſue Alexander, John, Anne, and Margaret. Grafton, fol. 23.

" He beareth Argent, two Barrs, Gules, by " the Name of South; and is born by John " South of Kelſturn in Lincolnſhire, one of the " Gentlemen of the Privy-Chamber in Ordinary " to His Majeſty King Charles II, Son of Sir " John South of the the ſaid Place, Knight.

" Azure, two Barrs, Or, is the Coat-Armour " of the ancient Family of the Burdets of War- " wickſhire.

" Argent, two Barrs, Sable, is born by Edward " Brereton of Burras in Denbighſhire, Eſquire.

Azure, two Barrs counter-embatteil'd, Ermine, pertain'd to Richard Burnaby of Burnaby, in the County of Devon, Eſq; who married Julian, Daughter of William Tothill of the City of Exeter, Gent. and had Iſſue Thomas, aged Forty, Anno Dom. 1620. Mary, who was married to Roger Nicholls; Elizabeth, who was married to Richard Bickford, and Jone to Henry Bickley, Thomas married Mary, Daughter of John Bear of Bearſcomb and Woodmanſton, and had Iſſue Richard Burnaby, Eſq; (Son and Heir) aged Nine Years, Anno Dom. 1620. Thomas, aged Seven; Mary, aged Twelve; ..... aged Ten; Anne (third Daughter) aged Six, and Suſan (fourth Daughter) aged Four, eodem Anno, 1620. Grafton, fol. 26.

The ſaid Richard Burnaby of Burnaby was Son of John, the Son of John, who was the Son of Thomas, the Son of Edward Burnaby of Burnaby, aforeſaid, Eſquires.

Argent, three Barrs, Gules, was the Coat of William Wollacombe of Over-Wollacombe in the County of Devon, who, for his firſt Wife, married Thomaſine, Daughter of ..... and had Iſſue Thomas; for his ſecond Wife he married Alice, Daughter and Heir of Stephen Gifford, and had Iſſue William and John, who both died Iſſueleſs. The ſaid William was Son of Thomas, the Son of Henry, the Son of Thomas, whoſe Father was Oliver Wollacombe, the Son of S———, the Son of Joceline, who was Son of Richard, the Son of Walter, whoſe Father was Robert Wollacombe.

Vide Viſit de Com. Devon. Tranſcript per Grafton.

Thomas, only Son of William Wollacombe aforeſaid (by Thomaſine his Wife) marry'd Anne, Daughter and Heir of John Michalſton of Lant Engliſhe in Com. Cornub. Gent. and Alice his Wife, Daughter and Co-heir of Stephen Gifford of Thenborough, and had Iſſue Thomas Wollacombe, who marry'd Thomaſine, Daughter of John Cole of North-Tawton, and had Iſſue Alexander Wollacombe of Combe, in the County of Devon, Eſq; who (for his firſt Wife) marry'd Anne, Daughter of Anthony Pollarde of Horwood, Eſq; and had Iſſue John, Anthony, Honora, and Alice. Honora was marry'd to Robert Cary of Kekbere, and Alice to John Heron. And for his ſecond Wife he marry'd Alice, Daughter of John Bradmore of the City of Exeter, by whom he had Iſſue George, Henry, and Alexander; Anne, Eleanor, and Thomaſine.

John Wollacombe, Son of Alexander aforeſaid, marry'd Mary, Daughter of Sir John Baſſett of Umberleigh in the County of Devon, and had Iſſue John and Thomas, and Honora who was marry'd to Richard Gifford of Welleſley.

John, the Son and Heir of John, by his Wife Mary, Daughter of John Coffin of Partridge, Eſq; had Iſſue John Wollacombe of Combe and Koughborough, in the County of Devon, Thomas ſecond Son, and Richard third Son. Mary, eldeſt Daughter, was marry'd to Humphrey Copleſton de Weare, Janaro (ſecond Daughter) to John Barret of St. Tudie, in Com. Cornub. Anne (third Daughter) to Thomas Hart of the City of Exeter, Eleanor the fourth, and Elizabeth the fifth Daughter.

This Coat, with a Mullet for a Difference, Sable, was aſſign'd by William Cambden, Clarencieux, in Feb. Anno 1611, to ——— Wollacombe of Devonſhire.

(M) Auchinlek of that Ilk; Argent, three Barrs, Sable.

(M) Fothringham of Powrie; Ermine, three Barrs, Gules.

'He beareth Or, three 'Barrs Dancett, Gules, by 'the Name of Delamare. 'This Example ſerveth to 'inform our Underſtand-'ing of the Uſe of that 'Sort of Acute-angled Or-'dinaries, that, in Blazon, 'we term by the Name 'of Dancett; and is in 'Shape like to that other Sort of Acute-angled 'Line, which is there named Indented, but 'differeth from the ſame only in Quantity, 'wherein theſe do exceed thoſe, as being more 'ſpaciouſly drawn than they.

"He beareth Azure, "3 Barrs waved, Argent, "by the Name of Sam-"ford. To the End I may "make plain (by Demon-"ſtration) the Uſe of the "ſeveral Forms of Lines "before expreſſed; I made "choice of this Coat-Ar-"mour, to exemplify the "third Sort of bunched Lines there mention-"ed.

(M) Drummond, Earl of Perth; Or, three Barrs wavy, Gules.

"This Coat-Armour is "Barry Nebule, of eight "Pieces, Topaz and Dia-"mond, and pertaineth to 'the honourable Family "of Charles, late Earl of "Devon and Lord Mount-"joy, Lieutenant Gover-"nour of Ireland, Great "Maſter of the Artillery "of England, Captain of Portſmouth, Knight of "the moſt noble Order of the Garter, and of "his Majeſty's moſt Honourable Privy Coun-"cil. The Bearing of Clouds in Arms (ſaith "Upton) doth import ſome Excellency in their "Bearer.

This Coat is alſo born by Sir Henry Blount of Tittonhanger in Hartfordſhire, Knight.

Argent, five Chevrons (or Chevronels) Sable, is the Bearing of Francis Hougham, Citizen and Painter-ſtainer of London, Son of William, Son of Michael, Son of Richard Hougham of Wedington, in the Pariſh of Aſh near Sandwich, in the County of Kent, by Elizabeth his Wife, Daughter to Edward Sanders of Northborne adjacent, which appears by a monumental Inſcription in the South

South Iſle of the ſaid Church; in Memory of which Sanders, the Houghams ſometimes bore Or, on a Chevron between three Elephants Heads, Gules, as many Mullets, Argent. The ſaid Richard was Son and Heir of Michael, Son of Stephen by a Daughter and Heir of Brooke, Son and Heir of Solomon Hougham, whoſe Portraiture is yet extant in one of the Church-Windows of Aſh, Son of William Hougham of Aſh aforeſaid; all (originally) deſcended from the Hughams or Houghams of Hougham, in the Hundreds of Bewsborough and Folkſton in the ſaid County, a Family of as reverend an Eſtimate for Antiquity as any in the Tract; for Robert de Hougham died ſeis'd of it Anno 41. Hen. 3. and left it to his Son another Robert de Hougham, who was Caſtellan of Rocheſter Caſtle, and departed this Life poſſeſs'd of the One, and in cuſtody of the Other, Anno 2 Ed. 1. which Mannor of Hougham was held by him by the Service of half a Knights Fee Wardſhip and Marriage of Alexander de Bailiol, who held it as the Inheritance of his Wife Iſabel de Dovel. The laſt named Robert, was at the Siege of Acon in Paleſtine, and bore the ſaid Coat-Armour of the Chevrons, which, according to Camden, were, in alluſion to the Clares, Lords of Tunbridge, or rather, to the Abrincis, antient Lords of Folkſton, who gave Or, five Chevrons, Gules, like as many other Coats were in imitation of them, viz. The Evenings of Evening, that held a Knight's Fee of them, bore Or, five Chevrons, Azure. The Creythorns, Azure, five Chevrons, Or, a Label of as many Points, Gules, &c.

(𝔐) Argent, three Piles Sable, is the Coat belonging to Anſtruther of that Ilk.

Argent, three Piles engrail'd, Gules, by the Name of Polwart; this is quarter'd in the ſecond Place by Hume of Polwart, with his paternal Coat; Vert, a Lyon rampant, Argent, within a Bordure of Roſes, Gules.

Wail of Bawlerby in Scotland; Argent, three Piles and terminating in the Feſs Point, Sable.

" The Field is Or, three " Piles meeting near in " the Baſe of the Eſcu- " tcheon, Azure. This " Coat was born by Sir " Guy Bryan, Knight, one " of the noble Knights of " the moſt Honourable " Order of the Garter, in " the Time of King Ed- " ward the Third: And he was alſo a chief " Mean unto the ſaid King for obtaining the " Charter of Priviledge and Freedom of his " Majeſty's Foreſt of Dean, in the County of " Glouceſter, for the Benefit of the Inhabitants " of the ſame Foreſt.

(𝔊) Brechin of that Ilk; Or, three Piles in Point, Gules.

(𝔊) Anſwilly of that Ilk; Argent, three Piles meeting in Point, Sable.

'He beareth Argent, 'three Piles, one iſſuing 'out of the Chief between 'the Two others, tranſ- 'poſed or reverſed, Sable, 'by the Name of Hulſe: 'And is the Coat-Armour 'of John Howes alias Hulſe, 'of Newbury in Berkſhire, 'Eſquire, one of his Ma- 'jeſty's Juſtices of the Peace and Quorum in the 'ſaid County; whoſe eldeſt Daughter Bridget, 'is now Wife to James Georges of London, Gent. 'Nephew to John Georges of Bawnton in Glou- 'ceſterſhire, Eſquire.

'This Coat is alſo born by Richard Hulſe of 'Betherden in Kent, Eſquire.

Gules, two Flanches chequy, Argent and Azure, was aſſign'd to ..... Sherington of Gray's Inn, London, Anno 1583. by Robert Cooke, Clarencieux.

He beareth Argent, a Chief, Gules, over all a Bend engrail'd, Azure, with a Flower de Lis on the Chief for a Difference, by the Name of Leeke. This Coat was confirmed to Tho. Leeke of Gray's Inn, deſcended out of Shropſhire. Her. Off. Lond. c. 24.

Edward Kelſall, A. M. Vicar of Boſton in Lincolnſhire, deſcended from the Kelſall's, an antient Family in Cheſhire, beareth Ermine, a Bend engrail'd, Sable; which, by the Regiſters in the Colledge of Arms, appears to have been a very ancient Coat to that Name in the ſaid County; though, I don't find any Pedigree, or regular Deſcent.

[Not having this ſooner, I am conſtrain'd to give it place here, though not agreeable to my Method.]

Gules, a Chief Chequy, Argent and Azure, over all a Bend, Or, was confirmed by William Cambden to Daniel de Lingne of Harlaxton in the County of Lincoln, Son of Anthony de Lingne, Son of John de Lingne of Valenzine, in the Province of Henault. Vide Lib. cuj. Tit. Fauſtina E. 1. in Bibl. Cott.

Sable, a Bend engrail'd cottiſed, Or, over all a File of three Lambeaux, Argent, was confirm'd by Patent, to Ralph Carkike of London, Gent. Son of William Carkike, of Armington in Devonſhire, Gent. by Robert Cooke, Clarencieux, the 10th of December 1530. Anno 21 Eliz.

Argent, three Pallets, Gules, over all a Chevron, Or. This Coat was aſſigned by William Cambden, Clarencieux, in October, Anno Dom. 1611. to Edward Barkeham, Alderman of the City of London.

Azure, two Barrs, and a Bend over all, Or, is born by the Name of Pott, and was confirm'd or granted to John Pott of Lincoln's Inn, Son of Roger, by Robert Cooke, Clarencieux, 1583.

'He beareth Gules, on 'a Chevron, Argent, three 'Bars Gemelles, Sable, by 'the Name of Throkmor- 'ton; and, with the Arms 'of Ulſter, is the Coat- 'Armour of Sir Baynham 'Throkmorton in the ſaid 'County, Baronet. Theſe 'are termed, in Blazon, 'Bars Gemelles, of the Latin Word Gemellus, 'which ſignifieth a Twin, or Children of one 'Birth, as Gemelli fratres, Brothers of one Birth, 'like as theſe are Twins of a Birth, ſo are thoſe 'in like Sort born by Couples.'

"He beareth Argent, "three Chevronels, Gules, "a Label of three Points, "Azure, by the Name of "Barrington, and is the "Bearing of Thomas Bar- "rington, Eſq; Son and "Heir to Sir John Bar- "rington of Barrington- "hall in Eſſex, Baronet.

'He beareth Sable, a 'Pile, Argent, ſurmount- 'ed of a Chevron, Gules, 'by the Name of Dyxton. 'This Coat is found in the 'Abby-Church of Ciren- 'ceſter, in the County of 'Gloceſter; and it ſerveth 'fitly to exemplify a Rule 'formerly delivered, touch- 'ing the uſual Blazoning of diſtinct Things born 'in one Eſcutcheon, viz. That the Charge ly- 'ing next and immediately upon the Field, ſhall 'be firſt nominated, and then Things more 'remote.'

(𝔐) Argent, three Piles, Sable, ſurmounted of a Feſs wavy, Gules; was the Coat of Lovell, ſometime of Ballumbie.

He

He beareth Argent, a double Treſſure Flory Counter-flory, over all a Feſs Embattel'd, Contre-embattel'd, Gules, by the Name of Miller. This Coat was aſſign'd by Sir Edward Walker, Garter, by Patent dated May 27, 1672, 24 King Chales II. to Serjeant-Major John Miller, born at Ballicuſſon, in the Pariſh and County of Ardmagh in Ireland (Son of Robert Miller of the County of Huntington) who from his Youth apply'd himſelf to military Actions, and by his Merit and Courage came to be eldeſt Captain of the Illuſtrious and Heroick General Monk's Regiment of Cole-ſtreamers; he was alſo Adjutant-General unto the ſaid General Monk, when he entred England in order for the Reſtoration of King Charles the Second, and ſhortly after made Serjeant-Major of the ſaid Regiment (being made a Regiment of his Majeſty's Foot-Guards under the Command of the ſaid Illuſtrious General Monk.

'He beareth Ermine, a 'Canton, Argent, charged 'with a Chevron, Gules; 'by the Name of Middle-ton.'

Now for Ordinaries of diverſe Kinds born one beſides another, take theſe Examples following.

'The Field is Topaz, a 'Saltire and Chief, Ruby; 'and is the Arms of Sir 'Edward Bruſe, Knight, 'Lord of Kinloſs in Scot-'land, ſometime Maſter of 'the Rolls of his Majeſty's 'Court of Chancery. Theſe 'Arms ſometime belong-'ed to the old Bruſes of 'Anandale, and alſo to the Earls of Carict; out 'of which Houſe the Right Houourable Robert 'Earl of Aylesbury and Elgin, Viſcount Bruſe of 'Ampthil, Lord Bruſe of Wharlton, Skelton, and 'Kinloſs, Hereditary High Steward of the Ho-'nour of Ampthil, High Steward of Leiceſter, 'and Lord Lieutenant of Bedfordſhire, derives 'his Deſcent; to which Coat, as an Addition, 'his Lordſhip now beareth on a Canton Pearl, 'a Lyon Rampant, Saphir.

(G) Moffit of that Ilk; Azure, a Saltire and Chief, Argent.

(G) Annand of that Ilk; Argent, a Saltire and Chief, Azure.

(G) Tact of Pyrne in Scotland; Argent, a Saltire engrail'd, and a Chief, Gules.

He beareth Sable, a Saltire engrail'd, Ermine, and in Chief a Pile, Or, by the Name of Polwylle. This Coat was aſſign'd to John Polwylle of Polwylle in the County of Cornwall (Son of John Polwylle, the Son of Stephen Polwylle, who was Son of Otes Polwylle) by Sir Gilbert Dethick Garter, and Robert Cook Clarencieux, 16th of Feb. 1568.

'The Field is Argent, a 'Feſs and Canton, Gules. 'This Coat-Armour per-'taineth to the Honoura-'ble Family of Woodvile, 'created Earl Rivers in 'the Time of King Ed-'ward the Fourth, who 'was alſo Lord Treaſurer 'of England; from whom 'many worthy Perſons of high Calling are 'deſcended. As touching Ordinaries of diverſe 'Kinds born one upon another, you muſt ob-'ſerve, That if they be both of one Metal, 'Colour, or Fur, their Parts contingent are not 'ſevered by purfle, for that by their Forms 'it may be eaſily conceived what Ordina-'ries they are, notwithſtanding the Defect of 'the Purfle.

'He beareth Sable, a 'Bend and Chief, Or. This 'is a Coat of rare Bear-'ing, which I find cut 'in Stone in the Abby 'Church of Weſtminſter, 'in the North Part there-'of. The conjoyning of 'theſe two Ordinaries 'doth conſtitute (on the 'Left-ſide thereof) the Form of a Gyron; and 'the Ordinaries themſelves thus united, do re-'ſemble the Form of the arithmetical Figure of 'Seven turned backwards.

Gules, a Feſs, and in Chief 3 Piles wavy, Argent, was the Coat of Sir Juſtinian Iſham of Lamport in the County of Northampton, Baronet, and Knight of that Shire; who dy'd in the Houſe of John Barret of St. Mary's Pariſh in Oxon, the 2d of March, 1674-5, and was (as Mr. Wood thinks) buried at Lamport.

M. S. of Ant. à Wood's Remarks de Com. Oxon.

He

He was the Son of Sir John Iſham of Langport or Lamport, Knight and Baronet.

Gules, a Feſs Chequy, Argent and Sable, a Bordure, Or, is born by the Name of Hampton, and was granted to William Hampton Rector of Blechingley in Surry, by Sir Edward Byſhe Clarencieux, Aug. 13, 1662.

He beareth Gules, two Bends wavy, Or, a Chief Vaire, with a Martlet for Difference, by the Name of Brewer. This Coat was allow'd or aſſign'd to..... Brewer, of London, deſcended out of Sommerſetſhire. Heralds Office, London, c. 24.

Azure, three Bends, Argent, and a Chief, Ermine, is born by the Name of Martin, and was granted by Sir William Segar, Garter ult. Aug. 1615, to Cuthbert Martin of London, Eſq; (ſometime Alderman thereof) and deſcended of the Martins of Lancaſhire. Her. Off. Lond. c. 21.

Azure, two Barrs indented, Or, a Chief, Argent, was the Coat of John Stoner of North Stake in the County of Oxon. Eſq; Viſit. Oxon. Anno 1574. M. S. of Ant. à Wood, D. 7. p. 67.

'He beareth Gules, two 'Barrs, and a Chief in- 'dented, Or, by the Name 'of Hare. This, with the 'Arms of Ulſter, is the 'Coat of Sir Ralph Hare 'of Stow-Bardolph in Nor- 'folk, Baronet; and, as I 'take it, derived from the 'ancient Arms of Hare- 'court, whoſe Coat-Armour it is, if the Chief 'were away. In this Eſcutcheon you may ob- 'ſerve in Part, the variable Shape of Chiefs, 'occaſioned by Reaſon of diverſe Forms of 'Lines (before ſhewed) whereof they are com 'poſed. The Reſt, Time and diligent Obſer- 'vation will make plain.

'He beareth Gules, two 'Barrs and a Canton, Ar- 'gent, by the Name of 'Deane. As to the Omiſ- 'ſion of Purfle laſt before 'mentioned, the Rule 'there given holdeth not 'alone in That, but alſo 'in theſe and all other 'Coats of like Bearing, I 'mean ſuch as have in them a Canton or Quar- 'ter born jointly (as in theſe) with ſome other 'Ordinary of the ſame Metal, Colour, or Fur, 'now I will add one Example of the joint-bear- 'ing of a Canton with three Barrs, as in the 'next Eſcutcheon appeareth.

'He beareth Argent, 'three Barrs and a Can- 'ton, Gules, by the Name 'of Fuller. Many more 'Examples of Coat-Ar- 'mours of like Sort of 'Bearing could I produce, 'were it not that I hold 'theſe few ſufficient to in- 'form the Underſtanding 'of ſtudious Armouriſts, that as well Ordinaries 'of diverſe Kinds, as thoſe of the ſame Kind, 'are found born one upon another; and withal, 'to occaſion them to pry more narrowly into 'theſe curious and nice Manners of Bearing, 'which Numbers of them do ſlightly paſs over, 'as if they held them unworthy of more than 'ordinary Obſervation.

Or, two Barrs, Gules, in Chief a Label of five Points, Sable; was the Coat of Richard Wynterſhull of Little Stoke in the County of Oxon. Gent. who was Son and Heir to Richard Wynterſhull of Sutton in the County of Berks, Gent.

The ſaid Richard, Jun. married Elizabeth, Daughter to John Stoner of North Stoke in the County of Oxon, Eſq; and by her had Iſſue Richard, his eldeſt Son; Henry, ſecond Son; Iſabel, Margaret, who dy'd young; Margery, Bridget, and Jone.

Viſit. Oxon. Anno 1574. M. S. of Ant. à Wood, D. 7. p. 68.

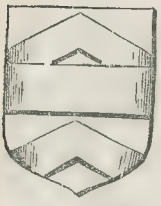

Three Barrs within a Bordure, was the Bearing of John Houghton Bachelor of Divinity, ſometime Senior Fellow of Brazenoſe Colledge, Oxon. Son of Mat. Houghton of Bould in the County of Lancaſter, who dy'd at his Lodgings (call'd (call'd Black-hall) near the said Colledge, on Tuesday the 7th of August 1677, aged 69, or thereabouts, and was the next Day buried in that Colledge Cloyster. He was one of the Brothers of the Savoy, Minn Prebend, and Master of an Hospital in the Dioceese of Sarum.

M. S. of Ant. à Wood's Remarks de Com. Oxon. p. 136.

He beareth Argent, two Barrs, Gules, within a Bordure engrail'd, Sable, by the Name of Cokesford. This Coat was confirm'd to John Cokesford of Launton in Oxfordshire, by William Cambden, Clarencieux, in February, Anno 1611.

" He beareth Or, a Fess " between two Chevrons, " Sable: This Coat-Ar- " mour was born by Sir " John Lisle, Knight, and " one of the first Foun- " ders of the most Noble " Order of the Garter, as " appeareth by his Plate " whereon these Arms are " enamelled, and yet remaining in his Stall in " the Quire in the Chappel of St. George at " Windsor. Which Sir John Lisle was Lord of " the Mannor of Wilbraham, in the County of " Cambridge, of which said Mannor William " Lisle, Esquire, is at this Day seized: A Gen- " tleman, to whom the Studious in our an- " cient Saxon Tongue are much obliged, for the " clear Light he hath given therein by his great " Travel and Pains.

" Robert Lisle, who was a Baron in the " Times of King Edward the Second, and Ed- " ward the Third, bore the same Coat-Armour. " And diverse ancient and eminent Nobles of " this Kingdom do rightfully quarter these " Arms, being descended from the Heirs gene- " rally of the Family of Lisle.

" Or, a Fess between two Chevrons, Gules, " was the Coat of Anselme Lord Fitz-water, " in the Time of the Conquest; of whom did " descend Walter Fitz-water, who had a Daugh- " ter and Heir that married to Robert Radcliff, " Father of Robert Radcliff Lord Fitz-water, " of whom descended Robert Radcliffe Earl of " Sussex, and Viscount Fitz-water; of which " Family is Sir Francis Radcliff of Dilston " in Northumberland, Baronet, now living, " 1675.

Gules, a Fess between two Chevrons, Argent, was born by John Nourse of Wood-Eaton in the County of Oxford, Esq; (Son of Richard Nourse, Esq;) who dy'd at the said Wood-Eaton, the 6th of September, 1673. and was buried near to his Wife, who was Martha, Daughter of Ralph Smith of North Crowley in Bucks. She dy'd April 1, 1673.

M. S. of Ant. à Wood's Remarks de Com. Oxon. p. 117.

The Wife of the first mentioned John of Wood-Eaton, was Anne, eldest Daughter and one of the Heirs of William Sedley of Digswell in the County of Hertford, Esq; by Anne his Wife, one of the Heirs of Henry Boteler, Esq;

I find that this Coat was assign'd or granted to John Nourse of Chilling-Place and Wood-Eaton in the County of Oxford, Esq; (Son of John Nourse of Milton in the County of Bucks, Gent.) by Sir William Segar, Garter, the 27th of May, 1629. 5th King Charles I.

Argent, two Chevrons Azure, within a Bordure engrail'd, Gules, is born by the Name of Tirrel. This Coat belong'd to Tho. Tirrell of Heron in the County of Essex, who married ..... Daughter of Sir John Sulliard of Suffolk, Knight, and had Issue Sir John Tirrell, Knight, who married the Daughter of ..... Baker of Kent.

Vide Visit. de Com. Essex, Anno 1614. fol. 25, 26.

Thomas Tirrell of Heron aforesaid, was eldest Son and Heir of Sir Henry Tirrell of the said Place, Knight, by his Wife, Daughter of William Guston; which Sir Henry was second Son and Heir of Sir Tho. Tirrell of the same Place, Knight, by his Lady Constance, Daughter of John Blount Lord Mountjoy; which said Sir Thomas was Son and Heir of Sir Thomas of the said Heron, by his Wife Beatrix, Daughter of John Cockaine; which Sir Thomas was Son and Heir of Sir William Tirrell of Heron, Knight, by his Wife Eleanor, Daughter of Sir Robert Darcy, Knight; which Sir William was eldest Son and Heir of Sir Tho. Tirrell of Heron aforesaid, by his Wife Anne, Daughter of Sir William Marmy, Knight, who bare him also four other Children, Anne, a Daughter, who was married to Edmund Audley; Thomas, second Son, who was of Wokinden; Humfrey Tirrell third Son, who was of Warley; and Sir Robert Tirrell fourth Son.

Tho. Tirrell of Wokenden aforesaid (second Son of Sir Thomas of Heron abovementioned) took to Wife Elizabeth, Daughter and Heir of Sir Henry Bryan, Knight, and Relict of Sir William Brandon, Knight, (to whom she bare Charles Brandon, Duke of Suffolk) by whom he had William Tirrell of Wokenden, who married Elizabeth, Daughter of Thomas Bodeley, and Widow of ..... by whom he had Issue Humfrey Tirrell of the same Place, who married Jane, Daughter of ..... Singleton or Ingleton, and had Issue George Tirrell of Thornton in the County ty of Bucks, whoſe Son and Heir was William Tirrell, who ſold South-Wokenden.

Humphrey Tirrell of Warley (third Son of Sir Tho. Tirrell of Heron and Anne his Wife) married Elizabeth, Daughter of John Walwyn, who bare him two Sons; Sir John eldeſt Son, and Humphrey ſecond Son, who married Alice, Daughter and Heir of Tho. Glenham, and had Iſſue one Daughter Alice, who was married to Ambroſe Wolley.

Sir John Tirrell of Warley (eldeſt Son of Humphrey aforeſaid) married Anne, Daughter of Edward Norrice, and had Iſſue five Sons, viz. James, eldeſt Son; William, ſecond Son; Stephen, third Son; Ralph, fourth Son; Morrice, fifth Son; and one Daughter, who was Wife to Sir William Peter, Knight. James Tirrell of Warley (eldeſt Son of Sir John) married Anne, Daughter of Ambroſe Wolley, who bare him Mary, his ſole Daughter and Heir, who was married to Edward Clinton, ſecond Son of Edward Earl of Lincoln.

Sir Robert Tirrell (fourth and laſt Son of Sir Thomas and Anne his Wife, both abovementioned,) married Chriſtian, Daughter of John Harleſham, and had Iſſue two Sons; Robert, and Sir John Tirrell, a Prieſt.

Robert Tirrell (eldeſt Son of Sir Robert) married Joyce, Daughter of ..... Graff, who bare him Thomas, Richard, Henry, Ralph, Horace, and Tirrell; ſix Sons.

Note, That Sir Tho. Tirrell of Heron abovementioned, who married Anne, Daughter of Sir William Marmy, was eldeſt Son and Heir of Sir John Tirrell of the ſame Place, who, by his Wife, Daughter and Co-heir of Sir William Coggiſhall, Knight, had (beſides the ſaid Sir Thomas) two Sons; Sir William Tyrrell of Beecher, ſecond Son, and Sir William Tirrell of Gripping, third Son, who married Margaret, Daughter of Sir Robert Darcey of Malde, Knight.

Sir William Tyrrell of Beecher (ſecond Son of Sir John Tyrrell of Heron, by the Daughter of Sir William Coggiſhall, Knight) married firſt, Anne, Daughter of Sir John Fitz-Simon, Knight, and had Iſſue John, who married Katharine, Daughter to John Waldur, and had Iſſue Edward and William.

The ſecond Wife of the ſaid Sir William Tyrrell of Beecher was Philippa, Daughter of John Thornby, who bare him Jaſper Tirrell, who married Anne, Daughter of ..... Goring, and had Iſſue Edmund.

Note, That the ſaid Sir John Tirrell of Heron, who married the Daughter of Sir William Coggiſhall as aboveſaid, was Treaſurer of the King's Houſe, and Son and Heir of Sir Tho. Tirrell of the ſame Place, by his Wife ..... Daughter and Heir of Flamberd of Eſſex; which Sir Thomas was Son and Heir of Sir Walter of the ſame Place, by Jane his Wife, Daughter and Co-heir of John Swinford of Eſſex; which Sir Walter was Son and Heir of Sir James, by his Wife Margaret, Daughter and Heir of Sir William Heron of Eſſex, Knight; which Sir James Tirrell was Son and Heir of Sir Hugh, the Son and Heir of Sir Edmund, who was Son and Heir of Sir Lionel, the Son and Heir of Sir Jeffry, who was Son and Heir of Sir Edward, the Son and Heir of Sir Richard, who was Son and Heir of Sir Henry, the Son and Heir of Sir Walter Tirrell, Knight.

N. B. The ſeveral Houſes of the Tirrells, ſet forth in this Genealogy, bear the ſame Coat, with their reſpective Differences; which Bearing in itſelf, denotes Antiquity, and well becomes ſo Right Worthy and Knightly a Family.

'The Field is Azure, 'three Chevronels, bra- 'ſed in the Baſe of the 'Eſcutcheon, and a Chief, 'Or. This Coat-Armour 'pertaineth to the Ho- 'nourable Family of Fitz- 'Hugh, ſometimes ancient 'Barons of the North Parts 'of this Land; of whom 'the Right Honourable the Earl of Pembrook is 'Heir, and writeth himſelf, among his other 'Titles, Lord Fitz-Hugh, and alſo quartereth 'the Coat. Theſe are termed, in Blazon, Chev- 'ronels, in reſpect they are abſtracted from 'Chevrons, whereof they have not alone the 'Shape, but alſo a borrow'd Name of Dimi- 'nution, as if you ſhould call them minute, or 'ſmall Chevrons.'

They are ſaid to be braced, as Mackenzy obſerves, from the French Word Bras, which ſignifies Arms: But they (adds he) term ſuch Kind of Bearings Accrochete, p. 38.

"He beareth Argent, an "Orle within a Bordure, "Gules, by the Name of "Rutland, and is born by "the Rutlands of Saffron "Walden in Eſſex, and of "Micham in Surrey; of "which Family is Mr. "William Rutland of Lon- "don.

Fleming

Fleming Earl of Wigton bears Gules, a Chevron within a double Treſſure Counter-flory, Argent; quartering the Coat of Frazer. What Quartering is, and the Occaſion thereof, will be ſhew'd hereafter.

He beareth Or, two Barrs, Gules, a Chief, Azure, charg'd with an Eſcutcheon, Ermine; by the Name of Norton. This Coat was aſſign'd by William Cambden, Clarencieux, in Feb. 1611, to Bonham Norton the King's Printer.

Argent, three Barrs Gemelles, Azure, on a Chief, Gules, a Barrulet indented, Or; was the Coat of Tho. Haydon of Woodbury in the County of Devon, Eſq; who married Johanna, the Daughter of Richard Wikes of Honychurch, Gent. and had Iſſue Thomas, Jane, and Margaret. Jane married one Richard Williams, and Margaret, Tho. Brownynge. This Tho. Haydon was Son of Richard Haydon of the ſame Place, the Son of Richard Haydon of Lympſton alias Kempſton, who was Son of William, the Son of John, the Son of William, whoſe Father was Robert Haydon, Son of John Haydon.

Thomas Haydon, Gent. (the Son of Thomas of Woodbury aforeſaid) was of Hilles in the County of Devon, and married Chriſtian, Daughter of Robert Tetherleigh of Tetherleigh in the County of Dorſet, Gent. and had Iſſue Robert, Thomas and Bridget.

Robert Haydon, Eſq; eldeſt Son of Tho. Haydon, was of Cadhay in the ſame County, and married Johanna, eldeſt Daughter of Sir Amias Pawlett, Knight, and had Iſſue Gideon, Amias, D..... and Margaret.

'He beareth Gules, a 'Croſs, Argent, in the 'Dexter Quarter, an Eſ-'cutcheon, Or, charged 'with three Chevronels 'of the firſt, by the Name 'of Saint Owen; which 'Family, either for Affe-'ction, or for ſome Lands 'which they anciently 'held of the Houſe of Clare, may ſeem to have 'aſſumed the Arms of the ſaid Clare in the Dex-'ter Point of the Field; which Form of Bear-'ing is of very rare Uſe.

"He beareth Argent, a "Croſs flory, Gules, in "the Siniſter Quarter an "Eſcutcheon, Sable, char-"ged with a Croſs of the "firſt, by the Name of "Penthar. This Coat I "have alſo inſerted here, "becauſe of the Variety "and Rarity of it, being "of no leſs Rareneſs than the Former, and "ſeldom ſeen to be born by any: In Blazon "of which I break not the Rule formerly gi-"ven, by twice repeating the Word Croſs, be-"cauſe it is in the Eſcutcheon by it ſelf.

'He beareth Sable, on 'a Saltire engrail'd, Ar-'gent, an Eſcutcheon, 'Or, charg'd with a Croſs, 'Gules, by the Name of 'Morris. It may be of 'ſome conceiv'd, That 'there is falſe Armoury 'in this Coat, in reſpect 'of the Eſcutcheon, Or, 'placed upon the Saltire, Argent, which is 'Metal upon Metal, a Kind of Bearing (as al-'ſo Colour upon Colour) utterly condemn'd 'for falſe Armoury: But ſuch Kind of Falſity 'is evermore meant of Metal upon Metal, or 'Colour upon Colour, placed in one ſelf-ſame 'Eſcutcheon; but here are ſeveral Shields, and 'thoſe pertaining to diſtinct Families, and 'therefore not to be holden for falſe Ar-'moury.

'Sable, a Saltire Argent, charg'd with an In-'eſcutcheon, Or, wherein is a Croſs Patée or 'Formy, Gules: This was the 'Coat of John Morris, D. D. Ca-'non of Chriſt's Church, Oxon. and 'Hebrew Profeſſor of the Univer-'ſity; who dy'd 21 March, 1647-8. and was 'buried in the Divinity-Chappel of Doctor 'Strode.

M. S. of Ant. à Wood's Remarks de Com. Oxon.

'He married Mary, Daughter of Walter Dar-'rel or Dayrel, Recorder of Abendon (now 'Abington) but deſcended from the Dayrells of 'Lillingſton Dayrell in the County of Bucks, and 'Siſter to the Wife of Charles Holloway Serjeant 'of Law; by whom he had no Iſſue.

Now, foraſmuch as the plain Croſs and Saltire are held Ordinaries, I ſhall ſo account them both, in all their Varieties, whether of Make or Size; and accordingly proceed (as I have now done of other Ordinaries) to give Examples of their being born, not only ſeveral of one or various Sorts together in one Shield, but also intermix'd both under, beside, and upon all these Ordinaries already handled.

THIS Third SECTION beginneth to Treat of ſuch Charges of Coat-Armours as are called Common Charges, whereof ſome be Natural and meerly Formal; ſuch are Angels and Spirits: And others are both Formal and Material; as the Sun, Moon, Stars: As alſo ſuch Natures as are Sublunary, whether they be living after a Sort, as all Kinds of Minerals; or that they live perfectly, as all Manner of Vegetables and Senſitive Creatures, with their General and Particular Notes, Rules, Precepts, and Obſervations.

SECTION III.

CHAP. I.

'HAVING performed the Task 'which our propoſed Order impo- 'ſed on us, touching proper Char- 'ges, together with their Making, 'and diverſe Manner of Bearing: The ſame 'orderly Progreſſion now calleth us to the Hand- 'ling of common Charges, mentioned in the 'ſecond Member of the ſame Diſtribution. By 'common Charges I mean all ſuch other 'Charges hereafter following, as are not hi- 'therto handled.

'Whether they be { Natural. / Artificial.

'Things Natural (according to Philoſophers) 'are Eſſences by themſelves ſubſiſting: Res na- 'turalis eſt eſſentia per ſe ſubſiſtens. Manifold, 'and, in manner, infinite, are theſe Things 'Natural, as Zanchius noteth, ſaying, Multæ 'ſunt, & propè infinitæ, non tam res, quam rerum 'ſpecies, in Cœlis, in Aere, in Terris, in Aquis: 'Therefore it is not to be expected, that I 'ſhould, in exemplifying of them, paſs through 'all the Particulars of them; but only touch 'ſuperficially ſome of their Chiefeſt, ſelected out 'of that innumerable Variety, whereby I may 'manifeſt in what Ranks, and under what 'Heads, each peculiar Thing muſt be beſtow- 'ed, according to their ſeveral Kinds, and 'ſo redeem them from all former confuſed 'Mixture.

'Of Things Natural, ſome are { Formal. / Material.

'The formal Nature is moſt ſimple and pure, 'and conſiſteth of the Propriety of its own 'Form, without any Body at all; of which 'Sort are Spirits, which (according to Scribonius) 'are Eſſentiæ formatæ rationales & immortales; 'Eſſences perfectly formed, Reaſonable and Im- 'mortal: I ſay, perfectly formed, to diſtin- 'guiſh them from the Souls of Men, whoſe 'forming is not Perfect in it ſelf, but is for 'the Informing and Perfecting of the Body and 'the whole Man.

'Among ſuch Forms are numbred { Angels. / Cherubims.

'Angels (in the Opinion of moſt Men) are 'incorporeal Eſſences of a ſpiritual Nature, void 'of all material Subſtance. Angelus, in Latin, 'is the ſame that Nuntius is; that is to ſay, a 'Meſſenger; and the ſame is a Name of Of- 'fice, and not of Nature, as St. Auguſtin noteth 'upon Pſalm 104, ſaying, Quæris nomen hujus 'naturæ? Spiritus eſt. Quæris officium? Angelus 'eſt. Will you know the Nature of it? It is 'a Spirit. Will you know the Office of it? It 'is an Angel or Meſſenger. The like may we 'find (ſaith he) in Man: Nomen Naturæ Homo, 'officii Miles: Nomen naturæ Vir, officii Prætor. 'To be a Man, is a Name of Nature: To be 'a Soldier or Pretor, is a Name of Office. An- 'gels are Meſſengers, by whom God hath ma- 'nifeſted his Will and Power to his Elect in 'Chriſt Jeſus: In which reſpect alſo the Mini- 'ſters of God are called in Scripture God's An- 'gels, and therefore to be honoured as his Am- 'baſſadors and Meſſengers; and their Doctrine 'is Evangelium, the good Angelical Meſſage of 'Life Eternal with the Angels in Heaven.

"All Angels are of like ſpiritual Subſtance, "of like intelligent Faculty, of like Will and "Choice: In fine, all of them created alike "Good and in Nature Perfect. Nevertheleſs, "as all Men by Nature and natural Dignity "are alike, but by Accident ſome of them are "of more Eſteem and Worthineſs than others: "So it is alſo with Angels, inaſmuch as ſome of "them (if we give Credit to Philoſophers) are "appointed to attend the Motion of the Hea- "vens, others to repreſs the Rage of Devils, "as appeareth Job 8. Others have Charge of "Preſervation of Kingdoms, and to keep under "the Rage of Tyrants, as is manifeſt Daniel 20. "Some have Charge of ſome particular Church, "others of Apoſtles and Paſtors, and others of "private Perſons, Pſalm 91. And all of them "are, by Scripture, ſaid to be Miniſtring Spi- "rits.

"Of this Diverſity of Functions, and ſeve- "ral Adminiſtrations, it is thought (becauſe "ſome of theſe Offices are of higher Imploy- "ment than others are) that ſome of them are "ſimply called Angels, ſome Arch-Angels, ſome "Vertues, ſome Dominations, as St. Hierom ex- "preſly ſheweth.

"And albeit theſe heavenly Spirits be in their "own Nature void of all corporeal or material "Subſtance, yet is it certain, when it pleaſed "God ſo to imploy them, they had aſſumpted ‘ Bodies for the Time, to the End they might ‘ the more effectually accompliſh the Service ‘ that God had injoyned them. Such Bodies ‘ had the three Angels that appeared to Abra- ‘ ham, Gen. 18. Such Bodies alſo had the two ‘ Angels that came unto Lot, Gen. 19. And as ‘ God gave them Bodies for that Time, ſo did “ he alſo give them Faculties anſwerable to ſuch “ Bodies, viz. to walk, talk, eat, drink, and “ ſuch like. Theſe Bodies and bodily Faculties “ were given them, to the End they might more “ familiarly converſe and diſcourſe with the “ Godly, to whom they were ſent, and the bet- “ ter perform the Charge enjoyned them, in- “ ſomuch as they did unfeignedly eat and drink, “ as Zanchius noteth; whereby they did the “ better conceal their proper Nature, until ſuch “ Time as they ſhould make known unto Men “ what they were indeed. Hereupon it ſeemeth “ the Ancients of fore-paſt Ages have uſed the “ Bearing of Angels in Coat-Armours, accord- “ ing to theſe bodily Shapes and Habits “ wherein they appeared unto Men, as in Ex- “ ample.”

‘ After Angels, Cherubims (whoſe Uſe in Ar- ‘ moury is leſs frequent) are to be handled. Of ‘ theſe I find two Examples of ſeveral Bearing; ‘ the one out of Hieron. Bara, expreſſing the ſole ‘ Bearing of a Cherub: Another out of Leigh, of ‘ a Cherub born upon an Ordinary: To which I ‘ have thought fit to add a Coat of Name, for ‘ a more manifeſt Proof of their Uſe in Arms; ‘ as alſo to ſhew that they are born as well ‘ with Ordinaries between them, as upon Or- ‘ dinaries.

‘ He beareth Jupiter, a ‘ Cherub having three Pair ‘ of Wings, whereof the ‘ Uppermoſt and Nether- ‘ moſt are counterly croſ- ‘ ſed, and the Middlemoſt ‘ diſplay'd, Luna. As to ‘ the Forms of thoſe Che- ‘ rubims that covered the ‘ Ark; it is of ſome hol- ‘ den, that they had the Similitude of certain ‘ Birds, ſuch as never any Man hath ſeen; but ‘ that Moſes ſaw in his moſt bleſſed Viſion ſuch ‘ Shapes upon the Throne of God. But Joſeph. ‘ Lib. Antiq. Judaic. 8. ſaith, Hæ Cherubicæ ef- ‘ figies quanam ſpecie fuerint nemo vel conjicere po- ‘ teſt vel eloqui: Of what Shape theſe Cheru- ‘ bims were, no mortal Man can conjecture or ‘ utter.

'He beareth Luna, on 'a Chief, Jupiter, a Che- 'rub diſplay'd, Sol. The 'Cherubims were pour- 'traited with Wings be- 'fore the Place where the 'Iſraelites pray'd, to ſhew 'how ſpeedily they went 'about the Lord's Buſi- 'neſs. Cherubim (ac- 'cording to Zanchius, lib. 2. de Nominibus Angelorum) is not the Name of any Order of Angels, or celeſtial Hierarchy (as others would have it) but ſuch as may well agree with all Angels: Neither doth that Name always ſignify their Nature, or ordinary Office, but for a certain Reaſon, even ſo long as they do appear to be ſuch, as by thoſe Names they are ſignified to be. And it is to be obſerved, that Cherub betokeneth the ſingular Number, and Cherubim the plural Number.

He beareth Azure, a Feſs dancettée, Or, between three Cherubims Heads, Argent, crined of the Second, by the Name of Adye. This Coat was confirm'd by Sir William Segar, Garter, the 20th of May (the 11th of King James I.) to John Adye of Dodington in Kent, Son and Heir of John Adye of Sittingborne in the ſaid County, Son and Heir of John Adye of Greete in the Pariſh of Dodington, whoſe younger Brother was Nicholas Adye, Gent.

'The Field is Sable, a 'Chevron between three 'Cherubims, Or. This 'Coat pertained to the 'right worthy Gentleman 'Sir Thomas Chaloner, Kt. 'ſometime Governor to 'the moſt High and 'Mighty Prince Henry, 'Prince of Wales, Duke 'of Cornwall and Rothſay, and Earl of Cheſter;' "and is now born by Sir Edward Chaloner of "Guiborough in the North-Riding of Yorkſhire, "Knight."

'In our Diviſion we diſtinguiſhed theſe from 'Angels, becauſe by moſt they are taken for a 'diſtinct Order above ordinary Angels, taking 'that Name from the Fulneſs or Abundance of 'divine and myſtical Science. Thus have you 'Examples of Cherubims born, not only Sole, 'but alſo upon and with Ordinaries.'

CHAP. II.

'FROM Things Natural that are meerly 'Formal, we come to ſuch as are Natural and Material. Thoſe are ſaid to be Eſſences Material, that do conſiſt of a Body ſubject to Motion and Alteration; Natura materiata eſt eſſentia in corpore motui obnoxio ſubſiſtens; A material Nature is an Eſſence ſubſiſting in a Body ſubject to Motion.

'Theſe are { Simple. / Mixt.

'Simple, are certain orbicular or round Bodies, or bodily Eſſences, originally conſiſting of 'an unmix'd Matter.

'Of theſe ſome are { Conſtant. / Inconſtant.

'Thoſe are ſaid to be conſtant Natures which 'in reſpect of their Perfection are of moſt laſting Continuance; ſuch are the celeſtial Globes 'and the Stars.

'The heavenly Spheres 'or Globes, are { Unmoveable. / Moveable.

'The Unmoveable is holden to be that utter- 'moſt Sphere that glittereth ſo glorioufly, as 'that it dazeleth the ſharpeſt Sight of Man, and 'is called Cælum Empyreum, the Fiery Heaven; 'whereof we ſhall be better able to judge and 'ſpeak, when God ſhall bring us thither, and 'yet our Star-gazers will take upon them to talk 'ſo confidently and particularly of thoſe incomprehenſible Bodies, as if they had been there, 'and ſurvey'd every Corner thereof. This celeſtial Globe (according to Scribonius) is the 'Manſion-place and Palace of all the heavenly 'Natures, wherein the Angels, and other the 'Bleſſed of God, do, with endleſs Joy, behold 'the Preſence of Almighty God, Face to Face. 'To this Place (according to the ſame Author) were Enoch, Elias, and Paul rapt up before their Deaths.

'But now for more orderly Progreſſion here- 'in, foraſmuch as we have occaſion here offered 'to ſpeak of a Sphere, we will firſt ſhew what 'a Sphere is, and ſo proceed to the reſt.

'A Sphere is a Figure or Body exactly round 'of all Parts, and void of all Angles and Corners. The ſpherical or round Form is of all 'other the moſt perfect, as alſo the moſt beau-

'tiful, capable, and fit for Motion, inasmuch 'as it is void of all Corners, which might give 'Impediment to moving, therefore is this Form 'most agreeable to the Heavens and celestial 'Bodies, which are evermore in continual and 'restless Motion. It was requisite then, that 'the perfectest Body (such as the Heavens are) 'should receive the perfectest Form, which is 'the orbicular or round Figure. Figura Sphæ-'rica (saith Aristotle, lib. de Cælo & Mundo) est 'omnium figurarum nobilior.

'The moveable Sphere of the Heaven is the 'Firmament. The Firmament is that conti-'nual moving Heaven, which with his swift 'Revolution swayeth all the inferior Orbs, and 'is called in Latin, Firmamentum (according to 'Scribonius) à firmitate, that is, of the Stabili-'ty thereof; meaning (as I conceive) either 'the durable Subsisting of it, or else the Un-'moveableness of the two Poles, Arctick and 'Antarctick: Otherwise, one self-same Thing 'cannot be said to be moveable and constant, 'but in a diverse Respect; even as an Iron 'Wheel in a Clock, though still in Motion, 'yet both in respect of the metalline So-'lidity, and of the sure Fast'ning to the Axle, 'it may be said to be firm and unmoveable. If 'any Man bear a Representation of the Hea-'vens, in his Coat-Armour, whether the same 'have the Likeness of a solid or armil Sphere, 'they must be reduced to this Head: Of this 'Kind did the famous Archimede chuse for his 'Device, who before his Death, commanded 'that a Sphere should be engraven on his Se-'pulchre. And such a Bearing is honourable 'for any great Professor of Astronomy, not such 'witless Wizards and Fortune-tellers as usually 'deceive the World with their idle Predictions; 'but those noble Spirits, whose Eagle-Eyes 'search out the true Natures, Revolutions, and 'Properties of those supernatural Essences.

'The regardful Consideration of the Hea-'vens and the Ornaments thereof, together 'with their certain and orderly Motions, should 'mightily move and provoke us to raise up our 'Thoughts, from the Love and Contemplation 'of base and earthly Objects (whereon we 'usually dote) to the Admiration of his un-'speakable Power and Love of his incomprehen-'sible Goodness, who made such a wonderful 'Architecture: First, To serve for our Use in 'this Life: And, afterward, to be our blessed 'Palace and Mansion in a better Life. For tho' 'all Creatures demonstrate the Wisdom of their 'wonderful Workmaster, yet the Heavens espe-'cially declare his Glory, and the Firmament his 'Handy-work: Which made the godly King David 'rise out of his Bed in the Night, to behold the 'Heavens, and thereby to call to Mind the Per-'verseness of Man, which never keeps the Course 'that God prescribeth, whereas those Bodies, 'though void of Sense, yet from their first Crea-'tion, never falter'd in their endless Journeys.'

"Now, since I have demonstrated and laid "open unto you what a Sphere is, the Form, "Perfection, Dignity, Property, Motion, Sub-"stance thereof, and the like, I will now shew "unto you an Example of a Shield, illustrated "with manifold Variety of celestial Bodies, &c. "which will be very necessary and commodious "to be inserted in this Place.

"The Field is Or, a "Sphere, Azure, beauti-"fied and replenished with "manifold Variety of ce-"lestial Bodies, environ-"ing the terrestrial Globe, "all proper.

"These were the Or-"naments wherewith the "Shield of that famous "and valiant Grecian Captain Achilles was illu-"strated and garnished: Which he caused to "be engraven therein, to the End that the Mind "of the Beholders of them might be raised "thereby to a considerate Contemplation and "Meditation of the admirable Power and Wis-"dom of the omnipotent Creator of them: "Which Duty whosoever performeth, he ac-"complisheth the Sum and Effect of all true "Nobility.

"This Shield did Vulcan garnish with Varie-"ty of Stars of manifold Kinds, and added "thereto the skilful Feats and Practices, as well "of Peace as of War, and all their Rights and "Offices; omitting (in a Manner) nothing per-"taining to the well-governing of the Assem-"blies and Societies of Men.

"By this Invention did he labour to manifest "unto us, that there is no Shield more power-"ful to resist the vehement and violent Assaults "of adverse Fortune; than for a Man to be fur-"nished throughout with the compleat Armour "of Cardinal Vertues; so shall he be fitted and "prepared to sustain whatsoever Brunt or for-"cible Encounter shall assail them.

"This Manner of adorning Shields doth Al-"drovandus commend above all other Garnish-"ings, saying, Nihil æquè atquè Philosophia, ab "omnibus adversis tuetur, nihil ejus explicatu ap-"tius est ad scutum exornandum & honestius. There "is nothing that doth so safely protect a Man "against the Damage of adverse Fortune, as "Philosophy doth, neither is there any Thing "more fit and seemly to beautify a Shield withal, "than the Explanation thereof.

"Emblems, Hieroglyphicks, and Ensigns of "noble Families, inasmuch as they do instruct "our Eyes unto Vertue, they cannot be defaced "or blemished without great Wickedness: The "Reason thereof doth Farnesius give in these "Words, Cum virtutum imaginibus tantum de-"bemus, quantum mutis præceptoribus: Si illæ ta-"men mutæ dici possunt, quæ in silentio omni Do-"ctrinâ sunt verbosiora. Of all the Things that "are (saith Cicero) there is nothing in the "World that is better, nothing more excellent, "nothing more beautiful and glorious to behold, "and not only that there is nothing, but that "no-

" nothing can be thought or imagined to be of " more surpassing Beauty than the World; " whereunto Lipsius annexeth this Addition, ex- " amine the Universality thereof; consider the " great and small Parts thereof, and you shall " find them composed and compacted in such " orderderly Sort, as that they cannot possibly " be better'd for Use, or more glorious to be- " hold. The Consideration whereof moved " King David to break forth in Admiration.

" The spherical Figure is, of all other Forms, " the faireſt, the most capable, and the simpleſt, " and comprehendeth all other Forms. In a " spherical Line the End is all one with the " Beginning, therefore it doth aptly agree with " the nobleſt and perfecteſt Body, such as the " Heavens are.

" There is nothing that more apparently ex- " presseth the spherical or round Form of the " Heavens, than doth the Sun by his circular " Motion."

' A Star (which is next to be considered af- ' ter the Heaven) is a permanent and constant ' Essence, and the more condensed or compact- ' ed Part of the Sphere, wherein it is fixed, ' for the Illuminating of inferior Bodies: For ' albeit it be an usual Distinction, that of Stars ' some are fixed, and some are planetary or ' wandring, yet they are indeed all fixed alike, ' and settled in one certain Part of the Sphere; ' but in respect of our Eye, and in reference of ' their Motions one of another, they have a di- ' verse Aspect, and so have gotten a diverse ' Name. It is holden, that the fixed Stars are ' discerned by their sparkling or twinkling, by ' reason that our Sight being bound, as it were, ' by the Forcibleness of their resplendent Rays, ' our Eyes do become wavering and trembling ' in beholding them; and for this Cause ought ' all Stars to be made with their Rays or Points ' waved.

' He beareth Sable, a ' Star, Argent, by the Name ' of Ingleby. If this Star ' were born Or, which is ' his proper Colour, it ' would add much more ' Grace unto it, especially ' in regard of the Azury ' Field, the proper Colour ' of the Heavens, where- ' in Stars have their natural Mansion. For a ' Star, saith Farnesius, is a mystical Character or ' Figure of God, to whom all Worship and Re- ' ligion doth properly appertain; for like as Stars ' are called in Latin, Stellæ, à Stando, because ' they be evermore fixed in the Firmament: So ' there is nothing more constant, or of more per- ' petuity than God, whose sacred Will is the ' regular Direction of all Things whatsoever; ' and therefore may it be said not unfitly, that ' they signify God and Religion, or otherwise ' some eminent Quality shining above the ruder ' Sort of Men, as a Star in the Obscurity of the ' Night.'

' As to the Number of Points whereof a Star ' consisteth, we must observe, they must never ' be fewer than six; but when the same is formed ' of more, then must you in blazoning of them ' express their certain Number: For sometimes ' you shall find a Star formed of sixteen Points, ' as in this next Example shall appear.

" He beareth Azure, a " Star of sixteen Points, " by the Name of Huitson, " and is the Coat-Armour " of John Huitson of Cleas- " by in the County of " York, Esq; one of the " Captains of the Cauld- " stream Regiment of Foot " Guards to his Majesty " King Charles II."

' He beareth Argent, a ' Star of sixteen Points, ' Gules, by the Name of ' de la Hay.'

(♋) Innes of that Ilk; Argent, three Stars Azure; and Innes of Blairton the same, with the Addition of a Fess between them of the same Colour.

" The Field of Coat-Armour (as some Men " do hold) being Argent or White, doth signi- " fy Literature, and the Charge surmounting " the same, being Gules or Red, which is an " Imperial Colour, and is sometimes per Synec- " dochen, taken (as the Thing signified) for the " Sign it self that is thereby represented: And " White, being a Token of Justice (is in such " a Case) surmounted of Red, which is proper " to Fortitude, betokeneth, as they do conceit " it, Learning, which giveth place to Arms; " and not Arms to Learning. This did the Poets " secretly express, when they preferred Pallas " to be the Governess of Learning; and Mars, " being a Man, to the Managing of martial Af- " fairs; whom they would have to receive " the Denomination of Mars, A magnitudine " Artis.

" Stars are ſometimes found pierced, and
" other whiles charged; for the Difference of " which two Forms of Bearing, you have had
" a Rule formerly delivered. Moreover, it is " a Rule infallible, That the Pierceing of Stars
" muſt be evermore round; for the Pierceing
" Square, and Loſenge-ways, are repugnant to " the Nature of Stars. Here I will give you a " general Obſervation touching bearing of Or-
" dinaries and common Charges together."

'That in the mix'd Bearing of Ordinaries and common Charges together, all common Charges may be, and are born in, upon, or with { Chief, Pale, Bend, Feſs, Chevron, Barr, Gyron, Croſs, Saltire, Orle, } or one common Charge, in, upon, or with another.

'This general Rule I have thought good to 'ſet down in this Place, here being my firſt En-'trance into the Handling of common Charges, 'and where their mix'd Bearing with Ordina-'ries is firſt mentioned, to the End that the 'ſame may ſerve as the Stern of a Ship to direct 'your Underſtanding, touching ſuch interpoſed 'Bearing of any of the common Charges with 'Ordinaries; becauſe I labour to ſhun all idle 'Iterations and multiplicity of unprofitable Ex-'amples, tending to one and the ſame End. 'This Form of Bearing ſhall you find diſperſed-'ly, yet not confuſedly, exemplified in this 'Work, that will give Approbation to the Ge-'nerality of this Note, which doth not war-'rant this Form of Bearing alone in theſe, but 'alſo generally in all other Coat-Armours of 'like Kind. Of theſe ſeveral Forms of Bearing 'I have choſen ſome particular Examples, as in 'theſe next Eſcutcheons, and others ſhall fol-'low in their proper Places.

Sable, five Eſtoils in Saltire, Argent, is born by the Name of Anderſon, and was granted to Edmond Anderſon of Erbury in the County of Warwick, by Robert Cook, Clarencieux, July 4, 1572.

This Form of Bearing any Thing quick or dead, is term'd [in Saltire or Saltirewiſe] becauſe they ſeem by their Poſition to form a Sort of Saltire. The Italians call ſuch a Bearing, Incrociato a foggia della Lettera X.

'He beareth Sable, a 'Star of eight Points, be-'tween two Flanches, Er-'mine, on a Canton, Ar-'gent, a ſiniſter Hand, 'couped at the Wriſt, 'Gules. This is the Coat-'Armour of Sir John Ho-'bart of Blickinge in the 'County of Norfolk, Knight 'and Baronet, Chief Juſtice of the Common 'Pleas, who was deſcended from the ſecond Son 'of Sir James Hobart of Hales Hall in the ſaid 'County, Attorney General to King Henry the 'Seventh. Stars are numbred among the Hoſt 'of Heaven, for that it pleaſeth God ſometimes 'to execute his Vengeance upon the Wicked, 'with no leſs dreadful Deſtruction by them than 'by numerous and militant Armies, as appear-'eth by Judges 5. As touching the Colour of 'Stars, I hold it ſufficient to name them only 'when they be born Properly, and in their na-'tural Colour, which is Or; but if they be of 'any other Colour, then the ſame muſt be nam-'ed. As for the Canton thus charged, it being 'an Augmentation or Remuneration given by 'our late Dread Sovereign King James, to ſuch 'as his Majeſty advanced to the Dignity of Ba-'ronet (it being an Order and Degree by him 'erected) one of which Number was Sir Hen-'ry Hobart, Knight and Baronet, and late 'Lord Chief Juſtice of the Court of Com-'mon Pleas, Father to this Sir John Hobart. 'I ſhall have better Occaſion to ſpeak there-'of in the ſixth SECTION. When I come

'thereby greatly honoured: In regard whereof
'they are called Honourable Ordinaries. Like
'as this Chief is charged, ſo ſhall you find the

Or, on a Chief, Azure, three Stars, was granted by Patent to Thomas Lawſe, Doctor of the Civil Law; (once of Norfolk, then of Kent) by Cooke, Clarencieux, 1584.

He beareth Azure, a Feſs wavy, Argent, in Chief three Stars, by the Name of Jenkinſon. This Coat was aſſign'd by Patent by Sir Gilbert Dethick, Garter, Robert Cook, Clarencieux, and William Flower, Norroy, Feb. 14, 1568. to Anthony Jenkinſon Citizen of London: One who had ſerv'd his Country faithfully in long and painful Travels over not only Europe, but other Places; as is mention'd at length in the Patent, a Copy of which may be ſeen in the M. 'He beareth Argent, a 'Feſs between three Stars, 'Gules, by the Name of 'Everard.'

Azure, a Feſs Or, between three Stars, was the Coat of John Thwayts of Marſton in the County of York, who married Margaret, one of the Daughters of Laurence Robinſon of Overton near York, and by her had Iſſue James, eldeſt Son and Heir; Thomas ſecond Son; Henry third Son; Gabriel fourth Son, and Francis fifth Son: Alſo four Daughters Anne, Elizabeth, Etham and Mary.

Note, That the abovementioned John, was ſecond Son and Heir of William Thwayts by the Intail of the Lands of Marſton, Huton, Tokwith, and Thwayt-houſe; his eldeſt Brother Thomas, though married, and ſometime Father of a Son, dying when as he had no Child but Anne, Wife of William Ingleby, Son and Heir of Sir William Ingleby of Rypley, Knight.

Which William Thwayt (Father of the ſaid Brothers) was (of three) the eldeſt Son and Heir of William Thwayt of Marſton in the County of York.

The Coat was confirm'd to John Thwayt of Marſton in the County of York, Eſquire, by William Flower, Norroy, the 30th of January, 1564, and in the 7th of Queen Eliz.

Ermine, on a Chevron engrail'd, Azure, three Stars, is born by the Name of Smyth; and with a Mullet in Chief for a Difference, was confirm'd to William Smyth of Louton in the County of Bedford, Gent. One of the Yeomen of the Buttery to Queen Elizabeth, by Robert Cooke (I believe) the 25th of October 1583, 25th of Queen Eliz.

Argent, a Chevron between three Eſtoils or Stars, Gules, is born by the Name of Colcheſter, and was confirm'd to Richard Colcheſter of Gray's Inn, Gent, one of the Curſitors of the High Court Chancery for the City of London and County of Middleſex, (Son of Richard, the Son of Richard, who was Son of Richard Colcheſter of Ilmington in the County of Warwick, Gent.) by Sir William Segar, Garter, Decemb. 20, 1626. 2d of King Charles I.

(M) Murray Duke of Athol, Azure, three Stars within a double Treſſure counterflowred, Argent, quartered with the Coats of Athol and Stewart.

(N) Pardy of that Ilk; Or, a Chevron Azure, between three Stars of ſixteen Points, Sable.

He beareth Azure, three Eſtoils between two Gemells in Bend, Argent, by the Name of Bridall. This Coat was granted by Sir Edward Walker, Garter, 21 June 1669. 21 C. 2. to Walter Bridall of Middleſex, Gent, who, in the Time of the Rebellion was a Lieutenant in a Troop of Horſe in the Duke of York's Regiment commanded by Colonel Charles Cavendiſh; and at the Date hereof Clerk and Yeoman of his Majeſty's Jewel-houſe.

Sable, on a Chevron Or, between three Stars, as many Croſſes Patée Fichée, Gules. This was the Coat of that moſt Reverend and Learned Prelate, Doctor William Laud, ſometime Archbiſhop of Canterbury, who ſuffer'd Death in the Cromwellian Perſecution of Monarchy and Loyalty; and whoſe Bones were laid in a little Vault or Repoſitory under the Altar in St. John's Colledge Chappel at Ten at Night, the 24th of July, 1663.

There was a ſolemn Speech then ſpoken before the Vice-Chancellor, certain Heads of Houſes, and the Society of St. John's Colledge, by one Mr. George Gisby.

The ſaid Bones were taken the Day before, out of the Church of Allhallows Barking by the Tower of London. Afterwards there were ſeveral Banners hung over his Grave, viz. The Firſt containing the Arms of St. Johns and Lauds impaled; Second, The Deanry of Glouceſter and Laud; Third, The See of St. David's and Laud; Fourth, The See of Bath and Wells and Laud; Fifth, The See of London and Laud; and, Laſtly, The See of Canterbury and Laud.

Azure,

Azure, a Bend Ragulée between six Estoils Or; is born by the Name of Paine, and was assigned by William Segar and William Cambden the 14th of November, the 2d of King James I. to Robert Paine, Son and Heir of Robert Paine of Widlowe in Huntingtonshire.

Azure, a Fess embattel'd Or, between six Estoils, is born by the Name of Tryon. A Confirmation was made of this Coat to Peter Tryon of London, by William Cambden, Clarencieux, July 1, 1610.

He beareth Argent, two Barrs Sable between six Estoils, 3, 2, 1, Gules, by the Name of Pearse. This Coat was granted to Thomas Pearse of Court in the Parish of Bigb...y in the County of Devon, by Sir John Borough, Garter, Aug. 12, 1641.

'He beareth Gules, an 'Inescutcheon, Argent, be-'tween eight Stars in Orle. 'This Coat was born by 'Sir John Chamberlain of 'Priestbury, in the County 'of Gloucester, Knight; 'and is now born by John 'Chamberlain of Maugers-'bury, and by Thomas 'Chamberlain of Oddington, both of the said 'County, Esquires. These Stars are said to be 'born in Orle, or Orlewise; but they cannot be 'properly said to be an Orle of Stars, because 'they have no connexion to fasten them toge-'ther, but are born severally and apart one from 'another.

'Whensoever there is a Separation of com-'mon Charges born in Coat-Armours, by rea-'son of the Interposition of some of the before-'mentioned Ordinaries, then are they not term-'ed Ordinaries, but most worthy Partitions; 'and they are such (saith Leigh) as though the 'common Charge annexed do occupy more 'than one Point of the Escutcheon, yet every 'of them is in as great Effect as though it were 'one only Thing, by the Reason of Soveraignty 'of the same Partition interposed.' As to Leigh or my Author's Rule in this Matter, it should not be heeded, as I said before, it being in Truth no receiv'd One.

'Thus I have given you a Taste of the par-'ticular and variable Manner of Bearing of Or-'dinaries commixt with common Charges, ac-'cording to the general Rule formerly given. 'As for Example, That common Charges 'are born with Ordinaries, you may see in the 'Third, &c. of these six Escutcheons: That 'they be born upon Ordinaries, it is manifest 'by the fourth Escutcheon, &c. That they are 'parted by Ordinaries interposed between them, 'it appeareth by these last Escutcheons: That 'they are born in Form of Ordinaries, or Or-'dinary-ways, it is clear by the first Es-'cutcheon.

'Note, That albeit I have here set down but 'one Example of each of these particular Forms 'of Bearing, yet must you hold that in every 'of these several Sorts there are diverse other 'particular Kinds of composition of Coat-'Armours, as shall appear hereafter at large 'unto the diligent Observer. Furthermore, 'whereas I have given only few Examples of 'common Charges born with Ordinaries, 'of Ordinaries charged upon, of Ordinaries 'interposed, and of common Charges born 'Ordinary-ways, or in Form of Ordinaries; you 'must understand by the first Sort, all common 'Charges whatsoever, born with a Pale, Bend, 'Fess, Chevron, or any other of the Ordina-'ries before-named in any Sort: By the Second 'all Sorts of Ordinaries charged upon, with 'any Kind of common Charge: By the Third, 'an interposition of whatsoever Sort of Ordi-'nary between common Charges. Lastly, By 'the Fourth, you must understand all Sorts of 'common Charges born in Form, or after the 'Manner of a Cross, Saltire, Pale, Bend, Fess, 'or of any other of the said Ordinaries. These 'have I here handled briefly, because I must of 'Necessity deal more copiously in each Parti-'cular of them in Places better fitting there-'unto.'

CHAP. III.

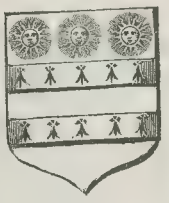

'THUS far of ſuch Stars which we cal-'led fixed: Now of thoſe Planets whoſe 'Shapes are of moſt Uſe in Heraldry; I mean 'thoſe two glorious Lights, the One for the 'Day, the Other for the Night: For, as for 'the other five Planets, becauſe their Aſpect is 'leſs to the View, therefore they cannot eaſily 'admit a different Form from the fixed Stars. 'The Sun is the very Fountain of Light, and '(as ſome Philoſophers think) of Heat alſo; 'and all the Splendor which the Moon hath, 'it borroweth from the Sun, and therefore as 'the Sun goeth farther off, or nearer to her, ſo 'her Light doth increaſe or diminiſh. And be-'tween both theſe and the Stars there is a great 'Conformity, in reſpect of their ſparkling and 'reſplendent Beams, which are in appearance 'more evident, and in operation more effectual, 'or at leaſt more palpably diſcerned in theſe, 'by reaſon of their nearneſs unto us, than of 'thoſe that are from us ſo far remote. But here-'in they are unlike, that the beautiful and bla-'zing Brightneſs of theſe is oftentimes ſubject 'to the Paſſion of darkning or eclipſing. Of 'whoſe gliſtering, eclipſing, and Variety of 'Forms, we have in Bearings, (theſe and other 'like) Examples following.

'He beareth Azure, a 'Sun in his Glory, by the 'Name of St. Cleere. To 'expreſs the Colour of the 'Sun, being thus born, 'I hold it needleſs; for 'who knoweth not that 'the chiefeſt Glory and 'higheſt Commendation 'that may be given to 'the Sun doth conſiſt in this, that he is beau-'tified with the Brightneſs of his proper Beams: 'Which cannot be better expreſſed than by the 'Colour Gold, or Gold-yellow. But if it be 'born of any other than this, which is his na-'tural Colour, then muſt the ſame be expreſly 'mentioned, as in due Place ſhall appear. The 'Sun is called in Latin, Sol, according to ſome 'Authors, Vel quia ſolus ex omnibus ſideribus eſt 'tantus, vel quia cum eſt exortus, obſcuratis aliis 'ſolus apparet: For that only he is ſo great, or 'for that when he is riſen, he ſo darkeneth all 'the Reſt with his Splendor, as that he alone 'appeareth in Heaven, as a Monarch in his 'Kingdom. Of the Glory and Excellency of 'the Sun, it is ſaid, Eccluſ. 42. 16. The Sun that 'ſhineth, looketh on all Things, and all the Works 'thereof are full of the Glory of the Lord. And 'again, Eccluſ. 43. 2. The Sun alſo, a marvellous 'Inſtrument, when he appeareth, declareth at his 'going out the Work of the moſt High. At Noon 'it burneth the Country, and who may abide the 'Heat thereof? Ver 3. The Sun burneth the Moun-'tains three Times more than he that keepeth a Fur-'nace with continual Heat. It caſteth out the fiery 'Vapours, and with the ſhining Beams blindeth the 'Eyes. Great is the Lord that made it, and by his 'commandment he cauſeth it to run haſtily. And 'if we conſider how many foggy Miſts it diſ-'pelleth, how many noiſome Vapours it con-'ſumeth, and how all Creatures are overcome 'with the Heat thereof, we ſhall find that 'King David did very aptly compare it to a 'Giant (for Strength) refreſhed with Wine, '(for the Heat) to run his Courſe, for his ſwift 'Motion.

" He beareth Or, on a " Feſs indented, Azure, " three Stars, Argent, a " Canton of the Second, " charged with a Sun in " his Glory, by the Name " of Thompſon, and is the " Coat-Armour of Sir Wil-" liam Thompſon of the " City of London, Knight, " and by John Thompſon of Haverſham in Buck-" inghamſhire, Eſquire."

Azure, two Barrs Er-mine, and three Suns in Chief, Or, was confirm'd by Sir William Dethick, Garter, Anno 1596, to Otho Nicholſon of London, Gent. (one of the Examiners of the High Court of Chancery) Son of Tho. Nicholſon of the County of Lancaſhire, who was Son of William Nicholſon, the Son of Nicholas Nicholſon of the County of Cumberland.

" He beareth Gules, a " Chief, Argent, on the " lower Part thereof a " Cloud, the Sun's reſplen-" dent Rays thereout iſ-" ſuing, Proper, by the " Name of Leſone in North-" hamptonſhire. The for-" mer Example wherein " the Sun is born, doth " repreſent a viſible Form " of a corporeal Shape of a Body, from which " theſe Rays or Beams here demonſtrated may " be apparently ſeen to iſſue; and theſe are, " as it were ſtrained through a Cloud. Some-" time one Ray or Beam of this glorious Planet " is born in Coat-Armour, without any other " Charge."

" He

"He beareth Azure, one "Ray of the Sun, issuing "out of the dexter Cor- "ner of the Escutcheon "Bend-ways, Proper, by "the Name of Aldam. "Here I do not in the "Blazon make any men- "tion of the three Points "or Lines which are on "either Side of the Ray, for in Nature they have "no Essence, but proceed from the Weakness of "the Eye, which is not able to behold so glo- "rious an Object as the Sun."

'He beareth Or, a Sun 'eclipsed, Sable. If this 'Colour were not acci- 'dental in respect of the 'Eclipse of the Sun, the 'same should not have 'been named. The Sun's 'Eclipse is occasioned by 'the Interposition of the 'Moon, which though it 'be far less in Quantity, yet coming betwixt 'us and the Body of the Sun, it doth divert 'the Beams thereof, and debarreth us of the 'Sight of them, even as the Interposition of our 'Hand, or any other small Body, before our 'Eyes, doth debar us from the Sight of some 'greater Mountain. For to think that the Sun 'doth lose his Light by the Eclipse, as doth a 'Candle being extinct, proceedeth out of meer 'rustick Ignorance: As the like Error is in 'those who think the Sun loseth his Light, or 'goeth to Bed every Night, whereas it doth 'only remove it self from our Horizon, to en- 'lighten other Countries situated in other Parts 'of the World: As was well expressed by Se- 'cundus the Philosopher, who being demanded 'by Adrian the Emperor what the Sun was, ta- 'king his Table in Hand, wrote in this Man- 'ner; Sol est Cœli oculus, caloris circuitus, splen- 'dor sine occasu, diei ornatus, horarum distributor: 'It is the Eye of Heaven, the Circuit of Heat, 'a Shining without Decay, the Day's Ornament, 'the Hour's Distributor. The most miraculous 'Eclipse of the Sun that ever was, happened 'then when the Sun of Righteousness, the Son 'of God, was on the Cross, when all the Earth 'was so benighted at Noon-day, that Dionysius 'Aeropagita a Heathen Athenian, cry'd out, Ei- 'ther the World was at an End, or the Maker of it 'was suffering some great Agony. The Stars and 'Planets hitherto spoken of do shine alike, or 'after one manner. Now others there are which 'shine after a diverse Sort: Such are the Moon 'and Comets, which we call Blazing Stars. 'Neither are we ignorant, that in proper Speech, 'and Truth of Philosophy, Comets are not 'Stars, but Meteors: Yet the vulgar Opinion, 'and the received Name and Shape used in He- 'raldry, may warrant me for thus ranking them 'among the Stars. But as touching the Moon, 'her Light is meerly reflective, as the Bright- 'ness of a Looking-glass against the Sun; and 'in respect that her Substance is very unequal, 'as in some Parts of thicker Substance, and 'in some Parts thinner, therefore she is un- 'equally enlightned by the Sun-beams, which 'maketh the weak Eye, and weaker Judg- 'ment, to fancy a Face of a Man in the Moon: 'Whence we have gotten the Fashion of re- 'presenting the Moon with a Face. But why 'the Sun should have the like, I know not; un- 'less it be that he should not be out-faced by 'the Moon, being his Inferior. The most wise 'and provident God, before the Creation of his 'other Works, did first create the Light, to 'teach Man to lay the first Foundation of all 'his Actions in the Light of true Knowledge, 'thereby to direct his Ways aright, and that his 'Doings be not reproved as Works of Darkness: 'Especially since God would not suffer the 'Night itself to be so wrapt in Darkness, but 'that the Moon and Stars should somewhat il- 'luminate it. And according to the diverse 'Apparitions of the Moon, hath she her di- 'verse Denominations in Heraldry; as her In- 'crement, in her Increase; her Complement, 'when she is at Full; her Decrement, in her 'Waning; and her Detriment, in her Change 'and Eclipse. And according to these Varie- 'ties, is she also diversely born in Coat-Ar- 'mour.

'He beareth Gules, an 'Incressant, Or, by the 'Name of Decus. This 'is the State of the Moon 'from her entrance into 'her first Quarter, which 'is most usually the se- 'venth Day after the 'Change, unto her Full. 'In which Time she is 'more and more illuminated, until she hath fil- 'led her Circle. This Word Incressant signi- 'fieth the Moon's Increment, or increasing 'Estate; and it may fitly represent the rising 'Fortunes of some hopeful Spark, inlightned 'and honoured by the gracious Aspect and 'Beams of his Sovereign, who is the bright Sun 'and Fountain of all the Light of glorious No- 'bility, and may confer the Rays of his Grace 'on whom it best pleaseth him.

'He beareth Ermine, 'three Incressants, Gules. 'This Coat pertained to 'the Family of the Symmes 'of Daventree, in the Coun- 'ty of Northampton', being granted, Anno 1592, to Edward Syms of the said Place, by Robert Cook, Cla- rencieux.

'He beareth Azure, a 'Moon in her Complement (which is as much 'as to ſay, the Moon illuſtrated with her full 'Light) Proper. Here you 'need not to name the 'Colour of the Moon for 'the Reaſon before delivered in the firſt Example of the Sun. The proper Colour of the 'Moon we in Heraldry take to be Argent, both 'for the Weakneſs of the Light, and alſo for 'diſtinction betwixt the Blazoning of it and the 'Sun: And therefore when we blazon by Planets, we name Gold, Sol; and Silver, Luna. 'Concerning the Uſe of the Moon, it is ſaid, 'Eccleſ. 43. 6. The Moon alſo hath he made to appear according to her Seaſon, that it ſhould be a 'Declaration of the Time, and a Sign for the World. 'Ver. 7. The Feaſts are appointed by the Moon, the 'Light thereof diminiſheth unto the End. Ver. 8. 'The Moon is called after the Name thereof, and 'groweth Wonderful in her changing. The Moon 'is the Miſtreſs by which all moiſt, mutable, 'and unconſtant Things are ruled; as Mulier, 'Mare, Flumina, Fontes, a Woman, and the 'Sea, Rivers, and Fountains; the Ebbing and 'Flowing of the Sea following the Motions of 'the Moon.

'He beareth Azure, a 'Moon decreſſant, Proper, by the Name of De 'la Luna. This is the State 'of the waning Moon, 'when ſhe declineth from 'her Full, and draweth to 'her laſt Quarter, which 'is accompliſhed moſt 'commonly the ſeventh 'Day after ſhe hath attained the Full, and receiveth a Diminution of her Light, to the 'Waſting of the One-half thereof; and from 'the ſaid ſeventh Day after her Full, ſhe diminiſheth continually more and more, until 'ſhe become again (as many honeſt Men are) 'corniculata, ſharp-horned, and ſuffereth continually diminution unto the Inſtant of her 'Change; and differeth from her prime State after the Change, only in this, That the firſt (repreſented by the Firſt of theſe Examples) is 'turned to the Right-hand of the Eſcutcheon, 'and this other to the Left. And hitherto 'I have propoſed Examples of her natural 'Aſpects, you ſhall now ſee her accidental 'Form.

'He beareth Argent, a 'Moon in her Detriment, 'or Eclipſe, Sable. The 'Moon is eclipſed only at 'ſuch Time as She is at 'Her full State, and diametrically oppoſite unto 'the Sun; when by Interpoſition of the Earth 'between them, She ſeemeth to our Sight, for the Time, to be deprived of Her Light, through the Shadow of the 'groſs Body of the Earth. This is a paſſive 'Form of the Moon; and ſuch Her Paſſions 'are called in Latin, Labores Lunæ, the Throws 'or Pangs of the Moon. In former Time the 'old Germans thought the Moon was in a Trance, 'and uſed to Shout and make a Noiſe with Baſons, to wake Her: Or elſe they ſuppoſed She 'was angry with them, and therefore they 'howled till She looked cheerfully on them again. Of this mutable State of the Moon, 'thus writeth the Poet:

'Nec par aut eadem nocturnæ forma Dianæ,
'Eſſe poteſt uſquam, ſemper hodierna ſequente:

'Dame Cynthia imitates the Dames of our Nation;
'Every Day She attires her Self in a new Faſhion.

'Which occaſioned a witty Moral related 'by Plutarch (as I think) how on a Time the 'Moon ſent for a Taylor to make Her a Gown, 'but he could never fit Her, for it was either too 'little, or too big for Her; which was not the 'Taylor's Fault, but Her own Inconſtancy: So 'impoſſible a Thing it is to fit the Humours of 'One that is fickle and unſtable.

'Sometimes you ſhall find all theſe ſeveral 'Kinds of Lights before expreſſed, born together in one Eſcutcheon.

'He beareth Azure, the 'Sun, the Full Moon, and 'the Seven Stars, Or, the 'two Firſt in Chief, and 'the Laſt of orbicular 'Form in Baſe. It is ſaid 'that this Coat-Armour 'pertained to Johannes de 'Fontibus, ſixth Biſhop of 'Ely; who had that (after a Sort) in his Eſcutcheon, which Joſeph had in his Dream, Gen. '37. 9. where the Sun, Moon, and eleven 'Stars did him reverence; ſignifying his Father, 'Mother, and eleven Brethren. For, as in Scripture, ſo in heatheniſh Devotions alſo, the 'Sun and Moon were accounted the Male and 'Female, and ſometimes Man and Wife; and 'as the Moon hath all her Light from the Sun, 'ſo hath the Wife from the Husband; and as 'the Moon is ever lighter on that Side which 'looks

'looks towards the Sun, ſo ſhould the Wife ſtu-
'dy to be faireſt in her Husband's Eye. And
'many Wives, in their Husband's abſence, do
'truly imitate the Moon in this, That they are
'Lighteſt when their Sun is fartheſt from them.
'Howſoever this Marriage betwixt Sun and 'Moon was made up, it is certain that once
'the Banes were forbidden; as appeareth by
'one, who ſpeaking of Queen Mary's Days, and
'of her Marriage, relateth, how when the Sun
'went firſt a woing to the Lady Moon, all Na'tions (eſpecially thoſe of hot Countries) pre'ferred a Petition to Jupiter, to hinder the 'Nuptials, alledging, That there then being
'but one Sun, yet he ſcorched and burned all,
'but if he ſhould marry, and get other Suns,
'the Heat would ſo increaſe, as all muſt needs
'Periſh: Whereupon Jupiter ſtayed the Match
'for that Time, or at leaſt, was ſo propitious,
'that no Iſſue came of the Conjunction of thoſe
'fiery Flames. The ſeveral States of the Moon
'increaſing and decreaſing before handled, are
'now very rare in Bearings, and in manner an-
'tiquated: Inaſmuch as in theſe Days, not on'ly their Shapes, but their very Names alſo are 'extinct, and inſtead of them we have another
'new-coin'd Form, having neither the Name,
'Shape, nor yet ſo much as the Shadow of the 'former remaining, as may be ſeen in the next
'Eſcutcheon.'

"He beareth Azure, a

(99) Edmiſtone of Ednam, Or, three Creſcents, Gules.

'At this Day we take no notice of any other 'Form, either of the increaſing or decreaſing
'Moon, but only of this depraved Shape, which 'corrupt Cuſtom hath raſhly hatched, as a
'Form much differing from thoſe before ex-
'emplified, if not meerly repugnant to Nature.
'The Patricians of Rome uſed to wear the 'Badge of the Moon on their Shoes: As theſe
'Creſcents are ſometimes the ſole Charge of the 'Field, as in this Eſcutcheon, ſo they are born
'upon and between the honourable Ordi-
'naries.'

He beareth Ermine on a Canton Sable, a Creſcent Argent, by the Name of Strode of Weſteranmer in the County of Somerſet; and is now uſed as his Coat by James Strode of Weſteranmer aforeſaid, Eſquire.

(G) Henderson of Fordhall in Scotland, Argent, three Piles extending Barways to the sinister Side of the Escutcheon, Sable, on a Chief, a Crescent between two Ermines; that is, as I take it, Ermine-Spots.

'He beareth Argent, 'on a Chief, Vert, three 'Crescents of the Field, 'by the Name of Sympson, 'and is the Paternal Coat-'Armour of John Symp-'son of the Inner-Temple, 'London, Esq; Judge of 'the Sheriffs Court for 'the Poultrey-Compter in 'Guild-hall, descended from the ancient Family 'of the Sympsons of the North.

(M) The same Coat belong'd to Simpson of Udoch in the Kingdom of Scotland.

'He beareth Ermine on 'a Chief, Sable, three 'Crescents, Or, by the 'Name of Preston of Su-'folk, as appeareth in di-'verse ancient Books re-'maining in the Office of 'Arms. Concerning the 'Chief and Furs demon-'strated in this Coat-Ar-'mour, I have elsewhere at large spoken of them 'in their proper Places.'

"He beareth Or, on a "Chief indented, Sable, "three Crescents, Argent, "by the Name of Har-"vey, a Family of good "Eminency, and is now "born by ..... Harvey "of Comb-Nevil in Sur-"rey, Esq; Son and Heir "of Sir Daniel Harvey of "the said Place, Knight, deceased, late Ambas-"sador for his Majesty King Charles the Second, "to the Grand Seignior."

Azure, a Fess wavy, Or, in Chief three Crescents Ermine, is born by the Name of Wyld, and was assigned to ..... Wyld, Haberdasher of Hats and Caps.

Her. Off. in M. S. Vincent, No. 154.

He beareth Argent, on a Pale Sable, three Crescents of the Field, by the Name of Heyward. This Coat was assign'd by William Cambden, Clarencieux, by Patent, in June, Anno Dom. 1611. to Edward Heyward of the Inner Temple, Son of ..... Heyward of Nerdeston in Norfolk.

(M) Argent, a Bend engrail'd betwixt three Crescents, Sable, by the Name of Cant.

(G) Aulderston of that Ilk; Vert on a Bend Argent, three Crescents Sable, in sinister Chief a Mullet of the Second.

(M) Gules, on a Bend sinister Argent, three ..cents Sable, by the Name of Weston or ..ston.

"He beareth Sable, a "Fess, Ermine, between "three Crescents, Or, by "the Name of Coventry, "and is the Paternal Coat-"Armour of the Right "Honourable Henry Co-"ventry, Esquire, his Ma-"jesty's Principal Secre-"tary of State, Son to the "Right Honourable Tho-"mas Lord Coventry, Lord "Keeper of the Great Seal of England, Tempore "Caroli Primi."

"He beareth Azure, a "Fess Nebule, between "three Crescents, Ermine, "by the Name of Weld, "and is the Paternal Coat "Armour of Humphrey "Weld of Lulworth-Castle "in Dorsetshire, Esquire, "Governour of his Maje-"sty's Isle and Castles of "Portland and Sandsfoot; "lineally descended from Edrick Sylvaticus, alias "Wild (a Saxon of great Renown in the Reigns "of King Harold and William the Conqueror) "whose Father Alfrick, was Brother to Edrick "of Stratton, Duke of Mercia."

Gules,

Gules, a Chevron Or, between three Creſcents Ermine, is born by William Goſſelin, Eſq;

" He beareth Sable, a " Chevron between three " Creſcents, Or, by the " Name of Palmer, and " with the Arms of Ul- " ſter, is the Coat Armour " of Sir Lewis Palmer of " Carleton in Northampton- " ſhire, Baronet, Son and " Heir of Sir Geffrey Pal- " mer of the ſaid Place, Knight and Baronet, " deceaſed, late Attorney-General to his Maje- " ſty King Charles II.

Argent, on a Chevron, Gules, between three Creſcents Sable, a Mullet for a Difference, Or. This was the Bearing of George Withers, Gent. Commiſſioner of New-Colledge in Oxon, (Son of Gilbert Withers Clerk of Hall-Place in the Pariſh of Dean in the County of Hampſhire) who dy'd in New Colledge on Sunday Night, the 15th of November 1677, aged Twenty, or thereabouts, and was buried by his Relations in his own County.

George Withers (I ſuppoſe Father of the ſaid Gilbert) of Hall in the Pariſh of Dean in Hampſhire, Eſq; by his Will dated the 12th of January, 1666, left Lands for the Endowment of a Free-School at Church-Oakley —— perform'd by Gilbert Withers of Hall, Clerk, 1667.

This Coat was born alſo by the ſaid George's Kinſman, Robert Withers, L. L. B. ſometime Fellow of New-Colledge, and afterwards Steward thereof; who dy'd at Haly-rood Amney in the County of Glouceſter, in the Houſe of Robert Pledwell, Eſq; about the Beginning of Auguſt 1679. aged Fifty five, or thereabouts, without Iſſue, and was buried by his Relations at Laurence Wotton in Hants. He was third Son of William Withers of Manidowne Farme in the Pariſh of Laurence-Wotton aforeſaid.

" Sable, a Chevron Er- " mine between three Cre- " ſcents, Argent, by the " Name of Glover, and is " born by Mr. Thomas Glo- " ver of the City of Lon- " don, Merchant.

This Coat, with a Mullet for Difference, was confirm'd or granted to Thomas Glover, Eſq; of the Body to King James I. Son of Thomas Glover of Coventry, Knighted the 17th of Auguſt Anno 1606. This Patent was granted by William Cambden, April 3, 1604.

Or, a Chevron and in Chief three Creſcents Azure, is born by the Name of Weſtrow, and was aſſign'd by William Cambden Clarencieux, the 24th of March 1613. to Sir Thomas Weſtrow of London, Grocer.

Argent, on a Pile engrail'd Azure, three Creſcents of the Field, is born by the Name of Dalliſon, and was confirmed or granted to Martin Dalliſon of Haringey alias Hornſey in the County of Middleſex, Gent. by Arthur Squib, Clarencieux, the 14th of December 164., the 24th of King Charles the Firſt.

He beareth Gules, three Creſcents within a Bordure engrail'd Ermine, by the Name of Alden. This Coat was aſſign'd (September 8, 1607.) by William Cambden, Clarencieux, to John Alden of the Middle Temple.

Gules, a Feſs between three Creſcents, Argent, a Canton Ermine, was born by John Holloway, L. L. B. born at Portſmouth in the County of Southampton, Fellow of New-Colledge, and afterwards Publick Notary and Regiſter of Berkſhire, who was buried in St. Michael's Church in Oxon, (in the Pariſh Iſle) the 7th of Auguſt 1632, having firſt married Alice, Daughter of Miles Lee or Leigh of ..... in the County of Cheſter (deſcended from thoſe of Adlington) who bare him theſe Children following, viz. Richard Holloway born in the ſaid Pariſh of St. Michael, and baptis'd there the 28th of April 1595, now (ſaith Ant. à Wood) Serjeant at Law. Second, John Holloway born in the ſaid Pariſh, baptis'd there July 17, 1598. afterward a Civilian and Regiſter of Berkſhire, as alſo Steward of New-Colledge. Third, William Holloway of New-Colledge, Rector of .... in Bucks, who married .... Daughter of .... Barker of Kin to the Founder of New-Colledge; which William dy'd at his Rectory the 29th of March 1667. Fourth, Francis Holloway a Draper in Oxon, afterwards terwards one of the Town Serjeants. Fifth, Elizabeth, Wife of Thomas Tuder a Welſhman, ſometime Manciple of Jeſus Colledge, originally of Michel Troy in Monmouthſhire. Sixth, Mary, who married Edward Daniel. Seventh, Alice, who married Lewis Harris of Oxon, Father to John Harris, chief Gentleman to Heneage Earl of Nottingham and Lord Chancellor.

The Mother of them, Alice Holloway, Wife and after Widow of John Holloway, L. L. B. Regiſter of Berkſhire aforeſaid, died (near an hundred Years of Age) on the 6th of April 1671, and was buried by her Husband in St. Michael's Pariſh Church in Oxon.

M. S. of Ant. à Wood's Remarks de Com. Oxon. p. 121.

"He beareth Or, three "Stars iſſuant out of as "many Creſcents, Gules, "by the Name of Bate-"man, and is born by "Mr. Matthew Bateman "of the City of London, "one of the Members "of the Eaſt-India Com-"pany."

(M) Azure, three Croſs-croſlets Fichée, and iſſuing out of as many Creſcents Argent, by the Name of Kathcairt.

(M) Monypenny of Pitmillie; Gules, three Croſs Croſlets Fichée, and iſſuing out of, or within as many Creſcents, Argent.

Argent, on a Chevron ring'd at the Point, between three Creſcents, Sable, a Star, was the Coat of Tho. Walker, D. D. and Maſter of Univerſity Colledge, Oxon, as the ſame was aſſign'd to him by Sir Edward Walker, Garter, when the ſaid Sir Edward lodg'd at the Houſe of Richard Hawkins Arms-Painter of Oxon, who indeed was firſt apply'd to, by the Executor, for Eſcutcheons for the Herſe of the ſaid Doctor, who died the 5th of December 1665, and was buried in the Church of St. Peter in the Eaſt, in Oxford.

M. S. of Ant. à Wood's Remarks de Com. Oxon.

Or, on a Croſs Sable five Creſcents, Argent, is born by the Name of Thomas, and was aſſign'd by Sir William Segar, Garter, the 14th of May 1628, to William Thomas of Lewes in Suſſex, Eſq; deſcended out of Wales.

Her. Off. int. M. S. de Com. Suff.

Or, on a Croſs Sable, five Creſcents Argent, with another for a Difference in the firſt Canton, was the Coat of ..... Ellis of Doncaſter.

Glov. Alph. of the North. M. S. in Aſh. No. 834.

(M) Kinnaird of Inchture; Gules, a Saltire inter four Creſcents, Or.

(M) Carſe of Fordelcarſe; Argent on a Saltire Vert, inter four Croſs Croſlets Fichée, Gules, five Creſcents of the Field.

(M) Argent, a Feſs wreath'd, Azure and Gules, within a Bordure of eight Creſcents.... the Coat of Carmichael of Ballinblae.

'The other Sort of Stars that do ſhine after 'a diverſe Sort, are thoſe that we call Comets 'or blazing Stars, whoſe Form is commonly as 'in this next Eſcutcheon is repreſented.

'He beareth Azure, a 'blazing Star, or Comet, 'ſtreaming in Bend, Pro-'per.'

(M) Azure, a Comet or blazing Star ſtreaming in Bend, Or, by the Name of Cartwright.

'The Comet is not of an orbicular Shape, as 'other the celeſtial Natures are; but doth pro-'tract his Light in length like to a Beard, or 'rather dilate it in the midſt like a hairy Buſh, 'and growing thence taper-wiſe, after the Man-'ner of a Fox-tayl; and it doth contract his 'Subſtance or Matter from a ſlimy Exhalation, 'and hath not his Being from the Creation: 'Neither is it numbred among the Things Na-'tural, mentioned in the Hiſtory of Geneſis, 'but is Aliquid præter naturam; and yet pla-'ced with the heavenly Bodies, becauſe they 'ſeem to us to be of that Kind. They are 'ſuppoſed to prognoſticate dreadful and hor-'ribie Events of Things to come: Whereupon 'Lucan ſaith,

'Ignota obſcuræ viderunt Sidera noctes,

CHAP.

CHAP. IV.

'SO much of the first Member of the Distri'bution before delivered, viz. of con'stant Essences, which are only those celestial
'Creatures, which being void of this corrupt
'Mixture that is found in all Creatures Sublu-
'nary, have a Priviledge, by divine Appoint-
'ment, from the Mutability whereto all Things
'under the Moon are subject. Now come we
'to that other Member thereof, namely, such
'as are inconstant Natures, so far forth as there
'is use of them in Arms. Inconstant Natures
'are bodily Essences of small Continuance by 'Reason of their ignoble or base Substance;
'such are the four Elements, viz. Fire, Air,
'Water, and Earth.

'Fire, Winter's Treasure: Water, Summer's Pleasure.
'But the Earth and Air, none can ever spare.

'Elements are simple Essences of small Stabi'lity, and the Womb of all mix'd Things (as 'Scribonius noteth) and according to some Au-
'thors called Elementa ab alendo, of nourishing:
'But St. Hierom calleth, Elementa, quasi Eleva-
'menta, for their proportionable Mixture in the 'Composition of the Bodies Sublunary, whereby
'they are made fit for Motion: Of these Ele'ments these Examples next following have a 'Representation.'

'He beareth Argent,
'seven Firebrands flam-
'mant and scintillant,
'Proper. Some Writers
'do affirm, That none of
'the mechanical Trades
'were found out by Men
'before they had Fire,
'which being at the last
'obtained, and the Use
'thereof known, from thenceforth were produ'ced all Manner of Arts behoveful for Man's Use,
'and through assistance of Fire, they did daily
'put in Practice some new Invention and ex-
'perimental Proof, whereby they attained their
'Perfection of Skill. Yet if we weigh the ma-
'nifold Mischiefs that sometimes come by Fire,
'we might doubt, Whether the Good or the 'Hurt thereby insuing, be greater: For both
'Fire and Water are good Servants, but unruly
'Masters.

'Fire in the Scriptures, is often taken for a
'special Token of God's Favour, and that he is 'pleased with the Sacrifices that are done unto
'him; as when he answereth (as it were by 'Fire) like as we read Judges 6. 21. Then the
'Angel of the Lord put out the End of his Staff
'that he held in his Hand, and touched the Flesh
'and unleavened Bread, and there arose up Fire
'out of the Stones, and consumed the Stones and
'unleavened Bread, &c. And as when Elijah con-
'tended with the Prophets of Baal, touching
'the Manifestation of the true God: Then the 'Fire of the Lord fell, and consumed the Burnt-
'offerings, and the Wood, and the Stones, and the 'Dust, and licked up the Water that was in the 'Trench, 1 Kings 18. 38. And again, When
'Solomon had made an end of Praying, Fire came 'down from Heaven and consumed the Burnt-offer-
'ings, and the Sacrifices, and the Glory of the Lord
'filled the House, 2 Chron. 7. 1.

'He beareth Argent, a
'Chevron, Sable, between
'three Flames of Fire,
'Proper. This Coat stand-
'eth in the Church of
'Barkley in the County of
'Gloucester, in a Window
'on the South-side of the 'same.

'The Chevron being (as we before have said)
'a Memorial and Token of Building, it may 'seem the Heralds were not well advised to put
'Flames of Fire so near it: But it is no enfor-
'ced Conjecture, to suppose that this Coat-
'Armour was first given to him who had re-
'stored some publick Edifice, which Fire had 'consumed. This next ensuing hath also a re-
'semblance with it.

'He beareth Argent, a
'Chevron voided, Azure,
'between three Flames of
'Fire, Proper, by the 'Name of Wells. Many
'Coat-Armours seem to
'allude to the Bearer's
'Name, but surely this is 'not so; this hot Element
'having little affinity with that watry Man-
'sion. Fire betokeneth Zeal, and every Sacri-
'fice was offered with Fire, to shew with what
'Zeal we should burn, that come to offer Prayer
'or Praise, and Thanks to the Lord. The Holy 'Ghost also descended upon the Apostles in Fire,
'to shew the Fervency of them upon whom it
'rested. But as here this painted Fire yields
'little Heat, so doth an Hypocrite's coloured
'Zeal; and many now a-days might bear such
'painted Fire upon an Escutcheon of Pretence
'for their Device.

'He beareth Argent, 'two Billets Raguled and 'Truncked, placed Sal-'tire-ways, the Sinister 'surmounted of the Dex-'ter, Azure, inflamed on 'their Tops, Proper. This 'is a Dutch Coat, and is 'born by the Name of 'Shurstab. Not unfitly is the Force of Counsel 'shadowed under the Fire of Prometheus, be-'cause that as Fire, so Counsel doth give Light 'to the darkest Obscurity of Things.'

(M) A Sea Argent waved Sable, (in French, Une Mer d'Argent ondoyée ou agitée de Sable.) This is the Coat of Sadoc de Vencon, Chevalier de la Table ronde. But I should think it better blazon'd, to say, A disturb'd Sea, Proper; for then doth it naturally appear blackish, excepting the Tops of its enraged Billows, which, according to the Appearance of the Firmament, are more or less tinctured with a reflected Brightness.

Ermine, on a Chevron Sable three Fountains, Proper, is born by the Name of Cust, and was granted to Richard Cust of Stanford in the County of Lincoln, Esq; by Sir Edward Bysshe, Clarencieux, May the last Day 1663.

'He beareth Diamond, 'a Bend, Topaz, between 'six Fountains, Proper, 'born by the Lord Stur-'ton. This Coat, with a 'due Difference, is born 'by John Sturton or Stour-'ton, of the City of Lon-'don, Gent, descended from 'the Sturtons of Sturton 'in Nottinghamshire. These six Fountains are 'born in signification of six Springs, whereof 'the River of Sture in Wiltshire hath his begin-'ning, and passeth along to Sturton, the Seat of 'that Barony. And to this Head are referred 'Spaciosa Maria, Vada Speciosa, Fluvii Lati, Fon-'tes Grati: The spacious Seas, the beauteous 'Shallows, Rivers spreading, Fountains plea-'sing. The Sea is the Riches of a Kingdom, 'and a fair River is the Riches of a City: And 'therefore their Waves are held good Bearing 'for one that hath done Service upon either.

'Fresh and sweet Waters are reckon'd among 'God's peculiar Blessings, promised to the Ob-'servers of his Laws, and those of chiefest Rank: 'For the Lord thy God bringeth thee into a good 'Land, a Land in the which are Rivers of Waters, 'Fountains and Depths that spring out of the Valleys 'and Mountains, Lev. 26. 7.

'He beareth Or, a Rock 'Sable, by the Name of 'Securades. A Rock sig-'nifieth Safety, Refuge, or 'Protection; as Psalm 31. 'Thou art my Rock and my 'Fortress, &c. For he that 'resteth under the Defence 'of the Almighty, is like 'a Castle of Strength, situated upon an inac-'cessible Rock, whereto none can approach to 'do Hurt. I have set this as a Pattern of the 'Earth, as being one principal Parcel thereof; 'and withal to represent the Stability of the 'Earth, which God hath so fixed that it cannot 'be removed.

'The Field is Or, a 'Mountain, Azure, inflam-'med, Proper. This Coat 'pertaineth to the Fami-'ly of Macloide, Lord of 'the Isles of Skey and Lewes 'in Scotland. Here you 'see are two Elements 'born together, the Earthy 'and Fiery. Ætna is like this, or else this like 'Ætna, it being a Hill in Sicily, which unces-'santly casteth forth Flames of Fire, whereto 'the envious Man may be fitly compared, who 'still disgorgeth his furious Malice against others, 'but it inwardly eateth out Brimstone like his 'own Bowels. One writeth of this Hill Ætna, 'That on the one Part it keepeth Snow all the 'Year long, and on the Other it ever burneth, 'like those who can breath hot and cold out of 'one Mouth.

'The Field is Argent, 'fifteen Islands, diverse-'ly coloured. This Coat-'Armour pertaineth to 'the King of Spain, in re-'spect of certain Islands 'of that Number within 'his Dominions. And 'amongst these Examples 'of earthy Bearing, I have 'produced the Bearing of a Mountain (a heavy 'Bearing, but much in Use among the Germans.)

This, tho' so odd and singular a Bearing, is the Coat of the Count de Prado in Spain, and must be thus blazon'd, viz. A Meadow Proper, i. e. a Field charged with Flowers of several Colours.

This

This Coat is an Exception to two of the moſt general Rules in Heraldry, viz. That Fields ſhould ever be either of the Mettals or Colours plain, and not proper; and, That Colour ſhould never be plac'd upon Colour.

" He beareth Argent, " three Mole-hills, Proper, " by the Name of Tyldeſly, " and is born by Edward " Tyldeſley of Morleys in " Lancaſhire, Eſq;

' Touching the Element of the Air, I have ' repreſented no Shape; for to do That, were ' as wiſe an Attempt as to weigh the Wind ' in a Ballance: Yet ſome have expreſſed the ' boiſterous Motions thereof by a Man's Face, ' with ſwollen and puff'd Cheeks, whence ' iſſueth as much Wind as out of the Witches ' Bottles of Norway, who will ſell any Wind ' that a Merchant will ask for: If they ſold ' Wines out of Bottles, I ſhould ſooner be- ' lieve them, and I think the Buyers ſhould be ' leſs cozened.

CHAP. V.

' HAving ſhewed, by particular Examples, ' the Bearing of ſimple Eſſences, or (at ' the leaſt) of ſuch Things as have a mutual ' Participation of Qualities with them; I will ' now proceed to the Handling of the next Mem- ' ber of the Diſtribution, which comprehendeth ' Eſſences, or Natures of mixt Kinds.

' Such are { Brute, or without Life. / Living.

' By Brute-Natures I underſtand all Eſſences ' whatſoever of mixt Kind that are meerly void ' of Life. Such are Meteors, which are unper- ' fect Kinds of Mixture, which by their ſtrange ' Apparitions do move their Beholders to an Ad- ' miration, and theſe are called Corpora ſublimia, ' becauſe they are ingendred aloft in the airy ' Region. The Matter whereof theſe Meteors ' are ingend'red, is a certain attracted Fume ' drawn up on high by the Operation of the ' Sun and Stars.

' This Fume or Smoak is { Vapour. / Exhalation.

' Vapour is a moiſt Kind of Fume extracted ' chiefly out of the Water, and therefore is ea- ' ſily diſſolved again thereunto; and hence are ' watry Meteors.

' Exhalation is a drier Kind of Fume, attract- ' ed up from the Earth, and apt to be inflamed, ' and they are fiery Meteors. There are alſo ' other Meteors formed of a Mixture of both ' theſe Fumes.

' Fiery Meteors are Forms conſiſting of hot ' Exhalations attracted into the airy Region, ' having a hot Quality, which at length break- ' eth into a Fire.

' And of theſe are { Simple. / Mix'd.

' Simple fiery Meteors are of diverſe Sorts ' and different Forms, whereof there is little ' Uſe in Coat-Armour, except of the Falling ' Star, which of Blazoners is termed a Mullet; ' which is an Exhalation inflamed above in the ' Air, and ſtriken back with a Cloud, whereby ' it is forced to run downwards in ſuch Sort, ' that to the Ignorant a Star ſeemeth to fall. ' There is oftentimes found upon the Earth a ' certain Gelly fallen from above, and diſperſed ' into diverſe Points, which of many is taken to ' be the Subſtance of the Falling Star or Muller. ' Note, That ſuch Mullets born in Coat-Armour, ' are now moſt uſual of five Points, but ancient- ' ly you ſhall find them born of ſix Points.

" And ſo I have ſeen them in diverſe very " old Rolls, in the Cuſtody of that worthy " Knight, Sir Richard Saint George, now Cla- " rencieux King of Arms, whoſe induſtrious " Travel in the careful Collection of ſuch An- " tiquities, and his free communicating of the " ſame to the Studious in that Way, merits " much.

" And I find in a very " ancient Roll, now in " the Cuſtody of the be- " fore-mentioned worthy " Knight, Sir Richard Saint " George, Clarencieux, in " the Blazon of Gilbert " Hauſart's Coat-Armour, " thoſe which we now in " Heraldry blaze by the Name of Mullets, there " to be termed Eſteiles, I think it is meant " Eſtoiles; yet are not their Points, which are " five, there waved. But in this Variety of " Opinions I leave every Man to follow what " in his Judgment he ſhall approve to be beſt " and moſt probable."

'He beareth Ermine, a 'Mullet of six Points, 'pierced, Gules, by the 'Name of Hassenhull. 'These Kinds of Meteors 'have an Appearance 'of Stars, but in Exist- 'ence they are nothing, 'for they are (saith Be- 'kenhab) certain Impres- 'sions of the Air, appearing for a Time, and in 'Time do vanish away, because they be of Na- 'ture flexible, and nothing permanent.'

Argent, a Mullet pierced, Sable, was the Coat of Richard Ashton of Medelton, who married Elizabeth, Daughter to Sir William Damport, Knight, and had Issue, Richard, eldest Son; and John, second Son.

Which first-mentioned Richard, was Son and Heir (by the first Wife) to Richard, who (of Seven) was eldest Son and Heir to Richard Ashton of Medelton, and of Anne his Wife, Daughter to Sir Thomas Stricland of Laudsdale in Cumberland.

Memorandum, (saith Mr. Glover) That the said Mr. Ashton, at the Scottish Field, took a Prisoner whose Name was Sir John Forman, Knight, Serjeant-Porter to the Scottish King; and also he took Alexander Kanret, Shrive of a Berdyne, which two Prisoners he delivered unto my Lord of Norfolk that now is, to know he shall bear their Arms.

Argent, a Mullet pierced, Sable, in Chief a Crescent for a Difference Gules, was the Coat of Ralph Ashton of Great Lever, who married Margaret, Daughter to William Orrell of Turton, and had Issue Raffe, Richard, and Hellen.

Collect. of the North per Glov. or per Chest. in M. S. in Ash. Num. 834. p. 5.

He beareth Argent, a Mullet Sable, in the dexter Quarter a Fleur de Lys, Gules, by the Name of Ayson. This Coat was confirm'd by Sir William Segar, Garter, William Cambden, Clarencieux, and Richard St. George, Norroy, to Richard Ayson of Sheering in Essex, and of the Inner-Temple, Barrister; Son of Nicholas Ayson, Son of John Ayson, who was the Son of John Ayson or Ashton; being proved to be descended from the Ashtons in the North; notwithstanding the Difference of the Names: Wherefore I place this among Mullets, in regard the Fleur de Lis is as a Difference and not a principal Figure.

Vert, three Mullets of six Points, Or, is born by the Name of Spurstow. This Coat did belong to George Spurstow of Spurstow in the County of Chester, who was living Anno 1613. He married Elizabeth, Daughter of Thomas Brooke of Norton in the County of Chester, and by her had Issue George Spurstow Son and Heir, aged seven Years, Anno prædict. Henry second Son, and John third Son: Also two Daughters, Elizabeth and Anne.

The aforesaid George Spurstow was Son and Heir of George of the same Place, by his Wife Alice, Daughter and Co-heir of John Norbury of ..... which George was eldest Son and Heir of Richard (who lived Anno 1566) by his Wife Eleanor, Daughter of Tho. Starkey; which Richard was eldest Son and Heir of Randal Spurstow by his Wife Jane, Daughter and Co-heir of Ralph Leigh of Easthall: The said Randal being Son and Heir of John Spurstow by his first Wife, who was ..... Daughter of ..... Prestland; which John was Son and Heir of Randolf, which was Son and Heir of William, the Son and Heir of Richard, who was Son and Heir of Henry Spurstow of Spurstow in Cheshire; of which Place also were the abovenamed.

Some are of Opinion, that the Charge of this Coat bears reference to the Name, and that they are not Mullets but Spur-Rowels, which I am apt to believe.

Vide Visit. de Com. Cestr. in Coll. Arm.

'He beareth Azure, six 'Mullets, three, two, and 'one, Or, by the Name 'of Welsh. In blazoning 'of Mullets of this Form, 'you shall not need to 'make mention of their 'Points, because it is the 'usual Form of Bearing; 'but if they do consist of 'more than five Points, then must you speci- 'ally observe their Number, as in the former 'Escutcheon.'

Sable, six Mullets, three, two, and one, Argent, pierced, Gules, was the Coat of Edmund Bonvill of Little Modbury in the County of Devon, Esq; who married Jane, Daughter of ..... Trigson of the County of Cornwall, Esq; and had Issue Richard. This Edmund was Son of Humfrey Bonvill of Iv... bridge in the said County of Devon, Son of John of Comralighe in the County of Devon, who was Son of John Bonvill, base Son to William Baron Bonvill of Chewton in the County of Devon.

He married Anne, Daughter of Thomas Strangman of Beley in Eſſex, and by her had Iſſue Richard, Son and Heir, Thomas ſecond Son, Richard third Son, and Elizabeth a Daughter.

Note, That the firſt-mentioned Thomas, was (of five Sons) the Eldeſt, and Heir to his Father Richard Salt of Toxley; which Richard was Son of Robert Salt of Toxall, in the County of Stafford, deſcended from..... Salt of the ſame County.

"He beareth Or, a Che-"vron between three "Mullets pierced, Sable, "by the Name of Da-"vies, and is the Pater-"nal Coat-Armour of the "Right Hon. Sir Thomas "Davies of the City of "London, Kt. and Lord "Mayor thereof, Anno "1677.

"Argent, a Chevron Sable, between three "Mullets pierced Gules, is born by John Davies "of Vine-hall in Suſſex, Gent.

He beareth Argent, on a Bend wavy cottiſed Sable, three Mullets pierced Or, by the Name of White. This Coat was granted to Walter White of Exeter in the County of Devon, by Sir John Borough, Garter, the 24th of March, 1641.

He beareth Ermine, on a Feſs cottiſed Sable, three Mullets Or, by the Name of Liſter. This Coat was aſſign'd by William Cambden, Clarencieux, April the 20th, 1692, to Edward Liſter of London, Doctor of Phyſick.

(M) Mure of Caldwell Argent, on a Feſs Azure, three Mullets of the Firſt, within a Bordure engrailed of the Second.

He beareth Argent, two Chevrons between three Mullets Sable, by the Name of North. This Coat was aſſign'd to..... North of Walkeringham in the County of Nottingham, by William Segar, in the 42d Year of Queen Elizabeth, Anno Dom. 1600.

Her. Off. for Nottingham, C. 29.

He beareth Sable, three Chevrons between as many Mullets Argent, by the Name of Tirrey, and was confirm'd to William Tirrey of London, Goldſmith, Son of Anthony of Marden in the County of Hereford, deſcended out of the North, by Sir William Segar, Garter, June 13, 1616. 13 James 1.

(M) Durham of Duntarvie; Or, on a Feſs Azure, between two Creſcents Gules, the upper One inverted, three Mullets Argent.

(G) Tullock of Crainerton in Scotland; Argent, on a Feſs between three Croſs-croſlets, Gules, as many Mullets of the Firſt.

" He beareth Argent, " two Bars between three " Mullets of ſix Points, " Sable, pierced, Or, by " the Name of Doughty. " This with a Creſcent " for a Difference, is the " Coat-Armour of Philip " Doughty of Eaſher in the " County of Surry, Eſq: " deſcended from an Engliſh-Saxon Family of " Dohtig, before the Conqueſt.

Sable, a Croſs voided between four Mullets Or, is born by the Name of Spiller, and was confirm'd to Henry Spiller of Kingſey in the County of Bucks, by William Cambden, Clarencieux, King of Arms.

(M) Binning of Baird; Argent, on a Croſs Azure, a Creſcent between four Mullets of the Firſt.

(M) Bannatyne of Corhouſe; Argent, a Croſs between four Mullets Azure.

' He beareth Argent, a ' Croſs Sable, a Treſſure of ' half Flower de Lis be- ' tween four Mullets pier- ' ced of the Second, by ' the Name of Atkyns, and ' is the Coat-Armour of ' the Right Honourable ' Sir Robert Atkyns of Tot- ' teridge in Hertfordſhire, ' and of Sapperton in Glouceſterſhire, Knight of ' the Bath, and one of his Majeſty's Juſtices of ' the Court of Common-Pleas; whoſe Great- ' grandfather, Thomas Atkyns of Tuffleigh in ' Glouceſterſhire, was twice Reader of Lincolns ' Inn: Firſt in the Two and thirtieth Year of ' King Henry the Eighth; and, Secondly, in the ' Reign of King Edward the Sixth; and whoſe ' Grandfather, Ricchard Atkyns, Eſq; was Rea- ' der of the ſaid Society in the Reign of Queen ' Elizabeth, and chief Juſtice of North-Wales, ' and one of the Council of the Marches of ' Wales; and whoſe Father, Sir Edward Atkyns, ' Knight, late deceaſed, was likewiſe Reader of ' the ſame Society in the Reign of King Charles ' the Firſt, and afterwards one of the Barons of ' the Exchequer to his Majeſty King Charles the ' Second: And the ſaid Sir Robert, about eleven ' Years ſince, was likewiſe Reader of the ſame ' Society; whoſe Son, Sir Robert Atkyns, was ' Knighted about twelve Years ſince, whilſt he ' was a Student in the Univerſity of Oxford, and ' is now living; ſo that Grandfather, Father, ' and Son, were all living together, and Knights ' at the ſame Time.'

" Azure, on a Croſs Ar- " gent, five Mullets Gules, " by the Name of Verney, " and is the Paternal Coat- " Armour of Sir Ralph " Verney of Middle Cley- " don in Buckinghamſhire, " Knight and Baronet, Son " to Sir Edmond Verney, Kt. " Marſhal to King Charles " the Firſt, and Standard-Bearer at the Battel " of Edge-hill. And with a due Difference is " born by John Verney, Son of the ſaid Sir Ralph " Verney."

Gules, on a Croſs Argent, five Mullets Sable, was confirm'd by Robert Cooke, Clarencieux, the 15th of March, in the 13th of Queen Eliz. to Tho. Randolph of Badeliſmer in the County of Cambridge, Eſq; deſcended from the ancient Family of Sir John Randolph of the County of Wilts, Knight.

' He beareth Gules, on ' a Croſs Argent, five Mul- ' lets pierced, Sable, by the ' Name of Randal or Ran- ' dolph of Kent. Some- ' times the Round in the ' Midſt of the Mullet is ' not of the Colour of the ' Field, and then you muſt ' not take it for a Pierce- ' ing, but for a Charge of other ſignification. ' Gerard Leigh ſeemeth to preſcribe this general ' Rule touching Mullets; that if the ſame do ' conſiſt of even Points, they muſt be called ' Rowels; meaning (as I conceive) Rowels of ' Spurs. But he might more aptly have apply- ' ed the ſame in particular unto Mullets pierced, ' in reſpect of their nearer reſemblance of ſuch ' Rowels than thoſe that are not pierced. Some ' are of Opinion, that all Mullets, whether they ' conſiſt of five or ſix Points, pierced, or un- ' pierced, are Rowels of Spurs, with this Dif- ' ference, that thoſe which are unpierced, are ' Rowels not fully finiſhed or made up by their ' Maker; and their Reaſon is, becauſe that in ' old French or Norman Language, this Word ' Mollette ſignifieth a Rowel of a Spur; as ap- ' peareth in an ancient French Manuſcript re- ' maining in the Office of Arms, where the Au- ' thor there treating of the compleat Armour ' of a Combatant a Cap a pee, according to his ' Degree, he there ſpeaking of the Harneſs or ' Armour of the Leg, uſeth theſe Words con- ' cerning Spurs; —— Et ungz eſperons d'ores qui ' ſeront atachiez a une cordellette autour de la jambe ' affin que la Molette ne tourne deſſoubz le pie. The 'French is old, and according to the Orthogra-

'phy of thoſe Times, which I, as preciſely as I
'can, have ſhewed you.'

To this Mackenzy ſeems to agree, as you may ſee Page 72, where, diſcourſing of the modern Differences, he ſaith, The third Son hath a Mullet or Spur-Royal, to ſhew that he ſhould follow Chivalry, not ſo much as countenancing this Fancy of its being a Falling Star. But, however, ſince Guillim hath placed them as Meteors, I ſhall not alter his Method; tho' I think they would ſuit much better with Spurs, and ſuch like Parts of Armature. Gilt Spurs was one Emblem of Knighthood which perhaps brought Mullets in ſuch requeſt in Armoury.

'Others think that the Heralds have borrow'ed this Word, uſed by them in Blazon, from
'a Kind of Fiſh ſo called; not that which is moſt
'uſually known by the Name of Mullet, but
'another not much unlike in Shape to that 'Thing which is uſed in Armoury; and as I 'am informed, is often found upon the Sands,
'at the Ebbing of the Sea: And is in Kent now
'by the vulgar People, propter ſimilitudinem, cal'led a Taylor's Bottom or a Five-finger, and in 'ancient Time it was for the like Cauſe known
'by the Name of a Mullet.

Argent, two Barrs Sable, on each three Mullets pierced, of the Firſt, was the Coat of William Hopton, ſecond Son to Robert Hopton of Ermeley-hall; which William married Margaret, Daughter of Richard Harryſon of Gypton, Yeoman, and by her had Iſſue Robert Hopton, Clerk; John (ſecond Son) Biſhop of Norwich, *Temp. ' Thus have you Examples of the diverſe ' Bearing of theſe ſimple Meteors; to wit, the ' Bearing of them ſole, unpierced, pierced, ſome ' of five Points, and others of ſix.

' So much of ſimple fiery Meteors, ſo far ' forth as there is uſe of them in Coat-Armour: ' Now of ſuch Meteors as are of mix'd Kind, ac- ' cording to the Diſtribution before delivered in ' the next Precedent. Theſe are fiery Meteors bred ' of an Exhalation ſomewhat more groſs and ' impure, than thoſe before ſpecified, by reaſon ' of a more thick and ſlimy Vapour whereof ' they be ingendred.

' Meteors of this Kind are { Thunder. / Lightning.

' Thunder is an inflamed Exhalation, which ' by his powerful Force, breaketh thorough the ' Clouds violently, with great Noiſe and Ter- ' ror. The forcible Power thereof is rather ap- ' prehended by the Ear, than ſubjected to the ' Sight: Nevertheleſs, the ancient Times have ' deviſed a certain imaginary Form whereby they ' would expreſs the forcible Power thereof, as ' alſo of the Lightning.'

" Thunder is ſuppoſed to be ingendred two " Manner of Ways, viz. when either a hot or " dry Vapour is incloſed in a cold and moiſt " Cloud, and being unable to contain it ſelf " therein, by reaſon of the Contrariety, it la- " boureth by all Means to find a Vent, and ſo " ſtriving by all Means to get Paſſage, it ma- " keth Way with great Vehemency and Hor- " ror of Sound: Such as a glowing Gad of Iron, " or any other fiery Matter maketh, when Wa- " ter is infuſed thereupon in abundance, or that " it is therein drenched, it maketh a furious and " murmuring Sound. Such is that weak and " feeble Sort of Thunder, that ſeemeth to be " ingendred in ſome Region of the Air far re- " mote from us, yielding only (for a ſmall " Time) a Kind of turbulent Noiſe or Mur- " muring.

" Or elſe it is engendred in a more violent " Manner; to wit, when this incloſed dry and " combuſtible Matter, being inflamed in the " Clouds of contrary Qualities, doth break out " with Vehemency, then doth it yield a terri- " ble and forcible Sound, not unlike a great " Piece of Ordnance when it is overcharged. " And this Sound, thus ingendred, is called " Thunder."

' Lightning is a vehement Eruption of an in- ' flamed Exhalation, proceeding from Thunder; ' which, tho' it is in Time after the Thunder, ' yet is firſt repreſented to our Senſes, by reaſon ' that our Sight is far more ſubtil and appre- ' henſive than is our Hearing. And in regard ' that Thunder and Lightning do both proceed ' from one ſelf Cauſe, they have in ſuch their ' imaginary Fiction conjoyned them both under ' one Form, after this Manner.

' The Field is Azure, ' Jupiter's Thunderbolt in ' Pale, Or, inflamed at ' both Ends, Proper, ſhaft- ' ed Salter-wiſe, and wing- ' ed Feſs-ways; Argent. ' Chaſſanæus deſcribing the ' Enſigns of ſundry Na- ' tions, noteth this for the ' Enſign of the Scythians: ' And in the Glory of Generoſity, it is ſaid, that ' Tomyrus, Queen of Scythia, did bear the ſame ' in this Manner. The Bearing of Lightning ' betokeneth the effecting of ſome weighty Bu- ' ſineſs with much celerity and forceableneſs; ' becauſe in all Ages this hath been reputed the ' moſt quick, forcible, and terrible Dart, where- ' with the Almighty ſtriketh where himſelf plea- ' ſeth: Which the Heathen religiouſly acknow- ' ledged, though he thereupon infers an irreli- ' gious Concluſion, ſaying,

' Si quoties peccent homines, ſua fulmina mittat
' Jupiter, exiguo tempore inermis erit:

' If God ſhould Thunder-ſtrike ſtill when he Sin
' doth ſee,
' His Shafts would ſoon be ſpent, and Arm un-arm'd
' would be.

' His Inference had been truer thus:

' If God ſhould Thunder-ſtrike ſtill when he Sin
' doth ſee,
' All Men would ſoon be ſpent, yet God ſtill arm'd
' ſhould be.

'Hitherto of Fiery Meteors; now of such as 'be Watery.

'Watery Meteors are certain cold and moist 'Vapours, copiously attracted by the power-'ful Operation of the heavenly Bodies into the 'Air, and there changed into their several 'Forms. Of these there are diverse Sorts, 'whereof Clouds are most usually born in Coat-'Armour.

'A Cloud is a gross Vapour, attracted into 'the middle Region of the Air, and there thick-'ned, by reason of the Coldness of the Place, 'having in it store of Matter apt to ingender 'Water.'

"A Cloud (according to Zanchius) is a moist "thick Vapour, attracted from the Waters by "the Heat of the Sun, unto the middle Region "of the Air, and there thickned by the Cold-"ness thereof, and so continueth until it be a-"gain dissolved by the Sun's Heat, and so con-"verted into Rain, and doth distil down in "Drops. Zanch. de Meteoris aqueis, 483. The "Clouds are said to be God's Chariots, as we "may see Psalm 104. He layeth the Beams of his "Chambers in the Waters, and maketh the Clouds "his Chariot, and walketh upon the Wings of the "Winds. The Clouds are God's Instruments, "wherein he containeth and retaineth, at his "Pleasure, the Showers of Rain, as in Bottles: "As we may see Job 38. 37. Who can number "the Clouds by Wisdom? Or who can cease the Bot"tles of Heaven?

"The Clouds are resembled to a Spunge re-"plenished with Water, and God with the "Hand of his Providence wringeth the Spunge "moderately, not pressing out all the Moisture "thereof at once, but leisurely, and by lit-"tle and little, after a gentle and soaking "Manner."

'No Pencil can make a true Representation 'of Clouds, because every Instant and Moment 'of Time, doth add unto them some Kind of 'Alteration, whereby it differeth from that it 'was late before: Nevertheless, former Times 'have coined (of these also) a conceited Form, 'as in these next Escutcheons may be seen.

'This Coat-Armour is 'Barry Nebule of eight 'Pieces, Topaz and Dia-'mond; and pertaineth to 'the Honourable Family 'of Charles late Earl of 'Devon, and Lord Mount-'joy, Lieutenant-Gover-'nour of Ireland, Great 'Master of the Artillery 'of England, Captain of Portsmouth, Knight of 'the most Noble Order of the Garter, and of 'his Majesty's most Honourable Privy Council:' But this is cut three Barrs Nebule, not Barry, as it ought. 'The Bearing of Clouds in Arms '(saith Upton) doth import some Excellency in 'their Bearer.

'This Coat is also born by Sir Henry Blount of 'Tittonhanger in Hartfordshire, Kt.

'In the Clouds hath the Rainbow his tempo-'rary Residence; and therefore next let us cast 'our Eyes on it.

'A Rain-bow is a diverse-coloured Arch or 'Bow, formed in a hollow, thin, and unequal 'Cloud, by the Reflection of the Beams of the 'opposite Sun. The Cause of the rare Use of 'the Rain bow in Coat-Armour, perhaps, may 'be, for that the Colours thereof cannot be apt-'ly counterfeited, as witnesseth Aristotle, Meteor. 'lib. 3. saying, Soli colores Iridis non possunt fieri 'à Pictoribus: Whereby it seemeth, of all other, 'the hardest Thing to imitate. The natural 'Colours of the Rain-bow (according to Scri-'bonius) are Red, Green, Blue, and Yellow.

'The Field hereof is 'Argent, issuant out of two 'petit Clouds in Fess, 'Azure, a Rain-bow, in 'the nombril Point a Star, 'Proper.'

(𝔓) Argent, a Rain-bow, Proper, by the Name of Pont.

'The Rain-bow is a Token of God's Cove-'nant made with Noah, and in him with all 'People; as appeareth Genesis 9. 13. I have set 'my Bow in the Clouds, and it shall be for a Sign of 'the Covenant between me and the Earth, &c. As 'touching the Beauty of the Rain-bow, it is 'said, Eccluſ, 43. 11. Look upon the Rain-bow, and 'praise him that made it: very beautiful is it in the 'Brightness thereof; it compasseth the Heaven about 'with a Circle, and the Hand of the most High hath 'bended it, ibid. 12. And indeed, worthy is he 'to be so praised, who when he could have 'made a Bow to destroy us, rather chose to 'make this Bow to assure us he would not de-'stroy us. A noble Precedent, to teach No-'bles to use their Strength and their Weapons 'rather to preserve and help, than to over-'throw or hurt those who are under their Power. 'Farnesius saith, That the Rain-bow appearing 'in the South, betokeneth Rain; in the West, 'it foreshewеth Thunder; and in the East, prog-'nosticates fair Weather.

CHAP.

CHAP. VI.

'HItherto have we prosecuted our Design, 'touching Things of mix'd Nature, 'which are Brute or Lifeless: Now proceed we 'to the Consideration of Things of mix'd Nature, having Life. Mix'd Natures that are 'living, are corporeal Essences, endued with a 'vegetable Soul: For here we use this Word 'Soul, as also the Word Life, in his largest Signification. A vegetable Soul is a Faculty or 'Power that giveth Life unto Bodies.

'Whereby they do live { After a Sort, or, Perfectly.

'Such as do live after a Sort, or less Perfectly, are all Sorts of Mettals; which because 'they are supposed to grow and increase in the 'Earth, we will (for our present Use) ascribe 'Life unto them.

'Mettals are Bodies imperfectly living, and 'are decocted in the Veins of the Earth.

'Of these some { are naturally { Fusible. Not Fusible, or less Fusible.

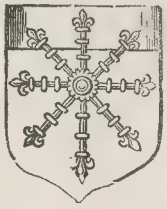

'The Fusible are Gold, Silver, Copper, Tin, 'Lead, and other of like Kind.

'The not, or hardly Fusible are { Precious. Brittle.

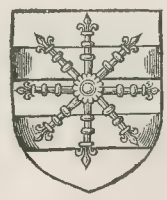

'Those that are altogether hard, are Stones 'of all Sorts. Stones are bred of a watersish 'Moisture, and of an oily Kind of Earth firmly 'compacted together.

'Of Stones some are { Precious. Base.

'Stones precious are of that Sort that we call 'in Latin Gemmæ; which are of estimation either for that they are rarely to be gotten, or 'for some Vertue fancied to be in them, or for 'that they are such as Man's Eye is wonderfully delighted withal by reason of their Pureness, and beautiful transparent Substance. Of 'which Kind are the Diamond, Topaz, Escarbuncle, Emerald, Ruby, and such like. Of 'which Sorts, twelve of chiefest Note were appointed by God himself to be used in the principal Ornament of the High Priest, when he 'appeared before the Lord, presenting therein 'the Names of the Twelve Tribes of Israel, 'to shew how precious in his Sight is the People and Nation which serveth him, as himself 'prescribeth. But of all these several Kinds, 'the Escarbuncle is of most use in Arms, 'and is born as in these next Escutcheons appeareth.

'The Field is Ruby, a 'Chief, Pearl, over all 'an Escarbuncle, of eight 'Staves or Rays, pommette & florette, Topaz. 'This Coat-Armour pertained anciently to the 'Earls of Anjou, from 'whom came Geffery Plantagenet, Earl of Anjou, 'that married Maud the 'Empress, Daughter to Henry the First, King 'of England. This Stone is called in Latin, 'Carbunculus, which signifieth a little Coal, be'cause it sparkleth like Fire, and casteth forth, 'as it were, fiery Rays. There is another Kind 'of, but fiery, Carbuncle, which Chyrurgeons 'can best handle; One of those of the Lapidaries is more to be desired than Ten of the 'other.

'He beareth Argent, 'two Barrs, Azure, over 'all an Escarbuncle of eight 'Rays, Gules, pommette & florette, Or. This Coat 'is cut in Stone upon the 'Church-Porch Door of 'Magnotsfield in the County of Glouceſter, and is 'born by the Name of 'Blount.'

This Coat did pertain to William Blount of Malden in the County of Essex, Esq; who married Elizabeth, Daughter of James Morley of Bishop-Storford, Gent. (and Widow of William Sebright and John Sames) by whom he had Issue William Blount (Son and Heir) and Elizabeth.

He the said William (of Malden) was eldest Son and Heir of John Blount, the eldest Son and Heir of William Blount of Mangersfeild, third Son of Morrice Blount by his Wife, Daughter of Sir Thomas Hungerford, who also bare him John Blount of Wotton in the County of Wilts (eldest Son) who married Margaret, Daughter of William Davers, and had Issue William Blount of London, who by his Wife Catherine, Daughter of ..... White of Farnham, had Thomas (eldest Son and Heir) and Edward, second Son.

The second Son of Morrice aforesaid, was Robert Blount of Inkepen, who had but one Male Child which was Anthony, who dy'd without Issue.

The

The aforeſaid Morrice Blount, who married Sir Thomas Hungerford's Daughter, was ſecond Son of Edmond Blount of Mangersfield, in the County of Glouceſter, who was eldeſt Son and Heir of John Blount of the ſame Place, the Son and Heir of John Blount of Mangersfield afore ſaid.

Vide Viſit. de Com. Eſſex, Anno 1614. fol. 19.

'As there is in all Kinds of Minerals a vegetable Life, even ſo, and much more (ſaith Zanchius) is it judged that precious Stones have this Life; yea, and that they have a paſſive Capacity of Sickneſs, of Age, and alſo of Death. Whether this be ſo or not, ſure it is a pretty Device, to advance their Eſtimation with thoſe who already too much dote on them; inſo much, as it was ſaid of the Roman Empreſſes, that ſome of them did wear whole Kingdoms at their Ears, ſo now many a One hang whole Mannors on their Sleeves.

'So much of precious Stones: Now of thoſe which are Baſe; ſuch we eſteem all thoſe to be, which both for their ordinary and baſe Imployments, and alſo for that they are eaſily to be had of all Men, are of ſmall Eſtimation; as are theſe next following, with their like.

'He beareth Vert, three Flint Stones, Argent, by the Name of Flint. This Coat is quartered by the Right Honourable the Earl of Cumberland. The Flint Stone is an ancient Emblem or Token uſed by great Perſons. Johannes Digionius, Earl of Flanders, gave for his Device, Ignitabulum Silicem feriens, a Steel and a Flint-ſtone, which well agreed with his Diſpoſition. This Earl was taken Priſoner by Bajazet the Turk, and when he ſhould have been put to the Sword, a Phyſiognomer, much eſteemed by the Turk, perſuaded him to let him go free, ſaying, He foreſaw in him, that when he came home, he would ſet a great Part of Chriſtendom in a Combuſtion; as indeed he did, by reaſon of the Murther of Lewis, Brother to the French King Charles the Sixth; which his Murther, the Franciſcan Fryers did as impiouſly defend, by the Examples of Zimri kill'd by Phineas, Holofernes by Judith, Sifera by Jael, and the Egyptians by Moſes. As the like Examples are ſtill produced by the traiterous Parricides of Kings and Princes, ſet on Work by the Grandfather of ſuch holy Treaſons. The ſaid Earl's Son, Philippus Bonus, was Founder of the Order of the Golden Fleece, which hangeth at a Collar made with the Forms of the ſaid Steels and Flint-ſtones; which Order the Kings of Spain ſtill uphold.

'He beareth Azure, three Mill-ſtones Argent, by the Name of Milveton. The Mill-ſtone repreſenteth unto us the mutual Converſe of human Society; becauſe Mill-ſtones are never occupied ſingle, but by couples; and each of them ſtandeth in need of the other's Help, for the Performance of the Work whereunto they are ordained. Hereupon our mutual Amities and Aſſiſtances are termed in Latin, Neceſſitudines Amicitiæ, becauſe every Man ſtandeth in need of ſome faſt and aſſured Friend, by whoſe Council and Advice he may be ſupported for the better compaſſing of whatſoever Affairs of Importance he ſhall undertake. Of all the rare Stones before-mentioned, in my Judgment, Men have cauſe to eſteem the Mill-ſtone (tho' here we have placed it among baſer Stones) the moſt precious Stone of all others; yet I would be loath to wiſh my Lady to wear it at her Ear.

'So much of Mettals or Minerals (for I uſe the Word in the largeſt Senſe) that are hard and not fuſible: There are others alſo which we reckoned to be hardly fuſible, in reſpect of their brittle Nature; ſuch are Alom, Salt, Amber, Chalk, &c. but there is no uſe of them in Arms. Becauſe in this Chapter I have ſpoken of precious Stones, diverſe of which are of uſe in Heraldry, for blazoning of the Coat-Armours of Nobility (as my ſelf have often occaſion to do in ſundry Parts of this Work;) before I proceed further, I will ſet down thoſe ſeveral Stones, as they anſwer to their ſeveral Mettals and Colours; together with the Planets alſo, which I uſe only in the Atchievements of Kings and great Princes.

CHAP. VII.

'SO much touching Examples of such Na-'tures as do live after a Sort: In the next 'Place succeed those Things, which do live 'Perfectly or Properly; such Natures are those 'as have in them express and manifest Tokens 'of a living Soul.

'Of this Kind, some are { Vegetable. / Sensitive.

'Forasmuch as I am now to treat of vege-'table Animals, and of their particular Kinds; 'I must excuse my self in two Things, before I 'enter into the Exemplifying of them: The 'One, That there is no Cause that any Man 'should expect at my Hands an express De-'monstration of each particular Species of them; 'and that I should run through and display 'their manifold and almost innumerable Kinds, 'for that would be a tedious Travel, and (be-'sides) an infinite and unnecessary Charge and 'Cost, and withal, far wide from the Project 'of my prefixed Purpose. The other Thing '(and the same more pertinent to that I do in-'tend) is, That in handling of Vegetables and 'Sensitives, I purpose only to distribute their 'several Ranks of Distribution, according to 'their Order to them prescribed by Nature, 'which, to express, is my chiefest Drift, and the 'principal Scope that I do aim at.

'Of the perfect Sort of Creatures there are 'many Kinds, whereof some are of more Per-'fection and more Worthy than others, accord-'ing to their more excellent Kind of Life, or 'Worthiness of Soul.

'Of these the less perfect Sort of Bodies were 'first created; and then such as were of more 'Perfection. Plants are more worthy than 'Mettals, and Animals of more reckoning than 'Plants: Therefore were these first created, and 'those afterwards.

'Of Animals wherewith God did adorn the 'Air, the Waters, and the Earth, there are di-'verse Kinds, whereof some were more Wor-'thy than others; in the Creation of these did 'God observe the same Order.

'Between the Creation of Plants and Ani-'mals, it pleased God in his unsearchable Wis-'dom, to interpose the Creation of the Stars 'wherewith he beautified the Heavens, he did 'it to this End, to give us to understand, That 'albeit the Sun with his Light and Motion, to-'gether with the Stars, do concur in the Gene-'ration of Plants and Animals, nevertheless 'their Generation is not to be attributed simp-'ly to the Influence and Power of these Cele-'stial Bodies; but only to the Omnipotency of 'God, inasmuch as by his powerful Word he 'commanded the Earth to produce all Sorts of 'Plants and their Fruits, before the Stars were 'created.

'From the most fertile and pleasant Garden 'of Eden, unto the most barren and desolate 'Wilderness, may we see and behold the great 'and wonderful Works of God, and take occa-'sion to extol his Omnipotency, Wisdom, and 'Mercy. As we may observe Isa. 41. 9. I will 'set in the Wilderness the Cedar, the Shittah-tree, 'and the Myrrhe-tree, and the Pine-tree; and I 'will set in the Wilderness the Firr-tree, the Elm, 'and the Box together. Therefore let them see, 'and know, and let them consider and understand 'together, that the Hand of the Lord hath done 'this, and that the holy One of Israel hath created 'it, ver. 20. Hence we may gather, that there 'is no Object so mean that presenteth it self to 'our View, but will minister some just Occasion 'to glorify God.

'Men are accustomed to attribute the Propa-'gation of these, either to the Influence of Na-'ture, or to the Travel and Industry of Man; 'but these were produced before any other 'of like Kind could be found upon the Face 'of the Earth, whereof it might be imagin-'ed they might receive Being; for as yet 'there had never fallen any Rain to fructify the 'Earth,

'Earth, whereby it might produce green Herbs, 'nor as yet was Man created, that might Manure and Till the Ground for that Purpose: 'Therefore neither were they produced naturally, or of their own accord, nor yet by the 'Art, Skill, or Industry of Man, but by the 'immediate Word and Commandment of God.

'The Reason that moved Moses to give an Instance of Plants and Herbs, how that they 'were produced by the Virtue and Power of 'God's Word only, and not naturally, or by 'the Skill and Industry of Man; neither yet of 'Animals, nor of any other of the infinite Number of Things created (Gen. 1. 11.) was this, 'because the Generation of Plants and Herbs 'might be much more doubted of, than the Original of other Things.

'Of the first Springing of Trees in the Creation, Moses saith, Et germinare fecerat Jehova 'Elohim è terra omnem arborem concupiscibilem, id 'est, visu, & bonam ad escam; which Words do 'comprehend all the desirable Qualities of Fruit-trees: For in them we expect that their Fruits 'should be either delightful to the Eye, or that 'they should be fit for Food and wholsome, and 'that they be also fragrant and sweet-smelling: 'For the Fruits of Trees, the better they be, 'the more odoriferous they are.

'That the Trees wherewith Paradice was 'planted, had all these Qualities, it is manifest 'by the Words of Moses, in that he saith, Concu-'piscibilem ad visum, & bonam ad escam: Where-'by we gather, That the Sight is delighted with 'Things beautiful and glorious, the Smell with 'sweet and pleasant Savours, and the Palate 'with Things of sweet and pleasant Taste. And 'none of these are in themselves evil; for such 'was the Constitution of Adam before he transgressed, that he might have delighted himself 'in them all without Offence; and to that End 'did God create them, that he should use them 'with Thanksgiving.

'Moses describeth unto us two principal Qualities of the Garden of Paradice, whereby he 'layeth before us the Pleasantness of the Situation thereof, and also the Beauty and Fertility of the Soil. The first of these Qualities 'was, That it was replenished with all Sorts 'of Trees, not only most pleasant and delightful to the Eye, but also most pleasant to the 'Taste; for that they produced the best and 'sweetest Fruits: The other Quality was, That 'the whole Circumference of the Garden of Paradice was surrounded and invironed with a 'River being distributed into four Heads, which 'did highly beautify the same, and made it most 'pleasant to the View.

'In this Description Moses maketh mention of 'two Trees of special Qualities, that were planted in the Midst of Paradice: The One named 'the Tree of Life, the Other the Tree of Knowledge of Good and Evil.

'The First of these had a enlivening Power in 'it self, the Fruit whereof was ordained to this 'End; That being eaten, it would enable a 'Man never to feel Sickness, Feebleness, old 'Age, or Death, but should evermore continue in the same State of Strength and Agility 'of Body: This was the Efficacy and Power 'that was given to this Tree, whereof it was 'never yet deprived: Therefore was this Quality after a Sort natural thereunto.

'For this Cause was there a Cherub set at 'the Entrance of Paradice, to keep out such as 'would enter the same, and eat of the Fruit of 'the Tree of Life; that he should not always 'live that Kind of Life.

'How useful the Knowledge of the Vertues and Operations of Trees, Plants, Herbs, 'and other Vegetables, is, for the extolling and 'manifesting the Omnipotency, Wisdom, Mercy, loving Favour and fatherly Providence of 'our most gracious God towards sinful Man, 'in that he hath created for the Benefit and 'Use of Man, as well touching his necessary 'Food and Rayment, as for Recreation and Delight, we may evidently perceive by Solomon's 'industrious Investigation of the Vertues and 'Operations of all Sorts of Vegetables: For (besides other his admirable Qualities wherewith 'he was richly endued) he had surpassing Knowledge in the Vertues, Operations and Qualities of Herbs and other Vegetables; insomuch 'that he was able to Reason, Discourse and 'Dispute, not only of Beasts, Fowls, creeping 'Things and Fishes, but of Trees also and 'Plants, from the Cedar in Lebanon to the Hyssop that springeth out of the Wall; that is, 'from the highest and tallest Tree to the smallest Shrub and lowest Herb. Thus we see the 'Knowledge and Skill in natural Philosophy to 'be holden in great Estimation in all Ages, insomuch as it hath been reckoned a Study well 'befitting the Dignity of a King, yea, of Solomon, who was the wisest King that ever was, 'and a Type of our Saviour Christ. But to return to the Vegetable.

'Such are said to be Vegetable, as have in 'them a lively Power of growing, budding, 'leafing, blossoming, and fructifying, as Trees, 'Plants, Herbs, Grass, &c. And of these some 'grow on Trunks or solid Bodies, some upon 'flexible Stalks: Some again grow upon a single 'Stem, as commonly all Trees do; some upon 'manifold Stems, as Shrubs, Roses, &c.

'Trees are certain Plants springing from a 'Root with a single Trunk or Stem (for the most 'Part) shooting up in height, and delineated 'with Limbs, Sprigs or Branches. Of these 'Trees some are more proper to hot Countries; 'as the Frankincense-tree to Arabia; the Balsamum, Myrrhe, Mace and Nutmeg-trees, as 'also the Pepper-trees, and such like, which 'chiefly grow in India; the Plane Tree in Egypt 'and Arabia; the Pomegranate in Africa, &c. 'which I purposely pass over, and will only 'give Examples of other Sorts to us better 'known, whether they be Trees fruitful or bar-'ren. In giving Examples whereof I purpose 'not to observe any precise Order, but to mingle

'them pell mell one with another, because I hold 'such curious Sorting them, better fitting a Pro-'fessor of Physick, or some Herbarist, than an 'Armourist; to whom it sufficeth to shew su-'perficially, that these, and their several Parts, 'are born in Coat-Armour, as well simply of 'themselves, as also with Things of different 'Nature; as in the Examples following may 'appear.

'He beareth Or, on a 'Mount in Base, an Oak 'acorned, Proper, by the 'Name of Wood. Almigh-'ty God, at what Time 'by his powerful Word 'he did enable the Earth 'to fructify, and produce 'Herbs and Trees with 'their variable Fruits, said, 'Let the Earth bud forth according to his Kind, 'the Bud of Herb that seedeth Seed; the fruitful 'Tree which beareth Fruit according to his Kind, 'which hath Seed in itself upon the Earth; and it 'was so. Whereby (saith Zanchius) we are ad-'monished, that they should be preserved and 'nourished in the Earth unto the Time of Seed 'for our necessary Use; for that they profit lit-'tle, until they be come unto their full Ripe-'ness. The Oak is of the strongest Sort of 'Trees, and therefore may best challenge the 'first Place.

Vert, an Oak trunk'd Argent, fructed Or, is born by the Name of Morewood, and was granted to John Morewood of ..... in the County of Derby, Esq; late High Sheriff of the said County, Son of Rowland late of Oaks in the Parish of Bradfield in the County of York, by Sir William Dugdale, Garter, and Sir Henry St. George, Norroy, the 28th of June the 30th of King Charles II. 1678.

'He beareth Argent, on 'a Mount in Base, a Pine-'apple Tree, fructed, Pro-'per, by the Name of Pine. 'There is a Difference be-'tween the Production of 'Seed of Trees and of 'Herbs, as well for the 'Propagation, as for the 'Preservation of their seve-'ral Kinds; for the Herbs 'do produce their Seed in 'their Stalks without Fruit; and the Trees do 'produce theirs in their Fruit.

'It is holden of some, That the Pine-tree is 'a Representation of Death; forasmuch as the 'same being once Felled, or cut down by the 'Ground, the Root thereof is said never to sprout 'or spring any more.

'He beareth Or, on a 'Mount in Base, a Pea-'tree fructed, Proper, by 'the Name of Pyrton.

(M) Azure, a Chevron between three Oak-trees Or; by the Name of Mosman.

(M) Walkinshaw of that Ilk; Argent, upon a Mount in Base a Grove of Trees, Proper.

(M) Argent, three Oak-trees Vert; by the Name of Forrest.

'As God for the necessary Sustenance of Man, 'ordained manifold Varieties of Nourishment: 'So likewise many Sorts were created, not only for 'Man's Necessity, but also for his Delight, both 'to Eye and Taste; as too well appeared by 'the first Woman, whose rash Affection in this 'Kind, all her Posterity hath since rued. But 'withal, God teacheth us by these dumb Instru-'cters, that Man should not be fruitless, lest he 'become thereby Fuel only fit for burning.

'These proposed Examples are of whole 'Bearing of Trees: Now of their Parts, viz. 'their Leaves, Fruits, Slips, &c. promiscuously 'as in Example.

'He beareth Gules, the 'Stem or Trunk of a Tree 'eradicated, or mooted up 'by the Roots; as also 'couped in Pale, sprout-'ing out two Branches, Ar-'gent, and is the Coat of 'William Borough, alias 'Stockden, of Borough in 'Leicestershire, Gent. Bran-'ches must needs wither, which have neither 'Shelter from above, nor Nourishment from 'beneath: Being therein like that Roman Em-'bassage, where the one Embassador had a gid-'dy Head, and the other gouty Feet; where-'of one said, That it had neither Head nor 'Feet.

'He beareth Gules, a 'Bend of the Limb of a 'Tree, raguled and trunk-'ed, Argent, by the Name 'of Penruddock. That 'which I spake of before, 'touching the Bend Cre-'nelle, fitted by Art for 'the Scaling of a Wall, 'the same seemeth to be 'here naturally found. At the first approach of 'King William the Conqueror, the green Bough's 'of Trees, born by Soldiers, served for an ex-'cellent Stratagem of Defence; and as helpful

'an Inſtrument of Offence to the Enemy may 'this trunked Tree be, when other Helps are 'wanting to the Beſiegers.

'He beareth Argent, 'three Stocks or Stumps 'of Trees, couped and era- 'dicated, Sable, by the 'Name of Retowre.'

(M) Blackſtock of that Ilk; Argent, three Trunks or Stocks of Trees couped (at Top and Bottom) two and one, Sable.

'If the Top or Boughs be cut off, yet the 'Root ſtanding, there is hope of a new Growth: 'But when the Root is pluck'd up, there re- 'maineth no Hope of reviving. And there- 'fore that was a fearful Warning, Now is the 'Axe put to the Root; which ſhou'd quicken us 'to the Bearing of good Fruits, leſt otherwiſe 'we mean to bear that dreadful Stroke, and the 'Iſſue of that terrible Commination.

'He beareth Argent, 'three ſtarved Branches, 'ſlipped, Sable, by the 'Name of Blackſtock. This 'Example is of different 'Nature from all the For- 'mer, thoſe bearing the 'Signs of their Vegetation 'and Life, but this being 'mortified and deprived of 'the Verdure which ſometimes it had; which 'is the Condition of all mortal Men, whoſe 'moſt flouriſhing Eſtate muſt have a Change, 'their Beauty turned to Baldneſs and withered 'Wrinkles, and they leave all their Riches, or 'their Riches leave them: This is the End of 'the Tree, and Fruits of our worldly Eſtate; 'but the Fruits of Holineſs will never periſh, and 'the righteous Man ſhall be as the Tree planted by 'the Waters of Life.

(M) Irwin of Drum; Argent, three Holin-branches, each conſiſting of as many Leaves, Proper, banded together, Gules.

'He beareth Azure, a 'Chevron, Ermine, be- 'tween three Oaken-ſlips 'acorned, Proper, by the 'Name of Amades.

Argent, a Chevron Ermines between three Oaken branches, Proper, is born by the Name of Baldwin; and was granted to Edward Baldwin of Wilton in the Pariſh of Beckonsfield in the County of Bucks, by Sir Edward Byſhe, Clarencieux, the 19th of November 1662, in the 14th of King Charles II.

Cowper of Gogar; Argent, a Chevron Gules, ſurmounted of another Ermine, between three Laurel-leaves ſlip'd Vert.

'He beareth Or, a Feſs 'Gules, between three 'Olive-branches, Proper, 'by the Name of Roundel, 'and is the Coat-Armour 'of William Roundel of 'Hutton-wanſley in York- 'ſhire, Eſq;

He beareth Sable, on a Chevron Or, three Broom-ſlips, Proper. This Coat was aſſign'd by Patent dated the 16th of November 1670, the 22d of King Charles II, to William and John Broome of Ewiſhington in the County of Hereford, Gent. Sons of John Broome of the ſame Place, deſcended from an ancient Family of that Surname in the County of Stafford, by Sir Edward Walker, Garter; he being chiefly moved thereunto, becauſe the ſaid William was always a loyal Perſon, and aſſiſted his Majeſty King Charles II, with Money when in foreign Parts.

Sable, on a Chevron Argent, three Broom-ſlips, Proper, with Flowers Or, within a Bordure of the Second, a Creſcent for a Difference, Gold. This was the Bearing of Henry Brome of Clifton near Banbury in the County of Oxon, Gent. who dy'd the 9th of May 1667, aged 86, and was buried at the Eaſt End of the South Cloyſter belonging to New-College, under a Monument that himſelf had ſet up, ſix Years before his Death. The Inſcription thereon is printed in Ant. à Wooa's Hiſt. and Antiq. Univ. Oxon. lib. 2. p. 158. col. 1.

He married Elizabeth, the Daughter of William Denton of Black Thorne (who dy'd ſeveral Years before) by whom he had Iſſue Nevil Brome aged Fifty Two, 1667, alſo Frances and Mary.

M. S. of Ant. à Wood's Remarks de Com. Oxon. p. 114.

He

'He beareth Or, three 'Woodbine-leaves pen-'dant, Azure. This Coat-'Armour pertaineth to 'the Family of Gamboa in 'Spain. Sometimes you 'ſhall have theſe Leaves 'born Bend-ways, as in 'this next Eſcutcheon. 'The Woodbine is a lo-'ving and amorous Plant, which embraceth all 'that it grows near unto; but without hurting 'of that which it loveth: And is therein con-'trary to the Ivy, (which is a Type of Luſt 'rather than of Love) for it hurteth that which 'it moſt embraceth. Sometimes you ſhall find 'Leaves of ſundry Sorts of Trees born Ordina-'ry-ways.

'He beareth Argent, 'three Woodbine-leaves 'Bendways, Proper, two 'and one, by the Name 'of Theme. Theſe Leaves 'are all one with thoſe in 'the laſt precedent Eſcu-'tcheon in Shape, but dif-'ferent from them in the 'Manner of their Poſi-'tion, in that thoſe are born with their Points 'downwards, and theſe naturally or upwards. 'Otherwhiles they are born in Form of other 'Ordinaries, as by Example ſhall hereafter be 'made plain.'

"He beareth Argent, "three Bay-leaves, Pro-"per, by the Name of "Foulis. This with the "Arms of Ulſter is the "Coat of Sir David Fou-"lis of Ingleby Mannor in "Cleaveland, in the North-"Riding of Yorkſhire, Ba-"ronet."

"He beareth Azure, "three Laurel-leaves ſlip-"ped, Or. This was the "Paternal Coat-Armour "of Sir Richard Leveſon of "Lilleſhall in the County "of Salop, who was made "Knight of the Bath at "the Coronation of our "Sovereign Lord King "Charles. That the Lau-"rel was in ancient Times thought to be a "Remedy againſt Poiſon, Lightning, &c. and "in War uſed as a Token of Peace and Quiet-"neſs, you may at your Leiſure read in Maſter "Boſſewell his Book of Coats and Creſts.

'He beareth Argent, 'three Holly-leaves pen-'dant, Proper, by the 'Name of Irwine.

(99) Irwin of Bonſhaw; Argent, three Holin-leaves ſlip'd, Vert.

'Note, That when Leaves 'are born after this Manner, viz. Pendant, you 'muſt tell in what Faſhion they are born: But 'if their Points only be upwards, then it ſuffi-'ceth to ſay Leaves; becauſe it is their moſt 'natural and proper Way when they are in full 'Vigour.

I cannot here approve of my Author's Word, Pendant; ſeeing they are not appended to any Thing: But hold them better blazon'd, With their Points downwards, or to the Baſe.

'Now I will ſhew you an Example, where 'three Leaves are born Barr-ways.

'He beareth Argent, 'three Holly-leaves Barr-'ways, two and one, their 'Stalks towards the dex-'ter Part of the Eſcu-'tcheon, Proper, by the 'Name of Arneſt. Theſe 'ſeem to have been, (as 'ſtill they are) much uſed 'in adorning the Temples 'and ſacred Places, eſpecially at the moſt ſo-'lemn Time of our Saviour's Nativity, and 'thence to have taken that holy Name. There 'is a Kind of Holly that is void of theſe Prickles, 'and of gentler Nature, and therefore called 'Free-holly, which, in my Opinion, is the beſt 'Holly: And ſo it was in his, who ſaith, That 'Charity (the Daughter of true Holineſs) is 'gentle and hurteth not, but rather ſuffereth all 'Things: Far unlike to thoſe Hedge-hog 'Holy-Ones, whoſe ſharp Cenſures, and bitter 'Words, pierce thorough all thoſe who con-'verſe with them.

'The Field is Topaz, 'five Fig-leaves in Saltire, 'Emerald. This Coat ap-'pertaineth to the Count 'Feria of Spain. The Fig-'leaves are the ancienteſt 'Wearing that is, being 'the firſt Clothing of our 'firſt tranſgreſſing Pa-'rents. And Irenæus ſaith, 'That they uſed not the Leaves of any other 'Tree, to ſhew the Torture and Anguiſh of 'Repentance, ſignified by the Roughneſs and 'Sharpneſs wherewith this Sort of Leaf is be-'ſet. Our Saviour Chriſt liked not to ſee

' Fig-leaves without Fruit, and therefore cur-
' sed the Tree: And accurſed will their Con' dition be, the Growth of whoſe Faith and
' Religion is in Shew, and not in Subſtance of ' fruitful Works.

Or, a Feſs Gules, between three Oaken-leaves, Proper, was confirm'd by William Flower, Norroy, the 16th of June 1586. the 28th of Eliz. to George Allen of Stanton-woodhouſe, within the Pariſh of Tolgreve, in the County of Derby, Son of George of the ſame County, Gentleman.

' He beareth Or, a Che-
' vron, Gules, between
' three Nettle-leaves, Pro-
' per, by the Name of Mal-
' herbe. The Nettle is of
' ſo tetchy and froward a
' Nature, that no Man
' may meddle with it, as
' many teſty-natured Men
' are. One writes, That
' a little Girl being ſtung by a Nettle in her Fa' ther's Garden, complained to him that there
' was ſuch a curs'd Herb in his Garden, as
' that it was worſe than a Dog, for it would ' bite them of their own Houſe. Her Father
' anſwered her, That it was the Nature of it to ' be unpartial, and Friend or Foe were all alike
' to it. Yet this Property it hath, That the ' Harder you preſs it the Leſs it will ſting.

" He beareth Argent, a

(G) Marſhal of that Ilk; Argent, a Pall Sable, between three Leaves erected, Proper.

" He beareth Sable, three

Argent, two Chevrons Sable, between three Oak-leaves erected, Proper, was confirmed by William Flower, Norroy, October 21, 1577. the 19th of Queen Eliz. to *Tho. ' The Field is Ermine,
' two Barrs Sable, each
' charged with five Elm-
' leaves Or, by the Name
' of Elmes, and is the Coat
' of Thomas Elmes of Lil-
' ford in the County of ' Northampton, Eſq; It is
' ſuppoſed that there is
' great Love, and a natu-
' ral Sympathy betwixt the Elm-tree and the ' Vine, becauſe the Vine never proſpereth bet' ter than when it groweth by the Elm; where-
' as the Elm it ſelf is, of all Trees, the moſt
' barren. So ſhould thoſe who have few
' good Parts in themſelves, yet at leaſt che-
' riſh and ſupport ſuch as Nature and Art
' have enabled to produce better Fruits of their ' Induſtry.

' The Field is Argent, a
' Pomegranate in Pale, ſlip-
' ped, Proper. Theſe Arms
' do pertain to the City
' and Country of Granata,
' within the Dominions of
' the King of Spain, ſitu-
' ated by the Mediterra-
' nean Sea. This Fruit
' is holden to be of pro-
' fitable

'fitable Uſe in Phyſick, for the Qualifying and 'Allaying of the ſcorching Heat of burning 'Agues, for which End the Juice thereof is rec-'koned to have a very ſovereign Vertue.

'He beareth Or, three 'Mulberries, their Stalks 'trunked, Proper. The 'Mulberry-tree is an Hie-'roglyphick of Wiſdom, 'whoſe Property is to 'ſpeak and to do all 'Things in a proper Sea-'ſon: And it is reputed '(as I may ſay) the wiſeſt 'of all Trees, in regard it never ſprouteth nor 'buddeth, until ſuch Time as all Extremity of 'the cold Winter-ſeaſon be clearly paſt and gone

'He beareth Azure, 'three Pears Or, by the 'Name of Stukeley. This 'Fruit, as other, was or-'dained for the Comfort 'of Man: But as the De-'vil made uſe of the Ap-'ple to the Deſtruction of 'Man; ſo did the Devil's 'Imps uſe the Pear to a 'wicked End, when the Monks of Swinſted, in-'viting King John to a Banquet, poiſoned him 'in a Diſh of Pears, though others write it was 'in a Cup of Ale.

Ermine, on a Chief Gules, three Pears Or, is born by the Name of Holden, and was granted to Robert Holden of Hockridge in Cranbrook, in the County of Kent, Gent. by Sir Edward Byſhe, Clarencieux, the 20th of May 1663.

Ermine, on a Pale Gules, three Pears pendant Or. Theſe Arms were born by Robert Abbot of London, Gent. by Patent from Sir Edward Byſhe, Garter, the 9th of Auguſt 1654.

Or, on a Chevron between three Cherries (I believe being red) ſlipp'd, Proper, a Creſcent for a Difference, Gold; was born by John Southby of Abendon in the County of Berks, Gent. his Wife Suſan (who dy'd at her Houſe in St. Giles's Pariſh in Oxon, July 30, 1670. and was buried by the Grave of her Daughter Suſan. in the Church of that Pariſh in the North Iſle, joining to the Body) left (then living) John, Thomas and William, Elizabeth and Mary, Children which ſhe had by him. Her Child Suſan before-mention'd, was buried the 12th of October, 1669.

Note, That the above-named John Southby, afterwards married ..... Daughter of ..... Phetiplace of ..... but had no Iſſue by her; but dy'd at Abendon in Berks, the 2d of November, 1688. Aged about 56, and was buried in St. Nicholas Church.

'He beareth Gules, a 'Chevron, Ermine, be-'tween three Pine-Apples 'erected, Or, by the Name 'of Pyne.'

This was the Coat of John Pyne of Eſtdowne in the County of Devon, Gent. who married Honora Daughter and Heir of Edmond Penfond of the County of Cornwall, ſecond Son of Thomas Penfond, and had Iſſue Philip, Nicholas, George, John, Mary, Julian and Margaret. The ſaid Philip married Dorothy, Daughter of John Dart de Barſtable, and had Iſſue Edward Pyne of Eſtdowne, living in 1620. He married Brigit, Daughter of Nicholas Frye of Tardley deno..... and had Iſſue Nicholas, aged ſeven Years, Anno 1620, Edward and Philip, alſo Eleanora aged five, Anno eodem.

Note, That the ſaid John Pyne of Eſtdowne, was Son and Heir of Nicholas, the Son and Heir of George Pyne, which George was ſecond Son and Heir of Nicholas Pyne of the ſaid Eſtdowne, Eſq; who was eldeſt Son and Heir of John the Son and Heir of Robert Pyne of Hame in the County of Cornwall, Eſq; which Robert was Son and Heir of Oliver Pyne of the ſame Place, Eſq; who married Eleanor Daughter and Heir of Philip le Downe, Son and Heir of Thomas le Downe of Eſtdowne in the County of Devon, Eſq;

'The Pine-tree was in much requeſt in ancient Times, for adorning of Walks about 'Manſion-houſes; according to that of the 'Poet,

'Fraxinus in Sylvis pulcherrima, Pinus in Hortis,
'Populus in Fluviis, Abies in Montibus altis:

'The Aſh in Woods makes faireſt Shew,
'The Pine in Orchards nigh,

"This Coat appertained "to Sir Edmund de Ma- "roley of the County of "York, Knight, who lived "in the Time of Edward "the Firſt. How profi "table the moderate Uſe "of the Juice of the Grape may be to Man, is "as manifeſt, as the Inconvenience that doth "attend too much bibbing of the ſame is odi- "ous."

'He beareth Azure, a 'Barr Argent, three Ap- 'ples erected in Baſe, Or, 'by the Name of Harle- 'win. An Apple is cal- 'led in Latin, Pomum, 'which is a general Word 'for all Sorts of eatable 'Fruits; inſomuch as Plin. 'lib. 15. cap. 22. compre- 'hendeth Nuts alſo under this Name, albeit the 'ſame is moſt commonly taken for this Sort of 'Fruit. If we deſire to have Apples to conti- 'nue longer upon the Trees than their accu- 'ſtomed Seaſon of ripening, we may effect the 'ſame by wreathing of the Boughs and platting 'them together one in another, as Farneſius 'noteth, ſaying, Præter naturæ tempus ex arbore 'pendebunt Poma, ſi ramuſculos contorqueri juſſe- 'rimus: whereof he yieldeth this Reaſon, That 'by Means of ſuch wreathing and platting the 'Humour is more ſlowly concocted or digeſted, 'ſo that they cannot ripen with that Maturity, 'as thoſe which are not hindred of their natu- 'ral Paſſage and Action. Hereby we may learn, 'that Art worketh forcibly in Things meerly 'vegetable; how much more effectual and pow- 'erful is Education (which is reckoned a ſe- 'cond Nature) in forming and reforming the 'Conditions and Inclinations of Men?

Or, on a Chevron Gules, five Acorns of the Field, is born by the Name of Palmer, and was granted or confirmed to John Palmer, M. A. at the Date hereof Arch-deacon of Northampton, alias of Stepney in the County of Middleſex, and Nathaniel Palmer of the Town of Kingſton upon Hull (Sons of Joſeph Palmer of Cropedy in the County of Northampton, Gent.) by Sir Edward Walker, Garter, May the 3d, 1670, the 22d of King Charles II.

'HItherto of Plants growing upon a ſimple 'Body or Stem, with their common 'Parts. Now of ſuch as grow upon a manifold 'Stalk or tender Sprigs, as Flowers, Herbs, and 'ſuch like.

'He beareth Ermine, a 'Roſe, Gules, barbed and 'ſeeded, Proper, by the 'Name of Beverley. A-'mong Flowers in ancient 'Time the Roſe was hol-'den in chiefeſt Eſtima-'tion, as appeareth in 'Scholiis Epiſt. St. Hieron. '*de vit. Here I do blazon this Roſe Gules, 'becauſe the Word Proper fitteth not this 'Flower: For if I ſhould blazon it a Roſe Pro-'per, it could not be underſtood of what Co-'lour the ſame were; foraſmuch as White and 'Crimſon are as proper to Roſes as Red: There-'fore, for the more Certainty, I have blazoned 'it Gules.

"He beareth Sable, three "Roſes Argent, by the "Name of Maurice, and "is the Coat-Armour of "David Maurice, Prebend "of Myvod, and Vicar "of Llanhaſſaph in Flint-"ſhire."

'He beareth Argent, on 'a Canton Gules, a Roſe 'Or, barbed, Proper, by 'the Name of Bradſton of 'Winterborne in the Coun-'ty of Glouceſter.

(S) Hopper of that Ilk; Azure, in Chief two Roſes Argent, and in Baſe a Creſcent Or.

"Gules, on a Saltire "Argent, a Roſe of the "Firſt, was the Coat-Ar-"mour of Colonel Ri-"chard Nevil of Billing-"bear in Berks, Eſq; deſ-"cended from the ancient "and honourable Fami-"ly of the Nevils, Earls "of Weſtmoreland; and "many of them Knights of the Garter."

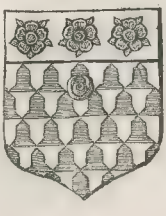

'This beautiful and fragrant Flower doth 'lively repreſent unto us the momentary and 'fickle State of Man's Life; the Frailty and 'Inconſtancy whereof is ſuch, as that we are 'no ſooner born into the World, but preſent-'ly we begin to leave it: And as the delecta-'ble Beauty and redolent Smell of this pleaſant 'Flower doth ſuddenly fade and periſh; even 'ſo Man's Life, his Beauty, his Strength, and 'worldly Eſtate, are ſo weak, ſo mutable, and 'ſo momentary, as that oftentimes in the ſame 'Day wherein he flouriſheth in his chiefeſt Jol-'lity, his Beauty conſumeth, his Body decay-'eth and his vital Breath departeth; and thus 'he leaveth his Life as if he had never been. 'Of this ſudden fading of the Roſe, a certain 'Poet writeth in this manner;

'Mirabar celerem fugitiva ætate rapinam,
'Et, dum naſcuntur, conſenuiſſe Roſas.
'Quam longa una dies, ætas tam longa Roſarum,
'Quas pubeſcentes juncta ſenecta premit.

CHAP. IX.

'THUS much of Vegetables, growing 'either on a ſingle or manifold Stem or 'Body. Now of ſuch as grow upon a bend- 'ing Stalk; ſuch are Herbs of all Sorts: And of 'theſe ſome are Nutritive, others leſs Nutri- 'tive. The firſt Sort are in ordinary Uſe of 'Diet; ſuch are both thoſe which produce 'Grain, and thoſe which ſerve for Seaſoning of 'the Pot, Salads, and the like. Such as do pro- 'duce Grain are theſe, and their like; Wheat, 'Rie, Beans, Peaſe, Barley, Spelt, Oats, &c. 'Of theſe ſuch are moſt uſual in Coat-Armour, 'as are accuſtomed to be bound up in Sheaves; 'as Wheat, Rie, Cumin, &c.

Azure, two Wheat-Ears (as it were addorſed) in Pale, couped and bladed Or, is the Coat of ..... Bigland, of which Family was ..... Bigland, Serjeant at Law.

Gray's Inn Hall, North Window.

'He beareth Azure, if- 'ſuant out of a Mount in 'Baſe, three Wheat-ſtalks 'bladed and eared, all 'Proper. This is a Vene- 'tian Coat-Armour, and 'pertaineth to the Fami- 'ly of Garzoni. And here 'we ſee a Mount born, 'which we before-men- 'tioned, as a Bearing of the Nature of One of 'the Four Elements.

'As before we honoured the Milſtone with 'the Name of the Chief of Precious Stones: 'So may we juſtly give Precedence to this Planet 'above all other in the World, no one Kind 'of Food being ſo neceſſary for preſervation of 'Man's Life as this; which therefore the Scrip- 'ture calls the Staff of Bread, becauſe it upholds 'the very Being of Mankind. For which Cauſe, 'as the Heathens accounted Ceres, and others, 'as Gods, for inventing Means to increaſe Corn; 'ſo are thoſe to be held Enemies to Mankind, 'whoſoever, through Covetouſneſs, overthrow 'Tillage, as by Incloſures, and Depopulations 'of Villages, &c. And how ineſtimable a Bleſ- 'ſing Corn is, may by this be conceived, that 'Country can be ſaid to have a Famine ſo 'long as it hath Corn, though all other Things

'be ſcarce: But if all other Things abound, 'and Corn be wanting, that one Want bringeth 'both the Name and the heavy Puniſhment of 'a Famine.

'Among the manifold Bleſſings promiſed by 'God to the Obſervers of his Laws, plenty of 'Corn is reckoned one of the chiefeſt, Lev. 26. '3. If ye walk in my Statutes, and keep my Com- 'mandments, and do them; then will I give you 'Rain in due Seaſon, and the Land ſhall yield her 'Increaſe, and the Trees of the Field ſhall yield their 'Fruit, and your Threſhing ſhall reach unto the 'Vintage, and the Vintage ſhall reach unto the ſow- 'ing Time; and you ſhall eat your Bread to the Full, 'and dwell in your Land ſafely. And again, Deut. '8. 7. For the Lord thy God bringeth thee into a 'good Land; a Land of Brooks of Water, of Foun- 'tains and Depths that ſpring out of Valleys and 'Hills; a Land of Wheat and Barley, and Vines and 'Fig-trees, and Pomegranates; a Land of Oyl-olive 'and Honey; a Land wherein thou ſhalt eat Bread 'without Scarceneſs, thou ſhalt not lack any Thing 'in it; a Land whoſe Stones are Iron, and out of 'whoſe Hills thou mayeſt dig Braſs.'

'He beareth Azure, 'three Ears of Guinea 'Wheat, couped and bla- 'ded, Or, by the Name 'of Grandgorge.'

This Coat is now carried by the Reverend Doctor John Grandorge, Prebend of Canterbury, and Chaplain to the Right Hon. the Earl of Thanet. Morgan, in his Sphere of Gentry, gives the Name Grandgeorge.

'This is a Kind of Grain not much inferior to 'our Wheat for Uſe; but for multiplication, 'beauty, and largeneſs, much beyond it: And 'of this, moſt undoubtedly true is the Saying 'of our Saviour, That one Grain bringeth forth 'fifty, yea, an hundred fold: And ſuch ſhould be 'the Increaſe of God's Graces in us, which are 'not put into us there to die utterly, but to 'increaſe to our own Good, and the Giver's 'Glory. St. Paul makes an excellent Argu- 'ment here to ſatisfy a very natural Man, 'touching the Reſurrection of the Dead, which 'is no more unpoſſible, than for dead Corn to 'ſprout out of the Earth much more flouriſh- 'ing, yea, and more abundant than it was 'caſt in.

'He beareth Gules, on 'a Bend, Argent, three 'Rie-ſtalks, Sable, by the 'Name of Rye, or Reye.

(M) Argent, a Chevron Gules, between three Green-Ears of Rye ſlip'd and bladed, Proper.

'Were it that theſe Stalks had been born in 'their proper Kind, it would have beautified 'the Coat greatly, and made the ſame much 'more commendable for Bearing, by how much 'ſweet and kindly ripened Corn is more valua- 'ble and to be deſired, than that which is bla- 'ſted and mildew'd; that being a ſpecial Bleſ- 'ſing of God, and this the expreſs and manifeſt 'Token of God's heavy Wrath inflicted upon 'us for our Sins; as appeareth in the Prophet 'Amos 4. 9. I have ſmitten you with Blaſting and 'Mildew, &c. and likewiſe in Haggai the Se- 'cond the ſame Words are uſed.

'The Field is Ermine, 'two Flaunches, Azure, 'each charged with three 'Ears of Wheat, couped, 'Or, by the Name of Gre- 'by of Northamptonſhire. 'It maketh not a little to 'the Commendation of 'this Grain, that it is ta- 'ken in the Scripture for 'the Faithful; where it is ſaid, Whoſe hath his 'Fan in his Hand, and will make clean his Floor, 'and gather his Wheat into his Garner, &c.

'Theſe Sorts of Grain are moſt uſually born 'in Coat-Armour bound up in Sheaves, and 'banded of the ſame Metal or Colour; yet ſhall 'you find their Band ſometimes of a diverſe Me- 'tal or Colour from them.

'The Field is Azure, a 'Garbe, Or. This Coat- 'Armour pertaineth to the 'ancient Family of Gra- 'venor of Cheſhire, whoſe 'Name was anciently 'written Groſvenour, or 'Groſvenor, as it is at this 'Day. They bear this 'Garbe from their Ance- 'ceſtors, who were of Conſanguinity to the 'ancient Earls of Cheſter, as it is proved in the 'Record of that famous Suit betwixt Sir Ri- 'chard Scroope, Plaintiff, and Sir Robert Groſve- 'nor Defendant, for their Arms, in Anno 12. 'Regis Richardi Secundi. For with William the 'Conqueror came Hugh Lupus his Nephew, and 'with the ſaid Hugh Lupus came one Gilbert le 'Groſvenour, Nephew to the ſaid Hugh, who 'was Anceſtor to the ſaid Sir Robert Groſvenour; 'from whom is lineally deſcended Sir Richard 'Groſvenour of Eaton in the County Palatine of 'Cheſter, Knight and Baronet, Heir-male of that 'Family; and is now born by Sir Thomas Groſ- 'venour of Eaton in the ſaid County, Baronet. 'This Coat, without the Arms of Ulſter, is 'born by Walter Groſvenour of Beſbbury in Staf- 'fordſhire, Eſquire. A like unto this is born by 'Holmeſhed, ſaving that the Band of that Garb 'is Vert.

(N) Argent, a Bend cottiſed Sable, betwixt two Garbs Gules, by the Name of Whitford.

(G) Quithford of that Ilk; Argent, a Bend Sable, and in the ſiniſter Angle a Garb Gules.

'There is a Kind of wretched Cormorants, 'whoſe Garbs are ſo faſt bound, that the Poor 'curſeth their mercileſs Hearts. And ſuch an 'one was Hatto Abbot of Fulda, who ſuffered 'Rats rather to eat up his Corn, than he 'would help the Wants of the Poor; but his 'Puniſhment was anſwerable thereunto; for 'the Rats devoured him, though he guarded 'himſelf in a Caſtle purpoſely built in the Midſt 'of the River Rhine, which is there this Day 'to be ſeen.

"He beareth Gules, "three Garbs Or, by the "Name of Preſton. This "Coat was born by Ro- "bert Comyn a Scot, who "at the Time of the Con- "queſt was Earl of Cum- "berland, and held all that "Country beyond all the "River Tyne; but after Wil- "liam Rufus's Time he was "taken Priſoner, with Roger Mowbrey Earl of "Northumberland, and was by King Henry the "Firſt diſinherited."

(M) Cumming, ſometime Earl of Buchan; Azure, three Garbs Or.

"Here you may obſerve that I mention not "the Bands of Garbs, becauſe they differ not in "Metal or Colour from the Garbs. Sometimes "you ſhall find theſe Garbs born with an Ordi- "nary interpoſed between them.

Azure, three Garbs Or, was born by Peter Blake of Andover in Hampſhire, Gent. (ſometime a rich Factor or Merchant in London) whoſe only Son Peter was a Gentleman Commoner of Baliol Colledge in Oxon. He had alſo a Daughter named Elizabeth, who dy'd in a Houſe near and within Smithgate in Oxon, the 15th of February 1686-7, aged Twenty, or thereabouts, and was buried in the Church of St. Peter in the Eaſt.

'The Field is Or, on a 'Feſs Azure, three Garbs 'of the Firſt, by the 'Name of Vernon. This 'is an ancient Family of 'Cheſhire, and deſcended 'of the worthy Stem of 'Vernons that were Barons 'of Shipbrook, and do bear 'theſe Garbs for a Diffe- 'rence from the elder Houſe that did bear 'only a Feſs Azure. And the Reaſon of the 'Bearing of theſe Garbs was, for that they 'would make known that they were deſcend-

'ed

'ed from the said Barons of Shipbrook, who an-
'ciently held of the Earls of Chester.'

Or, on a Fess Azure, three Garbs banded Gold, in Chief two Mullets Gules, was confirm'd by William Flower, Norry, the 8th of June 1583. the 25th of Queen Elizabeth to John Vernon, descended from the ancient Family of that Surname in the County Palatine of Chester.

'Garbs, Ruby. This Coat-
'Armour pertaineth to
'the Right Honourable
'Edmund Earl of Mul-
'grave, Baron Sheffield of
'Butterwick, and Knight
'of the most noble Order
'of the Garter. An Escu-
'tcheon like unto this but of different Colour
'and Metal, viz. (the Field Saphire, a Chevron
'between three Garbs, Topaz) was born by
'Sir Christopher Hatton, late Lord Chancellor of 'England, Counsellor to that Peerless Queen Eli-
'zabeth, of immortal Memory: A Coat well
'befitting his Magnificence and bounteous Hos-
'pitality, wherein he hath scarce had any Rival
'ever since.

'Azure, a Chevron between three Garbs Or,
'is the Coat-Armour of the Hattons, the chief
'Ornament now existing in the Person of the 'Right Honourable Christopher Lord Hatton of
'Kirby, Governor of his Majesty's Island of
'Guernsey.'

Azure, a Fess between three Garbs Or, a Bordure engrail'd of the Second, is born by the Name of Kempe, and was confirmed or granted to Edward Kempe of Dover (Esquire of the Body to King Charles I.) Anno 1641, by Sir William Segar, Garter.

He

He beareth Gules, a Fess Ermine, between three Garbs Or, a Bordure of the Second, by the Name of Kempe, and was granted to William Kempe of South-Malling in the County of Sussex, Gent. by Sir Edward Byshe, Clarencieux, Decemb. 6, 1662. in the 24th Year of King Charles the Second.

Argent, on two Barrs Sable, three Garbs Or, is born by the Name of Knightbridge, and was granted to Anthony Knightbridge of Chelmsford in the County of Essex, and to Richard, John and George, his Brethren, Sons of John Knightbridge of Chelmsford aforesaid, by Sir Edward Byshe, Clarencieux, in May 1663, in the 14th Year of King Charles II.

Her. Off. Grants by Sir Edward Byshe.

'He beareth Azure, a 'Fess dancette, between 'six Garbs Or, by the 'Name of Rayncourt. Leigh 'calleth it a Sheaf of 'Wheat; but though it 'were of Rye, Barley, or 'Cumin, or whatsoever 'it were (saith he) it is 'sufficient to call it a Garb '(which is a French, or rather a Teutonick Word, 'signifying a Sheaf) telling the Colour or Metal 'whereof it is. As to their sole and diverse 'Bearing upon, and with Ordinaries between 'them, these few Examples may suffice for the 'present: Others shall follow in their Places.

'He beareth Ermine, 'on a Bend Azure, a Mul- 'let pierced Or, between 'two Garbs, Proper, by 'the Name of Modyford, 'and is the Paternal Coat- 'Armour of Thomas Modyford of Eastuar in the 'County of Kent, Esq; 'Colonel of a Regiment 'of Foot at Port-Royal in 'the Island of Jamaica, Son and Heir of Sir Thomas Modyford, Baronet, late Governor of the 'said Island.

(M) Smith of Gibliston; Argent, a Saltire Azure, between two Crescents (in Chief and Base) Gules, and as many Garbs (in Fess) of the Second, banded, Or.

Or, on a Bend between six Cross-crosslets Azure, three Garbs of the Field, is born by the Name of Bancroft, and was assigned Novemb. 1604. by William Camden, Clarencieux, to his Grace Richard Bancroft, Archbishop of Canterbury.

'He beareth Argent, 'three Bean-cods Barr- 'ways, two and one, Pro- 'per, by the Name of 'Hardbeane. The Bean in 'ancient Times among 'the Grecians, was of great 'Authority; for by it 'they made all the Ma- 'gistrates of their Com- 'monwealths, which were chosen by casting in 'of Beans, instead of giving of Voices or Suf- 'frages. But Pythagoras taught his Scholars to 'hate the Bean above all other Vegetables, 'meaning, perchance, that they should shun the 'Bearing of any Office; though others give 'other Reasons of that his Doctrine. Some 'write, That the Flowers of the Beans, tho' 'very pleasing to the Smell, yet are very hurt- 'ful to weak Brains; and that therefore in the 'Time of their flow'ring there are more foolish 'than at other Times; meaning, belike, those 'who then distil these Flowers to make them- 'selves fair therewith.

'To this Head must be referred all other Sorts 'of nutritive Herbs born in Coat-Armour, whe- 'ther they produce Grain in Ear, Cod or Husk; 'or that they be Herbs for the Pot, or Salads; 'as Betony, Spinage, Coleworts, Lettice, Pur- 'slane, Leeks, Scallions, &c. all which I leave 'to Observation, because I labour by all Means 'to pass thorough this vast Sea of the infinite 'Varieties of Nature, with what convenient 'Brevity I may, because Quod brevius est, semper 'delectabilius habetur; in such Things as these, 'The Shorter the Sweeter.

CHAP. X.

'NEXT after Herbs Nutritive, let us 'take a Taste of Herbs less Nutritive, 'which are either Coronary or Physical. Co- 'ronary Herbs are such, as in respect of their 'odoriferous Smell, have been of long Time, 'and yet are used for decking and trimming of 'the Body, or adorning of Houses, or other 'pleasurable Use for the Eye or Scent; as also 'in respect of their beautiful Shape and Colour, 'were most commonly bestowed in making of 'Crowns and Garlands; of which Uses they 'received their Name of Coronary. Among

'which we may reckon the Roſe before expreſſed, to be one of the chiefeſt; as alſo Violets of all Sorts, Clove gilliflowers, Sweet Marjoram, Roſemary, White Daffodil, Spikenard, Roſe Campion, Daiſies, &c. But of all other, the Fleur de lis is of moſt Eſteem, having been from the firſt Bearing, the Charge of a Regal Eſcutcheon, originally born by the French Kings; tho' Tract of Time hath made the Bearing of them more vulgar; even as Purple was in ancient Times a Wearing only for Princes, which now hath loſt that Prerogative through Cuſtom.

"He beareth Saphir, a "Fleur de lis, Pearl. This "is the paternal Coat-"Armour of the Right "Honourable George Earl "of Briſtol, Lord Digby "of Sherborne, and Knight "of the moſt Noble Or-"der of the Garter.

"Or, a Fleur de lis Azure, "is born by the Name of "Portman, and with the "Arms of Ulſter, is the "Coat-Armour of Sir Wil-"liam Portman of Or-"chard in Somerſetſhire, "Knight of the Bath, and "Baronet.

M. S. of Grant's in Aſhm. No. 844.

" He beareth Argent, on " a Croſs, Sable, five Fleurs " de lis of the Firſt. This " Coat-Armour, in the " Time of King Henry " the Fourth, appertain- " ed unto Robert le Neve " of Tivetiſhall in the " County of Norfolk (as " appeareth by Seals of " old Deeds and ancient Rolls of Arms) from " whom are deſcended thoſe of that Surname " now remaining at Aſlactun, Witchingham, " and other Places in the ſaid County."

This Coat was confirmed by Sir William Segar, Garter, the 5th of May 1627, in the third Year of King Charles I. to William le Neve, Eſq; York Herald (afterwards Knight, and Clarencieux King of Arms) which William deſcended from the ancient Family of le Neve, who, in the Reigns of King Edward III. and former Kings, were Owners of a Seigniory nam'd le Neves, which from late Poſſeſſors hath indeed been ſince called Spencers, Goodwins and Griſes. 'Tis ſcituate in Tivetſhall in the County of Norfolk; but they had other Lands in Suffolk. Of this Family is Peter le Neve, Eſq; at preſent Norroy King of Arms.

" If this Croſs were ſeminated all over with " Fleurs de lis, ſhewing upon the Sides or " Edges thereof but the Halves of ſome of " them, then it ſhould be blazoned Semy de " Fleurs de lis: And the like is to be obſerved " when they be ſo born on any other Ordinary " or Charge."

Argent,

Argent, on a Croſs Gules, five Fleurs de lis of the Field, is born by the Name of Ivat, and was confirm'd to Thomas Ivat of London, Eſq; Searcher of the Port of the City of London, Son of William Ivat, who married the Daughter of William Littleton alias Lodge, ſometime of Creſwell in the County of Salop, Eſq; and Niece to Sir Tho. Middleton, who, Anno 1583, was Lord Mayor of the City of London, by Sir William Segar, Garter the 27th, 1626, in the ſecond Year of King Charles I.

" He beareth Argent, " on a Saltire, Sable, five " Fleurs de lis, Or. This " Coat-Armour pertained " to Sir Thomas Hawkins " of Naſh in Kent, Kt."

" I have inſerted this Eſcutcheon, not only " to ſhew you that this Flower is born upon " this Kind of Ordinary, but alſo to give de- " monſtration that the Saltire charged contain- " eth the third Part of the Field, according to " the Rule formerly given."

' He beareth Sable, a ' Bend, Argent, between ' ſix Fleurs de lis, Or, by ' the Name of Redmere. ' This Coat-Armour have ' I added in regard of the ' Variety of Bearing here- ' of, from thoſe before- ' handled, inaſmuch as in ' this one Eſcutcheon is ' comprehended the full Number contained in ' both the former; as alſo to make known in ' what Manner theſe, or other Charges of like ' Bearing muſt be placed, the ſame being born ' entire: But if they were ſtrewed, or (as I ' may better term it) ſeminated all over the ' Field, then were it not a Bend between, but ' upon, or over them: Foraſmuch as in ſuch ' Bearing only the Halves of many of them, or ' ſome greater or leſſer Portion of them would ' appear as well under the Bend, as in the Li- ' mits or Edges of the Eſcutcheon.

Or, on a Feſs between four Fleurs de lis, Gules, two other Gold, was the Coat of Roger Davell of Cokold or Cokwold, who married Anne, Daughter of John Colver of Bauke, by whom (ſaith Glover) he hath Iſſue Francis, Son and Heir, Richard, ſecond Son, and Thomaſin a Daughter, alſo Katherine a Daughter. He was (of Seven) the eldeſt Son and Heir of Robert and of Katharine his Wife, one of the Daughters of Sir Robert Laſſels of Brekenbrughe; which Robert (of two) was the Eldeſt, Son and Heir to John Davell, and his firſt Wife ..... one of the Daughters of Leonard Conyers of Byland; which John was (of four Sons) the Eldeſt, and Heir to George Davell, by his ſecond Wife Margaret, Daughter of one Tho. Foyſter; which George was Son and Heir of George Davell of Cokold or Cokwold ..... and of Margaret his Wife, Daughter and Co-heir of Sir John Covell.

Pedigrees per Glover, p. 4, 5. Arm. in the Alph. M. S in Aſhm. Num. 834.

'Twas the Coat alſo (with a Creſcent in Chief for a Difference) of William Davell, who married to his firſt Wife, Anne, Daughter of Robert Bovell of Newbrough, and by her (ſaith Glover) hath Iſſue Henry, Son and Heir; alſo Margaret, married to John Warner of London; Anne, married to John Maſon of London; and Joan. To his ſecond Wife he married Jane, Daughter of James Foxe of Thorp, Gent. and by her (ſaith the ſaid Glover) hath Iſſue Chriſtopher, ſecond Son, and Thomas third Son; alſo three Daughters, Dorothy, Elizabeth and Jane.

Note, That the ſaid William Davell (of three Sons, the two Youngeſt of whom dy'd Iſſueleſs) was eldeſt Son and Heir of George Davell of Cokold or Cokwold, ſecond Son of the ſecond George Davell of Cokwold abovemention'd, which George (ſecond Son) married Jane, one of the Daughters and Co-heirs of William Laurence of Myton, Gent.

" He beareth Argent, a " Feſs Nebule, Gules, be- " tween ſix Fleurs de lis, " Sable, by the Name of " Dobſon, and is the Coat- " Armour of Edward Dob- " ſon of Leverpool in Lan- " caſhire, Eſq; Argent, on a Chevron within a Bordure engrailed, Azure, between three Trefoils ſlipped, Sable, as many Creſcents, Or, was the Coat (ſaith Glover) of Tho. Williamſon of Clowghton in the County of York, as more plainly appears in a Patent of the Gift of William Harvie alias Norroy King of Arms, bearing Date the 4th and 5th Years of the Reign of King Philip and Queen Mary.

Collect. per Glover in Aſhm. M. S. Num. 834.

Argent, on a Chevron engrailed between three Trefoils ſlipped, Azure, as many Creſcents, Or. This was the Coat of John Williamſonn of New-hall in the County of Cumberland, who married two Wives; the Second was the Daughter of John Thwaytes of Varidge alias Varigg in the County of Cumberland, by whom he had no Iſſue: The Firſt was Alice, Daughter of John Salkeld of Pardſey alias Pradſey in the County of Cumberland, by whom he had Tho. Williamſonn of Denford in the County of Northampton, who married Bridget, Daughter and Heir of Nicholas Williamſonn of Mereſasby in the County of Northampton, living Anno 1613; Anthony ſecond Son, and Nicholas third Son.

The above-named John Williamſonn of Newhall was eldeſt Son and Heir of John Williamſonn of Wilbech in the County of Cumberland.

Thoſe two Sons, Anthony and Nicholas abovementioned, appear in another Place (ſaith Wood) to be the Sons of the ſaid John by his ſecond Wife, and (continues he) perhaps from one of them was deſcended Sir Joſ. Williamſon, Secretary of State, who bare the ſame Coat without the Creſcents; the Reaſon of which Alteration you have ſeen.

He beareth Or, a Croſs Ragulé between 4 Trefoils ſlipped, Vert, by the Name of Clarke. This Coat was aſſigned by Patent dated October 10, 1671, in the 23d Year of King Charles the Second, to Robert Clarke the Elder, of St. Ives, in the County of Huntington, Gent.

The Genealogy of whoſe Family (ſo far as I find) runs thus. Robert Clarke of Somerſham in the County of Huntington, who dy'd about 1641, ætat. circa 65, married and had Iſſue Robert Clarke of the ſame Place, afterwards of St. Ives in the ſame County, who dy'd about the Year 1673, ætat. 67, having firſt married Elizabeth, Daughter of ..... and Relict of Stephen Cope of Pidley in the County of Huntington, and by her had Iſſue three Sons and one Daughter Mary, who was married to John Jegon of Sibell Hedingham in the County of Eſſex, Clerk. The Sons were Robert, Richard and Edmund.

Robert Clarke of St. Ives, eldeſt Son and Heir of Robert and Elizabeth his Wife, was an Attorney at Law, and Clerk of the Peace for the ſaid County of Huntington, from the Time of the Reſtoration of King Charles II. to the Time of the Viſitation Anno 1684. at which Time he was 44 Years old. He married Frances, Daughter of George Benſon of Towceſter in the County of Northampton, Gent. by whom he had Iſſue Robert Clarke of St. Ives in the County of Huntington, Attorny at Law, aged 22, Anno 1684. [who married Mary, Daughter of John Newman of Swaveſey in the County of Cambridge, Gent.] and alſo two Daughters, Mary, Wife of John Crane of Foreſt in the County of Huntington, Gent. and Frances living unmarried, 1684.

Richard Clarke, ſecond Son of Robert and Elizabeth, was of Topifeild in the County of Eſſex, and aged 42 Anno 1684. He married and had Iſſue Edmund, aged almoſt 18 Years at the ſaid Time, and Aldred; alſo Frances, Mary, and another Daughter.

Edmund Clarke, third Son of Robert and Elizabeth, was Citizen of London, aged 36, Anno 1684.

1684. He married and had Iſſue Mary, his only Child.

"He beareth Azure, "three Quaterfoils, Ar-"gent, by the Name of "Vincent, and with the "Arms of Ulſter, is the "Paternal Coat-Armour "of Sir Francis Vincent of "Stoke-Dabernon in Surry, "Baronet.

"He beareth Argent, "on a Chevron, Sable, "three Quaterfoils, Or, "by the Name of Eyre, "and is born by the Fa-"mily of the Eyres of "Dorſetſhire, and of New-"Sarum in Wiltſhire, from "whom is deſcended Mr. "Nicholas Eyre of the Ci-"ty of London.

Argent, a Chevron betwixt three Quaterfoils, Sable, by the Name of Winford of Worceſterſhire.

Azure, a Chevron between three Quaterfoils on their Stalks, Argent, with a Creſcent for a Difference, was allowed by William Segar and Nicholas Charles, Lancaſter Herald, to ..... Vincent, deſcended from Vincent Lovell, whoſe Son called himſelf Vincent.

This Vincent Lovell (by an old traditional Story in the Family) was a near Kinſman to Francis, Viſcount Lovell, who was ſlain with the Earl of Lincoln at Stokefeild the 16th of June 1487, which Vincent, being there with his Kinſman (the Viſcount,) eſcaped the Battle, and took ſanctuary at Monk and Hopton in the Abby of Wenlock, and by favour of the Abbot lived ſafely there and married, calling himſelf Vincent, thereby the better to ſecure himſelf from the Danger of the Times. He afterwards built an Houſe in the Town, and left it with the ſaid Sirname of Vincent, to his Poſterity.

Her. Off. Lond. C. 24.

Argent, a Chevron between three Quaterfoils voided, Sable, by the Name of Wandford of Yorkſhire. Some write it three Quaterfoils charged with three more of the Field.

Gules, a Cinquefoil, Ermine, was the Coat belonging to the ancient Earls of Leiceſter.

Azure, a Cinquefoil, Or, by the Name of Beſington.

Azure, a Cinquefoil, Ermine. This is the Coat pertaining to the ancient Family of Aſhley (ſometime written Aſtley) in Leiceſterſhire, and deviſed or borrowed (as Cambden expreſſes it) from the Earl's Coat above ſhewed.

Or, a Cinquefoil, Sable, by the Name of Braileford.

Sable, a Cinquefoil, Ermine, by the Name of Flazin.

Argent, a Cinquefoil, Azure, by the Name of Moton.

(M) Hamilton, Duke of Hamilton; Gules, three Cinquefoils, Ermine, quarter'd with the Coat of Arran.

Argent, three Cinquefoils, Sable, pertained to Edward Sebright of Blackshall, in the County of Warwick; who married Joyce, Daughter of William Groſvenor of Bubington in the County of Stafford, Eſq; and had Iſſue William Sebright of Blackshall and of London, Eſq; and Lord of the Manor of Besford, who married Elizabeth, Daughter of James Morley of London, Gent. Alſo John Sebright

Sebright of Blackſhall, ſecond Son, who by his Wife Anne, Daughter of Richard Bullingham, Eſq; had Iſſue William Sebright of Blackſhall (who married Elizabeth, Daughter of James Morley of Biſhops-Storford, but dy'd without Iſſue) and Edward Sebright of Blackſhall, ſecond Son, beſides ſeveral Daughters.

Note, That Edward Sebright of Blackſhall, who married Groſvenor's Daughter as aforeſaid, was Son and Heir of Humfrey Sebright, the Son and Heir of John Sebright of the ſame Place, Gent. living in the 6th Year of Hen. 7. which John deſcended from Mabel Sebright of Blackſhall aforeſaid, which Eſtate the ſaid Mabel held in Right of his Wife Katherine, Daughter and ſole Heir of Raffe Couper of Blackſhall.

Note, That the ſaid Mabell was ſecond Son of Peter Sebright of Sebright's Hall, in Much-baddow in the County of Eſſex, the Son and Heir of Walter, who was Son and Heir of Stephen, who was Son and Heir of William Sebright of Sebright's Hall aforeſaid, who lived in the Time of King Henry 2.

Vid. Viſit. de Com. Eſſex, Ann. 1614. fol. 20.

(M) Azure, three Frazes, Argent. Theſe (ſaith Sir George Mackenzy) are Strawberry-leaves, but the Painters have, of long Time, done them like to Cinquefoils, making no Difference, which certainly is an Error. But notwithſtanding this his Obſervation, Mr. Nisbet, an ingenious Scots Author, who writ ſince him, in his Eſſay upon additional Figures, ſcruples not to call them Cinquefoils in many Places thereof. They are the Paternal Bearing of the Lords Salton, Lovat, and Frazer; and are quartered in the Atchievements of the Marqueſs of Huntley, Earls of Wigtoun and Tweddal, and Lord Pitſligo. The Frazers have been particularly zealous (as I remember from the Papers) in aſſerting the Title of his preſent Majeſty King George, and in quelling the Rebellion againſt him in Scotland.

He beareth Argent, three Cinquefoils, Gules, by the Name of Darcey. This, with the Arms of Ulſter, is the Paternal Coat-Armour of Sir Tho. Darcey of St. Clere-hall in St. Oſeth in the County of Eſſex, Baronet.

Argent, three Cinquefoils, Sable, a Chief, Azure, is born by the Name of Stone, and was granted to William Stone of the City of London, by Robert Cooke, Anno 1583. This ſame Coat was again confirmed to ..... Stone of London, Anno 1614. by William Segar.

He beareth Argent, on three Bars, Sable, ſix Cinquefoils 3, 2, 1, Silver, in Chief a Creſcent on a Mullet for a Difference, by the Name of Darrell. This Coat was born by Tho. Darrell, M. A. and Fellow of All Souls Colledge in Oxford, who dy'd in the Houſe of Tho. Jackſon an Apothecary, the 20th of February 1654-5, and was buried in that Colledge-Chappel. He was Brother to Paul Darrell (now living, ſaith A. Wood, in St. Giles's Pariſh in Oxon) and to Dr. Walter Darrell, ſometime of Chriſt-Church, now Archdeacon and Prebend of Winchelſea; alſo to Mary Wife of John Morris, D. D. Azure, an Ineſcutcheon encompaſs'd by 8 Cinquefoils in Orle, Or, is born by the Name of Paltock, and was confirmed to Edward Paltock of Kingſton upon Thames in the County of Surry, Gent. and to his Deſcendants and the Deſcendants of Robert Paltock his Father, of the ſaid Place, Gent. by William Segar, Garter, the 14th of Feb. and 9th Year of the Reign of King James I.

Argent, an Ineſcutcheon, Sable, encompaſſed by eight Cinquefoils in Orle, Gules, was the Coat belonging to the Family of Hedworth of Hewerton.

Glover Alph. of the North in in Aſhm. Num. 834.

'He beareth Gules, a
'Chevron between ten
'Cinquefoils, four, two,
'one, two, and one. Ar-
'gent. This Coat-Armour
'pertaineth to the wor-
'ſhipful Family of Bark-
'ley of Wymundham, which
'deſcended out of the 'right Noble Progeny of
'the Lord Barkley. This Coat is of an uſual
'Kind of Blazon, and therefore I held it the 'fitter

'fitter to be here inserted, as a Pattern for all 'such Coat-Armours, whose Charges are mar-'shalled in this Order. The Cinquefoil is an 'Herb wholsome for many good Uses, and is 'of ancient Bearing in Escutcheons. The Num-'ber of the Leaves answer to the five Senses in 'a Man; and he that can conquer his Affe-'ctions, and master his Senses, (which sensual 'and vicious Men are wholly addicted unto) 'he may worthily, and with Honour, bear the 'Cinquefoil, as the Sign of his five-fold Victory 'over a stronger Enemy than that three-headed 'Monster Cerberus.

'He beareth Argent, 'three Gilliflowers slip-'ped, Proper, by the Name 'of Forney. These Kinds 'of Flowers, for Beauty, 'Variety of Colour, and 'pleasant Redolency, may 'be compared with the 'choicest Attires of the 'Garden: Yet because 'such Daintiness and af-'fected Adornings better befit Ladies and 'Gentlewomen, than Knights and Men of Va-'lour, whose Worth must be tried in the Field, 'not under a Rose-bed, or in a Garden-plot; 'therefore the ancient Generous made choice 'rather of such Herbs as grew in the Fields, as 'the Cinquefoil, Trefoil, &c.

'He beareth Argent, 'a Chevron, Sable, be-'tween three Columbines 'slipped, Proper, by the 'Name of Hall, of Co-'ventry. The Columbine 'is pleasing to the Eye, as 'well in respect of the 'seemly (and not vulgar) 'Shape, as in regard of 'the azury Colour there-'of; and is holden to be very medicinable for 'the Dissolving of Impostumations or Swellings 'in the Throat.

'He beareth Argent, a 'Chevron, Gules, between 'three Blue-bottles slip-'ped, Proper, by the Name 'of Chorley, an ancient 'Family in the County 'Palatine of Lancaster. 'These few Examples may 'suffice to shew that all 'others of like Kind '(which I for brevity sake voluntarily pass over) 'are to be reduced unto this Head of coro-'nary Herbs; from which we will now pro-'ceed to the Physical, whose chief and more 'frequent Use consisteth in asswaging or curing 'of Maladies and Diseases. And of these some 'are Aromatical, which, for the most Part, in 'respect of their familiar and pleasing Nature, 'do serve for the corroborating and comforting 'of the inward Parts of Man's Body, and for 'that Purpose are oft used in Meats; of which 'Sort are Saffron, Ginger, and such like: Others 'are merely Medicinal, and such as a Man '(were it not for Necessity) would wish rather 'to wear in his Escutcheon, than in his Belly. 'Examples of which Kinds I will willingly pass 'over, only as it were pointing out with the 'Finger unto what Head they must be reduced, 'if any such be born in Arms. Of the Plants, 'Trees, Fruits, and Herbs beforementioned, some 'are Foreign and some Domestical; some grow in 'Mountains, some in marish and fenny Grounds, 'some by the Rivers, some by the Sea coast. 'Concerning their Causes, Natures and Effects, 'Philosophers, Physicians and Herbalists do se-'riously dispute; and doubtless they are the ad-'mirable Work of the most Omnipotent God, 'who has sent as many Kinds of Medicines as of 'Maladies; that as by the One we may see our 'own Wretchedness, so by the Other we might 'magnify his Goodness towards Man, on whom 'he hath bestowed Fruit for Meat, and Leaves for 'Medicine.

(M) Argent, on a Fess, Azure, three Primroses of the Field, by the Name of Primrose.

CHAP. XI.

'HAving hitherto handled that Part of our 'Distribution which comprehendeth 'Things Vegetable, proceed we now to the 'Other concerning Things Sensitive, which are 'all Sorts of Animals or Creatures indued with 'Senses. The Senses, as likewise the sensitive 'Soul, are Things in themselves not visible, 'and therefore estranged from the Herald's 'Uses: But because they reside in Bodies of 'differing Parts and Qualities from any other 'beforementioned; therefore, in handling of 'these sensitive Creatures, I hold it requisite to 'begin with their Parts (for of them the Whole 'is raised;) and these are either the Parts con-'tained, or containing, or sustaining.

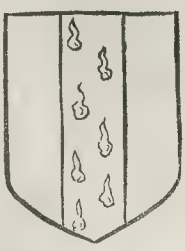

'The Parts contained are Humours and Spi-
'rits, whereof only the First is used in Coat-
'Armours, wherein are represented sometimes
'Drops of Blood, and sometimes Tears, which
'both are naturally Humours contained, though
'in Armoury they are supposed no longer to be 'contained, but shed forth. The Bearing of 'this Humour, Blood, is understood to be ever-
'more born Drop-meale (as I may so term it)
'or by Drops. Which Manner of Bearing is
'in Blazon termed Gutte, of the Latin Word
'Gutta, which signifieth a Drop of any Thing
'that is either by Nature liquid, or liquefied by
'Art. These Drops do receive a different Man-
'ner of Blazon, according unto their different
'Colour, or Diversity of the Substance where-
'of they do consist.

'He beareth Argent,
'Gutté de Sang, by the 'Name of Lemming.'

I cannot conceive but this Coat would be far better blazon'd; Argent, 15 Drops of Blood, 5, 4, 3, 2, 1, Proper; because, was the Field gutté or semmée, that is, full of Drops, it should be irregularly strew'd, and not in this Form: But herein my Author, I suppose, follows Gerard Leigh, who confined himself to his whimsical Number 9, in every Thing, giving it as a Rule; when these Billets, or the like, are born to above that Number, the Number need not be mentioned; tho' where he learn'd that I know not. I am sure if Blazoning is Describing, 'tis here wanted, because no Draughtsman could be able to know thereby the Form in which these Drops are placed; neither is the base Part of the Escutcheon full, as his Blazon imports.

'These Drops are seldom born of themselves
'alone, but rather upon or with some other
'Kind of Charge, either ordinary or extraor'dinary, or else dividedly, by means of the In-
'terposition of some of the Lines of Partition
'hereafter to be handled. These are termed
'Guttæ de Sang; Quia ex guttis sanguinis con-
'stant; because they signifie Drops of Blood,
'wherein the Life consisteth. And if the Blood
'of those, who boast of their generous Blood,
'should once drop forth of their Veins, no
'Difference would appear betwixt it and the 'meanest Man's Blood; unless perhaps it be in
'this, that usually it is more corrupt and vi-
'tiated; whereas in the poorer Sort it is more
'healthful and pure. Which should teach such 'great Ones not to prize their Blood at too high
'a Rate, but rather to excel others in Vertues,
'since they cannot surpass in that Humour, which
'is alike in all: And if they look in the first Ori-
'ginals of both Sorts, they shall find, that Adam
'was the first Ancestor of the Poor, as well as 'of the Mighty; and so the One of them as an-
'ciently descended as the Other.

"He beareth Azure,
"a Pale, Or, Gutté de
"Sang, by the Name
"of Player, and is the "Coat-Armour of Sir
"Tho. Player of Hack-
"ney in Middlesex, Kt.
"Chamberlain of the "Honourable City of "London, succeeding his "Father Sir Thomas in
"the said Office.

'He beareth Argent,
'Gutté de Poix, a Chief
'Nebule, Gules, by the 'Name of Roydenhall. This 'Word Poix is a French
'Word, and is the same
'that we call Pitch in En-
'glish. Yet among our
'English Blazoners these
'Colours and Drops are
'termed Gutté de Sable. This Coat serveth aptly to give warrantize of the Bearing of Chiefs,
'consisting of some of the bunched Lines be-
'forementioned in the first Section. There are
'Ordinaries framed of sundry other former Sorts
'of Lines, before expressed in the first Section,
'which I leave to the strict Observation of the
'curious Searchers of those Things.

'He beareth Sable, a
'Turnip, Proper, a Chief,
'Or, Gutté de Larmes.
'This is a wholsome Root,
'and yieldeth great Relief
'to the Poor, and pros-
'pereth best in a hot san-
'dy Ground, and may sig-
'nify a Person of good
'Disposition, whose ver-
'tuous Demeanour flou-
'risheth most prosperously even in that Soil,
'where the scorching Heat of Envy most a-
'boundeth. This differeth much in Nature
'from that whereof it is said, And that there
'should not be among you any Root that bringeth
'forth Gall and Wormwood.

'He beareth Sable, Gut-
'té de Eau, a Canton, Er-
'mine, by the Name of
'Dannet. This Word Eau
'is a French Word, and 'signifieth the same that
'Aqua doth in Latin, which
'is as much as to say, He
'beareth Drops of Water.
'If he should blazon it in 'English, the proper Colour thereof is Argent.
'This had been a worthy Escutcheon for a Sol'dier of that Christian Legion, called Fulmina-
'trix, at whose Prayers, in a great Drought,
God

'God poured down Rain in the Sight of the 'Heathen, as Eusebius testifieth, and yet they 'were no Fresh-water Soldiers; but were as 'ready to have embrued their Escutcheons with 'Drops of Blood, as to have thus sprinkled them 'with Drops of Rain.

'He beareth Argent, 'Gutté de Sang, a Cross, 'Gules, by the Name of 'Fitz of Fitzford in the 'County of Devon. This 'is the most principal and 'predominant Humour, 'whereby the Life of all 'Animals is nourished and 'continued, and whose 'defect bringeth present Death. For the Life 'of all Flesh is his Blood, it is joined with his 'Life: Therefore I said unto the children of Israel, 'Ye shall eat the blood of no flesh; for the life of all 'flesh is the blood thereof, whosoever eateth shall be 'cut off.

'He beareth Argent, 'Gutté de Larmes, or de 'Larmettes, a Chevron 'voided, Sable, by the 'Name of St. Maure. This 'is that other Humour be-'forementioned; and this 'Bearing is called Gutté 'de Larmes, Quia ex La-'crymarum guttis constant, 'because they represent 'Drops of Tears falling; these Gutté are always 'understood to be of Colour Blue.

'In blazoning of Coat-Armours charged with 'Drops, you must evermore consider the Sub-'stance whereof they are, and to give them a 'Denomination accordingly, so shall you not 'need to name their Colour at all; forasmuch as 'by their Substance their Colours are easily con-'ceived.

'He beareth Argent, a 'Cross engrailed, Sable, 'charged with Gutté de 'Or, by the Name of 'Milketfield. These Drops 'may be understood to be 'Drops either fusible or 'molten, as Gold either 'molten in Fire, or other-'wise liquefied, whereby 'it may be distilled Dropmeal.

'Note, That if such Kind of Drops be Or, 'then shall they be taken as Representations of 'fusible or liquid Gold: If they be Vert, then 'shall they be taken to be Drops of Oil Olive, 'as hereafter shall appear, when I shall speak 'of Coat-Armours, whose Fields have no Tin-'cture predominating. But to return to the 'Humour of Blood (from which we have up-'on Occasion hitherto digressed) it is infallible 'that there is no animal or living Creature but 'hath in it either Blood, or some other Kind of 'hot Humour, in quality like thereunto, as I 'said before.

'These Humours beforementioned, in respect 'of their moist and fluent Nature, do stand in 'need of some other Thing to contain them; 'and such containing Parts are either the out-'most Includer, which is the Skin (of which 'we have already spoken in the first Section, 'where we treated of Furrs) or the whole Bo-'dy itself, with the several Members and Parts 'thereof; all which, because they need their 'Supporters, those we will first speak of, and so 'descend unto the whole Bearings and Parts.

'But I will first shew you an Example of the 'Bearing of dead Mens Sculls, and then proceed 'to the supporting Parts.

"He beareth Argent, on "a Chevron, Gules, three "dead Mens Sculls of the "First, by the Name of "Bolter. This Kind of "Bearing may serve to put "both the proper Owner "of this Coat-Armour, and "also the serious Specta-"tors of the same in 'Mind of the Mortality of their Bodies and last 'End.

'Parts of Support, whereof we have use in 'Arms, are those solid Substances which sustain 'the Body, viz. the Bones, whereby the Body 'is not only underpropped, but also carried from 'Place to Place, by help of their Ligatures and 'Sinews. Of the Use of these in Coat-Armour 'you shall have Examples in these Escutcheons 'next following.

'He beareth Sable, a 'Shinbone in Pale, sur-'mounted of another in 'Cross, Argent, by the 'Name of Baynes, and is 'the Coat of John Baynes 'of the Inner-Temple, Lon-'don, Esquire, one of the 'Counsel of the City of 'London, eldest Son of 'John Baynes of the Parish of St. Olave in the 'Old Jury, London, Esq; who holdeth in Knights 'Service several capital Messuages, Lands, and 'Tenements of the King's Majesty in Essex. I 'do give this Form of Blazon hereunto, because 'the First lieth nearer to the Field than the other 'doth; for they cannot be properly said to be a 'Cross of Bones, because they be not incorpo-'rated one with another, but are dividedly se-'vered by interposing the Purflings.

'He

'He beareth Sable, two 'Shinbones Saltirewiſe, 'the Siniſter ſurmounted 'of the Dexter, by the 'Name of Newton'.

It pertain'd alſo, with this Diſtinction only that the Dexter was ſurmounted of the Siniſter, to Samuel Newton the Elder, Alderman, and ſometime Mayor of the Town of Cambridge, aged 55 Anno 1684. He married Sarah, Daughter of William Weldbore Son of William Weldbore of Cambridge, Gent. by whom he had John Newton of the ſaid Town aged 24, Anno 1684. and Sarah living but unmarried, at the ſaid Time John married Priſcilla, Daughter of John Knowles, ſometime Sheriff of Cheſter.

It belong'd alſo (with the ſame Diſtinction) to Samuel Newton of Cambridge, who by Sarah Daughter of John Ellis of Waddeſden in the County of Bucks, a Divine, his firſt Wife, had Sarah his only Child, aged two Years Anno 1684: And alſo to John Newton, his Brother, of Cambridge, who married Mary, Daughter of Robert Nicholſon, Bookſeller in Cambridge, and had Iſſue John and Mary: Which Samuel and John were Sons of John Newton by his Wife Anne, Daughter of Arthur Turner of Cambridge, which John dy'd about the Year 1660, being younger Brother of Samuel Newton Alderman aforeſaid, and ſecond Son of John Newton of Cambridge, Limner, and of Alice his Wife, Daughter of ..... Hales, which John was Son and Heir of John Newton, Miniſter of Bourne in the County of Cambridge, the Son and Heir of..... Newton of Newton of Newcaſtle in the County of Northumberland.

" And is likewiſe the Coat of Thomas Newton of Duffield, and Robert Newton of Michleover in Derbyſhire, Gent. To this Coat-Armour I give the Blazon in the Former, for " the Reaſon delivered.

" Concerning Bones, Jeſus Syrach recording " the Fame and Vertues of Joſua, Caleb, and " Samuel, ſaith, Let their bones flouriſh out of their " place, and their names by ſucceſſion remain in " them that are moſt famous of their children, Ec- " cleſ. 46. 12. And though they ſeem like the " withered Bones in Ezekiel's Viſion, yet ſhall " they revive again by Virtue and Power of " him who died on the Croſs, and of whom it " was ſaid, Not a bone of him ſhall be broken. " Thus in Brief you ſee the Uſe of theſe Parts " of Support.

CHAP. XII.

'IN following the Tract which our Method 'firſt chalked out unto us, we are at 'length come to ſuch Blazons, as do preſent to 'the Eyes thoſe ſenſitive Things which we cal-'led the Containing, becauſe they are the Man-'ſion, in which not only the Blood and Spi-'rits, but alſo the Bones (which we named the 'Parts ſuſtaining) are incloſed. Theſe are Ani-'mals or living Creatures, with their Parts and 'Members. An Animal is any Subſtance con-'ſiſting both of a Body fitted for diverſe Fun-'ctions, and of a Soul giving Life, Senſe, and 'Motion.

'In the Handling of Animals, it might be a 'Scruple, Whether the Bearing of ſuch Crea-'tures Whole, ſhould have precedence in their 'Bearing before their Parts, and alſo in what 'Rank and Order the ſeveral Kinds of Crea-'tures are to be marſhalled by us, that there-'by the Dignity of their Bearing may be beſt 'conceived; becauſe the Dignity of thoſe 'Things that are born in Coat-Armour, being 'truly known, and duly conſidered, doth not a 'little illuſtrate the Worthineſs of the Bearers 'in the Diſplaying of their Enſigns. For ta-'king away theſe Scruples, I hold it requiſite, 'before I proceed to give Examples, firſt to ſet 'down certain Notes by Way of Introduction 'to that which followeth, ſhewing how the 'Dignity of theſe Animals, hereafter to be 'handled, is to be accounted of, either in a re-'lative Reſpect of Things of diſtinct Natures 'compared one to another, or in a comparа-'tive Reference of Animals of the ſame Kind 'each to other.

'This Dignity cannot be better underſtood, 'than by taking a conſiderate View of that Or-'der which the Author of all Order, and the 'moſt wiſe and powerful Diſpoſer of all Things, 'did obſerve, not only in the Creation of the 'Celeſtial, but alſo of the elementary Parts of 'the World, with their ſeveral Ornaments, 'wherein be obſerved a continual Progreſſion 'from Things of leſs Perfection, to Things 'more Perfect. For, was there not a Chaos 'without form and void, before it came to that 'admirable Beauty, whereof it is ſaid, Loe, it 'was very good? In the Celeſtial, the Sun (the 'Glory thereof) was made after the Firma-'ment, and the Night was before the Day. In 'the inferior Bodies, the Vegetables, as Trees, 'were made before ſenſitive and living Crea-'tures: And among theſe, the Fiſhes (which 'have neither Breath nor Voice, and are therefore 'imperfecter) were before the Fowls, and both 'of them before terrestrial Creatures; and all 'of all Sorts before Man, made after God's 'Image, for whose Service all other Things 'were made, as he was made for God's Ser-'vice. Moreover, in the Creation of Man, the 'Body was before the Soul, which yet is a Thing 'incomparably of more Perfection.

'imper-

'By this rude Draught of God and Nature's 'admirable Method, you may conceive the na-'tural Dignity of those Creatures, as often as 'they shall occur in Armoury. But as Art hath 'not always the same End which Nature hath '(because the One intendeth the Being, the 'Other the Knowing of Things:) so is not the 'Method of both always alike in attaining their 'Ends; for Nature's Process is à simplicibus ad compositâ, from the single Parts to the Whole, 'where Art descendeth from the Compounds 'to the Simples: In Imitation whereof, we 'shall in this our Progress follow this Course, 'that first every whole Bearing of any Animal 'shall preceed, and then such Parts and Mem-'bers thereof as usually are born; for so every 'one that first hath seen the Whole, will discern 'the Parts the better; whereas he that seeth a-'part (having never seen the Whole) knoweth 'not whereof it is a Part. And in Coat-Armour 'the whole Bearing of Animals is most worthy, 'yet is not the Bearing of Parts to be misliked; 'but if we consider the One and the Other respe-'ctively, then doth the whole Bearing far sur-'mount the Parts in Honour and Dignity.

But this, I conceive, is to be understood when Bearings or Arms are given (as Cambden saith of Augmentations) of mere Grace, without being intended to express any particular Action or Merit, and not otherwise. For if Arms are made Emblems as well as Signs of Distinction, then those Bearings that will best express the History, (i. e.) Action or Merit, are most proper, be they either Animals, their Parts, or neither; but such other Things as are also found to be used in Heraldry, and that Coat (if the Coat, without regard to the present Bearer's Honour and Dignity, is only to be regarded) which is a Symbol of the greatest Action or Merit, is certainly preferable and the most worthy Bearing, though the Other be a pleasanter Picture, or composed of such Creatures as, with respect to their natural Qualities, &c. the natural Philosophers, &c. would otherwise have prefer'd. But though Coats are (universally) Marks of Merit, in that they point out such Gentlemen or their Descendents as have been distinguished thereby by their Prince for Service done, you will find but very few that afford such Emblems as shew the true Occasion of their Birth; what being a Note of some Service in One, being often a Note of Alliance only in Others; or of Juniority or Cadency from the elder House, when that carry'd no such Mark, nor were ally'd to any that did.

'Neither must we here precisely esteem the 'Worth of every Bearing by this Order of Na-'ture, because Art doth sometimes stamp a pe-'culiar Note of Dignity, for some particular 'Respect, as for some especial Use, Quality, or 'Action in the Things. And this Dignity or 'Nobility may have a two-fold Relation; the 'One, betwixt Animals of diverse Kinds, as a 'Lyon and a Spaniel, a Woolf and a Lamb; 'the Other, betwixt Things of one Kind, as 'Whelps of one Litter, whereof yet One may 'be nobler than the Other, as the One will run 'to the Chase, the Other to the Pottage-Pot. 'And forasmuch as the living Things before-'mentioned, as well vegetable as sensitive, have 'their peculiar Vertues worthy Imitation, as al-'so their particular Vices to be eschewed, and 'that it is a chief Glory to Gentlemen of Coat-'Armour, to have their Vertues displayed un-'der the Types and Forms of such Things as 'they bear, it is to be wished that each one 'of them would considerately examin the com-'mendable Properties of such significant Tokens 'as they do bear, and do his best to manifest 'to the World, that he hath the like in himself: 'For it is rather a Dishonour than a Praise for 'a Man to bear a Lyon on his Shield, if he bear 'a Sheep in his Heart, or a Goose in his Brain; 'being therein like those Ships, which bear the 'Names of Dreadnought, Victory, and the like, 'though sometimes it speed with them contrary 'to their Titles. A true generous Mind will 'endeavour that for his Self-vertues he may be 'esteemed, and not insist only upon the Fame 'and Merits of his Progenitors, the Praise where-'of is due to them, and not to him.

'Nam genus, & proavos, & quæ non fecimus ipsi,
'Vix ea nostra voco, —— Ov. Met. l. 13. v. 140.

'Great Birth, and Blood, and Ancestors high Worth,
'Call them not thine, but what thy self bring'st forth.

'And now we will proceed to some particu-'lar Precepts, concerning Things sensitive born 'in Coat-Armour. Wherein first observe, That 'all Sorts of Animals born in Arms or Ensigns, 'must in Blazoning be interpreted in the best 'Sense, that is, according to their most gene-'rous and noble Qualities, and so to the greatest 'Honour of their Bearers. For Example: The 'Fox is full of Wit, and withal given wholly to 'filching for his Prey; if then this be the Charge 'of an Escutcheon, we must conceive the Qua-'lity represented, to be his Wit and Cunning, 'but not his Pilfering and Stealing, and so of 'all other. All Beasts of savage and fierce Na-'ture, must be figured and set forth in their 'most noble and fierce Action; as a Lyon erect-'ed bolt upright, his Mouth wide open, his 'Claws extended as if he were prepared to 'rend and tear; (for with his Teeth and Claws 'he doth exercise his Fierceness) in this Form he 'is said to possess his Vigour and Courage; and 'being thus formed, he is said to be rampant. 'This Form of Action doth the Prophet David 'approve to be proper to a Lyon, Psal. 22. where

' describing the Cruelty of the Wicked towards ' him, he saith, They razed upon me with their Mouths, as it were a ramping and roaring Lyon. ' A Leopard or Wolf must be pourtray'd going (as it were) Pedetentim, Step by Step; which ' Form of Action (saith Chassanæus) fitteth their ' natural Disposition, and is termed Passant: All ' Sorts, of placable or gentle Nature, must be ' set forth according to the most noble and ' kindly Action of every of them, as a Horse ' running or vaulting, a Greyhound coursing, ' a Deer tripping, a Lamb going with a smooth ' and easy Pace, &c.' Animalia fera debent exprimi in actu feruciori. Bart. de insig. num. 16. Macken. cap. 19. p. 50.

" And concerning the true placing of Ani- " mals of whatsoever Kinds in Armoury, ac- " cording to Order, Art, and the Property of " their Nature; the Use of the Thing where- " upon they are to be placed or depicted, must " be first considered of, and so must they be " placed accordingly, whether they be born " bolt upright, passant, or tripping, or how- " soever.

" In Banners they must be so placed, as that " it be agreeable to the Banner: Therefore, " since it is proper for a Banner to be carried " upon a Staff, according to the Use thereof " the Staff doth proceed, and the Banner " cometh after; therefore ought the Face to " look towards the Staff, that is, directly " forwards. So is it likewise in every other " Thing, whose Parts are distinguished per Ante " & Post; in such the Forepart of the Thing " born shall be placed towards the Staff, other- " wise it would seem retrograde or going Back- " wards, which were monstrous to behold."

Mackenzy also, cap. 19. p. 51. agrees to this Rule, because the Staff is the Support of the Banner: He also adds, That if they be placed upon Houses that have Chimneys, the noblest Position is to look to the Fire; because, generally the worthiest Persons are placed next to the Fire. If there be no Chimney, the noblest Posture is to be placed, looking from the Door: If upon Caparisons, they ought to look to the Head of the Horse, or Beast that bears them.

If they be born to express a History, they are to be painted in that Posture which will best shew it, Macken. ibid.

So also every Animal must be moving, or looking to the right Side of the Shield, and it is ' a general Rule, That the right Foot must be ' placed foremost, Quia dextra pars est princi- ' pium motus. And withal, it is the most noble ' Part in regard it is the Stronger and more ' Active, whence it is naturally first moved, and ' therefore thus to describe them, is to set them ' forth in their commendablest Fashion; for ' Dispositio laudatissima Animalis est, ut in omni- ' bus dispositionibus suis sit secundum cursum na- ' turæ; that is the best Disposition of every ' Creature, which is most agreeable to Na- ' ture.

Which Things (saith Mackenzy, cap. 19. p. 15.) Bartol founds upon, L. Qui clavum §. item sciendum F. de ædilit. edict. but he rather founds it upon the Opinion Men have, as to the Position of the Heart, and the Strength of that Side.

As the right Side is nobler than the Left; so the upper Part is nobler than the Lower; and therefore Things that must look either up or down, ought rather to be designed looking upward.

But if two Creatures or Things be looking to one another, then these Rules are not to be respected, Bartol. num. 22.

" Arms are sometimes depicted or embroi- " dered upon the Garments of Men, and chief- " ly upon the uppermost Vesture of military " Persons, especially Emperors, Kings, and " their Generals, and other Commanders in " military Services, used to cast over their Ar- " mours a Kind of short Habit, as a Jacket, " Mandylian, or such like, whereupon their " Arms were richly beautified and curiously " wrought; to the End, that in Time of Ser- " vice, their Soldiers, who could not be direct- " ed by the Ear (by reason of the far Distance " that was oftentimes upon occasion between " them and their Commander) they might, by " their Eye, be instructed according to the Ne- " cessity of the present Service, and might by " ocular Observation of their Commander (be- " ing so eminently clad) know and discern their " fit Times and Opportunities of marching, " making a Stand, assailing, retiring, and other " their like Duties, whereupon this Kind of " short Garment was called a Coat-Armour, " because it was worn aloft upon their Armour. " And it was called Paludamentum, quia ex eo " gestans tale vestimentum palam fiebat omni- " bus.

' Notwithstanding that the Bearing of Things ' properly (whether Vegetable or Sensitive) is ' specially commended, yet must not such pe- ' culiar Commendation be extended to derogate ' from the Dignity of other Bearings, as if they ' were of no Esteem, in regard they be not born ' properly; for there are as good and honou- ' rable Intendments in these as in them, data ' paritate gestantium, if they be as ancient as the ' former, and their Bearers of equal Estate and ' Dignity; which is not the least respect that ' must be holden in the Esteem of Coat-Armour ' Quia arma nobilitatem sumunt à persona gestan- ' tis, Arms are honoured by the Bearers. And ' sometimes the Variation from the Property ' may be of Purpose to present some other Qua- ' lity, which may be no less honourable than ' the Proper. Besides, it is one Thing to bear ' a living Creature in Colour or in Action di- ' verse from Nature; and another, to bear him ' repugnant or contrary to Nature; for the for- ' mer may be born commendably, but this lat- ' ter Sort of Bearing is holden disgraceful, or ' rather is condemned for false Arms, and there- ' fore not worthy of Bearing. In the Blazon- ' ing of Things born in their natural Colour, ' whe-

'whether the same be Celestial, except the Sun, 'Moon, and Stars; or Sublunar, it sufficeth to 'say, He beareth this Comet, Meteor, Beast, 'Bird, Fish, Fowl, Plant, Tree, Herb, Flower, '&c. Proper, without naming of any Colour; 'for by Proper is evermore understood his na-'tural Colours; and for the Sun and Stars, 'when they be of the Colour of the Metal, Or, 'which is their natural Colour, it sufficeth to 'say, a Sun, or Star, without adding the Word 'Proper, or Or. And so it is of the Moon, 'when she is Argent, which in Heraldry is hol-'den her proper Colour.

'As touching the Dignity of Things born in 'Coat-Armour, I have already shewed how the 'same is to be reckoned in the Order of Nature; 'but if it be considered according to vulgar 'Estimation, then we must hold this for an Ob-'servation that seldom faileth, That since eve-'ry particular Empire, Kingdom, and Nation 'have their distinct Ensigns of their sovereign 'Jurisdiction, look what Beast, Bird, Fish, 'Fowl, Serpent, &c. he that swayeth the So-'vereignty doth bear for his Royal Ensign in 'each particular Nation, the same is accounted 'there to be of greatest Dignity. So is the 'Bearing of the Lyon chiefly esteemed with us 'in England, because he is born by his Majesty 'for the royal Ensigns of his Highness's Impe-'rial Sovereignty over us: So is the Bearing of 'the Eagle esteemed among the Germans: And 'in like Sort the Fleurs de lis among the French-'men. Four-footed Beasts, whether they be 'born Proper, or Discoloured (that is to say, 'varying from their natural Colour) are to be 'esteemed more worthy of Bearing in Coat-'Armour than either Fishes or Fowls are, in 'regard they do contain in them more worthy 'and commendable Significations of Nobi-'lity. Among Things Sensitive, the Males 'are of more worthy Bearing than the Fe-'males.'

That the Ensigns of Princes in their Dominions are held most worthy, is most certain, in regard they represent the Sovereigns themselves; but then, in my Mind, this very Argument overturns what my Author would insinuate therefrom, viz. That he who carries a like Figure with his Prince, carries best. I own, Where it is given by Way of Augmentation for any singular Service, that it much honours both the Bearer and the Bearing, in regard it points the Man whom the King hath honoured, and therein his singular Bravery, &c. But yet is the Coat in it self but a Repre-sentative of its Bearer; and as in all Cases of that Nature, Representatives always give Precedence one to another, according to the different Titles or Honours of those they repre-sent, so (if any Precedency there is) between Arms, it must be in the same Manner adjudged. I remember Mr. Erdswick in his little ingenious Tract published by Sir William Dugdale, hints at this vulgar Error, as if (says he) the Name of Peter was better than John, or Thomas than Robert, &c. which he concludes in averring, That ..... or three Hares playing upon Bagpipes; or, as I may add, a Faggot-stick is as fair and worthy a Coat as the Lyon, or any other Figure.

'Some Men, perhaps, saith Guillim, will tax 'me with Inconsideration, in not treading the 'usual Steps of Armourists, in the Handling 'of these sensible Creatures, for that I do not 'prefer the Lyon (in respect of his regal Sove-'reignty) before all other Terrestrials. For 'clearing of my self in this Point, I must plead, 'That the Project of my prescript Method hath 'tied me to another Form, and doth enforce 'me to prefer other Beasts in Place, before 'those which otherwise are preferred in Dig-'nity. And albeit I cannot say there was any 'Priority of Time in the Creation of Beasts, 'because God spake the Word and it was done, he 'commanded and they were created; nevertheless, 'in regard of Discipline, there is a Priority to be 'observed, wherein those Things that do Pro-'mise a more easy access to the distinct Know-'ledge and Understanding of the succeeding Do-'cuments, ought to have the Precedence.

'The Order that I prefix to my self in treat-'ing of these Beasts, shall concur with the Ta-'ble of this present Section: As, First, To set 'down Animals of all Sorts living upon the 'Earth: Secondly, Such as live above the Earth, 'as Fowls: Thirdly, Watry Creatures: And, 'Lastly, Man. And because of the first Sort 'some are gressible, having Feet, and some 'creeping or gliding, as Serpents, we will be-'gin with the Gressible; and first with such 'Beasts as have their Feet solid or undivided, 'or (as I may term them) Inarticulate, that 'is to say, without Toes; then will I proceed 'to such as have their Feet cleft in two; and 'lastly, to Beasts that have their Feet divided 'into many.

CHAP. XIII.

'HAving delivered diverse Rules and Ob-'servations concerning living Things, 'and their Parts in genere, I will now annex 'such Examples as may demonstrate these se-'veral Sorts of Bearing; forasmuch as Demon-'strations give Life and Light to ambiguous and 'doubtful Precepts, as Aristotle Ethic. 7. no-'teth, saying, Demonstrationes sunt perfectiores & 'nobiliores, quando inducuntur post orationes du-'bitables; Demonstrations are ever best after 'doubtful Passages. Of these briefly, as in the 'next Escutcheon. The Invention of Arms;

'wherein Beaſts, or their Parts, are born, are 'borrowed (ſaith Sir John Ferne) from the 'Huns, Hungarians, Scythians, and Saxons, cruel 'and moſt fierce Nations, who therefore de- 'lighted in the Bearing of Beaſts of like Na- 'ture in their Arms; as Lyons, Bears, Wolves, 'Hyenes, and ſuch like; which Faſhion like- 'wiſe came into theſe our Countries when thoſe 'barbarous People over-ran with Conqueſt the 'Weſt Part of Europe. Now to the End that 'the Rules and Obſervations formerly ſet down 'may receive both Life and Warrant by Pre- 'cedents, I will now exemplify them in their 'Order: And firſt of whole-footed Beaſts with 'their Members.

'He beareth Gules, an 'Elephant paſſant, Ar- 'gent, tusked, Or, by the 'Name of Eliphinſton. 'Concerning theſe Arms 'that are formed of Beaſts, 'it is to be obſerved, That 'generally thoſe are re- 'puted more noble which 'do conſiſt of whole 'Beaſts, than are thoſe that are formed of their 'Parts; yet, ſometimes the Parts may be given 'for ſome ſuch ſpecial Services, as may be no 'leſs honourable than the whole Bearing. The 'Elephant is a Beaſt of great Strength, but 'greater Wit, and greateſt Ambition; inſo- 'much, that ſome have written of them, that 'if you praiſe them, they will kill themſelves 'with Labour; and if you commend another 'above them, they will break their Hearts with 'Emulation. The Beaſt is ſo proud of his 'Strength, that he never bows himſelf to any '(neither indeed can he;) and when he is once 'down (as it uſually is with proud great Ones) 'he cannot riſe up again. It was the Man- 'ner of ſuch as uſed the Force of Elephants '(in ſett Battles) to provoke them to fight by 'laying before them Things of ſcarlet or crim- 'ſon Colour, to make them more furious; as 'we may ſee, 1 Mac. 6. 34. And to provoke the 'Elephants for to fight, they ſhewed them the Blood 'of Grapes and Mulberries. Furthermore, they 'were placed in the Strength and Heart of the 'Battel, as in the ſame Chapter appeareth; 'where it is ſaid, And they ſet the Beaſts accord- 'ing to their ranges, ſo that by every Elephant 'there ſtood a thouſand Men armed with Coats of 'Mail, and Helmets of Braſs upon their Heads; 'and unto every Beaſt were ordained five hundred 'Horſemen of the beſt, Verſe 35. Which were 'ready at all Times whereſoever the Beaſt was; and 'whitherſoever the Beaſt went, they went alſo, and de- 'parted not from him, Verſe 36. The Highneſs 'and incomparable Strength of this Beaſt may 'be conceived by this, That be bare Thirty 'two fighting Men in ſtrong Towers of Wood 'faſtned upon his Back; as we may ſee ex- 'preſly ſet down in the ſame Chapter in theſe 'Words; And upon them were ſtrong Towers of 'Wood that covered every Beaſt, which were faſt- 'ned thereon with Inſtruments: And upon every 'one were Thirty two Men that fought in them, and 'the Indian that ruled him, Verſe 37.

He beareth Argent, an Elephant paſſant, Sable, by the Name of Sutcliffe. This Coat was aſſign'd by Sir William Segar, Garter, to John Sutcliffe, Groom of the moſt Honourable Privy Chamber to King Charles I.

Int. M. S. P. le Neve, Norroy.

"He beareth Or, a Feſs, "Gules, between three "Elephants Heads eraſed, "Sable, by the Name of "Fountaine, and was the "Coat-Armour of that "eminent Lawyer John "Fountaine, Eſq; Serjeant "at Law, who left Iſſue "John Fountaine of Mel- "ton ſuper Montem in the Weſt-Riding of York- "ſhire, Eſq;

'He beareth Sable, on 'a Feſs between three Ele- 'phants Heads eraſed, Ar- 'gent, as many Mullets 'of the Firſt, by the 'Name of Pratte. When 'any Part is thus born 'with Liggs, like Pieces 'of the Fleſh or Skin, 'depending, it is termed 'Eraſing, of the Latin Word, Erado, to ſcrape 'or rent off; or of the French, Arraſher, of the 'ſame Signification. This being the firſt Place 'of ſuch Bearing, I thought good here to ob- 'ſerve, That this Eraſing and Couping are the 'two common Accidents of Parts born. Coup- 'ing is when a Part is cut off ſmooth, as in this 'next Example.

'The Field is Purpure, 'the Proboſcide, Trunk 'or Snout of an Elephant 'in Pale, couped, flexed, 'and reflexed, after the 'Form of a Roman S, Or. 'Bara, pag. 147. ſetteth 'down this for the Coat 'of Cyneus King of Scythia, 'where alſo he noteth, 'That Idomenes King of Theſſaly, the Son of 'Deucalion, did bear Gules, a Proboſcide of an 'Elephant after this Manner, Argent. The Ele- 'phant hath great Strength in this Part, and 'uſeth it for his Hand, and all other Uſes of 'Agility, wherein Natute hath recompenced 'the Unaptneſs of his Legs, which other Beaſts 'do uſe to ſuch Services. The Roman Hiſto- 'ries do relate of an Elephant of an huge 'Greatneſs, carried in a Shew about Rome, 'which (as it paſſed by) a little Boy pried in 'his

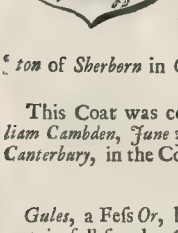

'his Proboscis; therewith being enraged, he 'cast up the Child a great Height, but receiv-'ed him again on his Snout, and laid him 'down gently, without any Hurt; as if the Beast 'had considered, that for a childish Fault, a 'childish Fright were Revenge enough.

"Azure, a Pegasus with "the Wings expanded, "Argent. This is the Coat "belonging to the Ho-"nourable Society of the "Inner-Temple, being one "of the four Inns of "Court.

Azure, on a Bend Argent, a Pegasus volant, Sable, was granted by Sir Gilbert Dethick, Garter, the 20th of May, and 6th of Edward III. to Sir Walter Mildmay of Essex, Kt. who was descended of a House undefamed, and had of long Time used himself in Feats of Arms and Works vertuous.

The Crest, which was then granted also, is on a Wreath Or and Gules, a Demi Roe-buck, Proper, with two Wings, Argent, having about his Neck a Collar, Gules, Bezanté, and the Ring and Horns tipp'd, Or, mantled, Gules, doubled, Or.

'He beareth Argent, a 'Fess, between three Colts 'in full speed, Sable, by 'the Name of Colt, and 'is the Bearing of Wil-'liam Dutton Colt, Esq; 'Son of George Colt of 'Colt-hall in Suffolk, Esq; 'by Elizabeth, Daughter 'and Co-heir of John Dut-'ton of Sherborn in Glouceſterſhire, Esq;

This Coat was confirm'd or assign'd by William Cambden, June 30, 1615. to ..... Colt of Canterbury, in the County of Kent.

Gules, a Fess Or, between three Horses currant in full speed, Argent, is born by the Name of Rushe. This Coat was assigned to Sir Francis Rushe of ..... in the County of Essex, by William Camden, Clarencieux, by Patent dated January .. Anno Dom. 1605.

Sable, a Fess Ermine, between three Horses currant, Argent, was the Coat of William Stampe, S. T. P. of Pembrook College in Oxon, Son of Timothy, the Son of William Stampe of Burford in the County of Oxon; which William was Son of Thomas Stampe of Bradfield, the Son of John Sharpe alias Stampe of Cholsey in the County of Berks.

M.S. of Ant. a Wood, T. 3. f. 58.

'He beareth Sable, a Fess, between three 'Horses passant, Argent, by the Name of Stamp. 'A Horse erected bolt upright, may be termed 'enraged, but his noblest Action is expressed 'in a saliant Form. This, of all Beasts for 'Man's Uses, is most noble and beneficial, ei-'ther in Peace or War. And since his Service 'and Courage in the Field is so eminent, it may 'be marvelled, why the Lyon should be esteem-'ed a more honourable Bearing: But the Rea-'son is, because the Horse's Service and 'Strength is principally by help of his Rider; 'whereas the Lyon's is his own: And if the 'Horse be not mounted, he fights averse, turn-'ing his Heels to his Adversary; but the Lyon 'encounters a front, which is more manly. It 'is observed of the Horse (as also of other 'whole-footed Beasts) that their Legs are at 'the First as long as ever they will be: And 'therefore young Foals scratch their Ears with 'their hinder Foot, which after they cannot 'do, because their Legs do grow only in big-'ness, but not in length, Plin. lib. 11. cap. 48.

'The Horse is a Beast naturally stubborn, 'fierce, haughty, proud and insolent; and of 'all Beasts there is none that vaunteth more 'after Victory obtained, or dejected if he be 'vanquished; none more prone in Battel, or de-'sirous of Revenge.

Vert, a Fleur de lis in Fess, Or, between three Horses currant, Argent, bridled of the Second, pertain'd to Robert Frye of the City of Exeter, Gent. who married Hannah Daughter of Robert Wray of Bristow, in the County of Devon, Gent. He was Son of Thomas Frye of Pawlet in the County of Somerset, Gent. by his Wife Johanna, Daughter and Heir of John Galhampton. The said Thomas was Son of Thomas, the Son of William Frye of Pawlet aforesaid, Gent.

Grafton, fol. 12.

'He beareth Gules, a 'Horse-head couped, Ar-'gent, by the Name of 'Marshe. The Neighing 'of the Horse is a Token 'of his great Courage, as 'appeareth Job 29. Hast 'thou given the Horse 'Strength, or covered his 'Neck with neighing? whose singularly describeth thus; 'Fierceness also he 'He swalloweth the Ground for Fierceness and Rage, 'and he believeth not that it is the Noise of the 'Trumpet. He saith among the Trumpets, Ha,

'ha; he smelleth the Battel afar off, and the Noise 'of the Captains and Shoutings.

'He beareth Ermine, 'on a Canton, Sable, a 'Horse-head couped, Ar- 'gent, with a Bitt and 'Rains, Gules, by the 'Name of Brixton. The 'undaunted Courage of 'the Horse Job in the fore- 'cited Chapter doth pour- 'tray most lively, saying, 'Hast thou made him afraid as the Grashopper? his 'strong neighing is fearful. He diggeth the Valley 'and rejoiceth in his Strength, and goeth forth to 'meet the harnessed Man. He mocketh at Fear, 'and is not afraid, and turneth not back from the 'Sword. Though the Quiver rattle against him, 'the glittering Spear and the Shield. To govern 'him, no less needful is the Bitt and Reins 'sometimes to hold him in, than is the Spur 'to put him forward: And therefore David 'likens an unruly Man to a Horse, which thou 'must keep in with Bitt and Bridle, lest he fall 'upon thee.

'He beareth Gules, a 'Horse's Head couped, 'between three Crosses 'Botonée Fitchée, Argent, 'by the Name of Marshe, 'and is the Coat Armour 'of Sir Thomas Marshe, 'of Darks, in the Parish 'of South-Mims in Mid- 'dlesex, Kt.

(G) Acford a Scots Family; Argent, a Horse's Head Sable, bridled Or, issuing out of Water in Base Azure, on a Chief Gules, a Cross Argent.

"He beareth Azure, a "Fess between three Hor- "ses Heads couped, Ar- "gent, by the Name of "Skelton, and is the Pa- "ternal Coat-Armour of "Bevil Skelton, Esq; eldest "Son of Sir Jo. Skelton, "late Governour of Ply- "mouth, who was Page "of Honour to his Majesty in his Exile, and "now one of the Grooms of his Bed-cham- "ber, and Captain of a Company in his Foot- "Guards.

'He beareth Argent, a 'Fess between three Asses 'passant, Sable, by the 'Name of Askewe. The 'Ass is the lively Emblem 'of Patience, whom there- 'fore our blessed Saviour '(being Patience and Hu- 'mility it self) honoured 'with his own riding; 'which hath made some to fancy ever since that 'Time, That the black Line on the Ridge of 'all Asses Backs, thwarted with the like over 'both the Shoulders, is stamp'd on them as the 'Mark of his Cross, whereon he was to shew 'his Patience by suffering for us.

Sable, a Fess between three Asses passant, Argent, was the Coat of Richard Ayscough, who bought Potgrange in the County of York. His Wife was the Daughter of Tho. Brough of Hackford. His Brethren were William Ayscough Bishop of Sarum 2d Son, and Christopher 3d.

Note, That the said Richard and his Brethren were Sons of Richard Ayscough the Eldest, Son and Heir of Richard, the Son and Heir of John Ayscough——

M. S. of Ant. à Wood, F. 3. f. 71.

'He beareth Argent, an 'Asse's Head erased, Sa- 'ble, by the Name of Ho- 'kenhull; and is born by 'Richard Hokenhull of Pen- 'ton in Cheshire, Esq; as 'also by Henry Hokenhull 'of Tranmore, and John 'Hokenhull of Hokenhull, 'both of the said Coun- 'ty, Gentlemen. In the Second of the Kings 'we read that Benhadad, King of Aram, did 'beset the City of Samaria with his Host, 'and laid so strait Siege thereunto, as that an 'Asse's Head (which as it seemeth was rec- 'koned among Things of least Esteem) was va- 'lued at fourscore Pieces of Silver; which, per- 'haps, gave Occasion to the old Proverb, Asini 'caput ne laves Nitro, Wash not an Asse's Head 'with Niter; which is a Matter white, like 'Salt, and full of Holes as a Spunge; whereby 'we are admonished not to bestow our Time, 'Charge, and Travel in Matters of small Mo- 'ment; and not (as we say in the English Pro- 'verb) make more ado about the Broth than 'the Meat is worth.'

CHAP.

CHAP. XIV.

'AFTER Beasts whole-footed, succeed 'those that are cloven-footed, whether 'into two Parts or more. And first, for those 'which have their Feet divided into two Parts 'only, they are for the most Part armed with 'Horns, as the following Examples shall illu-'strate. And by the Way this must be noted, 'That these horned Beasts, besides that their 'Members are born couped and erased (like 'other Beasts) have also their Heads born 'trunked; which, of some Armourists, are 'blazoned Caboshed, of the Word Cabo, which 'in the Spanish Language doth signify a Head; 'which Form of Blazon giveth us to under-'stand, That it is the Head of some such Beast, 'born sole, and of it self, having no Part of 'the Neck thereto adherent; an Accident that 'seldom befalleth Beasts of other Kinds, which 'most usually are born with the Neck conjoin-'ed; which Form or Bearing you shall hereaf-'ter see in due Place.

'He beareth Ermine, a 'Bull passant, Gules, arm-'ed and unguled, Or, by 'the Name of Bevill. The 'Bull is the Ring-leader 'among other Beasts, and 'through hope of his In-'crease of Breed, he is 'priviledged to range in 'all Pastures with free In-'gress and Egress. The 'Bull being gelt, changeth both his Nature and 'Name, and is called an Ox.

The Athenians to signify their Gratitude for the laborious Travel of the Ox, did stamp the Similitude thereof upon a certain Coin which they call Didrachma, which Piece contained two Drachms (i. e.) about Eleven Pence Half-Penny of our Money. Whereupon this Proverb was grounded, Per Linguam Bos inambulat: The Ox walketh up and down with the Tongue, reproving thereby the Dishonesty of those Advocates, that having received Bribes of the adverse Party, do from thenceforth seek to pervert and poison the Cause of their Client, either by betraying of his Cause to his Adversary; or else by not Pleading, or by covetous Pleading utterly to defeat his Client's Right, Ab his & similibus serva nos Domine.

'The Bearing of a Bull, or the Head thereof, 'is a Note of Valour and Magnanimity; where 'contrariwise, the Bearing of an Ox, or the 'Head thereof, denoteth Faintness of Courage, 'as Upton noteth, That their first Bearers were 'either gelt Persons, or such as had some nota-'ble Defect in the generative Parts, as that 'thereby they became altogether unfit for Pro-'creation.'

I cannot let this Conclusion pass disregarded, though it may be Upton's, because it grossly reflects upon an ancient and honourable Family, who carry Oxen as their Coat, but not for that Reason. But I will not say that Upton designed it as a Reflection, for it is my Opinion, that had he known it was the Bearing of any Family, he would have made it an Emblem as much to be desired, as by this his Conclusion it might be despised. But I suppose (as some others since him have done) he thought, upon an heraldick Credit he might reflect upon such Animals or Things he believed were not in Use: And it is a general Rule in Heraldry to omit the Females and cow'd or debased Beasts of all Kinds, and to use the Perfect and more Noble.

But then also it is a Rule as general (as Guillim before observed) that if you would needs interpret any Thing, you should do it after the best Manner the Bearing will admit; never in the Worst, as in the Case before us. Besides, if you would express one that was either willing to exhaust himself, or that had done it for the Benefit of the Publick, in propagating the Happiness of his Country; I think you could not find a fitter Animal to do it by than the Ox, considering his extreme Labour for our sustenance. And if his good Qualities must never be understood in Emblem, I desire much to be informed, why, in Arms, the Asse should not represent a Fool, and the Cock an incestuous Person as well as the First a patient Man, and the Second, one truly Valiant; nam quo eadem ratio, idem jus est statuendum. But, as I said before, these Fancies are all ridiculous, the Coat being allusive to the Name, viz. a Den of Oxen.

Argent,

Argent, a Chevron Gules, between three Oxen Sable, armed Or, by the Name of Oxenden of Brook, in the Pariſh of Wingham in the County of Kent. This with the Arms of Ulſter, is the Coat of Sir Henry Oxenden of ..... in the County of Kent. Bart.

I ſhall not any further run out upon the Praiſe of this Beaſt, nor yet will I venture to aſſert, the Oxen here uſed were aſſumed as an Emblem to what I ſaid a While ago they might ſignify; it being, as I take it, an alluſive Bearing to the Name, which may be reverſed to a Den of Oxen. How great the Eſtimation of ſuch alluſive Coats ought to be, and how ancient their Uſe, I have already told you in my Introduction.

'He beareth Argent, on 'a Bend Sable, three Calves 'Or, by the Name of Veal. 'If theſe Calves live to 'wear Horns, which dif- 'fer either in Metal or in 'Colour from the Reſt 'of the Body, then muſt 'there be ſpecial Mention 'of ſuch Difference in 'blazoning, as you ſhall ſee in the next Ex- 'ample. Pliny ſaith, That Nature ſeemed to 'ſport her ſelf in making ſuch Variety of Horns 'of Beaſts, as ſo many ſeveral Kinds of Weapons 'wherewith they come armed into the Field: 'For in ſome ſhe hath made them knagged 'and branched, as in the Red and Fallow Deer; 'in others plain and uniform without Tines, as 'in Spitters, a Kind of Stags which thereupon 'are called in Latin, Subulones, and that their 'Horns are like to the Blade of a Shoemaker's 'Awl; but of all other, the Horns of the Bull 'may moſt properly be called his Arms, they 'being of ſo piercing and violent a Stroke, as 'hardly can be reſiſted.

'He beareth Argent, a 'Bull's Head eraſed, Sa- 'ble, by the Name of 'Carſelack. The Bull's 'Head may ſignify a Man 'enraged with Deſire of 'Revenge, whom nothing 'can ſatisfy but the utter 'Spoil and Ruin of his 'Adverſary.

' Since we are now come to treat of Beasts of ' the Forest, I hold it fit to speak somewhat in ' my first Entry of their Numbers, Names, ' Qualities, Royalties, Armings, Footings, De- ' grees of Age, &c. according as they are term- ' ed of skilful Foresters and Woodmen. And ' first of their Kinds.

' Of Beasts of the Forest, { Venery, ' some are Beasts of { Chase.

' Of Beasts of Venery there are five Kinds, ' viz. the { Hart, Hind, Hare, Boar, Wolf, } As old Woodmen have anciently termed them.

' These have been accounted properly wild ' Beasts of the Forest, or Beasts of Venery. ' These Beasts are also called Sylvestres, scil. ' Beasts of the Wood or Forest, because they do ' haunt the Woods more than the Plains.

' Proper Names, Seasons, Degrees, and Ages ' of Beasts of the Forest and of Chase. Where- ' fore

' You shall under- ' stand ' that the { First, Second, Third, Fourth, Fifth, Sixth, } Year you shall call them { Hind or Calf, Brocket, Spayade, Staggard, Stag, Hart.

' But here, by the Way we must observe, ' that some ancient Writers do report, That in ' Times past, Foresters were wont to call him a ' Stag at the fourth Year, and not a Staggard, ' as we do now; and at the fifth Year they cal- ' led him a Great Stag: And so they were wont ' to distinguish his several Ages by these Words, ' Stag and Great Stag.

' The Knowledge of the Ordure or Excre- ' ments of every Beast of Venery and Chase is ' necessary to be observed; because their Ordures ' are a principal Note, whereby good Foresters ' and Woodmen do know and observe the Place ' of their Haunt and Feeding, and also their ' Estate: And therefore it is a Thing highly to ' be observed, for that a Forester or Woodman, ' in making his Reports, shall be constrained to ' rehearse the same.

' The Ordure of a { Hart, Hare, Boar, Fox and all Vermin } is termed { Fumets or fimashing of all Deer. Crottelles or crotising. Lesses. Fiantes.

' Terms of Footing or Treading of all Beasts ' of Venery and Chase.

' That ' of a { Hart, Buck and all Fallow Deer, Boar } is termed { Slot, View, Tract, or Treading.

' That of an Hare is termed according to her ' several Courses: For when she keepeth in ' plain Fields, and chaseth about to deceive the ' Hounds, it is said she Doubleth; but when ' she beateth the plain High-way, where you ' may yet perceive her Footing, it is said she ' Pricketh.

Terms of the Tayl.

' That ' of a { Hart, Buck, Roe, or any other Deer. Boar, Fox, Wolf, Hare & Coney } is termed his { Tayl, Single, Wreath, Bush, or holy water sprinkle, Stern, Scut.

' The Fat of all Sorts of Deer is called Suet. ' Also it may be very well said, This Deer was ' a high Deer's Grease.

' The Fat ' of a { Roe, Boar & Hare } is termed { Bevy Grease. Grease.

' You shall say, ' That a { Hart Harboureth. Buck Lodgeth. Roe Beddeth. Hare Seateth or Formeth. Coney Sitteth. Fox Knelleth.

' You shall say a { Deer, Hare, Fox } is { Broken. Cased. Uncased.

' You shall say, { Dislodge, Start, Unkennel, Rowse, Bowlt } the { Buck. Hare. Fox. Hart. Coney.

‘ You ſhall ſay a { Hart or Buck / Roe / Boar / Hare, or Coney / Fox / Wolf } goeth to { his / the } { Rut. / Tourn. / Brym. / Buck. / Clicketting. / Match, or to his Make. }

Terms excogitated and uſed by Foreſters.

‘ You ſhall ſay a { Hart Belloweth. / Buck Groaneth. / Roe Belleth. / Hare and Coney Beateth, or Tappeth. / Fox Barketh. / Wolf Howleth. }

‘ You ſhall ſay a { Litter of Cubs. / Neſt of Rabbets. }

Skilful Foreſters and good Woodmen,

‘ Do uſe ‘ to ſay ‘ a { Herd / Herd / Bevy / Sounder / Rowt / Riches / Brace, or Leaſe / Brace or Leaſe / Brace or Leaſe / Couple } Of { Harts. / All Manner of Deer. / Roes. / Swine. / Wolves. / Marternes. / Bucks. / Foxes. / Hares. / Rabbets or Conies. }

‘ Whereas ſome Men are of Opinion, That ‘ a Stag, of what Age ſoever he be, ſhall not ‘ be called a Hart until the King or Queen have ‘ hunted him; That is not ſo: For after the fifth ‘ Year of his Age, you ſhall no more call him a ‘ Stag, but a Hart. So then at ſix Years old ‘ he is called a Hart. Now if the King or Queen ‘ do hunt or chaſe him, and he eſcape away ‘ alive, then after ſuch hunting or chaſing, he ‘ is called a Hart Royal.

‘ Note, That if this Hart be by the King or ‘ Queen ſo hunted or chaſed, that he be forced ‘ out of the Foreſt ſo far, that it is unlike that ‘ he will of himſelf return thither again, and ‘ then the King or Queen giveth him over, ei‘ther for that he is weary, or becauſe he cannot ‘ recover him; for that ſuch a Hart hath ſhew‘ed the King Paſtime for his delight, and is alſo ‘ (as Budeus noteth) Eximius Cervus, a goodly ‘ Hart; and for that the King would have him ‘ return to the Foreſt again, he cauſeth open ‘ Proclamation to be made in all Towns and ‘ Villages near to the Place where the ſame ‘ Hart ſo remaineth, That no Manner of Per‘ſon or Perſons ſhall kill, hurt, hunt or chaſe ‘ him, but that he may ſafely return to the Fo‘reſt again from whence he came. And then ‘ ever after ſuch a Hart is called a Hart Royal ‘ proclaimed.

‘ So that there are ‘ three Sorts of ‘ Harts, viz. { Hart. / Hart Royal. / and / Hart Royal proclaimed. }

A Hind hath theſe Degrees.

‘ Firſt, ‘ Second, ‘ Third Year is called a { Calf. / Brockets ſiſter. / Hinde. }

‘ Good Foreſters have obſerved, That when ‘ a Hart hath paſt his ſixth Year, he is gene‘rally to be called a Hart of Tenne; and af‘terwards according to the Increaſe of his ‘ Head.

‘ Whether he be { Croched, / Palmed, or / Crowned. }

‘ When he breaketh Herd, and draweth to ‘ the Thickets or Coverts, the Foreſters or ‘ Woodmen do ſay, He taketh his Hold.

‘ Foraſmuch as it may oftentimes fall out, as ‘ well in Coat-Armours as in Badges, that the ‘ Attires of Deer, both Red and Fallow, may ‘ be born Bendy, Barry, or otherwiſe counter‘coloured; I have thought it fit, for the more ‘ apt blazon of them, to annex ſuch Propriety ‘ of Terms, as the ſkilfulleſt Forreſters or Wood‘men do attribute unto their ſeveral Kinds, ſo ‘ there may be a fit Correſpondence of artificial ‘ Terms, as well Woodman-like as Armorial; ‘ adding withal, their Forms and Shapes of ‘ their ſeveral Attires, for the better and rea‘dier conceiving of their particular Parts, and ‘ fit application of each particular Term to his ‘ proper Part, by the Help of the alphabetical ‘ Letters that I have for that Purpoſe annexed ‘ to each Part.

'And though every Gentleman is not an Ar-'moriſt, or a skilful Woodman, yet it is well-'beſeeming Men of a generous Race to have a 'ſuperficial Skill in either of theſe Profeſſions, 'foraſmuch as they both (eſpecially the former) 'do well beſeem the Dignity of a Gentleman; 'the One tending to the Delight and Recrea-'tion of the Mind, and the Other to the Health, 'Solace, and Exerciſe of the Body: That ſo in 'their mutual Converſe they may be able to 'deliver their Minds in fit Terms in either Kind, 'and not in Speeches either vulgar or obſolete. 'For which Cauſe I here ſet down the Terms 'appropriated (by skilful Foreſters and Wood-'men) to Beaſts of Chaſe, according to their 'ſeveral Names, Seaſons, Degrees, and Ages, 'like as I have formerly done of Beaſts of Ve-'nery, as in Example.

'Of Beaſts of Chaſe the Buck is the Firſt,

'And is 'term-'ed the

Firſt	Year a	Fawn.
Second		Pricket.
Third		Sorel.
Fourth		Sore.
Fifth		Buck of the firſt Head.
Sixth		Buck, or great Buck.

'Next to the Buck is the Doe, being account-'ed the ſecond Beaſt of Chaſe,

'And is 'term-'ed the

Firſt	Year a	Fawn.
Second		Prickets Siſter.
Third		Doe.

'The third Beaſt of Chaſe is a Fox, which 'altho' he be ſaid to be politick, and of much 'ſubtilty, yet is the Variety of Terms of a Fox 'very ſcarce:

'For in 'the

Firſt	Year he is called a	Cub.
Second		Fox.

'Afterwards an old Fox, or the like.

'The Martern, or Marton (as some old Foresters or Woodmen do term them) being the 'fourth Beast of Chase, hath these Terms.

'He is called { First / Second } Year a { Martern Cub. / Martern.

'The fifth and last Beast of Chase is the Roe, 'whose proper Terms, pertaining to Chase, are 'these:

'He is said 'to be the { First / Second / Third } Year a { Kid. / Girl. / Hein use. } { Fourth / Fifth } Year a { Roe-buck of the first Head. / Farr Roe-buck.

'These Beasts of Chase do make their Abode 'all the Day-time in the Fields, and upon the 'Hills and high Mountains, where they may 'see round about them afar off, for preventing 'their Danger: For these are more timerous of 'their own Safety, than dangerous and harmful to Men. And in the Night-time, when 'Men be at rest, and all Things quiet, then do 'they make their repair to the Corn Fields and 'Meadows for Food and Relief; for which respect they are called Campestres, because they 'do haunt the Field and Champion Grounds 'more than the Woods, and thick Coverts 'or Thickets, as we do most usually observe 'them.

'He beareth Sable, a 'Stag standing at Gaze, 'Argent, attried and un'guled, Or, by the Name 'of Jones of Monmouth'shire. Nature having de'nied this Beast other Se'curities, hath indued him 'with two excellent Fa'vours above others; the 'One, exceeding Quickness of Hearing, to fore'know his Hazards, and so the sooner to pre'vent them (for which Cause the Stag is among 'the Emblems of the five Senses, representing 'the Hearing;) the other exceeding Speed of 'Foot, to fly from the Danger when it ap'proacheth.

'He beareth Argent, a 'Stag tripping, Proper, at'tired and unguled, Or, 'by the Name of Holm. 'The Hart born in Arms '(saith Upton) betokeneth 'sometimes one skilful in 'Musick, or such an one 'as taketh a Felicity and 'Delight in Harmony: 'Also, a Man that is wise and politick, and well 'foreseeth his Times and Opportunities; a Man 'unwilling to assail the Enemy rashly, but ra'ther desirous to stand on his own Guard ho'nestly, than to annoy another wrongfully.

Gules, a Stag tripping Or, was granted and confirmed by William Flower, Norroy, the 12th of July 1586, in the 28th Year of Queen Elizabeth, to William Davidson, Son of John Davidson, who was the Son of Richard Davidson, descended out of the North ——

M. S. in Ash. Num. 834. p. 61.

"He beareth Azure, a "Stag Argent, with an "Arrow stuck in the Back "and attired, Or, by the "Name of Bowen. This "is the Coat-Armour of "George Bowen of Kittle"hill in Glamorganshire, "Esquire, lineally descend"ed from, and present "Heir unto the ancient Family of the Bowens of "Court-house, in the Seigniory of Gower in the "said County, Esq;

"This Coat, with the Difference of a second "Brother, is born by John Bowen of Swansey in "the said County.

'He beareth Vert, a 'Stag springing forwards, 'Or, by the Name of 'Gilsland. Pliny saith, That 'Horns are so mollified 'with Wax, whilst they 'are yet growing upon 'the Heads of the Beasts, 'that they may be made 'capable of sundry Im'pressions, and are made divisible into many 'Parts: But Nature needeth not this Device, 'neither can Art form a Fashion of more state'ly Decency, than she hath done on the Stag. 'All Horns in a Manner be hollow, save that 'towards the pointed Tip they be solid and mas'sy. Only Deer, both Red and Fallow, have 'them solid throughout.

'He beareth Argent, on 'a Mount, Proper, an 'Hart lodged, Gules, by 'the Name of Harthill, 'to which it alludes being 'a Hart on a Hill. The 'Stag is a goodly Beast, 'full of State in his gate 'and view, and (among 'Beasts of Chase) reput'ed the Chief for principal Game and Exercise. 'It is observed of him, That finding himself 'fat, he ever lodgeth and sculketh in secret 'Places to avoid chasing, as knowing himself 'worth following and worth killing (as was 'said

'ſaid of the great Stag at Killingworth) but 'moſt unfit for flying.

(ℌ) Strachan of Thornton in Scotland; Azure, a Buck lodg'd, Or, Which is alſo born by Strachan of Marbadore in the ſame Kingdom, with the Difference of a Cinquefoil in the ſiniſter Chief Point, Argent.

"Sable, a Buck trip-"pant, and Chief Indent-"ed, Or. This with the "Arms of Ulſter, is the "Paternal Coat-Armour "of Sir William Humble of "the City of London, and "of Stratford in the Pa-"riſh of Weſtham in Eſſex, "Baronet.

Ermine, on a Canton Gules, a Buck tripping Or, is born by the Name of Maycote; and was allowed in November 1604, by William Cambden, Clarencieux, to Sir Cavalier Maycote alias Mackwith of Reculver in Kent, Kt.

Or, a Pale Azure, between two Harts tripping, Proper, was confirmed to Thomas Bludder, Gent. Son of Henry Bludder ſometime of Grantham in the County of Lincoln, by William Camden, Clarencieux, the 2d of April, in the 42d Year of Queen Elizabeth, Anno Dom. 1600. who, as is mentioned in the Patent, made ſome ſmall Alteration in the Coat, and Creſt from the Coat as it was before granted to the ſame Perſon by William Dethick, Garter, in the 30th Year of Queen Elizabeth.

The Creſt (which was alſo confirmed by William Camden) is, on a Wreath of the Colours, a Lyon's Head eraſed, Argent, wounded with a broken Sword, Proper.

'He beareth Azure, 'three Bucks tripping, Or, 'by the Name of Green: With a Mullet, Or, for Difference, this Coat was confirmed to Sir William Green of Oxon, Father of Sir Michell, by William Camden, Clarencieux.

(ℜ) Vert, three Bucks tripping, Argent, attired and unguled, Or, by the Name of Troup.

(ℜ) Argent, three Roe-bucks in full Courſe, Gules, by the Name of Roe.

'The Buck is a worthy Beaſt, and hath a 'Degree and Meaſure of all the Properties of 'the Stag, but cometh far ſhort of his State-'lineſs and Boldneſs (for there are Degrees of 'Courage even among Cowards.) And Na-'ture hath made his Horn rather broad, for a 'defenſive Buckler, than ſharp, as the Stags, 'for the Thruſt. Their beſt Quality is, That 'they are ſociable, and love to keep together 'in Herds, which is the Property of all harm-'leſs and peaceable Creatures, which are of 'Comfort and Courage only in Company; 'whereas all Beaſts and Birds of Prey are given 'to wander ſolitary, neglecting Societies: And 'that made the Philoſopher ſay, That a ſolitary 'and unſociable Man, was either a Saint or a 'Devil.

'He beareth Argent, a 'Feſs Azure, between 3 'Stags ſtanding at gaze 'or guardant, Gules, by 'the Name of Robertſon. 'Sometimes the Females, 'both of Red and Fallow 'Deer, to wit, Hinds and 'Does, as well as Stags 'and Bucks, are born in 'Coat-Armour; but ſuch Bearing is holden leſs 'commendable than that of Males, becauſe 'Maſculinum dignius eſt Fœminino, as Ariſtotle witneſſeth, Topic. 1. The Male is ever nobler 'than the Female.

He beareth Sable, a Feſs Or, between three Bucks trippant, Argent, attired of the Second, by the Vame of Trynder. This Coat was aſſigned by Sir Edward Walker, Garter, by Patent dated the 3d of December 1663, in the 15th Year of King Charles II. to John Trynder of Weſtwell in the County of Oxon, Gent. Son of John Trynder of Holwell in the Pariſh of Croadwell in the ſaid County, and to his Brothers Charles, Henry, and William Trynder. The ſaid John Trynder of Weſtwell, was a faithful and conſtant Adherent to his Sovereign's Intereſt, during the Grand Rebellion.

'He beareth Vert, a 'Feſs, between 3 Bucks 'in full Courſe, Or, by the 'Name of Robertſon. This 'Kind of Deer is called 'Cervus Palmatus, for the 'Reſemblance that his 'Horns have with the 'Hand and Fingers. This 'Beaſt repoſeth his Safety 'chiefly in flight, wherein he is very ſwift in 'caſe of purſuit: His Colour moſt commonly is 'ſandy, with a black ſtreak along his Back; 'their Sides and Belly ſpotted with White, ‘which Spots they lose through Age: Their Females are more variable in Colour, as being ‘sometimes all White.

Argent, a Chevron between three Bucks or Roebucks tripping, Sable, attired, Or. This Coat was born by Edw. Rogers, D. D. Divinity Reader and Senior Fellow of Magdalen College Oxon, who died the 6th of April 1684, aged about 67, and was buried in the Outer-Chappel of the said College, near to the North Pillar, and to Mr. Brown's Monument Stone. He was the Son of Edward Rogers of Lethered in Surry, Esquire, and had been several Years Rector of Haulton near Wheatly in the County of Oxon.

Vert, a Chevron Argent, between three Roe-bucks in full Course, Or, by the Name of Robertson.

“ He beareth Or, a Che“ vron, Nebule, Argent and “ Azure, between three “ Bucks in full Course,
“ Vert, by the Name of “ Swift, and is born by “ Godwin Swift of Good- “ ridge, in the County of “ Hereford, Esq; one of
“ Swifts of Yorkshire.

‘ He beareth Vert, on a Chevron between three ‘ Bucks tripping, Or, as “ many Cinquefoils, Gules, ‘ by the Name of Robinson, and is the Paternal ‘ Coat-Armour of Thomas ‘ Robinson, of the Inner- ‘ Temple, London, Esquire, ‘ chief Prothonotary of ‘ his Majesty's Court of Common Pleas; descended from Nicholas Robinson of Boston in ‘ Lincolnshire, Gent. who lived in the Time of ‘ King Henry the Seventh. Although this Beast, ‘ as a Coward, flieth with his Weapons; yet, ‘ two Times there are when he dares turn Head ‘ on his Foe: The One is when it is for his Life, ‘ as when he is chased out of Breath, and his ‘ Strength so spent, that he cannot, by flight, ‘ escape, Desperatio facit audacem. He is more ‘ than a Coward that will not fight when he ‘ sees his Case desperate; and therefore it is a ‘ general Rule in good Policy, never to ‘ put them to the utmost Exigent and Extremity, with whom we desire to prevail, ‘ according to the old English Proverb, Compel a ‘ Coward to fight, and he will kill the Devil: Which ‘ was the Cause that the Romans, landing in this ‘ Kingdom, burnt their own Navy, thereby to ‘ enforce the Army to be resolute, by despairing of any escape or return by Sea again. The ‘ other Time of the Stag's Courage is for his ‘ Love, at which Time he will fight to the ‘ Death with his Rival or Hinderer of his hot ‘ Desire.

‘ Pliny, in his Natural ‘ History, Lib. 9. writeth, ‘ That among all Sorts of ‘ Beasts, the Males are ‘ more Stomachful, and ‘ of greater Courage than the Females, excepting in Panthers and Bears: And that those ‘ Parts that Nature hath bestowed upon Beasts, ‘ to serve them (as it were) instead of Weapons, as Teeth, Horns, Stings, and other such ‘ like, She hath given them especially unto the ‘ Males, as to those that are both better and ‘ stronger, and hath left the Females altogether disarmed; whereof Martial writeth in ‘ this Manner,

‘ Imbelles Damæ, quid nisi præda sumus?

‘ The Boar's Tusks him protect; the Hart trusts to
‘ his Horn:
‘ forlorn.

“ He beareth Or, a Fess “ between three Hinds “ trippant, Sable, by the “ Name of Jekyll, and was “ the Coat-Armour of Tho-
“ Inn, Gent. Secondary of “ his Majesty's Court of “ King's Bench; and is also born by his Brother
“ Mr. Nicholas Jekyll of the said Society, At-

It

It was alter'd and confirm'd to Thomas Jekyll of Booking in the County of Essex, Gent. (Son and Heir of John-Stocker Jekyll of Newington in the County of Middlesex, Gent. who married Mary, Daughter and Heir of Nicholas Barnhouse of Wallington in the County of Somerset, Esq; which said John-Stocker Jekyll was Son and Heir of Bartholomew Jekyll of Newington aforesaid, Esq; Son and Heir of William Jekyll of the said Place, Gent.) by Sir William Segar, Garter, February 6, 1627, in the 3d Year of King Charles I.

N. B. The abovesaid Thomas Jekyll was of the Society of Clifford's Inn, and chief Clerk in the Paper-Office belonging to the Court of King's Bench; a great Lover of, and a Person well Skill'd in Armoury, Antiquities, and the Mathematical Science. His Arms were, though almost the same, alter'd to those above shew'd, purely through his Dislike of the Armoury, as the Patent it self mentions.

Her. Off. Essex, C. 21. For the Descent, See Visit. de Com. Essex, Anno 1614. fol. 17.

Gules, a Chevron between three Hinds, Or, is born by the Name of Hynd. These Arms were by Patent allowed to Rowland Hynd of Hesore in the County of Bucks (Son and Heir of Austin Hynd of London, Alderman) by Robert Cooke, Clarencieux, 1583.

(M) Calder of Aslonne; Or, a Stag's Head couped and attired with six Tines on every Horn, Sable.

(M) Gules, a Buck's Head couped, Or, by the Name of Ballenden.

'He beareth Argent, 'three Stags Heads coup-'ed, Sable, by the Name 'of Rigmaiden. Some Au-'thors are of Opinion, 'That the Attires of 'Gentlewomens Heads 'were first found out and 'devised, by occasion of 'the Sight of the Horns 'of this Beast, because they are seemly to be-'hold, and do become the Beast right-well; and 'that Nature bestowed Horns on them, more 'for Ornament than Assault, appears by this, 'That they repose their Safety rather in their 'Speed of Foot, than in the Strength of 'their Heads. The Tines of the Stag's Head 'do increase Yearly, until he hath accomplish-'ed the full Number of seven Years, and then 'decreaseth again.

'He beareth Gules, three 'Bucks Heads couped, Or, 'by the Name of Deering. 'The Bearing of the Head 'of any living Thing, be-'tokeneth Jurisdiction 'and Authority to admi-'nister Justice, and to ex-'ecute Laws: For the 'greatest Esteem of the 'Head in Coat-Armour is in respect of the more 'noble use thereof; for by it is the whole Body 'governed and directed, and is called, in Latin, 'Caput, Quia caput omnes sensus; and he that is 'a Head should be sure to have all his Senses 'about him, as the Head hath.

He beareth Vert, three Bucks Heads couped, Argent, attired Or, by the Name of Deering. This Coat was confirmed by Sir Edward Walker, Garter, Feb. 13, 1664. in the 17th Year of King Charles II. to Nicholas and Thomas Deering, Sons of Nicholas Deering of Worgreat in the County of Dorset, Gent.

(M) Ballenden, Lord Ballenden; Gules, an Harts Head coup'd and attired with ten Tines between three Cross-crosslets Fitchee, all within a double Tressure Counter-flowry, Or.

'He beareth Argent, on 'a Fess, Sable, three Stags 'Heads erased, Or, by the 'Name of Bradford. Sir 'John Ferne, in Lacie's No-'bility, saith, That the 'Head of any Beast born 'erased, as this is, is one 'of the best Manner of Bear-'ings. The Heads of such 'horned Beasts were wont to be held sacred to 'Apollo and Diana; perchance because Diana sig-'nified the Moon, which is her self a horned 'Creature; and Apollo, for being a good Bow-'man, deserved the Horns for his Reward.

"He beareth Argent, a "Chevron between three "Bucks Heads erased, "Gules, by the Name of "Collingwood, and is the "Coat-Armour of Daniel "Collingwood of Branton, in "Com. Northumberland, Esq; "Major to the Queens "Troop of his Majesty's "Guard, Governor of his Majesty's Castle in "Holy Island in the Bishoprick of Durham, De-"puty Lieutenant of the said County of Nor-"thumberland, and a Member of Parliament for "the Town of Berwick upon Tweed.

He

He beareth Argent, on a Chevron engrailed, Sable, between three Raindeers Heads eraſed, Gules, as many Cinquefoils, Ermine, by the Name of Rice. This Coat was granted to William Rice of Boemer in the County of Bucks, Gent. by Thomas Hawley, Clarencieux, the 2d of May; 2d and 3d of Philip and Mary.

" Azure, a Buck's Head " caboſed, Argent, is the " Paternal Coat-Armour " of George Legge, Eſquire, " Governor of Portſmouth, " Maſter of the Horſe to " his Royal Highneſs " James Duke of York, " Lieutenant of his Maje- " ſty's Foreſt of Alceholt " and Woolmer in Hantſhire, and one of the De- " puty Lieutenants of the ſaid County, Com- " mander of his Majeſty's Ship the Royal Ka- " tharine, and one of the principal Officers of " his Majeſty's Ordnance.

" Of all the Parts or Members of Beaſts, " Birds, or other living Things, the Bearing of " the Head (next to the whole Bearing) is " reckoned moſt Honourable, for that it ſigni- " fieth that the Owner of ſuch Coat-Armour " feared not to ſtand to the Face of his Ene- " my.

" Argent, a Buck's Head caboſed, Gules, is " born by the Name of Trye.

(M) Calder of that Ilk; Or, an Hart's Head caboſed Sable, attired Gules.

Vaire, Argent, and Gules, on a Canton, Or, a Stag's Head caboſed, Vert, is born by the Name of Beecher, and was confirmed to James Beecher of Shorne in the County of Kent, by Robert Cooke, Clarencieux, Oct. 6, 1574. in the 16th Year of Eliz.

" He beareth Sable, a " Buck's Head caboſed, " between two Flaunches, " Or, by the Name of Par- " ker, and is the Coat of " Henry Parker of Honing- " ton in Warwickſhire, Eſq; " as alſo of Edward Parker " of Plimpton St. Maries " in Devonſhire, Eſquire. " This Coat-Armour ſeemeth to have ſome " Congruity with the Name of the Bearer, it " being a Name borrowed from the Office, " which it is probable the firſt Anceſtor of this " Family held, viz. a Park-keeper, which in " old Engliſh was called Parker, who by Office " hath the Charge of the Beaſt whoſe Head is " born in this Eſcutcheon.

(N) Sir George Mackenzy of Roſehauch, Kt. ſometime Judge-Advocate of Scotland, and (among many other Works) Author of that Heraldical Treatiſe I have ſo often mentioned, bare as his Coat; Azure, a Deer's Head caboſed, within two Branches of Laurel diſpoſed Orleways, Or. The Branches were to difference him from the Line of the late Earl of Seaforth his Chief, whoſe Coat (without them) was the ſame.

(O) Thomoſon; Argent, a Roebuck's Head caboſed, Gules, on a Chief Azure, three Mullets of the Firſt.

" He beareth Pearl, a " Bend engrailed, Saphire, " between two Bucks " Heads caboſed, Dia- " mond, and is the Pater- " nal Coat-Armour of the " Right Honourable Tho- " mas Lord Needham, Viſ- " count Kilmurrey in the " Kingdom of Ireland.

' The Field is Diamond, ' three Stags Heads trunk- ' ed or caboſed, Pearl, at- ' tired, Topaz. (M) Azure, three Deers Heads caboſed, Or, by the Name of Porteous.

(G) Azure, three Harts Heads caboſed, Argent. This belongs to Permis of Hamſtall in Scotland.

'He beareth Argent, 'three Rain-Deers Heads, 'trunked or caboſed, Sable, by the Name of Bowet. If you ſhould 'have Occaſion to make 'mention of the Horns of 'any Sort of Deer, by reaſon that they be of a different Metal or Colour 'from their Bodies, you muſt term them Attired. If upon like Occaſion you ſhall ſpeak 'of their Claws, you muſt ſay they be Unguled, 'of the Latin Word Ungula, which ſignifieth 'the Hoof or Claws of a Beaſt.

He beareth Ermine, on a Chief Vert, three Bucks Heads, Or, by the Name of Parker. This Coat was aſſigned by William Segar, Anno Dom. 1609, to..... Parker of the Willows in the County of Suffolk. ——

" The Stag doth mew his Head every Year, unleſs he be caſtrated or gelt whilſt his Head is " in his Prime: For in ſuch Caſe he never mew" eth his Head, neither doth his Beam burr, or " Tynes augment, or diminiſh any more, but " continue ſtill in the ſame State wherein they " were at the Time of his Caſtration.

" Foreſters and Hunters do call this yearly " Mewing of their Heads, the Beauty of their " Wildneſs, and not the Mewing of their Horns " as the Latiniſts do term it.

" Theſe having mewed their Heads, do be" take themſelves to the thick Brakes and Co" verts to hide them, as well knowing they are " diſarmed of their natural Weapons; and " therefore do never willingly ſhew themſelves " abroad in the Day-time, until the Spring that " they begin to bud and burgeon.

' This Field is Sol, three ' Attires of a Stag, born ' Paly, Barry, Saturn. This ' Coat-Armour pertaineth ' to the renowned Family ' of the moſt High, Puiſſant, and Noble Prince ' Frederick, late Duke of ' Wirtemberg, and of Tec, ' Count of Mountbeliard, ' Lord of Heydenheib, &c. and Knight of the ' moſt Noble Order of the Garter. The Stags, ' having caſt their Horns, do skulk in ſecret and ' deſolate Places, becauſe they find themſelves ' diſarmed and deſtitute of their former Strength, ' which maketh them more careful of their Safe' ty, as Ælianus noteth.

Vert, a Chevron between three Hinds Heads couped, Or, is born by the Name of Snelling, and was aſſigned by William Segar, Anno, 9 Jac. 1. to ..... Snelling of Suſſex.

He beareth Vert, a Croſs between four Hinds Heads couped, Or, by the Name of Dickenſon. This Coat was granted to Liming Dickenſon, Son of Robert Dickenſon of Lidiard Tregoze in Wilts, the 14th of November, Anno Dom. 1625, 1 Car. I.

' He beareth Argent, an ' Unicorn Seiant, Sable, ' armed and unguled, Or, ' by the Name of Harling. ' The Unicorn hath his ' Name of his one Horn ' on his Forehead. There ' is another Beaſt of a ' huge Strength and Greatneſs, which hath but one ' Horn, but that is growing on his Snout, ' whence he is called Rinoceros, and both are ' named Monoceros, or One-horned. It hath been ' much queſtioned among Naturaliſts, which it ' is that is properly called the Unicorn: And ' ſome have made Doubt whether there be any ' ſuch Beaſt as this, or no. But the great Eſteem ' of his Horn (in many Places to be ſeen) may ' take away that needleſs Scruple.

' He beareth Gules, an ' Unicorn tripping, Ar' gent, armed and ungu' led, Or, by the Name of ' Muſterton. Touching the ' invincible Nature of this ' Beaſt, Job ſaith, Wilt ' thou truſt him becauſe his ' Strength is great, and caſt ' thy Labour unto him? Wilt ' thou believe him, that he will bring home thy ſeed, ' and gather it into thy Barn? And his Vertue is ' no leſs famous than his Strength, in that his ' Horn is ſuppoſed to be the moſt powerful An' tidote againſt Poiſon: Inſomuch as the gene' ral Conceit is, That the wild Beaſts of the ' Wil-

'Wilderneſs uſe not to drink of the Pools, for 'fear of venomous Serpents there breeding, be-'fore the Unicorn hath ſtirred it with his Horn. 'Howſoever it be, this Charge may very well 'be a Repreſentation both of Strength or Cou-'rage, and alſo of vertuous Diſpoſitions and 'Ability to do Good; for to have Strength of 'Body without the Gifts and good Qualities of 'the Mind, is but the Property of an Ox, but 'where both concur, that may truly be called 'Manlineſs. And that theſe two ſhould con-'fort together, the Ancients did ſignify, when 'they made this one Word, Virtus, to imply 'both the Strength of Body, and Vertue of the 'Mind.

Azure, an Unicorn ſaliant, Erminois, was the Coat belonging to Thomas Meautis of Weſtham in the County of Eſſex, living Anno 1614. who married Elizabeth, Daughter to Sir Henry Conisby of North Mymm, and had Iſſue Henry Meautis Son and Heir, who married Elizabeth, Daughter of Sir William Glover of London, Kt. and had Iſſue Henry Meautis and Anne.

The ſaid Thomas Meautis and Elizabeth had Iſſue alſo Edmund, 2d Son, who married Mary, Daughter and Co-heir of John Farmer, Doctor of Phyſick; Thomas 3d Son, Philip 4th Son, and John 5th Son; alſo three Daughters, viz. Elizabeth, Anne, (Wife to William Glover, 2d Son of Sir William Glover) and Frances.

Note, That Tho. Meautis of Weſtham aforeſaid, was eldeſt Son and Heir of Henry Meautis of the ſaid Place, Eſq; who was eldeſt Son and Heir of Sir Peter Meautis of the ſame Place, Kt. who was ſent Ambaſſador into France by King Henry the Eighth, and dy'd at Diepe, where he lies buried. He was Son and Heir of Thomas, the Son and Heir of John Meautis born in the Dutchy of Normandy in France, who came into England with King Henry the Seventh, and was his Secretary for the French Tongue.

Vid. Viſit. de Com. Eſſex, Ann. 1614. C. 21. fol. 19.

'He beareth Sable, three 'Unicorns in Pale, cur-'rent, Argent, armed, Or, 'by the Name of Farring-'ton. It ſeemeth, by a 'Queſtion moved by Far-'neſius, That the Unicorn 'is never taken alive; 'and the Reaſon being de-'manded, it is anſwered, 'That the Greatneſs of his Mind is ſuch, that 'he chuſeth rather to die than to be taken alive: 'Wherein (ſaith he) the Unicorn and the va-'liant-minded Souldier are alike, which both 'contemn Death, and rather than they will be 'compelled to undergo any baſe Servitude or 'Bondage, they will loſe their Lives.

He beareth Gules, a Feſs Vaire, between three Unicorns paſſant, Or, by the Name of Wilkinſon. This Coat was confirmed to Richard Wilkinſon of Wartnaby in the County of Kent; one of the Chancery Clerks; by William Camden, Clarencieux, Sept. 14. 1605.

He beareth Azure, an Unicorn's Head eraſed, Argent, armed, and gorged about the Neck with a Ducal Coronet, Or, by the Name of Goſton. This Coat was aſſigned by William Cambden, Clarencieux, Anno Dom. 1622, to Francis Goſton of Stockwell in the County of Surry.

'He beareth Gules, 3 'Unicorns Heads, couped, 'Argent, by the Name of 'Shelly. The Unicorn is 'an untameable Beaſt by 'Nature, as may be ga-'thered by the Words of 'Job, chap. 39. Will the 'Unicorn ſerve thee, or will 'he tarry by thy Crib? Canſt 'thou bind the Unicorn with his Band to labour 'in the Furrow, or will he plough the Valleys af-'ter thee?

(𝔐) He beareth Argent, three Unicorns Heads eraſed, Sable, by the Name of Preſton, of Old; Preſton now of that Ilk doth carry the ſame.

Argent, a Bend between two Unicorns Heads eraſed, Azure, is born by the Name of Smith, and was confirmed to Anthony Smith of Milford in Surry, Eſq; One of the Gentlemen Penſioners to King Charles the Second, and Servant to King Charles the Firſt, by Sir Edward Byſſhe, Clarencieux, June 29, 1667.

N. B. The ancient Arms of the Houſe whence this Anthony deſcends, were with three Lozenges on the Bend; but he being deſirous (ſaith the Patent) to omit thoſe Lozenges, the Bearing was confirmed without them, both to him and to his Brother Thomas, and to their Heirs; and also unto the Heirs of Anthony Smith their Father, lawfully begotten.

Argent, a Bend between two Unicorns Heads erased, Gules, was confirmed by William Flower, Norroy, the 11th of January 1567, and in the 10th Year of Queen Elizabeth, to William Smithe of Noon-Stanton in the County Palatine of Durham, Esq;

" He beareth Argent, a " Chevron, Ermine, be- " tween three Unicorns " Heads couped, Sable, by " the Name of Head, and " is the Coat-Armour of " Sir Richard Head of the " City of Rochester in Kent, " Baronet.

(M) Vert, on a Chevron between three Unicorns Heads erased; was the Bearing of Ker, Earl of Roxburgh.

" He beareth Sable, a " Camel passant, Argent, " by the Name of Ca- " mel. This Coat-Armour " standeth in Bury-Pome- " roy Church in the Coun- " ty of Devon. This Beast " far surpasseth the Horse " in swiftness in travel, to " whom he is a hateful " Enemy. After all these cloven-footed Beasts, " I will add one more, no way inferior in Sto- " mach and absolute Resolution to any of the " Former.

' He beareth Argent, a ' Boar passant, Gules, arm- ' ed, Or, by the Name of ' Trewarthen. The Boar, ' tho' he wanteth Horns, ' is no way defective in his ' Armour; nay, he is be- ' yond those formerly ex- ' emplified, and is count- ' ed the most absolute ' Champion among Beasts, for that he hath ' both Weapons to wound his Foe, which are ' his strong and sharp Tusks, and also his Tar- ' get to defend himself; for which he useth of- ' ten to rub his Shoulders and Sides against ' Trees, thereby to harden them against the ' Stroke of his Adversary: And the Shield of a ' Boar well managed, is a good Buckler against ' that cruel Enemy called Hunger.

(N) He beareth Gules, a Boar passant, Or, by the Name of Baird of Auchmeden.

Argent, on a Mount Proper, a Boar standing, Sable, unguled, coded and pilled of the Field, about his Neck a flat Chain with a Link at the End, Or, is born by the Name of Kellet, and was confirmed unto Matthew Kellet of Rypley in Surrey, Gent. by Tho. Hawley, Clarencieux, Octob. 1. in the 4th Year of Edward the VIth.

He beareth Vert, a Boar's Head erased, Argent, by the Name of Pithladdow of that Ilk.

' He beareth Argent, 3 ' Boars Heads couped, Sa- ' ble, armed Or, by the ' Name of Cradock. The ' Boar is so cruel and sto- ' machful in his Fight, that ' he foameth all the While ' for Rage; and against ' the Time of any En- ' counter he often whet- ' teth his Tusks to make them the more pier- ' cing. The Boar hath been much honoured ' by being the Crest of an Earl, which seemeth ' to be given to the House of Vere, because Ver- ' res is the Name of a Boar in Latin.

He beareth Argent, three Boars Heads couped, Gules, by the Name of Playsted of Suffolk.

(O) Azure, three Boars Heads couped, Argent, is born by the Name of Newton, a Scottish Family.

(O) Argent, three Boars Heads couped, Sable, is born by Swinton of that Ilk.

(O) Cruickshanke of Tilly-Morgan in Scotland, beareth Or, three Boars Heads erased, Sable.

' He beareth Topaz, 3 ' Boars Heads erected and ' erased, Diamond, armed ' Topaz. This is the Bear- ' ing of the Right Honou- ' rable George Booth, Ba- ' ron Delamer, of Dunham- ' Massey in Cheshire: From ' whose Family is descend- ' ed Sir Robert Booth of ' Salford in Lancashire, Kt. now Lord Chief Ju- ' stice of his Majesty's Court of Common Pleas ' in Ireland, and one of his most Honourable ' Privy Council for the said Kingdom, Grand- ' child of Humphrey Booth of Salford aforesaid, ' Esquire, who in his Life-time erected a Chap- ' pel there, and endowed it with a liberal Main- ' tenance; as also left to the Poor of the said ' Parish 20 l. per Annum for their Relief.

This

'This Coat with a due Difference appertain-
'eth to Richard Booth of the City of London, Esq;
'who descended from the Booths of Witton in 'Warwickshire, where the said Family have been
'seated four Generations.

Argent, three Boars Heads erected and erased, Sable, was the Coat of John Bouth of Barton ..... who married, to his first Wife, Cicely, Daughter to Sir John Warren of Cheshire, and had Issue Alice; and to his second Wife, Dorothy, Daughter to Sir Thomas Butler of Beuse, Father (saith Glover) to Thomas Butler that now is; by which second Wife he had Issue John and Dorothy, which John at this Time (saith Glover) is six Years Old, and his Father dead. Dorothy married to James Scarbridge of Scar, which James (according to the above Author) was at that Time Ten, and Dorothy Eight Years Old.

(G) Vert, a Saltire engrail'd, and in Chief a Boar's Head erased, Argent, belongs to Chapman, a Scots Family.

(G) Tennant of that Ilk, bears Argent, a Boar's Head couped in Chief, and two Crescents in Base, Sable.

(G) Irland of Baruban in Scotland; Argent, two Barrs, Gules, on the Uppermost three Mullets, Or, and in Chief, a Boar's Head couped, Azure.

(G) He beareth Argent, on a Chevron, Gules, between three Oak-Trees, Proper, a Boar's Head couped of the First, by the Name of Spotswood.

(G) Bogge of that Ilk beareth Gules, a Chevron between two Roses in Chief, and a Boar's Head erased in Base, Argent.

Or, a Chevron Azure, on a Quarter of the Second a Boar's Head erased between three Fleurs de lis, Or, was assigned by Patent to Thomas Edmonds of Plimouth, in the County of Devon, by Will. Camden, Clarencieux, July 22, 1599.

(G) He beareth Argent, on a Bend Sable, three Boars Heads couped Or, by the Name of Turring of Foveran.

(G) He beareth Or, on a Bend Azure, three Boars Heads erased Argent, by the Name of Haitly of Millerstaines.

(G) He beareth Argent, a Fess wavy, Gules, between three Boars Heads erased, Sable, by the Name of Allerdes of that Ilk.

"He beareth Gules, a "Chevron between three "Boars Heads couped, Ar- "gent, armed, Or, by the "Name of White, and is "thus born by Sir Stephen "White, Kt. formerly of "the City of London, and "now of the Parish of "Hackney in Middlesex; "descended from a Fami- "ly of good Antiquity in Norfolk.

'The Bearing of the Boar in Arms betoken-
'eth a Man of a bold Spirit, skilful, politick in
'warlike Feats, and One of that high Resolu'tion, that he will rather die valorously in the 'Field, than he will secure himself by ignomi-
'nious Flight. He is called, in Latin, Aper, (ac'cording to Farnesius) ab asperitate, because he is
'so sharp and fierce in conflict with his Foe.
'And this is a special Property in a Souldier,
'that he be fierce in the Encountring his Ene-
'my, and he bear the Shock or Brunt of the 'Conflict with a noble and magnanimous Cou-
'rage; Miles enim dura & aspera perfringit animi

CHAP. XV.

'HITHERTO of such Beasts as we 'call Animalia Bisulca, which have their 'Feet parted only into two Claws: The next 'Part of our Distribution containeth those 'which are called Multifida, which have many 'Claws; of which Sort are not only Lyons, 'Bears, Wolves, and others of fierce and rave- 'nous Kind, that live by Prey and Spoil; but 'such also as are of timorous Nature, whose 'chiefest Safety consisteth rather in Swiftness of 'Foot, than in any other Means, as Foxes, 'Hares, Conies, and others of less harmful 'Kind, whereof I will give particular Exam- 'ples: But first I will offer unto your careful 'Observation, certain Notes, as well of general 'as of particular Use, concerning Beasts of this 'Kind; not forgetting (by the Way) such 'Rules and Observations as have been already 'commended to your regard, That especially 'touching mix'd Bearing of Ordinaries and com- 'mon Charges, which must serve for a regular 'Direction throughout our whole Work. And 'in delivery of these Observations and Examples, 'I hold it fit to begin with Beasts of fierce Na- 'ture, and first with the Lyon, reckoned the 'King of Beasts; Dignioribus enim digniora loca 'sunt danda; high Person, highest Place.

'Some French Armouristsare of Opinion, 'That the Lyon should never be made Guar- 'dant, or full-faced, affirming That to be pro- 'per to the Leopard; wherein they offer great 'Indignity to that Royal Beast, in that they 'will not admit him (saith Upton) to shew his 'full Face, the Sight whereof doth terrify and 'astonish all the Beasts of the Field, and where- 'in consisteth his chiefest Majesty, and there- 'fore may not be denied that Prerogative, Quia 'omnia Animalia debent depingi & designari in suo 'ferociori actu, ex illis enim actibus magis vigorem 'suum ostendunt: All Beasts should be set forth 'in their most generous Action, for therein 'they shew their chiefest Vigour. As concern- 'ing the true Note whereby the Leopard is di- 'stinguished from the Lyon, Upton lib. de Armis 'writeth thus, Cognoscitur Leopardus à Leone, 'quia Leopardus ubique depingitur habens natura- 'liter maculas nigras, cum grosso capite, & est Ani- 'mal planum non hispidum: Leo vero habet unum 'colorem continuum, cum pectore hispido, cum certis 'jubis in cauda: The Leopard is pourtrayed with 'black Spots, and a great Head, and no where 'shaggy; whereas the Lyon is of one Colour, 'shaggy Breasted, with a certain Tuft of Hair 'in his Train. So that it is evident, that the 'Leopard is notably distinguished both in Shape 'and Colour, and not by his full-faced Counte- 'nance, as they dream. Moreover Upton saith, 'That he hath observed Leopards born by di- 'verse Noblemen, as well half-faced as guar- 'dant.

'It is observed, That the generous Nature of 'the Lyon is discerned by his plentiful shaggy 'Locks that do cover his Neck and Shoulders, 'which are infallible Tokens of his noble Cou- 'rage,

'rage, eſpecially if thoſe his Locks be criſped 'and curled, and ſhort withal. Such Lyons 'were thoſe whereof St. Hierom maketh men-'tion, In vita Pauli Eremitæ, ſaying, Talia in 'animo volvente, ecce duo Leones ex interioris 'Eremi parte currentes, volantibus per colla jubis fere-'bantur: Two Lyons came running with their 'ſhaggy Locks waving about their Shoulders. 'Moreover the Thickneſs of the Lyon's Mane 'is a Teſtimony of his generous Birth, and by 'the ſame he is diſtinguiſhed from the dege-'nerate and baſtard Race of Leopards begotten 'between the adulterous Lyoneſs and the Parde, 'which are naturally deprived of this noble 'Mark; and not only ſo, but they are alſo be-'reft of that bold and invincible Courage that 'the generous Sort of Lyons have. For theſe 'reſpects the degenerate Brood of Lyons are 'called, in Latin, Imbelles Leones, that is, heart-'leſs and cowardly Lyons; whereas the true 'Lyon is termed, in Latin, Generoſus Leo, quia 'generoſum eſt quod à natura ſua non degeneravit; 'That is generous which degenerateth not from 'his Kind: By which Reaſon a Man of noble 'Deſcent, and ignoble Conditions, is not truly 'Generous, becauſe he degenerateth from the 'Vertues of his Anceſtors.

'Lyons, Bears, Wolves, and other Beaſts of 'ravening Kind, when they are born in Arms 'feeding, you muſt term them, in blazon, Ra-ping, and tell whereon. To all Beaſts of Prey 'Nature hath aſſigned Teeth and Talons of 'crooked Shape, and therewithal of great 'Sharpneſs, to the End they may ſtrongly ſeize 'upon and detain their Prey, and ſpeedily rend 'and divide the ſame. And therefore in bla-'zoning of Beaſts of this Kind, you muſt not 'omit to mention their Teeth and Tallons, 'which are their only Armour; for by them 'they are diſtinguiſhed from thoſe tame and 'harmleſs Beaſts, that have their Teeth knock-'ed out, and their Nails pared ſo near to the 'Quick, as that they can neither bite nor ſcratch 'with much harm. Thoſe Teeth and Tallons 'are for the moſt Part in Coat-Armours made 'of a different Colour from the Bodies of the 'Beaſts; and therefore in blazoning of Beaſts 'of this Kind, when you ſpeak of their Teeth 'or Tallons, you ſhall ſay they are thus or thus 'armed. So likewiſe if you pleaſe to ſpeak of 'their Tongues, you ſhall ſay they are thus or 'thus langued.

'To bear a Lyon, or whatſoever Animal in a 'diverſe Colour from his kindly or natural Co-'lour, as to bear a Blue, Green, Red, Purple 'Lyon, Bear, &c. or whatſoever other Colour 'different from that which is natural unto him, 'is not a Bearing reproachful, though diſagree-'ing to his Nature, if we conſider of the Oc-'caſion of their primary Conſtitution; for that 'the Cuſtom of ſuch Bearing ſeemeth to have 'proceeded from eminent Perſons, who habit-'ing themſelves either for their Sports of Hunt-'ing, or for military Services (as beſt fitted 'their Fantaſies) would, withal, ſuit their Ar-'mours and Habiliments with Colours anſwer-'able to their Habits, with the Shapes and 'Portraiture of forged and counterfeit Ani-'mals.

'Or elſe, perhaps, by occaſion of ſome civil 'Tumults, as that between the Guelphi and the 'Gibelini in Italy, they, perhaps, of each Fa-'ction bearing Lyons, Bears, and Wolves, or 'other Animals, to avoid Confuſion, and to 'the End the One of them ſhould not be en-'trapped by the Other of the contrary Faction, 'when they were intermixed one with another, 'and that their valorous Actions might be more 'particularly diſcerned from the Other, they 'diſtinguiſhed themſelves by different and un-'like-coloured Garments, that ſo each Governor 'and Leader might know thoſe that were of 'his own Faction.

'The like may we obſerve to have been of 'late Years uſed among our ſelves, when pri-'vate Factions have ſprung among us; one Sort 'was known from others of the contrary Fa-'ction by a Carnation-Riband worn about, or 'in his Hat; or by a Crimſon-Feather, or other 'Thing: The contrary Faction wearing like 'Thing, but in a different Colour or Fa-'ſhion.

'The Lyon (ſaith Upton) paſſing thorough ſtony 'Places, doth contract his Tallons within his Fleſh, 'and ſo walketh on his Feet as if he had no Tallons 'at all, keeping them exceeding choicely, leſt he 'ſhould dull and blunt their Sharpneſs, and ſo be-'come leſs able to attack and rend his Prey. And 'this Property ſeemeth not to be peculiar to a 'Lyon, but common to all Beaſts of Rapine; 'as Pliny aſcribeth the ſame Property to Leo-pards, Panthers, and ſuch other, as well as to 'the Lyon.

'Not only Lyons, but alſo all other Beaſts of 'ravenous Kind (according to Bekenhawb) do 'bring forth their Young in ſome Part defective; 'as Lyons do produce their Whelps dead, Dogs 'bring them forth blind, Bears deformed and 'ſhapeleſs, &c. For Nature would not that 'they ſhould attain Perfection in the Womb, in 'regard of the Safety of their Dam, leſt in their 'Production they ſhould ſpoil and rend her 'Womb by their Teeth and Tallons.

'Other more particular Rules there are con-'cerning the diverſe Kinds and peculiar Actions 'of Beaſts of Rapine, which ſhall follow in their 'more convenient Places. In the mean Time, 'let us proceed to Examples that may give Life 'and Approbation to thoſe premiſed Rules; 'Præcepta enim quantumvis bona & concinna, mor-'tua ſunt, niſi ipſe auditor variis exemplis ea per-'cipiat; Good and fit Precepts are but dead, un-'leſs Examples give them Life: Of which Opi-'nion was Leo the Tenth, when he ſaid,

'Plus valent exempla quàm præcepta,
'Et melius docemur vitâ quam verbo.

'Examples are more forcible than Precepts,
'And our Lives teach more than our Words.

He

'He beareth Jupiter, a 'Lyon dormant, Sol. The 'Hebrew Rabbies (saith 'Leigh) writing upon the 'Second of Numbers, do 'assign to the Tribe of 'Judah a Lyon after this 'Manner, alluding belike 'unto that Blessing that 'Jacob (a little before his 'Death) did pronounce upon Judah, saying, He 'shall lie down and couch as a Lyon; who dares stir 'him up? Wherein one noteth, That Jacob 'seemeth to allude to that Diminution, which 'happened at such Time as the greatest Part 'of the People of that Tribe did fall away unto 'Jeroboam; Tunc enim (saith he) Rex Judæ si- 'milis esse cœpit Leoni dormienti; neque enim erectis 'jubis timorem suum latè effudit, sed quodammodo 'accubuit in spelunca. Latuit tamen quædam oc- 'culta virtus sub illo sopore, &c. The King of 'Judah was then like a sleeping Lyon, which 'did not shew his Rage with his erected Shag; 'but did as it were lurk in his Den, yet so as he 'lost not his Strength in his Sleep, neither durst 'any the most Adventurous to rouse him. This 'may be true of the King of Judah, but surely 'the Lyon of the Tribe of Judah doth neither 'slumber nor sleep, though he seemeth to sleep; 'neither doth their Vengeance sleep who dare pro- 'voke him. It is reported, That the Lyon 'sleepeth with his Eyes open; so should Gover 'nors do, whose Vigilancy should shew it self 'when others are most at rest and secure.

'He beareth Or, a Lyon 'couchant, Sable. The 'Lyon couching after this 'Manner, must not be 'deemed to have been 'compelled thereunto, but 'that he hath so settled 'himself of his own ac- 'cord; for it is contrary 'to his magnanimous Na- 'ture to couch by any Chastisement, or to be 'corrected in himself; but if a Whelp, or some 'other Beast be beaten or chastised in his Sight, 'he thereupon humbleth himself after this Man- 'ner: But as touching himself, he must be 'overcome with Gentleness, and so is he easiest 'won. Generosus enim animus facilius ducitur 'quàm trahitur; The generous Mind you may 'easier lead than draw. So when the Children 'of Princes offend, their Pages are whipt before 'them: And the Persians, if a Nobleman of- 'fended, brought forth his Garment and beat it 'with Wands.

'He beareth Gules, a 'Lyon Seiant, Argent. 'Though this Form and 'Gesture hath affinity 'with the Former, yet 'the Difference is easy to 'be observed, by compa- 'ring the Manner of their 'reposing: And in these 'Kinds of Varieties of 'Gestures, you may observe, that by Degrees 'and Steps I proceed from the most quiet to the 'most fierce Gesture and Action.

'The Field is Mars, a 'Lyon passant, guardant, 'Sol. This was the Coat- 'Armour of William D. 'of Aquitaine, and of 'Guyen, one of the Peers 'of France, whose Daugh- 'ter and Heir, named Elea- 'nor, was married to Hen- 'ry the Second, King of 'England; by reason of which Match, the Field 'and Charge being of the same Colour and Me- 'tal that the then Royal Ensigns of this Land 'were, and this Lyon of the like Action that 'those were of, this Lyon was united with 'those two Lyons in one Shield: Since which 'Time the Kings of England have born three 'Lyons passant, guardant, as hereafter shall ap- 'pear.

"Sol, a Lyon passant, guardant, Mars, was "born by Brutus, Son of Silvius Posthumus, who "coming out of Italy with the Remnant of the "Trojans, found out this Island of Great Bri- "tain, and reigned four and twenty Years.

Ermine, a Lyon passant, Gules, was the Coat of Edward Drewe of Higham alias Norton in the County of Devon, Esq; who married Anne, Daughter of John Croker of Lyneham in the said County, Esq; and had Issue Edmund and Mary; also John, a Son; or, Johanna, a Daughter; Qu? This Edward was Son of Richard Drewe of Drewes- cliffe in the said County, and of Higham also; whose Predecessors were seated at Drewscliffe some Generations.

(S) Argent, a Lyon passant, Gules. This pertains to Leichstein of Uzzan.

"He beareth Pearl, a "Lyon passant, guardant, "Ruby, gorged with a "Ducal-crown, Topaz, "and charged on the "Shoulder with a Mullet "of the First, and is born "by the Name of Ogilby, "an honourable and sprea- "ding Family in Scotland, "the Chief of which are

" the Right Hon. James Earl of Airly, Elight, " and Glentrahen, a Perſon ever Loyal to the " Crown, and was always concerned with the " Earl of Montroſs in his loyal Undertakings: " Once being taken Priſoner, he was to have " been beheaded in Scotland, but by a fortunate " Eſcape the Night before, was preſerved to do " his Majeſty more Service. He was long a " Priſoner in the Tower of London, and after his " Releaſement, did again engage himſelf in his " Majeſty's Service at Worceſter, and in the " North. His Brother, Sir David, at Worceſter " Fight was taken Priſoner, and ſent up to Lon- " don; and Sir George, his other Brother, was " killed in the Actions of Montroſs. Of this " Family are the Right Honourable the Earl of " Findlator, the Right Honourable the Lord " Ogilby, Baron of Bamfe, with ſeveral Knights " and Gentlemen: Among which is Michael " Ogilby, now Rector of Biddiford in Devonſhire, " and Chaplain in Ordinary to his Majeſty " King Charles the Second, whoſe Grandfather, " Sir Michael Ogilby, was a near Relation to " the Earl of Airly.

" He beareth, Or, on a " Chief, Gules, a Lyon of " England, by the Name " of Titus, and is the Pa- " ternal Coat-Armour of " Colonel Silus Titus of " Buſby in Hertfordſhire, " One of the Grooms of " his Majeſty's Bed-cham- " ber, &c.

Gules, on a Bend, Argent, a Lyon paſſant, Sable, is born by the Name of David; and was confirmed by William Flower, Norroy, April 20, 1581, to Robert David, Son of John David, the Son of David Griffith of North Wales.

M. S. of Grants in Aſhm. Num. 844.

Argent, on a Feſs, Sable, a Lyon paſſant of the Firſt, by the Name of Garrard or Garret. This Coat was born by Sir Samuel Garrard, Lord Mayor of London, Anno 1710.

Argent, a Lyon paſſant between two Flanches, Sable: Theſe Arms appertain to the Family of Garret of London, as I find them ratified and confirmed about the Year 1634, to George Garret of London, Draper, by Richard St. George, Clarencieux, King of Arms; which George Garret was afterwards, viz. Anno 1647, Knight and Alderman of the ſaid City.

" He beareth Or, two " Barrs, Azure, in Chief " a Lyon paſſant of the " Second, crowned, Gules, " by the Name of Gre- " gory, and is the Coat- " Armour of John Gregory " of St. Margarets, Weſt- " minſter in Middleſex, " Gent. deſcended from " the Gregories of Laſtingham in Yorkſhire; from " whence the Predeceſſors of the ſaid John " (about the Year 1525.) removed to Eaſt-ſtock- " with in Lincolnſhire, where they continued un- " til thence expelled by the Calamities of the " Wars, thro' the Loyalty of his Father, Lieu- " tenant Colonel William Gregory, and his two " elder Brethren William and Gilbert.

" Or, a Lyon paſſant, " Sable, in Chief three Ro- " man Piles of the Second. " This was the Paternal " Coat-Armour of John " Loggan (alias Logon, an " Engliſh Commander, by " whoſe Valour and Con- " duct the Scots (then " Maſters of the Northern " Part of Ireland) were in Anno 1317, in the " Time of Edward the Second, beaten out of " the Province of Ulſter, Sir Allen Stewart their " General, taken Priſoner, and brought to Dub- " lin, who for his Ranſom gave his Daughter, " with ſeveral Lands in Scotland, to his Con- " queror's Son, from whom came Sir Robert " Loggan, who was Admiral of Scotland, Anno " 1400. and from thence the Loggans of Reſtal- " rige in Scotland, now of Iabury in Oxfordſhire, " and of Baſſetsbury in Buckinghamſhire are lineal- " ly deſcended.

" Sable,

"Sable, three Piles, Ar- "gent, on a Chief of the "Second, a Lyon paſſant, "Gules, by the Name of "Hacket, and is born by "Sir Andrew Hacket of "Moxhull in Warwickſhire, "Kt. one of the Ma- "ſters of the High and "Honourable Court of "Chancery.

(M) Sable, three Piles conjoined in the Nombril, Argent, on a Chief, Gules, a Lyon paſſant guardant, is born by the Name of Hacket of Putſirren.

"Ermine, a Saltire en- "grailed, Gules, on a "Chief of the Second a "Lyon paſſant guardant, "Or, by the Name of Ar- "mine, and is the Coat- "Armour of Evers Ar- "mine of Oſgodby in Lin- "colnſhire, Eſq;

Gules, two Barrs Gemells, and a Lyon paſſant guardant in Chief, Or, was confirmed by Sir John Borough, Garter, Septemb. 10, 1639, to Richard Sprignell of High-gate in the County of Middleſex, Captain of the Trained Bands.

He beareth Gules, two Barrs Gemells, Argent, on a Bend, Or, a Lyon paſſant of the Field, armed and langued, Azure, by the Name of Farnaby. This Coat was granted to John Farnaby of the City of Canterbury in the County of Kent, (eldeſt Son of Thomas Farnaby of Keppington in the ſaid County) by Sir Edward Walker, Garter, May 3, 1664. in the 16th Year of King Charles the Second, becauſe that he the ſaid John Farnaby was a Man of great Loyalty and Learning, and very active in aſſiſting his Sovereign's Cauſe, during the horrid Rebellion, and perſonally ſerv'd him under Prince Rupert, Prince Maurice, and diverſe others; for which he was ſeveral Times Impriſon'd, Plunder'd, Sequeſter'd and Decimated; yet ſtill perſiſted, and, to his utmoſt Power, endeavour'd the Reſtoration of King Charles the Second. And in the ſecond Year of the Reign of Queen Anne, the ſaid Coat thus altered, viz. Argent, three Barrs Gemells, Gules, on a Bend, Or, a Lyon paſſant of the Second, was granted and confirmed to Charles (now Sir Charles) Farnaby, of Keppington within the Pariſh of Seven-Oak in the County of Kent, by Sir Henry St. George, Kt. Clarencieux.

Azure, a Lyon paſſant between three Croſſes Patée Fitchée, Or, with a Chief of the ſame, is born by the Name of Johnes, and was aſſigned by Patent dated Nov. 12, 1610. by William Cambden, Clarencieux, to Francis Johnes, Eſquire, Alderman of London, the Son of John, the Son of Thomas Johnes of Loeſton in the County of Salop.

"He beareth Saphire, "a Lyon paſſant, be- "tween three Fleurs de "lis, Pearl. This is the "Coat-Armour of the "Right Honourable Dud- "ley North, Baron of Carth- "ley, &c. whoſe ſecond "Son, Sir Francis North, "Knight, is Lord Chief "Juſtice of his Majeſty's Court of Common- "Pleas.

He beareth Argent, a Lyon paſſant, Sable, on a Chief of the Second three Mullets with ſix Points, of the Firſt, by the Name of Ball. This Coat was aſſigned by Sir William Segar, Garter, Decemb. 22, 1613, to the Reverend Richard Ball, D. D. Son of Laurence Ball of Northampton.

He beareth Argent, a Lyon paſſant in Bend cottiſed, Gules, on a Chief, Azure, two Eſtoils, Or, by the Name of Cook. This Coat was allowed by William Segar, to Thomas Cook of London, Haberdaſher. —

Her. Off. inter M. S. Vincent, Num. 154.

(S) He beareth Or, three Barrs Azure, above them a Lyon paſſant, Gules, on a Chief of the Second three Mullets, Argent, by the Name of Steillys; a Scots Family.

"Argent, two Lyons "passant guardant, Azure, "by the Name of Han- "mer. This with the "Arms of Ulster is the "Bearing of Sir Thomas "Hanmer of Hanmer and "Bettisfield in Flintshire, "Baronet, descended by "many Knights from "Sir John de Hanmer, who lived in the Reign "of Edward the First. Camden in his Britannia "mentioning Hanmer Town, hath these Words, "Unde clara sane & antiqua quæ ibi habitat fa- "milia cognomen assumpsit.

"Or, two Lyons passant guardant, Gules, is "the Coat of the Right Honourable Sir Wil- "liam Ducy of Tortworth in Gloucestershire, Knight "of the Bath and Baronet, now Viscount Down "in Ireland.

"Gules, two Lyons passant guardant, Argent, "by the Name of L'Estrange, a Family of good "Antiquity, of which is Sir Nicholas L'Estrange "of Hunstanton in Norfolk, Baronet, and Ro- "ger L'Estrange of St. Giles's in the Fields in "Middlesex, Esquire.

"Gules, two Lyons passant guardant, Or, "was the Coat-Armour of William Duke of "Normandy, base Son of Robert Duke of Nor- "mandy, who in Anno 1066, having slain King "Harold in Battel, seized the Kingdom, and "reigned almost One and twenty Years, since "which Time his Heirs have happily enjoyed his "Crown and Dignity.

Azure, two Lyons passant guardant, Argent, is born by the Name of Barnes; and was confirmed by William Camden, Clarencieux, Anno 1614, to Edward Barnes of the City of London.

Gules, two Lyons passant, Argent, armed and langued, Azure. This Coat was born by ..... Strange of ..... in the County of Glouceſter, who was Governor of Hurſt-Caſtle after the Reſtoration of King Charles II.

M. S. of Ant. à Wood's Remarks de Com. Oxon. p. 139.

"He beareth Sable, two "Lioncels counter-paſ- "ſant, Argent, the Upper- "moſt towards the ſini- "ſter Side of the Eſcut- "cheon, both collared, "Gules, by the Name of "Glegg, and is the Coat "of Edward Glegg of Gay- "ton, and Edward Glegg "of Grange, both of Cheſhire, Eſquires. Some "Blazoners have given another blazon to this "Coat-Armour thus: He beareth Sable, two "Lioncels, the One paſſant, the Other re-paſ- "ſant, Argent, both collared, Gules. But in "my Opinion, no Man by this laſt blazon is "able to trick or expreſs the true Portraiture "and Manner of the Bearing of theſe Lioncels; "for it appeareth not by this blazon towards "which Part or Side of the Eſcutcheon their "Heads are placed, which is contrary to the "Rule given, Chap. 4. Sect. 1. The Lyon and "the Lyoneſs do never go one and the ſame "Way, either when they ſeek their Prey, or "when they go to fight: The ſkilful and expert "Men render this Reaſon for it, That theſe "Beaſts ſtand ſo much upon their Strength of "Body, as that neither of them needeth the "Other's help.

He beareth Sable, two Lyons counter-paſſant Argent, collar'd, Gules, by the Name of Gleg.

Or, a Feſs wavy, Azure, between two Lyons paſſant guardant, Sable, was granted by William Flower, Norroy, Jan. 5, 1578, in the 21ſt Year of Queen Elizabeth, to Brian Bailles of the County of York, Eſquire, and to his Poſterity.

M. S. in Aſhm. Num. 834. p. 16.

Gules, a Feſs Vaire, between two Lyons paſſant guardant, Ermines, was granted or confirmed to Edmond Downing of Pyneſt in the Pariſh of Waltham Holy-Croſs in Eſſex, by Robert Cooke, Clarencieux.

Or, a Chevron Gules, between two Lyons paſſant guardant, Sable, armed of the Second, was confirmed to Bryan Cook of Doncaſter in the County of York, and to his Poſterity, with their due Differences, by Sir Richard St. George, Norroy, the 27th of Auguſt 1635, in the 11th Year of King Charles I.

"He beareth Gules, two "Lyons paſſant within a "Bordure engrailed, Ar- "gent, by the Name of "Strange, and is born by "Jo. Strange of the City "of London, Gent.

Azure,

Azure, a Fleur de lis, Argent, on a Chief indented of the Second a Lyon paſſant, Gules, was granted to Bartholomew Fowke, chief Clerk of the Spicery in the Queen's Majeſty's Houſe, by Letters Patents dated Anno Dom. 1580, in the 23d Year of Queen Elizabeth.

M. S. in Aſhm. Num. 834. p. 36.

Argent, on a Feſs, Gules, between two Lyons paſſant, Sable, a Fleur de lis between two Creſcents, Argent. This was the Coat of Edward Gooderick of Kirkby in the County of Lincoln, who married Jane, Daughter and Heir of ..... Williamſon of Boſton, and had Iſſue John Gooderick (who married ..... Daughter and Co-heir of Sir Lionell Dymoke, Kt. of Strickforth) alſo Henry Gooderick, and Thomas Gooderick Biſhop of Ely, and Chancellor of England.

Note, That the aboveſaid Edward was eldeſt Son of John Gooderick of Bullingbrook in the County of Lincoln, by ..... Daughter of Hutton.

M. S. of Ant. à Wood, F. 3. f. 60.

(G) Gules, on a Bend, Argent, a Roſe between two Lyons paſſant, of the Firſt, pertains to the Name of Herren of Sylinton in Scotland.

(G) Gules, on a Bend, Argent, two Cinquefoils and two Lyons paſſant alternately, of the Firſt, belongs to Herring of Lethinty in Scotland.

(H) Gules, on a Chevron, Argent, a Roſe between two Lyons combatant of the Firſt; was born by Hepburn of Humbie.

'He beareth Argent, 'three Lyons paſſant guar- 'dant, Gules. This Coat- 'Armour pertaineth to 'that worthy Gentleman 'Sir John Brograve, Kt. 'ſometimes Attorney-Ge- 'neral of the Dutchy of 'Lancaſter. In the Bla- 'zoning of Arms conſiſt- 'ing of more Lyons in a Field than One, you 'muſt term them Lyoncels (according to Leigh) 'which is as much to ſay, as ſo many young 'or ſmall Lyons. The Reaſon of this Rule I 'take to be this, That inaſmuch as the Lyon 'hath a Prerogative Royal over all Beaſts, and 'cannot endure that any other ſhould partici- 'pate of the Field with him, Quia Principes no- 'lunt pares, Princes will admit no Fellows to 'the Impeachment of their Sovereignty; there- 'fore the Bearing of diverſe Lyons in one Field 'muſt be underſtood of Lyons Whelps, which 'as yet have not ſo great Feeling of their own 'Strength, or inbred noble Courage, nor Ap- 'prehenſion of their native Royal Sove- 'reignty over all Beaſts, as Lyons have. But 'Leones adulti participationem non admittere ſo- 'lent, when they are of Years they will know 'their own Worth.

'Note, That this Rule muſt be underſtood 'with a Limitation in ſome particular Caſes, 'Quia non eſt regula adeò generalis, quin admittat 'exceptionem in ſuo particulari: For this Rule 'holdeth not in the Sovereign's Enſigns, where 'theſe Beaſts are ſaid to be Lyons, propter dig- 'nitatem Regiæ Majeſtatis: Next, this Rule hath 'no Place in Coat-Armours, wherein any of the 'honourable Ordinaries are interpoſed between 'theſe Beaſts: For by ſuch interpoſitions of theſe 'Ordinaries (ſaith Leigh) every one of them is 'reckoned to be of as great Dignity, as if he were 'born dividedly in ſo many ſeveral Eſcutcheons, 'and that in reſpect of the Sovereignty of the Ordi- 'nary ſo interpoſed; for which Cauſe they have the 'Title of moſt worthy Partitions. And ſo ſhall 'you reckon of all other Coat-Armours conſiſt- 'ing of Things ſo divided.

'King Henry the Second being Duke of Aqui- 'tain and Guion, in the Right of his Grand- 'mother, and Duke of Normandy in Right of 'his Mother, joined the Arms of Guion, which 'was a Lyon paſſant guardant, unto that of 'Normandy and England, which was Gules, three 'Lyons paſſant guardant, Or.

He beareth Or, on a Bend, Sable, three Lyons paſſant, Argent, by the Name of Hagar. This Coat belong'd to Thomas Hagar of Bourne, Eſq; He was living Anno 1619, and married Anne, Daughter of William Benedick in Foſter-lane, London. He was Son and Heir of John Hagar, Eſq; the Son and Heir of John Hagar, Gent. (both of Bourne) which John laſt named, was Son and Heir of John Hagar of Eſſex. It was granted by William Camden, Clarencieux, Anno 1605.

Vide in lib. de Eſſex in Coll. Arm.

'He beareth Gules, on 'a Feſs, Argent, three 'Lyoncels paſſant guar- 'dant, Purpure. Theſe 'Arms appertained to Ar- 'nold Oldeſworth, Eſq; late 'Keeper of the Hamper 'of the High Court of 'Chancery. Such is the 'noble Courage and Mag- 'nanimity of the Lyon, as that in his greateſt 'Rage and Fury, he never doth tyrannize 'over

'over those that do prostrate themselves to 'his Mercy; whereof a certain Author thus 'writeth,

'Parcere prostratis sit nobilis ira Leonis:
'Tu quoque fac simile, quisquis regnabis in orbe.

"He beareth Azure, a "Fess wavy between 3 "Lyons passant, Or, arm- "ed and langued, Gules. "This is the Coat-Ar- "mour of John Hawes or "Hawys of London, who "draweth his descent from "William Hawys of Wal- "sham of the Willows in "Suffolk, which William was seized of Lands "there in the Time of Edward the Third. The "Lyon passing his Ground leisurely, and as it "were pedetentim, Step by Step, which Kind of "Gate we usually do call passant, expresseth his "most generous and noble Action of Majesty, "Clemency, and Circumspection.

Ermine, on a Bend cottised, Gules, three Lyons passant guardant, Or, was the Coat of Christopher Cooke of Thorne in the County of Devon, Gent. who married Margaret, Daughter of Richard Carland of Whytfeild, and had Issue Christopher. The aforesaid Christopher was Son of William, the Son of John the Son of John, whose Father was Christopher the Son of Henry Cooke, all of Thorne aforesaid, Gentlemen.

Argent, a Cross voided between four Lyons passant, Gules, is the ancient Coat belonging to the Name of Goulding; and was confirm'd to Robert Goulding of Newherber in the Parish of Levington in the County of Kent, Gent. Son and Heir of Henry Goulding of the said County, Gent. (and to the Descendants of the said Robert) by Robert Cooke, Clarencieux, May 13, 1572, in the 14th Year of Queen Eliz.

'He beareth Or, a Lyon 'saliant, Gules, by the 'Name of Felbridge. The 'proper Form of a Lyon 'saliant is, when his Right 'Forefoot answereth to 'the dexter Corner of the 'Escutcheon, and his hind- 'most Foot to the sinister 'base Point thereof. And 'he is termed saliant, à saliendo; because when 'he doth prosecute his Prey, he pursueth the same 'leaping, which Action he never useth when 'he is chased in fight (as Pliny noteth) but is 'only passant. And it is sometimes no dishonour to go softly, or retire leisurely out of the 'Field; but to fly is a Reproach; and therefore, of all Gestures, I never find any Lyon 'currant.

Or, a Lyon rampant, Gules. These Arms appertain to Sir Roger Filbrigge, Kt. Lord of Filbrigge in the Hundred of North Orpingham near Crooner, (fourteen Miles from Norwich City) where he had an Estate of Knighthood. His eldest Son, named Simon, had one only Daughter, married to John Tindall, Esq; who with her had the Estate, and whose Descendants to this Day enjoy it, and bear Arms as above set forth. John Filbrigge, Esq; (younger Son to Sir Roger aforesaid) purchased an Estate in the County of Huntington, whose Successors enjoy it to this Day. John Filbrigge of Payford in the County aforesaid, Kt. (and of the younger Family) bare the Coat of that Family, with the Distinction of three Crescents in Chief. He had Issue Margaret his only Daughter, who married Tho. Sampson of Brettenham in the County of Suffolk, Esq; and left one only Daughter Margery, who was married to Robert Tilton of Shotle in the County aforesaid, Esquire, and the Father of a very good Family. Thomas Filbrigge, Esq; (younger Brother to the aforesaid Sir John Filbrigge) purchased an Estate at Spaldwick in the County of Huntington, whose Descendants enjoy it to this Day.

The aforesaid Sir Roger Filbrigge, in the Time of King Edward the First, was made Earl of Norfolk, and Marshal of England. He sprang from the Family of the Bigods in the County of Norfolk, and took his Name from the Manor of Filbrigge aforesaid. He was one of the Nobles that went with the said King into Scotland, and there performed great Acts of Chivalry, and flourished much in the said King's Reign. He was born Anno 1242. This I take to be the same Coat as that mentioned by my Author, but conjecture it should be rampant, not saliant.

'Pearl, a Lyon ram- 'pant, Ruby, was the Coat 'of Edrick a Saxon, who 'at the Time of the Con- 'quest, was Earl of York; 'and for that he took Part 'with Earl Edgar Ethe- 'ling against William the 'Conqueror, and deliver- 'ed to him the City of 'York, he had, by the Conqueror's command, 'his Eyes put out, and was kept a Prisoner at 'Winchester during Life, and died without Issue.

'Ruby, a Lyon rampant, Pearl. This is the 'Paternal Coat-Armour of the Right Honou- 'rable Louis Duras, Baron Duras of Holmby, 'one of the Captains of his Majesty's Horse- 'Guards, and Privy Purse to his Royal High- 'ness

' neſs James Duke of York; Brother to the Duke ' and Marſhal Duras, as alſo to the Marſhal de ' Lorge in France, and Nephew to the late Mar- ' ſhal de Turein in the ſaid Kingdom; one of ' whoſe Anceſtors, viz. Galliard Lord Duras, ' was in the Reign of King Edward the Fourth, ' Knight of the Garter, being one of the laſt ' of Gaſcoign that held for the Crown of En- ' gland, where he came and continued in great ' Employments under the ſaid King Edward, ' until he was reſtored to his Eſtate in Gaſ- ' coign by the Peace made betwixt the two ' Crowns.

' Ruby, a Lyon rampant, Pearl, was the Coat- ' Armour of Roger Mowbray a Norman, who ' was made Earl of Northumberland by William ' the Conqueror. He ſlew in Battel Malcolm ' King of Scots, and his eldeſt Son; but after ' rebelling againſt William Rufus, was taken Pri- ' ſoner in Northumberland, and kept in Winche- ' ſter Priſon till the Reign of Henry the Firſt, ' and then died without Iſſue; after whoſe de- ' ceaſe King Henry the Firſt gave all his Lands ' and Arms to the Lord Nigell de Albaine, whoſe ' Son was called Mowbray, of whom deſcended ' the Mowbrays Dukes of Norfolk: And this Coat ' is now quartered by the honourable and flou- ' riſhing Family of the Howards.

" Ruby, a Lyon rampant, Topaz, is the Coat- " Armour of the Right Honourable Richard " Earl of Carbery, Baron Vaughan of Emblin and " Molingar.

" Saphire, a Lyon rampant, Pearl, is the Coat " of the Right Honourable John Lord Crew, " Baron of Stean, deſcended from Euſtace Crew, " who came into England with William the " Conqueror, and was made Baron of Mont- " halte.

" Sable, a Lyon rampant, Argent, is born by " Emond Lewis Carn-Lloyd in Glamorganſhire, Eſq; " and by Edward Lewis of the Van in the ſaid " County, Eſq; As touching the Bearing of the " Lyon after this Manner, I hold that then he " may be truly ſaid to be rampant, when he " ſtandeth ſo directly upright, as that the Crown " of his Head doth anſwer to the Plant of his " Foot, whereupon he ſtandeth in a perpendi- " cular Line, and not by placing of the Left " Foot in the dexter Corner of the Eſcutcheon, " as Leigh would have it. As the former Ex- " ample ſheweth the Geſture of the Lyon pur- " ſuing his Prey; ſo this ſheweth his Geſture in " ſeizing on it when he hath attained it.

Glov. Alph. of the North. in M. S. in Aſhm. Num. 834.

' The Field is Mars, a ' tricorporated Lyon iſſuing out of the three Corners of the Eſcutcheon, ' all meeting under one ' Head guardant, in the ' Feſs Point, Sol, langued ' and armed Jupiter. A ' like Lyon did Edmund, ' Surnamed Crouchback, ' (Earl of Lancaſter and Brother to King Edward ' the Firſt) bear in Device, as appeareth by the ' Seal of the ſame Edmund; the Circumference ' of which Seal containeth this Inſcription; ' SIGILLUM EDMUNDI FILII ' REGIS ANGLIÆ. Only herein it differeth from this, that where the Middlemoſt ' of the Bodies in this is born rampant, and the ' other Two deſcend from the Corners of the ' Eſcutcheon; contrariwiſe, in the Seal the two ' Lowermoſt are born paſſant, and the Third ' deſcended from above, and are all conjoyned ' in the Center of the ſaid Circumference. The ' like was born in Device by one of the Anceſtors of the Right Noble and Honourable late ' Lord Carew, Earl of Totneſs: But the Field of ' this was Topaz, and the Lyon Diamond; moreover the middlemoſt Body of this was rampant, ' and the other two after a Sort paſſant.

' He beareth Or, a demy Lyon rampant Gules, ' by the Name of Mallory. ' There are certain Forms ' of Bearing much like unto this at the firſt Sight; ' but are diverſe from it ' in Bearing, and do receive a different Form of ' Blazon, whereof good ' Heed muſt be taken, Quia diverſitas nominis denotat diverſitatem rei; The Diverſity of ' Names doth manifeſt the Diverſity of Things; ' inaſmuch as Names are ſignificant Demonſtrations of Things, and expreſs Notes of their ' Differences.

He

He beareth Ermine, a demy Lyon rampant eraſed Azure, gorged with a Collar Or, charged with three Torteaux's, by the Name of Card. This was granted to Andrew Card of Grey's Inn, Barriſter at Law, and to his Deſcendants, and to the Deſcendants of William Card, his Father, by Sir Thomas St. George, Garter, and Sir Henry St. George, Clarencieux, the 31ſt of May, Anno Dom. 1695, in the 7th Year of King William III.

'He beareth Azure, on 'a Chief Or, a Lyon ram-'pant iſſuant Gules, lan-'gued and armed of the 'Firſt, by the Name of 'Markham. This Lyon is 'ſaid to be iſſuant, be-'cauſe he doth iſſue from 'out of the Bottom of the 'Chief; and ſo muſt other 'Things be blazoned which thus ariſe from the 'Bottom thereof.

'He beareth Or, out of 'the Midſt of a Feſs, Sa-'ble, a demy Lyon ram 'pant, naiſſant Gules, arm 'ed and langued Azure. 'This Coat was born by 'Sir Henry Eame, Knight 'of the moſt Noble Or-'der of the Garter, and 'choſen Companion there-'of by Edward the Third, when he did erect 'and eſtabliſh the ſame. This Lyon is ſaid to 'be naiſſant, becauſe he ſeemeth to iſſue out of 'the Womb of the Feſs, Quaſi nunc eſſet in naſ-'cendo. This Form of Blazon is peculiar to 'all living Things that ſhall be found iſſuing 'out of the Midſt of ſome Ordinary or common 'Charge.

Her. Off. Vif. of Lond. mark'd C. 24. 318. b.

Vert, on a Chevron between three Lyons Heads eraſed Or, as many Croſs-croſlets Azure, is the Coat-Armour of Sir William Peake, Kt. Alderman of the City of London, Son of Boniface Peake of Achurch in the County of Northampton, a Perſon of good Fame and Reputation; who derives himſelf from a Family of that Name in the County of Lincoln, whereof at preſent is Sir Robert Peake of the City of London, Kt. a Perſon of known Loyalty and Fidelity, and ſometime a ..... in the Service of his late Majeſty King Charles I of ever glorious Memory, and Governor of Baſing, who, upon his Affirmation, hath declared the ſaid Sir William Peake to be of his Family, with ſuch proper Diſtinctions as may be fit: Given, granted, and aſſign'd unto the ſaid Sir William Peake, Kt. and the Heirs and Deſcendents of his Body for ever, as abovementioned; by Sir Edward Walker, Kt. Garter King of Arms, dated the 20th of July, in the 16th Year of King Charles the Second, Anno Dom. 1664.

He beareth Gules, a Croſs ragulé between four Lyons Heads eraſed Argent, crowned Or, by the Name of Walker. This Coat was granted by Sir Edward Walker, Garter, the 20th of December 1660, in the 12th Year of King Charles II. to Francis Walker of Bringwood in the County of Hereford, Gent. becauſe, from the Beginning of the Rebellion, with great Courage, Fidelity, and Activity, he aſſerted the Cauſe and Intereſt of King Charles I. and therein engag'd both his Perſon and Fortune; no ways deſiſting till the happy Reſtoration of King Charles the Second was accompliſhed.

Sable, on a Croſs Or, between four Lyons Heads eraſed Argent, as many Creſcents Gules, was the Bearing and true Arms of Stephen March, Captain of a ſelect Band in the Iſle of Wight. This, with his Deſcent, was enter'd in the Viſitation of Hantſhire made Anno 1635, by J. Philpot, Somerſet, mark'd C. 19. fo. 126.

Or, two Barrs Sable, between ſix Lyons Heads coup'd, three, two, one, Gules. Theſe Arms appertain'd to Henry Kearſly of London, Gent. made Regiſter of all Goods, Ships, Wares, and Merchandizes that ſhould be ſeized or ſtayed in any of the Ports or other Places whatſoever, within the Realm of England or Town or Port of Berwick, by reaſon of any unlawful Importations or Exportations; and this Truſt he exerciſed from Sept. 6. in the 6th Year of King Charles the Firſt, until the End of the Year 1648, at which Time he was removed by the Uſurp'd Powers then in being, for his Loyalty to the King, and ſo kept out and ſuffer'd the Loſs of his Place, until the happy Reſtoration and Return of King Charles II. by whom he was, in the 12th Year of his Reign, re-admitted and reſtored to his Office aforeſaid. A Patent to the ſaid Henry Kerſly and his Heirs, dated the Second of October 1662, by Sir Edward Byſhe, Clarencieux.

'He beareth Argent, on 'a Canton Sable, a Lyon's 'Paw eraſed in Bend Or, 'by the Name of Bowthe-by. This one Coat doth 'miniſter Occaſion of a 'two-fold Obſervation: 'The One, that this Mem-'ber is born upon Ordi-'naries: The Other, that 'It is born after the Manner or Faſhion of Ordinaries, as Chevron-ways, Croſs-ways, Saltire-ways, &c. as by the following Examples may appear.

'He beareth Sable, two Lyons Paws iſſuing out of the dexter and ſiniſter baſe Points, erected in Form of a Chevron Argent, armed Gules, by the Name of Frampton. The Fore-feet of the Lyon have five Toes upon each Foot, and the hinder Feet but four, whereby Nature hath enabled him, for the more ſure ſeizing and retaining his acquired Prey. The Lyons Claws are crooked and exceeding hard, with theſe he carveth and rendeth his Prey; and for this Purpoſe he keepeth them very choicely and tenderly, and is no leſs careful to ſave them from blunting, than a good Soldier is to keep his Armour and Weapons from ruſt and bluntneſs.

'He beareth Argent, two Lyons Paws eraſed in Saltire, the Dexter ſurmounted of the Siniſter Gules. That Lyons, Panthers, and Leopards do hide their Claws within their Skin when they go or run, it may ſeem a little Miracle; for they do never extend them but when they offer to ſeize their Prey, leſt they ſhould be blunted, and ſo become leſs ſerviceable for the Apprehenſion, Retention, and Diviſion of their Prey.

'He beareth Gules, 3 Lyons Gambes, or Paws eraſed Argent, by the Name of Newdigate; and is the Coat-Armour of Richard Newdigate of Harfield in Middleſex, Serjeant at Law, Son of Sir John Newdigate of Arbury in Warwickſhire, Kt. who was Son and Heir of John Newdigate of Harfield aforeſaid, Eſq;

'He beareth Sable, three Lyons Paws couped and erected Argent, armed Gules, by the Name of Uſher. Sometimes theſe Paws are found born upon Ordinaries, as in the preceeding Page may be ſeen, where there is a Lyon's Paw born upon a Canton. And you muſt obſerve, That altho' I do mention but one Example for an Inſtance, yet ſhall you, by Obſervation, find them born as well upon other Ordinaries as on that now mentioned.

'He beareth Sable, 3 Lyons Tails erected and eraſed Argent, by the Name of Corke. The Lyon hath great Strength in his Tail, the much Moving whereof is a manifeſt Token of Anger. When he mindeth to aſſail his Enemy, he ſtirreth up himſelf by often beating of his Back and Sides with his Tail, and thereby ſtirreth up his Courage, to the End he doth nothing faintly or cowardly. The Lyon when he is hunted, carefully provideth for his Safety, labouring to fruſtrate the Purſuit of the Hunters by ſweeping out his Footſteps with his Tail as he goeth, that no Appearance of his Track may be diſcovered, whereby they may know which Way to make after him.

'The Lyon beareth his Tail after a diverſe Manner, inſomuch as we may thereby (if not certainly know, yet give a near Gueſs) what a Mood he is in for the Preſent; viz. Whether he be furiouſly bent, or peaceable, or majeſtically affected. And theſe Qualities are manifeſtly diſcerned by the Inverſion, Everſion, or Extenſion, &c. of his Tail.

'My Opinion is, Sufficit quod inter arma mea & tua talis ſit differentia, qua detur diverſitas. And again, Nova forma dat novum eſſe rei: They are held not only to be Differences ſecundum quid, but ſimpliciter; that is to ſay, abſolute and eſſential Differences. Furthermore, Data una diſſimilitudine etiam paria judicabuntur diverſa: And, as Guillim hath obſerved, the leaſt Addition or Subtraction in armorial Signs, maketh them ceaſe to be the ſame that they were; Omnia Arma Arithmeticis figuris ſunt ſimillima, quibus ſi quid addas vel ſubtrahas, non remanet eadem ſpecies, as I have formerly ſhewed. Finally, for approbation of theſe Opinions, I will add this infallible Aſſertion, Ea differunt quorum definitiones differunt.

'The Everſion of the Tail of the Lyon is an expreſs Token of his Placability or Tractableneſs: As, contrariwiſe, the Inverſion of his Tail is a Note of Wrath and Fury, eſpecially if he do beat the Back therewith, and doth roar withal. Of this Property of the Lyon Catullus maketh mention in theſe Words,

'Age, cæde terga cauda tua, verbera pateant
'Face, cuncta mugienti fremitu loca retonent.

'The Gate of a Lyon, when he is paſſant, is an apparent Note of his Juriſdiction and regal

'regal Authority and Sovereignty wherewith 'the Extenſion of his Tail doth fitly quadrate 'and agree.

He beareth Azure, a Feſs embattelled counter-embattelled between 3 Lyons Paws eraſed Or, by the Name of Window. This Coat was aſſigned by Sir Ed. Walker, Auguſt 20, 1660, in the 12th Year of King Charles II. to William Window of the City of Glouceſter, Gent. a Perſon who (according to the Teſtimony of Sir Rob. Points, Col. Veal and other Perſons of great Worth) did, upon all Occaſions, during the late Times of Diſtraction, expreſs his Zeal and dutiful Affections to the juſt Intereſt of the Crown and his Majeſty's Reſtoration.

Sable, a Feſs ragulé between three Lyons Paws eraſed Or, armed Gules, is born by the Name of Payne; and was aſſigned by Patent, dated September 1660, in the 12th Year of King Charles the Second, to Sir Joſeph Payne, Knight, Mayor of the City of Norwich; a Perſon whoſe Loyalty in adhering to the King's Intereſt not only acquired this, but, at the Delivery of the ſaid City's Addreſs, the Dignity of Knighthood alſo; as is ſet forth at large in the Patent, by Sir Edward Walker, Garter.

Or, a Chevron Gules, between three Lyons Paws eraſed and erected Sable, appertains to the Family of Auſten; and was confirmed to Edward Auſten of Tenterden in the County of Kent, and to his Brethren, and to his and their Poſterity, with their due Differences, by William Camden, Clarencieux, the 12th of April 1603, in the firſt Year of King James the Firſt.

He beareth Vert, a Tyger paſſant Or, tusked, main'd, and flasked Argent, by the Name of Love, and was granted to Robert Love of Kirſted, in the County of Norfolk, Gent. by Sir Edward Byſshe, Clarencieux, the 10th of December 1663.

Argent, a Tyger paſſant Sable, was born by Norton Bold, M. A. lately ſuperior Beadle of Divinity, and formerly Fellow of Corpus Chriſti College, Oxon, who died in Merton College (of which he was a Gentleman Commoner) the 3d of June, at 9 at Night, 1676, ætatis circa 48, S. P. and on the 6th Day of the ſaid Month was buried in Merton College Church, under the Tower. He was the 5th Son of William Bold of Newſted in Hampſhire (by Martha his Wife, Daughter and Co-heir of Thomas Colwell of Feverſham in Kent) Son of William Bold of the ſame Place, who died the 18th of October 1604: And he, the Son of another William, of the ſame Place, who died the 14th of September 1582. And he again, the Son of another William who died in the Year 1526, which laſt William was the younger Brother of Sir Richard Bold of Bold in the County of Lancaſter, deſcended from the Bolds, Lords of Bold, ante temp. Henric. the Third.

M. S. of Ant. à Wood's Remarks de Com. Oxon. p. 133.

'He beareth Argent, a 'Tyger paſſant, regar-'dant, gazing in a Mir-'ror or Looking-glaſs, all 'Proper. This Coat-Ar-'mour ſtandeth in the 'Chancel of the Church 'of Thame in Oxfordſhire, 'in a Glaſs-window of the 'ſame Chancel, impaled 'on the ſiniſter Side with the Coat-Armour pro-'perly pertaining to the Family of de Bardis. 'Near to this Eſcutcheon is placed this Inſcrip-'tion, Hadrianus de Bardis Prebendarius iſtius Ec-'cleſiæ. Some report, that thoſe who rob the 'Tyger of her Young, uſe a Policy to detain 'their Dam from following them, by caſting 'ſundry Looking-glaſſes in the Way, whereat 'ſhe uſeth long to gaze, whether it be to be-'hold her own Beauty, or becauſe, when ſhe 'ſeeth her Shape in the Glaſs, ſhe thinketh ſhe 'ſeeth one of her young Ones, and ſo they eſcape 'the Swiftneſs of her Purſuit. And thus are 'many deceived of the Subſtance, whilſt they 'are much buſied about the Shadows.

He beareth Or, on a Canton Sable, a Tyger's Head eraſed of the Firſt, langued Gules. This Coat was confirmed or granted to Thomas Jacob of Wootton baſſet in the County of Wilts, Gent. by Sir Richard St. George, Kt. Clarencieux, the 24th of June 1633, in the 9th Year of King Charles I.

"He

" He beareth Azure, a " Fess between three Tygers Heads erased Or, " by the Name of Hunlock, and with the Arms " of Ulster, is the Paternal Coat-Armour of Sir " Henry Hunlock of Wengerworth in the County " of Derby, Baronet.

Argent, a Chevron between three Tygers Heads Sable, erased and langued Gules, is born by the Name of Hayes, and was granted to Thomas Hayes of Windsor, in the County of Berks, Senior, and James Hayes his Brother Citizen and Salter of London; Sons of Alexander Hayes of Windsor aforesaid; by Sir Edward Byshe, Clarencieux, May the 13th, 1662.

Argent, a Chevron engrailed Gules, between three Tygers Heads erased Sable, langued of the Second, each charg'd on the Neck with a Gemel Or, is born by the Name of Cook, and was granted to Robert Cook of Mildham in the County of Norfolk, by Thomas Hawley, Clarencieux, June 9, in the 2d and 3d of Philip and Mary.

Or, a Bear passant Sable, by the Name of Fitzourse. ' It is written of the She-' bear, that she bringeth ' forth her young Ones ' imperfect and deformed, ' like a Lump of raw Flesh, ' and licks it till it comes ' to Shape and Perfection. ' The She-bear is most ' cruelly inraged against any that shall hurt her ' Young, or despoil her of them: As the Scripture saith, in setting forth the fierce Anger of ' the Lord, That he will meet his Adversaries, as a ' Bear robbed of her Whelps. Which teacheth us ' how careful Nature would have us to be of the ' Welfare of our Children, since so cruel Beasts ' are so tender-hearted in this Kind.

" He beareth Argent, a " Bear rampant Sable, " muzzled Or, by the " Name of Barnard. The " Countries that were re- " puted famous for the " Cruelty of Bears, were " Lucania and Umbria in " Italy, now called the " Dutchy of Spoletum. And " so, in ancient Times, was our Island of Britain: For Bears were carried from hence to " Rome for a Shew, where they were holden in " great Admiration.

He beareth Argent, a Bear rampant Sable, muzzled and collared, with a Chain turned over his Back Or, by the Name of Beresford. This Coat did belong to Francis Beresford, who married Frances, Daughter of Richard Holland of Heaton in the County of Lancaster, Esquire, by whom he had Issue John, aged eight Years, the 11th of August 1662; Francis, 2d Son; and Edward, 3d Son: Also one Daughter Anne.

The said Francis was aged 34 Years at the aforesaid Date, and eldest Son and Heir of Francis Beresford of Bentley in the County of Derby, Esquire, (aged 63 at the same Time) and of Mary his Wife, Daughter of Henry Ardern of Hawarden in the County of Chester, Esq; which Francis last mentioned, was Son of John Beresford of Newton Grange in the County of Derby, Esq; (who died Anno 1653.) and of Hellen his first Wife, Daughter of Thomas Alsop of Castletrey in the County of Stafford, Gent. which John was eldest Son and Heir of John Beresford of the same Place Gent. by Maud his Wife, Daughter of Robert Fitzherbert of Tissington in the County of Derby.

Gules, a Wolf paſſant Argent, was born by Sir Edward Lowe of New Sarum in Wilts, Kt. ſometime Fellow of New College, afterwards L. L. D. one of the Maſters of the Chancery, Son of ..... Lowe of Fiſherton in Wilts, by his Wife ..... Siſter to Sir Edward Hyde, ſometime Lord Chancellor of England. He was Heir and Executor to George Lowe of Calne in Wilts, Gent.

M. S. of Ant. à Wood's Remarks de Com. Oxon.

" Upton leaveth to the Conſideration of He- " ralds, Whether the Bearing of the Wolf in " Arms, be not fit for ſuch Perſons as in Parlia- " ments and Places of great Aſſembly, are ac- " cuſtomed to wrangle and ſhew themſelves " contentious; and (quaſi Johannes in oppoſito) " to put on a reſolute Determination to be " contrary to all others. For it is the Wolf's " Nature, when they aſſemble together, to fall " a howling. Some write, That thoſe who ſud- " denly look on a Wolf, do loſe their Voice. It " were fit ſuch wolfiſh and ſnarling Perſons " would look on themſelves in a Glaſs, and ſo " become more ſilent.

Azure, a Wolf rampant and a Chief Argent, is born by the Name of Dun, and was allowed by William Camden, Clarencieux, by Patent dated February the 10th, 1605, to Sir Daniel Dun, Doctor of the Civil Law.

He beareth Argent, a Saltire Gules, between four Wolves Heads coup'd Proper, by the Name of Outlawe. This Coat was aſſigned by William Camden in June 1613, to Thomas Outlawe of Wichingham in the County of Norfolk, Son of Ralph.

'Thus ending with the Wolf, I will conclude this Tract of Beaſts of fierce Nature, 'comprehending all others of this Kind, as 'Ounces, Lynxes, Hyenaes, Panthers, &c. under 'theſe before handled. Foraſmuch as the greateſt 'Part of the general Rules, as alſo of the ſundry Forms of Bearing attributed unto Lyons 'and Wolves, may be aptly applied to all, or 'the greateſt Part of other Beaſts of like Nature.

CHAP. XVI.

'HAVING given Examples of ravenous 'and fierce Kind, that by main Force 'do proſecute and obtain their Prey; I will 'now proceed to the Handling of Beaſts leſs 'cruel and harmful: Of which Number, ſome 'are wild and ſavage; others are domeſtical 'and ſociable, as Dogs of all Sorts, of which I 'will firſt take Notice; becauſe the Dog, whe-'ther it be for Pleaſure and Game in Field, or 'for Uſefulneſs and Guard at Home, deſerveth 'a very high Eſtimation; and of all Dogs, thoſe 'of Chaſe are moſt in Uſe in Armoury; where-'of ſome proſecute their Prey ſpeedily, others 'more leiſurely. Of the firſt Sort is the Grey-'hound, as in Example.

'He beareth Argent, a 'Grey-hound paſſant Sa-'ble, by the Name of Hol-'ford. Such Dogs as do 'purſue their Game with 'a more leiſure Pace, 'are Hounds fitted for 'all Sorts of Game; as 'Hart-hounds, Buck-'hounds, Harriers, Otter-'hounds, Blood-hounds, &c. which are of ſome 'Authors called Odoriſequi canes, quia odoratu in-'veſtigant, for following by the Smell: And Ci-'cero calleth them Sagaces canes, becauſe of their 'tender and quick Scent; and both theſe and 'the Greyhound are called Canes Venatici, Dogs 'for the Chaſe.

"He beareth Vert, a "Grey-hound ſaliant in "Bend Argent, collared "Gules, ſtudded Or, by "the Name of Blome; and "is the Coat-Armour of "Richard Blome of Aber-"gwlly in Carnarvonſhire, "Eſquire; of John Blome "of Sevenoak in the Coun-"ty of Kent, Gent. and Richard Blome of Lon-"don, Gent. the Undertaker of this Work.

Argent, a Grey-hound paſſant and a Chief Sable, is born by the Name of Carpenter, and was granted to William Carpenter of Cobham in Surry, Eſq; Gentleman of his Majeſty's Honourable Privy Chamber Extraordinary, by Sir Edward Byſhe, Clarencieux, March 4, 1663.

"He beareth Argent, "two Barrs Sable, charged "with three Trefoils ſlip-"ped of the Field, in "Chief a Grey-hound cur-"rent of the Second, by "the Name of Palmer; "and is the Coat-Armour "of William Palmer of "Ladbrook in Warwickſhire, "Eſquire, Son and Heir of Sir William Palmer "of Warden-ſtreet in Bedfordſhire, Kt.

(G) Oudny of that Ilk; Gules, a Feſs Argent, in Chief a Mullet of the Laſt, between two Garbs Or, and in Baſe a Greyhound of the Second.

He beareth Azure, a Stag in his full Courſe Or, purſu'd hotly by a Brace of Dogs Argent, all Bend-ways and at Random, by the Name of Yardeley.

Vdney of that Ilk; Gules, two Grey-hounds Argent, leaning againſt a Tree eradicated Or, with an Hart's Head in the Tree.

"He beareth Gules, 3 "Grey-hounds currant in "Pale Argent, by the "Name of Mauleverer; "and with the Arms of "Ulſter, is the Coat of "Sir Thomas Mauleverer "of Allerton-Mauleverer in "the Weſt Riding of York-"ſhire, Baronet.

"Argent, three Grey-hounds currant Pale-"ways Sable, collared Or, by the Name of More "(or de la More) and with the Arms of Ulſter, "is the Coat-Armour of Sir Edward More of "More-hall and Bank-hall in Lancaſhire, Baronet, "lineally deſcended from the ancient Family of "the Mores of the ſaid Places; whoſe Ance-"ſtors have there continued for above twenty "Generations, as appears as well by diverſe an-"cient Deeds now in the Cuſtody of the ſaid "Sir Edward, as by the Atchievements and In-"ſcriptions engraven on the Walls of the ſaid "Houſes.

M. S. in Aſhm. Num. 834.

"This Coat is alſo born by Sir John More of "the City of London, Knight and Alderman, "lineally deſcended from the Family of the "Mores aforeſaid.

Sable,

" Sable, three Grey-hounds currant in Pale, " Argent, collared Or, is the Coat-Armour of " the ancient Family of the Machels of Craken- " thorp in Weſtmoreland; and is now born by " Lancelot Machel, Eſq; Lieutenant of Horſe to " the Counties of Cumberland and Weſtmoreland, " a great Loyaliſt, and an expert Soldier. This " Name was writ Mauchael, or Mauchel, from " the Conqueſt to the Reign of King Henry the " Eighth, at which Time thoſe two valiant War- " riers, Guy Mauchel of Crakenthorp, Eſq; and " Hugh his Brother, engaged themſelves in that " Expedition againſt the French, in which the " Engliſh were victorious, and took the almoſt " impregnable City of Tournay, from whence " they both returned, and were ſucceſſively " Lords of Crakenthorp aforeſaid. This Guy, " though in many Dangers, yet died in his Bed " about the 27th of Henry the Eighth, but " ſhewed an heroick and martial Spirit in be- " queathing his Arms and Armour to his Sons " in the very firſt Place, as that which was moſt " dear unto him. And Hugh Machel, for his " Valour, was, by King Henry the Eighth, de- " puted, with Sir Thomas Wharton, Warden of " the Weſt-Marſhes of England, by a Warrant " under the ſaid King's Sign Manual, dated the " 28th of June in the 29th Year of his Reign.

' He beareth Azure, a ' Talbot paſſant Argent, ' by the Name of Bor- ' goigne.

This Coat, with a Creſcent upon a Mullet for a Difference, pertained to Richard Burgoyne of Biddiford in the County of Devon, Gent. who married Alice, Daughter of Reginald Trethurs of Lawſack in the County of Cornwall, Eſq; and had Iſſue Thomas, Francis, Cicely and Anne.

Note, That the ſaid Richard was eldeſt Son and Heir of Richard of the ſame Place, Gent. which Richard was ſecond Son of William Burgoyne, who deſcended (through many Generations) from Walter Burgoyne, third Son of..... in the County of Hertford, Eſq; who married Juliana, Daughter and Heir of Matilda Shildon, Widow.

' It is a general Obſervation, That there is ' ſcarce any Vertue incident to a Man, but there ' are ſingular Sparks and Reſemblances of the ' Same in the ſundry Kinds of Dogs: For ſome ' are ſo couragious, that if they be in the Encoun- ' ter, you may cut off a Leg or any Limb before ' they will let go their holdfaſt: In which Kind ' the Engliſh Maſtiff hath higheſt Praiſe; inſo- ' much that Hiſtories report, That the Romans ' took Maſtiffs hence to carry in their Armies inſtead ' of Soldiers. Some others have been ſo truſty ' and loving to their Maſters, as being by Error ' loſt, they have refuſed Meat, though it were ' to their Death, till they ſaw their Maſters ' again. For their admirable Property in find- ' ing any Thing that is loſt, in fetching any ' Thing they are injoyned; in purſuing any Man ' by the Scent of his Foot after he is fled: It re- ' requireth a Naturaliſt's large Diſcourſe, rather ' than the Touch of an Herald's Pencil.

" He beareth Gules, a " Talbot paſſant Or, and a " Chief Ermine, by the " Name of Chaffin; and is " the Coat-Armour of " Thomas Chaffin of Chettle " in Dorſetſhire, Eſq;

He beareth Ermine, on a Chief Sable, a Talbot paſſant Argent, with an Annulet for a Difference Gules, by the Name of Murden. This Coat was confirmed by William Camden Clarencieux, in December 1618, to Richard Murden of Morton Murrell in Warwickſhire.

' He beareth Or, a Feſs ' dancette, between three ' Talbots paſſant Sable, by ' the Name of Carrick. ' Theſe Kind of Dogs are ' called in Latin, Canes ſa- ' gaces, for the Tender- ' neſs of their Scent, and ' Quickneſs of Smelling, ' becauſe thereby they do ' readily diſcover and find out the Tracts, Forms, ' and Lodgings of Beaſts of Chace, and of Sa- ' vage-kind: Which done, they do proſecute ' their undertaken Chaſe with open Mouth and ' continual Cry, that oftentimes, through hot ' Purſuit, they do ſo tire it, as that it is either ' taken up by the Huntſman, or doth become ' a Prey to themſelves.

He beareth Gules, a Feſs Vaire, between three Talbots Argent, each holding a Bird-bolt in his Mouth Or, feather'd of the Second, by the Name of Rigges. This Coat was confirmed by William Segar to Ralph Rigges of Farnham in the County of Surry, Son of Thomas Rigges, who died ſeiz'd of the Manor of Farnham, and was Son to Thomas Rigges of Southampton.

Argent, a Chevron Gules, between 3 Talbots paſſant Sable, was granted to Thomas Talbot of Windham in Suffolk, by Robert Cook, Clarencieux, 1584.

He beareth Or, a Chevron between three Blood-hounds paſſant Sable, collar'd of the Firſt, by the Name of Allen. This Coat was aſſigned by Sir William Segar, Garter, to Chriſtopher Allen of Borden in Kent, Gent.

Int. M. S. P. le Neve, Norroy.

'He beareth Azure, a 'Feſs between three Tal-'bots Heads eraſed Or, 'by the Name of Burton; 'and is the Coat of Caſ-'bulan Burton of Lindley in 'the County of Leiceſter, 'Eſquire. To this Head 'muſt be referred all other 'Sorts of Dogs of Proſe-'cution; as Beagles, Terriers, and ſuch like, 'ſo called, Quia feras ſub terra proſequuntur, (for 'that they proſecute their Prey under the 'Ground, as the Others do above Ground) alſo 'Land and Water Spaniels, and ſuch others. 'Now for the wild or ſavage Sort of Beaſts, 'ſome do atchieve their Prey by ſubtil Means, 'as Foxes, Ferrets, Weaſels, Cats, &c. ſome 'by prudent Providence, as the Hedgehog, 'Squirrel, and ſuch like. Others alſo there are, 'whoſe Care is, not ſo much how to come by 'their Prey, as that themſelves become not a 'Prey to others; as Hares, Conies, &c.

Sable, a Chevron between 3 Talbots Heads eraſed Argent, is born by the Name of Hull, and pertain'd to Matthew Hull of Lurckbere in the Pariſh of St. Leonard's in the County of Cornwall, whoſe Predeceſſors had been ſeated there for ſome Generations. The ſaid Matthew married Johanna the Daughter of Thomas Yearde of Newton-Buſhell, Eſq; and had Iſſue Thomas, George, Margaret, Anne and Alice.

Sable, a Chevron Ermine between three Talbots Heads eraſed Argent, is born by the Name of Hull, and was confirmed to John Hull of Batterſea, in the County of Surry, Eſq; Son and Heir of John Hull of Newport-Pagnel in the County of Bucks, the Son of William Hull of Eſſum in the County of Northampton, Eſquires, by Sir William Segar, Garter, Jan. 25. 1624, in the 22d Year of King James I.

I find this Coat was granted to one John Hull of the City of London, which John I take to be one of thoſe abovementioned, who might be of two Places. The Grant was by William Camden in July, Anno Dom. 1616.

He beareth Sable, on a Chevron between three Talbots Heads eraſed Argent, as many Fleurs de lis of the Field, all within a Bordure engrailed of the Second, by the Name of Warder. This Coat was granted or confirmed by Robert Cook, Clarencieux, Anno Dom. 1585, to Chideoke Warder or Wardour, Couſin and Heir of John Warder of Weſtbury in the County of Wilts.

Sable, on a Chevron between three Talbots Heads eraſed Argent, as many Fleurs de lis Azure, was the Coat of Sir Edward Wardour, Kt. who died the 14th of March 1645, and was buried in the Chancel called the College Chancel in All Saints Church in Oxford. His Lady, Jane, Daughter of ..... Bowdler of the County of Salop, died the 20th of January, and was buried by her Husband Sir Edward, the Firſt of February 1652.

'He beareth Argent, 2 'Reynards counter-ſaliant 'in Bend, the Dexter ſur-'mounted of the Siniſter, 'Saltire-like Gules, by the 'Name of Kadrod-Hard of 'Wales. Theſe are ſome-'what unlike Sampſon's 'Foxes, that were tied 'together by the Tails; 'and yet theſe two agree in aliquo tertio: They 'came into the Field like two Enemies, but 'they meant nothing leſs than to fight, and 'therefore they paſs by each other; like two 'crafty Lawyers which come to the Bar, as if 'they meant to fall out deadly about their 'Clients Cauſe; but when they have done, and 'their Clients Purſes are well ſpunged, they are 'better Friends than ever they were, and laugh 'at thoſe Geeſe, that will not believe them to 'be Foxes, till they (too late) find themſelves 'Fox-bitten.

Ermi-

Erminois, a Chevron between three Foxes Heads eraſed Gules, langued Azure, is born by the Name of Fox, and was confirmed or granted to Ralph Fox of High Holborn in the County of Middleſex, Gent. by Sir Richard St. George, Knight, Clarencieux, June the 12th, 1632, in the 8th Year of King Charles the Firſt.

Ermine, on a Chevron Azure, three Foxes Heads eraſed Or, was granted to Stephen Fox, Eſq; born of honeſt Parents at Farley in the County of Wilts, who from his Youth, was educated in the Royal Family, and by his Majeſty's peculiar Election was advanced to the Truſt and Charge of Clerk of his Majeſty's Kitchen, taking likewiſe care of and ordering the Expences of the Houſehold in his Majeſty's Journeys; for which faithful Services he was, by the King's ſpecial Order, thus remunerated by Sir Edward Walker, at Bruſſels in the Dutchy of Brabant, October 30, 1658. in the 10th Year of King Charles the Firſt. He had ſince, an Augmentation granted to his Coat, as I ſhall make appear in a Place proper, viz. in my Diſcourſe of Augmentations.

" beareth Argent, three " Cats-a-mountains in " Pale paſſant Sable, by " the Name of Keat; this " with the Arms of Ul- " ſter, is the Bearing of " Sir Jonathan Keat of " Pauls-Walden in Hert- " fordſhire, and of Grove- " hurſt in the Pariſh of " Milton in Kent, Baro- " net.

(M) Schives of Mureton in Scotland, beareth Sable, three Cats-a-mountain paſſant in Pale Argent.

Ermine, three Cats paſſant guardant in Pale Ruſſet, was granted to Roger Adams alias Tasker of London, Anno Dom. 1584, by Robert Cook, Clarencieux.

Sable, a Chevron Or, between three Cats paſſant guardant Argent, is born by the Name of Hills, and was by Patent confirmed to John Hills of London, Gent. by Robert Cook, Clarencieux, the 15th of March 1580, in the 29th Year of Queen Elizabeth.

Ermine, two Squirrels ſeiant addorſed Gules, by the Name of Samuel. This Coat was confirmed unto George Samuell alias Samwell, Son of William Samuell, the Son of William Samuell of Doncaſter in the County of York, Gent. by William Segar, in the Firſt Year of King James the Firſt.

' He beareth Argent, a ' Chevron Azure, between ' three Squirrels ſeiant ' Gules, by the Name of ' Lovell. This Beaſt hath ' his Name Sicurus, or ' Scuirel, by reaſon of the ' Largeneſs of his Tail, ' which ſhadoweth all his ' Body: And is therein ' like one, who carefully keeping the Love and ' Affection of his Followers and Retainers, is ' ſure they will ſtick to him, protect and ſha- ' dow him in Time of Need. To whom thoſe ' Villains (mentioned in the Roman Hiſtory) ' were much unlike, who betrayed their pro- ' ſcribed Lords flying to them for Shelter and ' ſecret Coverture. And ſuch a One was the ' faithleſs Cartiſmandua, to whom our renowned ' Britiſh King Caractacus flying to hide himſelf ' till he might gather his Forces together a- ' gainſt the Romans, ſhe betray'd him unto his ' Foes, to the Ruin of this Kingdom: That ' infamous Queen had not Caudam Sciuri, a ' Squirrel's ſhadowing Tail; but Caudam Draco- ' nis, fiery and venomous.

Gules, a Hedge-hog Argent, collar'd Or, was born by the Name of Hyre of London.

He

'He beareth Azure, 'three Hedge-hogs Or, 'by the Name of Abra- 'hall. The Hedge-hog 'ſignifieth a Man expert 'in gathering of Sub- 'ſtance, and one that pro- 'videntially layeth hold up- 'on proffered Opportuni- 'ty, and ſo making Hay '(as we ſay Proverbially) whilſt the Sun ſhines, 'preventeth future Want.

Argent, three Hedge hogs Sable, is born by the Name of Harreis.

Or, three Hedge-hogs paſſant in Pale Gules, by the Name of Hercy.

'He beareth Azure, a 'Chevron between three 'Hedge-hogs or Urchins 'Argent, by the Name 'of Mainſtone; and is the 'Coat-Armour of Mr. 'William Mainſtone, alias 'Mayneſton, of London, 'Merchant, lineally de- 'ſcended from Thomas 'Mainſtone of Urchinfield 'in Herefordſhire, tempore Edwardi III. Anno 'Dom. 1372.

Gules, a Chevron between three Hedge-hogs Argent, is born by the Name of Claxtone of Yorkſhire.

Or, a Croſs engrailed Azure, between 4 Hedge-hogs Sable, belongs to the Name of Hardey.

'To theſe muſt be added all fourfooted Beaſts 'that are provident in acquiring their Food, as 'the Hedge-hog and ſuch other. It reſteth 'that I ſhould now give Example of the laſt 'Sort of Beaſts, among them of ſavage Kind 'before ſpoken of, which are thoſe of timorous 'and fearful Nature: Such are theſe that fol- 'low, and their like.

'He beareth Argent, 3 'Conies Sable, by the 'Name of Stroode.

Or, three Conies Sable, is born by the Name of Conningham.

'Conies are bred in moſt Countries, but in 'few are they ſo plentiful as in England. A- 'mong the Baleares they were ſo abundant, as 'that the People made ſuit to Auguſtus to grant 'them a military Company of Pioneers to de- 'ſtroy them. Of this little Beaſt it ſeemeth, 'that Men firſt learned the Art of Undermi- 'ning and Subverting of Cities, Caſtles, and 'Towers by the Induſtry of Pioneers,

'He beareth Sable, three 'Conies currant Or, by 'the Name of Cunliff, 'and, with a Creſcent for 'a Difference, is the Coat- 'Armour of Nicholas Cun- 'liff of Chiſtehurſt in Kent, 'Gent.

'He beareth Gules, 3 'Conies ſeiant within a 'Bordure engrailed Ar- 'gent, by the Name of 'Conisbie. Though Na- 'ture hath not given theſe 'timorous Kind of Beaſts 'ſuch Craft or Strength 'as to the Former; yet 'are they not deſtitute of 'their Succours, in that they have their ſtrong 'Caſtles and Habitations in the Earth, and their 'Food ever growing ſo nigh them, that they 'need not put themſelves into Danger except 'they liſt.

Argent, a Chevron between 3 Conies couchant Sable, pertain'd to Richard Strode of Newnham in the County of Devon, Gent. who married Frances, Daughter of Gregory, Baron Cromwell, and Elizabeth his Wife, Siſter of Edward Seymour Duke of Somerſet, and had Iſſue William Strode. This Richard aforeſaid, was the Son of William Strode, the Son of Richard Strode of the ſame Place, Eſquires; which Richard was Son and Heir of Richard Strode of Plympton in the ſaid County of Devon, Brother and Heir to William Strode of Newnham aforeſaid, the Son of Richard, who was Son of John Strode of the ſame Place; which John was Son of John Strode, in Ermington in the County of Devon, whoſe Father was Reginald Strode of the ſame Place.

Grafton, fol. 22.

This Coat (with a Martlet on the Chevron Or, being a filial Diſtinction) was born by William Strode, born in the County of Devon, D. D. Canon of Chriſt Church, and Publick Orator of the Univerſity of Oxon; who died the 10th of March, Anno 1644-5, and was buried in the Divi-

Divinity Chappel, on the North Side of the Choir of Christ Church Cathedral. He was the Son of Philip Strode near Plimpton, and he a younger Son of Sir Richard Strode of Newingham in the County of Devon.

..... Strode, Widow of Dr. Strode, and Daughter of Dr. Sympson, Prebend of Canterbury, died the 6th of February 1647-8, and was buried at ..... in Bedfordshire.

They had one Daughter who was married to Henry Langley, M. A. of Wadham College, Son and Heir of Jonathan Langley of Abbey-foriat near Shrewsbury. The said Mrs. Strode (Widow of Dr. Strode) had a Sister married to Matthew Skinner a Physician, eldest Son of Dr. Robert Skinner, Bishop of Worcester.

M. S. of Ant. à Wood's Remarks de Com. Oxon. p. 82.

Or, a Fess cottised between three Conies Sable, is born by the Name of Audly, and was confirmed to Tho. Audly of London, Son and Heir of John Audly of Sutton in the County of Kent, Gent. and to the Descendents of the said Thomas, by William Camden, Esq; Clarencieux, the 7th of October 1608, in the sixth Year of King James I.

He beareth Argent, a Saltire Gules, between four Conies couchant Sable, by the Name of Cony. This Coat was assigned by William Camden Clarencieux, in April, Anno Dom. 1609, to Henry Cony of Taxley in the County of Huntington, Son of William Cony, by his Wife Katherine, Daughter of Robert Throgmorton.

'He beareth Argent, on 'a Fess Nebule Sable, 'three Hares Heads couped Or, by the Name of 'Harwell. The Hare is a 'simple Creature, and reposeth all her Safety in 'Swiftness, wherein she 'useth many Shifts to help 'her self withal, both to 'defend her self from the Peril of the Hounds, 'and to frustrate the Endeavours of the Huntsmen. She feareth the Eagle, Hawk, Fox and 'Wolf, her natural Enemies. It is strange 'which some have written of Hares, that their 'Nature is, for the Self-same to be sometimes 'Male, and sometimes Female. Such an one 'also (as Poets write) was Tiresias of Thebes, 'who being a Man, became a Woman, and so 'continued seven Years, and then returned 'again to his former Shape. Afterward a great 'Controversy arising betwixt Jupiter and Juno, 'whether the Man or the Woman were most 'insatiate of Venery, or took most delight 'therein, he was chosen Arbiter in the Matter, and gave the Garland to Juno and the 'Female Sex, as being invincible in the Encounters of Venus.

'He beareth Argent, 3 'Moles Sable, their Snout 'and Feet Gules, by the 'Name of Nangothan, or 'Mangotham, as I take it, of 'Scotland. I could not 'well here term these 'Moles Proper, because 'there be many white 'Moles; which Colour, 'whether in them it is occasioned by Age or 'not, I will not here dispute. The Mole in La'tin is called Talpa, from the Greek Word Τυφλὸς, 'Τυφλὴ, Cæcus, Cæcitas.

'He beareth Argent, 'a Chevron between 3 'Moles Sable, by the 'Name of Twisleton, and, 'with the Arms of Ul'ster, is the Coat-Armour 'of Sir John Twisleton of 'Dartford in Kent, Baronet; as also of Richard 'Twisleton of Drax in the West-Riding of York'shire, Esq;

Argent, on a Chevron between three Moles passant Sable, a Mullet of the Field, is born by the Name of Twisleton, and was confirmed to George Twisselton of Barley, in the County of York, Esq; Son of Christopher Twisselton, the Son and Heir of John Twisselton, sometime Alderman of London, by William Segar, Esq; Norroy, Novemb. 22, 1602, in the 45th Year of Queen Elizabeth.

'And hitherto we have handled such Ter'restrial Animals only, as are called Vivipara, 'because they do bring forth living Crea'tures; whereas the other Terrestrials do 'bring forth Eggs, and are therefore named 'Ovipara, of which Sort we will speak in the 'next Place.

CHAP.

CHAP. XVII.

'THIS other Sort of four-footed Egg-'bearing Animals (as I may so term 'them) notwithstanding that in many Things 'they have no small Resemblance with Man, 'as well touching the Faculties of the vegeta-'ble Soul, as also the Parts of the Body: Yet 'are they far more unlike us, than those that 'bring forth a living Creature. And although 'these Egg-breeding four-footed Animals do 'consist of the same bodily Parts that the Vivi-'para, or Animal-producing do, and of the four 'Humours that are answerable in Quality to 'the four Elements, and have all Parts, as well 'internal as external Senses, and many other 'Things wherein they do communicate with 'the Vivipara; yet are there many other Things 'wherein they differ not only from these, but 'also even among themselves one from another 'of them. For neither do we find in these, 'that Quickness of Wit that we observe in 'others, neither like Parts of Strength of Body 'that the other have.

'Like as Man (especially in his Soul) ap-'proacheth near unto God in likeness: So in 'like Manner do other Animals resemble Man, 'wherein they do participate with Man in Like-'ness after some Sort, but in diverse Degrees; 'forasmuch as some of them have more, and 'some less Likeness with us than others 'have.

'There is not (saith Beda) among the universal 'Works of Nature, any one Thing so little, or of so 'base esteem, wherein a Man cannot find some di-'vine Thing worthy of Admiration. No less (saith 'Farnesius) may we admire the Force of a silly 'Flea, than the Hugeness and Strength of an 'Elephant.

'Not without Reason doth the Husbandman 'prognosticate the Approach of some great 'Shower of Rain by the Croaking of Frogs 'more frequent than usually; whereupon he 'saith, That they do cry for Rain. For this Ob-'servation is grounded upon a physical Reason, 'Omne enim simile gaudet suo simili, & suæ naturæ 'utili ac convenient; every like is delighted with 'his like, and with that which is commodious 'and agreeable to his Nature. Since then that 'Frogs are exceedingly delighted with Water, 'as with that which best agreeth with their 'Nature; therefore when they do apprehend a 'foresense of Rain they do rejoice, and do te-'stify their Joy by singing after their Man-'ner.

'Animals of base Esteem, and of no Industry, 'have (for the most Part) not only four, but 'manifold Feet: Whereby we are admonished, 'that perverse and evil disposed Persons have 'multiplicities of Affections, in respect, that by 'the Motion of the Feet our Bodies are convey-'ed from Place to Place; so do our Affections 'transfer us from one Delight to another, ac-'cording to that Saying, Pes meus, affectus meus; 'eo feror, quocunque feror.

'Though some perhaps may esteem these 'Egg-bearing Animals unworthy the Dignity 'of Coat-Armour; yet for my own Part, I hold 'their Bearing to be no less Honourable than 'many of those that in common Estimation are 'reputed far more worthy; insomuch, that they 'may well beseem the Bearing of the greatest 'Potentate. For if it pleased the Sovereign 'King of Kings to use them as his special In-'struments to chastise the Stubbornes of such 'as rebelled against his Ordinance, and to arm 'those his minute and weak Creatures, with 'such an incredible Boldness, as that they fear-'ed not the Face or Forces of Men, but that 'the very Frogs entred the Houses and Cham-'bers of the Egyptians, upon the People, into 'their Ovens, and into their Kneading-troughs; 'yea, even into King Pharaoh's Chamber, and up-'on his Bed: And moreover, if God hath vouch-'safed to give the Grashopper, the Canker-'worm, the Catter-piller, and the Palmer-worm, 'the honourable Title of his huge great Army: 'Why should we prize them at so low a Rate, 'as that we should disdain to bear them in 'Coat-Armour? Since God saith, by the Pro-'phet Joel, I will render you the Years which the 'Grashopper hath eaten, the Canker-worm, and the 'Catterpiller, and the Palmer-worm, my great Host 'which I sent among you.

'It is therefore to be observed, That they 'also have their Actions not to be omitted in 'Blazon, altho' not in that variable Manner, 'nor yet so copious as some others. And be-'cause they are far different from those formerly 'handled, not only in Shape, but also in the 'Manner of their Living, in their Gate and 'Actions; therefore must they receive a di-'verse Manner of Blazon. They are called in 'Latin, Reptilia, or creeping Things; Quia rep-'tant super terram. And here we must distin-'guish between those Things quæ reptant, which 'creep, as Frogs, Ants, &c. and those quæ ser-'punt, which glide, as Snakes; which latter 'Kind we shall speak of afterward.

'But here we mention those Reptiles which 'are gressible, such as by Means of their Feet 'are able to go Step by Step from one Place to 'another; so termed à gradiendo, which is pro-'ceeding by Degrees: And hitherto also are re-'ferred such as by skipping, mounting, or leap-'ing, raise their Bodies above Ground, and so 'alter their Station, Place, or Seat. Of which 'Kinds some have four Feet, some have more. 'Such as have four Feet only, are these that fol-'low with their like.

'I have omitted, in this Edition, that Escu-'cheon Sol, charged with three Toads erected

'Saturn,

'Saturn, which, according to ſome Authors, 'was the Coat-Armour of the ancient Kings of 'France; becauſe, ſince my laſt Edition, I find 'great Variety of Opinions concerning this Mat-'ter, of which I have given a Touch in the firſt 'Chapter of the firſt Section. And in lieu there-'of I do preſent you with the ancient Coat-'Armour of the ſame Charge, born by a Family 'in this Kingdom.

'He beareth Argent, 3 'Toads erected Sable, by 'the Name of Botereux 'of Cornwall, which Fa-'mily, long ſince, there 'flouriſhed, as you may 'read in learned Camden. 'Toads and Frogs do par-'ticipate of this natural 'Property, that when 'they ſit, they hold their Heads ſteddy, and 'without Motion: Which ſtately Action, Spen-'cer in his Shepherd's Calender, calleth the Lord-'ing of Frogs. The Bearing of Toads (after 'the Opinion of ſome Armouriſts) does ſig-'nify a haſty cholerick Man, that is eaſily 'ſtirred up to Anger, whereunto he is naturally 'prone of himſelf, having an inbred Poiſon from 'his Birth.

'He beareth Vert, a 'Tortois paſſant Argent, 'by the Name of Gawdy; 'and is born by Sir Charles 'Gawdy of Crows-hall in 'Debenham in Suffolk, Kt. 'and Bart. As alſo (with 'due Differences) by 'Charles Gawdy of Staple-'ton, and Anthony Gawdy 'of Ipſwich, both of the ſaid County, Eſquires. 'The Shells of the Arcadian Tortoiſes are very 'great, therefore, out of them they do make 'Harps, whereof Mercury is ſaid to be the In-'ventor; who, finding a Tortois left upon the 'Rocks, after the Falling of the River Nilus, 'the Fleſh being conſumed, and the Sinews that 'remained dried up, he ſtruck them with his 'Hand, and they made a Kind of muſical Sound, 'whereupon he framed it into a Harp, which 'cauſed others to imitate his Practice, and to 'continue the ſame unto this Day.

'He beareth Azure, a 'Tortois erected Or, by 'the Name of Cooper. This 'Eſcutcheon I have cau-'ſed to be inſerted in this 'Edition, to manifeſt the 'various Bearing of this 'greſſible Reptile, in Ar-'moury.' To this Head muſt be reduced Cameli-ons, Ewets, Lizards, and all other Egg-bearing Reptiles having only four Feet.

'He beareth Or, a Cob-'web, in the Center there-'of a Spider, Proper. The 'Spider is born free of the 'Weavers Company; ſhe 'ſtudieth not the Wea-'vers Art, neither hath 'ſhe the Stuff whereof ſhe 'makes her Thread from 'any where elſe, than out 'of her own Womb from whence ſhe draweth 'it; whereof, through the Agility and Nimble-'neſs of her Feet, ſhe weaveth Gins, and di-'lateth, contracteth, and knitteth them in Form 'of a Net. And with the Threads that ſhe 'draweth out of her Body, ſhe repaireth all 'Rents and Wracks of the Same. Not unapt-'ly is Man's Life reſembled to a Spider's Web, 'which is wrought with much Care and Dili-'gence, and is ſuddenly marr'd with the leaſt 'Occurrent that may befal it. For that it is 'protracted with much Care and Diligence, 'and ſuddenly ended by ſwallowing of a Crum, 'or Hair, or ſome other leſſer Accident (if leſs 'may be.) In like Manner ſophiſtical Argu-'ments are likened to Spiders Webs, for that 'they are framed with much artificial Cun-'ning, and yet are fit for no Uſe but to intangle 'flies and weak Capacities. And to like Pur-'poſe doth the Poet compare the Execution of 'Laws to Cobwebs, ſaying,

'Laws, like Spiders Webs are wrought,
'Great Flies eſcape, and ſmall are caught,

'Upton ſaith, That he hath ſeen Spiders born in 'Coat-Armour by a certain Lombard. By the Spi-'der we may underſtand a painful and induſtri-'ous Perſon, occupied in ſome honeſt and neceſ-'ſary Buſineſs; a Man careful of his private 'Eſtate, and of good Foreſight in repairing of 'ſmall Decays, and preventing of Wracks. The 'Spider her ſelf is poiſonful and deadly, yet is 'her Web reckoned an Antidote againſt Poiſon, 'notwithſtanding the Same is extracted out of 'her Womb.

'One Example more I will propoſe, which 'ſhall be of the Emmet, as in this next Eſcu-'tcheon.

'He beareth Argent; 'eleven Emmets, three, 'two, three, two, one 'Sable. Of this ſilly Crea-'ture alſo doth Solomon 'make mention, ſaying, 'The Piſmires, a People not 'ſtrong, yet prepare they 'their Meat in Summer. 'To this ſimple and fee-'ble Creature is the ſlothful Man ſent to learn 'Wiſdom; where it is ſaid, Go to the Piſmire, 'O ſluggard, behold her Ways and be wiſe. For ſhe

'having no Guide, Governor, nor Ruler, prepareth 'her Meat in the Summer, and gathereth her Food in 'the Harvest, &c. Very often do the sacred 'Scriptures propose unto us Examples of brute 'Creatures, as well to upbraid us with our 'Vices, as to stir us up unto Vertue. For as 'there are in Man Sparks of the Understand- 'ing and Practice of heavenly Spirits, even so 'the brute Animals have certain Shadows or 'Footsteps of the vertuous Qualities that are, 'or ought to be in Men. Moreover Job 12. 7. 'Ask now the Beasts and the Fowls of the Heavens, 'and they shall tell thee; or speak to the Earth, and 'it will shew thee; or the Fish of the Sea, and they 'shall declare unto thee. And by the least of 'God's Creatures may we learn many exem- 'plary Inducements to Vertue, as also many 'forcible Dissuasions from Vice, by reason of the 'apparent Signs of the Wisdom, Power, and 'Mercy of God that are found in them. By 'the Emmet or Pismire may be signified a Man 'of great Labour, Wisdom, and Providence 'in all his Affairs, and of a pregnant and rea- 'dy Memory.

'The Examples hitherto produced are taken 'only from Reptiles grossible, and though of 'that Kind which hath more than four Feet, I 'have alledged only the two last Examples of 'Insecta, yet there are some other of many Feet, 'which are not Insecta; as the Palmer-worm, 'Cheeslip, Kitchinbobs, which being touched, 'gather themselves round like a Ball, and such 'like, which must be referred to the same 'Head. And besides all these, there are yet 'others which be both grossible and volant; 'such are those, that having their Livelyhood 'only upon the Earth, by the Help of a Kind 'of Wings they oftentimes change their Place 'for the Acquiring of their Sustenance; as in 'Example.

'He beareth Gules, a 'Grashopper in Fess pas- 'sant Or. Grashoppers (saith 'Pliny) do fly with Wings 'made like Pellicles or fine 'Skins. The Males of the 'Grashoppers do sing in 'the Summer-season, but 'the Females are silent. 'Whereupon the Emmet, '(who did Work whilst the Other did Sing) 'taketh Occasion (as it is in the Fable) to taunt 'their Slothfulness and Poverty, saying, Æstate 'quæ cantaveris, in Hyeme salta. You that sung 'all Summer, may go shake your Heels in the 'Winter. Among the Athenians the Grashop- 'pers were holden for a special Note of No- 'bility; and therefore they used to wear gol- 'den Grashoppers in their Hair (as Pierius 'noteth) to signify thereby that they were de- 'scended of noble Race and Homebred. For 'such is the natural Property of the Grashop- 'per, that in what Soil he is bred, in the same 'he will live and die; for they change not their 'Place, nor hunt after new Habitations. Here- 'upon Antisthenes took Occasion to scoff at the 'Athenians, saying, That in this Property they did 'communicate with Tortoises and Cockles, born and 'living in the same Shells. Solomon reckoneth the 'Grashopper for one of the four small Things 'in the Earth that are full of Wisdom, saying, 'The Grashopper hath no King, yet go they forth all 'by Bands.

'There are other of this Kind, whose Wings 'are less manifest than the Grashoppers, be- 'cause they are closed in a Kind of Case, and 'can hardly be discerned, but when they are 'preparing to fly; for which respect they are 'called Vagipennæ (saith Calepine) Quia alas va- 'ginis quibusdam inclusas habent, for carrying their 'Wings sheath'd; as the Hart-fly, Beetle, Lady- 'cow, &c. which, together with Locusts, and 'such other as are both grossible and volant, and 'many-legged, are to be reduced to this Head, 'as to their proper and natural Place. I will 'close up all these with an Example or two of 'the Scorpion, which Ælianus and others re- 'port to be winged in Ægypt and India, though 'he doubts whether they are not rather bred 'by the Heat of the Sun, than by Copulation; 'and if by this latter, whether they come of 'Eggs, or come forth living.

Argent, a Fess engrail- ed between three Scor- pions erected Sable, is born by the Name of Colle. These Arms were passed by Patent to Ralph Colle of Newcastle upon Tyne, and to Sir Nicholas Colle his Son, Knight and Baronet, by Sir John Borough, Gar- ter, the 3d of December 1614.

The Reader would do well to observe my Draught of the Scorpion, it being a much nearer Copy of the Life, than the ensuing Example. As to the Shape of his Body, it is not extrava- gantly unlike a small Crab, but something less, with a taper Tail betwixt two or three Inches long, having Joints thereto, which Joints are cover'd with Scales or Shells like a Lobster's; only with this Distinction, that as the Lobster's Tail turns downward to his Belly, the Scor- pion turns his over his Back, and therewith woundeth any Creature after this Manner; hav- ing first laid hold, with the two Fore-claws, up- on what he intends to hurt, he striketh his Tail over his Back and Head, with such Force, that he forceth his Sting, or the extreme End of his Tail, into the Flesh, the Consequence of which, if not speedily and artfully remedied, is said to be quick Death. He is in Colour dark, not very different from a deep Tortoise-shell, and his Sting or Point of his Tail not unlike the Thorn of a Brier or Gooseberry-bush.

'He

'He beareth Argent, a 'Chevron Gules, between 'three Scorpions reverſed 'Sable, by the Name of 'Cole. Pierius in his Hie-'roglyphicks, ſaith, That "if a Man ſtricken with a 'Scorpion ſit upon an Aſs 'with his Face towards the "Tail of the Aſs, his Pain 'ſhall paſs out of him into the Aſs, which ſhall be 'tormented for him. In my Opinion, he that 'will believe this, is the Creature that muſt be 'ridden in this Caſe; but that the Oyl of Scor-'pions is a chief Cure againſt their own ſting-'ing, is an ancient Obſervation. And it is a 'Rule of Equity, That where the Wrong is 'offered, there the Amends ſhould be made. 'And as theſe in this Eſcutcheon are born with 'an Ordinary betwixt them, ſo ſometimes are 'they born upon Ordinaries (according to a 'general Rule premiſed) as may be ſeen in a 'Window of St. Giles's in the Fields in Middleſex, 'where is born in an Eſcutcheon Gules, three 'Pallets Verrey, on a Chief Or, a Scorpion erect-'ed Sable. And thus much of Greſſibles of all 'Sorts.

CHAP. XVIII.

'NOW touching ſuch Creatures as we 'termed Gliding: Thoſe may properly 'be ſaid to be ſuch, which having no Feet at 'all, do yet move, and, as it were, ſlide from 'Place to Place; ſome more ſlowly, but others 'with a certain Volubility and flexible Agita-'tion of the Body, do make their ſpeedy Way 'upon the Earth, with many pliant Bowings; 'and of theſe alſo, ſome have for Coverture 'their Skin only, ſome both Skin and Shell alſo. 'Of the former Sort are thoſe now following, 'with the like.

'The Field is Gules, an 'Adder nowed Or, by 'the Name of Nathiley. 'There is a natural Anti-'pathy between Man and 'Serpents of all Kinds; 'in which literal Senſe, 'that was verified which 'God promiſed, That 'there ſhould be Enmity 'betwixt the Woman's Seed and the Serpent's; tho' 'a ſpiritual Enmity betwixt Chriſt and the De-'vil (that old Serpent) was principally fore-'told. The Serpent is very prudent and ſubtle, 'either to hurt others, or to ſave himſelf: But 'his ſpecial Care is to defend his Head, know-'ing that Part to be the Principal, and withal 'the Weakeſt.

Or, an Adder curling and erected upon its Tail in Pale Sable, was allowed or aſſign'd by Patent dated January 2, 1606. by William Camden, Clarencieux, to Sir Tho. Coach, of the City of London.

'Theſe few Examples may ſerve inſtead of 'many, which might be brought of Serpents 'of ſundry other Names and Natures, which 'all are hither to be referred. Now let us ſee 'one Example of ſuch gliding or ſliding Ani-'mals as are more ſlow-paced, and have both 'Skin and Shell to cover them; of which Num-'ber is the Snail, reckoned, of all other that 'are born in Coat-Armour, the ſloweſt. And 'no marvel, ſince it carrieth on her Back no 'leſs a Burden than her whole Houſe; for which 'Cauſe ſhe is called Tardigrada Domiporta, the 'ſlow-going Houſe-bearer.

'He beareth Sable, a 'Feſs between 3 Houſe-'ſnails Argent, by the 'Name of Shelley. Theſe 'are called Houſe-ſnails, 'either becauſe they ſo 'carry their Houſes up-'on their Back, whereby 'they be aptly diſtin-'guiſhed from the Gar-'den-ſnail, that hath no Houſe or Shell; or be-'cauſe uſually they breed about old Houſes. 'The Bearing of the Snail doth ſignify, that 'much deliberation muſt be uſed in Matters 'of great Difficulty and Importance: For al-'though the Snail goeth moſt ſlowly, yet, in 'Time, by her conſtancy in her Courſe, ſhe 'aſcendeth the Top of the higheſt Tower, as 'the worthy and learned Gentleman Mr. Carew 'of Antony hath wittily moralized in his Poem 'intituled, The Herring's Tail. It is alſo fabled, 'that when the Snail and the Hare were to go 'a Journey for a Wager, the Hare confident of 'his Footmanſhip, reſolved to take a Nap by 'the Way; the Snail knowing he had nothing 'to truſt to but his indefatigable Perſeverance, 'came to his Ways End before the Hare could 'awake. But a worſe Thing in the Snail's 'going is this, That whereſoever he goeth, 'he leaveth ſuch Marks and Lines, that 'a Man may as eaſily track him, as a young 'Thief that is not yet perfect in his Trade.

'And thus, by little and little, have we alſo, 'with the Snail, ended one Part of our Jour- 'ney concerning Animals Terreſtrial, or which 'live upon the Earth: And becauſe we have 'yet much Way to travel, we will now take 'Wings, and will mount up with ſuch Creatures 'as live above the Earth.

CHAP. XIX.

'A SECOND general Member of our Di- 'viſion of living Creatures, concerneth 'ſuch as live above the Air, as are the Fowls 'and Birds of all Sorts: And as we diſtinguiſh- 'ed the Former by their Feet, ſo the ſame 'Method we will follow in theſe. Their Feet 'therefore are in ſome whole or conjoyned; 'in others divided. The whole-footed do, in 'a Sort, reſemble the Palm of a Man's Hand, 'and are therefore in Latin, called Palmipedes; 'ſuch as the Swan, Gooſe, Duck, and, for the 'moſt Part, all River-Fowls, as partly ſhall ap- 'pear hereafter, by Examples. But here I hold 'it neceſſary, entring into this Diſcourſe, to ſet 'down ſome general Rules or Notes concerning 'the Bearing of Birds or Fowls, that the Rea- 'der may know whither to reſort for a Reſolu- 'tion of ſuch Doubts as may ariſe touching their 'Bearing. Fowls or Birds are of more worthy 'Bearing in Coat-Armour than Fiſhes, becauſe 'they do more participate of Air and Fire (the 'two nobleſt and higheſt Elements) than of 'Water or Earth. All Fowls, of whatſoever 'Kind, muſt be born in Coat-Armour, as is beſt 'fitting the Propriety of their natural Actions, 'of going, ſitting, ſtanding, flying, &c. Other- 'wiſe ſuch Armoury ſhall be ſaid to be falſe, 'becauſe Ars imitatur naturam in quantum poteſt; 'Art, as much as poſſible it can, doth imitate 'Nature. All Birds are muſtered under the 'Name of Fowls, as under their Genus or Ge- 'neral, and ſo may ſeem (after a Sort) to be 'one. Nevertheleſs, in their Species, or ſeveral 'Kinds, they differ much touching their parti- 'cular Qualities; for ſome of them are ſimple, 'ſome others ſubtile; ſome ſolitary, ſome ſocia- 'ble; ſome melodious, ſome articulate; ſome 'docible, ſome doltiſh and indocible; ſome of 'long continuance, and ſome only of a few 'Months laſting. Leigh ſaith, That Birds, in 'an Eſcutcheon, ſhall be numbered unto Ten, and 'if they exceed that Number, then they ſhall be ſaid 'to be ſans Number, and ſhall be ſo blazoned. But Chaſſaneus ſaith, that they ſhall be numbered unto 'ſixteen; and of ſuch Bearing and Blazoning 'he giveth Inſtances of Monſieur Montmorancie, 'and of the Lord Lovale.

'Concerning the Beaks or Bills and Feet of 'Birds, moſt Armouriſts finding them to be of 'a different Colour from the Reſt of the Body, 'do term them all generally membred. But un- 'der Reformation of the Skill, I hold, that as 'there is a Difference in the Nobility of Birds, 'ſo ought they to have diſtinct Terms of Bla- 'zon: So that all thoſe that either are whole- 'footed, or have their Feet divided, and yet 'have no Tallons, ſhould be termed membred. 'But the Cock, and alſo all Birds of Prey, 'ſhould be termed in blazon, armed; foraſmuch 'as Nature hath aſſigned the Cock (being a 'Bird much addicted to Battle) Spurs; and to 'the Birds of Prey, ſharp and hooked Beaks and 'Tallons, not only for Encounter and Defence, 'but alſo to ſeize upon, gripe, and rend their 'Prey, and are to them as Teeth and Claws 'unto Lyons, Tygers, and other fierce Beaſts. 'Similium enim ſimilis eſt ratio; where the 'Things are like, the Reaſon is like. It is ge- 'nerally obſerved, that among Fowls of Prey, 'the Female is the Nobleſt and moſt Hardy: 'which Nature did ſo provide, becauſe (beſides 'her own Suſtenance) the Care of feeding her 'Young, doth eſpecially lie on the Female; and 'therefore if ſhe ſhould be timorous or coward- 'ly, ſhe would not be able to provide Food 'for her ſelf and them. Such Fowls (ſaith Up- 'ton) as either in reſpect of their Uniformity do 'never change Colour naturally, or by Nature are 'diverſely coloured, ſhall be only named in blazon, 'and no mention at all made of their Colours, but 'ſhall be termed Proper; unleſs they either in Part, 'or in Whole, be born of ſome other Colour than 'is natural to them. In the Blazoning of Fowls 'much exerciſed in flight, if their Wings be not 'diſplayed, they ſhall be ſaid to be born cloſe; 'as, he beareth an Eagle, Falcon, Swallow, &c. 'cloſe.' In ſhort, the Meaning of this Rule is, That whenever you find a Bird in an Action or Poſture to which Nature doth not, for the moſt Part, encline it; that Poſture you muſt name; otherwiſe you need not. 'As in other 'forementioned Creatures, ſo in Fowls alſo, be- 'ſides the whole Bearing, the Parts or Mem- 'bers are alſo uſually born in Coat-Armour, as 'the Heads, Wings, Feathers, and Legs: And 'both couping and eraſing are as incident unto 'the Parts of Fowls, as of thoſe Terreſtrials, 'as by Examples following ſhall appear; where- 'in I will firſt begin with River Fowls (which 'for the moſt Part are whole-footed) uſing nei- 'ther Curiouſneſs in their Form of Placing, or 'Copiouſneſs in their Number; but only that 'by the Aſſiſtance of ſome few chief Exam- 'ples, that which hath been delivered by Pre- 'cepts and Rules, may be the more eaſily un- 'derſtood.

'He

'He beareth Gules, a 'Swan Argent, by the 'Name of Leigham. All 'River-Fowls have their 'Tails ſhorter than other 'Birds; wherein Nature 'hath providently or-'dained, that the Length 'of their Tail ſhould not 'be any impediment to 'them in their ſwimming, diving, or running. 'The Swan is a Bird of great Beauty and 'Strength alſo: And this is reported in Ho-'nour of him, that he uſeth not his Strength 'to prey or tyrannize over any other Fowl, but 'only to be revenged on ſuch as firſt offer him 'Wrong; In which Caſe (ſaith Ariſtotle) he often 'ſubdueth the Eagle. This Bird is dedicated to 'Venus, whoſe white Colour denoteth Sincerity; yet, Leda was by Jupiter deceived, when 'in that Shape he fled into her Lap, when he 'was purſued by the Eagle.

'He beareth Sable, a 'Swan with her Wings 'expanſed Argent, mem-'bred Or, within a Bor-'dure engrailed of the 'Same, by the Name of 'Moore. The Swan ne-'ver encounters with any 'other of his own Kind, 'but in theſe two Caſes: 'Firſt, If any other be a Rival in his Love, or 'offer to court his Mate; in which Quarrel he 'will be revenged to the Death: Alſo, If an-'other incroach upon his Poſſeſſion and Place 'of Haunt, he is never at quiet till he hath 'expulſed him. And theſe two Points are Cau-'ſes of moſt Quarrels amongſt the nobleſt 'Spirits.

"He beareth Azure, a "Bend Or, between two "Swans Argent, by the "Name of Jeniſon; and "is the Coat-Armour of "Thomas Jeniſon of Elſ-"wick in Northumberland, "Eſq; Mayor of New-"caſtle upon Tyne for the "Year 1675.

"Azure, a Bend en-"grailed between two "Cygnets Royal Argent, "gorged with Ducal "Crowns, with Strings "reflexed over their Backs "Or. This is the Pa-"ternal Coat-Armour of "Sir Charles Pitfield of "Hoxton in the Pariſh of 'St. Leonard's Shoreditch in Middleſex, Kt. de-"ſcended of the ancient Family of the Pi ſfields "of Symonsbury in the County of Dorſet.

"He beareth Azure, "two Swans Argent, be-"tween as many Flan-"ches Ermine, by the "Name of Meliſh of Lon-"don, deſcended from the "Family of the Meliſhes of "Sanderſted in Surrey.

(M) Loch of Drylaw; Or, a Saltire engrailed Sable, between two Swans naiant in Feſs, each in a Loch (or upon Barry undé) Proper.

(M) Azure, a Saltire engrail'd Argent, between three Swans naiant, each in a Loch Proper, two in Feſs and one in Baſe, pertain'd to ———

'He beareth Azure, 'three Swans Necks era-'ſed Proper, by the Name of 'Lacy alias Hedger. It ſeem-'eth theſe Swans died a vio-'lent Death, by the Rent-'ing off their Necks: But 'for their natural Death, 'diverſe write, that it is ſo 'acceptable unto them, 'that foreſeeing the Same, they ſing for Joy, 'which they never do in their young Days. In 'which reſpect, as alſo for his whiteneſs (the 'Colour of Sincerity) he was by the Ancients 'called Apollo's Bird; becauſe thoſe that are learn-'ed, know beſt how to contemn this Life, and 'to die with Reſolution and Comfort; and al-'ſo, for that good Arts ſhould have Sincerity, 'and Purity joined with it, but not ſuch as is 'in Shew only, and outward; for therein in-'deed the Swan's Purity is too puritanical, in 'that in his Feathers and outward Appearance 'he is all white, but inwardly his Body and 'Fleſh is very black.

'He beareth Sable, three 'Swans Necks couped, 'Proper, by the Name of 'Squire. Here you ſhall 'not need to mention ei-'ther the Metal of theſe 'Necks, being Argent, or 'yet their membring, be-'ing Gules, becauſe they 'be both natural to the 'Swan. But if either of them differed from 'their natural Colour, then ſhould you make 'ſpecial mention thereof. Moreover in theſe 'and other Fowls, that are not much exerciſed 'in flight, you ſhall not need to ſpeak of their 'cloſeneſs: Only if their Wings be open, then 'ſhall you take notice thereof.

Argent,

Argent, on a Feſs between three Trefoils Azure, as many Swans Necks eraſed of the Firſt, beaked Gules, is born by the Name of Baker, and was granted to William Baker of New Windſor in the County of Berks, Eſq; by Edward Byſſhe Garter, July 1655, but the Grant was declared Void ſoon after the King's happy Reſtoration.

He beareth Argent, on a Feſs wavy between 3 Lyons Paws eraſed Bendways Sable, armed Gules, as many Swans Heads eraſed Proper, beak'd of the Third, by the Name of Brown. This was confirmed to Edward Brown of Pinchbeck in Holland within the County of Lincoln, Gent. (Son of Richard Saltfleetby in the ſame County, Son of Martyn of the ſame Place) by Sir Richard St. George Clarencieux, June 1632, in the 8th Year of King Charles the Firſt.

He beareth Gules, a wild Gooſe cloſe Argent, with a Creſcent for a Difference. This Coat was confirmed by William Segar to John Langford of Alington, Eſq;

Her. Off. London, C. 24. fo. 408.

'He beareth Gules, a 'Chevron Argent, between 'three wild Ducks volant 'Proper, by the Name of 'Wolrich. The wild Duck 'hath many ſhrewd Ene-'mies, as Men, Dogs, and 'Hawks; and therefore 'Nature hath aſſiſted her 'with many Shifts; when 'any Man lays wait for them, they fly to the 'Water; when the Eagle purſueth them there, 'they dive under Water; when the Spaniel 'moleſts them there alſo, they mount into the 'Air: By which Varities they often beguile the 'Hopes of their Purſuers.

Argent, a Chevron Sable, between three Drakes Azure, beaked and membred Or, pertain'd to Robert Yeo of Heyampton Sachevill in the County of Devon, Eſq; who married Mary, Daughter of Bartholomew Forteſcue of Philley, Eſq; and had Iſſue Margaret, Daughter and Heir, who was married to Henry Rolles, third Son of George Rolles of Stevinſton, Eſq; to whom ſhe bore Iſſue Robert, Nicholas, William, Frances and Sarah.

This Robert aforeſaid, was eldeſt Son and Heir of William, eldeſt Son and Heir of Robert, the eldeſt Son and Heir of William, who was Son and Heir of John, the Son and Heir of Robert, the Son and Heir of ..... the Son and Heir of John, who was Son and Heir of Nicholas Yeo of Heyampton alias Highampton Sachevill in the County of Devon, Eſq;

This ſame Coat, with a Creſcent upon a Creſcent for a Difference, pertain'd alſo to Leonard Yeo, ſecond Son of Nicholas, who was ſecond Son of William Yeo of Heyampton, Eſq; Son and Heir of John Yeo, the Son and Heir of Robert, who was Son and Heir of William, who was Son and Heir of John, the Son and Heir of Nicholas Yeo of Heyampton Sachevill aforeſaid. Which Leonard, for his firſt Wife, married Arminella Daughter of Chriſtopher Berriford of London, Gent. and had Iſſue George Son and Heir, alſo Millicentia, who was married to Henry Bricknal of Plymouth, and Mary married to Nicholas Martyn of the City of Exeter. The ſecond Wife of the ſaid Leonard was Dionyſia, Daughter of William Doteyn, but by her he had no Iſſue.

George Yeo of Hatharley, Gent. Son and Heir, married Elizabeth, Daughter and Co-heir of Nicholas Smith of Great Totneſs, and had Iſſue ——

The ſame Coat, alſo with a Martlet for a Difference, pertain'd to John Yeo of Hewys or Hewes in the County of Devon, Gent. who married Elizabeth, Daughter of William Forteſcue of Buckland Philley, Eſq; and had Iſſue William, Roger and Anne.

This John Yeo was eldeſt Son and Heir of Thomas Yeo, who was eldeſt Son and Heir of Edmund Yeo, both of the ſaid Place, Gent. which Edmund was third Son of William Yeo of Heyampton aboveſaid, Eſq;

Argent, on a Chevron Gules, three Shell-drakes of the Field, with the honourable Addition of a Roſe Argent, in a Canton of the Second, was granted by Patent, dated the 26th of December 1681, by William Dugdale Garter and Henry St. George Clarencieux, and is now uſed by Gilbert Sheldon, Eſq;

" He beareath Sable, a " Feſs between three Shel- " drakes Argent, by the " Name of Sheldon; and " is the Coat-Armour of " Sir Joſeph Sheldon of the " City of London, Knight, " Lord Mayor thereof in " the Year 1676.

Gules, a Feſs engrail'd between three Seamews Argent, is born by the Name of Syer, and was granted to Robert Syer of Iſham in the County of Northampton, Gent. by William Camden, Clarencieux, the 11th of February 1614, in the 11th Year of King James the Firſt.

Azure, three Shovelers Argent, a Chief Ermine, is born by the Name of Hans, and was allowed and aſſigned by William Flower, Norroy, October the 10th, 1582, in the 25th Year of Queen Elizabeth, to Radulph Hans alias Hansby of the Pariſh of St. Egidius (Giles) within the Village of Beverly in the County of York.

M. S. of Grant's in Aſh. Num. 844.

Argent, a Chevron between three Cormorants Sable, is born by John Warburton of Whitbeck in the County of Cumberland, Eſq; a Perſon very curious in collecting Matters of natural Hiſtory, Antiquities and Arms, eſpecially ſuch as relate to his own and its neighbouring Counties. He derives his Deſcent from an ancient Family of that Name, ſeated at Arley in the County-Palatine of Cheſter; and married Dorothy, eldeſt Daughter of Andrew Huddleſton of Hutton-John in the ſaid County of Cumberland, Eſq;

" He beareth Argent, a " Stork Sable, membred " Gules. This Coat per- " taineth to the Family of " Starkey in Cheſhire, where " now reſideth Jo. Starkey " of Wrenbury, Eſq; Tho- " mas Starkey of Stretton, " Eſq; Ralph Starkey of " Morfanny, Eſq; and John " Starkey of Darley, Eſquire. In this Fowl we " may obſerve the true and lively Image of a " Son; for whatſoever Duty a Son oweth to " his Parents, they all are found and obſerved " in the Stork. The Duties of a Son to the Fa- " ther are four: The Firſt is of Love, the Se- " cond of Honour, the Third of Obedience, the " Laſt is of Aid and Succour. Foraſmuch as he " receiveth Life by his Father (than which no- " thing is more deſirable) he is compelled by " the Laws of Nature to love his Father. And " whereas it is the Part and Duty of a Father to " bring up and inſtruct his Son in Vertue, and " that Vertue hath no other Reward than Ho- " nour; unleſs the Son do give Honour to the " Father, he doth violate or rather loſe the " Name of a Son. Becauſe alſo he receiveth " Nouriſhment from his Father, wherein con- " ſiſteth the Suſtentation of Life; there is no- " thing compriſed under this Name of Suſten- " tation, that the Son ſeemeth not to owe to " his Father. Finally, Foraſmuch as the Father " is God's Vicegerent, the Son, next unto God, " is bound to obey his Parents. Theſe are the " Things that Nature, or rather God in Nature " teacheth us by the Stork; Natura enim nihil " agit, niſi æternis conſiliis, Nature doth nothing " but by God's ſpecial Direction.

Gules, a Stork between three Creſcents Argent, beaked and membred Or, is born by the Name of Gibſon, and was confirmed to William Gibſon of Staveley, in the County of York, Gent. by William Ryley, Eſq; Norroy, the 16th of January 1655, but declared void after King Charles the Second's Reſtoration.

' He beareth Azure, 3 ' Storks riſing Proper, by ' the Name of Gibſon. ' The Stork is a Bird moſt ' careful of her Young; ' and therefore Nature re- ' quiteth that her Care; ' for their Young do take ' the like Care for them in ' their old Age. Whence ' it is, that the Stork is the Emblem of a grate- ' ful Man. In which reſpect, Ælian writeth of ' a Stork,

' a Stork, which bred on the Houſe of one who had a very beautiful Wife, which in her Huſband's abſence uſed to commit Adultery with one of her baſe Servants; which the Stork obſerving, in gratitude to him who freely gave him houſe-room, flying in the Villain's Face, ſtruck out both his Eyes.

(M) He beareth Azure, a Crane Argent, by the Name of Fythie.

(M) Gules, a Crane without any Head Argent, is born by the Name of Fin.

(M) Cranſton Lord Cranſton beareth Gules, three Cranes Argent. The ſame Coat within a Bordure inveck'd of the Second, belongs to Cranſton of Meckrie.

" He beareth Gules, 3 " Herons Argent, by the " Name of Heron. This, " with the Arms of Ulſter, " is the Coat-Armour of " Sir Cuthbert Heron of " Chipchaſe in Northumber- " land, Baronet.

" He beareth Gules, a " Chevron Ermine, be- " tween three Herons Ar- " gent. This is the Coat- " Armour of John Heron " of Godmancheſter in Hunt- " ingtonſhire, Counſellor at " Law, who deriveth his " Deſcent from Sir John " Heron, or Hairun, Kt. " who came into England with William the Con- " queror, and married the Daughter and Heir " of Sir William Chepechaſe, or Chipches, of Chip- " chaſe Caſtle in Northumberland, Kt. of the Saxon " Race; and by her had Iſſue Sir Roger Heron " of Chipchaſe Caſtle aforeſaid, Kt. lineal Ance- " ceſtor of the ſaid John.

" Sable, a Chevron Ermine, between three " Herons Argent, is born by Sir Nathaniel Herne " of the City of London, Knight and Alder- " man.

" The Field is Azure, a " Chevron between three " Sterns cloſe Argent, " membred Gules. This " is the Paternal Coat- " Armour of the ancient " Family of Duke of " Brampton in the County " of Suffolk, of which Sir " John Duke, Baronet, " now reſident at Benhall-lodge in the ſaid Coun- " ty, is the lineal deſcended Heir. And is alſo " born by Tollemach Duke of Lincolns-Inn in Mid- " dleſex, Eſq; Exiginter of his Majeſty's Court " of Common-Pleas for London, &c. Son and " Heir of Dr. Edward Duke of Honington in Suf- " folk (by Elizabeth his Wife, only Daughter " of Robert, ſecond Son of Sir Lionel Tollemach " of Bentley and Helmingham in the ſaid County, " Baronet) and lineally deſcended of the whole " Blood from the ancient Family of the Dukes " of Brampton and Shadingfield in the ſaid Coun- " ty. The Colour Azure, repreſenteth the Sa- " phire ſtone, whoſe Vertue, as Philoſophers " write, operateth much in compoſing Diſ- " agreements. This Colour in Armoury by it " ſelf, ſignifieth the Bearer thereof to be of a " good Diſpoſition, and to merit perpetual Re- " nown. And being compounded with Argent, " it denoteth the Bearer's vigilancy in his Sove- " reign's Service.

He beareth Or, a King-fiſher with his Beak erected Bend-ways Proper, a Mullet for a Difference Gules, by the Name of Fiſher. This Coat was aſſigned by William Camden, Clarencieux, Feb. 4. 1607. to Sir Edward Fiſher, Son of Edward Fiſher, Eſq; Alderman of London, third Son of Richard Fiſher deſcended out of Staffordſhire.

He beareth Or, three King-fiſhers Proper, by the Name of Fiſher. This Coat was confirmed or granted to Chriſtopher Fiſher of London, Gent. Father of Henry Fiſher of the Middle Temple.

' Under theſe Sorts will I briefly compre- ' hend all River-Fowls whatſoever, viz. all ' ſuch as are whole-footed under the Former; ' and all Cranes, Herns, Cormorants, &c. un- ' der this Latter: For although they be of the ' Kind of River-Fowls, yet have they their Feet ' divided.

CHAP.

CHAP. XX.

'AFTER thoſe River-Fowls whole-footed 'and divided, by Order it now falleth 'to Hand that I ſhould proceed to ſuch Fowls 'as do frequent, partly the Air, and partly the 'Land; of which, ſome are Fowls of Prey, 'others are Predable, or fit to be made a Prey.

'Such as are Fowls of Prey have their Beaks 'and Tallons evermore hooked and ſharp: 'Hooked, for ſure ſeizing and detaining: And 'Sharp, for ſpeedy rending and dividing there-'of. Such are Eagles of all Sorts, Vultures, 'Falcons, Gerfalcons, Sakers, Lanerts, Ter-'cels, Sparhawks, Marlins, &c. as alſo Kites, 'Buzzards, Owls, &c. Of Fowls (ſays Pliny) 'thoſe that have hooked Claws and Tallons, are not 'fruitful Breeders, for the moſt Part; wherein Na-'ture hath well provided for all Kinds of Fowls, 'that the Mightier ſhould not be ſo copious as the 'Weaker, and ſuch as do fly from the Tyranny of 'others. Some of theſe Fowls of Prey are (in 'their Kind) ennobled by Nature in as high a 'Degree of Nobility, as the chiefeſt of the ter-'reſtial Animals before handled. Such are thoſe 'that do much frequent the Air, as Eagles and 'Hawks of all Sorts, which are much exerci-'ſed in flying; and altho' they do build their 'Neſts, and have their feeding upon the Earth, 'yet is their Exerciſes above in the Air. There-'fore, in regard of the Worthineſs of the Ele-'ment wherein they are chiefly occupied, I will 'begin with Birds of Prey, and, after our for-'mer Order, firſt with their whole Bearing, 'and ſo deſcend to the Parts (promiſcuouſly) 'of ſundry Birds, according to the Dignity of 'their Place, or more noble Uſe; as in Ex-'ample.

'The Field is Azure, an 'Eagle diſplay'd Argent, 'armed Gules, on a Can-'ton of the Second, a ſi-'niſter Hand couped at 'the Wriſt, as the Third. 'Theſe Arms appertain-'ed to the right Worthy 'Sir Robert Cotton of Con-'nington in Huntington-'ſhire, Knight and Baronet, now deceaſed; a 'learned Antiquary, and a ſingular Favourer 'and Preſerver of all good Learning and an-'tique Monuments,' witneſs the Cotton Library which took that Denomination, as containing his Collections.

"Cajus Julius Cæſar, Son of Lucius Cæſar a "Roman, in the Year before Chriſt 52, having "conquered France, overcame alſo Caſſibulan "King of Britain, and made the Iſland become "Tributary to him and his Succeſſors 483 Years, "at which Time Conſtantine of Armorica obtained "the Kingdom; he bore Sol, an Eagle diſplay-"ed Saturn, armed Mars.

"Topaz, an Eagle diſplayed Diamond, was "the Coat of Edwyn a Saxon, who, at the Time "of the Conqueſt, was Earl of Coventry; and "he, with Earl Swardus, and Marker his Bro-"ther, kept the Iſle of Ely againſt the Conque-"ror; for which Cauſe he was baniſhed the "Kingdom, and afterwards was ſlain in Scot-"land without Iſſue.

"Argent, an Eagle diſplay'd Sable, is the Coat-"Armour of Sir Theophilus Bidulph of Eaſt-"Greenwich in Kent.

He beareth Vert, an Eagle diſplay'd Argent, by the Name of Bidulph. This Coat was confirmed by William Flower Norroy, May the 4th, 1584, in the 26th Year of Queen Elizabeth, to Francis Bidulph of Bidulph in the County of Staffford, Eſq;

M. S. of Grant's in Aſhm. No. 844.

"Gules, an Eagle diſplay'd Or, is the Coat-"Armour of the Goddards of Norfolk.

'The Eagle having her Wings thus diſplayed, 'doth manifeſt her induſtrious Exerciſe, in that 'ſhe is not idle, but continually practiſeth that 'Courſe of Life whereunto Nature hath ordain-'ed her: And doth ſignify a Man of Action, 'evermore occupied in high and weighty Af-'fairs, and one of a lofty Spirit, ingenious, ſpee-'dy in Apprehenſion, and judicious in Mat-'ters of Ambiguity. For among other noble 'Qualities in the Eagle, her Sharpneſs and 'Strength of Sight is much commended; and it 'is a greater Honour to one of noble Off-ſpring 'to be wiſe and of ſharp and deep Underſtand-'ing, than to be rich or powerful, or great by 'Birth. The Eagle is the moſt honourable Bear-'ing of Birds; and for its Swiftneſs of Flight, 'was called the Meſſenger of the Gods.

"He beareth Ermine, "an Eagle diſplay'd Gules, "armed Or, by the Name "of Beddingfield. This is "an ancient Family, and "of good Note in the "Counties of Suffolk and "Norfolk; and now per-"taineth to Sir Henry Bed-"dingfield of Oxborough, "and dwelling at Beck-hall in Norfolk, Baronet; "to Philip Beddingfield of Ditchingham, and Chri-"ſtopher Beddingfield of Witeton, both of the ſaid "County, Eſquires. And in the County of "Suffolk, to Sir Thomas Beddingfield of Darſham-

' The Eagle is ſaid to be Altivolans avis, an ' high-ſoaring Bird, that ſometime flieth ſo high ' a Pitch, as that ſhe tranſcendeth the View of ' Man. She hath a tender Care of her Young: ' When they be fligg or fluſh (as we ſay) and ' ready for Flight, then ſhe ſtirreth up her Neſt ' and fluttereth over them; yea, ſhe taketh ' them on her Wings, and ſo ſoareth with them ' through the Air, and carrieth them aloft, and ' ſo freeth them from all Danger. In that ſhe ' carrieth her young Ones rather upon her Wings ' than in her Tallons, ſhe ſheweth her tender ' Care and Love that ſhe beareth unto them. ' She is abundantly full of Feathers, by Means ' whereof ſhe glideth through the Air very ' lightly, and maketh Way through the Same, ' with great Expedition and Swiftneſs. Our Per- ' ſecutors (ſaith Jeremiah) are ſwifter than the ' Eagles of Heaven. And again, 2 Sam. 1. 23. 'Theſe Eaglets, becauſe they be ſtill in exer-'ciſe, do lively repreſent their Sires to be no 'Baſtards, or degenerate Brood. It is related, 'That the old Eagles make a Proof of their 'Young, by expoſing them againſt the Sun-'beams, and ſuch as cannot ſteddily behold that 'Brightneſs, are caſt forth as unworthy to be 'acknowledged their Off-ſpring. In which re-'ſpect William Rufus, King of this Land, gave 'for his Device an Eagle looking againſt the 'Sun, with this Word Perfero, I can endure it: 'To ſignify, he was not in the leaſt degenerated 'from his puiſſant Father the Conqueror.

He

He beareth Argent, on a Bend cottiſed Sable, three Eagles Heads eraſed of the Field, beak'd Or, by the Name of Clynkard. This Coat was aſſign'd by Patent dated the 2d of March 1664, in the 16th Year of King Charles the Second, by Sir Edward Walker Garter, to Gabriel Clynkard, Son of Edmond Clynkard, M. A. in the Univerſity of Oxon, whoſe Grandſon (the Son of Gabriel aforeſaid) married the Daughter of Sir John Mayne, Knight and Baronet, and was a Perſon of ſignal Courage and Loyalty, who being taken Priſoner at the Battle of Worceſter, was baniſh'd this Kingdom, and attended King Charles II. when beyond the Seas, and, according to his Power, was active towards his Reſtoration. He, at the Date hereof, was Lieutenant of a Troop of Voluntiers commanded by Capt. Henry Thornhill, under the Earl of Wincheſter, in the County of Kent. In conſideration of which, and the Sufferings of the aboveſaid Gabriel, and the Reſt of his Family, he for himſelf and his Deſcendents received this Grant.

Argent, on a Feſs Gules, between three Eagles heads eraſed Sable, beak'd of the Second, an Unicorn couchant, between two Fleurs-de lis Or, was aſſign'd Anno Dom. 1628. by Sir William Segar Garter King of Arms, to George Willmot of Wantage in Berkſhire.

'The Field is Ruby, two 'Wings inverted and con-'joyned Topaz, by the 'Name of Seymour. The 'Wings are Hieroglyphicks of Celerity, and 'ſometime of Protection 'and Coverture; as the 'Pſalmiſt often ſpeaks of 'hiding under the Shadow 'of the Wings of God's Favour: Becauſe the 'Hens do ſhelter their Young from the Rapin 'of the Mightier, with ſpreading their Wings 'over them. And therefore ſome have thought, 'that the Diſplaying of the Roman Eagle's 'Wings did ſignify the Protection of the Obedient, and the Extending of her griping Tallons to betoken the Rending and Ruin of all 'that reſiſted. Like as the Eagle in her Life, 'makes Prey of all other Fowl, ſo her Feathers 'being mingled with the Feathers of other 'Fowls, are ſaid to conſume them all to Duſt: 'And therefore, One compares them to Riches 'gotten by Oppreſſion or Fraud, which will 'eat out, in Time, all the Reſt, though well 'gotten.

"Sable, two Wings ſub-"volant addorſed Argent. "This is the Paternal "Coat of the Right Ho-"nourable Robert Ridge-"way Earl of London-derry, "and Baron of Gallen "Ridgeway in Ireland, &c. "The Place of his Lord-"ſhip's Reſidence is at Torr in Devonſhire.

This Coat was confirmed by William Camden Clarencieux, the 4th of May 1602, in the 44th Year of Queen Elizabeth, to Sir Thomas Ridgewaye of Torr in the County of Devon, Kt. Son of Thomas Ridgewaye and of Mary his Wife, Daughter and Co-heir of Grace, Daughter and ſole Heir of John Barnehouſe of Marſh in the ſaid County of Devon, Eſq; and Grand-child of John Ridgewaye of Torr aforeſaid, Eſq;

Fauſtina E. 1. in Biblioth. Cotton.

He beareth Gules, two Wings inverted and conjoined Ermine, by the Name of Rayney. This Coat was aſſigned by William Camden Clarencieux, Anno Dom. 1620, to William Rayney of the City of London.

Note, This is the ſame Coat (in Form) with the Other which is deſcrib'd as in the Patent, but I hold this better blazon'd.

'He beareth Gules, five 'Marlions Wings in Sal-'tire Argent. This Coat 'pertain'd to Sir Arthur 'Porter of Newark in the 'County of Glouceſter, Kt. 'As Wings of Fowls are 'born whole, ſo are their 'Feathers alſo; among 'which, the Oſtriches may 'juſtly bear Praiſe for Beauty, for Diſtinction 'from all others, and for frequent Uſe and Note 'in Armoury, as I could ſhew by diverſe Examples of their Bearing, both by themſelves 'and with and upon Ordinaries.

Argent, on a Pale Azure, three Pair of Wings conjoined and elevated of the Firſt, was the Coat of Chriſtopher Potter, D. D. Provoſt of Queens College in Oxon, and Dean of Worceſter (Nephew to Barnaby Potter Biſhop of Carliſle) who dy'd the 3d of March 1645, and was buried in Queens College Chappel. He was born at Kendal in Weſtmoreland, and married Elizabeth, Daughter of Dr. Charles Sunnybanke, banke, D. D. Canon of Windſor, and ſometime Student of Chriſt-Church.

M. S. of Ant. à Wood's Remarks de Com. Oxon. p. 79.

This Coat was granted to Dr. Chriſtopher Potter of Queen's College in Oxford, by Sir John Borough Garter.

'He beareth Or, on a 'Bend Sable, 3 Oſtrich's 'Feathers Argent, paſſing 'through as many Scrolls 'of the Firſt, by the 'Name of Roger Clarendon, that was baſe Son 'to the puiſſant Black 'Prince. The proper Con- 'nuſance of the Princes 'of Wales, being the ſame three Feathers born 'altogether with one Eſcrol, having this Motto, 'ICH DIEN; whereby in Princely Mo- 'deſty they dutifully profeſs that which St. Paul 'avows, That the Son, as long as he is under Tui- 'tion, is himſelf a Subject. But the Oſtrich's 'Feathers in Plume were ſometimes alſo the 'Device of King Stephen, who gave them with 'this Word, VI NULLA INVERTI- 'TUR ORDO, No Force alters their Fa- 'ſhion; alluding to the Fold and Fall of the 'Feather; which, howſoever the Wind may 'ſhake it, it cannot diſorder it; as likewiſe is 'the Condition of Kings and Kingdoms well 'eſtabliſhed.

'He beareth Argent, ſix 'Oſtrich's Feathers, three, 'two, and one Sable, by 'the Name of Jervis. This 'Man was a principal 'Founder of Exbridge in 'the County of Devon.

'Of the Oſtrich, ſome 'have doubted whether 'he ſhould be reckoned a Beaſt or a Fowl, in 'reſpect of ſome participation of both Kinds; yet 'doth P. Belon du Mans make no ſcruple at all 'to ſort him among Birds: Therefore I have 'held it fit to place his Feathers here among the 'Parts of Birds.

'He beareth Sable, an 'Eagle's Leg in Pale, era- 'ſed à la quiſe, Argent, the 'Tallons Gules, by the 'Name of Canhanſer. This 'is termed à la quiſe; and 'quiſe in French ſignifieth 'a Thigh. It is moſt un- 'doubted, that the De- 'vourer ſhall be devoured 'in his due Time, even as the rending and prey- 'ing Leg is here it ſelf rent off from the Body. 'A worthy Document for all great Men, whoſe 'Bearing is of the ravening and preying Kind, 'to ſtand in Fear how they ſeize on any Prey 'againſt Juſtice; becauſe if they eſcape the like 'Meaſure with Man, yet it is a juſt Thing with 'God, to ſhew no Mercy to them which are 'Mercileſs.

'He beareth Or, two 'Eagles Legs Barr-ways, 'eraſed à la quiſe, Sable, 'armed Gules. Though 'the Eagle's Strength be 'much in her Legs and 'Beak, yet ſometimes ſhe 'is forced to uſe her Wit 'to rend her Prey; as 'eſpecially ſhe doth in 'breaking open all Shell-fiſh, which ſhe uſeth '(as Fortune doth many great Men) to carry 'them up very high, that they may fall with 'greater Force, and ſo be broken up for her 'Food. Whereof there is recorded one me- 'morable, but pitiful Experiment on the Poet 'Æſchylus, who ſitting in deep Meditation, an 'Eagle thinking his bald Head had been a Stone, 'let fall a Tortoiſe upon it, and ſo made a tra- 'gical End of that noble Tragedian.

He beareth Or, two Eagles Legs eraſed à la quiſe, in Saltire, the Dexter ſurmounted of the Siniſter Sable, by the Name of Hixon. This Coat was confirmed by William Camden, Anno Dom. 1617, to Thomas Hixon of Greenwood, Gent. Keeper of the King's Wardrobe, and deſcended out of Cambridgeſhire.

'The Field is Argent, 'a Chevron between three 'Eagles Legs eraſed à la 'quiſe, Sable, their Tal- 'lons armed Gules, by the 'Name of Bray. To theſe 'Legs of Eagles I hold it 'not unfit to adjoin (for 'Company) three Ra- 'vens Legs born after an- 'other Sort. The Raven was the Enſign of 'the Danes, when they invaded this King- 'dom; whoſe whole Bearing you ſhall find 'hereafter.

'He beareth Argent, 3 'Ravens Legs eraſed Sa- 'ble, meeting in the Feſs 'Point, their guly Tal- 'lons extended into the 'Three acute Corners of 'the Eſcutcheon, by the 'Name of Owen of Wales, 'the Son of Madock. The 'Raven hath his Name

'for his Rapine, whence other like Birds are 'termed Ravenous; but his Stomach is moſt 'ſhewed on dead Carkaſſes, whereas among 'generous Spirits, it is accounted baſe, to be 'valiant among them that cannot reſiſt, or to 'hurt the Name and Reputation of the Dead.

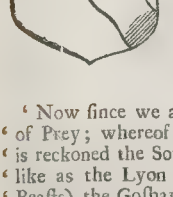

'As the terreſtrial Animals have their pecu-'liar Actions and Geſtures, ſo doubtleſs have 'Birds and Fowls their Geſture according to 'their Kind: For ſometime we find them born 'pearching, which Action is more uſual with 'Birds or Fowls of Prey that are thoroughly 'mained and brought to the Fiſt.

He beareth Sable, a Falcon Argent, beak'd, membred, jeſſed and bell'd Or, charged on the Breaſt with a Trefoil ſlipp'd Proper, by the Name of Bolton. This Coat was confirmed or granted by William Camden Clarencieux, by Patent dated Auguſt the 26th, 1615, to Thomas Bolton of Woodbridge in Suffolk, Eſq; deſcended from the Boltons of Bolton in Lancaſhire.

'He beareth Sable, a 'Goſhawk Argent, pearch-'ing upon a Stock fixed 'in the baſe Point of the 'Eſcutcheon of the Se-'cond, armed, jeſſed, and 'belled Or, by the Name 'of Weele, and is quar-'tered by Copleſton of Eg-'ford. This Coat ſtand-'eth in Staverton Church in the County of De-'von: And it may repreſent ſome Bearer who 'was ready and ſerviceable for high Affairs, 'though he lived at reſt, and not imployed.

'He beareth Gules, a 'Bend wavy Argent, in 'the ſiniſter chief Point 'an Hawk ſtanding on a 'Pearch Or. This Coat 'pertained to the Fami-'ly of Hawkeridge of Hawk-'worthy in the County of 'Devon.

'Now ſince we are come to treat of Fowls 'of Prey; whereof (next to the Eagle, which 'is reckoned the Sovereign Queen of all Fowls, 'like as the Lyon is reputed the King of all 'Beaſts) the Goſhawk, the Falcon, the Gerfal-'con, and all other long-wing'd Hawks; as al-'ſo all Sparhawks, Marlions, Hobbeys, and 'other like ſmall Fowl of Prey are the Chief, 'it ſhall not be altogether impertinent (though 'therein I do ſomewhat digreſs from my prin-'cipal Purpoſe) if I give ſome little Touch of 'the Propriety of Terms commonly uſed of 'Faulconers in managing their Hawks, and 'Things to them belonging, according to the 'Slenderneſs of my Skill, always ſubſcribing 'herein to the Cenſure and Reformation of pro-'feſſed Faulconers. The Cauſe of this my di-'greſſion is, the Deſire I have to give ſome ſu-'perficial Taſte unto Gentlemen of the Terms 'of Faulconry, like as I have done Chap. 14. 'of the Terms of skilful Woodmen or Huntſ-'men: That ſo, in their mutual converſing to-'gether, they may be able to ſpeak properly '(though but ſuperficially) and deliver their 'Minds in apt Terms, when in their Meetings 'they happen to fall into Diſcourſe of the no-'ble Recreations and Delights, either of our 'generous armorial Profeſſion, or of Hunting 'and Hawking; that ſo the Standers-by may 'ſay of them (when they ſhall obſerve their 'skilful Diſcourſes) as old Father Simo ſaid to 'Soſia his late Bondman, touching the Delights 'of his Son Pamphilus, Ter. And.

'Quod plerique omnes faciunt adoleſcentuli,
'Ut animum ad aliquod ſtudium adjungant, aut
'equos
'Alere, aut canes ad venandum, aut ad Philo-
'ſophos:
'Horum ille nihil egregie præter cætera
'Studebat, & tamen omnia hæc mediocriter.

'It is a uſual Thing, with the moſt Part of 'young Men to delight themſelves, either in 'pampering of Horſes, or to cheriſh Dogs for 'Hunting, or to addict themſelves to the Stu-'dy of Philoſophy; he fixed not his Delight in 'any one of theſe more than another, yet was 'he moderately well ſeen in them all.

'The Terms of Faulconry, that I purpoſe 'to touch in this Place, are briefly theſe that 'follow.

'Firſt, A Hawk is ſaid to bate, when ſhe ſtri-'veth to fly from the Fiſt.

'She is ſaid to rebate, when by the Motion of 'the Bearer's Hand ſhe recovereth the Fiſt.

'You muſt ſay, feed your Hawk, and not 'give her Meat.

'A Hawk is ſaid (after ſhe hath fed) ſhe ſmi-'teth or ſweepeth her Beak, and not wipeth her 'Beak or Bill.

'By the Beak of an Hawk is underſtood the 'upper Part which is hooked.

'The neather Part of the Beak is called the 'Hawk's Clap.

'The Holes in the Hawk's Beak are called 'her Nares.

'The Yellow between the Beak and the Eyes 'is called the Sere.

'Hawks of long ſmall Beak-feathers like 'Hairs about the Sere, are properly called 'Crinites.

'You muſt ſay your Hawk jouketh, and not 'ſleepeth.

'Alſo

'Alſo your Hawk pruneth, and not picketh 'her ſelf.

'But your Hawk cannot be ſaid properly to 'prune her ſelf, but when ſhe beginneth at her 'Legs, and fetcheth moiſture at her Tayl, 'wherewith ſhe embalmeth her Feet, and ſtri-'keth the Feathers of her Wings through her 'Beak.

'Her fetching of the Oyl is called the Note.

'Your Hawk is ſaid to rouſe, and not ſhake 'her ſelf.

'Sometime your Hawk countenances, when 'ſhe picketh her ſelf.

'Then ſhall you not ſay ſhe pruneth her ſelf, 'but that ſhe reformeth her Feathers.

'Your Hawk collieth, and not breaketh; 'your Hawk ſtraineth, not clitcheth or ſnatch-'eth.

'She mantleth and not ſtretcheth, when ſhe 'extendeth one of her Wings along after her 'Legs, and ſo the other.

'After ſhe hath thus mantled her ſelf, ſhe 'croſſeth her Wings together over her Back, 'which Action you ſhall term the Warbling 'of her Wings, and ſay, ſhe warbleth her 'Wings.

'You ſhall ſay your Hawk muteſheth or mu-'teth, and not ſkliſeth.

'You ſhall ſay, caſt your Hawk to the Pearch, 'and not ſet your Hawk upon the Pearch.

'Furthermore you ſhall ſay, ſhe is a fair, 'long, ſhort, thick Hawk, and not a great 'Hawk.

'Alſo you ſhall ſay, this Hawk hath a large 'or a ſhort Beak, but call it not a Bill.

'Alſo that your Hawk is full gorged, and 'not cropped.

'And that ſhe hath a fine Head, or a ſmall 'Head well ſeaſoned.

'You ſhall ſay, your Hawk putteth over, and 'endueth, but both of them in a diverſe Kind.

'She putteth over, when ſhe removeth her 'Meat from her Gorge into her Bowels, by 'traverſeing with her Body, but chiefly with 'her Neck, as a Crane or ſome other Bird 'doth.

'She never endueth ſo long as her Bowels be 'full at her feeding; but as ſoon as ſhe hath fed, 'and reſteth, ſhe endueth by little and little.

'If her Gorge be void, and her Bowels any thing ſtiff, then ſhall you ſay ſhe is embowelled, 'and hath not fully endued.

'So long as you find any Thing in her Bowels, 'it is dangerous to give her Meat.

Sable, a Chevron between 3 Pelicans heads eraſed Or, is born by the Name of Godfrey, and was confirmed to Thomas Godfrey of Lid in the County of Kent, as appears by an ancient Veſſum Eſcutcheon remaining in the Family; on the Back-ſide of which is a Preamble under the Hand of the aforeſaid Thomas Godfrey of Lid, ſetting forth the ſame, as alſo the Occaſion of his Creſt, which he ſays he deviſed Anno 1607, (with the Conſent of his Lord and Maſter the Earl of Northampton, then One of the Commiſſioners for the Office of Marſhal of England, in whoſe Houſe and Service the ſaid Thomas liv'd) in Honour of his ſaid ſingular good Lord, being part of his Bearing.

The ſaid Thomas, to prove the Antiquity of his Name and Coat, quotes the Records in the Heralds Office; their Matches with John Clark of Weſthawke who married Robodey, and William Blechenden of Merſham, who married Agnes, the Daughters and Heirs of Thomas Godfrey of Aldington, by which they both Quarter this Coat. And, by their ſaid Wives, Blechenden had Raſtinſhill, and Clark had Cophurſt, both Eſtates in Aldington; which Mannor was given by King Henry the Second, to the Anceſtors of the ſaid Thomas Godfrey, as appears by the Charter of Romney-Marſh, now extant in Print.

Their funeral Monuments (ſays the aforeſaid Thomas) do alſo prove their Property in this Coat; there being in Lid Church, in the middle Iſle, yet extant a fair Marble Stone inlaid with Bordures, Piramids, Imagery and Inſcriptions of Braſs, and at each Corner an Eſcutcheon with theſe Arms, the Plates or Inſcriptions being worn out but of late Time. The Monument is of one Thomas Godfrey bearing Date 1430, which was about the 9th Year of King Henry the Sixth.

Sable, on a Mount Proper, a Stag lodg'd Or, on a Chief of the Third a Moor-cock of the Second, was confirmed unto Valentine Mortoft, Son of William, the Son of John Mortoft of Itringham in the County of Norfolk, Gent. by William Camden Clarencieux, October, Anno 1606.

Argent, a Moor-cock Sable, was confirmed by Sir Gilbert Dethick Garter, Robert Cook Clarencieux, and William Flower Norroy, the 28th of April 1569, to Nicholas Moore of the Inner-Temple, London, Son and Heir of John, Son and Heir of Edward, Son and Heir of Gawyn, who was the Son and Heir of Richard Moore, Eſq; of Burfeild in the County of Berks, by Elizabeth, Daughter of ..... Brocas.

'Hitherto of Fowls of Prey, leaving other 'Particulars to each Man's Observation: Now 'of those which are predable, whereof some 'are savage, some domestical. The Savage I 'call those that are not subject to Man's Go'vernment, but do naturally shun their Socie'ty, and usually do haunt in Woods, Fo'rests, Heaths, &c. and are subject to prey 'and tyrannical Oppression, as these which 'ensue.

"He beareth Azure, 3 "Bustards rising Or, by "the Name of Nevill. "These cannot be pro"perly said to be volant; "altho' they may seem to "to be flying, but are "more aptly said, accord"ing to the Opinion of "some Blazoners, to be "volentes volare; as much as to say, as prepa"ring themselves to make their Flight. It is "an Observation of Pliny, that all Fowls ha"ving long Legs, do (in their flight) stretch "forth their Legs at length to their Tails; but "such as are short-leg'd do truss their Feet to "the Midst of their Bodies.

Gules, on a Bend Argent, a Cornish Chough in the chief Part thereof Proper, was assign'd by Patent to ..... Marden of the City of London, by Sir William Segar.

(39) He beareth Sable, on a Bend Argent, cottised Or, three Cornish Choughs Proper. Some call these Birds, Martlets, and give them Azure.

(40) Cornwall of Bonhard; Gules, on a Fess Argent, between three Mullets Or, as many Cornish Choughs Proper.

He beareth Or, a Fess indented Sable, between three Cornish Choughs Proper, by the Name of Thomas. This Coat was allow'd or assign'd to Richard Thomas of Clifford's Inn, one of the Philazers of the Court of Common Pleas, by William Camden Clarencieux, in July, Anno 1609.

He beareth Argent, a Fess dancetté Sable, between three Cornish Choughs rising Proper, by the Name of Thomas. This Coat was confirmed by Sir William Segar Garter, the 17th of June 1622, to William Thomas of Selling in Kent, Gent. (who married Bridget, Daughter of Stephen Worley of Scuttenton in the Parish of Thong in the said County) Son of Robert Thomas of Wrotham, the Son of John Thomas of the said Place.

N. B. This Coat was, within a very few Years past, if not still, to be seen in a Window at Feversham in Kent, in the House of Mr. Southouse, which was once the Possession of one of this Family of Thomas.

Sable, on a Chevron Argent, 3 Cornish Choughs Proper, on a Canton of the Second, a Demi-Lyon rampant of the First, is born by the Name of Parvis, and was first confirm'd or granted to Henry Parvis in Surry, Gent. by a Patent from William Dethick Garter, bearing Date the 12th of January, in the 24th Year of Queen Elizabeth, and afterwards by another Patent bearing Date December the 3d, Anno 1597, and 40th of the said Queen's Reign, was again confirmed to the aforesaid Henry Parvis, and also (at the Request of William Smith, Rouge Dragon) to Edward Parvis of Surry, Gent. and Brother of the said Henry, by Sir William Dethick Garter, William Camden Clarencieux, and William Segar Norroy.

"He beareth Argent, a "Fess Gules, between six "Cornish Choughs Proper," (rather Falcons Sable, with Bells Or, "by the Name of "Onslow; and is the Coat"Armour of Arthur On"slow of Clandon in Surry, "Esq; descended of the "ancient Family of the Onslows.

"Onslows of Onslow-hall in Shropshire:" The Chief of which Family now, is the Right Honourable the Lord Onslow of Onslow-hall aforesaid.

'He beareth Or, three 'Swallows close Proper, 'by the Name of Watton. 'This Bird is the most 'welcome Harbinger, 'shewing the Approach 'of the pleasing Spring; 'being therein like feign-'ed and temporizing 'Friends, who, in the 'Spring of Honours, and Summer of Abun-'dance, will gladly converse with those, whom 'in the Winter of Adversity they will forsake, 'and scarce acknowledge they ever saw them 'before. Such an one was that proud Cardi-'nal, who, upon his new Dignity, not vouch-'safing to look on his familiar Friends, one of 'them came to him (while all others did con-'gratulate his Felicity) to deplore his Misery; 'who wondering thereat, and asking the Cause 'of such his Sorrow, Because (quoth he) since 'that red Hat came on your Head, you have quite 'lost your Eye sight, and cannot discern your Friends 'as you were wont.

'He beareth Argent, a 'Barr between 3 Swal-'lows volant Proper, a 'Chief Gules, by the 'Name of Swallow. The 'Swallow (saith Upton) hath 'a small Bill and comely 'Shape, of a seemly Black, 'White on the Belly, and 'Red about the Throat, ha-'ving little Flesh, but well stored with Feathers and 'large Wings, and therefore is Swift of Flight. 'Man's Industry will hardly suffice to perform 'that, which this little Bird doth fashion out 'in Clay, in making her Nest. The Bearing of 'the Swallow fitteth well a Man that is Indu-'strious, Prompt, and Ready in the Dispatch of 'his Business.

This Coat- ' Armour pertaineth to ' the ancient Family of de ' Labere, whereof Richard ' de Labere of Southam, in ' the County of Glouce- ' ſter, Eſq; is lineally de- ' ſcended. The Martlet, or Martinet, (ſaith Be- ' kenhawb) hath Legs ſo exceeding ſhort, that they can ' by no Means go: And thereupon, it ſeemeth, the ' Grecians do call them Apodes, quaſi ſine pedi- ' bus; not becauſe they do want Feet, but becauſe ' they have not ſuch Uſe of their Feet as other Birds ' have. And if perchance they fall upon the Ground, ' they cannot raiſe themſelves upon their Feet, as ' others do, and ſo prepare themſelves to flight. For ' this Cauſe they are accuſtomed to make their Neſts ' upon Rocks and other high Places, from whence they ' may eaſily take their flight, by Means of the Support ' of the Air. Hereupon it came, that this Bird is ' painted in Arms without Feet: And for this Cauſe ' it is alſo given for a Difference of younger Brethren, ' to put them in mind to truſt to their Wings of ' Vertue and Merit, to raiſe themſelves, and not to ' their Legs, having little Land to put their Foot ' on.

" He beareth Or, on " a Bend Gules, cotti- " ſed Azure, between " ſix Martlets of the Se- " cond, three Wings Ar- " gent, by the Name of " Walden; and is the " Paternal Coat-Ar- " mour of Sir Lionel " Walden of Huntington " in Huntingtonſhire, Kt. " lineally deſcended " from Robert Walden, ſecond Brother of Sir Ri- " chard Walden, Kt. Lord of Erith in Kent, in " the Reign of Henry the Eighth, which ſaid " Sir Richard's Daughter and Co-heir Elizabeth, " was married to George Talbot, fourth Earl of " Shrewsbury of that Family; by whom he had " Iſſue Anne (ſole Heir of her Mother) who " married Peter Compton, Eſq; by whom he had " Iſſue Henry Lord Compton, Anceſtor to the " preſent Earl of Northampton. The aforeſaid " Sir Lionel, by Elizabeth, Daughter and Co- " heir of Mr. Charles Balam in Cambridgeſhire, " hath Iſſue Lionel, Mary, and Catharina.

Argent, on a Feſs between ſix Martlets Gules, three Cinquefoils of the Field, was the Bearing of Richard Waſhbourne, Batchelor of Divinity, Petty Cannon and Chantor of Chriſt-Church Oxon, as alſo Prebend of Chicheſter, who died died unmarried the 28th of May 1672, aged 75, and was buried under the North Wall of the North Iſle or Tranſcript joining to the Church Cathedral. He was born in Surry, of a gentile Family; but at his firſt coming to the Univerſity, was enter'd a poor Scholar of Exeter College.

M.S. of Ant. à Wood's Remarks de Com. Oxon. p.125.

'Twas born alſo by William Waſhbourne, Batchelor of Divinity, Fellow of Oriel College, and one of the Prebends of Glouceſter. He died the 28th of Novemb. 1675, aged 66, or thereabouts, and was buried in the Cathedral of Glouceſter, where he hath a Monument.

He was born in the Dioceſe of Worceſter, and was of Kin to the aforeſaid Richard Waſhbourne, and the ſeventh Son of John Waſhbourne of Wychenford in the County of Worceſter, Eſq;

Gules, an Ineſcutcheon within eight Martlets in Orle Argent, is the Coat of Sir Andrew Chadwick of Chadwick in the County of Lancaſter, Kt.

" He beareth Or, an In-
" eſcutcheon within an
" Orle of Martlets Sable,
" by the Name of Brown-
" low; and is born by
" Sir John Brownlow of
" Belton near Grantham
" in Lincolnſhire, Baro-
" net.

Gules, an Ineſcutcheon Argent, within an Orle of Martlets Or, is born by the Name of Chamberlaine, and was confirmed to Sir Thomas Chamberlaine of Coleman-ſtreet, London, with the Grant of a new Creſt, by Sir Edward Walker Garter, Anno 1661.

CHAP. XXI.

'FROM predable Fowls that are ſavage, 'we come to Fowls domeſtical and 'homebred, that are delighted with Man's So-'ciety: Such are theſe that follow, with their 'like.

'He beareth Saphire, 'three Cocks Pearl, arm-'ed, creſted, and jellop-'ed Proper. This is the 'Bearing of the Right Ho-'nourable O-Brian Co-'kaine, Viſcount Cullen in 'Ireland, whoſe Seat is at 'Ruſton in Northampton-'ſhire. As ſome account 'the Eagle the Queen, and the Swallow or Wag-'tail the Lady, ſo may I term this the Knight 'among Birds, being both of noble Courage, 'and alſo prepared evermore to the Battel, ha-'ving his Comb for an Helmet, his ſharp and 'hooked Bill for a Faulchion or Court-lax to 'ſlaſh and wound his Enemy; and as a com-'pleat Soldier armed Cap a-pe, he hath his Legs 'armed with Spurs, giving Example to the va-'liant Soldier to expel Danger by fight, and 'not by flight. The Cock croweth when he 'is Victor, and giveth a Teſtimony of his Con-'queſt. If he be vanquiſhed, he ſhunneth the 'Light and Society of Men. Of all Birds, this 'may be beſt ſaid in blazon to be armed, that is 'thus furniſhed and prepared to the Encounter. 'He is the Herald of the Day, and the Sentinal 'of the Night for his Vigilancy.

(𝔓) Cockburn of Langtoun in Scotland; Argent, three Cocks Gules.

'He beareth Argent, 3 'Capons Sable, armed, 'creſted, and jawlopped 'Or, by the Name of Ca-'penhurſt. I do term theſe 'Capons armed, becauſe 'Naturâ ſunt bellicoſi, tam-'etſi caſtratione facti ſunt 'omninò imbelles, by Na-'ture they were valorous, 'though by reaſon of their kerving, their Cou-'rage is not only abated, but utterly taken 'away. This Bird, becauſe he waxeth the Fat-'ter for being kerved, is brought for one of the 'Arguments to prove the ſingle Life the hap-'pieſt, and that Cælibes are Cælites, the ſingle 'Life, the Saint-like Life. But Lipſius muſt 'bring better Witneſſes than Capons to approve 'the Truth hereof, before it will be received for 'Truth.

(99) Argent, on a Fess Gules, three Cocks Or, by the Name of Ogill.

He beareth Gules, a Chevron Or, between three Cocks Argent, crested and watled of the Second, membred Sable, by the Name of Crow. This Coat was allow'd to Gyles Crow of Brasted in the County of Kent, by Robert Cook Clarencieux, Anno Dom. 1586.

Gules, a Chevron Ermine, between three Cocks Or, is born by the Name of Gokeyn, and was the Coat of John Gokeyn, Son of Arnold Gokeyn, Anno 1609, attested by John Philpot, Somerset Herald.

Ermine, a Chevron between three Cocks Azure, did belong to John Glascock of High-Ester in the County of Essex, who married Joan, Daughter and Co-heir of —— Howe, and had Issue John Glascock, Son and Heir, (who married Anne, Daughter of —— Grantham) Thomas second Son, Edward third Son, and William fourth Son.

Her. Off. Lond. C. 21. 110.

It pertain'd also, with a Crescent for a Difference, to Richard Glascok, younger Brother of the aforesaid John; which Richard, being second Son, took to Wife Grace, Daughter and Heir of Richard Musgrave, by whom he had Issue John and Robert: John, his eldest Son, married two Wives, but died without Issue-male, leaving only two Daughters, Mary by his first Wife, and Anne by his Second.

Robert, the second Son of the said Richard, married Frances, Daughter and Heir of John Timpley ——

Note, That John Glascock of Essex, and Richard his Brother, both aforementioned, were Sons of William Glascock, which William was Son and Heir of Richard, the Son and Heir of John, who was Son and Heir of Richard, who was Son and Heir of William, the Son and Heir of Thomas, who was Son and Heir of Edward, the Son and Heir of John Glascock who liv'd in the 38th of Edward III.

This Coat was confirmed, with a Mullet on the Chevron Or, by Robert Cook Clarencieux, Temp. Eliz. Reg. Anno Dom. 1571, to William Glascock of Much Dunmore in the County of Essex, and to John Glascock of Rokeswell, both Brethren.

He beareth Gules, a Fess between three Cocks heads erased Argent, barbed and crested Or, by the Name of Alcock. This Coat was assign'd by Sir William Segar Garter, and Richard St. George Clarencieux, by Patent dated the 8th of June 1616, to Thomas Alcock of Sibertoft in the County of Leicester.

'He beareth Argent, 'three Peacocks in their 'Pride Proper, by the 'Name of Pawne. The 'Peacock is so proud, that 'when he erecteth his Fan 'of Plumes, he admireth 'himself. And some write, 'that he swalloweth up 'his Excrements, because 'he envieth Man the Use thereof. Indeed those 'which are most proud, are generally of such 'sluttish and dirty Qualities. He displayeth his 'Plumes against the Rays of the Sun, that 'they may glister the more gloriously: and he 'loseth this beautiful Train yearly, with the 'Fall of the Leaf; at which Time he becometh 'bashful, and seeketh Corners, where he may 'be secret from the Sight of Men, until the 'Spring of the Year, when his Train beginneth 'to be renewed. And such is the Quality of 'many Dames, who being painted and richly 'attired, cannot keep within Doors; but being 'undressed and in their own Colours, they are 'loth any Man should see them.

Sable, three Peacocks in their Pride Argent, a Chief embatteled Or, is born by the Name of Peacock, and was granted to Simon Peacock of Burnhall in the County Palatine of Durham, and the several Descendants of his Body lawfully begotten, by Sir Thomas St. George Garter, and Sir John Dugdale Norroy, the 10th of November 1688, in the fourth of King James the Second.

Sable, three Lapwings (or Peacocks) heads erased Argent, was the Coat of Edmund Waring of Lea in the County of Stafford, and of Owlbury in the County of Salop, Esq; living in the Year 1623. He married Mary, Sister and Heir to Robert Broughton of Owlbury aforesaid, by whom he had Walter, Radulph, Robert and Dorothy.

Note, That the said Edmund was eldest Son and Heir of Thomas, the Son and Heir of Michael, the Son and Heir of Nicholas, all of Lea near Wolverhampton in Staffordshire.

The said Edmund had three Brothers, viz. Robert Waring of Wilford in the County of Nottingham, tingham, second Son, Michael Waring of London, Merchant, third Son, and Richard of London, Grocer, fourth Son.

M. S. à Wood, F. 3. fol. 65.

'He beareth Argent, a 'Chevron Sable, between 'three Turkycocks in 'their Pride Proper, by 'the Name of Yeo; and 'is the Coat of Paul Yeo 'of North-Petherwin in Devonshire, Esq;

Argent, on a Pile Azure, between two Cross-crosslets Gules, a Dove volant upright Argent, beak'd and member'd of the Third, is born by the Name of Kytchyn, and was granted by William Flower Norroy, the 12th of February 1578, in the 21st Year of the Reign of Queen Elizabeth, to John Kytchyn, sometime of Belper in the County of Derby, and at the Date hereof of Islington in the County of Middlesex, Esq;

M. S. in Ash. Num. 834. p. 13.

"He beareth Argent, a "Chevron between three "Crescents Sable, on a "Canton of the Second, "a Dove with an Olive-"branch in her Bill, all "Proper, by the Name "of Walker, and is "born by Thomas Walker of the Inner-Temple, "London, Esq; (sometime Comptroller of the "said Society) Son of Thomas Walker of Warwickshire, Esq; who was descended from an "ancient Family in the County of Leicester, and "also by his Mother, from Sir Thomas Chamberlain of Prestbury in Glouceſterſhire, Kt. who "was Ambassador to King Henry the VIIth and "VIIIth, Edward the VIth and Queen Mary; "and he was the First that brought Coaches "into England; which Family is descended "from Count Tankerville in Normandy. The "said Thomas Walker, the Bearer hereof, is now "married to Elizabeth Games, Daughter and "Co-heir of Hoo Games of Newton in Brecknock-"shire, Esq; who is descended from Sir David "Gam, who was imploy'd by King Henry the "Fifth, to view the French Army before the "Battle of Agincourt, who brought Word to "the King, That there were enough to kill, "enough to run away, and enough to be ta-"ken Prisoners; which succeeded accordingly. "Sir Walter Raleigh, in his History of the "World, makes mention of this Story, and "compares him to Mago, Hannibal's Brother. "In the said Expedition, the said Sir David "took the Duke of Nevers Prisoner; for which "good Service he had his Arms given him, and "was made a Knight Banneret in the Field. "This Story Dryden, in his History of the Bat-"tel of Agincourt, treats of at large. From "Gladdice de Gam, Daughter of Sir David Gam, "are descended the present Marques of Wor-"cester and the Earl of Pembroke, with several "other of the Nobility. The Family of the "Gams is descended from Tewdor, the great "King of South Wales, where the said Family "is of that repute, that those that marry into "the same, do frequently assume for their Chri-"stian Name their Surname, viz. Gam or "Games.

Azure, three Doves rising Argent, their Legs Gules, and crown'd with ducal Coronets Or, was the Bearing of Richard Baylie, D. D. President of St. John's College, and Dean of Salisbury, who dy'd at Salisbury the 27th of July 1667, between three and four in the Morning, aged about 80. His Body was brought thence and laid in a little Repository on the Left-hand of Dr. Juxon at the high Altar in St. John's College Chappel. He was born at Coventry in Warwickshire, and married Elizabeth, Daughter of Dr. John Robinson, Arch-deacon of Nottingham, and Niece to Dr. Laud, Arch-bishop of Canterbury, by whom he had Issue Richard, eldest Son, a Merchant of London, John, second Son, L. L. B. Chancellor of Welles, and four Daughters, viz. —— Wife of —— Michell, a Merchant of London, Sarah, second Daughter, Wife of —— Dighton, by Stratford upon Avon in the County of Warwick, Gent. Mary, third Daughter, Wife of Peter Mews, L. L. D. Arch-deacon of Berks, now (saith à Wood) Bishop of Bath and Wells, (she dy'd in Child-bed without Issue;) and Elizabeth, fourth Daughter, unmarried.

(M) Winton of Strickmartine; Argent, a Chevron between three Turtle-Doves Azure.

Argent, a Chevron Sable, between three Wood-Doves Proper, was confirm'd and exemplified by William Camden Clarencieux, the 16th of June in the Year 1602, and 44th of Queen Elizabeth, to Anthony Scarell of Thanks, in the County of Cornwall, Gent. Heir of his Family, viz. the Son of Wymond, Son of John, Son of Richard Scarell, Gent. who lived in the Time of Edward the IVth, and was of Thanks aforesaid, and then bare the said Arms.

Or,

Or, a Fess dancetté Ermine, between three Popinjays or Parrots Vert, pertain'd to Francis Quarles who married Dorcas, Daughter of John Dayly of Christmonton in the County of Oxford, Esq; which Francis was Son and Heir of George, eldest Son and Heir of Francis Quarles of Ufford, Esq; by his first Wife; which Francis was Son and Heir of George Quarles of Ufford, in the County of Northhampton, Auditor to King Henry the VIIth, and King Henry the VIIIth, who was Son and Heir of —— Quarles of ——

It pertain'd also to Francis Quarles, Son of Francis Quarles of London, Merchant, the third Son of Francis Quarles of Ufford aforesaid, Esq; by his first Wife.

It pertain'd also to Sir Robert Quarles of Stewards in Rumford, in the County of Essex, eldest Son and Heir of James Quarles, Clerk of the Green-cloth, who dy'd the 25th of September in the Year 1599, being 5th Son of Francis Quarles of Ufford aforesaid, by his second Wife.

Vid. Visit. of Essex, mark'd C. 21. 48. in Her. Off.

It pertain'd also to Jonas and John Quarles, Sons of John, the 9th Son of the said Francis Quarles.

(𝔚) Winchester; Argent, a Vine-Tree growing out of the Base, leav'd and fructed, between two Popinjays addorsed, standing at the Foot, and feeding upon the Clusters, all Proper.

Gules, on a Bend Argent, between two Lyons rampant Or, three Popinjays or Parrots Vert, was the Arms of Alsabell Partrige of London, Esq; one of the principal Goldsmiths to Queen Elizabeth, as appears by a Grant thereof to him, under the Hand and Seal of William Harvey, Esq; Clarencieux King of Arms, in the Year 1559, and first of the Reign of Queen Elizabeth.

'Like as there are Insect-Animals that live 'upon the Earth, as hath been before shewed, 'in shutting up the Tract of Terrestrial Ani- 'mals: So are there in like Sort, Insects that 'live above the Earth, whereof I purpose to 'produce some few Examples, and so to put an 'End to this Treatise of such Animals as do live 'above the Earth in the Air.

'He beareth Azure, 3 'Bees volant, En arriere, 'by the Name of Bee. 'The Bee I may well rec- 'kon a domestick Insect, 'being so pliable to the Be- 'nefit of the Keeper. The 'admirable Policy and 'Regulation of whose 'Commonwealth, both in 'Peace and in War, with the several Duties 'both of the sovereign Bee, and of the Subjects, 'is beyond belief, and will ask as large a Vo- 'lume as the Commonwealth, either of Plato or 'Lycurgus, to set it forth as it deserveth.

'These small and slender Bodies are indowed 'with a perfect Soul (if I may so say) as by the 'Effects appeareth: For they do not only live 'and engender, but also have the Use of the 'Senses, as Sight, Hearing, Smelling, Tasting 'and Feeling, no less than other Volatiles or 'flying Animals; and in some of them we may 'observe a singular Sharpness of Wit, and (to 'speak with Solomon) Fulness of Wisdom; as 'in these Bees and such others. Great is the Lord 'therefore that made them, and right marvellous also 'is he in all his Works, who hath given this Ful- 'ness of Wisdom to these contemptible Crea- 'tures.

'The Bee is reputed to be of a doubtful Kind, 'in regard that it is uncertain, whether he may 'be fitly number'd among the Savage or dome- 'stical Kind of Animals; therefore they are rec- 'koned his that hath obtained the Possession of 'them according to our vulgar Speech, Catch 'that catch may. They are said to be feræ na- 'turæ: Therefore the Bees that do swarm on 'your Trees, until you have gathered them in- 'to an Hive, they are no more reckoned yours, 'than the Birds that do build their Nests in 'your Tree: But being once hived, they cease 'to be publick, and shall be adjudg'd the Pos- 'sessor's, though he be not interested in the 'Ground: And 'till then, it is lawful for any 'Man to take the Honycombs, if they have any 'at all. Also a Swarm escaped out of your 'Hives, is no longer reckoned yours than you 'have them in Sight, and it is lawful for you so 'long to prosecute them; but if they fly out of 'your sight, fiunt occupantis.

'The Egyptians reckoned the Bee, a Figure of 'regal Power, because in him (besides the Na- 'ture of brute Animals) he is constituted a King, 'that administreth his Function (as it were) by 'deep Counsel, forasmuch as he is void of Sting, 'and governeth his Hive, as his Common- 'wealth, altogether by Lenity.

'If a Bee sting a dead Carcase, she loseth not 'her Sting; but if she sting a living Man, she 'loseth her Sting. So Death stinging us, who 'were as dead Flesh, did not lose his Sting: But 'stinging Christ, hath lost his Sting. There- 'fore we may say, O Death, where is thy Sting, '&c. 1 Cor. 15. Death hath only the Name of 'Death, but not the Sting of Death; as the 'brazen Serpent in the Wilderness had the 'Form and Shape of a Serpent, but not the 'Life nor Sting of a Serpent, Num. 29, 9.

'He beareth Argent, a 'Bee-hive beset with Bees 'diversely volant Sable, by 'the Name of Rode of 'Cheshire.

This Coat was confirmed to Samuel Rowe of Macclesfield in the County of Chester, Gent. (one of the Fellows of the Honourable Society of Grey's Inn) and to William Rowe his younger Brother, (both being Descendants of the ancient Family of Rowe of the said County and Place, who bare the same) by William Ryley, Esq; Norroy, the 20th of March 1653, which Grant was declared void by Authority, soon after King Charles the Second's happy Restoration.

'The Bee (saith the wise Man) is the Least of 'Birds, but she is of much Vertue; and she pro- 'videth both Honey for Pleasure, and Wax for 'Thrift. And not only do they carefully pre- 'serve their own petty State, but by their La- 'bours do much sway in all human States and 'Policies also; as is said in that Verse,

'The Calf, the Goose, the Bee;
'The World is ruled by these Three.

'Meaning, that Wax, Pens, and Parchment, 'sway all Mens Estates. Bees have three Pro- 'perties of the best Kind of Subjects; they stick 'close to their King; they are very industrious 'for their livelihood, expelling all idle Drones: 'They will not sting any but such as first pro- 'voke them, and then they are most fierce.

'He beareth Sable, an 'Harvest-fly in Pale, vo- 'lant, en arriere, Argent, 'by the Name of Bolowre. 'As touching Insects that 'live above the Earth in 'the Air, Pliny giveth this 'general Note, That all 'such as are armed with a 'Sting in their Body or 'Tail, have four Wings a piece; and none again 'above two, that carry their Weapon in their Mouth. 'To the Former (saith he) Nature hath given it 'for their Revenge; to the Other, only to feed them- 'selves withal, and to content Nature. All Insects '(saith the same Author) having hard Eyes, have 'their Fore-feet longer than the Rest, to the End, 'that with them they may upon Occasion scour their 'Eyes.

'He beareth Sable, three 'Gad-bees volant, en ar- 'riere, Argent, by the 'Name of Burninghill. 'This Fly maketh a great 'humming Noise when 'he flieth, and of some is 'called the Gad-bee, and 'of others the Dun-fly, 'Brimesey, or Horse-fly, 'which, in the Summer-time, do grievously vex 'Cattle, having (as Ælianus saith) a Sting both 'great and stiff. These are of the Nature of 'common Barretors, Pettifoggers, and Promo- 'ters, which are ever disturbing the quiet State 'of their civil and honest Neighbours.

"He beareth Azure, a "Chevron between three "Butterflies volant Ar- "gent, by the Name of "Papilon; and is the Pa- "ternal Coat of Thomas "Papillon of the City of "London, and of Aw- "cridge, alias Acrysse in "Kent, Esq;

CHAP. XXII.

'HAVING finished our intended Survey 'of Animals, both Terrestrial and Ae- 'rial, and of their Use in Armory; I will now '(according to Order) proceed to the Handling 'of watery Animals, being such as have their 'principal Abode and Relief in the Waters; as 'Fishes of all Sorts. As Fishes are of a less 'compleat Nature than earthly or aerial Ani- 'mals, so must they, in Reason, be of less esteem 'in Coat-Armour, Data paritate gestantium, un- 'less the Quality of the Bearer add an Honour 'thereto: Because those others do approach 'much 'much nearer to the Nature of Man, than the 'watery Sort doth; Et illud est melius, quod optimo 'est propinquius; That is the Better, which comes 'neareſt to the Beſt. And the Picture which 'is the Adumbration of the Thing pictured, 'cannot invert or alter the Order or Worth of 'the Things whereof it beareth the Similitude, 'Quia fictio non plus operatur quam veritas; Re-'preſentations may not alter the Truth of the 'Principal.

'But here I ſpeak of Arms compoſed of Fiſhes, 'as they are conſidered in their own Nature; 'which, notwithſtanding as they are born of 'many Perſons deſcended of noble and royal 'Families, are ſo much ennobled in their Eſti-'mation, as that they are to be preferred be-'fore many that are formed of Beaſts or Fowls. 'This therefore muſt be here alſo recommended 'for a general Rule, That the Worthineſs of the 'Bearer is not the leaſt reſpect we ſhould uſe 'in conſidering the Dignity of Things born in 'Coat-Armour.

'Like as Birds have their Plumes, Wings, and 'Trains, by Means whereof they do cut their 'Way, and make ſmooth Paſſage through the 'Air; in like Sort, Fiſhes are furniſhed with 'Fins, wherewith they guide themſelves in their 'ſwiming, and cut the Current of the Streams 'and Waves, for their more eaſy Paſſage, where-'in their Courſe is directed by their Tail, as 'Ships are conducted by their Helm or Ruther. 'And for their Kinds of Motion, Fiſhes are, in 'Scripture, termed Reptilia: In ipſo magno mari '& ſpatioſo, illic reptilia ſunt, &c. In the great 'and wide Sea there are Things creeping innu-'merable, both ſmall and great: Which are 'therefore ſaid to be Reptilia, as Chaſſenus noteth, 'Quia omnia quæ natant reptandi habent vel ſpe-'ciem, vel naturam: Becauſe Things when they 'ſwim, ſeem to creep along in the Water.

'Fiſhes, altho' they have not Breath (as we 'may ſay in a comparative Sort) ſo ſtrong and 'ſenſible as four-footed Animals have, becauſe 'they want Lungs or Lights, as Ariſtotle hath 'taught, yet its neceſſary they ſhould have both 'Attraction and Reſpiration of Breath in ſome 'Faſhion, which we call in Latin, Inſpiratio, 'which is a drawing in of Breath, and Reſpi-'ratio, which is a ſending out of the Breath at-'tracted, as both Plato and Galen doth teach, 'who do affirm, that Fiſhes do receive and de-'liver their Breath by their Gills; for no lon-'ger is any Animal ſaid to have Life, than he 'hath Attraction and Remiſſion of Breath.

'Whereas Moſes maketh mention Gen. 2. 19, '20. That God cauſed all the Beaſts of the Field, 'and the Fowls of Heaven to come unto Adam, that 'he might ſee how he would name them: There is no 'mention of the Coming of Fiſhes unto him, 'neither that he gave Names to them. The 'Reaſon is, for that ſuch is the Nature of Fiſhes, 'as that they cannot live long out of their pro-'per Element, which is the Water. Beſides, 'do ſerve Men for no other Uſe, but for Food, 'and ſome Sorts of them for Medicine; where-'of it cometh, that we have not ſo many 'Names of Fiſhes mentioned in the Scriptures, 'as of other Animals. For theſe Reaſons Fiſhes 'were not brought before Adam, that he might 'give them Names anſwerable to their Natures; 'Nevertheleſs God gave him Dominion over 'them, as well as over the reſt, when he ſaid, 'Dominamini piſcibus maris, &c.

'Hereof it cometh, that Man hath leſs fami-'liarity and acquaintance with Fiſhes than with 'many other Animals; as Horſes, Dogs, ſmall 'Birds of many Kinds, which we daily uſe, 'either to ſerve our Neceſſities, or for our De-'light.

'Fiſhes are born after a diverſe Manner, viz. 'directly upright, imbowed, extended, endor-'ſed, reſpecting each other, ſurmounting one 'another, fretted, and trianguled, &c. All Fiſhes '(ſaith Leigh) that are born feeding, ſhall be term-'ed in blazon, devouring, becauſe they do ſwallow 'all whole, without maſtication or chewing: And you 'muſt tell whereon they feed. All Fiſhes raiſed 'directly upright, and having Fins, ſhall be 'termed in blazon, Hauriant, ab hauriendo, ſig-'nifying to draw or ſuck; becauſe Fiſhes do of-'tentimes put their Heads in ſuch Sort above 'the Waters, to refreſh themſelves with the 'cool and temperate Air; but eſpecially when 'the Waters do ſo rage and boil in the Depth of 'the Seas, againſt ſome tempeſtous Storm, that 'they cannot endure the unwonted Heat there-'of. All Fiſhes that are born tranſverſe, the 'Eſcutcheon muſt in blazon be termed Naiant, 'of the Word Nato, to ſwim; for in ſuch Man-'ner do they bear themſelves in the Waters 'when they ſwim.

'Concerning both the Variety and the innu-'merable Multitude of Fiſhes, Pliny is of a pret-'ty fantaſtical Conceit, affirming, That the 'Seeds and univerſal Elements of the World 'are ſo many Ways commixed one with an-'other, partly by the Blowing of the Winds, 'and partly by the rouling and agitation of 'the Sea, that it may be truly ſaid, according to 'the vulgar Opinion, That whatſoever is ingen-'dred or bred in any Part of the World beſides, the 'ſame is to be found in the Sea; beſides many Things 'more in it, which no where elſe are to be ſeen. A 'Fiſh (if you will believe Farneſius) is called 'piſcis à paſcendo, Quia ad rem nullam niſi ad pa-'ſtum natus eſt; he is bred only to eat, and to 'be eaten. Of Fiſhes, ſome have hard and 'cruſty Coverings; others have a ſofter Out-'ſide: And thoſe latter are alſo of two Sorts, 'ſome having only Skin, and others Scales. Sca-'led Fiſhes, by their Fins, are both adorned and 'greatly aſſiſted alſo in their ſwimming: But 'Congers, Eels, Lampreys, and ſuch like, may 'ſeem (in reſpect of the Smalneſs of their Fins) 'to have received them of Nature, rather for 'Ornament than for Uſe in ſwiming, eſpecially 'becauſe they lie moſt in the Bottom of the Wa-'ters, and therefore leſs need their Fins.

'Of

'Of these several Kinds I will briefly give 'some few Examples, wherein I rather purpose 'to lay open their diverse Forms of Bearing in 'Coat-Armour, than meddle with their unlimi-'table particular Kinds: As in Example.

'He beareth Argent, 3 'Eels naiant in Pale Barr-'ways Sable, by the Name 'of Ellis. Of this Sort 'are all Lampreys, Con-'gers, and others of like 'Kind, whereof some are 'born naiant after this 'Manner, and other Hau-'riant. This Sort, of all 'others, doth most nearly resemble, in their 'Motions, such Reptiles, as have no Feet, and 'do, with a Kind of Volubleness, make their 'Way in the Waters with many intricate Dou-'blings. To these may be added Plaices, Soles, 'Flounders, and all other Fish whatever, whose 'covering consisteth meerly of Skin, and have 'not the defensible Furniture of Scales.

Argent, on a Pale Sable, a Conger's head coup'd Or; this, with a proper Difference, was the Coat of William Gascoigne, who married Jane, Daughter of Thomas Gryce of Wakefield, and had Issue John, first Son; William, second Son; Arthur, third Son, and Robert, fourth Son: Also Anne, Margery, and Susannah. Which William first mentioned, of Three was eldest, Son and Heir of William, by his first Wife Dorothy, Daughter of Thomas Styllington of Ackester; which William was Son and Heir of William by Elizabeth his Wife, Daughter and one of the Co-heirs of ..... Styllington; which William, of two, was eldest Son and Heir of John Gascoigne of Thorpe on the Hill, a third Brother, descended out of the House of Gawthorpe.

Collection per Glov. in M. S. in Ashm. No. 834. Pedigrees in p. 9. Arms in the Alph.

It was the Coat also, with a Crescent for a Difference, of Thomas Gascoign of Lasingecross —— who married Jane, one of the Daughters and Co-heirs of William Ilsonne of Gimby —— and had Issue —— which Thomas, of six, was the eldest Son, and Heir of John, by Anne his Wife, Daughter of John Vavasor, third Son of Sir Henry Vavasor of Heslewood, which John Gascoign was Son and Heir of William, and of his Wife —— one of the Daughters of —— Kyghley of Newell; which William was younger Brother to Thomas, and second Son and Heir of William and of his Wife, one of the Daughters of —— Beckwith of Clynte; which William was eldest Son and Heir of John, and of Margaret his Wife, Daughter and sole Heir of —— Heyton; which John was Son and Heir of Nicholas Gascoigne of Lasingecross, a second Brother out of the House of Gawthorpe, and Brother to Justice Gascoign; which Nicholas married one of the Daughters and Co-heirs of Sir John Grace of —— Knight.

Collection per Glover in M. S. in Ashm. Num. 834. Pedigrees in p. 11.

This same Coat, with a Crescent upon a Crescent, pertain'd also to Richard Gascoign of Sothwell, a second Son of John Gascoigne of Lasingcross; which Richard married to his first Wife Elizabeth, Daughter and sole Heir of Thomas West of Myllington, but by her had no Issue, but she gave him her said Inheritance for Life; (and after his decease to George Gascoigne a younger Brother, and to his Heirs for ever) which Richard, to his second Wife, married Elizabeth, Daughter and sole Heir of Tho. Sothell of Sowthell, who was Widow to Sir Henry Savile of Thornell, Knight.

M. S. in Ashm. No. 834. Pedigr. per Glover. p. 11.

The same Arms, with a Mullet on a Crescent for a Difference, was the Coat of John Gascoigne of —— (a third Son of John Gascoigne of Lasingecross) which John married Maud, Daughter of William Ardingeton of Castley, and by her had Issue John Son and Heir, Thomas second Son, and Every third Son; also Mary a Daughter.

"He beareth Argent, a "Chevron Gules, between "3 Sole-fishes hauriant "Proper, within a Bordure "engrailed Sable. This "Coat pertained to the "Family of Soles of Bra-"banne in the County of "Cambridge. These Arms "are agreeable to the "Bearer's Name, which happens very often in "Armoury; for diverse Men taking their Names "from Beasts, Birds, Fowls, or Fishes, do bear "Coat-Armours in resemblance thereof. This "Fish is known unto the Latinists by three "Names, Solea, à similitudine Soleæ, i. e. a Shoes "Sole: Sandalium, which cometh from the Greek "σανδάλιον, or σάνδαλον, a Kind of Shoe open "with Latchets on the Instep; Lingulaca, quod "formam linguæ referat: The French call this "Fish, Une Sole. The Delicateness of it in "Taste, hath gained it the Name of, The Par-"tridge of the Sea.

He

'He beareth Azure, a 'Dolphin naiant imbow-'ed Argent, by the Name 'of Fitz-James. The Dol-'phin is a Fish of so great 'Strength and Swiftness, 'that when the Fishes, 'which he followeth for 'his Prey, fly to the Rocks 'or Shoar for Shelter, in 'the Fierceness of his Pursuit, he sometimes dash-'eth himself dead against the Rock, and some-'times runs himself on Shoar. Such, many times, 'is the Success of over-heady and outragious Men, 'who seeking furiously the Hurt of others, 'feel the Smart themselves in their own Over-'throw.

'Sable, a Dolphin nai-'ant, devouring a Fish, 'Proper.

'The Field is Jupiter, 'a Dolphin hauriant Sol. 'This Coat is evermore 'born quarterly with the 'three Fleurs de lis, Sol, 'in a Field Jupiter, by 'the King's eldest Son, 'who beareth the Title 'of the Dauphin of France; 'and is thereby known to 'be Heir Apparent to the Crown of that King-'dom. The Naturalists write, That the She-'Dolphin hath Dugs abounding with Milk, where-'with she giveth her young One's suck; and that she 'is (as in that respect) like to Women, so also in her 'Affection of Love; insomuch, that Dolphins have 'fallen so exceedingly in love with fair Youths, as 'that they became most familiar with them; and 'afterward wanting their Company, have died of 'Grief. They are reported also to be great Lo-'vers of Musick.

Azure, a Dolphin nai-ant embow'd Or, on a Chief of the Second, a Stork or Ring-dove Proper, collar'd Or, between two Saltires Gules, was confirmed to Will. Frankland of Rye in the County of Hertford, the 3d of March, 1568, by Sir Gilbert Dethick Garter, and ———

Argent, on a Chief Gules, a Dolphin naiant embow'd of the Field, with a Crescent for a Difference, was the Bearing of Alexander Fisher, M. A. and sometime Senior Fellow of Merton College. He dy'd at his House in Holywell, at Nine in the Morning, the 23d of October 1671, aged 76, and was buried at the high Altar in Merton College Church. See his Epitaph in Hist. & Antiq. Univ. Oxon. lib. 2. p 89. —— He was born at Maidstone in Kent, where his Father Walter Fisher was a Trader, and sold Drapery and Mercery Wares; to which Place of Maidstone the said Alexander bequeath'd 38 l. per Annum in Land, towards the Maintenance of the Poor there, and above 1000 l. to Merton College for the Paving the Choir with Marble, and new lining it with Wainscot, &c.

"Azure, a Bend be-"tween two Dolphins "Or, by the Name of "Frankland. This, with "Arms of Ulster, is the "the Coat-Armour of "Sir William Frankland of "Thirkleby, in Yorkshire, "Baronet.

Azure, a Bend Ermine, between two Dolphins hauriant embow'd Bendways Or. These Arms were granted to John Lenton of Aldwynkle in the County of Northampton, by Robert Cook Clarencieux, dated the 21st of May, and 26th Year of the Reign of Queen Elizabeth.

Azure, on a Bend wavy Or, between two Dolphins embow'd Argent, three Escallops Gules. These Arms were granted to Sir John Fleet, Knight and Alderman of London, by Patent dated the 13th of May, in the 3d Year of the Reign of William and Mary, Anno Dom. 1691, by Sir Thomas St. George Garter, and Sir Henry St. George Clarencieux.

'He beareth Azure, 3 'Dolphins naiant, extend-'ed in Pale, Barr-ways 'Or. This is a Venetian 'Coat-Armour, and is 'born by the Name of 'Dolphin. These Dolphins 'here, are in their natu-'ral Form of Swiming, 'wherein they use to mar-'shal their great Troops in admirable Order: 'For in the Van-guard swim all their young 'Ones, in the Middle all the Females, in the 'Rear all the Males; like good Husbands, 'looking both to the orderly Demeanour of 'their Wives and Children, and also having 'them still in their Eye, to defend them from 'Danger.

" He beareth Or, three " Dolphins hauriant, A- " zure. This is the Pa- " ternal Coat-Armour of " Mr. Peter Vandeput of " London, Merchant, whoſe " Grandfather Mr. Giles " Vandeput, came out of " the Province of Brabant, " and here ſeated himſelf; " where the Family hath ever ſince continued " eminent Merchants.

" He beareth Argent, " on a Bend Azure, three " Dolphins of the Field. " This with the Arms of " Ulſter, is the Coat of " Sir Richard Franklyn of " the Moore in Hertford- " ſhire, Knight and Baro- " net.

Azure, a Feſs between three Dolphins naiant embowed Argent, is born by the Name of Leman, and was aſſign'd by William Camden Clarencieux, the 25th of January 1615, in the 12th Year of the Reign of King James the Firſt, to John Leman, Eſq; Alderman of London.

" The Field is Gules, a " Chevron Ermine, be- " tween three Dolphins " naiant, imbowed Ar- " gent. This was the Pa- " ternal Coat-Armour of " Samuel Bleverhaſſet of " Lowdham in the Coun- " ty of Suffolk, Eſq; The " Dolphin is ſaid to be a " Fiſh of ſuch exceeding great Swiftneſs, as " that oftentimes he out-ſtrippeth a Ship under " Sail, in her greateſt ruff and merrieſt Wind, " in Swiftneſs of Courſe. In this Fiſh is propo- " ſed unto us an Example of Charity, and kind " Affection towards our Children, as Pliny in " his Deſcription of the Nature of this Fiſh " ſheweth, lib. 9. c. 8. and Ælianus, lib. 5. c. 18. " as alſo of his ſingular Love towards Man, " whereof Ælianus produceth ſtrange Examples. " To this Head muſt be referred all other Fiſhes " of hard Scale, as the Sturgeon, &c. Other " Scale-fiſhes there are, but of a more ſoft and " tender Sort.

Azure, a Feſs counter-embatteled between three Dolphins naiant embow'd Or, is born by the Name of Fiſher, and was aſſign'd by Patent dated the 10th of November 1660, in the 12th Year of the Reign of King Charles the Second, to William Fiſher of London, Merchant, Son of William Fiſher of Little-Over in the County of Derby, by Sir Edward Walker Garter, he being moved thereto by the full Satisfaction he had, not only of the Reputation of his Family, but of the particular Zeal of the ſaid William Fiſher Merchant, for the Intereſt of the Crown and the happy Reſtoration of his ſaid Majeſty King Charles II.

Enter'd in Sir Edward Walker's Grants.

Argent, a Chevron between three Dolphins naiant embowed Sable, is born by the Name of Sergeant, and was exemplified by William Segar to Thomas Sergeant of Cotes in Staffordſhire, who married Agnes, Daughter of James Colcire of Darleſton in the County aforeſaid.

" He beareth Sable, 3 ' Salmons hauriant Argent, ' by the Name of Sal- ' mon. If Apicius (whoſe ' Tongue was a Touch- ' ſtone to try the Excellen- ' cy of all Diſhes) were to ' give his Sentence in the ' Senate-houſe of Glut- ' tons, it is thought he ' would prefer the Sal- ' mon before all other Fiſhes, though the old ' Romans made chief reckoning of Acipenſer, a ' Fiſh of an unnatural Make and Quality; for ' his Scales all turn towards the Head, and he ' ever ſwimeth againſt the Stream. Theſe three ' Salmons here were very fair Bearing in a great ' Charger, Argent.

He beareth Sable, three Salmons hauriant Or, by the Name of Salmon. This Coat was confirmed to Thomas Salmon of Hackney, in the County of Middleſex, Citizen and Merchant of London (Son of William Salmon of Wild-heath in the County of Cheſter, Gent.) by Sir Richard St. George Norroy, the 23d of February 1621.

(𝔐) Gules, three Salmons (ſome ſay Trouts) hauriant, in Feſs, with a Ring through each of their Noſes Argent, is born by ——— a Stotch Family.

(𝔐) Azure, three Salmons naiant in Pale Argent, by the Name of Fiſher.

(℔) Hamilton of Hays; Gules, a Salmon's Head coup'd Fess-ways Argent, with an Annulet through the Nose Proper, between three Cinquefoils of the Second.

'He beareth Azure, two 'Barbels hauriant, respe-'cting each other Argent. 'A like Coat to this (but 'different in Colours) is 'born by the Family of 'Colston of Essex. This 'Fish even in his Name 'bewrayeth his Shape, 'which gave Occasion 'thereof, by reason of the 'small Films that grow about his Mouth, re-'sembling, after a Sort, the Form of a Beard, 'whereupon he receiveth the Name of a Bar-'bel.

'He beareth Gules, two 'Pikes hauriant endorsed 'Or. This Coat is quar-'tered by the high and 'mighty Prince, the Duke 'of Wirtemberg, for his 'fourth Coat, and are the 'Arms of the Dominion 'of Phiert, within the 'Territories of the said 'Duke. Sometimes you shall find Fishes born 'Fret-ways; that is to say, fretted or interla-'ced one over another, as in a following Ex-'ample.

'He beareth Azure, 3 'Trouts fretted in Tri-'angle, Teste à la queue, 'Argent, by the Name of 'Trowtebeck. We use these 'Words, Teste à la queue, 'in blazon, to signify the 'Manner of their fret-'ting. The Heiress of 'this Family was, in the 'Time of Henry the Eighth, married to John 'Talbot of Albrighton, from whom the Talbots of 'Grafton now living, are lineally descended, and 'do quarter this Coat.

(℔) Azure, three Trouts fretted in Triangle, one looking to the Base and the other two to the dexter and sinister Chief, quarter'd with another Coat, viz. Argent, an Horse-head coup'd Sable, furnish'd Gules, is born by the Name of Foreman.

(℔) Argent, three Turbets fretted Proper, one Fess-ways looking to the sinister, and two to the dexter Chief and Flank, by the Name of Turbet.

The Laird of Loquinway in Scotland; Gules, three Fishes braid in Triangle Proper, i. e. blueish Backs and white Bellies.

'He beareth Or, three 'Chalbots hauriant Gules. 'This did belong to that 'worthy Earl Philip Chal-'bot, Earl of Newblanch, 'and great Admiral of 'France, whom King Hen-'ry the Eighth vouchsafed 'to make Knight, and 'Companion of the most 'Noble Order of the Garter. A Chalbot Fish 'seemeth to have the Shape of a Gournard, for 'so doth Bara describe him.

Gules, three Mullets (or Fishes) hauriant Argent, was the Bearing of Richard Weye alias Waye, Commoner of Exeter College of the Family of the Wayes of Bickliford or Biddiford in the County of Devon, who died the 9th of November 1676, aged 20, or thereabouts, and was buried in Exeter College Chappel, altho' there was a Grave dug in St. Michael's Church for him.

(℔) He beareth Azure, three Garvine Fishes naiant in Pale Argent, the Middlemost aspecting the Sinister, the Others the dexter Side, by the Name of Garvie.

He beareth Sable, a Chevron Ermine, between 3 Salmons hauriant Argent. This Coat was assign'd by Robert Cook Clarencieux, by Patent dated 1584, to Cornelius Cater of London, Son of John Cater of the same Place.

CHAP. XXIII.

'THE Hardineſs of ſcaly Fiſh (whereof 'we have before ſpoken) is not continuate, but plated fitting for Motion: But 'there is another Sort of hard Covering, which 'is continuate; of which Sort ſome are cruſted, others are ſhelled, as Examples ſhall 'ſhew.

'He beareth Argent, a 'Chevron Sable, between 'three Crevices upright 'Gules. I term theſe upright, becauſe they wanting Fins, cannot, without Breach of the Rule 'formerly given, be properly ſaid to be hauriant.

'He beareth Gules, on 'a Bend Or, a Lobſter Sable. Gongulo Argote de 'Molina, in his Book, entituled, Nobleza de Andaluziza, noteth this for 'the Coat-Armour of Grilla. It is noted by 'certain Naturaliſts, that 'the Lobſter is ſubtle in 'acquiring his Food, for he watcheth the Eſcallop, Oyſter, and other like Fiſhes that are fenced by Nature with a ſtronger and more defenſible Coat than himſelf, to become a Prey 'unto him, by obſerving when they do open 'their Shell, either to receive Food or Air, and 'in the mean Time with his Claws he taketh a 'Stone, and caſteth it between the Shells of 'the Oyſter, ſo as ſhe can neither ſave her 'ſelf, nor annoy her Foe; uſing his Wit for 'a Supply of his Strength's Defect, according 'to the old Proverb, Where the Lyon's Skin is 'too ſcant, it muſt be pieced out with a Fox 'Caſe.

'He beareth Argent, a 'Lobſter's Claw in Bend 'ſiniſter, Saltire-like, ſurmounted of another dexter-ways Gules, by the 'Name of Tregarthick. 'Thoſe other Fiſhes, 'which are ſaid to be 'ſhelled, and are naturally incloſed in ſtrong and 'thick Walls, do dilate and open their Shells 'at certain Seaſons, either to receive the Benefit of the Air, or of Food; and again, contract them (at their Pleaſure) and ſo defend 'themſelves from all Harm and Violence. Of 'theſe, the Shells are of moſt frequent Uſe in 'Arms, and are diverſely born, as well with 'Ordinaries between them, as charged upon 'Ordinaries.

"He beareth Argent, a "Chevron engrailed Sable, "between 3 Sea-Crabs "Gules, by the Name of "Bridger. It is an Ob- "ſervation among Fiſher- "men, that when the "Moon is in her Decre- "ment or Wane (as we "commonly call it) theſe "Sort of Fiſhes have little or no Subſtance at all "in them, which moveth them to forbear to "fiſh for them in that Seaſon, in regard that "the Moon is the natural and ſecondary Cauſe, "that the Crabs of the Sea are either full "and plump, or elſe ſhear, and (after a Sort) "empty.

"The Claws of the Foreſeet of this Sort of "Fiſh, are called forcipata brachia Cancrorum, "of forceps, which ſignifieth a Pair of Tongs "or Pincers, or ſuch like, alluding to their Qua- "lity, which is to pinch and hold faſt whatſo- "ever they do feize upon.

(M) Crab of Robſlaw; Azure a Chevron Argent, between two Fleurs de lis in Chief, and a Crab in Baſe Or.

'He beareth Argent, an 'Eſcallop-ſhell Gules, by 'the Name of Prelate. This 'Coat ſtandeth in the Abbey-Church of Cirencester, within the County 'of Glouceſter, and ſeemeth to have been of long 'continuance there. The 'Eſcallop (according to 'Dioſcorides) is ingendred of the Dew and Air, 'and hath no Blood at all in itſelf; notwithſtanding, in Man's Body (of any other Food) 'it turneth ſooneſt into Blood. The Eating of 'this Fiſh raw, is ſaid to cure a Surfeit.

Argent, an Eſcallop Gules, on a Chief Sable, two Mullets pierced of the Firſt, is born by the Name of Sabin, and was confirmed or granted to John Sabin of Beaksbourne in the County of Kent, Doctor in Phyſick, by Sir Edward Byſhe Clarencieux, the 29th of May 1663.

This was confirm'd to William Wade, Son of William, Son of Robert Wade of Rildeſton or Ridleſton in Suffolk, Gent. by William Camden Clarencieux, the 8th of November 1604, in the ſecond Year of the Reign of King James I.

" He beareth Sable, ſix " Eſcallop ſhells Or, three, " two, and one, by the " Name of Eſcott of Corn- " wall.

This ſame Coat, with a Mullet for a Difference Argent, was the Coat of ..... Eſcott, a Captain, who died in the Houſe of one Gregory Ballard, Notary Publick, ſituated in Magdalen Pariſh in Oxon, the 13th of June 1644, and was buried in the ſaid Pariſh-Church. He was of the Company of the Lord Keeper Littleton.

M. S. of Ant. à Wood's Remarks de Com. Oxon. p. 71.

In the Regiſter of Magdalen Pariſh, it is thus written —— Richard Weſtcott, Yeoman of the Guard, was buried Jan. 13, 1644. ——— but that was taken wrong.

This Coat pertain'd alſo to the ancient Family of Eſtofght of South Burton; which poſſibly might be the ſame Family, though the Name thus differs.

Glov. Alph. of the North in M. S. in Aſh. Num. 834.

Vert, ſix Eſcallop-ſhells, three, two, and one, Argent, with a Creſcent for a Difference, is the Coat of Ambroſe Holbech of Mollington in the County of Warwick, Eſq;

" Here I think it fit to note, out of the Num- " ber and Poſition of the Charge of this Coat- " Armour, two Things: The One concerning " the Number, which you ſee is ſix, which " ſome Armoriſts hold to be the Beſt of even " and articulate Numbers that can be born in " one Eſcutcheon; their Reaſon is, becauſe none " other even Number under Ten, can decreaſe " in every Rank one to the baſe Point of the " Eſcutcheon, and Produce an odd One in " the ſame Point. Next, touching this Manner " of the Poſition of this Number; which ſuit- " eth moſt aptly with the Figure of a triangu- " lar Eſcutcheon, as in the Elements of Armories, " Page 181, is obſerved.

He beareth Ermine, ſix Eſcallops Gules, three, two, and one, by the Name of Parker, and was confirmed to John Parker of Sybertiſwead in the County of Kent, Gent. by the Name of Robert Cook Clarencieux, the 6th of May 1588, and 30th Year of the Reign of Queen Elizabeth.

Azure, a Pale wavy Ermine, between ſix Eſcallop-ſhells Argent, is the Coat belonging to the Family of Edmundſon of the County of York.

Sable,

Sable, a Bend between six Escallop-shells Or, was confirmed by William Flower Norroy, the 28th of May 1587, and in the 29th Year of the Reign of Queen Elizabeth, to Godfrid Foliambe of Walton in the County of Derby, Esq; a Descendant from the ancient Family of Foliambe of that County.

M. S. of Grants in Ashm. Num. 844.

Argent, a Lyon rampant Sable, within eight Escallops in Orle Gules. This Coat belong'd to William Manby of London, Gent. and was entred in the Visitation of London, Anno 1633, Herald's Office, C. 24. fo. 14. b.

Argent, a Lyon rampant Sable, between eight Escallop-shells in Orle Gules, a Rose on his Shoulder for a Difference Or. A Grant to William Moffett of Chippinge-Barnet in the County of Hertford, M. A. and to his Brothers, and all the Descendants of the Body of Thomas Moffett of Whitby in the County of York; confirm'd the 10th of May 1585, in the 27th Year of the Reign of Queen Elizabeth, by William Flower Norroy King of Arms.

'He beareth Argent, 'ten Escallops, four, three, 'two, and one, Sable, on 'a Canton Gules, a Mul- 'let pierced Or, by the 'Name of Kingscot. I do 'here blazon the Charge 'to be ten Escallops, al- 'tho' there be but eight 'to be discerned; for such 'was the Coat before the Addition of the su- 'perjacent Canton; which, as it is intended, 'doth overshadow those other two that are not 'seen.

'He beareth Sable, a 'Fess engrailed between 'three Welks Or, by the 'Name of Shelley. Who 'so shall advisedly view 'the infinite Variety of 'Nature's Workmanship, 'manifest even in the ve- 'ry Shells of Fishes; shall 'doubtless find just Cause 'to glorify God, and admire his Omnipotency, 'and Wisdom, shewed in these Things of mea- 'nest Reckoning. To this Head must be re- 'duced all other Shell-fishes, of what Kind so- 'ever, that are inclosed with hard Shells.

CHAP. XIV.

'WE have long insisted in the Bearings of 'Animals or living Creatures unrea- 'sonable, distinguishing them according to their 'Kinds, sorting them into several Ranks; pla- 'ced them under sundry Heads, exemplifying 'their manifold Use and Forms of Bearing in 'Coat-Armour, to the End that they might 'give better Life and Warrant to such Rules 'and Observations, as concerning them are 'formerly given. The last Place I have here 'reserved to the most noble Creature and first 'in Estimation, I mean Man, whom God hath 'indued with a reasonable Soul, and for whose 'Sake he created all other Things, subjecting 'them to his Sovereignty, that they should serve 'Man, and Man should serve God. Thou hast 'given him (saith David) Sovereignty over all the 'Works of thy Hands, and hast put all Things in 'subjection under his Feet; all Sheep and Oxen, 'and all Beasts of the Field, the Fowls of the 'Air and Fishes of the Sea, &c. For God made 'Man in his own Image, not only in giving 'him an understanding Soul, and an holy Will, 'but also a sovereign Jurisdiction over these in- 'ferior Creatures; even as Kings are the Image 'of God, in a more peculiar Manner, because 'God hath given them Sovereignty over Men. 'Neither is the Beauty of the Body it self light- 'ly to be regarded, whose admirable Propor- 'tions and Uses made Galen (a Heathen) to ac- 'knowledge the infinite Wisdom of an eternal 'Creator: And that godly King to break out 'into Terms of Admiration, saying, Thine Eyes 'did see my Substance yet being unperfect, and in 'thy Book were all my Members written, which Day 'by Day were fashioned, when as yet there was none 'of them.

'That this Creature, Man, is also born in 'Coat-Armour both Limb-meal (as I may term 'it) and also entire, with all his Parts conjunct, I 'will shew by Examples: And we will first 'here set down the whole Bearings, and after- 'ward proceed to the Parts.

'The Field is Saphire, 'our blessed Lady with 'her Son in her right 'Hand, and a Scepter in 'her Left, all Topaz. This 'Coat pertaineth to the 'Bishoprick of Salisbury. 'Since it hath pleased 'some (doubtless out of a 'devout Affection) to as-'sume the Bearing of the blessed Virgin with 'her most blessed Babe, I hold it great Reason 'to set this Escutcheon in the first Place. For 'I am far from their Opinion who damn it for 'Superstition to pourtray that glorious Vir-'gin, or her Babe; but yet I hold it undoubted 'Idolatry to offer to these, or any other Pi-'ctures, those Services of Worship and Prayer 'which God hath made his own peculiar Pre-'rogative, not to be communicated to that holy 'Virgin her self, much less to her Image; which 'yet are so far oftentimes from being her Image, 'that it hath been acknowledged, that some 'lewd Painters have pourtraied that unspotted 'Lady to the Likeness of their own Courtizans, 'and so have proposed her in Churches to be 'adored. This Worship of the Virgin Mary hath 'almost worn out the Worship of her Son, espe-'cially where their ridiculous feigned Miracles 'daily broached do find any Credit.

'The Field is Topaz, 'a King enthronized on 'his Seat-Royal Saphire, 'crowned, sceptered, and 'invested of the First, the 'Cape of his Robe Er-'mine. These are the 'Arms of the City of Se-'vil in Spain. As we 'formerly prescribed of 'unreasonable Creatures, that they should be 'set forth in their noblest Action: So much 'more is it fit, that Man (the most Excellent of 'God's Creatures) should be set forth in his 'greatest Dignity. And, as among Men there 'are manifold Degrees and Callings, so is it de-'cent (saith Bartolus) that each particular Per-'son should be habited as is fitting for his 'Estate, Calling, or Imployment, viz. Princi-'pes in solio Majestatis, Pontifex in Pontificalibus, 'Miles in armis, sive equestris, sive pedestris, depingi 'debet: A King on his Throne of Majesty, a 'Bishop in his pontifical Vestures, and a Soldier 'in his military Habit, either on Foot or Horse-'back; so shall they receive such reverence, 'as is answerable both to their Persons and Fun-'ctions.

'The Field is Saphir, a 'Bishop seated in his 'Chair, habited in his 'Pontificals, sustaining his 'Crosier in his Left-Arm, 'stayed upon the Chair, 'and extending his Right-'Hand towards the dex-'ter Point of the Escut-'cheon Pearl. This Coat-'Armour was quartered by Eberhardus, some-'time Bishop of Lubeck in Saxony, who was de-'scended of the noble Progeny of the Hollii. 'The Dignity Episcopal is next unto the Re-'gal; insomuch, that Constantine the Great (the 'first Christian Emperor) received Bishops with 'no less Reverence and Honour, than if every 'one of them had been his own Father; and 'great Reason, since they directly succeed the 'Apostles of Christ in the Government of the 'Church; especially, if together with this Apo-'stolical Dignity they join the Truth of Aposto-'lical Doctrine, which the Romish Bishops have 'abolished.

Argent, a Woodman wreathed about the Head and Hips, walking upon a Mount between two Trees, with his Club over his Right-Shoulder, all Proper, by the Name of Mayo. This is sent me for the Paternal Coat of Sir Peter Mayo, Kt.

Gules, three demy Savages or wild Men Argent, holding Clubs over their right Shoulders Or. This Coat was born by Bazil Wood, sometime a Captain in the King's Army, and a great Sufferer for his Cause, in respect to which, Dr. Fell, Dean of Christ-Church, gave to him the head Butler-ship of the said House. — He dy'd at his House in Penny farthing Street the 30th of April 1684, and was buried near the Grave of his Father in St. Michael's Church in Oxon.

M. S. of Ant. à Wood's Remarks de Com. Oxon. p. 153.

He was Brother of Tho. Wood, sometime Fellow of Merton College, and Son of Basil Wood, L. L. D. sometime Fellow of All Souls College, afterwards Chancellor of St. Asaph and Rochester, who dy'd in Lincoln College and was buried in St. Michael's Church aforesaid, the Last of November 1644, which said Dr. Wood was second Son of Alexander Wood of Shinewood in the County of Salop.

Note, That ..... Wife of Bazil Wood, Butler of Christ-Church, dy'd at Night, the 10th of May 1684, and was buried by her Husband (who

(who, as is already said, dy'd about a Fortnight before). Her Son, named .....Wood, a Chirurgeon, was buried by his Grandfather in 1683.

'He beareth Gules, a 'Saracen's Head erased at 'the Neck Argent, enviroined about the Temples with a Wreath of 'the Second, and Sable, by 'the Name of Mergith of 'Wales. After Examples 'of the whole Bearing of 'Man, it is fit the Head 'should first be handled before the other Parts; 'for that, among all the Parts of living Creatures, the Head obtaineth the chiefest Preheminence, saith Pierius: And (as Isidore noteth) 'it is called Caput, not only because it is capable of the Knowledge attained by the Senses; 'but for that also it comprehendeth and containeth them all. As this Member is chiefest 'in Dignity, so hath Nature appropriated 'thereto the highest and principal Place, it being lifted up on high, as in a Watch-Tower, 'that it might oversee all approaching Danger 'before it come near; for which Cause also Nature hath given Man more flexibility to turn 'about his Neck and look on all Sides, than other 'Creatures have.

(M) Azure, three Saracens Heads conjoined in one Neck Proper, the Faces looking towards the chief, dexter, and sinister Sides, by the Name of Morison: And Morison of Bognie carries the same with this Difference, That the uppermost Head was affixed to the other two by a Wreath.

(M) Edington of Balbartan; Azure, three Savage Heads coup'd Argent.

(M) Moor of Scotstoun; Argent, three Negroes Heads side-faced and couped Proper, banded about the Brows with a Ribband knotted behind of the First.

"He beareth Argent, "three Moors Heads couped Sable, banded about "the Heads Gules, by the "Name of Tanner; and "is the Coat of John Tanner of Court in Cornwall, "Esquire.

"Or, 3 Moors Heads couped Sable, banded "about the Heads Argent, is born by the Name "of Mico of London.

Gules, 3 Infants Heads coup'd at the Shoulders Argent, crined Or, is born by the Name of Fauntleroy, and was confirmed to Moor Fauntleroy, Gent. Son of John, sole Heir of William Fauntleroy of Crundall in the County of Hants, by Sir John Borough Garter, the 8th of December 1633.

"He beareth Argent, a "Chevron Sable, between "3 Black-moors Heads "couped Proper, by the "Name of Jues. I find "that some have given "this Coat-Armour an-"other Blazon thus: He "beareth Argent, a Chev-"ron between three Jews "Heads couped Sable: But then I take it, the "Bearer's Name should have its Orthography "thus, Jewes.

Argent, a Chevron Ermines, between three Moors Heads side-faced coup'd Proper, crined Or, is born by the Name of Blaker, and is the proper Coat of the Blakers of Portslade in the County of Sussex, as appears by a Grant to Edward Blaker of the said Place, bearing Date the 19th of February 1616, in Coll. Arm. int. M. S. Vincent.

Or, a Chevron Pean between three Mens Heads side-faced Proper, crined Sable, is born also by the Name of Blacker, and pertains to the Blackers of Salisbury in the County of Wilts, as appears by the Grant under the Hand of Sir William Segar Garter, Anno 1613, exhibited to Purpose.

Vid. in Coll. Arm. Wilts, Dorset, & Somerset, mark'd C. 22. fo. 19. b.

He beareth Vert, a Chevron Gules, between three Turks Heads coup'd side-faced Proper, their Turbants Or, by the Name of Smith. This Coat was approved and confirmed by Sir William Segar Garter, the 19th of August 1625, to Capt. John Smith (Captain under the Command of Sigismond Bathor, Duke of Transilvania) who granted him the said Arms before, under his Seal, the 9th of December 1603.

Her. Off. int. M. S. Vincent.

'Now I shall shew you a rare, yet an an-'cient Bearing of Childrens Heads couped, en-'wrapped about the Necks with Snakes.

'He beareth Sable, a 'Chevron between three 'Childrens Heads coup-'ed at the Shoulders Ar-'gent, crined Or, enwrap-'ed about the Necks with 'as many Snakes Proper, 'by the Name of Vaughan. 'It hath been reported '(how truly I cannot say) 'that some one of the Ancestors of this Fami-'ly, was born with a Snake about his Neck; 'a Matter not impossible, but yet very impro-'bable: Ideo quare.

'He beareth Argent, a 'Chevron Gules, between 'three Perukes Sable.

But I should choose to blazon these Scalps with the Hair on; Perukes being but a late Mode; besides, if they are not Part of the Head, they ought to have been placed elsewhere, among its Ornaments or Attire.

'The above Coat standeth in one of the Win-'dows of New-Inn Hall without Temple-bar in 'London. Clodius (surnamed Comatus, because 'of his long Hair) having attained to the Helm 'of Government in the Kingdom of France, 'at his first coming to the Crown, did institute 'a Law, That the Frenchmen should in common, 'wear their Hair long, in Token of Liberty. And 'so, contrariwise, shaving off the Hair, was a 'Sign of servile Bondage: For the Romans (saith 'Francis de Rosiers) did institute, by a publick 'Edict, that the Hairs of Bondage should be shaven 'in Token of Bondmen. But as Hairs change ac-'cording to Time, so it is the Part of a wise 'Man (saith Farnesius) to conform himself to the 'Mutability of Times and Seasons.

"He beareth Or, a "Cross Gules, between "4 Black-moors heads "couped at the Shoul-"ders Proper, by the "Name of Juxon. This "with the Arms of Ul-"ster, is the Coat-Ar-"mour of Sir William "Juxon of Little Comp-"ton in Gloucestershire, "Baronet.

'He beareth barry Ne-'bule of six Pieces, Azure 'and Argent, on a Chief 'of the Second three Eyes 'Gules, by the Name of 'de la Hay of Ireland. The 'Eyes hath God formed 'with admirable Skill in 'such Sort, as that by 'them the visible Spirits 'are transferred to the Soul. For by them, as 'it were by Windows, the Soul doth apprehend 'the Forms and Kinds of Things coloured by 'Way of Attraction; therefore, to the End the 'same might be the more commodiously per-'formed, first of all, he made them slippery 'and round, that they might more easily move 'and stir every Way, and so apprehend the 'Colours of all Sorts of Things which are ei-'ther above, below, on the Right-hand, or 'upon the Left, as it were in a Moment. He 'would that the Eyes should consist of three di-'stinct Humours, to wit, of a watry or whitish 'Humour, of a glassy, and a christalline Hu-'mour; and those severed each from other with 'most thin Films or Skins, to the End that they 'should be capable of the Species or Kinds of 'Colours. In the Midst of these there is a little 'Ball (as it were) which we call the Ball or Ap-'ple of the Eye, as it were a certain Hole 'through which the Sight hath its Passage; by 'which, as through a little Window or Case-'ment, the visible Spirits of the Soul are sent 'forth to their Objects, and also the Species or 'Kinds of Colours are received inward, and 'conveyed to that we call sensus communis or 'the Phantasy (which is seated in the Fore-'part of the Brain) by means of Sinews that 'do bring Sight to the Eyes.

Though it be somewhat contrary to my pre-fix'd Method, I have placed this Coat not among Barry, &c. because you may perceive the Eye also to be born in Arms, which, when put among other Figures, might be the sooner over-look'd.

'He beareth Argent, a 'Heart Proper, a Chief 'Sable, by the Name of 'Scambler. If the Heart '(according to Homer) 'doth waste and consume 'in those, that by any ac-'cidental Occasion are at-'tached with some vehe-'ment or long lingring 'Sickness; much more must the Heart waste in 'those, which are possessed with the fretting 'Canker of Envy against the Prosperity of 'others, according to that Saying, Invidus ipse 'sibi est longè tristissimus hostis; The envious Man 'is a most deadly Foe to himself.

'He

'He beareth Gules, a 'Heart between 2 Wings 'display'd Or, by the 'Name of Henry de Wing-'ham. The Ancients uſed 'to hang the Figure of 'an Heart with a Lace 'or Chain from the Neck 'upon the Breaſt of a 'Man, ſignifying thereby 'a Man of Sincerity, and ſuch an One as ſpeak-'eth the Truth from the Heart, and is free 'from all Guile and Diſſimulation, and is far 'unlike thoſe that the Pſalmiſt mentioneth, 'ſaying, They give good Words with their Lips, 'but diſſemble with their Heart. Too rife are 'they found in this Age, whoſe Tongue and 'Heart go two diverſe Ways. Therefore well 'is that Saying verified of theſe and like Per-'ſons, which is uſual in the Mouths of many 'Men, Mel in ore, verba lactis; fel in corde, 'fraus in factis; Honey in the Mouth, Gall in 'the Heart, and Guile in their Actions.

(𝔐) Scroggie; Azure, a Chevron Or, betwixt two Scroggs, or ſtarved Branches in Chief, and a Man's Heart in Baſe, Argent.

(𝔐) Logan; Argent, three Nails (according to ſome, Arrows) faſtned in or parting a Heart Gules.

'He beareth Gules, on 'a Chief Argent, three 'Hearts Proper, by the 'Name of Heart. The 'Heart (ſaith one) is na-'turally ſhaped long, and 'not round; to ſignify that 'our Thoughts and Conſul-'tations ought to be long, 'deliberate, and not haſty 'and inconſiderate. This 'is the Fountain, Seat, and Treaſury of Life, 'wherethrough the whole Body receiveth the 'vital Spirits; which are (as it were) certain 'quickning Flames, which by the Miniſtry of 'the Arteries and Veins, are diſperſed through-'out all Parts of the Body, giving thereto Life 'and Vigour, and enabling the ſame to the Per-'formance of every Action.

'He beareth Argent, a 'Feſs Gules, between three 'Hearts vulned, and di-'ſtilling Drops of Blood 'on the ſiniſter Side Pro-'per, by the Name of 'Tote. Theſe are term-'ed vulned of the Latin 'Word vulnus, which ſig-'nifieth a Wound. This 'noble Member hath Na-'ture placed in a Seat well fitting the Dignity 'thereof; inſomuch, as it may well be ſaid (ac-'cording to Ariſtotle) Natura conſtituit rem no-'biliorem in nobiliori loco, ut cor in medio; To 'the beſt Part the beſt Place. This is that 'which, of all other Parts, God requireth us 'to reſerve for himſelf, and to his Service, 'where he ſaith, My Son, give me thy Heart; 'and good Reaſon, ſince he was pleaſed to give 'us his Son's Heart, to be pierced to the Death 'for our Demerits. And this Place may decide 'their Doubt, who make queſtion, Whether be 'the more principal Part of a Man, the Brain 'or the Heart, ſince God prefereth the Heart, 'as more eſteeming the hearty Affection of true 'Charity, than a ſpeculative Contemplation 'void of chriſtian Practice.

Or, a Feſs dancetté between three Hearts Gules; is born by the Name of Newman, and was granted to John Newman Citizen and Chirurgeon of London, Son of John Newman of Stanford in the County of Lincoln, by Sir Edward Walker Garter, the 15th of February, 1663-4, in the 16th Year of the Reign of King Charles the Second.

(𝔐) Or, three Hearts within a Bordure engrailed Gules, by the Name of Rule.

Butler of Old, gave Argent, a Croſs patonce Sable, between four Hearts Proper; but now, Butler of Gormack, gives Argent, a plain Croſs, &c.

'He beareth Argent, an 'Arm ſiniſter, iſſuing out 'of the dexter Point, and 'extended towards the ſi-'niſter Baſe in Form of 'a Bend Gules, by the 'Name of Cornhill. The 'Arm is a Member of the 'Body ordained by Na-'ture for Labour: And 'for that Purpoſe ſhe hath fortified the ſame 'ſtrongly with Arteries, Muſcles, and Sinews. 'By the Arm therefore is ſignified a labori-'ous and induſtrious Man; but that no Man 'ſhould rely on his own, or any other Man's 'Power or Induſtry too much, God hath for-'bidden us to truſt to the Arm of Fleſh.

(𝔊) Armſtrong of Maingerton; Argent, an Arm Proper, habited Gules, iſſuing from the Side of the Eſcutcheon, and holding the lower Part of a broken Tree eradicated Vert, the Top leaning to the dexter Angle.

(𝔊) Gules, an Hand iſſuing out of the ſiniſter Flanch, and thereon a hooded Falcon perch'd Or, a Chief Argent, charged with three Mullets Azure, by the Name of Blackhall.

(𝔊) Catchpole, a Scots Family; Or, two Cubit Arms iſſuing from the dexter and ſiniſter Baſe Points, habited Gules, and graſping (or catching as it were) the Pole or Head of an Hart

Hart caboſed in Feſs Sable, with a Raven perched thereupon, between three Horns Proper.

'He beareth Gules, 3 'dexter Arms conjoyned 'at the Shoulders, and 'flexed in Triangle Or, 'with Fiſt clenched Argent. This Coat-Armour 'pertaineth to the Family of Tremaine of Colacombe in Devonſhire.

'Theſe Arms and Hands conjoyned and 'clenched after this Manner, may ſignify a 'treble Offer of Revenge for ſome notable 'Injury done to the Perſon or Fame of the 'firſt Bearer, which, to an honeſt Man, is no 'leſs dear than Life; Nam honor & honeſtas pari 'paſſu cum vita ambularent.

Azure, a dexter Hand coup'd at the Wriſt, and extended in Pale Argent, with a Creſcent for Difference, was confirmed to George Brome, Eſq; Sub-Prothonotary or Secondary of the King's Bench, and to his Iſſue, by William Segar, the 12th of July, in the ſecond Year of King Charles the Firſt.

Int. M. S. P. le Neve, Norroy.

I have ſeen it often uſed, a ſiniſter Hand Palm outward.

The ſame Coat, with due Difference, was confirmed alſo to ..... Broome of Aſhford in Kent, and to ..... Broome of Broome in the County of Salop, by Sir William Segar Garter, in May 1627.

Int. M. S. of P. le Neve, Norroy.

'He beareth Or, on a 'Chief Gules, a Hand ex'tended and born tranſ'verſe the Chief Argent, 'by the Name of Main'ſtone. The Hand is the 'Pledge of Friendſhip and 'Fidelity, which was in 'ancient Times confirmed 'by ſhaking of Hands; 'but later Times have taken up another Fa'ſhion, by embracing with the Arms. But the 'Truth is, a Handful of that antient Amity is 'more worth than a whole Armful of the New, 'which now every where conſiſts in Words, not 'in Deeds. The Hand is the chief working 'Inſtrument of the Body, and of no leſs Come'lineſs than Uſe; Quam multarum artium mi'niſtra ſunt, ſaith Zanchius; Of how many Arts 'is the Hand the Worker? And it is called, 'manus (according to ſome) à manando, vel quia 'ipſa è brachio manat, vel quia ex ea manant di'giti; either for that it proceedeth out of the 'Arm, or for that the Fingers proceed out of 'it. This Member is divided into five Parts, 'whereof each one hath a Name appropriated 'to the particular Uſe thereof; as the Thumb is 'called Pollex, quod virtute præ cæteris polleat, for 'the Strength of it. The Forefinger is named 'Index, Quia homo illo digito omnia indicat, for 'pointing with it. The next is called of the 'Place, Medius, the Middle-finger. The Fourth 'Annularis, or Ring-finger. The Fifth, Auri'cularis, becauſe Men uſe to pick their Ear 'therewith.

(𝔐) Gules, in Feſs a dexter Hand coup'd, and thereon a hooded Falcon perch'd Or, on a Chief Argent, three Mullets of the Firſt, by the Name of Blackhall.

"He beareth Argent, "three ſiniſter Hands "couped at the Wriſts "Gules, by the Name of "Maynard; and is the "Coat-Armour of that "eminent Lawyer Sir "John Maynard of Gun"nersbury in the Pariſh of "Ealing in Middleſex, Kt. "Serjeant at Law to his "Majeſty King Charles II.

(𝔐) Agnew of Lockcow; Argent, three ſiniſter Hands coup'd and erected, two and one Gules.

(𝔐) Neilſon of Craigeaw; Argent, three ſiniſter Hands tending to the ſiniſter Chief Point, two and one, Gules.

He beareth Ermine, on a Bend Sable, three dexter Hands couped at the Wriſt Argent, by the Name of Mayne. This Coat was confirmed by William Camden in June 1604, to Bennet Mayne of Creſtow in the County of Bucks.

"The Field is Pearl, a "Chevron Saphire, be"tween three ſiniſter "Hands couped at the "Wriſt Ruby. This is the "Coat-Armour of the "Right Honourable Wil"liam Lord Maynard of "Eſtains in England, and "of Wicklogh in the King"dom of Ireland.

Ar-

Argent, on a Pile Vert, three dexter Hands coup'd at the Wriſt and erected of the Firſt, is born by the Name of Jollye, and was confirmed unto William Jollye of Leeke in the County of Stafford, Son of Thomas Jollye of Leeke aforeſaid, who was Son of John Jollye of the ſame Place, by —— the 27th of Auguſt 1614, in the 12th Year of the Reign of King James I.

He beareth Ermine, a Lyon rampant between three dexter Hands couped at the Wriſt Gules, by the Name of Neale. This Coat was aſſigned by William Camden, in November Anno Domini 1612, to Doctor Neale Dean of Weſtminſter.

" He beareth Argent, a " Feſs Sable, between four " dexter Hands couped at " the Wriſt Gules, by the ' Name of Quatermaine. " This was the Coat of " ..... Quatremaine, Do- " ctor of Phyſick.

" He beareth Barry of " ſix Pieces, Or and Sable, " over all a Pale Gules, " charged with a Wo- " mans Dug, diſtilling " Drops of Milk Proper, " by the Name of Dodge. " And here, becauſe I find " in the Office of Arms a " Copy of the firſt Grant " of this Coat-Armour, and that very ancient, " I think it convenient to acquaint the Reader " with ſome Particulars of the ſaid Patent, as I " there find it ; whereby appeareth that James " Hedingley, then Guyen King of Arms, after " recital made of the loyal and valiant Service " which Peter Dodge, born in the Town of Stop- " worth in the County of Cheſter, Gentleman, " had done to King Edward the Firſt (for as it " there appeareth by the Copy, this Inſtrument " beareth Date the 8th of April, in the 34th " Year of that King's Reign) in diverſe Battles " and Sieges, for which the ſaid King had remu " nerated him the ſaid Peter with the Gift of a " Seigniory or Lordſhip there mentioned: He " (I ſay) the ſaid King of Arms, after ſuch re- " cital made, doth give and grant unto the ſaid " Peter Dodge, that from thenceforth, Il (un- " underſtand the ſaid Peter) portera ſon eſcu d'Or " & Sables, barre de ſix pieces & ung Pale de " Gules, avec une mamelle de femme degoullant ; " for ſo are the very Words and their Ortho- " graphy, in the Copy of the Patent, which is " in French. Thus much whereof I thought " fit to preſent to the publick View, not doubt- " ing but the judicious Reader, by careful Ob- " ſervation thereof, may make ſome good Uſe. " The Function of this Member is thus taught " us, 2 Eſdr. 8. For thou haſt commanded the " Members, even the Breaſts, to give Milk unto " the Fruit appointed for the Breaſts, that the " Thing which is created might be nouriſhed for " a Time, till thou diſpoſeſt it to thy Mercy.

' He beareth Or, a Man's ' Leg couped at the Midſt ' of the Thigh Azure, by ' the Name of Haddon. ' The Leg is the Member ' of Strength, Stability, ' Expedition, and Obedi- ' ence. It was a Cuſtom ' of the ancient World, ' that Servants or Chil- ' dren ſhould put their Hand under the Thigh ' of him to whom they ſhould be obliged by ' Oath. Which Ceremony (as ſome take it) ' they uſed, as well to ſhew the ready Obedience ' of the Servants and Children towards their ' Maſters and Parents; as alſo the Juriſdiction ' and Authority of their Maſters and Parents ' over them, as I have formerly ſhew'd. So ' did Abraham cauſe his Servant to do; and the ' like Oath alſo did Iſrael require of his Son ' Joſeph.

' He beareth Argent, a ' Man's Leg eraſed at the ' Thigh Sable, by the ' Name of Prime.

' In blazoning of Coat- ' Armour conſiſting of ' Legs born after this ' Manner, I hold it need- ' leſs to mention the Bear- ' ing thereof in Pale, becauſe it is natural for ' a Man's Leg to ſtand upright: But if the ' ſame be born in any other Sort than thus, ' you ſhall then make ſpecial mention there- ' of.

' He beareth Sable, a ' Leg couped below the ' Knee Argent, by the ' Name of Shrigley of Che- ' ſhire. The Leg being ' the loweſt and lowlieſt ' Part of the Body, there- ' fore do we uſe the Mo- ' tion thereof, to ſhew ' Humility and Submiſ- ' ſion to our Superiors: And of all Geſtures of ' the

'the Leg, it is not more pliable to any, than to 'that whereby we humble our selves before God 'in kneeling and praying, as if Nature had 'especially framed our Bodies, as well as our 'Souls, for that Service to him that made us. 'And in this Sense, God doth delight in Man's 'Legs, though he doth not (as himself saith) in 'the Strength or Beauty thereof. And as the 'Leg, cut off from the Body, loseth all his former Strength; so Man cut off from God, loseth all his Grace, Power, and Felicity, which 'are only preserved by our Union with him.

CHAP. XXV.

'IN the Process of our former Tracts touch-'ing Animals, as well Rational as Irratio-'al, we have been very careful to limit every 'several Kind of Creature with his own natu-'ral and distinct Bounds, Forms, and Proprie-'ties; whereby it happeneth that such other 'Kinds of living Creatures, as are any Way ex-'orbitant from Nature's general Course and In-'tention, either for Qualities or Essence (and 'therefore wanted a certain Place among the 'Rest) have been reserved for this last Place. 'And of these are diverse Sorts; as first, Am-'phibia, such as live sometimes as if they were 'Water-Creatures, at other times, as if they 'were Land-Creatures, as Examples here shall 'shew.

'He beareth Argent, a 'Bever erected Sable, de-'vouring a Fish Proper, 'armed Gules. This Coat 'standeth in a Glass-win-'dow in an Inn of Chan-'cery called New-Inn 'Hall without Temple-bar 'near London. The Be-'ver is like an Otter, and 'both of them are like sly dissembling Compa-'nions, who to make their Profit, and feed 'their own Bellies, will closely keep good Quar-'ter with contrary Sides, in affection to neither, 'but only for their own Use: Therefore I could 'wish they had one other Property of the Be-'ver, which is to geld himself, that so he 'might escape from his Pursuers, who hunt him 'for his Testicles, which are much used in Phy-'sick. This Bever hath only his Tail Fish, and 'therefore keeps that Part most in the Water: 'He hath his Hind-legs like a Swan, and his 'Fore-feet like a Dog, and so swimeth with the 'One, while he preyeth with the Other.

Argent, a Chevron Gules, between three Beavers Tails erected Proper, is born by the Name of Lewes, and was exemplified by William Camden Clarencieux, at the Request of Robert and Bevel Lewes of Rossenden in Bleane in Kent, Gentleman.

(M) Argent, an Otter issuing out of a Fess wavy Sable, by the Name of Meldrum.

(M) Urquhart of Meldrum, gives Argent, an Otter issuing out of a Fess wavy Sable, crown'd Or, as the Coat of Meldrum, quarter'd with the Arms of Seaton, which is Or, three Crescents within a double Tressure counterflowred Gules.

(M) Meldrum, sometime of Fyvie; Argent, three Otters issuing out of a Fess wavy Sable, quarter'd with the Arms of Preston.

'He beareth Argent, a 'Fess between three Ot-'ters Sable, by the Name 'of Lutterel. Sir John 'Maundevile in his Dis-'courses reporteth, That 'in the Country of China, 'they use Otters for Wa-'ter-dogs, bred tame 'among them in great 'Numbers, which so often as they are com-'manded, go into the Waters, and bring forth 'Fish to their Masters.

He beareth Sable, a Chevron between three Otters passant Argent, by the Name of Hartop. This Coat was assign'd by Sir William Segar Garter, to Sir Edward Hartop of Buckminster in the County of Leicester, Baronet.

Int. M. S. P. Leicester.

(M) Argent, a Bend engrailed Gules, between two Otters heads coup'd Sable, by the Name of Lethington: But other Books (saith Sir George Mackenzie) especially the latest, give the Coat of Livington (which it seems is all one with Lethingtoun) of Salt-Coats; Argent, a Bend engrailed Gules, and in Chief a Bear's head erased Azure, muzzled of the Second.

(M) Meldrum of Segie; Argent, three Otters heads coup'd Sable.

(M) Balfour Lord of Burleigh; Argent, on a Chevron Sable, an Otter's head erased of the First.

'He

'He beareth Argent, a 'Chevron between 3 Seal's 'Feet erected and eraſed 'Sable. Theſe Arms do 'pertain to the Town of 'Yarmouth in Norfolk. The 'Fins wherewith this Fiſh 'doth ſwim, ſerve her 'Turn alſo as Feet to 'go withal upon the Land. 'The Milk of this Seal (or Sea-calf) is very 'wholſome againſt the Falling Sickneſs; but 'ſhe ſucketh it out, and ſpilleth it of Envy, 'that it ſhould not profit any other. To this 'Head of Amphibia all other of like Nature are 'to be reduced.

'The ſecond Sort of Nature's unnatural Creatures (as I may call them) are Bigenera, ſuch 'as are ingendred of two diſtinct Kinds of Beaſts 'againſt the Preſcript of Nature's Order. Of 'which prodigious Kinds of Beaſts, as ſome have 'been procreated by means of Man's idle Invention, and others by caſual Accident: So 'are there ſundry Sorts of Beaſts no leſs unnaturally ingendred, through careleſs Neglect of 'the ſeparating each Sort of Cattel by themſelves, and by permitting the Beaſts of diſtinct Kinds to ſort and feed together confuſedly in the Time of their Heat. Such are 'thoſe that Upton calleth Muſimones, ingendred 'of a Goat and a Ram; Tityri, of a Sheep and 'a Goat; Hybrides, of a wild Boar and a tame 'Sow; Caſtorides, Dogs ingendered by a Fox 'and a Bever; Lyciſcus, of a Wolf and a Maſtiff, 'and ſuch like.

'Theſe bigenerous Beaſts (ſaith Upton) may 'well beſeem the Bearing of Abbots and Abbeſſes, who bear the Miter and the Croſs, 'which are Repreſentations of Paſtoral Juriſdiction, but have not the actual Exerciſe thereof; as the Mule and Leopard, having the generative Inſtruments of the Horſe and the 'Lyon, yet have not the natural Uſe of them: 'Though in this Property Abbots and Abbeſſes 'have never been very like them, but for the 'other reſpect. Whereupon a certain Author 'hath this Saying;

'Mulus & Abbates ſunt in honore pares.

'Mules, Abbots, and Abbeſſes are alike;
'They bear the Weapons, but they cannot ſtrike.

'He beareth Gules, a 'Leopard paſſant guardant Or, ſpotted Sable. 'The Shape of the Leopard bewrayeth his unkindly Birth, foraſmuch 'as he in all Proportion of 'Body is more like the 'Pardus, as well in reſpect 'of the Slenderneſs of his 'Body, as of his Spots, and wanteth the Courage notified by the plentiful Mane, where-with Nature hath inveſted the Lyon, being 'the expreſs Token of his generous and noble 'Spirit. This misbegotten Beaſt is naturally 'an Enemy to the Lyon, and finding his own 'Defect of Courage to encounter the Lyon in 'fair Fight, he obſerveth when the Lyon makes 'his Walk near to his Den, which (in Policy) 'he hath purpoſely wrought ſpacious and wide 'in the double Entrance thereof, and narrow 'in the Midſt, ſo as himſelf being much more 'ſlender than the Lyon, may eaſily paſs: When 'he ſeeth the Lyon, he maketh towards him 'haſtily, as if he would bid him Battel in the 'open Fields; and when he ſeeth the Lyon 'prepared to encounter him, he betaketh him 'to his Heels, and maketh towards his Den 'with all celerity, whom the Lyon eagerly purſueth with full Courſe, dreaming of no Danger by reaſon of the large Entrance into the 'Den. At length, through the Vehemency of 'his ſwift Courſe, he becometh ſo ſtraitned in 'the narrow Paſſage in the Midſt of the Den '(by reaſon he is much bigger Body'd than the 'Leopard) that he can go neither forwards nor 'backwards. The Lyon being thus diſtreſſed, 'his Enemy paſſeth thorough his Den, and 'cometh behind him, and gnaweth him to 'Death. Of this Beaſt, the Head is more uſually born in Coat-Armour than the Whole, and 'that in a diverſe Manner, as by theſe Examples 'next enſuing may be ſeen.

"Sable, three Leopards "rampant Argent, ſpot-"ted Sable, is the Coat-"Armour of Sir Thomas "Lynch of Rixton-hall (an-"ciently called the Pele) "in the Pariſh of Great "Sonkey in Lancaſhire, Kt. 'He beareth Vaire, on 'a Pale Gules, three Leo- 'pards heads Or, by the 'Name of Ockowald. The 'Leopard hath a Name 'well fitting his unkindly 'Procreation and double 'Nature: For being in- 'gendred between the 'Lyoness and the Pardus, 'is thereupon called a Leopard. It is oftentimes 'found in the hot Climates, especially in Africa, 'where, through great Scarcity of Water, many 'Beasts did often meet together at some River 'to drink, by whose engendring together, many 'monstrous Births have been produced; which 'gave Occasion of that vulgar Proverb, Semper 'aliquid novi fert Africa; Africa still yields 'new Monsters.

"Gules, on a Bend Ar- "gent, three Leopards "heads of the Field, is "the Coat-Armour of Co- "lonel Robert Werden of "the City of Chester, "Comptroller to his Roy- "al Highness James Duke "of York, and first Lieu- "tenant and Major of his "Guards.

Luggar* of Bodmyn in the County of Cornwall, who faithfully and industriously served his Majesty King Charles the First, against the Rebels, and performed many Actions to the Advantage of the said King; and when the Rebels usurped the Power of the Kingdom, he remained in foreign Parts: Given by Sir Edward Walker Garter, at the Hague, the 20th of December 1650.

He beareth Gules, on a Chevron between three Leopards Faces Argent, as many Escallops Azure, by the Name of Browne. These Arms were assigned by Sir William Segar Garter, by Patent dated the 18th of February, Anno Domini 1615, in the 13th Year of the Reign of King James the First, to Humfry Browne, Son of Humfry Browne of London, descended out of the North.

" He beareth Argent, a " Pile surmounted by a " Fess, between four Leo- " pards heads Gules, by " the Name of Garroway; " and is the Coat of Wil- " liam Garroway of the " City of Chichester in Sus- " sex, Esq;

He beareth Vert, a Cross raguly between four Leopards Faces Or, by the Name of Newton. This Coat was granted or confirmed to William Newton next Trent in the County of Lincoln, Gent. by Sir Edward Walker Garter, the 14th of June 1660, and 12th Year of the Reign of King Charles the Second, he the said Garter King of Arms being mov'd thereunto by an Information or Certificate from Sir John Munson and Sir Charles Darlison (Men of Honour and Condition) importing the Loyalty and Worth of the said William Newton, together with the Reputation and Respect in which he lived.

Azure, a Bend between six Leopards Faces Or, is born by the Name of Hunt, and was granted by Robert Cook Clarencieux, the 20th of July 1585, the 27th Year of the Reign of Queen Elizabeth, to John Hunt of Hindon in the County of Rutland, Esquire.

Gules, a Leopard's Face jessant a Fleur de lis Or, is the Coat-Armour of Mr. William Westbrook of Godalming in the County of Surry, as appears by their Entry in the Heralds Office at the Visitation of that County.

" The Field is Sable, a " Leopard's head Argent, " jessant a Fleur de lis Or, " by the Name of Morley; " and is born by Sir Wil- " liam Morley of Halnaker " in the County of Sus- " sex, Knight of the Bath. " What jessant is, I have " formerly shewed you. " And now I will shew you three Leopards " Heads jessant the like Flowers born in one " Escutcheon.

" The Field is Sable, " three Leopards heads " jessant Fleurs de lis Or. " This Coat is also born " by the Name of Morley, " and is the Coat of Wil- " liam Morley of Glinde in " Sussex, Esq; Some are " of Opinion, that this " Colour Sable, is the most " Ancient of Colours; and their Reason is, for " that it appeareth in Genesis, chap. 1, 2. That " Darkness was before God made Light: Here " you see this Sable-Field charged with Or. And " what Kind of qualified and conditioned Bearer " a Coat-Armour of this Colour and Metal be- " fitteth, I have already declared in the 10th " Chapter of this third Section.

Sable, three Leopards Faces jessant Fleurs de lis Argent, a Mullet in Chief for a Difference Or, was born by Ralph Hubaud or Hubald, Gentleman-Commoner of Queens College, the younger Brother of ..... Hubaud of Ryley in the County of Warwick, Baronet, and [illegible]

Sir Ralph Hubaud. He died the 23d of July 1670, and was buried in the Church of St. Peter in the East.

M. S. of Ant. a Wood's Remarks de Com. Oxon. p. 118.

'The Field is Gules, 3 'Leopards heads reverſed, ſwallowing as many 'Fleurs de lis, Or: This 'Coat pertaineth to the 'See of Hereford. Theſe 'Leopards heads differ 'from the Former in this, 'That they are born reverſed; of which Form 'of Bearing you muſt take ſpecial Notice in 'Blazon; as alſo of the Fleurs de lis, which in 'theſe are ſaid to be ſwallowed, and not born.

'He beareth Gules, 3 'Leopards heads Or, jeſſant Fleurs de lis Azure, 'over all a Bend engrailed of the Third, by the 'Name of Dennis. This 'is the ancient Coat-Armour of that Family, as 'appeareth in the Cathedral Church of Worceſter 'and Hereford; as alſo in the Churches of Durham and Auſte, and many other Places: Nevertheleſs, ſome have of late Years altered the 'Fleurs de lis into Or, wherein they have much 'wronged the Bearers, in rejecting the ancient 'Form, which is both warranted by antient 'Monuments, and no way diſcommendable, 'ſince it is born in the natural Colour.

He beareth Gules, a 'Mule paſſant Argent, by 'the Name of Moile. The 'Generation of Mules 'ſeemeth to be the Invention of Anah the Son 'of Zibeon: For it is ſaid, 'Gen. 36 24. This was Anah 'that found Mules in the 'Wilderneſs, as he fed his 'Father Zibeon's Aſſes: Who not contented 'with thoſe Kind of Beaſts which God had created, found out the monſtrous Generation of 'Mules, between an Aſs and a Mare.

'A Mule depicted paſſant, hath his chiefeſt 'Grace.

'He beareth Gules, a 'Muſimon Argent. This 'is a bigenerous Beaſt 'of unkindly Procreation 'like as the Mule (before exemplified among 'whole-footed Beaſts) and 'is engendred between a 'Goat and a Ram; like 'as the Tityrus is ingendred between a Sheep and a Buck-Goat, as 'Upton noteth.

CHAP. XXVI.

'ANOTHER Sort there is of exorbitant Animals, much more prodigious 'than all the Former: Such are thoſe Creatures formed, or rather deformed, with the 'confuſed Shapes of Creatures of different Kinds 'and Qualities. Theſe (according to ſome Authors) are called in Latin, Monſtra à Monſtrando, 'for foreſhewing ſome ſtrange Events. Theſe 'Monſters (ſaith St. Auguſtine) cannot be reckoned 'among thoſe good Creatures that God created before the Tranſgreſſion of Adam: For thoſe did 'God (when he took the Survey of them) pronounce 'to be valde bona, for they had in them neither 'Exceſs nor Defect, but were the perfect Workmanſhip of God's Creation. And of them Zanchius 'ſaith, that Eorum deformitas habet uſus, cum & Deo ſerviant ad gloriam ipſius illuſtrandam, & electis ad ſalutem promovendam. If Man had 'not tranſgreſſed the Law of his Maker, this 'dreadful Deformity (in likelyhood) had not 'happened in the Procreation of Animals, which 'ſome Philoſophers do call Peccata Naturæ, Errors in Nature; Quoniam natura impeditur in horum generatione, ne poſſit quale velit producere Animal. Some Examples in this Kind here 'enſue.

'He beareth Argent, a 'Griffon paſſant, his 'Wings diſplay'd Sable, 'armed Gules, by the 'Name of Halton. Leigh, 'in his Blazon of this Beaſt, 'addeth this Word Sergeant, in regard of his 'two-fold Form, wherein 'he doth (as touching his Fore-parts) participate with the Eagle, and (in the hindmoſt 'Parts) with the Lyon: If that be the Cauſe, 'then, doubtleſs that Term cannot be ſaid to 'be peculiar to the Griffon, as he would have 'it, but rather common to whatſoever other

Animal

' Animal of double Nature, as the Wiverne, ' Cockatrice, &c.

" He beareth Azure, a " Griffon paſſant and Chief " Or, by the Name of " Evelyn, a very ſpreading " and worthy Family in " Surry, Buckinghamſhire, " Kent, and elſewhere: " Of which Family are " George Evelyn of Ble- " chingley, Eſquire, George " Evelyn of Wotton, Eſq; Edward Evelyn of Long- " Ditton, Eſq; George Evelyn of Godſtone, Eſq; " and Richard Evelyn of Ebiſham, Eſq; all in the " County of Surry: Alſo John Evelyn of Sayes- " Court in Deptford in Kent, Eſq; and George " Evelyn of Hunters-combe in Bucks, Eſq;

" Sable, a Griffin sergreant Or, is the Coat of " the Honourable Society of Gray's Inn, being " one of the Four Inns of Court.

' The erecting of the Fore-legs of this Grif-
' fon is an evident Testimony of his Readiness
' for Action, which addeth a second Force of
' his Attempt, and promiseth a successful Event
' of his Enterprize, by reason he uniteth Force
' and Industry together. The Griffon having
' attained his full Growth, will never be taken
' alive; wherein he doth adumbrate, or rather
' lively set forth the Property of a valorous Sol' dier, whose Magnanimity is such, as he had ' rather expose himself to all Dangers, and
' even to Death it self, than to become a Cap-
' tive.

The ſaid John Slanynge of Ley was Son of Nicholas, the Son of William, who was Son of Nicholas Slanynge of the ſaid Place, Gent.

Or, three Mullets and a Chief Gules, thereon as many Griffons heads eraſed of the Field, is born by the Name of Cory, and was a Grant to Thomas Cory of the Inner Temple, chief Prothonotary of the Court of Common Pleas, and one of the Benchers of the ſaid Temple, by Sir John Borough Garter, the 18th of March 1639, and 15th Year of the Reign of King Charles I.

Sable, on a Chevron between three Griffons heads eraſed Or, as many Eſtoils Gules, is born by the Name of Cory, and was confirmed by William Camden Clarencieux, in February 1612, to John Cory of London, Gent. Son of Robert, Son of Thomas, the Son of William Cory of Norfolk.

" He beareth Argent, on a Feſs between three " Griffons heads eraſed Sable, as many Mullets " of the Field, by the Name of Cliffe; and is " the Coat-Armour of Allan Cliffe of the City " of London, Eſq; Grandchild to Allan Cliffe Re- " ctor of Great Whitley in Shropſhire, who was " one of the younger Sons of Sir Richard Cliffe " of ——— in the ſaid County of Salop, who " lived in the Time of Henry VII.

Ermine, on a Feſs engrail'd between three Griffons heads eraſed Sable, a Talbot Argent, collared Gules, and Line twiſted into a Hank at the End Or, was the Coat of Francis Frobyſar of Doncaſter.

' He beareth Argent, a ' Wiverne, his Wings diſ- ' play'd, and Tail nowed ' Gules, by the Name of ' Drakes. This Word ' Nowed is as much as to ' ſay, in Latin, Nodatus. ' This Tail is ſaid to be ' nowed, becauſe it is in- ' tricately knotted with ' diverſe Infoldings, after the Manner of a Frette. ' Like as a Griffon doth participate of a Fowl ' and a Beaſt, as aforeſaid; ſo doth the Wiverne ' partake of a Fowl in the Wings and Legs, and ' with a Snake, Adder, or ſuch other Serpents ' (as are not of greſſible Kind, but glide along ' upon their Belly) and doth reſemble a Serpent ' in the Tail.

(M) Argent, a Dragon Vert, with Fire iſſuing out of his Mouth: This is a Coat of Augmentation, and is quarter'd in the ſecond Place by Seaton Viſcount of Kingſton, with the Paternal Coat of Seaton.

(M) Argent, a Dragon with Wings diſplayed within a Bordure inwardly circular Sable, charg'd with three Creſcents of the Firſt, by the Name of Kilgour.

He beareth Gules, three Dragons paſſant in Pale Ermine, with a Creſcent for a Difference, by the Name of Bloſs. This Coat was aſſign'd to ..... Bloſs of Ipſwich in the County of Suffolk, by William Segar.

Her. Off. Suff. C. 15. fo. 76. 2d Index.

Argent, three Barrs Sable, on a Canton Or, a Dragon's head eraſed of the Second, is born by the Name of Brawne, and was aſſigned by William Camden the 26th of June 1604, to Sir Hugh Brawne, who was Knighted by James the Firſt, in the 2d Year of his Reign.

Argent,

Argent, three Dragons heads eraſed Sable, with Fire iſſuing at their Mouths Proper, was the Coat of Thomas Holſall of Holſall, who married Jane, Daughter and one of the Heirs of John Stanley, (the Son of John Stanley, Brother to the old Earl of Derby, and Elizabeth his Wife, Daughter and one of the Heirs of Sir John Barrington, Kt.) by which Jane the ſaid Thomas had Iſſue Henry, Jane, and Mawde.

Or, a Feſs between 3 Dragons heads coup'd and erected in Bend Sable, was granted by William Camden Clarencieux, to Daniel Basheler of Aſton-Clinton in Berkſhire, one of the Privy Chamber, in February 1606.

(99) Brymer of Weſtertoun; Or, a Feſs Ermine, between three Dragons heads eraſed Gules.

He beareth Argent, on a Feſs Azure, between three Dragons heads eraſed Gules, as many Fleurs de lis Or, by the Name of De Beſt. This Coat was granted to James de Beſt of London, Merchant, Son of James de Beſt of Flanders; by William Camden Clarencieux, the 4th of July 1617.

'The Poets do feign that Dragons do keep, 'or (according to our Engliſh Phraſe) ſit abrood 'upon Riches and Treaſures, which are there- 'fore committed to their Charge, becauſe of 'their admirable Sharpneſs of Sight, and for 'that they are ſuppoſed (of all other living 'Things) to be the moſt valiant, Adag. col. 515. 'whereof Ovid. Metamorph. 7.

'The Dragons are naturally ſo hot, that they 'cannot be cooled by drinking of Water, but 'ſtill gape for the Air to refreſh them.

'He beareth Sable, a 'Cockatrice diſplayed Ar- 'gent, creſted, membred, 'and jolloped Gules, by 'the Name of Buggine.

This Coat was confirmed to Edward Bugbine of London, Eſqs only Son of William Buggine of the County of Stafford, Gent. which Edward Buggine was one of the Curſitors of the High Court of Chancery, and Principal of the ſame Company of Curſitors; Clerk alſo for writing and paſſing the Queen's Leaſes within the Survey or Government of the Exchequer, Clerk-Comptroller of the Queen's Paſtimes and Revels, and likewiſe Clerk-Comptroller of her Tents and Pavillions; one of her Majeſty's Commiſſioners for the Sewers in the County of Middleſex, and one of the Burgeſſes of Parliament; by Robert Cook Clarencieux, the 20th of April 1578, in the 20th Year of the Reign of Queen Elizabeth.

This Coat was alſo born by Zachary Bogan, M. A. and Fellow of Corpus Chriſti College in Oxon, who died the 1ſt of September 1659, and was buried in the Cloyſter there. He was the Son of William Bogan of Little Hempſton in the County of Devon, Vid. à Wood's Antiq. & Hiſt. Univ. Oxon. lib. 2. p. 243, col. 1. for Epitaph. &c.

M. S. of Ant. a Wood's Remarks de Com. Oxon. p. 98.

'The Cockatrice is called in Latin, Regulus, 'for that he ſeemeth to be a little King among 'Serpents; not in regard of his Quantity, but 'in reſpect of the Infection of his peſtiferous 'and poiſonful Aſpect, wherewith he poiſoneth 'the Air. Not unlike thoſe deviliſh Witches, 'that do work the Deſtruction of ſilly Infants; 'as alſo of the Cattel of ſuch their Neighbours, 'whoſe proſperous Eſtate is to them a moſt grie- 'vous Eye-ſore. Of ſuch Virgil in his Bucolicks 'makes mention, ſaying,

'Neſcio quis teneros oculus mihi faſcinat Agnos.

'I know not what wicked Eye hath bewitched my 'tender Lambs.

'He beareth Argent, a 'Reremouſe diſplay'd Sa- 'ble, by the Name of Bak- 'ſter. The Egyptians (ſaith 'Pierius) uſed to ſignify by 'the Reremouſe a Man that 'having ſmall Means and 'weak Power, either of No- 'bility, or of Fortune, or 'yet ſtored with Pregnancy 'of Wit, hath nevertheleſs ſtepped up ſo ſuddenly, 'that he might ſeem not ſo much to be ſupported by 'the Earth, as by a ſudden Flight to be exalted above

'above the Same. Sometimes you shall find this 'Bird born in the Form of some Ordinary; for 'so shall you see them born display'd in Pale, 'three of them one above another. As in the 'Ensigns of the Kingdom of India, sorted among 'the Coat-Armours of the innumerous Multi-'titude of the great Assembly holden at the 'Council of Constance, Anno Dom. 1414. This 'little Creature doth partake both with Beast 'and Bird, in such Nearness of Resemblance to 'either of them, as that it may (with Reason) 'be doubted, of which Kind he is. By occa-'sion whereof he taketh advantage in the Bat-'tel between Beasts and Birds (mentioned in 'the Fables of Æsop) to flutter aloft above them, 'to behold the Event of that dangerous Fight, 'with a Resolution to side with the stronger Part. 'Of all Birds (according to Pliny) this alone bring-'eth forth Young alive, and none but she hath 'Wings made of Panicles or thin Skins. So is 'she the only Bird that suckleth her Young with 'her Paps, and giveth them Milk.

'He beareth Azure, an 'Harpy with her Wings 'displosed, her Hair flo-'tant Or, armed of the 'same. This Coat standeth 'in Huntington Church. 'Of this Kind of Bird (or 'rather Monster) Virgil 'writeth in this Man-'ner.

'Tristius haud illis monstrum, nec sævior ulla
'Pestis & ira deûm; Stygiis sese extulit undis,
'Virginei volucrum vultus, fœdissima ventris
'Inguvies, uncæq; manus, & pallida semper
'Ora fame. ———

'Of Monsters all, most Monstrous this; no greater Wrath
'God sends 'mongst Men; it comes from depth of pitchy Hell:
'And Virgins Face, but Womb like Gulf unsa- tiate hath,
'Her Hands are griping Claws, her Colour
pale and fell.

'The Field is Azure, 'an Harpy display'd, cri-'ned, crowned, and arm-'ed Or. These are the 'Arms of the noble City 'of Norenberga, which, 'according to some Au-'thors, is situate in the 'very Center of the vast 'and spacious Country 'of Germany. The Harpy (saith Upton) should be 'given to such Persons as have committed Manslaugh-'ter, to the End, that by the often view of their En-'signs they might be moved to bewail the Foulness of 'their Offence.

'He beareth Argent, a 'Mermaid Gules, crined 'Or, holding a Mirror in 'her right Hand, and a 'Comb in her Left, by 'the Name of Ellis.

Argent, a Chevron engrail'd Gules, between 3 Marine-Wolves or Sea-Dogs naiant Sable, finn'd, ventred and dented of the First, langued of the Second, is born by the Name of Fennor, and was granted to John Fennor of the Mannor of Benewike in the County of Sussex, Gent. by Thomas Hawley Clarencieux, the 10th of November, in the 3d and 4th Years of the Reign of King Philip and Queen Mary.

'To these must be added Montegres, Satyrs, 'Monk-fishes; as also Lions-dragons, Lions-'poisons, and whatsoever other double-shaped 'Animal of any two or more of the particular 'Kinds before handled.

CHAP. XXVII.

'UNTO this will I add some Sorts of 'Animals and Things, which although 'they be duly shaped, and therefore may seem 'to agree with those of the same Kind formerly 'treated of, yet do they much differ from 'them; either in their unnatural Postures and 'Gestures, or else in being with some liberty-de-'barring Instrument by Man's Industy and In-'vention restrained of their natural Freedom, 'as by a Chain, or the like; and therefore could 'not, according to Method's strict Rule, have 'been handled promiscuously among the For-'mer. Some few Examples of this Kind, I here 'present unto your view.

'He

'He beareth Or, a Lyon 'rampant, regardant Sa- 'ble, armed Gules, by the 'Name of Gway the Voyde, 'sometime Lord of Cardi- 'gan in Wales.

'Argent, a Lyon ram- 'pant, regardant Sable, is 'the Coat of Thomas Ma- 'thew of Castle-Mengch in Glamorganshire, Esq;

'Or, a Lyon rampant, regardant Sable, is born 'by John Lloyd of Keyswyn in Merionethshire, 'Esquire.

'This Action doth manifest an inward and 'degenerate Perturbation of the Mind, which 'is utterly repugnant to the most couragious 'Nature of the Lyon, Cujus natura est imperter- 'rita, according to the Saying, Leo fortissimus 'bestiarum ad nullius pavebit occursum.

'The Form of Bearing of the Lyon regar- 'dant, although in respect of his Courage and 'Magnanimity it be contrary to his natural 'Quality, for that it may be thought, and is 'indeed generally holden, to be a chief Note of 'Timorousness, which is quite contrary to his 'generous Nature; yet, nevertheless it is good 'Armoury, not only in him, but also in all other 'Animals of like Bearing, so long as they are 'born significantly; and it fitteth our Profes- 'sion to interpret all Sorts of Bearing to the 'best, that is to say, To the most Honour of 'their Bearers. To the End therefore that I 'may give some Satisfaction touching the com- 'mendable Bearing thereof to such as do hold 'the contrary, I hold the same Form of Bearing 'to be born (not only in the Lyon, but in what- 'soever other Animals) significantly, and there- 'fore commendably: Forasmuch as such Action 'betokeneth a diligent Circumspection or re- 'gardful Consideration of fore-passed Events of 'Things, and comparing of them with Things 'present, that he may give a conjectural Guess 'of the Effects of Things yet to come, and rest- 'ing in deliberation, which Proprieties are pecu- 'liar to Men that are careful and considerate of 'such Businesses as they do undertake.

Gules, a Lyon rampant regardant Or, armed and langued Azure, was born by John Lloyd, D.D. sometime Principal of Jesus College in Oxon, and Treasurer of Landaff, afterwards Bishop of St. Davids, who died in the Principal's Lodgings in Jesus College, the 13th of February 1686, aged 50 or therabouts, and was two Days after buried at the upper End of Jesus College Chappel, near to the Grave of Sir Leolin Jenkyns. He was Son of Morgan Lloyd of Pentayne in Caermarthenshire. These Arms are over that College Gate in Oxon.

M. S. of Ant. à Wood's Remarks de Com. Oxon. p. 165.

Gules, a Lyon rampant regardant Or, is born by the Name of Powell, of which Family I find the following Account.

George Powell of Newton in Shropshire married and had Issue three Sons, viz. George Powell Son and Heir, Roger Powell of Clumbury in the County of Salop, and Stephen Powell of London Merchant.

George Powell of Newton, eldest Son and Heir of George aforesaid, dy'd about the Year 1652, having first married Eleanor, Daughter of Richard Edwards of Ludlow in the County of Salop, and by her had Issue two Sons and two Daughters; the Sons were George Powell, aged 35 the 17th of August 1663, and Thomas Powell of Newton, aged 30 the 17th of August 1663, who married Elizabeth, Daughter of Alexander Gretton, a Clerk to the Spicery of King Charles the Second; and the Daughters were Mary, Wife to John Mercer, Citizen of London, and Joyce second Daughter.

He beareth Or, a Lyon rampant Sable, vulned on the Breast Gules, by the Name of Sames, as the same are entred in the Heralds Office in Essex, together with the Pedigree, in the Year 1614, in a Book mark'd C. 21. 152. b.

(M) Maitland Duke of Lauderdale; Or, a Lyon rampant Gules, coup'd or dismember'd of all Joynts, the Field appearing between the Body and each Joynt.

'He beareth Argent, a 'Lyon rampant coward 'Purpure, by the Name 'of Rowch. This is termed 'a Lyon coward, because 'in a cowardly Manner 'he clappeth his Tail be- 'tween his Legs, which 'is proper to all Kinds of 'Beasts (having Tails) in 'case of Extremity and Fear, than which no- 'thing is more contrary to the Magnanimity 'and noble Stomach of the Lyon, who will not 'shrink

'ſhrink or be abaſhed at any Encounter, ſo va-
'liant and reſolute is he of Nature.

'Other Sorts of Bearing of Animals there be,
'whoſe natural Actions are hindered, by rea-
'ſon of the Appoſition of certain artificial Im-
'pediments; as ſhall appear hereafter in theſe
'next following Eſcutcheons.

'He beareth Argent, a
'Lyon rampant Sable,
'gorged with a Collar,
'and a Chain thereto af-
'fixed reflexing over his
'Back Or, by the Name
'of Meredith. Such Form
'of Bearing may ſignify
'ſome Bearer thereof to
'be captivated by ſuch
'an one as was of greater Power than him-
'ſelf.

'No Beaſt can be truly ſaid to be free, that is 'tied about the Neck, which Ariſtotle obſerveth,

Gules, a Lyon rampant Or, debruis'd by a Bend Argent, charg'd with three Croſſes formy Sable. This Coat was confirmed to John Payn alias Gybon Doctor of the Civil Law, one of the Advocates of the Court of the Arches, and one of the Maſters of the Queen's High Court of Chancery, by Robert Cook Clarencieux, the 24th of November 1570.

(M) Primroſe of Carringtoun; Or, a Lyon rampant Vert, armed and langued Gules, over all on a Feſs Purpure, three Primroſes of the Firſt.

Argent, a Lyon rampant Gules, debruis'd by a Fess Azure, between four Estoils issuing out of as many Crescents Gules. This Coat pertain'd to and was born by Henry Dillon of Bratton, who married first Elizabeth, Daughter of Sir Hugh Pollard, Kt. and had Issue Robert, Andrew, Anthony, Henry, Margaret and Anne. For his second Wife he had Anne, Daughter of William Kelley of ..... in the County of Devon, Esq; and by her had Issue Johanna.

It was the Coat also of Nicholas Dillon of Wrongston in the County of Devon, Esq; fourth Son of Robert Dyllon, the Father of the said Henry of Bratton, who was eldest Son and Heir.

The said Robert Dyllon was Son of Nicholas, the Son of Walter Dyllon of the Kingdom of Ireland, Esq;

It was the Arms also of Christopher Dyllon of Newton Ferrers in the County of Devon, Gent. who married Thomasine, Daughter of William Horston of the said County, and had Issue Walter, Nicholas, Henry, Andrew, and Elizabeth, who was married to Stephen Knight. Henry, his third Son, married Jane, Daughter of John Cosgaren of ——— in the County of Cornwall.

" The Field is Gules, " a Boar Argent, armed, " grisled, collared, and " chained Or, tied to an " Holly-bush on a Mount " in Base, both Proper. " This was the Paternal " Coat-Armour of George " Owen, Esq; deceased, a " singular Lover and an " industrious Collector of Antiquities, as learn- " ed Mr. Camden writeth in the Description " of Pembrokeshire. He was Owner of the Ba- " rony of Kemes in the said County, which, " as the same Mr. Camden there noteth, consist- " eth of twenty Knights Fees, and twenty six " Parishes over and above the three Boroughs " of Newport, Fish-gard, and St. Dogmaels. By " this Mr. Owen's Industry, the printed Map of " the said County was, as you may see in the " said Mr. Camden's Description, composed.

' He beareth Sable, a ' Horse passant Argent, ' spanceled on both Legs ' of the nearer Side Gules, ' by the Name of Persi- ' vall. Altho' this Horse ' be now spanceled as you ' here see, yet must you ' not account him to be ' of so base and dejected ' Nature,

'Nature, as that he hath been forced to this 'Subjection, but rather won thereunto by tra- 'ctable Usage: For such is the Quality of no- 'ble Spirits, as that they are rather brought to 'Conformity by Gentleness, than by Severity, 'according to the memorable Saying of Seneca, 'Generosus facilius ducitur quàm trahitur. For it 'is with irrational Animals as with the Ratio- 'nal, who are rather drawn by the Ears than 'by the Cloak, that is, they are sooner won 'by Persuasion than forced by compulsatory 'Means: Which being taken in this Sense, the 'Imposition of this artificial Note of Restraint, 'doth no way derogate from the Worth of the 'Bearer.

(99) Barrie of that Ilk; Azure, an Eagle display'd with two heads Argent, over all on a Fess Sable, two Mullets of the Second.

(99) Watson of Sauchton; Argent, an Oak-tree growing out of a Mount in Base Proper, surmounted of a Fess Azure.

(99) Calderwood; Argent, a Palm-tree growing out of a Mount in Base Proper, surmounted of a Saltire Gules, on a Chief Azure three Mullets of the Field.

'In the closing up of this third Section of ir- 'rational Animals, I will note unto you some 'few Examples (not unworthy your Observa- 'tion) of some other Sorts of Bearing than 'have been hitherto spoken of; for that I would 'not willingly omit any Thing worthy of note, 'that may serve for your better Information: 'For I had rather you were ill furnished at 'my Hands, than that I should leave you altoge- 'ther unfurnished. The Things that I purpose to 'note unto you in this Place, are briefly these; to 'wit, That there are some Coat-Armours, whose 'Fields (besides their grand Charge) do admit some 'petty Charge to be annexed to the primar Charge 'Others there are, wherein the Field being freed 'of such petty Charges, the same are imposed 'upon the Charge it self. Hence it is, that we 'have so many Lyons and other living Things 'born Gutté, Billetté, Escalloppé, Pelletté, &c. 'as by those that ensue in Part may be seen.

'The Field is Dia- 'mond, a Lyon rampant 'between eight crosses 'Crosslets Pearl. This 'Coat-Armour pertain- 'eth to the ancient Fami- 'ly of Long of Wiltshire, 'whereof that Honoura- 'ble and vertuous Baron- 'ness, the Lady Russel, 'sometime Wife to the late Right Honourable 'and thrice-worthy Sir William Russel, Lord 'Russel of Thornehaw, deceased, was descended; 'whose several Vertues deserve to be published 'by a more skilful Pen. Yet can I not but shew 'my dutiful Affection unto them for many 'those honourable Respects touching my own 'Particular.

"Or, a Lyon rampant "between eight cross "Crosslets Azure, by the "Name of Bonnel of Nor- "folk.

Argent, Semé of Cross Crosslets, and a Lyon rampant Sable, was born by Nicholas Levet, M. A. and sometime of Baliol College, afterwards Minister of Westbourne in Sussex, Son of William Levet of Petworth in the said County, Gent. which Nicholas dy'd at his House in Halywell, in the North Suburbs of Oxon, on Sunday the 17th of April 1687, aged 64. He was buried the next Day in the Chancel of Beckley in the County of Oxon, near to the Grave of —— Izod, his Wife's Father.

The Issue that he had by his Wife Dorothy, Daughter of —— Izod beforementioned, were first, Nicholas Levet, a Merchant of Spanish Commodities in London; second, John Levet, A. M. of Baliol College; third, ——— the Wife sometime of Henry Pierrepont, Esq; at that Time Student in St. Edmund's Hall, Son of George Pierrepoint of Old Coates in the County of Derby, Esq; next Pretender to the Title of Earl of Kingston upon Hull ———

Dorothy Izod alias Shillingworth, Widow of Nicholas aforementioned, dy'd in Halywell the Beginning of August 1694, and was buried by her Husband.

Azure, Semé of Cross Crosslets fitché Or, and a Lyon rampant gardant Argent, was the Coat of —— Dalton of Myton in Yorkshire.

Azure, Semé of Cross Crosslets fitché, and a Lyon rampant Or, a Chief of the Second, is born by the Name of Jordan, and is the Coat-Armour of William Jordan of Chiterne and Whitley in the County of Wilts.

"Azure, Semé of Fleurs "de Lis Or, a Lyon ram- "pant Argent, and is born "by Nevil Pool of Oakley "in Wiltshire, Esq;

Argent, Semé of Fleurs de lis and a Lyon rampant Sable, was confirmed by Sir Gilbert Dethick Garter, the 24th of March 1578, in the 21st

Year of the Reign of Queen Elizabeth, to William Buckminſter, Son and Heir of Richard Buckminſter, eldeſt Son of John Buckminſter of Peterborough, and to all the Poſterity of the ſaid John Buckminſter for ever.

M. S. in Aſhm. No. 834. p. 20.

" Azure, Semé of Fleurs " de lis, a Lyon rampant " gardant Argent, by the " Name of Holland, and " is the Coat-Armour of " Sir John Holland of Quidenham in Norfolk, Ba- " ronet.

Azure, a Lyon rampant gardant, and Semé of Fleurs de lis, Argent, over all a Bendlet Gules, was the Coat of —— Holand of Denton in Lancaſhire.

" He beareth Azure, a " Lyon rampant, between " eight Croſs Croſlets " fitché, three, two, two, " and one, Or, charged " on the Shoulder with a " Creſcent Gules, a Chief " of the Second, by the " Name of Jordane. A " like Bearing to this (the " Chief excepted) hath the Lord Delaware for " his ſecond Coat, which is Gules, cruſulé, bo- " tonné, fitché, a Lyon rampant Argent, by the " Name of Laware, which I do note unto you " for a further Inſtance of ſuch Bearing.

" Argent, Semé de Cinque- " foils Gules, a Lyon ram- " pant Sable, is the Paternal " Coat-Armour of Wil- " liam Pierrepoint of Orton " in Huntingtonſhire, Eſq; " Brother to the Right " Honourable Henry Mar- " queſs of Dorcheſter, &c." and now born by his Grace the Duke of Kingſton, Lord Preſident of the Council.

" Sable, Semé de Cinquefoils a Lyon rampant " Argent, is born by the Name of Clifton.

" The Field is Gules, " two Lyoncels paſſant, " Argent, between nine " Croſſes Croſlets fitché " Or, an Ineſcutcheon of " the Second, charged with " a ſiniſter Hand couped " at the Wriſt as the Firſt, " in Chief one Creſcent " ſurmounted by another " (for a Difference of a ſecond Brother of a " Second) by the Name of Acton; and was " born by Sir William Acton, Knight and Baro- " net, Alderman of the City of London, who " is deſcended of the Actons of Aldenham in the " County of Salop, a Family of good Worth " and Note there. I do here in the Blazon " mention nine Croſs Croſlets fitché, although " the One of them, by reaſon of the Addition " of the ſuperjacent Ineſcutcheon is little diſ- " cerned, and another of them is, by the Cre- " ſcents, ſomewhat obſcured.

" Sol, Semé de Cœur des " hommes Proper, three " Lyons paſſant gardant " Jupiter. This Coat was " born by Swane King of " Denmark, who in the " Year of our Lord 990, " gained the Kingdom, " and compelled King " Æthelred to pay him " Tribute for Twenty " Years, at which Time Hardicanutus, the Da- " niſh King, deceaſing, King Edward was crown- " ed in his Place.

Sable, Semé of Croſs Croſlets fitché, and a Griffon rampant, with Wings diſplay'd Or, was confirm'd by William Flower Norroy, the 20th of September 1574, in the 16th Year of the Reign of Queen Elizabeth, to Richard Marple, Senior, of Edenſtoure, in the County of Derby, Gent.

N. B. In a Poſtſcript was the following Paragraph.

This Patent was procured by Thomas Drury, and by him written with his own Hand, and delivered by me Somerſet, for my Father, Norroy, on Tueſday the 7th of November 1587, in the 29th Year of the Reign of Queen Elizabeth.

M. S. of Grant's in Aſhm.

Gules, Semé of Croſs Croſlets Or, a Caſtle Argent, is born by the Name of Caſtelock, and was confirmed to John Caſtelock of Feverſham in the County of Kent, Gent. by William Segar Garter, the 10th of Auguſt 1614, in the 12th Year of the Reign of King James the Firſt. This Family came to inhabit in Kent (ſaith the Patent) becauſe of their Uncle, who was John Lord Abbot of Feverſham-Abbey, before the Suppreſſion.

Azure,

" Azure, Semé of Croſs " Croſlets, and 3 Cinque- " foils Argent. This is the " Coat-Armour of the " Right Honourable Ro- " bert D'arcy Earl of Hol- " derneſs, Baron D'arcy, " Meignel and Conyers, deſ- " cended from John Lord " D'arcy and Meignel, " Chamberlain to King " Edward the Third.

It was alſo the Coat of the Honourable Conyers D'arcy, Eſq; made High Steward of his Majeſty's Honour of Richmond Caſtle, and Richmondſhire, chief Bailiff of the Liberty thereof.

Gules, Semé of Croſs Croſlets fitché Or, three Eſcallop-ſhells Argent, was born by George D'avenant, M. A. and Fellow of Oriel College, who dy'd at the Houſe of his Father Dr. Edward D'avenant, Treaſurer of Salisbury, which was at Gillingham in Wilts, the 11th of September 1661, and was there buried.

M. S. of Ant. à Wood's Remarks de Com. Oxon. p. 115.

It was born alſo, with due Difference, by Hugh D'avenant, M. A. and Vice-Principal of St. Alban's Hall, younger Brother to the aforeſaid George D'avenant, Fellow of Oriel; which Hugh dy'd the 4th of March 1667-8, and was buried in Merton-College Church, under the Tower. Their Father, the Treaſurer, dy'd the 12th of March 1679 80, and was buried in Gillingham Chancel, at the Eaſt End on the North Side.

" He beareth Gules, " Cruſulé Or, three Lu- " cies (or Pikes) hauriant " Argent, by the Name of " Lucy, and is born by " Sir Kingſmill Lucy of Fa- " combe in Hantſhire, Ba- " ronet.

' He beareth Argent, a ' Lyon rampant Sable, ' gutte Or, by the Name ' of Bromwich. As this ' Charge is born gutté, ſo ' ſhall the careful Obſer- ' ver find other Charges ' born billetté, pelletté, &c.

(M) Or, a Lyon rampant Sable degutté, by the Name of Mortimer.

Felices

Felices eſſent Artes, ſi de iis ſolummodo Artifices judicarent.

THIS Fourth SECTION Treateth of Coat-Armours formed of Things Artificial; that is, of ſuch Things as are wrought by the Wit, Art, and Endeavour of Man, for the Uſe of Man: Whether we conſider ſuch Artificials as appertain to the Uſe of Civil Life, as the Enſigns of Dignities, both Temporal and Eccleſiaſtical, and of Profeſſions, both Liberal and Mechanical; or elſe as they belong to the Life and Actions Military; for Artificials being made for the Behoof and ſeveral Uſes of Men, they are here propoſed according to the ſeveral Actions and Eſtates of Men.

Scientia non habet inimicum præter ignorantem.

THE TABLE OF The Fourth SECTION.

SECT.

A DISPLAY OF HERALDRY.

SECTION IV.

CHAP. I.

'AS all Natural Things (of which 'hitherto we have treated) were 'made by the powerful Hand of 'the Almighty and All-wise God 'for the Use of Mankind: So did 'God also endue Man with an admirable Power 'infused into him, with a reasonable Soul, 'whereby every Man might invent Ways and 'Means to help himself, and one Man to help 'another by the Benefit of Arts, for the bet-'ter Use of those Things which God and Na-'ture hath provided. In which respects, Art 'is reputed Naturæ Simia, Nature's Ape, for 'imitating those Things which Nature her self 'hath framed, as we see in Painting, Poetry, 'and the like. But we may go further (since 'Art goeth further) and add, That Art is also 'Naturæ Obstetrix, Medica, Leno: Nature's Mid-'wife, in helping her for the safer and better 'producing of her Fruits, as is Husbandry, &c. 'Nature's Physician, in preserving Nature's 'Works, as Architecture, Armature, and Phy-'sick it self: Lastly, Art is Nature's Pandor, in 'setting her out to the most tempting and plea-'sing Fashion, by inventing those Things that 'tend either to the Adorning and Delight, so to 'please the Senses and Fancies with those 'Things, which, in their own Nature, without 'Art, would not be so delightful. And there-'fore Aristotle yieldeth this Reason of the In-'vention of Arts, Quia Natura multipliciter est 'ancilla & multis angustiis oppressa; ideo inventa 'est Ars, ut suppleat defectum Naturæ, Nature is 'much kept under and oppressed like an Hand-'maid, and therefore Arts were invented, to 'supply those Defects of Nature.

'In this Place therefore we intend, from the 'Works of Nature to come to the Works of 'Art, so far forth as they are used in Coat-Ar-'mour. And here we must be born with, if 'we use the Word of Art in its largest Signi-'fication, including all Sciences and Knowledge, 'whether Contemplative or Operative and Pra-'ctick whatsoever; for so one hath defined it, 'Art is the Cunning of doing or teaching any 'Thing by certain Rules [or prescript Forms:] 'And therefore some have thought Arts to be 'ab Artando, Quia artis brevibusque præceptis

'concluditur, becauſe it is compriſed in brief 'and compendious Precepts: Whereas thoſe 'who ſo call it, quia per Artus operatur, for the 'Works of the Limbs or Joynts, they compre-'hend only Arts Mechanical by that Name. 'Some more probably derive it from the Greek 'Word Arete, which ſignifieth Vertue; becauſe 'the perfect Skill or Art of doing any Thing, 'is properly the Vertue of that Action. In 'handling theſe Artificials, I will follow our 'preſcribed Order, and begin with the Enſigns 'of the Actions of Eſtate Civil, and firſt with 'the Higheſt and Sovereign.

'The Field is Jupiter, a 'Crown Mitral, Impe-'rial Sol, garniſhed and 'enriched with ſundry 'precious Gems Proper. 'Theſe Arms do apper-'tain to the City of To-'ledo in Spain. This Sort 'of Crown was deviſed 'to repreſent a two-fold 'Dignity united into One, viz. Sacrifical and 'Imperial (in which reſpect I have given it 'this new-coin'd Form of Blazon:) For in an-'cient Times Emperors and Kings were alſo 'Prieſts, Tanta eſt Sacerdotalis dignitas, &c. (ſaith 'Chaſſa.) So great is the Prieſtly Dignity, that 'in the glorious Times of the Romans, no Man 'might be Emperor or King, but he was to be 'alſo a Prieſt; and thence are they inſtiled in 'their Coins Imperatores, & Pontifices Maximi; 'whence we may ſee, that the Original was 'meerly heatheniſh of the Pope's Uſurpation 'of that Title Pontifex Maximus; ſurely he 'could find in his Heart alſo to ſtile himſelf 'Imperator Maximus, for that high Command 'he challengeth over all Emperors and Kings. 'And though this be now the Enſign of the 'Empire, yet it is rather in poſſeſſion of the 'uſurping Papacy.

'The Field is Mars, a 'Crown Imperial Sol. 'This is called an Impe-'rial Crown, in regard of 'the Imperial Juriſdiction 'and Prerogatives, that 'an abſolute King (to 'whom ſuch a Crown is 'due) hath within his 'Kingdom. The high ri-'ſing of the Diadem doth 'ſignify the Greatneſs and Perfection of ſuch a 'King, from whom there is no Appellation; 'foraſmuch as he acknowledgeth no earthly 'Superior in any Thing pertaining to his Royal 'Juriſdiction; neither oweth he Duty, but on-'ly to the King of all Kings, of whom he hold-'eth by an immediate Right.

"The King's Crown is arched, to ſhew its "Correſpondency to the empyreal Heaven; its "being adorned with precious Stones, as it "were with Stars, does repreſent its Splendor; "and its being lined with Furrs, doth declare "its Honour.

"Crowns, in Times paſt, have been of great "Value, and ſumptuouſly enrich'd with precious "Stones, as we may read, 1 Chron. 20. 2. And "David took the Crown of their King from off his "Head, and found it to weigh a Talent of Gold, "and there were precious Stones in it. And it was "ſet on David's Head.

(M) The Royal Company of Fiſhing; Azure, an Imperial Crown, and thereunder two Herrings in Saltire Or.

(M) Mackgregor; Argent, a Fir-tree growing out of the middle Baſe, ſurmounted of a Sword in Bend, bearing upon the Point an Imperial Crown Proper.

(M) Grant of that Ilk; Gules, three Eaſtern Crowns Or.

The Same is born by Grant of Bellindallock, with the Addition of a Boar's Head couped, between them, Or. Alſo,

(M) Fraſer Lord Lovat, quarters in the ſecond and third Place, with his paternal Coat, Argent, three Eaſtern Crowns Gules.

He beareth Ermine, on a Chief indented Sable, three Eaſtern Crowns Or, by the Name of Earles. This Coat was granted by Sir Edward Walker Garter, the 1ſt of Auguſt 1660, to the Reverend Dr. John Earles, Son of Tho. Earles Gent. ſometime Regiſter of the Arch-biſhop's Court at York. He was Dean of Weſtminſter, and Clerk of the Cloſet to his Majeſty King Charles the Second; and in the Year 1663, made Biſhop of Salisbury.

'The Field is Jupiter, 'a Scepter Royal in Pale, 'inſigned with an Eye, 'Sol. This is the ſecond 'Enſign that is born by 'the Perſon himſelf that 'hath the Exerciſe of 'Royal Juriſdiction and 'Authority. This Coat-'Armour is of diverſe 'Authors vouched to 'have been anciently born by Oryſius, Surnamed 'Jupiter, the juſt Son of Cham, the curſed Son 'of Noah. The Eye betokeneth Providence 'in

'in Government; Oculus enim eſt cuſtos corporis, 'the Eye is the Watchman of the Body, and 'the Scepter ſignifieth Juſtice.

'A Scepter (with many Nations) is holden 'for an eſpecial Enſign of Royal Juriſdiction 'and Authority, and the Extending thereof a 'ſpecial Note of the Placability and Royal Fa'vour of the King; as we may ſee Heſter 15. 14. 'And he held up his golden Scepter, and laid it 'upon her Neck. That the Scepter betokeneth 'Juriſdiction and Authority, it is manifeſt by 'that which is written, Baruch 6. 13. One hold'eth a Scepter, as if he were a Judge of the Coun'try, yet can he not ſlay ſuch as offend him:* Which 'is here ſpoken of the Vanity of the Idols be'forementioned in the ſame Chapter; Now ſhall 'you ſee in Babylon Gods of Silver and of Gold, 'and of Wood, born upon Mens Shoulders to cauſe 'them to fear.

'The Field is Sol, a 'Mound Saturn, envi'roned with a Circle, 'and inſigned with a Croſs 'Avellane Mars. Bara in 'his Book intituled, Les 'Blazonnes des Armories, 'ſetteth down this for 'the Coat-Armour of one 'Chawlas. This Kind of 'Croſs is called a Croſs Avellane, for the Re'ſemblance it hath of a Philbert Nut, which 'in Latin is called Avellana. This alſo is one 'of the Enſigns that repreſenteth the Sove'reign Majeſty and Juriſdiction of a King. By 'the Roundneſs of the Mound, and enſigning 'thereof with the Croſs, is ſignified, That the 'Religion and Faith of Chriſt ought to be re'ceived and religiouſly embraced throughout 'his Dominions, which high Duty is reſiding 'in his own Sovereign Power, and not to be 'derived from any Foreign Spiritual Juriſ'diction.

'He beareth Sol, a 'Cap of Maintenance 'Mars, turned up Ermine. 'A like Cap did Pope Ju'lius the Second ſend with 'a Sword to King Henry 'the Eighth: And after 'him, Pope Leo the Tenth 'gave him the Title, De'fender of the Faith, for 'that he had then lately before written a Book 'againſt Martin Luther. The Bull by which 'this Title was given, is now printed by that 'worthy and famous Antiquary Mr. Selden in 'his Titles of Honour, p. 54, 55, of his laſt Edi'tion. But howſoever the Cap may ſeem then 'and thereof to be firſt called a Cap of Main'tenance; yet certain it is, That the Kings of 'England did, long before that Time, declare 'and profeſs themſelves, Defender of the Faith, 'as by diverſe of their Charters yet extant may 'eaſily appear; and for an Inſtance thereof you 'may read in the Book of the Acts and Monu'ments, that King Richard the Second in his 'Commiſſion (which went forth in the ſixth 'Year of his Reign) uſed theſe Words, Nos 'zelo fidei Catholicæ cujus ſumus & eſſe volumus 'defenſores in omnibus (ut tenemur) moti ſalubri'ter & inducti, &c. p. 441.

'He beareth Luna, a 'Mantle of Eſtate Mars, 'doubled Ermine, ouch'ed Sol, garniſhed with 'Strings faſtened there'unto Fretways depen'dant, and Taſſelled of 'the Same. Theſe Arms 'do pertain to the Town 'of Brecknock. The Man'tle is a Robe of Eſtate peculiar to Emperors, 'Monarchs, Kings and Free Eſtates, and there'of perhaps received his Name, as I here un'derſtand the Same in the ſtrict Conſtruction 'thereof; but taken in the largeſt Signification 'it may repreſent, as well thoſe Kinds of Mantles, 'that (together with ſome Dignity or Juriſdi'ction) Emperors and Kings do communicate 'unto ſuch as they advance to ſome Principa'lity, Dukedom, &c.

'Hitherto of honorary Enſigns, that ſerve 'for a Declaration of the Royal Majeſty or 'Function of an Emperor and King, and are 'worn by the Perſons themſelves that do exer'ciſe Sovereign Juriſdiction over their Subjects 'within their Dominions. To which Enſigns 'I hold it not impertinent to add theſe few At'tires or Ornaments following, viz. Garters and 'Taſſels.

"The Field is Gules, "three Garters buckled "and nowed Argent. This "Coat-Armour pertain"eth to the Family of the "Sydenors. The Garter "here demonſtrated hath "ſome reſemblance to that "which is the proper En"ſign of the Noble So"ciety of the Knights of the moſt Honourable "Order of the Garter, inſtituted by the famous "King Edward the Third.

"He beareth Or, the "Percloſe of three Demi"Garters nowed Azure, "garniſhed of the Firſt. "This was the Coat-Ar"mour of the Family of "the Narboons. For I "find that Richard Nar"boon, Richmond Herald, "who lived in the Time

" of Edward the Sixth, and was afterwards, by " the High and Mighty Prince Thomas, Duke " of Norfolk, Earl Marſhal of England, in the " Beginning of the Reign of Queen Elizabeth, " crowned and created Ulſter King of Arms in " Ireland, bore this Coat-Armour with a Mart- " let Sable, in Chief, for a Difference of a fourth " Brother; and John Narboon, Richmond Herald, " who lived in the Time of King Henry VIII. " bore the ſame Coat-Armour alſo, with the Dif- " ference of a Mullet for a third Brother. Though " this Garter be dimidiated, or ſevered into two " Halves, yet doth the moſt permanent Part " thereof remain, which is that buckled and " nowed Part of the Same, which detaineth " and reſtraineth the Garter being entire, or " howſoever dimidiated from diſſolution, inaſ- " much as the Buckle and interlacing thereof, " and of the Pendant, are the chief Stay and " Faſtening thereof, whether the Same be whole, " dimidiated, or howſoever.

" He beareth Gules, 3 " Taſſels Or, by the Name " of Wooler. The Mantle " of Eſtate, which even " now I ſhewed you " was garniſhed (as you, " may remember) with " Strings Taſſeled, which " Kind of Taſſeling is an " addition to diverſe other " Strings or Cordons, as " thoſe uſed about the Habit of the Prince of " Wales at his Creation, and of a Knight of the " Garter, when he hath the whole Habit on, " and to the Prelate of the Garter and others.

Ermine, a Feſs Nebulé Gules, on a Canton of the Second, a Ducal Coronet Or, is born by the Name of Norbone, and was aſſign'd by Sir Edward Walker Garter, the 14th of July 1660, to Walter and John Norbone of Coln in the County of Wilts, Sons of Walter Norbone of the ſame Place, and Reader and Bencher of the Inner-Temple, London, whoſe ſingular Fidelity, Zeal, and Conſtancy to the Cauſe of the Royal Martyr King Charles the Firſt, by boldly aſſerting his Authority in oppoſition to the late Grand Rebellion, procured this Coat for his Sons, he not living till the happy Reſtoration, to receive ſuch Advancement as otherwiſe according to his ſignal Merit he would have found.

' The Field is Jupiter, ' three Crowns in Pale ' Sol. Belinus King of this ' our Britany, having con- ' quered France, Almain, ' all Italy, and the City ' of Rome, together with ' all Greece, he returned ' into this Land, and aſ- ' ſumed unto himſelf new ' Arms (as Upton reporteth) Tres Coronas au- ' ratas in Campo Azoreo, quia ipſe fuerat terna ' vice in diverſis Regnis coronatus: Three Crowns ' Or, in a Field Azure, becauſe he was three ' Times crowned King in ſundry Kingdoms. ' But this Kind of Crown is now held proper ' to ſuch a King as oweth Homage or Fealty to ' ſome other King, as to his ſuperior Lord: In ' which reſpect ſome have given it the Name of ' a Crown Homager.

' It is in your Choice, whether you will term ' the foreſaid Crowns, Or, or not; for it ſuffi- ' ceth only to mention their Form, becauſe it ' is proper to them to be made of Gold: But ' when they are found to be born in other Kind ' of Metals or Colours, you ſhould, in blazon- ' ing, make mention whereof they are.

Azure, a Feſs dancetté between three Ducal Coronets Or, is born by the Name of Curtis, and was confirm'd to John Curtis of London, Gent. Son of William Curtis of Hatton in the County of Warwick Gent. Son of Euſtace Curtis of Maleſtack in the ſaid County, Gent. Son of William, who was Son and Heir of John Curtis of Maleſtack aforeſaid, Gent. by Sir Richard St. George Clarencieux, the 9th of May 1632, and in the 8th Year of the Reign of King Charles I.

Azure, a Chevron Vairé Argent and Gules, between three Ducal Coronets, within a Bordure engrailed Or, is born by the Name of Mayhewe, and was confirmed to Robert Mayhewe of Clippesby in the County of Norfolk, Gent. by William Hervey, Eſq; Clarencieux, the 9th of November 1563, in the 5th Year of the Reign of Queen Elizabeth.

' He

" He beareth Gules, " three Crowns Ducal " Or, on a Chief of the " Second as many Laurel Leaves Proper, by " the Name of Berken- " head; and is the Coat- " Armour of Sir John " Berkenhead, Kt. Ma- " ster of Requests to " his Majesty, and Ma- " ster of the Faculties.

He beareth Sable, a Lyon rampant between three Mural Coronets Or, by the Name of Walthew. This Coat was assign'd by William Camden Clarencieux, the 10th of January 1611, to Robert Walthew of Deptford, in the County of Kent, Serjeant-Confectioner to King James I.

' Now of those other honorary Ensigns that ' are born before an Emperor or King, or Per- ' sons that do exercise Sovereign Jurisdiction ' as their Vicegerents, holding Place of Su- ' preme Dignity under them, in signification ' of that their Dignity which, for brevity sake, ' I will here only name, leaving their Exam- ' ples to be hereafter observed. Such are the ' Sword of Estate, the Canopy of Estate, the ' Cap of Maintenance, the Purse wherein the ' Great Seal is born, the Great Mace, &c. All ' which shall follow hereafter in Place con- ' venient.

CHAP. II.

' HAVING in the former Chapter dis- ' cours'd of Things Honorary, repre- ' senting Estate or Dignity Temporal; let us ' now consider of such Ornaments as bear a ' Representation of Estate or Dignity Eccleasi- ' stical, according to the Distribution thereof, ' of which Sort are these ensuing Examples.

' The Field is Gules, a ' Papal Infula, ensigned ' with a treble Crown ' and a Cross pateé Or, two ' Labels pendant Argent. ' This Kind of Infula or ' Miter is worn by the ' Antichristian Prelate of ' Rome, to signify the ' three-fold Jurisdiction ' that he doth arrogate to himself as Christ's ' Vicar-General in Heaven, in Earth, and in ' his supposed Purgatory. Guido Duke of Urbin ' in Italy, who was elected Knight of the most ' Honourable Order of the Garter, Anno 23. ' Hen. 7. did bear this Coat quartered next to ' his own. As touching the Installation of this ' Duke, Sir Gilbert Talboi, Kt. Sir Richard Bere ' Abbot of Glastenbury, and Dr. Robert Sher- ' bourne Dean of St. Pauls, being sent Ambassadors ' to Rome, unto Pope Julius, did bear the Col- ' lar and Habit of this Order unto the Duke; ' who receiving the Same, sent Balthasar Casta- ' lio, Kt. (a Mantuan born) to the King, which ' Balthasar was installed in his room according ' to the usual Ordinance.

' The Field is Argent, a ' Cardinal's Hat, with ' Strings pendant and plat- ' ted in True-love, the ' Ends meeting in Base ' Gules. These are the ' Arms of Sclavonia, a Re- ' gion in the Sea Hadria- ' ticum, commonly cal- ' led Windeshmarke. Pope ' Innocentius the Fourth, ordain'd, That Cardi- ' nals should wear red Hats, whereby he would ' signify, that those that entred into that Order, ' ought to be prepared to expose themselves even ' to the Shedding of their Blood, and hazard of ' their Lives (if need so required) in the De- ' fence of the Ecclesiastical Liberty. And this ' Institution was made (according to Chassan.) ' at the Council holden at Lyons, 1273. But ' they have ever since so far digressed from it, ' as that they have more justly deserved that ' Censure of a learned Man, thus:

' Semiviros quicunque patres radiante Galero
' Conspicis, &c.

' Whoever marks our carnal Cardinals Weeds,
' Their Hat and pendant Robe of purple Stain;
' Believe me, 'tis no crimson Juice which breeds
' This sanguine Hue, nor costly scarlet Grain:
' But 'tis the guiltless Blood of martyr'd Saints,
' Wherein their thirsty Vestures they have dy'd;
' Or else 'tis blushing which their Weeds depaints,
' As shaming at the shameless Beasts they hide.

' The

'The Field is Jupiter, 'a Staff in Pale Sol, and 'thereupon a Cross patè 'Luna, surmounted of a 'Pall of the Last, charged 'by four other like Cross'es fitched Saturn, edged 'and fringed as the Se'cond. This Coat belong'eth to the Archiepiscopal 'See of Canterbury, which hath annexed with 'it the Title of Primate and Metropolitan of 'all England; to whose high Place it of Right 'appertaineth to Crown and Inaugurate the 'Sovereign Monarchs of this Kingdom. This 'Ornament is called in Latin Pallium, Quia ex 'plenitudo dignitatis Archiepiscopatus in gestante, 'palam fit omnibus. What a Pall is, Chassanæus 'sheweth in these Words, Pallium est quoddam 'ornamentum ad modum Stolæ Sacerdotalis cum 'quibusdam crucibus nigris contextis, quod defertur 'super alia ornamenta, circundans pectus & humeros, 'ad modum coronæ dependens. In ancient Time 'it was (through the intolerable Pride and Ty'ranny of the Roman Bishop) not lawful for 'any to take upon him the Title of an Arch'bishop, before he had received from the Pope 'this Ornament which we call a Pall, and that 'was reckoned to be a manifest Demonstration 'of the Lawfulness and Fulness of his Archie'piscopal Jurisdiction. Besides, he was to take 'a corporal Oath to hold Faith and Obedience 'to the Church of Rome at the Receiving of 'this Pall. No Man ought to lend his Pall 'to any other, but contrariwise the same to be 'buried with the Possessor and Owner.

'He beareth Sable, a 'Miter with two Labels 'pendant Argent, garnish'ed Or. This Coat stand'eth in St. Thomas's Church 'in Nantwich, otherwise 'called Wich Malbanke. 'Amongst the sundry Or'naments ordained for the 'Illustration of the Bi'shop's Dignity, Polydore Virgil reckoneth the 'Miter for One, and affirmeth the Same to 'have been received from the Hebrews. And 'as touching the forked Shape thereof, he wri'teth in this Manner, Addantur bina cornua, 'quoniam Moses acceptis tabulis, quibus Mandata 'Dei inscripta erant, visus est suis cornutus.

'The Field is Gules, on 'a Lyon rampant Argent, 'a Bishop's Crosier in 'Bend sinister Or, born by 'Odo Bishop of Bayon, 'Half-brother to William 'the Conqueror, by whom 'he was created Earl of 'Kent. This Staff (ac'cording to Polydore Vir'gil) was given to Bishops to chastise the Vices 'of the People; and it is called Baculus Pasto'ralis, as given to them in respect of their Pa'storal Charge, and Superintendency over their 'Flock, as well for feeding them with whol'some Doctrine, as for defending them from 'the violent Incursions of the Wolf, wherein 'they do imitate the good and watchful Shep'herd, of whose Crook this Crosier hath a Re'semblance. Besides these Ornaments, the same 'Author speaketh of a Ring given to a Bishop, 'in signification of the Conjunction or Marriage 'of Christ with his Church, whereof the Ring 'is a Pledge; and of his Gloves, that betoken'ed Cleanness of Hands, free from all conta'gious Corruption; and lastly, his Sandals, that 'betokened his industrious Vigilancy over his 'Flock: All which are said to have been insti'tuted by the Decrees of Pope Clement.

'In Blazon here, you shall not say debruised 'or oppressed, both in respect the Crosier ex'tendeth not to the Extremities of the Escu'tcheon, as also in respect of the slender Sub'stance thereof, whereby it may be intended, 'the Lyon may easily free himself thereof, if 'it were extended throughout to the Corners 'of the Escutcheon. Howsoever, most true it 'is, That those who are advanced to the Cal'ling represented by the Crosier, ought to be 'like Lyons, both for Courage and Vigilancy, 'in execution of that great Authority and Juris'diction wherewith Christ and his Church have 'honoured them, for the Repressing of obsti'nate Offenders, and Preservation of the Churches 'Peace and Discipline.

"He beareth Argent, on "a Bend Vert, between "six Cross Crosslets fitched "Gules, three Crosiers, "Or, by the Name of "Weare of Devon. And is "quartered by Fortescue of "Filley. This Coat stand"eth in Weare Church in "Com. prædict.

'To this Head must be referred all other Or'naments properly pertaining to Persons of Ec'clesiastical Dignity or Function. But this is 'sufficient in this Place to shew their Use in 'Coat-Armour.

CHAP. III.

'OF Things artificial born or worn by Per-'sons in Dignity, and represented in 'Coat-Armours, we have spoken in the two 'Chapters preceeding: In this shall be delivered 'Examples of such Ornaments, or Representa-'tions of Dignity, as are born before Persons of 'such Majesty or Dignity, for the more Honour 'of their Place and Calling.

'The Field is Pearl, a 'Sword of Estate in Pale, 'the Point erected Ruby, 'Hilted and Pomelled To-'paz, the Scabbard en-'riched with Stones of di-'verse Kinds, set in Gold-'smiths Work Proper. The 'Manner of Bearing this 'Sword varieth according 'to the several Estates and Dignities of the Per-'sons for whom they are born. But the Same 'is not born before the Head-Officers of Bo-'roughs and other Towns Corporate (saith 'Leigh) comparable to the orderly Bearing 'thereof within his Majesty's Chamber of Lon-'don, by reason of the Want of Judgment there-'in. It is therefore to be observed, that when 'the Sword is born before our Sovereign Lord 'the King's most Excellent Majesty, the Bearer 'thereof must carry the Point thereof direct up-'right, the Blade opposite and near to the middle 'Part of the Forehead. And as to the Form of 'Bearing the Sword before inferior Estates, as 'a Duke, Marquess, Earl, &c. I refer the Rea-'der to the Accidence of Armoury.

'The Field is Jupiter, a 'Mace of Majesty in Bend 'Sol. I call this a Mace 'of Majesty, to distinguish 'the Same from the Mace 'born by a common Ser-'jeant, not only in Form, 'but also in Use; foras-'much as this is born in 'all Solemn Assemblies 'before his Majesty, as also before his High-'ness's Vice-Roys. In like manner the Same is 'born before the Lords Chancellor, Keeper, and 'Treasurer of England, and the Lords President 'of Wales, and of the North Parts, and the Spea-'ker of the Parliament-House in Time of Par-'liament.

'The Bearer hereof is called a Serjeant at 'Arms; whose Office is to attend the Estates 'and Persons aforesaid, for the Execution of their 'Commands, for the Arrests of Traitors, the 'Remove of forcible Entries, and the Appre-'hension of Malefactors. A Man that is under 'Arrest of a Serjeant at Arms, is protected all 'that Time from all other Arrests.

'The Field is Pearl, a 'Purse open, the long 'Strings thereof pendant, 'fretted, nowed, button-'ed, and tasseled Ruby, 'all hatched Topaz, em-'broidered all over with 'the Sovereign Ensigns 'of his Majesty, ensigned 'with a Crown Trium-'phant, and supported of a Lyon guardant and 'an Unicorn, underneath the Same an Escroll. 'This Purse is born before the Lord Chancellor 'and Lord Keeper, as the peculiar Ensign of his 'high Magistracy, whose Office is to mitigate 'the Rigor of the common Laws of the Realm, 'according to the Rule of Equity, and by ap-'position of his Majesty's Great Seal, to ratify 'and confirm the Gifts and Grants of Dignities, 'Offices, Franchises, Priviledges, and Immuni-'nities, Estates in Fee for Term of Life, or for 'Years, granted by his Majesty: As also to cor-'rect and reform whatsoever seemeth to him '(in any of those Grants) either prejudicial to 'his Majesty, his Royal Dignity, Honour, or 'Profit, before he do confirm the Same under 'the Great Seal. He is (according to Chassa-'neus) the King's Vicar; for that (in his Ma-'jesty's Stead) he ordaineth Provincial Gover-'nors, nominateth Judges without Election by 'Voices, and appointeth other Officers of infe-'rior Place and Service. He hath his Name 'à cancellando, of cancelling Things amiss, and 'rectifying of them by the Rules of Equity and 'a good Conscience. Of whose Dignity Polycra-'tus hath this Tetrastich.

'Hic est qui Leges Regni cancellat iniquas,
'Et mandata pii Principis æqua facit.
'Siquid obest populis aut, legibus est inimicum;
'Quicquid obest, per eum desinit esse nocens.

'Of Ornaments representing Dignity born 'before Ecclesiastical Persons, the Chiefest are 'the Cross before exemplified, and the Verge, 'which is born before them in Cathedral Chur-'ches, within their several Jurisdictions, which 'I leave to each Man's own Observation.

CHAP. IV.

'TO theſe honorary Enſigns, as well Tem'poral as Eccleſiaſtical, worn by the 'Perſons dignified, and born before them in To-
'ken of Honour, it ſhall not infringe our Order,
'if I add ſuch honourable Donations and Badges
'of Dignity as have in former Ages been be-
'ſtowed by Emperors, Kings, Princes, and 'States upon their Favourites, and upon ſuch
'others as they eſteemed worthy, in reſpect of 'their Merits, to poſſeſs ſome Pledges of their
'Favour, as Teſtimonies of their own Worth;
'in which number are Rings, Chains, Collars,
'Chaplets, and ſuch like. That theſe in for'mer Ages were beſtowed upon Perſons advan-
'ced to Honour, appeareth by many evident
'Teſtimonies both of ſacred and prophane Hi-
'ſtory. Pharaoh minding to advance Joſeph (for
'that he found by Experience that God had
'beſtowed upon him Gifts worthy to be highly 'honoured) put upon his Finger a Ring, and
'about his Neck a Chain of Gold; Detrahens
'Pharaoh (ſaith Moſes) annulum ſuum è manu
'ſua, induit illum in manum Joſephi, jaſſitque illum
'induere veſtes xylinas, & appoſuit torquem aureum
'collo ejus, &c. And as touching Collars of Gold,
'they were beſtowed for Rewards upon ſuch
'as were of the Blood Royal of Kings, or ſuch
'as were near of Alliance unto them, as appear-
'eth in the firſt Book of Maccabees; Fuitque,
'ut audivit Alexander Rex ſermones iſtos, ut am-
'pliore honore Jonathanem afficeret, mittens ei au-
'ream fibulam, ut mos eſt dari cognatis Regum, &c.
'Of theſe laſt mentioned Ornaments, Rings are
'moſt uſually born in Coat-Armour.

'He beareth Sable, 3
'Gem-Rings Or, enrich-
'ed with Turkeſſes Pro-
'per.

(99) Gules, three Annulets Or, enrich'd with a Saphire-ſtone Proper, by the Name of Eglington. This Coat is carried as the ſecond Quarter in the Atchievement of Montgomery of Eglingtoun.

Azure, a Dove Argent, beak'd and leg'd Gules, between 3 Annulets Or, each enrich'd with a Ruby Proper, is born by the Name of Bevan, and was granted to William Bevan of Pen-y-Coed in the County of Caermarthen in South Wales, Eſq; High Sheriff of the ſaid County; and to his two Brothers, viz. Theophilus Bevan, Student in the Law, and Thomas Bevan, D. D. by Sir Thomas St. George Garter, and Sir Henry St. George Clarencieux, the 1ſt of June 1695, and 7th Year of the Reign of King William III.

'The Romans having loſt three great Battels
'to Hannibal, one at Ticinum, another at Tre-
'beia, and the Third at Thraſimene; Mago, his 'Brother, went to Carthage to make report of 'his happy Victories to his Country-men there:
'And for Approbation thereof, he poured forth
'before the Senate (as ſome report) above a
'Buſhel full; and, as others write, above three
'Buſhels and an half full of Rings, which had 'been taken from the Roman Knights. And
'though Cuſtom and Time hath made the Ring
'a common Ornament for every mechanick
'Hand; yet, of Right, none ſhould uſe them,
'but ſuch as either Blood, Wars, Learning,
'or Office and Dignity have made capable
'thereof.

"The Lacedemonians waging Battle againſt
"the Meſſeni, a People of Peloponneſus in Greece,
"to the End their People that deceaſed in the "Wars, ſhould have Funeral Rites, and not be
"expoſed (unburied) to all Caſualties, they had "certain Rings about their Arms, wherein their "Names were engraven.

"The Ring is a Type or Repreſentation of "Fidelity, as appeareth in the ſacred Writs of
"the Egyptians; for the Ancients did not wear
"Rings on their Fingers ſo much for Ornament
"or Oſtentation, as for Uſe of Sealing, in re"gard that the Seal gave a better Approbation
"than the Writing did, concerning the Validi-
"ty and Verity of the Charter: Therefore in
"After-ages Men uſed to fortify their laſt Wills
"and Teſtaments with ſeven manual Seals, or "Rings manual, of Witneſſes called thereto, to
"ſignify the Verity and Validity thereof. Here-
"of came that Saying of Cicero ad Quintum
"fratrem, Annulus tuus non miniſter alienæ vo-
"luntatis, ſed teſtis tuæ.

(99) Gules, a Feſs Or, between two Lillies ſlip'd in Chief Argent, and an Annulet in Baſe of the Second, by the Name of Kello.

He beareth Or, on a Chevron Sable, three Lyons rampant Argent, in the dexter Chief Point an Annulet of the Second, by the Name of Leigh. This Coat was aſſigned by Patent by William Camden Clarencieux, in July Anno 1609, to to William Leighe of Sutton, in the County of Surry.

Argent, two Annulets braced in Fess Gules, between three Crosses formé Sable, was confirmed by William Flower Norroy, the 4th of February 1582, in the 25th Year of the Reign of Queen Elizabeth, to John Thornhagh of Fenton in the County of Nottingham, Esq;

M. S. in Ashm. Numb. 834.

" He beareth Diamond, " on a Bend cottised Ruby, " a Rose between two An- " nulets Pearl; and is the " Coat-Armour of the " Right Honourable Ed- " ward Lord Viscount Con- " way, and Baron of Rag- " ley in England, Viscount " Conway of Kilultagh in " Ireland, Lieutenant-Ge- " neral of the Horse, and one of the Lords of " his Majesty's most Honourable Privy Council " for the said Kingdom of Ireland, &c.

' This Coat, with the Arms of Ulster, is also ' born by Sir Henry Conway of Botringham in ' Flintshire, Baronet.

(99) Or, three Annulets Gules, by the Name of Hutton.

Argent, on a Bend Sable, three Annulets Or. This was the Bearing of Laurence Saintloe, M. A. and Fellow of New College, who dy'd the 6th of July 1675, aged 26, and was buried in New College Cloyster. He was (saith Wood) Son of Lawrence Saintloe, born of a gentile Family.

M. S. of Ant. à Wood's Remarks de Com. Oxon. p. 130.

He beareth Argent, on a Fess Sable, three Annulets Or, by the Name of Wildegos. This Coat was confirm'd or allow'd to John Wildegos of Iredge in the County of Essex, Esq; by Robert Cook Clarencieux, Anno 1586.

Note, That Mr. Wildegos did shew a good Seal wherein this Coat was by the Name of Wildegos, the Evidence bears date so far as King Edward the Third.

Argent, a Chevron Gules, charg'd with another Ermine, between three Annulets of the Second, was born by Richard Clutton of Shropshire, M. A. and Commoner of Magdalen College, who dy'd the 5th of March 1670-1, aged about 27, and was buried in the Outer-Chappel of that College, under the Pulpit, the 11th of the said Month. He had his Estate in his Hand, and was (as Mr. Wood thought) the Head of his Family. He was Son of Richard Clutton of Namptwich in Cheshire, Gent. and proceeded M. A. and was grand Compounder 1667.

M. S. of Ant. a Wood's Remarks de Com. Oxon. p. 121.

Gules, on a Fess between three Crosses paté Or, as many Annulets Azure, is born by the Name of Crane, and was confirmed to John Crane Clerk of the Kitchen to King James I. Son of John, the Son of William Crane of London, by William Camden Clarencieux, Anno Dom. 1606.

Argent, three Barrs Azure, in Chief as many Annulets Gules, is born by the Name of Cooke, and was confirm'd to Sir Richard Cooke, Principal Secretary of State in Ireland, and Chancellor of the Exchequer there, Son and Heir of William Cook of Great Linford in the County of Bucks, Gent. a Descendant of the ancient Family of Cooke in Linc. by William Camden Clarencieux, the 20th of July 1612, in the 10th Year of the Reign of King James the First.

He beareth Argent, on a Bend cottised Sable, 3 Annulets Or, within a Bordure engrailed Gules. by the Name of Selwyn. This Coat was assign'd by William Camden Clarencieux, by Patent, in May Anno Domini 1611, to ..... Selwyn of Freston in the County of Suffex.

Vert, a Lyon passant Or, armed and langued Gules, between three Annulets Argent, was confirmed unto Nicholas Herman of Middleton Stony in the County of Oxford, by Sir William Segar, Garter, the 10th of December 1630.

" Argent, three Cinquefoils Gules, each Leaf charg'd with an Annulet Or, by the Name of Southwell, and is the Paternal Coat-Armour of Sir Robert Southwell, Kt. one of the Clerks attending his Majesty in his most Honourable Privy Council; whose Family is now seated at Kingsale in the Kingdom of Ireland, but were formerly of Woodrising in Norfolk, and were anciently of the Town of Southwell in the County of Nottingham.

This Coat in a Bordure Gules —— was granted to Richard Southwell of St. Faith's in the County of Norfolk, by Sir Gilbert Dethick Garter, and Robert Cook Clarencieux, the 15th of December 1568.

Vid. M. S. of Grants per Dethick, Flower, and Cook, in the Ashmol. Lib. in Oxon.

" He beareth Gules, on a Fess Ermine, between three Annulets Or, a Lyon passant Azure, by the Name of Underwood, and is born by Edward Underwood of the City of London, Gent.

He beareth Or, on a Chevron Sable, three Annulets Argent, in Chief two Lyons passant of the Second, by the Name of Taylor. This Coat was assign'd by William Segar to Edward Taylor of Girdlers-hall, London.

Her. Off. Lond. C. 24. fo. 148. a.

Vert, on a Chevron ..... between three Annulets ..... as many Eagles display'd ..... is sent to me as the Bearing of Mr. Richard Minifie of Honiton in the County of Devon, or of Sarum in the County of Wilts. I find it to be the Coat of Minifie of the West.

Argent, on a Chevron between three Turfs or Hillocks with Grass Proper, each charg'd with an Annulet of the Field, a Crescent for Difference, is born by the Name of Tyldsley. This was the Coat of William Tyldsley, Esq; who dy'd the 21st of June in the Year 1563, and lieth buried in Burnham Church.

M. S. in Ashm. Num. 844.

Azure, a Cross flory between four Annulets Or, belong'd to Thomas Ward of Little Abbington in the County of Kent, who married Martha, Daughter of Hugh Lancaster of Withersfeild in the County of Suffolk, and had Issue Thomas Ward Son and Heir, aged three Years Anno 1619, and Dorothy a Daughter.

The aforesaid Thomas was third Son of Thomas Ward of Carleton Curtue in the County of Leicester, by his Wife Alice, Daughter of William Burton of Branston in the County of Rutland; which Alice bare to her said Husband (besides the aforesaid Thomas) George Ward of Carleton, eldest Son and Heir, who married Jane, Daughter of John White of Marston Tressell in the County of Northampton, and John Ward, second Son, who married Mary Daughter of ..... Halton, Serjeant at Law.

Note, That the abovementioned Thomas Ward of Carleton Curtue, was Son and Heir of John Ward of the same Place, by his Wife —— Daughter of —— Asbbie of Quenby in the County of Leicester.

He beareth Gules, a Saltire between four Annulets Or, by the Name of Shalcross. This Coat, with a Mullet Gules, for a Difference, was assign'd by William Segar to Humfry Shalcross of the City of London.

Her. Off. London, C. 24. fo. 19. b. & 505. a.

" He beareth Or, 6 Annulets, 3, 2, and 1, Sable, by the Name of Lowther, and is born by Sir John Lowther of Lowther-hall in Westmoreland, Bart. whose Family hath there flourished beyond any Record; and do reckon thirty Descents lineally from Father to Son, and all, or the greatest Part, Knights. Which said Sir John is Grandfather of John Lowther, Esq; who is Heir to the Estate and Dignity of the said Sir John by the Death of his Father, the eldest Son of Sir John, who married one of the Daughters and Co-heirs of Sir Henry Billingham of Levenes in Westmoreland, Baronet, deceased. This Coat is also born by Sir John Lowther of Whitehaven in Cumberland, Bart. by Anthony Lowther of Maske in Cleaveland, in the North Riding of Yorkshire, Esq; and by diverse other worthy Gentlemen, Branches of the said Family.

" Gules, six Annulets Or, by the Name of Newport.

" Azure,

" Azure, six Annulets, three, two, and one, " by the Name of Musgrave; and is born by " Sir Philip Musgrave of Musgrave and Harcle- " Castle in Westmoreland, Bart. who hath Issue " Richard, Sir Christopher, Kt. and Thomas; and " by Edward Musgrave of Ashbey in the said Coun- " ty, Esq; These are called Annulets in respect " of their small quantity, wherein they differ " from the bigger Sort, and do thereupon re- " ceive the Name of Diminution, and are sup- " posed to be the Rings of Maile, which (ac- " cording to Leigh) was an Armour of Defence " long before the hard Temper of Steel, and " was devised by Missius Massinus, and then cal- " led an Habergion, for the Nimbleness thereof: " Some others take these to be Diminutives of " the former Rings. And so from Examples " of Artificials representing Dignities, I proceed " to Artificials annexed to Professions or Arts " of all Sorts.

CHAP. V.

' WE now come to Coat-Armours beto- ' kening or borrowed from the Arts ' Liberal; which (according to Joh. de Tur. Cre- ' mat.) are so denominated for three Respects: ' First, Quia liberam mentem requirunt, to put a ' Difference between them, and those mecha- ' nical Sciences wherein Artificers do more ex- ' ercise their Limbs than their Minds. Second- ' ly, They are called Liberal, in regard they ' are attained without any Impeachment of Cre- ' dit, or Cauterize of Conscience. Thirdly, For ' that in Times past, only the Children of no- ' ble and free-born Persons were admitted to ' be instructed and trained up in them. Pa- ' tricius saith, That Arts Liberal are so termed, ' Quia liberos homines efficiunt ab omni turpi & ' sordido quæstu, &c. Because they make Men to ' be of liberal and ingenuous Minds, free from ' base and sordid Covetousness and sensual De- ' lights, ennobling them with true Wisdom ' (the most noble Endowment of Mankind) ' whereby Men are as it were link'd unto God, ' and made most like unto him.

' And this, especially, is effected by that high ' and heavenly Art, Theology; a Science not ' invented by Man, but proceeding from the ' Eternal Wisdom of the Almighty, whereunto ' all other Arts are but Handmaids; in which ' respect the Professors thereof are by Right, ' and also by common Consent of best approved ' Heralds, to have the Precedency of all world- ' ly Professions whatsoever. And this celestial ' Science tending to the eternal Happiness of ' the Soul, is accompanied with two other Fa- ' culties of great Esteem (though inferior to the ' Former) which are Physick and Law; the One ' respecting the Good of our Body (and there- ' fore worthily to have the next Place after our ' Souls) the Other tending to our outward ' Estates of Fortune, which are not to be neg- ' lected of the Wisest. And these three we call ' the Cardinal Sciences, because of their great ' Necessity and noble Use above the other seven ' Liberal Sciences.

' One Example I will give you, which shall ' comprehend all the Liberal Sciences jointly, ' which is this next following.

' The Field is Jupiter, ' a Book expansed in Fess ' Luna, garnished, having ' seven Labels with Seals ' Sol, and this Inscription, ' Sapientia & Felicitate, ' Saturn, between three ' Crowns of the Third. ' This Coat-Armour per- ' taineth to the famous ' University of Oxford; the Bearing whereof ap- ' peareth to be very ancient, by that which is ' ingraven in the Top of St. Sampson's Church ' in Creklade in Gloucestershire, where that Uni- ' versity in the Old Britain's Time (as is ' thought) was first planted. The Book it self ' some have thought to signify that Book men- ' tioned in the Apocalyps, having seven Seals: ' But these here are taken rather to be the seven ' Liberal Sciences, and the Crowns to be the ' Reward and Honour of Learning and Wis- ' dom; and the Triplicity of the Crowns are ' taken to represent the three Cardinal Profes- ' sions or Faculties before specified. The In- ' scription I find to vary according to Variety ' of Times: Some having Sapientia & Felicitate, ' Wisdom and Happiness; others (and that very ' ancient) Deus illuminatio mea, The Lord is my ' Light; others this, Veritas liberat, bonitas reg- ' nabit, Truth frees us, Godliness crowneth us: ' And others thus, In principio, &c. In the Be- ' ginning was the Word, and the Word was ' with God. This one Escutcheon may serve ' for a Pattern of all the other Sciences, yet of ' some of the Rest I will give Instance.

He beareth Argent, 3 Books (I suppose Bibles) Gules, Leaves, Clasps, and Bosses Or, by the Name of Paynter. This Coat was assign'd to John Paynter of Sprole, Gent. Son of Robert Paynter, Gent. by William Segar, the 4th of July 1609.

Int. M. S. P. le Neve, Norroy.

Gules, on a Feſs between three Billets Argent, as many Lyoncels paſſant guardant of the Field, was confirm'd to Edward Oldeſworthe and his Brethren, Sons of Nicholas Oldeſworthe of Palton's Court in the County of Glouceſter, Eſq; by Sir Gilbert Dethick Garter, and —— —— the 15th of June 1569.

M. S. of Grants in Aſhm. Num. 844.

Argent, on a Croſs ragulé Sable, five Billets of the Field, is born by the Name of Pettyward, and was aſſign'd by Patent, dated the 16th of July 1660, in the 12th Year of the Reign of King Charles the Second, to John Pettyward of London, Merchant, (Son of Roger Pettyward, the Son of John Pettyward of St. Edmondsbury in Suffolk) by Sir Edward Walker Garter; the ſaid John, Merchant, having in his Station expreſs'd his Zeal for the Intereſt of his Majeſty, and happy Reſtoration.

Azure, a Bend Argent, between ſeven Billets Or, four and three, is born by the Name of Smith, and was confirm'd to Edmond Smith of Middleſex, Gent. (Son and Heir of Robert Smith of Tudenham in the County of Suffolk, Son and Heir of Robert of St. Edmondsbury in the ſaid County, Gent.) by William Hervey Clarencieux, the 5th of May 1561, and 3d Year of the Reign of Queen Elizabeth.

" Diamond, a Bend en-
" engrailed between ſix
" Billets Pearl. This is
" the Atchievement of the " Right Honourable Wil- " liam Lord Allington, Ba-
" ron of Killard in Ire-
" land, &c. and dwelling
" at Horſe-heath in Cam-
" bridgeſhire.

Gules, a Feſs Vaire, between ſix Billets Or, is born by the Name of Harlow, and was aſſign'd by Patent to Pedach Harlow of Gray's Inn in the County of Middleſex, Eſq; (Son of Robert Harlow of Preſton in the County of Northampton) by Sir William Segar Garter, the 8th of September 1629.

Int. M. S. L. Crotnp, Eſq; York Herald.

Argent, a Feſs between ſix Billets, was born by Martin Aylworth of Borne, in the Dioceſs of Oxford, Doctor of the Civil Law, and Fellow of All Souls, who dy'd in All Souls College at Twelve at Night, the 11th of January 1657-8, and was buried in the Chappel of the ſaid College, aged about 70, but never married. He was Son of Anthony Aylworth Doctor of Phyſick, ſometime King's Profeſſor of Phyſick in this Univerſity, who married (as Mr. Wood conceived) the Daughter of Dr. Walter Bayley, ſometime King's Profeſſor of Phyſick alſo in the ſaid Univerſity —— See their Epitaphs, &c. in Wood's Hiſt. & Antiq. Ox. Univ. p. 152. col. 2.

M. S. of Ant. à Wood's Remarks de Com. Oxon. p. 93.

Argent, ſix Billets Sable, three, two, and one, on a Chief of the Second, a Lyon paſſant Or, armed and langued Gules, was the Arms of Sir Robert Jeffery, Kt. one of the Sherriffs of London.

Gules, ſix Billets, three, two, and one, Or, on a Chief of the Second, a Lyon paſſant Vert, is born by the Name of Fawether, and was confirmed or granted to Joſias Fawether of Briſſet in Suffolk (late of Henly upon Thames) by Sir William Segar Garter.

" very Words; in the mean Time, I, for the " eaſier underſtanding of that Place of the Ma-

" the Difference between Billets and Billette,
" which is this. If the Number of the Billets
" born in one Eſcutcheon be Ten, or under;
" then you muſt in blazon of ſuch a Coat-Ar-

" or Colour, and ſo many Billets, as in this " preſent Coat-Armour of Cowdrey I have done: " But if the Number of Billets exceed ten, then " you may tell the Colour or Metal of the Field, " and then ſay Billette, as in this next Example " is more plainly demonſtrated.

" He beareth Argent, " Billette Sable, by the " Name of Belvale.

" The Field is Pearl, " Billette Ruby, a Croſs " engrailed of the Se- " cond. This was the " Paternal Coat-Ar- " mour of that wor- " thy Judge Sir Robert " Heath, Kt. And " now, according to my Promiſe, I will ſhew " you, out of the late mentioned ancient French " Manuſcript, the very Words of that Author, " concerning the Bearing of Billets and Billette " in Armoury, and their Difference and Signi- " fication; Billettes ou Billette ſont ung peu plus " longues, que carres & ſont une meſme choſe ſi non " pour difference de nom, les Billes ou Billetts ſe num- " berut; & le Billette eſt ſans nombre; and a little " after, Et eſt Billet ſeneſiance de lettres cloſes qui " ſont communement plus longues qûe lers (I think " he means larges) & en pluſurs pais appellees bil- " les, parles quelles len adiouſte foy credence & con- " noiſſance ſervantes à corps dome, & ſeneſie que " celvi qui premier les porta en armes eſtoit home " hault & bien trenchie de membres, à qui lan adion- " ſtoit foy creance & connoiſſance en ſes parolles, & " en ſes fais & ſegret en ſes affaires. The curious " Frenchmen, I know, will much blame the Or- " thography; but I in this, as elſewhere in the " like Caſe, have, with all the Care I could, " followed the very Letter of the Author pun- " ctually; altho' I know well, that ſince the " Time that this Author wrote, the French have " much varied their Orthographical Form of " Writing.

But Mackenzie differing from this, tells us, p. 48. That Billets are four-corner'd, but are longer in the Sides than at the Ends, they repreſent a Brick, and therefore are called Laterculus by the Latin Heralds. Some ancient Families bear theſe, to ſhew the Antiquity of their Families, as Varreus; for of old, all Houſes were built of Brick; and ſome Families with us, adds he, uſe them, to ſhew their Original was from England, where Brick-Tyles are much uſed.

Argent, a Saltire engrailed between twelve Billets Gules, was the Coat of Robert Heath of Eatonbridge in Kent, who had Iſſue Robert Heath of Micham in Surry, Juſtice of Peace for that County, and Solicitor General to King James the Firſt. He married Margaret, Daughter and Heir of John Miller of Tunbridge in Kent, by whom he had Iſſue Edward, John, George, and Mary, —— living Anno 1623.

Edward married Lucy, Daughter of ..... who dy'd the 16th of May 1645, and was embalm'd in Lead, and laid in the Vault of All Saints Church in Oxford, on the North Side of the Chancel. Ita Reg. Eccleſiæ.

Or, a Saltire engrailed between twelve Billets Sable, was born by ..... Alworth or Aylworth, L. L. D. and Chancellor of the Dioceſs of Oxon, in the Time of Ant. à Wood, viz. about the Year 1667.

M. S. of Ant. a Wood's Remarks de Com. Oxon. p. 114.

Argent, a Feſs dancetté, between twelve Billets Sable, five in Chief and ſeven in Baſe, was the Coat of Mr. John Deyncourt of Yorkſhire.

Gules, Semé of Billets, and three Creſcents Argent, is born by the Name of Culleymore, and was aſſign'd by Patent by William Camden Clarencieux, in January 1611, to John Culleymore of the City of London.

' He beareth Gules, ' Pens Argent, by the ' Name of Cowpen. This ' hath Affinity with the ' Art of Grammar, and is ' therefore here placed. ' The Wiſdom of a learn- ' ed Man cometh by uſing ' well his vacant Time; ' and he that ceaſeth not ' from

'from his own Matters and Labour may come 'by Wiſdom, Eccleſ. 38. 34. In ancient Ages, 'before the Invention of Printing, the only 'Means of preſerving good Arts (without which 'the World had been overwhelmed in Barba-'riſm) was, by this ſilly Inſtrument, The Pen; 'whereby greater Matters in the World have 'been atchieved, than ever could be by Sword, 'or great Canon: And one great Monarch ſaid, 'That he more feared one Blot or Daſh of a learned 'Pen, which might wound his Fame amongſt all his 'Poſterity, than the Armies of his moſt powerful 'Enemies.

'It is a Cuſtom with many Men that are ſlow 'or dull of Apprehenſion, when they ſet them-'ſelves to write of any ſerious Matter, long to 'deliberate with themſelves, how they may 'beſt contrive the Same, and during all the 'Time of their Meditation, to gnaw or bite 'their Pen, whereupon it ſeemeth the Proverb 'grew, Demandere Calamum, which may be ap-'plied to them that beſtow much Time, and 'take great Pains to accompliſh that they un-'dertake. Whom ſhall he teach Knowledge, and 'whom ſhall he make to underſtand the Things that 'he heareth? Them that are weaned from the Milk, 'and drawn from the Breaſts, Iſa. 28. 9. For Pre-'cept muſt be upon Precept, Precept upon Precept, 'Line upon Line, Line upon Line, here a little and 'there a little, Verſe 10.

'The Field is Argent, 'a Penner and Inkhorn 'in Feſs Gules, ſtring'd 'Azure. Theſe are the 'Badges whereby Novi-'ces and Practitioners in 'Learning are known, and 'by Means whereof ma-'ny Men, by long Pra-'ctice and induſtrious Tra-'vel, do attain to ſundry Places of Eminency 'in the Commonwealth, to the great Benefit of 'themſelves, and Good of their Country, and 'oftentimes do merit to be highly rewarded by 'the Sovereign, than which there cannot be a 'greater Spur to good Endeavours, or more be-'neficial for the univerſal Good, for that it re-'turneth with plentiful Intereſt; as a certain 'Author noteth, ſaying, Profeſſoribus atque veris 'bonarum Artium ſtudioſis quicquid tribuitur, &c. 'Whatſoever is beſtowed upon Profeſſors of 'Arts, and thoſe that are truly ſtudious, that 'returneth an hundred fold Benefit to the Com-'monwealth; whilſt every Man performeth 'the Function whereunto he is called; either 'by preaching the Word of God, or by form-'ing ſome politick Courſe of Government, or 'by curing of the Diſeaſed. Where, on the 'contrary Part, that which is beſtowed upon 'counterfeit Profeſſors, idle Maſs-mongers, and 'Monks, doth turn wholly to common Deſtru-'ction of the general Good. Rightly therefore 'did Frederick the Emperor beſtow double Pri-'viledge upon ſuch as imployed their Time and 'Travel in the Practice of good Arts.

Sable, on a Pale Argent, a Greek Ypſilon Gules, was granted and aſſigned by William Camden Clarencieux, the 21ſt of January 1604, and ſecond Year of the Reign of King James the Firſt, to William Clark of London, Gent. for his great Piety and Learning.

Fauſtina E. 1. in Biblioth. Cotton.

'He beareth Argent, a 'Chevron between three 'Text Tees Sable, by the 'Name of Tofte. Letters 'have not had, Originally, 'any one preſcript Form 'of Character, but have, 'in all Ages and Coun-'tries varied their Form 'according to the Conceit 'of their firſt Deviſer, as Bekenhawb noteth, ſay-'ing, Literæ ſunt quædam elementa figurarum ad 'voluntatem inſtituentis factæ, ad notificandum 'vota hominum abſentium, vel tacentium inſtituta; 'Letters were inſtituted to make known the 'Thoughts of Men abſent or ſilent.

"He beareth Ermine, "on a Chief indented "Gules, three Taus Or, "by the Name of Thur-"land; and is the Pater-"nal Coat-Armour of Ed-"ward Thurland, only Son "of Sir Edward Thurland "of Reygate in Surry, Kt. "one of the Barons of his Majeſty's Court of "Exchequer. Sir Edward Byſſhe in his Book of "Heraldry ſaith, That Litera Græca Tau, is the "ancient Coat of the Thurlands; but ſome uſe to "bear them Argent.

'The comfortable Letter among thoſe of an-'cient Time was A, which ſignified Abſolution 'or Pardon: Contrariwiſe the ſad and woful 'Letter was C, which betokened Condemnation 'or Death. The Text Letters are ordained for 'Perſpicuity, that they may eaſily be diſcerned 'afar off. In ſuch was that Viſion written, 'that was commanded to Habakkuk to be put 'in Writing, that it might be legible even to 'him that beheld the ſame running; And the 'Lord anſwered me and ſaid, Write the Viſion, and 'make it plain upon Tables, that he may run that 'readeth it, Habak. 2. 2.

'He

'He beareth Gules, 3 'Text Esses Or, by the 'Name of Kekitmore.

'Commendable was the 'Invention of Artemido- 'rus the Philosopher, who 'read Philosophy to Octa- 'vian Augustus. For when 'he saw him easily incli- 'ned to Anger (to the End he should do no- 'thing rigorously, whereof he should after- 'wards repent) he did admonish him to re- 'hearse the four and twenty Greek Letters; that 'so his momentary Passion (which, according 'to Horace, is a Fury for the Time) might, by 'some like Intermission of Time, be diverted, 'and so vanish away. This Letter S, as it hath 'the Form of a Serpent, so doth it resemble 'their Sound and Hissing. So much for the 'Grammatical Escutcheons.

'Of demonstrable Examples of Instruments 'pertaining to the Arts Liberal, the Number is 'not great, unless it be of such as do peculiarly 'pertain to the Art of Musick. As touching 'the Rest, either they have no material Instru- 'ments at all, for that their Attaining and Ex- 'ercise are altogether in Discipline and Instru- 'ctions by Speech only; as Grammar, Logick, 'Rhetorick, &c. Or, if they have Instruments, 'they are such as are common with them to 'other Professions; as the Rule and Compass, '&c. whereof the Carpenter and Mason have 'Use as well as the Geometrician. As for Globes, 'Spheres, Quadrants, and other Astronomical 'Instruments, I find them not usual in Coat- 'Armour; wherefore I let them pass. The 'Musical Instruments are of three Sorts, where- 'of some are Wind-Instruments, as are the Or- 'gans, Shagbuts, Hautboys, Cornets, Flutes, '&c. The second Sort consisteth in Strings, and 'in the skilful Fingring of them; as are Harps, 'Viols, Rebecks, Virginals, Claricords, Ban- 'dore, Alpharion, Cittern, &c. The third Sort 'consisteth in Striking; as the Taber, Timbrel, 'Ordinary Drums and Kettle-Drums, and such 'others, whereof in another Place.

He beareth Gules, a Chevron between three Claricods Or, by the Name of Arthur. This Coat was assign'd to the Family of Arthur of Essex, by Sir William Segar Garter.

Her. Off. Essex, C. 21. fo. 203. b.

Some call this Kind of Bearing [Rests] making them Part of the Furniture of the ancient Amazons, as a Defence to their Breasts; but the Generality hold them to be Claricords, even in the Arms of Granville.

Gules, a Fess wavy between three Fleurs de Lis Or, was the Coat-Armour of Sir Baptist Hickes of Camden, in the County of Gloucester, second Son of Robert Hicks of the City of London, Esq; who likewise quarter'd these Arms, viz. Gules, a Lyon passant between three Suffles Or.

'The Field is Saphir, 'two Organ Pipes in Sal- 'tire, between four Cros- 'ses pateé Pearl. This 'Coat Armour pertained 'sometimes to the Lord 'Williams of Tame. As 'touching the first finding 'out of Musical Instru- 'ments, it is clear that 'Jubal, the Son of La- 'mech did devise them, as appeareth Gen. 4. 'where it is said, Nomen autem fratris ejus Ju- 'bal, is fuit Author omnium tractantium Cithe- 'ram & Organon.

'He beareth Azure, 3 'Hautboys between as 'many Cross Crosslets Or, 'by the Name of Bour- 'den. Altho' the Harp or 'Organs are only named 'to be the Invention of 'Jubal; yet, we must by 'them understand him to 'have been the first De- 'viser of all other musical Instruments. For so 'doth Tremellius observe in his Annotations up- 'on that Place before alledged, saying, His 'nominibus Synecdochicè comprehendit omnia Instru- 'menta Musica quæ digitis ventoque moventur. Of 'some Wind-Instruments, as the Fife and Trum- 'pet, we shall speak among Military Instru- 'ments.

(G) Gules, on a Bend Or, a Flute of the Field, is the Coat of Elliot of Laringston.

(H) Gules, on a Bend engrail'd Or, a Batton, or, (according to some Authors) a Flute Azure, pertains to Elliot of Stobbs.

Sable, an Harp Argent, string'd Or, with a Crescent for a Difference, is born by the Name of Harpham, and was confirm'd to Robert Harpham of Marfleet in the County of York, Gent. by William Ryley, Esq; Norroy, the 9th of July 1657, being in the late Times of Usurpation; which Grant was revoked by Authority, soon after King Charles the Second's happy Restoration.

He

'He beareth Ermine, 'on a Canton Sable, a 'Harp Argent, by the 'Name of Fraunces. By 'the Harp (saith Pierius) 'Men used, in old Time, to 'signify a Man of a stay'd 'and of a well composed and 'tempered Judgment, be-'cause therein are conjoined 'diverse distinct Sounds in Note or Accent of Ac-'cord. Which Office Man seemeth to perform, 'when he doth moderate and reconcile his dis-'ordering and repugnant Affections unto Rea-'son: And therefore this Instrument was wor-'thily approved in praying and praising of God, 'and used by the godly King David in his most 'devout Meditations.

'He beareth Gules, 3 'Treble Violins transpo-'sed Argent, string'd Sa-'ble, by the Name of 'Sweeting.

This Coat was born by John Sweeting Commoner of Baliol College Oxon, Son of Sweeting of Pick-maller or Brickmaller in the County of Somerset, who died the 11th of April 1673, and was buried in Magdalen Parish Church in Oxon, aged Nineteen. He was a Fellow Commoner.

Mr. Ant. à Wood notes, That afterward there were drawn for his Arms, Gules, gutté Argent, a Chief Ermine, and on that Account seem'd doubtful of his Right; the Family, indeed, use them.

M. S. of Ant. à Wood's Remarks de Com. Oxon. p. 127.

'Diogenes (who for his taunting and crabbed 'Quips did merit the Surname of Cynicus) not 'without Cause, used to tax Musicians in this, 'That they could skilfully tune and accord the 'Strings of their Instruments, but had the Af-'fections of their Mind disproportionable, and 'far out of frame. Under these will I compre-'hend all other Sorts of string'd Instruments 'whatsoever. And now I will proceed to Astro-'nomical Examples.

"King Stephen entring "this Realm, the Sign be-"ing Sagittarius, and ob-"taining a Victory by the "Help of his Archers, as-"sumed to his Arms the "said Sign, and left off "bearing both the Arms "of his Father, Stephen "Earl of Champaine, and "his Grandfather William the Conqueror. Gules, "a Sagittarius Or.

'The Field is Gules, on 'a Bend sinister Argent, 'three of the Celestial 'Signs, viz. Sagittarius, 'Scorpio, and Libra, of 'the First. This Coat is 'said to appertain to the 'King of Spain, in respect 'that he found out an un-'known Climate, under 'which his Indians have 'their Habitation. But in such Conquests it 'were to be wish'd, that as well Justice's Ba-'lance, as Sagittarius his Arrow, or the Scor-'pion's Sting were put in Practice.

'The Field is Argent, 'on a Bend Azure, three 'of the Celestial Signs, 'viz. Gemini, Taurus, 'and Aries Or. This (like 'as the other last Prece-'dent) containeth a fourth 'Part of the Zodiack, and 'hath no Owner, that 'may challenge any Pro-'perty in him, but is 'formed by Imitation of the Former, and may '(doubtless) be as well born as that, Quia ab 'esse ad posse bonum deducitur argumentum, From 'that which is, to that which may be, we may 'well frame a good Argument. It is born, there-'fore it may be born; but of the contrary 'you cannot say, It may be, therefore it is. 'This is another Quarter of the Celestial Zo-'diack.

CHAP. VI.

'THOUGH great be the Difference of 'Dignity and Esteem betwixt the No-'ble and Liberal Professions (before intreated 'of) and those other which we call Mechanical 'and Illiberal; because those are the Objects of 'divine Spirits and understanding Minds, where-'as these are for the most Part but the Employ-'ment of an industrious Hand: Yet, in these 'also, as there is great Use for the Necessity of 'Man's Life; so is there much Reputation for 'the exquisite Varieties of Invention. And al-'tho' they are called Illiberal, Quia liberè exerceri 'non

'non possunt, sine corporis viribus, because they 'cannot be freely practised without bodily La-'bour; yet, in another respect, they may be 'more truly called Liberal, than the Liberal 'Sciences themselves, for that commonly they 'bestow more Wealth on their Professors, whilst, 'as Virtus, so Scientia laudatur & alget. In the 'first Rank of these Illiberals, Reason exacts 'that Agriculture should have Precedence, it 'being the chief Nurse of Man's Life, and 'hath, in the Times of the ancient Romans, been 'esteemed a Profession not unbefitting their great-'est Dictators and Princes: And it was devised 'and put in practice soon after the Creation, 'as appeareth in the Text, where it is said, 'Habel Pastor Gregis, Kaiin verò Agricola; for 'here we understand not only Tillage, but also 'Pastorage, Vintage, and all Kind of Increase 'of Beasts, or Fruits for Food, under this Name 'of Husbandry.

"That Tillage and Husbandry was the First "of all the mechanical Trades (as we now call "them) it is manifest, Gen. 2. 15. Then the Lord "God took the Man, and put him into the Garden "of Eden, that he might dress it, and keep it. "Wherein (saith Zanch.) God would moderate the "Pleasure and Delight that he had given to Adam, "in some Kind of Trade or Course of Life, and ho-"nest Exercise. Whereof Tillage is of all other the "most ancient and commendable, inasmuch as it "was instituted in Paradise, and that in the Time "of Man's Innocency, before he had transgressed.

'Many are the Instruments pertaining to 'Husbandry, I will make choice of some of 'the Chiefest, and of most frequent Use in Coat-'Armour.

'He beareth Azure, a 'Plough in Fess Argent, by 'the Name of Kroge. It 'was the Manner in an-'cient Time, when a City 'was to be built, to limit 'out the Circuit thereof 'by drawing of a Furrow 'with a Plough, as Alex. 'ab Alex. noteth. So was 'it in Use also, when they intended the final 'Destruction of a City, to plough it up, and to 'sow Salt therein: As we read that Abimelech 'having taken the City of Sichem, put the Peo-'ple to the Sword that were therein, destroyed 'the City, and sowed Salt therein; which 'was done (as Tremellius noteth) in Token of 'perpetual Devastation thereof: But that Kind 'of Fracing out their Cities was used as an hap-'py Presage of succeeding Abundance, and Fer-'tility of all Things, which the Citizens should 'stand in need of.

'He beareth Ermine, 'three Harrows conjoyn-'ed in the Nombril of the 'Escutcheon Gules, with a 'Wreath Argent, and as 'the Second, Tooth'd Or, 'by the Name of Har-'row. This is an Instru-'ment of Husbandry, or-'dained for the Breaking 'of Clods after the Husbandman hath ploughed 'and sowed his Land, for the better Preparing 'of the Corn to take Root, and Preservation 'thereof from the Fowls. Moreover, it hath 'been used sometime by Conquerors, to torture 'and torment their Enemies withal, and to put 'them to Death. So we read that David did 'execute the Ammonites his Enemies, where it 'is said, Populum verò qui in ea erat eductum dis-'secuit serrâ, & tribulis ferreis, & securibus; & 'sic fecit David omnibus Civitatibus Ammonita-'rum.

Argent, a Scythe, and in Fess a Fleur de Lis Sa-ble, was the Coat of Ralph Sneyde, who married Mary Daughter of Thomas Chatwey of Jugglethorpe, and by her had Issue William Sneyde Son and Heir, and Elizabeth.

Note, That the said Ralph was Brother of George, and eldest Son of Sir William Sneyde (now, saith Glover, Lord of Brodwell in the County of Stafford, Anno 1566.) by his first Wife Anne, Daughter and Heir of Robert Bar-row of the City of Chester; which said Sir Wil-liam Sneyde was Son of Richard Sneyde of Chester and of his Wife Anne, Daughter of —— Tolf-horst of the same Place; which Richard was the Son of William, who married the Daughter and Heir of —— Ledham, both of Chester afore-said.

M.S. in Ashm. Num. 834. Ped. of the North per Glov.

'He beareth Gules, 3 'Scythes in Pale Barrways 'Argent, by the Name of 'Kempley. The Condi-'tion of this Kind of Men 'is well set down Eccles. '38. 25. How can he get 'Wisdom that holdeth the 'Plough, and he that hath 'Pleasure in the Goad, and 'in driving Oxen, and is occupied in their Labours, 'and talketh but of the Breed of Bullocks? He gi-'veth his Mind to make Furrows, and is diligent to 'give the Kine Fodder.

Argent, on a Bend Vert, three Spades of the Field, their Blades Sable, is born by the Name of Swettenham. This Coat was confirmed by Sir Gilbert Dethick Garter, Robert Cook Clarencieux, and William Flower Norroy, the 9th of February 1568, to Lawrence Swettenham of Somerford in the County of Cheſter.

M. S. of Grants in Aſhm. Num. 844.

Argent, a Chevron between three Lavers, Culters or Plow-ſhares Sable, was confirm'd by William Flower Norroy, the 24th of September 1580, and twenty ſecond Year of the Reign of Queen Elizabeth, to William Lyverſage or Leverſage of Whelock in the County of Cheſter, Eſquire.

M. S. in Aſhm. Num. 834.

'He beareth Gules, 3 'Wheels Or. This was 'the Coat-Armour of Sir 'Payne Roet, Kt. who had 'a Daughter married to 'the famous Engliſh Poet 'Sir Jeffery Chaucer. I find 'in Roman Hiſtory, men'tion of a Husbandman, 'who was accuſed before 'the Magiſtrate for being an Inchanter, for that his 'Grounds were fertil when others were barren. 'A Day being appointed, he promiſed to bring 'forth his Inchantments, and then brought forth 'his Ploughs, Carts, Oxen, &c. ſaying, Hæc mea 'incantamenta, Theſe are my Conjurings: Mean'ing, That his induſtrious Care made his 'Grounds fertil, which others neglecting, found 'the Puniſhment of their Idleneſs.

"The Wheel is called, in Latin, Rota à ro"tunditate; or elſe, as ſome hold, à ruendo, quia "in declive faciliter ruit, becauſe it rolleth "down ſuddenly from the ſteep declining Part "of the Ground.

Or, a Feſs embatteled between 3 Cart-wheels Sable, with a Martlet for a Difference, is born by the Name of Cartwright, and was confirmed unto Timothy Cartwright, Son of William Cartwright of Waſhborne in the County of Glouceſter, Gent. by Sir William Segar Garter, the 20th of May, in the 15th Year of King James the Firſt.

Which Timothy married Penelope, Daughter to the ſaid Sir William Segar, and Widow of Nicholas Charles, Eſq; Lancaſter Herald, from whom deſcended that elegant Architect, Thomas Cartwright, chief Builder of the Royal Exchange, Bow-Church, &c. in London.

He beareth Argent, a Chevron Sable, between three Catherine-wheels Vert, by the Name of Carter. This Coat was aſſign'd by Sir William Segar Garter, by Patent dated the 11th of King James the Firſt, Anno Dom. 1612. to.... Carter of London.

Vide Her. Off. Lond. C. 24. fo. 316. a.

'Other Sorts of Wheels there are, which al'tho' they are not neceſſary for Husbandry, yet 'I have held it fit to annex them to theſe, in 'reſpect of their near Reſemblance, as in theſe 'next Examples may be ſeen.

'He beareth Argent, a 'Croſs Gules, in the firſt 'Quarter a Catherine-'Wheel of the Second, 'which was ſometimes 'born by Robert de Stone.

'He beareth Or, on a 'Bend Azure, three Ca'therine-wheels Argent, by 'the Name of Rudhall. 'In the primitive Age of 'the Church, even Chil'dren and young Virgins, 'for the Profeſſion of their 'Faith, did conſtantly en'dure moſt terrible Deaths, 'as did St. Catherine by this Kind of Wheel, 'wherewith all her tender Limbs were bruiſed 'and rent in Pieces. Now Men will ſcarce be 'true Chriſtians, when they may be ſuch, not 'only without Puniſhment, but both with Quiet'neſs and Commendation alſo.

"He beareth Gules, 3 "Catherine-wheels Ar"gent, on a Chief of the "Second, a Bull's Head "coup'd Sable, by the "Name of Matthews. This "with the Arms of Ulſter, "is the Coat-Armour of "Sir Philip Matthews of "Edmonton in Middleſex, "Baronet.

"He

" He beareth Argent, " on a Fess Gules, cottised Azure, three Lambs " of the First, between as " many Katherine-wheels " Sable, by the Name of " Scott; and is born by " Thomas Scott of Great-Barr in Staffordshire, " Gent.

" He beareth Argent, a " Chevron between three " Tuns Sable, their Bungs " flaming Proper, by the " Name of Inkledon; and " is the Coat-Armour of " Lewis Inkleden of Buckland in the Parish of " Branton in Devonshire, " Esquire.

Azure, a Bend engrail'd between three Tuns Or, on each an Owl perch'd Argent, with a Crescent for Difference, was, in a Patent pass'd by the whole Office, granted to Henry Calton of Bradburham alias Babram in the County of Cambridge, the 25th of January 1567, in the 10th Year of the Reign of Queen Elizabeth.

' Under this Head we may aptly bestow all ' other Instruments pertaining either to Husban- ' dry, or to the several Trades of Shepherds, ' Vine-dressers, Bakers, Brewers, Vintners, &c. ' for that these are all grounded upon Agri- ' culture.

CHAP. VII.

' AGRICULTURE is for meer Neces- ' sity: Cloathing is partly for this, ' and partly for Ornament and Decency; but ' had not Man sinned, he had not needed ' cloathing; which is worthy of the Conside- ' ration of those who are so proud of their ' Apparel.

' He beareth Sable, 3 ' Wool-Cards Or, by the ' Name of Cardington. ' Marcus Varro maketh ' mention, That within ' the Chappel of Fortune ' was kept the very Royal ' Robe or Mantle of E- ' state, which Tanaquil the ' Wife of Tarquinius Pris- ' cus, made with her own Hands after the Man- ' ner of Water-chamlet in Wave-work, which ' Servius Tullius used to wear.

Argent, three Hempbreakers Sable. This Coat was assign'd by Patent to Robert Hampsone Alderman of London, by William Camden Clarencieux, the 10th of October 1602, in the 44th Year of the Reign of Queen Elizabeth.

' He beareth Argent, ' three Fusils upon Slip- ' pers Gules, by the Name ' of Hoby; " and is the " Coat-Armour of Philip " Hoby of Neath-Abby in " Glamorganshire, Esquire. " These are called Fusils " of the Latin Word, Fu- " sus, which signifieth a " Spindle of Yarne. Marcus Varro reporteth, " That in the Temple of Sangus, there conti- " nued, even till that Time that he wrote his " Book, the Wooll that the Lady Caia Cecilia did " spin together with her Distaff and Spindle.

' He beareth Sable, three Fusils upon Slippers ' transposed, the Points downward Argent. This ' Coat is quartered by Knowell of Sanford. Clo- ' ster the Son of Arachne, taught first the Making ' of the Spindle for Woollen-yarn. It was (saith ' Pliny) a Fashion and Custom at Rome, that when ' Maids were to be wedded, there attended upon ' them one with a Distaff dressed and trimmed with ' kembed Wooll, as also a Spindle and Yarn upon it, ' to put them in mind that Housewifery and Wifery ' were to go together.

'He beareth Argent, a 'Chevron between three 'Wharrow-Spindles Sable, by the Name of Trefues. This Spindle differeth much from thoſe 'preceeding, in reſpect of 'the Crook above, and 'of the Wharrow impoſed upon the lower Part 'thereof. This Sort of Spindle-women do uſe 'moſt commonly to ſpin withal, not at the 'Torn as the Former, but at a Diſtaff put under their Girdle, ſo as they oftentimes ſpin therewith going. The round Ball at the lower 'End ſerveth to the faſt-twiſting of the Thread, 'and is called a Wharrow; and therefore this is 'called a Wharrow-Spindle, where the other 'are called Slippers that paſs thorough the Yarn 'as this doth.

'He beareth Argent, 3 'Weavers Shuttles Sable, 'tipp'd and furniſh'd with 'Quills of Yarn, the 'Threads pendant Or, by 'the Name of Shuttleworth; "and is born by "Jo. Shuttleworth, Gent. "deſcended from the "Shuttleworths of Aſterley "in Lancaſhire." 'Weaving was the Invention 'of the Egyptians, and Arachne was the firſt 'Spinner of Flax-thread, the Weaver of Linnen, and Knitter of Nets, as Pliny noteth. But 'it ſeemeth that thoſe Arts were at firſt learned by imitation of Silk-worms, Spiders, and 'the like, whoſe ſubtle Works no mortal Hand 'can match.

'Under this Head muſt be reduced all manner 'of Tools and Inſtruments born in Coat-Armour, and pertaining to the ſeveral Trades of 'Weaving, Fulling, Dying, Shearing, &c. As 'alſo ſuch as do pertain to the ſeveral Myſteries or Occupations of Embroiderers, Sempſters, and ſuch others. Among Artificers and 'Men of Trade (ſaith Chaſſanæus) this is a Note 'of Obſervation, That each One is to be preferred before the Other, according to the Dignity of the Stuff whereon he doth exerciſe his 'Trade. Hereto we will annex ſome Examples 'of Tailory.

"The Field is Pearl, a "Maunch Diamond. This "is the Paternal Coat of "the Right Honourable "Theophilus Earl of Hun"tington, Baron Haſtings, 'Hungerford, Botreaulx, 'Moulins, Moules, Meinel, 'and Peverel, &c.

'Topaz, a Maunch Ruby, pertained to the 'Honourable Family of Haſtings, ſometime 'Earls of Pembroke; and is quartered by his 'Grace the Duke of Kent. Of Things of Antiquity (ſaith Leigh) that are grown out of 'Uſe, this is one which hath been, and is taken for 'the Sleeve of a Garment. Which may well be; 'for you may ſee in old Arras Cloths, Garments 'with Sleeves wrought not much unlike to this 'Faſhion, but now much altered from the 'Same; for Faſhion and Times do go together. 'That this is a Sleeve I will make more apparent 'by this next Example.

"Azure, a Maunch Or. This, with the Di"ſtinction of a Creſcent Gules, charged with "another Or, is the Paternal Coat-Armour of "Edward Conyers, Eſq; principal Store-keeper of "his Majeſty's Ordnance and Armour in the "Tower of London, who is deſcended from the "Family of Conyers, late of Wakerly in the Coun"ty of Northampton, being a Branch of that "ancient Family of the Conyers of Sockburne "within the Biſhoprick of Durham, whoſe An"ceſtors, in the Reign of William the Conque"ror, had the Office of Conſtable of the Caſtle "of Durham granted to them in Fee; which "Eſtate is yet continuing in the ſame Family, "though not in the ſame Name, being deſcend"ed to an only Daughter of..... Conyers of "Sockburne, Eſq; who married the Right Ho"nourable Francis late Earl of Shrewsbury. From "this Family is likewiſe deſcended the Right "Honourable Conyers Lord Darcy-Meynell and "Conyers of Hornby Caſtle in the County of York, "whoſe Grandfather Thomas Darcy, Eſq; mar"ried Elizabeth, Daughter and Heir of John "Lord Conyers of Hornby. And thence is alſo "deſcended Triſtram Conyers of Walthamſtow in "the County of Eſſex, Serjeant at Law.

'He beareth Gules, a 'dexter Arm habited with 'a Maunch Ermine, the 'Hand holding a Fleur de 'lis Or. This Coat-Armour pertained to William Mohun, alias Sappell, 'ſometime Lord of Dunſtore, who came into England with William the 'Conqueror, who gave him the Earldom of 'Somerſet; of whom did deſcend Renold Mohun 'Earl of Somerſet, that was diſinherited by 'Henry the Third in the Barons Wars. From 'this Renold de Mohun did deſcend, as Heirs'male, Mohun of Cornwall; and as Heir-general, 'the Earl of Derby by the Lord Strange, and 'Sir Peter Carew, Kt. This Word Maunch 'ſeemeth to be derived from the Latin Word 'Manica, which ſignifieth the Sleeve of a Garment. And the ſame of ſome Armouriſts is 'termed Manche mal tailee, Quaſi manica malè 'tuliata, as an ill-ſhapen Sleeve. To wear 'Sleeves unto any Sort of Garment, was, with

'ſome

'ſome People, holden reproachful, as appear-
'eth in the Expoſition of the Epiſtle of St. Hie-
'rome ad Euſtochium, in theſe Words; Objicie-

'Hand out in this Manner, doth ſhew the ſame
'to be a Sleeve. For (if you obſerve) you
'may herein diſcern the Bought of the Arm in
'the Midſt, as alſo the Elbow oppoſite there-
'unto, and the Widning thereof at the Shoul-
'der, as if the ſame were enlarged with a Guſ-
'ſet under the Arm-pit. Alſo the hanging
'down of the Bag from the Hand-wriſt doth
'concur with that Form of Sleeve, which the 'Women of Galoway in the North Parts of Ire-
'land at this Day do uſe. The ſame doth the 'Former alſo expreſs, although in a more ob-
'ſcure Manner, as, if you compare one of them
'with the Other, you may eaſily perceive.

Azure,

Azure, a Jacob's Staff in Pale Or, in Chief two Estoils of the Second, is born by the Name of Thurlow, and was granted to John Thurlow, Lord of the Manor of Burnham-Overy in the County of Norfolk, Gent. (who had for divers Years travelled over several Parts of Europe, Africa, and America) by Sir Edward Byshe Clarencieux, the 19th of November 1664, in the 16th Year of the Reign of King Charles the Second.

'He beareth Azure, 3 'Peny-yard Pence Proper, 'by the Name of Spence. 'These are so named of 'the Place where they 'were first coined, which 'was (as is supposed) in 'the Castle of Peny-yard 'near the Market-Town 'of Ross, situated upon 'the River of Wye in the County of Here-'ford.

'To this Head must be reduced all other 'Sorts of Bullion or Coin, and whatever else 'pertaineth to Traffick or Commerce.' And here should I have placed the Bezants or Coin of Bizantium, but that I have reserv'd them for a Chapter particular, among the other Roundlets peculiar to this Science.

'He beareth Argent, a 'Purse Overt Gules. This 'Coat pertaineth to the 'Family of Conradus Wit-'tenbergensis Comes, that 'was first invested by Hen-'ry the Fourth, Emperor, 'to whom he gave faith-'ful Aid in his Wars, and 'did much detest the Strife 'betwixt him and Rodolph 'of Swevia, his competitor to the Empire, whom 'the Pope had nominated Emperor: He much 'laboured a Pacification of the Tumults then 'stirred up in Germany, as Hemingius in his Ge-'nealogies noteth.

'By this open Purse we may understand a 'Man of a charitable Disposition, and a frank 'and liberal Steward of the Blessings which God 'hath bestowed upon him, for the Relief of 'the Needy: Of such an one St. Hierome hath 'this Saying, Non memini me legisse malâ morte 'mortuum, qui libenter opera charitatis exercuit; 'habet enim multos intercessores, & impossibile est 'multorum preces non exaudiri.

(99) Sprewl of Coldoun; Or, a Chevron between 3 Purses Gules; some give the Chevron Checquy, Azure and Argent; others give a Fess Checquy.

'To this Head may be reduced all Sorts of 'Things whatsoever pertaining to the Adorn-'ing, Decking, or Triming of the Body, as 'Combs, Glasses, Head-brushes, Curling-bod-'kins, &c. and also Purses, Knives, &c.

CHAP. VIII.

'HAVING exemplified such Bearings as 'are borrowed from the two Arts of Nou-'rishing and Clothing our Bodies; the third 'Place may justly be challenged by that Art 'which we call Armature, whereby we are de-'fended from all outward Injuries, either of Foes 'or Weather: For by Armature we understand 'not only those Things which appertain to mi-'litary Profession (whereof we will speak in 'its proper Place) but also those defensive Scien-'ces of Masonry, and Carpentry, and Metal-'works, which do concur to Building and other 'necessary Strengthening for Protection of our 'weak Carkasses. For Houses are Mansions for 'our Bodies, as our Bodies for our Souls; and 'the Weakness of the One must be supplied by 'the Strength of the Other. Escutcheons of 'this Kind are these which ensue, as first for 'Masonry and Stone-work.

'He beareth Sable, 3 'Pickaxes Argent, by the 'Name of Pigot of Ab-'ington-Pigots in Cam-'bridgeshire, a Family of 'long Continuance there. 'This Coat may compare 'for Antiquity with any; 'in respect that it, or 'some such Instrument, 'seemeth to have been 'used by the most Ancient of Mankind, who 'was appointed to dig and delve in the Gar-'den of Eden. Where we may see how little 'Cause any (though of noblest and antientest 'Blood) hath to be proud, if he look'd unto 'the Pit whence he first was digged, being the 'very same from whence the Meanest also is de-'rived.

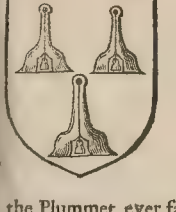

He

" He beareth Sable, on " a Chevron between 3 " Milpecks Argent, as ma- " ny Mullets Gules, by " the Name of Mosley; and " is the Coat of John " Mosley of Mosley in Staf- " fordshire, Esq; This is " an Instrument of great " Use, by which the " Bluntness of the Mill- " stone is amended. The Mill it self, as every " one well knoweth, is very useful in a Com- " monwealth; for with it Corn is ground, and " made fit for Bread, which is the Staff of hu- " mane Life.

' He beareth Argent, 3 ' Mallets Gules, by the ' Name of Forte. Touch- ' ing this and sundry other ' Instruments we must ' observe, That whereas ' such Instruments are u- ' sually made by one Trade ' and used by another (as ' the Smith maketh the ' Axe which the Carpenter doth use;) we ' thought it fitter to place them under those ' Arts, for whose Use they were made (the End ' and Use of each Thing being the Perfection ' thereof) than to refer them to those Arts ' which form and make them.

" He beareth Gules, a " Chevron between three " Mallets Or. This is the " Coat of John Soame of " Little Thurlow in Suffolk, " Esquire.

' He beareth Azure, 3 ' Levels with their Plum- ' mets Or, by the Name ' of Colbrand. This Instru- ' ment is the Type of ' Equity and Uprightness ' in all our Actions, which ' are to be levelled and ' rectified by the Rule of ' Reason and Justice. For ' the Plummet ever falls right, howsoever it be ' held, and whatever befals a vertuous Man, ' his Actions and Conscience will be uncorrupt ' and uncontrolable.

' To this Head must be reduced all Manner ' of Instruments that do pertain to the several ' Trades of Bricklayers, Plaisterers, Paviers, and ' such others, whose Work consisteth of Stone, ' Lime, or Mortar. So much may suffice for ' Examples for Masonry. Now we come to ' Carpentry, as may appear by these next fol- ' lowing Escutcheons.

' He beareth Argent, a ' Chevron between three ' Carpenters Squares Sa- ' ble, by the Name of At- ' low. Artificers (saith Plu- ' tarch) do use their Squares, ' their Rules, their Lines ' and Levels; they go by ' Measures and Numbers, to ' the End, that in all their ' Works there should not be ' any Thing found done, either rashly or at adven- ' ture. And therefore much more should Men ' use the like Moderation and Rules in the Per- ' formance of those Actions of Vertue, wherein ' Man's Happiness doth consist; especially those ' who sit in the Seats of Justice, which in Mo- ' ses's Time were wont to be Men fearing God, ' and hating Covetousness, which is the perfect ' Square which such ought to follow. But Ari- ' stotle writeth of a Lesbian Square or Rule, ' which was made of so flexible a Stuff, that it ' would bend any way the Workmen would ' have it: But most dangerous is the Estate of ' that Commonwealth, whose Judges work by ' such Squares, making the Laws to bow to ' their private Affections, and sometimes to ' mean one Thing, another Time the Contrary, ' as themselves are disposed to incline.

' He beareth Sable, a ' Fess between 3 Hatch- ' ets Argent, by the Name ' of Wrey. This with the ' Arms of Ulster, is the ' Coat of Sir Bourchier ' Wrey of Trebish in Corn- ' wall, Knight of the Bath, ' and Baronet. This In- ' strument is also much ' used in Execution, for beheading of great Of- ' fenders. In which Sense Jordanus Ursinus, ' Viceroy of Sicily, being imprisoned by his ' own Son, gave for his Impress an Ax, and a ' Pair of Fetters, with this Motto, Patientia in ' adversis, to shew his Resolution and Patience ' in so great an Indignity. Not many Years ' since there was a Reverend Judge of this Fa- ' mily, with whose Function this Coat suited ' very aptly, forasmuch as he did execute the ' Office of Chief Justice of England.

' Under this Head must be comprehended all ' Sorts of Instruments (whereof there is use in ' Coat-Armours) pertaining to the several ' Trades of Joyners, Milwrights, Cartwrights, ' Turners, Coopers, &c. and whatsoever other ' Trades, whose Use consisteth and is exercised ' in working or framing of Timber, Wainscot, ' or any Sort of Wood. And so from Tools of

' Ma-

'Masonry and Carpentry born in Coat-Armour, 'we come to Instruments of Metal-work (the 'other Species of Armature) whether the same 'be malleable and wrought by Hammer, or Fusil, 'and formed by Fire.

He beareth Or, a Chevron Ermine, between 3 Nails Azure, by the Name of Prickly alias Harris. This Coat was allow'd by William Segar to ... Prickly alias Harris of London.

Her. Off. London, mark'd C. 24. fo. 75.

The Reader is to take Notice, That the Precept of not placing Metal upon Metal, or Colour upon Colour, is not broken in this Coat, for Ermine being neither Metal nor Colour, but a Fur, may be born under or upon either, as indeed may all Furs of what Composition soever.

(G) Balmakin of that Ilk; Argent, three Spikes Gules, coming to a Sort of Point in Base: I rather take them to be Passion-nails, as the Scots term them.

'This Coat-Armour is 'born by the Name of 'Clovell, and is thus bla- 'zoned: The Field Ar- 'gent, two Chevrons Sa- 'ble, each charged with 'five Nails Or. The Nail 'hath had his Use in mili- 'tary Service, as well as 'domestick Use. For with 'this did the prudent Lady Jael end the cruel 'War betwixt the Canaanites and Israelites, by 'striking a Nail through the Temples of Sisera, 'who was General of King Jabin's Host. As 'to the domestical Use of the Nail, we see that 'Householders minding to fix themselves in 'some House wherein they mean to make them 'a settled Habitation, do drive Nails into the 'Walls, for the more commodious and seemly 'hanging up and bestowing and orderly placing 'of Things necessary. Whereof Ezra, in his 'Prayer to God, taketh a Similitude, saying, 'And now for a little space, Grace hath been shewed 'from the Lord our God, to leave us a remnant to 'escape, and to give us a Nail in his holy Place, &c. 'Ezra 9. 8.

'He beareth Argent, a 'Chevron Gules, between 'three Plummets Sable, 'by the Name of Jennings. 'The Plummet may aptly 'serve for an Hieroglyp- 'phick of Prudence, in 'respect that Mariners, by 'the Help of this Instru- 'ment, fastned to some Line of many Fathoms, 'do sound the Depth of the Seas, when by 'some tempestuous Storm, or other Accident, 'they are forced upon an unknown Coast; that 'so, if Necessity require, they may betake them 'to their Anchor-hold, or divert their Course 'some other Way: Whereby we are admonish- 'ed to sound the Depth of our Intentions be- 'fore we put them in Practice, lest we hazard 'our Fortunes or Lives (through the Want of 'Foresight) upon the Shoals of Destruction.

Argent, a Chevron engrail'd between three Plummets Sable, is born by the Name of Jennings, and was granted to Peter Jennings of Silesden in the County of York, by Sir John Borough Garter, the 26th of May 1641.

'He beareth Argent, a 'Fess between three Pair 'of Pincers Gules. This 'Coat is quarter'd by the 'Right Honourable and 'worthy Gentleman Sir 'William Russel, Lord 'Russel of Thornhaw, de- 'ceased. Though the Pin- 'cers be an Instrument 'peculiar to the Smith 'that formed the same, yet is the Use thereof 'communicated unto the Professors of diverse 'other Trades, as Carpenters, Joyners, Far- 'riers, &c. As touching the first Invention of 'this Instrument, Pliny saith, That Cynira the 'Son of Agrippa devised Pincers, Hammers, Iron 'Crowes, and the Anvil or Stythe.

——— a Chevron between three Anvils ——— This Coat was born by Sebastian Smith, D. D. and Canon of Christ-Church, who dy'd the 27th of April 1674, and was buried in the North Isle, joining to Christ-Church Choir on the North Side, near to the Grave of Dr. Weston. He married Dorothy, Daughter of Dr. John Weston, (sometime Canon of Christ-Church, whose Wife Anne, Daughter of ..... Freeman of Wallingford in Berkshire, dy'd aged 100 Years, at the House of the said Dr. Smith) which said Dorothy left one only Son surviving named Sebastian, a Barrister of the Middle Temple, at whose House in St. Martin's Parish in Oxon (having survived her Husband) she dy'd the 7th of December 1682, and was buried the 10th of the same Month, near her Husband.

The said Sebastian Smith of the Middle Temple, sometime Gentleman-Commoner of Christ-Church in Oxon, married Grace, Daughter and only Child of Edward Asteyne an Attorney, born in Staffordshire, who dy'd at his House in St. Martin's tin's Parish in Oxon, the 30th of August 1673, and was buried in the Church thereof, near his Son James.

M. S. of Ant. à Wood's Remarks de Com. Oxon. p. 105, 128, 129, and 147.

Party per Chevron Argent and Sable, three Anvils counter-chang'd, was the Coat-Armour of Richard Smith of the City of London, living Anno 1634, Son of Richard Smith of Abingdon in the County of Berks.

Her. Off. Lond. C. 24. fo. 3. b.

Azure, on a Chevron Or, three Cinquefoils Gules, a Chief Argent, charg'd with a Lyon passant of the Third, between two Gadds of Steel Sable, was granted by William Harvey, Esq; the 1st of September 1559, in the first Year of the Reign of Queen Elizabeth, to James Hawes, Gent. Citizen and Cloathworker of London.

'Hitherto I have only given Examples of the 'Instruments of the said Arts; I will proceed 'to some Examples of the Works and Effects of 'the Same.

CHAP. IX.

'AMONG the sundry Works of the afore-'said Artizans, some are fixed and per-'manent, as Buildings, either prophane, for or-'dinary Use of Dwelling; or Sacred, as Tem-'ples for God's Service: And some others are 'moveable, as Tents, &c. Examples whereof 'we will now produce.

'He beareth Argent, a 'Tower triple towred 'Sable, chained transverse 'the Port Or, by the 'Name of Oldcastle. Mun-'ster reporteth, That Ca-'tiphus Governor of the 'City of Susa, had there-'in a Tower full of Gold 'and Jewels, but for Ava-'rice, would not disperse his heaped Treasures 'among his Soldiers. Afterwards Alan, King 'of the Tartarians, surprised this City, and ta-'king Catiphus, shut him up in his Tower, say-'ing unto him, If thou hadst not so greedily wal-'led up thy Treasure, thou hadst saved thy self and 'this City; now therefore eat and drink, and take 'thy fill of that thou lovedst so dearly. So died he 'miserably, through the Famine, in the Midst 'of his excessive Treasures.

"He beareth Argent, "a Tower triple tow-"red Sable, on a Mount "Proper, by the Name "of Chiverton; and is "born by Sir Richard "Chiverton, Kt. some-"time since Ld. Mayor "of London.

(99) Macleod of that Ilk; Azure, a Castle Argent, Gates and Windows Gules.

(99) Macloid of Lewes in Scotland; Azure, a Castle triple towred Argent. Some of the Macloids give the Field Or, and the Castle Gules.

(99) Kincaid of that Ilk; Gules, a Castle triple towred Argent, That in the Middle, round and cupolo'd, with a Bar in Chief Ermine: Some add two Mullets of the Second in Chief.

'He beareth Argent, a 'Tower Sable, having a 'scaling Ladder raised a-'gainst it in Bend sinister 'Or. This Coat is quar-'tered by Sir Edward 'Maunsell, Kt. The Lad-'der thus raised against 'the Tower, may put us 'in mind to stand careful-'ly upon our Guard, who live in this World, 'as in a Castle continually assaulted by our spi-'ritual and corporal Enemies, that cease not 'evermore to plot and put in Execution what-'soever tendeth to our Destruction.

"He beareth Diamond, "a Bend Pearl, in the si-"nister Chief a Tower "triple towred of the "Second. This is the Pa-"ternal Coat-Armour of "the Right Honourable "Luke Plunkett, Earl of "Fingall, and Baron of "Killeene in the Kingdom "of Ireland.

He beareth Argent, a Tower triple towred between seven Fleurs de lis in Orle Sable, by the Name of Somester. This Coat was confirm'd by Robert Cook alias Clarencieux, the 14th of March 1586, to William Somester of Peins- ford in the County of Devon, Esq; a Descendant from Adam Somester of Widicombe in the said County.

Vid. Grafton's M. S. de Com. Devon. fol. 10.

'The Field is Gules, a 'Lyon rampant Argent, 'a Castle in the dexter 'Point Or. These were 'the Arms of Sir Francis 'Castilion of Benhall Va- 'lence in the County of 'Berks, Kt. descended of 'the noble Family of the 'Count Castilion in Pied- 'mont near unto Mantua.

'The Lyon is a magnanimous Beast, and of 'an invincible Courage, and is not daunted with 'any occurrent; neither (being laid down) will 'he be roused but at his Pleasure, as appeareth 'Gen. 49. 9. Judah, as a Lyon's Whelp shalt thou 'come up from the Spoil, my Son. He shall lie down 'and couch as a Lyon, and as a Lyoness, and who 'shall stir him? Moreover, of his incomparable 'Strength and noble Courage, a certain Author 'saith, Leo fortissimus Bestiarum ad nullius pavebit 'occursum, The Lyon, the Strongest of all Beasts, 'feareth not the Encounter of any.

Gules, a Buck's Head in Base Argent, attired Or, in the dexter Chief a Castle of the Third, was granted to Giles Dunster of Seavington in the County of Somerset, by Sir Edward Byshe Clarencieux, the 17th of June 1664, the 16th Year of the Reign of King Charles II.

(M) Braig of Nether-Anquharsk; Sable, two Barrulets engrailed between as many Towers triple towred in Chief Argent, and three Crescents in Base Or.

He beareth Or, a Chevron between three Castles Gules, by the Name of Scarburgh. This Coat was confirm'd to Henry Scarburgh, and to John and Edmond the Sons of the said Henry Scarburgh of Northwaltham in Norfolk, Gent. by Sir William Segar Garter, the 10th of September 1614, and 12th Year of the Reign of King James the First.

He beareth Pearl, (for Hope) a Chevron between three Towers Diamond, (for Constancy) flaming with Fire Ruby, (for Magnanimity) by the Name of Madocks. This Coat was confirmed to John Madocks of Middlesex, Gent. (Son of Thomas Madocks of Salop, Gent. sometime one of the Gentlemen of the Chamber to King Edward the Sixth, Queen Mary, and Queen Elizabeth) by William Dethick Garter, March the 26th, 1592, in the 34th Year of the Reign of Queen Elizabeth.

I blazon this Coat in such Manner, with the intended Significations annexed, because I find them so express'd in the Patent for the Confirmation, which also declares the Same was publickly to honour the said John Madocks, for the valiant Service of his Parents performed in the Rebellion at Norwich, in the Time of King Edward the Sixth.

(S) Renton of that Ilk; Azure, a Chevron between three square Castles Argent.

(M) Royal Burgh of Aberdeen; Gules, three Towers triple tower'd, within a double Tressure counterflowry Argent.

Sable, on a Chevron between three Dolphins Argent, three Castles triple towred of the Field, was granted by William Camden Clarencieux, the 12th of February 1602, and 45th Year of the Reign of Queen Elizabeth, to John Frear of London Doctor of Physick, Son of John Frear, Esq; of the said Faculty, Doctor, and of Ursula, Daughter of ..... Castell of East Hatley in the County of Cambridge.

Faustina E. 1. in Cotton. Biblioth.

'He beareth Or, a Ca- 'stle triple towred Gules, 'the Port displayed of the 'Field, Leaved Argent.

'Note, That when the 'Architecture or Maso- 'ry extendeth it self all 'over the Field from the 'one Side of the Escut- 'cheon to the Other, then 'must it be named a Castle. But if it be thus 'turretted and environed by the Field, then 'must it be blazoned (as above) a Tower triple 'towred, or a Tower with so many Turrets. 'The Gate must be conceived to be transpa- 'rent, so as the Field doth manifestly shew it 'self through the same; and all the Port should 'have Or, if the conceited Shadow, represent- 'ing the Thickness thereof, did not extenuate 'a great Part of the Same.

'He beareth Gules, 3 'single Arches Argent, 'their Capitals and Pede- 'stals Or, by the Name of 'Arches. These are sup- 'posed to be Arches of a 'Bridge. And Nicholas 'de Ponte, Duke of Ve- 'nice, gave a Bridge for 'his Device, beaten with 'the Waves, with this 'Motto, Aliis inserviendo consumor. Pope Xistus 'the Fourth also gave a Bridge, with this 'Word,

'Word, Cura rerum publicarum. And it may 'ſignify the Cares and patient Stability of 'Men in Magiſtracy, who muſt endure the 'Aſſaults, Taunts, and Envy of the diſcon-'tented Vulgar.

Sable, a Key erected in Pale Or, between two Pallets Erminois, is born by the Name of Knot, and was granted to Anthony Knot of Whitchurch in the County of Southampton, and to his Poſterity, and to the Poſterity of Anthony Knot, his Father, by Sir Richard St. George, the 15th of April 1632.

He beareth Or, two Chevrons Gules, on a Canton of the Second, a Key erected with the Wards upwards of the Firſt, by the Name of Decrioll. This Coat was confirmed or granted to Benjamin Decrioll alias Deicrow of Enfield in the County of Middleſex, Son of John Decrioll alias Deicrow, Son of John Decrioll of Soll in Suffolk, deſcended from Decrioll of Kent, Lieutenant of Dover-Caſtle, for which Service the Key was born in the Canton.

Argent, a Bend ſiniſter Sable, between an Annulet in Chief Gules, and a Griffon's Head eraſed in Baſe of the Second, holding in his Mouth a Key Azure, by the Name of Key or Cay.

"He beareth Argent, a "Tower between three "Keys erect Sable, by the "Name of Baker; and is "the Coat of John Baker "of Mayfield in Suſſex, "Gent.

'Twas granted to Thomas Baker of Battle in Suſſex, by William Camden Clarencieux, in May 1615, but there the Tower and Keys are Azure, not Sable.

(𝔓) Gibſon of Durie; Gules, three Keys barways in Pale Or. The Same within a Bordure Vaire, is the Coat of Gibſon of Paintland.

He beareth Gules, a Chevron Or, between 3 Keys erected Argent, by the Name of Parker. This Coat was aſſign'd (being from another Coat alter'd) by Robert Cook Clarencieux, the 28th of May 1572, to John Parker of Lambeth in the County of Surry, Gent. (eldeſt Son of the moſt Reverend Father in God, Matthew Parker, Archbiſhop of Canterbury) and to his Deſcendants; and alſo by another Patent to his Brother Matthew Parker, the Biſhop's ſecond Son, and his Deſcendants, with a Creſcent for a Difference.

The Chevron is ſaid to be Argent, in Lib. Num. 834. p. 8. in Aſhmole.

The following Coat was what this was altered from, omitting only the Eſtoils.

Gules, on a Chevron between three Keys erected Argent, as many Eſtoils of the Firſt, was the Coat of John Parker, who was born the 5th of May 1548; he married Joane, Daughter of Richard Coxe, Biſhop of Ely, who was born the 1ſt of April 1551, by whom he had Iſſue Matthew Parker (eldeſt Son) born at Canterbury, the 15th of May 1570, Richard Parker (ſecond Son) born at Cambridge the 20th of May 1577; and ..... Parker (third Son) born at Breaksborne; alſo two Daughters, viz. The firſt Margaret, born at Lambeth, March 21, 1568, and married to Thomas Diggs of Bertram in Kent, Eſq; Sept. 28, 1584; and Jane Parker (ſecond Daughter) born alſo at Lambeth, March 13, 1571.

Note, That the abovementioned John Parker, was eldeſt Son and Heir of Matthew Parker Archbiſhop of Canterbury, born the 6th of Auguſt 1504, and dy'd the 17th of May 1575. This Matthew added the three Eſtoils on the Chevron, the Coat being born before without, but in the ſame Colours. He was Son and Heir of William Parker, the Son and Heir of John, who was Son and Heir of Nicholas Parker. —— This Coat was confirmed (or rather granted) to his Grace, Matthew Parker, Archbiſhop of Canterbury, by Sir Gilbert Dethick Garter, the 28th of November 1559, in the 2d Year of the Reign of Queen Elizabeth.

Gules, on a Chevron between three Keys erected the Wards upwards Argent, as many Fleurs de lis of the Field, is born by the Name of Parker, and was granted to ..... Parker of Sandwich, or of Margret, in the Iſle of Thanet in the County of Kent, by Sir John Borough Garter.

(M) Grierson of Lag; Gules, on a Fess Or, a Mullet Azure, between three quadrangular Locks Argent.

"He beareth Or, on a "Bridge of three Arches "in Fess Gules, masoned "Sable, the Streams transfluent Proper, a Fane "Argent, by the Name of "Trowbridge of Trowbridge. "This Coat standeth in "Kirton Church in the "County of Devon: And "it seemeth to have been "given to the first Bearer thereof as an Allusion to his Surname Trowbridge, quasi Throwbridge, having respect to the Current and Fall "of the Streams that do pass through the "Arches; wherein the Deviser had an ingenious Conceit in the Fitting thereof to his Name, "yet so as it was not so palpably understood of "the vulgar Sort.

'He beareth Or, a Pillar 'Sable, enwrapped with 'an Adder Argent, by the 'Name of Myntur. The 'Adder thus enwrapped 'about the Pillar, may signify Prudence conjoined 'with Constancy; both 'which being united in 'Men of high Spirits, do 'greatly avail to the Atchieving of noble Enterprizes. Farnesius making mention of the 'chief Vertues that ought to be in a Prince, 'setteth down two especially; whereof 'the One is Prudence, whereby the Helm of 'the Commonwealth is governed in Time of 'Peace; the other Fortitude, whereby the Attempts of the Enemy are frustrated in Time of 'War.

'Pillars, the Hieroglyphicks of Fortitude and 'Constancy, were erected for diverse Ends and 'Purposes: Sometimes to limit the Bounds of 'the Possessions of People that bordered one upon 'another: Sometimes in remembrance of Vows 'made; as that which was erected by Jacob at 'Bethel; Gen. 28. 18. Sometimes for Ornament, 'as those of the Temple, 1 Kings 7. 15. Sometimes for Testimonies of Covenants, as that 'which was erected by Jacob for a Memorial between him and Laban, Gen. 31. 44, 45. Sometimes for Monuments to extol the Valour, 'Worth, and Merits of well-deserving Men; 'as those that were decreed by the Senate and 'People of Rome to Men of special Desert and 'approved Vertue. Sometimes they were set 'up for Preservation of Names of Families from 'Oblivion; of which Sort is that mentioned in '2 Sam. 18. 18. Now Absalom in his Life-time 'had taken and reared up for himself a Pillar, 'which is in the King's Dale; for he said, I have 'no Son to keep my Name in remembrance: And he 'called the Pillar after his own Name, and it is called unto this Day Absalom's Pillar.

'To these we will add one Example of a 'Work moveable, as in this next Escutcheon.

'He beareth Sable, a 'Chevron between three 'Tents Argent, by the 'Name of Tenton.

'Tabernacles or Tents 'were the chief Habitation of our Fathers in the 'first Age of the World, 'as we may see Gen. 12. 8. 'Such Kind of Habitations did best fit their 'Uses, for the often removing of their Seats to 'refresh their Cattel with Change of Pastures; 'sometimes at hand, and othertimes in Places remote: Which they could not commodiously 'do, if they had been still dwelling in solid 'and settled Buildings. Such is the Manner of 'the Tartarians at this Day: They have no Cities, Towns, or Villages to inhabit, but the 'open and champion Fields in Tents, after the 'Manner of the ancient Scythians, because they 'are (in manner) all Herdsmen. In the Winter 'Season they plant themselves in the Plains and 'Valleys; and in the Summer they live in mountainous Places, where they may find the rankest 'and best Pasture.

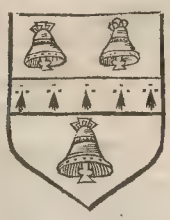

'Of this Sort are the Ships and Boats hereafter to be handled, and all other navigable Vessels; in respect that during the Time that Men 'do undergo any Voyage, they are to them a 'Kind of domestical Habitation. Now proceed 'we to Examples of such Necessaries as we find 'pertaining to Buildings either Sacred or Prophane.

'He beareth Sable, 3 'Bells Argent, by the 'Name of Porter. This 'Sort of Bells that are 'Cast by the Hand of a 'Founder, is not of so 'great Antiquity as some 'others hereafter handled; yet is their Use no 'less approved than those: 'Forasmuch as both these 'and those were ordained for good Uses; these 'to assemble the People together to hear divine 'Service; the other to move them (being assembled) to attention, when the High Priest 'did exercise his Office.

(M) Bell of Kirkonel; Azure, three Bells Or. Which was also the Coat of Bell of Provest-hauch, with the Addition of a Fess of the same Metal between the Bells.

Sable,

" Sable, a Fess Ermine, " between three Bells Ar- " gent, by the Name of " Bell. This was the Coat- " Armour of Sir Robert " Bell, Knight, Lord Chief " Baron of the Exchequer, " who died of that pesti- " ferous Sickness at Ox- " ford, Anno 1577, together " with the other Judge of " Assize; which Sir Robert, by Dorothy sole " Daughter and Heir of Edmund Beaupree of " Beaupree-hall in Norfolk, had Issue Sir Edmund " Bell and Sinolphus, with three Daughters, viz. " Mary, Dorothy, and Frances.

Sable, a Doe tripping between three Bells with Clappers Argent, is born by the Name of Dobell; and was assigned by William Camden Clarencieux, by Patent dated the 7th of February 1607, to Walter Dobell of Faumor in Sussex.

' He beareth Gules, 3 ' Cushions Ermine, but- ' toned and tasseled Or, ' by the Name of Redman. ' Howsoever, these are ' now taken for Cushions; ' others are of Opinion, ' that they are more truly ' Pillows, and given to ' some Ancestors of this ' Bearer (if Fame be true) ' for that by Occasion of a Combat challenged ' upon him by a Stranger, for the Performance ' whereof, the Day and Place being appointed, ' this Man being more forward than the Chal- ' lenger, came very early to the Place at the ' Day appointed, and by Chance fell on Sleep ' in his Tent: The People being assembled, and ' the Hour come, the Trumpets sounded to the ' Battle, whereupon he awakened suddenly, ' ran furiously upon his Adversary and slew ' him.

(C) St. Michill of Bransum in Scotland; Argent, a Chevron between three Lozenge Cushions with Tassels Sable.

(D) Randolph, sometime Earl of Murray; Or, three Cushions within a double Tressure counterflowred Gules: Now born by some of the Name of Dumbar, and by Stewart Earl of Murray.

(E) Johnston Earl of Annandale; Argent, a Saltire Sable, on a Chief of the Second, three Cushions Or. Some give the Chief for this Earl, Gules, as Sir George Mackenzy has in p. 47.

Kirkpatrick of Closburn; Argent, a Saltire Azure, on a Chief of the Second three Cushions Or.

' These and such other Utensils do serve as ' well for Ornament as Necessity; whereas others ' there are, which serve for Necessity only; as ' in Example.

' He beareth Gules, a ' Fess humetté, between ' three Trestles Argent, by ' the Name of Stratford. ' More aptly (in my Con- ' ceit) may this transverse ' Charge be termed a Ta- ' ble, than a Fess humetté, ' for so have I seen the ' same anciently blazoned, ' and so taken it as a Note ' of special Hospitality and House-keeping, a ' Thing in this Age much commended, but little ' practised.

" I find King Solomon to be the most famous " Precedent, for his daily Expences, that I read " of; wherein he exceeded all others that pre- " ceeded or succeeded him, as we may see " 1 Kings 4. 22. where it is said, And Solomon's " Victuals for one Day, were thirty Measures of fine " flour, and sixty Measures of Meal; ten fat Oxen, " and twenty Oxen of the Pastures, and one hundred " Sheep, besides Harts, Roebucks, and fallow Deer, " and fatted Fowl.

" I also find in an ancient Manuscript, that " King Lud commanded his household Officers " to have in daily custome, to cover the Tables " in the Hall, from Seven of the Clock in the " Morning till Seven in the Evening. His daily " Diet was not much in rare and delicate Viands; " but that he kept it constantly with all good " Cates as could be gotten; and at the four " great Feasts he caused Proclamations to be " made in all Countries, for all Manner of " People to come thither.

" Moreover, the same Author maketh men- " tion of a very memorable and most royal " Feast, that Cassibelane made upon his second " Triumph over the Romans Emperor. And " forasmuch as it is a chief Point to be ob- " served of him that shall cite Authority for " any Thing that he writeth or speaketh of, " to use the express Words of his Author which " he voucheth, I will therefore deliver it as he " himself relateth the same.

" Domus Regis Cassibelani standeth for a special " Note, which after his second Triumph upon the " Emperor, gave out his Royal Commandments to " all the Gentiles in Britany, to come with their " Wives to magnify his Feast: For which he slew " Forty thousand Kine and Oxen, One hundred thou- " sand Sheep, Thirty thousand Deer, and other wild " Beasts of the Wood, besides the diverse Kinds of

" Pulline,

" Pulline, Coneys, wild Fowl and tame, of Sea and " Land, with much other Purveyance of Victual, " with many Diſguiſings, Plays, Minſtrelſie and " Sports.

' He beareth Argent, a ' Trevet Sable, by the ' Name of Trevet. A ' Trevet ſeemeth to be ſo ' called of its three Feet, ' or à Tripode, which in ' Greek ſignifieth a Stool ' of ſo many Feet. A- ' mong the Heathens Apol- ' lo's Prieſt was ſaid to ' give Anſwers from the Oracle, ſitting on ſuch ' a Stool; whence, he that ſpeaketh Oracles, is ' ſaid to ſpeak tanquam ex Tripode.

' He beareth Argent, ' three Fleſh-pots Gules, ' by the Name of Moun- ' bowchier. It appeareth ' by Hiſtory, that the ' Ancients were wont to ' ſeethe their Meet in the ' Hides of Beaſts, which ' yet is in Uſe in barba- ' rous Countries, but Art ' ſupplieth that Defect. The Fleſh-pots of Egypt ' are objected to the fleſhly-minded Jews, who ' were contented to forſake the Hope of bleſ- ' ſed Canaan, to enjoy again their Belly-cheer: ' And Eſau's Meſs of Pottage is, with many, ' of more Eſteem, than the Birth-right and In- ' heritance of the heavenly Canaan.

' He beareth Argent, ' three Pair of Bellows Sa- ' ble, by the Name of Scip- ' ton. The Invention of ' this Inſtrument for ma- ' king of Wind, was much ' more witty than that ' Conceit of the Poets of ' Boreas his keeping of ' Winds in Bottles. The ' Author of theſe (as Strabo witneſſeth) was ' Anacharſis.

' He beareth Argent, ' three Lamps Sable, a File ' of three Points Gules, ' by the Name of Lampe- ' law.

He beareth Sable, a Chevron between three Lamps Argent, with Fire Proper, by the Name of Farmer. This Coat was aſſign'd by Patent to George Farmer, Eſq; by Sir Edward Walker Garter, the 20th of October 1663, in the 15th Year of the Reign of King Charles the Second, which George Farmer was one of the Prothonotaries of the Court of Common Pleas, and ſecond ſurviving Son of Bartholomew Farmer of Ratcliffe in the County of Leiceſter, Gent. Grand-child of John Farmer, and great Grand-child of Bartholomew Farmer of the ſame Place, as appears by the Viſitation of that County made 1619. The Patent was to alter the Arms of his Family, tho' it mentions not what anciently they were.

" We read of a certain Church dedicated to " Venus, wherein was a Lamp that burnt con- " tinually, and never went out, but ſtill gave " Light, yet was not maintained with any " Kind of Oyl, or other oily Matter or Sub- " ſtance; and this was holden for a ſpecial mi- " raculous Thing; yet, might the ſame be per- " formed by ſome other natural Means; as " with a certain Kind of Stone that is found " in Arcadia, and is called Aſbeſtus, which is " ſaid to be of that Nature, that being once " kindled and ſet on Fire, doth never extin- " guiſh or go out, neither is it thereby conſu- " med or waſted, Zan. lib. 4. de potent. dæmon. " chap. 12. pag. 255.

" There are, doubtleſs, both in Herbs and " Stones, admirable Vertues (not manifeſt) " whereby ſtrange and unwonted Effects may " be wrought. Therefore, Men being igno- " rant of the Efficacy and forcible Vertues of " Things natural, and apprehending only their " Effects by Sight, do forthwith conceive, that " there is wrought ſome ſtrange or great Mi- " racle; whereas, indeed, it is nothing leſs but a " Matter proceeding meerly from ſome natural " Cauſe.

' Beſides theſe aforeſaid, there are ſundry ' other Inſtruments of houſehold Uſe, as Mor- ' tars, Grid-irons, &c. which we leave to Ob- ' ſervation. And to this may be referred ' Candles, Torches, &c. The great Turk Soli- ' manus gave four Candles for his Device, one ' burning, the other three extinct; to ſignify ' that other Religions were nothing light in re- ' reſpect of his; or that the other Parts of the ' World ſhould loſe their Beauty, by the Bright- ' neſs of his Glory.

(G) Kill of Kill in Scotland; Sable, three Oven Peels, two and one, Or.

(H) Or, three Candleſticks, two and one, Sable, by the Name of Kyle.

(H) Lowry

(M) Lowrey of Maxweltoun; Sable, a Cup Argent, with a Garland between two Laurel Branches, all issuing out of the Same Vert.

(M) Macilvain of Grimet; Gules, two Cups cover'd Or, and in the middle chief Point, a Star Argent.

" Sable, three covered " Cups Argent, was born " by Sir Edmund Warcupp " of North-More in Ox- " fordshire, Esq;

(M) Shaw of Sauchie; Azure, three cover'd Cups Or, two and one.

" Azure, a Chevron be- " tween three Cups co- " ver'd Or, by the Name " of Butler, and is the " Coat of Sir James But- " ler of Lincoln's Inn in " Middlesex, Kt. Steward " of his Majesty's Palace, " and Marshal's Court; " and is born by John But- " ler, D. D. Chaplain in Ordinary to his Maje- " sty King Charles the Second, and Canon of " Windsor.

" This Coat is also born by Nicholas Butler of " London, Doctor in Physick.

(G) Ryngerose; Argent, a Rose in Fess Gules, between three cover'd Cups Sable.

(M) Shaw of Sornbeg; Azure, three Mullets in Fess between as many cover'd Cups Argent.

Or, on a Fess between three Annulets Gules, as many cover'd Cups of the Field, is born by the Name of Draper, and was confirm'd to Henry Draper of Colebrook in the County of Middlesex, Gent. by Robert Cook Clarencieux, the 14th of October 1571, in the 13th Year of the Reign of Queen Elizabeth.

Azure, a Bend between six cover'd Cups Or, was the Coat of Sir Thomas Butler of Bensey in the County of Lancaster, Kt. who to his first Wife married Gisley, Daughter of Peter Leighe of Lynde in the County of Chester, by whom he had Issue Thomas, John, Margaret, and Jane. Thomas, his Son and Heir, married Eleanor, Daughter to John Hudleston of Sauston in Cambridgeshire; and Margaret, Wife of Thomas Holford, Son and Heir to Sir John Holford, Kt. to whom she bare Christopher.

The first named Sir Thomas Butler had to his second Wife Elizabeth, Daughter to Sir Edward Sutton, Baron of Dudley, and late Wife of John Hudleston.

CHAP. X.

'NEXT to Armature, with the Appen-'dices thereof, ſucceedeth Navigation, 'whereunto pertain all Sorts of Ships and Boats, 'with their ſeveral Parts, their Hulls, Stems, 'Sterns, Maſts, Tops, Tacklings, Sails, Oars, 'Cables, Anchors, &c. whereof diverſe are 'born in Coat-Armour, as ſhall by theſe next 'Examples partly appear.

'He beareth Argent, a 'Ship with three Maſts, 'a Sail truſſed up and 'hoiſted to the Top of 'the Main Yard, ſhrouded 'Sable, by the Name of 'Meeres. Andreas Doreo, 'Admiral of Spain, gave 'for his Impreſs a Ship 'under full Sail, with this 'heavenly Motto, Omnia 'Fortunæ committo, I commit all to Fortune: 'But another of that Name (Admiral to Charles 'the Fifth) gave the ſame Device with a much 'more Chriſtian-like Word, Non dormit qui 'cuſtodit, He that is keeper is no ſleeper.

'He beareth Azure, a 'Galley paſſing under full 'Sail Or. This is a Coat 'of Spaniſh Bearing, which 'Nation much uſeth this 'Kind of Veſſel on the 'Mediterranean and cal-'mer Seas, the Rowers 'therein being ſo many 'captivated Slaves, chain-'ed faſt to their Seat, leſt they ſhould rebel 'againſt the Miniſters of their Oppreſſion. 'The firſt Ship we read of, was made by Noah, 'for the Preſervation of Increaſe of all living 'Creatures in the Time of the general Flood. 'But Jaſon firſt made the Galley which Seſoſtris, 'King of Ægypt, uſed after him.

(M) The Earl of Caithneſs, by the Title of Cathneſs, as the third Coat in his Atchievement, bears Azure, a Ship under Sail Argent. And the ſame Earl, for the firſt Coat, as repreſenting Spar, ſometime Duke of Orkney, bears Azure, a Ship at Anchor, her Oars in Saltire within a double Treſſure counter flowry Or.

(M) Azure, in the Sea Vert, a Ship in full Courſe Or, Maſts, Sails, and Tacklings Proper, Flags Gules, by the Name of Craik.

(M) Earl of Arran of Old; Argent, a (Lymphad, or a) Ship with her Sails truſs'd up Sable. This Coat is now quarter'd in the Atchievement of the Duke of Hamilton.

(M) Mackintoſh, as the Chief of the Clanehatton; Or, a Lymphad, her Oars erected in Saltire Sable, in the dexter chief Point a right Hand coup'd Barr-ways, holding a Man's Heart, ſome ſay a Fleur de lis, Gules. But Mackintoſh has now altered this, and gives Quarterly the Firſt Or, a Lyon rampant Gules, as deſcended of Macduff: The Second, Argent, a dexter Hand coup'd Bar-ways, holding a Man's Heart Gules: The Third, Azure, a Boar's Head coup'd Or: The Fourth Or, a Lymphad, her Oars erected in Saltire Sable.

(M) Lord of Lorn of Old; Argent, a Lymphad with her Oars in Action; quarter'd now by the Earl of Argyle and Glenurghie.

(M) Argent, an Ark in the Waters Proper, ſurmounted of a Dove Azure, having in her Beak an Olive Branch Vert, by the Name of Gallie.

(M) Richardſon of Smeiton; Or, on a Feſs Azure, betwixt a Bull's Head coup'd in Chief, and a Gally with her Oars erected Saltire-ways in Baſe Sable, a St. Andrew's Croſs Argent.

'The Field is Mars, the 'Hull of a Ship, having 'only a Main Maſt, and 'a Top without any 'Tackling Sol. This is 'the Coat-Armour of the 'high and mighty Prince 'Duke Albertus de Alaſco 'of Polonia, who did bear 'the ſame alſo for his 'Creſt, with this Motto, Deus dabit vela, 'God will give Sails; ſhewing, that heavenly 'Guidance is that whereby worldly Affairs are 'governed, and that we muſt not altogether 'rely on human Helps.

'He

'He beareth Or; a 'Lighter-boat in Fess 'Gules. This Coat-Armour pertaineth to the 'Family de Wolfo of Swedland. Like to this was 'born in Devise, by the 'Prince Jam Bentivolious, 'who opened his Meaning thus, Me video in 'Mari sine gubernatore, I find my self in the Sea 'without a Pilot. Such is the Condition of a 'Commonwealth without a Ruler, or a Man 'without Reason, tossed with every Wave of 'Affection. But in these Tossings of Fortune's 'Waves, wise was the Resolution of Viscount 'Hugo de Melan, whose Device was a Ship without any Tackling to stay it, with this Motto, 'In silentio & spe fortitudo mea, My Strength is 'in Silence, Patience and Hope.

'He beareth Azure, a 'Ruther or Helm of a 'Ship Argent. By the 'Help of this Helm doth 'the Pilot wield the Ship 'at Will through the most 'violent Seas. Some Men 'are of Opinion, That the 'first Invention of the 'Helm of a Ship was taken from the Observation of a Kite flying, or 'rather gliding in the Air, that by turning of 'his Tail one while one Way, another while 'another Way, doth guide his Course in the 'Air: Whereby it seemeth that Nature would 'manifest in the clear Air, what was necessary 'to be practised in the deep Waters. So necessary is the Use of this Instrument, as that without it no Shipping can be directed in a certain 'Course, but would be evermore in danger of 'splitting upon Shoals and Rocks.

'Other Parts of Ships have been born both 'in Coat-Armour and Impresses. Horatius 'Gonsaga gave the Prow of a Ship ty'd to a 'Plow-wheel, with a Laurel over it, signifying 'his quiet Country Life after his Naval Life. 'And Cardinal Raphael Riarius, affecting the 'Papacy, gave an Oar on the Globe of the 'Earth, with this Motto, Hoc opus; shewing 'what a Pilot he would be, if he had the Command.

'He beareth Gules, 3 'Sails Argent, by the Name 'of Cavell alias Locavell. 'Pliny ascribeth the Invention of Sails to Icarus the Son of Dædalus, 'who for this Device is 'said (by Poets) to have 'flown with artificial 'Wings. In a naval conflict (saith Alex. ab Alex.) to strike Sail, or take 'down the Flag at the Command of another, is a Token of Yielding or Submission, which is yet observed 'by Men of Naval Profession. There are three 'Things (saith one) which excel all other for beautiful Shew; a goodly Man at Arms bravely mounted on a warlike Steed; a Woman of fair and goodly 'Feature bearing a great Belly; and a goodly Ship in 'her Ruff, and under full Sail.

'He beareth Gules, 3 'Pieces of Masts coup'd, 'with their Tops Argent, 'by the Name of Cromer. 'The Invention of the 'Mast, as also of the 'Cross-piece whereunto 'the Sail is fastened, and 'is therefore called Sail-'yard, came (saith Polydore) from Dædalus, that excellent Engineer 'of Athens, who is famous for making the artificial Cow, wherein Pasiphae (that Monster 'of Womankind) did put her self, and so enjoyed her Lust and bestial Desires with a Bull, 'with whom she was in Love.

'He beareth Gules, an 'Anchor in Pale Argent, 'the Timber or Cross-'piece thereof Or, by the 'Name of Goodreed.

'Anacharsis (saith Pliny) 'made Anchors first with 'two Hooks.

'The Anchor signifieth Succour in Extre-'mities; and therefore the Author of the Epistle 'to the Hebrews, resembleth Hope to the Anchor, where it is said, Ut spem propositam teneamus, quam velut animæ anchoram habemus tutam & firmam; because Hope doth establish 'and confirm our Faith against all the tempestuous Gusts of adverse Occurrents. Cosmus 'Medices Duke of Hetruria, gave two Anchors 'for his Impress, with this Word, Duabus; 'meaning it was good to have two Holds to 'trust to. But Richard the First, King of England, gave a Sun on two Anchors, with this 'Motto, Christo Duce; a worthy and princely 'Choice of so heavenly a Pilot.

He beareth Or, an Anchor in Pale Sable, by the Name of Chappell. This Coat was assign'd or allow'd to Bartholomew Chappell, Serjeant Bailiff of London, by William Segar.

Gules, two Bends Vaire, on a Canton Or, an Anchor Sable, was the Coat of Sir Richard Ford, Kt. and Lord Mayor of the City of London, Anno 1671.

He beareth Gules, an Anchor erected in Pale Or, on a Chief of the Second, three Roſes of the Field, by the Name of Mayor. This was confirm'd to John Mayor of Southampton, deſcended out of the Pariſh of Hanway in the Iſle of Jerſey, from Sir Marius Mayor or Mager, who flouriſhed in the Time of King Henry VII. and King Henry VIII. and ſerv'd in the Wars of the firſt of thoſe Kings.

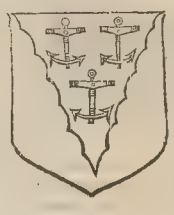

Her. Off. Hampſh. mark'd C. 19. folio 101.

" Azure, a Feſs Or, in " Chief three Anchors of " the Second, by the Name " of Terne; and is born " by Chriſtopher Terne Do- " ctor in Phyſick, Fellow " of the Colledge of Phy- " ſicians in London, Phy- " ſician to St. Bartholo- " mew's Hoſpital, and Rea- " der of Anatomy to the Company of Barbers- " Chyrurgeons, London.

" He beareth Sable, a " Chevron between three " Anchors Argent, by the " Name of Holder; and " is the Coat-Armour of " Thomas Holder of South- " Wheatly in Nottingham- " ſhire, Eſq; (late Auditor " General to his Royal " Highneſs the Duke of " York) a Perſon of approved Loyalty to the " Crown all along the late Rebellion.

" Or, on a Pile engrail- " ed Azure, three Anchors " of the Field, by the " Name of Byde; and is " the Coat-Armour of " Skynner Byde, Eſq; Son " and Heir of Sir Thomas " Byde of Ware-Park in " Hertfordſhire, Kt. and " with a due Difference, " is the Coat of Edward " Byde of Lincolns-Inn in " Middleſex, Eſq;

Azure, a Naval Crown within an Orle of twelve Anchors Or, is born by the Name of London, and was granted by Sir Edward Walker Garter, by Patent dated at Bruſſels the 10th of May 1658, in the 10th Year of the Reign of King Charles the Second, to Captain Robert London, born of honeſt Parents at Allington in the County of Devon; who, in his Youth, actively applied himſelf to Navigation, and being an Officer in the Navy Royal Anno 1648, (which for ſome Years before had been, and then was poſſeſſed and employed by the uſurp'd Power of a rebellious Parliament) had thereby the happy Opportunity, out of a due and loyal Senſe of his Duty to his lawful Sovereign King Charles the Second, to be the prime and active Inſtrument to induce tweleve Ships (which his Anchors reſemble) of the ſaid Navy to their Duty and Obedience, and to embrace his Majeſty's Service againſt his rebellious Subjects.

CHAP. XI.

' THE Laſt of the aforeſaid Arts we rec- ' koned to be Venation, which Plato ' divideth into three Species, Hunting, Hawk- ' ing, and Fiſhing; all which, becauſe they ' tend to the Providing of Suſtenance for Man, ' Farneſius doth therefore account a Species of ' Agriculture. The dangerous Chaſes of the ' Bear, the wild Boar, Bull, &c. whether the ' Same be performed on Horſeback or on Foot, ' hath a Reſemblance of military Practice; for ' it maketh a Man provident in aſſaulting, as ' alſo valorous in ſuſtaining the Brunt of the ' Enemy: It maketh them politick for Choice ' of Places of Advantage, and enableth them to ' tolerate Hunger, Thirſt, Labour, Storms, ' Tempeſts, &c. all which are moſt requiſite ' for ſuch as do profeſs a military Courſe of Life. ' What valorous Commanders thoſe Men have ' proved,

'proved, that have been trained up in the Art 'of Hunting, when they have come to the Ad- 'miniſtration and managing of martial Affairs, 'the Perſians can ſufficiently witneſs unto us, 'who had no better Means to become expert 'Soldiers, than their daily Exerciſe of Hunting: 'As alſo the Hiſtory of Mithridates King of 'Pontus, who was ſo much tranſported with 'the Love of Hunting, as that (according to 'Farneſius) by the Space of ſeven Years, he took 'not the Benefit of any Houſe either in City or 'Country to lie in; by Means whereof he ſo ena- 'bled and enured his Body to ſuſtain all Hard- 'ſhips, that afterwards he became a Scourge and 'Terror to the Romans. And therefore this no- 'ble Kind of Venation is priviledged from the 'Title of an illiberal Art, being a princely and 'generous Exerciſe: But thoſe only, who uſe 'it for a Trade of Life, to make Gain thereof, 'are to be marſhalled in the Rank of Mechanicks 'and illiberal Artizans.

'As touching the Number of Examples of 'Things pertaining to this noble Exerciſe of 'Hunting, propoſed for the firſt Species of Ve- 'nation, I purpoſe to be very brief; not in re- 'ſpect of their Scarcity, but becauſe of the ma- 'nifold Imployments of the Workman for the 'Preſent, that he is not able to furniſh me with 'more. And having ended with them, I will 'proceed, according to Order, with the other 'two Species of Venation, viz. Hawking and 'Fiſhing.

'He beareth Sable, a 'Bugle or Hunter's Horn 'garniſhed and furniſhed 'Argent. This Coat-Ar- 'mour is of very ancient 'Erection in the Church 'of Rewardine within the 'Foreſt of Dean in Glou- 'ceſterſhire, and pertained 'to the Family of Hathe- 'way of the ſame Place.

(M) Argent, three Hollin-leaves in Chief Proper, and a Hunting-horn in Baſe Sable, garniſhed Gules, is the Coat of Burnet of Lees. This ſame Coat was uſed by the late famous Dr. Burnet Biſhop of Saliſbury, and Chancellor of the moſt Noble Order of the Garter.

(M) Kyd of Craigie; Argent, a Pine-tree eradicated Proper, with a Bugle-horn pendant upon one of the Branches Or.

(M) Cleland of that Ilk; Azure, a Hare ſaliant Argent, with a Hunting-horn about his Neck Vert, garniſhed Gules.

"He beareth Gules, a "Chevron between two "Leopards Heads in Chief, "and a Bugle-horn in "Baſe Argent, by the "Name of Slingsby, a Fa- "mily of good Antiquity "and Repute in Yorkſhire "and elſewhere; and is "born by Sir Thomas "Slingsby of Read houſe in Yorkſhire, Baronet.

(M) Or, a Bendlet betwixt a Stag's Head eraſed in Chief, and a Hunting-horn in Baſe Sable, garniſhed Gules, by the Name of Porterfield.

(G) Currour of Innerlochy in Scotland; Argent, a Feſs Gules, between three Mullets in Chief and a Bugle-horn in Baſe Sable, ſtring'd of the Second.

"He beareth Argent, "three Bugle-horns Sable, "ſtringed Vert, by the "Name of Wyrſey; and "is the Coat-Armour of "Humphry Wyrſey of Hamp- "ſted-hall in Staffordſhire, "Eſquire, one of the Pro- "thonotaries of the Court "of Common Pleas at Weſt- "minſter, fifth Son of Humphry Wyrſey of Hamp- "ſted-hall aforeſaid, Eſq;

He beareth Argent, a Feſs between three Bugle-horns ſtring'd Sable, by the Name of Thoroton of Screveton in Nottinghamſhire; and is now born by Thomas Thoroton of Screveton aforeſaid, Eſq; Recorder of Lincoln, and Richard Thoroton of the Middle Temple, Eſq; as their Paternal Coat.

"Sable, three Bugle-horns ſtringed Or, gar- "niſhed Azure, born by John Thurſton of Ho- "xon in Suffolk, Eſq; This Colour Sable, is re- "ſembled to the precious Stone called Diamond, "which ſignifieth in Armoury durableneſs; and "the Charge of this Eſcutcheon being of the "Metal Or, is oftentimes in blazon deſcribed by "the Topaz Stone, the Emblem in Heraldry of a "ſure Meſſenger, as Sir John Ferne noteth.

Argent, a Chevron Vert, between 3 Bugle-horns ſtringed Sable, with a Creſcent for a Difference, is born by the Name of Forſter, and was allow'd by Patent to Sir Thomas Forſter of St. James's ſtreet in the County of Middleſex, by William Camden Clarencieux, the 27th of February 1605.

Argent, a Chevron between three Bugle-horns ſtring'd Sable, is born by the Name of Wayte, and was aſſign'd by William Camden Clarencieux in June 16.. to Thomas Wayte, his Majeſty's Receiver for the Counties of Warwick and Leiceſter.

He beareth Sable, a Croſs Argent, on a Chief of the Second, three Bugle horns of the Firſt, ſtringed Gules, by the Name of Langhorn. This Coat was aſſign'd to William Langhorn Son of William Langhorn of Bedford, by William Camden Clarencieux, by Patent dated the 20th of January 1610, in the 8th Year of the Reign of King James the Firſt..

He beareth Argent, on a Chevron between three Bugle-horns Sable, garniſh'd Or, as many Mullets of the Field, by the Name of Colborne. This Coat was aſſign'd by William Segar to William Colborne of Bruton in the County of Somerſet.

Vid. in Coll. Arm. Wilts, Dorſet, & Somerſet, mark'd C. 22. fo. 378. b.

Argent, on a Chevron Gules, between three Bugle-horns Sable, as many Croſs-croſlets fitché Or, was born by William Burt, D. D. Warden of the College by Winchester, Son of ..... Burt, ſometime a Singing-man of the Cathedral there; which William dy'd the 3d of July 1679, aged about 76, and was buried in the Chappel of Winchester College.

He married Elizabeth, Daughter of Maximilian Pettie of Thame (by Elizabeth his Wife, Daughter of Robert Waller of Beconsfield) and was buried at Beconsfield.

Which ſaid Elizabeth Burt (ſurviving the Doctor her Husband) dy'd in the Warden's Lodgings in New College in Oxon, the 25th of September 1683, aged about 63, and was buried the 28th of the ſame Month at the upper End of the Chancel of Thame Church in the County of Oxon, near the Grave of her Father ——

The ſaid Dr. William Burt and Elizabeth, left Iſſue behind them, viz. 1. Maximilian, who married ..... Daughter of ..... 2. Elizabeth, the Wife of Henry Beeſton, L. L. D. ſometime Maſter of Winchester School, afterwards Warden of New College in Oxon; 3. Anne, Wife of Robert Hawkins, D. D. a Wiltſhire Man; 4. Judith, Wife of ..... Bradſhaw, Prebendary of Winton, which Doctor dy'd about the Time that Elizabeth Beeſton dy'd; 5. Mary, Wife of ..... Brooks a Miniſter.

Elizabeth, Wife of Henry Beeſton before mentioned, dy'd in New College the 14th of April, at 10 of the Clock at Night, Anno 1690, buried the 18th of the ſame Month, near her Mother in Thame Chancel. She (ſaith Ant. à Wood) hath had 23 Children by Dr. Beeſton, but all are dead but three.

M. S. of Ant. a Wood's Remarks de Com. Oxon. p. 152.

(99) Argent, a Ratch-hound currant, between three Hunting-horns Sable, by the Name of Forreſter.

'He beareth Argent, 'on a Chevron between 'three Stags Heads couped 'Sable, as many Bugle-'horns ſtring'd of the Firſt. 'This Coat pertained to 'Sir George Huntley of 'Frowceſter in the County 'of Glouceſter, Kt. Other 'Coats derived from this 'noble Exerciſe I might produce, as three Dog-'hooks born by the Name of Mertingham; 'three Leaſhes or Slips, by the Name of Hay-'ward; but theſe Examples may ſtand in Stead 'of the Reſt. And hitherto are to be referred 'Toyles, Hayes, Collars for Grey-hounds: Of 'which laſt Sort I find an Eſcutcheon erected 'in the Church of Newent in the Foreſt of Dean, 'in Field Sable, three Grey-hounds Collars Ar-'gent, edged, ſtudded, and tyrretted Or.

Powrie of Woodcockſholm; Argent, a Saltire engrail'd Gules, ſurmounted of another Or, between four Bugle-horns Sable.

'He beareth Or, on a 'Feſs Azure, three Hawks 'Bells of the Firſt, by the 'Name of Planke. This 'Sort of Bells is of no late 'Invention, but of great 'Antiquity, and in Uſe 'amongſt the Hebrews, 'whoſe High Prieſt had 'little Bells at the Skirts 'of his uppermoſt Garment, as appeareth Exod. '28. 33. And beneath upon the Skirts thereof, thou 'ſhalt make Pomegranates of blue Silk, and Purple 'and Scarlet round about the Skirts thereof, and 'Bells of Gold round about: To ſhew that the 'Attention and Devotion of God's People muſt 'be ſtirred up by the Miniſtry of this moſt ſa-'cred Function.

'He

" He beareth Azure, a " Chevron between three " Bells Or, by the Name " of Ent; and is the Coat " of that eminent Phyſi- " cian Sir George Ent of " East Laughton in Lin- " colnſhire, Kt. Preſident " of the Colledge of Phy- " ſicians in London.

Azure, a circular Wreath Argent and Sable, with four Bells join'd thereto, and diſpos'd in quadrangle Or. This Coat pertain'd to Thomas Jocelin of Horſley in the County of Eſſex, Eſq; living Anno 1614, being then Husband to Jane, Daughter of Edmund Saunders of Charlwood in the County of Surry; which Thomas Jocelin was Son and Heir of Thomas, the Son and Heir of Thomas, the Son and Heir of Jeffery, who was eldeſt Son and Heir of Ralph, the eldeſt Son and Heir of George, the Son and Heir of Thomas who lived Anno 7 H. 6. which Thomas was eldeſt Son and Heir of Jeffery, the Son and Heir of Thomas, the Son and Heir of Ralph, who was Son and Heir of Jeffery, the Son and Heir of Ralph, who was Son and Heir of Thomas, the Son and Heir of Thomas, the Son and Heir of John, who was Son and Heir of Ralph Jocelin of H..... the Son and Heir of Henry, who was Son and Heir of James Jocelin.

It pertain'd alſo (with due Difference) to Sir Thomas Jocelin of Newhall Jocelins in the County of Eſſex, Son and Heir of John Jocelin of the ſame Place by his Wife ..... Daughter of ..... Bradbury, Eſq; which John Jocelin dy'd the 17th of Henry 8. being younger Brother of Ralph, and ſecond Son of George Jocelin aforeſaid.

Vid. Viſit. de Com. Eſſex, in Coll. Arm. mark'd C. 21. fo. 26. b.

He beareth Argent, on a Bend Sable a Lure with a Line and Ring of the Field, and a Chief of the Second, by the Name of Brooke. This Coat was confirmed by William Camden Clarencieux, Anno Dom. 1605. to William Brooke of Buckingham, Son of Robert Brooke, Father of Leonard ———

' He beareth Sable, a ' Chevron Or, between ' three Lures Argent, by ' the Name of Prenue. ' This Coat was quarter- ' ed by Sir Nicholas Ar- ' nold, Kt. ſometimes of ' Hyneham in the County ' of Glouceſter. A like ' Coat to this is born by ' the Name of Lie, and well accordeth with ' the Name; for Faulconers uſe to deceive their ' Hawks with caſting up of this, as if it were ' ſome Fowl, and ſo they give them a Lye for ' a Truth. And theſe two Examples may ſuf- ' fice for the noble Art of Hawking. The next ' and laſt is Fiſhing.

' The Skill of Fiſhing is diverſely exerciſed, ' viz. Sometimes with Nets, ſometimes with ' Hooks; at other times with Salmon-ſpears or ' Eel-ſpears, and ſometimes with Gins, with ' Puttes, Weels, &c. all which are found born ' in Coat-Armour. Now firſt of Nets. Theſe ' are moſt uſually born in Arms Piece-meal, or ' in Fragments, which are the ſame (if I be not ' deceived) which we call in blazon Frets, be- ' cauſe the Frenchmen call a Net, Retz, and we, ' by intermixture of Language, have added ' thereunto the Letter F. Theſe Fragments are ' ſometimes born ſingle.

' He beareth Gules, a ' Chevron Ermine, between ' three Maſcles Argent, by ' the Name of Belgrave; ' and is born by William ' Belgrave of North Kil- ' worth in Leiceſterſhire, Eſq; ' Theſe are by ſome taken ' to be the ſame with Lo- ' zenges. A Maſcle in Ar- ' moury (ſaith Sir John Ferne) is a Repreſentation ' of the Maſh of a Net, ſignifying the Bearer thereof ' in a Field, Gules, to have been moſt prudent ' and politick in the Stratagems of Wars, for ' that the Field is dedicated to Mars. The Bear- ' ing of Maſcles therefore is of greater Honour ' than many other Charges are, that in vulgar ' Eſtimation are more accounted of. But of theſe more at large when I come to treat of thoſe proper Figures in Heraldry that are Square.

" The Field is Diamond, " a Fret Topaz. This was " the Coat-Armour of " Henry Lord Maltrevers " or Mautravers (for I " find the Orthography " both ways) an ancient " Baron of this Kingdom, " and is now quartered by " the Right Honourable " Thomas Howard Earl of Arundel and Surry, " Earl-Marſhal of England. When the Fret con- " ſiſteth of ſix Pieces, then (ſaith Sir John Ferne " in Lacie's Nobility, pag. 69.) we ſay a Fret, " without ſaying any more: But in this we dif- " fer from the French Heralds, who blazon ſuch " a Kind of Bearing, a Fret of ſix Pieces; and " there he noteth further, that a Fret cannot be " of leſs than ſix Pieces.

Sable,

" Sable, a Fret Argent, is born by the Name " of Harrington; a Bearing so excellent, that it " is generally known by the Name of Harrington's Knot.

" Gules, a Fret Argent, is the Coat of Fleming, and is born by Daniel Fleming of Ridale-hall in Westmoreland, and of Beckermet in Cumberland, Esq;

Gules, a Fret Argent, is born by the Name of Hodleston, and belong'd to Sir Robert Hodleston of Wilbraham in the County of Cambridge, Knight, who married ..... Daughter of ..... Roper, Lord Tenham, for his second Wife.

Vid. Visit. de Com. Cantabrigiæ in Coll. Arm.

It belong'd also to Henry Hodleston of Sauston in the said County, Esq; who married Mary, Daughter of Richard Bostock of Whickfall in the County of Salop, and had Issue Robert, Henry, Richard, and another Son, not baptiz'd at the Time of the Visitation when this Descent was taken, being but three Days Old; also two Daughters, Mary and Elizabeth.

The said Henry was Son and Heir of Henry of the same Place, and of Elizabeth his Wife, Daughter of William Havers of Thelton in the County of Norfolk; which Henry was younger Brother of the abovenamed Sir Robert Hodleston of Wilbraham, and 3d Son of Henry Hodleston of Patteswick in the County of Essex, and also of Sauston aforesaid, by his Wife Anne, Daughter of ..... Earl of Carnarvon.

(℘) Gules, a Fret Argent, by the Name of Lyll.

'He beareth Gules, a 'Fret engrailed Ermine, 'by the Name of Eynesfort.

(℘) Machculloc of Piltoun; Ermine, a Fret engrail'd Gules.

'If this Fret (saith Leigh) 'be of more Pieces than you see here, then it alter-'eth from the same Name, and is blazoned Di-'per. Of the manifold Sorts of Diapering I 'have formerly given Examples, together with 'certain Observations thereupon, whereunto I 'do refer you for satisfaction therein. These 'Examples may serve for Nets, to shew their 'diverse Manner of Bearing, and to give occa-'sion to the Reader, to make a more strict Ob-'servation of such others, as I here pass over, 'because my Design is to be brief.

M. S. of Ant. a Wood's Remarks de Com. Oxon. p. 116.

He was born in the County of Leicester, at or near Ratcliff on the River Wreak, and married ..... Daughter of Peter Allibond Minister of Chenys in the County of Bucks, and Sister to Dr. John Allibond, sometime Schoolmaster and Fellow of Magdalen College, afterwards Rector of Bradwell in the County of Glouceſter, by whom he had Issue Job Hood, now (saith à Wood) a Tradesman in London, born in Magdalen College, Oxon, baptised there the 18th of October 1630.

He beareth Azure, a Fret Or, on a Chief of the Second, a Lyon passant of the First, by the Name of Jefferyes. This Coat was confirmed by Sir William Segar, the 20th of February, in the 8th Year of the Reign of King James the First, to James Jefferyes, Son of Richard Jefferyes of Little Bursted in the County of Essex, Gent.

Her. Off. Essex, C. 21. fo. 148.

N. B. James abovementioned had, by his Wife Sarah, Daughter of Richard Pellet of ..... in Sussex, two Children, viz. John of Little Bursted, who married Sarah, Daughter of John Butler of ..... in Essex, and Hester, married to William Blackborough of London.

Argent, on a Fess between 3 Buffaloes Heads erased Sable, armed, and through each of their Noses an Annulet Or, a Fret betwixt two Eaglets close of the Field, is born by the Name of Knight; and was first granted to Thomas Knight of Hove in the County of Southampton, Esq; (one of the Clerks of the Signet to King Henry the VIIIth, and Under-Under-Treasurer of his Mints) by Christopher Barker Garter, the 8th of April, in the 37th Year of the Reign of Henry the VIIIth, but the said Thomas Knight dying either without Issue, or his Issue dying just after, the same Coat was granted or confirmed unto William Knight of Abthorpe in the County of Northampton, Gent. by William Hervey Clarencieux, the 23d of March 1565, and to his Posterity, to perpetuate the Memory of so worthy a Man as he asserts the aforesaid Thomas to be.

'He beareth Argent, a 'Fret of eight Pieces, A- 'zure. This was the 'Coat-Armour of a no- 'ble Norman well descend- 'ed, called Seigneur de 'Montier Aullier, as is te- 'stified by an ancient 'French Manuscript.

Sable, Fretty Argent, with a Mullet for a Difference, was the Coat of William Bellewe of Ash-Rogus in Brampton in the County of Devon, Esq; who married Anne, Daughter of Hugh Stukley of Aston in the said County, Kt. and had Issue Richard, and John a Priest, also Fulco or Fulk, Henry, Charles, and Anthony; and likewise seven Daughters, viz. Elizabeth, Phillippa, Agnes, Alice, Elianora, Bersaba and Andrea.

Elizabeth was married to Simon Sloley of Shirwell; Phillippa to John Addington of Biddiford in the County of Devon; Agnes to John Doble of Upcott in the County of Somerset; Alice to Stephen Braden of the Inner Temple, London, Gent. Elianora, Bersheba, and Andrea unmarried.

Note, That William Bellewe of Ash-Rogus aforesaid, was eldest Son and Heir of Henry Bellewe of Alverscott in the County of Devon, Esq; which Henry was eldest Son and Heir of Patrick Bellewe of the said Place, Esq; which Patrick was Son and Heir of John Bellewe, the Son and Heir of Philip, who was Son and Heir of William, the Son and Heir of James, the second Son and Heir of John, who was Son and Heir of John, the Son and Heir of Jos. who was Son and Heir of James, the Son and Heir of Jos. who was Son and Heir of Roger Bellewe of Bellewestown within the Parish of Devylike in the County of Midye in the Kingdom of Ireland.

"He beareth Argent, a "Fret of eight Pieces "Gules, each charg'd in "the Midst with Fleurs de "lis Or. This Coat per- "tain'd to Sir Lawrence "Hamelden, Kt. who was "one of those Knights "that exercised the Tour- "nament holden at Dun- "stable, in the second Year of King Edward the "Second.

'If in any Coat of this Bearing there be found 'more than eight Pieces, then (saith Leigh) you 'shall not need to number the Pieces; but in 'the Blazon of such Coat-Armours you shall say, 'He beareth Fretty; one Example whereof fol- 'loweth.

"The Field is Emerald, "Fretty Topaz, a Differ- "ence for a second Bro- "ther of the third House. "This Coat-Armour per- "taineth to George Whit- "more, a few Years since "Lord Mayor of the Ho- "nourable City of Lon- "don, descended of the "Family of Whitmores of Whitmore of Shrop- "shire; in which County, at Apley, now re- "sideth Sir William Whitmore, Bart. who bears "the said Coat, only with Omission of the Mul- "let, and the Addition of the Arms of Ulster.

Ermine, Fretty Gules, is born by the Name of Nouell, and was confirm'd by Robert Cook Clarencieux, the 16th of February 1582, in the 24th Year of the Reign of Queen Elizabeth, to Andrew Nouell of Dalby in the County of Leicester, Esquire, his Ancestors having (as is mentioned in the Patent) born the Same for many hundred Years.

M. S. in Ashm. Numb. 834. p. 39.

(M) Sable, Fretty Or, by the Name of Lauderdale.

(M) Machculloc of Myretoun; Ermine, Fretty Gules.

"Argent, Fretty Gules, "a Chief Azure. This "Coat is born by Darcy "Curwen of Sella-Park in "Cumberland, Esq; Grand- "child of Sir Henry Cur- "wen of Workington in the "said County, Knight and "Baronet.

Curwen of Cumberland; Argent, Fretty Gules, a Chief Azure.

Fouleshurst of Essex; Gules, Fretty Or, a Chief Ermine.

Sir Anthony St. Leger, Lord Deputy of Ireland, Anno 1514; Azure, Fretty Argent, a Chief Or. This Coat is in Gray's Inn Hall Windows.

Fitz-Randolph; Azure, Fretty, and a Chief Or.

Cave; Azure, Fretty Argent, a Chief Gules.

"Topaz,

" Topaz, Fretty Ruby, " a Canton Ermine. This " is the Coat-Armour of " the Right Honourable " Baptist Noel Viscount " Camden, Baron Noel of " Ridlington and Elming- " ton, Lord Lieutenant of " the County of Rut- " land, &c.

Gules, Fretty Or, on a Canton Azure, two Ears of Wheat slip'd (without Blades) of the Second, a Mullet for a Difference, is born by John Whyshaw of Gray's Inn in the County of Middlesex, Gent. third Son of John Whyshaw of Lees in the County Palatine of Chester, at which Place the Family hath resided for some considerable Time.

Argent, Fretty Vert, on a Chief Azure, three Roses Or, was confirm'd by William Segar to John Younge of London, who married Anne, Daughter of Thomas Garraway; which John was Son of George Younge of Draycot in Staffordshire, Son of Robert Younge of the same Place.

Her. Off. London, C. 24. fo. 375. b.

He beareth Azure, Fretty Argent, on a Fess Gules, three Leopards heads Or, by the Name of Cann. This Coat (without the Addition of the Charge on the Fess pertain'd to his Ancestors) was thus altered and assigned by Sir Edward Walker Garter, the 8th of March 1663,4, in the 16th Year of the Reign of King Charles the Second, to Sir Robert Cann, Knight and Baronet, sometime Mayor of Bristol, Son of William Cann (formerly Mayor also of the said City) by Margaret Yeomans, Sister of Robert Yeomans; who for his Loyalty to King Charles the First, suffer'd Death by the Rebels in Bristol Anno 1643, which Sir Robert Cann aforesaid, was also at all times ready to express his Loyalty and Affection for his Majesty and his Cause.

He beareth Argent, a Fess Gules, Fretty Or, between three Buffalows Heads erased Sable, armed of the Third, by the Name of Knight alias Brother. This Coat was granted by Sir Edward Walker Garter, the 25th of July 1664, in the 16th Year of the Reign of King Charles the Second, to Henry Knight alias Brother, of Clerkenwell in the County of Middlesex, Citizen of London, and Free of the Brewers Company (Son of Richard Knight alias Brother of Luton in the County of Bedford) a Person that upon all Occasions endeavour'd the Advancement of his Sovereign's Interest, being Assistant to many loyal Persons against the Rebels.

Azure, three Sturgeons naiant in Pale Argent, and debruis'd by a Fret of eight Pieces Or, is born by the Name of Stourgeon.

" He beareth Argent, on " a Cross between four " Frets Gules, a Tower " Or, by the Name of " Bence; and is the Coat " of John Bence of Albo- " rough in Suffolk, and of " the City of London, " Esquire.

Argent, on a Cross between four Frets Gules, a Tower Or. This Coat was granted to John Bence of Kingsfield in the County of Suffolk, and Edmond Bence his Brother (the Sons of John Bence of Benhall in the same County) and to Alexander Bence of London, Merchant, who Fin'd for Alderman; which Alexander was Brother to the aforesaid John Bence of Benhall, by Sir Edward Byshe Clarencieux, the 1st of June 1661, in the 13th Year of King Charles the Second.

" He beareth Argent, " Semy of Castles and " Fretty Gules, by the " Name of Nechur.

' He beareth Sable, a ' Chevron between three ' Fishing-hooks Argent, by ' the Name of Medvile. ' Not improperly (saith Pie- ' rius) do Men signify by this ' Kind of Hook, Fraud and ' Guile; Quia decipere est ' unum ostentare, & aliud ' præter opinionem inferre; For,

'For the Fisherman, under a Shew of rendring Food 'to the Fish (having subtilly covered the Hook all 'over with the Bait) doth give him his deadly bane. 'And of this Trade are more in the World, 'than will acknowledge themselves of the Com- 'pany of Fishermen or Fishmongers.

'He beareth Sable, a 'Chevron between three 'Eel-spears Argent, by 'the Name of Stratele. 'These do Fishermen use 'for the Taking of Eels, 'which being (for the 'most Part) in the Mud, 'cannot be taken with 'Net or other Gin; which 'gave Occasion to the In- 'vention of this Instrument, a long Staff be- 'ing set in the Socket thereof, and so to strike 'into the Depth of the Mud, and by Means of 'the Barbs of this Instrument, they detain as 'many as come within the Range thereof. And 'therefore this Engine hath a Signification of 'such an Action of Desert, wherein both 'Strength and Policy are conjoined.

'He beareth Argent, a 'Chevron Ermine, be- 'tween three Weels, their 'Hoops upwards Vert, by 'the Name of Wylley. 'And indeed this is like 'the Insnarings and De- 'ceits of wily Men: 'For as this Mouth is 'made broad and easie 'for the Fish to enter, but is narrow within, 'that they cannot get forth; so crafty Varlets 'will make fair Pretence to draw Men into their 'Dangers, out of which they cannot get forth, 'being once intangled. And this Kind of Trade 'is much more base and illiberal than any of 'the afore-specified. And with these are to be 'ranged all those, quorum lingua venalis est (saith 'Tully) who sell their Tongue, their Skill, their 'Conscience, only to get a Fee of their Clients. 'And thus much of Arts Mechanical of the 'first and principal Rank.

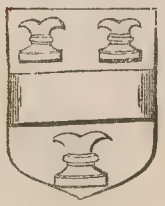

CHAP. XII.

'ARTS Mechanical of more necessary 'Use for the Nourishing and Preserving 'of Man's Body, we have proposed in the pre- 'ceding Examples: There yet rest other Arts 'of a second Rank, which tend rather to the 'embellishing and beautifying of Nature's 'Works, than to the necessary Supply of hu- 'man Uses; yea, some of them such, as are 'rather Baits to please the Senses, than Means 'to further Man's Good. Yet because the Cu- 'stom of Times, and Opinion of Men, and a 'certain curious and affected Skill hath given 'Esteem and Name of Art unto such superflu- 'ous Curiosities, we will not utterly pass them 'by; the rather, because all of them being used 'with Moderation, by Understanding Men, and 'for good Ends, they may deservedly have both 'Approbation and Commendation. The First 'of these is the Skill of Cookery, for the exqui- 'site pleasing of the Palate; unto which Kind 'of Men, some have been so addicted, that it 'is wrote of a certain Prince, that he proposed 'a great Reward to every Man that should in- 'vent a new devised Dish. And the Syba- 'rites were famous in this Kind, who invited 'their Guests a Year before the Feast, and so 'long were catering for Dainties. It is a Pro- 'verb among the Jews, Qui multiplicat carnes, 'multiplicat vermes: And most true it is, That 'he that daily feedeth his Body, is but a Cook 'to dress Meat for Worms. Painting, Carving, 'and Embroidering, serve to please another 'Sense, the Sight; and therefore is a more in- 'genious Delight: And in this Kind, some have 'been so excellent and renowned, as that they 'have been number'd among Men of admira- 'ble Wisdom; as Apelles, Phidias, Polycletus, and 'others, whose Works have deserved immortal 'Reputation, and some of their Master-pieces 'have been prised beyond Belief. All these 'have sundry Instruments, which may be (and 'doubtless have been) born in Coat-Armour; 'but because they are not usual, I will refer 'them to each Man's own Observation, and 'will give some Instances in the Last of this Kind 'of Arts of Delight, which we call Playing; 'which comprehendeth either theatrical Re- 'creation, or other Games whatsoever.

'And forasmuch as their first Institution was 'good, and that they are in themselves the com- 'mendable Exercises, either of the Body, or of 'Wit and Invention (and if there be in them 'any Evil, it is not in them per se, but per acci- 'dens, because they are abused by those that 'do practise and exercise them) I have thought 'good to annex them unto the same: Such are 'Table-playing, Chess, Dice, Racket, Balloon, '&c. The Things wherewith these Games are 'practised, are born in Coat-Armour, as by 'these Examples following may appear.

'He beareth Azure, a 'Pair of Playing-tables 'Argent, bordered Or, 'pointed and garniſhed 'within of the Firſt, by 'the Name of Pegreſs. 'Recreations which are 'honeſt, are as neceſſary 'for the Mind, which is 'imployed in great Af-'fairs and Cares of Importance, as Meat is for 'the Body which is exhauſted with daily La-'bour; and therefore, of all Men living, Statef-'men and Students are to be born with, if they 'are more addicted to the Refreſhing of their 'Minds over-charg'd with Meditation, than other 'Sorts of Men. But the Play at Tables, is not 'held ſo fitting for the Female Sex, thereby 'they learn to act the Man more than they 'ſhould.

'He beareth Azure, a 'Feſs between 3 Cheſs-'Rooks Or, by the Name 'of Bodenham; and was 'born by that great Lo-'ver and Promoter of 'Heraldry Sir Winfield Bo-'denham, Kt. It ſeemeth 'theſe were at firſt called 'Rooks, for being the De-'fence of all the Reſt; 'and therefore they ſtand in the uttermoſt Cor-'ners of the Cheſs-board, as Frontier Caſtles. 'This is a Game of noble Exerciſe for the Mind, 'as requiring much Forecaſt and Underſtanding 'King William the Conqueror was much ad-'dicted to this Delight, and loſt great Lord-'ſhips at this Play. And indeed, were it not 'too ſerious a Recreation, and going beyond 'the Nature of Games, it might well beſeem 'a King, becauſe therein are compriſed all 'the Stratagems of War, or Plots of Civil 'States.

Azure, a Feſs Argent, between three Cheſs-Rooks Or, is born by the Name of Rooks, and was atteſted (under an Eſcutcheon of the ſame painted on Vellom) to belong to George Rooks of London, by Sir John Borough Garter, the 1ſt of May 1640.

He beareth Argent, on a Chevron engrailed between three Cheſs-Rooks Sable, as many Creſcents Or, by the Name of Walter, and was granted to Sir Robert Walter (Lord Mayor of York) the 1ſt of October 1603, in the Firſt Year of the Reign of King James the Firſt. The ſaid Sir Robert, upon receiving the King when he came out of Scotland, received the Dignity of Knighthood.

(99) Orrook; Argent, a Chevron Gules, between three Cheſs-Rooks Sable: But now he gives Sable, on a Chevron Or, between three Mullets Argent, as many Cheſs-Rooks of the Field.

(99) Smith of Methuen; Azure, a burning Cup between two Cheſs-Rooks in Feſs Or.

"He beareth Argent, "ſix Cheſs-Rooks, three, "two, and one Sable, by "the Name of Rockwood; "and is born by Nicholas "Rockwood of Kirby in "Suffolk, Eſq;

"He beareth Or, three "Dice Sable, each char-"ged with an Ace Ar-"gent, by the Name of "Ambeſace, as appeareth "by an old Roll late in "the Hands of Mr. Starky "deceaſed.

'He beareth Argent, a 'Chevron between three 'Dice Sable, each one 'charg'd with a Cinque 'of the Firſt. This Coat 'was quartered by Mr. 'Fitz-Williams of Malton. 'This is the Game of For-'tune, and Fortune's Chil-'dren. The Square, which 'always falleth right howſoever it be caſt, is 'the Emblem of Conſtancy; but the Uncer-'tainty of the Picks is the very Type of Incon-'ſtancy and Mutability. He that lays his 'Eſtate on the Eyes of theſe Dice, will leave 'a ſmall Eſtate for his own Eyes to look on.

Ermine, a Fer-de-moline Azure, is born by the Name of Molins, and was aſſign'd by Patent dated the 23d of Auguſt 1614, to James Molins in Shoe-lane, London, Chyrurgeon, by Sir William Segar Gar-ter.

He

"He beareth Gules, a "Fer-de-moline pierced be- "tween 2 Martlets in Fess "Argent, by the Name of "Beversham; and is the "Paternal Coat-Armour "of Sir William Bever- "sham of Holbrook-hall in "Suffolk, Kt. one of the "Masters of the high and "honourable Court of "Chancery.

Or, on a Bend Gules, three Fer-de-molines Argent, is born by the Name of Speccot, and did belong to Peter Speccot, who married ..... Daughter of Sir John Mallet, of Corey Mallet, Kt. whose Genealogy take as follows.

The First that I find of this Family was Sir Richard de Speccot of Speccot, Kt. who married Matilda, Daughter and Co-heir of Baldwin Bellasta, and had Issue three Sons and one Daughter Johana, who was married to William Rouse; the Sons were William, Edmond, and Baldwin of Blastun who married ..... Daughter of Reginald Ferrars.

Humphry Speccot of Speccot in the County of Devon, Son and Heir of Edmond aforesaid, took to Wife Elizabeth, Daughter of John Walcott, and had Issue three Sons and one Daughter Mary, (who was married to John Fortescue of Fillap) the Sons Names were John, Edmond, and Roger.

John alias Sir John Speccot of Speccot, Son and Heir of Humphry, married two Wives; the First was Elizabeth, Daughter of Peter Edgcomb of Mount Edgcombe, by whom he had Issue Peter Speccot Son and Heir, aged 25 in the Year 1620 (which was the Peter 1 first mentioned, who married the Daughter of Sir John Mallet) also Paul second Son, and Elizabeth a Daughter, Wife of Francis Fortescue of Preston.

The second Wife of Sir John Speccot aforesaid was Jane, Daughter of William de Hall in the County of Cornwall, by whom he had John Speccot third Son, and Anne a Maiden.

Edmond, younger Brother of the said Sir John and second Son of Humphry his Father, married Elizabeth, Daughter of Sir William Stroude, Kt. and had Issue Edward Son and Heir, aged 15, and Nathaniel second Son, whose Age was 13, Anno prædict.

We come now to Roger Speccot of Thorverton in the County of Devon, living Anno 1620, younger Brother to the before-mentioned Sir John and Edmond, and third Son of Humphry their Father; which Roger took to Wife Elizabeth, Daughter of Edmund Reynell of Malston in the County of Devon, and had Issue Henry Speccot Son and Heir, aged 14 Anno 1620, Roger second Son, and John third Son; also two Daughters, Rebecca eldest, and Elizabeth second Daughter.

We are now arrived to Nicholas Speccot of Speccot, younger Brother of the abovesaid Humphry and John, and third Son of Edmond Speccot of Speccot, their Father; which Nicholas married .... Daughter of ..... Palmer of Beckmansworth in Devonshire, and had Issue Thomas first Son, Humphry second Son, and John third Son, who was of Clowton in the said County, (living Anno 1620) and married Margaret, Daughter of Anthony Copleston of Great Torrington ——

Vide Visit. de Com. Devon. & Cornub. C. 1. fo. 97. in Coll. Arm.

He beareth Argent, a Chevron between three Fer-de-molines transpos'd Barr-ways Sable, by the Name of James. This Coat was assign'd by William Camden, the 18th of November 1611, to Roger James of Upminster-hall in the County of Essex, and to John James his Brother.

CHAP. XIII.

'WHAT manifold Variety of Coat-Ar-'mours (consisting of Things Artifi-'cial) is borrowed from the several Dignities, 'Arts, and Exercises of Men of civil Life and 'Condition, the foregoing Tracts and Examples 'have sufficiently declared. There now remain 'such Artificials as are in Use among Men of 'military Profession, with which we will shut 'up this whole Section of Things Artificial. By 'Things Military, I understand all such as do 'pertain to the Use and Exercise of martial 'Disciplihe and Service; whereof some do serve 'for Order, some for Execution of Order. Of 'the first Kind are those Things which are for 'direction in Marchings, Encampings, Arisings, 'Assaults, Retreats, &c. and such are the Ban-'ner-Royal, the Standard, Guidon, Penon, Cor-'net, &c. For altho' it be true, That Leges silent 'inter Arma, Laws cannot be heard among clash-'ing of Weapons; yet without certain Laws 'of Discipline and Order it is impossible for 'any martial Attempt to be successful. And 'therefore this is reckoned as Hannibal's highest 'Glory, that being Captain of an Army con-'sisting of Men of so sundry Nations and Con-'ditions, he notwithstanding kept them all un-'der quiet Discipline; the Want whereof hath 'commonly been the Cause, when any great De-'sign hath proved unprosperous.

'The valiant Zisca being stark Blind, yet sit-'ting in the Midst of his Army, whilst they 'were in any pitch'd Field with the Enemies, 'gave such Directions upon all Occasions, as 'that his Army was ever Victorious. And Cæ-'sar was in this Kind so fortunate, that he 'fought fifty pitch'd Field-Battles with Honour, 'wherein he alone surpassed the valorous Marcus 'Marcellus, who is said to have been Forty 'Times save One in the Field. And requisite is 'it in Matters of so high a Nature, as are de-'cided by Wars, an exquisite Care both in di-'recting and obeying, should be observed; be-'cause it hath often happened, that the Neglect 'or Mistaking of some one small Circumstance 'hath been the Overthrow of whole Armies, 'and all the States thereon depending.

"And since we are about to treat of such Ar-"tificials as are in Use among Men of military "Profession, I hold it not impertinent to dis-"course a little of military Laws, and some Ob-"servations concerning Battels and Armies, be-"ginning with such military Laws and Disci-"pline as were divulged to the Israelites, in the "Beginning of the second Month of the second "Year, after their coming out of Egypt.

"The all-powerful and most provident God "and wise Disposer of all Things, having made "special Choice of a People selected out of all "the Nations of the World for his own pecu-"liar Service, and having a tender Care of them, "and foreseeing in his divine Providence how "necessary Discipline was for the Ordering and "conducting of so huge and populous a Mul-"titude, in a Passage so long, and withal so full "of Perils; and knowing that all civil Disci-"pline consisted in commanding and obeying, "prescribeth to his Servant Moses a regular "Form of Government, whereby he might "contain them in their several Offices and "Duties.

"First, he commanded Moses to number the "Israelites, saying, Take ye the Sum of all the "Congregation of the Children of Israel, &c. Num. "1, 2.

"And then having given Moses and Aaron ge-"neral Directions for the Marshalling and Or-"dering the whole Army of the Israelites, he "saith, Num. 2. 2. Every Man of the Children "of Israel shall camp by his Standard, and under "the Ensign of their Father's House: Far off about "the Tabernacle of the Congregation shall they "pitch.

"And on the East side "toward the Rising of the "Sun shall they of the Stan-"dard of the Camp of Ju-"dah pitch, throughout "their Armies: And Naa-"shon the Son of Amina-"dab shall be Captain of the "Children of Judah.

"And his Host, and those "that were numbered of "them, were Threescore and "fourteen thousand, and six "hundred.

"And those that do pitch next unto him, shall be "the Tribe of Issachar: And Nethaneel the Son "of Zuar shall be Captain of the Children of Issa-"char.

"And his Host, and those that were numbered "thereof, were Fifty and four thousand, and four "hundred.

"Then

" Then the Tribe of Zebulon: And Eliab the " Son of Helon, ſhall be Captain of the Children of " Zebulun.

" And his Hoſt, and thoſe that were numbered " thereof, were Fifty and ſeven thouſand, and four " hundred.

" All that were numbered in the Camp of Judah, " were an Hundred fourſcore and ſix thouſand and " four hundred throughout their Armies: Theſe ſhall " firſt ſet forth.

" On the South ſide ſhall " be the Standard of the " Camp of Reuben, accor- " ding to their Armies: " And the Captain of the " Children of Reuben ſhall " be Elizur the Son of She- " deur.

" And his Hoſt, and thoſe " that were numbered there- " of, were Forty and ſix " thouſand, and five hun " dred.

" And thoſe that pitch by him ſhall be the Tribe " of Simeon: and the Captain of the Children of " Simeon ſhall be Shelumiel the Son of Zuriſhad- " dai.

" And his Hoſt, and thoſe that were numbered " of them, were Fifty and nine thouſand, and three " hundred.

" Then the Tribe of Gad: and the Captain of the " Sons of Gad ſhall be Eliaſaph the Son of Reuel.

" And his Hoſt, and thoſe that were numbered " of them, were Forty and five thouſand, and ſix " hundred and fifty.

" All that were numbered in the Camp of Reu- " ben, were an Hundred thouſand, and fifty and one " thouſand, and four hundred and fifty throughout " their Armies: and they ſet forth in the ſecond " Rank.

" Then the Tabernacle of the Congregation ſhall " ſet forward, with the Camp of the Levites in the " midſt of the Camp: as they encamp, ſo ſhall they " ſet forward, every Man in his Place by their Stan- " dards.

" On the Weſt ſide ſhall " be the Standard of the " Camp of Ephraim, ac- " cording to their Armies: " and the Captain of the " Sons of Ephraim ſhall be " Eliſhama the Son of Am- " mihud.

" And his Hoſt, and thoſe " that were numbered of " them, were Forty thouſand " and five hundred.

" And by him ſhall be the " Tribe of Manaſſeh: and the Captain of the Chil- " dren of Manaſſeh ſhall be Gamaliel the Son of " Pedahzur.

" And his Hoſt, and thoſe that were numbered " of them, were Thirty and two thouſand and two " hundred.

" Then the Tribe of Benjamin: and the Captain " of the Sons of Benjamin ſhall be Abidan the Son " of Gideoni.

" And his Hoſt, and thoſe that were numbered of " them, were Thirty and five thouſand and four " hundred.

" All that were numbered of the Camp of Ephraim, " were an Hundred thouſand, and eight thouſand, " and an hundred throughout their Armies: and they " ſhall go forward in the third Rank.

" The Standard of the " Camp of Dan ſhall be on " the North ſide by their Ar- " mies: and the Captain of " the Children of Dan ſhall " be Ahiezur the Son of " Amiſhaddai.

" And his Hoſt, and thoſe " that were numbered of " them, were Threeſcore and " two thouſand and ſeven " hundred.

" And thoſe that encamp by him ſhall be the Tribe " of Aſher: and the Captain of the Children of Aſher " ſhall be Pagiel the Son of Ocran.

" And his Hoſt, and thoſe that were numbered " of them, were Forty and one thouſand and five " hundred.

" Then the Tribe of Naphtali: and the Captain " of the Children of Naphtali ſhall be Ahira the " Son of Enan.

" And his Hoſt, and thoſe that were numbered of " them, were Fifty and three thouſand and four hun- " dred.

" All they that were numbered in the Camp of Dan, " were an Hundred thouſand, and fifty and ſeven " thouſand and ſix hundred: they ſhall go hindmoſt " with their Standards.

" Here have we in this ſecond Chapter of " Numbers an uncontrollable Warrant pronoun- " ced by the Mouth of Almighty God for the " Uſe of two Sorts of Enſigns; the one Gene- " ral, being in Number four, only ordained for " the leading and direction of the four Regi- " ments, as I may ſo call them: And the other " Particular, ſerving for the Demonſtration of " the ſeveral Families, and for the Diſtinguiſh- " ing of the particular Perſons of each Family, " for the more commodious diſtributing of them " into Bands; a Thing moſt neceſſary for the " beſtowing and conducting of ſo huge a Mul- " titude, conſidering how many Thouſands of " Perſons were compriſed in and under every " of the abovenamed Regiments: So as it is " moſt clear, that theſe are no leſs requiſite (in " their Kind) than the former in theirs, for the " more orderly and effectual managing of this " military Expedition of ſo long a Continuance, " and withal ſubjected to infinite Dangers.

" As touching the Tokens or Signs uſed in the " general Standards, we have ſhewed what they " were after the Opinion of Martinus Borhaus " who

" who differeth from Speed: His very Words " you may read in the Introduction of this " Book.

" Some Men are of Opinion, That such as are " vanquished in Battel, ought not to be captivated to such as had subdued them, unless " the Wars were just and lawful, as Dr. Casius " hath observed. But Borreus holdeth, That " altho' the Ground or Cause of the Wars that " are undertaken, be unjust; yet, it is not " simply unjust, that such as are vanquished in " Battel, should be subjected under the Power " of the Vanquisher; Quia Legislatoris intentio " est, ut virtus vincentis sic honoretur; the Purpose of the Law-maker was, That the Valour " of the Vanquisher should be so rewarded. " Besides, it is no ignominious Thing for one " Man to be subdued by another known of Valour, according to that Saying, Non tam turpe est " vinci, quam contendisse gloriosum; It is not " accounted a Matter so reproachful to be subdued, as it is honourable to have coped with a " noble and valiant Man.

" Many Men are remunerated for the Vertues that are found in them, or for the external Tokens of Vertue that are observed in " their outward Carriage: Hereupon is that " Law grounded, Quod capti bello victoribus subserviant; not for that the Conquerors are always the better Men, but in regard that in " them the Signs and Tokens of Vertue and " Valour are more apparent than in those that " are subdued.

" It is a just Dominion or Superiority, and " agreeable to the Order of Nature, That the " more Powerful should predominate over the " weaker Sort: And the Laws do seem to approve the same, Cum velint victum captum in " bello victoris servum fieri.

" It is a Law of Perpetuity (saith Xenophon) observed among Men, that when a Town or City that " held out the Assailants is surprised, whatsoever is " found therein is due to them that took the same, as " well the Persons as their whole Substance; whose " Opinion herein Aristotle followeth, Polit. 40. " And St. Ambrose, lib. 1. de Patriarch. writeth, " That the Prey of the King of Sodom was in like " Sort in the Power of Abraham that conquered " him.

" This Custom hath been also observed, That " to ask Leave to bury the Slain in the Time of " open Hostility, and whilst Men are in Arms " in the Field, or depart the Field after Battle, " is a Kind of yielding of Victory: For it becometh not them that won the Battel, to seek " any Thing of the Enemy by way of Intreaty. " Like as also the Unwillingness to join Battel, " and Protraction or Delay of Battle was taken " for a Yielding of Victory.

" But now we will begin with Examples of " bearing such Things in Coat-Armour, where- " by martial Discipline and Order, which we " have now discoursed of, are preserved; whereof " some are for Shew, other for Sound.

' The Field is Jupiter, ' three Banners disvellop- ' ed in Bend Sol. Virgi- ' lius Solis noteth this for ' the Arms of the King- ' dom of Baldachia. Dis- ' velloping is the proper ' Term for spreading or ' displaying of this mar- ' tial Ensign, as Wyrley no- ' teth in the Life and Death of the Capitoll de ' Burr, saying, With threatning Ax in Hand I ' was at Hand, and my disvelloped Penon me be- ' fore, &c.

' Very useful are these Ensigns for every par- ' ticular Band of Foot and Troop of Horse, to ' the End they may know whither to draw to- ' gether in Expectation of the Command of ' their Captain for the Performance of all Oc- ' casions; and that they may by them be direct- ' ed after any Conflict or Skirmish, whither to ' retire themselves without danger: They also ' serve for the manifest distinguishing of Bands ' and Companies. And by these they are all di- ' rected in their Services, as a Ship is guided ' through the forcible and violent Surges of the ' Seas, by the Benefit of her Helm and a skilful ' Pilot guiding the same.

' The Ensigns that the Romans anciently used, ' were of diverse Shapes: The Eagle fixed on ' the Top of a Pike or Pole was the Chief; but ' that they had Penons or Flags also, appeareth " by Lazius, who saith they were called vexilla, ' à velis navium, from the Sails of Ships, which ' they resembled, being so named tanquam minus ' velum, as it were a little Sail.

' He beareth Azure, 4 ' Spears in Bend garnish- ' ed with Penoncles dex- ' ter-ways, counterly sur- ' mounted of as many ' other like Argent. This ' Coat was born quarterly ' by Laz. van Schwendi, a ' Dutchman. These Pe- ' noncles made of certain ' small Pieces of Taffaty or Sarcenet, cut after the ' Form of a Penon, wherewith martial Men do ' oftentimes adorn their Spears and Launces, which ' although of themselves they be Things of no ' Moment; yet do they very often (like as also ' Banners do) astonish the Enemy through their ' continual Motion: For as much as they are ever- ' more wafting and wavering in the Wind, ' whereby they do so occupy the Enemies Eye, ' as that it causeth a Terror in the Mind of their ' Foes, through a conceiv'd Opinion, that those ' that come against them (being all Troops of ' Horsemen that use this Kind of Spear) are of ' a far greater Number than indeed they ' are, as Wyrley in his said Book noteth, say- ' ing,

' To

' To Cockerel-ward we light into the way,
' Where we beheld the Foe-mates proud display;
' So many Banners wafting in the Air,
' They seemed twice the Number that they were.

" These aforesaid Instruments serve for Direction and Order to the Eye, and by Shew. " To these Ensigns thus born in the Field in " Time of Battel either expected or acted, we " may add this known Ensign of Premonstration of eminent hostile Invasion, which is the " fired Beacon, which giveth a sudden Warning of an immediate Attempt or Invasion of " Enemies, the Notice whereof giveth Occasion " of the Firing of the Beacon: Whereupon a " Gentleman of good Reputation chose to bear " for his Impress, upon a Mount a Beacon fired, " with this Motto annexed, Sic perisse juvat; " meaning, to die for his Country's Safety " was his Desire. The Bearing in Arms of three " of these fired Beacons appeareth, in this next " Example.

" He beareth Sable, 3 " Beacons fired Or, the " Flames Proper, by the " the Name of Dauntre. " As touching the Name " of Beacons, it seems to be " a Saxon Word, derived " from the Saxon Word " Becuian, which signifi- " eth to call by Sign or to " Beckon, as we use the Word at this Day, and " thereof are they called Beacons. Before the " Time of King Edward the Third, they were " made of great Stacks of Wood; but about " the eleventh Year of his Reign, he ordained " that there should be in Kent, high Standards " with their Pitch-pans on the Top of them. " Lambert's Perambulation of Kent, p. 69. Now " I will present to your View some Examples " of the Bearing in Coat-Armour such military " Instruments which direct more distinctly by " Sound.

' He beareth Gules, a ' Drum in Fess between ' three Drum-sticks erect- ' ed Argent. The Drum ' is of frequent Use (with ' diverse Nations) in the ' Field. The Parthians ' for this Purpose have ' great Kettle-drums, hol- ' low within, and about ' them they do hang little Bells and Copper- ' rings, all which sounding together, do make ' a Noise much like a dead Sound mingled with ' the Braying and Bellowing of a wild Beast. ' This Instrument, as it serves for Direction, ' so likewise is it of use in drowning the fearful ' Cries of wounded and dying Men, lest that ' ghastly Noise should daunt the Hearts of the ' Soldiers. Zisca, that renowned Captain of the ' Bohemians, being sick to Death, willed his Sol- ' diers to pluck off his Skin, and to make a ' Drum of it, assuring them that when their ' Enemies should hear the Sound of it, they ' would fly before their Face.

' There is manifold Uses of the Drum, Fife, ' Trumpet, and other musical Instruments used ' in martial Affairs, inasmuch as they serve not ' only for the Direction of Companies and ' Troops, but also of the whole Army in their ' Marchings, Encampings, Risings, Assaults, ' Retreats, &c. but also to dead and drown the ' Cries of the Maimed and Wounded, and to ' stir up Valour and Courage in the Soldiers to ' the fierce encountering and assaulting of the ' Enemy: And for those Ends was the Use of ' them ordained in Wars, to which Purpose do ' these Instruments much avail, Sonus enim cornuum & tubarum (in prælis) magnam vim habet ad spiritus, & sanguinem evocandum. For it is " not with Men as it is with Beasts, which can ' stir up Courage in themselves, as I have before ' shewed: For Men, in respect of Fear and faint ' Courage, are hardly provoked to fight, there- ' fore had they need to be drawn on and pro- ' voked thereto.

' He beareth Argent, a ' Chevron engrailed be- ' tween three Trumpets ' Sable, by the Name of ' Thunder. This Coat- ' Armour standeth in a ' Glass-window in St. Pe- ' ter's Church in Drogheda in Ireland. God him- ' self vouchsafed to give ' Direction to Moses for the Making of this Kind ' of Instrument, saying, Make thee two Trumpets of Silver, of an whole Piece shalt thou make them, that thou mayest use them for the Assembly of the Congregation, and for the Departure of the Camp, Numb. 10. 12. and ibid. 14. But if ye blow an Alarm, then the Camp of them that pitch on the East part shall go forward, ibid. 15. If ye blow an Alarm the second Time, then the Host of them that lie on the South side shall march; for they shall blow an Alarm when they remove. So that ' the Sound of the Trumpet is but as the loud ' and far-reaching Voice of the General: And ' though the Trumpet fight not, yet it doth ' more than many others, because it encoura- ' geth them to the Fight.

" He

" He beareth Ruby, 3 " Clarions Topaz. This " is the Coat-Armour of " the Right Honourable " John Earl of Bath, Vif- " count Greenvile of Lanf- " down, Baron Greenvile " of Kilhampton and Bidi- " ford, Lord Warden of " the Stanneries, High- " Steward of the Dutchy " of Cornwall, Lord Lieutenant of the Counties " of Cornwall and Devon, Governour of Plymouth, " Groom of the Stool, firſt Gentleman of his " Majeſty's Bedchamber, and one of his Maje- " ſty's moſt Honourable Privy Council, &c.

" Theſe Clarions are ſometimes deſcribed " Reſts: But whether they be underſtood to " be the Rudder, or from the Name to be a " Thing whereon to reſt their Launces, I know " not; but am rather induced to believe them to " be Inſtruments uſed in Battel and Tourna- " ments, as we do Trumpets: For I find Robert " Couſul's Coat, baſe Son to Henry the Firſt, bla- " zoned Clarions of theſe very Colours: And in " many old Deſcriptions of Tilting, we find the " Knights to come in with Clarions ſounding " before them.

' He beareth Azure, 3 ' Fluits in Bend Argent. ' This Inſtrument ſeemeth ' to have been invented, ' for the quiet ſettling ' and compoſing the Sol- ' diers Minds before the ' Fight. And ſome ſuch ' did the Lacedemonians ' uſe, who (ſaith Plu- ' tarch) being ready to ' join Battel, did firſt Sacrifice, and then all ' adorned with Garlands, ſung a martial Song, ' their King marching with the whole Army ' in admirable Quiet and compoſed Order. ' But the Sybarites were not ſo happy in the Uſe ' of ſuch Muſick; for themſelves being altoge- ' ther given to Wantonneſs and Pleaſure, all ' their Gentry taught their Horſes to dance at ' the Sound of muſical Inſtruments; which ' their Enemies having notice of, being then in ' the Field and ready to join, they commanded ' a Noiſe of Muſick in the Front of the Army ' to ſound, whereupon the Sybarites Horſes fell ' all a dancing, and overthrew their Riders, ' whereby their Enemies departed Conquerors. ' And thus much for Inſtruments of military ' Order, either for Eye or Ear.

CHAP. XIV.

' THE next are ſuch Things as ſerve for ' Execution of Order, which is the final ' End for which military Profeſſion is inſtituted, ' viz. Propulſation, or Revenge of Wrong, or ' for chaſtiſing the Wrong-doer, refuſing to give ' Satisfaction to the Party grieved. And as in ' the Law Politick, ſo in this Law Military, ' Execution is reckoned the Soul thereof. To ' the Accompliſhment of Execution of Order, ' ſundry Sorts of Weapons are requiſite: Some ' Invaſive or Offenſive, others Defenſive; the ' One to protect our ſelves, the Other to im- ' peach our Foes. And of theſe Invaſives will ' we ſpeak in the firſt Place; beginning with ' thoſe which we call Miſſilia, ſuch as are caſt or ' forced by Strength of Hand, or Slight of En- ' gine: And after, we will come to ſuch as are ' Manual, or managed with the Hand.

' He beareth Argent, a ' Culvering diſmounted ' in Feſs Sable, by the ' Name of Leigh. Before ' the Invention of Guns, ' many Sorts of Weapons, ' as well Invaſive as De- ' fenſive were deviſed, ' which (ſaith Munſter) ' by the Space of every hundred Years have ' admitted Alteration twice or thrice, like as ' alſo the Armour wherewith our Bodies are ' covered and fenced. But one ſaith, That it ' was the Devil himſelf, who invented this hel- ' liſh Inſtrument for Confuſion of Mankind. ' Indeed it was a Monk who firſt invented Gun- ' powder. And I have read, That the firſt ' Founder of theſe huge great Pieces was him- ' ſelf Slain with the Breaking of one of them. ' A certain Captain was wont to call the Mouth ' of the great Gun Hell-mouth; and ſaid, That ' he who trembled not when one of them ' thundred, did fear neither God nor the De- ' vil.

Gules, three Guns or Cannons Barrways in Pale Argent, is born by the Name of Gouning, and was granted to John Gouning ſometime Mayor and Alderman of the City of Briſtol, by Sir Edward Byſhe Clarencieux, the 22d of December 1662, in the 14th Year of the Reign of King Charles the Second.

'He beareth Argent, a 'Chevron Sable, ſurmount-'ed of another Ermine, 'between three Cham-'bers, placed tranſverſe 'the Eſcutcheon of the 'Second, fired Proper, by 'the Name of Chambers.

'Whether the Invention hereof were uſeful 'and neceſſary, or (as others reckon it) moſt per-'nicious and deviliſh, I will not take upon me 'to diſpute, but refer you to Sebaſtian Munſter, 'lib. 3. of his Coſmography, where he maketh 'mention of Bertholdus Swartz the Monk that 'firſt deviſed them, Anno Dom. 1354.

'The Field is Saphire, 'three murthering Chain-'ſhots Topaz. This Coat-'Armour was born by the 'Right Honourable the 'Earl of Cumberland, next 'to his Paternal Coat; and 'it is thought to be an 'Augmentation. Some 'have taken theſe to be 'the Heads of Clubs cal-'led Holy-water Sprinkles; other ſuppoſe them 'to be Balls of Wildfire; I rather think them 'to be ſome murdering Chain-ſhot. Amadæus 'Duke of Savoy gave two Staves topt with 'Wildfire, with this Motto, Jactæ creſcimus.

'He beareth Argent, a 'Feſs Sable, three Ogreſſes 'or Pellets in Chief Pro-'per, by the Name Lang-'ley.

'There I tell not the 'Colour of theſe Ogreſſes 'or Pellets, becauſe they 'be always Sable, as ſhall 'be more plainly ſhewed hereafter.

Argent, on a Feſs Gules, between three Fire-balls Sable, flaming at their Tops Proper, a Lyon paſſant Or, is born by the Name of Leatt, and was aſſign'd by William Camden Clarencieux, by Patent the 13th of December 1616, to Nicholas Leatt of the City of London, Son of Michael Leatt of Horſley in the County of Derby.

Argent, an Eſcutcheon barruly wavy Or and Gules, within ten Fireballs in Orle Proper, is born by the Name of Weddall, and was granted (in perpetual Remembrance of the glorious Atchievements of John Weddall of Stebenheth in the County of Middleſex, Eſq;) to the ſaid John and his Heirs, by Sir William Segar Garter, the 3d of May 1627, in the 3d Year of the Reign of King Charles I.

N. B. The ſaid John Weddall of Stebbenheth, was Captain of the Rainbow, a principal Ship of his Majeſty's Royal Navy, deſign'd in the Voyage and Employment Anno 1627, who, to the Honour of his Prince and Country, the Diſcharge of his Truſt, and great Benefit of Trade, valiantly attempted and took the Caſtle of Ketchmeg, a Place of great Importance within the Gulph of Perſego, and made Priſoner Rufere Don Batho, Captain thereof, and General of the Sea-Forces then in open Hoſtility againſt England; and having gain'd the Victory, placed the Engliſh Colours upon the ſaid Caſtle, carefully providing, by Conditions with the Duke of Seras, that the ſame ſhould continue ſo far ſubject to the King of England, as was by the ſaid Conditions provided, and that Signal of our Nation to remain there. Afterwards going forward in this laudable Manner, being again deſign'd for further Service in thoſe Regions, he, with great Reſolution and Judgment, attempted the Conqueſt of the Caſtle and City of Ormons, and after 10 Weeks Siege, having in the Proſecution of the ſaid Action by Sea, as well as by Land, burnt and ſunk four Galleons of great Force, (whereof the ſaid Don Rufero was General) he obtain'd the ſame, and manag'd the Victory with great Moderation and Mercy, ſetting at Liberty, and giving Conduct and Paſſage (for other Parts where they might find reception) to about 4000 Chriſtian Souls, then Enemies to the Engliſh, and ſo eſtabliſh'd the Benefit of the Victory, that his Majeſty's Subjects (who by Charter have the ſole Trade there) receive the Moiety of the Tributes and Cuſtoms of that Place.

"He beareth Argent, "on a Feſs Gules, between "two Matches kindled "Proper, a Martlet Or. "This Coat-Armour per-"taineth to the Family of "Leet of Southoo in Hun-"tingtonſhire, deſcended "from the Leets of Suf-"folk," who had a Patent of theſe Arms from Sir William Segar.

'To this Head must be referred all other the 'Appurtenances of great and small Ordnance, 'as Scoups, Ladles, Spunges, Flasques, Touch-'boxes, &c.

'He beareth Argent, a 'Swepe Azure, charged 'with a Stone Or, by the 'Name of Magnall. This 'was an Engine of War, 'in Fashion seeming like 'to that which the Brew-'ers use to draw Water 'withal, and therefore we 'call it a Swepe as they do. 'With this Engine they 'used in ancient Time to throw great Stones 'into the Towns and Fortifications of the Ene-'my. Some such Instrument did Uzziah King 'of Jerusalem use among many others for the 'Defence of the City against the Assaults of 'the Philistines, as appeareth where it is said, 'And he made very artificial Engines in Jerusalem, 'to be set upon the Towers and upon the Corners to 'shoot Arrows and Stones, &c. These are called En-'gines for the ingenious and witty Inventions 'of them, wherein former Ages were so exqui-'site, as that Archimedes could draw up the Ene-'mies Ships from the Water.

'The Field is Pearl, 3 'Battering-Rams, Barr-'ways Proper, headed Sa-'phir, armed and garnish-'Topaz.

"This is the Paternal "Coat-Armour of the "Right Honourable Ro-"bert Barty Earl of Lind-"sey, Baron Willoughby of Eresby, Lord Great "Chamberlain of England, Gentleman of the "Bed-chamber, and Privy-Counsellor to his "Majesty King Charles the Second, and Lord "Lieutenant of the County of Lincoln, &c.

"This Coat is also born by his Lordship's Bro-"ther, by another Venter, the Right Honoura-"ble James Lord Norris, Baron of Rycot in Ox-"fordshire, &c. As also by Capt. ..... Ber-"tue of ..... Secretary to the Right Ho-"nourable Thomas Earl of Latimer, Lord High "Treasurer of England.

'This Battering-Ram was a warlike Instru-'ment much used by the Romans, when they be-'sieged any City or Hold with Intent to sur-'prize them. Such an Engine (among diverse 'others) did Titus Vespasianus erect against the 'City of Jerusalem, which were by Josephus 'and his Associates consumed with Fire. Such 'is the Force of this Engine, as that there is 'no Tower so strong, or Circuit of a City so 'spacious, but if that they resist the first Brunt 'thereof, through often Use they will be sub-'verted.

'He beareth Ermine, a 'Cross-bow bent in Pale 'Gules, by the Name of 'Arbiaster, quasi Arcuba-'lista. This Instrument 'Military (saith Polydore) 'was first devised by the 'Cretians. And in for-'mer Ages was called in 'Latin, Scorpio; and out 'of this they used to shoot Stones, as Ammianus 'Marcellinus noteth, saying, Et Scorpiones quo-'cunque manus peritè duxissent, rotundos Lapides 'evibrabant.

Argent, a Cross-bow Sable, between three Cocks Gules, is born by Benja-min Hynmers of New-Inn, Gent. as his Paternal Coat.

"He beareth Ermine, "three long Bows bent in "Pale Gules, by the Name "of Bowes. This Kind "of Bow is called in La-"tin, Arcus, ab arcendo, "of keeping the Enemy "aloof, and not permit-"ting him to approach "near to us, by darting "(as it were) out of the Arrows, whereby we "do gall, wound or kill them afar off. This is "a military Instrument of the missile Sort, and "that not of the meanest Rank, if we consi-"derately peruse the Histories of former Ages; "for we shall find more Sett-battels fought, and "famous Victories atchieved by English Men "with Bows and Arrows, than any Nation of "Christendom hath obtained by any one Instru-"ment whatsoever," as the renown'd Victories obtain'd against the Scots and French do well testify. "But this Weapon alone sufficeth not "of it self to perform any Action, but with the "Arrows assistance.

Or, a Chevron between three Bows bent and braced Gules, is born by the Name of Bowman, and was granted to Seymour Bowman of Salisbury, Esq; sometime Barrister of Lincoln's Inn, (Son of Stephen, Son of William, who was Son of Thomas, all of Kyrkeswald in the County of Cumberland) by Sir Edward Byshe Clarencieux, Feb. 16, 1696.

" He beareth Azure, " three broad Arrows Or, " by the Name of Archer, " and is the Coat-Armour " of Thomas Archer of Umberslade in the County of " Warwick, Esq;

" Gules, three broad Arrows Or, feather'd " and headed Argent, by the Name of Hales, a " Family of good Antiquity in Kent, where " now resideth Sir Edward Hales of Tunstall, Baroner, Sir Robert Hales of Beaksbourne, Baronet, and Edward Hales of Chilstone in Bocton-Malherb, Esq;

'The Arrow is called in Latin Sagitta (as 'some do conceit it) quasi satis ictus, for that it 'annoyeth and galleth the Enemy far enough 'off, so as he cannot approach the Archer to endammage him, because by the smart Delivery 'of the Bow, the Enemy is put to hazard a 'great way off: Others would have it called '(and not unaptly) quod sagax sit ictus ejus, for 'that the same being directed by the Hand of 'a cunning and skilful Archer, doth cleave the 'Pin or Mark oftentimes in two, though the 'same be but of a small scantling.

He beareth Argent, on a Bend Sable, three Arrows Or, plum'd and feather'd of the Field, by the Name of Cholwill. This Coat was confirm'd and allow'd by William Camden Clarencieux, the 28th of November 1613, to Thomas Cholwill of Lodesford in the County of Devon, Son of John, Son of Thomas Cholwill and Alice his Wife, Daughter and Heir of ..... Dalin of Lodesford. ——

" He beareth Sable, a " Chevron engrailed be" tween three Arrows " Argent, by the Name of " Forster; and is the Coat " of Sir Humphry Forster " of Aldermaston in Berk" shire, Baronet.

(G) Drumbreck of that Ilk; Argent, a Bear Sable, with a Skeen piercing his Back and coming out under his Belly, Handle Gules, Blade Azure.

'Sometimes you shall find both these martial 'Weapons born together in one Escutcheon, as 'in the next appeareth.

" The

" The Field is Sable, " two long Bows bent in " Pale, the Strings coun- " terpoſed Or, between as " many Sheaves of Ar- " rows banded Argent. " This Coat ſtandeth in " Kirton Church in De- " vonſhire. This Sort of " Bearing may ſignify a " Man reſolved to abide the uttermoſt Hazard " of Battel, who to that End hath furniſhed " himſelf to the Full, as well with Inſtruments " of Ejaculation, as alſo of Retention. The " Bow and Arrows in former Ages have won " more Glory to this Kingdom than any other " Sort of Soldiery whatſoever, as the renown- " ed Victories obtained in France do well " teſtify. There is yet another Form of Bear- " ing Arrows diverſe from theſe.

' The Field is Argent, ' two Barrs Sable, on a ' Canton of the Second, a ' Pheon of the Firſt. This ' was the Paternal Coat- ' Armour of Sir John Bing- ' ley, Kt.

' The Pheon is the Head ' of an Inſtrument of the ' miſſile Sort, which we call a Dart, the ſame ' being a long and light Staff headed after this ' Manner, and having a Thong faſtened to the ' midſt thereof, for the more ready and ſtrong ' forcing the ſame againſt the Enemy to keep or ' annoy him afar off. This is called in Latin ' Jaculum, quia è longinquo jaculatur; it pierceth ' ſpeedily, and maketh a large Wound, by rea- ' ſon of the wide-ſpreading Barbs thereof. The ' Bearing of Pheons is both ancient and com- ' mendable.

He beareth Argent, a Pheon in Feſs Gules, between three Boars Heads eraſed Sable, armed Or, by the Name of Reeding. " man of much Eminence and Knowledge in his " Practice of the Laws."

'The Field is Sable, 'three Swords Barr-ways, 'their Points towards the 'sinister Part of the Es- 'cutcheon Argent, the 'Hilts and Pomels Or, a 'Crescent for a Difference, 'by the Name of Raw- 'lyns;" " and is the Coat " of Thomas Rawlyns of " Kilreege in the Parish of Langarran in Here- " fordshire, Esq;" It was exemplified to Thomas Rawlen of the City of Hereford, M. D. by William Camden Clarencieux, Anno 1610. 'This 'Coat is also born by Robert Rawlyns of the 'Middle Temple, Esq;

'He beareth Gules, 3 'Swords conjoined at the 'Pomels in Fess, their 'Points extended into the 'Corners of the Escu- 'tcheon Argent, by the 'Name of Stapleton. The 'Galateans instead of ordi- 'nary Swords, used a Kind 'of two-handed or bastard 'long Sword, which they fastned with Chains 'to their right Sides. A like Manner of fast- 'ning our Swords to our right Sides, was in Use with our Horsemen in England, in the Time 'of King Edward the Third, as may be seen by 'the Great Seal then used. It is a reproachful 'Thing for a Knight to be disarmed of his 'Sword in Battel; Quia si gladio spoliaretur, 'omnem perderet honorem militiæ & Privile- 'gium.

'He beareth Azure, 3 'Swords, one in Pale Point 'upward, surmounted of 'the other two, placed 'Saltire-ways. Points 'downward Argent, by 'the Name of Norton.

" A certain Laconian, " when his Son found fault " with his Sword, that it " was too short, made this Answer, Idcirco par- " vum datur forti viro, ut addat gressum: There- " fore is a short Sword given to a Man of Courage, " that he may lengthen the same with a Step. Mean- " ing thereby, that because his Sword was short, " he should approach so much the nearer to his " Enemy, and so might he make the same long " enough; so may he buckle with him Hand to " Hand, and perhaps wrest the Weapon out of " the Adversary's Hand, to his great Credit: " Gloriosum enim est victoriæ genus, ab eo cum quo " decertas Arma capere, It is a Praise-worthy " Thing for a Man to bereave or despoil his " Enemy of his Arms or Weapons; yea, so glo- " rious is it reckoned, as that many Men ha- " ving possessed themselves with their Enemy's " Weapons, either by Surprize or Slaughter, " have used the same and none other all the " Days of their Life; as appeareth (in Part) " 1 Maccab. 3. 12. So Judas took their spoils, and " took also Apolonius's Sword, and fought with it " all his Life long.

" He beareth Azure, a " Curtelax in Bend Pro- " per, garnished Or. This " Coat pertaineth to the " Family of Tatnall in the " County of Chester; and " is now born by William " Tatton of Withenshaw, " Esq; The old Britains, " our Ancestors, were " wont to wear a short and broad Sword; so " did the Spartans also, whom, when one of " their Enemies mocked for so short a Wea- " pon, it was replied, That it was not so short, but " it could reach into their Hearts as often as they met " in the Field.

Argent, on a Fess Gules, three Curtelaxes or Cut- lasses erected of the First, Hilts Or, was granted to Robert Chester of Lee in the County of Essex, by Sir John Borough, Feb. 1639.

Or, on a Bend Sable, a Tilting Spear of the Field, is born by the Name of Shakespear, and was given by William Dethick Garter, to William Shakespear the renowned Poet.

" He beareth Argent, on " a Quarter Gules, a Spear " in Bend Or, by the " Name of Knight, Hy- " bern. It was the Man- " ner of the Romans to be- " stow Spears upon the " valiant and well-deser- " ving Soldiers in recom- " pence of their acceptable " Service performed. To this End and Pur- " pose (as Festus Pompeius supposeth) because the " Spear is the Perfection of martial Affairs and " imperial Jurisdiction: And for that it was a " Custom to make Sale of Captives under the " same; as also to make them, and such Soldiers " as

" as had transgressed the military Discipline " (whereupon they were disarmed of their mi- " litary Belt, and received the ignominious " Name of Discincti) to pass the Yoke; the " First, for that they were brought into Subje- " ction by Force; the Other, for Transgression " of the Laws Military.

" This Yoke consisteth of three Spears, where- " of Two were pitched upright, and the Third " was bound cross-ways to them both; under " this Yoke were both enforced to pass, that " their Reproach might be the greater.

He beareth Gules, three Tilting Spears, two and one, erected in Pale Or, Heads Argent. This Coat was assign'd by William Camden Clarencieux, in May, in the Year 1607, to —— Amherst of Kent.

'He beareth Azure, 'three Launces in Bend 'Or, armed Argent, by 'the Name of Carlowe. 'It was a Custom among 'the Romans, when they 'did undertake any law- 'ful Wars, after Denial of 'Restitution demanded of 'Things unlawfully ta- 'ken, or Satisfaction for 'Wrongs offered, that the King of Arms (to 'whom the denouncing of Battel and Defiance 'did properly appertain) should, among other 'Ceremonies, throw a Spear, headed with Iron, 'imbrued with Blood, and scorched with Fire, 'into the Soil of that People against whom such 'War was denounced; to notify unto them, 'that they would severely prosecute them with 'Fire and Force, for the Wrong by them com- 'mitted.

He beareth Gules, a Chevron Ermine, between three Spear-heads on their Launces, broken off short Argent, by the Name of Pennyman. This Coat was confirm'd by William Segar Norroy, the 11th of May 1599, to Thomas Pennyman of Ormesby in the County of York, Esq; Son and Heir of William Pennyman of Mourton in the said County, who was Son and Heir of Robert Pennyman, Esq;

" Argent, on a Chief " Vert, 2 Spears Heads " of the Field, guttæ de " sang, by the Name " of Brodrick; and is " the Paternal Coat- " Armour of Sir Allen " Brodrick of Wandsf- " worth in the County " of Surry, Kt.

" He beareth Argent, " 3 Spears Heads Gules, " a Chief Azure. This " Coat-Armour belong- " eth to Robert Reyce of " Preston in the County " of Suffolk, Esq; a wor- " thy Gentleman, whose " great Charge and Care " in collecting and pre- " serving the Antiquities of that County merits " a large Encomium.

Gules, three Spears Heads Argent, with a Chief Ermine, is born by the Name of Johnson, and was assign'd by William Camden Clarencieux, in June, in the Year 1604, to ..... Johnson of the Tower.

'He beareth Sable, a 'Chevron between three 'Spears Heads Argent, 'their Points embrued 'Proper, by the Name of 'Morgan. Alexander the 'Great compared an Ar- 'my without a good Cap- 'tain, to a Spear without 'a strong Head: For that 'as the Shaft of the Spear could have little Force 'without the Head, though it be much larger 'than it; so the greatest Army can little avail 'without the Orders and Direction of a valiant 'Leader.

Sable, a Chevron between three Spears Heads Argent, was the Coat of John Urmston of West Lyghe, who married Elizabeth, Daughter to Richard Starkey of Stretton in the County of Chester, by whom (saith Glover) they have Issue Richard, John, and Agnes; which Agnes was married to Henry Cratterton of Manchester.

Or, a Dragon rampant with Wings inverted Vert, on a Chief Gules, three Spears Heads Argent, is born by the Name of Southland, and was assigned by William Camden Clarencieux, in June, in the Year 1604, to Sir William Southland of Kent.

Azure, a Saltire voided between four Spears Heads erected Or, is the Coat-Armour pertaining to Wynham Harbin of Newton near Teovil in the County of Somerset, Esq; This Coat was granted by William Camden Clarencieux, in May 1612, to Robert Harbyn of Newton aforesaid.

" As concerning the Quantity or Weight of " Spears Heads, we find them in all Ages an- " ſwerable to the Strength of the Perſons that " were to manage them: So we read that the " Spear-head of Goliah, that encountered with " David, weigh'd Six hundred Shekles of Iron, " which was correſpondent to his Spear, that " was reſembling, for bigneſs, to a Weaver's " Beam; as alſo to the Hugeneſs of his Stature, " which was ſix Cubits and a hands breadth, " 1 Sam. 17. 4. Alſo we read of Iſhbibenob the " Son of Haraphah (of the Race of the Giants) " whoſe head of his ſpear weighed three hundred " ſhekels of braſs, even he being girded with a " new ſword thought to have ſlain David.

' Now I ſhall, I hope, without any great ' Breach of Method, demonſtrate the Bearing ' in Armoury of ſome Part of a Tilt-ſpear or ' Tilt-ſtaff, call it which you pleaſe: Which ' Kind of Weapon or Inſtrument, although it ' be not of any Uſe in the Wars, yet, the well- ' managing thereof, maketh a Man the more ' expert for military Service on Horſeback, and ' therefore may challenge to be ranked among ' martial Weapons managed with the Hand.

" He beareth Sable, a " Chevron Ermine, be- " tween three Cronels of " a Tilt-ſpear Argent, by " the Name of Wiſeman.

He beareth Sable, a Chevron between three Cronels of a Tilt-ſpear Argent, by the Name of Wiſeman, and was the Coat of Sir Robert Wiſeman, Advocate to his Majeſty King Charles the Second, as I find them ſo admitted the 24th of April 1671, in the 23d Year of the Reign of King Charles the Second, by Sir Edward Walker Garter, in his Confirmation-Patent to Richard Wiſeman, Eſq; Kinſman of the ſaid Sir Robert.

' Theſe Cronels or Coronets (for I find them ' called by both theſe Names) are the Iron ' Heads of Tilt-ſpears, or Tilt-ſtaſs, which ' uſually have ſix or eight Mourns (for ſo are ' thoſe little piked Things called which are on ' the Top or Head of this Cronel or Coronet) ' three of which appear in each of theſe, the ' other three which are not here ſeen, can- ' not be demonſtrated by the Art of Cutting " or Painting. Some have termed, or rather " miſtermed theſe Cronels, Burrs; for the Con- " futation of which Error, I have cauſed the " true Figure of a Tilt-ſtaff or Tilt-ſpear to be " here preſented unto your View without the " Vamplet.

" (A) Sheweth unto you the Burr, which is a " broad Ring of Iron behind the Hand, or Place " made for the Hand; which Burr is brought " unto the Reſt, when the Tilter chargeth his " Spear or Staff. (B) Sheweth the Hand, or " Place for the Hand. (C) Demonſtrateth the " Cronel, Cronet, or Coronet, which occaſion- " eth this Diſcourſe; and this next Figure ma- " keth plain unto you, what the Vamplet of a " Tilt-ſpear or Tilt-ſtaff is.

" This Vamplet, demonſtrated by the Letter " (D) is of Steel, and is uſed for the Safe-guard " of the Tilter's Hand, and is taken off, and " put on to the Staff or Spear at Pleaſure.

" And

" And for the further clearing of this Point, " it is expreſs'd in the Charge, from the Ma- " ſter of the Armoury to the Yeoman of the " Tilt-ſtaffs, thus,

" Tilt-ſtaffs with Co- " ronets and Burrs { Serviceable —— / Unſerviceable ——

" Vamplets { Serviceable —— / To be repaired —— / Unſerviceable ——

" Expreſſing the particular Numbers of every " of them.

" And in an ancient Book remaining in the " Office of Arms, I find Wiſeman's Coat blazon- " ed, a Chevron between three Cronels.

" I could here, if it would ſuit with my in- " tended Brevity, enter into a large Diſcourſe " of the noble and Knight-like Exerciſe of Tilt- " ing, which is the School of Chivalry and " Horſemanſhip, without the Knowledge where- " of the Horſeman in the Wars can do little " good Service.

" Tilting is called Hippomachia from the Greek " Words ἱππος, i. Equus, and μαχη, i. Pugna: " It is alſo called by the Latins, Ludus militaris, " or Ludus Troja; for Troy was the Place " where it was firſt invented, as ſome are of " Opinion.

" Diverſe Statutes and Ordinances have been " made by the Commands of former Kings of " this Realm concerning Royal Juſts and Tilt- " ings within this Kingdom, which do ſufficient- " ly prove their former Uſe to have been more " frequent than now they are; and it is much " to be wiſh'd that this Royal and Honourable " Exerciſe might be more frequently practiſed, " to which none are to be admitted as Actors " by the ancient Ordinances, but ſuch as are " well known unto the King of Arms of that " Province where it is to be performed, to be " Gentlemen of Coat-Armour, Blood, and Deſ- " cent: But no more of this at this Time, " which deſerveth rather a Volume than a Page, " for ſetting out its due Commendation and An- " tiquity.

'He beareth Argent, 'three Bills in Pale Sable, 'by the Name of Gibbs.' " Theſe are taken by ſome " to be Daniſh Hatchets. " To this Head muſt be " referred all Glaves, Par- " tizans, Clubs, Pole-axes, " and whatſoever other " Weapons of like Kind, " wherewith we do either aſſail or repulſe our " Enemies by encountering them at Handy- " ſtrokes. The brown Bill is a notable Wea- " pon for Execution, and hath been of great " Uſe in military Services, but now near anti- " quated, if not altogether, ſince the Muſket " and Caliver have come in Uſe.

Azure, three Bills or Battle-Axes Or, was the Coat of John Dennis, who married Dorothy alias Mary, Daughter of Anthony Moncks of Powder-ing, Eſq; and had Iſſue William, Philip, Jane, Katherine, and Chriſtian. Jane was married to Richard Dennys of —— in the County of Suſſex.

The ſaid John was Son of Nicholas, Son of William, the Son of John Dennys, whoſe Prede-ceſſors (as was he himſelf, and thoſe already mention'd) were ſeated at Orleigh in the County of Devon for many Generations, being deſcend-ed from Sir Robert Dacus alias Dennys of Orleighe aforeſaid.

This Coat, with an Annulet for a Difference Or, pertain'd alſo to John Dennys of Mallcott, Gent. who married Elizabeth, Daughter of John Barry of Wynſcott, Eſq; and had Iſſue William, Nicho-las, and Henry; alſo E——, Robert, Philip, Anne, and E——; which John Dennys was Son of William, the Son of Henry, both of Mall-cott aforeſaid: Henry was Son of Richard, the Son of Henry, who was fifth Son of John Dennys of Orleighe aforeſaid, Eſq;

Ermine, three Bills Sable, pertain'd to Sir Ro-bert Dennys of Holcombe in the County of De-von, Kt. who for his firſt Wife married Mary, Daughter of John Blount, Baron Mountjoye, and had Iſſue Anne and Gertenda, two Daughters. He afterwards married Margaret, Daughter and Co-heir of Sir William Godolphyn alias Godolcan of Godolcan in the County of Cornwall, Kt. and had Iſſue Thomas, and Peter; alſo Elizabeth, Margaret, Philippa, and Mary.

Thomas Dennys the Eldeſt, Son and Heir, married —— Daughter of William Pawlet Marqueſs of Wincheſter, and had Iſſue two Daughters.

This Sir Robert Holcombe aforeſaid, was eldeſt Son and Heir of Sir Thomas Dennys, Kt. of the ſaid Place, and by his ſecond Wife; which Sir Thomas was eldeſt Son and Heir of Thomas Dennys, Eſq; (younger Brother of Gilbert Den-nys, who had Iſſue but one Daughter (by Name Radigunda) his ſole Heir, who was married to Robert Gifford of Teo, in the County of Devon, Eſq;) which Gilbert and Thomas were Sons of Thomas Dennys of Holcombe, Eſq; Gilbert, by his firſt Wife, which was Alice alias Anne, Daughter of Sir Thomas Bamfield of Poltimore, Kt. and Thomas by his Second, who was Elizabeth, Daughter of Robert Hatch of Wolley. This Tho-mas (their Father) was Son and Heir of Walter, the Son and Heir of John, the Son and Heir of Walter of Giddicoke, within the Hundred of Black Torrington in the County of Devon, Eſq; who was Son and Heir of Sir John Dennys, Kt. the Son and Heir of Walter Dennys of Giddicoke aforeſaid.

Grafton, fol. 45.

He beareth Argent, two Pallets Sable, over all a Chevron Gules, on a Canton of the Third, a Battle-Axe erected Or, by the Name of Dawson. This Coat was confirm'd by Sir Edward Walker Garter, the 12th of Jan. 1663-4, in the 15th Year of the Reign of King Charles II. to John Dawson of Sutterbery in the County of Lincoln, Esq; (Barrister of the Inner-Temple) at the Date hereof resident at Callaynie Court in the County of Tiperary and Limerick in the Kingdom of Ireland; which said John Dawson, in the Time of the Rebellion, actively employ'd himself in the Service of King Charles I. and therein raised, at his own Charge, a Troop of Horse, in the Regiment of Ralph Eure, under the Command of William Marques of Newcastle; which being broken, he deserted not the Service, but continued in the Quality of a Reformade under the Lord Bellasis until the Condition of Newark; was diverse Times taken Prisoner, and forced to compound at three Years Value for his Estate, and then a 25th Part was extorted from him; notwithstanding which, he deserted not his Loyalty, but follow'd the Fortune of King Charles the Second into foreign Parts, till Necessity forced him home, where he no sooner arriv'd but was made Prisoner, and threatned with Death; but at length being releas'd with great Security, he return'd privately into Ireland and apply'd himself to the Practice of the Law, wherein he omitted no fit Occasion to advance the Interest and Restoration of King Charles II.

(M) Wright; Azure, three broad Axes Argent, two and one.

Gules, three Battle-Axes Or, a Chief Ermine, is born by the Name of Sheppard, and was confirm'd to Dr. Allen Sheppard of Buckingham, by William Camden, the 23d of February 1615.

He beareth Argent, on a Chief Gules, three Battle-Axes Or, by the Name of Shepard. This Coat was assign'd by William Camden Clarencieux, in the Year 1598, to Robert Shepard of Kerby-Ledon in Norfolk.

Argent, a Fess embattel'd between three Battle-Axes Sable, is born by the Name of Baynbrigge, and was confirm'd by William Flower Norroy, the 14th of February 1583, in the 26th Year of the Reign of Queen Elizabeth, to William Baynbrigge of Lockington in the County of Leicester, descended from the Family of Baynbrigge of the North.

(M) Eccles of Kildonan; Argent, two Halberts in Saltire Azure.

(G) Rankine of Orchardhead in Scotland; Gules, a Boar's Head erased between a Launce issuing out of the dexter Base, and a (Lochaber) Axe out of the Sinister, both erected in Pale, all Argent.

'He beareth Sable, 3 'Scaling-Ladders in Bend 'Argent, by the Name of 'Shipstowe.

Sable,

Sable, on a Pile Argent, a Cheval-Trap of the First, is born by the Name of Kerridge, and was granted to Thomas Kerridge, the 17th of June 1629, by Sir Richard St. George Clarencieux.

This is an Instrument which the Ancients used to disperse over the Ground to annoy and break the Enemies Horse, or to keep them off. Its Points are so contriv'd, as that, cast them how you please, one is directly upright for Mischief; and its Size is so small, that it was not easy to know where they were strew'd, being hid in almost the shortest Grass to be found on a Common.

Or, three Cheval-Traps and a Chief Sable, is born by the Name of Devicke, and was confirm'd to William Devicke of Guernsey, by William Camden, in April 1612.

Azure, on a Cross quarter pierced Or, four Cheval-Traps or Cal-traps of the Field, is the Arms of Ball, and was born lawfully by William Ball of Lincoln's Inn, one of the four Attorneys in the Office of Pleas in the Exchequer.

'To this Head must all other martial Instruments of these Natures (not hitherto handled) 'be reduced, whether they pertain to Order 'and Direction, or else to Execution, and bestowed under their particular Heads, according 'to the Propriety of their several Kinds.

CHAP. XV.

'OF Weapons Invasive or Offensive we 'have formerly discoursed: Now come 'we to the Handling of the other Member, com'prehending Weapons Defensive born in Coat'Armour. Of these some do serve for Defence 'only, others serve both for Defence and Habit 'also. Of the former Sort are such as next en'sue, and their like.

"He beareth Argent, "three Escutcheons Sable. "This was the Coat-Ar"mour of Sir John de "Loudham or Lowdham, "Knight, Owner of the "Mannor of Lowdham in "Suffolk, in the Time of "Edward the Third: It is "now quartered by the "before-mentioned Samuel Bleverhasset, Esq; now "Lord of the same Mannor. 'He beareth Or, three 'Escutcheons Barry of six 'Vaire and Gules, by the 'Name of Mounchensey.

'A Lacedemonian Dame, 'having a Son entring in'to military Profession, at 'his Departure gave him 'a Shield, and therewithal 'used these Words, Fili 'aut hunc, aut super hunc. Thereby admonish'ing him briefly so to bear himself in Battel, 'that either he should return with Victory, 'bringing his Shield with him, or should va'liantly die, and so be brought home dead 'upon the same. Touching Signs in ancient 'Times depicted upon Shields, I have spoken 'enough.

Sable,

Sable, on a Pale cottised Or, three Escutcheons Gules, is born by the Name of Kelsey, and was granted to John Kelsey of Chelmesford in Essex, and Henry Kelsey his Brother, Gent. and to all the Issue of George Kelsey of Thorp in the said County, their Father, by Sir Richard St. George Clarencieux, the 24th of June 1634.

'He beareth Or, a Barrulet between two Barrs 'Gemels Gules, three 'Escutcheons Vaire, by 'the Name of Gamolle. 'This was the Coat-Armour of Alanus de Gamoll, Kt. that lived about 'the Time of Edward the 'Third, King of England. 'By occasion of which Name I am put in Mind 'of a Gentleman of the same Name, but of a 'different Family, as may appear by his Coat-'Armour, the same being Or, three Mallets Sable; of whom I find mention in an Inquisition taken in the County of Chester, Anno 13 Edwardi 3. in hæc verba; Compertum est, quod Henricus Filiquham de Gamul tenet dimidium unius feodi militis in Storton, &c. from whom is descended Edmond Gamull, Esq; one of the Aldermen of the City of Chester; whose Endeavours and good Services done to the Commonwealth there, deserves to be recorded, as well in respect of his particular Actions, as the good Example he hath left for those who shall come after him.

Ermine, five Barrulets Gules, over all three Escutcheons Or, was confirm'd by William Flower Norroy, the 8th of February 1587, in the 30th Year of the Reign of Queen Elizabeth, to Bartholomew Hall of Ipswych in the County of Suffolk, which Bartholomew married Christian, Daughter of Richard Brook (Lord Chief Baron of the Exchequer) and had Issue Thomas Hall, eldest Son, aged 25, Anno 1588, who married Elizabeth, Daughter of John Clynch, one of the Justices of her Majesty's Pleas —— by whom he had a Daughter Mary.

The 2d Son was Robert, and the 3d Child a Daughter Elizabeth. The aforesaid Bartholomew had a Brother Thomas Hall, who was of London and living Anno 1588; he was one of the Executors to Mr. Sackford, Master of the Requests, and married Anne, Daughter of John Ward of Stanton in the County of Hertford, and by her had Issue three Sons and three Daughters, viz. Thomas, eldest Son, aged 13, 1588, Henry 2d, and Edward 3d Son: The Daughters were Anne, Elizabeth, and Katherine.

Note, That Bartholomew and Thomas abovenam'd, were Sons of Thomas Hall of Ipswych aforesaid, and of Coggeshall in the County of Essex, Clerk of the Hamper in the Court of Chancery; which Thomas was the Son of Thomas Hall, who came from Shirburne in Yorkshire to dwell at Ipswych in Suffolk, which Shirburne was the Seat of his Fathers.

Or, three Escutcheons Sable, each charg'd with a broad Arrow-head of the Field, is born by the Name of Parker, and was granted to Henry Parker of Fryth-hall in Essex, Gent. by Sir Christopher Barker Garter, the 21st of February 1537, in the 29th Year of the Reign of King Henry the Eighth.

'Now will we exemplify such as are for De-'fence and Habit also.

'He beareth Argent, a 'close Helmet Gules, by 'the Name of Kingley. 'It was the Manner of 'the Romans in their War-'fare to cover the Ha-'bergions and Head-'pieces of those that were 'called Levis armaturæ mi-

'lites,

'lites, or light harneſſed Soldiers (whether they 'were Horſe or Foot) with the Skins of Bears; 'like as it was of the ancient Grecians to cover 'their Heads with Otters Skins inſtead of Hel-'mets; and both of them to one End, namely, 'That thereby they ſhould ſeem to be more 'terrible and ghaſtly in the Sight of their Ene-'mies, and their Enemies Eye being occupied 'in admiration of the Strangeneſs of ſuch Ha-'bits, they might be the leſs able to attend 'their Fight, and ſo (with more facility and 'leſs danger to themſelves) be the more eaſily 'overcome.

'He beareth Argent, on 'a Bend Gules, an Hel-'met in the dexter Point 'Or, by the Name of 'Trayton.

This Coat was confirmed to Thomas Treton alias Trayton of Lewes in Suſſex, Son of Thomas of the ſame Place, the Son of James who came into Suſſex temp. H. 7. and was Son of Charles Trayton alias Treton of Chere, by Sir William Segar Garter, William Camden Clarencieux, and Richard St. George Norroy.

Her. Off. Suſſex, C. 27. p. 21.

'The Helmet thus placed, and being a chief 'Part of military Habit, may rather ſeem to 'be a Reward for Service, than an ordinary 'Charge, and of itſelf may betoken Wiſdom 'as well as Valour.

Sable, a cloſe Helmet between three Pheons Argent, was the Coat of John Wyn Dolben of Denbigh, who married Katherine, Daughter of Hugh ap Rees, ap William, ap Ithell Vychan of Diſſer or Diſſert, by whom he had Iſſue John Wyn Dolben Son and Heir, (who married Margaret, Daughter of William Middleton of Greenezoh) William 2d, Henry 3d, Peter 4th, David 5th, (one David Dolben, D. D. became Biſhop of Bangor 1632) Richard 6th, Robert 7th, and John 8th Son.

Note, That the firſt John Wyn Dolben abovenam'd was Son and Heir of Robert Wyn Dolben, the Son and Heir of Robert Dolben, the Son and Heir of Robert Dolben, all of Denbigh aforeſaid.

(𝔓) Monro of Foulis; Or, an Eagle perching on a Helmet Gules. The Same, within a Bordure embattel'd of the Second, was the Coat of Sir George Monro Lieutenant-General.

'He beareth Gules, 2 'Helmets in Chief Ar-'gent, and a Wheatſheaf 'in Baſe Or, by the Name 'of Cholmeley; and is the 'Coat of Sir Hugh Cholme-'ley of Whitby in York-'ſhire, Baronet; and is 'alſo born by Thomas 'Cholmeley, or Cholmond-'ley, of Vale Royal in Cheſhire, Eſq;

'He beareth Argent, 'three Helmets with their 'Beavers open Sable, by 'the Name of Minet. 'The Bearing of the Hel-'mets after theſe ſeveral 'Manners (to wit) ſome-'times cloſe beavered, and 'other times with their 'Beavers open, have their 'ſeveral Significations; thoſe of Action, and 'theſe of Ceſſation. So much briefly of their 'diverſe Bearing, as for the preſent may ſuffice. 'Of the Reaſons of ſuch their Bearings I ſhall 'have occaſion to ſpeak hereafter more fitly, 'when I ſhall treat of the Atchievements of the 'particular State of Dignities.

Azure, three Helmets Or, was confirm'd to John Hamby of Maltby next Louthe, in the County of Lincoln, Eſq; the 12th of March 1568, by Sir Gilbert Dethick Garter, and ——

M. S. of Grants in Aſhm. Num. 844.

(𝔓) Eccles of Southſide; Or, three Helmets, the Beavers open Proper.

He beareth Sable, three cloſe Helmets Argent, garniſhed Or, within a Bordure engrailed of the Second, by the Name of Halliday. This Coat was confirm'd to Sir Leonard Halliday, Alderman of London, by William Camden Clarencieux, the 21ſt of September (ſome ſay the 23d) 1605, in the 3d Year of the Reign of King James I.

Sable, three Helmets ſide-faced and cloſe, within a Bordure engrail'd Argent, with a Fleur de lis Or in Feſs, for a Difference, was born by Barten Holyday, D. D. and Arch-deacon of Oxford, who dy'd at Eiſley near Oxford, between ſeven and eight in the Morning, the 2d of October 1661, and was buried the 5th of the ſame Month, in the Cathedral of Chriſt-Church. Vid. Wood's Hiſt. & Antiq. Oxon. Edit. 1674, lib. 2. p. 278. col. 2.

He had by his firſt Wife Elizabeth (Daughter of William Wickham of Garſingdon) William, who was married, but dy'd without Iſſue at Abingdon, but buried in Garſingdon Church, the 28th of January 1663, alſo Thomas who dy'd Iſſueleſs, and George; likewiſe a Daughter or two. Afterwards he married Margaret (Daughter of —— Sheppard, but the Widow of Francis Dewy, M. A. and Minister of Chipnam in Wilts) by whom he had Issue Barton Holyday, and a Daughter. The said Margaret, Widow of Dr. Holyday of Eisley dy'd the 16th of December 1661, and was buried in the Chancel there.

M. S. of Ant. a Wood's Remarks de Com. Oxon. p. 101.

'He beareth Azure, 'three Helmets Or, be-'tween two Barrs Argent, 'by the Name of Armi-'ger; and is the Coat-'Armour of Sir Clement 'Armiger of North-Creak 'in the County of Nor-'folk, Kt. as also of Ga-'briel Armiger of the said 'Place, and of the Inner Temple, London, Esq;

'He beareth Diamond, 'a Lyon passant gardant 'Topaz, between three 'Helmets Pearl. This is 'the Coat-Armour of the 'Right Honourable James 'Earl of Northampton, Ba-'ron Compton of Compton, 'Lord Lieutenant of the 'County of Warwick, Con-'stable of the Tower of London, and one of the 'Lords of his Majesty's most Honourable Privy 'Council, &c. of which Family are several 'worthy Branches.

Sable, a Lyon passant, and in Chief three Helmets Or, is born by the Name of Knappe, and was confirm'd or granted to Henry Knappe of Woodcot in the County of Oxon, the 2d of September 1669, by Sir Edward Byshe Clarencieux.

" The true Ornaments of martial Men are a " shattered Shield, a dented Helmet, a blunted " Sword, and a wounded Face, all received in " Battel.

'The Field is Pearl, a 'Chevron Ruby, between 'three Morions or Steel 'Caps Saphire. This is 'the Paternal Coat-Ar-'mour of the Right Ho-'nourable Robert Earl of 'Cardigan, Baron Brud-'nell of Stoughton, &c.

He beareth Argent, a Fess between three Burgonets or Steel-Caps Azure, by the Name of Evington. This Coat was alter'd from Argent, a Fess Azure, with a File of three Lambeaux, by William Segar, Esq; Garter, by Patent dated the 10th of October 1614, in the 12th Year of the Reign of King James the First, to James Evingdon alias Evington of Enfield in the County of Middlesex, 2d Son of Thomas Evingdon of Caswick in the County of Lincoln, which said Thomas bare for his Coat the Fess and Label above-said.

Philpot in his Villar. Cant. p. 142, says, That the Coat of the Evingtons of Evington-Court, is also a Fess between three Burgonets.

'This Morion, Steel-Cap, or Scull, was the 'ancient Armour for the Head of a Foot-man, 'that serv'd in the Wars; it is called a Morion, 'quia Mauri hujusmodi utebantur casside. I con-'fess this Morion here demonstrated, differs in 'Form from that which is now in Use: And 'because no Bearing in Coat-Armour of a mo-'dern fashioned Morion at this present occurs 'unto my Memony, I have caused one of 'them to be cut, as in this next Figure you 'may see.

'He beareth Gules, 3 'dexter Arms in Pale, vam-'braced and Proper, by the 'Name of Armestrong.

'Well do these Arms 'thus fenced, agree with 'the Name of the Bearer; 'for then are the Arms 'best fitted for the Per-'formance of high Enter-'prizes, when they are 'thus fortified and made strong against all vio-'lent Encounters; for by Means thereof the 'Soldiers are so emboldened, as that nothing 'can daunt them: In which respect, Men of 'former Ages reckoned Armour the Members of 'Soldiers, for that the Use thereof is no less be-'neficial to military Persons, than are their na-'tural Members.

Argent, a Gauntlet erected in Pale Sable, garnished Or, is born by the Name of Lacock, and was confirm'd unto George Lacock of Southwell in the County of Nottingham, descended of an ancient Family of that Surname in Sturton in the said County, by Richard St. George, Esq; Norroy, Nov. 20, 1613, in the 11th Year of the Reign of King James the First.

Erminois,

Ermines, on a Pile Sable, an old-fashion'd Gauntlet erected Or, lin'd Gules. This Coat was granted to Dancer Hancock of London, Gent. sometime Escheatour for the Counties of Cambridge and Huntington, and also Clerk of the Records in the Tower of London, by Sir Richard St. George Clarencieux, the 10th of April 1635. in the 11th Year of the Reign of King Charles the First.

'The Field is Azure, 'three Gauntlets Or, by 'the Name of Fane; and 'is the Coat-Armour of 'the Honourable Sir Fran- 'cis Fane of Fulbeck in 'Lincolnshire, Knight of 'the Bath, second Son to 'the Right Honourable 'Francis Earl of Westmore- 'land. Panormitanus maketh mention of one 'Duke Reynard, who by an Herald sent a Gaunt- 'let unto Alphonsus King of Arragon, and withal 'offered him Battel; who willingly accept- 'ing the same, demanded of the Herald, whe- 'ther he challenged him to fight with his Army, 'or in single Combat: Who answer'd, Not with 'his Army. Whereupon Alphonsus assign'd a 'Day and Place for the Purpose, and came at 'the prefix'd Time; but the Duke fail'd. Such 'is the Law of Arms in case of single Combat, 'that the Party defendant shall appoint the 'Time and Place for the Performance thereof, 'as witnesseth Spigellius in these Words, Jure 'belli licet provocato diem & locum Pralii di- 'cere.

'This is to be understood in private Challen- 'ges: For otherwise it is, where the Comba- 'tants are sentenced by the publick Magistrate 'to fight; in which Case, with us in England, 'the Time, Place, and Weapons are to be ap- 'pointed by Judges of that Court before whom 'the Matter depends.

'He beareth Argent, on 'a Pile Azure, three dex- 'ter Gauntlets of the 'Field, by the Name of 'Jolliffe; and is the Coat- 'Armour of John Jolliffe 'of the City of London, 'Esquire, Governor of 'the Muscovy Company, 'descended from the Fa- 'mily of the Jolliffes of 'Botham in Staffordshire.

'This Coat is also born by William Jolliffe 'of Carswall-Castle in Staffordshire aforesaid, 'Esquire.

He beareth Gules, a Chevron between three Gauntlets Argent, by the Name of Gantlet. This Coat was alter'd from Azure, a Gauntlet Argent, on a Chief Or, two Roses Gules, by Sir Edward Walker Garter, by Patent dated the 19th of July 1676, in the 22d Year of the Reign of King Charles the Second, to William Gantlet of Nether-hampton in the County of Wilts, Gent. whose Ancestors bare the aforesaid Coat. He was a Person who upon all Occasions express'd his Loyalty both to King Charles the First, and King Charles the Second.

Sable, an Horse's Head erased Or, between three Gauntlets Argent: This Coat was born by Thomas Guillim, eldest Son of William Guillim of Langston in the Parish of Langarron in Herefordshire; which Thomas dy'd early in the Morning, being Friday, (in the House of ..... Spencer, a Grocer, living in St. Mary Magdalen Parish) the 14th of November 1684, and was buried in the Chappel of Baliol College, (where he then had a Brother a Student) on the North Side, under the Seat where the Commoners sit, the 18th of November. He married ..... Daughter of ..... Mathews of the Postles in the Parish of Keinton in Herefordshire, but left no Issue.

M. S. of Ant. a Wood's Remarks de Com. Oxon. p. 156.

'The Field is Ruby, 3 'Legs armed Proper, con- 'joined in Fess at the up- 'per Part of the Thigh, 'flexed in Triangle, gar- 'nished and spurred To- 'paz. This Coat is quar- 'tered by the Right Ho- 'nourable William Earl of 'Derby, &c. In ancient 'Time, Soldiers that either had sold or other- 'wise lost their Armour by negligence, were '(by a military Law) punished with Death, as 'he that runneth from his Captain. Thus far 'of military Furniture of Defence pertaining 'to Men. Now shall be touched such Things 'as belong to Horses of Service for the Field; 'though some of them are in common for other 'Horses.

'Of the first Sort are the Shafron, the Cranet, 'and the Bard, whereof I find no particular 'Examples of Bearing single and a-part, but 'as they are born conjunct in the total Furni- 'ture of Horses for the Field, as shall hereafter 'in their due Place be shewed. I will here 'therefore set forth such as are of ordinary and 'common Use, as they are severally born in 'Escutcheons as followeth.

" He beareth Gules, an " armed Leg couped at " the Thigh in Pale, be- " tween 2 broken Spears " Argent, headed Or, by " the Name of Gilbert; " and is born by Henry " Gilbert of Lockoe in Der- " byshire, Esq;

Argent, on a Bend Azure, three square Buckles Or, is born by the Name of Starling, and was granted to Samuel Starling of the Hamlet of Stoppesley in the Parish of Luton in the County of Bedford, Esq; by Sir Edward Byshe Clarencieux, the 5th of September 1661, in the 13th Year of the Reign of King Charles the Second.

(M) Argent, on a Bend Azure, three Buckles Or, is the Paternal Coat of Leslie Earl of Rothes, who usually quarters therewith the Arms of Abernethy.

(M) Argent, on a Bend Sable, three Buckles Or, is the Coat of Stirling of Keir.

(M) Leslie of Wardes; Argent, on a Bend Azure, between two Laurel-Leaves slipp'd Vert, three Buckles Or.

(M) Leslie of Balquhan; Argent, on a Fess Azure, three Buckles Or.

Sable, a Chevron between 3 round Buckles Argent, was the Coat of Roger Mallet of Normanton, who married Agnes, Daughter of William Frosse of Acton, and by her had Issue William Son and Heir, Robert second Son; also Margaret, married to Robert Webester of Ledstone, Yeoman; Anne married to ..... Harysonne of Pumfrite, and Frances a Daughter, who dy'd young.

Which Roger (of Five) was the eldest Son, and Heir of William and of Margaret his Wife, Daughter of Roger Dynley of Manstone; which William was Son and Heir of John by his Wife Alice, Daughter of Lionel Copley of Batley-Hall; which John was Son and Heir of William Mallet of Normanton ..... by his first Wife, one of the Daughters of John T..... of Loftehouse .....

Note, That the abovenam'd William (eldest Son and Heir of the first mentioned Roger) married Agnes, Daughter of John Gascoigne of Lasingcross, but by her had Issue only a Daughter named Fraunces; therefore Robert (his younger Brother and second Son of Roger) was enter'd as Heir, and enjoy'd the aforesaid Lands by Virtue of the Entail, during his Life: He married Anne, Daughter of John Beane of Acworth, but by her had no Issue; whereupon Henry Mallet Clerk, Uncle to the said William and Robert (Sons of Roger) and second Son of William and of Margaret his Wife, Daughter of Roger Dynley abovementioned, was enter'd as Heir to the said Lands of Normanton and other Places, by the aforesaid Entail.

William (younger Brother of Henry, and 5th Son of William and Margaret) married to his first Wife Rosamond, Daughter of Peter Mirfill of Tonge, and by her had Issue Thomas Son and Heir, Robert second Son, who dy'd young. And to his second Wife he married Elizabeth, Daughter of Edmund Perkinson of Beamonde-hall, and by her had Issue John second Son, Arthur third Son, William fourth Son, and Roger fifth Son; also Anne married to Francis Jacksonne of Sharlton. And to his third Wife he married Bridget, (Daughter and sole Heir of Robert Fleminge of Sharlton, who was Widow of Richard Jacksonne, a third Son of Charles Jacksonne of Smydal) and by her had Issue Francis sixth Son; also Dorothy married to Gilbert Hunt, Son and Heir of John Hunt, of Carleton.

Thomas, Son and Heir of William, married Alice, Daughter of .....

(G) Bowkell of that Ilk; Argent, a Chevron Vert, between three round Buckles Azure.

He beareth Argent, two Barrs Gemels Gules, on a Chief of the Second, three round Buckles Or, by the Name of Stripling. This Coat was granted to George Stripling of London, Gent. by Sir Edward Byshe Clarencieux, the 4th of May 1663, in the 18th Year of the Reign of King Charles the Second.

Or, three Pallets Gules, over all on a Chevron engrail'd Azure, as many Buckles of the First, is the Coat pertaining to Skirven of that Ilk.

(G) King of Barra in Scotland; Azure, on a Fess Argent, three round Buckles Gules, in Chief a Lyon's Head erased, and in Base a Mullet of the Second.

(G) Ochterlony of Kelly in Scotland; Azure, a Lyon passant within a Bordure Argent, the Latter charg'd with eight round Buckles of the Field.

(G) Caddell

(G) Caddell of Aſlowne in Scotland; Argent, a Stag's Head caboſs'd, and a Mullet between his Horns Sable, in Baſe three round Buckles, two and one, Azure.

(H) Azure, in Chief three Spur Rowels Argent, is the Coat of Dalmahoy of that Ilk.

(I) Argent, a broken Lance or Spear in Bend between two Spur-Rowels Azure, by the Name of Auchmouty.

(K) Atchiſon of Goſſefurd; Argent, an Eagle diſplay'd with two Heads Sable, on a Chief Vert, two Spur-Rowels Or.

'He beareth Argent, 'three Saddles ſtirroped 'Sable. The Saddle is of 'great Uſe for all Sorts of 'Horſemen, as well for 'Eaſe in riding, as for 'ſure ſitting: But moſt 'uſeful is the ſame for 'martial Men, that ſerve 'on Horſeback in the 'Field; for that by the Means thereof, and of 'the Stirrops thereto affixed, they may be able 'to ſuſtain the Shock of their Adverſary, as alſo 'the more forcible to encounter him.

"Ermine, on a Bend Sa- "ble, two Hands iſſuing "at the Elbows from as "many Clouds Proper, and "rending a Horſe-ſhoe Or, "is the Coat-Armour of "Humphry Borlace of Tre- "luddro in the County of "Cornwall, Eſq;

'He beareth Or, a Bend 'Sable, charged with three 'Horſe-ſhoes Argent, by 'the Name of Shoyſwell of 'Suſſex.

"He beareth Argent, "on a Chevron Sable, five "Horſe-ſhoes Or. This "is the Coat-Armour of "Sir Nicholas Criſpe of "Hammerſmith in Middle- "ſex, Baronet. The Bear- "ing of Horſe-ſhoes in Ar- "moury is very ancient, "as the Arms of Robert "Ferrars, Earl Ferrars teſtifieth, who lived in "the Time of King Stephen, and bore for his "Arms, Argent, ſix Horſe-ſhoes Sable.

He beareth Or, on a Chevron Vert, five Horſe-ſhoes Argent, by the Name of Cripps. This Coat was granted to John Cripps of Homeſtall in the Pariſh of Eaſt Grimſted in Suſſex, Gent. by Sir Edward Byſhe Clarencieux, the 25th of July 1662, in the 14th Year of the Reign of King Charles II.

He beareth Gules, on a Croſs Argent, five Horſe-ſhoes Sable, by the Name of Randall. This Coat was allow'd to Richard Randall of Wolſton in the County of Northampton, and to Thomas Randall of Boonington in the County of Warwick, by Robert Cook Clarencieux King of Arms.

'To theſe may be added whatſoever other 'Parts of the Furniture of Horſes fitting for the 'Wars; as Snaffles, Bitts, Bridles, and ſuch 'other like Tokens, whereby is ſignified Re- 'ſtraint of Liberty, or ſervile Subjection.

Azure, three Stirrops without Leathers Or, was born by George Purefoy of Wadley in the County of Berks, Eſq; who married Katherine Daughter of Sir Henry Willoughby, and Relict of Sir Henry Bellingham of the County of Weſtmoreland. She bare (to her ſaid Husband) Sir Henry Purefoy of Wadley, Baronet, Son and Heir, and dy'd in the Lodgings of Dr. Say (Provoſt of Oriel College) the 11th of May 1673, and was buried in Farringdon Church in Unton's Iſle.

'The Field is Gules, a 'barded Horse passant, 'furnished at all Points 'for the Field Argent.

'A Horse thus furnish-'ed, is fitted and prepa-'red for the Use of a Sol-'dier of that Sort which 'we call Cataphracti Mi-'lites, or Men at Arms, of 'whom I shall make mention in the next Escu-'tcheon. Not much unlike this is the Capa-'rison wherewith we use to set out Horses pre-'pared for the Tilt, in our joyful Triumphs of 'Peace. I read that it was a Custom among 'the Romans (as well in their lesser as greater 'Triumphs) that no Man (but such as by Pre-'rogative, either in respect of some honoura-'ble or eminent Place, or special Merit, were 'thereto priviledged) might meet or accompany 'him that triumphed on Horseback, but alto-'gether on Foot, which Custom was of long 'time observed among them.

'The Field is Gules, a 'Chevalier armed at all 'Points Cap-a-pe, bran-'dishing his Sword aloft 'Argent, garnished Or, 'mounted on a bard-'ed Courser furnish'd 'throughout of the Se-'cond. This Coat-Armour '(according to Bara) per-'taineth to the Dutchy of 'Lithuania. These were those Soldiers strong-'ly armed in Steel, called Cataphracti Equites, 'which I lately spoke of: They were habited 'with Habergions, which were either Coats of 'Mail or of Plate; and differed much from 'those we call Levis Armaturæ Milites, in respect 'of the ponderous Weight of their Furniture, 'whereby both themselves and their Horses 'were the better inabled to receive the Shock 'and strong Encounter of their Enemy. Whose 'Armour were a Sallad or a Head-piece, their 'Shield, Graves and Brigantines, all of Brass, 'their Bassenets or Sculls, Spears and Swords, 'like those in Use with Foot-men. Such was 'the Force of these. Cataphracti Milites (or as 'we call them, Men mounted upon barded 'Horses) as that they were able to endure the 'Brunt of the Enemy, and did oftentimes re-'pair the Forces of the trembling and distrust-'ful Army.

CHAP. XVI.

"HAVING in the two former Chapters "handled Artificials Military, both In-"vasive and Defensive; I think it not much "amiss now a little to treat of Trophies and "Tokens of martial Victory, and to shew you "some Emblems of Rewards for Victory ob-"obtained, born in Coat-Armour, since Victo-"ry, and the Hope thereof, sweeteneth all those "dangerous Travels and intolerable Labours, "which the brave martial Man joyfully runneth "through, yea, even to the Hazard of his Life. "Trophies (saith Lazius) are Spoils forced from "the conquered Enemy, all embrued with Blood, and "hanged up as they were upon the next Tree that "could be found to fit that Purpose; or else the con-"quering Soldiers brought them home to their Hou-"ses, where they hanged them up upon some Pole or "Tree called Gentilitia arbor, for a Monument of "the Encrease of Glory that they had atchieved to "the Family by their Valour. The like Custom (saith "Wolf. Laz.) do we not only read of in Thucydi-"des; but my self have seen and observed repre-"sented in ancient Coins, an Oak having the Limbs "cut off, and upon the Snaggs thereof were hanged "a German Cloak made of Badgers Skins (or such "other like) called Lacerna Germanica; two "Shields, a Barbaria Pipe, and a German En-"sign.

"There was also another Sort of Trophy, "when a Man had subdued his Enemies, the "Manner was to express the Memory of the "Victory atchieved (as it was acted) in Let-"ters engraved and cut in Stone, together with "the Names of the People and Kings that were "vanquished; and this was usually set up in "some publick Place, for the perpetuating of the "Memory of such their famous Conquest to all "Posterities. To this Purpose is that which "Cicero mentioneth ad Heren. Hic in Macedonia "Trophæa posuit, eaque quæ bellicæ laudis victoria-"que omnes gentes insignia & monumenta esse vo-"luerunt. And so is that Place of Pliny, lib. 37. "cap. 2. where he writeth that Pompey the Great "caused an Inscription of a Trophy to be erect-"ed

" ed in the Pyrenean Mountains, Wolf. Lazius " lib. 9. 898.

" The ancient Rewards for Victory obtained " in the Field, born in Arms, are Garlands, " which the Armourists call Chaplets, and in " Latin they were anciently called Coronæ mili- " tum: And of these there then were diverse " Sorts, which were conferred on the Victors, " and were significant Demonstrations of the " Manner of the Victory obtained; for the En- " sign Bearers, Horsemen, Captains, and Lieu- " tenants of Cities, Towns, and Ports, which " had valorously sustained and indured the Siege " of their Enemies, and were delivered from " them, were rewarded in ancient Times with " a Garland of Grass, called, in Latin, Corona " Graminea sive obsidionaria; which although it " were made of Grass (being the only Herb that " can be supposed to be found in a Place long " besieged) yet is the same Garland Gramineous " (as Pliny witnesseth) most Honourable and " Noble, and to be esteemed above all others; " Gold, Pearl, Olive, Laurel, Palm, Oak, and " Ivy, giving place to common Grass, that royal " Herb of Dignity.

" He also that could prudently delay his Ene- " my, and preserve the Army committed to his " Charge from Loss, without giving Battel, " was wont to be rewarded with this Kind of " Gramineous Garland: Such an one was Fabius " Maximus, Qui corona Graminea donatus fuit ab " universa Italia; quandoquidem non pugnando sed " cavendo rem Romanam restituisset, & exercitum " sibi creditum conservasset.

" There was another Sort of Chaplet called " Corona Civica, which among the Romans was " in Esteem next to the Corona Graminea. And " it was made of oaken Leaves and Branches, " with the Fruit or Acorns hanging on it. This " Garland or Chaplet was given to him that " had saved a Citizen, when his Life was in ex- " tream Peril, killing his Enemy, and making " good the Place where the Danger happened. " And Pliny maketh mention, that this Sort of " Chaplet was to be given to one who slew " the first Enemy, that mounted on the Walls " of a City or Fortress, being defended by, or " for the Romans. And I read, That Hostius, " the Grandfather of the Roman King Hostilius, " for his Prowess, was the first that was remu- " nerated by Romulus with a Chaplet called Co- " rona Frondea, and this was quod Fidenam irru- " pisset; it was Anno Mundi 3295.

" The triumphal Chaplet was first made of " Laurel, and such an one did Tiberius Cæsar " use. The Athenian Victors had their Chap- " lets or Garlands of Olive-leaves; and these " Chaplets were Rewards also as well for mer- " curial as martial Deeds, some of which at first " made of Leaves, were afterward altered and " composed of Gold. Pliny writeth that the " Rose, the Lilly, and the Violets, be the " Flowers wherewith the Chaplets or Garlands " of Noblemen ought to be adorned. I con- " fess he there useth the Latin Word Corona; " but I think, under favour, there that Word " Corona cannot be taken for a Crown, I mean " such an one as is in use with us at this Day " made of Gold, but rather for a Chaplet or " Garland.

" I find also that Chaplets are sometimes made " of other Herbs, as of Rue; as that which is " born Bend-wise upon the Barrs of the Coat- " Armour of the Dukedom of Saxony; which, " as learned Mr. Selden, out of Krantzius, hath " noted, was at the Time of the Creation of " Bernard (Son of Albert Urso, Marques of Bran- " denburg, and Brother to Otho the then Mar- " ques, and to Sifride Archbishop of Breme) " Duke of Saxony, granted to the said Bernard " by the Emperor Frederick Barbarossa, upon the " Request of the said Bernard, to difference his " Arms from his Brothers; Tunc Imperator (are " the Words as Mr. Selden citeth them) ut erat " coronatus per astum Ruteam Coronam injecit " ex obliquo supplicantis clypeo: Which was after- " ward born so on their Coat, being before " Barry, Sable and Or.

" And thus much may suffice to have spoken " of Chaplets; now come we to shew some Ex- " amples of bearing them in Coat-Armours.

Gules, an Eagle displayed Argent, armed Or, on a Canton of the Second a Chaplet Vert, is born by the Name of Goodall, and was a Grant to Thomas Goodall of Earlstonham in the County of Suffolk, Gent. by Sir William Segar Garter, March 1, 1612.

' He beareth Argent, 3 ' Chaplets Vert, by the ' Name of Richardson. As ' these are here born as ' the sole Charge of the ' Field, so may you also ' find some Ordinary born ' with them, as in this ' next Example.

' The Field is Or, on a ' Chief Gules, three Chap- ' lets of the First. This ' was the Coat-Armour of ' Sir Charles Morison of Ca- ' shiobury in the County of ' Hertford, deceased.

This Coat, I find, was assign'd by Patent dated the 21st of May 1587, in the 29th of Eliz. by Robert Cook Clarencieux, to Charles Moryson of Cayshо in Hertfordshire, Son and Heir of Sir Richard Moryson, Kt.

Among the Grants in M. S. in Ashm. Numb. 834. 68. p. 69.

' He

'He beareth Or, a Fess 'Sable, between 3 Chap-'lets Vert. I read that 'Hercules first made him-'self Garlands of the Herb 'called in Latin Apium, 'which is so called quia ex 'eo apex, id est, Caput an-'tiquorum triumphantium 'coronabatur. This Herb 'is always green, as Theophrastus observed. It is 'called in English, Merche.

Sable, a Fess Ermine, between three Chaplets Argent, with a Crescent for a Difference, was confirm'd by William Flower Norroy, the 8th of May 1577, in the 19th Year of the Reign of Queen Elizabeth, to William Deane of Gosfeld in the County of Essex, Gent. 2d Son of William Deane, the Son and Heir of John Deane of Tonworth in Billington in the Parish of Blackbourne in the County of Lancaster.

M. S. in Ashm. Num. 834. p. 36.

Argent, a Chevron between three Chaplets Gules, was confirm'd by William Camden Clarencieux, to ..... Asheton of Hampton Court, it being granted by Gilbert Dethick, Norroy, by Patent dated the 2d of King Edward the Sixth. As also was the Crest to Christopher Asheton of Crosseton in the County of Lancaster, whence ..... Asheton of Hampton Court is lineally descended.

Faustina E. 1. in Biblioth. Cotton.

Argent, three Chaplets Gules, between two Gemells in Bend Sable, was confirm'd by William Flower Norroy, the 1st of July 1579, in the 21st Year of the Reign of Queen Elizabeth, to Christopher Saxton of Dunningley in the County of York, Gent. for the Worthiness of the said Christopher, who by special Direction and Command from the Queen's Majesty, endeavour'd at a perfect Geographical ——— of all the several Shires and Counties within this Realm, and accordingly finished the Same to his everlasting Praise.

CHAP. XVII.

"UNTO these before-mentioned Remune-"rations of joyful Victory, I will add "such artificial Things, wherewith the victo-"rious martial Man doth commonly deprive "of Liberty those whom the Fortune of the "Wars have given him as Captives and Priso-"ners; such be Prisoners Gives, Fetters, and "Shackles, or Prison-bolts, which are all Notes "of Subjection and Captivity. Of the Bear-"ing of some of these in Coat-Armour, I will "shew you some Examples.

'He beareth Argent, a 'Shack-bolt Sable, by the 'Name of Nuthall.

This Coat was confirmed by William Flower Norroy, the 13th of June 1582, in the 23d Year of the Reign of Queen Elizabeth, to John Nuthall of Catenhale in the County Palatine of Chester, Esq; ——

M. S. of Grants in Ashm. 844.

'Some call this a Prisoner's Bolt. He that by 'his Valour shall, in the Wars, take his Enemy, 'and retain him as his Prisoner, may well, for 'such his good Service, be guerdoned with such 'a Kind of Bearing as is here demonstrated, 'which is an honourable Bearing in Armoury, 'in regard it doth sufficiently, to an Artist, de-'clare the first Occasion thereof.

(M) Lockart of Lee; Azure, a Fetter-lock Argent, on a Chief of the Second, three Sanglier-heads of the First. But others give it, Argent, a Man's Heart Proper, within a Fetter-lock Sable, on a Chief Azure, three Boars Heads erased of the First. And there are, lately, some other Alterations made in this Coat.

(M) Lockhart of Barr; Argent, on a Bend Sable, three Fetter-locks Or.

'He beareth Sable, two 'single Shack-bolts, and 'one double Argent, by 'the Name of Anderton; 'and is now born by Mat-'thew Anderton of the City 'of Chester, Gent. These 'Kind of Arms may also 'well be given to such a 'brave Spirit, who by 'his Prowess, can fetch 'off, with Strength, or by his Charity, redeem 'any of his Fellow-Soldiers in Captivity.

CHAP. XVIII.

"TO these martial Armorials we may add, "as an Appendix of necessary Use in "warlike Business, the Water-bowgets, which "in ancient Times were used to carry and pre-"serve in the Camp, that useful Element, Wa-"ter. In such Vessels, some suppose that Da-"vid's three Worthies, which broke into the "Host of the Philistines, and drew Water out "of the Well of Bethlehem, brought to their "King that Water he so much longed for. "These three mighty Men deserved to have "been remunerated with such armorial Marks "in their Coat-Armours for their Valour.

"The usual depicting of these Water-bowgets "in Escutcheons of our present Age, if we shall "compare them with those of former Times, "we shall find these and them much differing "in Form, as by these next Escutcheons (the "two First being according to ancient Form, "and the others agreeing with the modern "manner) evidently appeareth.

'These Water-bowgets 'were anciently depicted 'and pourtraied in Coat-'Armour according to the 'Form in this present Es-'cutcheon demonstrated, 'witness old Rolls of Arms 'and Monuments of Stone. 'The Ancients themselves 'did somewhat differ in 'the Pourtraiture of this Water-bowget: For 'I find in a very ancient Roll in the Custody of 'the before-mentioned Sir Richard St. George, 'Clarencieux (who, I must with a thankful 'Acknowledgment confess, hath been very free 'in communicating such his Collections to the 'Furtherance of the second Edition) that Ro-'bert de Roos, Son of the late mentioned William 'de Roos, did bear these Water-bowgets depict-'ed, as in this next Escutcheon, with a File of 'five Lambeaux or Points.

'This is the true Fi-'gure both of the Escu-'cheon and Charge as 'they be in the said Roll, 'which is written in a 'Hand of that Time, or 'very near.

'The Field is Ruby, 'three Water bowgets 'Pearl. This was the 'Coat-Armour of Sir Wil-'liam Roos, a Baron of 'this Kingdom, who lived 'in the Time of our two 'first Edwards, after the 'Conquest.

(99) Vallange; Azure, three Water-bowgets Or. This is the second Quarter in the Atchievement of the Earl of Dumfreis.

Or, on a Fess Sable, three Water-bowgets Argent, was assign'd or confirm'd by William Camden Clarencieux, the 10th of March 1602, to ——— Bugg or Bogg of Sutterton in the County of Lincoln.

'He beareth Argent, a 'Fess Verry, Or and Gules, 'between three Water-'bowgets Sable, by the 'Name of Dethick; of 'which Family was Sir 'John Dethick, Kt. some-'time since Lord Mayor 'of London. As also those 'two ingenious Gentle-'men; Thomas Dethick, 'who hath long resided at Leghorn, and Henry 'Dethick of Popler near London, Sons of Sir Hen-'ry Dethick, Son of Sir William Dethick, Kt. 'Son of Sir Gilbert Dethick, Kt. both Principal 'Kings of Arms, by the Title of Garter.

'He beareth Gules, a 'Fess between three Wa-'ter-bowgets Ermine, by 'the Name of Meres; and 'is the Bearing of Sir Tho-'mas Meres of Lincoln, 'Knight.

(100) Fairly of that Ilk; Argent, a Chevron between three Water-bowgets Sable.

Azure, three Water-bowgets Or, within a Bordure Ermine, with one Crescent upon another, for Difference; is used by Brooke Bridges of Lincolns Inne, Esq; as the Paternal Coat of his Family.

(99) Ross of Kilravock; Or, a Bear's Head coup'd Gules, between three Water-bowgets Sable. The Same within a Bordure is the Coat of Ross of Auchlossin.

'The Field is Pearl, a 'Cross engrailed Ruby, be-'tween four Water-bow-'gets Diamond. This was 'the Paternal Coat-Ar-'mour of that honourable 'Family of the Bourchiers, 'sometimes Earls of Ew 'in Normandy, from whom 'are descended the Bour-'chiers Earls of Bathe, and that truly noble 'Knight Sir Henry Bourchier, a careful and dili-'gent Searcher out of the hidden Antiquities, 'not only of this Kingdom, but of Ireland also. 'Leigh, in his Accidence of Armoury, p. 127, cal-'leth these Water-bowgets, and pag. 176. he 'termeth this Kind of Charge a Gorge.

CHAP. XIX.

THERE are, (as I before hinted in Armoury) besides the Ordinaries already treated of, many other Figures; which for their being peculiar to the Science, may also be termed proper Charges: Of these some are in Form round, others square; the Former of which our English Heralds have conceited to distinguish one from another, by diverse Denominations, according as the Roundles themselves differ in Tincture, which Tincture is understood by the appointed proper Name of the Roundle blazoned; as for Instance.

If they be	Then we call them	Which signify, as Leigh in his Accidence sets forth,
Or,	Bezants,	Coin of Gold.
Argent,	Plates,	Coin of Silver.
Vert,	Pomeis,	Apples.
Light blue,	Hurts,	Hurtle-berries, or black and blue Spots.
Sable,	Pellets or Ogresses,	Great Gun-shots.
Purpure,	Golps,	Wounds.
Tenne,	Orenges,	Oranges.
Sanguine,	Guzes,	Eye-balls.
Gules,	Torteauxes or Wastals,	Cakes of Bread.

But the French, as Mackenzy observes, cap. 18. allow no such Multiplicity or Confusion of Terms, nor do the Italian, or Spanish Heralds; and Colomb says, C'est plustost obsturcir la Science que l' éclaircir c'est pour quoy jene Scaurois approuver ces terms bigearres d'angleterre. The common and ordinary round Figures, approv'd and us'd by all Nations, being only Bezants and Torteauxes, by the Former of which are understood those Roundlets of Metal, and by the Latter those of Colour.

Bezants were the current Coin of Bizantium (now called Constantinople, the Seat of the Turkish Emperors, since their over-running Greece, &c.) and introduced into Coat-Armour (as is generally thought) by those who were at the Holy War: Though, since, they are carried not only by their Descendants, but to shew the Rise of vertuous Treasurers, Trustees, Customers, &c. Note, They are ever of Metal, and when blazoned (according to the Custom of all foreign Heralds) should be expresly said to be Or or Argent.

Torteaux (a Name which I told you foreign Heralds used for every Roundle that was not of Metal) is supposed to signify a round Cake; in Latin, Limba torta & rotunda, whence the Name. And thus, as agreeable thereto, Argote de Molina, at the End of cap. 103. lib. 1. of his Nobility of Andalusia, gives us a very merry and pretty Occasion of Arms, viz. A certain King (says he) being at the Point of giving Battel, entertain'd the principal Knights of his Army at a Banquet of Cakes [Tourteaux de Pain] telling them that as many as they eat, so many Moors it behov'd them to slay; which being accomplish'd, he deviz'd for them Arms accordingly of Tourteauxes, some having eaten Six, Ten, Twelve, Thirteen, and slain as many Enemies.

When Foreigners blazon Coats of this Kind, they say so many Bezants d'Or, or, d'Argent; so many many Tourteauxes de Getteles, de Azure, de Sable, &c. And when they are half Metal and half Colour, if the Metal hath Precedence in Position, they say Bezant-Tourteaux of such Metal and Colour; and so è contra, Tourteaux-Bezants, where the Colour precedes the Metal.

Chassanæus Conclus. 75, gives it for a Rule, That Bezantæ numerantur usque ad Octo, si excedant dicentur Bezantee, & Tortellæ numerantur sicut Bezantæ; that is (if I take the true Meaning of his Rule) when a Field or Charge shall contain above eight Bezants, so plac'd as to fill the same equally on all Points, representing, in a Manner, a promiscuous strewing over the Whole; that then you should term such Field or Charge, Bezanteé, i. e. Bezanted or full of Bezants. For if there were Ten, Twelve, Fifteen or more, (as in the Arms of Zouch Bridgman, and others I could name) confin'd to any particular Form of Position, then must the Number and Form be particularly mention'd, otherwise it is no Blazon sufficient to instruct the Draught. But it has been the Misfortune, that some, if they gain but a Quotation from such an Author, without so much as looking into his Meaning or Intent, immediately send it out as a positive Rule, in the literal Sense, upon all Occasions whatsoever, though in such Sense repugnant to the very Basis of the Science.

But however, as I have shew'd you the prevailing Custom of our Land, in giving different Names to the Roundles, and never naming their Tinctures, unless by some Line of Partition they are divided into two or more; so as it is not my place to alter and reform, I shall follow the same in my Examples of Bearings; as for Instance.

'Or, three Torteauxes. 'This is the Coat-Armour 'of the Courtney's of Devonshire, particularly of 'Powderham, of which is 'Sir William Courtney, des- 'cended in a direct Male- 'line from Hugh Court- 'ney, second of that Name 'Earl of Devonshire, in 'the Time of Edward the Third, the elder Fa- 'mily being in possession of that Honour till the 'Beginning of Queen Elizabeth: Divers of them 'were Dukes of Exeter.

Sable, six Plates, three, two, one, by the Name of Punchardon. These being flat Pieces, are Bullions of Silver plain and fitted for the Stamp. I am amazed that an Error so gross and palpable as the making them round like Balls, by an irregular Disposition of Shadow, should so long and generally have prevailed among us, as that to give them their proper Form, is held a Crime by some; nay, I have been condemn'd for it by those whose Business was to know better: But such is our misfortune, That, first, Ignorance introduces an Error, and we plead the ill Custom to defend it, especially if ancient: How many times have I had the most shameful Draughts brought to me (such as a bare School-boy wou'd correct) for to make a Fac simile, and that by Blockheads of the first Rank? Many times have I been forc'd to make this Thing that Way, That another, when repugnant to the very Nature of the Thing they would be thought to represent, as if Heraldry, if good and true, must of course be Nonsense; whereas, in all other Arts and Sciences, Nature alone is aim'd at, and ought to be in this: But of this enough in my Preface.

Argent, 3 Torteauxes, a Chief Gules, is born by the Name of Bayly, and was granted to John Bayly of Hoddesden in the County of Hartford, by Sir Richard St. George Clarencieux, the 16th of February 1634, in the 10th Year of King Charles I.

Argent, three Pellets, a Chief engrail'd Sable, is born by the Name of Belly, and was at first granted by William Camden Clarencieux, the 23d of October 1602, to John Belly of Great Paxton in the County of Huntington, Esq; Doctor in the Civil Law, Chancellor of the Dioceses of Lincoln, Provost of Oriel College in Oxford, and one of the Masters of the High Court of Chancery, who received a Confirmation also of the same Coat from William Dethick Garter, the 10th of November 1602.

Argent, on a Chief Gules, three Bezants, by the Name of Russel, sometime of Durham in the County of Glouceſter.

Ermine, on a Chief Gules, 3 Bezants, was confirm'd by William Flower Norroy, the 6th of March 1585, in the 28th Year of the Reign of Queen Elizabeth, to Philip Okeover of Okeover in the County of Stafford, Esq; descended of the ancient Family of Okeover of the said County.

M. S. of Grants in Asham. Num. 844.

Ermine, on a Chief Gules, three Bezants, with a Crescent for a Difference, was born by Henry Okeover, Batchelor of Arts and Commoner of Trinity College, youngest Son of Sir Rowland Okeover of Okeover in the County of Stafford, Kt. which Henry dy'd in the said College, the 25th of March (Lady-day) aged Twenty four, or thereabouts, Anno 1684, and was buried in Magdalen Parish Church.

M. S. of Ant. à Wood's Remarks de Com. Oxon. p. 153.

Or, on a Pale Azure, three Bezants, is the Coat of John Wildman of Beaucot alias Becket, in Berks, Esquire.

He beareth Argent, on a Bend Sable, three Bezants, by the Name of Burdett. This Coat was allow'd to George Burdett of London, who married Elizabeth, Daughter of Roger Holbrooke of Little Budworth in Cheshire, by Robert Cooke Clarencieux.

" The Field is Argent, " on a Bend engrail'd Sable, three Plates. This " Coat-Armour pertain'd " to the ancient Family of " the Cutts of Arkesden in " the County of Essex, " where, in the Parish-" Church, remains a Mo-" nument, whereon these " Arms here demonstrated, as the Paternal " Coat-Armour of this Family, are pour-" tray'd: The Heir of which Family is at pre-" sent Richard Cutts of the said Place, as also of " Childerley in Cambridgeshire, Esq; near unto " which Tomb lie interr'd Richard Cutts, Esq; " and his four Sons, viz. Richard Cutts, Esq; " eldest Son, who erected that Monument, " Sir William Cutts, Kt. second Son (and lately " his only Son and Heir Richard Cutts, Esq;) " Francis third Son, and John the fourth Son, " which Francis married Katharine, one of the " Daughters and Co-heirs of John Bondivile or " Bonvile, of Sponton in the County of York, Esq; " who for his Coat-Armour bore Sable, six Mul-" lets, three, two, and one Or.

Or, on a Bend ragulé Sable, three Bezants, a Martlet in Chief Gules, for a Difference, was granted to John Eldred of London, Gent. (a 4th Son of John Eldred of Buchinham) by William Dethick Garter, Principal King of Arms, dated at London the 10th of June 1592, in the 34th Year of the Reign of Queen Elizabeth.

Or, on a Bend ragulé trunked Sable, three Bezants, a Martlet for a Difference Gules, was granted to John Eldred of Buckenham, Son of John Eldred of Knetsell in Norfolk, by William Dethick Garter, dated at London the 10th of June, Anno Domini 1592, in the 34th Year of the Reign of Queen Elizabeth.

Gules, a Fess Argent, between three Plates, was the Coat of William Myners of Blackvole in the County of Stafford, living Anno 1566, who married Katherine, Daughter of Edward Underhill of Ettington, and had Issue Humphry first Son, Walter second Son, and Rowland third Son; also Elizabeth first Daughter, Ellen second Daughter, Katherine third, and Isabel fourth Daughter.

Note, That the above-named William Myners was the Son of William, eldest Son and Heir of Richard Myners of Blackvole in the County of Stafford, by his first Wife ——

Having

Having now gone through my intended Diſcourſe, and Examples of ſuch Roundles or round Figures as by a continued Cuſtom are become peculiar to Heraldry, I think it meet to touch upon ſuch ſquare Figures as I inform'd you were or might alſo be reckoned proper Charges.

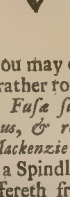

'Of this Sort are { Fuſils, Lozenges, Maſcles.

'The Geometrician calleth the Kind of Figure whereof every of theſe is compoſed Rhombus, which Keckerman ſaith, is Parallelogrammum obliquangulum & equilaterum; for in truth every one of theſe conſiſt of four geometrical Lines of equal length, yet theſe are differently named by Armouriſts, as I ſhall preſently ſhew you. But I think it firſt neceſſary to demonſtrate unto you the Figure of every of theſe; as in Example.

The Fuzil. The Lozenge. The Maſcle.

'The Fuſil is longer than the Lozenge, having its upper and lower Part more acute and ſharp than the other two collateral middle Parts; which Acuteneſs is occaſioned by the ſhort Diſtance of the Space between the two collateral or middle Parts in the Figure demonſtrated unto you by the Letters B B; which ſpace, if the Fuſil be rightly made, is always ſhorter than any of the four geometrical Lines whereof it is compoſed, as you may obſerve in the Figure thereof: In which you find that the Diſtance between the two Angles, demonſtrated by the Letters A and B, is longer than that which is between the two collateral or middle Angles marked with B and B: But all this is to be underſtood of Fuſils of the modern Figure or Form; for anciently they were depicted in another Shape. And Chaſſaneus ſheweth a Fuſil ſomewhat near to the Ancient, in Proportion thus,

'In this Figure you may obſerve the Sides are not anguled, but rather round. He there thus deſcribeth Fuſils, Fuſæ ſunt acutæ in ſuperiori & inferiori partibus, & rotundæ ex utroque latere: To which Mackenzie alſo agrees; adding, That it repreſents a Spindle.

'A Lozenge differeth from a Fuſil, in that the Space between its two collateral or middle Angles equals the Length of any of the four geometrical Lines whereof it is compoſed, as its Figure before more plainly manifeſteth; where the Space between the Angles demonſtrated by the Figures 3 and 3, and 1 and 3, are of equal length. I confeſs, ſometimes you may find in Things made for Lozenges, the Diſtance here demonſtrated by the Figures 3 and 3, to be a little longer than that from 1 to 3, but it can never be ſhorter, for then it is a Fuſil.

Lozenges, ſaith Mackenzy p. 48. are exactly four-ſquar'd Parallellogrammata, and are born by Mathematicians, and oftentimes are Symbols of exact Honeſty and Conſtancy; that being a Figure whoſe right Side is always higheſt, homus quadratus, Chaſſ. lib. 1. concluſ. 75. tells us, That Lozangiæ factæ ſunt ad modum lozangiorum in vitriis.

"A Maſcle differeth both from the Fuſil and "Lozenge; firſt, becauſe the Maſcle is always "voided, that is, Part of the Field is tranſpa"rent through it. I confeſs in this I diſſent "from Leigh's Opinion, who in his Accidence of "Armoury, p. 157. b. ſeemeth to grant, That a "Maſcle may be whole. Next, a Maſcle diſ"fereth from a Fuſil and a Lozenge in the Pro"portion of Space, which is evidently demon"ſtrated in the Maſcles Figure by the Letters "C and D, which ſheweth a Maſcle to be as "long as it is broad.

But the late Editor is wrong here; for Guillim ſays, That granting them to be Maſhes of a Net, they ſhould be ever voided, not otherwiſe; and I am of Leigh's Opinion, that they may and are born ſolid, though by our irregular Practice we do not rightly diſtinguiſh between one and the other, occaſion'd much by our Careleſſneſs in Drawing; for even in the Examples following, the Engraver has not kept to the Dimenſions as he ought, and I could have wiſh'd.

Beſides

Beſides (as Mackenzy obſerves) if the Maſcle repreſents only the Maſh of a Net, why was it cut like a Maſcle or Macle? wherefore he rather credits Columb, who, Page 149. aſſerts, That theſe Maſcles were firſt uſed in the Arms of the Houſe of Rohan, who choſe them becauſe the Carps and Flints alſo of their Lands in that Dutchy, are all mark'd with this Figure; which being a Thing ſo very Extraordinary, gave Occaſion for them to carry them in their Arms; and theſe Spots, in that Country, are term'd Macles from the Latin, Macula; whereupon the Dukes of Rohan give for their Motto, Sine Macula, Macla.

When they are round pierc'd, the French term them Ruſtres; whereas, we not allowing them pierced otherwiſe than in the following Examples, call ſuch Bearings Lozenges, charg'd with Roundles of ſuch or ſuch Tincture.

" He beareth Gules, " 3 Fuſils Ermine. This " is the Coat-Armour of " Sir John Denham, Kt. " one of the Barons of his " Majeſty's Exchequer, a " good and able Judge. " The Fuſil is never pier- " ced, or voided, as Leigh " noteth. What a Fuſil " repreſenteth in Armory, and how the Engliſh, " French, and Dutch vary in their Opinions " about it, I have formerly ſhewed unto you " out of the Accidence of Armoury.

" The Field is Azure, " three Lozenges Or. Lo- " zenges are thus deſcri- " bed by Chaſſaneus, *Lo- " zangiæ factæ ſunt ad mo " dum Lozangiarum quæ " ponuntur in vitriis ſub " forma quadranguli, ſed " ſuperior & inferior partes " plus tendunt in acutum " quam aliæ duæ collatera- " les ſeu mediæ, & ſic plus longæ ſunt quam largæ, " Chaſſaneus, pars 1. à concluſio 75.

" The Field is Pearl, " three Fuſils in Feſs Ru- " by. This was the Pa- " ternal Coat-Armour of " William Montague Earl " of Salisbury. I know " well that Mr. Brooke, " York-Herald, in his Ca- " talogue of the Earls of " Salisbury, hath blazon- " ed theſe Lozenges; but old Rolls of Arms " with their Blazon in French, do teſtify, That " theſe be Fuſils; for it is thus written in one " of them, Monſ. de Mountague, Count de Saram, " port d'Argent, à trois Fuſilles, &c. This Roll " now at this preſent remaineth in the Cuſtody " of Sir Henry St. George, Kt. Richmond-Herald, " whoſe induſtrious Collections of ſuch Anti- " quities, and his willingneſs in affording the " View of them for the Forwarding of this " preſent Edition, cannot, without a manifeſt " Note of Ingratitude, be here overpaſſed in " ſilence.

Fuſils, ſaith Leigh, are never pierced or voided: The French take them for Spindles; ſo do the Scots; we take them for Weavers Shutles; and the Dutch for Millpecks.

" He beareth Sable, 3 " Fuſils in Feſs Ermine, " by the Name of Gif- " ford, a Family of long " Continuance in Half- " worth in Devonſhire, from " whence deſcended that " great Collector of choice " Rarities, Humphry Gif- " ford of the Poultrey Comp- " ter, London, Gent.

Simplicitas formæ Antiquitatis nota.

THE Fifth SECTION comprehendeth Examples of Coat-Armours, having no Tincture predominating in them, ſhewing withal their ſundry Forms of Partition; as alſo of the Tranſmutations or Counterchangings that are occaſioned by reaſon of thoſe Lines of Partition.

THE TABLE OF The Fifth SECTION.

Those of manifest Derivation, have their Denomination from some of the Ordinaries whose Forms they do represent, whose Names also they do still retain, as a Memorial of their particular Derivations. As Party per Pale, per Bend, per Fess, per Chevron, per Saltire, &c. Others, though abstracted from Ordinaries, do lose their Names.

And both these Sorts last mentioned, are no less subject to be charged in Part, or all Over, with Charges both Ordinary and Common, than any before mentioned wherein Tincture is said to predominate.

" He beareth Party per " Chevron embatteled Or " and Gules, three Roses " counter-chang'd, slip'd " Proper, on a Chief of " the Second, three Hour-" glasses of the First. This " Coat pertain'd to Do-" ctor White, sometime " Bishop of Wincheſter; " a Descendant of which " Family is Nehemiah White of Islington in Mid-" dlesex, Clerk. Although the Sun is the Go-" vernor and Moderator of Time; yet, because " we cannot aptly express the same to the View, " I have made choice of this Coat to manifest " the same thereby, in respect of the Hour-" glasses placed on the Chief thereof: For as " the Sun is the Measure of Time, so is the " Time also the Measure, not only of publick " but also of private Affairs. For who is he " that hath any Business to perform, that desi-" reth not to know how he proceedeth therein, " and whether he be before-hand with Time, " or that he be belated? And for this End were " Dials, Clocks, Watches, and Hour-glasses " devised.

(G) Lawson of that Ilk; Per Saltire Argent and Sable, a Saltire Gules, on a Chief Azure three Garbs Or.

'He beareth Party per 'Saltire Sable and Ermine, 'a Lyon rampant Or, arm-'ed and langued Gules, 'by the Name of Grafton. 'In the Blazon of Coat-'Armours of this Kind, 'having no Tincture pre-'dominating, I think it 'fit to give Preheminence 'to that Metal, Furr, or Colour which occu-'pieth the Chief, or the greatest Part thereof; 'as you may observe I have done in the Blazon 'of Hawley's and Restwold's Coats, and the like, 'in this present Chapter. Mr. Boswell giveth 'Grafton's Coat the same blazon that I do here, 'beginning with the Colour Sable. Johannes 'Peronus, Nauclerus, Paradine, Upian, Gerrard 'Leigh, and others, both ancient and modern 'Writers, altogether allow the Blazon of this 'Coat-Armour to be Party per Saltire, as afore. 'Some others (whose Conceit herein I utterly 'dislike) whether nicely or ignorantly, have 'endeavoured to blazon this Coat Gyronny of 'Four, or of four Pieces: But my Opinion is 'confirmed with that of the said former Wri-'ters, alledged to be the seventh Partition per 'Saltire, without any Term of Gyronny at all. 'The Ancestors of this Gentleman enjoy'd a 'large Revenue in Lands in the City of Worce-'ster, and in Grafton, Flixford, and Pendock in the 'County of Worcester, also other Lands in the 'County of Stafford, as appeareth by a Deed '(which I have seen) dated in June Anno 29 'Henrici 8. but at this Day dispersed into strange 'Hands. Nevertheless I wish Vertue her due 'Reward; then shall not this Bearer (a true 'Lover of Arms) depart empty handed.

This Coat was attested, ratified, and confirmed (in a Letter Testimonial to Spain) by William Flower, Esq; Norroy, the 16th of August 1512, to Richard Grafton, Son of Ralph Grafton, who was Son of Ralph Grafton of the County Palatine of Chester, Gent.

M. S. in Ashm. Num. 834. p. 5.

This Coat was also confirm'd to Richard Garston of London, Gent. third Son of Richard Garston of the said City, by Robert Cook, Anno 1584.

But whether the Name was so corrupted, or the Herald misled, I shall not determine; tho' the Coat is the same with that aforegoing.

' As theſe laſt mentioned Coats are framed ' of ſtraight Lines of Partition, ſo ſhall you find ' others compoſed of ſundry Lines before ſpo- ' ken of, in the Beginning of the ſecond Section ' of this Book, as well of thoſe Sorts that I call ' cornered Lines, as of thoſe that are bunched. ' And as theſe laſt handled, do utterly exclude ' all mixture of the Tinctures whereof they are ' formed, by reaſon of the Straightneſs of the ' Lines wherewith they be divided: So contrari- ' wiſe thoſe Arms that do conſiſt of thoſe other ' Sorts of Lines, do admit Participation and In- ' termixture of one Colour with another, for ' which Cauſe they are of Leigh termed Miſcils, ' à miſcendo, of mingling; to whom I will refer ' you touching Coats of that Kind, for that he ' hath exemplified them at large in his Accidence ' of Armoury.

CHAP. II.

' IN the former Chapter are comprehended ' ſuch Coat-Armours whoſe Fields conſiſt ' of ſingle and manifold Lines, as well charged ' as ſimple. Now ſhall be handled ſuch other ' Kinds of Bearing, which altho' they conſiſt ' of Lines of Partition, as the laſt ſpoken of ' do; yet (by reaſon of the variable Appoſition ' of ſome one or more Lines of Partition) they ' do conſtitute another Sort of Bearing, and re- ' ceive alſo a diverſe Denomination, being cal- ' led Coats counter-changed or tranſmuted. All ' which ſhall briefly, yet plainly, appear by the ' few Examples following.

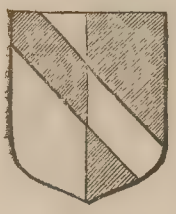

' Counter-changing or Tranſmutation is an ' Intermixture of ſeveral Metals or Colours, ' both in Field and Charge, occaſioned by the ' Appoſition of ſome one or more Lines of Par- ' tition. Such Coat-Armours may be fitly re- ' ſembled to the Party-coloured Garments, ſo ' much eſteemed in ancient Time, as they were ' held meet for the Daughters of Kings, du- ' ring the Time of their Virginity. So we read ' of Thamar, the Daughter of King David; ' Erat indùtâ tunicâ verſi-colore, ſic enim veſtiebân- ' tur filiæ Regis virgines pallis: And ſo we read ' that Joſeph, the ſpecial beloved Son of Iſrael, ' was by his Father clad in a Coat of diverſe Co- ' lours. Touching the high Eſtimation of which ' Kind of Garments, we find, where the Mother ' of Siſera, diſcourſing with her Ladies, touch- ' ing her Son's over-long Stay after the Battle ' againſt the Iſraelites, ſaid, Partiuntur prædam, ' puellam unam, imo duas, in perſonam quamcunque: ' præda verſicolorum eſt Siſeræ, præda verſicolorum ' Phrygionicum opus, &c. Bends (ſaith Sir John ' Ferne) or any other principal Charges, Ordinary, may ' be parted of two Colours or more.

' And ſuch Bearings are no Novelty in Arms, ' but as ancient as the Norman Conqueſt, ' and before; ſo as they are both honourable ' and ancient. Of which Sort of Bearing you ' ſhall in Part ſee in theſe next enſuing Eſcu- ' tcheons.

'This Coat pertained to 'the famous and learned 'Poet Geffrey Chaucer, Esq; 'whom Leiland and others 'suppose to have been born 'at Woodstock in Oxford-shire: But some gather by 'his Words in the Testament 'of Love, that he was born in the City of London, though his Education and Abode were 'in Oxford and Woodstock, in the eighth Year of 'King Richard the Second. This Prince of English Poets was Comptroller of the Custom-house 'in London, as Thomas Speght in his Additions to 'the Works of Chaucer noteth: And to this most 'learned of Poets the most learned of Antiquaries applieth those Verses:

This Coat was assign'd to Sir Francis Jobson of ..... in the County of Essex, in Consideration of his true and faithful Service to King Henry the Eighth, by Letters Patents dated in April, in the 7th Year of the Reign of King Edward the Sixth, which Patent was not as usually other Patents are, viz. only by the Kings of Arms, but by his said Majesty himself, by and with the Advice of John Duke of Northumberland, the said King's High Marshal of England, and sign'd at Westminster, with the Royal Testimony, Witness our Self, &c.

Bendy wavy of six Ermine and Azure, on a Canton Gules a Star Or. This Coat was granted to Hope for Bendall of Mile-End in the County of Middlesex, by Sir Thomas St. George Garter, and Sir Henry St. George Clarencieux, dated the 8th of February, Anno Domini 1692, in the 4th Year of the Reign of William and Mary.

(N) Calbreath, a Scots Family; Bendy of six Argent and Azure, on a Chief Sable three Crosses pateé Or.

He beareth Barry wavy of six Argent and Azure, on a Chief Gules, three Plates, by the Name of Henning. This Coat was assign'd by Sir William Segar Garter, to ..... Henning of Poxwell in the County of Dorset, the 20th of May, in the 9th Year of the Reign of King James the First.

Her. Off. Wilts, Dorset and Somerset, C. 22. fo. 142.

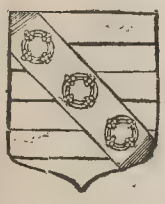

"He

" He beareth Barry wavy of six Argent and Azure, on a Chief Gules three Bezants, by the Name of Astry; and is born by James Astry of Wood-end in the Parish of Harlington in Bedfordshire, Esq; by Luke Astry of Lincolns Inn in Middlesex, Counsellor at Law; and by Richard Astry of Huntington in the County of Huntington, Gent. all descended from Sir Ralph Astry, Kt. Lord Mayor of London, temp. Hen. 7.

He beareth Barry wavy of six Pieces Or and Gules, on a Chief of the Second three Plates, with a Mullet for a Difference, by the Name of Blachford. This Coat was confirm'd to Richard Blachford of London and of Dorchester, Merchant, Anno Domini 1629, by Sir William Segar Garter.

Vide Her. Off. C. 24.

Barry of six Pieces Argent and Azure, on a Bend Gules, three Chaplets Or, was granted to Robert Gray of London, Esq; and Sheriff of London, and at this Time Master of the Company of Merchant-Taylors; and to Thomas Gray his Nephew; by Richard St. George Clarencieux, dated in April 1635, in the 11th Year of the Reign of King Charles the First.

Barry of six Argent and Azure, on a Bend Gules three Roses Or, over all a Label of as many Points Sable, was the Coat of Edward Lyngen of Baliol-College, who dy'd the 16th of February 1652, and was buried in Magdalen Parish Church in the North Suburbs of Oxon. He was a Gentleman-Commoner of that College, and of the Family of Lyngen of Sutton in Herefordshire, whose Arms these are.

M. S. of Ant. à Wood's Remarks de Com. Oxon. p. 86.

Barruly of eight Pieces Argent and Azure, on a Canton of the Second, an Eagle display'd with two Heads Or, is born by the Name of Greenstreet, and was confirm'd to Peter Greenstreet of Offspring in the County of Kent, with the Charge of the Canton alter'd from a Martlet, by Sir John Borough Garter, the 23d of June 1642.

" He beareth Barry of six Argent and Gules, on each three Fleurs de lis, (save one in the Last) all counter-chang'd, by the Name of Sweetington.

CHAP. IV.

'HAVING given Examples of Coats 'abstracted from Ordinaries by a manifest Derivation; now followeth, in Order to 'speak of such as have their Derivation from 'them, after a more obscure Manner: As in 'Example.

'The Field is Paly-'bendy Topaz and Diamond: Here you see that 'this Coat-Armour is 'composed of a Kind of 'Mixture of two Ordi-'naries of several Kinds, 'to wit, of Pales and of 'Bends born one over-'thwart the other; for 'which Cause the same is termed Paly-bendy, 'a Name not unfitly appropriated to such Bear-'ing, in respect that the Participation thereof 'is no less significantly expressed thereby, than 'by the self-demonstration of the Coat.

" He beareth Barry-bendy Argent and Sable. This Coat-Armour, as you may observe, consists of a Mixture of Barrs and Bends, even as the first Escutcheon in this fourth Chapter doth of Pales and Bends; and therefore I give it this Blazon; for similium similis est ratio.

'Now

" Now I will ſhew you a Coat-Armour, " which altho' it be of this Kind, yet doth it " much differ from the former.

" The Field is Barry of " ſix, Argent and Sable, " indented the one in the " other. This Coat-Ar- " mour is born by the " Name of Giſe. Some " others blazon this Bar- " ry-bendy-lozengy Ar- " gent and Sable, counter- " changed. Sir John Ferne " gives this ſame Coat " the ſame Blazon that I do. But there is no " doubt but that one and the ſelf-ſame Coat- " Armour may receive two Manner of Blazons, " yet both good." But, under Correction, I diſapprove of both thoſe Forms of Blazon, as inexpreſſive, and hold it beſt, Barry bendy both dexter and ſiniſter; or, only Barry-lozengy.

" Leigh, in his Accidence of Armoury, Page 156. " demonſtrateth this next Eſcutcheon, and bla- " zons it Barry-bendy; and ſaith, it conſiſteth " continually of eight Pieces, and is properly " ſo called without any other Name; but it is " by other Blazoners thought to be better bla- " zoned, Barry-pily of ſo many Pieces. And " ſo I ſhall, under correction of Mr. Leigh, now " blazon it.

" He beareth Barry- " pily of eight Pieces " Gules and Or. I doubt " not, if the courteous " Reader well conſider " the Form of the Pile " uſed in Armoury, and " the Manner of the Po- " ſition of the Charge of " this Eſcutcheon, that he " will not much condemn " this new blazon given to this Coat-Armour. " As for the Blazon of Hoyland or Holland's " Coat of Lincolnſhire, I take it to be parted " per Pale indented, Gules and Or." But with ſubmiſſion, I can neither approve Leigh nor the late Editor in this blazon, for though the Lines are extended to the Extremities of the Eſcutcheon, it is ſtill a Partition-line, and would be ſooneſt conceived by parted per Pale dancetté throughout, or to the extream Sides of the Eſcutcheon; and thus, in ancient and valuable Manuſcripts, I have ſeen the Coat of Birmingham, a Warwickſhire Family, blazon'd, which is the ſame in Draught.

Lozengy Gules and Argent, on a Chief Or, three Cinquefoils Azure. This Coat was aſſign'd by William Camden Clarencieux, by Patent dated in April, Anno 1606, to ..... Bagge of Plymouth in the County of Devon.

Concerning Coat-Armours whoſe Fields have no Colours predominating, and their Forms of Diviſion derived from Ordinaries, that which hath been ſpoken is ſufficient: I will now ſhew you ſome Inſtances of ſuch Bearings as (being derived both in Name and Form from the ſeveral Ordinaries, in like Manner with thoſe lately handled) do admit either of ſome of the beforementioned Lines of Partition, thereby occaſioning a Tranſmutation or Counter-changing, or elſe of ſome Charges tranſmuted by its own Lines, which in the following Examples do appear.

He beareth Paly of ſix Or and Azure per Feſs counter-changed by the Name of Gurney. This Coat was confirm'd to Richard Gurney alias Gurnard, Eſq; (Son of Bryan Gurney alias Gurnard born at Kendall in Weſtmorland) choſen Sheriff of London, for his Integrity, &c. by Sir William Segar Garter, the 26th of July 1633, in the 9th Year of the Reign of King Charles the Firſt.

Her. Off. Lond. C. 24. fo. 307.

" He beareth Barry of " ſix Argent and Gules, " Party per Pale indented, " counter-changed, by the " Name of Peyto, and is " now born by William " Peyto of Cheſterton in " Warwickſhire, Eſq;

" He beareth Paly of " ſix, Topaz and Dia- " mond, a Bend counter- " changed, by the Name " of Calvert; and is the " Bearing of the Right " Honourable Cæcilius " Calvert, Baron Balti- " more, de Baltimore in " the Kingdom of Ire- " land, abſolute Lord " and Propietary of the " Provinces of Maryland and Avolan in Ame- " rica.

" He beareth Barry of " four, Or and Sable, over " all 3 Maſcles counter- " changed, by the Name " of Pargiter; and is the " Paternal Coat-Armour " of Sir William Pargiter " of Greetworth in North- " hamptonſhire, Kt. a Fa- " mily of good Antiquity, " whoſe

" whose Ancestors have been there seated for ' many Generations.

' This shall suffice for Coat-Armours having ' an obscure Derivation from some of the Ordi-
' naries, which do keep their Name. Of such as
' do lose the Name of their Ordinaries whereof
' they are composed, I find only one Sort, which ' is Checky. And this Form of Bearing is also
' chargeable both in Part and all over, as shall ' appear by these next Examples.

Checquy Or and Azure, is born by the Name of Warren, and pertain'd to Warren Earl of Surrey; and to the Warrens of Stockport, and is quartered by the Illustrious Family of the Howards.

' He beareth Checquy
' Argent and Azure, a
' Chief Gules, by the Name
' of Palmer. This Sort
' of Composition (if you
' do well observe it) is
' abstracted from Pallets
' and Barrulets commixt;
' yet doth it not partici-
' pate either of the one
' Name or the Other, but is termed in Blazon,
' Checquy. As this Coat is charged in Part,
' so are there others also of the same Kind that
' are charged all over.

" He beareth Chec-
" quy Or and Gules, a
" Chief Verry, by the " Name of Chichester;
" a Family of good Ac-
" count in Devonshire,
" where resideth Sir
" John Chichester of Ra
" leigh, Baronet; John
" and Francis Chichester
" of Hall, Esq; and
" George Chichester of
" Georgeham, Esq;

" He beareth Checquy
" Argent and Gules, a
" Chief indented Azure,
" by the Name of Mickle-
" thwaite; and is the Coat-
" Armour of Joseph Mickle-
" thwaite of Swayne in Hol-
" derness in the County of " York, Esq;

" He beareth Checquy,
" Argent and Sable, a Fess
" Gules, by the Name of " Ackland. This, with
" the Arms of Ulster, is
" the Coat-Armour of
" Sir Hugh Ackland of Co-
" lomb-John in Devonshire,
" Baronet.

Checquy Or and Sable, a Fess Ermine, is born by William Peckham of Swafham in Norfolk, as the Paternal Coat of his Family; but I do not find in the Visitations of that County that ever they entered, which is a great and too common a Fault among Gentry.

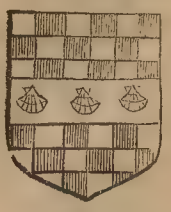

" He beareth Checquy
" Or and Azure, on a
" Chief Gules, 3 Estrich-
" feathers in Plume issu-
" ant of the First. This " is the Coat of Henry
" Drax of Sibsy in Lin-
" colnshire, and of the " Island of Barbadoes in " America, Esq;

' He beareth Checquy
' Or and Azure, on a Bend
' Gules; three Lioncels
' rampant of the First.
' This Coat pertained to
' the worthy Family of
' Clifford of Frampton up-
' on Severn in the Coun-
' ty of Gloucester, being a
' Branch of the Right No-
' ble Stem of the Earls of Cumberland. Of this ' Family Puntins, a Nobleman of Normandy
' (coming in with the Conqueror) was the ' original Ancestor; whose second Son Osbert
' held Frampton upon Severn aforesaid, in the ' twentieth Year of his Reign; from whom (for ' want of Issue) it descended to Richard his Bro' ther, eldest Son of Puntins, and from Richard
' to Walter de Clifford, Son of Richard, Father
' to Rosamond the Fair, who was here born; in
' which Place this Family hath ever since conti' nued, being above Five hundred and eighty
' odd Years. Captain John Clifford, the present
' Owner and Possessor of that ancient Seat,
' Anno 1675, (being the Seventeenth in a direct ' Male-line) is; for Want of Issue-male, like to ' be the last of that Name there.

' Of this Family of the Cliffords have been ' many Persons eminent in their Generations,
' both in Peace and War; and, of late Years,
' George Earl of Cumberland, famous for his ma' ny Services under Queen Elizabeth, especially
' his taking Porto Rico in America from the Spa-
' niards; and since him Thomas Lord Clifford,
' Baron

'Baron of Chudleigh in Devonshire, late Lord 'High Treasurer of England under his Majesty 'King Charles the Second.

"Checquy Or and Gules "on a Fess Azure, three "Escallop-shells Argent, "by the Name of Bal- "dock; and is the Coat "of Sir Robert Baldock "of Caulefton in Norfolk, "Knight.

"He beareth Checquy "Argent and Gules, on a "Fess Azure, three fini- "ster Gauntlets of the "First, by the Name of "Goodhand. This, with "a Crescent for a Diff- "rence, is the Coat-Ar "mour of Charles Good- "hand of the Tower of "London, Gent. belong- "ing to the Office of his Majesty's Ordnance; "descended from the Family of the Goodhands "of Kyrmond alias Kyrlemon le Mire in Lin- "colnshire.

Checquy Argent and Sable, on a Canton of the Second, a Dagger Bend-ways of the First, born by the Name of Smallwood; and was granted to Matthew Smallwood, D. D. and Dean of Litchfield in Staffordshire.

"Concerning Coat-Armours whose Fields "have no Colour predominating, and are deri- "ved from Ordinaries, that which hath been "spoken is sufficient: I will now conclude with "two Examples of such as are abstracted from "Charges, viz. from Fusils, Mascles, and Lo- "zenges, which being born all over the Field, "are termed in blazon Fusily, Lozengy, Mas- "culy, that is, Fusil-ways, Lozenge-ways, "Mascle-ways. These also are found charged, "and that all over, as in these following Ex- "amples.

"He beareth Fusily "Ermine and Sable, a Can- "ton Or, by the Name of "Patten; a Family of "good Note and Antiqui- "ty: For in the six and "twentieth of Henry the "Sixth, William Patten "alias Wainflete (from a "Town in Lincolnshire, "where he was born) was "Son and Heir to Richard Patten, and eldest "Brother to John, Dean of Chichester, and to "Richard that lived and died at Baslove in Der- "byshire. He was a Person, by Parentage, born "a Gentleman; for his Learning he was first "consecrated Bishop of Winchester; then for his "Wisdom made Lord Chancellor of England, "and was the sole Founder of Magdalen College "in Oxford. Richard, his Brother, being a Lay- "man, had Issue Humphrey, who seated him- "self in Lancashire, from whom Thomas Patten "of Thornley in the said County, Gent. is des- "cended.

'The Field is Fusily 'Ermine and Sable, on a 'Chief of the Second, 3 'Lillies Argent. These 'Arms are belonging to 'Magdalene College in Ox- 'ford, which was found- 'ed by William Wainflete, 'Anno 1456, sometime Bi- 'shop of Winchester.

'Jo. Buddenus (in Wainflete's Life) affirmeth 'his Name to be Patten, of which Family this 'is the Paternal Coat; and that he honoured 'the same with this Chief, to acknowledge his 'Education in the College of Eaton, to which 'the Lillies do belong. His Words are these, 'A parentibus (saith he) accepit hujus vitæ usu- 'ram, à Collegio decus & dignitatem, utrique pro 'eo ac debuit respondendum fuit. Gessit idcirco in 'eodem clypeo utriusque insignia, Rombos cum 'Liliis.

But before I conclude this Section, it may not be amiss to inform you, That as the Fields of Coat-Armour are liable to those various Accidents already set forth; so, even their Charges, or the Things contained therein, whether they be, as I formerly distinguished them, either proper or common Figure, are also liable to the same, when the Fields may be of one Metal or Colour, as the following Examples will make appear, in which I shall follow much the same Manner of Progression. And the Reason why I have reduced Bearings of this Nature hither, is, because now the Reader will know what I mean by a Lyon Lozengy, Checquy, or under any of the Accidents already handled; whereas before (if a Learner) he would have been surpris'd with Matters of which he had no Rule or Notice.

Ermine, a Chevron engrail'd Party per Pale Or and Sable, is born by the Name of Cosyn; and was granted to John Cosyn, Esq; Alderman, and one of his Majesty's Justices of the Peace for the Town and County of Newcastle upon Tyne, by William Ryley, Esq; Norroy, the 12th of May 1647, in the 23d Year of the Reign of King Charles I.

"He

"He beareth Sable, a "Chevron per Pale Ar- "gent and Or, between "three Griffons Heads "eraſed of the Second, by "the Name of Boume; "and is born by John "Boume of Moreſields in "the Pariſh of St. Leo- "nard's Shoreditch in Mid- "dleſex, M. D.

Ermine, a Fret Party per Pale Gules and Azure, was confirm'd by William Flower Norroy, the 21ſt of February 1587, in the 30th Year of the Reign of Queen Elizabeth, to Richard Thekeſton of Thekeſton in the Wapentake of Halykeld, within the Honour and Liberty of Richmond in the County of York.

Azure, a Croſs engrail'd between four Stock- (or Ring-) Doves Or, a Chief quarterly Argent and Ermine, charged over all with two Roſes Gules, Leaves Vert; was the Coat of Edward Ruthall, Eſq; living unmarried Anno 1571, Son of Thomas Ruthall of Bucks, Eſq; and of Margaret his Wife, Daughter of ..... Bery of Heron in the County of Bedford; Son and Heir of Richard Ruthall of Mulſo in the County of Bucks, and of his Wife the Daughter of ..... Hobbs of the County of Somerſet.

M. S. of Grants in Aſhm. 844.

'Twas the Coat alſo, with a Creſcent for a Difference, of Richard Ruthall of Little-Billing in the County of Northampton, living Anno 1571, which Richard married Elizabeth, ſecond Daughter of Robert Burgoyne of Watton at Stone in the County of Hertford, and was Son and Heir of Henry Ruthall of Bucks, and of Anne his Wife, only Daughter and Heir of Thomas Middleton (the Son of Thomas, the Son of Thomas Middleton of Silkeſworth in the County Palatine of Durham,) which Henry Ruthall was ſecond Son of Richard Ruthall of Mulſo aboveſaid.

He beareth Gules, a Chevron between three Leaves erect Argent, and on a Canton per Bend ſiniſter Vert and Azure, as many Fleurs de lis Or, within an Orle of eight Bezants, by the Name of Fletcher. This Coat was granted the 26th of April 1613, in the 11th Year of the Reign of King James the Firſt, by Sir William Segar Garter, to Thomas Fiſher of London, Gent. Son and Heir of John Fiſher of Woodſtock in the County of Oxford, deſcended out of Lancaſhire; and to John his Son ——

Gules, 3 broad Swords Barr-ways, the Middle with its Point to the Dexter, the Other to the Siniſter Argent, Hilts and Pomels Or, within an Orle of Mullets of the Third, on a Canton per Feſs Argent and Vert a Lyon of England, is the Coat of Sir George Choute of Betherſden in the County of Kent, Baronet.

Vide Her. Off. in Viſit. de Com. Cant.

I believe the Canton is an Augmentation.

Gules, a Cinquefoil per Pale Argent and Or, by the Name of Pouchar.

Argent, three Cinquefoils each parted per Pale Vert and Gules, was the Coat of Richard Cheek of Abingdon in Berks, who married Katherine Daughter to William Boulteyng of Sutton in the County of Somerſet, and had Iſſue Alexander eldeſt Son, Francis ſecond, and William third Son; alſo two Daughters, Elizabeth and Frances.

Note, That the ſaid Richard Cheek of Abingdon, was ſecond Son of Alexander of Weſtburne in the County of Somerſet, which Alexander was Son of Sir John Cheek of Long-Aſhton (Father of Sir John of the ſame Place) which Sir John firſt mentioned, was Son of Sir Richard Cheek of Long-Aſhton in the County of Somerſet, a Juſtice of the Common Pleas, and Son and Heir of John Cheeke of the ſame Place.

M. S. of Ant. a Wood, mark'd F. 3. fo. 57.

Or, a Lyon rampant parted per Feſs Azure and Gules, is the Coat of Sir Edwin Sadleir, late of Temple Dinſley in the County of Hertford, and now of London, Bart. who married Mary Daughter and Co-heir of John Lorymer, Citizen and Apothecary of London, deſcended of the ancient Family of Lorymer in Hampſhire. He was fourth Son and Heir to Sir Edwin Sadleir of Temple-Dinſley aforeſaid, created Baronet by King Charles the Second, the 3d of December 1661, which Sir Edwin laſt mentioned, was ſecond Son and Heir to Thomas-Leigh Sadleir of Aſply-Guiſe in the County of Bedford, who was much eſteem'd for his profound Learning and Knowledge. This Thomas-Leigh mas-Leigh was the only Son and Heir of Leigh Sadleir, who was eldeſt Son and Heir of Edward Sadleir of Temple-Dinſley and Aſply-Guiſe aforeſaid, who took to Wife Anne, Daughter and ſole Heir of Sir Richard à Leigh of Sopwell in the ſaid County of Hertford, an eminent Warrior and Favourite of King Henry VIII. and in her Right had great Poſſeſſions. This Edward was younger Brother to Sir Thomas Sadleir, who, for two Nights, magnificently entertain'd King James the Firſt, and his royal Train, at his Seat at Standon in the ſaid County of Hertford, when he came to take Poſſeſſion of the Crown of England. Sir Thomas left but one Son Ralph Sadleir of Standon aforeſaid, much fam'd for his Hoſpitality and Bounty, who dy'd without Iſſue.

The abovementioned Edward was ſecond Son to Sir Raphe Sadleir, created Knight Banneret (in way of Reward) at the Battle of Muſcleborough near Edinburgh in Scotland (the Laſt of that Order created for Service perform'd againſt a common Enemy.) He was brought up under and Secretary to the politick Thomas Cromwel, Earl of Eſſex, one of the Principal Secretaries of State to King Henry the Eighth, which ſaid Prince conſer'd the ſame Poſt on the ſaid Sir Ralph, and made him one of his Privy Council in the 30th Year of his Reign, and rely'd much upon his Advice in Matters of the greateſt Importance, eſpecially in the Affairs between England and Scotland, in which he employ'd him in diverſe Embaſſies of the moſt weighty Concern both in War and Peace; and, as a further Mark of his Royal Favour, made him one of the Superviſors of his Will. In King Edward the Sixth's Time he held the ſame Places and high Eſteem, but in Queen Mary's Reign reſign'd, and dwelt private at his Seat at Standon. In the Firſt of Queen Elizabeth he was again ſworn of the Privy Council, and in the Tenth made Chancellor of the Dutchy of Lancaſter, which Stations he held to his Deceaſe. He was a Privy-Councellor above forty Years in the ſeveral Reigns of Henry VIII. Edward VI. and Queen Elizabeth, and for the moſt Part of the Time a conſtant Member of Parliament for the County of Hertford, and always faithful to his Prince and Country, and a great Promoter of the Reformation of the Church of England. He dy'd aged Eighty, at Standon, poſſeſs'd of a noble Eſtate which he had got honeſtly, enjoy'd honourably, and then left entire to his Poſterity, viz. Twenty two Mannors, ſeveral Parſonages, and other great Parcels of Land diſperſed in the ſeveral Counties of Glouceſter, Warwick, Bucks, Worceſter, and Hertford; being deſcended of an ancient Family ſeated at Hackney in the County of Middleſex, where himſelf was born.

George Sadleir of Aſply-Guiſe aforeſaid, is alſo of the ſame Family, being only Son and Heir of Leigh Sadleir, who was Son of Leigh, fourth Son to the abovementioned Thomas-Leigh Sadleir. The ſaid George intermarried with Jane Styleman, Niece of John Styleman of London Merchant, by whom he hath Iſſue George and Jane.

The abovementioned Coat was an Alteration from another too much confus'd and intricate, in the confus'd Mixture of too many Things in one Shield, by Robert Cook Clarencieux, and William Flower Norroy, who ratified and aſſigned this ſaid Coat the 4th of February 1575, in the 18th Year of the Reign of Queen Elizabeth (in lieu of the aforementioned confuſed Bearing, which was granted by Chriſtopher Barker Garter, by his Letters Patents dated the 14th of May, in the 34th Year of the Reign of King Henry VIII.) to Sir Paul Sadleir of Standon in the County of Hertford, Kt. made Banneret at the Battle of Muſcleborough in Scotland, and at the Date hereof Chancellor of the Dutchy of Lancaſter, and one of the Queen's moſt Honourable Privy Council, who had and enjoy'd the ſaid Alteration.

Azure, a Pile Argent, and three Eſcallops, one and two, counterchang'd. This Coat belong'd to John Trowle of Linton in the County of Cambridge, who married Mary Daughter of Robert Wolward of Widderſham, and was living Anno 1619, which John Trowle was Son of Edward Trowle of Whipſted in the County of Suffolk, by his Wife Katherine Daughter of ..... Scott of Depden in the County of Suffolk, who bare to her ſaid Husband, beſides John already mention'd, Edward and Robert, Twins; alſo Margaret, who was Wife of John Gaute of Hartoſt in Suffolk; Katherine who dy'd without Iſſue; Anne, Wife of Thomas Hynd of Whipſted; Elizabeth, Wife of John Evard of Whipſted; Mary, Wife of Hugh Pattell of Whipſted; and Roſe, who dy'd without Iſſue.

Note, That the abovenam'd Edward Trowle of Whipſted, was Son and Heir of John Trowle of the ſaid Place; which John had alſo by his Wife a Daughter Margaret, Wife of ..... Scott of Depden, to whom ſhe bare Children.

(M) Hutcheſon; Argent, a Feſs Azure, ſurmounted of three Arrows, the Middlemoſt in Pale, the others in Bend dexter and ſiniſter with the Points downward, and meeting in the Baſe, counter-chang'd of the Field and Feſs, (whoſe Top theirs do not exceed) in Chief a Boar's Head eraſed Sable.

He beareth Or, a Chevron Barry of ſix Gules and Sable, by the Name of Proud. This Coat was confirm'd to ..... Proud of ..... in the County of Salop, Steward of the College of Weſtminſter, by William Camden Clarencieux, in April, Anno Dom. 1606.

He beareth Argent, 3 Creſcents Barry undée Azure and Gules, by the Name of Haynes. This Coat was confirm'd to Nicholas Haynes of Hackney in the County of Middleſex, 4th Son of Richard Haynes of Reading in the County of Berks, Gent. and of Thomazen his Wife, Daughter and Co-heir of John Foxley of ..... in the County of Berks, by Robert Cook Clarencieux, in the 20th Year of the Reign of Queen Elizabeth 1578.

Or, a Lyon rampant Sable, over all a Bend componé Argent and Gules, is born by the Name of Forſett, and was aſſign'd by William Camden Clarencieux, in November, Anno 1611, to Edward Forſett of Marybone in the County of Middleſex. —— I have ſeen this Name written Fawſett.

Or, on a Chief dancetté Azure, three Plates within a Bordure Gobony Argent and Gules, pertain'd to William Lathome, Son and Heir of William Lathome of Upminſter in Eſſex, by Amia Daughter of William Strangeman; which William Lathome was Son and Heir of William of the ſaid Place, who was Son and Heir of Raphe Lathome of North Ockendon.

(M) Wallace of Ellerſlie; Gules, a Lyon rampant Argent, within a Bordure componé Azure and of the Firſt.

(M) Spence of Aberdeen of Old, gave Argent, a Lyon's Head eraſed Gules, within a Bordure componé Azure, and of the Firſt.

Quarterly Or and Gules, a Bend Verry, within a Bordure Gobony Argent and Azure. According to a Certificate under the Hand and Seal of the Right Honourable Richard Earl of Dorſet, dated the Laſt of May 1622, and directed to the Kings of Arms, That Thomas Sackville, one of his Majeſty's Gentlemen Uſhers in Ordinary, may lawfully uſe and bear theſe Arms, we do acknowledge and ſubſcribe our Names this 9th of June, Anno ſupradicto.

William Segar Garter,
William Camden Clarencieux,
Richard St. George Norroy.

By Gobonée or Gobonated, is meant any Thing as it were made up of little Gobbits, or ſquare Bits, as in the Draught. It is ſometimes called Componé, as compoſed of ſuch Bits or Pieces, and is ever of ſingle Panes; for, whereſoever you ſee Squares of this Nature to conſiſt of two Tracts, as in the next Example, then it is termed Counter, or Conter-componée, and if of three or more, in others following, Checquy or Checkée.

He beareth Sable, a Bordure Conter-componée Or and Argent.

The Field is Jupiter, an Eagle diſplay'd Checquy, Sol and Mars. This Coat-Armour (according to Bara) pertaineth to the Kingdom of Moravia. Although this Kind of Bearing may ſeem ſtrange to us in England; yet, it is very common in Germany (ſaith Sir John Ferne in his Glory of Generoſity) to bear Beaſts, or any quick Thing of Colours Checquy, as well as any other Charge or dead Thing. And, notwithſtanding that ſuch Bearing be not agreeable to Nature, yet (ſaith he) if it were either as ancient, or born by ſo great an Eſtate (in regard of the Armoury) it holdeth compariſon with the Coat of Ceſar, which is, Or, an Eagle diſplay'd with two Necks Sable, as far diſſenting from Nature, ſince it is monſtrous for one Body to have two Heads. Yet in this and other like, there are ſpecial Myſteries of as honourable Bearings, as there is in thoſe that are born according to Nature.

He beareth Gules, an Eagle diſplay'd Ermine, beak'd and leg'd Or, and a Chief Checquy Or and Azure, by the Name of Halſted. This Coat was confirm'd or granted by Sir William Segar Garter, the 20th of November 1628, in the 4th Year of the Reign of King Charles the Firſt, to Laurence Halſted of Sunning in Berks, and of London.

Her. Off. Lond. C. 24. fo. 421. b.

Or, a Feſs Checquy Azure and Argent, was the Paternal Coat of that Illuſtrious Family of STUART, whence ſo many Kings and Nobles have deſcended to Rule and Grace our Iſle.

Gules, a Feſs Checquy Or and Azure, between ſix Martlets Argent, is born by the Name of Whitington; and was confirm'd to Captain Luke Whitington, (who, with moſt exemplary Loyalty, from the very Beginning of the Great Rebellion, actively and faithfully adhered to the Royal Intereſt;) by Sir Edward Walker Garter, the 12th of September 1660.

He beareth Gules, a Feſs Checquy Or and Azure, between three Eaglets diſplay'd of the Second, by the Name of Kendale. This Coat was confirm'd by ..... Clarencieux, the 22d of Auguſt, in the 21ſt Year of the Reign of King Henry the Sixth, to John Kendale of Leiceſterſhire.

M. S. of Grants in Aſhm. Num.

(M) Argent, a Feſs Checquy Azure and Silver, between three Cocks Gules, is the Coat of ..... Cockburn of Ormiſton.

Argent, a Feſs Checquy —— between three Lyons Heads eraſed Gules, was born by William Shortgrave, lately (ſaith à Wood) a Captain in the King's Army; who died in the Houſe of Francis Bowman, Stationer, called Bulkley-hall, the 4th of September 1658, buried in St. Mary's Church, aged 38, Son of Richard Shortgrave of Everden in the County of Northampton.

(G) Perk of that Ilk; Or, a Feſs Checquy Azure and Argent, between three Harts Heads caboſed Gules.

(M) Lord Garrioch of Old; Or, a Feſs Checquy Azure and Argent, between three open Crowns Gules.

(G) Leudla of Cobbenton in Scotland; Gules, a Feſs Checquy Argent and Azure, in Baſe a Maſcle of the Second.

(G) Tohſto of Monyward in Scotland; Or, a Feſs Checquy Azure and Argent, in Chief a Mullet Azure, between two Halbeards Gules, Headed of the Second.

(M) Toſhauch; Gules, three Pole-Axes erected Pale-ways Argent, ſurmounted of a Feſs Checquy of the Firſt and Second.

Gules,

Gules, a Chevron Counter-compony Argent and Sable, between three Fleurs de lis Or, is born by the Name of Skirley, and was confirm'd the 10th of September, Anno 1609, by William Segar, to Robert Shirley of London.

Int. M. S. P. le Neve, Norroy.

(M) Or, a Chevron Checquy Sable and Argent, between three Martlets (or Kaes) of the Second, is the Coat of Howſton of that Ilk.

(M) Roſs, Lord Roſs; Or, a Chevron Checquy Sable and Argent, between three Water-bowgets of the Second.

(M) Argent, a Chevron Checquy Gules and Silver, between three Bugle-horns Sable, garniſhed of the Second, is the Coat of Sempil, Lord Sempil.

Ermine, a Croſs Checquy Or and Gules, between four Water-bowgets of the Third, was confirm'd to Thomas Bowſcer of Stone in the County of Glouceſter, by William Camden Clarencieux, Anno Dom. 1606.

(G) Mac vach; Sable, an Ineſcutcheon Checquy Argent and Azure, between three Lyons Heads eraſed of the Second; this pertains to Mac vach of Killquhauty in Scotland.

(M) Menaught of Kilquharitie; Sable, an Ineſcutcheon Checquy Argent and Azure, between three Lyons Heads eraſed of the Second.

Sable, a Fret humetté Argent, within a Bordure Checquy of the Firſt and Second, was allow'd and aſſign'd to John Harrington of Kelſton in the County of Somerſet, Son of Alexander Harrington, deſcended of a Younger Brother of the Harringtons of Brierly in the County of York, by Sir Gilbert Dethick Garter, and —— —— the 12th of February 1568.

Argent, a Feſs Lozengy Or and Azure, in Chief three Maſcles as the Third, within a Bordure of the Same Bezanty, is born by the Name of Burges, and was confirmed or granted to William and John Burges of Weſtport in the County of Dorſet, (Sons of John Burges of the ſaid Place, the Son of John Burges of Stanford in the County of Berks) by William Camden Clarencieux, the 11th of April 1614, in the 12th Year of the Reign of King James I.

'And thus briefly concluding this Fifth Se'ction, comprehending Examples of Coat-Ar-
'mours having no Tincture predominating in
'their Fields, and withal ſhewing their ſundry
'Forms of Partition, Tranſmutation, and Coun-
'ter-changing, together with the like Accidents
'even in Charges themſelves, whether Proper
'or Common, I will addreſs my ſelf to the Sixth
'and Laſt Section of this Work.

THIS Sixth and laſt SECTION doth demonſtrate the Manner of Marſhalling divers Coat-Armours (pertaining to diſtinct Families) in one Eſcutcheon, as well of thoſe that by Occaſion of ſome adventitious Accident are annexed to the Paternal Coat of any Gentleman, as of thoſe that by reaſon of Intermarriage of Perſons deſcended of ſeveral Families, are therein to be conjoined. Likewiſe the Manner of the Bearing of Women not under Covert-Baron.

SECTION VI.

CHAP. I.

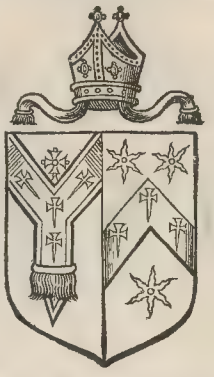

'FROM our first ingress in this Book, 'hitherto hath been handled at large 'the first Part of the Division of this 'whole Work, under the general 'Head of Blazoning; wherein have 'been contained and illustrated Examples of the 'divers and variable kinds of bearing all man-'ner of Coat-Armours, of whatsoever sub-'stance, form, or quality consisting, together 'with the general and particular Rules in their 'proper places, for the better instruction of the 'regardful Reader. It now succeedeth in or-'der to explain that other general Head (being 'the second part of the first Division) termed 'Marshalling. Which term I am not igno-'rant of how far extent it is, not only in or-'dering the parts of an Army, but also for dis-'posing of all Persons and Things in all Solem-'nities and Celebrations, as Coronations, In-'terviews, Marriages, Funerals, Triumphs, 'and the like, in which the Office of an He-'rald is of principal use for direction of others; 'and therefore his Learning, Judegment, and 'Experience ought to be able to direct himself 'in so weighty Affairs. But that noble part of 'Marshalling is so absolutely already perform-'ed by the industrious Pen of the Judicious 'Sir William Segar Kt. late Garter and Princ:pal 'King at Arms, in his Book of Honour Mili-'tary and Civil, as that it were but Arrogancy 'joyn'd with Ignorance for me to intermeddle 'in an Argument so exactly handled: Neither 'is here my purpose other, than to confine my 'self to Armory only, and so far only to speak 'of Marshalling, as it concerns Coat-Armours. 'This Marshalling therefore is an orderly dis-'posing of sundry Coat-Armours pertaining to 'distinct Families, and of their contingent Or-'naments, with their Parts and Appurtenances 'in their proper places. Of these things, some 'have their place within the Escutcheon, some 'without: and of those within the Escutcheon, 'some have their occasions obscure, other some 'manifest; as are those whose Marshalling (ac-'cording to ancient and prescript forms) do ap-'parently either betoken Marriage, or some 'gift of the Sovereign. Such as betoken Mar-'riage do represent either a Match single or he-

'reditary: By a single Match I mean the conjoyning of the Coat-Armours of a Man and a Woman, descended of distinct Families, in one Escutcheon Pale-ways, as by Examples following shall appear. And this form of Impaling is divers according to the several Functions of Persons, whether Ecclesiastical or Temporal. Such as have a Function Ecclesiastical, and are preferred to the high honour of Pastoral Jurisdiction, are reckoned to be knit in Nuptial bands of love and tender care to the Cathedral Churches whereof they are Superintendents, insomuch as when a Bishop deceaseth, Ejus Ecclesia dicitur viduata. And therefore their Paternal Coat is evermore marshalled on the left side of the Escutcheon, giving the Preheminence of the right side to the Arms of their See, ob reverentiam dignitatis Ecclesiasticæ, for the honour due to Ecclesiastical Dignity; as also in respect that the Arms of such several Sees have in them a kind of perpetuity, for that they belong to a Political Body, which never dieth. An Example of such Impaling is this which followeth, and this manner of Bearing we may aptly call Baron and Femme.

'The Reverend Father in God James 'Montague, deceased, 'when he was Lord 'Bishop of Bath and 'Wells, and Dean of 'his Majesties Chapter Royal, bore two 'Coats impaled, viz. 'Azure, a Saltire quarterly quartered, Or 'and Argent, for the 'Arms appropriated to 'his then Episcopal See, 'conjoyned with his 'Paternal Coat, viz. Argent, three Fusils in Fess, 'Gules, within a Bordure, Sable. Which worthy and learned Prelate was afterwards translated to the See of Winchester, and consequently made Prelate of the most Noble Order of 'the Garter. This form of bearing, with some 'others before expressed, doth serve fitly to exemplify the Rule formerly delivered touching 'Bordures, viz. that a Bordure must give place 'to Impaled Coats, Quarters, Cantons, Chiefs, '&c. I will to this former add other Examples 'of this kind of impaling.

'The most Reverend Father in God, Dr. 'William Lawde, late Lord Archbishop of Canterbury his Grace, Primate of all England and 'Metropolitan, Chancellor of the University of 'Oxford, and one of the Lords of his Majesties 'most Honourable Privy Council,

'Beareth these two 'Coats impaled, viz. 'The Field is Jupiter, 'a Staff in Pale, Sol, '& thereupon a Cross 'Patee, Luna, surmounted of a Pall of 'the last, charged by '4 other like Crosses 'fitchéd, Saturn, edged and fringed as the 'second. This Coat 'belongeth to the 'Archiepiscopal See 'of Canterbury, conjoyned with his 'Lordships own 'Arms, viz. Sable, 'on a Cheveron, Or, 'between three Stars, as many Crosses Patee 'fitchee, Gules. Here by the way you may 'observe that in this blazon, I neither tell the 'number of the Points of the Stars, they being six, nor their colour, it being proper, 'which is Or, lest I should break the two 'Rules given, pag. 79, 80.

'The Right Reverend Father in God 'Richard Sterne, by 'Divine Providence 'Lord Archbishop of 'York, Primate and 'Metropolitan of 'England, &c. beareth Gules, two Keys 'in Saltire, Argent, 'in Chief an Imperial Crown proper, 'being the Arms of 'his Episcopal See, 'impaled with his 'Graces paternal 'Coat, viz. Or, a 'Cheveron between three Crosses floree, Sable.

'The Right Reverend 'Father in God Henry 'Compton, by Divine permission Lord Bishop of 'London, Clerk of his Majesties Closet, Dean of 'his Chappel, one of the 'Lords of his most Honourable Privy Council, 'and Brother to the Right 'Honourable James Earl 'of Northampton, &c. beareth two Coats impaled, 'viz. Gules, two Swords 'in Saltire, their Points 'erected, Argent, the Hilts 'and Pomels, Or, being the Arms of his Graces 'Episcopal See, impaled with his Paternal Coat, 'viz. Sable, a Lion passant guardant, Or, between three Helmets, Argent. The

'The Right Reverend Father in God Peter Gunning, by Divine permiſſion Lord Biſhop of Ely, &c. beareth two Coats impaled, viz. Gules, three Ducal Crowns, Or, being the Arms appropriate to his Epiſcopal See, impaled with his Graces Paternal Coat, viz. Gules, on a Feſs, Argent, between 3 Doves, proper, as many Croſſes fomee of the Field.

'The Right Reverend Father in God Nathaniel Crew Lord Biſhop of Durham, Clerk of the Cloſet to his Majeſty, and one of the Lords of his moſt Honourable Privy Council, Son of the Right Honourable John Lord Crew, Baron of Stean, beareth Azure, a Croſs, Or, between four Lions rampant, Argent, impaled with his Lordſhips Paternal Coat, Azure, a Lion rampant, Argent.

'This is the Coat-Armour of the Right Reverend Father in God Seth Ward, by Divine permiſſion Lord Biſhop of Sarum, and Chancellor of the moſt Noble Order of the Garter: his Grace beareth Azure, the bleſſed Virgin with her Son in her right hand, and a Scepter in her left, all Or, being the Arms of his Epiſcopal See, impaled with his Paternal Coat, viz. Azure, a Croſs Patee, Or.

'To theſe, with the Readers patience, ſhall be added two other Examples, which in regard they are invironed with the Garter of the Order, merit Obſervation.

'The Right Reverend Father in God Lancelot Andrewes deceaſed, when he was Lord Biſhop of Winchester, and Prelate of the moſt Noble Order of the Garter (which Office always pertaineth to the ſaid See) bore two Coats impaled, viz. Gules, two Keys endorſed, the Bows interlaced in Bend, the uppermoſt Argent, the other Or, a Sword interpoſed between them in Bend ſiniſter of the ſecond, Pomel and Hilts of the third, being the Arms belonging to the ſaid See, conjoyned with his Paternal Coat, viz. Argent, on a Bend engrailed between two Cotizes, Sable, three Mullets, Or, both Coats within the Garter (for ſo doth the Prelate of the ſaid Order always bear his Arms.) The works of this Right Reverend Biſhop, lately publiſhed, do give ſufficient teſtimony of his worth and learning.

'Now becauſe the Kings of Arms do ſometimes in like manner (as Biſhops uſe) impale the Arms peculiar to their ſeveral Offices together with their own Paternal Coats, as Baron and Femme, but always in ſuch caſe marſhalling the Paternal on the left ſide, I will inſert one of their Impalements, as in Example.

'That worthy Knight, Sir William Segar, Garter Principal King of Arms, thus impaleth the Arms pertaining to his Office of Garter with his own. The Coat that is peculiar to his Office is thus blazoned, Argent, a Croſs, Gules, on a Chief, Azure, a Crown environed with a Garter, buckled and nowed between a Lion paſſant guardant, crowned, and a flower de Lis, all Or; conjoyned in Pale with his own proper Coats, which are two, quarterly; the firſt is Azure, a Croſs moline, Argent, by the Name of Segar; the ſecond Or, a Cheveron between three Mullets, Azure, by the Name of Cakenthorpe; the third as the ſecond, the fourth as the firſt. In like manner do Mr. Clarenceaux and Mr. Norroy, the other two Kings of Arms marſhal their Coat-Armours belonging to their ſeveral Offices with their own Paternal Armorial Enſigns, which for brevity ſake I here omit.

'To the end it may be the better conceived what is meant by the right and left ſides of an Eſcutcheon or Coat-Armour born impaled after this manner, you may imagine a Man to be ſtanding before you, inveſted in a Coat depicted with the Arms of two ſeveral Families thus conjoyned in Pale; and then that part that doth cover his right side will answer ' to your left: So then accounting the Coat to ' be his that weareth it, you cannot err in your ' Judgement touching the true distinction of the ' dexter-side of the Escutcheon, that is due to the ' Man as to the more worthy, from the sinister ' part that is allotted to the Woman, or the In- ' feriour.

' The manner of such impaling of Coat- ' Armours of distinct Families (as Baron and ' Femme) by Persons Temporal, is divers from ' this before mentioned; for they do evermore ' give the preheminence (of the dexter side) to ' the Man, leaving the sinister to the Woman, ' as in Example.

' This Shield is parted ' per Pale, Baron and Fem- ' me, the first Argent, ' a Lion Rampant, Er- ' myns, gorged with a ' Collar, Or, Langued ' and Armed, Gules, and ' is born by the Name of ' Guillim; the second is ' Pale-ways of six, Ar- ' gent and Sable, on a Bend, Or, three Pheons ' heads of the second, by the Name of Hathe- ' way.

' If these were not Hereditary Coat-Armours, ' yet should they have this form of marshalling ' and none other, because the same is common ' as well to single marriages having no hered- ' tary Possessions, as to those that be hereditary. ' Only in this these have a Prerogative, which ' the other have not, that the Baron having re- ' ceived Issue by his Femme, it is in his choice ' whether he will still bear her Coat in this ' sort, or else in an Inescutcheon upon his own; ' because he pretendeth (God giving Life to ' such his Issue) to bear the same Coat of his ' Wife to him and to his Heirs; for which cause ' this Escutcheon thus born is called an Escutche- ' on of pretence. Moreover, the Heir of these ' two Inheritors shall bear these two Hereditary ' Coats of his Father and Mother, to himself ' and his Heirs quarterly; to shew, that the In- ' heritance, as well of the Possessions, as of the ' Coat-Armours, are invested in them and their ' Posterity; whereas, if the Wife be no Heir, ' neither her Husband nor Child shall have fur- ' ther to do with her Coat, than to set up the ' same in their House, Paleways, after the fore- ' said manner, so to continue the memorial of ' the Fathers match with such a Family. Ex- ' amples whereof behold in these following Es- ' cocheons.

' He beareth four ' Coats quarterly; 1st, ' Topaz, two barrs, ' Ruby, each charged ' with three Trefoils ' slipped of the first, ' by the Name of Pal- ' mer; secondly, quar- ' terly per Fess inden- ' ted, Pearl and Ruby, ' four Crescents coun- ' terchanged, by the ' Name of Stopham. Thirdly, Pearl, two Bends ' wavy, Diamond, on a Chief, Ruby, three Leo- ' pards faces, Topaz, by the Name of Clement. ' Fourthly, Ruby, a Lion rampant within a ' Bordure indented, Topaz, by the Name of ' Tuder-Maur Prince of South-Wales. These ' Coats thus born belong to the Right Honou- ' rable Roger Palmer Earl of Castlemaine, and ' Baron of Limberick in the Kingdom of Ireland, ' descended from the Palmers of Angmering in ' Sussex, a Family, eminent in that County for ' its Antiquity, and the very great Possessions ' it had there. The Name signifies Pilgrim, ' for those devout Persons used (as Camden hath ' it in his Remains) to carry a Palm when they ' returned from Jerusalem. 'Twas this Religi- ' ous Appellation the Adventurers in the Holy ' War assumed, as we find in Fuller and our ' other Writers; so that several brave Champi- ' ons (though of different Families) returning ' from that most Christian Expedition, retained ' it ever after. This Family bore formerly in ' Chief (and some Branches of it do so still) a ' Greyhound currant, Sable; and have since the ' Reign of Edward the First (with whom the ' Holy War may be said to end) to the present ' Year 1678. married into four Noble Families, ' to wit, the Lord Sandes's, Audley's, Powis's, ' and Grandison's; and to ten Heiresses, viz. to ' Sedingham, Stopham, Bilton, Clement, Wesse, Ver- ' ney, Touchet, Sherley, Villiers, and Ferrers; and ' (omitting other Coats) they quarter by the ' Clements that of Tuder-Maur aforesaid. They ' have also matched with several other Persons ' of good Quality, as the Pelhams, Poleys, Mal- ' lets, &c. and their present principal Houses or ' Seats are Wingham in Kent, Dorney in Bucks, ' and Fairfall in Somersetshire.

'nourable Charles
'Moore, Earl and Vif-
'count of Droheda, and
'Baron of Mellefont in
'the Kingdom of Ire-
'land, beareth four
'Coats quarterly; the
'firſt, Saphire, on a
'Chief indented, To-
'paz, three Mullets
'pierced, Diamond, be-
'ing his Lordſhip's Pa-
'ternal Coat. Second-
'ly, Ermyn, on a Chief, Saphire, three Lions
'rampant, Pearl. Thirdly, Gules, a Croſs bot-
'tone, Topaz. Fourthly, Saphire, a Craw-fiſh
'erect, Pearl.

He beareth Argent, three Cheveronels, Gules, a Label of 3 Points, Azure, by the Name of Barrington; ſecond Party per Cheveron, Sable, and Or, in Chief two Eagles diſplay'd of the ſecond by the Name of Shute; Theſe Arms appertain to the Right Honourable John Lord Viſcount Barrington of Ardglaſs, and Baron Barrington of Newcaſtle in the Kingdom of Ireland, who by Act of Parliament changed his Name from Shute to Barrington.

The Arms of Stephen Martin-Leak, of Bedington in the County of Surrey, of Mile-End Old-Town in the County of Middleſex, and of Thorp-Hall in the County of Eſſex Eſq; are thus blazon'd, viz. The firſt Coat by the Name of Leake, Or, upon a Saltire Engrail'd, Azure, eight Annulets Argent, in a Canton Gules, a Caſtle Tripple towerd of the third; the ſecond by the Name of Martin, Paly of ſix, Or and Azure on a Chief Gules, three Merleons of the firſt; The third as the ſecond, the fourth as the firſt. Theſe Arms thus Marſhalled, were by Warrant under his Majeſties Royal Signet, and Sign Manual, dated 19 of Dec. An. 1721. Ordered to be Exemplified to the above-named Stephen Martin; By which ſaid Warrant he is likewiſe Impowered to take the Surname of the late Sir John Leake Knight, Rear Admiral of Great-Britain, &c. The ſaid Warrant was obtain'd upon the humble Repreſentation of the ſaid Stephen Martin to his Majeſty, ſetting forth that the ſaid Sir John Leake, did ſome Years before his Death make his Will, and ſettle his Eſtate upon him the ſaid Stephen Martin and his Heirs for Ever, and did afterwards Expreſs his Intention, that the ſaid Stephen Martin and ſuch his Heirs ſhould take his Surname and Arms to continue a Memorial of the ſaid Sir John Leake for Ever.

He beareth quarterly, Firſt, Stockdale, Ermine on a Bend Sable, three Pheons Argent, in Chief an Eſcallop, Gules: Second, Thorp, Gules a Cheveron, between 3 Stags Heads erazed Argent. This is the Coat-Armour of Chriſtopher Stockdale of Bilton Park in the County of York, ſecond Son of Robert Walters of Cundal in the ſaid County Eſq; who purſuant to a Warrant under the Royal Signet and Sign Manual, dated 19 of February 169$\frac{4}{5}$, did aſſume the Surname and Arms of Stockdale.

'He beareth 2 Coats
'quartered; firſt Azure,
'two Eſtrich Feathers in
'Saltire between three
'Boars-heads couped, Ar-
'gent, by the Name of
'Newton. Secondly, Sa-
'ble, a Bend fuſily-lozen-
'gy cottized, Argent, by
'the Name of Puckering;
'the third as the ſecond,
'the fourth as the firſt. Theſe Coats with the 'Arms of Ulſter, is the bearing of Sir Henry
'Puckering alias Newton, of the Priory near the 'Borough of Warwick in Warwickſhire, Baronet.

'He beareth 2 Coats
'quarterly; firſt, Ar-
'gent, a Dragons head
'erazed, Vert, holding
'in his mouth a hand
'couped at the wriſt,
'Gules. 2dly, Gules,
'three Towers, Argent;
'the third as the ſecond,
'the fourth as the firſt.
'Theſe Coats with the 'Arms of Ulſter, are
'born by Sir Thomas Williams of Elham in Kent,
'Knight and Baronet, firſt and principal Chy-
'mical Phyſician to his Majeſty King Charles
'the Second.

'He

'He beareth 2 Coats 'quarterly; firſt, Azure, 'ſix Plates, on a Chief, 'Or, a demy Lion ram-'pant, Gules, by the name 'of Seys, quartered with 'Sable, a Cheveron be-'tween three Spears-'heads, Argent, with 'their Points imbrued, 'born by Æneas Seys, who was Hoſtage for the 'County of Glamorgan, ſent to William the 'Conqueror; the third as the ſecond, the fourth 'as the firſt. Theſe Coats are thus born by 'Evan Seys of Boverton in the ſaid County, Ser-'jeant at Law, by Richard Seys of Swanzey, Eſq; 'and by William Seys of Killan in the ſaid Coun-'ty, Eſq; Sons of Richard Seys of Boverton 'aforeſaid, Eſq; eldeſt Son of Roger Seys of Bo-'verton, Eſq; Attorney General of all Wales to 'Queen Elizabeth, and lineally deſcended from 'Æneas Seys, and from him Sir Degary Seys, who 'was a Perſon of great eminence for his Mili-'tary Services, being commiſſionated to ſerve 'King Richard the Second in his Wars upon ſe-'veral Expeditions, as appears on Record, viz. 'he did command and keep the Caſtle of Pem-'broke, he ſerved in his Wars at Calice, alſo 'againſt the Scots, and in a Voyage againſt Spain 'and Portugal, for which good Services, a-'mongſt other his Rewards, he was made 'Knight Banneret.

'He beareth quarter-'ly; firſt, Azure, a Sal-'tire, Ermyn, by the 'Name of Stoughton. 'Secondly, quarterly, 'Sable and Gules, a 'Croſs, Argent, the firſt 'charged with three 'Launce Reſts, Or; the 'ſecond with three Coc-'katrices, Or, by the 'Name of Jones; the third as the ſecond, the 'fourth as the firſt. Thirdly, Argent, a Lion 'rampant, Gules, charged on the Shoulder with 'a Trefoil ſlipped, Or, between eight croſs Cro-'ſlets fichee of the ſecond, by the Name of 'Brett; the fourth as the firſt. Theſe Coats 'are thus born by Nathaniel Stoughton, Son of 'Anthony, who was Son of William, and he Son 'of Anthony, who was 2d Son of Gilbert Stough-'ton, deſcended from the ancient Family of the 'Stoughtons of Stoughton in Surrey, who were 'there ſeated in the time of the Conqueſt; 'which Seat is now in the poſſeſſion of Sir Ni-'cholas Stoughton Baronet, lineally deſcended 'from the ſaid Family; the Bearer hereof be-'ing the twentieth in a lineal deſcent by the ſe-'cond Line, as appears by their Pedigree at the 'Colledge of Arms, and hath now living two 'Sons, William and George, by Anne Daughter 'and Heir of William Brough Dean of Gloceſter, 'deceaſed, by Elizabeth Daughter of Edmund 'Thorold of Marſton in Lincolnſhire, Eſq;

'He beareth 2 Coats 'quarterly; firſt, Gules, 'on a Cheveron, Or, be-'tween three Bezants as 'many Croſſes pattee fit-'chee, Sable, by the Name 'of Smith. Secondly, A-'zure, three Urchins, Ar-'gent, by the Name of 'Heriz; the third as the 'ſecond, the fourth as the 'firſt. Theſe Coats are thus born by Eraſmus 'Smith alias Heriz, of St. John's in the Pariſh 'of Clarkenwell in Middleſex, Eſq; Son of Sir 'Roger Smith of Edmonthorp in Leiceſterſhire Kt. 'deceaſed, whoſe great Grandfather William 'Smith alias Heriz, of Witchcock in the ſaid Coun-'ty Eſq; was deſcended of the ancient Family 'of Heriz in Nottinghamſhire, and married Ka-'therine Daughter of William Aſhby of Loſeby in 'Leiceſterſhire Eſq; whoſe Anceſtor married with 'the Heir general of John Burdett of Loſeby 'aforeſaid, Eſq; who married Elizabeth ſole 'Daughter and Heir of Sir Roger Zouch of Lubſ-'thorp in Leiceſterſhire Kt. whoſe lineal Ance-'ſtor Allan Viſcount of Rohan in Little-Brittain 'in France, married Conſtance Daughter of Co-'nan Duke of Brittain, by Maud his Wife 'Daughter of Henry the Firſt, King of Eng-'land.

'He beareth 2 Coats 'quarterly; firſt, Or, a 'Griffon rampant, Gules; 'ſecondly, Gules, a Sara-'cens-head erazed at the 'neck, Argent, environed 'about the temples with 'a wreath of the ſecond, 'and Sable; the third as 'the ſecond, the fourth 'as the firſt. Theſe Coats 'are thus born by William Williams of Glany-'wan and Dyffryn in the Lordſhip of Denbigh, 'Batchelor in Divinity, Chaplain to the Right 'Honourable Dorothea Helena Counteſs Dowa-'ger of Derby, Rector of the Pariſhes of St. 'George and St. Llanddulas, and Vicar of Aber-'geley. The firſt Coat he beareth as deſcend-'ed from Griffith Gock Lord of Rhos and Rhy-'vonioc; and the ſecond as deſcended from 'Marchudd one of the fifteen Tribes of North-'Wales.

'He

'He beareth 2 Coats 'quarterly; firſt, Ar 'gent, three Lozenges in 'Feſs, Gules, within a 'bordure, Sable; ſecond 'ly, Or, a ſpread Eagle, 'Vert; the third as the 'ſecond, the fourth as 'the firſt. Theſe Coats 'are thus born by 'the Right Honourable 'Ralph Montagu Eſq; Son and Heir to the 'Right Honourable Edward Lord Montagu of 'Boughton, Maſter of the Horſe to her Majeſty 'Queen Katherine, and one of his Majeſties 'moſt Honourable Privy Council.

'Theſe Coats are thus born by William Mon- 'tagu Eſq; Son and Heir to the Honourable 'William Montagu, Lord Chief Baron of his 'Majeſties Court of Exchequer.

'He beareth 2 Coats 'quarterly; the firſt per 'Pale, Argent and Gules, 'a Croſs engrailed coun- 'terchanged, in the dex- 'ter Chief a Cinquefoil 'of the ſecond, by the 'Name of Lant. The 'ſecond, Gules, a Saltire, 'Or, ſurmounted by ano- 'ther, Vert, by the 'Name of Andrews; the third as the ſecond, 'the fourth as the firſt. Theſe Coats thus mar- 'ſhalled, with the difference of a Mullet for the 'third Houſe, is the Coat-Armour of Andrew 'Lant of Thorp-Underwood alias Thorp-Billet in 'the County of Northampton Eſq; Son of Ro- 'bert Lant of London Eſq; by Elizabeth Daugh- 'ter and Heir of Richard Andrew of Thorp-Un- 'derwood aforeſaid Eſq; which ſaid Andrew Lant 'hath Iſſue now living by Judith Daughter of 'William Vannam of London Eſq; Judith, Eli- 'zabeth, Katherine, Sarah, and Anna.

'He beareth 2 Coats 'quarterly; firſt, Vert, 'an Eagle diſplayed, Ar- 'gent; ſecondly, Argent, 'a Lion rampant guar- 'dant, Vert; the third 'as the ſecond, the fourth 'as the firſt. Theſe Coats 'thus born do belong to 'Edward Sherburne of the 'Tower of London, Eſq; Clerk of his Majeſties 'Ordnance within the Kingdom of England; 'whoſe Father Edward was Son of Henry, who 'was born near Preſton in Lancaſhire, from 'whence he removed and ſeated himſelf in the 'City of Oxford, being deſcended from the an- 'cient Family of the Sherburnes of Stony-hurſt 'in the ſaid County of Lancaſter.

'He beareth quarter- 'ly; firſt, Sable, on a 'Bend, Or, between two 'Nags heads erazed, Ar- 'gent, three Flowers de 'Lis of the firſt, by the 'Name of Pepys; ſe- 'condly, Gules, a Lion 'rampant within a bor- 'dure engrailed, Or, by 'the Name of Talbot; 'the third as the ſecond, the fourth as the firſt. 'Theſe Coats are thus born by Samuel Pepys of 'Brampton in Huntingtonſhire Eſq; Secretary of 'the Admiralty to his Majeſty King Charles the 'Second; whoſe great Grandfather John Pepys 'of Cottenham in Cambridgeſhire, married Edith 'ſole Daughter and Heir of Edward Talbot of 'Cottenham aforeſaid Eſq; of the Noble Fa- 'mily of the Earl of Shrewsbury.

'He beareth 2 Coats 'quarterly; firſt, Or, 'two Cheverons, Gules, 'between ſix Mart- 'lets, Sable; ſecondly, 'Sable, a Bucks head ca- 'boſed, Or; the third as 'the ſecond, the fourth 'as the firſt. This with 'the Arms of Ulſter, is 'the Coat-Armour of 'Sir Thomas Cookes of 'Norgrave in Com. Worceſter, Baronet.

'He beareth quarter- 'ly; firſt, Sable, a Croſs 'engrailed, Argent, on 'the dexter quarter an 'Eſcutcheon of the ſe- 'cond, by the Name of 'Pagitt. Secondly, Pa- 'ly, Gules and Azure, 'three Bucks heads cou- 'ped at the Necks, Or, 'by the Name of Lewyn. 'Thirdly, Gules, on a 'Feſs engrailed, Argent, between three Water- 'bougets, Or, as many Croſſes patee, Sable, by 'the Name of Mercy. The fourth as the firſt. 'Theſe quarterings are now born by Juſtinian 'Pagitt of Grays-Inn in Middleſex Eſq; Cuſtos 'Brevium & Recordorum Banco Regis, upon the 'Death of Elizabeth (firſt Wife to the Lord 'Mansfield, and after his deceaſe Wife to Charles 'late Duke of Richmond and Lenox) Grand- 'child and Heir of William Lewyn of Ottringden 'in Kent Dr. of Laws; and by her Death the 'ſaid Juſtinian is Co-heir unto her, by reaſon 'that James Pagit Eſq; his Grandfather, mar- 'ried Katherine her great Aunt, and Daughter 'of the ſaid Dr. Lewyn.

'He

'He beareth 2 Coats 'quarterly; viz. Barry 'of six Ermyn and Gules, 'by the Name of Hussey; 'secondly, Or, a Cross, 'Vert, also by the same 'Name and Family. This 'is the Coat-Armour of 'Sir Thomas Hussey of 'Hemington in Lincoln-'shire, Baronet. These 'Coats are also born by Thomas Hussey of Wood-'ford in Essex, Gent.

'He beareth quarter-'ly; first, Argent, two 'Bars crenelle or coun-'ter-embatteled, Gules. 'Secondly, Argent, 3 'Ferdemolins bar-ways, 'Sable. Thirdly, Barry-'wavy of six, Argent 'and Azure, on a Chief, 'or, three Swallows vo-'lant, Sable. The fourth 'as the first. These Coats are thus born by Sir 'John James of Wilsborow in Kent Kt. and by 'Roger James of Rygate in Surrey Esq; descend-'ed of the ancient and spreading Family of the 'James's, who transplanted themselves out of 'Cleve in Germany into England, about the be-'ginning of the Reign of King Henry the Eighth. 'Of which Family, Mr. Philpot in his Survey of 'Kent, pag. 140. saith, That Eightam passing 'from Sir Robert Read Lord Chief Justice of 'the Common Pleas, for want of Issue-male it 'passed away by Sale to James, descended from 'Jacob van Hastrecht, who was anciently seated 'in Cleve, Ancestor to William James alias Ha-'strecht Esq; thrice Knight of the Shire within 'the space of five Years, who by Paternal deri-'vation is Lord of the Mannor of Eightam: He 'also saith this Family of the James's were ori-'ginally called Hastrecht, as being Lords of a 'Place of that Name near Gouda, and were 'branched out from the ancient Family of Ar-'kell. Further he saith, That Roger James Son 'of Jacob van Hastrecht, came out of Cleve, '(whither his Ancestor, a younger Son of the 'Lord of Hastrecht, had been chased by one of 'the Lords of Holland, for that his Father, who 'was also forced to Drunen near Huesden by 'that Count, had been an eager Partisan of his 'Enemy the Bishop of Utrecht) into England 'about the beginning of the Reign of King 'Henry the Eighth, and being after the Belgick 'mode called Roger Jacobs, the English contra-'cted it into James. And to conclude, he saith, 'That by marriage the Family of Hastrecht 'and Arkell are allied to the eminent House of 'Wassenaer, issued out from the ancient Counts 'of Holland, as likewise to the Family of Waer-'mont near Leyden, who matched with the Heir 'of Hastrecht of Drunen, where this Family for 'many Descents had been planted ever since 'their first expulsion thither by the Earl of Hot-'land.

'He beareth quarter-'ly; first, Or, a Lion 'passant, Sable, in Chief 'three Roman Piles of 'the second, by the 'Name of Loggan. Se-'condly, quarterly per 'Fess indented, Or and 'Sable, four Griffons 'heads erazed, counter-'changed, a quartering 'antiently belonging to the Family. Thirdly, 'Azure, a Cheveron between three Kites heads 'erazed, Or, by the Name of Kite. The fourth 'as the first. These Coats are thus quartered 'by William Loggan of Butler-Marston in War-'wickshire, Esq;

'Here you see the 'bearing of Hereditary 'Coat-Armours (both of 'the Father and Mother) 'by the Son; and this 'Coat-Armour must be 'blazoned after this man-'ner.

'He beareth 2 Coats 'quarterly as followeth. 'The first is Argent, a 'Lion rampant, Ermyns, gorged with a Collar, 'Or, langued and armed, Gules, by the Name 'of Guillim. The second is Pale-ways, of six, 'Argent, and Sable, on a Bend, Or, three Phe-'ons of the second; the third as the second, the 'fourth as the first, by the Name of Hatheway. 'And in this manner shall you blazon all Coats 'of like bearing, as in Example.

'He beareth 2 Coats 'quarterly; whereof the 'first is Sable, Platee, 'two Flaunches, Argent; 'the second is Gules, a 'Chief Ermyn; the third 'as the second, the fourth 'as the first. These Coat-'Armours thus marshal-'led, are born by Sir 'Henry Spelman Kt. a Man very studious, a fa-'vourer of Learning, and a careful preserver of 'Antiquities. And sometimes you shall find 'four several Coats born quarterly, for the rea-'son aforesaid, as in Example.

'He

'He beareth four Coats 'quarterly; whereof the 'firſt is Sable, a Feſs, Or, 'between three Aſſes paſſant, Argent, by the 'Name of Aſcough. The 'ſecond is Or, a Bend, 'Azure, by the Name of 'Cathrope. The third is 'Argent, a Saltire, Gules, 'on a Chief of the ſecond, three Eſcallops of 'the firſt, a Creſcent for a difference, by the 'Name of Talboys. The fourth is Gules, three 'Mullets, Argent, by the Name of Hanſard. 'Theſe Coat-Armours thus marſhalled, did 'belong unto Sir Edward Aſcough of the Coun'ty of Lincoln, Kt.

'He beareth 2 Coats 'quarterly; firſt, Sable, 'a Lion paſſant, Ar'gent, by the Name of 'Taylor; ſecondly, Sa'ble, a Cheveron, Er'myn, between three 'Rams heads erazed, 'Argent, armed, Or, 'by the Name of Ram'ſey; the third as the 'ſecond, the fourth as 'the firſt. Theſe Coats are born by Thomas 'Taylor of Bradley in Hantſhire Eſq; Son of Tho'mas, and he of John of Rodmorton in Glocester'ſhire, by the Sifter and ſole Heir of Sir Thomas 'Ramſey Kt. ſometime Lord Mayor of London; 'which John was deſcended from Carliſle in 'Cumberland.

'He beareth ſix 'Coats quarterly; 'firſt, Argent, three 'Cinquefoils, Gules, 'each charged with 'five Annulets, Or, by 'the Name of South'well. Secondly, Er'myn, two Annulets 'linked together, Sa'ble, on a Chief of 'the ſecond, three 'Croſſes Pattee, Argent, by the Name of Wit'chingham. Thirdly, quarterly Or and Azure, 'over all on a Bend, Gules, three Eſcallop-ſhells, 'Argent, by the Name of Falſtofe. Fourthly, 'Azure, a Feſs between two Cheverons, Ar'gent, by the Name of Tendering. Fifthly, 'Gules, a Cheveron between ten croſs Croſſets, 'Or, by the Name of Holbroake. Sixthly, Or, 'three Bulls heads caboſed, Sable, by the Name 'of Gore. Theſe Coats are thus born by Sir 'Robert Southwell Kt. one of the Clerks attend'ing his Majeſty in his moſt Honourable Privy 'Council, deſcended from the Family of the 'Southwells, anciently of Southwell in Notting'hamſhire, afterwards of Woodriſing in Norfolk, 'and now of Kingſale in the Kingdom of Ire'land.

'This form of bearing of divers Coats mar'ſhalled together in one Eſcutcheon impaled, as 'aforeſaid, was in uſe near hand within a thou'ſand Years ſince within the Realm of France, 'as appeareth by Frances de Roſiers, lib. Stemma'tum Lotharingiæ; where amongſt many Tran'ſcripts of Kings Charters made to Religious 'Houſes, under their Seals of Arms, he menti'oneth one made by Dagobert King of France, to 'Modoaldus Archbiſhop of Trevers, for the Cell 'of St. Maurice of Toledo in Spain; which Char'ter was ſealed with three Seals: His words 'are theſe, Hoc diploma tribus ſigillis firmatum 'eſt, primo aureo Dagoberti, which was (as he 'had formerly deſcribed it) habens inſculptum ſcu'tum liliis plenum, ſecundo cereo Cuniberti, tertio 'etiam cereo Clodulphi; in quo eſt ſcutum parti'tum impreſſum, prior pars decorata cruce, ac Eſ'carbocle, ſeu Carbunculo; altera faſcia: Dat. Cal. 'Maij, Anno Dominicæ Incarnationis, 622.

'Concerning the orderly bearing of ſuch 'Coat-Armours Paleways in one Eſcutcheon, 'note that Gerard Leigh, making mention of 'the marſhalling of divers Femmes with one 'Baron, ſaith, If a Man do marry two Wives, 'they ſhall be both placed on the left ſide in the 'ſame Eſcutcheon with him, as parted per Pale. The 'firſt Wives Coat ſhall ſtand on the Chief part, 'and the ſecond on the Baſe. Or, he may ſet them 'both in Pale with his own, the firſt Wives Coat 'next to himſelf, and his ſecond uttermoſt. And 'if he have three Wives, then the two firſt matches 'ſhall ſtand on the Chief part, and the third ſhall 'have the whole Baſe. And if he have a fourth 'Wife, ſhe muſt participate the one half of the 'Baſe with the third Wife; and ſo will they ſeem 'to be ſo many Coats quartered. But here you 'muſt obſerve, that thoſe forms of Impalings 'are meant of Hereditary Coats, whereby the 'Husband ſtood in expectancy of advancing 'his Family, through the poſſibility of receiv'ing Iſſue, that ſo thoſe Hereditary Poſſeſſions 'of his Wife might be united to his own Pa'trimony.

'It was an ancient way of impaling to take 'half the Husbands Coat, and with that to joyn 'as much of the Wives, as appeareth in an old 'Roll, wherein three Lions, being the Arms 'of England, are dimidiated and impaled with 'half the Pales of Arragon. The like hath 'alſo been practiſed with quartered Coats, 'by leaving out half of them, as in Exam'ple.

'Dering having married the Daughter and Heir of Haut their Grandchild, leaving out the left half of his Shield, did in that place impale his Wives Arms, where of are many Examples. This being of the Age of Henry the Seventh's Time, is both carved on Monuments and coloured in Glass, and is in this manner blazoned: He beareth per Pale, Baron and Femme; the first of two Coats per Fess, Or, a Saltire, Sable, by the Name of Dering. The second, Or, a Cross engrailed, Gules, differenced with a Crescent, Argent, by the Name of Haute, matched with Azure, a Lion rampant, Or, crowned Argent, by the Name of Darell. This was thus born by John Dering of Surenden Dering in the County of Kent Esq; whose Grandmother was the Coheir of Haute, and his Wife the Sister of Sir John Darell of Calehill in the said County Kt. The Heir of which Family and Mannor of Surenden Dering is at present that excellent accomplished Gentleman Sir Edward Dering Baronet, from whose modesty (though he be the exact Patern of vertuous Qualities for the Gentry of this Kingdom to admire and imitate) I am to fear a check for this too brief Eulogie. From the other Coheir of the said Haute is descended by Godwell, Sir Thomas Roe Knight, whose Deserts in Publick Service hath made him famous. From the aforesaid Sir John Darell of the ancient Family of Sezay in Yorkshire, did descend Sir Robert Darell of Calehill Kt. who by Jane Daughter and Coheir of Christopher Tolderby Esq; left Issue four Sons, the eldest of which was Sir John Darell, who married Elizabeth Daughter of Sir Edward, and Sister to the abovesaid Sir Edward Dering.

'He beareth per Pale, Baron and Femme; the first of the two Coats, Luna, a Lion rampant, Saturn, as King of Leons. The second, Mars, a Castle, Sol, as King of Castile, impaled with Luna, three Bars, Jupiter, a Bordure, Mars, being the Arms of the Earl of Pontife, whose Daughter the King of Leons and Castile married.

'Thus also the Arms of France and England are impaled for the French King Lewis the Twelfth, and Mary his Wife, Sister to our King Henry the Eighth, as is apparent by Escutcheons in colours of the same Age whilst they lived.

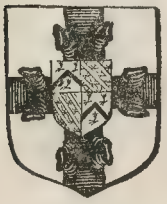

'And for the Antiquity of bearing divers Coats quartered in one Escutcheon, the same Author Francis de Rosiers, reciteth a Charter of Renate King of Angiers, Sicily, and Jerusalem, &c. concerning his receiving of the Brethren of the Monastery named Belprey, into his protection, Actum Nanceii, Anno 1435. adding in the end thereof these Words, Arma Arragoniæ, Siciliæ, Hierusalem, Andes. Whereby (if I mistake him not) he giveth us to understand that his Seal of Arms did comprehend all these Coats born together quarterly in one Escutcheon; because he holdeth the same form of description of Seals of that kind throughout all his Collection of Charters.

'As touching this quarterly bearing of many Coats pertaining to sundry Families together in one Escutcheon, William Wicley doth utterly misslike it, holding the same to be better fitting a Pedigree to be locked up in a Chest, as an evidence serving for a Probation of the Alliances of Families, or Inducements to title of Lands, rather than multitudes of them should be heaped together in or upon any thing ordained for Military use: For Banners, Standards, and other like Martial Ensigns, were ordained for no other use, but for a Commander to lead or be known by in the Field; to which purpose these marks should be made apparent and easie to be discerned, which cannot be where many Coats are thronged together, and so become unfit to the Field, and therefore to be abolished of Commanders.

'Only he holdeth it expedient, that a Prince or Noble-man, having title to some Countrey, for the obtaining whereof he is inforced to make War, should shew forth his Standard of the Arms of that Countrey quartered with his own, amongst those People, which in Right and Conscience do owe him Obedience; that they may be thereby induced the sooner to submit themselves to him as to their true and lawful Sovereign or Lord. So did Edward the third, King of England, when he set on foot his title to the Kingdom of France, shewing forth the Arms of France quartered in his Royal Banner with the Arms of England. But for such Persons as are but Commanders under them, it is very absurd, since thereof ensue oftentimes many dangerous errors; Et irrecuperabilis est error qui violentiâ Martis committitur. Having before made mention of an Inescutcheon, and of the bearing of the Arms of

'the Femme by the Baron after Iſſue received by 'her, ſhe being an Inheritrix, I will now here 'give you an Example, as well to ſhew the oc'caſion of ſuch bearing, as alſo the manner 'and ſituation thereof.

'The Field is Pearl, a 'Croſs raguled and trun'ked, Diamond, the Pa'ternal Coat of the Lord 'Sands, thereon an Ineſ'cutcheon of two Coats 'born quarterly; the firſt 'is Pearl, a Cheveron be'tween three Eagles legs 'erazed à laquiſe, Dia'mond. The ſecond, Ver'ry, three Bends, Ruby, both which are born 'by the Name of Bray. This Coat-Armour 'thus marſhalled, was born by William Lord 'Sands that was Lord Chamberlain to King 'Henry the Eighth (by whom he was advanced 'to that Dignity) and took to Wife Margaret 'Bray, Daughter and Heir of John Bray, and 'alſo Niece and Heir to Reginald Bray a famous 'Banneret. This William Lord Sands, was 'Father to Thomas Lord Sands, and Grandfather 'to William Baron Sands; and having Iſſue by 'the ſaid Margaret, did thereupon aſſume the 'bearing of her Arms upon his own in an Ineſ'cutcheon on this manner, which he could not 'have done unleſs ſhe had been an Heir, for 'otherwiſe he muſt have born the ſame ſtill 'impaled, and not otherwiſe, notwithſtanding 'the Iſſue received by her. Some other Exam'ples of which kind of bearings are demon'ſtrated unto you in theſe next Eſcutcheons.

'He beareth Azure, 'flory, a Lion rampant 'guardant, Argent, by 'the Name of Holland, 'and with the Arms of 'Ulſter is the Coat-Ar'mour of Sir John Hol'land of Quidenham in 'Norfolk Baronet, de'ſcended from the Hol'lands of the ancient 'Houſe of Denton in Lancaſhire. The Ineſcut'cheon of Pretence is Gules, two Barrs Ermyn, 'on a Canton, Sable, a Ferdemoline, Argent, 'by the Name of Panton, and is thus born by 'him in right of his Lady Alathea, Daughter 'and Coheir of John Panton of Bruinſhop in 'Denbighſhire Eſq; who was Dowager of the 'Right Honourable William Lord Sandys of the 'Vine in Hantſhire, deceaſed.

'He beareth Argent, 'three Maſcles, Sable, on 'a Chief of the ſecond, as 'many Lions rampant of 'the firſt, by the Name of 'Hanſon. The Ineſcutche'on of Pretence, viz. a 'Lion paſſant in Chief, and 'three Daggers in Baſe 'with their Pomels con'joyned, and their Points 'extended to the corners of the Eſcutcheon, is 'the Arms of Norton, and is thus born by Fran'cis Hanſon of Abingdon in Berkſhire Eſq; who 'is now married to Prudence, one of the Daugh'ters and Coheirs of Sir Thomas Norton of Co'ventrey in Warwickſhire Baronet.

'He beareth 2 Coats 'quarterly, with an In'eſcutcheon of Pretence, 'viz. the firſt per Bend 'Nebule, Or and Sable, 'a Lion rampant coun'terchanged, by the 'Name of Sympſon. The 'ſecond, Argent, a Feſs, 'Gules, between ſix 'Sparhawks, Sable, by 'the Name of Oneſlow. The third as the ſe'cond, the fourth as the firſt. The Ineſcutche'on of Pretence, Azure, a Pile, Ermyn, by the 'Name of Wyche: This is the Bearing of Dr. 'John Sympſon, Son of Mr. John Sympſon of Pol'ton in Bedfordſhire, by Martha Daughter and 'Heir of George Oneſlow in Shropſhire; he mar'ried Elizabeth Daughter and Heir of Richard 'Wyche, eldeſt Brother of Sir Peter Wyche.

'He beareth four Coats 'quarterly, with an Ineſ'cutcheon of Pretence, viz. 'the firſt is Argent, three 'Corniſh Choughs, proper, 'by the Name of Penneſton. 'The ſecond is, Gules, a 'Feſs between ſix Billets, 'Or, by the Name of Beau'champe of Holt. The third 'is Gules, a Lion rampant, Argent, differenced 'with a Creſcent, by the Name of Mowbray. 'The fourth is quarterly, Or and Gules, a Bend 'of the ſecond, by the Name of Beauchampe 'Baron of Bedford. The Ineſcutcheon is Ar'gent, a Feſs, Gules, in Chief three Croſſes bo'tony of the ſecond, by the Name of Watſon, 'all which, amongſt many other quarterings, 'appertained to Sir Thomas Penneſton of Halſted 'in Kent Kt. and Baronet, deceaſed, whoſe 'Wife Elizabeth was Daughter and ſole Heir of 'Sir Thomas Watſon Kt. (Relict of Sir William 'Pope Kt. eldeſt Son to the Earl of Downe,) by 'whom he the ſaid Sir Thomas Penneſton hath 'Iſſue, by reaſon whereof he beareth her Coat-'Armour in the Ineſcutcheon: I have omitted

‘ to blazon his Baronets mark, becauſe it is not ‘ cut in the Eſcutcheon.

‘ As for antiquity of bearing of Ineſcutcheons, ‘ I find them very anciently uſed a long time by ‘ the Emperours of Germany; for they always ‘ placed an Ineſcutcheon of their Paternal Coat ‘ on the breaſt of the Imperial Eagle. And ‘ alſo divers noble and worthy Families of this ‘ Land, uſed the like Bearing in the ſeveral ‘ Reigns of ſundry of our Kings, viz. in the ‘ time of Richard the Second, Simon Burley bare ‘ in an Ineſcutcheon the Arms of Huſſy. In the ‘ time of Henry the Fifth, Richard Beauchampe ‘ the great Earl of Warwick, bare the Arms of ‘ Spenſer and Clare quarterly in an Ineſcutcheon ‘ over his own Paternal Coat-Armour, and ma- ‘ ny other in like ſort.

‘ Concerning the Bearing of the Wives Coat- ‘ Armour by the Husband impaled, or other- ‘ wiſe, there are ſome that do boldly affirm, ‘ That it is not permitted by Law, but only to- ‘ lerated through Cuſtom; and do (with Chaſ- ‘ ſanæus) alledge for Proof thereof, Quod Arma ‘ non tranſeunt ad cognatos & affines, quia cognati ‘ deſcendentes ex fœmina non ſunt de familia: be- ‘ cauſe by Reaſon of her Marriage ſhe renounc- ‘ eth the Name of the Family whereof ſhe is ‘ deſcended, and aſſumeth the Name of her Hus- ‘ band's Family, as we formerly ſhewed, where ‘ we intreated of Differences which are not per- ‘ mitted to the Females. And an eſpecial Rea- ‘ ſon thereof may be this, Quia Agnationis dig- ‘ nitas ſemper debet eſſe ſalva; the Agnation ‘ (which is of the Father's ſide) muſt be pre- ‘ ſerved entire, and therefore the Honour or ‘ Arms of it not to be carried into another ‘ Family.

‘ Now becauſe ſome miſunderſtanding the ‘ Rule given in the ſixth Chapter of the firſt ‘ Section, where it is ſaid, That to Daughter ne- ‘ ver were any differences allowed, do hold, that ‘ the Husband in the impaling of his Wives ‘ Coat-Armour with his own, may omit ſuch ‘ difference as her Father (admitting him to be ‘ a younger Brother, or deſcended of a younger ‘ Brother) bore to diſtinguiſh him from the ‘ elder Brother; I think it not amiſs here to ‘ obſerve unto the young Student in Armory, ‘ that every Gentleman of Coat-Armour which ‘ marrieth a Gentlewoman whoſe Father did ‘ bear any difference in his Coat, ought in the ‘ impalement of his Wives Arms to retain the ‘ ſame difference which her Father bore, as in ‘ theſe Examples.

‘ He beareth Baron and ‘ Femme two Coats impal- ‘ ed; firſt, Ermyn, two ‘ Piles in point, Sable, ‘ by the Name of Holles. ‘ The ſecond, —— a ‘ Croſs between 4 Nails, ‘ —— by the Name of ‘ Pile, and is the Coat- ‘ Armour of the Honou- ‘ rable Sir Francis Holles of ‘ Wynterborne St. Martyn in Dorſetſhire Baronet, ‘ only Son and Heir apparent of the Right Ho- ‘ nourable Denzel Baron Holles of Iſield, whoſe ‘ preſent Baronetteſs is Anne Pile, the eldeſt ‘ Daughter and Coheir of Sir Francis Pile the ‘ ſecond of that Name of Compton-Beauchampe ‘ in Berkſhire Baronet.

‘ He beareth Baron ‘ and Femme, two Coats ‘ impaled; firſt, Sable, a ‘ Maunch, Argent, with- ‘ in a Bordure, Or, an ‘ Orle of Lions paws in ‘ Saltire, Gules, by the ‘ Name of Wharton, and ‘ is the Paternal Coat- ‘ Armour of the Right ‘ Honourable Philip Lord ‘ Wharton, Baron Wharton of Wharton in Weſt- ‘ moreland. The ſecond, —— on a Cheve- ‘ ron —— three Mullets —— by the Name ‘ of Carr, and is ſo born by his Lordſhip in ‘ right of his Lady Anne, Daughter of William ‘ Carr of Fernihaſt in the Kingdom of Scotland ‘ Eſq; who was one of the Gentlemen of the ‘ Bed-chamber to King James. By which ſaid ‘ Lady his Lordſhip hath Iſſue William Wharton ‘ Eſq; his fourth Son; and three others by his ‘ former Lady.

‘ He beareth Baron ‘ and Femme; the firſt ‘ per Feſs, Argent and Sa- ‘ ble, a Feſs counter-im- ‘ battelled between three ‘ Falcons counter-chang- ‘ ed, belled and jeſſed, ‘ Or, by the Name of ‘ Thompſon; impaled with ‘ Argent, a Cheveron be- ‘ tween three Wolves ‘ heads erazed, Gules, by the Name of Lovel. ‘ Theſe Coats are thus born by Sir Henry Thomp- ‘ ſon of Marſton within the County of the City ‘ of York Kt. who married Suſanna Daughter ‘ of Thomas Lovel of Skelton in the North-Rid- ‘ ing of Yorkſhire.

‘ He

'He beareth Baron and 'Femme; the firſt Ermyn, 'on a Chief, Azure, three 'Lions rampant, Or, by 'the Name of Aucher; 'impaled with Azure, a 'Cheveron between three 'Garbs, Or, by the Name 'of Hatton, and is thus 'born by Sir Anthony Au- 'cher of Biſhopsbourn in Kent Knight and Ba- 'ronet, now married to one of the Daughters 'of Sir Robert Hatton deceaſed, one of the 'Chamberlains of his Majeſties Exchequer.

'He beareth Baron and 'Femme; the firſt, Vert, a 'Cheveron between three 'Bucks ſtanding at gaze, 'Or, by the Name of 'Robinſon; impaled with 'Azure, cruſily three Cin- 'quefoils, Argent, by the 'Name of Darcy. Theſe 'Coats are thus born by 'Sir Medcalf Robinſon of Newby in the North- 'Riding of Yorkſhire Baronet, married to Mar- 'garet Daughter of Sir William Darcy of Witton- 'Caſtle in the Biſhoprick of Durham.

'He beareth Baron and 'Femme two Coats impal- 'ed; the firſt, Sable, a 'Cheveron engrailed be- 'tween three Plates, each 'charged with a Pale, 'Gules, by the Name of 'Dockwray. The ſecond 'Paly of ſix Argent and 'Azure on a Bend, Sable, 'a Sword of the firſt, by the Name of Sander- 'ſon. Theſe Coats thus marſhalled are born 'by Joſias Dockwray Doctor of the Civil Law 'in both Univerſities of this Realm, who now 'reſideth at Nuburne in Northumberland, being 'Vicar thereof, where he hath built at his 'own coſt a new Vicarage-houſe.

'This Eſcutcheon is par- 'ted per Pale Baron and 'Femme. The Baron's 'Arms are Gules, a Fret, 'Argent, which belong 'unto the ancient Fami- 'ly of the Flemings, and 'which are now enjoyed 'by Daniel Fleming of 'Rydal-hall in the County 'of Weſtmoreland Eſq; 'who quarters the Arms of Urſwick, Lancaſter, 'Hodleſton, Millum, Boyvill, Fenwick, Stappleton, 'Falconbridge, Fitz-Alan, Maltravers, Ingham, De 'la Pool, and Chauſer. He is deſcended from '(being next Heir-male of) Michael le Fleming 'of Gleaſton-Caſtle in Aldingham within the 'County of Lancaſter, and of Caernarvon-Caſtle 'in Beckermet within the County of Cumber- 'land; who being an active young Man, and 'related unto Baldwine Earl of Flanders, was 'ſent over by him with Forces to aid King Wil- 'liam the Conqueror his Son in Law, and was 'afterwards ſent Northward with divers of his 'Country-men, to oppoſe the Scots; and a Co- 'lony of Flemings was placed at Carliſle by King 'William Rufus ſoon after he had repaired the 'ſame, and built the Caſtle there. This Mi- 'chael, for his good Service, had a very fair 'Eſtate given him in the ſaid Counties; part of 'which ſtill continues in his Family and Sir- 'name: And as he was called Fleming from 'Flanders his Native Countrey; ſo was Mitchel- 'Land (or Michael-Land) in Lancaſhire denomi- 'nated from him. He and his Poſterity had 'commonly in Records and Writings Le pre- 'fixed to their Sirname, until King Edward the 'Fourth's time. This Michael placed Sir Wil- 'liam le Fleming Kt. his eldeſt Son, at Alding- 'ham aforeſaid (to help to defend that Shore 'againſt the King's Enemies) whoſe Eſtate 'not long after did go with a Daughter to the 'Cansfields, and from them in like manner to 'the Harringtons; and Sir Richard le Fleming 'Kt. his ſecond Son, he ſeated at Beckermet 'aforeſaid, who had that Mannor (with other 'Lands) given him, and whoſe Iſſue-Male doth 'ſtill enjoy the ſame. From this Stem (its ſaid) 'the Earls of Wigton in Scotland, and Barons of 'Slane in Ireland, are branched forth. And al- 'though King Henry the Firſt ſent moſt of the 'Flemings then in England unto Roſs, a Coun- 'trey in Wales; yet he permitted the ſaid Mi- 'chael and his Children to remain in Lancaſhire 'and Cumberland, when many other of his Mo- 'thers kindred were removed. The Femme's 'Arms are Argent, a Croſs engrailed, Sable, 'between four Ogreſſes, charged with as many 'Pheons of the firſt; which Arms the ſaid Da- 'niel Fleming doth impale, having married Bar- 'bara the eldeſt Daughter of Sir Henry Fletcher 'of Hutton in the Foreſt within the County of 'Cumberland Baronet, who being a Colonel for 'the late King, engaged ſo heartily and vali- 'antly in his Service, as he raiſed a Regiment 'of Foot for his Majeſty, he aſſiſted in the De- 'fence of the City of Carliſle, during all the 'time of that memorable Siege; and he was af- 'terwards ſlain (with many other Noble and 'Loyal Perſons on the King's ſide) in the Fight 'at Routon-Heath, within two Miles of the 'City of Cheſter, the 24*th* Day of Septemb. Anno 'Dom. 1645.

'He

'He beareth Baron and 'Femme; the first, Argent, 'on a Chief, Vert, three 'Crescents of the Field, 'by the Name of Sympson. 'The second is Gyron-'ny of four, Argent and 'Gules, a Saltire between 'four cross Crosslets, all 'counter-changed, by the 'Name of Twisden; and is thus born by Sir 'John Sympson of the Inner-Temple, London, Kt. 'one of his Majesties Serjeants at Law, descend-'ed from the ancient Family of the Sympsons 'in the North of England; now married to 'Jane, eldest Daughter of Sir Thomas Twisden 'of East-Malling in Kent Knight and Baronet, 'one of the Justices of his Majesties Court of 'Kings-Bench.

'He beareth Baron and 'Femme, two Coats impal-'ed; first, Azure, a Cre-'scent, Argent, by the 'Name of Lucie; impaled 'with Argent, on a Chief, 'Gules, two Mullets, Or, 'by the Name of St. John. 'These Coats are thus born 'by Jacob Lucie of the City 'of London Esq; now married to Mary Daugh-'ter of John St. John of Coldoverton in the Coun-'ty of Leicester Esq;

'He beareth per Pale 'Baron and Femme; 'first, Or, a Pile en-'grailed, Sable, by the 'name of Waterhouse; 'impaled with Or, 3 'Stars issuant from 'as many Crescents, 'Gules, by the name 'of Bateman. These 'Coats are thus born 'by Edward Waterhouse 'of Greenford in Middlesex Esq; who married 'Elizabeth Daughter of Richard Bateman, eldest 'Son of Robert Bateman Esq; Chamberlain of 'London.

'He beareth per Pale Ba-'ron and Femme; first, Gules, 'a Fess, Argent, between 'three Plates, by the name 'of Minors; impaled with 'Or, two Barrs, Gules, in 'Chief three Torteuxes, by 'the name of Wake; and is 'thus born by Richard Mi-'nors of London Merchant, 'who married Elizabeth Daughter of Sir John 'Wake of Clevedon in Somersetshire Baronet.

'He beareth Baron and 'Femme; first, Sable, on 'a Cheveron embattled, 'Or, between three Pole-'Axes, Argent, as many 'Pellets, by the name of 'Fryth; impaled with A-'zure, on a Cheveron, 'Argent, between three 'Pheons, Or, as many 'Crosses formy, Gules, 'by the name of Wightwick, in right of his 'Wife Elizabeth, only Daughter of Francis 'Wightwick in Com. prædict. Esq; These Coats 'are thus born by Rowland Fryth of Thornes in 'Staffordshire Gent.

'This Escutcheon is par-'ted per Pale Baron and 'Femme. The first is Or, 'on a Fess between three 'cross Crosslets, Sable, as 'many Escallopshells of 'the first, by the name of 'Huggen. The second is 'Argent on a Bend, Gules, 'between two Cotizes, 'Sable, three pair of wings joyned in lewer as 'the first, in Chief a Flower de Lis, for a diffe-'rence by the name of Wingfield. The Hus-'band's name, whose Arms are here demon-'strated, was Alexander Huggen, who took to 'Wife Elizabeth Daughter of Humphrey Wing-'field of Brantham in Suffolk Esq; and of Eli-'zabeth his Wife, Daughter and Coheir of Sir 'Thomas Nevill Kt. younger Son of Richard 'Nevill Lord Latimer; which Humphrey Wing-'field being descended of Sir Humphrey Wing-'field Kt. a younger Brother of the ancient 'Family of the Wingfields of Letheringham in 'the said County, bore his Coat-Armour so 'differenced with the Flower de Lis.

'But now to return to marshalling: If a 'Coat-Armour that is bordured be born sole 'of it self, then shall the bordure environ the 'Coat round; but if such a Coat be marshal-'led Pale-ways with another, as a Marriage, 'then must that part of the bordure which re-'specteth the Coat annexed, give place there-'unto, whether the Coat bordured be mar-'shalled on the dexter part of the Escutcheon, 'or the sinister, as in Example.

'This Escutcheon is 'parted per Pale, Baron 'and Femme. The first is 'quarterly, Or, and Gules, 'a bordure, Sable, charg-'ed with Escallopshells, 'Argent, by the name of 'Henningham. The se-'cond, Checky, Or and 'Azure, a Fess, Ermyn, 'by the name of Calthrop. Here you see that 'part

'part of the bordure exempted that is next to 'the impaled Coat; so should it also have been 'if the same had been marshalled on the sini- 'ster side.

'He beareth per Pale 'Baron and Femme; the 'first, Sable, a Cheveron, 'Argent, between three 'cross Crosslets fitchee, 'Or, by the name of 'Strut. In the second 'place or side, 3 Coats 'barr-ways; the first, Ar- 'gent, a Fess, Vert, be- 'tween three Torteuxes, 'by the name of Stanes- 'more. Secondly, Sable, a Cheveron between 'three Cinquefoils, Ermyn, by the name of 'Woodhouse. Thirdly, per Cheveron, Argent 'and Gules, a Crescent counter-changed, by 'the name of Chapman. These Coats are thus 'born by Sir Deuner Strut of Little-Warley in 'Essex Baronet, who first married Dorothy 'Daughter of Francis Stanesmore of Frowlesworth 'in Leicestershire Esq; Secondly, Elizabeth 'Daughter of Sir Thomas Woodhouse of Kimber- 'ley in Norfolk Knight and Baronet; and third- 'ly, Mary Daughter of Thomas Chapman of Lon- 'don.

'He beareth Baron im- 'paled between his Fem- 'mes or Wives. The 'first, Argent, a Lion 'rampant, Gules, within 'a Bordure, Sable, on a 'Canton, Azure, a Harp 'Or, crowned, proper, 'by the name of Lane. 'On the dexter side, 'Gules, on a Bend, Or, 'three Martlets, Sable, by the name of Braba- 'zon. And on the sinister, quarterly, Or and 'Gules, a Bend Verrey, by the name of Sack- 'ville. These Coats with the Arms of Ulster, 'are born by the Right Honourable Sir George 'Lane of Tulske in the County of Roscomon in 'Ireland Knight and Baronet, principal Secre- 'tary of State, and Privy Councellor to his Ma- 'jesty King Charles the Second in the Kingdom 'of Ireland. He was first married to Dorcas 'Daughter of Sir Anthony Brabazon Kt. third 'Son of Edward Lord Brabazon Baron of Ather- 'dee, and Brother to the Right Honourable 'William Earl of Meath; and now married to 'the Lady Francis Sackvile, fifth Daughter (but 'second now living) to the Right Honourable 'Richard Earl of Dorset.

'He beareth Baron im- 'paled between his Wives. 'The first, Gules, on a 'Bend, Or, three Mart- 'lets, Sable, by the name 'of Collins. On the dex- 'ter side, Azure, a Fess, 'between 3 Chesrooks, 'Or, by the name of Bo- 'denham. On the sinister, 'Argent, on a Bend, Gules, three Eaglets dis- 'played, Or, by the name of Abington. These 'Coats are thus born by Samuel Collins Dr. in 'Physick, late Fellow of Trinity College in 'Cambridge, only Son of John Collins, late Par- 'son of Retherfield in Sussex, descended from 'the ancient Family of the Collins of the Coun- 'ties of Somerset and Devon. First married to 'Anne eldest Daughter of John Bodenham Esq; 'descended from the ancient Family of the Bo- 'denhams of Wiltshire and Herefordshire, by 'whom he hath Issue Martha, and is now mar- 'ried to Dame Katherine, Countess Dowager 'of Carnwath in Scotland, Daughter of John 'Abington of Dowdeswell in Glocestershire Esq; 'descended from the ancient Family of the 'Abingtons of Glocestershire, by whom he hath 'two Daughters now living, viz. Anne and Eli- 'zabeth.

'He bears a Baron or 'Man impaled, or in 'Pale, between his 7 'Femmes or Wives, four 'on the dexter side, and 'three on the sinister, 'all barr-ways. And 'first in the middle, Sa- 'ble, Semy de Cinque- 'foils, a Lion rampant, 'Argent, by the name 'of Clifton. Then in the chief dexter, Ruby, 'a Chevron between three Crosses botony, To- 'paz, being the Coat of the Lady Penelope Rich, 'first Wife of the said Sir Gervas, Daughter of 'the Right Honourable Earl of Warwick. Se- 'condly, on the same side checky, Topaz and 'Saphire, a Fess, Ruby, being the Coat of the 'Lady Francis Clifford Daughter of the Right 'Honourable Francis Earl of Cumberland, second 'Wife of the said Sir Gervas. Thirdly, per Pale, 'Azure, and Argent, a Griffon passant, counter- 'changed, by the name of Egioke, third Wife. 'Fourthly, in the base dexter, Gules, three Che- 'verons, Argent, by the name of Meek, fourth 'Wife. Fifthly, in the Chief sinister, Argent, 'two Barrs, Gules, in Chief, a Mullet, Sable, by 'the name of South, fifth Wife. Sixthly, Ar- 'gent, on a Cheveron, Sable, three Caterfoils, 'Or, by the name of Eyre, being sixth Wife. 'Seventhly, Pearl, a Manch, Diamond, which 'is the Coat of the Lady Alice, Daughter of the 'Right Honourable Henry Hastings Earl of 'Huntington, seventh and last Wife of the said 'Sir Gervas.

'I will

'I will ſhew you in like manner, how if a 'Coat-Armour bordured be honoured with a 'Canton, quarter, &c. the bordure muſt in like 'manner give place unto them, as in theſe next 'Examples may be ſeen.

'He beareth Gules, a 'Cheveron between three 'Lions paws, erected and 'erazed within a bordure, 'Argent, on a chief of the 'ſecond, an Eagle diſplay-'ed, Sable, by the name 'of Brown. Here you ſee 'the bordure giveth place 'unto the chief. Though 'this Coat may ſeem to 'be over much charged (to be good) yet the 'occaſion of the addition of the chief and Ea-'gle thereupon being duly weighed, it is both 'good and commendable bearing; for that it 'was given for ſome ſpecial Service performed 'by the firſt Bearer hereof in Embaſſage to 'the Emperour.

'He beareth Argent, 'three Palets, Gules, on a 'Canton of the ſecond, 'a Spurr with a Rowel 'downwards, leathered, 'Or, a Bordure engrailed, 'Sable, by the name of 'Knight; and is born by 'Nathan Knight of Ruſ-'combe in Berkſhire, Eſq; 'As the Bordure doth 'here give place to the Canton, ſo muſt it alſo 'to a Quarter, &c. Tilliet, making mention of 'a Spurr, ſaith, That gilt Spurrs were fit for 'the dignity of a Knight, and white Spurrs 'for an Eſquire; both Spurrs and Bridles are 'neceſſary for Men of command; yet with that 'caution wherewith Phœbus admoniſhed young 'Phaeton in guiding the Horſes of the Sun,

'Parce puer ſtimulis, & fortius utere loris.

'Be ſparing of thy Spurrs, but Bridle ſtrongly (uſe.

'Note, that if a bordured Coat be to be mar-'ſhalled amongſt other Coats quarterly, then 'ſhall no part of the bordure be omitted, but 'the bordure ſhall environ the ſame round (ex-'cept it be honoured with a Chief, Canton, 'Quarter, &c. as aforeſaid) even as it were 'born alone of it ſelf.

CHAP. II.

'FROM ſuch marſhallings as do betoken 'marriage, I come to ſuch as betoken a 'Gift of the Sovereign by way of augmenta-'tion. Theſe are beſtowed, either for Fa-'vour, or Merit; though the very winning of 'favour with Sovereign Princes muſt be alſo re-'puted merit, becauſe

'Principibus placuiſſe viris non ultima laus eſt;

'To win great Princes love great praiſe it merits.

'Of the firſt ſort are all thoſe Armorial Signs 'which the Sovereign (to honour the Bearer, 'and to dignifie his Coat-Armour) doth annex 'to the Paternal Coat of ſome eſpecial Favo-'rites, imparting unto them ſome parcel of his 'Royal Enſigns or Badges, that ſo he may 'transfer to Poſterities ſome Monument of his 'gracious Favour; and of thoſe ſome are mar-'ſhalled Pale-ways, and others otherways.

'Of the firſt ſort are the next Eſcutcheons, 'and their like, wherein the propriety of Place 'is due to thoſe of free Gift, which muſt be 'marſhalled on the dexter ſide of the Eſcutche-'on, before the Paternal Coat, Ob reverentiam 'munificentiæ Regalis, as in Example.

'The Lady Jane Sey-'mour, afterward Wife to 'King Henry the Eighth, 'and Mother to the moſt 'noble Prince King Ed-'ward the Sixth, received 'as an augmentation of 'Honour to her Family by 'the Gift of the ſaid King 'her Husband, theſe Arms 'born on the dexter ſide of the Eſcutcheon, viz. 'Sol, on a Pile, Mars, between ſix Flowers de 'Lis, Jupiter, three Lions paſſant guardant of 'the firſt; impaled with her Paternal Coat, viz. 'Mars, two Angels-wings Pale-ways inverted, 'Sol, which ſaid Coats are now born by the 'Right Noble John Duke of Somerſet, &c. and 'by the Right Honourable Edward Seymour of 'Maiden-Bradley in Wiltſhire, Speaker of the 'Honourable Houſe of Commons, Treaſurer 'of his Majeſties Navy, and one of his Maje-'ſties moſt Honourable Privy Council, &c.

'Upon

'Upon like conſideration the ſaid King Henry the Eighth gave unto the Lady Katherine Howard his fourth Wife, in token of ſpecial favour, and as an Augmentation of Honour, theſe Arms on the dexter part of this Eſcutcheon, which for like reſpect were preferred before her Paternal Coat, viz. Jupiter, three Flowers de Lis in Pale, Sol, between two Flanches, Ermyn, each charged with a Roſe, Mars, conjoyned with her Paternal Coat, viz. Mars, a Bend between ſix croſs Croſlets fitchee, Luna.

'Moreover, the ſaid King Henry the Eighth for the reſpect aforeſaid, gave unto his ſixth and laſt Wife the Lady Katherine Parre, as an Increaſe of Honour to her and to her Family, theſe Arms on the dexter ſide of the Eſcutcheon, viz. Sol, on a Pile between ſix Roſes, Mars, three others, Luna; annexed to her Paternal Coat, ſcil. Luna, two Barrs, Jupiter, a bordure engrailed, Saturn.

'Theſe may ſerve ſufficiently to exemplifie the bearing of Augmentations or Additions of Honour annexed to Paternal Coat-Armours Paleways. Now ſhall follow ſuch as are marſhalled with them after ſome other manner: for in ſome of them there is annexed a part in a part; in other ſome, the Whole in a Part. By a part in a part, I mean the annexing of a parcel of the Royal Enſigns or Badges of the Sovereign in or upon ſome one portion of the Eſcutcheon, as in or upon a Canton, Chief, Quarter, &c. as followeth in theſe next Examples.

'He beareth Azure, the Wheel of a Water-mill, Or. This was the Coat-Armour of that worthy Gentleman Nicolas de Moline, a noble Senator of the magnificent State of Venice, who being imployed by the moſt noble Duke and the State in Ambaſſage to the ſacred Majeſty of our late dread Sovereign King James, upon acceptable Service by him performed both to his then Majeſty and to the ſaid State, it pleaſed his Highneſs not only graciouſly to remunerate him with the Dignity of Knighthood in an honourable Aſſembly of many noble Peers, Ladies, Knights, and Gentlemen; but alſo for a further honour by his Highneſſes Letters Patents under his great Seal of England, to ennobliſh the Coat-Armour of the ſaid Nicolas de Moline, by way of augmentation, with a Canton, Argent, the charge whereof doth participate of the Royal Badges of the ſeveral Kingdoms of England and Scotland, viz. of the red Roſe of England, and Thiſtle of Scotland, conjoyned Paleways, as by the ſaid Letters Patents appeareth in theſe Words: Eundem Dominum Nicolaum de Moline in frequenti Procerum noſtrorum præſentia, Equitem auratum meritò creavimus. Et inſuper equeſtri huic dignitati in honoris acceſſionem adjecimus, ut in avito Clypeo gentilitio Cantonem geſtet argenteum, cum Angliæ Roſa rubente partita & Scotiæ Carduo virente conjunctum: Quæ ex Inſignibus noſtris Regiis ſpeciali noſtra gratia diſcerpſimus, ut virtuti benè merenti ſuus conſtaret honor: Et noſtræ in tantum virum benevolentiæ teſtimonium in perpetuum extaret.

'He beareth, Argent, a Chief, Azure, over all a Lion rampant, Gules, crowned, Or. This was the Coat-Armour of Sir Henry St. George Kt. Richmond Herald, who being imployed by the Sacred Majeſty of our dread Sovereign King Charles the Firſt, to Guſtavus Adolphus King of Swedeland, Anno Dom. 1627. when the Order of the Garter was ſent to that King, was not only remunerated by the ſaid King of Swedeland with the dignity of Knighthood, but alſo by Letters Patents under the ſaid King's great Seal, had his Coat-Armour by way of augmentation, adorned with a Canton, Or, charged with the Arms of the Kingdom of Swedeland, viz. in an Eſcutcheon, Azure, three Crowns, as by the ſaid Letters Patents, bearing date the 26 Day of September, in the Year of our Lord God 1627, appeareth. This kind of augmentation agreeing in Nature with the former, I thought not amiſs to inſert here. Theſe Arms thus marſhalled, as in the Eſcutcheon is demonſtrated, may receive this Blazon, He beareth, Argent, a Chief, Azure, over all a Lion rampant, Gules, crowned, Or, on a Canton of the fourth, an Eſcutcheon as the ſecond, charged with three Crowns. Here in this blazon I tell not the colour of the Crowns, it being Or, for the Reaſon given pag. 203. And here I think it not impertinent to the Matter here handled, to treat of ſuch Augmentations as our late Sovereign King James, of happy Memory, granted to Baronets of this Kingdom, who for certain diſburſements towards the Plantation in Ulſter in the Kingdom of Ireland, created divers into this dignity, and made it hereditary. To which Baronets his ſaid Majeſty by decree granted,

'that they and their Descendants shall and may 'bear, either in a Canton in their Coat of Arms, 'or in an Inescutcheon at their Election, in a 'Field, Argent, a hand, Gules; examples of 'which bearing by Baronets you may find in 'divers places of this present Book. But here 'I cannot but give a Caveat to those worthy 'Personages, who have been created into this 'Dignity, that they should be more careful than 'many of them have formerly been, in bearing 'of this worthy augmentation: for there are 'some of these, who being misinstructed by 'some Pretenders to the Knowledge of Armory, 'have very incongruously, and contrary to the 'Rules of Heraldry, without consultation had 'with any Officer of Arms, marshalled this 'Augmentation with their own Arms in places 'improper.

'He beareth quarterly, 'crenelle, Gules and Or. 'In the first quarter up- 'on a Tower, Argent, a 'Lion passant guardant. 'Secondly, Vert, a Buck 'passant within an Orle 'of Trefoils slipped, Or. 'The third as the second, 'the fourth as the first. 'These Coats are thus 'born by Sir John Robinson of the City of Lon- 'don, Alderman, Knight and Baronet, and Lieu- 'tenant of his Majesties Tower of London.

'He beareth, Or, on a 'Fess, between 2 Che- 'verons, Sable, 3 Crosses 'forme of the Field, a 'Canton, Gules, charged 'with a Lion of England, 'being the Coat of Sir 'John Walpoole Kt. Cor- 'net to the late King in 'his own Troop; to me- 'morate whose prudence 'and courage in his Ma- jesties Service, particularly at Croplady-bridge, Letithiel, the first Newberry, Rowton, Naseby, and other Places, his Majesty by Sir Edward Walker, Garter King at Arms, conferred this Canton for an augmentation, and for his Crest an Arm holding the Corner-Royal, therein the Kings Motto, Dieu & mon Droit.

'The Honourable Sir 'Edward Walker Kt. Gar- 'ter, Principal King at 'Arms, and one of the 'Clerks of his Majesties 'most Honourable Privy 'Council, beareth 2 Coats 'quarterly; first, Argent, 'on a Cross, Gules, five 'Leopards heads, Or, be- 'ing an Augmentation to 'his Paternal Coat, viz. Argent, a Cheveron 'between three Crescents, Sable. The third 'as the second, the fourth as the first.

'He beareth quarterly, 'Sable and Argent, in the 'first and fourth three Mul- 'lets of the second, by the 'name of Newman; and is 'the Coat-Armour of Rich- 'ard Newman of Fifield- 'Magdalen in Dorsetshire 'Esq; and as an augmen- 'tation of Honour, his pre- 'sent Majesty King Charles the Second, for the 'good Service and Imprisonment of Richard 'Newman Father of the said Richard, in the 'late Civil Wars, did grant to him and his Fa- 'mily the said Augmentation, viz. Gules, a Per- 'cullis crowned, Or.

'He beareth quarterly, 'first, Vert, a Bend Lo- 'zenge, Or. Secondly, 'per Cheveron, Argent 'and Sable, three Cinque- 'foils counter-changed. 'The third as the second, 'the fourth as the first, 'by the name of Knight; 'over all as an augmen- 'tation of Honour in an 'Escutcheon, Argent, St. George's Cross, is the 'bearing of John Knight of Durham-Yard in the 'Parish of St. Martins in the Fields in Com. Mid- 'dlesex Esq; Principal Chirurgeon to his Ma- 'jesty King Charles the Second.

'Sometimes these Augmentations are found 'to be born upon a Chief of the Escutcheon, 'above the Paternal Coat, as in this next Ex- 'ample.

'The Field is Topaz, 'two Barrs, Saphire, a 'Chief quarterly, Jupi- 'ter and Mars, on the 'first two Flowers de Lis, 'Sol; the second charged 'with one Lion passant 'guardant of the last; 'the third as the second, 'the fourth as the first. 'This Coat belongeth to 'the Right Honourable the Earl of Rutland, 'Lord Rose of Hamlake, Trusbut and Belvoire, 'which was given in augmentation to this Fa- mily, they being descended of the Blood Royal 'from King Edward the Fourth. This also is a 'form of bearing of a part in part: for here is 'abated one Flower de Lis of the Arms of France, 'and two Lions of the Arms of England, and 'born on the chief part of the Escutcheon.

'Now in the next place, by the Whole in a 'part, I mean the bearing of the Royal Ensigns 'of the Sovereign wholly in some part of the 'Escutcheon, as in Example.

'The

'The Field is Topaz, 'a Fes of the Sovereign 'Ensigns within a bor- 'dure Gobonated, Pearl 'and Saphire. This Coat- 'Armour appertained to 'the most noble and truly 'honourable Edward So- 'merset late Earl of Wor- 'cester, &c. deceased, a 'Noble Peer, whose great 'Vertues were every way correspondent to the 'Greatness of his Place and Honour. But the 'present Marques of Worcester, who is Earl of 'Glamorgan, Baron Herbert of Chepstow, Raz- 'land, and Gower, Lord Lieutenant of the Coun- 'ties of Gloucester, Hereford, and Monmouth, Pre- 'sident of Wales and of the Marshes, Knight of 'the Noble Order of the Garter, and one of the 'Lords of his Majesties most Honourable Privy 'Council, &c. bears within a Garter, and a bordure Gobony, Pearl and Saphire quarterly, 'France and England.

'Thus much for Tokens of the Sovereign's Favour: which kind of Gifts, though they proceed also from high Merit (for the most part) in the Receivers, yet we rather entitle them Favours than Merits, because their Gratitude is the greater, by whom such Princely regards are rather imputed to their Sovereigns meer Bounty, than to their own Desert.

CHAP. III.

'IN the precedent Chapter enough hath been said of Augmentations or Additions of Honour bestowed by the Sovereign in token of Princely Favour: Now of such as he giveth in Remuneration of Merit, either immediately by himself, or mediately by his General or Vicegerent, either in requital of acceptable Service performed, or for Encouragement to future honourable Attempts, which is then chiefly effected when Vertue is duly rewarded. Such Remunerations are conferred upon Men imployed either in warfare (be it secular or spiritual) or in Affairs civil.

'Of the first Sort were those that were professed in the several Orders of spiritual Knighthood of late use in this Land, but now abolished, viz. the Knights of Saint John of Jerusalem, and Knights Templers; of which the first is the chiefest, whose beginning, saith Sir John Ferne, was in the time of Godfrey first Christian King of Jerusalem.

'The profession of this Order was to fight for God's Honour against the Infidels, and (as they were taught by the Romish Synagogue) for holy St. John. This Order was begun in the Year of Grace 1120. Their Habit was a long Gown or Robe of black, with a white Cross upon the breast. The Ensign Armorial of their Order was an Escutcheon, Gules, a plain Cross, Argent. And this is now known for the Arms of Savoy, by reason that the first Amadeus or Amy Earl of Savoy, being in Arms with the Brethren of this spiritual Knighthood at the Siege of Acres, after that their Grandmaster was slain by the Saracens, least the Infidels should thereupon take a greater Confidence of Victory by knowledge of his Death, at their request he did put on the Armour of their slain General, and the long Robe of black Cloth, with the Arms of the said Order, and then demeaned himself with such Valour in Battel, that after he had slain the Admiral of the Saracens with his own Hand, he sunk and put to flight the most part of their Foists, Ships, and Gallies, and in fine, redeemed the City of Acres from a perillous Naval siege.

'For which Benefit done to Religion, the Knights of the said Order requested the said Earl of Savoy to advance for his Coat-Armour this Ensign here mentioned. Since which time, all those that entred the said Order, have also had their Paternal Coat-Armour insigned with this Cross on the Chief of their Paternal Coat, as followeth.

'He beareth 2 Coats 'quarterly, the first is 'parted per Fes Undee, 'Sable and Azure, a Ca- 'stle with four Towers, 'Argent. The second is 'Or, on a Cheveron, 'Vert, 3 Ravens heads 'erazed, Argent; the 'third as the second, the 'fourth as the first, en- 'signed all over with a Chief, Gules, and there- 'on a Cross of the third. This Coat-Armour 'thus marshalled, was born by the Name of 'Rawson, Knight of this Order, and sometime 'Lord Prior of the late dissolved Priory of Kil- 'mainham, situated near to the City of Dublin 'within the Realm of Ireland. Such Remune- 'rations as are bestowed upon military Per- 'sons secular, are these that follow and their 'like.

'He beareth, Argent, 'on a Bend, Gules, be-'tween three Pellets, as 'many Swans, proper, re-'warded with a Canton 'sinister, Azure, thereup-'on a demy Ram mount-'ing, Argent, armed, Or, 'between two Flowers de 'Lis of the last, over all 'a Battoon dexterways, as the second in the 'Canton. Here you may note by the way, 'that it is no fault to repeat any Word in the 'Blazon of this Canton which was used in the 'Blazon of the Paternal Coat, this Canton be-'ing upon the occasion here declared, added to 'the Paternal Coat. This Coat-Armour thus 'marshalled pertained to Sir William Clarke Kt. 'deceased, by hereditary descent from Sir John 'Clarke his Grandfather, who took in lawful 'Wars Lewis de Orleans Duke of Longevile and 'and Marquess of Rotueline Prisoner, at the 'Journey of Bomy by Terovane, the Sixteenth 'Day of August, Anno Henr. 8. 5. In memory 'of which Service the Coat-Armour of the 'Duke was given him, marshalled on a Canton 'sinister in this manner, by special Command-'ment from the King, who sent his Warrant 'to the Heralds, willing and requiring them 'to publish the same authentickly under their 'Hands and Seals, for continuance of the me-'mory thereof to Posterity ensuing; which 'was performed accordingly: the Substance 'and Effect whereof, together with this Coat, 'is expressed upon the Monument of the said 'Sir John Clarke in the Church of Tame in the 'County of Oxford. In this Coat is confirmed 'my Assertion formerly set down, touching as 'well the Use, as the Dignity of the Canton 'sinister, which in worth is equal to the dexter 'Canton, though not so usually born.

'He beareth per Fess, 'Or and Gules, a Lozenge 'counter-changed, reward-'ed with a Canton, Azure, 'thereon a Lion support-'ing a Curtelas blade, 'chained and collared, Ar-'gent, by the Name of 'Kirke; and is born by 'Sir John Kirke of East-'ham in the County of 'Essex Kt. one of the Band of Gentlemen Pen-'sioners in Ordinary to his Majesty King Charles 'the Second, and Receiver and Paymaster of the 'said Band by Patent under the great Seal of 'England; which said Sir John is descended 'from Sir David Kirke Kt. who was Governor 'and Proprietor of Newfoundland in America. 'This Augmentation was given to the said Sir 'David Kirke, to Lewis Kirke Governor of Ca-'nada, and to Captain Thomas Kirke Vice-Ad-'miral of the English Fleet, and to their De-'scendants, for their good Services done in en-'countering and vanquishing the French Navy 'under the Command of Monsieur de Rockmond 'then Admiral, and bringing the said Admiral 'Prisoner to England; and for taking the said 'Countrey of Canada then belonging to the 'French, which was fortified by them, in which 'Expedition the said Sir David took Monsieur 'Chaplaine their Governor, and brought him 'Prisoner to England.

'To these donative Augmentations of Arms, 'I will add certain Arms Assumptive, which are 'such as a Man of his proper Right may assume 'as the guerdon of his valorous Service, with the 'Approbation of his Sovereign, and of the He-'rald. As if a Man being no Gentleman of 'Blood or Coat-Armour, or else being a Gen-'tleman of Blood and Coat-Armour, shall cap-'tivate or take Prisoner in any lawful Wars 'any Gentleman, great Lord or Prince (as saith 'Sir John Ferne) he may bear the Shield of that 'Prisoner, and enjoy it to him and his Heirs for 'ever, if the same be not by like infortune re-'gained, be he Christian or Pagan, for that is 'but a vain and frivolous distinction. These 'are such as the Bearers or some of their Ance-'stors have forced from the Enemy, either in 'compelling him to flight, and so to forsake his 'Arms or Ensigns, or by strong hand surprising 'him Prisoner, in justo bello, or having slain him, 'so gained to himself (jure gentium) an abso-'lute Interest in the Ensigns of his conquered 'Foe. And in this Sense may that Assertion 'of Bertolus be verified, where he saith, Et jam 'populares propria authoritate arma sibi assumere 'possunt; but not otherwise, because the base 'sort of Men having no generous Blood in them, 'are not capable of Armorial Ensigns, which 'are the Badges of noble Disposition or gene-'rous Birth, and therefore they ought not to 'be bestowed upon such Persons, Quia entia no-'lunt malè disponi, Arist. Met. But in this Sense 'it may be understood that he that is not de-'scended of gentle Blood, is holden worthy to 'bear the Coat-Armour that he hath gained, 'for the apparent Tokens of Vertue and Va-'lour that are found in him. That the Van-'quisher may bear the Arms of the vanquished, 'I shall make apparent by this next Example.

'The Field is Topaz, 'a Lion rampant, Dia-'mond, langued and 'armed, Ruby. Peter 'Balthazar in his Book of 'the Descents of the Fo-'resters and Earls of 'Flanders, saith, That the 'Arms now born by the 'Earls of that Countrey, 'were won by Philip of Al-'sace, the sixth Earl thereof, about the Year of 'Redemption 192. (what time he made his Voyage 'into the Holy Land) from Nobilion King of Al-'bania, a Turk, whom he had put to flight, and 'slain

'slain with his own Hands in a Battel. And this 'is the Justice of the Law Military, Quia 'dominium rerum justo bello captarum in victorem 'transfertur, as Ayala observeth. Yet this is of 'many Men holden a Thing very injurious, for 'that oftentimes the more valourous Man by 'meer Casualty falleth into the Hands of the 'less valiant, and the most worthy is often 'surprised by him that in comparison is of no 'worth at all. Nevertheless, the Law where-'upon this Custom is grounded, is equal and 'just, albeit the Event thereof falleth out of-'tentimes very hardly, as noteth Cassius, say-'ing, Meliores in bello victi quandoque deteriori-'bus parere compelli videntur. For the Law-'makers did providently ordain for encourage-'ment of Men of Action, that the Victor shall 'be rewarded on this Manner: For albeit the 'Faculties and inward Indowments of the Mind 'can by no means be discovered, whereby each 'Man ought to receive remuneration answer-'able to the true measure of his Worth and 'Valour, yet did they prudently provide for the 'rewarding of them: In quibus vestigia quædam '& quasi expressæ imagines veræ fortitudinis & 'magnanimitatis apparent. And Balthasar Ayala 'saith, Quod dicunt justo bello capta fieri capien-'tium, non solum in rebus sed etiam personis libe-'ris jure gentium & civili receptum fuit, ut man-'cipia fierent capientium. If then the Persons 'of the vanquished be subject to this Law, it 'were an absurd Thing to think that the posses-'sory Things of the vanquished should be more 'priviledged than their Owners that are inte-'rested in them.

CHAP. IV.

'CONCERNING Coat-Armours marshal-'led within the Escutcheon, whereof the 'Occasions are manifest, we have hitherto in-'treated; now of such as have their Occasions 'less manifest. Those are such as being here-'ditary Coat-Armours are so obscurely mar-'shalled in one Escutcheon, as that thereby the 'Beholder can yield no Reason or yet conjectu-'ral Probability of such their Union, nor may 'well discern them to be distinct Coats: So as 'it often falleth out that they are mistaken for 'some new coined Coat, rather than two Coats 'of distinct Families, and so reckoned to be a 'Coat too bad to be born. And such mar-'shalling is either one above another, or one 'upon another. Of the first sort may we rec-'kon the Coat-Armour of Browne before ex-'emplified, as also these following and their 'like.

'He beareth per Pale, 'Gules and Sable, on a 'Cross engrailed, Argent, 'five Lozenges, Purpure, 'on a Chief, Or, three Ea-'gles legs erazed à laquise, 'Azure, by the Name of 'Mundy of Marketon and 'Quarndon in Derbyshire, 'descended from Sir John 'Mundy Lord Mayor of the City of London, 'Anno. 1522.

'He beareth, Sable, an 'Eagle displaied, Or, on a 'Chief, Azure, bordured, 'Argent, a Cheveron be-'tween two Crescents a-'bove, and a Rose below, 'Or, by the Name of My-'nors. This form of mar-'shalling of divers Coats 'doth Upton approve, in 'case where a Man hath 'large Possessions by his Mother, and small Pa-'trimony from his Father, then he may bear 'his Mother's Arms wholly on the neather part 'of the Shield, and his Father's on a Chief, in 'this Manner. And for the better Approbation 'hereof, he setteth down an exemplary Coat, 'which he blazoneth after this Manner: Por-'tat unum signum capitale de nigro, & tres Rosas 'rubeas in campo aureo, cum uno capite rubeo, & 'tribus talentis in eodem. Upon some such like 'Consideration it may seem that these, being 'formerly the Coat-Armours of two distinct 'Families, were conjoyned as in this Escutcheon 'appeareth, but now being both thus united, 'and withal invested in the Blood of the bear-'er, through Custom and Tract of Time con-'curring, are reckoned but one Coat, and born 'by one Name.

'Another Form of Bearing of divers Coats '(upon like occasion) much different from this, 'doth the same Author commend, that is to 'say, the bearing of the Mothers Arms upon 'the Fathers (by the Heir) in a Bend: And 'this doth he reckon to be the best manner of 'bearing Arms, saying, Optimus certè modus por-'tandi diversa arma in uno scuto habetur in istis 'Bendis, quia habens patrimonium à suo patre di-'missum, & alias certas terras per matrem sibi pro-'venientes, quibus quidem terris maternis certa ap-'propriantur Arma ab antiquo, ut fortè quia ipsa

'arma materna sortiuntur nomen progeniei suæ; Tunc ipse hæres, si voluerit, potest portare Arma integra sui patris in scuto plano, & in tali Benda potest portare Arma materna. Of this form of bearing you may see a Demonstration in this next Escutcheon.

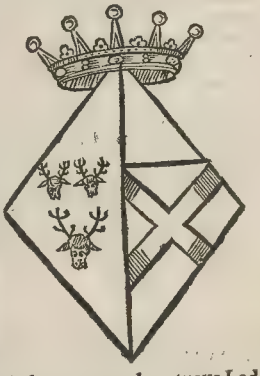

'He beareth, Gules, a Cross flurte, Or, on a Bend, Azure, 3 Flowers de Lis of the second, by the Name of Latimer. The first and undermost of these was of it self a perfect Coat, and born by the Name of Latimer, before the Bend thus charged was annexed: And that this Coat born on the Bend is also a perfect Coat, you shall perceive, if by Upton's Direction you reduce the Bend into the form of an Escutcheon, and place the three Flowers de Lis in the corners of the same. I see not, but a Man may as well say, that the bearing of Arms of the Husband or of the Wife one upon another on a Fess, were as good and lawful, as upon a Bend, Quia similium similis est ratio. But these may seem rather to be conceited Forms than received Grounds of marshalling; otherwise their use would have been more frequent. But the most approved sorts of marshalling with us are those before-mentioned, viz. impaling, quartering, and bearing in an Inescutcheon.

'Not unaptly may these Coats be said to be obscurely marshalled, when the occasion thereof cannot be either certainly discerned, or yet probably conjectured, neither can it be with Reason conceived, whether the Superiour be born for the Fathers Coat, or for the Mothers. And thus much shall suffice concerning Coat-Armours marshalled within the Escutcheon.

CHAP. V.

'AMONGST the various Bearings of Coat-Armour in this Book, the Author, Mr. Guillim, hath given no Example of the bearing of Women in a Lozenge, as not under Covert Baron; which being very necessary to be taken notice of, I have here inserted the Arms of some few, who for their Vertues and generous Educations, may deservedly be made the Patterns of Bearings in this kind. This manner of bearing in Lozenges by unmarried Women, may seem to take its rise or Original from the Fusil or Spindle of Yarn, single Women being called Spinsters, Nunquam à Lancea transibat ad fusum, says Favine, speaking of Salique Land, It never past from the Launce to the Fusil, Lozenge, or Spindle. But Plutarch gives a more noble and ancient derivation of this form of bearing, where he tells us in the Life of Theseus, That in the City of Megara (in his Time) the Tombs of Stone wherein the Bodies of the Amazons lay interred, were cut in the form or fashion of a Lozenge, in imitation of their shields, according to the manner of Greece.

'She beareth in a Lozenge per Pale Baron and Femme, two Coats impaled. The first Diamond, 3 Bucks heads caboshed, Pearl, attired, Topaz, by the name of Cavendish. The second, Topaz, a Saltire & Chief, Ruby, by the Name of Bruce. This is the Atchievement of that great and vertuous Lady Christian, Countess Dowager of Devonshire, Widow of the Right Honourable William Cavendish, Baron of Hardwick, and Earl of Devonshire, Mother of the Right Honourable William now Earl of Devon, and Daughter of the Right Honourable Edward Lord Bruce, and Sister to the Right Honourable Thomas Earl of Elgin, &c.

'She beareth in a Lozenge per Pale Baron and Femme. The first Vert, a Cinquefoil within a bordure engrailed, Argent, by the name of Ashley. The second Sable, on a Fess between 3 Crosses pattee,

'pattee, Or, as many Martlets of the Field, by 'the Name of Samwayes; which said Coats 'were born by Anne Samwayes Lady Dowager 'of Asbley; the Widow of Sir Francis Asbley of 'Dorchester in the County of Dorset, Kt. one of 'the elder Serjeants at Law unto King Charles 'the First; which Lady deceased on the 10th 'of June 1649. Aged 66 Years and six Days, 'whose Body lieth invaulted with the Body of 'her Husband, who deceased about the same 'Age, in the Chancel of the great Church of 'St. Peter in Dorchester aforesaid.

'She beareth in a 'Lozenge Baron and 'Femme, the first 'a Cross, be- 'tween four Nails, 'by the Name of Pile. 'The second, Argent, 'Gutte de L'eau, three 'Roses, Gules, barbed 'proper by the Name 'of Still; which Coats 'are born by Jane Still 'Baronettess, Dowager Pile, the Widow of Sir 'Francis Pile, the second of that Name, of 'Compton-Beauchampe in the County of Berks, 'Baronet.

'She beareth 'two Coats im- 'paled; the 1st, 'Gules, Semy de 'Mullets, Or, 3 'Swords bar- 'ways proper, 'the middlemost 'encountering 'the other two, 'a Canton per 'Fess, Argent 'and Vert, there- 'on a Lion of 'England, by the 'Name of Chute.

'The second, Argent, a Cheveron, Gules, 'between three Flowers de Lis, Sable, by the 'Name of Dixwell; which Coats were thus 'impaled by Elizabeth Daughter of Mark Dix- 'well of Brome in Barham in Kent Esq; late 'Wife of Edward Chute of Surrenden in Betbers- 'den in the said County, Esq;

'Thus much for the bearing of Widows, 'who may on no pretence whatsoever bear ei- 'ther their Paternal Coat, or their Husbands sin- 'gle; for if in an Escutcheon or Shield, then it 'will be taken for the bearing of a Man, and if 'in a Lozenge, then the bearing proper for a 'Maiden Gentlewoman.

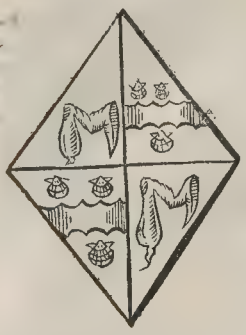

'She beareth, 'in a Lozenge, 'as the bear- 'ing of a Mai- 'den Lady, two 'Coats quarterly. 'First, Gules, 2 'Wingsconjoyn'd 'or impaled, Or, 'by the Name of 'Seymour. Se- 'condly, Or, a 'Fess engrailed, 'Azure, between 'three Escallops, 'Gules, by the 'Name of Prinne. The third as the second, 'the fourth as the first. This is the Coat of 'Frances Seymour, Daughter of Francis Lord 'Seymour of Troubridge, &c. by Frances Daugh- 'ter and Coheir of Sir Gilbert Prinne Kt.

'Ermyn, two Piles 'in point, Sable, by 'the Name of Holles; 'which Coat in a Lo- 'zenge did belong un- 'to the Daughters of 'the Honourable Sir 'Francis Holles of Win- 'terborn Saint Martin 'in Dorsetshire Baro- 'net, by the Baronet- 'tess Lucy Carr his Wife, viz. Mrs. Mary Holles the eldest by Birth and Heiress apparent, was Born the first of 'June 1662. deceased the same Day, and was 'invaulted in Holles-South-Isle at Ifield in Sussex. 'By Mrs. Denzella Holles the second, who dur- ing Life was Heiress apparent; she was Born September the fourth, 1667. deceased January the fourth, 1668. and was invaulted in the 'same place with her Sister. And by Mrs. 'Jane Holles, who was Born on Saturday, April the twentieth, 1672. and deceased on Tuesday, 'December the sixteenth, 1673. Aged one Year 'seven Months and six and twenty Days, and 'was invaulted in Holles-South-Isle at Ifield afore- 'said.

'She

'She beareth in a Lozenge 2 Coats quarterly. The first, Argent, a Maunch, Sable, by the Name of Hastings. The second, Or, a Fess engrailed, Azure, between three Escallops, Gules, by the Name of Prinne. This is the Coat of that accomplished Lady Katherine Hastings, Daughter and Coheir of Sir George Hastings, Brother of the Right Honourable Henry Earl of Huntington, and of Seymour Daughter and Coheir of Sir Gilbert Prinne Kt.

'She beareth in a Lozenge, Azure, a Fess wavy between three Goats heads erazed, Argent, by the Name of Sedley; and is the Coat-Armour of Katherine Sedley, sole Daughter and Heir of Sir Charles Sedley of Southfleet in Kent, Baronet.

'She beareth in a Lozenge, as a Maiden Lady, Ermyn, a Saltire, Gules, by the Name of Lewis, and is the Coat of Anne Lewis of Pengwerne in Merionethshire.

'She beareth quarterly, first, Sable, a Lion rampant, Argent, by the Name of Williams. Secondly, Argent, a Cheveron between 3 cross Crosslets, Sable, by the Name of Anderson. The third as the second, the fourth as the first. These Coats are thus born by Madam Elizabeth Williams of Denton in Lincolnshire, sole Daughter and Heir of Richard Williams of the said Place, Esq;

CHAP. VI.

'IN the former Chapters hath been treated of such Coat-Armours as are marshalled within the Escutcheon; in order it now succeedeth to speak of marshalling without the Escutcheon.

'These are certain Ornaments externally annexed to the Coat-Armour of any Gentleman, by reason of his Advancement to some Honour or Place of Eminency by the gracious Favour of the Sovereign, as an honourable addition to his generous Birth. Of these there are divers Particulars, which being conjoyned and annexed to a Coat-Armour, do constitute an Atchievement.

'An Atchievement, according to Leigh, is the Arms of every Gentleman well marshalled with the Supporters, Helmet, Wreath and Crests, with Mantles and Words, which of Heralds is properly called in Blazon Heawme and Timbre. The French Word Healme, which we call in English an Helmet, seemeth to have given derivation to that Word Heaume. And the Word Timmer to our Timbre; for that in the Almain Tongue is the same that we in Latin call Apex, or Summitas acuminata, and betokeneth the Crest that is usually born upon the Helmet: For so doth Kilianus Dufflene expound it, Timber of Timber van Den Helme, which is as much as to say, Crista galeæ, Conus galeæ, Summus Apex.

'Note, that the general Words used by Leigh, in his said Description of an Atchievement, must be restrained only to those particular Persons to whom Supporters (either by Law or by Custom) are properly due; for that none under the degree of a Knight Banneret may bear his Arms supported. And in some Countries, (as by name in Burgundy, saith Chassaneus) it is not permitted to Persons inferiour to the degree of a Knight, to Timber their Arms, that is to say, to adorn them with Helmet, Mantle, Crest, &c. as Chassaneus noteth, saying, Nulli licitum est, nec solet quis Timbrare Arma sua, nisi sit saltem Eques militaris, vulgò Chevalier. But with us the Custom is otherwise; for in bearing of Arms each particular Countrey hath something peculiar to it self, and hath her proper Customs

'which have the vigour of a Law, Quia consuetudo, ubi Lex scripta non est, valet quantum Lex ubi scripta est. Therefore herein the Custom of each Country is to be respected, Specialis enim consuetudo vincit legem in eo loco ubi est consuetudo, dummodo post legem fuerit inducta, aliàs vincitur à lege superveniente. But it may seem that such bearing is rather tolerated through Custom, than allowed in the strict Construction of the Law of Arms.

'Now that the Things so externally annexed to Coat-Armour, and also the Order of their placing may the better be conceived, I will handle each part by it self, wherein I will ensue that course of Natures Method, which Zanchius saith, was by Moses observed in the History of the Creation, which is, à principiis componentibus ad res compositas. The parts compounding are those before-mentioned, viz. the Helmet, Mantle, Crest, &c. of which some have Place above the Escutcheon, some under it, some round it, some on each side of it.

'Of the first sort are the Helmet, Mantle, Escroule, Wreath, Crown, Cap, &c. And forasmuch as with us the Nobles are divided into Nobiles majores, as Dukes, Marquesses, Earls, Viscounts, Barons and Bannerets; and into Nobiles minores, as Knights, Esquires, and ordinary Gentlemen; and that to these particular Degrees there are allotted sundry Forms of Helmets, whereby their several States are discerned: I will exemplify their divers Fashions, beginning with the Inferiour sort (for that is the Progress proper to Degrees or Steps) and so ascend to the highest; as in Example.

'This form of Helmet, placed side-long, and close, doth Ger. Leigh attribute to the Dignity of a Knight; but in mine Understanding, it fitteth better the Calling of an Esquire, whom we do Call in Latin Scutifer, and Homo ad arma.

'Of these each Knight (in time past) had two to attend him in the Wars whithersoever he went, who bare his Helmet and Shield before him; forasmuch as they did hold certain Lands of him in Scutage, as the Knight did hold of the King by Military service. And they were called Scutiferi (saith the Learned Clarencieux) à Scuto ferendo, ut olim scutarij Romanis dicti, qui vel à Clypeis gentilitiis, quos in nobilitatis Insignia gestabant, vel quia Principibus & Majoribus illis Nobilibus ab Armis erant, nomen traxerunt.

'This kind of Service is exceeding Ancient, as we may see of Abimelech, of whom it is said, Quare inclamans celeriter puerum Armigerum edixit ei; Stringe gladium tuum & morti trade me, ne dicant de me, mulier interfecit me. Also 1 Sam. 17. it is said, Et qui scutum ferebat, antecedebat eum: And a little after, Verse 14. Viro illo, qui ferebat scutum præcedente ei. Since then the Office of these Esquires or Pages, as some do name them, was to precede their Commander upon whom they attended, bearing those his Military Habiliments, it fitteth well the respective Care that they ought to have for the Execution of his Directions, oftentimes with a regardful Eye, and attentive Ear, to observe and listen what he will prescribe them: and therefore the Helmet, born thus side-long (if I err not in my Understanding) doth denote unto us Attention and Obedience, and therefore is not properly attributed to the Dignity of a Knight, to whom (among those that we call Nobiles minores) it pertaineth in Martial Affairs, to give and not attend Directions.

'This Form of Helmet (in my Conceit) doth best quadrate with the Dignity of a Knight, tho' Leigh improperly useth the same; the same (I say) in Regard of the direct standing thereof, but divers in this, that the Beaver of that is close, and this open. For he assigneth this to the degree of an Esquire, wherein I altogether dissent, as well for that the full faced Helmet doth signify Direction or Command, like as the former presenteth Attention and Obedience, as also for that it is a greater Honour to bear the Beaver open than close; the close bearing signifying a buckling on of it, as a Preparation to the Battel, and the open Beaver betokeneth a return from Battel with Glory of Victory. So said Ahab King of Israel to the Messenger that he sent to Benhadad King of Syria; Tell him, Let not him that girdeth on his harnes boast himself, as he that putteth it off: which Tremellius thus interpreteth, Qui induit arma pugnaturus, ne ita gloriator ac si victoriâ partâ illa deponeret: That is, according to the vulgar saying, We must not triumph before the Victory. And for a further Proof that this Form is more agreeable to the Dignity of a Knight than the former, you must observe, that if among Nobiles majores, or their Superiours (having Sovereign Jurisdiction) it be reckoned a chief Token of Honour to bear their peculiar Helmets full faced and open; then doubtless, amongst Nobiles minores, it is no less Honour for Knights (who amongst them have a kind of Superiority) to bear their Helmets after the same manner: Illud enim est melius, quod optimo est propinquius; & in eodem casu idem jus statuendum est.

'This fashion of side-long Helmet and open 'faced with a Gardevisure 'over the sight, is com- 'mon to all Persons of 'Nobility under the de- 'gree of a Duke, whereof 'a Baron (saith Leigh) is 'the lowest that may bear 'the same on this manner.

'And of these each one is 'subordinate unto other, as well in Jurisdicti- 'on, as in rank of Nobility, as Chassaneus not- 'eth, saying, Sicut Rex debet habere sub se decem 'Duces, ita Dux debet habere decem Comites, seu 'Marchiones; & Comes seu Marchio decem Barones, '& Baro decem Feudatores. And for these Re- 'spects, if I be not deceived, do they all bear 'their Helmets side-long, for that each one of 'them attendeth the Directions of the other, 'to whose Jurisdiction they are subjected.

'The Word Gardevisure, corruptly imprin- 'ted Gardeinsure, is a French Term, devised for 'the more apert expressing of the use thereof; 'forasmuch as they do serve for the Safeguard 'and Defence of the Face; for so may we 'lawfully invent Words in case we want apt 'Terms to express the Nature and Use of 'Things, as Lipsius well noteth, saying, Datur 'venia novitati verborum rerum obscuritatibus in- 'servienti.

'Moreover, there are many more Things in 'the World, than there are Names for them, 'according to the Saying of the Philosopher, 'Nomina sunt finita, res autem infinitæ; ideo 'unum nomen plura significat; which saying is 'by a certain (or rather uncertain) Author ap- 'proved; Multis speciebus non sunt nomina: Id- 'circo necessarium est nomina fingere, si nullum 'ante erat nomen impositum.

'This kind of Helmet 'is proper to Persons ex- 'ercising Sovereign Pow- 'er over their Subjects 'and Inferiours, as Em- 'perours, Monarchs, 'Kings, Princes, and 'Dukes, and such as do 'by an absolute Jurisdi- 'ction manage the Go- 'vernment of free States 'or Countries. And a Duke (according to 'Leigh) is the lowest that may bear his Hel- 'met on this fashion. As the first and third 'sort of Helmets before expressed do signify at- 'tention and observance (for the Reasons for- 'merly delivered) in their several Degrees; so 'contrarywise the second and this fourth sort 'in theirs, do betoken Authority, Direction, 'and Command; for so do all Sovereigns, as 'also all Generals, Captains, and Commanders 'in Martial Affairs, and Magistrates and Go- 'vernours in the managing of Civil Govern- 'ment, in prescribing of Orders and Directions 'to the Multitude, use a steady and set Coun- 'tenance, fixing their Eyes directly on those to 'whom they address their Councils or Com- 'mands; and such a Gesture beseemeth Men of 'such Place, for that it representeth a kind of 'Majesty. This Property is observed to be 'naturally in the Frog, whereof Spenser the Poet 'making mention, termeth it the Lording of 'Frogs, because in their sitting they hold their 'heads steady, looking directly in a kind of 'gravity of State, without any motion at all.

'Now the bearing of the Helmet in At- 'chievement is sometimes single, sometimes ma- 'nifold. It is said to be born single, when the 'Atchievement is adorned with one only Hel- 'met, as in those hereafter ensuing shall be 'seen.

'I call that a manifold Bearing, when for 'the garnishing and setting forth of an At- 'chievement, two Helmets or more are placed 'upon the Shield or Escutcheon, because some- 'times for beautifying the Atchievement of 'some great Personage of noble Birth, or emi- 'nent Place, three Helmets are placed jointly 'upon the Shield.

'Touching the manner of placing divers 'Helmets upon one Shield, these Rules follow- 'ing are to be observed, viz. If you will place 'two for the Respects aforesaid, then must they 'be so set, as the Beaver of the one may be 'opposite to the other, as if they were worn 'by two Persons aspecting or beholding each 'other. But if you place three Helmets, for 'any of these Respects above remembred, then 'must you place the middle standing directly 'forwards, and the other two upon the Sides, 'after a sidelong manner, with their Beavers 'turned toward the middlemost, in Represen- 'tation of two Persons aspecting the third.

'The next in Order of these exterior Parts 'of an Atchievement, is the Mantle, so named 'of the French Word Manteau, which with us 'is taken for a long Robe. This was a Mili- 'tary Habit used in ancient Time of great 'Commanders in the Field, as well to manifest 'their high Place, as also, (being cast over their 'Armour) to repel the extremity of wet, cold, 'and heat, and withal to preserve their Ar- 'mour from rust, so to continue thereby the 'glittering lustre thereof.

'Of this kind of Habit the famous Sir Geffe- 'ry Chaucer maketh mention in the Knights 'Tale; where treating of the Adventures of 'Palemon and Acrite, for the Love of Emely the 'Dukes Daughter of Athens, he describeth the 'Habits and Ornaments of the Kings that ac- 'companied them to the Lists of the Combate: 'where of Demetrius King of India he saith, 'that he 'Came

Came riding like the God of Arms Mars,
His Coat-Armour was of Cloth of Trace,
Couch'd with Pearle white round and great,
His Saddle was of burnish'd Gold newly beat.
A Mantle on his Shoulders hanging,
Beat full of Rubies red as fire sparkling.

Where I collect, that this Mantle here mentioned was worn for the purposes formerly spoken, and that in the hanging thereof from the Shoulders of Demetrius it did cast it self into many Plaits (as naturally all Garments of large size do) which form of plaiting in the Art of Painting is termed Drapery. Wolfang. Lazius speaking of this kind of Habit, calleth the same chlamys mantuelis, saying, Chlamys mantuelis recensetur itidem à Tribellio inter dona militaria a Galieno Claudio, qui post fuit Augustus, data. Xanchius ait, De nostris Parthicis paria tria, singulones Dalmatienses decem, Chlamydem Dardaniam Mantuelem unam. This sort of Habit have some Authors called Toga Militaris, and other Lacerna: Ego vero (saith Lazius) togam militarem eandem cum Lacerna extitisse autumo. As we shewed a Difference of Helmets used in the garnishing of Atchievements of Persons of different Estate and Dignity, so it may seem there hath been in ancient Time a diverse form of mantling used for the difference betwixt Nobiles majores and minores. For Franc. de Rosiers mentioning the Charter of Charles the second Duke of Lorrain to the Abby of Belprey 1420. he saith concerning the Seal thereof, Portat in Tymbre Aquilam cum paludamento Ducali; whereby we may probably gather that Dukes in those Days, and in that Place, had a different Form of mantling from Persons of inferior degrees: But in these Things, each Nation for the most part hath some Custom peculiar to it self.

'Rodolf Duke of Lorrain Son of Frederick the Third, was the first that bare his Arms Tymbered, as the same Author affirmeth, saying, Hic Princeps fuit Primus qui portavit Arma cum Galea Tymbrata, ut patet in literis ejus & aliorum ducum: But I suppose the generality of these Words must be restrained to that particular Place. For Wolf. Lazius seemeth to affirm that such a Form of bearing hath been anciently used amongst the Romans, where he saith, Atque hactenus de Cristis quæ in majorum nostrorum insignibus magis ad Romanam similitudinem accedere arbitror, sic ea cum pictura nostra in frontispicio operis contuleris.

'Neither hath this Habit escaped Transformation, but hath passed through the forge of phanatical Conceit (as well as those Helmets before handled) insomuch as (besides the bare name) there remaineth neither shape nor shadow of a Mantle: For how can it be imagined that a piece of Cloth, or of whatsoever other Stuff, that is jagged and frowned after the manner of our now common received Mantlings used for the adorning of Atchievements, being imposed upon the Shoulders of a Man, should serve him to any of the purposes for which Mantles were ordained? So that these being compared with those, may be more fitly termed Flourishings than Mantlings.

'But as they are used in Atchievements, whether you call them Mantles or Flourishings, they are evermore said in Blazon to be doubled, that is, lined throughout with some one of the Furrs before handled in the first Section of this Work, as well of those Furrs that do consist of more Colours than one, as of those that be single and unmix'd. For so the Romans used to wear their Cloaks or Mantles lined throughout, sometimes with one coloured Furr, and otherwhiles with Furrs of variable Colours, whereof they were called Depictæ penulæ: of which latter sort Alex. ab Alex. speaketh, saying, Tametsi legamus Caligulam depictas penulas sæpe induisse; and Lazius, Penula picta lascivioris vitæ imperatoribus in usu fuit: whereof he giveth an instance out of Tranquillus, who saith of Caligula, that he was sæpe depictas gemmatasque penulas indutus.

'These were called depictæ penulæ, because of the variety of the coloured Skins wherewith they were furred or lined, which made a shew as if those doublings or linings had been painted. Some of those doublings are of rare use at these Days, which have been more frequent in former Times, as I find in the Church of Graveneft in the County of Bedford in a Window, a Mantle, Sable, doubled Varrey.

'Next to the Mantle the Cognizance doth arrogate the highest Place, and is seated upon the most eminent part of the Helmet; but yet so, as that it admitteth an interposition of some Escroll, Wreath, Chapeau, Crown, &c. And it is called a Cognizance à cognoscendo, because by them such Persons as do wear them are manifestly known whose Servants they are. They are also called Crests of the Latin Word Crista, which signifieth a Comb or Tuft, such as many Birds have upon their heads, as the Peacock, Lapwing, Lark, Heathcock, Feasant, Ruftcock, &c. And as those do occupy the highest part of the heads of these Fowls; so do these Cognizances or Crests hold the most perspicuous Place of the Helmet, as by the Examples following shall appear in their due Place.

'Concerning the use of these Cognizances or Crests among the Romans, Lazius (having spoken of Shields and the garnishing of them with Pourtraitures of living Things) hath these Words, Hactenus de clypeorum pictura, sive sculptura Romanæ Reipub. celebrata, unde nimirum & nostras celaturas in his clypeis, quas Wappas dicunt, profectas credendum est. Jam enim Galeas illa quoque atque coronas supra positas cum cristis atque avium alis representabat.

'But

'But that the wearing of such Crests was 'common to other Nations as well as the Ro- 'mans, Alex. ab Alex. sheweth, affirming that 'the Almains and Cymbrians used Helmets 'wrought about with the shapes of hideous ga- 'ping Animals. The Carians had Ruffcocks for 'their Crests. Alexander Magnus did environ 'his Helmet with a gallant Plume of purest 'white.

'The Galatians bare sometimes Horns, and 'otherwhiles the shapes of living Things. The 'Trojans, Mysians, and Thracians bare upon 'their brazen Helmets the Ears and Horns of 'an Ox. Amongst the rest (saith he) that of 'Covidius the Centurion, which he used in the 'Battel that he had against the Mysians, was hol- 'den to be admirable; that he bare upon his Hel- 'met a Cup, that one while did flash out Flames of 'Fire, and otherwhiles would suck them in. Ma- 'ny more Examples could I give to prove as 'well the Antiquity as the general use of Crests; 'but holding this to be sufficient, I will now 'proceed to give Examples of Things that are 'interposed between the Mantle and the Crest, 'beginning with those of inferiour reckoning, 'and so to those of better worth and estima- 'tion.

'It may seem an inveterate and overworn 'Fashion in this Age to bear a Crest upon an 'Escroll made of this or some other like man- 'ner; but how obsolete soever the same may 'be thought, Gerard Leigh doth confidently af- 'firm, that both in the Time of King Henry 'the Fifth, and long after, no Man had his 'Badge set on a Wreath under the Degree of a 'Knight: But howsoever Time and Usurpation 'concurring with Prescription, hath so much 'prevailed, as that it will be a Matter of great 'Difficulty to reduce Men to that form of bear- 'ing so long neglected; yet may you observe 'that our most noble Prince of Wales himself 'to this Day thus beareth this Badge.

'This is an ancient Ornament of the Head, 'and much in use with the Turks and Saracens. 'Amongst all the Interpositions before menti- 'oned that are placed between the Mantle and 'the Crest, there is none of so frequent use as 'this; which sometimes is called in blazon a 'Wreath, because it is made of two coloured 'Silks or more wreathed together; sometimes 'also a Torce, for the same Cause; Nempe quia 'torquetur, because it is wound or twisted. The 'Mixture of the Colours of this Wreath is most 'usually taken from the Metal or Colours con- 'tained in the Paternal Coat of the Bearer. 'For the orderly making of this Wreath, Leigh 'ascribeth this Rule, viz. that you must ever- 'more begin with the Metal, and end with the 'Colour.

'This kind of Head-tire is called a Cap of 'Dignity; which Cap (saith Chassaneus) Dukes 'accustomed to wear in Token of Excellency, 'because they had a more worthy Government 'than other Subjects. Also they used to wear 'the same in Token of great Freedom; Quia 'debent esse magis liberi apud Principem supre- 'mum quam alij. This Cap must be of Scarlet 'colour, and the lining or doubling thereof Er- 'myn. Some do boldly affirm (saith Sir John 'Ferne) that as well the Earl and Marquess, as 'a Duke, may adorn his Head with this Cha- 'peau or Cap, even by the same Reason and 'Custom that they do challenge to wear their 'Coronets, because this Cap, as also their 'Crowns are allowed them, not only for a de- 'claration of their Princely dignities and de- 'grees, but withal for Tokens and Testimonies 'of Triumph and Victory. For the wearing 'of the Cap had a beginning from the Duke or 'General of an Army, who having gotten Vi- 'ctory, caused the chiefest of the subdued Ene- 'mies, whom he had led Captive, to follow 'him in his Triumph, bearing his Cap or Hat 'after him in token of subjection and Capti- 'vity.

'Albeit there are divers other Sorts of 'Crowns more usually born interposed be- 'tween the Mantle and the Crest; yet because 'this is sometimes put to like use, and that it 'is of all the rest the chiefest, I have selected 'this as an Example of Crowns put to such use, 'the rather because I willingly comprehend all 'those of less esteem under it. That the Ro- 'mans did bear Crowns upon their Helmets af- 'ter this manner, it is clear by the Testimony 'of W. Lazius, as well in that I have formerly 'alledged, where I have spoken of the use of 'Crests, as also by his Confirmation thereof, 'where he saith, Cætera Coronarum genera in 'universum, quæ vel Galeis in Armis suspensis ob virtu-

'virtutem donatæ militibus, vel capitibus hominum vel Sacerdotum aut Emeritorum imponebantur, octodecim invenio. Quarum, exceptis Aurea & Argentea, reliquæ omnes ex plantis passim & herbis conficiebantur. The Prerogative or Preheminence of wearing of Crowns belongeth not only to such as have received the same for a remuneration of vertue, but also to Persons to whom the exercise of Sovereign Jurisdiction doth appertain, as the same Author witnesseth, saying, Prerogativam vero Coronas ferendi non hi solum habebant, quibus hoc erat munus ex virtute concessum, verum etiam quibus ex officio licebat, Imperatoribus, Regibus, Sacerdotibus, &c. Touching sundry other forms of Crowns, I refer you to the judicious writings of Sir William Segar late Garter, Principal King of Arms.

But in regard his present Majesty has been graciously pleas'd to Grant Coronets to his three Grand daughters, Children of his Royal Highness George Prince of Wales, consisting of Crosses, Flowers de Lis and ducal Leaves; It may not be amiss to Insert here the Form thereof.

CHAP. VII.

THUS far I have touched Things placed above the Escutcheon; now I will proceed to such as are placed elsewhere, of which some are peculiar, some more general.

'By such as are peculiar I mean those that are appropriated to Persons having Sovereign Jurisdiction, and to such as are called Nobiles Majores, of which Rank a Baronet is the lowest. But amongst the particular Ornaments belonging to the Coat-Armours of Persons having either Supreme or Inferiour dignity, there are some that do environ the Coat-Armour round about, and do chiefly belong to Persons exercising Sovereign Jurisdiction, and to such others as they out of their special Favour shall communicate the same unto, by associating them into the Fellowship of their Orders. Such are the most honourable Order of the Garter, the Orders of the Golden Fleece, of Saint Michael, of the Annunciation; of all which Sir William Segar, late Garter King at Arms, hath written so learnedly, that to his Works I must again refer the Reader for Satisfaction therein; the Discourse thereof being altogether impertinent to my intended purpose in this present Work.

'Yet here you must observe, that a Man being admitted into the Society and Fraternity of any two of the Honourable Orders before mentioned, he may in setting forth his Atchievement adorn the same with the chief Ornaments or Collars of both these Orders whereof he is elected and admitted a Fellow and Companion, by placing one of the Ornaments next to his Shield, and the other without the same. In such manner did the most high and mighty Lord Thomas Duke of Norfolk and Earl Marshal of England, bear the chief Ornaments of the Orders of the Garter and of Saint Michael.

'But leaving those peculiar Ornaments of Sovereigns or others, I return to those that are communicable (by a certain Right) as well to those called Nobiles Majores, as to Sovereigns. Such are those which are said to be placed on the sides of the Atchievements, representing sometimes Things living, and sometimes dead.

'But these of some Blazoners are termed Supporters, whose Conceit therein I can hardly approve, Quia diversorum diversa est ratio; and therefore the Blazon that I would give unto Things so different in Nature is, that if Things be living, and seize upon the Shield, then shall they be called properly Supporters; but if they are inanimate, and touch not the Escutcheon, then shall such Arms be said to be (not supported, but cotised) of such and such Things: For how can those be properly said to support that touch not the Thing said to be supported by them? Therefore Nomina sunt aptanda rebus secundum rationis normam.

'To Persons under the degree of a Knight Baronet, it is not permitted to bear their Arms supported, that Honour being peculiar to those that are called Nobiles Majores.

'And these Cotises have their name agreeable to the Thing whose quality they represent, and are so called (as we elsewhere shewed) of Costa, the Rib, either of Man or Beast; for it is proper to the Rib to inclose the Entrails of Things Animal, and to add Form and Fashion to the Body; in like manner do these inclose the Coat-Armour whereunto they are annexed, and do give a comely Grace and Ornament to the same.

'Another Ornament there is externally annexed to Coat-Armour, and that is the Motto or Word which is the Invention or Conceit of the Bearer, succinctly and significantly contrived (for the most part) in three or four Words, which are set in some Scroll or Compartiment, placed usually at the Foot of the Escutcheon: and as it holdeth the lowest Place, so is it the last in blazoning. Of this Word Abra. Franc. writeth in this manner,

'Quod à recentioribus verba quædam ipsis Armis subjiciantur, videtur id nuper inventum ad imitationem eorum quæ Symbola à nobis appellantur. 'And indeed the Motto should express something intended in the Atchievement, though 'use hath now received whatsoever Fancy of 'the Deviser; and this Motto is of universal 'use to all Gentry and Nobility of what Rank 'soever.

'Now as touching the blazoning of these 'Ornaments exteriorly annexed to any Coat-'Armour, it is to be considered, that we are 'not tied to that strict Observation in them, 'as in the blazoning of Things born within 'the Escutcheon; for these are the essential 'Parts of Coats, and those meerly accidental. 'For the Crest or Timber, Wreath, Mantle, 'Helm, &c. (saith Ferne) are no part of the 'Coat-Armour, but Additions to Atchieve-'ments added not many Hundred Years ago 'to the Coats of Gentry. And therefore when 'you have aptly set forth all the Fields and 'Charges, and their Colours contained within 'the Escutcheon, your Blazon is done; so that 'when we shall describe any of those Exteriour 'Ornaments, we stand at liberty for naming of 'our Colours, and in those it is held no Fault 'to name one Colour twice.

CHAP. VIII.

'HAving formerly handled the first part of 'the distribution touching the Accidents, 'viz. Tincture: I will now go forward as pro-'mis'd page 7. to handle that other member of 'the same, namely Differences; shewing first 'what Differences are; and so proceed in or-'der to the Division of them.

'But before I proceed to the Definition and 'division of them, it is not unnecessary to ob-'serve, That Arms may be resembled to Arith-'metical numbers, for like as in numbers, the 'addition, or subtraction of an unity, maketh 'the said number to receive a diverse form from 'that it hath before; in like manner by the ap-'position to, or exemption of any one thing from 'the Coat-Armour, be it either difference, or 'whatsoever else, the Coat-Armour, is not the 'same, but varieth from that it was before. 'This variation (occasioned by the addition or 'exemption of some adventitious thing) never-'theless altereth not the substance of the Coat-'Armour, but maketh the same to differ in 'form only from that it was before; for these 'adventitious Appositions are of the nature of 'Accidents, whose property is Adesse & abesse sine subjecti corruptione; as I have formerly 'shewn out of Porphyrius, p. 16.

'Differences have no existence of themselves, 'but are of the quality of Adjectives, which 'need the ayd and support of some substantive, 'to be annexed to them, and were devised, for 'the distinguishing of Coat-Armour, of parti-'cular Persons, of one and the same family each 'from other among themselves, according to 'that saying of Chass. Differentiæ sunt quædam 'accidentia per se non existentia, quæ inducunt di-'versitatem separativam, per quam dignoscuntur 'talia Arma, in quibus sunt inserta, ab armis al-'terius. But I will proceed to the definition 'and division of Differences.

'Differences are extraordinary additaments, 'whereby Bearers of the same Coat-Armour 'are distinguished each from other, and their 'Nearness to the principal Bearer is Demon-'strated.

'Of Differences some are { Ancient, Modern.

'Those I call ancient Differences, that were 'used in ancient Time for the distinguishing, 'not only of one Nation or Tribe from ano-'ther, but also to note a diversity between par-'ticular Persons, descended out of one Family, 'and from the same Parents. Such are Bor-'dures and Imbordusing of all sorts. The 'Bordures that were annexed unto Coat-Ar-'mours, in the beginning were plain, and (in 'all likelyhood) were of some one of the Co-'lours or Metals before spoken of: But after-'wards in process of Time (by reason of the 'multiplication of Persons and of Families) 'Men were constrained to devise other sorts of 'Bordures, to induce a variety, whereby each 'particular Person might be distinctly known, 'and differenced ab omnibus & singulis ejusdem domus & familiæ. Of these three are divers 'forms, as by these examples following may 'appear.

'The first devised Bor-'dures were born plain, 'after the manner of this, 'which is thus blazoned: 'He beareth Argent, a 'bordure Gules. Here 'you shall not need to 'mention the plainness 'of the bordure; for 'when you say a bor-'dure of this or that colour or metal, and no 'more, then it is always understood to be plain, 'albeit the same be not so expressed. But if it 'have any other form than plain, in such case 'you must not omit to make express mention 'of the fashion thereof.

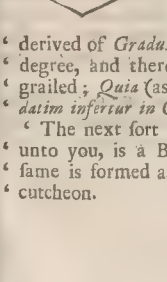

'The plain Bordure, used for differencing of 'Coat-Armour, is resembled to those Fimbria's, 'or Bordures, that Almighty God, by the mouth of his Servant Moses, commanded the Israelites to wear about the skirts of their Garments, to put them in mind of their duties touching their observation of his Precepts; In respect that the People were yet rude, and unexercised in obedience, therefore was this Ordinance prescribed unto them; as St. Hierom noteth in these words: Rudi adhuc populo, & hominibus ad obedientiam infectis, per Moysen imperatur à Domino, ut in signum memoriæ quod præcepta Domini recordentur, per singulas vestimentorum fimbrias habeant cum cocco Hyacinthini coloris Insignia, ut etiam dæmones huc illucque respicientibus oculis, mandatorum Cælestium memoria nascatur. Of these Bordures were the Pharisees reproved by Christ, because they perverted the Use thereof, by wearing them, not for the putting of them in mind of the observation of Gods Precepts, but for a bravery, and their own vain ostentation, and to the end they should seem more strict and severe observers of Gods Precepts, than others were.

The Content of the Bordures (saith Leigh) is the fifth part of the Field. Also it is to be observed, that when the Field and the Circumference or Tract about the same, drawn (as in this example) be both of one Metal, Colour or Furr, then shall you not term it a Bordure, but you shall say, that he beareth such Metal, Colour or Furr imbordured. Leigh reckoneth this sort of imbordering here spoken of, to be of the number of Differences of Brethren; but Bartol (saith he) hath committed the distribution thereof to the Heraulds.

Before I proceed to the Compound Bordures above specified, I will give some few Examples of other several forms of simple Bordures; (Quia simplicia priora fuerunt compositis) as followeth.

He beareth Sable, a Bordure ingrailed, Argent. This word ingrailed, is derived from the Latin word Ingredior, which signifieth to enter, or go in: Quia ista linea ex qua conficitur Bordura, Campum plus æquo ingrediatur. Or else it is derived of Gradus, which signifieth a step or degree, and thereof it is called a Bordure ingrailed; Quia (as Upton noteth) ejus color gradatim infertur in Campum Armorum.

The next sort of Bordure that I will note unto you, is a Bordure invecked; and the same is formed as appeareth in this next Escutcheon.

This Bordure is formed meerly contrary to the last precedent, and is blazoned in this manner. He beareth Or, a Bordure invecked, Gules. As the former doth dilate it self by way of incroaching into the Field, contrariwise this doth contract it self by inversion of the points into it self; in regard whereof (it seemeth) it receiveth his denomination, and is called Invecked, of the Latin word Inveho, which signifieth, To carry in: Quia ipsa linea gibbosa, in bordurâm plus æquo invehitur.

This Bordure differeth in form from both the other, and is thus blazoned; he beareth Gules, a Bordure indented, Argent. Mr. Wyrly, in his Book intituled, The true use of Arms, treating of the honourable life, and languishing death of Sir John de Grathye, Capital de Buz, and one of the Knights elected at the first foundation of the Garter, by that victorious K. Edward the Third, doth therein make mention of one Sir Perducas Dalbreth, to whom this Coat-Armour did properly appertain, and describeth the same in this manner.

Sir Perducas Dalbreth to the French return'd,
Who Guly Shield about his neck did fling,
Wrapt with dent Bordure silver shining.

This Bordure is said to be indented, because it seemeth to be composed (as it were) of Teeth, whereof the same hath a resemblance as well in property as in form: For Teeth (especially those of Beasts of ravenous kind, or of prey) have that part of their Teeth next to their Gums, broad and strong, and their points sharp, after the manner above specified; and they are called in Latin, Dentes à demendo (as Isidorus noteth) which signifieth to take away or diminish, Quia aliquid de cibis semper demunt. In the same manner also do every of these Indentings, entring into the Field, lessen and take away some part of them as they go.

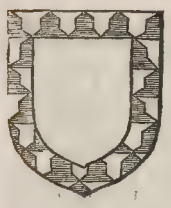

Note that all sorts of Bordures are subject to charging with things, as well Artificial, as Natural; as by examples following, in part shall appear; wherein I purpose not to be curious, either in their number, or yet in their order; but as they shall come to hand, so will I set them down in their proper places.

Hitherto

‘ Hitherto of Bordures ſimple. Now of ſuch ‘ as are compounded; as followeth:

‘ He beareth Azure, a ‘ Bordure counter-com- ‘ poned, Or, and Gules; ‘ which is as much as ‘ to ſay, compounded of ‘ theſe two Colours coun- ‘ terly placed. Note that ‘ Counter-compony con- ‘ ſiſteth evermore of two ‘ Tracts only, and no ‘ more. Note further, that the manner of dif- ‘ ferencing of Coat-Armours by Bordures is ‘ very ancient; but if you reſpect their parti- ‘ cular forms and charge, they are not ſo.

‘ He beareth Gules, a ‘ Bordure purflew, Ver- ‘ rey. Note here, that ‘ this term Purflew, is ‘ common to all the Furrs ‘ before handled, ſo often ‘ as they are uſed in Bor- ‘ dures. Therefore when- ‘ ſoever you ſhall find a ‘ Bordure of any of theſe ‘ ſeveral kinds, you muſt (for the more cer- ‘ tainty of the Blazon) expreſs by name of ‘ what ſort of Furrs the ſame is, if there be ‘ a peculiar name appropriate thereunto. O- ‘ therwiſe, if it be one of thoſe kinds that have ‘ no certain name, whereby it may be diſtinct- ‘ ly known from the reſt; or if it be ſo, that ‘ the Bordure be compoſed of ſome ſuch of the ‘ Furrs, as do comprehend under one name, ‘ divers and diſtinct Colours, then muſt you ‘ of neceſſity particularly name the Colours ‘ whereof every ſuch Bordure is ſo compoſed, ‘ except it conſiſteth of Argent and Azure, as ‘ this doth, and then it ſufficeth to call it on- ‘ ly Verrey, as in this Example I have done.

‘ He beareth Gules, a ‘ Bordure checkie, Or, ‘ and Azure. Albeit this ‘ hath a near reſemblance ‘ of Counter-compony ‘ before handled, yet it is ‘ not the ſame, for that ‘ never exceedeth two ‘ Tracts or Panes, and ‘ this is never leſs than ‘ of three: Therefore you muſt take ſpecial heed ‘ to the number of the Tracts in Blazon, elſe ‘ may you eaſily err in miſtaking the one for ‘ the other. And this Rule holdeth not alone ‘ in Bordures, but alſo in Bends, Feſſes, Barrs, ‘ &c. born after thoſe manners.

‘ He beareth Vaire, a ‘ Bordure Gules, charg- ‘ ed with eight croſs ‘ Croſlets, Argent, by ‘ the name of Moleſ- ‘ worth; and is born of ‘ Hender Moleſworth of ‘ Spring-Garden in the ‘ Pariſh of St. Katherines ‘ in the Iſland of Ja- ‘ maica, Eſq; one of his Majeſties Council in ‘ the ſaid Iſle; ſecond Son of Hender Moleſ- ‘ worth of Pencarrow in Cornwall, Eſq; who was ‘ lineally deſcended from Sir Walter de Moleſ- ‘ worth of Northamptonſhire, who flouriſhed in ‘ Martial Proweſs in the days of King Edward ‘ the Firſt, and went with him to the Holy ‘ War.

‘ Sometimes you ſhall find the Bordures ‘ charged with things living, as in theſe Ex- ‘ amples.

‘ The Field is Argent, ‘ a Bordure Azure, charg- ‘ ed with Enaluron of ‘ Martlets, to the num- ‘ ber of eight, Or. In ‘ your blazoning of Bor- ‘ dures of this kind of ‘ bearing, you muſt men- ‘ tion what ſort of Fowl ‘ or Bird your Bordure is ‘ charged withal; for that this term ſerveth ‘ generally for all kind of Bordures charged ‘ with things of this kind.

‘ A like Bordure doth Jaſper Earl of Pem- ‘ broke bear, that was half-brother to King ‘ Henry the Sixth, and was created Duke of ‘ Bedford, by that moſt prudent Prince, King ‘ Henry the Seventh.

‘ He beareth Azure, a ‘ Bordure Gules, charged ‘ with eight Lioncels paſ- ‘ ſant, Or. Such a Bordure ‘ is ſet forth for Hamlyne ‘ Plantagenet, that was ‘ Baſe-brother to King ‘ Henry the Second. This ‘ term Enurny is proper to ‘ all Bordures charged ‘ with any Beaſts, whoſe kinds muſt be ſpe- ‘ cially obſerved, and expreſſed in Blazon, for ‘ the more certainty thereof.

‘ Sometimes you ſhall find two of theſe ſorts ‘ of Bordures before handled, commixt in one, ‘ as in theſe next Examples following.

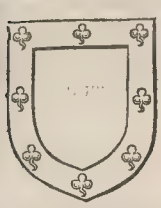

‘ He

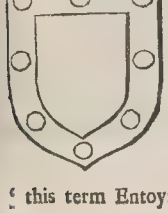

'He beareth Argent, 'a Bordure quarterly, as 'followeth: The firſt 'Gules, Enurny of 3 Li- 'oncels paſſant gardant, 'Or. The ſecond, Azure, 'Verdoy, of as many 'Flowers de Lis, Or. 'The third as the ſe- 'cond: The fourth as 'the firſt. Such a Bordure did Henry Courtney, Earl of Devon, and Marqueſs of Exeter, 'bear, (who lived in the Time of King Henry 'the Eighth) environing the Royal Arms of 'England, which he received as an augmenta- 'tion of Honour. And this Coat-Armour 'may alſo be thus ſhortly blazoned, Argent, a 'Bordure quarterly England and France.

'He beareth Gules, a 'Bordure, quarterly com- 'poſed of Purflew, Er- 'myn, and Counter-com 'pony, Or and Azure. 'Such a Bordure did 'Henry Fitz-Roy bear, 'who was Duke of Richmond and Somerſet, as 'alſo Earl of Nottingham. 'He was baſe Son unto King Henry the Eighth. 'Sometimes you ſhall find Bordures charged 'with Leaves or Flowers, and other Vegeta- 'bles, as in Example:

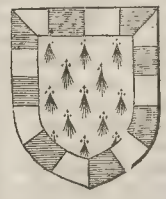

'He beareth Sable, a 'Bordure, Or, charged 'with Verdoy of Tre- 'foils, ſlipped to the 'number of eight pro- 'per. Note that this 'term Verdoy is appro- 'priated to all Bordures 'charged with Leaves, 'Flowers, Fruits, and 'other the like Vegetables. Wherefore to 'make your blazon more certain, it behoveth 'that you ſhould expreſly mention what kind 'of Vegetable the Bordure is charged withal. '' Other whiles you ſhall have Bordures char- 'ged with other ſorts of things inanimate, or 'without life, as in this next Example.

'He beareth Or, a Bor- 'dure Sable, charged with 'Entoyre of eight Beſants. 'Such a Bordure did Richard Plantagenet King of 'the Romans and Earl of 'Cornwall bear, that was 'Son unto King John, and 'Brother to King Henry 'the Third. Note, that 'this term Entoyre is proper to all Bordures 'charged with dead things: Therefore you 'muſt name what kind of Entoyre the Bordure 'is charged with, whether with Roundles, 'Creſcents, Mullets, Annulets, or whatſoever 'other dead thing. A Beſant, or (as ſome 'call them) a Talent, is taken for a Maſſive 'Plate or Bullion of Gold, containing (accord- 'ing to Leigh) of Troy weight, 104 l. and 2 'Ounces, and is in Value 3750 l. Sterling, and 'had for the moſt part no ſimilitude or repre- 'ſentation upon it (as ſome hold) but was only 'faſhioned round and ſmooth, as if it were fit- 'ted and prepared to receive ſome kind of 'Stamp. But others are of Opinion that they 'were ſtamped, and that they were called Be- 'zants (or rather Bizants) of Byzantium, the 'Place where they were anciently coyned. 'Note, that whenſoever you ſhall find any 'Bezants or Talents born in Arms, you ſhall 'not need to make mention of their colour in 'blazoning of them, becauſe they be evermore 'underſtood to be Gold.

'Sometimes you ſhall find Bordures gobo- 'nated of two Colours, as in this next Exam- 'ple.

'He beareth Ermyn, 'a Bordure gobonated, 'Or and Sable: And ſuch 'a bearing is ſo termed, 'becauſe it is divided in 'ſuch ſort, as if it were 'cut into ſmall Gobbets.

'As this Bordure is gobonated, ſo ſhall you 'find Bordures, either Bendy, or Bendwaies, or 'charged with Bends, as in this next Eſcutche- 'on in part may appear.

'He beareth Gules, a 'Bordure Sable, charged 'with three Bends, Ar- 'gent. I give it this 'blazon in reſpect that 'the Sable doth ſur- 'mount the Argent, and 'ſtandeth (as it were) 'in the ſtead of a Field: 'but if they both were 'of even pieces, then ſhould I have termed it 'a Bordure Bendee, or Bend-ways, of ſo many 'pieces Argent and Sable, or Sable and Argent, 'as it ſhould happen.

'There reſteth yet one Example more of 'Bordurings, which I have here placed, to the 'end the ſame may ſerve in ſtead of many 'particular demonſtrations, otherwiſe requiſite 'for the full underſtanding of the manifold ſe- 'veral ſorts of Diapering that may be uſed in 'Bordures, as in Example;

'He beareth Argent, 'a Bordure Gules, dia- 'pered, Entoyre, Enurny, 'Enaluron, Verdoy, &c. 'Note, that you may 'have Diaper of any 'two, three, or more of 'these, or any other their 'like, in one Bordure, 'and that not only Bor- 'dures, but also Fields of Coat-Armours, are 'found diapered. That Field or Bordure is 'properly said to be diapered, which being fret- 'ted all over, hath something quick or dead, 'appearing within the Frets. And albeit things 'having life and sense, or their parts, may be 'born diapered: Yet Plants, Fruits, Leaves, 'Flowers, and other Vegetables, are (in the 'Opinion of some Armorists) judged to be 'more fit for such kind of bearing.

'This kind of bearing Diaper in Coat-Ar- 'mour is sometimes seen in Coats of France 'and Belgia, but very rare or never in England, 'as Sir John Ferne noteth. Diaper (saith he) 'is known of every Man to be a fantastical work of 'knots, within which are wrought the signs or forms 'of things, either quick or dead, according to the 'invention of the Work-master, as is well known in 'Ipres, Bruges, and some Cities of Heynault. 'In the blazon of such Coats you must first 'name the Colour or Metal of the Field.

'As touching their first several Charges im- 'posed upon these Bordures aforehandled, I 'should not (I acknowledge) have made men- 'tion of them at all in this place (the order of 'my Method respected) sed propter necessitatem 'non nunquam recedendum est à regulis. But the 'occasion offered to treat of the differences of 'Bordures in this place, enforced me to make 'untimely mention of those Charges, to the 'intent I might yield some satisfaction to the 'Reader touching these variable forms, which 'I could no way better perform than by de- 'monstrative Examples: Exempla enim ponimus, 'ut sentiant addiscentes.

'Notwithstanding, that I have here only 'mentioned a Bordure and Imborduring, for 'ancient Differences, yet I do not thereupon 'conclude, that Antiquity was not acquainted 'with any other than these: but the Reason, 'that I do not particularly here discourse at 'large of those other ancient Differences, is, 'because the use of divers of them now, as 'Differences, is antiquated; and some of them 'are now used, as Ordinaries, or some other 'Charge of the Field, which I shall afterward 'handle, but not here, because it sutes not with 'my intended Method; others of those anci- 'ent ones are still in use, as Differences, but to 'demonstrate some other younger Brother than 'anciently they did, and therefore now termed 'modern, by changing of their first use. Let 'it therefore suffice only to name some of those 'first sort here mentioned, as Orles, Cotizes, 'Bends, &c. Which how they then were dis- 'posed of, in the Terminal, Collateral, and 'Fixal Coat-Armours, I refer you to Sir John 'Ferne and others, who have writ plentifully 'of them. In those elder Times also, the va- 'riation of Metal or Colour, Transposition of 'Charge, yea, sometime change of the Charge, 'or of part of the Charge, were used for di- 'stinctions of Families, as you may observe in 'divers Authors, and in the Coat-Armours of 'younger branches of many ancient Families.

CHAP. IX.

'HItherto of the ancient manner of differ- 'encing Coat-Armours: Next, such as 'we call modern Differences, come in order to 'be handled. I call those modern Differences 'that are of a latter institution, and put in use 'sithence the invention of Bordures. Such are 'these that follow, and their like, viz. the File, 'Crescent, Mullet, Martlet, Annulet, Flower 'de lis, &c.

'What these Files are, I cannot certainly 'avouch, because I find that divers Authors, 'and those very Judicial in matters of this kind, 'do diversly judge of them, according to their 'several conceits. Upton, a Man much com- 'mended for his skill in blazon, and of some 'Armorists supposed to have been the first that 'made observation of their use (but they are 'therein much deceived, for that such use was 'made of them many Ages before Upton's 'Time) calleth them Points, such as Men usu- 'ally fasten their Garments withal, and saith, 'they may be born either even or odd, to the 'number of Nine. Budæus, an ancient Writ- 'ter, affirmeth them to be Tongs, and that 'they may be born but odd. Alciatus in his 'Parergon nameth them Plaitez or Plaits of 'Garments. Bartolus calleth them Candles. 'Some other Authors call them Files, and 'others Lambeaux or Labels. In this so great 'uncertainty, I forbear to determine any thing, 'seeing those so Learned cannot certainly re- 'solve among themselves what they are. On- 'ly concerning their divers manner of bearing, 'these Examples following will give light: 'wherein I will begin with their single bear- 'ing, and so I will proceed to their Compound 'use.

'The

'The Field is Argent, 'a File, with one Label, 'Gules. This form of 'bearing is found in the 'Chappel of the Caſtle 'of Camphire, alias Tre- 'voir, in Zealand. Such 'is the dignity of the 'File, as that the He- 'raulds in their ſound 'diſcretion, have cauſed many poor decayed 'Gentlemen, and Perſons newly riſen, to lay 'aſide the bearing thereof, becauſe of the dig- 'nity of the ſame, being ſuch, as the Son of an 'Emperor cannot bear a difference of higher 'eſteem, during the Life of his Father.

'Upton ſaith, that Files are not born for 'Arms, but for differences of Arms: Tales lin- 'gulæ ſive labellæ (ſaith he) non dicuntur proprie 'ſigna, ſed differentiæ ſignorum. Nevertheleſs 'in practice it falls out otherwiſe, as in this 'Coat here expreſſed, and others following may 'be ſeen. For we find that Labels are born 'both ſingle and manifold, without any other 'manner of Charge; ſo that it is clear that they 'are born ſometimes for Arms, and not always 'for differences of Arms, as by the ſecond Eſ- 'cutcheon following more plainly appeareth.

'He beareth Azure, a 'File of three Lambeaux, 'Argent. This (ſaith 'Leigh) is the firſt of the 'nine Differences of Bre- 'thren, and ſerveth for the 'Heir or eldeſt Son, the 'Father living. Honorius 'ſaith, That one of the 'Labels betokeneth his 'Father, the other his Mother, and the mid- 'dlemoſt ſignifieth himſelf.

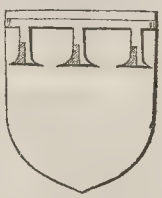

'He beareth Argent, a 'File of five Points, or 'Lambeaux, Azure. This 'ſeemeth to me a perfect 'Coat of it ſelf, for I find 'the ſame anciently ſet 'up in a Glaſs-window 'in the Church of Eſting- 'ton in the County of 'Glouceſter, and is born 'by the name of Henlington. Whence may 'appear that this File is born as a Charge ſome- 'times, and not for a difference of Coat-Ar- 'mour always. The File of five Lambeaux, 'ſaith Leigh, is the Difference of the Heir whilſt 'the Grandfather liveth; but his Grandfather 'being deceaſed, then he leaveth this, and ta- 'keth that of three, which was his Fathers dif- 'ference. But herein his Rule faileth; for that 'they have been anciently born with five Points 'for the difference of the eldeſt Son, in the Time 'of King Edward the Firſt, as appeareth by di- 'vers Seals, and other good authentick Proofs 'of Antiquity.

'Note, That as the Bordures before menti- 'oned, ſo alſo theſe Files are oftentimes char- 'ged with things, as well quick as dead, where- 'of I will give you ſome few Examples in theſe 'next Eſcutcheons.

'He beareth Argent, a 'File of three Lambeaux, 'Azure, each charged 'with as many Flowers de 'lis, Or. Such a File did 'Henry the Fourth, Duke 'of Lancaſter bear, (over 'the Arms of England) 'who was Son to Henry 'Earl of Lancaſter, whoſe 'Father was Edmund, ſurnamed Crookback, that 'was firſt Earl of Lancaſter, and Son to King 'Henry the Third.

'He beareth Azure, a 'File of three Lambeaux, 'Argent, each charged on 'the dexter ſide of the 'foot thereof with a 'Canton, Gules. A like 'File did Lionel Planta- 'genet bear (who was 'third Son unto King 'Edward the Third) over 'the Arms of France and England; ſaving that 'thoſe Cantons were placed in the higheſt part 'of his Labels aforeſaid.

'The Label of the Heir apparent (ſaith Wyrly) 'is ſeldom transferred unto the ſecond Brother, but 'when the Inheritance goeth to the Daughters of 'the eldeſt Brother. In which caſe, it was per- 'mitted unto him, to bear the File as Heir-male 'of his Family, and as one that remained in ex- 'pectancy of the Inheritance, if the Iſſue of his 'Neeces ſhould fail. Note, that the ſecond 'Brother might not intrude himſelf into the 'abſolute Signs of his Family, the Inheritance 'being in his Neeces or Kinſwomen. Hugh de 'Haſtings being a ſecond Brother, his Poſte- 'rity did bear a Label for their difference up- 'on the like Occaſion, and for the Reaſons here 'mentioned.

'The Field is Vert, a 'File of three Points 'parted per pale, Gules 'and Argent, on the firſt 'ſix Towers, Or; and 'the ſecond as many 'Lionceaux rampant, 'Purpure. Such a File 'was born by Edward 'Plantagenet, Son and

'Heir

'Heir to Edmund of Langly, Duke of York, 'which Edward lived in the Time of King 'Richard the Second, by whom he was crea- 'ted Duke of Aubemerle, and was slain in the 'Battel of Agincourt in the Time of King Henry 'the Fifth.

'He beareth Argent, 'a File of three Lam- 'beaux, Gules, each 'charged with as many 'Towers, Or. Such a 'File did Robert d'Ar- 'tois bear, who guided 'King Edward the Third 'in all his Wars against 'the French. This Ro- 'bert was a Frenchman, and was thought to 'have been the first that moved King Edward 'the Third to make his challenge to the 'Crown of France. Many more Examples 'might be given of the divers manners of bear- 'ing and charging of Files, but these here ex- 'pressed may suffice to inform the Reader that 'they are no less subject to Charges than the 'Bordures before expressed: as also to move 'him to take a more strict observation of them, 'as they shall come to hand.

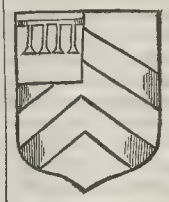

'Forasmuch as it hath been anciently que- 'stioned (and for ought that I could ever see, 'resteth as yet undecided) by Bartholus, Bu- 'dæus, and other Judicious Persons of their 'Times, Whether Files or Labels should be 'born with even Points, or odd? Some hold- 'ing that they could not be born but odd, 'others maintaining they might be used indif- 'ferently as well even as odd. In my former 'Impression I followed the stronger Opinion, 'and in all the precedent Examples have pro- 'duced Patterns of unequal Points. Never- 'theless, not so resting satisfied, I have sithence 'endeavoured to examine their use (the faith- 'fullest Interpreter of things doubtful) to 'which end I took occasion to peruse certain 'miscellaneus notes of Seals, which I had ga- 'thered long ago: by which Seals it appear- 'ed they had been anciently used to be born 'as well even as odd; whereupon (out of my 'desire to clear all doubts, and to make eve- 'ry thing as perspicuous and manifest as I 'could) I resolved to cut such Seals as came 'to my Hands, for the better approbation of 'this my assertion, and content of the Read- 'er; and withal to set them down according 'to order of even bearing, viz. two, four, six, '&c. before I would conclude this Chapter of 'Files. As in Example:

'Sigillum hoc appendet Char- 'tæ cujusdam Joh. ap Howell 'de Monnemoth fact. Christi- 'anæ Ball. continenti quoddam 'escambium unius Curtilagii, 'in vico vocato Mowkentstreet, '&c. Dat. Anno Regni Regis 'Edward III. 32.

'This piece of Evidence resteth amongst the 'Writings or Deeds of George Thorpe of Wan- 'neswell, Esquire, and one of his Majesties Gen- 'tlemen Pensioners, whose residence is in the 'Parish of Barkley in the County of Glouce- 'ster.

'An Example of a File with four Points fol- 'loweth in this next Escutcheon.

'He beareth Argent, 'two Cheverons, Gules, 'on a quarter of the se- 'cond, a File of 4 Points 'of the first. This Coat 'was, amongst others, ta- 'ken out of an old Mass- 'book at Gosworth in the 'County of Chester, where- 'in they were found, fair 'limned, many Years ago; as appeareth by a 'Book of Visitation of that Shire, remaining 'in my own Hands extant to be seen: which 'Visitation was made by William Flower, alias 'Norroy, King of Arms of the North part be- 'yond the River of Trent, who was associated 'and accompanied therein with Robert Glover 'Somerset Herauld, his Marshal, Anno Dom. '1580.

'This Coat might have been more aptly 'placed amongst Ordinaries of divers kinds, 'born one upon another; but that I desire 'to place all my Labels of even Points to- 'gether without interruption, though I di- 'gressed somewhat therein by giving way 'to Necessity, albeit with breach of Rule 'and Order; Nonnunquam enim propter ex- 'cellentiam seu necessitatem receditur à Regulis. 'This form of bearing of Files with four Points, 'is also warranted by Rolls of great Anti- 'quity; as appeareth by the Coat of Sir Tho- 'mas Leybourne, that bare Azure, six Lion- 'ceaux Rampant, Or, a File of four Points, 'Gules, which I do here pass over, as well for 'brevity, as for impertinency thereof to this 'Place, in respect of the Lions, the principal 'Charge thereof. Note here a strange bearing 'of a File.

'This

'This Seal was affixed 'unto a certain Deed of 'one William de Curli, as 'appeareth by a Tranſ-'cript thereof in my Book 'of Seals, the effect where-'of is brief, as followeth in 'theſe Words.

'Will. de C. fil. Will. de 'Curli, &c. pro Salute Anteceſſ. &c. terr. in Ter-'ritorio de Langle, 20 Henr. 3. Teſte Hug. le 'Poer. Vicecom. Warwick. Henr. de Napforá, Ro-'berto de Clopton milit.

'This Example ſerveth to confirm my for-'mer Aſſertion, That Files are not only born 'for Differences, but ſometimes for the only 'Charge of the Coat-Armour, as appeareth by 'the Coat of Henlington, whereof I have given 'Example elſewhere: And herein we may ob-'ſerve a rare form of poſition thereof in bend 'Siniſter.

'I have alſo ſeen a like 'File of three Points born 'dexterways in Bend for 'the only Charge of the 'Field, as in this Eſcut-'cheon, which may re-'ceive this Blazon, He 'beareth Argent, a File of 'three Points in Bend, Sa-'ble. This Coat-Armour 'belonged to one Morien an Alien born, buried 'in St. Maries Church in Oxford.

'For the ſhunning of multiplicity of Exam-'ples, I will give an inſtance of a Coat-Armour, 'comprehending both ſorts of Files, viz. even 'and odd Points, which for that it is ſimple, 'and unmixt with any ordinary or common 'Charge, may ſerve in ſtead of all: As in Ex-'ample.

'The Field is Or, three 'Files born bar-ways, 'Gules; the firſt having 'five Points, the ſecond 'four, the laſt triple poin-'ted: Here I am conſtrain-'ed to ſay triple pointed, 'leſt by the iteration of 'the word Three, I ſhould 'break the Rule given, 'pag. 2. This is, as I take it, a Dutch Coat, 'born by the name of Liskirke, quaſi lis Eccleſia.

'Now if any Man will demand of me, why 'I do ſpend my oyl and travel in things of ſo 'ſmall moment? To ſuch I anſwer, that ſo 'long as I travel to find out the Truth, I rec-'kon my travel well beſtowed, though the 'matter be of never ſo ſmall importance, Suave 'enim eſt in minimis etiam vera ſcire.

'There is yet another form of bearing of 'Files, diverſe from theſe before mentioned, 'which albeit the ſame is not in uſe with us, 'but ſeemeth to be a National Cuſtom pecu-'liar to the Kingdom of France: Neverthe-'leſs, ſithence I have undertaken to treat 'amongſt other things of the uſe of blazoning 'of Coat-Armour, I would not willingly omit 'any Form of bearing, or other remarkable 'thing, that might make either my ſelf or the 'Reader more expert in the uſe of Blazon. 'This form of bearing Files, which I will now 'ſhew you, is not diſtant ſome little ſpace from 'the upper part of the Chief (after the moſt 'uſual faſhion) but groweth immediately out 'of the Chief it ſelf.

'The Field is Azure, a 'File iſſuing out of the 'Chief, without any in-'termiſſion at all, and is 'thus blazoned in French, 'Il port d'Azure, un file de 'Gules, movant du Chief. 'Theſe Armorial Diffe-'rences are in France ob-'ſerved upon the Robes 'of Honourable Perſons iſſued out of Princely 'Families amongſt themſelves; ſuch Robes (I 'mean) as are given them, either at the Mar-'riages or Funerals of Kings and Queens. As 'for Example; It hath been noted that the 'Lambeaux, Gules, upon the Mantles of Orle-'ance, have been adorned with Flowers de lis. 'The Lambeaux of Artois with Caſtles, Or. 'Thoſe of Anjou moving out of the Chief, only 'Gules.

'In like ſort divers other Noble Houſes of 'France, viz. of Valois, of Berry, and of Alen-'con, have Bordures either plain or engrailed, 'or charged with Beſants, thoſe of Evereux 'Baſtons, Or, and Argent, and they of Bour-'bon Baſtons, Gules.

'Here may riſe a Queſtion not unworthy 'our obſervation, viz. Whether like as the 'eldeſt Brother is preferred before the ſecond, 'ſo the Son of the eldeſt Brother ſhall in like 'ſort be preferred, or take place before his Un-'cle? And this hath been holden a great and 'difficult Queſtion a long ſeaſon; until at 'length, Otho the Emperour of Germany, be-'ing at Trevere with his Barons, this Matter 'was there queſtioned; he ordained that the 'cauſe ſhould be decided by Combat, where-'in the Nephew hardly obtained the Victory; 'which becauſe it was deemed to have pro-'ceeded by the ſecret Judgement of God, it 'was decreed that from thenceforth the Ne-'phew ſhould be preferred before the Uncle. 'Of this mind are Nich. Boerius, Lucas de Pen-'na, and John de Montolero, that the Nephew 'ſhould take place.

'The like Queſtion hath riſen in France be-'tween the Second Daughter, and the Son of 'the Eldeſt Siſter, as well in Avignon, a City

'of Narbone in France, as in other parts there-'of, which remained long undetermined. At 'length it was finally adjudged in the Court 'of Parliament (holden at Paris) for the Ne-'phews, for whom also it was likewise decreed 'in the City of Avignon.

'If any Man shall demand of me, How it 'cometh to pass that the Diminutions or Dif-'ferences of Arms beforementioned, are so di-'versely born, not only in foreign Countries, but 'also in one and the same Nation? Or why there 'is not one set Form observed in the use of 'them with all Nations? I answer, That it is 'not possible, because of the infinite Actions 'of Men, which are no less infinitely subject to 'mutability, and therefore can by no means 'be reduced to a Set-form of bearing univer-'sally, according to that saying of an uncer-'tain Author, Res sunt infinitæ, infiniteque mu-'tabiles, idcirco præcepto generali comprehendi non 'possunt.

'Besides these Differences before-mentioned, 'other sorts of Modern Differences were de-'vised for the distinguishing of Brethren and 'Persons issued out of one Family, which for 'the reach they extend unto, do more mani-'festly express, and (as it were) point out 'with the Finger, how far their several Bear-'ers are distant in degree from their Original 'Ancestors; as also, how each of them stand-'eth in Degree one to another among them-'selves, as by the Examples ensuing may ap-'pear.

The First House.

The Second House.

The Third House.

The Fourth House.

The Fifth House.

The Sixth House.

'To

'To these single Differences, expressed in 'the first of these Ranks, doth Gerard Leigh 'add three other, to make up the number of 'Nine; which number he laboured much to 'make compleat throughout all his Book. The 'form of which three are these: viz. the 'Rose, the Cross Molin, and the Double Ca-'terfoil.

'It hath been evermore one Observation 'with Nations in bearing of Arms, that as 'every particular Family (saith Sir John Ferne) 'did bear Arms, different in substance from 'those of other Families, so those that are de-'scended of the self same Blood, should likewise 'bear the Arms of that House and Family 'whereof they are descended, in a different man-'ner each from other (not in Substance but in 'Accidents) for the distinguishing of their Line 'of Agnation. And the Apposition of these 'Differences, albeit they seem to make some 'alteration in the Coat-Armours whereunto 'they are annexed, yet is the same but meer-'ly accidental, the Substance still remaining 'as it was before; the Nature of these Appo-'sitions being such as is of all other Accidents, 'Ut possint abesse, & adesse sine subjecti interitu.

'And these Differences annexed to Coat-'Armours are of some Authors termed (and 'that not improperly) Diminutiones Armo-'rum, in respect they do derogate from the 'Dignity of the Arms whereto they are added, 'as expresly manifesting them to be of less 'esteem than those from which they are de-'rived: Multiplicitas enim individuorum, in ea-'dem specie diminutionem arguit. But doubt-'less, the conceit of Apposition of these Dif-'ferences to Coat-Armours was grounded up-'on the necessity (the common Parent of all 'Inventions) as well that thereby all confu-'sed bearing of Arms might be avoided; as 'also that the Prerogative of the Eldest Son 'should be preserved inviolable. And for 'this cause hath the Eldest of every Noble 'and Generous Family, his peculiar manner 'of sole and plain bearing, which he will in 'no case permit any other Man to use, though 'he be of the same Family and Surname, 'but with Addition of some kind of Diffe-'rence, because the sole bearing of Arms per-'taineth only to the first begotten: In primo-'genito enim (saith Lyra) tanquam in capite stat, & remanet splendor genituræ.

'As touching the Dignity of the Firstbe-'gotten, Tremellius in his Annotations upon the '49th of Genesis, maketh mention of two 'chief Prerogatives due unto Reuben, had he 'not defiled his Father's Bed; the one of Ho-'nour, whereby he had his Brethren in Sub-'jection unto him; the other of Strength, 'by reason of his double portion of Inheri-'tance. And Chassanæus saith, Ea quæ acqui-'runtur Primogenito, acquiruntur titulo univer-'sali, item acquiruntur ut constituto in dignitate. 'For these respects the Arms of the Family 'ought to remain entire to the Eldest, because 'the second, third, and fourth begotten Sons 'cannot arrogate to themselves any such Pre-'rogative, and therefore may not bear their 'Coat but with Difference.

'Furthermore, these Differences here spoken 'of, are of some Authors called Doctrinæ Armo-'rum; and that very aptly, in regard that by 'the apposition of them to Coat-Armours, our 'Understanding (upon sight of them) is in-'formed from what Line of Consanguinity the 'Bearer of such Difference doth abstract him-'self, whether from the Line Ascending, De-'scending, or Collateral; as also in what De-'gree he standeth; as, whether he be the se-'cond, third, or fourth begotten Child of such 'a Parent. And such Apposition is no less 'lawful, than is the addition of Names of Bap-'tism unto the Surname of the Family: Sicut 'enim nomina inventa sunt ad cognoscendos ho-'mines, ita arma vel insignia ad familias & per-'sonas distinguendas singulatim.

'There is yet a further Use of these Diffe-'rences, in that they serve to prevent and 'avoid Dissentions, Debates, Challenges, Com-'bats, and Slaughters. For as to all Brethren 'there is but one Surname allowed; yet for 'Difference, that one of them may be discern-'ed from another, there is added unto each 'Brother a Prænomen, or Name of Baptism; 'so it is necessary, that since the Coat-Armour 'of the Ancestor is competible to all the Chil-'dren (as the Mark of the Family whereof 'they are descended) that a Difference should 'be added to the Coat-Armour of every Bro-'ther, to mark and limit out to all Mens sight 'the diversity of their Birth and Line where-'upon they depend, that so all occasion of Chal-'lenge may be prevented, when each Man 'knoweth not only his place of Precedence, 'but also his nearness and place of Title to 'the Inheritance.

'Whereas I have formerly, among the Ex-'amples of Bordures, used demonstrations of 'Differences in the Blood Royal, of some of 'the younger Sons of Kings, I hold it fit, be-'fore I conclude this Tract of Differences, to 'give a little touch of the necessity why these 'should

'should be more eminent than those of ordinary use, with Persons of inferiour Estate. 'First, in regard that if the Coat-Armour of 'others should have too near a conformity 'and resemblance with the Soveraign Ensigns, 'the Vulgar sort perhaps might (in some cases 'or pretences) be seduced to follow such a one 'as were not their King, to the great disturbance of the State, and no less peril to the 'Person of their lawful Soveraign. And not 'only is it so in Coats pertaining to the Blood 'Royal, but also in other inferiour Callings: 'For in ancient Time (saith Wyrly) when Men 'could not sufficiently distinguish their Coat-'Armours by changing their Devices into other 'Colours, for the Number of Leaders, that 'many times were of one House or Family; 'then were they forced to vary their Marks 'by the said Additions. And very seldom 'should you see in those Times, Crescents, 'Mullets, or such small things born for a Difference: or if any such were, they were made 'so large, that they might easily be discerned 'by the distance of forty Foot. Furthermore, 'the Soveraign Estate and Dignity being compared with the quality of any Subject, the 'Difference will be found so great between 'them, and the one so far surmounting the 'other of them, as that Reason it self willeth 'that so great a Difference should be put between the Royal Ensigns and the Arms of a 'Subject, as there is between their Estates and 'Degrees, since those Ensigns are the Marks of 'their worthiness and esteem.

'For these and other respects, it hath been, 'and yet still is in use, that in Addition of Differences to the Arms of Kings younger Children, the skilful Heralds have given some of 'the Honourable Ordinaries, for more apparent 'Distinctions, as a Fess, Chief, Bend, Pile, Bordure, and such like, as we may manifestly see 'in divers ancient Coats born by such Noble 'Personages as have descended from the Collateral Lines of the Kings of England, France, Scotland, &c.

'Concerning those Modern Differences before expressed in the form of Six Ranks, p. 454. 'viz. Crescents, Mullets, Martlets, &c. notwithstanding their institution was ingenious, 'yet hath tract of Time discovered their use to 'be dangerous, especially in Martial Affairs, by 'reason of their darkness and unapparent forms, 'occasioned by imposition of one Difference upon another; the peril whereof hath not a little extenuated their estimation. Nevertheless, 'their invention is not therefore to be condemned, inasmuch as the Events have not fallen 'out answerable to the intention of their first 'Deviser: Neither can it be therefore justly 'said to be done without ground of Reason, as 'a certain Author noteth: Si finis in intellectu operantis sit rationabilis, etiamsi non sequatur quod intenditur, non idcirco dicitur irrationabiliter operari.

'Here it is to be observed, that Differences 'do in no ways appertain unto Sisters, for that 'they are reputed to be separated and divided 'from the Family whereof they are descended, 'inasmuch as when they are once married, they 'do lose their own Surname, and do receive 'their denomination from the Family whereof 'their Husbands are descended. And so much 'doth the word Soror notify unto us, as Sosinus 'saith: Soror est quasi seorsim nata & à familia 'separata.

'To Daughters it is permitted to bear the 'Arms of their Father, even as the Elder Brother doth after his Father's decease, without 'any scandal or challenge of their Elder Brother; for that to Daughters never were any 'Differences allowed, and that for three causes: First, Because their Coats are never, or 'very seldom advanced in the Field, forasmuch 'as to that Sex War is reputed odious. Secondly, For that the Coat-Armour is no longer born by them than during their Life, for 'the same extendeth not to their Issue. Lastly, Because so long as Issue continueth of any 'of the Brethrens Lines, they are debarred 'from the Inheritance. Yet in some cases they 'shall bear the Coat-Armour to them and their 'Heirs; as in Example, If all the Issue of the 'Brethren happen to become extinct, then the 'Daughters shall Inherit the Land of their Ancestor. In which case, they may therewithal 'assume his Coat-Armour, and bear the same 'by themselves and their Heirs for ever. But 'betwixt those Sisters be allowed no Differences or Badges of Pedegrees: the Reason 'whereof is, for that since by them the Name 'of the House cannot be preserved; therefore 'they are admitted to the Inheritance equally, 'and are adjudged but one Heir to all intents 'and purposes, in Laws as well Martial as 'Civil, without any eminent Prerogative either of Honour or Possession, betwixt Elder 'and Younger.

CHAP.

CHAP. X.

'HAving already in the first Section of this 'Display, pag. 6. treated of Points, the 'first part of our Partition of Accidents, I 'come now according to Promise to the se- 'cond part which is Abatements.

'An Abatement is an accidental Mark an- 'nexed to Coat-Armour, denoting some un- 'gentleman-like, dishonourable, or disloyal De- 'meanour, Quality, or Stain in the Bearer, 'whereby the Dignity of the Coat-Armour is 'greatly abased.

'Abatements do consist in { Diminution. / Reversing.

'Diminution is a blemishing or defacing of 'some particular Point or Points of the Escut- 'cheon, by reason of the imposition of some 'Stain and Colour thereupon. Note, that all 'these Marks of Diminution, in the Escutche- 'ons next following, must be evermore of some 'one of the Stain and Colours, viz. Tawny or 'Murrey, and must in no wise be of Metal, 'neither must they be charged in any case, for 'so should they be Additions of Worship.

'These are placed on { The Middle. / Some other part of the Escutcheon.

'Such as are placed in the Middle are ex- 'pressed in these next two Escutcheons follow- 'ing, whereof the first is a Delf, as in this Ex- 'ample.

'He beareth Argent, a 'Delf, Ten; ~~to him that~~ 'revoketh his own Chal- 'lenge (as we call it) eat- 'ing his word (saith Leigh) 'is this Abatement given 'in token thereof. Note, 'that whensoever you 'shall find two or more 'of them in one Escut- 'cheon, you shall not reckon of them as Signs 'of an Abatement, but of Honour; and in 'like manner, if either they be of Metal, or 'charged upon; and so it is also in some other 'Abatements, which either by their Number 'or Colours, do change their quality, and be- 'come Charges of perfect Bearing.

'He beareth Or, an 'Escutcheon reversed, 'Sanguine. This is that 'other Abatement that 'occupieth the middle 'point of the Escutche- 'on, and is given unto 'him that discourteously 'intreateth either Maid 'or Widow against their 'will; or to such an one as flyeth from his So- 'veraign's Banner: he shall bear his Arms after 'this sort, until such time as he have done some 'valiant exploit, worthy to be noted by the 'Heralds; upon whose true Report, it may 'please the Soveraign to restore him to his 'former Bearing; which Admission must be 'done in no less private Assembly than in the 'Mustering of a Camp.

'Such Diminutions as are placed upon some 'other part of the Escutcheon.

'Do occupy { One point alone. / More than one.

'That which occupieth one alone, is called 'a Dexter point parted, an Example whereof 'you may see in this next Escutcheon.

'He beareth Argent, 'a Point dexter parted, 'Tenn: This Diminuti- 'on is due unto him that 'overmuch boasteth him- 'self of his martial Acts. 'If a Man do perform 'any praiseworthy Acti- 'on the self Deed will 'sufficiently commend him, though he hold 'his peace. And therefore Seneca lib. 2. de Be- 'neficiis, doth reprehend this kind of vain boast- 'ing; Res loquatur (saith he) nobis tacentibus, 'Let our Deeds speak, let our Tongues be si- 'lent: or if we will needs have verbal Praise, 'let us seek it by the direction of that wise 'King, Laudet te alius, & non os tuum, aliena 'labia, non lingua tua. Let another Man be 'thy Trumpeter, and not thine own Mouth. 'For indeed, that Mark wherewith judicious 'Virgil brandeth Drances, doth seldom deceive, 'Lingua melior, sed frigida bello Dextera, Whose 'Tongue is quickest to speak, his Arm in fight 'is weak. And albeit a Man be truly valiant 'in Deeds of Arms, yet Laus in ore proprio for- 'descit, It is ungentleman-like to boast of it. 'Plutarch writes of young Marius, that his Talk 'and Gesture were so stout that he got the name ' of Martis filius, the Son of Mars; but when ' it came to the proof, he was so far from what ' he seemed, that he gained a new Name of Veneris filius, the Son of Venus.

' Such Diminutions as do occupy more than ' one point of the Escutcheon.

' Do comprehend { Four points. / Less than four.

' That Diminution of the former sort, is this ' which you see in this Escutcheon, and is due ' to him that is sloathful in the Wars.

' He beareth Or, a ' Point in Point, Sanguine. Herein you may ' see in part how necessary it is to know the ' Points of the Escutcheon before expressed. Inasmuch as this one Abatement comprises ' these four Points, viz. ' the Honour, together with the Dexter and ' Sinister, and the exact base Points. For it ' is very manifest that the one of these Arch-lines hath his beginning from the Dexter, and ' the other from the sinister base Point, and do ' meet in an acute Angle in the Honour point, ' answering perpendicularly to the precise base ' Point. In former Ages this Vice was chastised by another kind of punishment, saith ' Chassanæus, Quando Miles se male gesserit in bello, potest Judex scutum suum perforari facere, ut hoc exemplo alii Milites in prælio sint fortiores: If a Souldier demean himself not ' well in Fight, the Judge Martial may cause ' his Escutcheon to be pierced, to teach others ' by this Chastisement, to be more valorous. ' But contrariwise, it is honourable for a Man ' of Arms to have Blows appear in his Buckler, ' given by his Foes; as is memorable in our ' ancient Country-man Scæva (the principal ' Man who taught Julius Cæsar the way to conquer Britain) whose Valour Cæsar hath eternized with this acknowledgement, that it was ' he alone who saved the Fortification against ' Pompey at Dyrrachium, where Cæsar perused ' his Buckler, and found Two hundred and ' thirty holes pierced in it. And therefore because the Dastard dares not come so near the ' Enemy to bear his strokes on his Shield, he ' must be content to take this piercing of some ' of his own side in Arms.

' Those Diminutions that do comprehend ' fewer than four.

' Are either of { Three. / Two.

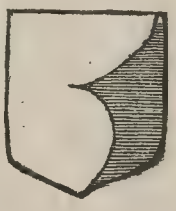

' Such are said to comprehend three Points, ' whose Lines do bound so many within their ' Limits, as in Example.

' He beareth Or, Point ' Champain, Tenn. This ' is the first of those Diminutions, that do comprehend three Points, ' and is formed of one ' Arch-line, which taketh ' his beginning from the ' Dexter Base, and (including the middlemost) ' endeth in the Sinister Base Point. This is ' due unto him that killeth his Prisoner (humbly submitting himself) with his own Hands, ' though in extreme need it is allowed by the ' Law of Arms, rather to kill, than to hazzard ' himself to be slain. Always (saith Sir John Froyssard) by right of Arms a Man ought to ' grieve his Enemy, and good Company of Arms is ' mercy to Knights and Souldiers.

' He beareth Or, a ' plain Point, Sanguine. ' This Abatement comprehendeth the same ' Points that the last precedent doth, but differeth from the same herein, that the former is ' framed of an Arch-line, and this of a ' Right-line. This Abatement is due to him ' that telleth Lies, or other false Tales, to his ' Soveraign. For if light Ears incline to light ' Lips, harm ensueth; and War is then easily ' begun, but hardly allay'd again, when misreport and light credence meet together.

' He beareth Argent, ' a Goar Sinister, Tenn. ' This Abatement consisteth of 2 Arch-lines ' drawn from the Sinister ' Chief, and bottom of ' the Escutcheon, and ' meeting in a sharp Angle in the Fess Point. ' This is the third and ' last of the Abatements, that occupieth three ' Points of the Escutcheon, and is due to him ' that is a Coward to his Enemy. For we must ' conceive that Goars, and likewise Gussets, ' are Things in use among Women, especially ' Semsters, and therefore are fit notes of Cowards and womanish Dispositions. But as for ' the Dexter Goar, we must otherwise esteem ' of it; for (saith Leigh) though it be of stain- and Colour, yet it is exempted out of the ' Number of Abatements, and it is a good Coat ' for a Gentlewoman; many of which Sex are

'so far from the Stain of Cowardize, as they 'will not turn their Backs to Men of greatest 'Valour; but like the Valiant Penthesilea,

—— Audetque viris concurrere virgo,

The Damosel fair dares meet the stoutest Man;

'saith Virgil 1. Æneid. But if there be both 'Dexter and Sinister (saith he) it is too bad 'to be born, for although it be charged, yet 'doth it dishonour the Thing that is there- 'upon.

'That Abatement that comprehendeth only 'two Points of the Escutcheon, is called a 'Gusset, and is formed of a Traverse Line, 'drawn either from the Dexter or Sinister 'Chief Point of the Escutcheon tending to the 'Honour Point, and descending from thence 'perpendicularly to the extream base parts of 'the Escutcheon; as in this next Example ap- 'peareth, wherein are expressed both the Dex- 'ter and Sinister Gussets.

'He beareth Argent, 'two Gussets, Sanguine. 'In Abating (saith Leigh) 'there is but one Gusset: 'and he that is too much 'devoted to the Smock, 'shall wear the Gusset on 'the right side; but he 'that committeth Idola- 'try to Bacchus, the Gus- 'set on the left side, shall be his Reward. If 'he be faulty in both, then he shall bear both, 'as in the Escutcheon present. Such a Coat as 'this I find born by the Name of Coningham, 'saving that the Field is Sable, and the Gussets 'Argent, and therefore not to be taken to be 'of this kind, according to the Rule touching 'the Delf.

'Hitherto of such Abatements as do abase 'the Estimation of the Coat-Armour whereun- 'to they are annexed, in some parts or points 'of them only, being the first sort of Abate- 'ments whereof we promised to speak.

'Now followeth the last and worst of all the 'rest, which is a Coat-Armour reversed. Re- 'versing is a preposterous manner of location 'of a Coat-Armour, by turning of the whole 'Escutcheon upside down, contrary to the usual 'form of bearing, after this manner.

'He beareth light Blew, 'four Mullets, yellow, 'two in the Fess, and 'as many in the Chief. 'This Form of bearing 'is peculiar to a Tray- 'tor, such a one (saith 'Leigh) was he that ow- 'ed these Arms, whose 'name was Sir Armery of 'Pavy, a Lombard born, an unworthy Cap- 'tain of Calais, and Traytor to King Edward 'the Third, in selling the same to Sir Geffrey 'Charney for 20000 Crowns. To this kind of 'bearing is this Form of Blazon (beginning at 'the Base first) peculiar, and to no other, in 'respect that as this Escutcheon standeth, the 'Base Point is the highest part thereof. By this 'inglorious subversion of the Escutcheon, the 'Dignity thereof is not blemished only in some 'points, as the former, but is essentially annihi- 'lated in the whole. In all other Crimes, tho' 'Capital, the Punishment transcendeth not the 'Person of the Offender, Quia nullum delictum pa- 'tris innocenti filio pœna est (saith Chassanæus) the 'Innocent Son shall not bear the Punishment of the 'Father's Offence. But in this which we call Crimen Læsæ Majestatis, or High Treason (be- 'ing an Offence so horrible and detestable be- 'fore God and Man) it is far otherwise; for 'herein, as well the Children of the Offenders, 'as the Traytors themselves, shall participate 'of the heavy Vengeance due to so great an 'Impiety, although not in that deep measure 'that the Father doth; and that by the imi- 'tation of the Divine Justice; that so Men 'might be deterred, not only from the actual 'committing, but also from the Confederation 'and Concealment of an offence so highly dis- 'pleasing to God, and abhorring to Nature. For 'when a Fact is committed or intended against 'the Person of him that swayeth the Soveraign 'State (wherein he representeth the Image of 'the Divine Government) it is not so much 'offensive against the Person of the Prince, as 'it is against the Majesty of the Eternal God, 'whose Image he beareth. And the Welfare 'of the Subjects depending on the Safety of 'the Soveraign, the danger intended to the 'one, hath in it a guilt of endamaging the lives 'of Millions.

'As touching Persons convicted of High 'Treason in the Justice of the Law of Arms, 'for the further coercion of so heinous a Fact 'as Treason is, and for a further Punishment 'both of the Traytor and of his whole Pro- 'geny; it is to be observed, that if a Gentle- 'man of Coat-Armour hath Issue divers Sons, 'and committeth Treason, he hath forfeited 'his Coat-Armour for ever, neither may his 'Issue bear the same, Quia eorum memoria de- 'strui debet: For that the memory of them 'may utterly be extinguished. For since it is 'held they may be lawfully killed, seeing they 'are said to be Enemies to the King and Peo- 'ple, much more is it lawful to prohibit to 'their Heirs, together with the Inheritance, 'their Arms also, and stile of Gentry: Inso- 'much, as some are of Opinion, that the Son 'loseth Jura Sepulchrorum, the Rights and Ce- 'remonies of Burial accustomed to Gentry. 'And of Marcus Manlius (who was condemned 'of Treason against the Roman State) we find 'a Law that none should ever bear that Name.

'A notable

'A notable Example whereof we saw of late 'on the Instrument of that Devillish Parri- 'cide on the late puissant King of France, for 'the obliterating of the Name and Memory 'of such a Villain out of that Kingdom. And 'in Ireland, such Traytors as are convicted by 'the Acts and Ordinances of the High Court 'of Parliament, are by force thereof adjudged 'to suffer damage in their Name, State, Prehe- 'minence, Dignities and Honour to them due 'in fore-passed Times. As in all their Offices, 'Lordships, Castles, Mannors, and in all their 'Hereditaments whatsoever: Moreover, that 'they shall sustain Corruption of their Blood 'and Family, and both himself and his Poste- 'rity are (by force of such Conviction and 'Judgement) disabled to demand, receive or 'recover of any Man by descent from any of 'their Ancestors, either Lineal, or Collateral; 'neither are the Children of Persons so con- 'victed, permitted to make their Pedegree, or 'to derive themselves from such Parents.

'Finally, if such an one were invested with 'any honourable Dignity, the Laws adjudge 'not only his Coat-Armour to be razed, and 'his Shield reversed, but also his Spear trunck- 'ed, his Spurrs hewen from his Heels, his Horse 'docked, his Sword to be broken upon his Hel- 'met, his Crest divided, his Statues pulled 'down, his Blood corrupted, and his Body to 'death (nisi speciali Regis rescripto intervenerit 'gratia, without the King's special Pardon) his 'Family at an End, his Possessions taken away 'and (for a greater terrour) given to some 'other Family, whose profitable Service to the 'King and State may better deserve it. So 'loathsome is this Offence to Nobility, that she 'cannot suffer the Marks of him that hath of- 'fended in so high a degree, to possess any Place 'with her Ensigns; but that the same shall be 'without all reverence defaced, and spurned 'into some base Place: So that by such his De- 'gradation, he receiveth far greater shame and 'ignominy, than ever he received Honour by 'his Advancement, according to the old Pro- 'verb,

'Turpius ejicitur, quam non admittitur, hospes:

'The shame is less ne'er to attain,
'Than having won to lose again.

Fourty

Forty four Considerable QUESTIONS concerning PRECEDENCY, Resolved; Viz.

Quest. 1. WHether in Competitions betwixt Kingdoms, States, and Towns, is their present Condition to be considered, or what they were formerly?

Quest. 2. Whether a Kingdom becoming a Common-wealth, or a Common-wealth a Kingdom, does their former Precedency remain?

Quest. 3. Whether he who is elected to a Dignity, ought to have Precedency thereby, as if he were actually admitted?

Quest. 4. Whether ought one who has been twice or oftener elected to any Dignity, be preferred to him who was only once elected?

Quest. 5. What Influence hath the Conjunction of more Dignities upon Precedency?

Quest. 6. How far do former Dignities influence a present Advancement, and determine the Precedency depending thereupon? and what Rank is due to honorary and extraordinary Offices?

Quest. 7. Whether amongst such as have equal Dignity, the first in time ought to be preferred?

Quest. 8. When many are promoted at once in the same Writ, or when many are nominate in the same Commission, whether is the Order of Naming therein express'd to be observed?

Quest. 9. In what Cases does Age prefer, and what is its Prerogative in the Matters of Precedency.

Quest. 10. Whether does appearancy of Blood give Precedency before actual Investiture and Possession?

Quest. 11. Whether does the apparent Heir his assuming and using the Title and Precedency of his Predecessor, make him liable to his Predecessor's Debts, and infer a passive Title against him, as we speak?

Quest. 12. Whether does the appearancy of Blood give Precedency, where the Predecessor is not Dead?

Quest. 13. Whether should an elder Brother, who was Born before the Father was preferred to the Dignity of a King, Marques, Earl, &c. be preferred to a younger Brother who was Born after his Father had attained to either of these Dignities?

Quest. 14. Whether ought a Son, who is in publick Imployment and dignified, to precede a Father who is not?

Quest. 15. Whether may he who has the Survivance of an Imployment, challenge any Precedency upon that Account?

Quest. 16. Whether does the Daughter of a Lord, who would himself have been an Earl if he had lived, take place from the Daughter of a younger Earl?

Quest. 17. Whether if the elder Brother be Mad, or Dumb, &c. does the second Brother get the same Precedency, as if his Brother were Dead?

Quest. 18. Which of two or moe Twins ought to precede, when it is controverted which of them was first born?

Quest. 19. Whether do Natural Children born before a lawful Marriage precede? And should they be preferred to the Children born in a lawful Marriage, if they be legitimated thereafter?

Quest. 20. Whether ought the Order of the Nomination to be observed in Commissions, where the Persons are ranked otherwise than can be consistent with the King's former express Grants?

Quest. 21. In the Competition betwixt two who are advanced at the same time, but in different Writs, as if two Patents were subscribed by His Majesty to two several Earls on the same Day; which of the two were to be preferred?

Quest. 22. Whether is Precedency to be ruled according to the Date of the Provision, Investiture, or actual Possession?

Quest. 23. Whether does the Dignity of him who bestows the Honour, regulate the Precedency that is bestowed among Equals?

Quest. 24. Whether can a Prince nobilitate any of his own Subjects in the Territories of another Prince?

Queſt. 25. Whether when the Preſident of any Court or Incorporation is abſent, may the eldeſt Member convocate the Incorporation? And who ought to Precede in that Caſe?

Queſt. 26. Whether may a Peer be degraded, becauſe he hath not an Eſtate ſufficient to entertain a Perſon of his Quality, and by whom may he be degraded?

Queſt. 27. Whether is a Patent never made uſe of by the Father, valid after his Death?

Queſt. 28. Whether if the Father uſe any low or baſe Trade which derogates from Nobility, will his Children and Deſcendents loſe it thereby?

Queſt. 29. One having reſigned a Dignity or Imployment, and returning thereafter thereto, whether does he who has ſo reſigned return to his former Precedency?

Queſt. 30. Whether may a Nobleman reſign his Honours in favours of a third Party? And if the King's confirmation thereupon will exclude the neareſt Agnats, who would elſe have ſucceeded by their right of Blood?

Queſt. 31. Whether does the former right of Precedency remain with him who has reſigned the Office by which he enjoyed the Precedency?

Queſt. 32. If a Perſon do not of himſelf reſign, but be called from his Charge by the Prince to another Imployment, and one provided to his Place, and returning thereafter to his firſt Dignity by the Princes command, whether does he get Precedency according to his firſt or laſt Inſtallment?

Queſt. 33. Whether does he who is ſuſpended from the Exerciſe of an Office, return to the ſame Precedency when the ſuſpenſion is taken off?

Queſt. 34. Two having Offices, and changing one with another their Imployments for a time, whether when they reſume their former Imployments, do they return to their former Precedency?

Queſt. 35. Whether is he, who is reſtored by the Prince to a Dignity from which he was degraded, to be reſtored to the ſame Precedency which he had formerly?

Queſt. 36. Whether have the Ambaſſadors of Monarchs the Precedency from other Monarchs or Princes themſelves, if perſonally preſent, even as the Kings would do whom they repreſent? And if in all Caſes, an Ambaſſador ought to have the ſame Precedency that is due to his Conſtituent?

Queſt. 37. Whether have ſuch as have been Ambaſſadors, or have been in ſuch honourable Imployments, any Precedency thereby when their Imployment is ended?

OF PRECEDENCY.

CHAP. I.

The Precedency of Kings and Commonwealths.

MENS Ambition, as well as Curiosity, doth breed in them a Desire to understand this Subject, which is a part of the Civil Law, and Law of Nations, exceeding as far all other Parts of the Law, as Honour exceeds Money; But the same Ambition, which makes Men very curious to know this Subject, will make them very unwilling to hear any Thing that may decide against themselves: And so such as writ upon it run a great Risque of Displeasing those whom they intended to Satisfy. But my Design is to defend, and inform my own Country, I shall be little disappointed, though I want Praise and Esteem, since I do not deserve, or expect either: And he is an unworthy Man, who does not think the serving his Country a sufficient Sallery, for greater Pains than I have here bestowed.

Amongst those who are Supreme, Kings have the Preference from Common-wealths; and amongst Kings, the Emperour is allowed the first Place, by the famous Ceremonial of Rome, as succeeding to the Roman Emperours, who are alledged to have been Universal Monarchs; Because in Scripture they are said to have taxed the whole World. And therefore the German and Italian Lawyers, who are Subject to the Empire, have with very much Flattery, asserted that the Emperour is the Vicar of GOD in Temporals, Bald. in l. 1. c. de Jur. aur. an. And that Jurisdictions are derived from him, as from the Fountain; calling him, Dominum & Caput totius Orbis: And for this they do very impertinently cite several Texts of the Civil Law, which being Laws made by the Romans themselves, cannot bind or prove against other Nations. Nor is the Translation of the old Roman Dignity upon Charles le maigne by Leo the III. of greater Authority, amongst such as acknowledge the Pope to be no infallible Judge. And whatever may be debated against other Kingdoms, which were once Subject to the Roman Empyre; Yet his Plea against Scotland is very ill founded, since in the Opinion of Scaliger, and the best of Historians; Scotland nor its Kings were never subject to the Roman Empyre, nor conquered by them; for they, to defend themselves against the Scots, were forced to build a Wall, called Vallum Adriani, which is Extant to this Day as an undeniable Proof, that Scotland did set Limits to the Roman Empire: And thus as Scaliger observes, Romani Imperii fuit olim Scotia limes.

It is likewise pretended by the German Lawyers, that the Emperour ought to precede all others; because he is crowned with three Crowns, one of Iron at Aquisgrane, one of Silver at Milan, and one of Gold at St. Peter's Church, Gloss. ad Clement. I. And since the King of the Romans who is but Emperour in hope, debates with other Kings, as in Anno 1533. he who is actual Emperour, ought to be preferred to them.

For the Emperour it is also pretended, That in the Ottoman Court, and in all other Courts, the Emperour's Ambassadors are still preferred, and that he only is still styled, Your Majesty, in all Addresses made to him by all other Kings, as by France, Anno 1628. by Pole, Anno 1621, &c. And that the Kings of Pole, Sweden, Denmark, and others have taken Confirmations from him, & ab eo petierunt veniam ætatis, Hering. de fide- jus. c. 2. And yet the Kings of Britain and France may debate the Precedency with him, becauſe the Empire is but Elective, whereas they are Hereditary, the Empire is a Limited, but they have Abſolute Monarchies, Vide Peregrin. de jur. fiſc. tit. 1. num 47.

The French King debates his Precedency with the King of Spain; the Spaniard contending that he ought to be preferred, becauſe he is the moſt Catholick King, and King of manieſt Kingdoms; and ſome of them are ſo fooliſh as to ſay, That the Spaniſh Nation is more ancient than the French, as owing their Origin to Athamaricus, one of the firſt Governours amongſt the Goths. But for the French it is anſwered,

1. That they are the moſt Chriſtian Kings.

2. That they are Conſecrated and Anointed.

3. That Swardus was firſt King of that Nation, in the Reign of Alexander the Great.

4. That they were preferred in many General Councils to the Spaniards, as in the Lateran Council, Anno 1215. in the Council of Conſtans, Anno 1416. and in the Council of Baſil, Anno 1433. That the Venetians preferred the French after much Debate, Anno 1558. the Caſe being ſubmitted by both to that Senate; and Pius the IV. preferred him at Rome, Anno 1564. the King of Spain having appealed from the Venetian to him. And though the Emperour has of late decided in Favours of Spain, yet that Deciſion is little conſidered, becauſe of the Relation which the Emperour has to the Spaniſh Crown; And therefore the French King does very wiſely ſend only Envoys and Reſidents to the Imperial Court, leſt if he ſent Ambaſſadors, the Spaniards might be be preferred to his. Nor was this Precedency ever acclaimed by the Spaniard, till the Reign of Charles the V, who being both Emperour and King of Spain, did begin this Debate; which after many Conteſts, the Spaniard has at laſt ceded, having commanded his Ambaſſador, the Marqueſs de la Fuente, to acknowledge the ſame to the moſt Chriſtian King, in Satisfaction of the Injury done to his Ambaſſador, in Anno 1661. at London.

The King of Great Britain founds his Precedency to both, Upon, 1. His being King of that Iſle, which was firſt Chriſtian. 2. Upon his being Anointed, and one of the quatuor Uncti, which were before all other Kings. 3. That having conquered France, in the Time of Henry the V. he has Right to all the Precedency which France can acclaim. And to Spain, the King of England was preferred in the General Councils of Piſa, Conſtance, and Baſil. I find likewiſe in Golſtad. Lib. I. Cap. 30. That Pope Julius II. decided, after Debate, in Favours of Henry the II. King of England, againſt Ferdinand the V. Caſpar. Eup. Theſaur. polit. Part III. apot. 63. And therefore in the Book of Roman Ceremonies, 1504. England was placed before Caſtil. Nor can it be denyed, but that Charles the V, in ranking the Knights of the Golden Fleece, did give the Right hand to the King of England, and the Left to the King of Spain. And though of late the Court of Rome has decided in Favours of Spain, yet that proceeds from the diſlike that Rome had to England for its Separation, and the great Eſteem which daily grows there for Spain; becauſe Spain has never indulged any who have left the Romiſh Church.

CHAP. II.

Of the Precedency due to the Kings of SCOTLAND.

I MUST here crave Leave to ſay, That the King of Great Britain may juſtly claim the Precedency from all thoſe Kings, as he is properly King of Scotland. For it is an uncontroverted Ground in Law, That amongſt thoſe of equal Dignity, he, who firſt attained to that Dignity, is to be preferred, L. 1. C. de Conſul. Quis enim prior eſſe debet in eodem genere Dignitatis, niſi qui prior eum adeptus eſt, L. 1. ff. de albo ſcribendo. With which agrees the Canon Law, Cap. 1. de major. & ob. And this is declared the uncontraverted Teſt of Precedency, by Cruſ. de jur. Preced. pag. 66. Menoch. concil. 51. & Cuj. ad L. 2. C. de Conſul. And we ſee that this Rule holds in all other Dignities, without reſpect to Riches, or multitude of Poſſeſſions: And thus amongſt Dukes or Earls in all Nations, the firſt who attained to the Dignity, is ſtill preferred; though others be much Richer, and have ſucceeded to moe Earldoms.

This being then the true and ſolid Ground of Preference, I may truly ſubſume, That the King of Scotland being equal in Dignity, with the Kings of England, France, and Spain, attained to that Dignity, before either of theſe. For our King Fergus came into Scotland 330 Years before the Birth of CHRIST; Whereas Polydor an Engliſh Hiſtorian, confeſſes that Egbert the firſt King of England, did begin his Reign eight Hundred Years after our Saviour's Birth, and the King of Scotland married the Daughter of Ambroſius Aurelius, who was the firſt King of the Britans, and whoſe Reign preceeded the Origin of the Engliſh Kingdom.

And

As to the Monarchy of Spain, and their Race of Kings, they are no older than Rudolphus King of the Romans, elected in the Year 1273. by whom the Houſe of Auſtria did riſe to this Dignity.

As to the Kings of France who now Reign, they are only deſcended from Hugh Capet, who uſurped that Throne in Anno 987. And not being deſcended of either the Carolovingian or Mervovingian Races, they cannot compet with our Kings, Achaius King of Scotland having been Contemporary with Charles le Maigne, the firſt of the Carolovingian Race; and yet Achaius was but the 65 of our Kings, and the Leagues betwixt Achaius and the ſaid Charles, are aſſerted not only by our Hiſtorians and the French, but confeſſed by all Strangers.

To evite this Argument, ſome Hiſtorians have of late aſſerted, that we had no Kings before Fergus the II. and Cambden obſerves, that the Scots were unknown till the dayes of Conſtantine the Great, which is a moſt unjuſt and groundleſs Calumnie; ſince four Monaſtries of our Nation, viz. Melroſe, Pluſcarden, Paiſley and Scoon, did keep conſtant and diſtinct Annals of all that paſt in this Nation, after the Eſtabliſhment of the Chriſtian Religion, which was in anno 199. and have tranſmitted to us what was delivered to them, by the pious and remarkable Chriſtians of thoſe firſt Ages of the World, who, as they were eye-witneſſes of what paſt ſince our Chriſtianity, ſo are not to be preſumed to have recorded any thing of what preceeded their own age, without ſufficient Warrand: And as it is incredible, that ſo Sincere and Pious men would have lyed, ſo it is not imaginable, that ſo many Societies would have conſpyred together in a whole Tract of ſo circumſtantiat a Hiſtory as ours is; and there can be nothing brought to convell the Faith of ſo large a Hiſtory, but what may, with the ſame force, be urged againſt the whole Roman Hiſtory, few or none having related what is ſaid in the Roman Hiſtory, beſides the Romans themſelves: Whereas Galdus (or as Tacitus names him, Galgacus) oppoſed Agricola under Domitian; and that he was a Scot, is clear by Lipſius Notes upon that Place, Egregium membrum, & qualia multa in corpore hujus Orationis Galgaci Scoti: But the Text makes this moſt clear to me, for this Diſcourſe is ſaid to have been made, ad montem Grampium, which is known to be a Scottiſh Tract of Hills, dividing the North and South of Scotland. Hegeſippus, who lived in the dayes of Hadrian the Emperour, and ſo an hundred and ten Years before Conſtantine, does write of the Scots as a warlike People, to whoſe Authority Cambden can make no anſwer, but that he contraverts the Authority of the Tranſlation or Impreſſion; by which anſwer, all Antiquity may be confounded; and ſeeing that Tranſlation was the work of St. Ambroſe, it cannot but be above all cenſure. Claudian does make the Scots to have reigned in the dayes of Honorius, for in his Second Conſulat he has,

——Scotumque vago mucrone ſequutus
Fregit Hiperboreas, remis audacibus, undas.

And in another place he ſays,

Scotorum cumulos flevit glacialis Iernæ.

And William of Weſtminſter confeſſes, That we came into Britain in the 77th Year after CHRIST: Beda likewiſe another Engliſh Man, makes us to have been in this Iſle, before the Days of Julius Cæſar. And as it cannot be denyed, that we were ſtill Subject to Monarchy, ſo no Hiſtorian can pretend, that we obeyed any Race, ſave that which now Reigns: Whereas we can condeſcend, where the Engliſh and French were conquered by Strangers, and had their Royal Line dethroned, and inverted.

Another Ground of Precedency may be adduced for the King of Scotland, from his being the undoubted Lineal Succeſſor of 110 Kings: whereas the Lyne of France runs no higher than Hugh Capet, who lived in Anno 987, and did in that Time dethrone the former Race: The Kings of Spain, are only Deſcended from the Counts of Tierſtem. And the preſent Kings of England are Deſcended from William the Conqueror. So that whatever may be pretended for the Antiquity of thoſe Kingdoms, yet their Kings are not ſo Ancient as ours: and Precedency ought to be given, amongſt Equals, to the eldeſt Race, and not to the eldeſt Kingdom. In ſuch Dignities, the preference muſt be given, either according to the Antiquity of the People or Country, or Race which Reigns there. If the Country be conſidered, there can be no Precedency acclaimed by any; for as all Countries were created at the ſame Time, ſo none can know which of theſe Kingdoms were firſt Inhabited: and that none can be preferred upon the Antiquity or Riches of their Country, is clearly determined by Lawyers, Regionis Locique, cui Principes præſunt, ratio, & ſic de eorum locorum præſtantia, veterum elogia necquicquam ad præcedentiam faciunt, Gothofred de Præced. cap. 3. mum. 30. If we conſider the Antiquity of the People, who are commanded, though that could give Precedency to them, or to any who repreſented them, yet that ought not to give Precedency to the King; for, Principum precedentia metienda eſt ex ſua dignitate, non extra: And the Learned Speronius Speronii, hath proved this in a large Diſcourſe, written in the Italian Tongue; but if this be conſidered as a Ground of Precedency, then we ought to be preferred to the Engliſh; for we are ſtill the ſame People and Nation, but the Engliſh are not the old Britans, but are a Mixture deſcending from Danes, Saxons, and French: And ſo we being the eldeſt People, our King ought to have the Precedency upon that Account. Even as our King was preferred to the late Kings of Jeruſalem, though they commanded the People who now live in Judea, and who came in place of the ancient Jews, a Kingdom very ancient formerly. But the Antiquity of the Race that Reigns, is the Ground of Precedency:

For

For this reason it is, that the elder Brother succeeds, without respect to the Greatness of Estate, or Antiquity of those whom he Commands. And though these Considerations give preference inter impares dignitate, yet inter pares dignitate, familia quæ prior dignitatem est adepta, semper præferenda in incedendo, sedendo, &c. Menoch. consil. 902. num. 57. Rebuff. ad l. 1. c. de consul. Platea ad l. 2. c. ut dignit. ordo. And since it shall be proved, even from Foreign Histories cited in this Chapter, that we had Kings before any of the Races now Reigning in either of these, our Kings ought to be preferred to them.

Since Christianity was established, Christian Princes have been preferred according to the Date of their having received the Christian Faith, Gothofred. de jur. Præced. cap. 3. num. 23. Grotius de jur. bel. lib. 2. cap. 5. and that is the chief Ground of Precedency observed in the Court of Rome, and especially in general Councils; but I conceive it ought not to be a Ground of Precedency any where else, since amongst Equals, the Antiquity of Blood ought to be preferred to the Date of Christianity; Christianity rather discharging all Care for Precedency: But even according to this Rule, the eldest Christian Race ought to be preferred, Religion having still respect to Christian Parents; whereas on the other hand, it is of no Advantage to any Person, that he succeeds to an Estate which was formerly possess'd by Christians, these having no Connection with one another: and a Man should by the same Rule be preferred, because he dwells in a House where Christianity was first professed, which were in it self very ridiculous: And if the first Christian Race be allowed the Preference, the King of Scotland ought to be preferred; for Donald King of Scots imbraced the Christian Faith in Anno 199. before either William the Conqueror succeeded to England, or Hugh Capet to France, and long before Spain obeyed this Race of Monarchs; for which we can cite not only our own Historians, but Baronius ad annum 449. Duchesne, and many others, and particularly, Beda and Polidor, the worthiest of English Historians. Beda relates, That imbuebantur à Scotis parvuli Anglorum, quin & ipse Alfridus Anglorum Rex, in Insulis Scotorum operam dedit, & sacras Literas didicit, Lib. III. hist. c. 27. Reges Angliæ cupidi salutis æternæ, Legatos ad Eugenium quartum Scotorum Regem miserunt, ut ille digneretur Viros idoneos mittere, per quos illi Christianæ Fidei Rudimenta docerentur, & sacro Baptismatis fonte abluerentur, quod ille haud gravate indulsit. Which clears fully, that our Kings were Christian before those of England, and so ought to be preferred to the Kings of England, by their own Arguments, and their own Authors.

King Donald's Conversion is attested by Bellar. in his Answer to King James, by Baronius, ad annum 429. Sanderus lib. 4. de clav. David Arnoldus de conversione Gentium, &c. And since King Donald was before Fergus the Second, it appears clearly, even from Foreign Histories, that we had Kings before Fergus the II.

I cannot deny, but that in the Council of Constans, England and France were preferred to Scotland: but that proceeded, as Gothofred. observes, from the partiality of the Church of Rome, which always preferred those who were able to do them most Service; but if we consider the Principles of the Christian Religion: according to these, that Race ought to be preferred, whose Title is justest; and I am sure, that according to this Rule, Scotland ought to be preferred, for its Kings have not Usurped over the People which they governed. And not only does Religion consider this ground of Preference, as suteable to Devotion; but the Law considereth it, as suteable to Justice: And Lawyers have therefore thought a Succession of Kings, enjoying a just Title, free from Violence and Tyrrany, one of the chief Grounds of Preference and Precedency. And thus Vasquez. in præfat. ad illustres quæstiones, sayes, That multum ad nobilitatem & prælationem confert, ex veris & legittimis Regibus, & non a Tyrannis descendisse.

Nor does the Custome either of Courts or Councils, invert the Precedency which is founded upon Antiquity, and the right of Blood, from which Consuetude cannot derogat in the matter of Precedency, since that Consuetude is only respected in Law, quæ in se rationabilis juri nec naturæ nec gentium contrariatur: And likewayes since this matter of Precedency is setled by Lawyers, upon these solid Foundations, for securing the publick Peace and Intereſt of Mankind, it were unjust that the same should be so easily overthrown by the Partiality of interested Churchmen, or the Pride and Power of other Competing and Rival Princes; and therefore to secure the Rights of Justice and Blood, against all such Invasions, Lawyers have unanimously concluded, that Consuetudine induci non potest ut prior in dignitate præferatur posteriori, Cruse. de præmi. cap. 12. Which Principle they so far assert as to conclude, that this could not be conceded even by expres Paction, Rumellin. dissert. 1. thes. 18. even though that Paction were confirmed by an Oath, Rippa, ad l. 3. ff. de donat. And albeit it may seem that every Man may renounce that which is introduced in his own favours; yet to this it is answered, That Men cannot renounce what is introduced in their own favours, when that which they renounce was not principally introduced in their favours, but arose to them necessarily, by the Laws of Nature and Nations, or was introduced principally, in favours of the common interest of Mankind, rather than of them, and in which, third parties would likewise be concerned: All which is clear not only by the principles of Reason, but by L. 3. ff. de pactis, and it cannot be denyed, but that the Precedency from the Antiquity of Blood, is no such private Right as may be renounced, it being a Privilege not given by Law, but arising from Nature, Lex non data, sed nata, and introduced for regulating the common Intereſts of Mankind, and preventing their Differences or Oppreſſions; whereas how unfortunate or irregular ſhould Men be? If Subjects might force their Magiſtrates, or younger Brothers the elder, or ſtronger Princes the weaker, to renounce by Paction, or might ſcrue from them by Cuſtom and Inadvertance, the Seniority and Precedency due to them; whereas now, the impoſſibility of prevailing in ſuch Deſigns, takes happily away all luſting after them, and whatever may be aſcribed to Conſuetude or Deciſions, in that Precedency, which becauſe it ſprung meerly from Cuſtome, may be regulated by it, or in dubious Caſes, where a grain Weight may caſt a ballance; yet I ſee no Law nor Reaſon that can be adduced, for taking away by Deciſions, Negligence, or Conſuetude, a clear right of Precedency, founded upon the Antiquity of Blood. Eſpecially ſince all who writ upon Precedency are clear, That no Man can prejudge his Succeſſors, as to the Precedency due to them by Blood, Licet poſitus in dignitate ſuo ipſius facto, poſſit ſibi prejudicium afferre, non tamen præjudicare poteſt quoad ſucceſſores ſuos, Dec. conſil. 21. num. 74. vid. Gothofred. de præced. pag. 55. Rub. deciſ. 298. qui tradit ea quæ a genere & natura tribuuntur, non obſtante facto majorum manent incolumia. Which Rule ſhould rather hold in Kings than in any elſe, becauſe they are but Adminiſtrators. But in this Caſe, there is no Deciſion againſt our Kings, nor have they ever conſented to any ſuch Preference: And therefore whatever may be ſaid for others, againſt them, in a poſſeſſory Judgment, the matter of Right is ſtill intire.

Vaſquez the illuſtrious Spainiſh Lawyer, did, at the Council of Trent, adduce ſeveral Arguments for the Precedency of the King of Spain, which, if they were well founded, would I confeſs, inferr a Precedency to England and France, and which I ſhall the willinglier adduce and anſwer, that I have heard them urged for France and Spain, againſt the King of Britain; and becauſe they are the general Topicks and common Places, which are neceſſary to be known and underſtood for clearing not only the Precedency of Princes, but even of the Nobility and Gentry.

The firſt is, That theſe who are moſt powerful, and greateſt, ought ſtill to be preferred, c. ſtatuimus de major. & obed. and he muſt be accounted moſt powerful, who is moſt powerful, the time of the debate: Nam qualitas adjecta verbo, debet intelligi ſecundum tempus verbi, l. in dilectis § ſi extraneas ff. de noxalibus.

The ſecond is, That thoſe who command the nobleſt and beſt Subjects, are accounted the nobleſt and beſt, Authent. de defenſoribus civitatum § nos igitur.

3. Riches are the riſe and occaſion of Dignity, and therefore are the chief Grounds of Precedency amongſt Equals.

4. He is to be preferred in Dignity, whom generally Men eſteem the greateſt.

5. Since Honour is the Reward of pains, and dangers, thoſe who take moſt pains, and are lyable to moſt dangers for Chriſtendom, and the Chriſtian Faith, ought to have the precedency, in Chriſtendom, and amongſt Chriſtian Princes: and that pains and dangers are Grounds of Precedency, is urged from l. ſemper § negotiatores ff. de jur. immunitat.

6. As all Goodneſs is the Nobler, the more communicative it be, ſo theſe muſt be concluded the Nobleſt, by whom moſt people have Advantage: And therefore theſe Kings, under whom Trades flouriſh moſt, and who beſtow Sallaries upon, and give a livelyhood to moſt Men, ought by Mankind to be preferred.

To all which Arguments it is anſwered, that if preference were to be given by choice, and did not deſcend from the Right of Blood and Antiquity, then the former Arguments were indeed conſiderable, and ought to direct the Electors; but where the Antiquity of Blood can be inſtructed, it ſtill gives Precedency, as is clear from the Authors above cited. And thus though we do confeſs, that the Kingdoms of France and Spain, and particularly the Kingdom of England, are Richer, Greater, and more Conſiderable upon theſe Accounts, than Scotland is; yet ſince the Race of our Kings is more Ancient than either of theirs, I conclude, That therefore they ought to be preferred.

CHAP. III.

That the Crown of SCOTLAND was not ſubject to ENGLAND.

SOME Engliſh Hiſtorians, Lawyers, and Heralds, do too frequently abuſe the World with a moſt Groundleſs Tradition; by which they contend, That the Kings of Scotland were Vaſſals to the Kings of England, and did them Homage for the Crown of Scotland: Which if it were true, would have taken from the Kings of Scotland, not only the Precedency, for which I have been debating, but would have placed them after the Kings of Caſtile, and many others to whom they were preferred. And therefore, not only to remove this Objection, but to free my Country from this moſt unjuſt Imputation, I am Reſolved (with very much Reſpect to the Engliſh Nation, whoſe Wit, Courage, and Learning, I very much eſteem) to inform the Curious,

Curious, how unjuſt this pretence is; and to which I have been not only inclined, but forced, upon the Reading of a Rapſodie printed lately, by Mr. Prin, in Vindication (as he ſpeaks, pag. 487.) of the Dominion of the Engliſh Kings, againſt the Ungrate, Perfidious, and Rebellious Kings of Scotland. In which none of the Learned or Diſcreet Engliſh are concerned, ſince I find none who deſerve that praiſe, engaged in this Debate, which has been agitated only by ſuch of that excellent Nation, as have had more Humor than Diſcretion. I deny not, but that the Kings of Scotland did hold the Lands of Northumberland, Cumberland, and Weſtmerland, in capite, of the Crown of England, and that they did them Homage for it, which was not Diſhonourable to Scotland, that being moſt ordinary amongſt Soveraigne Princes: For thus, Henry King of England, and ſeveral others of their Kings, did Homage to Philip, and other Kings of France, for the Provinces poſſeſt by them in France; and the King of Spain does at this day Homage yearly to the Pope, for Naples and Sicily. And yet the Homage done for theſe Countrys, has been the occaſion of an ignorant Miſtake in ſome, and a malicious pretext for others, to miſrepreſent the Homage done for theſe Counties, as done for the Kingdom of Scotland. And the Occaſion of getting theſe Provinces from England, is too Honourable to be denyed by us; it being moſt undenyable, That the Scots being called in to aſſiſt firſt the Britans againſt the Romans, and thereafter the Saxons againſt the Danes, they had theſe Provinces beſtowed upon them, as a Reward of what they had done, and an Encouragement to them to continue their Friendſhip for the future. And by a Statute made by St. Edward, and ratified by William the Conquerour, as Holinſhed obſerves, the Scots were for that Service likewiſe, Naturalized Engliſh, for which Naturalization that Statute gives two Reaſons, one, quia omnes ferme Scoti proceres ex Anglis conjuges cœperunt; & ipſi rurſus ex Scotis; and the other was, quia ſimul & in unum contra Danos, & Norvegos atrociſſime pugnaverunt. But that the Kings of Scotland did hold the Crown of Scotland, as Vaſſals of England, or did Homage to the Kings of England therefore, will appear to be moſt falſe from the following Arguments; which muſt not be tryed by the Law of England, but by the Civil and Feudal Laws, which are now become the Laws of Nations, and are reverenc'd as the ſole Judges in all Differences betwixt Nation and Nation, and which muſt be preſumed equal to both Nations, ſince made by neither.

1. All Lands are preſumed to be free from Servitude, except the Servitude be clearly inſtructed; but much more are all Kingdoms preſumed to be free, ſince ex natura rei, Kings and Kingdoms are independent, & qualitas quæ ineſſe debet, ineſſe preſumitur,; and by how much the preſumptions are ſtrong, by ſo much ought the probation, which elids them be the ſtronger. And albeit all Domeſtick proof ought to be rejected in all caſes, as ſuſpect and partial; yet the Engliſh can adduce nothing, for obtruding this Servitude upon us, ſave the Teſtimonies of their own Hiſtorians, Lawyers, and Heralds.

2. The Natural and Legal way of proving any Man to be a Vaſſal, is by production of the Feudal Contract, betwixt the Superiour and Vaſſal; all Feus requiring neceſſarily writ in their Conſtitution: Nor can Vaſſalage be legally prov'd otherwiſe; whereas here the Engliſh can produce no formal, nor original Conſtitution of this Fue; ſuch as is to be ſeen betwixt the Pope, and the King of Spain, the Emperour, and the Princes of the Empyre, &c. For all they can adduce, is only poſteriour acknowledgements of this Vaſſalage, via facti, which is but a begging of the queſtion; and theſe, being but Acceſſories, and Conſequential Inferences, cannot ſubſiſt, except the original Conſtitution be firſt proved, no more then the payment of Feu Duties to a Superiour, either by Force, Ignorance, or Miſtake, could prove the Payer to be Vaſſal for the future, except the originall Feu were produced: And as this is neceſſary in Law, ſo it cannot be imagined in Reaſon, but that ſome Obligation in Writ, or Feudal Contract, would have been taken by the Engliſh, who were a very wiſe People, and conſulted very prudently their own Securities in every thing elſe: And if this Contract had been once entred into, it had been yet extant, ſince the Engliſh cannot alleadge, that ever they loſt any of their Monuments, or Records: And it is clear that we had Charters for theſe Lands we held in England, and that England had Charters at the ſame time for the Lands they held in France: And it is very obſerveable, that in the Reign of King Edward the 1. that King ſtiles himſelf, Rex, & ſuperior Dominus Regni Scotiæ, during his violent Uſurpation over Scotland; whereas never any King of England did ſo formerly: And yet, if they had had any ſuch Pretenſions, they had aſſumed the ſame Titles; but this imaginary Title began, and ended with the Force, which only maintained it.

3. The Engliſh cannot condeſcend upon any Reaſon, which might have prevailed with the Scots to have become Vaſſals to England, nor any particular time when they firſt became Vaſſals; and all they can alleadge is, That upon ſome impreſſions of Force, ſome of our own Kings being Priſoners, or ſome of our People being oppreſt, they did elicite from them Acknowledgements of a Vaſſalage, formerly ſtated: Whereas Force, renders all acknowledgements null; and that theſe acknowledgments were null upon many other Accounts, and that the Kings of England have been forced, to grant the like to other Princes, ſhall be proved clearly, in anſwer to the Inſtances which the Engliſh adduce.

4. Scotland has been habite, and repute, and acknowledged to be a free Monarchy, and their Kings Independent and Supreme; and that not only by all Foreign Princes, (the beſt Judges in this Caſe) who have received and preferred their Ambaſſa-

Ambaſſadours, as the Ambaſſadours of free Princes, but even in General Councils, the King of Scotland has been preferred to the Kings of Caſtile, Hungary, Pole, Navarr, Cyprus, Bohemia, Denmark; and thus they were ranked by Pope Julius the II. Ann. 1504. vid. Reſold. ſinop. doct. politicæ. lib. 20. cap. 10. Which could not have been done, if he had been only a Feudatory Prince; ſince all free Princes are preferred to feuditory Princes: Yea, and if Scotland had been Vaſſals to England, for the Crown of Scotland, the Kings of England had certainly craved, and obtained the Precedency from other Kings upon that Account, ſince he had been Rex Regum. And ſince France craved to be preferred to Spain, becauſe the King of England was his Vaſſal, as Chaſſanæus obſerves, part 5. conſider. 19. ſo much rather ought the Kings of England to be preferred; becauſe they might have alledged, that there was a Crown holden of them, whereas they held only ſome Feu-Lands of the Kings of France.

5. Not only Chriſtian Princes and Councils, but even Popes have declared Scotland to be a Free Kingdom, and Independant from England. And thus Pope Honorius allowed to Scotland, That its Subjects ſhould not be obliged to anſwer, by way of Appeal, to any Court without their own Kingdom, ſalva ſolummodo authoritate ſedis Apoſtolicæ. 2. Edward King of England having petitioned Pope Innocent the IV. that the Kings of Scotland might not be Anoynted or Crowned, without his Knowledge, quod non poſſet ſe facere, ipſo inſcio in Regem coronari vel inungi, the ſaid Pope did refuſe the ſame, preſentibus procuratoribus parium in Conſilio Lugdunenſi, ſatis per hoc determinans Regnum Scotiæ Regno Angliæ non ſubeſſe. 3. The King of England having likewiſe petitioned the ſame Pope Innocent, that he might have Liberty to Collect the Tiths of Scotland, ſince he had Right terrarum omnium ſuæ juriſdictioni ſubjectarum, the ſame was alſo refuſed. 4. Pope Boniface the VIII. does in a Letter to Edward King of England, Declare, That ad celſitudinem regiam potuit perveniſſe, qualiter ab antiquis temporibus, &c. quodque Regnum Scotiæ (ſicut accepimus) a progenitoribus tuis, Regni Angliæ Regibus feudale non extitit, nec exiſtit, &c. The Copy of which Letter I have at preſent. And Duchesne writing the Hiſtory of Great Britain, does pag. 661. relate, That le meſme Pape renvoya d' autres Lettres au roy d'Angleterre, pour ſouſtenir que le royaume de Eſcoſſe ne dependoit point d' Angleterre, & que contre le droit Divin, & la juſtice il s' en vindicoit la ſubjection. That is to ſay, The ſame Pope ſent Letters at the ſame time, to the King of England, in which he maintained, That the Kingdom of Scotland was no way ſubject to that Kingdom; and that his ſeeking to ſubject it to him as ſuperiour, was contrare to the Law of GOD and Men.

6. By the Feudal Law and Law of Nations, a Vaſſal cannot Mortifie any part of his Feu, without the conſent of his Superiour; becauſe the Superiour, by the Mortification, looſes the Services due to him out of his Feu, Church-men being obliged to no reddendo, but Preces & Vota: And therefore in all Mortifications made by Vaſſals, the Superiours Confirmation is ſtill required; and it cannot be imagined, but that if Scotland had been a Feu holding of England, the Popes, their Conclaves, and the Monaſtries themſelves, would have fought Confirmations from the Kings of England, of the Mortifications made by the Kings and Subjects of Scotland, there being more Erections of that kind in Scotland, than in any Nation of equal Revenue; and yet never any ſuch Confirmation was fought or pretended to: But on the contrare the Pope ſtill confirms theſe Erections, as made per Regiis Scotiæ, as he does in all other Nations; or the Kings of Scotland confirm theſe Erections, if they be made by any of his Vaſſals: And it is obſervable, that the Pope does in theſe Confirmations deſigne our King, Regem Scotiæ, and not Scotorum.

7. The Hiſtorians alſo of other Nations, did concurr with thoſe of our Nation in aſſerting this Freedom; and thus Arniſæus, the beſt Lawyer who has writ upon theſe politick Queſtions, does look upon this pretence, as a meer fiction, lib. 1. cap. 5. Anglus Scotorum regem habebat ſibi fiduciarium ſive ratione aliquot regionum, ſive ratione ipſius regni, ut nimis audacter aſſerit. Math. Steph. Nam hæc vetuſtate temporis, & obſcuritate authorum ſunt incerta. And Duchesne pag. 21. ſpeaking of Scotland, aſſerts poſitively, That its Kings does recognoſce no Superiour but GOD, and is every way a Soveraign Prince, notwithſtanding of the old pretentions of England, Le Roy le poſſede en toute ſouverainté ſans recognoiſtre au cun ſuperieur que dieu, bien que c' eſtoit ancienne prætenſion des Anglois, que le Roy D'escoſſe eſt vaſſal de leur couronne.

8. Not only have forreign Princes, General Councils, and the Lawyers and Hiſtorians of other Nations, declared Scotland to be a free Kingdom, but even the Kings of England, have acknowledged this freedom and independency; as may appear by theſe inſtances. 1. The King and Parliament of England, have treated with the Ambaſſadours of Scotland; whereas no Superiour can treat with his own Vaſſal, as a Forreigner; nor can a Vaſſal ſend Ambaſſadours to his Superiour; for an Ambaſſadour muſt be equal to him, to whom he is ſent, and is, in Law, no way lyable to his Juriſdiction. And this is, amongſt others, the Opinion of Alberic. Gentil. an Engliſh Lawyer, de Legationibus l. 2. c. 10. And it is clear from Liv. lib. 6. & lib. 43. 2. King Henry of England, being to enter upon a War with Simeon, Earl of Leiſter, did intreat Supply from Alexander King of Scots; and leſt this might inferr any Acknowledgment of his Superiority, he did by Letters under his Hand, and by his Ambaſſadours publickly declare, that he did not crave this Aid as Superiour, to which Superiority he had no pretence. 3. The ſame King Alexander, being invited to aſſiſt at the Coronation of King Edward, and being unwilling to go there, leſt it might inferr an acknowledgment, King Edward did declare, Quod non ex Debito, sed ex Gratia tantummodo hoc petebat. 4. The same King Alexander, being to make homage in England to King Edward, for the Lands of Penrith and Tindale, which he held of King Edward, he did publickly protest, Quod non pro Regno Scotiæ, sed pro terris in Angliæ, dictum Homagium faciebat, Rexque iste Angliæ hujusmodi Homagium admisit: per quod præsumitur talia fuisse, & similia prius facta homagia, Regno Angliæ per Reges Scotiæ: Nam talia fuisse præsumitur, quale fuit illud declaratum & expositum Homagium; nam talia sunt subjecta, qualia prædicata admittunt. Which are the very Words used in the Answer made by the Scots, before the Pope, where all the former four instances are fully discussed, and were offered to be proved by Witnesses, beyond all Exception; the Writs themselves having been designedly taken away by King Edward. And Fordon has in his History, unprinted Copies of several Letters, written by the said Pope Boniface and others, declaring that those Instances consisted in their knowledge; and some of those Instances are fully repeated by Ducheſne pag. 661. who is to be believed, since he is a Stranger: And even Matthew Paris, a Learned English Historian does declare, That King Richard the I. did, when he was going to the Holy War, disclaim this pretended Superiority over Scotland, Ann. 1188. Which Disclamation is likewise observed by Hovedean, another Historian of the same Nation: And when Matthew Paris speaks of the Homage done to the King of England, he makes it only to be for his Lands in England, Rex Scotorum Willielmus, fecit Homagium Regi Anglorum Ricardo de jure suo in Anglia. Which is ordinarly the Stile used by Historians, when they writ of this Subject: And thus Ducheſne sayes, that Alexander made Homage to Henry the III, for his Possessions in England, but refused to make him Homage for Scotland; and that King Alexander sent a Cartell to King Henry, for asserting that he had made him Homage for Scotland. The Copy of the Homage is yet extant at Rome, and the minute of it is thus expreſt, in the Records of our old Abbacies, Memorandum, anno Gratiæ milesimo ducentesimo septuagesimo octavo, Apostolorum Simonis & Judæ apud Westmonasterium, Alexander Rex Scotiæ, fecit Homagium domino Edwardo Regi Angliæ, filio Regis Henrici sub his verbis, Ego devenero hominem vestrum pro Terris, quas de vobis teneo in Regno Angliæ, de quibus Homagium vobis debeo, salvo regno meo; tunc dixit Episcopus Norvicensis, & salvum sit Regi Angliæ, si jus habuerit ad homagium vestrum de regno; cui Rex statim respondit, aparte dicens, ad homagium regni mei Scotiæ nullus jus habet, nisi solus DEUS, nec de ullo teneo nisi solo DEO. 4. King Alexander having dyed without Males, Edward the I. treated for a Marriage betwixt Margaret, Princess of Scotland, called the Maid of Norway, and Edward his Son: In which there are many pregnant Acknowledgments of this Freedom, Volentes & concedentes, quod deficientibus prædictis Edwardo & Margarita, vel eorum altero, absque Liberis extantibus, in omni casu & eventu, in quo ad proximiores hæredes Regium prædictum debeat de jure reverti, integre habere, absolute absque ulla subjectione, revertatur & restituatur iisdem. And in the close of that Paper it is said, That there shall be no prejudice done to either of the Kingdoms, Quin libere habeant statum suum: And in the Deputation given by the Governours of Scotland, dated at Melross, Ann. 1289. for treating that Marriage, this expreſs Reservation is insert, Salvis tamen in omnibus & singulis, & per omnia, Libertate & Honore Regni Scotiæ: Which Reservation is likewise insert, in a Warrand granted by King Edward, for treating the said Marriage. And it is observable, That in all the Scottish Addresses to him, and accepted by him, he is only designed Rex Angliæ, Dominus Hiberniæ, & Dux Aquitanæ, but never designes himself, Dominus superior Scotiæ, till after the War; which shews, that his airie Title was very unjust.

9. As the Kings of England have acknowledged the Scots to be no Vassals, so have their Laws and Lawyers. For it is contended by these, That the Scots were Aliens to England, and could not have succeeded to any Estate in England, without being Naturalized; whereas alibi genitura, presupposes, that the alibi nati, are not Vassals: For this jus alibi genituræ, called by the French, droit d' aubeyne, is settled upon this Maxime of the Feudal Law, That because Feus are granted by Over-lords or Superiours, upon designe and promises, that their Vassals shall serve them upon all occasions, against all persons, and never reveal their secrets, nor conceal what may be their disadvantage; therefore Feudalists do justly conclude, That no Man can be Leidge Man to two supreme Superiours or Over-lords, because these Duties are impreſtable to both; seing the Secrets of the one, may be incompatible with the Safety of the other, and they may, by warring one against another, distract the Alleadgeance of their Vassal. And becaus Men are more prone to serve their Native Prince, then others, therefore Strangers are alwayes suspect, nor have they allowance to sell the Feus, to which they succeed, lest they should carry away the price out of the Country, and possibly imploy it against the same Country. Which principle seems at first to have flowed from the Roman Law, by which, the Goods of Strangers dying in Rome, fell to the Exchequer or Fisk, & fiebant caduca. With this foundation of the Feudal Law, founded upon so clear Reason, do the Customs of other Nations agree; who account not these Aliens, who live under the same Alleadgeance: Thus Rageau pag. 67. Aubaine sont estrangers, nais en pais, qui n' est pa de la soveraignete de la Courounne de France. Vid. Bacquet. du droit d' aubeyne, Printed in the Year 1557. And by the Custom of Milain, (the experteſt Feudalists of all the World) alibi genitura extends not to any, who have sworn Alleadgeance, and live within the Spainish Dominions, though not within Milan:

lan: Since then the Engliſh would not allow us the Right of Succeſſion, nor the other Benefits due naturally to Subjects, it was ſtrangely monſtruous and repugnant, that they deſigned to make the World believe that we were Subjects.

It is alſo very remarkable, that if our Kingdom had been only a Feu holding of England, our Nobility could not have Precedency from others, according to their Antiquity; for all the Nobility of the Superiour Kingdom ought, in the opinion of ſuch as writ of Precedency, to be preferred to theſe, who live in the Vaſſal-kingdom.

10. If Scotland had been a Feu to England, the King of England as Superiour, would have had the keeping of our young Princes, and the diſpoſing of them in Marriage, and the Feu would have been in his Hand, during their Minority, that being implyed in the Right of proper Feus, by the Feudal Law: And this muſt be preſumed to have been a proper Feu, as all Feus are preſumed to be, except the Vaſſal can prove, that the Nature of the Feu was impropriated for the Vaſſals Advantage. But yet no King of England did ever pretend, to the Guardianſhip of our young Princes, nor to name Governours during their Minority: But on the contrare, Alexander King of Scotland, having left only a young Princeſs, called Margaret, who was Nice to the King of England, he did not pretend to the keeping of the young Princes, but intreated that ſhe might be married, to Edward the Second his Son; and that if there ſhould be no Iſſue of that Marriage, Scotland ſhould remain a free Kingdom, as it was formerly, independent from all pretentions of the Kings of England: Which is likewiſe another acknowledgement, made by the Kings of England themſelves, of the independency of Scotland. And if the Kings of England had been Superiours of Scotland, there would have been ſome Veſtige of this Superiority, to be ſeen in our Laws; whereas all our Laws call ſtill our Crown, the Imperial Crown of Scotland: Or in our Coyne, all Coyns bearing ſome Impreſſions from the Superiour. And the Kings of England might have remanded from our Courts, or out of our Country, ſuch as had committed Crimes againſt their Kings, or Laws: It being an undoubted principle of the Feudal Law, That qui habet dominium directum, poteſt juriſdictionem ſuam explicare, tam in territorio Vaſſalli, quam in ſuo: habet enim dominus juriſdictionem cumulativam cum Vaſſallo. But ſo it is, that it can never be alleadged, That the Kings of England offered to exerce any Juriſdiction in Scotland, or did require any Criminals, who had fled into Scotland, to be delivered up to them: Nor did ever the Engliſh pretend to puniſh ſuch Scotſmen, as were taken fighting againſt them abroad, as Traitors, and Guilty of Treaſon; as certainly they would have done, if they had been Vaſſals to England: But on the contrair, the Engliſh did alſo ranſome them, and uſe them every way, as they did other Strangers and Forreigners.

11. The Scots having intended a Declarator of Freedome againſt Edward the I. King of England, the Proceſs was delegated by Pope Boniface the VIII. to Baldredus, one of the greateſt Lawyers of that time, who conſidered very fully, the Reaſons proponed hinc inde, by both Parties; and having made a full Report to the Pope, the Pope did very ſharply reprove the King of England, and declared, that Scotland did not depend upon it any manner of way; and that the Engliſh had attacked Scotland moſt unjuſtly, againſt all both Divine and humane Laws; as Ducheſne obſerves pag. 66. The Letter it ſelf that was writ to the King of England, with all the Proceſs (which was called Proceſſus Baldredi) being yet extant, in Fordons Chronicle: And it cannot be denyed, but that England might have expected much more Favour, from the Pope, than Scotland could; ſince they payed him a conſtant Revenue, called Peters pence, and ſince England was known to afford much greater Caſualties to the Pope, then could have been expected from this Kingdom.

In ſtating the Arguments, which are propoſed by the Engliſh, for proving that the Kings of Scotland were Vaſſals, for their Crown, to England; I ſhall begin with theſe, which were inſiſted upon by King Edward the I. in the former proceſs.

The firſt was, That Brutus, deſcended from the Trojans, did conquer Britain, and divided it amongſt his three Sons, to the Eldeſt of whom, called by Hiſtorians Locrin, or Locuus, as he is termed in that Proceſs, he left Logria, now called England: To the Second, called Albanactus, he left Albanie, now called Scotland: To the Third, called Camber, he left Cambria, now called Wales. But Humbert King of the Huns, having killed Albanactus, Locrin the elder, to revenge his Brothers Death, did kill Humbert, and reunite Albanie to Logria or England.

The ſecond was, That Dunvall King of the Britans killed Staterius King of Scotland, who rebelled againſt him, and became Maſter of the whole Iſle; which Dunvall having two Sons, Belinus and Brounus, he left the Superiority of Scotland with England, to the eldeſt, and the property only of Scotland to the ſecond.

The third was, That Arthur King of the Britans, having overcome Scotland, he gave that Kingdom to Anguſell, who acknowledged him as his Superiour, and carried the Sword before him.

The fourth was, That Aldeſtan King of England, having conquered Conſtantine King of Scotland, did pray to GOD, that by the interceſſion of St. John de Benlaco, he might by a Miracle, be declared the juſt Superiour of Scotland: Whereupon he did ſtrick with his Sword, at a Rock near Dumbar, and made a Gape in it a full yard in length.

The fifth was, That William King of Scotland, did acknowledge himſelf Vaſſal, to William the Conquerour; Alexander King of Scots, acknowledged himſelf Vaſſal to King Henry: And that the Nobility of Scotland called in the ſaid Edward, to arbitrate the Differences betwixt the Bruce and Baliol.

Peter

Peter Heylen, speaking of Scotland in his Geographie pag. 1289. affirms, That the Kings of Scotland were still Vassals to the Crown of England; which he endeavours to confirm by these Arguments. 1. By the Homages, Services, and other Duties, done by the Kings of Scotland, to those of England: Malcome the III. doing Homage to William the Conquerour, as William one of his Successors, did to Henry the II. and that not only for three Counties in the North of England, or the Earldome of Huntingdoun (as is by some pretended) but for the very Crown it self: Kenneth the III. being also one of those Titulary or Vassal Kings, who rowed King Edgar over the Dee. 2. By the interposing of King Edward the I. and the Submission of the Scots to that interposing, in determining the Contraverse of Succession, betwixt Bruce and Baliol: As in the like case, Philip the Fair adjudging the Title of Artoys, which was holden of the Crown of France, and then in question betwixt the Lady Mawd, and her Nephew Robert: Or as King Edward the III. in the Right of the said Crown of France, determined of the Controverse, betwixt John Earl of Montford, and Charles of Bluis, for the Dukedom of Bretaigne. 3. By the Confession, and Acknowledgment of Prelats, Peers, and others the Estates of Scotland, subscribed by all their Hands and Seals, in the Roll of Ragman; wherein they did acknowledge the Superiority of the Kings of England, not only in regard of such Advantages, as the Sword had given him, but as his original and undoubted Right: Which Roll was treacherously delivered into the Hands of the Scots, by Roger Mortimer, Earl of March, in the begining of the Reign of King Edward the III. 4. By the tacite Confession of the Kings themselves, who in their Coyns, Commissions, and publick Instruments, assume not to themselves the Title of Kings of Scotland, but of Reges Scotorum, or the Kings of the Scots, and thereby intimating, that though they are Kings of the Nation, yet there is some Superiour Lord (King Paramount as we may call him) who hath the Royalty of the Land. 5. By the Judgements, Arrests of the Courts of England, not only the Times of King Edward the I. but in sometimes since: For when William Wallace, a Scotsman by birth, and the best Souldier of that Country, was taken Prisoner, and brought to London, he was adjudged to suffer Death as a Traitor; which had been illegal and unrighteous Judgment, had he been a Prisoner of War, and not lookt upon by the Judges as subject to the Crown of England. The like done in the case of Simeon Frazill, another of that Kingdom, in the same Kings Reign. In like manner, in the time of King Edward the III. it was resolved in the Court, in the Lord Beaumonts Case, when it was objected, That one of the Witnesses was a Scot, and therefore as an Alien not to give his Evidence, that his Testimony was to be allowed, because the Scots, in the Law of England, did not go for Aliens. And when one, indicted for a Rape, in the thirteenth Year of Queen Elizabeth's Reign, desired a medietatem linguæ, because he was a Scotsman, and so an Alien; it was denyed him by the Court, because the Scots were not reputed here as Aliens, but as Subjects rather. So also, when Robert Umframville, Lord of Kyme, was summoned to the Parliament of England, in the Reign of King Edward III. by the Name of Robert Earl of Angus, which is a Dignity in Scotland; and after in a Writ against him, was called by his own Name of Umframville, without any addition of that Honour, the Writ was adjudged to abate; which I conceive, the Learned Judges had not done, if Scotland had not been reputed, to be under the Vassalage of the Kings of England. 6. And lastly, By a Charter of Lands and Arms, which I have in my Custody, granted by King Edward the I. in the last year of his Reign, to Peter Dodge of Stopworth, in the Countie of Chester, one of the Ancestors of my Mother: In which it is expresst, that the said Lands and Arms were conferred upon him, by that King, for his eminent Services encontre son grand enemi & rebel Baliol King of Scotland, and Vassal of England.

In Answer to these Objections, founded upon the Reign of Brutus; I need say no more, save that Cambden, and the other Learned English Writers, do look upon the same, as a meer fiction. And for proving the Crown of Scotland to hold of England, there must be authentick Documents in Writ produced, as has been formerly debated: And this does sufficiently answer all that is said of Bellinus, King Arthur, &c. But to refute these Fictions, and to show how much of Cheat is in all these Contrivances, I need only cite a Passage, from the Learned Aylet Semmes, in his Britannia antiqua, pag. 159. whose Words are,

" That which gave some Authority to this " Fiction, was the use King Edward the I. made " of it in vindicating his Title to Scotland, against " the pretence of Pope Boniface, and the Church " of Rome, who laid Claim to that Kingdom by " ancient Right, as part of St. Peter's Patrimony, " and that Churches Demesne. It appears, that " the Monks and Friers had a great Hand, in " making out this Title by Brute, which Story " was now new vampt, and from all parts sent " out of these Shops, where at first it had been " forged and hammered out. And this doth more " evidently appear, if we consider many other " parts of the same Letter, as it is found in the " Records cited by Mr. Prin; but especially that " Miracle of King Adelstane, who (in perpetuam rei memoriam) to give an evident signe of " his Right to Scotland, with his Sword, struck " a blow upon a Rock near Dumbar, that he Cleft " it at least an Elne wide.

As to the Homage made by King Malcome, to William the Conquerour, it is answered, That the matter of Fact is absolutely denyed: And not only do our Historians, and the Historians of Forreigners, mention no such submission, but they do on the contrair, relate, That William the Conquerour having come with a Designe to conquer Scotland, he was forced by Malcome King of Scotland land to a Peace, very Honourable and Advantageous for Scotland; one Article whereof was, That William the Conquerour ſhould reſtore ſuch of the Engliſh Nobility, as had fled to Scotland for ſhelter, to their Eſtates and Honours. And how can it be imagined, that Scotland being then very Unite, and living under a moſt warlike Prince, would have ſubmitted to a King, who had too much to do at home; or that King Malcome would have ſubmitted to him, whom he forced to reſtore even the Engliſh, who had rebelled againſt him. And as the Conſtitution of Vaſſalage requires Writ, ſo if any ſuch Vaſſalage had been acknowledged, he had accepted of a Charter holding of the Conquerour, as all other Vaſſals did.

As to King William's Homage to Henry the II. it is Anſwered, That William having been treacherouſly made Priſoner, he was forced by long and tedious Impriſonment, to make this Homage; and conſequently, the Homage it ſelf was null, being extorted by Force, and made by a Perſon who was not ſui juris, being in Priſon. It being certain by the Laws of all Nations, That Deeds done by Priſoners are null; but eſpecially in this Caſe, where the Deed was ſuch, as that it would have been null however. For even the moſt abſolute Kings, are ſo far from being able to alienate their Kingdom, or enſlave it, that by ſo doing, (as ſome ſay) they forfeit their own Right, and make the Throne void for the next Succeſſour, who is not obliged by what they have done. And if any ſuch Act as this were binding, then England, by the ſame Argument, had remained a Feu of the Empyre; ſince Richard the I. their King did Homage to Henry the Emperour, for England, and King John his Brother, did the like Homage to the Pope, and offered to hold England, in capite, of Murmelius a Sarazen. King Edgar's being rowed over the Dee, by Kenneth King of Scotland, is taken off by the former Anſwer, though it were true as it is not, nor can it be made appear, by a Chronological Computation, if the Enquiry were worth our pains.

The great Inſtance founded upon the Homage made by the Baliol, is as weak, ſince it is known, that King Robert the Bruce refuſed to do Homage to King Edward, chooſing rather to want a Crown, then to be a Vaſſal for it: But John Baliol the other Competitor, preferring his Ambition to his Native Country, was therefore juſtly diſowned by the Nobility, who (as Ducheſne a Stranger to us obſerves) ſent Ambaſſadours to King Edward, to ſhow him that they did Revoke, and Diſown the Homage made by the Baliol, and aſſerted their primitive Liberty. And ſo hateful an Act was this eſteemed in him, that he loſed the Crown by it; whereas had this pretence of England been founded upon any Juſtice, it would never have been ſo ſeverely either oppoſed or puniſhed. But though Baliol had been a lawful King as he was not (King Robert the Bruce's Title being preferable in Law;) yet could not the Baliol have ſubjected the Kingdom in Vaſſalage to England, ſince by the Feudal Law, a Superiour cannot ſuperinduce or interpoſe another Superiour, nec ſine Vaſſalli conſenſu alienare jus ſuum directum, c. 1. § ex eodem deſcendit de Leg. Lotharii. And though ſome debate, that by ſuch Alienations of the Superiority, the Superiour forfeits his Right, yet all agree that the Alienation is null; nulla & irrita, D. D. in cap. imperialem § præterea de prohibit. alien. per Fredric. Curt. p. 16. num. 3. & latiſſime Roſenth. cap. 9. concluſ. 62.

Whereas it is pretended, That the Parliament of Scotland conſented; it is Anſwered, That any Parliamentary Conſent is altogether denyed: For though we have exact Records of all our Parliaments, yet there is not ſo much as Mention made amongſt all our Statutes or Books, of any Parliament held by John Baliol. And albeit Prin has publiſhed all the Records, which the Engliſh have upon this Subject, yet he dares not ſo much as aſſert, much leſs produce the Copy of any ſuch Act of Parliament: And certainly if there had been ſuch an Act of Parliament, not only the Records of that Parliament, but that particular Act had been carefully preſerved and publiſhed; and that this Parliament and Statute is a meer Fiction, appears not only by our own, but Forreigne Hiſtorians. And it is not imaginable, that the greater part of the Nobility and Kingdom, having immediately diſowned the Baliol, for acknowledging this Subjection, that they would themſelves have ratified it in a free Parliament. But though this were true as it is not, yet there is not any Kingdom ſo Loyal, Happy, or Invincible, but ſome few Cowards or Rogues may be found in it, who may aſſume the Name of a Parliament, and diſown the true Intereſt of the Kingdom, without any Warrand from the People for that effect. And I would very willingly know, if England remains ſtill Vaſſal to the Pope, becauſe a Monk prevailed with King John, to hold his Crown of him? Or if Portugal ſhould not be acknowledged a free Crown, becauſe Spain did once elicite from them a National Conſent, by Force of Arms? Or if theſe three or four pretended Engliſh Parliaments, who acknowledged Oliver Cromwel the Uſurper, did ſettle a Legal Right upon him by their Concourſe? Nor did Preſcription Supply here the Original illegality of the Conſent; for the Scots did immediately reclame, and did within much fewer Years, than Preſcription requires, reſtore themſelves to their Liberty, under the Conduct of that Glorious Prince, King Robert the Bruce, for whom GOD did ſo Miraculous things, as did convince the World, how much the LORD of Hoſts deteſted the Bribry, and Cruelty of King Edward the I. Et ita res facile redeunt ad ſuam naturam, & quæ mox rediit divertiſſe non videtur.

But to ſhow how great Averſion even that Generation had, for any ſuch Submiſſion to the Engliſh Monarchy, I have ſet down the Copy of a Letter yet extant, under all the Seals of our Nobility, directed to Pope John, in Anno 1320. Wherein they Declare, That if their King ſhould offer to ſubmit to England, they would diſown him, him, and chuſe another. Nor that the power of Electing Kings, was ever thought to Reſide in our Nobility: But becauſe it was repreſented to them, as the Opinion of all Lawyers, that a King could not alienat his Kingdom, or ſubmit himſelf by his ſole Conſent, to a Forreigne Prince: Since by that Alienation and Submiſſion, he does Forfeit his Right to the Crown. As to which Letter likewiſe I think fit to obſerve, to prevent any Miſtake as to the Calculation of the number of our Kings, that the Writers thereof have, as is uſual with us, numbred amongſt our Kings ſuch of the Royal Family, as were for the time Regents or Viceroys. The Letter follows.

Datum apud Monaſterium de Aberbrothock in Scotia, ſexto die Aprilis, Anno Gratiæ mileſimo treſcenteſimo viceſimo, Anno vero Regni Regis noſtri ſupra dicti, quintodecimo.

This anſwers likewiſe Ragman's Roll; nor are we to conſider who conſented to Slavery: Since it is known that not only the Dowglaſs, the Grahame, and Wallace, but Thouſands of others, never yielded even to that ſhort Impreſſion: And their Country preſerved its Priviledges, by their Loyalty; it being an undoubted Principle in Law, That in re pari potior eſt conditio prohibentis, & in re communi nemo dominorum juri quicquam facere poteſt invito altero, l. ſubimus ff. ad exhibendum.

To that Argument by which it is urged, That our Kings did never aſſume the Title of Kings of Scotland, but called themſelves only Kings of Scots, It is Anſwered, That the Argument is very Ridiculous; for firſt it is founded upon a falſe Suppoſition, it being moſt evident from our Writs in the Reign of King David the Maiden, that our King was entituled, Rex Scotiæ; but in the Confirmation of the Abbacy of Aberbrotheck, King William is called Rex Scotiæ, and his Queen Regina Scotiæ. Likeas in that Regiſter, there is a Charter granted by King John of England, wherein ad petitionem Willielmi Regis Scotiæ, he grants a Liberty to the Monks of Aberbrotbick, to Tranſport their Goods through England, free from Cuſtome: And Matth. Par. in many Treatiſes related by him, gives them that Title: And Pope Innocent the III. in an expreſs Reſcript in the body of the Canon Law cap. 4. decret. de immunit Eccleſ. writes Innocentius III. Illuſtri Regi Scotiæ, which behoved to be to King William, who did reign in that Popes time. Nor is this Argument from the Deſignation concluding, ſince it is not convertible; For even Feudatory Kings did, and do aſſume their Deſignation from the Kingdom they hold, as the Kings of Naples, Sicily, &c. Which evinces that it follows not neceſſarily, that the Kings of theſe Kingdoms were Feudatory Kings; becauſe they were deſigned Reges Scotorum, and not Scotiæ. And in many places of his Hiſtory Matth. Paris calls the Kings of England, Reges Anglorum, as in the whole Lives of King John, Henry the III.

It appears alſo, by the former Tranſaction betwixt Edward the I, and the Governours of Scotland, that Margaret is even by the King of England, conſtantly Deſigned Regina ac Domina Scotiæ: And I obſerve, that in the Contract of Marriage, betwixt Henry the VII. for his Daughter Queen Margaret, and James the IV. that ſometimes the King of Scotland is called Rex Scotorum, and ſometimes Rex Scotiæ, in the ſame Paper; and the Commiſſion granted by the King of Scotland, for compleating that Marriage, is called Commiſſio regis Scotiæ pro matrimonio; in all which Contract, the King of Scotland is called, Chariſſimus noſter frater, a Title never granted to a Feudatory King by his Superiour, and the People of Scotland, are there called Subditi Regis Scotiæ, whereas if the King of Scotland, had been only a Feudatory Prince, we had been Subjects to the King of England, and not to the King of Scotland. And there needs no other Argument againſt Heylen, to prove that the Kings of Scotland, were oft-times called Reges Scotiæ, than the Inſtance brought by himſelf, of the Charter granted by King Edward the I. to Peter Dodge, wherein Baliol is confeſſed by himſelf to be called Roy de Eſcoſſe, King of Scotland: And this proves that the ſaid Heylen layes down Grounds, which are not only falſe, but inconſiſtent. But ſecondly, though this were true, yet it proves nothing; ſeing the Goths and Picts were a free People; and yet their Kings were called Reges Pictorum & Gothorum, which Phraſe was ordinary amongſt Conquering Nations, ſuch as the Scots were, whoſe Princes having at firſt no fixed Kingdom, did, whilſt their People were ſpreading themſelves in Collonies, rather aſſume a Title from the People, than from their Country. And ſeing Men are Vaſſals and not Land, it will follow, according to the Terms uſed by Feudaliſts, that ſeing our Kings were Reges Scotorum, that therefore the Men were not Vaſſals; and ſo they hold not their Land of the Crown of England, nor were ejus ſubvaſſalli, aut Valvaſſores.

The Argument urged from many Deciſions in England, finding that we were puniſhable as Traitors in England, and that we were lookt upon as Subjects and not as Aliens, by their Judges, deſerves no other Anſwer, then that ſince their Kings by their Power, could not make us Vaſſals, neither ther could their Parliaments or Judges treat us as ſuch; And if their Gown-men could have made us ſuch, they needed not have imployed Arms to have ſhed ſo much Blood in the Quarrel: Nor can ſuch Domeſtick Teſtimonies prove in a caſe of ſo great importance. And yet even the Engliſh Proceedings againſt thoſe of our Nation ſhows, that their own Judicatories and Lawyers, conſider us not as Vaſſals, but as the Subjects of a free and independent Kingdom. And amongſt many other Inſtances, I ſhall only remember that of Queen Mary, againſt whom that Nation proceeded not as a Vaſſal, but as a perſon who had made her ſelf lyable to their Juriſdiction, ratione loci delicti. Which is very clear by Zouch. de judicio, inter gentes, part. 2. ſect. 6. whoſe very words I have here ſet down, to prove not only this, but that the Kings of Scotland were abſoluti, and equal to, and independent from thoſe of England, being both pares & abſoluti principes, His words are, Erant boni rerum Eſtimatores, qui aſperius cum illa actum affirmabant, eo quod fuerit Princips libera & abſoluta, in quam ſolius Dei ſit Imperium, quod in majeſtatem peccare non poſſet, cui ſubdita non fuerit quod par in parem non habeat poteſtatem, unde judicium Imperatoris in Robertum Siciliæ regem, irritum pronunciatum eſt, quia Imperio ejus non eſſet ſubditus. Alii aliter cenſebant, illam ſcilicet, ſubditam eſſe etſi non originariam, tamen temporariam; Quia duo abſoluti principes quoad authoritatem, in uno Regno eſſe non poſſunt; parem in parem habere poteſtatem, quoties paris judicio ſe ſubmiſerit, vel expreſſe verbis, vel tacite contrahendo, vel delinquendo, intra paris ſcilicet juriſdictionem, & Papam ſententiam Imperatoris in Robertum Siculum reſcidiſſe, quod factum in territorio Imperiali non fuerit, ſed Papali. Denique nullum magnum extare exemplum, quod non aliquid ex iniquo habeat. And in the Proceſs againſt the Biſhop of Roſs, as it is related both by the Forreign Lawyers, and by Cambden, it clearly appears that he was proceeded againſt, not as a Subject of England, but as a meer ſtranger, who not being ſubject ratione originis, became ſubject ratione delicti, as they alleadged. And the Learned Author of the late jus maritimum, pag. 451. having ſpoken of the Juriſdiction of England over Ireland, has theſe words, "But in Scotland it is otherwayes, for "that is a Kingdom abſolute, and not like Ire-"land, which is a Crown annexed by Conqueſt, "but the other is by Union: And though they "be United under one Prince ad fidem, yet their "Laws are diſtinct, ſo as they had never been "United; and therefore the Execution of the "Judgements in each other, muſt be done upon "Requeſt, and that according to the Law of "Nations. Nor need I anſwer the Argument brought from the procedure, againſt the Heroick Wallace and others, for theſe Inſtances ſhow rather an exceſſive reſentment upon preſent Hoſtilities, then the Juſtice of thoſe, who againſt the Law of Nations, proceeded to murther ſuch as were indeed Priſoners of War, fighting for their own Native King and Country: And even the Engliſh of that age, by entring into Truces, Ranſoming of Priſoners, and doing all other things (which are only allowable in a juſt War) may convince all Mankind, that in this and the like Inſtances, they ſuccumb'd to the bitterneſs of their preſent Paſſion.

I muſt here alſo crave Leave to aſſert, That though Vaſſals are not to be treated as Aliens, yet we find very frequently in Hiſtory, that whole Nations have been Naturalized, and have had all the Priviledges of Subjects communicated to them, without being Vaſſals or Subjects: And thus the Pelopidæ were naturalized Perſians, by Artaxerxes King of the Perſians, and allowed to enjoy all their Priviledges, in remuneration of the great Services done by them to the Perſians, as Plutarch obſerves in the Life of Pelopidas: And thus the Athenians communicated their Priviledges to the Rhodians; and the Latins to the Romans, as Livius obſerves lib. 25. And it is very clear, that the like was done by the Engliſh to us, by a Statute of St. Edward, which is yet extant in a Book called χρειονομια publiſhed by William Lambert, anno 1568. And Ratified by the Conquerour, amongſt the good Laws of that Prince, as Hollenſhed obſerves. Amongſt others who are to be reputed of the ſame Nation with the Engliſh, we find the Scots mentioned in the Statute; for which two Reaſons are given in it, quia omnes ferme Scoti proceres ex Anglis conjuges cæperunt, & ipſi rurſus ex Scotis, & ſic facti ſunt duo in carne una; That is to ſay, Becauſe moſt of all the Scotiſh Nobility did take Wives of Engliſh Extraction, and the Engliſh of Scotiſh.

The ſecond Reaſon added in that Statute is, quia ſimul & in unum contra Danos & Norwegos atrociſſime pugnaverunt. And it is very well known to ſuch as underſtand Hiſtory, that untill theſe late and unhappy Wars, occaſioned by the Shires of Northumberland, Weſtmorland and Cumberland, the Scots aſſiſted the Engliſh in all their Wars; eſpecially, as that Statute ſayes, againſt the Danes and Norwegians, by whom they were called by thoſe Invaders, to ſhare in the Victory; but they refuſed the offer, and fought near two hundred Years againſt theſe Uſurpers: In which Wars, they are ſaid to have loſt two Kings, with an hundred thouſand Men; all which the Scots might have preveened, by ſuffering the Danes to paſs peaceably to England, through their Territories. And it is obſervable in the Hiſtories of both Nations, that the Danes were never expulſed from England, till they were firſt beat in Scotland; till at laſt they were forced to ſwear, that they ſhould never return into this Iſle; and in Return of which Aſſiſtance, we got from England this Priviledge in the ſame manner, that Lewis the XII. communicated to us a general Naturalization in France, with all the Priviledges competent to the Natives of that Kingdom, when we were forced to aſſociat with it, to ſecure our ſelves againſt the Invaſions of our old friends.

The

Advertisement from the Author, to be subjoyned to the third Chapter of the Precedency.

BEing desired to prove, that from Chronology it is impossible, that Kenneth III. King of Scots, did row Edgar King of the English Saxons over the Dee; I prove it thus: Kenneth the III. did not Succeed to the Crown of Scotland, till the Year 977. At which time, Ethelred, Edgars youngest Son, did Reign in England: Ethelred having begun his Reign, Anno 975. two Years before Kenneths coming to the Crown of Scotland. It is also remarkable, that Heylen relates, that the King of Scotland was ordained at the Council of Constance, to precede the King of Castile, as being one of the five absolute Monarchs; which was inconsistent with his being a Tributary, or Homager Prince. This was done in Presence of the King of Englands Ambassador, who reclaimed not, as certainly he had done, if the King of Scotland had been Vassal to his Master. By all which we see how solidly Heylen writes upon this Subject: And the learned Speed doth in his History of Great Britain most Solidly, and Modestly, in many Parts thereof, clear us from this pretension; and especially in the Life of William the Conqueror, who, to clear Marches between Scotland and England, did set up a Cross at Stranmoor, with the Arms of England on the South side, and the Arms of Scotland on the North side; The King of Scotland doing only Homage for Cumberland. And in the Life of Edward the First, when some of the Great Men of Scotland waited on Edward in Northumberland, in the Controversie betwixt the Bruce and Baliol; he sayes, that Edward made then claim to the Superiority of Scotland, alledging that the Crown of Scotland was holden of him. To whom the Scots replyed, that they were ignorant, that any such Superiority belonged to the King of England, neither could they make answer to such things without a King, &c. And that thereupon the King delivered to them his Letters Patents, in which he acknowledged, that the coming of those Scots on this side the Water of Tweed, should not be at any other time urged to prejudice them, for coming again into England; That is, (sayes he) that their example should not so be drawen to an Argument of King Edwards right over them, as if they were to come again upon Duty: So prudently jealous (sayes this Author) were these Patriots of their Countries Liberty. And a little after, he acknowledges, that King Edward was then Plotting this Homage, because Scotland wanted a Head. He also confesses, that Baliol lost the love of the Scots, by the Homage he had made, and that by Letters to King Edward, he did afterward renounce this Homage as being contrary to his Oath, as extorted by violence, and as being made without consent of the three Estates. And speaking of King Edwards big Oath, as that he swore by the Lord, he would consume all Scotland from Sea to Sea, if he heard any more debate in that; adds, that the Scots did boldly enough reply, that in this Cause they would shed their blood, for defence of Justice, and their Countries liberty. And further, in the Reign of Edward the Third, he observes, that this short lif'd pretence, was renounced by that King, who quitted Scotland of all claim and pretence of right to the Superiority thereof, and delivered up the Roll, called Ragmans Roll, wherein were contained the Names of those few Scots who had been forced to acknowledge this Superiority.

CHAP. IV.

The Debates betwixt the Kings of POLE, SWEDEN, DENMARK, &c. and other Princes.

THE King of Sweden pretends to Precedencie from the other two; and Nolden in his Treatise of Nobilitie, chap. 9. num. 107. leaves the Precedencie betwixt Sweden and Denmark to be dubious: And though some prefer the Dane as a Member of the Empyre, grafted therein in anno 1542. Yet others think him, upon that account, the less preferable, because he is thereby in a manner no free and Soveraign Prince; Peter King of Denmark having really become Vassal to Fredericus 1. Emperour, Otto. Fris. lib. 2. cap. 22. But Pontanus relates that the Emperour did upon this account give him the right hand, and thereby preferred him to Sweden. I find also in the Council of Basil, that Ravallus Arch-bishop of Upsale, did claim Precedencie to his Master the King of Sweden from all the Christian Princes, he being the true Successour of the Gothish Kings, who exacted Tribute even from the Emperours and Kings of France. Both Denmark and Sweden, claim the Precedencie from the King of Pole, as an Elective and Limited Monarch: And in the Ceremonial of Rome, Pole is placed after the other two: And it is undenyable, that Sigismund King of Swed, being chosen King of Pole, he did in all his Papers prefer always the Title of Sweden to that of Pole.

The King of Pole has debated for Precedency with the King of Portugal, in anno 1557. But at Rome, Pope Julius the second, preferred Portugal: And yet the Debate was renewed under Charles the fifth, In whose Reign, both their Ambassadours meeting in his Court at Church, and the Ambassadour of Portugal having possest the first place, the other made a sign, as if he would have spoken in private with him, at which the Portugal rose, whereupon the Polonian run in to his seat, Hottoman de Legat. lib. 3. cap. 21.

The King of Hungarie contests for Precedency with the King of Pole: But in the interview betwixt Maximilian the Emperour, Sigismund King of Pole, Uladislaus King of Hungarie, and Lodowick King of Bohemia, in anno 1515. the King of Pole was preferred to walk on the Emperours right hand. But this Controversie being renewed at the Council of Trent, They, as all other Kings were ordained to take place, not according to their Dignities, but according to the date of the Production of their Commissions in the Council.

The King of Hungarie argues for the Precedency from the King of Bohemia: Because, amongst the Emperours Titles, Hungarie is set down before Bohemia; But Bohemia oppons the Golden-bull of Charles the fourth Emperour, Wherein it is ordained, that in all Acts which concern the Empire, Bohemia shall preceed all other Kings: So that it seems that the King of Hungarie ought to preceed in all things not relating to the Empire; But that Bohemia is to preceed in all that relates thereto.

There are other Soveraigns who are not Crowned-heads, Such as Savoy, Mantua, Florence, Ferara, Parma, Venice, who Debate also their respective Precedencies in this manner.

The Duke of Savoy is by Pius the Fifth, Declared to be the first Prince of Italy, And in the Chappels of France, Venice, &c. gets the first Stall, And as King of Cyprus pretends to be ranked amongst the Crowned-heads: But it may be admir'd why the Duke of Savoy takes the Title of Royal Highness; For, if he be King of Cyprus, he ought to have the Title of Majesty; and if he be not King, Royal Highness is not due to him. And the Duke of Mantua did contend with him, though his Competition was not sustained, vid. Cruc. pag. 511. And though the Title of Eminencie was bestowed upon the Dutchess of Mantua, by Ferdinand the second; Yet that was a Complement bestowed by the Emperour, rather with respect to her Sex, and her Relation to the Imperial Family, then to the true Dignity due to her as Dutchess of Mantua, vid. Limneum, Jur. pub. lib. 5. cap. 14.

The Duke of Florence was still preferred to the Duke of Ferara, by Charles the fifth, And Port. lib. 4. Resp. Jurisc. 167. confesses, That Florence was acknowledged to be first, by the Emperour, by Rome, and by France: But yet Paul the third considering that the Dutchie of Florence was onely erected in anno 2531. Whereas the Family of Est, were raised to be Dukes by Paul the third, 1452. and were declared Dukes of Ferara by the Emperour, 1454. did therefore prefer Ferara to Florence.

CHAP. V.

The Precedencies amongst Common Wealths.

IT cannot be denyed, but that Kings and Crowned-heads have the Precedency from Commonwealths; though they contend that they being the Freest of all Men, are the Noblest; And being in Effect a Countrey of Kings, ought to be preferred to any one King: Especially, since their Government is elder then that of Kings, Men having drawn themselves into Societies, before they either submitted to Kings who assum'd that Government by Force, or Elected Kings, because they could not agree amongst themselves.

There are some Common-wealths who claim Precedency, as having right to Kingdoms: And thus Venice claim'd the same Precedency with Crown'd-heads in the Popedom of Urban the VIII. and Innocent the V. because they had right to the Kingdom of Corsica; But this was denyed.

Genoa contended with Venice for Precedency at the Coronation of the King of Cyprus, 1373. but that King preferred Venice: And to extinguish these Differences amongst the Commonwealths of Italy, Venice is by Opinion of all Lawyers, preferred to all the Common-wealths of Italy, Calefat. de Equestr. dignit. n. 124. Cruc. de preced. pag. 536.

Genoa and Sienna did also contend, anno 1530. at the Coronation of Charles the V. but the Debate was not then decided: And yet Cruc. pag. 545. prefers Genoa.

The States General contend with Venice, and all other Common-wealths, as being more powerful, and being a Society of Common-wealths. They pretend also to Precedency from all the Princes of the Empire, as being more Independent then they, and being equal to Kings; Whereas these Princes are but Subjects, which is delicately Debated by Besold. de Praced. cap. 2.

But

But yet the preſent Emperour has preferred the Electors to all Ambaſſadours of Common-wealths, by an expreſs Ordinance related in Cruſ. p. 545. And now Holland, as having a Kindneſs for the Empire, Treats the Ambaſſadours of the Electors, as thoſe ſent by Crowned-heads: And in return of that Kindneſs, the Electors Treat ſuch as are ſent from Holland, with the ſame Reſpect, Memor. Ambaſſad. pag. 523.

Of old the Duke of Savoy did preceed the Common-wealth of Venice: But Emanuel Philbert Duke of Savoy, during the Oppreſſion he lay under from Charles the V, put himſelf under the protection of Venice, and became a Son of St. Mark; And thereafter, as the Father behov'd to preceed the Son, the Dukes of Savoy yeelded to Venice: And as that Duke pretends Right to the Crown of Cyprus, by the Marriage of Anne of Cyprus, and the Donation of Charlot of Cyprus: So Venice pretends Right to the ſame Crown by the Donation of Catharine Cornara, Widow to James King of Cyprus. The Difference is now thus ſettled, That Venice ſhall Treat the Ambaſſadours of Savoy, as they do theſe of Kings, with the title of Excellency, And Savoy ſhall allow Venice the Precedency, Memor. Ambaſſad. pag. 347.

Mazarin treated the Ambaſſadours of the Common-wealth of England, as thoſe ſent from Kings, Mem. Ambaſſad. pag. 334.

The Cantons of Swiſſe were even of late a part of the Empire: But by the Treaty betwixt the Empire and the King of Swed, 1648. they are declared Free States, Et in poſſeſſione ſeu quaſi poſſeſſione libertatis, & exemptionis ab Imperio. And now their Ambaſſadours or Envoys take place after the Venetian, and States General. And albeit Nolden de Stat. Nobil. Thinks that if they were called to ſit with the States of the Empire upon any extraordinar Occaſion, they were not to be preferred to the Princes of the Empire, and much leſs to the Electors: For licet jura Principum habent paſſive & materialiter, Principes tamen non ſunt formaliter & active. Yet other Lawyers prefer them to all the other States and Princes of the Empire, except the Electors, Cruſ. pag. 556. The French King treats them with the title of Magnifiques Seigneurs: And though their Deputies could not prevail with the French King, in anno 1602. and 1603. to be covered when he received them; Yet I conceive, that now they will be received as the Ambaſſadours of Holland or Venice, who are covered at their Reception, ſince in anno 1646. they are acknowledged to be a Free State.

The Griſon Ambaſſadours were received in anno 1627. as the Miniſters ſent by the Princes of the Empire, and with the ſame Honours.

CHAP. VI.

Of the Precedency of the Electors and the Princes of the Empire.

AMONGST the Princes of the Empire, the Electors are ſtill preferred: Which Electoral Colledge (though ſaid to be Founded by the Emperour Otho the III. and Pope Gregory the V. anno 997.) yet it is more probable, that the ſaid Conſtitution aroſe from the great Difficulties under which the Empyre was Sunk, after the Death of Frederick the II.

Amongſt the Electors, the Eccleſiaſticks are preferred to the Laicks.

The Eccleſiaſtick Electors, are, the Arch-biſhops of Mentz, Cullen, and Treves, whoſe Precedency amongſt themſelves was firſt Determined by Charles the IV. So as that the Biſhop of of Treves was to ſit juſt over againſt the Emperour; The Biſhop of Mentz, was to take place in all his own Dyocie, and in all Germany: Whereas the Arch-biſhop of Cullen, was to take place in all his own Dyocie, and in Italy, and France. And of old in the Election of the Emperour, the Biſhop of Mentz was preferred as Arch-chancellour of Germany: The Arch-biſhop of Treves as Arch-chancellour of France: The Arch-biſhop of Cullen as Arch-chancellour of Italy; Which Order was confirmed by Frederick the Firſt, anno 1158.

The Secular Electors are Ranked thus, by the Golden-bull of Charles the IV.

The Duke of Saxony carries the Sword, immediately in all Proceſſions before the Emperour: The Count-Palatin the Imperial Aple, walking on the Emperours Right hand: The Marqueſs of Brandenburg the Scepter, on the Left hand; And the King of Bohemia was to follow him immediately. But when they ſit at any Solemnity, by the ſame Bull, The King of Bohemia (being a Crowned-head) was to ſit firſt, upon the Emperours Right hand, after the King of the Romans, and the Arch-biſhops of Mentz and Cullen: And upon the Left, after the Eccleſiaſtick Electors, the Duke of Saxony had the firſt place, and the Marqueſs of Brandenburg the ſecond. But yet I find Beutherus, and other German Lawyers, contend from old Manuſcripts, That at firſt Brandenburg had the Precedency from the Electors, Palatin, and Saxony.

The

The Duke of Bavaria did of old Contend with the Duke of Saxony, in anno 1521. and their Debates continued by Proteſtations for many Years; And with the Elector Palatin, till the Emperour Lewis the IV. ordained the Palatin and Bavaria to preceed one another alternately: Though ſince the late Warres of Germany, the Elector Palatin having Uſurped the Crown of Bohemia, the Duke of Bavaria was made the firſt Elector in his place, the Elector Palatin being now the laſt of the Electors.

It is alſo obſervable, That if any of the Electors themſelves be preſent, they are preferred to the Ambaſſadours, and Repreſentatives of all the abſent Electors; as was Decided in anno 1654. Excepting onely the Ambaſſadours of Auſtria, and the Ambaſſadours of Forreign Kings, were ſtill allowed to take place from all the Electors, except the King of Bohemia, in all the Solemnities of the Empire. But the Ambaſſadours of Common-wealths having claimed the ſame Precedency. The Emperour Leopold has Decerned againſt them, in favours of the Electors, Cruſ. lib. 4. cap. 4.

The eldeſt Sons of the Electors preceed all the other Princes of the Empire.

The Arch-dukes of Auſtria have the firſt Seat next to the Electors.

CHAP. VII.

Of the Precedency of Church-men.

I Need not debate the Differencies that have fallen in amongſt the Patriarchs of Rome, Conſtantinople, Antioch, Alexandria, and Jeruſalem: Thoſe of Rome and Conſtantinople having claimed Precedency, becauſe their See were the Seats of the Roman and Grecian Empires; Thoſe of Jeruſalem claiming preference, becauſe the chief Prieſthood was once ſettled there; Thoſe of Antioch claiming Precedency, becauſe Antioch was the firſt Seat of Chriſtianity, as is clear by the 11. Chapter of the Acts; And thoſe of Alexandria, pretending that they were equal to the Roman Patriarch, at leaſt, becauſe Alexandria was the chief City of the Eaſt before the building of Conſtantinople, and the Church thereof being by Euſeb. lib. 11. ſaid to be ηγεμὼν απασῶν εκλησιων. vide, Salmaſ. de Primat. pap. cap. 12. Thus far did Precedency invade even Religion, and raiſe Emulation amongſt thoſe who pretended to be the greateſt Paterns of Humility.

The Roman Patriarch was by Phocas the Emperour raiſed above all the reſt, in the year 606. ſince which time they have raiſed themſelves by ſeveral Degrees to the Papacy, though it cannot be denyed but even before that time, the Biſhops of Rome had the firſt Seat in all Councils, as is clear by Juſtinians Novella. 131. cap. 2. And in the Council of Nice, Adrian Biſhop of Rome had πρωτοκαθεδρια: But the προεδρια, Or the Power of preceeding did ſtill belong to the Emperours, as hath been fully cleared by Cruſius and others: And though it be pretended, that Conſtantine the Great did from Chriſtian Humility, prefer the Succeſſour of St. Peter as Vicar of JESUS CHRIST to himſelf; and that in the Canon Law, cap. Conſtantinus 14. Diſt. 96. the Emperour Conſtantin is brought in acknowledging himſelf to have led the Popes Bridle, and in the Famous Ceremonial of Rome: Fol. 21. the Emperour is allowed no higher place then the Popes Foot-ſtool; Yet Frederick the I. Emperour did contentiouſly Debate this Precedency with Adrian the IV, ſince which time it hath been variouſly acquieſced in by Popes and Emperours. And though the Legats be Repreſentatives of the Popes, yet Thuan tells us, lib. 98. That the Learned Briſſonius Preſident of the Parliament of Paris, would not ſuffer the Popes Legat to preceed him. And at the Coronation of Charles the V, the Popes Legat was denyed the Precedency from the Electors.

The Cardinals have Debated for Precedency with the Patriarchs, though by the Novella, 132. c. 2. Juſtinian places Patriarchs next to the Pope: And Panormit. in cap. antiqua X de privileg. & exceſſ. Prælat. prefers the Patriarchs to the Cardinals; and now by the Conceſſion of Sextus Quintus, that Pope, hath raiſed the Cardinals to an equal Degree with Kings, and if Kings be preſent at Table, or other Solemnities with Cardinals, If there be but one King, he is to ſit after the firſt Cardinal Biſhop, and if there be moe Kings, they ſit mixtly with the Cardinals, firſt a Cardinal and then a King: But though this holds amongſt Popiſh Princes, yet the Authour of Les Memoirs des Ambaſſadeurs does Obſerve, That Leiceſter, Grotius, and the other Ambaſſadours of PROTESTANT Princes never yeelded Precedency to Cardinals, till Lockhart Ambaſſadour from Cromwel yeelded it to Cardinal Mazarine; where he likewiſe obſerves, That though the Prince of Condie, yeelded the Precedency to Cardinal Rechlieu, yet the Count of Soiſſon refuſed it.

The

The Biſhops of Scotland preceed in this manner.

Arch-biſhops of { St. Andrews, Glaſgow.

Biſhops of { Edinburgh, Galloway, Dunkel, Aberdeen, Murray, Roſſe, Brechin, Dumblane, Caithneſs, the Iſles, Argyl, Orknay.

I find by Letter in Anno 1625. that before King James's going into England, the Marqueſſes of Scotland did take place from the Arch-biſhops; But now the Arch-biſhops take place from all Dukes and Marqueſſes, in imitation of England: And by a Letter in Anno 1626. renewed in Anno 1664. The Arch-biſhop of St. Andrews is to take place from all Subjects, which is to be limited, as not to exclude the King's Children, and Brothers as I conceive; And de facto the Arch-biſhops of St. Andrews ceds to the Chancellour, ſince the Letter.

The Biſhops of England Preceed thus,

Arch-biſhops of { Canterbury, York.

Biſhops of { London, Durham, Wincheſter. St. Davids, Ely, Norwich, Hereford, Salisbury, Peterborough, Carliſle, Worceſter, Rocheſter, Landaff, Lincoln, Bangor, Exeter, Chicheſter, St. Aſaph, Oxford, Lichfield and Coventrie, Briſtol, Gloceſter, Cheſter, Bath and Wells.

CHAP. VIII.

General Obſervations concerning the Precedency of Subjects.

NOBILITY is divided with Us, as in England in Nobiles Majores & Minores, the Greater and the Leſſer Nobility: Under the Greater are comprehended all ſuch as are Lords of Parliament: Under the Leſſer are comprehended Knights and Gentlemen. And though all theſe be not Peers of Parliament, yet they are all Peers to one another: And thus a Gentleman may be offered to a Dukes Daughter, whoſe Ward and Marriage falls to the King, as has been often decyded, nor can that Match be refuſed upon the Account of Inequality: And it hath been found, that though Noblemen muſt be judged by their Peers, yet Landed Gentlemen may paſs upon their Aſſyſe; and a Nobleman is obliged to accept of a Challenge from a Gentleman as his Peer, where Duels are Lawful. Under the Word Barron all our Nobility are comprehended, as is clear by the 81. Act. Parl. 14. Jac. 2d. And the Inſcription of the firſt Parliament of K. Ja. 5th. where the Parliament is ſaid to be holden per Regis & Regni tutorem una cum Prælatis Barronibus & Burgorum Commiſſariis. Albeit the Parliament of Rob. 1. was cum Epiſcopis, Abbatibus, Prioribus, Comitibus, Barronibus, & aliis Magnatibus, which ſhews, that there were other Magnates infra Barrones. It may be Doubted, Whether the younger Sons of Dukes, Marqueſſes, &c. are to be Ranked inter Nobiles majores, ſince they ſit not in Parliament: Or inter Nobiles Minores, ſince they are deſigned Lords, and take place from many of the Nobiles Majores.

The Sons of the Kings of France were all Kings, and Soveraigns in the firſt two Races; Becauſe according to the old German Cuſtom, the Few Honours were divided equally amongſt the Sons: As now all the Sons of a Duke are Dukes there, &c. But thereafter all the other Children, except the Eldeſt, got onely Place and Precedency according to their Offices or Dignities, until Philip de Valois Succeeded as Prince of the Blood in a remote Degree: After which, the French thought fit to give Precedency to thoſe, who might one Day be their King: And ſo all the Princes of the Blood got Precedency from all Subjects.

With Us the Kings Children, Uncles, and Nephews, onely had Precedency from all Subjects; And in SCOTLAND no remoter Degree preceed ceed as Princes of the Blood: For the Families of Hamiltoun, Kinghorne, Fintrie, and others are Deſcended from Our Kings by lawful Marriages, but had no Precedency upon that Account.

The firſt place next to the King is due to the Prince of SCOTLAND amongſt Us, who is likewiſe Duke of Rotheſay; as the ſecond Son is Earle of Roſs, that being an Appanage inſeparable from him by Act of Parliament: But at preſent his Royal Highneſs is with Us Duke of Albany, as he is Duke of York in England.

It has been doubted, Whether the King's Son, Uncle, Nephew, &c. have the Precedency from the King's Officers in the actual exerciſe of their Office, as at Coronations, Riding of Parliaments, in which it is the Conſtables priviledge to ride upon the King's right Hand, and the Mariſhals on his Left, in his return from the Parliament Houſe: The Reaſon of which Difficulty is, becauſe theſe are Acts which follow the Office and not Blood, and the Nature of the Action requires that they ſhould be poſted, where they may be moſt ſerviceable. I find likewiſe that this hath been Debated in France, whereupon in Anno 1576. Henry the III. emitted an Ordinance in Favours of the Princes of the Blood: And with Us, his Royal Highneſs the Duke of York at His Majeſties Coronation preceeded all the Officers.

Amongſt the Princes of the Blood, the Laſt deſcended from the Royal Family has ſtill Precedency accordingly: But though this hold in the Branches, yet the Eldeſt of the ſame Branch will preceed all that Branch, and thus the Prince Palatins Grand-Child would ſucceed to the Crown before Prince Rupert his Brother, though Prince Rupert be ſeveral Degrees nearer.

I find that of old all Church-men were Ranked together, and were firſt Ranked before all Laicks: And thus the Parliament of King Robert the I. was habito Solemni tractatu cum Epiſcopis, Abbatibus, Prioribus, Commitibus; and even before the Kings Sons, Brothers, or Nephews. Thus King Robert the I. grants a Charter to the Abbacy of Aberbrothick, Confirming a Ratification made to them be Lundie, wherein the Witneſſes are, Reverendis Waltero & Gilberto Epiſcopis, &c. Davide Duce Rotheſay, Comite de Carrick, Cariſſimo noſtro Filio primigenito Roberto Duce de Albania Comite Fyffe & Fratre noſtro: And even the Abbots and Priors were Ranked before them, and when any of them were Officers of State, they were named according to their Eccleſiaſtick preferments: Thus Jacobo Sancti Andreæ Epiſcopo Galvino Archiepiſcopo Glaſcuenſi Cancellario noſtro. And in the Seſſion when it conſiſted of half Church-men, half Laicks, the Church-men ſat on the Chancellors Right-hand, and Voted firſt: But it does not follow from theſe Inſtances, that therefore of old any Church-man did take place from the Kings Son, no more then that a Biſhop took then place of an Earl, becauſe he was named before them.

The Archbiſhop of St. Andrews was by a ſpecial Letter in Anno 1626. and Renewed in January, 1664. Declared to have the Precedency from the Chancellor, and all His Majeſties Subjects: In time of Popery, he was Legatus natus, and both then and now he is totius Scotiæ Primas; But though by this Letter he is Ordained to take the place of all Subjects, yet I think it would not give him place from the Kings Sons, Uncles, and Nephews, though they be likewiſe Subjects; ſince the Word Subjects muſt be here Interpret according to the Cuſtom of Nations, by which theſe near Relations of Princes are preferred to all other Subjects. The Nobility of Scotland were either Declared ſuch by Feudal Erections, their Lands being Erected by the King in a Dutchy, Earldom, &c. which did of it ſelf make him a Duke or Earl, in whoſe Favours the Lands were ſo Erected; Or elſe they got Patents of Honour, Declaring them Dukes, Earles, &c. and this is a much later way, none being Nobilitated by Patents amongſt Us before King James I.

The third way of Nobilitating with Us, is by Creation and Solemn Inveſtiture, the whole Form whereof will in all its Ceremonies be beſt known by the following Narration.

The Form of the Creation of the Marqueſs of Hamilton, and Marqueſs of Huntly, Tueſday the 17 of April, 1599.

IN His Majeſties great Chamber in the Abbay of Holy-rood-houſe, where the like Ceremony was wont to be done, being richly hung with Tapiſtry, five Stages or Degrees of Timber were Erected; One for His Majeſty on the Weſt-ſide, whereon His Majeſties Chair of State was ſet under the pale of Honour; One for the Duke; One for the Earles; One for the Lords; and One for the Knights: There was alſo before the Throne a Table covered with Cloth of Gold, whereon was laid the Sword, Scepter, and Crown, the Noblemen attending the Ceremony in their reſpective Seats in their Robes, and His Majeſty in His Rob-Royal, being placed in His Chair, the Queen ſitting by; The Lyon King of Arms, and Maſter of Ceremonies, with the Heraulds and Purſivants in their Coats, and Trumpets ſounding, brought in before His Majeſty theſe two Noblemen, viz. The Earles of Arran and Huntly, the firſt conveyed be the Duke of Lennox, and the Earl of Mar, the ſecond be the Chancellor, and Earl of Caithnes. Thereafter the Lyon asked His Majeſty, If His Majeſty would be pleaſed to promote theſe Noblemen to further Honours: His Majeſty anſwered, Yes. Then the Lyon, Maſter of Ceremonies, with Heraulds, Purſivants, and Trumpets, Conveyed them into the Green Council-chamber, where they were Deveſted of their Comital Robes, and Veſted in the Habit of a Marqueſs, And ſo were again conveyed to His Majeſties preſence thus,

The Ordinary Macers that attend the Chancellor and Seſſion making place:

Maſter of Ceremonies.

Trum-

Trumpets founding with the Noblemens Colours at their Trumpets,

Purſivants in their Coats;

Heraulds in their Coats;

Four Gentlemen for each of the Perſons to be Created, bearing their Honours, viz. For my Lord Arran, Robert Hamilton of Goſlington, the Penon; Alexander Hamilton of Fenton, the Banner; Claud Hamilton of Shawfield, the Marqueſs Crown; John Campbel of Ardkinlas, the Patent. For my Lord Huntly, John Ogilvy of the Craig, the Penon, John Crichton of Frendraught, the Banner; Mark Ker of Ormiſtoun, the Crown; Alexander Gordon of Strathdon, the Patent.

Lyon King of Arms.

The two Earles conveyed be the forenamed Noblemen in their reſpective Robes, and Crowns on their Heads:

Coming before the King they made their Reverence; Then they were led up by the Maſter of Ceremonies ſome ſteps, and ſitting down on their Knees on Velvet Cuſhions, the Lyon made an Harrangue, both to His Majeſty and to them, Declaring to the Noblemen, That it pleaſed His Majeſty to promote them to that Dignity, and that he deſired them to Fear GOD, and obey His Power: Then he took their Oaths, that they ſhould obey GOD, his Majeſty, and maintain the Religion then profeſt. Thereafter the Lyon delivered to His Majeſty the Patents, and His Majeſty redelivered them to the Lyon, who gave them to the Noblemen, in token that they ſhould obey GOD and His Majeſties Laws: Afterwards, the Lyon delivered His Majeſty the Marqueſſes Coronets, His Majeſty redelivered them to the Lyon, the Lyon put the Crowns on their Heads, ſaying, John Marqueſs of Hamilton, Earl of Arran, Lord Even, &c. George Marqueſs of Huntly, Earl of Enzie, Lord Gordon, and Badzenoch, &c. The ſame was Proclaimed furth of the Windows by the Heraulds and Purſivants, with ſound of Trumpet: Then were they conveyed to their Seats, and placed above the Earles, upon the Kings left Hand, Trumpets ſounding.

The Lyon deſired His Majeſty to Honour the Gentlemen, who bare the Honours, with the Honour of Knight-hood, His Majeſty conſented: The Lyon cauſed them to ſit down on their Knees at the foot of all the Stage, and after he had made an Exhortation to them, and received all their Oaths, they holding up their Hands, and promiſing to obey all the Injunctions, The Lyon preſented the Sword to His Majeſty, who ſtroke each of them therewith on the right Shoulder, and Sir offered the Spur, the Lyon firſt proclaiming their Styls, and after the Heraulds and Purſivants at the Windows with ſound of Trumpet.

I find this Difference in the Creation of many Earles from what is here ſet down, That the four Gentlemen bear the Honours thus, The firſt, the Penon; the ſecond, the Standart; the third, Sword and Belt; the fourth, the Crown; and laſtly, the Lyon bear the Patent in a Velvet Bag: And that the Lyon offered firſt to His Majeſty the Sword and Belt, and receiving it back, put it on the Perſon Nobilitat.

As alſo when the King was not preſent, and after his going to England, the Ceremony was performed by His Majeſties High Commiſſioner, if there was one at the time; Or otherwiſe, a Writ was directed to the Lord Chancellor appointing him Commiſſioner for that Creation, And then the firſt thing that was done after the Perſon to be Created was brought in, the Lyon gave the Patent to the Commiſſioner, who gave it to the Regiſter, or Clerk of Council to be read. And I obſerve this in all Our old Creations, that if the Perſon to be Dignified was a Lord formerly, he was conveyed in by two Lords, and the Ceremony of the new Creation being over, was conveyed to his place by two of that degree to which he was advanced.

The Engliſh Nobility are ſometimes Created by being called in a Write to Parliament, under the Deſignations of Earles, Viſcounts, &c. Which way is unknown to Us in Scotland, though the King may introduce it at His pleaſure.

The Precedency amongſt Subjects is thus Eſtabliſhed in both Kingdoms.

Dukes of the Blood Royal,
Other Dukes according to their Creation,
The Eldeſt Sons of Dukes of the Blood Royal.
Marqueſſes according to their Creation,
Dukes Eldeſt Sons,
Earles according to their Creation,
Marqueſſes Eldeſt Sons,
Dukes Younger Sons,
Viſcounts according to their Creation,
Earles Eldeſt Sons,
Marqueſſes Younger Sons,
Barrons whom we call Lords,
Viſcounts Eldeſt Sons,
Earles Younger Sons,
Barrons Eldeſt Sons,
Barronets,
Viſcounts Younger Sons.

But the Officers in England are by Act of Parliament, Henry the VIII. thus Ranked:

Lord Chancellour,
Lord Theſaurer,
The Lord Preſident of the Privy Council,
The Lord Privy Seal.

Theſe Four being of the Degree of a Barron, or above, ſhall ſit in Parliament and all Aſſemblies of Council, above Dukes not being of the Blood Royal.

The Lord Great Chamberlain,
The Lord High Conſtable of England,
The Earl Mariſhal of England,
The Lord Admiral of England,
The Lord Great Maſter or Steward of the Houſe,
The Lord Chamberlain of the Houſhold.

These last Six, and the Kings principle Secretary, take place according to their present State; So that if they be Barrons, they take place above all Barrons; If Earles, above all Earles; If Dukes above all Dukes.

By a Decree and Establishment under the Great Seal of England, 1° Jacobi, the following Persons are thus Ranked,

Knights of the Garter,
Knights of the Privy-Council,
The Master of the Wards and Liveries,
The Lord Chancellor, and Under-Theasaurer of the Exchequer,
The Chancellor of the Dutchy,
The Chief Justice of the Kings Bench,
The Master of the Rolls,
The Chief Justice of the common Pleas,
The Chief Barron of the Exchequer,
The other Judges and Barrons of the degree of the Coif,
The Younger Sons of Viscounts,
The Younger Sons of Barrons,
The Barronets.

The Precedency amongst Our Nobility differs nothing from what is here set down, England and We agreeing in all points since the Union of the two Kingdoms; And especially since the Coronation of King Charles the I. at which time, he Declared he would have it so: But to prevent Differences betwixt the Nobility of both Kingdoms, it was Ordered, That all those of the same Degree in England, should in England take place from all those of the same Degree in Scotland; And all those of the same Degree in Scotland, should in Scotland take place of the English: That is to say, All the English Dukes should take place in England of all the Scots Dukes; And all the Scottish Dukes in Scotland, should take place of all the English Dukes, which was very Just and Suetable to the Laws of Nations.

But as to the Ranking of Our Officers, We differ much from England: For clearing whereof, it is fit to know, That with Us there were Officers of the Crown, and Officers of State: The Officers of the Crown were all designed of Scotland, as Constabularius Scotiæ, &c. In King Malcom the II. his Parliament; the Offices then Extant were, the Chancellour, the Justice General, the Chamberlain, the Steward, the Constable, and Marishal; and they are thus Ranked and have their Respective Fees. But by the Act. 31. Parl. 11. Ja. 6. the Offices of the Crown are Declared to be, the Theasurer, Secretar, the Collector, (which Office is now joyned with the Theasaurers) the Justice General, Justice Clerk, Advocat, Master of Requests, Clerk of Register: And though these be called Officers of the Crown there, I conceive they differ not from the Officers of State; And these Words Officers of the Crown, and Officers of State are now Equipollent Terms, so far that all the Officers of State are Officers of the Crown by this Act: But the High Chamberlain, Constable, Admiral, and Marishal, are Officers of the Crown, but are not Officers of State; The speciality of Officers of State being, That in all Acts or Meetings which concern the State, they sit as Members by Vertue of their Office, as in Parliaments, Conventions, &c. where the Chamberlain and Admiral come not as such, nor the Constable and Marishal if they were not Earles.

The Officers of State have oft contended for Precedency amongst themselves: And therefore King James did in Privy Council, upon the 17. of June, 1617. Declare, That in that and all other Parliaments, none should sit as Officers of State, save eight, and though there should be moe of the said Officers by Deputation, Division, or otherwise; Yet eight onely should sit, which eight he did thus Rank by Act of Council; Theasurer, Privy-Seal, Secretary, Register, Advocat, Justice Clerk, Theasurer-deput, Mr. of Requests: And yet His Majesty having appointed Sir Archibald Adchison to be second Secretary, and he having contended that his place was to be next the principal Secretary; This was Opposed by the Register and Advocat, founding themselves upon the said Act of Council: It was answered thereto, That His Majesty might, notwithstanding of the said Act, have as many Secretaries as he pleased, and by that His Majesty was only Limited to eight Officers of State in Parliament; But that notwithstanding thereof, he might make use of any eight he pleased, and accordingly he had made use of the Chancellor, Collector, and Comptroller, as Officers of State in several Parliaments, notwithstanding that they are none of the eight Officers mentioned in this Act; Likeas K. James had appointed the Lord Chancellor, being a Nobleman, to sit amongst the Noblemen, and not as Chancellor, or an Officer of State: The Council did remit this Debate to the King.

I find that upon the 20. of February, 1623. the whole matter of Precedency amongst His Majesties Officers and Counsellors is thus Stated:

The Lord Chancellor,
The Lord Theasurer,
The Archbishop of St. Andrews,
The Archbishop of Glasgow,
The Earls and Viscounts according to their Ranks,
Bishops according to their Ranks,
Lord Privy Seal,
Lord Secretary,
Lord Register,
Lord Advocat,
Lord Justice Clerk,
Lord Theasurer-deput,
The Lords of the Session according to their Admission,
Barrons and Gentlemen, being Counsellors, according to their Admission.

It is observable from this Act, that Lords of the Session have Precedency from Privy Councellors in Scotland, otherwise any Counsellor of an elder Admission would be preferred to them; And yet in England, Privy Councellors are preferred to all the Judges, and even to the chief Justices: And with Us I find no Privy Councellor lor take place as ſuch, from any Perſon whatſoever, which ſeems very ſtrange; For ſince the Judicatur it ſelf is placed before the Seſſion, and that its Preſident hath Precedency from the Preſident of the Seſſion, that therefore the Judges ought to preceed the Judges of the Seſſion. 2do. Though the Lords of Seſſion are Lords of Council and Seſſion, yet there being Secret Councellors, gives them a greater nearneſs, and Argues a greater Truſt: And in all matters of Precedency, theſe are the chief Topicks for Precedency. 3o. In Law Counſellours are called by the Emperour, Pars Corporis noſtri l. quiſquis C. ad L. Jul. Majeſt. And ſo to aſſault them was Treaſon, and is with Us. 4o. In France this Queſtion betwixt the Members Magni Concilii, and the Senators of the Parliament of Paris, is Debated by Boerius, and he prefers the Counſellours; And in Sweden they have place from all the Nobility. 5o. The Lords of Privy Council have more ſupereminent power, then the Lords of Seſſion: For they can ſtop the Precedor of the Juſtices, they can Adjourn the Seſſion, they can grant Precognitions, moderat Puniſhments, &c. Notwithſtanding of all which, ſuch Reſpect has Our Kings to the Lords of Seſſion, who Diſtribute Juſtice equally to the People, that they ſtill preferred them to all the Subjects, except the Lords of Parliament, and their eldeſt Sons.

It has been contended by the younger Sons of Noblemen, That they ought to have Precedency from the Lords of Seſſion; Becauſe, ſayes the ſecond Son of an Earl, I have Precedency from the eldeſt Son of a Lord, and yet he has place from the Lords of Seſſion, and it is a certain Rule in Precedency, That if I preceed you, I muſt preceed him who preceeds you: And if an Earles ſecond Son, and a Lords eldeſt Son, and a Lord of Seſſion did meet together, the Earles ſecond Son could not preceed the Lords eldeſt Son, except he preceeded alſo the Lord of Seſſion. To which nothing can be anſwered, ſave that the eldeſt Sons of Peers, being preſumptive Peers, and ſuch as will be Peers, It is fit that the Lords of Seſſion, who have but a Temporary Precedency, ſhould not preceed them.

But I find that though in England, the younger Sons of the preceeding Rank, take ſtill the place from the eldeſt Son of the next mediat, as the younger Sons of Dukes, from the eldeſt Sons of Earles, and the younger Sons of Marqueſſes from the elder Sons of Viſcounts: And that all the Chain of Precedency is founded upon this Gradation, and that it ſeems that Nature has led Men to this Eſtabliſhment; Yet the eldeſt Sons of Our Lords (Lord Barons) refuſe to Cede to the ſecond Sons of Earls, and it was ſo of old with Us, and that which may be given as a Reaſon for this, is, that it is unreaſonable, That they who are to be Peers, and to have a conſtant Title, ſhould Cede to ſuch as have but a Temporary Honour; But if this Reaſon were ſufficient, the younger Sons of Dukes ſhould not preceed the eldeſt Sons of Lord Barons.

With Us the eldeſt Sons of Lord Barons are deſign'd Maſters, as the Maſter of Roſſe, &c. And of old the Uncles of Lords, after the Death of their elder Brother, though he left a Son, were called Maſters, till the Nephew had a Son: For which I know no other Reaſon but that, becauſe they wanted a Title, they took this: For their Father being Lord, there was no Degree below to take, as the elder Sons of Earles took that of Lord. And I believe, that thus the Word Maſter was given in England to meaner People, when their name was not known: For though the Word Dominus was refuſed by Auguſtus, as importing Slavery, which the Romans could not bear, rather then from a ſecret Impulſe, as St. Auguſtin ſayes, In reſpect Our SAVIOUR was then Born, who was the True Maſter, ſince Sueton tells, That Tiberius alſo refuſed this Title; yet in Complement even then ſuch as were not known, were called Domini: Obvios (ſayes Seneca) ſi nomen non ſuccurrit, Dominos ſalutamus, and therefore with the Roman Slavery this Title grew from being a Complement, to be a Duty: And thus the Grecian Emperour was called βασιλευς, and the eldeſt Son δεσποτης: And from this Title of Maſter, came Meſhip amongſt Us, which was given to all ſuch as had not a ſpecial Title, as Lord, Sir, &c.

By Act of Parliament likewayes, 14. May, 1661. The Lord Preſident of the Seſſion is Declared to have Precedency from the Regiſter, Advocat, and Theſaurer-deput; And the Regiſter and Advocat, are Ordained by the ſame Act to have Precedency from the Theſaurer-deput: But the Theſaurer-deput pretending that he is in effect Theſaurer in the Theſaurers abſence, and not the Theſaurer-deput, and that the aforeſaid Act of Parliament was in abſence, he now pretends Precedency from both the Regiſter and Advocat.

To the end the ſeveral Offices may be the better underſtood, It is fit to know that the Chancellor is in effect the firſt Officer in the Nation, and is by his Office, and by a particular Statute, Preſident in all Courts, Act. 1. Parliament 1. Charles the II. which Act of Parliament was made to declare that he was Preſedent of the Exchequer, as well as of other Courts, this having been pretended to by the Theſaurer: He hath his Title not from the power of Cancelling, as the old Gloſs ſayes, That Cancellarius eſt qui habet Officium ſcripta reſponſaque Principis inſpicere, & male ſcripta Cancellare; For it is not imaginable that he would take his Title from what he deſtroys, and not from what he does: But from the Cancelli and Barres, within which the Judges did ſit incloſed, απο των κιγκλιδων as is clear by Caſſiodor lib. 11. Epiſt. 1. Thoſe Cancellarii of old were in effect the Clerks, and the Chancellour is ſo called now, Becauſe, he ſigns all the publick Papers, and Appends the Seal, Ideo quod ad eum univerſæ publicæ referrentur conſcriptiones, ipſeque eas annulo Regis ſive Sigillo firmaret, Simaque lib. 1. calls him Queſtor Legum, Conditor Regalis, Conſilii Particeps, Juſtitiæ Arbiter: Which Names I conceive are given to them, becauſe Novel. 114. Divinæ jussiones debent habere subscriptionem glorioſiſſimi Queſtoris, and many of the Novels are ſigned Queſtor Legum.

I find that in the Laws of King Malcolm Keanmore, the Chancellour is placed before all the Officers, and ſometimes many of the conſiderable Earlés are placed betwixt him and the reſt of the Officers: Thus King Alexander grants a Charter, Teſtibus Willielmo de Boſco Cancellario meo, Malcolmo Comite de Fyffe, Alano Seneſcallo, Scotiæ, &c.

Some think that there is a Difference betwixt Cancellario meo, whom they make Director of the Chancery, and Cancellario Regni, whom they make High Chancellour: And others make a Difference betwixt Cancellarium Regni & Cancellarium Regis, as Spotſwood in his Hiſtory obſerves. But I find that the High Chancellour is called Cancellarius meus, as in the foreſaid Charter, and ſometimes Cancellarius ſimply, and ſometimes Cancellarius Noſter, and ſometimes Regni, and ſometimes Cancellarius Scotiæ; And the ſame Willielmus de Boſco, is in the Chartularies of Aberbrothick, and Calco, or Kelſo, named under all theſe Deſignations.

I find the Director of the Chancery, was onely a ſervant to the Chancellour of old: For in King Malcolms time, amongſt the Fees to be payed to to the Chancellours Clerks, there is a Fee to be payed to his Clerks for the Breeves, which Breeves belong to the Director of the Chancery; And therefore Skeen does juſtly Obſerve, hinc liquet Officium Directoris Cancellariæ apud majores noſtros ad Cancellarium pertinuiſſe, and which is very clear by the Statutes of King Rob. 3. cap. 1. verſ. 3.

I find that in theſe Laws, Juſticiarius, that is to ſay, The Juſtice General is placed next the Chancellour, but afterward Scotland was divided in two Juſtitiaries, one upon the South-ſide of Forth, who was called Juſticiarius Lothaniæ, and in old Charters Judex Laudoniæ: And the other on the North-ſide of Forth. The Juſtice General is now neither Officer of the Crown, nor Officer of State; But yet he thinks he ought to have Precedency from the Preſident of the Seſſion, the Juſtice Court being older than the Seſſion; And being Preſident of a ſupream Court, he is to preceed any Inferiour Member of any other Supream Court: And the King by Declaring that he advanced the Regiſter, when he made him Juſtice General, has clearly ſignified, that the Juſtice General ought to preceed the Regiſter: This place likewiſe has been generally poſſeſſed by Noblemen, and is the ſame with Us, that the Chief Juſtice of the Kings Bench is in England: And this Juriſdiction was amongſt others poſſeſſed at Rome, by the Præfectus Prætorio, who was their chief Magiſtrat.

The Juſtice Clerk by the foreſaid Statutes of King Malcolm, appears to have been but his Clerk; And though by the foreſaid Act of the 11. Parliament K. Ja. 6. The Juſtice Clerk be named before the Regiſter and Advocat, yet that is only ob continentiam cauſæ, becauſe they are ſet down, The Juſtice, Juſtice Clerk, and their Deputs. It is Obſervable by that Act, that the Juſtice General is put after the Theſaurer and Secretary, and there the Juſtice Clerk is not made his Officer, as in the Laws of King Malcolm Keanmore. I find that Alanus, Juſticiarius Scotiæ, Deſigns himſelf Hoſtiarius & Juſticiarius Scotiæ, which ſhews that Hoſtiarius was a preferable Office: And this I take to be Commander of the Kings Hoaſt; For Oſtiarius is not written with an H, and is a meaner Office then Juſtice General: This Charter is granted in anno 1253. to the Abbacy of Aberbrothick, and though others may miſtake the Ranking of a Mans Titles, yet the Bearer will carefully Rank his own Deſignations.

The third Officer named in thoſe Laws is the High Chamberlain, Camerarius. Domini Regis: And I find him in all the old Writes placed as Witneſs, before all the other Officers, next to the Chancellour. There was Magnus Camerarius, who was chief Judge over all the Burrowes; And there were other under Chamberlains, who are oftentimes Deſigned Camerarii, without the adjection of magnus; And I find in a Charter granted be K. David, in anno 1495. the witneſſes are, Alexandro Domino Huyme, magno Camerario noſtro, Johanne Domino Drumond Juſticiario noſtro, Ricardo Murehead Secretario noſtro, & Waltero Drumond noſtrorum Rotulorum, & Regiſtri, ac a Conſiliis.

It is Obſervable, that the Officers were oftimes named according to the quality of the Bearers, and not according to the Precedency of the Offices: But in the former Charter, Dominus de Huyme, and Dominus de Drumond, being of the ſame quality, the Chamberlain is put before the Juſtice General. This Office of Chamberlanry was poſſeſſed Heritably of late by the Dukes of Lennox, and the Badge was a Golden Key.

This Office is the ſame with præpoſitus Sacri Cubiculi, mentioned by Juſtinian, and equall'd by him to the Præfectus Prætorio, and placed inter illuſtres Palatinos, or Counts of the Palace, And is now in France called Grand Chambrier, and was conſtantly poſſeſſed by the Family of Burbon.

I find the Magnus Camerarius placed before the Theſaurer in a Confirmation, anno 1520. to the Abbacy of Aberbrothick.

Seneſcallus Domini Regis, is next in theſe Laws, that is to ſay, The High Steward of Scotland, and Allanus Seneſcallus Scotiæ, is very Famous in all the old Charters, and he is ſtill placed before the Conſtable and Mariſhal: And it appears that the High Steward, and the Steward of the Kings houſe were the ſame, for thoſe Laws mention onely the Steward of the Kings houſe; but now the Prince is Seneſcallus natus Scotiæ: Under him are there placed the Panitarius, who commands over all the Bakers, And Buttelarius, who commands over all the Keepers of Taverns, &c.

I find the Lord Souls was Buttelarius Scotiæ, in the Letter before ſet down, directed from the Nobility of Scotland to the Pope, in the Reign of of King Robert the Bruce; And I have ſeen a Charter, wherein John and Thomas Murrayes Sons to the Governour of Scotland Sir Andrew Murray, were Deſigned Panetarii Scotiæ, upon the Forfeiture of John Cuming Earl of Monteith, in anno 1348. which Earl of Monteith was formerly Pannetarius.

Next to theſe are named in the foreſaid Laws, the Conſtable and Mariſhal: But now the Conſtable and Mariſhal take not place as Officers of the Crown, but according to their creation as Earles; The Reaſon whereof I conceive to be, becauſe of old, Offices did not prefer thoſe who poſſeſſed them, but they took place according to their Creation; whereas now the Privy Seal, and Secretary take alwayes place before all of their own Rank: But the Conſtable and Mariſhal, being now the onely two Offices of the Crown that are Heritable in Scotland, continue to poſſeſs as they did formerly: But in France, England, and all other places, the Conſtable and Mariſhal take place as Officers of the Crown; and it ſeems very ſtrange, that theſe who Ride upon the Kings right and left Hand, when he returns from His Parliaments, and who guard the Parliament it ſelf, and the Honours, ſhould have no Precedency by their Offices; And yet I cannot deny, but that of old other Earles were placed before them, for in the former Charter granted by King Alexander, Malcolm Earl of Fyffe is placed before them.

And I conceive their Precedency has not riſen of late to the ſame proportion with others; Becauſe of late Our Armies have been commanded by other Officers, and ſo there was little uſe for the Conſtable and Mariſhal.

The Conſtable with Us in thoſe Northern-Nations, is the ſame Office that the Comes Stabuli was under the Roman Empire, which may be confirmed by two clear Teſtimonies of great Antiquity, one is of Aimon. lib. 3. cap. 7. Landegeſilis Regalium præpoſitus equorum, quem vulgo Comes Stabuli vocant; The other is from Rhegino, lib. 2. Annalium Burchardum Comitem Stabuli ſui (quem corrupte Conſtabulum appellabis) cum claſſe miſit in Corſicam: Though the Learned Cujac. does believe that this Title comes from the word κονεςαβωλαι, which ſignifies, a company of Men of War, ad l. unic. de Comit. & Tribun. Scolar. And there are ſome who derive it from the word Koning, which ſignifies a King; and Staple, which ſignifies a Hold, becauſe ſome Conſtables were Commanders of the Kings Houſes: But I find that the High Conſtable did command the Kings Armies, but was expreſly Debarred from commanding either his Houſes or Gariſons, As L'oiſeau well Obſerves, lib. 4. cap. 2. Becauſe, ſayes he, It was a great power that one Man ſhould command both the Army, and the Gariſons: The Badge of his Office was and is a naked Sword, which in the Roman Empire was the Badge of the Office, Præfecti Prætorio, and Trajan giving the naked Sword to Suro Licinius, who was his Præfectus Prætorio, gave it with theſe words, Pro me ſi mereor in me; Which words were thereafter put by Buchanan with a naked Sword upon the Money, coined during the Minority of King James the VI. The Conſtable with Us was by the Laws of King Malcolm cap. 6. Judge to all Crimes committed within twelve Miles to the Kings Houſe or Habitation; Though Skeen obſerves, that the beſt Manuſcripts bear onely two Leagues: But now his Juriſdiction is onely exerciſed either as to Crimes or otherwayes, during the time of Parliament, which ſome extend likewiſe to all general Conventions.

The Mariſhal is a German word and Office originally, as the Learned Tillet proves fully, a Marker of Camps, and the Ax which he bears as the Badge of his Office was that Inſtrument wherewith he did break the Ground, though now this part of his Office is Delegated to the Mariſhal du Camp. The Mariſhal commanded the Horſe as Tillet proves, whereas the Conſtable commanded both: But yet Our Learned Craig calls the Conſtable onely Præfectus Equitum; And yet as Tillet obſerves, The Mariſhal was not under the Conſtable, elſe he could not be an Officer of the Crown: For it is eſſential to all Officers of the Crown, and Officers of State, to depend upon none but the King. Of old I find the Orders in Military caſes run, to Our Conſtable and Mariſhal.

The Office of Mariſhal has never been out of the Family of Keith: But the Earles of Athol and ſeveral others have been Conſtables of Scotland; And therefore it is that the Earl Mariſhal hath no other Title; But the High Conſtable deſignes himſelf Earl of Errol.

We had no Knight Mariſhal in Scotland till King Charles the Firſt's Coronation, in anno 1633. at which time it was Erected by a Letter to the Privy Council; by his Office he is to take place immediately after the younger Sons of Lords.

The Theſaurer is not mentioned amongſt theſe Officers of the Crown under King Malcolm Keanmore, and of old it has been thought but an Office of the Kings Houſe; For in a Confirmation granted to the Abbacy of Aberbrothick, in anno 1529. by K. James the V. after Reverendiſſimis Epiſcopis, and dilectis conſanguineis, are enumerat as Witneſſes, dilectis Familiaribus noſtris Roberto Bartan noſtro Theſaurario & Computorum noſtrorum Rotulatore: Nor do I find a Theſaurer deſigned as Witneſs in any of the Kings Charters till then, though ſome fooliſhly think that Pannetarius was Theſaurer. And though the word Familiar Counſellour be now given to all Officers of State, who are not Earles, becauſe they cannot be called Couſins; Yet of old it was onely given to thoſe of the Kings own Family, and was derived a Familia, though now Familiar is thought to be the ſame with Intimate.

Till of late, Theſaurer, Comptroller, and Collector of the Augmentations were three different Offices, but now they are all joyned in one: Comptroller is in the old Regiſters called Rotulator.

The

The Privy Seal, and Secretary of State, are now alwayes the firſt of their own Rank, be Vertue of their Office; that is to ſay, If they be Dukes, they are the firſt Dukes, &c.

Of old the Secretary was a very Honourable Imployment; For as Caſſiodor. lib. 1. epiſt. 4. well Obſerves, Honor hic datur egregiis, dum ad Imperiale Secretum, tales conſtat elegi, in quibus reprehenſionis vitium non poteſt inveniri. But yet I find the Secretary onely named in the former Confirmation, inter Familiaries: Of old I find he was Stiled, Clericus Regis, though ſome Interpret this Clericus Regis, to be either Clerk-Regiſter, or the Kings Confeſſor, and Clerk to his Cloſet, and ſome that he was Almoner.

We have no Maſter of Requeſts now, that charge being ſwallowed up by the Secretaries Office; Their Office with Us was, as at Rome, To repreſent to the King the Complaints of the People, Referendarii ſayes Caſſiodor. lib. 6. dolores alienos aſſerunt conquerentium vota ſatiant & per eos Judices corriguntur.

I find that Advocatus Fiſci, now Our Kings Advocat, or Acturney General was Dignified with the title of Comes, which is now Earle, l. jubemus i. de Advoc. diverſ. jud. and with the titles of Clariſſimus & ſpectabilis, which was only beſtowed on the Chief Nobility, l. 4. & 6. eod. tit. and from this ſeems to have flowed Our calling them Lord Advocat; And the French calling them Meſſire, which title only the Chancelor and Advocat there get: Upon this Officer Rome, in the Reign of Claudius the Emperour, beſtowed ſo much Honour, That he ſaid, Tantum Honoris & Authoritatis conceſſiſſe procuratori Cæſaris, ut eum ſuis Legibus adæquaverit, voluerit que ut quod ipſe ſtatuiſſet perinde ratum eſſet, ac ſi ab ipſo foret conſtitutum: And of old they were ſtill of the Order of Knights; for Tacitus in the Life of Agricola, ſayes, utrumque avum procuratorem Cæſaris habuit quæ equeſtris Nobilitas eſt. The Kings Advocat is with Us Conſiliarius Natus, that is to ſay, Is by Vertue of his Office a Privy Councellour, in a more peculiar way then the reſt: For I find by the Records of Council in Queen Maries time, that the Regiſter and Juſtice Clerk are expreſly mentioned in the Commiſſion of Council, but the Advocat is in all the Sederunts, though he be not named in the Commiſſion. With Us, as in France, the Advocat is Conſiliarius natus, that is to ſay, By his Office a Privy Counſellour; And though with Us it was not allowed to the Kings Advocat, till Sir Thomas Hopes time, that he ſhould be preſent at the Lords adviſing of Cauſes, where the Advocat was not himſelf Intereſted; Yet I conceive in Cauſes which he pleads meerly upon the Kings Account, he ought to be preſent even when the cauſe is Adviſing: This was allowed Advocato Fiſci, for Trajan writing to Plinius, Commands eos adhibere in Conſilium a Præſidibus cum de cauſa Fiſcali agitur, which Explains very well, L. 7. de Jur. Fiſc. Where ſi Fiſcus alicui ſtatus controverſiam faciat, Fiſci Advocatus adeſſe debet, quare ſi ſine Fiſci Advocato pronunciatum ſit divus Marcus reſcripſit, nihil eſſe actum & ideo ex integro cognoſci opportere: Of which Office the Learned Budeus gives this Character, Magiſtratus is eſt id quem omnes ſuas actiones, Princeps, Populus, univerſi tranſcripſerunt, aſylum Legum, arx Juſtitiæ, innocentiæ vim paſſæ, aut Judicio circumventæ, propugnaculum, interceſſor rerum malarum, ſuaſor rerum bonarum, præſentis ſemper animi, Actor, & Defenſor, de ſententia Juris & Æquitatis.

I find that though per L. nemo C. de aſſeſſor. No Man can be both a Judge and Advocat, yet the Kings Advocats in France have been allowed to be Judges at the ſame time they were Advocats; For it was thought that the Office of Kings Advocat, did Naturally participat both of the Judge and Advocat, and ſo was not inconſiſtent with the Imployment of a Judge, l. ult. c. de Advocat. Fiſc. and this was ſo Decided by the Parliament of Paris, in June 1605. And from this We probably in Scotland took Occaſion a little after that time, to make Sir William Oliphant, and of late Sir John Nisbet, both Advocat and Lords of the Seſſion.

The Almoner with Us has no Precedency for ought I know, though in France, Le grand Aumoſnier is thought to be an Officer of the Crown: He is very oft a Witneſs in all Our Charters granted be Our Kings, and ſome think that Clericus noſter was Almoner.

I find that Cockburn of Lanton, who was alſo cuſtos magni Sigilli, in the ſecond Year of King Robert the IIIds Reign, is made heritable Oſtiarius noſtri Parliamenti, that is to ſay, Uſher of the Parliament. The Lyon and he does Debate who ſhall go next to the King, or his Commiſſioner in Parliament and Conventions, The Uſher pretending that if he behoov'd to go after the Lyon, he behooved to go before the Heraulds, and ſo he behooved to walk between the Lyon and his Brethren which were not Decent, (though both in England and with Us, I find that ſeveral Degrees of Perſons do in all Proceſſions, walk between the Garter or Lyon and his Brethren Heraulds.) Likeas, it is implyed in the Nature of the Uſhers Office, that he ſhould immediately Uſher him to whom he is Uſher, but in England I find that at the Cavalcad, when His Majeſty entred London, in anno 1660. and at His Coronation, Garter King of Arms did walk in the midſt, having the Mayor of London on his Left hand, and the Knight of the Black-rode on his Right: And the Authour of Les Memoirs des Ambaſſadeur tells Us, That in anno 1629. at the Proceſſion, for Celebration of that ſolemn Peace betwixt France and Spain, The King of Arms did walk immediately before the French King, Le Roy d'armes marchant immediatement devant le Roy. I am likewiſe informed that in England, the Precedency runs thus, King at Armes, Uſher of the Black-rode, Maſter of Ceremonies, and after him the Gentlemen of the Privy Chamber.

The

The title of Duke came from Dux, a Leader and Commander of an Army, and was at first a title of Office, but is now a Dignity given by Kings and Princes to Men of Blood and good Merit; And with Us the Prince of Scotland (as is already said) is Duke of Rotheſay.

The word Marqueſs was firſt appropriat to the Lords of the Marches and Frontiers, but is ſince become a title of ſpecial Dignity betwixt a Duke and Earle.

Earles came from the Saxon word Ear-ethel, which was abridged to Ear-el, and afterwards by Abbreviation Earl, with the Dutch called Eorle; And at this Day the Germans uſe the word Grave for it: They are in Latine called Comites with Us, becauſe in the Roman Empire, Comitatus was called the Court of the Prince, l. 43. de Teſtament. Militar. l. 13. ff. de re Militar. and thoſe who attended the Emperour were called Comites, or his Companions: They were appointed to be Governours of the ſeveral Countreys of the Empire, which were from them called Comitatus or Counties, and Earles are to this Day deſigned Earles of ſuch a Shire; But the Kings thereafter, being Deſirous to have their Subjects depending immediately upon themſelves, did appoint Sheriffs in their place to command the Counties, who are therefore ſtill called Vice-Comites.

Some were likewiſe appointed to command Towns, and ſo theſe Comites Urbium, were of a meaner Degree, then the Comites Provinciarum; But now Earles who have their Deſignations from Towns, are in the ſame Degree with thoſe who have their Deſignations from Provinces.

Counts Palatin were ſuch as had Office in the Kings Palace, and had their Name a Palatio, as is clear by the whole titles, C. de Palatinis ſacrar. Largit. & tit. de Caſtren. Palatinorum peculio: But it is fit to know that theſe Counts Palatin, or Officers of the Palace differed in the Roman Law from Domeſtici, for the Domeſtici theſe were properly and onely thoſe who were of the Emperours Guards, as is clear, by l. 3. c. de Protect. & Domeſth. and Cujac. upon that Law. The Counts Palatin in England were ſuch as had Regal Power within their own Juriſdictions, nor do I in my Reading find any Counts Palatin in Scotland, ſave Walterus Palatinus de Stratherne, who deſigns himſelf Atholiæ & Cathaniæ Comes; he gives his Lands of Cortowby to the Biſhop of Brichen, in anno 1429. And I believe the Reaſon why We have ſo few Counts Palatin in Scotland, is, becauſe Our Lords of Regality have the ſame Power; But properly the Officers of the Kings Houſe are onely now what the Comites Palatini were of old.

For Regulating the Precedency amongſt Earles and Lords with Us, King James the VI. did grant a Commiſſion to ſome Noblemen in March 1606. who upon Citation did pronounce the following Decreet, according to which Decreet theſe Noblemen are at preſent Ranked, and if any of theſe Noblemen therein prejudged do Reclaim, they uſe to raiſe a Reduction of the ſaid Decreit before the Seſſion, and Adject a Concluſion of Declarator, Craving it may be found and declared that they ought to have Precedency from the Noblemen whom they therein cite:

This Decreet is from its Effect called the Decreet of Ranking, whereof this is the Tenor.

AT Edinburgh the 5th of March, 1606. anent Our Soveraign Lords Letters directed, Makand mention; Forasmuch as His Majeſty and the Lords of His Secret Council, conſidering the great contentions and differences, quilks many times occurrit and fell out amongſt the Nobility of this Kingdom of Scotland, anent the Precedency and Priority in Ranking and Voting in Parliament, and general Councils, and how that this their Contentions lay ever unremembred or agitat, but at the very inſtance of their Meeting at His Majeſties Parliaments and Coventions, at whilk time there was greater matter of Impaſhment offered to the Eſtates to compone their Differences, then to intreat upon the principal Subjects, for whilk they were aſſembled: His Majeſty and the ſaid Lords, therefore being careful to have this Contention removed, and the contraverſies and eliſts, whilks ariſes amongſt the Nobility for that cauſe ſettled and pacified, wherethrow the Eſtates and Nobility being freed and relieved of ſuch matter of Contention, they may in Peace, Love, and Amity, concur together, and Deliberat upon ſuch Matters as ſhall be entreated and motioned in Parliament hereafter: His Majeſty for this effect has given his Highnes Commiſſion under the great Seal, to a Number of his Nobility, and who are moſt indifferent, and no wayes ſuſpect of partiality, to conveen and call before them, the hail Noblemen of this Kingdom of Scotland, and according to their Productions and Verifications to ſet down every mans Rank and Place, as in the Commiſſion foreſaid, paſt under the great Seal at length is contained; and anent the Charge given to Lodovick Duke of Lennox, John Marques of Hamilton, George Marques of Huntly, Patrick Earl of Orkney, George Earl of Caithnes, Alexander Earl of Sutherland, James Earl of Murray, Francis Earl of Errol, George Earl Mariſhal, David Earl of Crawford, James Earl of Athol, John Earl of Montroſe, James Earl of Pearth, Earl of Monteith, Andrew Earl of Rothes, Alexander Earl of Dumfermling, Archibald Earl of Argyl, James Earl of Glencairn, John Earl of Caſſils, Earl of Eglington, William Earl of Angus, William Earl of Morton, John Earl of Marr, Alexander Earl of Lithgow, Earl of Winton, Alexander Earl of Home; Simond Lord Fraſer, Edward Lord Bruce of Linloſſe, John Lord Forbes, Patrick Lord Glames, James Lord Ogilvy, Alexander Lord Spynie, Patrick Lord Gray, Laurence Lord Oliphant, John Lord Murray of Tillibairn, David Lord Scoon, James Lord Lindſey, Lord Sinclar, James Lord Balmerinech, Patrick Lord Lindors, James Lord Colvil of Culros, John Lord Fleyming,

And the Tutors and Curators of the ſaids Dukes, Marqueſſes, Earles, Lords, if they any have, to have compeard before the ſaids Lords Commiſſioned at an certain Day bygaine, and to have brought and produced with them ſuch Writs Evidents, Documents, and Teſtimonies, as they have or can uſe for acclaiming that Rank and Place of Precedency and Priority challenged be them before others, To have been ſeen and conſidered be the ſaids Lords, Commiſſioners, and they to have heard and ſeen their Ranks and place of Precedency and Priority appointed and ſet down be them, according to their Antiquities of their Productions, and that whilk ſhould be verified in their preſence, and they and every one of them directed to take that place, whilk ſhould be appointed and preſcrived unto them be the ſaids Commiſſioners, as ſaid is, Certifying, all ſuch perſons as ſhould not compear themſelves, or their Procutors in their Names, That the ſaids Lords, Commiſſioners, will go on forward in ſetting down every Mans Rank, according to that which ſhould be verified as ſaid is, and ſhould proceed according to that which ſhould be verified as ſaid is, and ſhould proceed according to the ſeveral Inſtructions given be His Majeſty to the ſaids Lords Commiſſioners for this purpoſe, and the ſaids Lords Commiſſioners their Determination ſhould ſtand in full force and effect, aye and while an Decreit before the ordinar Judge be recovered and obtained in the contrar; Likeas at more length is contained in the ſaids Lords Executions and Indorſations thereof, which being called, and divers Times and Dyets keeped to that effect; And the ſaid John Earl of Montroſe, Alexander Earl of Dumfermling, Francis Earl of Errol, George Earl Mariſhal, and Alexander Earl of Lithgow, Compearand perſonally, and the ſaid Alexander Earl of Sutherland, compearand be Mr. Robert Learmont his Procutor, and the ſaid Earl of Marr, compearand be Mr. Thomas Hope his Procutor, the ſaid David Earl of Crawfurd compearand be Laurence Scot his Procutor, the ſaid Andrew Earl of Rothes compearand be Mr. David Aiton his Procutor, the ſaid William Earl of Mortoun compearand be Mr. Thomas Learmond his Procutor, the ſaid Earl of Monteith compearand be Graham his Procutor, the ſaid Heugh Earl of Eglington compearand be John Bell his Procutor, and the ſaid John Earl of Caſſils compearand be John Hamilton, and Gilbert Roſs, and the ſaid Andrew Lord Stuart of Ochiltry, James Lord Balmerinoch, James Lord Abercorn compearand perſonally, the ſaid Lord Lindſey of the Byres compearand be the ſaid Mr. Robert Learmont his procutor, the ſaid John Lord Forbes compearand be James Fogo his Procutor, the ſaid Patrick Lord Glames compearand be Mr. Patrick Sharp younger his Procutor, the ſaid Patrick Lord Gray compearand be Patrick Whyllie his Procutor, the ſaid John Lord Seaton compearand be Mr. William Livingſton his Procutor, the ſaid Allan Lord Cathcart compearand be George Angus his Procutor, the ſaid James Lord Carlyl compearand be the ſaid Robert Hamilton his Procutor, the ſaid Robert Lord Sanchar compearand be Creichton his Procutor, the ſaid James Lord Hay of Yeſter compearand be Mr. James Burchar his Procutor, the ſaid John Lord Harres compearand be Corbal Cunningham his Procutor, the ſaid James Lord Torphichen compearand be Mr. Robert Learmont his Procutor, the ſaid Lord Thirlſtain compearand be Thomas Fleyming his Procutor, the ſaid Alexander Lord Spynie compearand be the ſaid Mr. Robert Learmont his Procutor; And the hail remanent Lords and Earles particularly abovewritten, being oft-times called and not Compearand, divers Terms and Dyets aſſigned to them for this effect, the Writs, Evidents, Documents, and Teſtimonies produced be the ſaids Perſons compearand, an every an of them acclaiming the Priority and Precedency before others, being divers times and at divers Dyets very diligently and exactly Sighted, Tryed, Examined, and Conſidered be the ſaids Lords Commiſſioners, and the ſaids Lords therewith being, as alſo with the Ranks and Places of ſuch Earles and Lords as were Promoted and Created in His Majeſties own time, well and throughly Adviſed; The ſaids Lords Commiſſioners has Decerned, Decreited, Appointed, and ſet down, and be theſe preſents Decerns, Decreits, Appoints, and ſets down the Ranks and Places following, to the hail Noblemen of the Kingdom, to be Keeped, Bruiked, and Poſſeſſed by them, in all Parliaments, General Councils, and publick Meetings hereafter.

In the firſt, The ſaids Lords Commiſſioners Diſcerns, and Ordains the Duke of Lennox to have the firſt place, the Marques of Hamilton the ſecond, the Marques of Huntly the third, becauſe be the cuſtom inviolablie obſerved in all Kingdoms the place of Honor amongſt Nobility, is firſt in the Perſons of Dukes, and next Marqueſſes, and then in the Perſons of Earles, and Lords; and next unto them the ſaids Lords Commiſſioners, Diſcerns, and Ordains the Earles above written, to have Bruiked and Poſſeſſed their Ranks and Places, according as they are here written, Ranked, and ſet down, in Order following, Viz. Angus, Argyl, Crawfurd, Errol, Mariſhal, Sutherland, Mar, Rothes, Morton, Monteith, Eglington, Montroſe, Caſſils, Caithnes, Glencairn, Buchan, Murray, Orkney, Athol, Linlithgow, Home, Pearth, Drumfermling, and Dumbar: And ſicklike, the ſaids Lords Commiſſioners Dicerns, and Ordains, the Lords particularly abovewritten, to have Bruiked and poſſeſſed their Ranks and Places, according as they are Written, Ranked, and ſet down down in Order following, Viz. Lindſey, Forbes, Glames, Fleyming, Salton, Gray, Ochiltrie; Cathcart, Carlyl, Sanchar, Teſter, Semple, Sinclar, Harres, Elphingſton, Maxwel, Oliphant, Lovat, Ogilvy, Borthwick, Roſſe, Boyd, Torphichen, Paſley, Newbottle, Thirleſtain, Spynie, Roxburgh, Lindors, Lowdoun, Dirleton, Kinloſs, Abercorn, Balmerinoch, Murray of Tilibairn, Colvil, Culroſſe, and Scoon. And Decerns and Ordains, all Earles, and Lords particularly abovewritten, to Keep, Bruik, and Poſſeſs their Ranks and Places in all times coming, according to the Orders and Ranks abovewritten, now ſet down, Appointed and Preſcrived to them, and to make no Queſtion, Trouble, nor Plea in this Matter, to any appointed to have place and rank in the manner aforeſaid. But prejudice alwayes to ſuch Perſon or Perſons, as ſhall find themſelves or their Intereſts prejudged be their preſent Ranking to have recourſe to the ordinar Remeed of Law, be Reduction before the Lords of Council and Seſſion of this preſent Decreit recovered; and of their due Place and Ranks, be Production of more Ancient and Authentick Writs, nor has been uſed in the Contrary of this Proceſs, Summonding all ſuch Perſons thereto, as ſhall think themſelves wrongouſly Ranked, and placed before them: And in the mean time this preſent Determination, to ſtand in full Force, Strength, and Effect, ay and while the Party Intereſted and Prejudged obtain Lawfully an Decreit before the ſaids Lords of Council and Seſſion as ſaid is; And Ordains theſe preſents to be Inſert and Regiſtrat in the Books of Privy Council, and an Authentick Extract thereof to be delivered to the Clerk Regiſter, and another Extract to be delivered to the Lyon-herauld, to be kept be them for the better Knowledge and Information of every Mans Ranks and Place, when the Occaſion of their Ranking ſhall be preſented. Extract de libris Actorum Secreti Conſilii, Act. 8. D. N. Regis, Per me Jacobum Primroſe Clericum ejuſdem ſub meo ſigno & ſubſcriptione manualibus.

It is fit to know, that the Earl of Dowglas was by Act of Parliament declared to have the firſt Vote in Parliament, and the carrying of the Crown, and leading of the Vanguard; But King James did in Anno 1582. prevail with that Earl, to ſuffer the Duke of Lennox to carry the Crown for that time, and in Anno 1632. There is a Charter granted to the ſaid Earl in life-rent, and to his Son in Fee, cum omnibus privilegiis, &c. & ſpecialiter cum privilegio aciem ducendi, Coronam gerendi. &c. But in Anno 1633. the ſaid Earl being Created a Marqueſs, it is Declared by Act of Council, that he did quit priviledge of having the firſt Vote in Parliament, upon his Promotion; And yet the Marqueſs of Dowglas ſtill pretends, that any ſuch Renunciation could not have prejudged the Family, ſince the Granter of that Renunciation was onely a Life-renter, his Son having been in Fee.

I find there are ſome Titles of Nobility in England annexed to places, ſo that whoever is in poſſeſſion of that place, has right to the Title: Thus it was found in the caſe of the Lord Abergavenny, that he in poſſeſſion of the Caſtle, ought to have the Title, albeit he be not Heir of Blood. Their Reaſon is, becauſe it is a Barony-machiere, and it has been found, that Baronies and Caſtles ſituate upon the Borders of Scotland and Wales, belong alwayes to the Owners; the Words of the Tenour being per ſervitium Patriæ cuſtodiendæ. It is alleadged, as one of the Reaſons in that caiſe, that the Owners of Lands, holding in capite & per Baroniam, have Precedency, albeit they be not next Heirs.

The next Degree to the Earles is that of Viſcount, in Latin Vicecomes; as being of old, Lieutenant to an Earl, Vicecomites, olim dicibantur, quibus caſtri Dominus Vices ſuas committebat ſeu executionem Juriſdictionis. But afterwards Our King gave not the Government of Counties, or Shires, to Earles, but appointed Sheriffs who depended upon their own Nomination; and were therefore called Vicecomites. In Bretagn Barons take Place from Viſcounts; But there are no Viſcounts in Germany, Bourgrave being in their place, ſpeculat. tit. de Vicecometatu & le Roque de nobilit. C. 83. We had no Viſcounts in Scotland before 1606. for by the aforeſaid Decreet the Lord is declared next to the Earl.

Barons according to Spelman, ſunt Clientes Feodales, & Vaſſalli Capitales, qui Pagos, Urbes, Caſtra, vel eximiam ruris portionem, cum Juriſdictione acceperunt a Rege; And the word according to him comes from Vir or Vi, i. e. robur belli: But it is more probable that it comes from the Greek Word βαρυς, gravis, they being choſen wiſe, and diſcreet Men. With Us, all are called Barons who hold their Lands of the King in libera Baronia, and who have power of Pit and Gallows; and of old they were all heritable Members of Parliament, as all Barons in England are, as is clear by Act 52. Parl. 3. Jac. 1. whereby all Barons are appointed to come to Parliament; and though this Act may ſeem to be abrogated by the 101. Act Parliament 7. James the I. whereby the Barons of each Shire are allowed to chooſe two wiſe Men to Repreſent them, which is the cuſtom at this Day; Yet it is obſervable, that though by that Act they may for their conveniency chooſe two, yet they are by no expreſs Law diſcharged to come in great numbers: And by the 78. Act. Par. 6. Ja. 4. no Baron that had below the Rent of 100. Merks, was to be compelled to come to Parliament, unleſs the King particularly wrote for him. And when Taxations were laid on by the Council, I find by the old Records, as particularly in October 1562. that Noblemen and Burgeſſes are called, but no Barons: The Barons and Noblemen having been then repreſented promiſcuouſly, and that long after the Act of Parliament allowing them to ſend Commiſſioners. And this is the Reaſon, why Our old Barons, who are not Lords, and hold onely their Lands in free Barony, have Supporters in their Atchievement; and that with ſome reluctancy they yeeld the Precedency to Knights-Baronets, they being Originally heritable Counſellours to the King as Members of Parliament, and not Debarred. The ſeveral Degrees of Nobility before Treated of, did alwayes bear their reſpective Coronets, as in England, excepting the Lords, who had no Coronet till the Year 1665. There being a Warrand under His Majeſties Hand, in June 1665. Allowing to the Barons or Lords of Parliament in Scotland, a certain Crimſon Velvet Cape, with a Golden Circle, decored with ſix Pearles on the Top, equally diſtant one from another, which is the ſame with the Barons Coronet in England: But the figure of this Coronet on the margine of the principal Signator, is done far contrare to the words in the Body; The ſame having points like to that of the Earles, which has certainly been a miſtake and ignorance in the Painter, and ought to be adverted to be the Lyon, and Heraulds: This Warrand is Regiſtrat in the Books of Council, and in the Lyon Books.

I have here ſet down for the Readers further Satisfaction, a Liſt of all the Nobility at preſent in this Nation, their Sir-names and Principal Titles, And Titles of their Eldeſt Sons; With ſuch Officers as have Precedency be Vertue of their Offices.

¶ It is to be obſerved, that the eldeſt Sons of Viſcounts and Lords are deſigned Maſters by their Fathers Titles.

Lord Theſaurer-deput,
Lord Regiſter,
Lord Advocat,
Lord Juſtice-Clerk.

This is the Precedency ſtated by the preſent Rolls of Parliament, albeit it is not acquieſced in by all the Nobility: For the Earl of Sutherland contends with all the Earles who are ranked before him, and generally ſuch as are diſſatisfied with theſe Rolls, do proteſt whilſt the Rolls are called, againſt ſuch as they conceive are unjuſtly ranked before them. Sometimes alſo the Son has a different Precedency, from what was poſſeſſed by his Father; As the Earl of Lothian, who now as ſucceeding to his great Grand-father by the Mother, comes to have his Precedency next to the Earl of Wigton, though his Father taking place by a new Patent was ranked as in the above written Rolls. The Juſtice General pretends to the ſame Precedency with the Lord Chief Juſtice of the Kings Bench in England, by a Report made by the Lord Theſaurer in the Kings Name, the 17. June 1637. but neither is the Letter to which this Report relates extant, nor has he been in poſſeſſion ſince. And it is fit to obſerve, that notwithſtanding of what is ſaid before, page 42. (by a Servants miſtake) that the Lord Privy-ſeal takes place with us as in England.

The Order of Baronet in Sotland was erected for advancing the Plantation of Nova Scotia in America, and for ſettling a Colony there, to which the Aid of theſe Knights was deſigned. The Order was onely intended be King James the VI. before his Death, for in his firſt Charter of Nova Scotia, in favours of Sir William Alexander, 10. Septem. 1621. And in another Charter granted to Sir Robert Gordon of Lochinvar of a part of Nova Scotia, Deſigned the Barony of Galloway, 8 Novem. 1621. there is no mention made of this Order: So that the ſame was onely erected by King Charles the I. anno 1625. In the ſeveral Patents granted to Baronets, His Majeſty did diſpone to each of theſe Knights a certain portion of Land in Nova Scotia, erecting the ſame in a free Barony with great and ample Priviledges unneceſſary to be inſert here. And moreover, for their encouragement, did Erect, Creat, Make, Conſtitute, and Ordain that Heritable State, Degree, Dignity, Name, Order, Title, and Stile of Baronet, to be enjoyed be every of theſe Gentlemen who did hazard for the good and increaſe of that Plantation: And ſo preferred them to that Order and Title, Creating them and their Heirs Male heritable Baronets in all time coming, with the Place, Preeminency, Priority, and Precedency in all Commiſſions, Breeves, Letters-patents, Namings, and Writes, and in all Seſſions, Conventions, Congregations and places, at all times and occaſions whatſomever before all Knights, called Æquites aurati, all leſſer Barons commonly called Lairds, and before all other Gentlemen: Excepting Sir William Alexander His Majeſties Lieutenant of Nova Scotia, who (with his Heir, their Wives and Children conform) is not onely excepted in each of theſe Letters-patents granted to the Knights, his Conſorts; But likewiſe the Charter granted to himſelf be King Charles I. 1625. did bear expreſly this exception and proviſion: As alſo, excepting Knights-Bannerets who ſhould be Created under the Royal Standard in His Majeſties Army, and in open War, the King himſelf being preſent, and that during the Bannerets life-time onely: And with Precedency before all of the ſame Order whoſe Patents are of a poſteriour Date. His Majeſty did moreover Declare, and Ordain, That the Wives of theſe Knights, and of their Heirs Male, ſhould have the Precedency aſwell after as before the deaths of their Husbands, if they ſhould happen to ſurvive, before the Wives of all thoſe of whom the Knights, Baronets, and their Heirs Male had the Precedency, and even before the Wives of Knights-Bannerets before excepted; (the Degree of Baronet being heritable) And alſo that the Children Male and Female of the Baronets, ſhould take place before the Bairns Male and Female reſpectively, of all perſons of whom the Baronets and their Heirs Male had the Priority: And likewiſe before the Children of the Bannerets; and that the Wives of the Sons of the Baronets, and of their Heirs Male, ſhould preceed the Wives of all perſons whom their Husbands might preceed, and that aſwell their Husbands being dead as living. And further, His Majeſty did Declare, and Promiſe, That whenſoever the eldeſt Sons and appearand Heirs Male of the Baronets ſhould attain to the Age of twenty one Years, they ſhould be by His Majeſty and his Succeſſours created, Equites aurati, or Knights Batchelours, without payment of any Fies or Dues for the ſame, providing they ſhould deſire it. But here it is to be obſerved, that ſome of the eldeſt Sons of Baronets pretend to the title of Knight at their Majority, be vertue of this Clauſe, without any previous deſire or dubbing, which certainly is an errour, for if they will not be at the pains to deſire it of His Majeſty, or His Commiſſioner, they ſhould not aſſume it. Likeas His Majeſty did Declare and Ordain, That the Baronets and their their Heirs Male ſhould as an additament of Honour to their Armorial Enſigns, bear either on a Canton or Ineſcutcheon in their option, the Enſign of Nova Scotia being argent, a croſs of St. Andrew azur, (the Badge of Scotland counterchanged) charged with an Ineſcutcheon of the Royal Arms of Scotland: ſupported on the dexter by the Royal Unicorn, and on the ſiniſter, by a Savage or Wild-man proper: and for the creſt a branch of Laurel, and a Thiſtle iſſuing from two Hands conjoyned, the one being armed, the other naked, with this Ditto, Munit hæc & altera vincit. And that they and their Heirs Male ſhould in all time coming have place in all His Majeſties and His Succeſſours Armies in the middle Battel, near and about the Royal Standard for defence thereof. And that they and their Heirs Male may have two Attenders of the Body for bearing up the Pale, one principal Mourner, and four Aſſiſtants, at their Funerals; And that they ſhould be always Called, Intituled, and Deſigned be the name and title of Baronet, and that in all Scottiſh Speeches and writings, the addition of Sir, and in all other diſcourſes and writings, a word ſignifying the ſame ſhould be preponed to their names and other titles, and that the ſtile and title of Baronet ſhould be poſtponed and ſubjoyned thereto in all Letters-patents, and other writes whatſomever, as a neceſſar addition of Dignity, and that each of them ſhould be intituled, Sir A. B. Baronet, and his, and his Sons Wives, ſhould enjoy the ſtile, title, and appellation of Lady, Madam, and Dame, reſpectively, according to the uſual phraſe in ſpeaking and writing. And alſo His Majeſty did thereby promiſe, That the number of the Baronets aſwell in Scotland, as the new Colony of Nova Scotia ſhould never exceed the number of 150. (albeit this number is at preſent ſomewhat augmented) and did likewiſe Declare, that He nor His Succeſſours ſhould never Create, nor Erect in time coming any other Dignity, Degree, Stile, Name, Order, Title, or State, nor ſhould give the Priority or Precedency to any Perſon or Perſons, under the Stile, Degree, and Dignity of a Lord of Parliament of Scotland, which ſhould be, or ſhould be preſumed to be Higher, Superiour, or Equal to that of Baronet: And that the Baronet ſhould have liberty to take place before any ſuch who ſhould happen to be created of any ſuch Degree or Order; and that their Wives, Sons, Daughters, and Sons Wives ſhould have their places accordingly: And that if any queſtion or doubt ſhould ariſe anent their places and prerogatives, the ſame ſhould be decided and judged according to theſe Laws and Cuſtoms, by which other degrees of Heritable Dignities have their priviledges cognoſced and determined. And finally, that none ſhould be created Baronet, either of Scotland or Nova Scotia, till he had firſt fulfilled the Conditions deſigned by His Majeſty for the good and increaſe of that Plantation, and until he had certified the ſame to the King by His Majeſties Lieutenant there.

Theſe Patents were ratified in Parliament, and were always of this form till the ſelling of Nova Scotia to the French, after which time they were made much ſhorter, and granted in general terms with all the Previledges, Precedencies, &c. of the former Baronets. And in the Year 1629. His Majeſty did allow theſe Baronets a particular cognisance, which will be beſt known by the coppy of the following Letter direct be His Majeſty, King Charles the Firſt, to the Privy Council here.

" RIGHT Truſty, and right well-beloved " Couſin and Counſellour, Right truſty " and well beloved Couſins and Counſellours, " and right truſty and well beloved Counſellours, " We greet yon well; Whereas upon good conſideration, and for the better advancement of " the Plantation of New-Scotland, which may " much import the good of Our Service, and " the Honour and Benefit of that Our ancient " Kingdom, Our Royal Father did intend, and " We ſince have erected the Order and Title of " Baronet in Our ſaid ancient Kingdom, which " We have ſince eſtabliſhed and conferred the " ſame on diverſe Gentlemen of good Quality. The order of Baronet in England was erected by King James the VI, for advancing the Plantation of Ulſter in Ireland, and theſe Knights have Priviledges and Precedency, much like to thoſe above ſet down; and there being a Controverſy for Precedency betwixt them and the younger Sons of Viſcounts, and Barons, managed in preſence of King James, it was determined in favours of the younger Sons of Viſcounts and Barons; But at the ſame time it was declared, That ſuch Bannerets as ſhould be made by His Majeſty or Prince of Wales under the Kings Standard, diſplayed in an Army Royal, As alſo, the Knights of the Garter, Privy Counſellours, Maſter of the Court of Wards and Liveries, Chancellour and Under-Theſaurer of the Exchequer, Chancellour of the Dutchy, Chief Juſtice of the Kings Bench, Maſter of the Rolls, Chief Juſtice of the Common-pleas, Chief Barons of Exchequer, and other Judges, and Barons of the degree of the Coif, ſhould have place and precedency both before the younger Sons of Viſcounts, and Barons, and before all Baronets: by which ſome alterations may appear from the Ranking appointed by Henry the IV.

Beſide what has been formerly obſerved in the deſcription of Knights, Baronets. I find that of old a Banneret (or a Ban-rent) has been with us a Title higher than a Baron, for by Act 101. Parl. 7. Ja. 1. Barons may chooſe their own Commiſſioners, but Biſhops, Dukes, Earles, Lords, and Ban-rents are to be ſummonded to Parliament by the Kings ſpecial precept; And it is probable that theſe Ban-rents were Knights of extraordinary reputation, who were allowed to raiſe a Company of Men under their own Banner, but now it is commonly taken for ſuch as are Knighted by the King or Prince under the Royal Standard in time of War. But I conceive that thoſe could not now ſit in Parliament upon the Kings precept, the former Act of Parliament being in deſuetude: They have the Precedency from Baronets, though their Wives have not, this being but a temporary Dignity, and the other an heritable.

Barons in England are Lords with us, but a Baron with us is properly he who has power of pit and gallows; And yet of old I conceive that Lords and Barons were the ſame, for the Statutes of King Robert I. bear to be made in his Parliament holden at Scoon, with Biſhops, Abbots, Priors, Earles, Barons, and others his Noblemen of his Realm: And in our old Original Acts of Parliament, I find that the Lords and Barons are put in one column undiſtinguiſhed and under the common name Barons; And in the firſt Parliament of King James the IV. I find the Maſter of Glames, i. e. the Lord Glames, eldeſt Son ſitting inter Barones. Now the Lords are called the Great Barons, and the reſt are called Small Barons, in the 101. Act. 7. Parl. Ja. 1. and ever ſince; But yet I find by the 166. Act. 13. Parl. Ja. 6. every Earl or Lord payes 2000. pounds, for Lawborrows, and every great Baron 1000. pounds; but by great Baron there is meant a Baron of a conſiderable Eſtate, becauſe that Act was to proportion the Surety to be found to the Eſtate of him who finds the Surety.

The old Barons (or Lairds) amongſt us eſpecially where they are Chiefs of Clans, or the Repreſentatives of old Families that were Earldoms, as Pitcurr is of the Earl of Dirleton, and as Chief of the name of Halyburton, have never ceded the Precedency to Knights-Baronets, much leſs to ordinar Knights. Though the other pretend that a Baron is no name of Dignity, and that Knights-Baronets have a ſpecial Priviledge, that there ſhall be no degree betwixt them and Lords, except the Bannerets; And though militia non eſt per ſe dignitas, Chaſſan. fol. 344. yet generally it is believed, that next to Knights-Baronets ſucceed Knights-Batchelours, and next to them our Lairds, or Landed-Gentlemen, though a Laird in effect is but the corrupt word of a Lord.

Amongſt ſuch as profeſs Sciences, the Ranking goes thus uncontravertedly, 1° Such as profeſs Theology. 2° Such as profeſs the Canon-Law. 3° The Civil-Law. 4° Philoſophy. 5° Medicin. 6° Rhetorick. 7° Poeſcy. 8° Hiſtory. 9° Grammer. 10° Logick. 11° Arithmetick. 12° Geometry. 13° Muſick. 14° Aſtronomy; Chaſſan. de gloria mundi pars decima. And amongſt theſe, ſuch as are Doctors preceed theſe that are not, and amongſt Doctors, the priority goes by Age.

In Towns, Theſe who inhabit Cities are preferred to ſuch as inhabit Burghs, and generally thoſe in the Metropolitan, or capital City are preferred to all the reſt: And thoſe who have born Magiſtracy, are even when their Magiſtracy is over, preferred to all others. And ſo far is this Precedency obſerved, that 1° A younger Alderman or Bailie takes not Precedency from his Senior, becauſe he is Knighted, or as being the elder Knight, as was found in the caſe of the Alderman Craven, who though all the reſt of the Aldermen were Knighted at the Coronation of King James, kept the precedency formerly due to him as Senior Alderman. But though this hold not onely amongſt Aldermen, but that even all Knights of the Countrey, being Burgeſſes of a Town, do cede to theſe who have been their Magiſtrates in it, as to publick Meetings relating to the Town; Yet it is doubted whether ſuch a Knight will be oblieged to give place to an Alderman, or Baily in a neutral place. But it is determined in the Heraulds Office of England, that all ſuch as have been Mayors of London, that is to ſay, Provoſts with us, do take the place of all Knights-batchelours every where, becauſe they have been the Kings Lieutenants.

It is there likewiſe remarked, That Sir John Crook Serjeant at Law, was Knighted before any other Serjeant his Ancient, and ſtanding upon Precedency by reaſon of his Knighthood, It was adjudged againſt him by the Judges, viz. that he ſhould take place according to his Serjeancy, and not after his Knighthood, yet his wife took her place of a Lady before other Serjeants wives.

The Members of Courts do take place amongſt themſelves according to the Precedency of the Courts, where they ſerve; as the Clerks of the Privy Council take place of the Clerks of the Seſſion.

In Families likewiſe, the Chief of the Family takes place of any Gentleman of the Family: And though generally it be believed, that Gentlemen have no precedency one from another, yet Reaſon and Diſcretion do allow that a Gentleman of three Generations, ſhould cede to a Gentleman of ten, if there be not a very great diſparity betwixt their Fortunes, and that for the ſame Reaſon almoſt, that a Gentleman of three Generations claims Precedency from any ordinary Landed-man, who has newly acquired his Lands.

CHAP. IX.

The Precedency due to Women.

WOMEN before their Marriage have Precedency by their Father, but there is this difference betwixt them and the Male-children, that the ſame Precedency is due to all the Daughters that is due to the eldeſt, though it is not ſo amongſt Sons; and the reaſon of the difference ſeems to be, that Daughters would all ſucceed equally, whereas the eldeſt Son excludes all the reſt; But if this be the adequat and true reaſon, then where the Eſtate and Honours are provided to the eldeſt Daughter onely, excluding the reſt, they ought not to have the ſame Precedency that the eldeſt Siſter has. And therefore I aſcribe this difference rather to the cuſtome of Nations meerly founded upon the reſpect due to that Sex.

During the Marriage, the Wife regularly participats of the condition of her Husband by the Civil Law, and Law of Nations, L. 3. C. de Dignitat. Mulieres Honore maritorum erigimus, genere nobilitamus, and ſince ſhe was to be ſharer in his Misfortunes, the Law thought it juſt that ſhe ſhould be ſharer in his Advantages; And the Wife by the Canon Law is called Socia divinæ & humanæ domus, and L. Fœminæ, ff. de Senat. it is ſaid, that Fœminis dignitatem clariſſimam mariti tribuunt: But yet this rule has ſome exceptions, for though in France the Wives of thoſe who have their Dignities by Offices, enjoy the ſame Precedency with their Husband, together with a communication of his Title, and thus they ſay there, Madam la Chancelière, Madam la Præſidente: Yet it is not ſo with us, who think, that Offices are beſtowed on Husbands upon a perſonal account, which is not communicable to their Wives; and yet in ſome Temporary Dignities, ſuch as that of a Knight-batchelour, the Wife participates of the Husbands title and precedency: Though I find by the Heraulds Records, that this proceeded originally, rather from Courteſie than from Law, and that of old a Knights Wife enjoyed onely his Honours during the Spouſals, nor were they to be called in Law Dame Alice, or Dame Catherine, &c. after the Marriage was diſſolved.

By our Law likewiſe, If a Woman have Precedency by her Birth, or Deſcent, ſhe retains ſtill the ſame, notwithſtanding ſhe marry a perſon of inferiour Dignity, contrare to the Rules of the Civil Law; And thus if the Heireſs of a Dutchie, or Earldom, marry a Gentleman, ſhe has ſtill the Precedency due to a Duke, or Earl, albeit by the Civil Law, L. 8. de Senat. it be expreſt that Parentes donec Plebeiis nuptiis fuerint copulatæ, &c. the reaſon whereof is as Faber obſerves upon that Law, becauſe it were moſt abſurd that the Wife ſhould have more dignity then her Husband; and thus Livius obſerves, that Virginia Daughter to a Patrician, or noble Roman, was debarred from the Honours due to her her Birth, becauſe ſhe had married a Plebeian; And it ſeems indeed that he being her Head, it is unnatural that any part ſhould be more honourable then the Head: Nor can there be any thing more contrare to that Superiority, given both by the Law of GOD and Man to Huſbands, nor any means fitter to make a Wife deſpiſe her Huſband than this is. But I think this Precedency has ariſen from the Feudal Law, for the Wife having once a noble Fee, ſhe cannot forfeit the ſame by her Marriage, and therefore ſhe muſt retain the Dignity that is annexed to it, which is incommunicable to her Huſband, becauſe he is not in Fie. But it is obſervable, that if the Daughter of a Nobleman marry another Nobleman, ſhe will loſe the Precedency due to her by her Birth, though ſhe would not have loſed it if ſhe had married a Gentleman, and the reaſon of this ſeems to be, becauſe by marrying a Nobleman ſhe receives another Feudal Dignity, which ſuppreſſes the firſt.

I find it obſerved in Judge Cook, lib. 12. fol. 112. that if a Baron dies, having divers Daughters, the King may conferr upon either of them the Title; And thus the Lord Cromwel having died without Heirs Male, Burchier who married the youngeſt Daughter was made Lord Cromwel, of which we have no example in Scotland; for by our Law, if the Title deſcend to Females by the Patent, the eldeſt onely can ſucceed to the Title, but if it deſcend not by the Patent to Heirs Female, then the King may admit neither to the Title, or either as he pleaſes.

After the Huſbands deceaſe, the Wife did by the Civil Law enjoy her Huſbands precedency during her Widowity, but if ſhe marry to a Perſon of inferiour quality, ſhe loſes that Precedency, L. 8. de Senat. which holds with Us and in England; And yet ſometimes the King allows her the ſame Precedency, by a Letter, as he does alſo to the Daughters of Dukes, and others who have loſt their Precedency by Marriage, which Letters, or Warrands, are direct to the Heraulds Office, and Regiſtred there. And the Queen never loſes her former Dignity though ſhe marry the meaneſt Perſon after the Kings death. And generally, all the Priviledges due to the King, are communicated to the Queen, per L. 31. ff. de Leg. Auguſta, autem Legibus ſoluta non eſt, Principes tamen eadem illi privilegia tribunut quæ ipſi habent. Notwithſtanding whereof, Lawyers think that her Baſtards are not Noble as the Baſtards of Kings, nor does the Womb ever nobilitate. The Countrey of Campaigne in France onely excepted, where it is ſufficient that either the Father or Mother be Noble, which was allowed to the Ladies of that Countrey, upon the killing of all the Nobility at a great Fight, Papon. de Nobleſ. num. 3. By the Civil Law alſo, a Widow living leudly, loſes her former Dignity, Arg. § Fin. in authent. de reſtit. but this holds not with us, vide Bon. de Curt. de Nobilitate, cap. 12. num. 194.

It has been doubted whether a mean Woman marrying a Nobleman, retains the priviledge due to her by her Husband, who has been degraded by Forfeiture, or otherwayes, and Corbin cites a Deciſion, 37. Auguſt, 1698. whereby it was reſolved, that ſhe retains ſtill her former Priviledge, ſince Crimes are perſonal, which is alſo our Cuſtom.

It has been likeways doubted abroad, whether a Noblewoman marrying a Plebeian, and thereby loſing the Precedency due to her Birth, if ſhe marry a Gentleman in the ſecond Marriage, ſhe will thereby recurr to her firſt Dignity, the Perſon be whom ſhe loſt the firſt Dignity being dead; And was found ſhe will not, for in Law that which is once extinct does not revive; and therefore Women in ſuch caſes take Letters of Reſtitution, as they call them, or procure a Warrand from the King, for that effect as the cuſtom is with us, ut interveniet Principis reſtitutio quæ plebecitatis maculam abſtergat, Traitte de la nobleſſe, pag. 324. But there would be no place for this Queſtion here, ſince with us a Noblewoman would not loſe her Precedency by marrying a Plebeian, but the doubt behoov'd to be thus ſtated with us, viz. Whether a Noblewoman marrying a Nobleman of an inferiour degree, would recover her firſt Dignity, ſhe marrying thereafter a Gentleman: Or, whether a Knight-Baronets Lady marrying a Plebeian, could thereafter recover her Dignity if ſhe marry a Gentleman. For I conceive a Knight-Baronets Lady, does not like a Noblewoman, retain her Precedency when ſhe marries a Perſon of inferiour Quality, and I think neither of them would recover their former Dignity without a ſpecial Warrand.

I find that the Commiſſioners appointed to regulate Queen Anns Funerals, did upon the 20. of May, 1619. declare, That the Ladies of the Privy Chamber ſhould in time of mourning, take their places as if the Queen were living, till the Funerals were ended, and that the Queens Chamberers ſhould for the preſent Funeral go before Counteſſes Women, without prejudice to Counteſſes Women, at any time thereafter.

It is fit to obſerve, That the Wives and Daughters of all Dukes, Marqueſſes, Earles, &c. do take the ſame place that the Husbands and Sons do, conform to the Precedency formerly expreſt, pag. 35. And I find in the Heraulds Office of England, an Eſtabliſhment ſettled thus amongſt Women, by Jaſper Duke of Bedford, and other Noblemen, by warrand from Henry the IV.

The Wives of Burgeſſes.

From all which it is to be obſerved, That the Wife of the eldeſt Son of any degree, takes place before Daughters of the ſame degree, and both of them take place of the younger Sons Wife of the preceeding degree; Thus the Lady of the eldeſt Son of a Marqueſs preceeds the Daughter of a Marqueſs, and both preceed the Ladies of Dukes younger Sons: Item, the Wife of the next degree as a Counteſs, preceeds the Lady of the eldeſt Son of the preceeding degree as of a Marqueſs, and the Daughter of a Marqueſs.

3°. This holds not only in comparing degrees amongſt themſelves, but alſo in comparing Families of the ſame degree amongſt themſelves, as for inſtance, though the Marqueſs of Dowglaſs Lady would give place to the Marqueſs of Huntlys Lady, yet the Wife of the Marqueſs of Dowglas eldeſt Son would take place from the Marqueſs of Huntlys Daughter.

4°. Though of old with us in Scotland, the Wives of Lords did contend, that they had the Precedency from the Daughters of Earles: Yet ſince that Letter written by King Charles the I. at his Coronation, we follow the Cuſtome of England, in preferring the Earles Daughter, who takes place immediately after her eldeſt Brothers Wife.

5°. Though the Daughter of a Marqueſs gives place to the Wives of the eldeſt Sons of all Marqueſſes, yet if that Daughter be an Heireſs, and the Daughter of an elder Marqueſs, then ſhe takes place from the Wives of the eldeſt Sons of all younger Marqueſſes, as Segar. obſerves, pag. 240. It is likewiſe obſervable, that ſince this Ranking under Henry the IV. there are ſeveral new additions: For after the Wives of Lords eldeſt Sons and Lords Daughters are Ranked, the Wives of Privy Counſellours and Judges, Wives of the younger Sons of Viſcounts, and of Lords or Barons, the Wives of Baronets, the Wives of Bannerets, the Wives of the Knights of the Bath, and the Wives of Knights-batchelours, &c. as in the former Liſt.

Some conſiderable Queſtions concerning Precedency, Reſolved.

QUESTION I.

Whether in Competitions betwixt Kingdoms, States, and Towns, is their preſent Condition to be Conſidered, or what they were formerly?

To which it is anſwered, with this Diſtinction, viz. Either the Kingdom, or other Places betwixt which Competitions are Stated, remain the ſame that they were in their Subſtantials, and then the former Precedency is ſtill continued; as for inſtance, Though Rome while it was a Common-wealth did ſometimes admit of a Dictator, who had indeed the power of a King, yet they remained ſtill the ſame Common-wealth; and therefore being the ſame in Subſtantials, they ought to have the ſame degree of Precedency continued: Or when two or three Kingdoms are without any Alteration United in one, as the Kingdoms of Scotland and England were United into the Kingdom of Great Britain, under Kings in the ſame Race, who ſucceeded to both, as is fully Demonſtrated by Alb. Gentil. pag. 82. and this is likewiſe clear from L. proponebatur ff. de Judiciis & l. 24. ff. de Legat. 1. But where there is a ſubſtantial Alteration called by Ariſtotle μεταβολη vel παρεκβασις there the former Condition is not conſidered, but the κατεστωσα πολιτια, or preſent condition of the Places in Competition is that which ought to be conſidered: And thus when a Kingdom comes to be Conquer'd by a Stranger, and by a Strange and Foreign Nation, there the State of the Kingdom is abſolutely Innovated, eſpecially if the Laws of the State be altered: And therefore the French Lawyers are of Opinion, that the Precedency of England ought onely to be Computed from William the Conquerour, becauſe, at that time a Stranger and a ſtrange Nation did conquer the ſaid Kingdom, and the Fundamental Laws of it were much Innovat; and if this be not an Alteration none can be: For the Antiquity of Land cannot give Precedency, for all Land was created together, and there are few Nations so Conquest, as that the former People do not remain, so that there can be no Precedency upon that Account, though some who are extravagant in their Zeal for their Countrey doe Argue its Precedency from the first Ages of the World; as Vasquius does that of the Spanish Empire, in deryving it from Tubal Cain, præfatio in Contraverſ. Illuſt.

QUESTION II.

Whether a Kingdom becoming a Common-wealth, or a Common-wealth a Kingdom, does their former Precedency remain?

THIS Question has two Branches wherein the Difficulties differ,

The first is, Whether that Town or Place which was a Republick, having become a Monarchy or Principality, ought it to retain the same Precedency due to the former Common-wealth? And that it ought to retain the same Precedency may be Argued, Because, when one thing is surrogat in the place of another, that which is surrogat ought to have the same priviledge with that in whose place it is surrogat, surrogatum ſubit naturam ſurrogati; But so it is, that the subsequent Principality is surrogat in place of the former Common-wealth, and therefore ought to have the same Precedency: This Reason is likewise seconded by a Decision of Charles the V. who in the Debate betwixt the Duke of Florence, and the Duke of Ferrara, did prefer the Duke of Florence, because the Republick of Florence was formerly preferred to Ferrara.

From this Decision some would distinguish betwixt the Case, where a Citizen of the former Common-wealth is preferred by common consent of his fellow Citizens, in which case they who Governed formerly still Govern, because they choose the new Duke, Prince or King: And the Case wherein a Stranger comes in and Conquers, in which case the former Government is absolutely Altered, and none of those who Governed formerly continue to Govern: Nor does the Argument of Surrogation hold in this case, because that Argument onely holds where one thing is surrogat to an other by common consent, and where the Reason of the Priviledge pleaded in one case remains in the other, neither of which can be alleadged where there is a Conquest; because there, neither is there a Consent, nor does the Government, nor State remain the same, And consequently, ought not to have the same Precedency, seeing the sameness of Precedency depends upon the sameness of the State, which ought to have the Precedency.

The same is likewise to be concluded, where One of the same City or Republick Usurpes the Government; For in that case the former Arguments hold: And though Aristotle libro quinto Politicorum sayes, eundem Statum Reipublicæ manere, ubi rem ſuam & ſummam Reſpublica, ante libera civi alicui ſuo regendam deinceps committit, πάλιν μικρὸν ὅτε μὴν γὰρ ἐξαπαντησαντες το πρωτον ἑκοτων μεταβαλλεσι την πολιτειαν. Yet this requires two Conditions, The one is, that one of the Citizens Govern; and the other is, That the Government be transmitted to him by the common consent of those his fellow Citizens who Governed formerly; An eminent Example thereof We find in that famous Lex Regia, mentioned L. 1. ff. de Conſt. Princ. whereby the Romans transmitted all the power they had to the Emperour, quæ de Imperio lata eſt qua populus eſt qua populus ei & in eum omne ſuum Imperium & poteſtatem contulit, and upon this account it is, that the Roman Emperours pretend the same Precedency that was due to the Common-wealth of Rome, since the Common-wealth did surrender and transmit to them their power.

The next Branch of the Question is, Whether a Kingdom being turned into a Common-wealth, ought to have the same Precedency that was due to the former Kingdom? And it would appear that it ought not, since in becoming a Common-wealth, it is Degraded from its former Dignity, Common-wealths being by the consent of all Nations postponed to all Kings, or Crowned-Heads; Nor does the Argument of Surrogation hold in the matter of Precedency, where there is not onely a substantial Alteration, but a Degradation: The former Argument of Surrogation does not likewise take place, where there has an intermediate Impediment interveened: As for Instance, Though Spain had been formerly a Kingdom, and though England was really a Kingdom of old, yet both these having become afterwards Provinces to the Roman Empire, they cannot reassume the Dignities and Precedency due to them before they were subdued, and became Tributaries; since that Degradation was a medium impedimentum, as Lawyers call it, which hindred the present condition of their Kingdom to be drawn back to its old State: A thousand Instances of which may be given in other cases, and even in the matter of Precedency, If a Family be Degraded, and continue so for a long time, if though they be thereafter restored; Or if an Earl should resign his Title in the Kings Hands, and so extinguish his Title, though he were restored, yet he would not be restored to his former Precedency, in prejudice of those who had acquired Titles medio tempore.

QUESTION III.

Whether he who is Elected to a Dignity, ought to have Precedency thereby, as if he were Actually Admitted?

THIS Question has been often Agitated, and may be of great Use amongst Persons of all Degrees: It was Debated in Anno 1521. betwixt the Ambassadours of Charles the V. who was then Elected Elected Emperour, and the Ambaſſadours of Francis the firſt King of France, who alleadged, that though Charles the V. was Elected Emperour, yet not being Crowned and Anointed, the Election being but an incompleat Act, could not give him Preference; and that it could not was Argued from theſe Reaſons. 1° Before the Emperours Admiſſion and Conſecration, he is not called Emperour, but onely King of the Romans, and therefore he ought not to have the place as Emperour, for the King of the Romans is inferiour to the Emperour, and the Inferiour cannot have the Superiours place. 2° If Election could give the Precedency, there needed not any further Solemnity; For by the Election, the Perſon Elected would be Emperour, for none can have the Emperours place but the Emperour. 3° That which is imperfect cannot operat as much as that which is perfect, L. Ædificia § perfectiſſime ff. de edil. edict. and that which is Imperfect is judged in Law to be no more, then if it were not, Imperfectum, & nullum idem ſunt: And therefore as he could not have Precedency, if there were no Election, ſo neither can he have it, where there is but an incompleat Election. 4° Where there are two Degrees ſubordinat one to another, the inferiour Degree cannot aſpire to that which is due to the Superiour; But ſo it is, that Election is but ſubordinat to Admiſſion, Ergo, it cannot Operat as much as Admiſſion. Notwithſtanding of all which, I find that Gothofred, and others decide for the Emperour, and are of opinion that an Election has in it the Radical Power and Force of Admiſſion, and ſo gives as much Precedency as Admiſſion does; yet with Us, We ſee that an Elect Biſhop takes not the ſame place, that is due to him after he is Admitted: And therefore the Diſtinction would be made here betwixt ſuch an Election, as transfers all the power that Admiſſion can, as we ſee in the Emperour, King of Poland, and others, who can receive no more Power after they are Elected, and delay their Coronation and other ceremonies for their own conveniencies, And the caſe of Biſhops and inferiour Magiſtrates, who are oft-times to receive ſome further power beyond their Election; and ſo, their Election not being equivalent to an Admiſſion, it gives not the ſame Precedency that the other can: And therefore I may conclude generally, that Precedency followes Power and Adminiſtration.

QUESTION IV.

Whether ought One who has been twice or oftener Elected to any Dignity, be Preferred to him who was onely once Elected?

THE Roman Emperours have differed in this, for the Eldeſt and Lateſt Emperours did think, that ſuch repeated Elections did augment the Dignity to thoſe who were Elected, and thus Valentinian novel. 48. and this was likewiſe Hadrians Opinion, as Spartianus obſerves in his Life: But Theodoſius the Younger thought, that theſe repeated Elections did ſhew the Merit of him who was Elected, but did not augment his Dignity, repetiti enim faſces virtutem ſepe meritam comprobant, non augent, quia nihil eſt altius Dignitate, L. 1. C. de Conſul. vid. Cujac. ad l. illam, and with this laſt agrees Goth. Theſ. 28. With Us if the Precedency be determined by a Voice, this holds not, as if one ſhould be Elected to be the firſt Alderman, and another to be a ſecond Alderman, this ſecond would not have the Precedency, though he had been oftimes formerly preferred; But in dubious caſes, certainly repeated Elections do prefer: And though the Imperial Dyet has decided Precedency upon this Account amongſt Generals of an Army, to him who had been twice formerly a General, though the other had been firſt a General, as Goldaſt. obſerves; Yet I find it more Reaſonable, that he who was the eldeſt General, ſhould have been preferred: For that is the Mark of greateſt Experience, and the not being frequently Elected might have proceeded from want of new Occaſions or of Inclination; And it were abſurd to think, that if One had been an old General, and his Commiſſion had continued for many Years, that thereafter another, tho' thrice Elected in a ſhorter time, ſhould be preferred to him. With Us alſo, I find that One who has been twice or ofter preferred to be Provoſt or Mayor, is preferred to him who has been onely once Mayor; and it is Reaſonable that they both living in one place, and being preferred by thoſe of the ſame City, ſhould be preferred in Meetings relating to the ſame City.

QUESTION V.

What Influence has the Conjunction of moe Dignities upon Precedency?

THERE are ſome Lawyers who think, that he who has moſt Imployments ought to be preferred to him who has but one: And thus they ſay, That he who hath two or three Dutchies, or Earldoms, ought to be preferred to him who hath but one, even as two or three Lights are greater then one, and two or three Cords are ſtronger then one; And for this they cite L. Fin. Cod. de edict. d. Adrian. and of this Opinion was Menochius, Conſil. 902. And for this cauſe, Marz. Conſil. 26. thought that the Duke of Ferrara ought to be preferred to the Duke of Florence; And Navarrus Conſil. 1. thought that a Cardinal who was a Chancellour ought to be preferred to an elder Cardinal who was not; And that a Doctor of the Civil and Canon Law, ought to be preferred to a meer Doctor of the Civil Law. But yet Gothofred is of a contrary Opinion, cap. 3. Theſ. 2. And in Our Practice the greater Dignity is preferred to many leſſer Dignities, yea, and the Elder in the ſame Dignity is preferred to him who was laſt Promoted to the ſame Dignity, though he have many leſſer Dignities joyned to it; But betwixt two Dignities that are different, if it be not known to which of the Two the Preceden-cy is due, the conjunction of leſſer Dignities with the Dignity contraverted ought to prefer; Even as if it were doubted, which of two Bodies weighed moſt, or which of two Lights ſhined moſt, the leaſt addition to either would certainly caſt the Ballance and alter the Proportion: But if theſe many be all Inferiour to one Imployment, they ought not to be preferred, no more then many little Pearles ought to be preferred to a great one; and yet if it be doubted which of two Pearles are of greateſt Value, the addition of two or three little ones to either, will raiſe the Value of that one to which they are thrown in.

QUESTION VI.

How far do former Dignities Influence a preſent Advancement, and Determine the Precedency depending thereupon? And what Rank is due to Honorary and Extraordinary Offices?

LAWYERS give divers inſtances of this, As firſt, a Judge is made a Privy Councellour, but thereafter the Preſident of that Court, where he is a Member or Judge, is admitted to be a Privy Councellour; in that caſe though the other was firſt admitted, to be a Privy Councellour, yet the Preſident, though laſt admitted, will have the Precedency, and Vot firſt even in the Privy Council; Becauſe it is indecent, that a Member ſhould have the Precedency, or Vot before his own Preſident: And thus Papon. tells Us, it was decided by the Parliament of Paris, vid. lib. 4. tit. 2. Art. 5. which is not unlike what Vitellius ſayes, in Tacitus 19. Annal. Fœdum ſi de Honoris prærogativa dimicare cum ducibus audeant, ſub quorum ſignis ſtipendia fecerant. A ſecond caſe is, That though a Honorary or Extraordinary Officer will not be preferred to an Officer Ordinary, Yet if a Perſon be a Honorary or Extraordinary Officer, before another be admitted to be an Ordinary Officer, if that Perſon who was but formerly an Extraordinary Officer, be thereafter admitted to be an Ordinary Officer, he will be preferred to him who was admitted before him, though to an equal Degree; Becauſe, though he was not the firſt Officer in Ordinary, yet he is now equal in Dignity with him, and was an Extraordinary Officer before him: As for inſtance, If One be admitted to be an extraordinary Phyſician to his Majeſty, and thereafter become an ordinary Phyſician, he will have the Precedency from them who were Admitted in Ordinary before him, if they were admitted to be Ordinary Phyſicians after he was admitted to be Extraordinary; Precedency being to be taken in that caſe from the Time of the firſt Advancement, L. 4. Cod. de Conſulibus: But though this be obſerved Abroad, yet I doubt if it be obſerved in Britain. A third caſe is this, There are two made Counſellors, but he who is laſt Admitted a Counſellor, is firſt Nobilitat, and therefore even as Counſellor he will have the Precedency, though the other was made the firſt Counſellor; And this was ſo decided by the Emperour Theodoſius, L. unica Cod. Theodoſ. de Conſulibus: And is in Obſervance with Us, amongſt whom the youngeſt Counſellor, being made an Earl, is preferred to elder Counſellors, and though the elder Counſellor be thereafter made an Earl, yet the eldeſt Earl will always be preferred; Though it would ſeem that upon the firſt Counſellours being made an Earl, he ought to be preferred, as in the former caſe where an Extraordinary is preferred, when he becomes to be in equal Dignity with the prior Ordinary Officer. But the Reaſon of the Diſparity is, becauſe Earles are always to preceed according to their Priority, but Officers are not; An Office being but a thing Temporary, and there being no Difference betwixt an Ordinary and Extraordinary Officer, but that the Ordinary has a Sallary, and waits more immediately upon the King, but yet the Extraordinary Officer was truely of equal Dignity with the Ordinary. Theſe Extraordinar Officers were called Honorarii ſeu Codicillares, L. 9. C. de metatis quibus citra cingulum Dignitas pro ſolo Honore delata eſt, they had no Advantage ſave the Dignity, Nov. 70. nihil aliud niſi purum Honorem habent, L. 7. de Decur. they are called inanes umbræ & caſſæ imagines dignitatum. I have heard this caſe alſo Stated with relation to the ſame quære, viz. By the Erection of the Town of Brichen, in a Burgh Royal the Biſhop of Brichen is firſt to Elect, and then the Town are to Elect their Bailies: From which the Queſtion ariſes, Whether if the Biſhop chooſe One who was never a Bailie formerly, and the Town chooſe thoſe who were formerly Elected Bailies, ſhould the the Biſhops Bailie preceed? It being pretended, that though he is to have the firſt Nomination, and the Choiſe of all, yet that ſhould not give his Bailie or Alderman the Precedency, in reſpect that by the conſtant Cuſtom obſerved by all the Burrowes, when many are Elected to be Aldermen or Bailies at once, he who has been formerly a Bailie preceeds always him who was never.

QUESTION VII.

Whether amongſt ſuch as have equal Dignity, the firſt in time ought to be Preferred?

IT is Anſwered, That Generally and Regularly the firſt in Time ought to be Preferred, amongſt ſuch as are equal in Dignity; Which is clear be the Civil Law, not onely in Kingdoms, but in all the Degrees of Nobility and Promotions: And this Our Reaſon may teach Us without Law, for if there were not ſome Certain and Stated Rule whereby Precedencies might be known, it were impoſſible to evite Confuſion, and all other Rules except this are uncertain, but yet this Rule has ſome Exceptions. 1. Princes of the Blood, viz. the Sons, Brothers, Grand-ſons, and Nephews of Kings are excepted from this Rule: For though they be Dukes or Earles of a latter Creation, they are preferred to all of that Dignity. 2. In Germany, many, if the Chief of a Family come to a Dignity, equal to one of his Kinſmen who formerly enjoyed that Dignity, he will be preferred to him, though his Kinſman did firſt attain to the Dignity; An Example whereof Gothofred gives cap. 3. Theſ. 16. this Exception ſeems to be founded upon the right of Blood, to which thoſe of the ſame Family ſeem to give that Reſpect as to an elder Brother; But though thoſe of the Family may give this Reſpect out of Favour, yet in Law they are not thereto Oblieged; For the Prince being the Fountain of Honour, he onely can give Preference, and his Patent may prefer one Couſin to another, ſince he can beſtow Employments which can prefer a Son to a Father: And therefore in Britain, the Date of the Patent is onely conſidered,

QUESTION VIII.

When many are Promoted at once im the ſame Write, or when many are Nominate in the ſame Commiſſion, Whether is the Order of Nameing therein expreſt to be Obſerved?

It is anſwered, That Ordinarly he who is firſt named ought to be preferred, L. 1. ff. de Albo ſcrib. Albericus ad L. inter Claras C. de ſum. Trinit. but though this hold, where the Write wherein many perſons are named is drawn upon Deſign to Prefer thoſe who are named, becauſe, there Promotion being the Deſign, It is to be preſumed that the Order of the Promotion was Obſerved, Gloſſa. ad §. ult. Auth. de Defenſ. Civit. & Clement. 1. de Baptiſmo, yet where the Write had any other Deſign, and the Nomination did onely proceed by way of Narration, there an Argument from the Order of Nomination is not ſtill Concluding; eſpecially, Conſidering that ſuch as draw publick Papers, are not always verſed in caſes of Precedency, and are oft-times ſo intent upon the deſign it ſelf, that they conſider not the Order of Nomination; And thus I have my ſelf ſeen old Charters wherein the Chancellour is oft-times placed after the Lord Chamberlain, and both of them after ſome of the Nobility; and if any Man will conſider Our Statutes, wherein Commiſſions are granted, they will find this Order very ill Obſerved: And Lawyers conclude this Argument very weak in ſuch Caſes, Everard. in Topicis loco ab ordine num. 13. Golſtad. lib. 1. cap. 23. And there are very clear Examples of this given, cap. 2. de Judiciis, cap. Paſtoralis de Conceſſ. prebend.

But yet in dubious Caſes, where the Perſon injured cannot otherwiſe prove his Precedency, this ought to bear great weight, eſpecially, If many ſuch Papers can be ſhewed of one tenour; And if the Office granted by that Commiſſion gives Precedency, above what the perſons therein named could otherwiſe pretend to, then the firſt Nomination has the Precedency: As when Ordinar Gentlemen are named in the Commiſſion of the Privy Council, &c. I find alſo by the old Records of Parliament and Privy Council, that the Members of Parliament and Counſellours are in the Sederunts named as they entered into that particular Meetings, but now they are named according to their true Precedency.

QUESTION IX.

In what Caſes does Age prefer, and what is its Prerogative in the matters of Precedency?

The Conceſſion of the Prince being the Rule of Honour, he who has the firſt Conceſſion ought to be preferred in the matter of publick Honour, except in three caſes obſerved by Gothofred. cap. 3. Theſ. 14. Firſt in Caſes dubious. Secondly, where the pretences are abſolutely equal; And thus of the two Roman Conſuls, the Eldeſt always preceeded, as Plutarch obſerves. Thirdly, to take away Contraverſies amongſt perſons of the ſame Family, but of different Lines. It is obſerved in Germany and other places, that the Eldeſt has always the Precedency, as Golſtad and other German Authours obſerve; And this laſt holds likewiſe with Us, if the Precedency be not clear, and was ſo decided by King James the VI, betwixt Blair of that ilk, and Blair of Balthaiock.

QUESTION X.

Whether does Appearancy of Blood give Precedency before actuall Inveſtiture and Poſſeſſion?

Though it may ſeem, that ſince Marquiſats, Earldoms, &c. being Feudal Honours, conferred oft-times by erecting Lands in a Marquiſat or Earldom, that therefore till the apparent Heir be actually Inveſted, or Infeft as We call it, he ought to have no Precedency; Yet that being expreſly Debated, in Anno 1608. in the caſe of Frederick Duke of Wirtemberg, it was decided, that the very right of Blood tranſmitted the Precedency: But Golſtad. Coment. de Reg. Bohem. lib. 3. cap. 6. is of opinion, That though this may hold where the apparent Heir fought to be Inveſted or Infeft, and his not being Entered nor Infeft was not his Fault; Yet if he did not ſeek to enter, he ought not to have the Precedency: With Us though an apparent Heir never enter, yet he has ſtill the Precedency due to his Predeceſſor.

QUESTION XI.

Whether does the apparent Heir his Aſſuming and Uſing the Title and Precedency of his Predeceſſor, make him lyable to his Predeceſſors Debts, and Infer a Paſſive Title againſt him, as We ſpeak?

To this it is anſwered, That it makes him not Lyable, in payment according to the preſent Current of Our Deciſions, becauſe Honour deſcends from

from the King, and is not any lucrative Acceſſion, out of which Debt may be payed, and no Man ſhould be made lyable to Debts for enjoying that which cannot pay Debts: Nor does the Son poſſeſs this Title by his Father, but by his Family; And Lawyers have reſolved, that Filius retinet Nobilitatem etiam repudiata hæreditate, Bart. in L. Jurisjur. § 1. ff. de Oper. lib. Jac. & in L. ſi non ſortem ff. de condict. in debit. But yet this deciſion may ſeem unſuteable to the Analogy and Principles of Law, For 1° Since Honour is by the firſt Patent and Erection granted to a Man and his Heirs, It ſeems Juſt and Legal that none can enjoy the ſame, but ſuch as are Heirs; ſo that this ſeems to be a qualified Right granted by the King, and conſequently, can be enjoyed by none but ſuch as Purge and Purifie the qualities and are Heirs. 2° We ſee that in other Rights granted to a Man and his Heirs, no Succeſſor can have Right without being Heir, and ſince this holds in Acceſſions of the meaneſt Nature, Why ſhould it not much rather hold in Titles and Dignities which are Things of great Importance? 3° We have no Way nor Method to know who is Heir, but by an Inqueſt, after which he who is ſerved Heir is lyable to all Debts, and if he who is to uſe the Title, needs not be found Heir by an Inqueſt, any Man may uſe the Title of a Deceiſt Peer, and if two contended for it, this could not be tryed without an Inqueſt and Service. 4° The making Men lyable to their Predeceſſors Debts for uſing his Title, would be very advantagious for the Defuncts Creditors, and it is the Intereſt of the Commonwealth that Creditors ſhould be payed; nor could the apparent Heir complain, ſince he may chooſe to uſe the Title or not as he pleaſes. 5° It were advantagious to the Common-wealth that none had a Title, but he who had the Eſtate which was given out with it, and out of which it was to be maintained, a poor Nobility being a great burden upon a Common-wealth, and a ruine to it: And I find that the Parliament of England did Degrade George Nevil from being Duke of Bedford, for want of an Eſtate ſuteable to his Dignity, which Statut. 17. Ed. 4. expreſſes the inconveniencies here mentioned, which are greater in Scotland than in England, becauſe Our Peers have more Intereſt in laying on Taxes than Lords in England have. 6° The Law conſiders not in other Caſes, whether the thing uſed by the apparent Heir, may be advantagious to him, Or whether he may pay Debt with it, for the uſing of meer Ornaments, which can yeeld no Money, Or Things of the meaneſt Advantage, do make him lyable, yea, and he would be lyable though he were a loſer by the Thing he uſed; whereas not onely are Honours and Precedency things of great Advantage, and which Men would buy at any Rate; but if a Man have Liberty once to uſe the Title of his Predeceſſor, it gives him a great Opportunity to inhance his Predeceſſors Eſtate by indirect means: And the former Arguments prove onely that the Blood intereſt as to Honour is tranſmitted without a Service, but not that the Feudal Title of Earl can be ſo tranſmitted.

QUESTION XII.

Whether does the Appearancy of Blood give Precedency, where the Predeceſſor is not Dead?

THIS is called by the Doctors, Spes & expectantia ſucceſſionis κληρονομια κατελπιν and upon this account it is Debated, Whether the Son of a King ought to be preferred to his Brother and all the Peers? And generally, whether the Nephew ought to be preferred to the Uncle who was his Fathers ſecond Brother? And I find it Recorded that Lycurgus did decide for himſelf againſt his Nephew, being the Son of his eldeſt Brother: But I would diſtinguiſh here thus, Firſt in the Families of Kings and Princes, all the Kings Children are preferred to the Kings Brothers, and all the Kings Brothers to the Kings Uncles, and thus it was decided in France by Henry the IIId, Rupanus pag. 508. But formerly the Uncles were preferred by the Conſtitution of Philip the Long, Anno 1316. And though in the Roman Empire before Alexius Comnenius the the Emperours Son was ſtill preferred to his Uncle; Yet that Emperour deſiring to put a Mark of Reſpect upon his own elder Brother, preferred him to his Son, and now the Sons of Princes are ſo far preferred, that not onely they, but all the Princes of the Blood are preferred to all other Peers, though they be laſt Created, as was found by the Parliament of Paris, Anno 1541. betwixt the Dukes of Neveres and Monpenſier. 2° If in other Families the Brother be of a Dignity equal to his elder Brother, then the Brother will be preferred to the Nephew; as if the Brother be an Earl, and the Nephew a Lord as being an Earles Son, in this caſe Expectation will not prefer the Nephew, becauſe there are other actual Degrees of Preferrence. 3° If the Uncle were a Lord by Creation, and the Nephew a Lord by Birth, in which caſe, if the Uncle was a Lord before the Nephew was born, the Uncle ought to be preferred as firſt in Time, but not if the Nephew was firſt born, and thus Baldus diſtinguiſhes, ad L. ut inteſtato C. de ſu. & Leg. Hered. 4° If neither the Nephew nor Uncle have any ſpecial Dignity, then the Son of the elder Brother is to be preferred to the Uncle; And this laſt caſe ſhews, that the immediate hope of Succeſſion, or jus expectantiæ, is in it ſelf a ground of Precedency, and ſince a Man and his apparent Heir are una & eadem Perſona in the Conſtruction of Law, and that in many Things that are Diſadvantagious to the Son, he is look'd upon as Heir apparent, in the ſame way as if his Father were dead; it is therefore juſt, that as he has the Diſadvantages of an apparent Heir, ſo he ought to have the Advantages of an apparent Heir: And thus We ſee that Our Statutes having Declared Compriſings bought in by the apparent rent Heir to be Redeemable by the Defuncts Creditors, It was found that a Compriſing bought in by the eldeſt Son, even whilſt his Father lived, was Redeemable from him, and that he was an apparent Heir, in the conſtruction of Law; And therefore ſince the Law puts him in the ſame caſe, as if the Father were Dead, he ought to have the ſame Precedency, and conſequently ought to be preferred to his Uncle, to whom he would certainly be preferred, if his Father were dead. It is remarkable that in Scotland, the Uncle was of old acknowledged to be King during not only the Pupillarity of his Pupil; but during the Uncles own Natural Life, which being an Invaſion upon the Natural Right of Our Kings, was abrogated under Kenith the IIId.

QUESTION XIII.

Whether ſhould an elder Brother, who was Born before the Father was Preferred to the Dignity of a King, Marqueſs, Earl, &c. be Preferred to a younger Brother who was Born after his Father had attained to either of theſe Dignities?

LAWYERS have varied very much in this Point, For ſome have been of Opinion, that thoſe that are born before the Dignity was attained, cannot pretend to the Precedency due to the Father, for he cannot be ſaid (ſay they) to be the Son of a King, or Marqueſs, whom a King or Marqueſs did not beget; And ſince thoſe who are born before a Crime is committed, looſe not their Dignity by the Fathers committing of the Crime, So by the Rule of Contraries, he who was Born before his Father was Advanced to a Dignity, ought not to participat of that Dignity: This they found likewiſe upon expreſs Laws, L. ſi Senatus Cod. de Dignitat. L. Imperalis Cod. de Nupt. and thus Darius was preferred to be King of the Perſians to Artabazanes. Others do more juſtly conclude, that theſe are to be Preferred though Born before the Dignity was obtained; For, if he who was Born in that Condition can be called the Kings Son, he muſt be the Kings eldeſt Son; And it were very abſurd that the Father ſhould be Noble, and the Son not; And if a King had but one Son, he could not be King if this were allowed: and this is moſt clear L. Senatoris Filium ff. de Senat. where it is ſaid, That he is as well to be called the Son of a Senator, who was Begot before the Father was a Senator, as he who was Begot after; And though this be true as to Succeſſion, and as to the Degree of Nobility in general, yet many Lawyers are of Opinion, that they do not attain to ſo eminent a Degree of Nobility, as if they had been Born after the Father attained to his Nobility; For by the former Law, ſi Senator natus ex illuſtri ante Dignitatem adeptam, eſt clariſſimus; ſolum natus poſtea, illuſtris: Others there are who ſay, That theſe who were Born before, may ſucceed to Honours which deſcended from old Predeceſſors, but thoſe which were acquired in the Fathers own time, ſhould onely deſcend to ſuch as were Born after theſe Honors were acquired. But now generally in Europe, and particularly with Us, even thoſe who were Born before the Father attained to any Dignity, do participat of his Dignity, as if they had been Born after the ſame was acquired in all Caſes.

QUESTION XIV.

Whether ought a Son who is in publick Imployment and Dignified, to Preceed a Father who is not?

IT is anſwered, That a Son being in publick Imployment ought to preceed a Father who is not. And thus Fabius Maximus commanded his Father, to light down from his Horſe, when he was to meet him; and was praiſed for maintaining the Dignity of the Roman Empire in this caſe: And the Son in this caſe is not a private perſon, but Repreſents the Prince or Common-wealth, who are to be preferred to any perſon; and therefore Laurentius Celſi was juſtly taxed at Venice, becauſe he would not meet his Son when he was newly made Duke of Venice, leaſt by being diſcovered before him, he ſhould leſſen the Prerogative of a Father.

But it may be doubted, Whether though this hold in Employments, it ought to hold in Titles, ſince in theſe the Son repreſents not the Commonwealth; And therefore in theſe caſes the Laws of Nature ought to prevail above the Laws of Honour, eſpecially, if there be none preſent but Father and Son; But if there be a third perſon preſent who will take the place from the Father, but not from the Son, then the Son muſt preceed the Father; becauſe, though he yeeld to his Father, yet he ſhould not yeeld to a third Party: And it is a general Rule in Matters of Precedency, that I muſt preceed you, if I preceed him who preceeds you, which is not unlike that Maxim uſed in other parts of Law, qui vincit vincentem me, vincit me.

QUESTION. XV.

Whether may he who has the Survivance of Imployment, challenge any Precedency upon that Account?

TO this it is anſwered, That he cannot Claim any Precedency: For, though there be there the hope of Succeſſion, and that the perſon to ſucceed be in actu proximo, and that likewiſe it may ſeem that he is advanced to a Dignity, and ſo ought to have a Precedency ſuteable to it, and that it may likewiſe ſeem fit for the Intereſt of the Common-wealth, that theſe ſhould be Reſpected and Preferred who are marked out for the Service of the Common-wealth; yet Law nor Cuſtom have given them no Precedency, for ſince they have actually no Dignity nor Power, they ought ought to have no actual Precedency: And thus it was found by the Parliaments of Paris, and Tholows in Anno 1551. & 1560. that these who had Survivances were onely to be preferred, according to the Dates of their actual Admission; And so these who were Admitted to be Councellours or Judges, after they got their Survivance, ought to have the Precedency from them, if they did actually administrate before them, Vid. Maynerd Notabil. quest. cap. 72. Math. de afflict. decis. Neapolitan. 1.

QUESTION XVI.

Whether does the Daughter of a Lord, who would himself have been an Earl if he had lived, take place from the Daughter of a younger Earl.

It may be alleaged that the Daughter of the Lord should not preceed, because, an Earles Daughter should still preceed a Lords Daughter, and this Ladies Father was never an Earl, nor are We to consider futur Honours in the matter of Precedency; And as she would not take it in her Fathers time, so neither ought she after his death: And as her Father himself, being a Lord though an Earles Son, would not have taken place from the younger Earl, so neither should the Lords Daughter from the Earles Daughter, he being a younger Earl then that Lords Father: And I find by the Heraulds Records in England, that Sir Thomas Lees Daughter got a Warrand from the King, to take place as a Lords Daughter, her Father having died before his Father the Lord Lee, which proves that she could not have taken place otherwise, and this is commonly receiv'd in England. But yet it may be Debated, That the Daughter of that Lord should have the Precedency, since her Father would have been an elder Earl; And though she could not take place during her Grand-fathers time who was the elder Earl, yet per jus accrescendi, and the right of Representation, she comes after her Grand-fathers death, to be the Daughter of the elder Earl, for Honour is but a part of Succession; and therefore as she might have right to her Fathers Succession, if she have not Brothers, she may by the same reason have Right to the Honours: And it were very ridiculous to Argue so, as that her elder Brother (if she had any) might take place as an Earles Grand-child, and that she could not take the same place as his Sister; and consequently, since he would take the place of that younger Earl, so should she of that younger Earles Sister or Daughter: And the Reason why she comes to a higher Degree of Precedency by the Death of her Grand-father is, because by the right of Representation her Fathers Family comes in the Grand-fathers place. And to shew, that this Argument, viz. Your Father had not the Precedency of me, therefore you cannot have it of my Daughter, is a weak Argument in cases of Representation, may appear from this, That if it were a good Argument, the younger Earl might aswell say to that Lords Son, Your Father never took the place of me, so neither can you; And though it may be answered to this Argument, that the Disparity betwixt the the Brother and Sister lieth in this, That the Son Represents the Grand-father, but the Daughter does not; Yet if We consider it nearly, even this Answer is Fallacious: For though the Daughter Represents not the Grand-father, yet the Fathers Family Represents the Grand-fathers, and so participats all the Honours of the Grand-fathers Family by that Representation; And as the elder Brother becomes an Earl, Because, if his Father had lived he had been an Earl, so she ought to have the Precedency as an Earles Daughter, because her Father would have been an Earl for the same Reason.

QUESTION XVII.

Whether if the elder Brother be Mad or Dumb, &c. does the second Brother get the same Precedency, as if his Brother were dead?

I have heard this case much Debated, some Contending, That such as were Incapable of succeeding, were to be Reput as dead, & per cap. 1. an Mutis surdis, it is expresly declared, that such as are born Deaf or Dumb, or are naturally Idiots shall not Succeed: But others thought that even these are to Succeed, but have onely their neareſt Agnats given them for Curatours, and so they are Heirs; And consequently, the Precedency is not due to their neareſt Friends during their Life, and they may have Children who would exclude their neareſt Agnats. I find some Lawyers distinguish betwixt such Defects as are Natural, and follow the Havers from their Birth, and these Defects to Exclude from the Succession, so that the next Heir has the same Precedency, as if his elder were dead, if the Succession be of Kingdoms, or Fews that have a Dignity annexed to them: But in private Rights, and where the Defects are Accidental, they assert that the Right remains with the Heir though Defective, and consequently he retains also the Precedency, Tiraquel. quæst. 23.

QUESTION XVIII.

Which of two or moe Twins ought to Preceed, when it is Contraverted which of them was first Born?

We have a remarkable instance of this, Gen. 38. where the Mother desired the Scarlet threed to be bound about his wrest who should be first Born, and as to this point Lawyers have differed very much, For some think that the Estate ought to be devided amongst the Pretenders, if it be divisible of its own Nature; Or if it be indivisible the Superiour may prefer either he pleases, if the Succession be of a Few; Or the Decision may be referred to Lot in privat Persons; Or to the the Vote of the Repreſentatives of the Kingdom, if the Succeſſion be to a Monarchy. Some likewiſe are for the Brothers poſſeſſing by turns and alternately: and though one Witneſs be not ſufficient generally to Eſtabliſh the Right of Succeſſion, yet if any one Woman was only preſent, her Teſtimony would certainly prefer either, neceſſity forming it ſelf into a Law here, as in other caſes, vid. Tiraquel. de Jur. primi Gen. quæſt. 17.

QUESTION XIX.

Whether do Natural Children Born before a Lawful Marriage preceed? And ſhould they be preferred to the Children Born in a Lawful Marriage, if they be Legitimated thereafter?

THIS caſe did exiſt in a moſt illuſtruous inſtance in Scotland: For King Robert the ſecond having begot a Son upon Elizabeth Mure, he thereafter Married Eupham Daughter to the Earl of Roſſe, and had by her the Earles of Strathern, and Athol; after which having married the ſaid Elizabeth Mure, that Marriage did Ligitimate her Children, and by Act of Parliament, preferred to the Children Born in the Lawful Marriage. The Reaſons pro and contra, urged in that Debate at that time are now unknown; But the Arguments which might have been urged in the caſe, are, 1° That a Son ſo Legitimated would Seclude without all Controverſie all Uncles, and other Agnats, Therefore by the ſame he ſhould Seclude his other Brothers, § ſi quis autem defunctis Authent. quibus mod. nat. cap. 1. qui Filii ſunt legit. 2° Legitimation is Retrotracted and drawn back to the time of the Nativity, cap. tanta qui fil. ſunt legit. and Legitimation puts the Perſon ſo Legitimated in the ſame Condition as if he had never been a Baſtard, L. ſi quis Filio § pen. ff. de injuſt. Teſt. and this is beſtowed as a particular Reſpect upon Marriage and its ſacred Character, and to invite Men to make Satisfaction for the wrong they have done. 3° By the Roman Law thoſe that were born in Captivity were not capable of Succeſſion, but how ſoon they were Ranſomed and had returned, they were reſtored to the Right of primo-genitor, and preferred therein to thoſe who were thereafter born at Rome: And therefore ſince ſuch was the Force even of a Civil and unreaſonable Fiction, much more ought greater Force to be allowed to Legitimation, which is founded upon ſo Juſt and Pious Principles. 4° Quo-ad the Right of Succeſſion, the time of the Defuncts death to whom he is to ſucceed, does, regulat the quality of the Succeſſion: And therefore ſince the Perſon legitimated was capable of the Succeſſion the time of the Defunct died, and was then likewiſe the eldeſt, he ought to Succeed as eldeſt, whatever his Condition was the time of his Birth, L. poſt Conſanguineos § proximam ff. de ſuis & Legit. nec enim prius debet de cujuſque conditione queri quam hæreditas vel legatum ad eum pertineat, L. in oportet. ff. de Legat. 2. 5° The eldeſt Son was always eldeſt, and was onely hindred from this Right of primo-genitor and Precedency, by the Legal imperfection of his Birth, and therefore this Impediment being removed by the ſame Law which put it, his Birth-right continues intire.

But whether this Priviledge ſhould be granted to ſuch as are Legitimated by the Prince, and not by the ſubſequent Marriage, may be doubted? And I incline to think it ſhould not, becauſe the ſpecial Reaſon of the former Conceſſion depends upon the Favour and Honour of Marriage; and this is likewiſe clear, cap. & quoniam Auth. quib. mod. nat. vid. Imolam. in cap. Grand. de ſup. negl. Prælat. And my ſecond Argument is, That the Prince cannot by any deed of his prejudge third Parties; But here ſuch a Legitimation, would prejudge the Children of the intermediate Lawful Marriage.

QUESTION XX.

Whether ought the Order of the Nomination to be Obſerved in Commiſſions, where the Perſons are Ranked otherwayes then can be conſiſtent with the Kings former expreſs Grants?

AN inſtance of this may be given in this caſe, viz. The Mayor or Provoſt of a City being Patron of a Colledge within their own Town, His Majeſty grants a Commiſſion for viſiting that Colledge, wherein he names firſt the Biſhop, then the Mayor, &c. The queſtion may be moved whether the Biſhop ought to preceed, becauſe he is firſt named; or the Mayor becauſe he has moſt intereſt, being Patron, Who may likewiſe alledge, that the Biſhops Nomination proceeded only from the Ordinary Cuſtom of naming Eccleſiaſticks firſt.

As alſo, If in a Commiſſion of Juſticiary, three Lords of the Seſſion being named, and the youngeſt of the three being firſt named in the Commiſſion, It may be doubted, whether the Seniority formerly acquired in the Seſſion ought to be Obſerved, and give Precedency in Sitting and Voting; or if they ought to Sit and Vote, according as they are named in the Commiſſion: And it may be alledged that the Seniority in the Seſſion ought to be Reſpected, there being a right of Precedency thereby acquired, which cannot be prejudged by a Nomination, which might have proceeded upon miſtake; ſince it is not to be preſumed that His Majeſty would Degrade any whom He continued otherwiſe in ſo eminent a Dignity: And as if two Brothers were named in a Commiſſion, the elder would ſit and vote firſt, though the younger were firſt named, that inverſion being preſumed to proceed from Errour; ſo ought the ſame to be obſerved amongſt Judges who are in effect Brothers. Some likewiſe uſe to argue in ſuch caſes from the reiterated Order of Nomination, and think that if the Perſons Commiſſionated be oft named after the ſame Order, that the Order of Nomination in that caſe is preſumed to have proceeded from an expreſs Deſign of giving Preferrence, and this they call argumentum a geminatione actuum; But in my judgement it is no infallible Argument, for these Repetitions proceed in course.

QUESTION XXI.

In the Competition betwixt two who are Advanced at the same time, but in different Writes; As if two Patents were subscribed by His Majesty to two several Earles on the same Day, which of the two were to be preferred?

IN answer to this, It is generally concluded, that though both be granted on the same Day, and in the same Hour, the Priority of His Majesties Subscription would prefer him in whose Favours His Majesty did first superscribe; which may be cleared by His Majesties own Declaration, for he being the fountain of Honour, he is the onely fit Judge in all Contraversies concerning it, or if his Majesty do not remember, the Declaration of His Secretary is undoubtedly to be believed, nam in his quæ attingunt officium, officium gerentibus est credendum; But if both His Majesty, and His Secretary were dead, some think that there were place left for the succeeding King to gratifie either, since the compleating of Rights depends absolutely upon him, who is the first Granter: And by the Feudal Law, and Ours, if Resignation be made at the same time in the Superiours hands, in favours of several Persons, locus est gratificationi, as Craig also tells Us, and he may prefer either as he pleases.

Some contend that where several Patents are granted in the same Day, the King may prefer either, though it be known which of the two Patents were first signed and superscribed: For in Law, where the difference of time is so little, the Law looks upon it as no Difference at all, nam de minimis non curat prætor, and Albericus who has writ a Treatise de minimis, is of this Opinion, and We see that the Law in other Cases brings in equally such as approach so near one another in time, nor can the King be said to be functus officio, and to have denuded himself of the power of Preference, where the right of Preference is so small; as when the King superscribes both the Patents at the same time, as that he does not intermix any other business, nec divertit ad alium actum, there indeed it seems that neither can claim Preference by the Priority of Signing, since it appears His Majesty had no design of Preferring the one to the other, and Papers are ordinarly presented to him by accident, as they fall in course. It may then be alledged, that in such dubious cases, where Preference cannot be known from the superscription of the Patents, and where His Majesty does not Declare the Preference by any posterior Act, but leaves both Parties to the Common Law, that there he who had the Precedency before these Patents ought to be continued in the Preference, since in all dubious Cases the Law still prefers the Possessor, & semper in casu dubio pro possessore respondendum; Nor can it be imagined that His Majesty designed to Degrade a Person whom He hath actually Preferred; But so it is, that to postpone a Man to him to whom he was formerly preferred, is somewhat to Degrade him: And since Accumulation and Conjunction of Titles has very many effects in the case of Preference, the least effect it can have, is to prefer the Haver in such a dubious case.

I likewise conceive, That if two Patents were given at the same time, One to a Person who had served His Majesty, and much more to an actual Domestick, and the other to a Person who had not served, nor were no Domestick, that in these Cases he who had served, or were a Domestick would be preferred, because of the presumed Affection of the Prince, and the former Service of the Receiver.

QUESTION XXII.

Whether is Precedency to be Ruled according to the date of the Provision, Investiture, or actual Possession?

THERE are three several times from which ordinarly Precedency is computed, The first is the time when the Honour is first granted, which is called by Lawyers tempus provisionis, If the Advancement be of one single Person to a single Dignity; or tempus Cooptionis, if the Person advanced be associated into any Society, as to be One of moe Judges, &c. The second period of Time, is the time of the Investiture, as when a Nobleman is brought in in his Robes. The third is, the time when he apprehends actual Possession.

These who write upon this Subject do conclude, That Precedency is to be given not from the time of Promotion or Provision, but from the entry to Possession, so that he who is last Provided or Dignified will have Precedency, if he first actually apprehended possession, Bald. in cap. cum olim. de consuetud. Gothofred. de Preced. cap. 3. num. 18. and thus he observes the Courts of Rome, Paris and Tholows to have decided, and for this he cites l. ult. ff. de Excusat. Tutos. l. 1. Cod. Theod. quis in Grad. Prefer. and since Administration is the end of that Advancement, the Act is not Compleat till then.

Though this hold in Honours which require Administration, such as the being in a Judicatory, &c. Yet it holds not in Honours where no Administration is requisit. And thus, if two be Advanced to be Earles, he whose Patent is first past the Kings hand will have the Precedency, though the other serve in the first Parliament, or be present there a day before the other, or have his Patent first Registrat; for it is the King, and and not his Clerk, that makes Noble, but yet this is Debated by La Rocque, cap. 66. Lawyers likewise Observe that the former Rule, preferring him who has first Served to him who was first Provided or Invested, holds good, though he who was first Provided or Invested was not in mora, and and did not delay to take Poſſeſſion, but was hindred by ſome extrinſick Impediment, ſuch as Sickneſs; And this they ſay was decided the 27 of April, 1594. in Rota Romana, and this is obſerved to be the common Opinion by Gonzales ad regulam 8. Cancel. and this they prove by the Analogy of other Feudal Rights, which being to be compleated by Poſſeſſion, the Law conſiders not whether the Party who ſhould have poſſeſt was hindred from attaining to Poſſeſſion, but who firſt attained to Poſſeſſion.

QUESTION XXIII.

Whether does the Dignity of him who beſtows the Honour, Regulate the Precedency that is beſtowed among Equals?

It is anſwered, That it does, all other things being Equal; and thus thoſe who have the ſame Dignity from a King, as for inſtance, Thoſe who are made Knights by a King are preferred to thoſe who are made Knights by a Common-wealth; And amongſt Common-wealths, thoſe who are made Noble by the greater Common-wealth are preferred to thoſe of the ſame Degree made Noble by a leſſer Common-wealth, Gloſſ. ad L. 2. de Alb. ſcribend. Menoch. Conſil. 126. Lauderus de Dignitat. Concluſ. 32. and this holds ſo far, that the youngeſt Knight admitted by the one is preferred to the eldeſt admitted by the other: But Knights admitted by a Commiſſioner, are not upon this account to be poſtpon'd to thoſe made by the King himſelf, ſince they are in the Conſtruction of Law admitted by the ſame Dignity, & qui facit per alium, facit per ſe.

It is very obſervable, that the French King prefers the Dukes made by the Emperour, not onely to the Dukes made by himſelf, but even to the Ambaſſadours of Forreign Kings; though I think this is allowed onely to theſe Dukes, who are Sovereign Princes. By this rule likewiſe it is, that the Clerks of a Superiour Court are preferred to theſe of an Inferiour, ſince they derive their power from a higher Juriſdiction.

QUESTION XXIV.

Whether can a Prince Nobilitat any of his own Subjects in the Territories of another Prince?

It has been Argued that he cannot; becauſe he cannot beſtow Honours, but where he is a Prince, but ſo it is, that he is not a Prince, at leaſt hath no power in the Territories of another Prince: Which Opinion ſeems to be founded on L. ult. ff. de Off. præfect. Urb. and therefore Sigiſmund the Emperour having deſigned at Lions in France, to Creat the Earl of Savoy, Duke of Savoy, he was reſiſted by the Governour of Lions, till the French King ſhould be advertiſed; And Charles the V. having whilſt he was Emperour, Created ſome Lords and Knights in France, though at the deſire of Francis the I. the French King, their Creation being thereafter Contraverted by their Peers, It was found Illegal: But yet I incline rather to Noldus's Opinion, de Nobilitate c. 2. who thinks that a Prince may Exerciſe any Voluntar Juriſdiction without his own Dominions, eſpecially in Relation to his own Subjects, L. 1. ff. de Officio pro Conſul. Bartol. in L. 1. Col. 9. La Rocque triact de la nobleſſe, c. 76. and if they ſhould attempt againſt his Life, they would be guilty of Treaſon, though the attempt was made in a Forreign Nation. Lawyers likewiſe have allowed to Princes all manner of Juriſdiction, even within the Dominion of others: And therefore I much admire, how theſe Honours that were beſtowed by Charles the V. could have been thereafter contraverted, if the perſons to be Dignified were the Emperours own Subjects; but I believe they were not.

QUESTION XXV.

Whether when the Preſident of any Court or Incorporation is abſent, may the eldeſt Member Convocat the Incorporation? And who ought to precede in that Caſe?

To the firſt of theſe Queſtions it is anſwered by ſome Lawyers, That the Preſident being abſent, the eldeſt Member in Dignity, may by his own Authority call the meeting Convocare Collegium, as they call it, and of this Opinion are Hoſtienſis, Panorm. Bald. ad cap. 1. de Major & Obed: but others are of Opinion that the Major part has only right to conveen the reſt in that caſe, Innocent. ad cap. 2. de operi. nov. nunc. But a third Sect of Lawyers do, for agreeing the former Opinions, aſſert that in Eccleſiaſtick Meetings, the eldeſt may by his own Authority call the reſt, but not ſo in Laick Meetings; and the reaſon of this Diſtinction ſeems to be, becauſe Churchmen are bound to give more Obedience to their Seniors, and there is leſs fear of Deſign amongſt them, both becauſe they are preſumed to be more diſintereſted, and becauſe in their Meetings their Poſterity is not to gain: But without any Diſtinction I ſhould think, that the eldeſt may always Convocat, for there may be hazard in delay, if the greater part were requiſit, for the queſtion ſtill recurrs who ſhould call the greater part, nor can there be great hazard in calling, for the onely hazard is the packing of a Quorum, and this may be prevented, by impoſing a Neceſſity upon thoſe who meet to advertiſe the reſt.

To the ſecond Queſtion it is anſwered, That this is much to be determined by Cuſtom, and Our Courts in Scotland ſuffer not the eldeſt to preceed, but chooſe alwayes one to preceed in the abſence of their conſtant Preſident; and this ſeems to be moſt Reaſonable, becauſe every Member of a Court is not ordinarly fit to be a Preſident: And yet there are ſome Lawyers who diſtinguiſh betwixt ſuch Courts, to whom the chief Magiſtrat has choſen no conſtant Preſident; and in theſe they ſay the eldeſt cannot preceed, though they say he ought to preceed in these Courts where the King has choos'd a President, for as in these the Members cannot choose a constant President, so neither can they choose a Vice-president, since surrogatum subit naturam surrogati, whereas the eldest is a President by the Magistrates tacit Election, since he has that Seniority from the King, or supream Magistrate, which does prefer him to be President: and we see that amongs Soldiers, the eldest Officer always commands, when the superiour Officer is absent.

QUESTION XXVI.

Whether may a Peer be Degraded, because he hath not an Estate sufficient to entertain a Person of his Quality? And by whom may he be Degraded?

IT would seem that a Peer cannot be Degraded, though he hath not a suteable Estate, because the King may Nobilitate a Person that wants an Estate, and Nobility being a right derived from Blood, it seems to have no Dependance upon Riches; and as the having of Riches gives not Nobility, so neither should the want of them take it away; Likewise this is very expres by the Roman Law, Lege humilem, Cod. de Incest. nupt. where it is said, humilem & abjectam fœminam non eam esse quæ licet pauper sit ab ingenuis tamen parentibus nata est. And that this hath been very anciently the Opinion of the World, is clear from that of Euripides, apud Stob. serm. 86. πενης γαρ εκ ενειν απωλεσεν το τε πατρος γενειας.

But I find that Cook 4. inst. folio 355. and the Authour of Jus Imaginis, pag. 25. conclude that Poverty is a good cause for the Degrading of a Peer, an instance whereof, they give in George Nevil Duke of Bedford, who was Degraded by Act of Parl. 17. Edward the IV, of which Act this is the tenour, And forasmuch as it is openly known, that the said George hath not, nor by Inheritance may have any livelyhood to support the said Name, Estate, and Dignity, or any name of Estate, as oftentimes it is seen, that when any Lord is called to high Estate, and have not livelyhood convenient to support the same Dignity, it induceth great Poverty, and Indigence, and causeth oftentimes Extortion, Embracery, and Maintenance to be had, to the great trouble of such Countries, where such Estate shall happen to be inhabited; Wherefore the King by Advice of his Lords Spiritual and Temporal, and the Commons in this present Parliament assembled, and by the Authority of the same, Ordaineth, Establisheth, and Enacteth, that from henceforth the same Erection, and making of the same Duke, and all the names of Dignity to the said George, or to John Nevil his Father, be from henceforth void, and of none effect, &c.

From which Act three Things may be well observed,

First, That the said Duke had not any Possessions to support his Dignity, yet his Dignity could not be taken away from him without an Act of Parliament.

Secondly, The inconveniencies appear, where a great Estate or Dignity is not accompanied with a Livelyhood.

Thirdly, This is a good Cause to take away the Dignity by Parliament.

For reconciling which Opinions, it seems indeed, that though a person who is noble by Birth should fall into poverty, yet that poverty can no more Degrade him from his Nobility, then it can taint his Blood; but though it cannot root out that Noble Character from his Blood, and make him no Gentleman, yet it seems a good reason why he may be Degraded from being a Peer of the Realm: For he being a Peer, is no necessar effect of Blood, but a mark of the Royal bounty, bestowed for the better Government and Advantage of the Kingdom, Earles being by their Original Præpositi Comitatus, or Commanders of the County, and Counties or Shires are so called, because they are the Governments of a Count or Earl: And therefore when the King and Parliament find that they are not fit to bear this quality, they may justly take away that Honour that was given, nor can there be any thing so inconvenient, as that these should represent the Kingdom in its greatest concerns, and burden it with Taxes, who have no interest in the one, nor can bear any share in the other. And that these Feudal Dignities and marks of Nobility may be taken off by the loss of the Fews, is clear by Bartolus in L. inam. Cod. de Dignitatibus, and that this is the custome of Sicily is clear, Afflictus. Col. non. in 6. not.

It may likewise seem reasonable, that as the King onely can bestow Nobility, so that it should be onely proper for him to Degrade; And since he may Create any Nobleman though he be poor, so he may continue him so, notwithstanding of his Poverty, specially seeing the being a Peer is but to be the Princes Counsellour, nor can any judge who are fit to be his Counsellours, but himself; nor is the Parliament any thing but his great Council: But since this Degradation is a kind of Forfeitur, it seems that the Parliament onely can be Judges therein, since the King does not use to Forfeit by his own Authority; And though the former Arguments may prove that a Peer cannot be Degraded for poverty, except the King pleases, which is certainly true, since no Act of Parliament can pass without his Royal consent, yet they prove not that the King may Degrade a Nobleman by his own Authority, except he may Judge all cases immediately by himself.

QUESTION XXVII.

Whether is a Patent never made use of by the Father, valid after his Death?

It is answered, That though the Patent being granted to such a man therein Designed seems to die with him, and that the Father dying with this quality cannot transmit it to his Son, yet it is certain, that the Patent is valid to his posterity: For except where it was Designed to be personal, it is conceived in Favour of a Man and his Heirs; and thus it was judged in the cause of Queſnel Advocat in Rowan, 4. May 1623. vid. La Rocque cap. 67.

QUESTION XXVIII.

Whether if the Father use any low or base Trade which Derogates from Nobility, will his Children and Descendants loose it thereby?

In answering to this case, We must distinguish betwixt such as derive their Nobility from their Fathers onely, and some think that in that case, the misbehaviour of the Father does extinguish the Nobility of the Race, and that the Descendants are no more Noble, except they be restored by an expres Gift, Or otherwise the Nobility of the Race has descended from a long Series of Predecessours, and then the Fathers Deed does not prejudge them, since they do not owe their Nobility to him, and the Prince having Nobilitat such a man and his Posterity, they owe their Nobility to the King, and derive it from him equally with the Father, which Distinction I find in the Learned Faber. Cod. L. 9. T. 28. Def. 1. But it seems that by this last reason, Even that Nobility which is begun in the Father cannot be lost by his fault: And therefore some Lawyers have been of Opinion, that that Nobility which descends by immemorial Possession, and which flows not from a particular Priviledge and Concession, can never be taken away by the Fathers baseness or crime, Wornæsius tom. 1. responsorum de Jure Pontificio Consil. 20. num. 7. And thus we find in the Roman Story, that Marcus Emilius Scaurus was found not to have lost his Nobility by his Fathers becoming a bearer of Coals, Curt. conjectur. jur. civil. lib. 2. cap. 20. and others think that as it is sufficient for acquiring Nobility, that the Grand-father and Father have been repute Noble; So by the rule of Contraries, it is sufficient for extinguishing Nobility, that the Father and Grand-father have been repute Ignoble; And though the rights of Blood cannot be lost by prescription, yet Nobility may be lost, as all other priviledges can, by not exersing or owning it time out of mind.

It is fit to know, that in this Isle not onely that Nobility which comes by Succession and Immemorial possession, but even that which comes by Priviledge and Concession can be Forfeited by the Fathers Crime: And in this We differ from Warnesius Opinion, and therefore the Children must be rehabilitat and restored by the King; But the Fathers unworthiness in exercising mean Shifts and Trades, does not amongst us Derogate from the Childrens Nobility as in other Nations; Nor do I see any reason for the distinction used by Warnesius, for all Nobility must be acknowledged to have flowed originally from the King by Concession, and even that Nobility, which comes by priviledge, does descend upon the Children by the Kings grant to them aswell as the Father, and so cannot be prejudged by any personal Deed of his, except in the case of a Crime against the King, for that is still implyed in the Concession, and it is not just that the Children of Traitours should enjoy those Titles, and that Nobility which might be useful to them in revenging their unjust Quarrels.

QUESTION XXIX.

One having resigned a Dignity or Imployment, and returning thereafter thereto, whether does he who has so resigned return to his former Precedency?

To this it is answered, That he does not; but having embraced again the Imployment he had formerly resigned, he is onely to have Precedency according to his last Reinstalment, Langleus 7. Semest. 8. where it is laid down as a rule that Precedency once lost is never recovered, and an instance of this is given cap. ex Insinuatione 26. in a Chanon, who having once renounced his Benefice, and having thereafter embraced it, is onely to be preferred according to the Date of his last Title.

From this last rule, viz. that a Precedency once lost cannot be recovered, Gothofred. de Preced. cap. 6. num. 43. observes these Exceptions,

First, If the person who renounced his Dignity was preferred to a Higher or more Noble, in which case if he return to his first Imployment, he looses not the Precedency due to it, for a greater Dignity never prejudges the lesser, L. 3. C. de Dignitatibus Rupanus, lib. 7. cap. 27. and contains in it the lesser, per eminentiam, as Lawyers speak, superveniens major Dignitas auget non minuit statum, except the two Offices be incompatible in themselves, for then the lesser is extinguisht by the greater, L. si debitoris ff. de fide jussor.

The second Exception is, If the person in whose favours the Resignation was made, will not accept, and upon his refusal the Resigner does presently return to his Precedency, L. si forte ff. de Offic. Presid. And the reason is, because the Resignation being there made in favours of another has that tacit Condition in it, that if the other in whose favours it was made accept not, the Resignation shall be null, and this is the nature of all Resig-

Resignations in favorem with us as to all Fews, as Craig well observes.

The third Exception is, If he who made the Resignation do presently repent, for in that case likewise he is in the condition, as if he Resigned not; And thus the Law takes not advantage of Our sudden and undigested Thoughts, Et uxor quæ mox rediit divertisse non videtur.

The fourth Exception given by him is, If he who Resigned reserved to himself his former Precedency: for which though there be several Roman decisions, yet it is very debateable, how far a man can by Protestation or Paction, distinguish and reserve a Precedency, when he has Resigned or Disponed the Imployment to which it was annexed; For since the Precedency is onely due upon the account of the Imployment, it would seem that he who has Resigned the Imployment, cannot retain the Precedency, and to do so, were to retain accidens sine subjecto.

QUESTION XXX.

Whether may a Nobleman resign his Honours in favours of a third Party? And if the Kings Confirmation thereupon will exclude the neareſt Agnats, who would else have succeeded by their right of Blood?

THIS Question seems of great Importance and Intricacy: For it may seem that he may transfer his Title in prejudice of his neareſt Heirs, because the Title is onely a Fee, and all Fews may be alienated; nor is this a meer right of Blood, but a Priviledge bestowed by the King, and consequently may be transferred by his consent: Nor can there be any thing more for the interest either of the Kingdom or of Noble Families, than that when the neareſt Heir is unfit to succeed, wanting either Means or Wit suitable to such a Dignity, it should be in the power of the King, and the Noble person himself to choose a fit Successor. Likeas this was so decided in the case of Robert King of Sicily, Cl. pastoral. de re Jud. And many Lawyers have been of opinion, that even elder Brothers might resign their right of Succession and primo-genitur in favours of the third Brother, passing by the second, vid. c. 1. § præterea tit. quib. mod. feud. amit. & Bald. Consil. 389.

But others conclude, That the neareſt by Blood are not prejudged by such Resignations: Because this is a right flowing from the favour of Nature and Law, Naturæ & Legis donum quod non potest auferri, L. si arrogotor, ff. § sed an ff. de Adopt. nor is Dignity exposable to Sale or in Commerce, L. Julianus ff. si quis omiss. Whereas if such Resignations or Transmissions were sustainable, all Titles might be sold, and the meaneſt Fellow if Rich, might by the favour of a Minister, and the folly of the present Possessor, exclude the Nobleſt Race: And by the Feudal Law, though a Vassal may denude himself, yet he cannot transmit his Fee in favours of remoter Heirs to the prejudice of the nearer, cap. Titius tit. si de feud. fuer. Contraverſ. this case is not decided with us; but the King upon a Resignation from the late Earl of Caithnes in favours of Glenurchy, confirmed the Title in his favours, but by a new Patent, and without the former Precedency, and discharged by a letter the next Heir to use the Title, till the matter should be decided by the Judge competent. But I find that in England Edw. II. granted to Edmond de Lincourt upon his Petition a Patent under the great Seal, impowering him to assign his Sirname, Arms, and Barony: But the Lord Hoe having assigned his Name, Arms, and Dignity without the Kings Licence, the Deed was adjudged void in Parliament; From which the Authour of Jus imaginis, pag. 27. concludes, Firſt, That the Title of Nobility may be assigned: Secondly, That it cannot be assigned without the Kings Licence: And yet I find that in the Viscount Purbecks Case, it was lately found by the Parliament of England, that a Nobleman could not levy a Fine upon his Honour in prejudice of his Heir, that is to say, That a Nobleman could not do any deed to the prejudice of his Honour, by alienating or surrendring the same to the prejudice of his Heir, though I am informed that there were very many instances adduced for clearing the contrare opinion.

QUESTION XXXI.

Whether does the former right of Precedency remain with him who has resigned the Office by which he enjoyed the Precedency?

IT seems that the Honour being in that case due upon the account of the Office, should ceaſe with its cause: But yet such respect is given by the Law to those who have once enjoyed an Office, and used it well, that the former Dignity and Precedency is allowed them after they have resigned the Office, L. eam Legem ff. de excusat. Illi in quos munera nostra redundarunt, beneficiis eorum non solum quamdiu militaverunt, sed etiam quamdiu vixerint, perfruentur, and Guid. Pap. relates decis. 377. that it was so decided: For the being esteemed worthy to possess such an Office is a quality inherent to, and inseparable from the person so advanced, and in most cases even Deprivation does not extinguish the Precedency, because the order still remains, as if a Bishop be deposed he is still a Bishop, and therefore has Precedency as such; But in such cases as the deprivation destroys the order it self, it destroys also in that case the Precedency, as if a Knight were degraded for Cowardlineſs, he is no more a Knight, and so looses the Precedency annext to the Order, L. 12. de Dignit. si Judices se furtis & sceleribus fuerint comaculasse convicti, ablatis codocillorum insignibus & honore exuti inter plebeios habeantur.

QUESTION XXXII.

If a perſon do not of himſelf reſign, but be called from his Charge by the Prince to another Imployment, and one provided to his place, and returning thereafter to his firſt Dignity by the Princes command, whether does he get Precedency according to his firſt or laſt inſtalment?

I find this to have been agitated in the Parliament of Savoy, Anno 1590. in the Caſe of the Biſhop of Alby, who being called from being a Counſellour in that Parliament to a Biſhoprick, and his place being filled by another, he thereafter was called back to be a Counſellour: And this may fall out with us in many caſes, as for inſtance, If one ſhould be called from being a Lord of the Seſſion to be Juſtice General, and ſhould thereafter be returned to be a Lord of the Seſſion: And I find it was decided in Savoy, that the perſon ſo recalled ought to preceed according to his firſt Inſtalment; but the reaſon there was that the Prince had expreſly declared at his Demiſſion, that if he returned he ſhould return to his firſt Precedency, and that it were indecent that he who was firſt formerly in that Judicature, ſhould thereafter ſit in the loweſt place, meerly becauſe he was once called away to a higher preferment: And in my opinion, If the Prince had not ſo expreſly declared at the firſt Demiſſion, the caſe might have been harder, but that Declaration made that thoſe who were thereafter preferred, could not think themſelves prejudged by this new readmiſſion, ſince their Inſtalment was ſtill burdened with this tacit quality. I likewiſe think, that if he had returned before any others had been advanced, the difficulty had been much leſs, ſince there no third party was prejudged of a right acquired medio tempore; albeit it might be alleaged that by his Tranſlation, the other Judges formerly below him ſucceeded to his right of Precedency; For againſt this I conceive the former proteſtation could have eaſily guarded, albeit that proteſtation does ſeem contraria facto, and the quality adjected to be inconſiſtent with the nature of the thing, where the place was filled by another, ſince regularly two cannot preſerve the ſame Rank or Degree, Arg. L. cum in Teſtamento ff. de hæred. inſtituend. It may be likewiſe argued, that though this quality and proteſtation was admiſſable, where the party ſo called away was called to a higher Dignity of the ſame rank, that there the leſſer was poſſeſt by poſſeſſing the greater, as if a Juſtice General ſhould be called back to be a Lord; Yet this would not hold, notwithſtanding of the former proteſtation and quality, where he is called away to a leſſer imployment, or where he is called to an imployment of a different and incompatible Nature, as from being a Judge to be a Collonel: And yet all theſe queſtions ſeem of leſs difficulty with Us, where the Prince may certainly admit a Judge to be the firſt or laſt: And therefore amongſt Us theſe Queſtions would onely take place, where the perſon formerly inſtalled was called away or preferred without any ſuch Declaration by the King in his favours.

QUESTION XXXIII.

Whether does he who is ſuſpended from the Exerciſe of an Office, return to the ſame Precedency when the Suſpenſion is taken off?

To this it is anſwered, He does: For though a Suſpenſion may ſeem a Degradation and a Privation of the former Honour, and all Privations extinguiſh, nec datur regreſſus a privatione ad habitum, yet, Suſpenſion is in Law declared to be onely a temporal Interdiction from the Exerciſe, but not an extinction or Privation of the right: And this is clearly determined, L. 2. § ff. de Decurion. and by Langlæus. 7. Semeſt. 8.

QUESTION XXXIV.

Two having Offices, and changing one with another their Imployments for a time, whether when they Reſume their former Imployments, do they return to their former Precedency?

It is anſwered, Where two did exchange Imployments, and thereafter returned to their old Imployments, Lawyers are of opinion, that in that caſe they return to their former Precedency, and that their Imployments are not looked upon as new Imployments, becauſe the one poſſeſt ſtill by the other, and ſo the Poſſeſſion was ſtill the ſame, as if it had been by themſelves, L'oiſeau lib. 1. cap. 7. Rupan. lib. 7. cap. 27. but though this may hold where both of them changed but for a time, ſince there indeed the one poſſeſt by the other; yet this ſeems harder, in the caſe where both of them exchanged abſolutely and for ever: For there, their former right ſeems to have been extinguiſhed, and the Imployments to be new as to both.

QUESTION XXXV.

Whether is he who is reſtored by the Prince to a Dignity, from which he was Degraded, to be reſtored to the ſame Precedency which he had formerly?

To which it is anſwered by Gothofred. cap. 6. Theſ. 45. That he is not by this Reſtitution to recover his former Precedency from which he was Degraded, but he muſt preceed by vertue of his new Title onely: But I ſhould rather diſtinguiſh betwixt theſe who are reſtored by way of Juſtice, in which caſe the Precedency ought to be the ſame, becauſe the Reſtitution by way of Juſtice takes away the Impediment and Degradation, as if it had never been; but where the

Reſti-

Reſtitution is onely by way of Grace, there the Fault and Sentence ſtill remains, though the puniſhment be taken off; and there the Reſtitution ought not to reſtore the Precedency, in prejudice of thoſe who had acquired titles betwixt the Forfeitour and Reſtitution: A clear inſtance whereof we have in the Earl of Crawfurd, who being Forfeit for Rebelling againſt King James the II. at the Battel of Brichen, and being thereafter reſtored, he was not reſtored ſo as to take place from the Earl of Huntly? But yet it is obſervable, that the 4. Act. p. 16. p. 87. J. 6. which appoints Reſtitutions per modum gratiæ, not to prejudge third parties; ſpeaks onely of Lands, Poſſeſſions, and ſuch other parts of the Eſtate forfeited, but ſpeaks not of Honours; and therefore ſome conclude that perſons forfeited may be reſtored to the Honours of their Family, notwithſtanding the Precedency by the reſt of the Nobility in the interim, which is the rather received amongſt us, that the King may with us creat an Earl with the Precedency from all others, as he could have done in England before the Statute of Hen. VIII. For I find by the Herauld Records, that Edmond of Hadham is created Earl of Richmond, & quod habeat ſedem in Parliamentis & alibi proximum ducibus: And Henry Beauchamp Earl of Warwick, is made primus Comes Angliæ, whereas he was formerly almoſt laſt, and thereafter is created Duke of Warwick, with this addition; That he ſhall go Mate-like with the Duke of Northfolk, and above the Duke of Buckingham. And ſince our Kings had this Prerogative, and that they have not reſtricted themſelves, they might have it ſtill, though they ſhould uſe it ſparingly.

QUESTION XXXVI.

Whether have the Ambaſſadours of Monarchs the Precedency from other Monarchs or Princes themſelves, if perſonally preſent, even as the Kings would do whom they repreſent? And if in all caſes an Ambaſſadour ought to have the ſame Precedency that is due to his Conſtituent?

To this it is anſwered, That though an Ambaſſadour repreſents the Monarch from whom he derives his Commiſſion, and that ſome learned Lawyers do upon that account aſſert, that they are to have the ſame Precedency that is due to their Maſter, and ſo to be preferred to all Kings and Princes though preſent, to whom their Conſtituents would have been preferred, Paſchal. de Legat. cap. 38. yet the cuſtom of Nations has run contrar to his opinion, in preferring even inferiour Kings and Princes: And it is decided amongſt the Princes of Germany, Tit. 25. Aureæ Bullæ, Car. 4. And in Anno 1542. the Ambaſſidours of Charles the V. Emperour, were decerned to cede the Precedency to Ferdinand King of the Romans, and the Reaſons are, 1° Becauſe Princes found it their Intereſt to have no Subject compete with them, or to have their own preſence leſſened by ſuch marks of Diſreſpect. 2° In a Prince who is preſent there reſides True and Original Majeſty; whereas an Ambaſſadour is only dignified with a Suppoſititious and Repreſentative Honour, ſhining (if I may ſo ſay) with borrowed rayes: And of this opinion are Brunus de Legat. lib. 5. cap. 8. and Coſta Conſil. 44. though Zouch. de Jure inter Gentes ſeems to favour Paſchals opinion.

It may be likewiſe doubted, whether an Ambaſſadour does retain the ſame Precedency due to him as Ambaſſadour, when the Prince who ſent him comes to the place himſelf: And this was debated by the Earl Mariſhal who was ſent over Ambaſſadour to Denmark, when K. Ja. the VI. went over in Perſon thereafter, and brought over Chancellour Maitland with him, who challenged the Precedency from the Earl Mariſhal, alleaging that an Ambaſſadours Power evaniſhes upon his Princes appearance: Which debate was decided by King James in favours of the Chancellour, albeit the Earl contended, That as his Ambaſſie ceaſed upon the Kings coming thither, ſo did the others Office as Chancellour ceaſe in a forreign Kingdom, and therefore that he ſhould have preceeded as being an Earl.

The former opinion preferring inferiour Princes when Perſonally preſent, αυτοπροσωπους is ſo much the rather true, that Ambaſſadours are not, when they come to viſit the Judicatures of the Nations where they preceed allowed the ſame Precedency; And generally it is given as a Rule by Lawyers, that in locis & actibus Judicialibus Legatis præcedentia ſolita non ſervatur, & non pro dignitate Regis aut alterius a quo ablegati ſunt, Gothofred. de Jure præcedentiæ, cap. 7. num. 47. ſo that though Kings themſelves would ſit above all theſe Judicatures, yet their Ambaſſadours ſit but among them; Thus the Venetian Ambaſſadour was onely placed in the Parliament of Paris after the Biſhops, as Rupan. obſerves, lib. 7. cap. 10.

Though Ambaſſadours have the ſame Precedency that is due to their Conſtituents, yet Agents and Reſidents of Princes have not, nor has the Popes Nuncio the Precedency that is due to an Ambaſſadour, Gothofred. ibid. for theſe in effect are ſent oftentimes to prevent the Debates that might fall amongſt Ambaſſadours, and therefore the French King ſends very rarely his Ambaſſadours to the Emperours Court, becauſe he knows that Court would give the Spaniſh Ambaſſadours the Precedency, which he thinks is due to his Ambaſſadours.

QUESTION XXXVII.

Whether have ſuch as have been Ambaſſadours, or have been in ſuch honourable Imployments, any Precedency thereby when their Imployment is ended?

To which it is anſwered, That though after an honourable Imployment is over, whether by Dimiſſion, Dimiſſion, or by the expyring of the Commiſſion, the Precedency thereto annex'd ceaſes with it; Yet the Prince ſometimes gratifies the perſon with a continuance of ſome Precedency and Honour: And in the Records of the Herauld Office in England, I find that in a Court Mariſhal, Sir Dudley Diggs, and Sir Thomas Smith, were adjudged to have the Precedency from other Knights-Batchelours of their own Degree, becauſe they had been Ambaſſadours, though their Commiſſion was expyred. In the Cuſtoms alſo of moſt Nations, a Judge retains ſtill amongſt thoſe of his own Bench the ſame Precedency that he had formerly before his Dimiſſion, or his being laid aſide, except he has been laid aſide for a Crime or Fault.

QUESTION XXXVIII.

What place is due to the Repreſentatives of Subjects, ſuch as Viccars, Deputs, Aſſiſtants, &c.

IT would ſeem that as Ambaſſadours have the ſame place that is due to him whom they repreſent, ſo thoſe who repreſent Subjects, as Viccars who repreſent the Biſhop, Deputs who repreſent Judges, ought to have the ſame place that is due to thoſe whom they repreſent: I find that L. 7. de Honorcodicil. C. Theod. there are four Dignities Ranked, viz. Præfectorum, Proconſulum, Vicariorum, & Exconſularium. And certainly in thoſe Acts, wherein they repreſent their Conſtituent, they have the ſame Precedency that is due to him, Felin. in cap. cum olim de Offic. de Legat. And thus by the Canon Law, the Biſhops Viccar is preferred to the Dean, and Arch-dean, and not onely are theſe repreſentative Dignities preferred in the Acts of their Juriſdiction, but even in all other deeds, which neceſſarily preceed or follow them; And ſome Lawyers are of Opinion, that they are to be preferred to the ſame Dignity, in all promiſcuous and indifferent Acts which fall in during the time of the Repreſentation, and thus Cautuccius deciſ. 582. is of Opinion, that the Biſhops Viccar ſent by him to hold a Synod, is to have Precedency before all the Chapter, not onely in the Synod it ſelf, but likewiſe in all other Aſſemblies, Viſits, and Entertainments, during his Commiſſion: But the contrare of this is maintained by Menoch, Conſil. 51. And in my Opinion, theſe Doctors may be thus reconciled, viz. If the Repreſentation flow immediately from the Law, or for inſtance, If the Council ſhould Delegate any man to be Sheriff, there the perſon ſubſtitut would have in all caſes during his Commiſſion, the ſame place that is due to him in whoſe place he was Surrogat, for there Surrogatum ſapit naturam ſurrogati; But if the Repreſentation flow from the perſon himſelf whom he Repreſents, in that caſe the Repreſentative has onely the Precedency, whilſt he is exerciſing the Office, or in Actions thereto relating; And thus Sheriff-deputs with us have onely the Precedency due to their Conſtituents, whilſt they are exerciſing theſe Acts which relate to their Office: And yet I think, that thoſe Repreſentatives of Subjects have even in all extrinſick and indifferent Acts the Precedency due to their Conſtituents, when they meet with others of the ſame Degree, and thus amongſt Sheriff-Deputes, &c. the Precedency is to be given according to the Precedency that is due to the Principal Sheriffs.

QUESTION XXXIX.

What Precedency is due to Aſſeſſors appointed for Judges, and to extraordinary Judges?

I CONCEIVE that Aſſeſſors choſen by a Judge get no Precedency thereby, ſince Subjects cannot beſtow Dignities; but that where the Prince names any man Aſſeſſor to a Judicature, the Perſon ſo named Aſſeſſor, nam eſt ejus umbra, his ſhadow as the Law ſpeaks, and the ſhadow ſhould follow the body: And with Us when the Council names Aſſeſſors to the Juſtices, the Aſſeſſors vote onely after the Juſtices; And yet in France I find that Aſſeſſors take place after the Preſident, and before the other Councellours, and ſo it was decided at Paris, 1608.

It may be alſo doubted, whether Our extraordinar Lords of Seſſion who ſit with and vote after the ordinar Judges, ſhould have place after them if they were not Earles or Noblemen, as by the inſtitution they are oblieged to be (but not either as that the King may not promote Gentlemen hereafter) quo caſu, I think they would take place after the ordinar, as they vote after them: For theſe extraordinar Lords are like to theſe adſcriptitii or allecti, L. 2. C. ut dignit. ord. ſervetur. of whom Capitolinus in the life of Pertinax, quum Commodus allectionibus innumeris prætorios miſcuiſſet, ſenatuſconſultum Pertinax fecit juſſitque eos qui præturas non geſſiſſent ſed allectione accepiſſent poſt eos eſſe qui vere prætores fuiſſent.

QUESTION XL.

Whether can the King Creat now an new Earl, and Ordain him to preceed all the former Earles, or any ſuch Number of them as he pleaſes?

IT would ſeem that the King cannot: For there being a Precedency acquired to the former Earles by their firſt Gift, the King cannot by any new Gift prejudge third Parties, and this were in effect to Forfeit them of their Precedency; Likeas it would ſeem, that ſince moſt Earldoms were granted by erecting Lands in an Earldom in favours of the Receiver, that therefore the Conceſſions of Land and Honours are of the ſame Nature, and that no new Grant can prejudge the one more then the other.

But it may be urged on the Kings part, that the King being the onely Fountain of Honour, he may do therein as he pleaſes, except in ſo far as he is limited by Law; And therefore ſince there is no Law with us limiting the King in this point, he may do therein as he pleases. 2° The King by Act of Parliament, Henry the Eight, is limited as to this point in England, so that he can grant no such Preference; And therefore it may be concluded that this was formerly in his power even there, and that since he is not limited here, his power is here intire as to this point, whereof many Instances are given in answer to Quest. 35. and since that Statute, it is thought that His Majesty may ordain the last Knight to preceed all the rest formerly dubb'd and created, because Knights are not expreset in that Statute. 3° We see the King in Scotland does impower Countesses to retain their former Precedency, though they marry a Husband of a Rank inferiour to their first Husband; And Dukes Daughters even after their Marriage, to retain the Precedency due to them as Dukes Daughters. 4° His Majesty does by new Confirmations transfer the Honours to Heirs Female, though the Patents at first were only granted to Heirs Male, and so by the not existing of the Heirs Male, those Earles who have the next Precedency might aswell alleadge, That the King could not by any new right in favours of the Heirs Female prejudge them. 5° His Majesty does sometimes appoint any of his Officers of State to preceed others as he pleases; though these may likewise alleadge, that there is jus quæsitum to them by their prior Gifts. 6° His Majesty restores the Sons of Persons forfeited to their Fathers Precedency, notwithstanding of the jus quæsitum, by others medio tempore. 7° The King has oblieged himself not to prefer the Knights of Nova Scotia, or Knights-Baronets, otherwise then according to their Creation, which had been unnecessar, if the King could not have preferred them by His Royal Prerogative: Sometimes also His Majesty confirms to the Nobility the Entails of their Estates, whereby they have power to name their Successors with the Precedency due to themselves, which right being ordinarly ratified in Parliament, uses to establish and transfer the Precedency upon the Heir or Successour so nominated; But since Ratifications pass without observation, and oftentimes without reading, it may be doubted whether such a Ratification should prejudge even those who were Members of Parliament, but much more such as were not present, or such were Created thereafter, these Ratifications not being properly publick and Legistative Statutes, and so can bind onely such as consented.

QUESTION XLI.

Whether if the King should creat an Earl with Precedency to all other Earles, during his life? Or if when an Earl is Forfeited, will his Lady in either of these Cases retain the Precedency she formerly enjoyed during her Husbands life?

To which it is answered, That as to the first it was expresly decided in England, in the case of the Earl of Notingham, that he upon the surrender of the Admirals Office, being by King James allowed the same Precedency that belonged to John Lord Moubray his Predeceessour, That therefore his Lady should enjoy the same Precedency if she survived him, because this was not a Dignity of Office, but a real Dignity settled in his Person; and generally in all real Dignities such as those of Dukes, Marqueesses, Earles, &c. the Wives participat the Husbands Honour even after his Death, for it is not the Patent that confers the Honour upon her, for else she could not enjoy the same except she were therein mentioned, but her right flows from the Common-Law which illustrates the Wife with the Husbands Dignity, because Marriage is individua vitæ consuetudo; And in the Law, the Husband and Wife are one Person, and for the same reason we see likewise that the Wives of Knight-Batchelours, and Knights of the Bath, enjoy the same Precedency that was due to their Husbands, though they enjoyed the same for Life: And whereas it may be objected that the Husband having the Honour but for Life, it cannot be continued longer then for the time limited, or to be transferred to the Wife after the death of her Husband. It is answered by the same rule and proportion no Wife whatsoever should enjoy the Title of her Husbands Honour after his deceas, but then all the Honour and Place should surceas, for she challenges nothing but from her Husband: The Honour for perpetuity to the Heirs, concerns onely the Descendants and they are thereby Enobled; But to her a State for Life, and a State to the Heirs is all one. I find also that Sir William Heron having married the Daughter and Heir of the Lord Saye, and so being in her right a Baron, and by reason of that Marriage summoned to the Parliament as a Peer of the Realm, having survived his Wife, albeit he had no Issue by her, he notwithstanding enjoyed that Title and Dignity during his Life.

To the second branch of this Question it is answered, The Wife of a Person forfeited, enjoyes the same Title and Dignity that was due to her before the forfeiture; for though it may seem that the Dignity of the Father is extinguished, and consequently she cannot enjoy it; Yet the Crime punishes onely the Person, and corrupts onely the Blood quo-ad the Descendants, but not quo-ad the Wife: And though the Honour be extinguished, yet being extinguished upon a personal Account, the Punishment ought not to reach further then the Crime.

QUESTION XLII.

Whether amongst those of the Royal Line, does the next to the Royal Stock preceed? Or does the Precedency belong to the eldest of that Branch?

THE reason of this doubt is, Because as in other Nobility the first who is dignified has still the Precedency, as being fartheft removed from the the Dreggs and Lees of the Vulgar; So amongſt thoſe who are deſcended of Kings, the laſt is ſtill preferred as being nearer to the Common-Stock, by which all are Enobled: And therefore the Uncle, it ſeems, ſhould preceed his Nephew by the elder Brother, as being a Degree nearer to the Stock, as was alleadged by the Cardinal of Bourbon, Uncle to Henry the Fourth: But yet it was juſtly decided for Henry the Fourth, becauſe though the younger Branch be ſtill preferred, yet amongſt theſe of the ſame Branch the eldeſt is ſtill preferable, for by the right of Repreſentation he Repreſented his Father, which Father would have been preferred, and here again the right of Birth-right ſtill returns: And this holds not only in France, as Tillet obſerves, but with us in Britain, and generally in all Law, Exod. 6. and 1 Chron. 4. vid. Dec. Conſil. 445. albeit of old in Scotland the Uncles did oftentimes uſurp upon this account, L'oiſeau chap. 7. And to this day the eldeſt Cadets in private Families do ſtill take place with us, from the laſt deſcended beyond the Brothers of the Family, and thoſe old Cadets take place of the Nephews, which is an Errour.

QUESTION XLIII.

Whether and when is the right or left Hand the chief Mark of Precedency? And whether is the Place oppoſite to the Seat of the chief Perſon who ſits betwixt the two preferable to either right or left Hand?

To this it is anſwered, That amongſt both the Jews, Greeks, and Romans, where three were either ſitting or walking, the middle-place was thought the chief place; but where two were without a third, the right Hand was concluded the more Noble amongſt the Jews: And thus the Scripture tells us, That ſuch as are to be ſaved ſhall ſit at the right hand of GOD; And yet in Jacobs Bleſſing Ephraim and Manaſſeh, the left Hand was preferred, Geneſ. 48. vid. Panſirol. lib. 1. pag. 501. But amongſt the Romans it was doubted which of the two was preferable, Demſterus Antiq; Roman. pag. 866. And yet it is certain that amongſt the Turks the left ſide is accounted the more Noble, becauſe he commands his Neighbours Sword: And though theſe be the chief Seats, yet he who is ſet oppoſite to him who ſits in the midle, is thereby preferred to him who either ſits upon the right or left Hand, ſince in effect he is made the Correſpondent of the chief Perſon, as Golſtadus defends by many Inſtances, pag. 433.

QUESTION XLIV.

Whether in Improbations raiſed to ſecure Precedency, can Certifications be granted, aſwell, againſt Patents of Honour as againſt other Writes?

This Queſtion having occurred in a Debate January 1672. betwixt the Earl of Sutherland and the Earl of Errol, It was urged that in Declaratours of Precedency, and Improbations raiſed for ſecuring thereof, no Certification could be granted, becauſe 1°. Such Certifications were only granted where the Right and Title to be improven was conſtitute by Write: But ſo it is, that the Dignity and Honour of Dukes, Marqueſſes, Earles, &c. was not onely eſtabliſhed by Patents, or Infeftments, but might be acquired by bringing them in to Parliament in their Robes, and ſuch other formes of Creation, as have been practiſed both amongſt us and other Nations, againſt which no Certification could operat. 2°. Certifications are onely allowed where the Purſuer of the Improbation has a direct Title to that whereof the Right is to be improven, excluſive of all others: But ſo it is that the Earl of Sutherland, nor no other has an expreſs, and explicite Right to be the firſt Earl of Scotland, and any right he has to the Precedency; ariſes only conſequentially. 3°. Improbations being onely a Remedy introduced by our Law and the native deſigne thereof being to ſecure real Rights, and private Eſtates: It ought to be extended to no ſuch Caſe, as that of Dignities and Honours, to which it has never been applyed, during theſe many Years that Improbations have been uſed here, and to which certainly our Predeceſſours would have applyed them, if the nature of the Action would have allowed it.

To which it was anſwered, That Certifications be-being introduced amongſt us, to ſecure the Purſuer againſt any Events in the Defenders Hand, which might prejudge the Purſuers right, they ought to be extended to Honours eſtabliſhed by Patent, or Infeftment, theſe being Rights that are tranſmitted by Write, and this being the nature of thoſe Certifications, they ought to take place every where except where expreſs Law or Deciſions have reſtricted them. And therefore, ſince there is no Law nor Deciſion, Declaring that Certifications ſhall not be granted againſt Patents, or Infeftments which tranſmit Honour: They ought to be granted againſt theſe, aſwell as againſt other rights. Nor is it craved, that theſe Certifications ſhould run againſt Honours tranſmitted via facti, ſuch as Robing, and Belting, and though the Purſuer be not deſigned by his Infeftments the firſt Earl, yet that cannot hinder him from removing by this Certification, all Writes, or Evidents, which may hinder him to be the firſt; Upon which Debate, the Lords refuſed to grant Certification againſt ſuch Patents, or Infeftments.

Courſes taken by Princes and Judges, when they intend to ſhun the decyding of Contraverſies concerning Precedency, and to preſerve the Rights of all the Competitors.

Firſt, They ordain the Competitors to preceed one another by turns, and alternatively: And thus the Emperour Lewis the Fourth did in Anno 1328. decide betwixt the Prince Palatine, and the Duke of Bavaria, and so the Parliament of Paris decided in Anno 1616; but lest the first turn should give the Precedency that uses to be decided by lot. And I find this alternation very old, for the Thebans did so decide betwixt the Brother-Kings, Etheocles and Polinix; and Plutarch observes the same betwixt Thyestes and Attreus.

Secondly, They use to assigne one of the Competitors a place out of all Rank; as was done to the Spanish Ambassadour in the Council of Trent, and is frequently done in Our Parliaments; But though this preserves the Right, it insinuates a Ceding: And therefore the juster way is to place both so without the Benches, as that neither of their Seats can shew any Preference, as was done at the Council of Trent betwixt the Emperours Ambassadour and the Cardinal of Trent.

Thirdly, They use to cause them to enter by several Doors, as was observed betwixt the Queen of France, and Margaret Sister to Charles the Fifth, as Guicciardin observes.

Fourthly, They use round Tables, or to write the Names of the Pretenders in a Circle, an Example whereof we have in Garius, lib. 1. Institut. and Pope Urbane having desired the Franciscans to give him three of their Number, out of which he might chuse one to be Cardinal, they wrote down their three Names circular-ways; but in this case, the Names should be written down exactly in the middle of the Table or Paper; for else as Crantzius observes, he whose Name is next to the top of the Paper has thereby some Precedency.

Fifthly, The eldest of the Competitors is still ordained to preceed: Of which Livius gives an Instance, lib. 42. and King James the Sixth decided so between several Families in Scotland, and particularly between the Lairds of Blair and Balthaok.

Sixthly, Sometimes he who was first promoted to a Benefice or Office is preferred, where the difference is betwixt the Offices or Benefices; and thus it was decided betwixt the Sees of Rheims and Treves.

Seventhly, Sometimes also the Competitors are preferred according as they produce their Commissions, as was done in the Council of Trent betwixt the Ambassadours of Portugal and Hungary; and the Polonians do frequently in Competitions between Ambassadours, prefer him who first enters their Territories, Bodin. de Repub. lib. 1. cap. 9.

Eightly, Sometimes also the Competitors are ordained to give their suffrage and preceed according to the respect due to the Nations, and not to the Persons: As was decided in the Council of Constans and Basil.

Ninthly, It is observed that Octavius Farnesius Prince of Parma and Placentia, to shun the difference of Precedency betwixt his two Towns of Parma and Plasentia, did write himself Duke of P. P. And King James the Sixth to shun any debate that could have been between Scotland and England, assumed the Title of King of Great Britain.

Tenthly, Some use to secure themselves against such Contests by Protestations, which certainly do interrupt prescription, and preserve the Protesters right, L. 14. § 8. ff. de Relig. but in that case the protestation must be presently interposed, for protestations after the deeds contraverted are ended and past, are concluded to be of no value, Carpzol. def. 22. for protestations cannot be drawn back: But it has been doubted whether the Person against whom the protestation is taken, does prejudge himself, when he does not protest in the contrar, for this seems to infer an acquiescence that the protestation is just, since qui tacet consentire videtur, and this is the occasion, why in our Judicatures when one protests, the other ordinarly protests in the contrare: But yet it is generally concluded that Silence in that case does not prejudge him against whom the protestation is taken, since he knows that in Law the protestation secures his right, Tusc. tom. 6. Conclus. 941.

THE FIRST PART; OR Honour Military.

CHAP. I.

ALL Honours may not improperly be said to receive their Birth either from the City, Court, or Camp, which of all is esteemed the most worthy and honourable, raising some to Imperial and Princely Dignities, and disthroning others: And in all Kingdoms (even amongst the barbarous Americans) War hath ever been, and yet is, held in high Esteem and of great Importance; as well for the preservation of their Laws and Rights, as for the defence of their Dominions; for which War is permitted by the Laws of God, is taught by the Laws of Nature, and commanded by the Laws of Nations. And to excite Men to Valour and noble Atchievments, Reward, or Honours is conferred upon such that merits the same, according to their Deserts, for the defence of holy Church, their King, and Country.

War being therefore of such concern, it behoveth every prudent Prince, for the welfare of his People, to be always prepared for Peace or War, either Offensive or Defensive, both for Foreign Invasion, or the suppressing Domestick Insurrections; wherefore it hath been found expedient to joyn good Laws (the Friends of Peace and Rest) unto Arms; War being always accompanied with Men of audacious and furious Spirits.

Justinianus, for the uniting of Laws and Arms, appointed one Officer, called a Prætor, to command both Martially and Civilly; which Name the Romans continued for their General of War, and by his Office had Authority both Martial and Civil. By which it appears that War cannot endure without the assistance of Law: And wise Men, in former Ages, did hold that Prudence and Power ought not to be separated; of which Opinion was Horace, saying, Vis expers consilii mole ruit sua. Likewise for the same reason, learned Writers were induced to commend valiant Captains and wise Counsellors, as it were joyntly and in one rank; for with Simonides they joyned Pausanias; with Cræsus, Solon; and with Pericles, Anaxagoras.

Of War, and the Causes thereof.

DISCORD is common to all Men, and that occasioned either by Revenge for Injuries done, out of Covetousness in gaining that which belongs to others; for Ambition in gaining Fame by noble Victories, or such like Reasons; and this maketh one City to wage War against another, one Province to invade another, and whole Kingdoms to oppress one another, even to a Conquest if they can. Aristotle proveth that some Men by nature are born to Command, and others to Obey: By which it appears that War is necessary, as well to compel those to Obedience, as others to hold their Authority. The Romans did sometimes judge it convenient to make War, to train up their Youth fit for Service, and to keep them from Idleneſs, which breedeth Intemperance and Diſhoneſty. And by Action, Princes that are martially inclined, have not only gained Renown, but alſo much enlarged their Dominions. Yet I am of the Opinion, That War ought not to be made without juſt Cauſe, and when the Enemy cannot be perſwaded to Reaſon by Ambaſſadors, prudent Princes and Commanders do not wage War unadviſedly; and when they do, they ſhould follow the Example of Trajanus, who obſerved theſe Cautions; to be careful to ſupply the places of his ſlain Soldiers; to repreſs the Enemies Pride; and according to Military Diſcipline, conſtrain Mutiners to Obedience and Order.

to

Of Soldiers.

SOLDIERS, or Men profeſſing Arms, according to Ulpianus, were called Milites à malitia, id eſt duritia; that is, were ſo named in reſpect of the hardneſs and danger they endure in defence of other People, or becauſe they keep off the Injuries which Enemies do offer. He that deſireth to enjoy the Honour belonging to Arms, ought firſt to prove himſelf a Soldier: which by the Civil Laws may be done three ways; the firſt is by Certificate from the Captain or Officers; ſecondly, he ought to make proof of his Experience and Manhood in Martial Affairs; and thirdly, to be regiſtred in the Liſt of received Soldiers: And none other properly ought to be termed Soldiers.

By ancient Cuſtom, Soldiers always took an Oath not to abandon their Captain or Camp, not to commit Treaſon, nor conſult with one another privately to cauſe Mutining, and the like. Martianus the great Doctor, did reject Bondmen as perſons unfit and unworthy to be called Soldiers; and no Perſon that hath committed any infamous Crime, of which he is convicted, ought afterwards to bear Arms; ſo honourable is the Name and Dignity of a Soldier.

The perſons excuſed from bearing Arms, are Prieſts, and all in Holy Orders, all Graduates in Schools, all Men above the Age of 60 Years, and thoſe under the Age of 17 Years.

Thoſe Soldiers that had long ſerved the Romans, either in their Legion, or elſewhere, and deported themſelves obediently to their Officers, and honeſtly to all Men, were called Veterani, and had great favour ſhewed them; and that when any Veteran had honeſtly ſerved them the ſpace of twenty Years, he was then called Emeritus, and might have his Diſmiſſion to end his Days in Peace and Quietneſs, with the enjoyment of divers Immunities, beſides ſignal marks of Honour according to their Merit; which was a great Encouragement to Youth to be trained up in Military Service, which oft-times they made uſe of, appointing Tutors to inſtruct them therein, and theſe they called Tyrones.

And as on the one hand the Romans rewarded them for good Service, ſo on the other they inflicted Puniſhments according to the heinouſneſs of the Offence; as for Treaſon, Diſobedience, abandoning their Colours, and aſſiſting the Enemy; alſo for Theft, Murder, and Cowardiſe, which they eſteemed moſt vile. The experience of which was ſeen when Spartacus defeated the Romans, conducted by Craſſus: For preſently upon that diſhonour, Craſſus commanded a Decimation, and put to Death a tenth Man in every Legion, for not having couragiouſly behaved himſelf; which being done, he began the Fight afreſh, and although their Number was leſſened, yet were they victorious, and made havock of the Enemy. And if it happened that a Soldier was degraded for any Offence, it was deemed more diſhonourable unto him, than a Puniſhment either Corporal or Pecuniary.

The Donatives or Rewards which the Romans uſed to beſtow on deſerving Soldiers, were either advance of Honour, increaſe of Wealth, or both; and that more or leſs, according to their Deſerts: ſome of which I ſhall here give account of. To him that had diſmounted an Enemy (if a Foot-man) was given a pot of Gold, or a piece of Plate; and if an Horſe-man, an ornamental Badge to be ſet on his Creſt. He that firſt mounted the Wall of an Enemies Town or place of Fortification, had a Crown of Gold. Octavius Cæſar, after the Philippian War, gave unto the Legionary Soldiers certain Crowns, and unto every Captain a purple Garment. Julius Cæſar, after his Triumph for Victory againſt Pharnax, gave unto every Soldier five thouſand Groats, to every Leader twice as many, and to every Horſe-man double ſo much. Pompeius having overcome Mithridates, before he triumphed, beſtowed upon every Soldier five hundred Groats, and upon the Captains a far greater Reward. And Alexander Severus did uſually ſay, That Soldiers would not live in awe of their General, if they were not well clothed, well fed, well armed, and ſome Money in their Purſes.

Nor was the Romans ſlack in their Rewards unto their Generals; for beſides rich Preſents, they conferred Honour on them, and received them home with triumphal Arches; and to perpetuate their Fame, they erected Pillars, Statues, or Obylisks, to ſet forth their noble Victories.

But what need we fetch all theſe Examples from the Romans, when our modern Princes do the ſame: Witneſs the high advance to Honour and Riches that our Sovereign, King Charles the Second, beſtowed on that truly Loyal and much deſerving Subject, George late Duke of Albemarle, whom I ſhall anon take more occaſion to ſpeak of: Nor hath His Majeſty's Favour been only ſhewed on him, but on divers others, as their Merits deſerved; ſome of which I ſhall alſo take occaſion to ſpeak of in place more convenient.

Of Ambaſſadors or Legats.

THE Office of an Ambaſſador is of ſo great Honour and Truſt, that none are imployed therein, but ſuch as are ſufficiently known unto their Prince for Perſons of Integrity, Prudence, Knowledge in State Affairs, and ſuch as will be ſtrict Obſervers of their Maſters Commands. The Romans had ſo high an eſteem for Ambaſſadors, that whenſoever any came to Rome, he was firſt brought unto the Temple of Saturnus, where his Name was written before the Præfectiarii, and from thence he was conducted to deliver his Embaſſy to the Senate. Ambaſſadors ought to be in all Countries inviolable; and whoſo offered Violence unto them, was thought to have done contrary to the Law of Nations: which cauſed Publius Mutius to command, That whoſoever did aſſault an Ambaſſador, ſhould be delivered up to the Enemy from whom the Ambaſſador was ſent; and although the Enemy received him not, yet was he to remain an Exile.

Ambaſſadors are generally imployed by their Prince for the Confirming or Eſtabliſhing of Peace, a Truce, or Leagues: To demand Reſtitution for Things unjuſtly detained, or Satisfaction for Injuries done: To eſtabliſh or adjuſt Commerce, or the like. And they are ſent (and ſo likewiſe received) in ſome State and Grandure befitting ſo high a Dignity.

The Ceremonies, in many Countries, for the Confirming and Eſtabliſhing of Peace, a Truce, and Leagues have been diverſly uſed.

The Lacedemonians confirmed their Treaties with great Sacraments, ſwearing to obſerve the ſame juſtly, and without Fraud. The Tartarians cauſed ſome Weapon of War to be brought, and thereupon they took an Oath to obſerve the ſame; which done, they drank of the Water wherein the Weapon was waſhed. The Grecians (after the death of Cyrus the younger) confirming a Peace with Arieno, a Commander of a barbarous ſort of People, cauſed a Bull, a Boar, a Wolf, and a Ram to be ſlain, and laid upon a Shield, and in the Blood of thoſe Beaſts the Grecians dipt their Swords, and the Barbarians their Launces, each proteſting to obſerve Fidelity and Friendſhip to each other. And the Romans uſed this Ceremony, that when Peace was made, the Prætor, the Conſul, or Senate delivered to the Fœcial an Herb called Verbena, or Graſs pull'd up by the Root, and therewith ſome Boughs of Verbena, together with a Flint taken out of the Temple of Jupiter Feretrius; which done, the Fœcial cauſed a Sow to be brought to the Market-place, and holding a Scepter in his Hand, having his Head covered with a Cloath, he crowned himſelf with a Crown of Verbena; then beſeeched he Jupiter, Mars, and the other Gods, that if any of the Parties failed to perform their Agreements, that then he ſhould be ſtricken and ſlain like the Sow; after which Imprecations her Body was cut with the Flint, upon which they caſt Fire and Water, and ſo their Sacrifice was ſolemnized. †

Of War, and the natural Inclinations of the Engliſh to it.

IRRATIONAL Animals and Vegetables are not only ſubject to, and ſwayed by the Powers and Influences of the Climate under which they live, but likewiſe the Temperatures and Complexions of Mens Bodies, which alſo worketh different effects in their Minds and Diſpoſitions: For proof whereof, Experience ſheweth that the Italians and French (as well in former Ages as at preſent) are more naturally Courtly, and of briſker Spirits than the Flemmings: The Spaniards and Lybians more Agile and Crafty, ſubject to Choller, Malice, and Pride, than the Suede, Muſcovite, or other Septentrional People remoter from the Sun, who are more inclined to Valour and Animoſity, and the Nations proximate to the Sun have their Blood ſeccicated, which cauſeth Melancholineſs, and are noted for the ſearching into the Secrets of Nature. The Greeks are inclined to Anger, but noted to have been exquiſite Mechanicks. The Egyptians and Jews are addicted to Superſtition and Idolatry. The Turks and Tartars to Cruelty: Yea, the careleſs Americans to Luſt and Idleneſs, repreſenting the Golden Age in their modern Lives, who are, according as Ovid fanſies, the ancient World.

Contentique cibis nullo cogente creatus,

Cornaque, & in duris herentia mora rubetis
Etque deciderant patula Jovis arbore glandes.

Content with Natures vain forc'd food
They gather Wildings, Strawberries of the Wood,
Sower Curnels, what upon the Bramble grows,
And Acrons which Joves ſpreading Oak beſtows.

To draw home to Britain, a Microcoſme of it ſelf, ſituate under a temperate Clime, Fertile to the envy of many of her Neighbours, and bleſſed with all that is neceſſary for Human Life, producing Men endowed with all the Vertues that other People diſperſed over the Face of the Univerſe can boaſt of, and principally with Hearts that contemn Death it ſelf, which to other Nations is ſo dreadful, having an affection to Arms, and are covetous of Fame, Sovereignity, and Honour above other Men.

But it may be objected, How then comes it to paſs that we are confined within the narrow Bounds of our Britiſh Seas? Secondly, Wherefore have we quitted our Claim to France, or ſuffered it to lye dormant ſo many Ages?

To the Firſt may be anſwer'd, That it was the Piety of our Princes to content their ſelves within their own Limits, and were unwilling to be troubleſome to other Princes, until our Henry the Second was ſupplicated by the Iriſh to commiſerate their Calamities, and deliver them out of their inteſtine Broyls, into which their irreconcileable Diviſions and unchriſtian-like Fewds had plunged them. Thus by Compoſition, rather than Conqueſt, was our Sovereignity confirmed in Ireland, and the Charter ſigned by the Iriſh Princes and the Commonalty, which being tranſmitted to Rome, was confirmed by Pope Adrian about the Year 1174.

For France it may alſo be anſwered; That we were conſtrained to vindicate a juſt Title to that Crown by force of Arms, when Arguments and fair Means would not prevail: And for the loſs of it, 'tis apparent in all Hiſtories, that our Diſcords at Home, not the Courage or Force of France, forced us to quit the ſame, gaining with few Blows what otherwiſe they would not ſo much as have attempted. Add hereunto the Covetouſneſs and Envy of ſome of our Natives, who being themſelves out of Command, will yield any tearms to a foreign Enemy, rather than maintain an Army in Pay for their Security; by which facile Conceſſions and Peace thus purchaſed, we diſcourage, our Soldiery, ſuffer them to loſe their Diſcipline, and to degenerate by Sloath and Idleneſs; (a Depravity which coſt the Romans very dear at the beginning of their ſecond Carthaginian War) being almoſt ruined before they could recover their former practice of Arms, but for us meliora ſpero.

War being in divers Caſes juſt upon the Offenſive part, and abſolutely neceſſary on the Defenſive, 'tis fit we conſider the proper Definition thereof. It is generally ſaid, to be the Exerciſe of Arms againſt an Enemy, but more properly 'tis a Contention between Princes or States, by force of Men under Diſcipline to obtain Victory: And the end of War is either to obtain Victory, or to live in Peace and Honour.

The Diviſion of War (for ſo much as concerns England) may be of two Sorts or Kinds; viz. Terene and Naval; in open Field, or upon the Seas. The Art and Exerciſe of both are abſolutely neceſſary, it being impoſſible for us to ſecure our Shoars, if we are not Maſters of the Seas; nor were we ever victorious in our Tranſmarine Attempts, before our Enemies Naval Forces were conquered, as appears by the Hiſtories of Edward the Third, Henry the Fifth, &c. Thus are our Oaken Caſtles our ſecureſt Bulwarks to defend us from our Enemies; nor can we offend them abroad without theſe floating Squadrons; how needful then is the excellent Employ of Navigation to our Nation, and how glorious, or rather terrible might we be to the Univerſe, if we did more encourage it, by maintaining a Royal Navy, and having an Army ready upon any occaſion; be it either by ſtanding Troops, or a reformed and well diſciplined Militia, which is held more grateful to the People in general.

Philip de Comines tells us of of his own knowledge, That the Engliſh, at their firſt Arrival in France, were very raw, and ill diſciplined Soldiers; but within the ſpace of two or three Weeks, which they ſpent in moderate Exerciſe, before the French could rally up a Force to engage them, they grew expert in their Weapons, and became fit for the Field-Service: from whence he concludes, That the Engliſh, of all People in the World, are the moſt prone to War, and apteſt to make good Soldiers. Our late Actions at Home and Abroad juſtifie our ligitimate Succeſſion from ſuch valiant Anceſtors; nor is there any thing ſo much wanting amongſt us, as Encouragement to the truly generous Martial Spirits. Charles the Fifth, adviſes his Son to preſerve his old Soldiers from Sloath by conſtant Exerciſe, and to train up the Youth of Spain under Leaders who had Lands, Goods, and Relations, to ſecure their Loyalty to the Crown, if they were naturally addicted to Arms; becauſe ſenſe of Honour, or ſhame of Puniſhment, with the loſs of Eſtate, muſt neceſſarily prevail more with ſuch, than can be expected from others who carry all their Intereſt in their Perſons, and have nothing to care for but their own Safety. Alſo the Privilege of wearing a Martial Robe; the Priority of place in ſome publick Aſſemblies, or the like, would much encourage Youth to Martial Diſcipline. Nor is this only a Spaniſh Device, but 'twas the practice of the Romans, who had their ſeveral Triumphs for their Victorious Generals, and alſo particular Rewards for their private Soldiers. He who had firſt boarded an Enemies Ship, entred their Camp or Garriſon, ſlain one of their Captains in Combat, taken a Standard, &c. was rewarded with a Silver Crown of form denoting his Exploit, with a Collar of Gold, or the like; the wearing of which in their Theatres was prized equal to the poſſeſſion of a Seignory without ſuch an Honour. We read of a young Man in Scipio's Army, who had done gallant Exploits in a Battel under him, ſo that he deſerved ſuch a Reward as aforeſaid; Scipio judging of his Mind, gave him a good Sum of Money, exhorting him to perſevere in his Valour: but he with a ſad Countenance laid down the Gold at Scipio's Feet, demanding of him the Honourable Enſign of Victory in lieu of the Gold, preferring Glory before Gain; for which noble Act he was not only commended, but advanced by the General, as moſt fit for Honour and Office, having a Spirit free from the ſordid Vice of Covetouſneſs, which blaſts the Fame of many a valiant Captain, and ruins many a brave Army. It were to be wiſhed that ſuch Roman Spirits were now to be found amongſt us, and then 'tis probable the War might have proved more Succeſsful: but now adays ſuch true Valour gives place to Intereſt, and to an Officer of Fortune, the dread of being disbanded makes a Victory more fatal to him than a Foil; for who will beat his Enemy, that muſt feel a want when he has none to appear againſt? What then more ſerviceable than a well-diſciplined Militia to be imployed upon all Occaſions, at Sea and Land? For the Officers (as Men of Eſtates) would be glad to win Honour with hazard of their Lives; and if they ſhould return with the loſs of a Limb, would not put the King to the Charge of a Penſion: And for the Soldiers, when diſmiſt, may immediately fall to their Trade, or to Husbandry, pleaſing themſelves to tell their Neigh-

Neighbours the Story of their Adventures Thus the large Armies of Horſe, which ſup port the Turkiſh Empire, are maintained. Thus is Poland preſerved from the Power of the Turk: and by this very way were our Kings antiently guarded, their Caſtles defended, their Forces for Conqueſt, as well as Defence, muſtered up (viz. by Knights Service) as our Hiſtories and Law Books ſufficiently demonſtrate.

Of Captains General, Marſhals, and other Chief Commanders.

AN Army may be provided, a Navy rigged, manned, and equipped, but the chief and moſt difficult Taſk is to find a Generaliſſimo worthy of Command, one upon whoſe Conduct the Hope of the War depends; I mean not in the Force of his Perſon, but in his Knowledge in Military Affairs, in his Magnanimity, which comprehends the four Cardinal Virtues, viz. Prudence, Juſtice, Temperance, and Fortitude; in his Authority, and in his Diſpoſition to engage the Affections of his Soldiers, without which they will hardly be brought to do him Honour, nor their King and Country good Service, as might be demonſtrated by ſeveral Examples, were it convenient.

It behoveth a General, not only to Conduct his Army, but carefully to provide for them Proviſions as well as Ammunition, and to ſhew himſelf prudent, patient, cautious, and liberal unto them, endeavouring to gain by Love what he might command from them by Power. And this made Homer to call Agamemnon a Paſtor of People, becauſe he carefully looked after the Safety of his Army. Theodoſius the Emperor did not command the meaneſt of his Soldiers to do any thing, but that he himſelf would ſometimes do. And Antonius did ſometimes march on foot, and carry in his Hand the general Enſign of the Army, which was very ponderous, to ſhew that his Soldiers ſhould not refuſe to undergo any Labour that ſhould be required from them.

Amongſt the many good Properties required in a General, nothing is more commendable than Liberality; and on the contrary, Covetouſneſs as much deteſtible: for hard it is to attend the Affairs of War, and be overmuch in love with Money. Yet that Commander, who with Honour and good Conſcience can attain to Wealth, is not to be diſliked; for thereby he may upon an emergent Occaſion ſupply the Wants of a neceſſitated Army. And that General is moſt to be eſteemed, who (as a Soldier) knoweth how to offend his Enemy, to govern his own Forces, patiently to ſuffer Want, and to endure Labour, Heat, and Cold: For ſometimes it is found, that he who hath Authority to command, wanteth another to command him, for want of true Knowledge of thoſe things that belong unto his Office; for it is more difficult for a General or Commander to know what belongeth unto him, than to execute the Office of that Place, ſeeing that Skill muſt precede Action, and Uſe go before Commandment.

It is expedient for all Princes and Commanders to be well read in Hiſtories, and principally thoſe that concern the Actions of their Anceſtors. And this (as ſome believe) cauſed King Edward the Third (when he made War againſt Robert the Second, King of Scots) to order a certain Monk to attend him in that Expedition, to write down all the Actions of that Enterprize. Mahomet the Second, Emperor of the Turks, endeavoured much to know the Hiſtories of his Predeceſſors, and gave liberally unto one John Maria of Vinzenza, to write the Victories he obtained againſt Uſſancaſſan, King of Perſia. Much more Praiſe and Honour is due unto thoſe Commanders, that by long Service, and due degrees of War, have deſerved the Titles appertaining unto Arms, and bear about them the Scars and Marks of true Valour.

A General of Horſe (according to Plato) ought to be made by the Conſent of the whole Army. The Præfecti, or great Commanders, were elected by thoſe Soldiers that bare Targets: The Tribuni Militum had their Advancement by the Voice of Men at Arms; and other Captains or Commanders of a lower Quality were choſen by the Chief General. And that Perſon that in Service was moſt painful, in Actions moſt induſtrious, in Perils moſt reſolute, in Counſel moſt provident, and in Execution moſt quick, was by the Chieftains elected for their Emperor.

Leo the Emperor, in his Book entituled, The Preparation for War, ſpeaking of the Election of a General, ſaith, That to know the Generoſity of a Horſe, or a Dog, we have regard to his proper Operations, rather than to the Dam or Sire which begot him; even ſo the Nobleneſs of a Man ought to be conſidered by his proper Valour and Virtue, and not by the Blood of thoſe that brought him into the World, neither of the Glory of his Anceſtors, which oft-times degenerates. I confeſs, to aim more at the Nobleneſs of the Blood, than at the neceſſary Virtues of the Perſon choſen, is a dangerous Error in Time of Action, and proved fatal to Phocas the Emperor, when he ſent his Nephew Manicel againſt the Sarazens, being a young Man of no Experience, yet ſtubborn in his Reſolves; who, contrary to the Vote of his Council of War, followed his Enemy, till he was drawn by them into certain Streights, and hemmed in, and the moſt part of his Army ſlain. Fazelli, lib. 6. Dec. 2. Hiſt. Sicili.

A Charge of ſo grand an Import, ought therefore to be beſtowed upon a worthy Perſon, whoſe Virtues have been tried in Times of Trouble, one (if to be found) whoſe Conduct hath been crowned with Succeſs. The Commander, whoſe Helmet hath been uſually canopied with the Plumes of Victory, will not quickly be forsaken of his Soldiers in the uttermost Extremity; they still expecting the same Fortune should attend him, as Julius Cæsar oftentimes experienced: nor is it an easy Task to engage an Enemy against him upon equal Terms.

An experienced, liberal, and tender affectionative General to his Soldiers, is then the Man: and the more Illustrious by Birth, the better; Equality causing Emulation, which some convert to Envy, and that oftentimes ends in inveterate Malice.

Never have we been more fortunate than in our Royal Armies when we have had a King, or an Heir Apparent to the Crown, the Head thereof; witness our Victories in Palestine and Cyprus, under King Richard; our many victorious Henries and Edwards; the Battels of Cressy, Poictiers, and Agincourt; our grand Victory at Sea in the Dutch War, under the Conduct of his Royal Highness James Duke of York. Nor are we at present destitute of Captains of the Blood Royal, which are endowed with all Virtues and Princely Qualities requisite for so great Imploy: Let me but mention his Royal Highness the Duke of York, and all Christendom will second me, to his eternal Fame, that neither Alexander, Cæsar, nor any other old Captains shewed greater Courage or Skill, passed through greater Perils by Land or Sea, than he hath done; nor is there any Person in Europe, that can justly dispute for Glory with him, or whose Life hath been so illustrious. Let us but consider, how that at Twenty Years of Age he had traced most Part of Christendom to encounter glorious Actions; that since, he has been engaged in all sorts of Combats, wherein he hath been Conqueror: That he hath appeared magnanimous in Campaigns, Leguers, Battels, and Sieges by Land; in the most furious and dreadful Sea Fights, in which he hath given Life to some Enemies, and taken it from others: His escaping such Hazards, and passing by domestick Broils with a Princely Scorn, would half persuade a credulous Person, that he had evaded the Time of dying, and that for the World's general Good it were decreed, he should endure as long as the Sun and Moon, to support the Grandeur of the British Monarchy, in the Person of his Sacred Majesty King Charles the Second, and his lawful Successors.

Next to his Royal Highness, we may justly commemorize his Highness Prince Rupert, Duke of Bavaria, Count Palatine of the Rhine, Duke of Cumberland, Earl of Holderness, &c. who from his Birth was designed for Warlike Atchievments: for the Calamities that followed that Illustrious Family from Bohemia to the Palatinate, forced the Queen and this Infant Prince into the Low Countries, where he passed his tender Age in the practising the Knowledge of Military Affairs; insomuch, that at about the Age of Thirteen Years he marched under the Command of the Prince of Orange to the Siege of Rhineberg, and proved so good a Proficient in that rough Study, that at the Age of Eighteen he was thought fit to command a Regiment of Horse in Germany. In the Battel of Lemgow, 1638. being taken by the Imperialists, under the Command of Count Hatzfield, he remained a Prisoner above three Years, till by the Mediation of his Uncle, the King of Great Britain, he was set at Liberty: And in Requital of which Kindness, hearing that England was in an Uproar, he posted hither, and tendered his Service to his Uncle, who in Anno 1642. graciously received him; and at a Chapter held at York, was made Knight of the most Noble Order of the Garter. 'Twas then a Time of Action, and each Party endeavoured to gain a Reputation by their Valour at the opening of the War; in which his Highness had the Fortune to rout a Party of the Rebels Horse near Worcester, commanded by one Colonel Sands. The Prince being made General of his Majesty's Cavalry, he had Field-room enough to exercise his Courage, and shew his Conduct. Divers Encounters, and some pitched Fields, are fought with various Success, viz. at Edghill, the taking of Cirencester, the raising of the Siege of Newark, Litchfield, and Latham-House, the taking of Bristol, and those bloody Battels at Newberry and Marston-Moor, in all which he was a principal Actor, and in some the chief Commander. And as an Acknowledgment of his Majesty's Favours for these his many Hazards and good Services done, he was created Duke of Cumberland; and in Anno 1644. was made Generalissimo of his Majesty's Forces in the room of General Ruthen: He marcheth from Oxford with the King Northwards. In May 1645. takes Leicester by Storm; but hearing that Fairfax and Cromwell had beleaguer'd Oxford, he returns, diverts their Design, and fights the fatal Battel of Naseby against them: Is afterwards besieged in Bristol by Fairfax, which he surrenders upon Articles; and thence marcheth to Oxford, where he continued, till the King despairing of any Relief, quitted the Garrison, and went into Scotland. Oxford being delivered up, the Prince takes the Benefit of the Articles of Surrender to transport himself into France: Was afterwards Admiral of such Ships as left the Rebels to pay their Duty to their Sovereign Prince, in which he ran many Hazards, and escaped the Perils of the Seas; but his Brother, Prince Maurice, perished in a Hurricane. At last he returns to Paris to the King, and from thence goes into Germany, where he remained till his Majesty's most happy Restauration, by whom he was affectionately invited and welcomed into England in Anno 1662. and made a Privy Councellor. In the Year 1666. was joined Admiral with the Duke of Albemarle against the Dutch Fleet, and rescued him from the Danger that he and his Squadron were in, being assaulted by the whole Dutch Fleet,

This Portraiture is in memory of Bertram Ashburnham of Ashburnham in Sussex, who in the tyme of King Harold was Warden of the Cinqueports, Constable of Dover and Sheriff of the said County. and being a person in soe great power at the Landing of William the Conqueror, King Harold (who was then in the North) sent him a Letter to raise all the force under his Comand to withstand the Invador. And when the King came vp to oppose y Conqueror; the said Bertram (who had an eminent Comand in the Battle) receiv'd soe many wounds that soon after he dyed thereof And since which tyme (through the mercy of god) the Said family (in a direct male line) have ever since continued at Ashburnham aforesaid. and are the present possessors thereof.

Fleet, when ours was unhappily divided; but the Prince's ſeaſonable Aſſiſtance ſecured our Honour, and put the Enemy to a ſhameful Flight. In the Year 1673. he went Admiral to Sea againſt the Dutch. Theſe his Actions are remunerated by a Penſion of Four Thouſand Pounds per Annum, and the Wardenſhip of Windſor Caſtle. Thus you ſee the Life of a Hero to be like a Voyage at Sea, compoſed of Calms and Tempeſts, which unexpectedly ſucceed each other.

Thus in a Victor's Garland oft we ſee
Laurels with Cypreſs intermixed be.

But I could loſe myſelf in the Admiration of theſe Objects, were I not again ſurprized by the late generous and noble Exploits of the heroick Prince, James Duke of Monmouth, whoſe brave Spirit diſdaining to be confined to the Eaſe of a Court Life, contemning the ſoft Pleaſures of Peace, ſeeks out Dangers abroad, makes Bellona his Miſtreſs, defies Death in his Aſcent to Honour, and thus immortalizes his Name throughout Chriſtendom by his Valour and Conduct at Maeſtricht, in Anno 1673. To affect Glory in Youth, is becoming a Royal Birth; and to begin with Victory, is a happy Omen of future Succeſs. In a long progreſs of Time a Coward may become a Conqueror: Some others from mean Adventures, paſſing through groſs Errors, grow to Experience, and in Time perform great Exploits: But as there are few Rivers navigable from their firſt Fountain; ſo are ſuch Men doubtleſs very rare and ſingular, who have not any need either of Growth or Years, nor are ſubject either to the Order of Times, or Rules of Nature. Proceed, brave Prince, in the Path you have ſo fairly traced out, and let the World ſee your renowned Valour.

Of a lower Orb, we may juſtly boaſt of our Engliſh Fabius, General Monk, who ſo wiſely wearied out Lambert by his Delays, and cajoled the rebellious Rump Parliament. He was a Perſon of great Valour, Experience and Prudence, whoſe Loyalty and Conduct hath given him a never dying Fame to be celebrated by the Pens and Tongues of all good Subjects, whilſt the Name of Britain laſteth. His Exploits were truly great, his Succeſs in his Conduct renowned with too many Victories to be here inſerted: Let it ſuffice to ſay, he was bred a Soldier, and after the many Riſques of Fortune, got the Art to manage that fickle Lady ſo well, that he triumphed over his Foes both in War and Peace, acted the Part of a good Politician, the truſty old Cuſhai, confounding the Counſel of Achitophel, to preſerve his Royal Maſter, and was the bleſſed Inſtrument of his Majeſty's moſt happy Reſtauration to his Crown and Dignity, and the Kingdom to its priſtine Laws and Liberties; ſecuring to himſelf and Poſterity that well purchaſed Title of the moſt High, Potent, and Noble Prince, George, Duke of Albemarle, Earl of Torrington, Baron Monk of Potheridge, Beauchamp, and Teys; beſides which Hereditary Titles, he was Knight of the Noble Order of the Garter, one of his Majeſty's moſt Honourable Privy Council, and Captain General of all his Majeſty's Forces during Life; an Honour and Office ſcarce ever before intruſted in the Hands of a Subject in Times of Peace. He lived the Darling of his Country, dearly beloved of his Majeſty, and all the Royal Stem, and dreadful to our foreign and home-bred Foes; but laden with Love, Honour, and Years, he yielded up his Life to the Hands of him that gave it, and departed in Peace the Third Day of January, Anno Dom. 16$\frac{69}{70}$. lamented by all good Subjects.

We have many more that by Experience and Conqueſt are very well known to be eminent Warriors, whoſe Noble Acts were enough to fill large Volumes, and whoſe worthy Atchievements will be recorded in the Hiſtories of that Age for an Encouragement to Poſterity, the Effigies of ſome of which I have here lively repreſented to your View.

THE

THE SECOND PART; OR Honour Civil;

AND

Treateth of the NOBILITY and GENTRY, according to the Laws and Customs of ENGLAND.

CHAP. I.

Of Honour General and Particular.

HONOUR is the Reward of Vertue, as Infamy the Recompence of Vice, and he that defireth to mount her Footfteps (as naturally all Men in fome degree or other are addicted unto) muft arrive thereunto by the way of Vertue: Which was ftrictly obferved by the Romans; for Dignities by Birth were not enough to advance them thereunto, if they were not endowed with Heroick and Vertuous Qualifications; and Honour fhould be a Teftimony of their Excellency therein. Some Learned Writers fay, That Honour conſiſteth in exterior Signs; and Ariſtotle calleth it, Maximum bonorum exteriorum: Others fay it is a certain Reverence in Teftimony of Vertue. Honour is of greater eſteem than Silver or Gold, and ought to be prized above all Earthly Treafure. And for the encouragement of Youth to vertuous Atchievements, the Romans were no more ſlack in their Rewards and Badges of Honour, than they were in their punifhment of Vice, which was moſt deteſtable unto them. And Marcus Tullius ſtudying to reſtrain the Vice of Youth, by Law ordained eight ſeveral Puniſhments, which he called Damnum, Vincula, Verbera, Talio, Ignominia, Exilium, Mors, Servitus.

The Enſigns of Honour, which the Romans uſed to beſtow in token of Dignity, were Chains of Gold, gilt Spurs and Launces, but principally Crowns of different Forms; which at firſt were made of Bays, in token of Mirth and Victory, but afterwards they were made of Gold.

The chief Crowns were Military, with which their Conſuls and chief Commanders in their Triumphs were crowned.

The next was by them called Corona Muralis, and was given to him that was firſt ſeen upon the Wall of an Enemies Town; and this Crown was wrought with certain Battlements like a Wall, and made of Gold.

Corona Caſtrenſis, made of Gold with points like Towers; and this was given for a Reward to him him that could break the Wall of an Enemy, and enter the Town or Caſtle.

Corona Navalis, made of Gold, garniſhed with Forecaſtles, and given to him that firſt boarded an Enemies Ship.

Corona Oleaginea, made of Gold, given to them that repulſe an Enemy, or were Victorious in the Olympian Games.

Corona Ovalis, made of Gold, given to them that entred a Town taken with little Reſiſtance, or yielded upon Compoſition.

Corona Obſidionalis, given to a general Leader that had ſaved his Army in Diſtreſs; and this Crown was made of the Graſs growing where the Army was beſieged.

Corona Civica, made of Oaken Boughs, and was given to him that ſaved a Citizen from the Enemy.

Corona Hæderalis, which was given to Poets.

Corona Populea, which was given to young Men that were induſtrious, and inclined to Vertue.

Ariſtotle makes four kinds of civil Nobility, viz. Divitiarum, Generis, Virtutis, & Diſciplinæ.

Sir John Ferne defines Civil Nobility to be an Excellency of Dignity and Fame, placed in any Kingdom or People, through the Vertues there ſhewed forth to the profit of that Kingdom. Which made Diogenes to term Nobleneſs of Blood a Vail of Lewdneſs, a Cloak of Sloth, and a Vizard of Cowardiſe.

Civil Nobility may be refined into a triple Diviſion; firſt by Blood, ſecondly by Merit, and thirdly by Blood and Merit; which laſt without doubt is the moſt Honourable, and of greateſt eſteem: For certainly the Honour gained lives in his Family, and doth perpetuate his Vertues to Poſterity; whilſt the glory that thoſe by deſcents of Blood ſhine in, is but the reflection of their Anceſtors. For all will judge the raiſer of a Family more honourable than him that ſucceeded him, not adding to that Honour by any Merit of his own. So that it is the beſt Honour the Son can do his deceaſed Father or Relation, to imitate his Vertues.

If any Perſon be advanced by lawful Commiſſion of his Prince, to any Place, Dignity, or publick Adminiſtration, be it either Eccleſiaſtical, Military, or Civil, ſo that the ſaid Office comprehends in it Dignitatem, vel dignitatis titulum, he ought to be received into the Degree of Gentility. And a Man may be enobled by Letters Patents from his Prince, though he have not the Superiour Titles added; and may have a Coat of Arms given him.

Of Gentry, and bearing of Arms.

NOAH had three Sons who were ſaved with him in the Ark from the Deluge, viz. Sem, Cham, and Japheth; and between theſe three he divided the World. Sem, his eldeſt Son he made Prince of Aſia; Cham, his ſecond, Prince of Affrica; and Japheth, his third, Prince of Europe.

Of theſe three iſſued divers Emperors and Rulers, whereof at this Day we have ten Degrees; of which Six are called Noble, as a Gentleman, Eſquire, Knight, Baronet, Baron, and Viſcount: and four others are called Excellent, as an Earl, Marquis, Duke, and Prince.

There are Nine ſundry Callings of Gentlemen.

1. The firſt is a Gentleman of Anceſtry, which muſt needs be a Gentleman of Blood.

2. The ſecond is a Gentleman of Blood, and not of Anceſtry, as when he is the ſecond degree deſcended from the firſt.

3. The third is a Gentleman of Coat Armour, and not of Blood, as when he weareth the King's Deviſe given him by a Herald. If he have Iſſue to the third Deſcent, that Iſſue is a Gentleman of Blood.

4. The fourth alſo is a Gentleman of Coat Armour, and not of Blood; as when the King giveth a Lordſhip to him and his Heirs for ever; then he may by vertue thereof bear the Coat of the Lord's making, the Herald approving thereof: But if any of the Blood of that Lordſhip be yet remaining, he cannot bear the ſame.

5. The fifth is a Chriſtian Man, that in the Service of God and his Prince kills a Heathen Gentleman, he ſhall bear his Arms of what degree ſoever (a Knight Banneret excepted) and uſe his Atchievment without any difference, ſaving only the Word of the ſame miſcreant Gentleman. If he alſo have Iſſue to the fifth Degree, they are Gentiles of Blood. Note, that no Chriſtian may bear another Chriſtians Coat, nor a Pagan a Pagans Coat, on the Condition aboveſaid: But if an Engliſh Man in the Field, when the Banner Royal is diſplayed, do put to flight any Gentleman which is an Enemy to his Prince, from his Banner of Arms, the Engliſh Soldier may honour his own Coat in the Siniſter Quarter with the proper Coat of the Gentleman that he has ſo put to flight.

An Inſtance of this kind is the Coat of Sir John Clark, who took Priſoner Lewis de Orleans, Duke of Longevile, at the Journey of Bomy, by Terovene 1ſt. Auguſt 5. H. 8. Some carry their Priſoners Coat as part of their Creſt; thus did Richard Waller, of Groombridge in Kent, who took Priſoner John Duke of Orleans, at the Battle of Agencourt; and hung the entire Coat of the ſaid Duke by a String, upon a Branch of his Wallnut-Tree or Creſt. See more of theſe in my Diſcourſe upon Augmentations.

Alſo in Challenge of Combat, the Victor ſhall not bear the Coat of the Vanquiſhed: Yet indeed the Vanquiſhed ſhall looſe his own Coat: But if he marry a Gentlewoman of Coat-Armour, by the Curteſie of England he may bear hers.

6. If the King do make a Yeoman a Knight, he is then a Gentleman of Blood.

7. The Seventh is, when a Yeoman's Son is advanced to Spiritual Dignity, he is then a Gentleman, but not of Blood; but if he be a Doctor of the Civil Law, he is then a Gentleman of Blood.

8. The Eighth is called a Gentleman untryal, as brought up in an Abby, and ſerving in good Calling, and alſo is of kind to the Abbots.

9. The

9. The Ninth is called a Gentleman Apocrifate, ſuch a one as ſerving the Prince as a Page, groweth by diligence of Service to be Steward, or Clerk of the Kitchin, and is without Badge of his own, except when the Prince by the Herald endoweth him with ſome Cognifance, &c.

Ariſtotle in his Politicks reciteth four Kinds of Nobility; that is, Nobleneſs of Riches, Nobleneſs of Lineage, Nobleneſs of Vertue, and Nobleneſs of Science: amongſt which, thoſe of Vertue and Lineage are of chief eſtimation, being ſuch from whence the others do proceed.

As ſome write, Nobility began to be advanced ſhortly after Noah's Flood: For when Poſſeſſions were given by the conſent of the People (who had all Things in common, and were of equal Degree) they gave them to ſuch whom they admired for their Vertues, and from whom they received a common Benefit.

The Law of Arms, which is chiefly directed by the Civil Law, muſt needs be very ancient; for Field not Fight cannot be continued without the Law; therefore 'tis to be preſumed it began when Battels were firſt fought in the World; and the bearing of Arms (as we now underſtand the Word) was introduc'd as I obſerv'd to you in my Introduction, by Embоſſing or Painting Inſignia or Nota on Arms, i. e. Weapons; which by Hiſtory plainly appears to be a very ancient Cuſtom; Viz. in the Cradle-Age of Diſcord, whence as it were Pedetentim they are arriv'd to their preſent Perfection.

It is written by an ancient Author, called Geſta Trojanor, that a Knight was made before any Coat-Armour; and how. Aſterial, who came from the Line of Japheth, had a Son named Olibion, who was a ſtrong and mighty Man, and when the People multiplied, being without a Governour, and were warred upon by the People of Cham, they all cryed upon Olibion to be their Governour; which accepting of, and Men being muſtered under him, his Father made to his Son a Garland of Nine divers precious Stones, in token of Chivalry. Then Olibion kneeled down, and his Father took Japheth's Faulchion that Tubal made before the Flood, and ſmote him nine times on the right Shoulder, in token of the nine Vertues of Chivalry. Alſo Aſterial gave to his Son Olibion a Target made of an Olive Tree, with three Corners, two above his Face, and one beneath to the Ground-ward.

Principles of Honour and Vertue that every Gentleman ought to be endoweth with.

To love, honour, and fear God; To walk after his Commandments, and to his Power defend and maintain the Chriſtian Religion; to be loyal and ſerviceable to his Prince and Country; To uſe Military Exerciſes; To frequent the War, and to prefer Honour before worldly Wealth; To be charitable to the Diſtreſſed, and to ſupport Widows and Orphans; To reverence Magiſtrates, and thoſe placed in Authority; To cheriſh and encourage Truth, Vertue, and Honeſty, and to eſchew Riot, Intemperance, Sloth, and all diſhoneſt Recreations and Company; To be of a courteous, gentle, and affable Deportment to all Men, and to deteſt Pride and Haughtineſs; To be of an open and liberal Heart, delighting in Hoſpitality, according to the Talent that God hath bleſt him with; To be true and juſt in his word and dealing, and in all reſpects give no cauſe of Offence.

Of Precedency.

THE Degrees of Honour which are in this Kingdom obſerved, and according to which they have Precedency, may be compreheended under two Heads, viz. Nobiles Majores, and Nobiles Minores. Thoſe comprehended under Majores are Dukes of the Royal Blood, Archbiſhops, Marquiſſes, Earls, Viſcounts, Biſhops, and Barons: And thoſe under Minores are Knights of the Garter (if no otherwiſe dignified) Knights Bannerets, Baronets, Knights of the Bath, Knights Batchelors, Eſquires, and Gentlemen. And all or moſt of theſe Degrees of Honour are ſpeculatively diſtinguiſhed the one from the other in their Enſigns or Shields of Honour, as ſhall be ſhewed in the Chapter of each particular Degree.

Touching place of Precedency amongſt the Peers, or thoſe under the Name of Nobiles Majores, it is to be obſerved, That all Nobles of each Degree take place according to their Seniority of Creation, and not of Years, unleſs they are deſcended of the Blood Royal, and then they take place of all others of the ſame Degree.

That after the King, the Princes of the Blood; Viz. the Sons, Grandſons, Brothers, and Nephews of the King take place: Then theſe great Officers of the Church and Crown are to precede all other of the Nobility, viz. the Archbiſhop of Canterbury, the Lord Chancellor, or Lord Keeper of the Great-Seal, the Archbiſhop of York, the Lord Treaſurer of England, the Lord Preſident of the Privy Council, and the Lord Privy Seal. Next Dukes, Marquiſſes, Dukes eldeſt Sons, Earls, Marquiſſes eldeſt Sons, Dukes younger Sons, Viſcounts, Earls eldeſt Sons, Marquiſſes younger Sons, Biſhops, Barons, Viſcounts eldeſt Sons, Earls youngeſt Sons, Barons eldeſt Sons, Privy Councellors, Judges, and Maſters of the Chancery, Viſcounts younger Sons, Barons younger Sons, Knights of the Garter (if no otherwiſe dignified, which is ſeldom found) Knights Bannerets, Baronets, Knights of the Bath, Knights Batchelors, Colonels, Serjeants at Law, Doctors, and Eſquires, which may be comprehended under five Heads: 1. Eſquires unto the King's Body; 2. The Deſcendants by the Male Line from a Peer of the Realm; 3. The eldeſt Sons of Baronets and Knights; 4. The Two Eſquires attending upon Knights of the Bath at their making; And 5. Officiary Eſquires, as Juſtices of the Peace, Barriſters at Law, Lieutenant Colonels, Majors, and Captains; and laſtly, Gentlemen.

Note,

Note, That these great Officers of Court, of what Degree soever they are of, take Place above all others of the said Degree; viz. the Master of the Horse, Lord Chamberlain of England, Lord High Constable of England, Lord Marshal of England, Lord Admiral of England, Lord Steward, and Lord Chamberlain of His Majesty's Household.

So the Secretaries of State, if Peers, take place of all of that Degree, except these great Officers aforesaid.

Note, That the Ladies take place or precedency according to the Degree or Quality of their Husbands.

Note, That it was decreed by King James, That the younger Sons of Viscounts and Barons should yield place to all Knights of the Garter, to all Bannerets made under the Standard Royal, His Majesty being present, to all Privy Councellors, Master of the Wards, Chancellor, and under Treasurer of the Exchequer, Chancellor of the Dutchy, Chief Justice of the King's Bench, Master of the Rolls, Chief Justice of the Common Pleas, Chief Baron of the Exchequer, and to all other Judges and Barons of the degree of the Coif, by reason of their Honourable imploy in His Majesty's Courts of Justice.

Note, That as there are some great Officers, as aforesaid, that take place above the Nobility of a higher Degree; so are there some Persons, who for their Dignities Ecclesiastick, Degrees in the Universities, and Officers in an Army, although neither Knights nor Gentlemen born, take place amongst them: Thus all Deans, Chancellors, Prebends, Doctors of Divinity, Law, and Physick, are usually placed before most sorts of Esquires.

All Colonels are Honourable, and by the Law of Arms ought to precede simple Knights; so are all Field Officers, Master of the Artillery, Quarter-Master General, &c.

All Batchelors of Divinity, Law, and Physick, all Masters of Arts, Barristors in the Inns of Court, Captains, and other Commissionate Officers in the Army, or those by Patent-places in His Majesty's Household may equal (and some of them precede) any Gentleman that hath none of these Qualifications. But how unjustly these Privileges are possessed by some of these Pretenders, and how contrary this Usage is to the Laws of Honour, see the Chapter of Gentlemen.

I think it here convenient to give you an Account of the Cavalcade of His Majesty's passing through the City of London, before his Coronation.

THE King being arrived at Greenwich, and the Day fixed for His Majesty's Royal Entry, publick Notice thereof was given by the Lord Marshal of the Times and Places, where the Nobility, the Lord Mayor, Aldermen, and Citizens of London, &c. were to meet, in order to attend His Majesty: And some of the Officers of Arms being appointed by the Lord Marshal to go to Greenwich early that Morning, to Rank the Coaches of the Great Officers, the Nobility, and others, in Order, the Juniors first, which were to assemble by Ten of the Clock in the Morning in the Park there, in order to precede the King's Coach; and Notice being given to the Officers of Arms when His Majesty was ready to set out, His Majesty preceded as aforesaid, and attended by His Guard du Corps, to proceed from thence in His Coach, towards London, in the following Order; Viz.

The KING in His Coach, With the PRINCE.

Yeomen of the Guard. Captain of the Yeomen of the Guard.

His Majeſty's Horſe-Guards as before, to cloſe the Proceeding.

THUS the KING did paſs from St. Margaret's-Hill (after the Recorder made his Speech, and the Lord-Mayor had receiv'd the City-Sword from His Majeſty) to his Royal Palace of St. James's.

The Train'd-Bands of Southwark, by Order of the Lord-Lieutenant of Surrey, lined the Way from Kent-ſtreet End, to the Foot of London-Bridge.

Three Regiments of the City Train'd Bands made a Guard from the Bridge to the Stocks-Market.

The ſeveral Companies of London, with their Enſigns, did line the Streets on both Sides, from the Stocks-Market to St. Paul's Church-yard, at the Eaſt-End whereof, the Children of Chriſt's-Hoſpital ſtood, and one of the King's Boys made a Speech to His Majeſty. The ſaid Companies reach'd to the End of St. Paul's Church-yard on one ſide of the Way, and on both from thence almoſt to St. Bride's Church, Fleet-ſtreet.

And the other Three Regiments of the City Train'd-Bands guarded the Way from St. Paul's Church-Yard to Temple-Bar. From Temple-Bar, the Steward, High-Bailiff and Burgeſſes of Weſtminſter in their Gowns, attended by all the Conſtables and Beadles with their reſpective Staves: And the High-Bailiff's Officers, with their Enſigns of Office, lined the Way: And next to them the Militia of Weſtminſter made a Guard, leaving a Space between them and His Majeſty's Foot Guards (who lined the Way from St. James's into the Strand) for the Artillery-Company of London to draw up in, who proceeded ſo far with the Conſent of the Lord-Lieutenant of Middleſex, and there made their Stand.

Againſt St. Alban's-Street in the Pall-Mall, the Sheriffs Officers, and Lord Mayor's Officers, made a Stand on the Right-Hand.

Thoſe who have ſerved, or fin'd for Sheriffs or Aldermen of London, made their Stand between the Paſſages into St. James's-Square.

The Sheriffs and Aldermen made their Stand towards the upper End of the Pall-Mall, on the Right-Hand leading to St. James's-Gate.

The Nobility, and others who went in their Coaches, did alight at St. James's-Gate, and the Coaches paſs'd by St. James's-Meuſe into St. James's-Park, and went out again at the upper Gate by Hyde-Park.

The Knight-Marſhal's Men, Kettle-Drums, Trumpets, and Serjeant-Trumpet, made a Stand on the Right-Hand-ſide from the End of the Pall-Mall, by the Glouceſter-Tavern.

The Officers of Arms, and Serjeants at Arms, paſs'd on to the ſecond Gate-way and there alighted.

The Lord Mayor, with Garter, and the Gentleman-Uſher of the Black-Rod, attended His Majeſty into St. James's to the Foot of the Stairs leading up to the Guard-Chamber; where they alighted, and the Lord Mayor humbly took his Leave of His Majeſty.

During

During the whole Proceeding from St. Margaret's-Hill, the Conduits at Stocks-Market, and other Parts of the City, ran with Wine as usual. And the great Guns at the Tower were twice Discharged: First, at his Majesty's taking Coach at Greenwich: And Secondly, after his passing over London-Bridge. And at His Majesty's Arrival at his Royal Palace, the Cannon in the Park were thrice Discharged.

This is a Copy of the Ceremonial then Printed, according to the Appointment of the Earl Marshal.

As in Man's Body, for the preservation of the whole, divers Functions and Offices of Members are required; even so in all well governed Common-wealths, a distinction of Persons is necessary; and the Policy of this Realm of England, for the Government and Maintainance of the Common-wealth, hath made a threefold Division of Persons; That is to say,

First the King, our Sovereign Monarch (under which Name also a Sovereign Queen is comprised, as it is declared by the Statute made in the First of Queen Mary, cap. 1. Parliam. 2.)

Secondly the Nobles, which comprehend the Prince, Dukes, Marquisses, Earls, Viscounts, and Barons Spiritual and Temporal.

Thirdly the Commons, by which general Word are understood Baronets, Knights, Esquires, Gentlemen, Yeomen, Artificers, and Labourers *.

* Co. Lit. fol. 16. 3. 109. B. & 156. B. Dodridge's Treatise of the Nobility, p. 1.

It is observed, that our Law calleth none Noble under the Degree of a Baron, and not as Men of Foreign Countries do use to speak, with whom every Man of Gentle Birth is counted Noble: For we daily see, that both Gentlemen and Knights do serve in Parliament, as Members of the Commonalty. † Neither do these words the Nobles, the high and great Men in the Realm, imply the Person and Majesty of the King: * But with the Civilians the King or Emperour is reckoned among his Nobility. ‖

* Dyer 155. Crompton's Courts, fol. 35. B.

‖ Cod. 12. 1. 8.

'And why so? Because he should not be 'puff'd up with the Glory of 'his Place and conceive himself 'to be of a more excellent Mould 'than the rest; when indeed 'we are all one and the self-'same Clay *.

* Sir Tho. Ridley's View of Laws. Part 2. c. 1. Sect. 7. pag. 140. Edit. 4th. 1575.

The Nobility are known by the general Name 'of Pares Regni, Peers of the Realm, Barons of 'the Parliament, Barons of the Realm, and Ba-'rons of Honour; for Dukes, Marquisses, Earls, and Viscounts did anciently Sit together in the King's great Council of Parliament as Barons, which they do still, and that in right only of their Baronies: Wherefore by the general Name of Barons of the Realm, and for the Baronage thereof, we understand the whole Body of the Nobility †; the Parliament Robes of the Dukes differing nothing from the Barons, but that they wear the Guards upon their Shoulders three or four Folds: For though Dukes, Marquisses, Earls, and Viscounts in their Creations are attired with Ornaments of Silk and Velvet; yet in Parliament they use the same that Barons do, made of Scarlet, with divers differences of white Fur set as Fringes or Edgings on their Shoulders; and although they Sit in right of their Baronies, yet they take their Places according to their degrees of Dignity *.

† Co. 2. Inst. fol. 61. and Cambd. Brit. Eng. Edit. 1610.

* Mr. Tho. Mills, fol. 66.

And hence it is that those bloody Civil Wars concerning the Liberties granted in the Great Charter, both in the Time of King John, and Henry the III, his Son, prosecuted by all the Nobility (some few excepted) are called in our Histories the Barons Wars. Neither have the Spiritual Lords any other Title to that Prehemi-nence, but by their ancient Baronies: For although originally all the Possessions of Bishops, Abbots, and Priors, were given and holden in Frank Almoign; most of their Tenures were altered, viz. Baronia, as appeareth in Matthew Paris A. 1070. fol. 66. and of that Tenure have continued ever since, as you may read by the Constitutions of Clarendon in the Reign of Henry the II, and in Glanvile and Bracton. But the Tenures of all Abbots and Priors were extinguished by the uniting and coming of them to the Crown by the Statute of Dissolution of Monasteries: For though the Nobility of England differ in Titles and certain Ceremonies, yet as Barons, all enjoy the same Privileges †.

† Co lib. 6 fol. 53

And by Experience it is found, as in the Case of the Countess of Rutland, &c. That Dukes and all other degrees of Nobility in Cases Criminal are tryed by Barons, together with Marquisses, Earls, and Viscounts, as their Peers, and Peers of the Realm *.

* Co. Lit. fol. 156. B.

Nobilitas generally is of the word [Nosco] signifying in common Phrases of Speech, Men of Generosity of Blood and Degree; and therefore it is said, Vir nobilis idem est quod notus, & per omnia ora vulgatus: But especially it is applyed and used to express the reward of Vertue in honourable measure, a generis claritate, which being in part of distributive Justice, remaineth with the highest Sovereign annexed to the Imperial Crown of this Realm.

For as Vertue is the gift of none but of God, so the reward thereof with Honour cannot be the gift of any but the Supreme Governour, being God's Vicegerent on Earth. But when Honour and Arms be bestowed upon any, if there shall arise contention between Competitors for the same, the ancient Policy of this Realm hath ordained a Special Court; the Judges whereof in all Times having been Right Honourable Personages, viz. the Lord High Conſtable and the Earl Marſhal; and in latter Times the Judge thereof only the Earl Marſhal. The Juriſdiction of the Court conſiſteth in the Execution of that part of diſtributive Juſtice, which concerneth the advancement and ſupport of Vertue.

Nevertheleſs ſome Men there are, not duly conſidering of what Principle and Parts the Laws of this Realm do conſiſt, have laboured to prove that the Queſtions and Controverſies of Nobility and Arms ſhould not be determined by the Laws of the Realm, but by the Civil Law, framing to themſelves many Arguments to prove the ſame; but being of ſmall value, I paſs them over.

The Common Laws, as alſo the Laws of Charity uſed in the Marſhals Court, do prohibit any Subject of this Realm to receive Titles of Honour and Dignity by gift or donation from a Foreign Prince, King, or Emperor, without the Conſent and Approbation of his own Sovereign Prince; for it is a Thing greatly touching the Majeſty of the King and State of his Kingdom, Eſt vis Majeſtatis & inter inſignia ſummæ poteſtatis.

And if a Man ſhall bring an Action, and in the Writ is ſtyled by ſuch a Foreign Title, the Defendant may plead in Abatement of his Writ, That he is no Duke, Marquis, Earl or Baron; whereupon if the Plaintiff, as demanded, take Iſſue, the Iſſue ſhall not be tryed by the Jury, but by the Records of Parliament, wherein he faileth.

And if any Engliſh-man be created Earl of the Empire, or of any other Foreign Nation, and the King alſo do create him into any Title of Honour in England, he ſhall be named in all Judicial Proceedings only by ſuch Name and Title as he hath received from the King of this Realm, whoſe Subject he is. And if by the King of England he be not advanced to Title of Honour, then he ſhall bear the Name only of his Baptiſm and Surname, unleſs he be a Knight. For experience teacheth that Kings joyned in League together by certain mutual, and as it were natural, power of Monarchies according to the Laws of Nations, have diſmiſſed one anothers Subjects and Ambaſſadors graced with the Dignity of Knighthood.

A Duke of Spain, or of another Foreign Nation, cometh into England by the King's ſafe Conduct, in which alſo the King doth ſtyle him Duke, according to his Creation; nevertheleſs in all proceedings in the King's Courts he ſhall not be ſo ſtyled by his Title of Dignity.

And although the ſaid Noble Perſon be alſo by the King's Letters Patents, and by his Foreign Name and Title of Dignity made Denizon (for that is the right Name ſo called, becauſe his Legitimation is given to him): Or if he be naturalized by Authority of Parliament, wherein he ſeemeth to be in all things made as a Subject born, yet ſhall he not be ſtyled by his Foreign Titles of Dignity.

And ſo it is if a Nobleman of France, or elſewhere, come into England as Ambaſſador, and by lawful Marriage hath a Son, and the Father dieth, the Son is by Birth a Natural Engliſh-man, yet he ſhall not bear the Title of Honour of his Father; and the reaſon thereof is, becauſe that Title of Nobility had its Original by a French King, and not by any natural Operation: which thing is well proved both by Authority of Law and Experience in theſe Days.

If a Poſtnatus of Scotland or Ireland (who in theſe Days is a Natural Subject to the King of England) or if any of his Poſterity be the Heirs of a Nobleman of Scotland or Ireland, yet he is none of the Nobility of England: But if that Alien or Stranger born a Scot, be ſummoned by the King's Writ to Parliament, and therein is ſtyled by his Foreign or other Title, whereunto he is inveſted within England by the King's Grant; then, and from thenceforth he is a Peer of this Realm; and in all Judicial and Legal Proceedings he ought to be ſo ſtyled, and by no other Name. And it was the Caſe of Gilbert Humfrevile Earl of Angus in Scotland: for it appertaineth to the Royal Prerogative of the King, to call and admit an Alien born to have Place and Voice in his Parliament at his Pleaſure; although it is put in practice very rarely, and that for great and weighty Conſiderations of State. And if after ſuch Parliamentary Summons of ſuch a Stranger born Queſtion do ariſe, and the Iſſue be, whether he is of that Title or no? it may well be tryed by the Record, which is the only lawful tryal in that Caſe.

'And truly, as Mr. Brydall Brydall's Privilegia Magnatum. 'further obſerves, ſuch foreign 'Titles ought not to be accepted by Subjects, 'nor admitted by the Prince: That it belongs 'only to the Prince, and not to any other 'whatſoever, to diſtribute Dignities to their Sub-'jects; according to that Saying of Valerian the 'Emperour, Let that Dignity only hold, which is 'born by our Will. For much is detracted from 'the Prince's Majeſty, and the Subjects Obe-'dience, if they may be permitted to receive Ho-'nours from foreign Princes; for a Tacit Con-'tract of Fidelity ſeemeth to paſs between the 'Honourer and the Honoured: That ſuch Titles 'are ſecret Enticements to withdraw the Hearts 'of Subjects from their Princes; That an Action 'of Theft lies againſt him that ſhall brand ano-'ther Man's Sheep with his Mark, and an Action 'of Fraud againſt him that by ſtrewing of Food 'ſhall entice another Man's Sheep to his Flock.

'The abovemention'd Gentleman concludes his 'Remark with the Judgment of Queen Elizabeth, 'touching the Title of Honour conferr'd by the 'Emperour on Tho. Arundell of Wardour, with-'out Her Majeſties being acquainted with it; 'Between Princes (ſays the Queen) and their 'Subjects there is a moſt ſtraight Tie of Affections. 'As chaſte Women ought not to caſt their Eyes 'upon any other Prince than him, whom God hath 'given them. I would not have my Sheep branded 'with another Man's Mark; I would not that 'they ſhould follow the Whiſtle of a ſtrange Shep-'herd. Camden's Eliz. Anno 1596. pag. 467, 468.

'Engl.

'Engl. Edit. 1635. Camden's Britannia, Engl. 'Edit. 1610. Baker's Hiſtory in vitâ Eliz. 'pag. 408. Edit. 1660. and Camden's Eliz. Ann. '1594. p. 435. Dr. Zouch de Judicio inter 'Gentes Pars 2. Sect. 2. p. 64, & 65. Ed. 1650.

But there is a Diverſity worthy of Obſervation, for the higheſt and loweſt Degrees are univerſal; and therefore a Knight (Engliſh or Stranger born) is a Knight in all Nations, in what place ſoever he received his Title and Dignity, and ſo ought of Right, and by Law, to be named in the King's Courts as aforeſaid.

Alſo if the Emperour, the King of Denmark, or other Foreign King, come into this Realm by ſafe Conduct (as he ought; for a Monarch or abſolute Prince, though he be in League, cannot come without the King's Licence and ſafe Conduct; but any Subject to ſuch a foreign King in League, may come without Licence.) In this Caſe he ſhall ſue and be ſued by the Name of Emperour or King, or elſe the Writ ſhall abate.

There is a notable Preſident cited out of Fleta, where treating of the Juriſdiction of the King's Court of Marſhalſea, it is ſaid, And theſe things he might lawfully do by Office; that is to ſay, The Steward of the King's Houſhold, notwithſtanding the Liberty of any other, although in another Kingdom, when the Offender may be found in the King's Houſhold: according to that which happened at Paris in the Fourteenth Year of Edward the I, when Engelram of Nogent was taken in the Houſhold of the King of England (the King himſelf being then at Paris) with ſilver Diſhes lately ſtoln; at which deed the King of France did claim Cognizance of the Plea concerning that Theft by Juriſdiction of that Court of Paris. The Matter being diverſly debated in the Council of the King of France, at length it was Ordered, That the King of England ſhould uſe and enjoy that Kingly Prerogative of his Houſhold, who being Convicted by Robert Fitz-John Knight, Steward of the King's Houſhold, of the Theft, by conſideration of the ſaid Court, was hanged on the Gallows in St. Germans Field.

And here by the way may be noted from thoſe recited Books alledged, That the Perſon of the King in another King's Dominions is not abſolutely priviledged, but that he may be impleaded for Debt or Treſpaſs, or condemned for Treaſon committed within the ſaid Dominions: For it is the general Law of Nations, that in what place an Offence is committed, according to the Law of the ſaid Place they may be judged, without regard to any Privilege, Neither can a King in any other Kingdom challenge any ſuch Prerogative of Immunity from Laws: For a King out of his proper Kingdom hath not merum Imperium, but only doth retain Honoris titulos & dignitatis; ſo that where he hath offended in his own Perſon againſt the King in whoſe Nation he is, per omnia diſtringitur, etiam quoad perſonam. And the ſame Law is of Ambaſſadors, ne occaſio daretur delinquendi. That Ambaſſadors are called Legats, becauſe they are choſen as fit Men out of many; and their Perſons be Sacred both at Home and Abroad, ſo that no Man may injurioufly lay violent Hands upon them, without breach of the Law of Nations, and much leſs upon the Perſon of a King in a ſtrange Land.

Bracton, a Judge of this Realm in the Reign of King Henry the III, in his firſt Book, and eighth Caſe, ſaith, There is no reſpect of Perſons with God; but with Men there is a difference of Perſons; Viz. the King, and under him Dukes, Counts, Barons, Lords, Vavaſors, and Knights. Counts, ſo called, becauſe they take the Name from the County, or from the word Sociati, who alſo may be termed Conſules of Counſelling; for Kings do aſſociate ſuch Men unto them to govern the People of God, ordaining into great Honours, Power, and Name, where they do gird them with Swords, that is to ſay, Ringis gladorium. Upon this cauſe were the Stations and Encampings of Arms, called by the Romans, Caſtra, of the word Caſtrare, ſince they ought to be Caſtrata vel Caſta. In this Place ought a good General to foreſee that Venus Delights be (as it were) gelded and cut off from the Army. So Sir John Fern's Book, entituled, The Glory of Generoſity; Ring, ſo called quaſi renes girans & circundans, for that they compaſs the Reins of ſuch, that they may keep them from Inceſt of Luxury; becauſe the Luxurious and Inceſtuous Perſons are abominable unto God.

Anno 1641. 'A Meſſage was 'ſent to the Houſe of Commons, 'to deſire a Preſent Conference 'by a Committee of both Houſes, touching 'Honour. Brydall's Privilegia Magnatum. Remark XI.

'The Subject of the Conference to be, That 'both Houſes may Petition His Majeſty, that Titles 'of Honour may not be bought, and ſold for Mo- 'ney, but that it may be Confirmed by His Ma- 'jeſty, as Anciently it was, for Vertue and Merit. 'Dr. Nalſon's 2 Vol. f. 325.

'ALTHOUGH the Laws of 'this Realm regularly do make 'all the Daughters, where there are no Sons, 'equally to inherit Lands and Tenements, and to 'be One Heir to their Anceſtors; yet it is not ſo 'in the Deſcent of Dignities and Titles of Honour; 'for Inheritances concerning Matters of Honour, 'being in their Nature things participating of Su-'periority and Eminency, are not partable among 'many, and therefore muſt of Neceſſity de-'ſcend unto One, and that is to the Eldeſt 'Daughter, Siſter, Aunt, or Couſin Female, In-'heritable, where there are no Heirs Males, that 'may Lawfully challenge the ſame. Dodridge 'in his Treatiſe of Nobility and Peerage, 'pag. 169. Tit. Noblewomen. Camden's Bri-'tanea fol. 165. *Engl. Brydall, Rem. XIII. 'A Question was moved in 'Parliament (Anno 16 Car. I.) 'touching the Barony of Ruthen, where the 'Case was, That one being created Baron to 'him and his Heirs, hath Issue a Son and a 'Daughter by one Venter, and a Second Son by 'another Venter, and the eldest Son hath the Barony, and sits in Parliament, and afterwards dies 'without Issue; Whether the second Son shall 'have that Dignity, as Heir to his Father: Or 'the Sister should have it as Possessio Fratris in 'Lands, &c. and desired to have the Opinion of 'the Judges therein? And all the Judges resolved, that there is not any Possessio Fratris of a 'Dignity; but it shall descend to the Son; for 'the Younger Son is Hæres Natus, and the Sister 'only Hæres Facta, by the Possession of her Brother, of such things as are in Demesn, but not 'of Dignities, and such like, whereof there can'not be an Acquisition of the Possession. Cro. Car. 'fol. 601. The Lord Grey's Case.

Brydall, Rem. XIV. 'THE Greater Dignity doth 'never drown the Lesser Honour, or Dignity: But both do stand together 'in one and the same Person: And therefore 'if a Knight be created a Baron, yet he remains 'a Knight still: So if a Baron be made a Viscount, yet the Dignity of a Baron continueth: 'So if a Viscount be made an Earl, yet the Viscountship remaineth, & sic de Cæteris: But if 'an Esquire (which is no Name of Dignity) be 'made a Knight, the Degree of the Esquire is 'changed and gone, and the Knight cannot so be 'Named in any Judicial Proceedings. Co. 2. Inst. 'fol. 594. & 669. *Co. That if the Crown of England do 'descend to a Duke, within England his Name 'of Duke is gone.

Brydall, Rem. XVI. 'DUKES, Earls, and all 'others of the Degree of Nobility and Honour, have Offices of great Trust, 'and Confidence, being for two principal Purposes, the first, Ad consulendum Regi tempore 'Pacis, To counsel the King in time of Peace. The 'other, Ad defendendum Regem, & Patriam tempore Belli; To defend the King, and Country in 'time of War: And therefore Antiquity hath 'given unto them Two Ensigns to resemble both 'the said Duties: For the First, The Head is 'adorned with a Cap of Honour, and Coronet, 'and the Body with a Robe in resemblance of 'Counsel: Secondly, They are girt with a Sword, 'in resemblance, That they must be Faithful and 'True to defend the Prince and Countrey. Co. 'lib. 7. 34. a. Nevill's Case, and lib. 12. f. 95. OF THE KING, OR MONARCH OF GREAT BRITAIN.

CHAP. II.

MONARCHY is as ancient as Man, Adam being created Sovereign Lord of the Universe, whose Office was to govern the whole World, and all Creatures therein. His Posterity (after his Death) dividing into Tribes and Generations, acknowledged no other Dominion than Paternity and Eldership. The Fathers of Nations were instead of Kings, and the Eldest Sons in every Family were reverenced as Princes, from whence came the Word Seignior amongst the Italians and French, and Seignories for Lordship and Dominion; of which Seneca makes two kinds, viz. Potestas aut Imperium, Power or Command, & Proprietas aut Dominium, Property or Dominion.

These Empires in the Golden Age were founded upon natural Reverency and Piety; their Power was executed with the soft Weapons of paternal Perswasions, and the greatest Penalties that they inflicted upon the most Capital Criminals was the Malediction of their Primogenitors, with an Excommunication out of the Tribes: But as Men and Vice began to increase, Pride and evil Examples overshadowed Filial Obedience, and Violence entred upon the Stage of the World, the mighty Men trusting in their own Strength, oppressed the Feeble, and were at length forced to truckle under the Tyranny of others more Gygantick than themselves, which necessitated them to submit to Government for Self-preservation, many Households conjoyning made a Village, many Villages a City, and these Cities and Citizens confederating, established Laws by consent, which in tract of time were called Commonwealths; some being governed by Kings, some by Magistrates, and some so unfortunate as to fall under the Yoke, of a popular Rule, Nam Plebs est pessimus Tyrannus.

The

The first Chiefs or Kings were Men of Vertue, elected for their Wisdom and Courage, being both Reges & Duces, to govern according to their Laws in Peace, and to lead them forth to Battel against their Enemies in Time of Hostility. And this Rule proving more safe for the People, honourable amongst Men, and firmer in it self than the other, most Nations followed it, approving the Sentence of Tacitus, Præstat sub Principo malo esse quam nullo. Lamentable Experience, the Mistress of Fools in some, and of Wisdom in others, in the Ages sequent necessitated them again to quit the Form of Election, and to entail the Sovereign Power in the Hereditary Loyns of their Kings, to prevent the fatal Consequence of Ambition amongst equal Pretenders in popular Elections.

Thus the Beginning of an Empire is ascribed to Reason and Necessity; but 'twas God himself that illuminated the Minds of Men, and let them see they could not subsist without a Supream in their human Affairs. Necessitas est firmum judicium & immutabilis providentia potestas.

This Island of Great-Britain, when Barbarism was so happy as to submit to a Regal Power (as Cæsar in his Commentaries witnesseth) then divided into many Kingdoms; under which Government of Kings (with some small Alterations, according to the Necessity of Times and Pleasure of Conquerors, it hath flourished, descending from the British, Saxon, Danish, Norman and Scots Kings, to our gracious Sovereign George; into whose Veins all those several Streams of Royal Blood are conjoyned to unite those jarring Nations into one Body, under a Head, unto which each one may justly claim an Interest.

God hath thus restored our ancient Government, and seated our Sovereign in the Throne of his Ancestors, giving him a Power just and absolute, as well to preserve as curb his People, being not only Major singulis, but Major universis; and his Power is super totam Rempublicam, which I thus prove: Either the whole Power of the Commonwealth is in one, or not; if not, then he is no absolute King or Monarch; but if he be (as all must yield) a Monarch, I ask if there be a Power in the Commonwealth which is not in him? Is it subordinate to his Power, or not? If subordinate, than his Power is above that Power, and so super totam Republicam & Major universis; if it be not, then there are a simul & semel to Supream Civil Powers in the same individual Kingdom and Gubernation, and yet divided against it self, which is most absurd and impossible. This in answer to a monstrous Pamphlet, which the Lasciviousness of our late unhappy Wars produced, which asserted Rex minor universis. But the Divine Providence hath (I hope) put a Period to all such Trayterous Tenets, and concluded such Disputes by Acts of Parliament; so that no Person for the future shall dare to question who hath the Right of making Peace or War, the Power of Militia by Land and Sea, all strong Holds and Forts, &c. being the inherent Right of the English Monarchs by their Prerogative Royal.

'The King is so call'd, from the Saxon Word Koning or Cyning, from Can, intimating Power; or Ken, Knowledge, where with every Sovereign should especially be invested. Chamberlayn's Present State, p. 74.

'The Title anciently of the Saxon King Edgar was Anglorum Basileus & Dominus quatuor Marium, King or Emperor of the English, and Lord of the four Seas, viz. The British, German, Irish and Deucalidonian Seas: Sive Anglorum Basileus omniumque Regum, Insularum, Oceanique Britanniam circumjacentis, cunctarumque Nationum quæ infra eam includuntur, Imperator & Dominus.

'The Modern Title more modest, is Dei Gratia of England, Scotland, France and Ireland, King, Defender of the Faith.

'Defender of the Faith, was anciently used by the Kings of England, as appears by several Charters granted to the University of * Oxford; but in the Year 1521, more particularly affix'd by a Bull from Pope Leo X. for a Book written by Henry VIII. against Luther, in Defence of some Points of the Romish Religion, but since continued by Act of Parliament, for Defence of the Ancient, Catholick, and Apostolick Faith. By Act of Parliament he is also declared supream Head of the Church of England

* Dr. Crakenthorp against the Archbishop of Spalato.

'Promigenitus Ecclesiæ belongs to the Kings of England, because their Predecessor Lucius was the first King in the World that embraced Christianity.

'Christianissimus, was by the Lateran Council under Pope Julius II. conferr'd on the Kings of England in the 5th Year of Henry VIII. tho' before used by Henry VII. and since only by the French King.

'The Title of Grace was first given to the King about the Time of Henry IV; to Henry VI. Excellent Grace; to Edward IV. High and Mighty Prince; to Henry VII. sometimes Grace, and sometimes Highness; to Henry VIII. first Highness, then Majesty; and now Sacred Majesty, after the Custom of the Eastern Emperors that used Ἁγία Βασιλεία.

'The King of England, in his publick Instruments and Letters, stiles himself Nos, We, in the plural Number. Before King John's time, Kings used the singular Number; which Custom is still seen in the end of Writs, Teste me ipso apud Westm'.

'In speaking to the King is used often (besides Your Majesty) Sir, from Cyr, in the Greek Κυρ, an Abreviation of Κυριος, Dominus, much used to the Greek Emperors, or perhaps more truly from the Gothick, Sihor, Lord; but Syr, or Sir, Domine, is now in England become the ordinary Word to all the better Rank, even from the King to the Gentleman. It was anciently in England given to Lords, afterwards to Knights, and to Clergy-men, prefixt before their Christian Names; now in that manner only

'to

‘ to Baronets, and Knights of the Bath, Knights ‘ Batchelors, and Batchelors of Arts in both the ‘ Univerſities; yet in France, Sire, is reſerved ‘ only for their King.

It is the manner alſo for Kings to write in the plural Number (which is God's own Style) Mandamus, Volumus, &c. and in the Scripture we find them called Gods, in which Senſe they may be ſtiled Divi, or Dii, quia Dei Vicarii, & Dei voce judicant.

Our Lawyers alſo ſay, Rex eſt perſona mixta cum Sacerdote, habet Eccleſiaſticam & Spiritualem Juriſdictionem. This ſhews the King's Power in Eccleſiaſtical Cauſes, being anointed with Oil as the Prieſts, and afterwards the Kings of Iſrael were; which ſignifies his Perſon to be both Sacred and Spiritual. And therefore at the Coronation hath put upon him a Prieſt's Garment, called the Dalmatica, or Colobium, and other ſuch Veſts. And before the Reformation, the King, as a Spiritual Perſon, received the Sacrament in both kinds. He is capable of holding Tithes; all Extra-Parochial Tithes, ſome Proxies, and other Spiritual Profits belong to the King.

The Ceremonies at the Coronation of the King are many, and with us in England more than in many other Countries: As the Anointing with Oil, which is proved by Mr. Selden to be of above one thouſand Years ſtanding; the Crown ſet upon his Head with many Religious Ceremonies: Beſides the Enſigns of Regality, which are a Ring to ſignifie his Faithfulneſs; a Bracelet for good Works; a Scepter for Juſtice; a Sword for Vengeance; Purple Robes to attract Reverence; and a Diadem triumphant to blazon his Glory.

It was the ſaying of Thomas Becket, Archbiſhop of Canterbury, Inunguntur Reges in Capite, etiam pectore & brachiis, quod ſignificat gloriam, ſanctitatem & fortitudinem. Kings are Anointed on the Head to ſignifie their Glory, on the Breaſt to emblematize their Sanctity, and on their Arms to declare their Power.

He is crowned with an Imperial Crown, the Crown ſet on his Head by the Archbiſhop of Canterbury; a Prerogative belonging to that See, as it is in Spain to Toledo, in France to Rheims, and in Sweden to Upſalia.

But this Imperial Crown hath not been long in uſe amongſt us (though our Kings have had Imperial Commands, as over Scotland, Ireland, Man, and other Iſles) being in a manner like that of an Earls now. Neither is it found that any ſuch thing as a Diadem was at all in uſe, until the time of Conſtantine the Great: For before the Diſtinction was ſome kind of Chaplet, or rather a white Silk Fillet about the Head, which was an ordinary way to diſtinguiſh them. And we read that Alexander the Great took off his white Diadem to cure the madneſs of Seleucus.

The firſt King that was crowned with this Imperial Crown floried and arched, was Henry the Third, but ſome ſay Henry the Firſt, and indeed it is left in diſpute. However, it is very probable and plain, That the ancienteſt Enſign of Regal Authority was the Scepter, which is every where ſpoken of, both in Scripture and prophane Hiſtory.

There is another Enſign of their Authority, which is a Globe or Mound with a Croſs, which hath been in uſe amongſt us ever ſince Edward the Confeſſor's Time, which is placed in the left Hand, as is ſeen in moſt of their Coins: The Croſs denoting his Faith, the Globe his Empire by Sea and Land; as 'tis ſaid of Juſtinian the Emperor, who was the firſt that ever uſed it.

The King is God's Vicegerent, and ought to be obeyed accordingly: If Good, he is a Bleſſing; if Bad, a Judgment: And then againſt whom we are to uſe no other Weapons but Prayers and Tears for his Amendment. He is ſtiled Pater Patriæ, & Caput Reipublicæ: And becauſe the Protection of his Subjects belongs to his Care and Office, the Militia is annext to his Crown, that the Sword as well as the Scepter, may be in his Hand. The Parliament (then Roman Catholicks) in the behalf of Henry the Eighth writ to the Pope, declaring that his Royal Majeſty is the Head, and the very Soul of us all; his Cauſe is the Cauſe of us all, derived from the Head upon the Members; his Griefs and Injuries are ours, we all ſuffer equally with him. Camden in his Britannia, fol. 100. calls the King the moſt excellent part of the Commonwealth, next unto God. He is under no Vaſſuage; he takes his Inveſture from no Man. Rex non habet Superiorem, niſi Deum: ſatis habet ad pœnam, quod Deum expectat ultorem.

The King being Principium, Caput, & Finis Parliamenti, may of his meer Will and Pleaſure Convoke, Adjourn, Remove, and Diſſolve Parliaments: He may, to any Bill that is paſſed by both Houſes of Parliament, refuſe to give his Royal Aſſent *, without rendring a Reaſon; and without his Aſſent a Bill is as a Body without a Soul: He may at his pleaſure encreaſe the Number of the Members of both Houſes, by creating more Peers of the Realm, and beſtowing Priviledges upon any other Towns to ſend Burgeſſes by Writ to Parliament: And he may refuſe to ſend his Writ to ſome others that have ſate in former Parliaments. Yet this Branch of his Prerogative ſeems to be given up by our late Kings, and therefore it was thought neceſſary that the Legiſlative Power ſhou'd intervene, to enable Durham to ſend its Repreſentatives to Parliament in the time of K. Charles II. He hath alone the choice and nomination of all Commanders and Officers for Land and Sea-ſervice; the choice and election of all Magiſtrates, Counſellors, and Officers of State; of all Biſhops, and other Eccleſiaſtick Dignities; alſo the beſtowing and conferring of Honours, and the power of determining Rewards and Puniſhments.

* Chamberlayne's Preſent State, Edit. An. 1707. p. 79.

By Letters Patent his Majeſty may erect new Counties, Univerſities, Biſhopricks, Cities, Boroughs, Colleges, Hoſpitals, Schools, Fairs, Markets, Courts of Judicature, Foreſts, Chaſes, Free Warrens, &c.

The King is enabled to perform this great and weighty Office by certain extraordinary Powers and Priviledges which he holds by the Law of Nations, by the Common Law of England, or by Statutes. The Regalia were anciently called Sacra Sacrorum (as his Lands are called in Law Patrimonium Sacrum) now commonly Royal Prerogatives.

The King by his Prerogative hath power to enfranchiſe an Alien, and make him a Deniſon, whereby he is enabled to purchaſe Lands and Houſes, and to bear Offices. He hath the Power to grant Letters of Mart or Repriſals; to grant ſafe Conducts, &c. He hath at all times had the right of Purveyance or Pre-emption of all ſorts of Victuals within the Verge, viz. twelve Miles round of the Court; and to take Horſes, Carts, Ships, or Boats, for the Carriage of his Goods, at reaſonable Rates. Alſo by Proclamation, to ſet reaſonable Rates and Prices upon Fleſh, Fiſh, Fowl, Oats, Hay, &c. ſold within the limits of the Verge of the Court in the time of his Progreſs.

Debts due to the King, are in the firſt place to be ſatisfied in caſe of Executorſhip and Adminiſtratorſhip; and until the King's Debts be ſatisfied, he may protect the Debtor from the Arreſt of other Creditors. He may diſtrein for the whole Rent upon one Tenant that holdeth not the whole Land: He may require the Anceſtors Debt of the Heir, though not eſpecially bound: He is not obliged to demand his Rent according to the Cuſtom of Landlords: He may diſtrein where he pleaſeth, and ſue in any of his Courts.

No Proclamation can be made but by the King. No Protection for a Defendant to obſtruct the courſe of the Law againſt him, if he be not one of his Majeſty's Menial Servants.

In caſe of loſs by Fire, or otherwiſe, his Majeſty granteth Patents to receive the Charitable Benevolences of the People.

No Foreſt, Chaſe, or Park to be made, nor Caſtle, Fort, or Tower to be built without his Majeſty's eſpecial Licence.

Where the King hath granted a Fair, with Toll to be paid, yet his Goods ſhall be there exempted from the ſaid Duties of Toll.

His Servants in Ordinary are priviledged from ſerving in any Offices that require their Attendance; as Sheriff, Conſtable, Churchwarden, or the like.

All Receivers of Money for the King, or Accomptants to him for any of his Revenues, their Perſons, Lands, Goods, Heirs, Executors, and Adminiſtrators, are at all times chargeable for the ſame: For Nullum tempus occurrit Regi.

His Debtor hath a kind of Prerogative Remedy by a Quo minus in the Exchequer againſt all other Debtors, or againſt whom they have any cauſe of perſonal Action; ſuppoſing that he is thereby diſabled to pay the King: And in this Suit the King's Debtor being Plantiff, hath ſome Priviledges above others.

In doubtful Caſes ſemper præſumiter pro Rege, no Statute reſtraineth the King, except he be eſpecially named therein. The Quality of his Perſon alters the deſcent of Gavelkind, the Rules of joynt Tenancy: No Eſtoppel can bind him, nor Judgment final in a Writ of Right. Judgments entred againſt the King's Title, are entred with Salvo Jure Domini Regis. That if at any time the King's Counſel at Law can make out his Title better, that Judgment ſhall not prejudice him, which is not permitted the Subject.

The King by his Prerogative may demand reaſonable Aid-money of his Subjects, for the Knighting his eldeſt Son at the Age of Fifteen Years; and to marry his eldeſt Daughter at the Age of 7 Years; which Aid is 20 s. for every Knight's Fee, and as much for every 20 l. per Annum in Soccage. Moreover, if the King be taken Priſoner, Aid-money is to be paid by the Subjects for his Redemption.

The King upon reaſonable Cauſes him thereunto moving, may protect any of his Subjects from Suits of Law, &c.

In all Caſes where the King is party, his Officers with an Arreſt by force of a Proceſs at Law, may enter and (if any entrance be denied) may break open the Houſe of any Man by force.

A Benefice, or Spiritual Living, is not full againſt the King by Inſtitution only, without Induction, although it be ſo againſt a Subject.

None but the King can hold Plea of falſe Judgments in the Courts of his Tenants.

The King by his Prerogative is Summus Regni Cuſtos, and hath the Cuſtody of the Perſons and Eſtates of ſuch, as for want of Underſtanding cannot govern themſelves, or ſerve the King; that of Ideots to his own uſe, and that of Lunaticks to the uſe of the next Heir: So the Cuſtody or Wardſhips of all ſuch Infants, whoſe Anceſtors held their Lands by Tenure in Capite, or Knights Service, were ever ſince the Conqueſt in the King, to the great honour and benefit of the King and Kingdom: But Abuſes, which too often happened, made the People complain thereof, which was the cauſe of its laying aſide.

His Majeſty is Ultimus Hæres Regni, and is (as the great Ocean is of ſmall Rivers) the Receptacle of all Eſtates for want of Heirs, or by Forfeiture, Revert or Eſcheat to the King. All Spiritual Benefices, for want of Preſentation in due time by the Biſhop, are elapſed to the King. All Treaſure Trove (that is Money, or Gold and Silver Plate, or Bullion found, and the Owners unknown) belongs to the King: So doth all Waifs, Strays, Wrecks, not granted away by him, or any former Kings. All waſte Ground or Land recovered from the Sea: All Lands of Aliens dying before Naturalization or Denization, and all other things whereof the Property is not known: All Gold and Silver Mines, in whoſe Ground ſoever they are found: Royal Fiſh, as Whales, Sturgeons, Dolphins, &c. Royal Fowl, as Swans not mark't, and ſwimming at Liberty on the River, belong to the King.

In the Church the King's Prerogative and Power is extraordinary great: He only hath the Patronage of all Biſhopricks; none can be choſen but by his Conge d' Eſlire, whom he hath firſt nominated; none can be conſecrated Biſhop, or take poſſeſſion of the Revenues of the Biſhoprick, without the King's ſpecial Writ or Aſſent. He is Guardian or Nurſing Father of the Church, which our Kings of England did ſo reckon amongſt their principal Cares; as in the three and twentieth Year of King Edward the Firſt, it was alledged in a plead-a pleading, and allowed: The King hath power to call a National or Provincial Synod; and with the Advice and Consent thereof to make Canons, Orders, Ordinances and Constitutions to introduce into the Church what Ceremonies he shall think fit; to reform and correct all Heresies, Schisms, and punish Contempts, &c.

The King hath Power not only to unite, consolidate, separate, inlarge, or contract the Limits of any old Bishoprick, or other Ecclesiastical Benefice: But also by his Letters Patents may erect new Bishopricks, as Henry the Eighth did Six at one time, and the late King Charles the Martyr intended to do at St. Albans for the Honour of the first Martyr of England, and for the contracting the too large Extent of the Bishoprick of Lincoln.

In the 28. of Eliz. when the House of Commons would have passed Bills touching Bishops, granting Faculties, conferring Holy Orders, Ecclesiastical Censures, the Oath Ex Officio, Non-Residency, &c. The Queen being much incensed, forbade them to meddle in any Ecclesiastical Affairs, for that it belonged to her Prerogative.

His Majesty hath also power of Coinage of Money, of pardoning all Criminals, of dispensing with all Statutes made by him, or his Predecessors, which are Malum prohibitum, and not Malum in se. The Diversity between these Terms is set down in the Statute made Term Mich. Anno 11. H. 7. 11. Thus where the Statute doth prohibit a Man to coin Money, if he do, he shall be hanged; this is Malum prohibitum: For before the said Statute it was lawful, but not after; and for this Evil the King may dispense: But Malum in se neither the King nor any other can dispense with. As if the King would give leave to rob on the High-ways, &c. this is void; yet after the Fact done, the King may pardon it. So it is in Ecclesiastical Laws for conformity to the Liturgy, &c. which are Malum prohibitum; and the King may by his Prerogative Royal as well dispense with all those penal Statutes, as with Merchants to transport Silver, Wool, and other prohibited Commodities by Act of Parliament.

Chamberlayne's Present State.

'Some of these Prerogatives, 'especially those that relate to 'Justice and Peace, are so essen-'tial to Royalty, that they are for ever inherent 'in the Crown, and make the Crown; they are 'like the Sun-beams in the Sun, and as inseparable from it: And therefore it hath been held 'by some great Lawyers, That a Prerogative in 'point of Government, cannot be restrained, or 'bound by Act of Parliament, but it is unalterable as the Laws of the Medes and Persians: 'Wherefore the Lords and Commons (Rot. Parl. '42 Edw. 3. Numb. 7.) declared, that they 'could not assent in Parliament to any thing that 'tended to the Disherison of the King and the 'Crown, whereunto they were sworn; no tho' 'the King should desire it. And every King of 'England, as he is Debitor Justitiæ to his People, so he is in Conscience obliged to defend 'and maintain all the Rights of the Crown in pos-'session; and when any King hath not religiously observed his Duty in this Point, it hath 'proved of very dreadful Consequence. As on 'the other side, it much concerns every King of 'England to be very careful of the Subjects just 'Liberties, according to the Golden Rule of the 'best of Kings, Charles the First, that the King's 'Prerogative is to defend the People's Liberties, 'and the Peoples Liberties to strengthen the King's 'Prerogative.

'The Laws of England looking upon the King 'as God's Vicegerent upon Earth, do attribute 'unto him divers Excellencies not belonging to 'other Men: So the Law will have no Imperfection found in the King; as, no Injustice, no 'Error, no Negligence or Laches, no Infamy, no 'Stain or Corruption of Blood; for by taking of 'the Crown, all former, tho' just Attainder, '(and such Attainder made by Act of Parliament) 'is ipso facto purged. No Nonage or Minority; 'for his Grant of Lands, though held in his Natural, not Politick Capacity, cannot be avoided 'by Nonage. Higher than this, the Law attributeth a kind of Perpetuity, not to say Immortality, to the King, Rex Angliæ non moritur; 'his Death is by the Law termed the Demise of 'the King, because thereby the Kingdom is demised to another. He is said not to be subject to 'Death, because he is a Corporation of himself, 'that liveth for ever, all Interregna being in England unknown; the same Moment that one 'King dies, the next Heir is King fully and absolutely, without any Coronation, Ceremony, or 'act to be done, ex post facto.

'Moreover the Law seemeth to attribute to the 'King a certain Ubiquity; that the King is in a 'manner every where, in all his Courts of Justice; and therefore cannot be Nonsuited, (as 'Lawyers speak.)

'And yet there are some things that the King 'of England cannot do. Rex Angliæ nihil injusse 'potest, and the King cannot divest himself, or 'his Successors, of any part of his Regal Power, 'Prerogative and Authority, inherent and annex'd 'to the Crown; nor bar his Heir of the Succession, no not by Act of Parliament; for such an 'Act is void by Law.

'There is also divers things which the King 'cannot do, Salvo Jure, Salvo Juramento, & 'Salva Conscientia sua; because by an Oath at 'his Coronation, and indeed, without any Oath 'by the Law of Nature, Nations, and of Christianity, he holds himself bound (as do all other 'Christian Kings) to protect and defend his People, to do Justice, and to shew Mercy, to preserve Peace and Quietness among them; to allow them their just Rights and Liberties; to 'consent to the Repealing of bad Laws, and to 'the Enacting of good. Two things especially 'the King of England cannot do without the Consent of both Houses of Parliament, viz. make 'New Laws, and raise New Taxes, there being 'something of Odium in both of them, the one 'seeming to diminish the Subjects Liberty, and 'the other to infringe his Property: Therefore, 'that all Occaſion of Diſaffection towards the 'King (the Breath of our Noſtrils, and the Light 'of our Eyes, as he is ſtiled in Holy Scriptures) 'might be avoided, it was wiſely contrived by 'our Anceſtors, that for both theſe, ſhould Peti-'tions and Supplications be firſt made by the Sub-'ject.

'If the King of England be in any Foreign 'Nation, he may try any of his offending Do-'meſticks by the Laws of England, ſaith Fleta; 'as in the Caſe of Engelrum of Nogent in France, 'and of Manning, whom King Charles II. caus'd 'to be try'd, and executed in the Duke of New-'burgh's Territories in Germany.

'Theſe, and divers other Prerogatives, right-'fully belong, and are enjoy'd by the King of 'England.

'The ancient Dominions of the Kings of Eng-'land, were firſt England, and all the Seas round 'about Great Britain and Ireland, and all the 'Iſles adjacent, even to the Shores of all the 'Neighbouring Nations; and our Law ſaith, 'The Sea is of the Leigeance of the King, as well 'as the Land; and as a Mark thereof all Ships 'of Foreigners have anciently demanded Leave to 'Fiſh, and paſs in theſe Seas; and do at this Day 'lower their Top-ſails to all the King's Ships of 'War; and therefore Children born upon thoſe 'Seas (as it ſometimes hath happened) are ac-'counted natural born Subjects to the King of 'England, and need no Naturalization, as others 'born out of his Dominions.

'To England, Henry the Firſt annexed Nor-'mandy, and Henry the Second Ireland, being 'ſtiled only Lord of Ireland, till the three and 'thirtieth of Henry the Eighth, although they 'had all Kingly Juriſdiction before.

'Henry the Second alſo annexed the Dukedom 'of Guyenne and Anjou, the Counties of Poictou, 'Tourain, and Mayne; Edward the Firſt all 'Wales, and Edward the Third the Right, tho' 'not the Poſſeſſion, of all France, but Henry the 'Fifth added both, and his Son Henry the Sixth 'was Crown'd and Recogniz'd by all the States 'of the Realm at Paris.

'King James the Firſt added Scotland, and 'ſince that time there have been ſuperadded ſun-'dry conſiderable Plantations in America.

'The Dominions of the King of England at 'this Day in Poſſeſſion, are Great Britain and 'Ireland, and all the Seas adjacent. Moreover, 'the Iſlands of Jerſey, Guernſey, Aldernay and 'Sark, which are Parcel of the Dutchy of Nor-'mandy, beſides thoſe profitable Plantations of 'New-England, New-York, Eaſt and Weſt Jerſey, 'Penſilvania, Maryland, Virginia, Barbadoes, 'Jamaica, Florida, North and South Carolina, 'Bermudos, with ſeveral other Iſles and Places in 'thoſe Quarters, and ſome in the Eaſt-Indies, 'and upon the Coaſt of Africa; alſo upon the 'North Parts of America, by Right of firſt Diſ-'covery; to Eſtotiland, Terra Corterialis, New-'found-land, and to Guiana in the South, the 'King of England hath a Legal Right, tho' not 'Poſſeſſion of the whole.

'The mighty Power of the King of England, 'before the Conjunction of Scotland, and total 'Subjection of Ireland, which were uſually at 'Enmity with him, was notoriouſly known to 'the World, and ſufficiently felt by our Neigh-'bour-Nations. What his Strength hath been 'ſince, was never fully try'd in the four late 'Reigns; but ſince the happy Revolution, that the 'Parliaments of all the Three Kingdoms ſeemed 'to vie which ſhould moſt readily comply with 'their Sovereign's Deſires and Deſigns, all Europe 'begins to be ſenſible how great the Power of 'this Monarch is. And let our Sovereign be 'conſider'd abſtractly as King only of England, 'which is like a huge Fortreſs, or garriſon'd 'Town, fenced, not only with ſtrong Works, 'and a wide and deep Ditch the Sea, but guard-'ed alſo with excellent Out-works, the ſtrong-'eſt and beſt built Ships of War in the World; 'then ſo abundantly furniſh'd with Men and 'Horſes, with Victuals and Amunition, with 'Cloaths and Money, that if all the Potentates 'of Europe ſhould conſpire (which God forbid) 'they could hardly diſtreſs it, provided it be at 'Unity in it ſelf.

'This for the Defenſive Strength of the King 'of England; now for his Offenſive. How 'formidable muſt he be to the World, when 'they ſhall underſtand that a King of England 'is well able, when-ever he is willing, to raiſe 'of Engliſh Foot 200000, and of Engliſh Horſe 'fifty Thouſand (for ſo many, during the late 'Rebellion, 1643, were computed to be in 'Arms on both Sides) yet (which is admirable) 'ſcarce any miſs of them in any City, Town 'or Village. And when they ſhall conſider the 'Valiant and Martial Spirit of the Engliſh, their 'natural Agility of Body, their Patience, Hardi-'neſs and Stedfaſtneſs is ſuch, and their Fear of 'Death ſo little, that no Neighbour-Nation, up-'on equal Number and Terms, ſcarce ever 'durſt abide Battle with them, either at Sea or 'Land: When they ſhall conſider, that for 'Tranſporting of any Army, the King of Eng-'land hath at Command two hundred excellent 'Ships of War, and can hire two hundred ſtout 'Engliſh Merchant Ships, little inferiour to Ships 'of War; that he can ſoon Man the ſame with 'the beſt Sea-Soldiers in the whole World. And 'that for maintaining ſuch a mighty Fleet, ſuffi-'cient Money for a competent Time, may be 'rais'd only by a Land-Tax; and for a long 'time, by a moderate Exciſe, and that upon ſuch 'Commodities only as naturally occaſion Exceſs 'or Luxury, Wantonneſs, Idleneſs, Pride, or 'Corruption of Manners.

'When they conſider that the Shipping of Eng-'land was computed lately by the moſt ingenious 'Sir William Petty at ſix hundred thouſand Tun, 'all which, with forty thouſand ſtout and skilful 'Mariners, are wholly at the King's Service 'when he ſhall think fit, for the ſafety of his

'Crown

'Crown and Dominions, to require, or if need be, 'impress 'em.

'In a Word, when they shall consider, that 'by the most commodious and advantageous Si- 'tuation of England, the King thereof (if he be 'not wanting to himself, or his Subjects want- 'ing to him) must be Master of the Sea; and 'that as on Land, whosoever is Master of the 'Field is also said to be Master of every Town 'when it shall please him; so he that is Master 'of the Sea, may be said, in some sort, to be 'Master of every Country, at least bordering 'upon the Sea; for he is at Liberty to begin or 'end War, where, when, and upon what Terms 'he pleaseth, and to extend his Conquests even 'to the Antipodes.

'King William the Conqueror getting by Right 'of Conquest, (as some affirm) all the Lands of 'his Oppofers (except Lands belonging to the 'Church, to Monasteries, and Religious Houses) 'into his own Hands in Demesn, as Lawyers 'speak, soon bestowed amongst his Followers a 'Part thereof, reserving some Retribution of 'Rents, or Services, or both, to him and his 'Heirs, Kings of England; which Reservation 'is now as it was before the Conquest, called 'the Tenure of Lands, the rest he reserved to 'himself in Demesn, called Corona Regis Domi- 'nica, Demains, and Sacra Patrimonia, Prædium 'Domini Regis, Directum Dominium, cujus nullus 'est Author nisi Deus: All other Lands in Eng- 'land being held now of some Superior, depend 'mediately, or immediately on the Crown; so 'that the King is Lord Paramount, Supreme 'Landlord of all the Lands in England; and all 'landed Men are mediately or immediately his 'Tenants by some Tenure or other; but the 'Lands possess'd by the Crown, being held of 'none, can escheat to none; being Sacred can- 'not become Prophane, are, or should be perma- 'nent and unalienable. And yet they have been '(by Time, the Gift and Bounty of our Kings, 'and some Necessities for the Preservation of the 'Weal Publick) much alienated. However there 'is yet left, or was lately, almost in every County 'in England, a Forest, a Park, a Castle, or Royal 'Palace belonging to the King; and in divers 'Counties there are many Parks, Castles or Pa- 'laces, and Forests still belonging to the King, to 'receive and divert him, when he shall please in 'his Royal Progresses to visit those Parts: A Gran- 'deur not to be parallell'd perhaps by any King 'in the whole World.

'The certain Revenues of the King of England 'were anciently greater than of any King in Eu- 'rope, they enjoying in Demains and Fee Farm 'Rents, almost enough to discharge all the ordi- 'nary Expences of the Crown, without any Tax 'or Impost upon the Subject.

'Upon the happy Restauration of King Charles 'the Second, the Lords and Commons assembled 'in Parliament, finding the Crown-Revenues 'much alienated, and the Crown-Charges ex- 'ceedingly encreased, by reason of the late vast 'Augmentation of the Revenues and Strength by 'Sea and Land, of our two next Neighbour-Na- 'tions abroad, did unanimously conclude, That 'for the Peace and Security, for the Wealth and 'Honour of the King and Kingdom, it would be 'necessary to settle upon his Majesty a yearly 'Revenue of Twelve hundred thousand Pounds; 'and accordingly, with the King's Consent, at 'the humble Request of the Lords and Commons, 'there was established by Imposts, upon import- 'ed and exported Goods, upon Liquors drank in 'England, and upon Fire Hearths; (which last 'Branch the late King William and Queen Mary 'of ever blessed Memory, were graciously pleas- 'ed by Act of Parliament to remit) so much as 'was judged would bring up the former impaired 'Crown-Revenues to the said Sum. Notwith- 'standing which, the whole Yearly Revenues of 'the King of England was not then above the 'Tenth part of the Revenues of his Kingdom; 'whereas the King of France hath Yearly above 'One Hundred and Fifty Millions of Livers: 'That is, above Eleven Millions of Pounds Ster- 'ling, a fourth part of the whole Revenues of 'France. And the publick Revenue of the Uni- 'ted Netherlands, coming all out of the Subjects 'Purses, are near Seven Millions of Pounds Ster- 'ling.

'The ordinary Charge of the Government in 'Times of serene and profound Peace, is estima- 'ted at Six hundred thousand Pounds per Ann. 'besides extraordinary Expences. And the Crown 'of England in late Times of Peace was as little 'in Debt, as perhaps any State of so great a con- 'sideration in the World; the greatest Debt up- 'on it, was that which King Charles the Second 'contracted, by shutting up the Exchequer, where- 'by the Credit of that Bank hath sustained great 'damage, and many hundred of Families been 'almost undone; but the said Debt is now secu- 'red, and a perpetual Fund redeemable by Parli- 'ament, for an Interest at Three per Cent. has 'been setled by Law.

'In Consideration of these, and other transcen- 'dent Excellencies, no King in Christendom, nor 'other Potentate, receives from his Subjects more 'Reverence, Honour, and Respect than the King 'of England. All his People at their first Ad- 'dresses kneel to him: He is at all Times served 'upon the Knee; all Persons (not the Prince or 'other Heir apparent excepted) stand bare in the 'Presence of the King, and in the Presence- 'Chamber, though in the King's Absence. Only 'it was once indulged by Queen Mary the First, 'for some eminent Services perform'd by Henry 'Ratcliff, Earl of Sussex, that (by Patent) he 'might at any time be covered in her Presence; 'but perhaps in Imitation of the like Liberty al- 'lowed by King Philip her Husband, and other 'Kings of Spain at this Day, to some of the prin- 'cipal Nobility, there called Grandees of Spain.

'Any Thing or Act done in the King's Pre- 'sence, is presumed to be void of all Deceit and 'evil Meaning; and therefore a Fine levied in

'the

‘ the King's Court, where the King is presumed ‘ to be present, doth bind a Feme Covert, a married Woman, and others, whom ordinarily the ‘ Law doth disable to transact.

‘ The King's only Testimony of any thing done ‘ in his Presence, is of as high a Nature and Credit, as any Record; and in all Writs sent forth ‘ for the Dispatch of Justice, he useth no other ‘ Witness but himself, viz. Teste meipsa.

The King of England acknowledgeth no Superior but God alone; not the Emperor, Omnem potestatam Rex Angliæ in Regno suo quam Imperator vindicat in Imperio; yet he giveth Precedency to the Emperor, Eo quod antiquitate Imperium omnia regna superare creditur.

Touching our King's Supremacy before any other, these Reasons are offered; First, Lucius, King of this Land, was the first Christian King in the World; as also Constantine our Country-man the first Emperor that publickly planted Christianity. Secondly, The King of England is anointed as no other King is, but France, Sicily, and Jerusalem. Thirdly, He is crowned, which Honour the Kings of Spain, Portugal, Navarr, and divers other Princes have not.

The Honour of Precedency amongst Christian Kings is often disputed by their Ambassadors and Commissioners representative at General Councils, Diets, publick Treaties, and other Honourable Assembles at Coronations, Congratulations in Foreign Countries, &c. which by the best Information I can get is thus stated: As to England, next to the Imperial Ministers, the French take place, as being the largest Realm in Christendom, and most Noble, since Charles le Mayne, their King, obtained the Imperial Diadem; the second place in the Western Empire was undisputably the right of our English Kings, so enjoyed for hundreds of Years, till Spain grown rich and proud by the addition of the Indies, claimed the priority, yet could not gain it till their Charles the Fifth was elected Emperor; but after his Resignation, the Controversie renewed upon the Treaty of Peace between Queen Elizabeth and Philip the Third, King of Spain, at Boloign in France, Anno 1600. Our Ambassadors were Sir Henry Nevil, John Herbert, and Thomas Edmonds, Esquires, and for Spain, Balthazer de Coniga, Ferdinando Carillo, Jo. Ricardett, and Lewis Varreyken. The English challenged Precedency as due to them before the Emperor Charles his time, as doth appear by Volatteram in the time of our Henry the Seventh, when the like Difference being in question, 'twas joyntly referred to the Pope; who adjudged to England the most Honourable place: But the Spaniards refusing to stand to that old Award, or to admit of an equality, the Treaty of Peace broke up; neither hath any certain Resolution been hitherto taken in the matter, as ever I heard of.

Chamberlayn's Present State.

‘ Of the Sacred Person of the ‘ King, of the Life and Safety ‘ thereof, the Laws and Customs of England are so tender, that they have ‘ made it High-Treason only to imagine or intend the Death of the King. And because by ‘ imagining, or conspiring the Death of the ‘ King's Counsellors, or Great Officers of his ‘ Household, the Destruction of the King hath ‘ thereby sometimes ensued, and is usually aimed ‘ at (saith Stat. 3 Hen. 7.) that also was made ‘ Felony in such as were upon the Check-Roll, ‘ (as being the King's Household-Servants) to be ‘ punished with Death; altho' in all other Capital Cases, the Rule is, Voluntas non reputabitur ‘ pro facto; and an English-man may not in other ‘ Cases be punished with Death, unless the Act ‘ follow the Intent.

‘ The Law of England hath so high Esteem of ‘ the King's Person, that to offend against those ‘ Persons, and those Things that represent his ‘ Sacred Person, as, to kill some of the Crown-‘ Officers, or to kill any of the King's Judges ‘ executing their Office, or to counterfeit the ‘ King's Seals, or his Monies, is made High-‘ Treason; because by all these the King's Person is represented: And High-Treason is in the ‘ Eye of the Law so horrid, that besides loss of ‘ Life and Honour, Real and Personal Estate of ‘ the Criminal, his Heirs also are to lose the ‘ same for ever, and to be ranked among the Peasantry and Ignoble, till the King shall please, ‘ by Act of Parliament to restore them. Est ‘ enim tam grave crimen (saith Bracton) ut vix ‘ permittatur hæredibus quod vivant. High-Treason is so grievous a Crime, that the Law not ‘ content with the Life and Estate, and Honour ‘ of the Criminal, can hardly endure to see his ‘ Heirs survive him.

‘ And rather than Treason against the King's ‘ Person shall go unpunished, the Innocent in ‘ some Cases shall be punished: For if an Ideot, ‘ or Lunatick, (who cannot be said to have any ‘ Will, and so cannot offend) during his Idiocy ‘ or Lunacy, shall kill or go about to kill the ‘ King, he shall be punished as a Traitor; and ‘ yet being Non compos mentis, the Law holds ‘ that he cannot commit Felony or Petit-Treason, nor other sorts of High-Treason.

‘ Moreover, for the precious Regard of the ‘ Person of the King, by an ancient Record it is ‘ declared, That no Physick ought to be administred to him without good Warrant, this Warrant to be signed by the Advice of his Council; ‘ no other Physicians but what are mentioned in ‘ the Warrant, are to administer to him; the ‘ Physicians to prepare all things with their own ‘ Hands, and not by the Hands of any Apothecary, and to use the Assistance only of such ‘ Chirurgeons as are prescribed in the Warrant.

‘ He is Pater Patriæ, Father of his Country: ‘ And so precious is the Person and Life of the ‘ King, that every Subject is obliged and bound ‘ by his Allegiance, to defend his Person in his ‘ Natural as well as Politick Capacity, with his ‘ own Life and Limbs; wherefore the Law saith, ‘ That the Life and Member of every Subject, is ‘ at the Service of the Sovereign.

‘ The

'The Office of the King of England, in the 'Laws of King Edward the Confeſſor, is thus de-'ſcribed, Rex quia Vicarius ſummi Regis eſt, ad 'hoc conſtituitur ut Regnum Terrenum & popu-'lum Domini, & ſuper omnia ſanctam Eccleſiam 'ejus veneretur, Regat, & ab injuriosis defen-'dat: And (according to the learned Forteſcue) 'it is, Pugnare bella populi ſui, & eos rectiſſimè 'judicare, to fight the Battels of his People, and 'to ſee Right and Juſtice done unto them.

OF THE PRINCE.

CHAP. III.

THE King's Eldeſt Son and Heir apparent, from the Day of his Birth, is entituled Prince, of the Latin word, quaſi Principalis poſt Regem.

The firſt that we read of in England was Edward, eldeſt Son to King Henry the Third, ſince which time the eldeſt Son of the King hath been by Patent, and other Ceremonies, created Prince of Wales, and Earl of Cheſter and Flint. By Patent alſo Edward the Third in the Eleventh Year of his Reign, added the Dukedom of Cornwal to the Principality of Wales; and Anno Regni 36. he makes his eldeſt Son Edward the Black Prince, Prince of Aquitain, for which he did Fealty and Homage at Weſtminſter; Sed tamen Principatum Walliæ, Ducatum Cornubiæ, Comitatum Ceſtriæ & Cantii non reliquit. Walſing. fol. 172.

Since the Union of England and Scotland, his Title hath been Magnæ Britanniæ Princeps, but ordinarily Prince of Wales. As eldeſt Son to the King of Scotland, he is Duke of Rothſay, and Seneſchal of Scotland from his Birth: And ſo long as Normandy remained in the Poſſeſſion of the Engliſh, he had always the Style of Duke of Normandy.

At his Creation he is preſented before the King in Princely Robes, who putteth a Coronet upon his Head, a Ring on his middle Finger, a Verge of Gold in his Hand, and his Letters Patents after they are read.

His Mantle, which he wears in Parliament, is once more doubled upon the Shoulders than a Dukes, his Cap of State indented, and his Coronet, formerly of Croſſes and Fleuer de Lys, mixed. But ſince the happy Reſtauration of His Majeſty it was ſolemnly ordered, that the Son and Heir apparent to the Crown of England ſhall bear his Coronet of Croſſes and Fleuer de Lys with one Arch, and in the midſt a Ball and Croſs, as hath the Royal Diadem. That his Royal Highneſs the Duke of York, and all the immediate Sons and Brothers of the Kings of England, ſhall uſe and bear their Coronets, compoſed of Croſſes and Fleuer de Lys only: But all their Sons reſpectively, having the Title of Dukes, ſhall bear and uſe their Coronets compoſed of Leaves only, as the Coronets of Dukes not being of the Royal Blood.

Note, That by Order, not Creation, His Royal Highneſs George, our preſent King's Son, was admitted Prince of Wales, had the Principality with the Earldom of Cheſter, &c. confirmed to him by Patent, and is allowed to hold a Court apart from the Kings.

The Prince by the Common Law is reputed as the ſame Perſon with the King, and ſo declared by Statute temp. Hen. VIII. The Civilians ſay, The King's eldeſt Son, during his Father's Life, may be ſtyled King by the Law of Nations, becauſe of his ſo near Relation to the Crown, that if the Father die he is ipſo momento Rex, though he be not crowned; a uſual cuſtom in Spain, and once allowed here to Henry, Son of King Henry the Second; yet he holdeth his Seigniories and Principalities of the King, as Subject to him, and giveth the ſame reſpect to him as other Subjects do.

'The eldeſt Son of the King was ſtyled in 'the Saxon Times, Clito quaſi Κλύτος illuſtris: 'And ſo likewiſe Ætheling or Atheling, which 'is a Patronymick of the Saxon word Athel, No- 'bilis; as Eadgaring was the Son of Eadgar, ſo 'Atheling, the Son of a Noble, 'was afterwards uſed only for 'the King's eldeſt * Son.

* Chamberlayne's Preſent State, p. 98. Edit. 1707.

He hath certain Privileges above other Perſons: To him it was permitted by the Statute 24 Hen. 8. cap. 13. to wear Silk of the colour of Purple, and cloth of Gold, of Tiſſue in his Apparel, or upon his Horſe. And by the Statute 24 Ed. 3. ca. 2. Takings ſhall not be from henceforth made by others than the Purveyors of the King, of the Queen, and of the Prince their eldeſt Son: And that if any Man's Purveyor make ſuch Takings, it ſhall be done of them as of thoſe that do without Warrant, and the Deed adjudged as a Thing done againſt the Peace and the Law of the Land; and ſuch as do not in manner aforeſaid, ſhall be duly puniſhed.

To eſchew Maintenance, and nouriſh Peace and Amity in all parts of the Realm, many Statutes have been made in the Reign of King Henry the Fourth, prohibiting the giving of Signs or Liveries to any but Menials; nevertheleſs by the Statute 2 Hen. 4. cap. 21. it is provided that the Prince may give his honourable Liveries or Sign to the Lords, or to his Menial Gentlemen; and that the ſame Lords may wear the ſame as if they were the King's Liveries; and that the Menials of the Prince may alſo wear the ſame as the King's Menials. But afterwards by occaſion of divers other Statutes made by ſundry Kings, for the ſuppreſſing of that Enormity of Maintenance, and of the general word in them, that Privilege of the Prince was abridged, or rather taken away, therefore the Statute 12 Ed. 4. cap. 4. was made.

By the Statute 21 H. 8. cap. 13. the Prince may retain as many Chaplains as he pleaſeth, although all other of the Nobility (except thoſe of the Blood Royal) are conſtrained to a certain Number; and they, or any of them, may purchaſe Licence and Diſpenſation, and take and retain two Parſonages or Benefices with Cure of Souls.

By the Order of the Common Law, the King may Levy a reaſonable Aid of all his Tenants, as well of thoſe that did hold their Lands of him by Knights Service, as in Soccage, pur faire fitz Chevalier, & pur File marrier, and the ſum of Money was not in certainty.

Note, That the Aid is not to be recovered before the Son be of the Age of Fifteen years, and the Daughter accompliſh the Age of Seven years: Fitz. Natur. B. 28. 6. But in the King's pleaſure, till by the Statute in the 25 Ed. 3. cap. 11. it was Enacted, That for the Knighting his eldeſt Son, and marrying his eldeſt Daughter as aforeſaid, the Aid following ſhall be demanded and levied; viz. of every Knight ſo holden of the King (without mean) 20 s. and no more; and of every 20 l. of Land holden of the King (without mean) in Soccage, 20 s. and no more: And ſo after this rate for the Lands in Soccage, and for Land in Tenure of Chivalry, according to the quantity of the Fee.

By another Statute made in the ſaid 25*th* of Edward the Third, cap. 2. amongſt other Things it is declared, That to compaſs or imagine the Death of the King's eldeſt Son and Heir, is Crimen læſæ Majeſtatis; or if a Man do violate the Wife of the King's eldeſt Son and Heir, it is High Treaſon. And ſo the Statute 26 Hen. 8. cap. 13. doth declare. And ſo was the ancient Common Law of this Realm, and not a new Law made by the Statute, Coke 8. Part 28. b. But this Statute is a Manifeſtation and Application of the ancient Common Law in this Caſe.

Becauſe the People were in Ambiguity, Whether Children born in parts beyond the Sea, and out of the King's Dominions, ſhould be able to demand any Inheritance within his ſaid Dominions, or not: It was declared at a Parliament holden at Weſtminſter in the Seventeenth of King James, for the removing of thoſe Doubts, That les Enfants du Roy, the Children of the Kings of England, in whatſoever Parts they are Born in, are able, and ought to bear the Inheritance after the Death of their Anceſtors.

Read the Statute in Coke's Seventh Part, 18. a. where you ſhall ſee, that though generally the Birth-place is obſerved, yet many times Legiance and Obedience without any Place in the King's Dominions, may make a Subject born: For we ſee by Experience almoſt in every Parliament, that Ambaſſadors, Merchants, and the King's Soldiers do ſue therein, in ſuch Caſes, to have their Children Naturalized, or made Deniſons. And in the Articles confirmed by Parliament touching the Marriage between Philip King of Spain and Queen Mary, Anno primo Parliamenti 2. cap. 2. a ſpecial Proviſo was to bar him from being Tenant by the Courteſie of the Crown, in caſe he ſhould have Iſſue by her, and ſurvive; which was ſuperfluous, becauſe the Common Law would have denied it. For this laſt point ſee the Lord Chancellor's Speech in the Caſe Poſtnati, f. 36.

But note, If an Alien Enemy come into this Realm, and his Wife Engliſh or Stranger, be here delivered of a Child, this Child notwithſtanding his Birth-place, is an Alien born, for want of Allegiance in the Parents, ibid.

King Henry the Third did create Edward his eldeſt Son the firſt Prince of Wales, and did give unto him the Dominion and Dignity thereof, to be holden of him and his Heirs, Kings of England: And after that time the eldeſt Sons of the Kings of England have been Princes of Wales; and as incident to the State and Dignity of a Prince, did and might make Laws and Statutes, and uſe Juriſdiction and Authority, as amply as any King of that Nation could do; for Wales was a Kingdom in ancient Time: but by a Statute made the Twelfth of Edward the Firſt, Wales was incorporated and united to England, and became part thereof.

Alſo by another Statute made 27 Hen. 8. c. 24. a general Reſumption of many Liberties and Franchiſes heretofore granted, or taken from the Crown; as the Authority to pardon Treaſons, Murder, Manſlaughter, and Felony; alſo power to make Juſtices in Oyer, Juſtices of Aſſize, Juſtices of the Peace, Goal-Deliveries, and ſuch like; ſo that from thenceforth the King's eldeſt Son hath only the Name and Style of Prince of Wales, but no other Juriſdiction than at the King's pleaſure is permitted and granted him by his Letters Patents; as by the tenor thereof here following made by King Henry the Eighth to Edward his Son and Heir apparent, may appear.

HENRY by the Grace of God, King of England and of France, Lord of Ireland, &c. To all Archbiſhops, Biſhops, Abbots, Priors, Dukes, Earls, Barons, Juſtices, Viſcounts, Governors, Miniſters, and to all our Bayliffs and faithful Subjects, Greeting. Out of the Excellency of Royal Preheminence, like leaves from the Sun, ſo do inferior humours proceed; neither doth the integrity of Royal Luſtre and Brightneſs, by the natural diſpoſition of the Light affording Light, feel any loſs or detriment by ſuch borrowed Lights; yea, the Royal Scepter is alſo much the more extolled, and the Royal Throne exalted, by how much the more Nobleneſs, Preheminencies and Honours are under the power and command thereof. And this worthy Conſideration allureth and induceth us, with deſire to increaſe the Name and Honour of our Firſtbegotten and beſt Beloved Son Edward, in whom we behold and ſee our ſelf to be honoured, and our Royal Houſe alſo, and our People ſubject to us; hoping by the Grace of God, by conjecture taken of his gracious future proceedings to be the more honourably ſtrengthened, that we may with honour prevent, and with abundant grace proſecute him, who in reputation of us is deemed the ſame with us. Wherefore by the counſel and conſent of the Prelates, Dukes, Earls, Viſcounts, and Barons of our Kingdom, being in our preſent Parliament, We have made and created, and by theſe Preſents do make and create him the ſaid Edward, Prince of Wales, and Earl of Cheſter: And unto the ſame Edward do give and grant, and by this Charter have confirmed the Name, Style, Title, State, Dignity, and Honour of the ſaid Principality and County, that he may therein in Governing Rule, and in Ruling direct and defend; we ſay by a Garland upon his Head, by a Ring of Gold upon his Finger, and a Verge of Gold, have according to the manner inveſted him, to have and to hold, to him and his Heirs, the Kings of England for ever. Wherefore we will and command for us and our Heirs, that Edward our Son aforeſaid ſhall have the Name, Style, Title, State, Dignity, and Honour of the Principality of Wales, and of the County of Cheſter aforeſaid, unto him and his Heirs, the Kings of England for ever: Theſe being Witneſſes, the Reverend Father John, Cardinal and Archbiſhop of Canterbury, Primate of England, our Chancellor, and William Archbiſhop of York, Primate of England, Thomas Biſhop of London, John Biſhop of Lincoln, William Biſhop of Norwich, our moſt well beloved Coſins Richard Earl of Warwick, Richard Earl of Salisbury, John Earl of Wiltſhire, and our well-beloved and faithful Ralph Cromwel Chamberlain of our Houſe, William Falconbridge and John Stourton, Knights. Dated at our Palace at Weſtminſter the 15th Day of March, and in the Year of our Reign 32.

And here by the way may be obſerved, That in Ancient time, and in the time of the Engliſh-Saxon Kings, the uſe was as well in pennings of the Acts of Parliament, as of the King's Letters Patents, when any Lands, Franchiſes, or Hereditaments did paſs from the King of any Eſtate of Inheritance; as alſo in the Creations of any Man unto Honour and Dignity, the Concluſion was with the ſign of the Croſs in form aforeſaid, his teſtibus, &c. But long ſince that Form hath been diſcontinued; ſo that at this Day, and many Years paſt, the King's Patents for Lands, Franchiſes, and Hereditaments do conclude with Teſte me ipſo. Nevertheleſs in all Creations of Honour and Dignity of Letters Patents, the ancient Form of concluding His teſtibus is uſed at this Day.

And it hath been reſolved by the Judges of all Acts of Parliament and Statutes which do concern the Prince, who is the Firſtbegotten Son of the King, and Heir apparent to the Crown for the time being, perpetuis futuris temporibus, be ſuch Acts whereof the Judges, and all the Realm muſt take Cognizance, as of General Statutes: For every Subject hath intereſt in the King, and and none of his Subjects (who are within his Laws) be divided from him, being he is Head and Sovereign; ſo that the Buſineſs and Things of the King do concern all the Realm, and namely when it doth concern the Prince, the Firſtbegotten Son of the King, and Heir apparent to the Crown.

Although the Prince by expreſs Words hath no Priviledge by the Great Charter of the Foreſts, 9 Hen. 3. cap. 11. for Hunting in the King's Foreſts or Parks, paſſing by them, and ſent for by the King's Command; yet the Prince is to take the Benefit and Advantage thereby, as well as the Earls, Biſhops, or Barons, who are expreſſed. Crompton's Courts des Juſtices de Foreſt, 167.

In the Parliament 31 Hen. 8. cap. 10. an Act concerning the placing of King's Children and Lords in the Parliament, and other Aſſemblies, was amongſt other things made, as followeth; That no perſon or perſons, of what degree, eſtate, or condition ſoever his or they be of (except only the King's Children) ſhall at any time hereafter attempt to ſit, or have place on any ſide of the Cloth of Eſtate in the Parliament Chamber, whether His Majeſty be there perſonally preſent or abſent. The Prince ſhall not find Pledges for for the profecution of any Action, and therefore ſhall not be amerced no more than the King or Queen ſhould be.

The Prince is a diſtinct perſon from the King; he is a Subject, and holdeth his Principalities and Seigniories of the King, and ſubject to the Law of the Land as a Subject.

And in token of the Prince's Subjection, he doth not upon his Poſie in his Arms diſdain the old Saxon words [Ich Dien] I ſerve.

And there is a Caſe, that Glaſcoine Chief Juſtice of England in the time of Henry the Fourth, did commit the Prince, who would have taken a Priſoner from their Bar in the King's Bench: And the Prince did humbly ſubmit himſelf, and go at his Command. And this did much rejoyce the King, to ſee that he had a Judge ſo bold to adminiſter Juſtice upon his Son; and that he had a Son ſo gracious as to obey his Laws.

The Exerciſes befitting Princes, whilſt they are young, are Chivalry, and Feats of Arms, and to adjoyn therewith the Knowledge of the Law and God: For it is the Duty and Office of a King to fight the Battels of his people, and rightly to judge them, 1 Kings 8. And the Prophet David ſaith, Be ye learned, you that judge the Earth. Whereto if they alſo would endeavour to have Knowledge in the Principles and Grounds of the Laws of their own Country, which they in due time inherit, they ſhall be much the more enabled to govern their Subjects; and it is a point of Wiſdom in ſuch to acknowledge, that Rex datur propter Regnum, & non Regnum propter Regem, And to move the Princes to theſe things, there is an excellent Book, Dialogue-wiſe, between a Prince (a King's Son of this Realm) and Sir John Forteſcue a Judge, entituled De laudibus Legum Angliæ.

Many that have been Heirs apparent to the Crown of England, ever ſince the Norman Conqueſt, have been taken away either by their natural Deaths, or by Violence, during the Life of their Anceſtors, ſo that they have not attained to the Crown.

William, the only Son of Henry the Firſt, was drowned in his paſſage from Normandy, his Father reigning.

Euſtace, King Stephen's only Son, died mad, to the great Grief of the King his Father.

William, the eldeſt Son of King Henry the Second, died in the Fourth Year of his Age, and in the Third Year of his Father's Reign.

King Henry the Second's Son, called Curt-Mantel, was in his Father's life-time crowned King, by the Name of King Henry the Younger, but died in the Life-time of his Father.

Geffrey, the fourth Son of the ſaid King, died during the Reign of Richard Cœur de Leon, his third Brother, which King Richard had no Son, and ſo Geffrey was Heir apparent to the Crown.

King Edward the Firſt had Iſſue, John, Henry, and Alphons, but all three died in their Childhood in their Father's life.

Edward the Black Prince (of famous Memory) eldeſt Son to King Edward the Third, died before his Father.

Richard the Third had Iſſue only one Son, named Edward, who died without Iſſue.

Arthur, the eldeſt Son and Heir apparent to King Henry the Seventh, died in the life-time of his Father.

Henry Prince of Wales, eldeſt Son to King James, alſo left the World before his Father.

Theſe Examples may ſerve as a Mirror for all ſucceeding Princes and others, to ſee how tranſitory the Glory of this World is; whereof the Saying of the Princely Prophet David may never be out of remembrance, Pſal. 82. I have ſaid ye are Gods, and ye are all the Children of the moſt High; but ye ſhall die like men, and ye Princes like others.

Alſo divers other Heirs apparent, and thoſe that have been in poſſeſſion of their Crowns, have been defeated by Uſurpers: And namely Robert Duke of Normandy, eldeſt Son to William the Conqueror, was defeated of his Birth-right by his two younger Brethren, William Rufus and Henry, ſucceſſively one after another; and after Six and twenty years Impriſonment, having both his Eyes put out, died in the Reign of his Brother Henry.

Maud, the ſole Daughter of the ſaid King Henry, was defeated of her Birth-right to the Crown by Stephen, the Son of her Father's Siſter.

Arthur, the only Son and Heir of Geffrey, the fourth Son to Henry the Second, was next Heir to the Crown after the Death of his Uncle Richard, the firſt King of that Name, who died without Iſſue (his Father being dead before) but his Uncle John, Son to the ſaid Henry the Second, defeated him not only of his Right to the Kingdom, but alſo of his Life, and that by ſtarving him.

King Edward the Second was depoſed by his eldeſt Son, who in the Life-time of his Father took upon him to be the King of England.

Richard, the only Son to Edward the black Prince, and next Heir to the Crown after the Death of his Grandfather King Edward the Third, was defeated both of his Crown and Life by Henry of Lancaſter, Son to John of Gaunt, who was but the fourth Son of King Edward the Third; yea, although Lionel, the third Son of the ſaid King Edward, had Iſſue Philip his only Daughter, who by conſequence was next to the Crown before the Iſſue of John of Gaunt; which Philip was married to Edward Mortimer Earl of March, from whom the Houſe of York, by the Name of Edward the Fourth, are lineally deſcended: For William of Hatfield, ſecond Son to King Edward the Third, died young without Iſſue.

King Henry the Sixth, having but one Son, named Edward, he was ſlain in the Life-time of his Father, and the King himſelf depoſed by Edward the Fourth, and murthered in the Tower:

So the Act of Parliament made between them for an indented Peace, exemplified in our Books of Law.

Edward and Richard, the two only Sons to Edward the Fourth, after the deſcent of the Crown, and before the Coronation of Prince Edward, were both of them murthered in the Tower by their Uncle. Richard Duke of Gloceſter, who thereupon took upon him the Crown, although there were remaining alive divers Daughters of the late King Edward the Fourth. During theſe troubleſome and tragical Times, each of the King's prevailing, attainted the other their Adverſary of High Treaſon by Act of Parliament, intending utterly to diſable them, and make them to be incapable by the Law of the Crown. And it is a Matter worthy of Obſervation, how the Hand of God did not forget to purſue Revenge in theſe Caſes; for William Rufus died without Iſſue; Henry his Brother had a Son and one Daughter, but his Son died an Infant, and his only Daughter Maud was defeated of her Birthright by Stephen. King John, who defeated Arthur his Nephew of his Birthright and Life, lived in continual Wars, never enjoyed Peace, but was driven to ſubmit himſelf, and ſubject his Kingdom to the Pope. In his time Normandy, which King William the Firſt brought with him, and which in five Deſcents continued in actual Obedience of the Kings of England, was in the ſixth Year of his Reign loſt, until King Henry the Fifth recovered it again, and left it to King Henry the Sixth, who again loſt it in the Eight and twentieth Year of his Reign, as doth appear both in our Chronicles, and in our Books of Law.

Concerning the violence done to King Henry the Second, albeit Edward his Son enjoyed a long and proſperous Reign; yet his Succeſſor, King Richard, was in the like violent manner impriſoned, deprived, and put to Death.

King Henry the Fourth, by whom King Richard was depoſed, did exerciſe the chiefeſt Acts of his Reign in executing thoſe, who conſpired with him againſt King Richard: His Son had his Vertue well ſeconded by Felicity, during whoſe Reign, by the means of Wars in France, the humour againſt him was otherwiſe imployed: But his next Succeſſor, King Henry the Sixth, was in the very like manner deprived, and together with his young Son Edward, impriſoned and put to death by King Edward the Fourth. This Edward died not without ſuſpicion of Poiſon; and after his death, his two Sons were likewiſe diſinherited, impriſoned, and murthered by their cruel Uncle, the Duke of Gloceſter, who being both a Tyrant and Uſurper, was juſtly encountred by King Henry the Seventh in the Field: So infallible is the Law of Juſtice in revenging Cruelties and Injuries; not always obſerving the preſent time wherein they are done; but often calling them into reckoning, when the Offenders retain leaſt memory of them.

But as the Saying is, Ex malis moribus bonæ leges oriuntur; ſo their Tragical and Miſerable Combuſtions have occaſioned, that the Law hath eſtabliſhed more certain Reſolutions in all theſe caſes and pretences againſt the right Heir to the Crown than before. For firſt, though a common Opinion was conceived, that a Conqueror might freely diſpoſe of the Succeſſion of that Eſtate, which he had obtained by the purchaſe of his Sword (which was the Title pretended for William Rufus) yet now in our Books this difference is taken for Law, viz. between the Conqueſt of a Kingdom from a Chriſtian King, and the Conqueſt of a Kingdom from an Infidel: For if a King come to a Chriſtian Kingdom by Conqueſt, ſeeing he hath Vitæ & necis poteſtatem, he may at his pleaſure alter and change the Laws of that Kingdom; but until he doth make an alteration thereof, the ancient Laws do ſtand; and therefore the caſe of Rufus, the ancient Law of this Realm being, That the eldeſt Son ſhould inherit, and that a King in poſſeſſion cannot deviſe the ſame by his laſt Will, or by other Act; therefore the ſaid William Rufus was no other than a Uſurper. But if a Chriſtian King ſhould Conquer a Kingdom from an Infidel, and being then under his ſubjection, there ipſo facto the Laws of the Infidels are abrogated; for that they be not only againſt Chriſtianity, but againſt the Law of God and Nature, mentioned in the Decalogue: and in that caſe, until certain Laws be eſtabliſhed amongſt them, the King by himſelf, and ſuch Judges as he ſhall appoint, ſhall judge them and their cauſes according to natural Equity, in ſuch ſort as Kings in ancient Times did within their Kingdoms, before any certain municipal Laws were given. And if a King have a Kingdom by Title of Deſcent there, ſeeing by the Laws of that Kingdom he doth inherit the Kingdom, he cannot change thoſe Laws of himſelf, without conſent of Parliament. Alſo if a King have a Chriſtian Kingdom by Conqueſt, as King Henry the Second had Ireland, after that King John had given unto them (being under his Obedience and Subjection) the Laws of England for the Government of that Country, no ſucceeding King could alter the ſame without Parliament.

In Succeſſion of Kings a queſtion hath been, Whether the King, who hath had Sons both before and after he came to the Crown, which of them ſhould ſucceed, he that was born before, as having the Prerogative of his Birthright, or he that was born after? And for each Reaſons and Examples have not been wanting. For Xerxes, the Son of Darius, King of Perſia, being the eldeſt Son after the enthroning his Father, carried away the Empire from his Brother Arthemones or Artobazanes, who was born before his Father came to the Royal Poſſeſſion thereof. So Arceſes, the Son of another Darius, born in the time of his Father's Empire, carried away the Garland from his Brother Cyrus, born before his Father came to the Empire. So Lewis Duke of Millain, born after his Father was Duke, was preferred preferred to the Dukedom before his Brother Galiaſius, born before the Dukedom. But notwithſtanding theſe Examples, and the Opinion of ſundry Doctors to the contrary, common uſe of Succeſſion in theſe latter Days hath been to the contrary, and that not without good reaſon; for that it is not meet that any that hath right to any Succeſſion by the Prerogative of their Birthright (ſuch as all elder Brothers have) ſhould be put by the ſame. And this was the pretence of Henry the Firſt againſt Robert, his eldeſt Brother.

Alſo ſundry Contentions have riſen in Kingdoms between the Iſſue of the eldeſt Son of the King dying before his Father, and the ſecond Brother ſurviving, who ſhould Reign after the Death of the Father; the Nephew challenging the ſame unto him by the Title of his Father's Birthright, and by way of Repreſentation, Cok. part 3. cap. 4. the other claiming as eldeſt Son to his Father at the time of his Death: Upon which Title in old Time, there grew a Controverſie between Arcus the Son of Arrotatus, eldeſt Son of Cleomenes King of Lacedemonia, and Cleomenes ſecond Son of Cleomenes, Uncle to the ſaid Arcus: But upon debate of the Matter, the Senate gave their Sentence for Arcus againſt Cleomenes. Beſides, Enominus King of Lacedemon having two Sons, Polydectes and Licurgius, Polydectes dying without Children, Licurgius ſucceeded in the Kingdom; but after he had underſtood that Polydectes Widow had a Child, he yielded the Crown to him; wherein he dealt far more religiouſly, than either did King John, or King Richard the Third: For King John, upon the like Pretence, not only put by Arthur Plantaginet, his eldeſt Brother's Son, from the Succeſſion of the Kingdom; but alſo moſt unnaturally took away his Life. And King Richard the Third, to come to the Crown, did moſt barbarouſly, not only ſlay his two innocent Nephews, but alſo defamed his Mother in publiſhing to the World, that the late King his Brother was a Baſtard.

Vide the aboveſaid Tract.

Our Stories do obſcurely note, that Controverſie of like Matter had like to have grown between King Richard the Second, and John of Gaunt his Uncle; and that he had procured the Counſel of ſundry great Learned Men to this purpoſe; but that he found the Hearts of divers Noblemen of this Kingdom, and eſpecially the Citizens of London to be againſt him; whereupon he deſiſted from his intended purpoſe, and acknowledged his Nephews Right. And the reaſon of the Common Law of England is notable in this Point, and may be collected out of the ancient Authors of the ſame; Glanvile lib. 7. cap. 1. Bracton lib. 7. c. 30. and by Brittan, fol. 119. For they ſay, Whoſoever is Heir to another, aut eſt hæres jure proprietatis, as the eldeſt Son ſhall inherit only before his Brothers; aut jure repreſentationis: as where the eldeſt Son dieth in the life of his Father, his Iſſue ſhall inherit before the youngeſt Son; for though the youngeſt ſit magis propinquus, yet jure repreſentationis the Iſſue of the eldeſt Son ſhall inherit, for that he doth repreſent the Perſon of his Father; And as Bracton ſaith, jus proprietatis, which his Father had by his Birthright, doth deſcend unto him: aut jure propinquitatis, ut propinqui jus excludit remotum, & remotus remotiorem: aut jure ſanguinis. And yet Glanvile, Lord Chief Juſtice under King Henry the Second, ſeemeth to make this queſtionable here in England, Who ſhould be preferred, the Uncle or the Nephew. Alſo it hath been reſolved for Law, That the poſſeſſion of the Crown purgeth all Defects, Hen. 1. fol. 3. and ſo doth Ulpian the Civilian determine. And this is one of the three Reaſons alledged, wherefore by the policy of our Law the King is a Body Politick, thereby to avoid the attainder of him that had right to the Crown, Coke's ſeventh part, 12. a. left in the interim there ſhould be an interregnum, which the Law will not ſuffer, becauſe of the manifold Incumbrances thereof: For it hath been clearly reſolved by all the Judges of the Land, That preſently, by the deſcent of the Crown, the next Heir is compleatly and abſolutely King, without any eſſential Ceremony or Act to be done, ex poſtfacto; And that Coronation is but a Royal Ornament and outward Solemnization of the Deſcent. And this appeareth evidently by abundance of Preſidents and Book-Caſes. Let us take one or two Examples in a Caſe ſo clear for all: King Henry the Sixth was not crowned till the Eighth year of his Reign, and yet divers Men before his Coronation were attainted of Treaſon, Felony, and the like Crimes; and he was as abſolute and compleat a King for Matters of Judicature, Grants, &c. before his Coronation, as he was after.

Queen Mary reigned three Months before ſhe was crowned, in which ſpace the Duke of Northumberland and others were condemned and executed for Treaſon which they had committed before ſhe was Queen.

And upon this reaſon there is a Maxim in the common Law, Rex nunquam moritur, in reſpect of his ever living and never dying politique capacity. In France alſo the ſame Cuſtom hath been obſerved; and for more aſſurance it was expreſly enacted under Charles the Fifth, That after the Death of any King, his eldeſt Son ſhould immediately ſucceed; for which cauſe the Parliament Court of Paris doth accompany the Funeral Obſequies of thoſe that have been their Kings, not in mourning attire, but in Scarlet, the true Enſign of the never dying Majeſty of the Crown: Nevertheleſs certain Cities in France, not long ſince, alledged for themſelves, that becauſe they had not reputed Henry the Fourth for their King, and profeſſed Allegiance unto him, they were not to be adjudged Rebels; Whereupon the chief Lawyers of our Age did reſolve, That foraſmuch as they were original Subjects, even Subjects by Birth, they were Rebels in bearing bearing Arms againſt their King, although they had never profeſſed Allegiance unto him.

To conclude this Chapter, I ſhall give you a View of the Ceremonies of the Creation of Henry Prince of Wales, which began on the Thirtieth of May 1610. as followeth; The Prince accompanied with divers young Noblemen, together with his own Servants, rode from his Court at St. James's to Richmond, where he repoſed that Night; on the next day the Lord Mayor, Aldermen, with the ſeveral Companies in their Barges attended his Highneſs about Barn Elmes, where he was entertained with a Banquet, and in other places with Speeches by a Neptune upon a Dolphin, and a Sea Goddeſs upon a Whale, &c. His Highneſs landing at Whitehall, was received by the Officers of his Majeſties Houſhold, according to order, viz. by the Knight Marſhal and the Serjeant Porter; In the Hall by the Treaſurer and Comptroller of the Houſhold; in the great Chamber by the Captain of the Guard, and and in the Preſence Chamber by the Lord Chamberlain; from whence he went into the Privy Chamber, where the King and Queen met him; the Saturday after was taken up with the uſual Ceremonies of making Knights of the Bath to attend his Highneſs at his Creation, which were Five and twenty in Number.

Upon Monday following, theſe Knights of the Bath met in the Queens Cloſet, where they put on long Purple Satten Robes, lined with white Taffata, and a Hood like a Batchelor of Law about their Necks; and in a Barge prepared for them went before the Prince to Weſtminſter Palace, where his Highneſs landed, and proceeded to his Creation thus:

Firſt the Heralds.
Next the Knights of the Bath.
Then the Lords that were imployed in ſeveral Services.
Garter King at Arms, bearing the Letters Patents.
The Earl of Suſſex the Robes of Purple Velvet.
The Earl of Huntington the Train.
The Earl of Cumberland the Sword.
The Earl of Rutland the Ring.
The Earl of Derby the Rod.
The Earl of Shrewsbury the Cap and Coronet.
The Earl of Nottingham and Privy Seal ſupported his Highneſs, being in his Surcoat only, and bare-headed, to the Parliament Chamber.

The King was already ſet with all the Lords Spiritual and Temporal in their Robes of State, all the Knights and Burgeſſes of the lower Houſe preſent; as alſo the Foreign Ambaſſadors, the great Ladies of the Realm, and the Lord Mayor and Aldermen of London ſeated upon Scaffolds. The Proceſſion entring in manner aforeſaid, made three ſeveral low Reverencies to His Majeſty; and when they came to the Throne, Garter King at Arms kiſt the Letters Patents, and gave them to the Lord Chamberlain, who preſented them to the King, who delivered them to the Earl of Salisbury, Principal Secretary of State, who read them, the Prince kneeling all the while before the King; and at the Words accuſtomed, the King put on the Robe, the Sword, the Cap and Coronet, the Rod, and the Ring. The Patent being read, the King kiſt him on the Cheek, and the Earl Marſhal, with the Lord Chamberlain, placed him in his Parliament Seat, viz. on the left hand of the King; which Ceremony being ended, they returned to the Palace Bridge in manner as followeth.

Firſt the Maſters of the Chancery, the King's Council and others; then the Officers of Arms, the Knights of the Bath; next twenty Trumpets before them; then the Judges; and after them all the Members of Parliament in order, the Barons, Viſcounts, Earls, and Marquiſſes having Coronets on their Heads; then Norroy and Clarenceaux King at Arms going next before the Lord Treaſurer and the Lord Chancellor; then Garter next before the Sword; and then the Prince and King. They took Barge at the Palace Stairs, and landed at Whitehall-Bridge, where the Officers at Arms, the Members of Parliament, and the Lords being firſt Landed, attended the King and Prince, and went before into the Hall, and ſo into His Majeſty's Preſence Chamber, whence the Prince deſcended again into the Hall to Dinner, himſelf ſeated at the upper end of a Table, accompanied with the Lords that attended him at his Creation, who ſate on both Sides of the Table with him. At another Table on the left Hand ſate the Knights of the Bath in their Robes along one ſide, attended by the King's Servants. At the ſecond Courſe, Garter with the Heralds came to the Prince's Table, and after due reverence, proclaimed the King's Style with three Largeſſes, viz. King of England, Scotland, France, and Ireland, Defender of the Faith, &c. And then proclaimed the Prince's Titles, viz. Prince of Wales, Duke of Cornwall and Rothſay, Earl of Cheſter, Earl of Rothſay, and Knight of the Garter, with two Largeſſes: Then with Feaſting, Maſques, and all ſort of Courtly Gallantry, that joyful Creation of the Prince ended.

His Royal Highneſs the preſent Prince of Wales, &c. was created by Patent without theſe formal Ceremonies which Cuſtom had ſo long continued.

The Badge or Armorial Enſign of Honour appropriate unto theſeP rinces, is as it is below Engraved.

The word Ich Dien ſignifieth I ſerve. The Coronet is born, by reaſon that the valiant black Prince at the Battle of Creſſy won the Crown from John King of Bohemia, whom he there ſlew, and took the Crown from his Head.

CHAP. IV.

THE Title and Degree of a Duke hath been of ancienter ſtanding in the Empire, and other Countries, than amongſt us; for the firſt Engliſh Duke was Edward the black Prince, created Duke of Cornwall by his Father King Edward the Third; by which Creation, according to the Tenure of his Patent, the Firſtborn Sons of the Kings of England are Dukes of Cornwall: Nor is there any Creation required for the ſaid Honour, although there is for Prince of Wales. A Duke is ſaid to be ſo called à Ducendo, from leading; being at the firſt always a Leader of an Army Imperial or Regal, and was ſo choſen in the Field, either by caſting of Lots, or by common Voice; and the Saxons called this Leader an Hertzog: But now, and for ſome time paſt, it is a Dignity given by Kings and Princes to Men of great Blood and excellent Merit. In ſome Countries, at this Day, the Sovereign Princes are called Dukes; as the Duke of Savoy, Duke of Muſcovy, Duke of Saxony, Duke of Florence, and the like.

All Noblemen at their Creation have two Enſigns, to ſignifie two Duties, viz. their Heads are adorned ad conſulendum Regem & Patriam in tempore pacis, and they are girt with Swords, ad defendendum Dominum Regem, & Patriam in tempore belli. The Chapeau or Head-attire (ſaith Chaſſanæus) Dukes were accuſtomed to wear in token of Excellency, it is of a Scarlet Colour, lined or doubled Ermin. And now Marquiſſes, Earls, and Viſcounts plead Cuſtom for the uſe thereof, as alſo for Coronets; which His Majeſty King Charles the Second hath alſo granted Barons to wear, but with due Difference, as is alſo in their Robes, which may appear by the Portraiture of the ſaid Degrees here lively ſet forth. His Sword is girt about him, and his ſhort Cloak or Mantle over his Shoulders is guarded with four Guards; his Coronet is Gold, the Cap Crimſon, double Ermin, but not indented, as thoſe of the Blood Royal are; and the Verge which he holds in his Hand is alſo of Gold.

Dukes of the Royal Line or Blood are reputed as Arch-Dukes, and are to have their Coronets compoſed of Croſſes and Fleuers de lys, not Leaves, as other Dukes.

A Duke tantùm ſhall take place before any Lord, that is both Marquiſs and Earl; but a Duke that is both a Marquiſs and Earl, ſhall precede him.

The Dukes, Marquiſſes, and Earls at their Creations have a Sword put over their Shoulders, or girt about them, which the Viſcounts and Barons have not.

A Duke may have in all places out of the King's or Princes preſence a Cloth of Eſtate, hanging down within half a Yard of the Ground; ſo may his Dutcheſs, who may have her Train born up by a Baroneſs: And no Earl, without permiſſion from him, ought to waſh with a Duke.

All Duke's eldeſt Sons, by the Courteſie of England, are from their Birth ſtyled Marquiſſes, and the younger Sons Lords, and take place of Viſcounts; but not ſo priviledged by the Law of the Land.

A Duke hath the Title of Grace; and being written unto us is ſtyled, Moſt High, Potent, and Noble

Noble Prince. And Dukes of the Royal Blood are ſtyled, Moſt High, Moſt Mighty, and Illuſtrious Princes.

The younger Sons of Kings are by Courteſie ſtyled Princes by Birth, but have their Titles of Duke, Marquiſs, &c. from Creation: The Daughters are ſtyled Princeſſes: And the Title of Royal Highneſs is given to all the King's Children, both Sons and Daughters.

The Form of a Patent of the Duke of York, tempore Jacobi.

JACOBUS, &c. To all Archbiſhops, Biſhops, Dukes, Marquiſſes, Earls, Viſcounts, Barons, Juſtices, Knights, Governors, Miniſters, and to all Bailiffs and faithful Subjects, Greeting. Whereas oftentimes we call to mind how many and innumerable Gifts, and what excellent Benefits that Great Maker of all Goodneſs (of his own benignity and clemency) hath abundantly beſtowed upon us, who not only by his Power hath conſociated divers and mighty Lyons in firm Peace, without any ſtrife; but alſo hath amplified and exalted the Bounds and Limits of our Government, by his unſpeakable Providence, above our Progenitors, with an indiſſolvable Conjunction of the ancient and famous Kingdoms, in the right of Blood, under our Imperial Diadem. In regard whereof we cannot boaſt, but moſt willingly acknowledge our fruitfulneſs and Iſſue plentifully adorned with the gifts of Nature, which he hath vouchſafed unto us, becauſe in truth in the Succeſſion of Children a mortal Man is made as it were immortal; neither unto any mortal Men, at leaſtwiſe unto Princes not acknowledging Superiors, can any thing happen in worldly cauſes more happy and acceptable, than that their Children ſhould become notable in all vertuous Goodneſs, Manners, and Increaſe of Dignity, ſo as they which excel other Men in Nobleneſs and Dignity, endowments of Nature, might not be thought of others to be exceeded: Hence it is that we (that great goodneſs of God, which is ſhewed unto us in our felicity not to paſs in ſilence; or to be thought not to ſatisfie the Law of Nature, whereby we are chiefly provoked to be well affected and liberal to thoſe in whom we behold our Blood to begin to flouriſh) coveting with great and fatherly Affection, that the perpetual Memory of our Blood, with Honour and increaſe of Dignity, and all Praiſe may be affected, our well beloved Son Charles Duke of Albony, Marquiſs of Ormond, Count of Roſs, and Lord of Ardmannoth, our ſecond begotten Son, in whom the Regal form and beauty worthy Honour, and other gifts of Vertue, do now in the beſt hopes ſhine in his tender Years, We erect, create, make and ordain, and to him the Name, Stile, State, Title, and Dignity, and Authority, and Honour of the Duke of York do give, to him that Name, with the Honour to the ſame belonging and annexed, by the girding of the Sword, Cap, and Circlet of Gold put upon his Head, and the delivery of a Golden Verge, we do really inveſt, To have and to hold the ſame Name, Style, State, Dignity, Authority, and Honour of the Duke of York unto the aforeſaid Charles our ſecond begotten Son, and to the Heirs Male of his Body lawfully begotten for ever. And that the aforeſaid Charles our ſecond begotten Son, according to the decency and ſtate of the ſaid Name of Duke of York, may more honourably carry himſelf; we have given and granted, and by this our preſent Charter, we confirm for us and our Heirs unto the aforeſaid Duke and his Heirs for ever, out of Farms, Iſſues, Profits, and other Commodities whatſoever coming out of the County of York, by the Hands of the Sheriff of the ſaid County for the time being, at the times of Eaſter and Michaelmas by even portions. For that expreſs mention of other Gifts and Grants by us unto the ſaid Duke before time, made in theſe Preſents, doth not appear notwithſtanding theſe being Witneſſes; The moſt excellent and moſt beloved Henry our Firſt begotten Son, Ulrick Duke of Hellet, Brother of the Queen our beloved Wife, and the Reverend Father in Chriſt, Richard Archbiſhop of Canterbury, Primate and Metropolitan of all England, and alſo our beloved and faithful Counſellor, Thomas Lord Elſmere our Chancellor of England, Thomas Earl of Suffolk, Chamberlain of our Houſhold, and our dear Couſin, Thomas Earl of Arundel, our welbeloved Coſins and Counſellors Henry Earl of Northumberland, Edward Earl of Worceſter, Maſter of our Horſe, George Earl of Cumberland, and alſo our welbeloved Coſins, Henry Earl of Southampton, William Earl of Pembroke, and alſo our welbeloved Coſins and Counſellors, Charles Earl of Devonſhire, Maſter of our Ordinance, Henry Earl of Northampton, Warden of the Cinque Ports, John Earl of Warwick, Robert Viſcount Cranborne our Principal Secretary, and our welbeloved and faithful Counſellor, Edward Lord Zouch, Preſident of our Council within the Principality and Marches of Wales, and alſo our welbeloved and truſty Robert Lord Willoughby of Eresby, William Lord Mounteagle, Gray Lord Chandois, William Lord Compton, Francis Lord Norris, Robert Lord Sidney our welbeloved and faithful Counſellor, William Lord Knowles, Treaſurer of our Houſhold, and our welbeloved and faithful Counſellor George Dunbar, Lord of Barwick, Chancellor of our Exchequer, Edward Bruce of Kinloſs, Maſter of the Rolls of our Chancery, and alſo our welbeloved and faithful Thomas Eareskine of Birketon, Captain of our Guard, James Lord Barmermoth, and others. Given by our Hand at our Palace at Weſtminſter, in the Second Year of our Reign of England, &c.

KING Edward the Third, in the third Year of his Reign, by his Charter in Parliament, and by Authority of Parliament did create Edward his eldeſt Son, called the Black Prince, Duke of Cornwal not only in Title, but cum feodo with the Dutchy of Cornwal, as by the Letters Patents may appear in Coke's Eighth Part in the Pleadings, Habendum & tenendum eidem Duci, & ipſius, & hæredum ſuorum, Regum Angliæ, filiis Primogenitis, genitis, & dicti loci Ducibus, in Regno Angliæ ei hæreditarie succeſſuris: So that he who is hereditable muſt be Heir apparent to the King of England, and of ſuch a King who is Heir to the ſaid Prince Edward, and ſuch a one ſhall inherit the ſaid Dukedom; which manner of Limitation of Eſtate was ſhort and excellent, varying from the ordinary Rules of the Common Law, touching the framing of any Eſtate of Inheritance in Fee-ſimple, or Fee-tayl; and nevertheleſs, by the Authority of Parliament, a ſpecial Fee-ſimple is in that caſe only made, as by Judgment may appear in the Book aforeſaid, fol. 27. and 27 Ed. 3. 41. b. And ever ſince that Creation, the ſaid Dukedom of Cornwal hath been the peculiar Inheritance of the King's eldeſt Son, during the Life of the King his Father, ſo that he is ever Dux natus, non creatus; and the Duke at the very time of his Birth is taken to be of full and perfect Age, ſo that he may ſend that Day for his Livery of the ſaid Dukedom. And the ſaid Black Prince was the firſt Duke of England after the Conqueſt: For though Bracton, who made his Book in the Reign of King Henry the Third, ſaith, & ſunt ſub rege Duces (as appeareth) that place is to be underſtood of the ancient Kings before the Conqueſt: For in Magna Charta, which was made in the Ninth of King Henry the Third, we find not the Name Duke amongſt the Peers and Nobles there mentioned; for ſeeing the Norman Kings themſelves were Dukes of Normandy for a great while, they adorned none with his Honour. And the eldeſt Son of every King, after his Creation, was Duke of Cornwall: As for example; Henry of Monmouth, eldeſt Son of King Henry the Fourth, Henry of Windſor, eldeſt Son of King Henry the Fifth, Edward of Weſtminſter, eldeſt Son of King Edward the Fourth, Arthur of Wincheſter, eldeſt Son of King Henry the Seventh, and Edward of Hampton, firſt Son of King Henry the Eighth. But Richard of Burdeaux, who was the firſt Son of Edward the Black Prince, was not Duke of Cornwal by force of the ſaid Creation: For albeit, after the death of his Father he was Heir apparent to the Crown; yet becauſe he was not the Firſt-begotten Son of a King (for his Father died in the Life of King Edward the Third) the ſaid Richard was not within the Limitation of the Grant and Creation by Authority of Parliament made in the Eleventh of King Edward aforeſaid; and therefore to ſupply that defect, in the Fifth of Edward the Third, he was created Duke of Cornwal by ſpecial Charter.

Elizabeth, eldeſt Daughter of King Edward the Fourth, was not a Dutcheſs of Cornwall, although ſhe was the Firſt-begotten Daughter of Edward the Fourth; for the Limitation is to the Firſt-begotten Son. Henry the Eighth was not in the Life of his Father King Henry the Seventh, after the Death of his eldeſt Brother Arthur, Duke of Cornwal, by force of the ſaid Creation; for although he was ſole Heir apparent, yet he was not his eldeſt begotten Son.

And the Opinion of Stamford, a Learned Judge hath been, That he ſhall have within his Dukedom of Cornwal the King's Prerogative, becauſe it is not ſevered from the Crown after the form as it is given; for none ſhall be Inheritor thereof but the King's of the Realm: For example; whereas by Common Law, if a Man hold divers Mannors, or other Lands or Tenements of divers Lords, all by Knights-Service, ſome part by Priority and ancient Feoffment, and other Land by Poſterity and a later Feoffment, and the Tenant ſo ſeized dieth, and his Son and Heir within Age, in this caſe the Cuſtody and Wardſhip of the Body, and his Marriage may not be divided amongſt all the Lords, but one of them only ſhall have right unto it (becauſe the Body of a Man is entire.) And therefore the Law doth ſay, That the Lord, of whom ſome part of thoſe Lands are holden by Priority, and by the ſame Tenure of Chivalry, ſhall have it, except the King be any of the Lords; for then though the Tenant did purchaſe that Land laſt, yet after his Death the King ſhall be preferred before any of the other Lords of whom the Tenant did hold the Priority. And ſo ſhall the Duke of Cornwal in the ſame Caſe have the Prerogative, if his Tenant die, holding of him but by poſterity of Feoffment for any Tenure of his Dutchy of Cornwal, although the ſame Duke is not ſeized of any particular Eſtate, whereof the Reverſion remaineth in the King; for the Prince is ſeized in Fee of his Dukedom, as beforeſaid.

John of Gaunt, the fourth Son of King Edward the Third, took to Wife Blanch, Daughter and Heir of Henry Duke of Lancaſter, who had Iſſue Henry King of England; ſo that the ſaid Dutchy of Lancaſter did come unto the ſaid Henry by deſcent from the party of his Mother; and being a Subject, he was to obſerve the Common Law of the Realm in all things concerning his Dutchy. For if he would depart in Fee with any thereof, he muſt have made Livery and Seiſin; or if he had made a Leaſe for Life, reſerving Rent with a Re-entry for default of payment, and the Rent happen to be behind, the Duke might not enter without making his Demand; or if he had alienated any part thereof whilſt he was within Age, he might defeat the Purchaſer for that Cauſe; and if he would grant a Reverſion of an Eſtate for Life or Years in being, there muſt alſo be Attornment, or elſe the Grant doth not take effect.

But after that he had depoſed King Richard the Second, and did aſſume the Royal Eſtate, and ſo had conjoyned his Natural Body in the Body Politick of the King of this Realm, and ſo was become King; then the Poſſeſſion of the Dutchy of Lancaſter was in him as King, but not as Duke, which Degree of Dignity was ſwallowed up in that of the King; for the leſſer muſt always give place to the greater. And likewiſe the Name of the Dutchy, and the Franchiſes, Liberties, and Juriſdictions thereof, when in the King's Hands, were by the Common Law extinct; and after that time the Poſſeſſions of the Dutchy of Lancaſter could not

paſs from Henry the Fourth by Livery of Seiſin; but by his Letters Patents under the Great Seal, without Livery of Seiſin, and with Attornment. And if he make a Leaſe for Life, being Duke, reſerving a Rent with a Re-entry for default of Payment; and after his Aſſumption of the Crown, his Rent happen to be unpaid, he might re-enter without Demand; for the King is not bound to ſuch perſonal Ceremonies as his Subjects are.

Therefore to have the ſaid Dutchy to be ſtill a Dutchy with the Liberties to the ſame, as it was before, and to alter the Order and Degree of the Lands of the Dutchy from the Crown, the ſaid King Henry the Fourth made a Charter by Authority of Parliament, which is entituled Charta Regis Hen. 4. de ſeparatione Lancaſtriæ à corona authoritate Parliamenti Anno Regni ſui primo, as by the Tenor thereof may appear. And ſo by Authority of that Parliament, the ſaid Dutchy, with all the Franchiſes and Liberties was meerly reſigned from the Crown, and from the Miniſters and Officers thereof, and from the Order, to paſs by ſuch Conveyance which the Law did require in the Poſſeſſions of the Crown. But now the Poſſeſſions of the Dutchy by force of the ſaid Statute, ſtood divided from the Crown, and ought to be demeaned and ordered, and paſs as they did before Henry the Fourth was King; yet there is no Clauſe in the Charter which doth make the Perſon of the King (who hath the Dutchy) in any other Degree than it was before.

But Things concerning his Pleaſure ſhall be in the ſame eſtate as they were before ſuch Separation: Inſomuch, as if the Law before the Charter, by Authority of Parliament, adjudging the Perſon of the King always of full Age, having regard unto his Gifts, as well of the Lands which he doth inherit in the Right of his Crown, or Body Politick, it ſhall be ſo adjudged for the Dutchy Land after the ſaid Statute; for the Statute doth go and reach unto the Eſtate, Order, and Condition of the Lands of the Dutchy, but doth not extend unto the Perſon of the King, who hath the Lands in Points touching his Perſon. Neither doth that diſtinguiſh, or alter the Preheminences which the Law doth give to the Perſon of the King: For if King Henry the Fourth, after the ſaid Act had made a Leaſe, or other Grant of parcel of the Dutchy, by the Name of Henry Duke of Lancaſter only, it had been void; for it ſhould have been made in the Name of Henry the Fourth, King of England.

And thus ſtood the Dutchy of Lancaſter ſevered from the Crown all the Reign of Henry the Fourth, Henry the Fifth, and Henry the Sixth, being politickly made for the upholding of the Dutchy of Lancaſter, their true and ancient Inheritance; however the right Heir to the Crown might, in future Time, obtain his Right thereunto (as it happen'd in King Edward the Fourth's Time:) But after the ſaid King Edward obtained his Right unto the Crown, in Parliament he attainted Henry the Sixth, and appropriated and annexed the ſaid Dutchy again to the Crown, as by the Statute thereof made in the firſt of the King's Reign it doth appear. By which Statute three Things were ordained: Firſt, The County Palatine of Lancaſter was again eſtabliſhed: Secondly, He did inveſt it in the Body Politick of the Kings of this Realm: And Thirdly, He did divide it from the Order of the Crown Land. And in this Form it continued until Henry the Seventh, who forthwith (being deſcended from the Houſe of Lancaſter) did ſeparate it only in Order and Government from the Crown, and ſo it continueth at this Day.

Ceremonies to be obſerved in the Creation of a Duke.

AT the Creation of a Duke he muſt have on him his Surcoat and Hood, and ſhould be led between two Dukes, if there be any preſent, if not, a Marquiſs or two, and for want of either, an Earl; ſomewhat before him, on the right Hand, ſhall go an Earl which ſhall bear a Cap of Eſtate with the Coronet in it; and on the other ſide ſhall alſo go an Earl which ſhall bear the Golden Rod; and before the Duke that is to be created ſhould go a Marquiſs, or one of the greateſt Eſtate, to bear the Sword; and before him an Earl to bear the Mantle or Robe of Eſtate lying on his Arms. And all theſe Nobles that do Service muſt be in their Robes of Eſtate.

MARQUISSES.

CHAP. V.

A MARQUISS, which by the Saxons is called Marken-Reue, and ſignifieth a Governor or Ruler of the Marches, hath the next Place of Honour to a Duke. This Title came to us but of late Days; for the firſt was Robert Vere, who was created Marquiſs of Dublin by King Richard the Second, and from that time it became to be a Title of Honour; for in former time thoſe that governed the Marches were commonly called Lord Marchers, and not Marquiſſes.

After the Normans had conquered this Land, it was by them carefully obſerved, as a Matter of great Moment, to place upon the Confines and Borders of the Britains (and thoſe not then ſubdued) Men of much Valour; ſuch that were not only ſufficient to encounter the Inrodes and Invaſions of the Enemy, but alſo ready upon all Occaſions to make onſet upon them for the enlarging their Conqueſt. Theſe Men thus placed were of high Blood and Reputation amongſt their Country-men, the Normans, and in whoſe Faith the Conqueror repoſed ſpecial Truſt and Confidence: And therefore in their Territories given unto them to hold, their Tenures were deviſed to be very ſpecial, and of great Importance and Honour, enriched with Name and Privileges of Earl of Cheſter; and ſo the North-border of Wales created to a County Palatine; and the Barons of the middle part of the South Marches were adorned in a manner with a Palatine Juriſdiction, having a Court of Chancery, and Writs only amongſt themſelves pleadable, to the Intent that their Attendance might not thence be drawn for the proſecuting of Controverſies or Quarrels in the Law. And as for the other part of the South Marches, they ſeemed to be ſufficiently fenced with the River Severn and the Sea.

A Marquiſs is created per gladii cinctturam, & circuli aurei ſuo capiti poſitionem. He is honoured with a Coronet of Gold, which is part flowered, and part pyramidal, with the Points and Flowers, or Leaves of an equal Height: His Mantle is doubled Ermin, which is of three Doublings and an half; whereas the Mantle of an Earl is but of three, and the Doublings of a Viſcount's Mantle is but two and a half, which are only plain white Furr without Ermins, as are the Barons, which are but of two Doublings.

The Form of their Patent (which at their Creation is delivered into their Hands) was various; but of late 'tis regulated to the Method of thoſe of other Degrees, and the Ceremonies the ſame. This Honour is Hereditary, and the eldeſt Son, by the Courteſie of the Land, is called Earl, or Lord of a Place; and the younger Sons only Lord John, Lord Thomas, or the like.

He hath the Title of moſt Noble and Puiſſant Prince, and may have his Cloth of Eſtate reaching within a Yard of the Ground, the King or a Duke not being preſent; and his Marchioneſs may have her Train born up by a Knight's Lady in her own Houſe, but not in a Dutcheſſes Preſence.

A Marquiſs's eldeſt Son is born an Earl, and ſhall go as an Earl, and have his Eſſay in an Earl's preſence, and wear as many Powdrings as an Earl, but ſhall give place to an Earl; and his Wife ſhall go beneath a Counteſs, and above all Mar-

Marquiſſes Daughters, who are born Ladies, and the eldeſt a Counteſs, but ſhall go beneath a Counteſs.

At the Creation of a Marquiſs, he muſt have on him his Surcoat and Hood, and be led by a Duke or Marquiſs; the Sword and Cap to be born by Earls. He muſt go after his Creation, not after his Marquiſate, and the Marchioneſs his Wife according to the ſame.

Marquiſſes are uſually ſtiled by the King, Our Right Truſty and entirely Beloved Couſins, and (if of his moſt Honourable Privy Council) with the Addition of Counſellors.

OF EARLS.

CHAP. VI.

THE next Degree of Honour is an Earl, which Word and Title came from the Saxons: For it is obſerved, That originally within this Realm, in the ancient Engliſh-Saxon Government, Earldoms of Counties were not only Dignities of Honour, but Offices of Juſtice, having the Charge and Cuſtody of the County whereof they were Earls; and for their Aſſiſtance, had their Deputy, called Vicecomes: Which Office is now managed by Sheriffs, each County having his Sheriff Annually choſen out of the eminent Inhabitants thereof under the Degree of Nobiles Majores. And the Earls in recompence of their Travels concerning the Affairs of the County, then received a Salary, viz. a third Peny of the Profits of the County; which Cuſtom continued a long time after the Conqueſt, and was inſerted as a Princely Benevolence in their Patents of Creation (as by divers ancient Patents may appear) which afterwards were turned into Penſions for the better ſupport of that Honour, as appeareth by a Book-Caſe 32 Hen. 6. 28. And therefore in reſpect of ſuch Penſions, or ſuch other Gratuities given in lieu thereof, ſome Men have not without probability thereof imagined, quod Comites nominabantur, quia à multis fiſci Regii ſocii & Comites eidem participes eſſent.

The Word Earl by the Saxons was called Erlig or Ethling; by the Germans, Graves, as Lantgrave, Palſgrave, Margrave, Rheingrave, and the like; and by the Dutch was called Eorle: But upon the coming in of the Normans they were called Comes, or Comites, that is, Counts; and for Gravity in Council, they are called Comes Illuſtris, à Comitando Principem. And as Earls for their Virtues and Heroical Qualities are reputed Princes, or Companions for Princes; ſo ought they to deport themſelves anſwerable to the ſaid Dignity, as well in their Attendance and noble Houſe-keeping, as otherwiſe.

The Dignity of Earl is of divers kinds, and is either local or perſonal: Local, as from the Denomination of ſome Place: And Perſonal, as being in ſome great Office, as Earl-Marſhal, and the like. Thoſe Local are alſo Palatine and Simplices. Thoſe that are Palatine, or Count Palatine, are Cheſter, Lancaſter, and the Biſhopricks of Durham and Ely, and retain ſome of the ancient Priviledges allowed them by the Saxons. Hugh Lupus, who was the firſt Hereditary Earl, had the County Palatine of Cheſter given him by the Conqueror, who governed it forty Years, in which Time he created eight Barons, and had Jura Regalia within the County.

Of Earls not Palatine, which is as ancient as the Conqueſt, there have been principally two kinds, but either of them ſubdivided into ſeveral Branches; for they either take Name of a Place, or hold their Title without any Place. Thoſe that take their Name of a Place are of two Kinds; for either the Place is the County, as the Earl of Devonſhire, Kent, Middleſex, or the like; or elſe ſome Town, Caſtle, or Honour, as the Earldom of Richmond in Yorkſhire, Clarence in Suffolk, Arundel in Suſſex, Bath and Bridgwater in Somerſetſhire, and ſo forth. And thoſe Earldoms which have their Titles without any Place, are likewiſe of two kinds, either in reſpect of Office, or by Birth: By Office as the Earl-Marſhal of England, called in Latin Comes Mareſcallus Angliæ, and is an Officer not only of great Power, being ing in the Vacancy of the Lord High-Conſtable of England the King's Lieutenant General in all Marſhal Affairs, but of as great Honour, taking place of all Earls, except the Lord Great-Chamberlain of England, and is likewiſe endowed with many honourable Priviledges. This Title of Earl-Marſhal was by K. Richard the Second, firſt given to Thomas Mowbray, Earl of Nottingham (whereas before they were ſimply ſtiled Marſhals) and after the Baniſhment of Mowbray, he granted it to Thomas Holland, Duke of Surrey; and that he ſhould carry a Rod or Verge of Gold enammeled black at both ends, whereas before they uſed one of Wood: This Office was by King Charles II. reſtored to the ancient Family of the Howards, Hereditary for ever, and is now enjoyed by his Grace Tho. Howard, Duke of Norfolk, &c. But being a Roman Catholick his Grace is oblig'd to appoint (with the Royal Approbation) a Deputy to officiate or act; which Deputy is the Right Honourable Henry Howard, Earl of Suffolk and Bindon, &c.

The other ſort of Earls are by Birth, and ſo are all the Sons of the Kings of England, if they have no other Dignity beſtowed upon them: And therefore it was ſaid that John, afterwards King of England, in the Life-time of his Father Henry the Second, was Comites ſans terre.

Earls (as other Degrees of Nobility) are Offices of great Truſt, being created by Patent for two principal Purpoſes; one ad conſulendum Regi in tempore pacis; the other ad defendendum Regem & Patriam in tempore belli. And therefore Antiquity hath given them two Enſigns to reſemble both the ſaid Duties: For firſt, the Head is adorned with a Cap of Honour, and a Coronet of Gold, which for diſtinction is pyramidal, pointed, and pearled, between each Pyramid a Flower much ſhorter than the pyramid: And the Body is adorned with Robes, viz. a Hood, Surcoat, and Mantle of State, with three Guards of Furr upon the Shoulders; which Robe is an Emblem of Counſel: And they are begirt with a Sword in remembrance that they muſt be faithful and true to defend their Prince and Country.

An Earl had formerly the Title of Prince; but now it is Moſt Noble and Puiſſant Lord; as alſo The Right Honourable and truly Noble. Out of his Superiors Preſence he may have a Cloth of Eſtate fringed without Pendants; and his Counteſs may have her Train born up by an Eſquire's Wife.

But to the King's High Council of Parliament no Man ought to preſume to come before he hath received the King's Writ of Summons. This Conſtitution was firſt made by King Henry the Third, after the Barons War was appeas'd, and by King Edward the Third, and his Succeſſors, it hath been carefully obſerved. The Form of a Writ of Summons to an Earl, is as followeth:

REX, &c. Unto his welbeloved Couſin, John Earl of . Greeting. Becauſe by the Advice and Aſſent of Our Council, for certain weighty and urgent Buſineſſes concerning Us, the State and Defence of Our Kingdom and Church, We have ordained to be holden a certain Parliament at Our City of Weſtminſter the day of next coming, and there together with you, and with the Prelates, and Great and Noble Men of Our ſaid Kingdom, to have confidence and treaty, commanding, and firmly enjoyning you upon your Faith and Allegiance whereby you are holden unto Us, that the Dangers and Perils imminent of that Buſineſs conſidered, and all Excuſes ſet apart, you be preſent at the ſaid Day in the ſame Place with Us, and with the Prelates and Noblemen aforeſaid, to treat and give Counſel upon the aforeſaid Buſineſs; and hereof fail not, as you tender Our Honour and the Safeguard, and Defence of Our Kingdom and Church aforeſaid. Witneſs Our Self at Weſtminſter the day of in the Year of Our Reign.

In this Writ an Earl is ſaluted by the King by the Name of Couſin, although no Kin; and the Writ of Summons to him, or any other Peer, is particularly directed to himſelf, and not unto the Sheriff of the County, as the general Summons are to Knights and Burgeſſes of Parliament.

After a Man is created an Earl, Viſcount, or any other Title of Honour above his Title, it is become parcel of his Name; and not an addition only, but in all legal Proceedings he ought to be ſtiled by that his Dignity.

In the Firſt of King Edward the Third, fol. 151. a Writ of Formedon was brought againſt Richard Son of Alleyn, late Earl of Arundel, and did demand the Mannor of C. with the Appurtenances, &c. The Tenant, by his Learned Counſel, did Plead that he was Earl of Arundel, and was at the Day of the Writ purchaſed, and demanded Judgment of the Writ, becauſe he was not named in the Writ according to his Dignity and Title of Honour. To which the Demandant ſaith, That at that time, when he did purchaſe the Writ, the Tenant was not known nor taken to be an Earl, and it is ſevere Juſtice if the Writ ſhall abate without any default in the Plaintiff: Nevertheleſs, becauſe the Truth of the Matter was ſo, that the Earldom did deſcend unto him before the Plaintiff had commenced his Action, and purchaſed his Writ againſt him; therefore by Judgment his Writ was abated, although the Tenant was not at that time known to be an Earl. But if a Baron be Plaintiff or Defendant, it is not of neceſſity to name him Baron, 8 Hen. 6. 10. yet ſee a Diſtinction of Barons concerning this Matter, here following: And ſo Reginald Gray was reputed Eſquire after the Earldom deſcended unto him, 'till at laſt it was publiſhed and declared by the Queen, and the Heralds, that he was Earl of Kent in Right, and by Deſcent, although he was not reputed or named Earl before that Time.

But an Addition may be uſed, or omitted at pleaſure, except in ſpecial Caſes, where Proceſſes of Stile of Supremum Caput Eccleſiæ Anglicanæ, which by Act of Parliament in the 26*th* of Hen. 8. cap. 1. and in the 35*th* of Hen. 8. cap. 3. was annexed annexed to the Imperial Crown of this Realm. It is no part of the King's Stile, ſo that it may be omitted in the Summons of Parliament at pleaſure; and ſo it is adjudged and declared by Parliament in the Firſt and Second of Philip and Mary, cap. 8. fol. 156.

But not between the Majeſtical Stile of the King, and the Title of Honour appertaining to a Subject; this Difference is between Grants or Purchaſes made by or to a Nobleman, &c. For in that firſt Caſe it is neceſſary that the Name [King] be expreſſed, otherwiſe they are void. But if a Duke, Earl, or other Degree of Nobility, do Purchaſe or Grant, by the Name of Baptiſm and Surname, or other Title of Honour, it is not void; for it is a Rule in Law, that every Man's Grant ſhall be conſtrued moſt to the Benefit of him to whom the ſaid Grant is made, that it may rather be ſtrengthened than made void; for there is a great Diverſity in the Law between Writs and Grants: For if Writs are not formally made, they ſhall be abated, which is only the loſs of the ſame; but if a Grant ſhould be made void, then the Party hath no Remedy to have a new one, and for that Cauſe the Law doth not favour Advantages by occaſion of falſe Latin, or ſuch like Miſtake.

And if an Earl be Plaintiff or Demandant, and having the Writ, ſhall not abate; but nevertheleſs he ſhall proceed, and count by the Name of an Earl, according to ſuch Title of Honour as he did bear at the Time of the Commencement of his Action.

But if the Plaintiff in a Quare Impedit be made Knight, having the Writ, ſhall abate.

There is a Statute made in the Firſt of Henry the Fifth, cap. 5. wherein is contained as followeth: Item, It is ordained and eſtabliſhed, That every original Writ of Actions, perſonal Appeals, and Indictments, in which the Exigent ſhall be Awarded in the Names of the Defendants; in ſuch Writs, Original Appeals, and Indictments, Additions ſhall be made of their Eſtates, Degrees, and Myſteries, and the Towns, Hamlets, and Places, and the County where they were, or be converſant: And if by Proceſs upon the ſaid original Writs, Appeals, or Indictments, in which the ſaid Additions are omitted, any Outlawries be pronounced, that they be clearly void, and that before theſe Outlawries pronounced, the ſaid Writs and Indictments ſhall be abated by the Exceptions of the Party wherein the ſaid Additions are omitted: Provided, that though the ſaid Writs of Additions Perſonal be not according to the Records and Deeds by the Surpluſage of the Additions aforeſaid, that for this Cauſe they be not abated: And that the Clerks of Chancery, under whoſe Names ſuch Writs ſhall go forth written, ſhall not leave out, or make omiſſion of the ſaid Additions, as aforeſaid, upon pain of Puniſhment, and to make Fine to the King, by the Diſcretion of the Lord Chancellor or Keeper. And this Ordinance ſhall begin to hold place at the Suit of the Party, from the Feaſt of St. Michael then next enſuing.

Although Addition of Eſtate, Degree, and Myſtery, to be added unto Names, be written in the Statute firſt before the Additions of the Places and Counties; yet it hath been uſed always after the making of the ſaid Statute, to place the Addition of Eſtate, Degree, and Myſtery after the Places and Counties in all Writs, Appeals, and Indictments againſt common Perſons: But the Uſe is otherwiſe in Appeals, and Indictments of Treaſon or Felony againſt Dukes, Marquiſſes, and Earls; for their Names of Degrees are in ſuch caſe put before the Additions of Places and Counties; as Charles Earl of Weſtmorland, late of Branſpit in the County of Durham.

Names of Dignity, as Dukes, Earls, Barons, Baronets, Knights, &c. are contained within the word [Degree] for the State of a Man is his Myſtery. Brook, Chief Juſtice of the Common Pleas in Abridgment of the Caſe of 14 Hen. 6. fol. 15. titulo, Noſme de Dignitate.

Injuries done to the Name and Honour of a Nobleman.

IN the Second of Richard the Second, c. 1. that Counterfeits and Spreaders abroad of falſe and reproachful Words and Lies againſt the Nobility, Prelates, and Great Men in publick Offices, as the Lord Chancellor or Keeper, the Lord Treaſurer, Lord Steward of the King's Houſhold, the Judges, &c. whereby Debates and Diſcord may ariſe between the ſaid Lords and Commons, to the great Detriment of the Realm, if due Remedy be not provided; it is ſtraitly Enacted upon grievous Pain, to eſchew the ſaid Dangers and Perils, That from thenceforth none preſume to tell, or report any Falſe and Scandalous News againſt any of the Perſons aforeſaid, whereby Diſcord, or any Slander might ariſe; and he that doth the ſame ſhall incur the Puniſhment ordained by the Statute of Weſtminſter, cap. 33. which wills, that he be taken and impriſoned 'till he have found him that firſt reported the ſame. And further, by another Statute, Anno 12 Rich. cap. 12. it was enacted moreover, That when the ſaid Offender is taken and impriſoned, and cannot find him that firſt ſpake them, then he ſhall be puniſhed by the advice of the Council.

And to the intent that ſuch evil-diſpoſed Perſons, which by their lewd Speeches and ſlanderous Words or Reports, do endeavour to break and diſquiet the Peace of the Realm, might the ſooner be enquired of, found out, and puniſhed by a Statute made in the Firſt and Second of Philip and Mary, it was eſtabliſhed, That the Juſtices of the Peace in every Shire, City, and Town Corporate within the Limits of their ſeveral Commiſſions, ſhall have full Power to hear and determine the Cauſes aboveſaid in the two Acts of Edward I. and 2 Rich. II. ſpecified; and to put the ſaid Statutes, and every part thereof, in due Execution, that condign Puniſhment be not deferred from ſuch Offenders. And beſides the ſaid Penalties to be ſo inflicted on Tranſ-greſſors, every Nobleman, or Great Officer of the Realm, againſt whom any ſcandalous Words, falſe News or Lies are ſpoken, may proſecute the Offender in any Action de ſcandalis magnatum, and recover Damages againſt him. And in like manner may every inferiour Perſon, for any ſuch like words of Infamy ſpoken againſt him, recover Damages againſt the Offender. And in former Times, Speeches tending to the reproach of others were ſo odious, that King Edgar ordained, That his Tongue ſhould be cut out that ſpake any infamous or ſlanderous Words of another. And the ſaid Lord Beauchamp did ſue an Action upon the Statute of Richard the Second, cap. 5. De ſcandalis magnatum, againſt Sir Richard Chuſis, becauſe he did ſue a Writ of forging of falſe Deeds againſt the ſaid Lord Beauchamp; and the Defendant doth juſtifie the ſaid Slander by uſe of the ſaid Writ, &c. And upon Demurrer the Matter of Juſtification was good, ſo that he was not liable to the Puniſhment of the ſaid Statutes, but was quite diſcharged from the ſame.

There is no foul Puddle that ariſeth from the ſame corrupt Quagmire, and diſtilled likewiſe out of a Heart infected with Malice and Envy, but it deviſed and practiſed by another meaner than the former, which is by Lybelling, ſecret Slandering or Defaming of others; for this privy Backbiter doth not by Words impeach his Adverſary in ſo manifeſt and turbulent manner as the cholerick Menacer in his Fury doth; but ſeeming to ſit quietly in his Study, doth more deeply wound his Fame and Credit, than the other boiſterous Perſon doth; for he in a moment threatneth to do more, than peradventure he is either able, or hath Courage to perform in all his Life: For his Paſſion thus diſcovering the Malice of his Heart, doth give his Adverſary warning to defend himſelf from him: But this ſecret Canker the Libeller concealeth his Name, hideth himſelf in a Corner, and privily ſtingeth his Reputation and Credit, and he knoweth not how to right himſelf; and the greater is this Offence, if done to a publick Magiſtrate or Miniſter of State; for then it may bring a Diſturbance to the Peace of the King and Kingdom. And if it be againſt a private Perſon, the ſtaining his Reputation will cauſe him not to be at quiet in Body and Mind, until he hath found his Enemy, which many times may lie ſo ſecretly hid, that he cannot be diſcovered; and then probably one innocent (upon ſome Suſpicion or other) may come to ſuffer for it. Sometimes the malicious Defamer poureth forth his Poiſon in Writing, by a Scandalous Book, Ballad, Epigram, or Rhime, near the place where the Party ſo abuſed doth moſt converſe. In which Caſes the Law hath provided that the Party delinquent (when he is found out and diſcovered) ſhall be ſeverely puniſhed; for he may either be Indicted by the ordinary Courſe of the Common Law; and if it be an exorbitant Offence, then by Pillory, loſs of Ears, Whipping, &c. or the Party grieved may have an Action upon the Caſe againſt the Offender, and recover his Damages: And in this it is not material whether the Libel be true or falſe, or the Party ſcandalized be alive or dead, or be of a good or ill Name; yet our Laws are ſo made as to puniſh him, and ſuch like Men, by a due Courſe of Juſtice.

And to conclude this Matter concerning Wrongs done to the Name and Dignity of a Nobleman, this may be added, That it is unuſual for any Perſon to uſurp the Arms of another. Further, if a Nobleman's Coat-Armour and Sword of other Gentleman's bearing Arms at the ſolemnizing of their Funerals, is ſet up in the Church for the Honour of the deceaſed, and is by the Covetouſneſs of the Incumbent that pretendeth Right thereunto, as Offerings due unto him, afterwards taken down; or if they be defaced by any other, ſuch are to be ſeverely puniſhed as Malefactors: And in that Caſe the Action ſhall not be given to the Widow, though ſhe be Executrix or Adminiſtratrix of her Husband's Goods; for ſuch things which ſerve for the Honour of the Party deceaſed, are not to be accounted inter bona Teſtatoris. And the Heir ſhall have his Action as the Defender of his Anceſtor's Honour: But the Wrong is offered to the Houſe and Blood, and therein ſpecially to the Heir, qui eſt totius genituræ ſplendor; and therefore to him accrueth the Right of Action; for ſo it is reported by Sir John Fern in his Glory of Generoſity, fol. 83. that the Lady Withers's Caſe in 9 Edw. 4. 14. hath been adjudged.

OF VISCOUNTS.

CHAP. VII.

THE next Degree of Honour to an Earl is a Viſcount, which was anciently a Name of Office under an Earl; who being an immediate Officer of the King's in their County (for that their perſonal Attendance was oft-times required at the Court) had his Deputy to look after the Affairs of the County, which at this Day is an Office, and called a Sheriff, retaining the Name of his Subſtitution; in Latin therefore called Vicecomes. But about the Eighteenth of Henry the Sixth, it became a Degree of Honour, who conferred this Title upon John, Lord Beaumont, by Letters Patent.

A Viſcount is created by Patent, as an Earl; hath a Hood, Surcoat, and Mantle, which hath on it two Guards and a half of white plain Furr, without Ermins: And his Coronet is only pearled with a Row of Pearls, cloſe to the Chaplet.

He hath the Title of the Moſt Noble, Potent, and Honourable. He may have a Tavereſs in his own Houſe: And his Viſcounteſs may have her Train born up by a Woman out of her Superiors Preſence, and in their Preſence by a Man.

He is uſually ſtiled by the King, Our Right Truſty and Well-beloved Couſin; but when of His Majeſty's Moſt Honourable Privy-Council, then with the Addition of, and Counſellors.

OF THE LORDS SPIRITUAL.

CHAP. VIII.

ACCORDING to the Laws and Customs of this Realm, many are the Ecclesiastical Dignities and Privileges belonging to the Bishops and Clergymen, who in all succeeding Ages have been reverenced with the greatest observance imaginable, as being acknowledged by all good Christians to be those Messengers sent, and particularly appointed by God to take care of our Souls.

The Subjects of England are either Clergy or Laymen, both which are subdivided into Nobility and Commons. Thus we find in our Parliament the Lords Spiritual and Temporal make the Upper-House; the Commons Spiritual, viz. the Clergy elected to sit in Convocation (who once had place and Suffrage in the Lower-House of Parliament) and the Commons Temporal, viz. the Knights and Burgesses make the Commons.

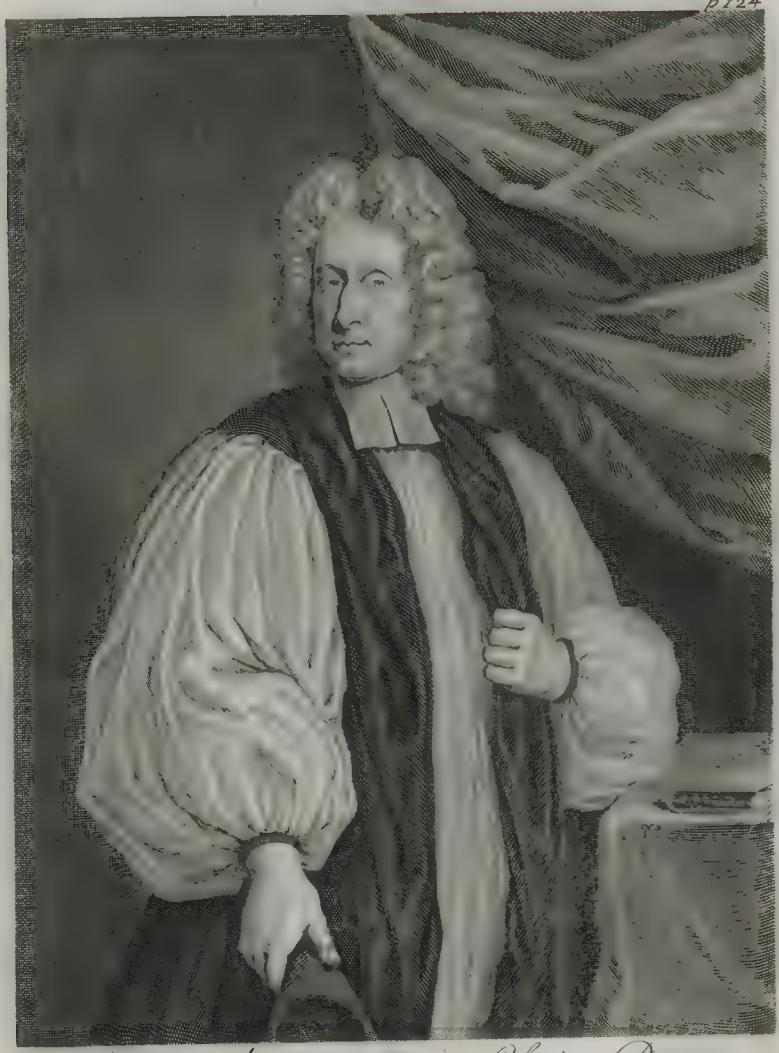

Most evident it is, by the Consent of all the Councils, Fathers, Histories, and Universal Tradition, That for the first fifteen Hundred Years continuance of Christianity, there is no Example to be found of any Church governed by any Authority Ecclesiastick, but that of Episcopacy; they were ordained by the Apostles themselves to be their Successors in Christ's Church, to have a vigilant Eye over the Pastors and Teachers under them, as to their Lives and Doctrine, for the Preservation of Truth and Peace, the Prevention of Scandal, Suppression of Heresie and Schism, and to have a Care of their Flock, to bring them to Salvation. 'Tis not therefore without reason that in all Times they have been the first of the two Divisions of the People, the Clergy and Laity; and as Spiritual Barons take place of Temporal; they take their Name from the Saxon word Biscoep, a Super-intendent or Overseer.

They are three ways Barons of the Realm, viz. by Writ, Patent, and Consecration. They precede all under the Degree of Viscounts, and are always placed upon the King's Right Hand in the Parliament House. They have the Title of Lords, and Right Reverend Fathers in God: And their Sees, by the Piety of former Times, are endowed with fair Revenues for the due Administration of what belongs to their Places: And to keep them from corrupt and sinister Affections, the King's most Noble Progenitors, and the Ancestors of the Nobility and Gentry, have sufficiently endowed the Church with Honour and Possessions.

Many Privileges and Immunities were likewise granted to them, and the Clergy, by the Saxon and Danish Kings; as Coining of Money, Conferring the Order of Knighthood, &c. which hath been long since appropriate to the Crown. Thus Lanfranck, Archbishop of Canterbury, made William the Second Knight in the Life-time of his Father.

Of Privileges remaining, some belong to the Archbishops; some to the Bishops, as they are so; and some to them, and all other of the Clergy.

We read of three Archbishopricks in England before the Saxons came amongst us; viz. that of London, York, and Carleon upon Uske: But Christianity being thence expelled by the Pagans, the Succession of those Sees ceased, till it pleased God to restore the Light of his Gospel to the blind Saxons (which in this Kingdom had planted themselves) by the Ministration of St. Augustin, who first preached Salvation to them at Canterbury, bury, and was there buried, for whose sake they removed the Episcopal See from London unto Canterbury; and in process of Time placed another Archbishop at York; which two Provinces included England and Wales, and have Five and twenty Bishops under them, Six and twenty Deans of Cathedrals and Collegiate Churches, Sixty Arch-Deacons, Five hundred forty four Prebendaries, many rural Deans, and about Ten thousand Rectors and Vicars of Parishes.

The Archbishop of Canterbury was anciently the Metropolitan of England, Scotland, Ireland, and the Isles adjacent; and was therefore sometime stiled a Patriarch, and had several Archbishops under him: His Stile was, Alterius orbis Papa, & orbis Britannici Pontifex: The Date of Records in Ecclesiastical Affairs ran thus, Anno Pontificatus nostri primo, &c. He was Legatus natus; which Power was annexed to that See near One thousand Years ago, whereby no other Legat or Nuntio from Rome could exercise any Legantive power without the King's special Licence. In General Councils he had place, before all other Archbishops, at the Pope's right Foot: Nor was he respected less at Home than Abroad, being, according to the practise of most other Christian States, reputed the Second Person in the Kingdom, and named and ranked before the Princes of the Blood.

By the favour of our present King he still enjoys divers considerable Preheminences; as Primate and Metropolitan of all England; hath power to Summon the Archbishop of York, and the Bishops of his Province, to a National Synod; is primus par Regni, preceding not only Dukes, but all the Great Officers of the Crown, next to the Royal Family. He is stiled by the King, Dei Gratia Archiepiscopus Cantuarii: Writes himself Divina Providentia, as doth the Archbishop of York; (other Bishops write Divina permissione:) and hath the Title of Grace given him, (as it is to Dukes;) and Most Reverend Father in God.

His Office is to Crown the King; and wheresoever the Court shall happen to be, 'tis said the King and Queen are Speciales Domestici Parochiani Domini Archiepisc. Cant. The Bishop of London is accounted his Provincial Dean; the Bishop of Winchester his Chancellor; and the Bishop of Rochester his Chaplain. He hath the power of all the probate of Wills, and granting Letters of Administration where the party hath bona notabilia, that is Five pounds worth, or above, out of the Diocess wherein he dieth; or Ten pounds worth within the Diocess of London. By Statute of Hen. 8. 25. he hath power to grant Licences, Dispensations, &c. and holds divers Courts of Judicature; viz. his Courts of Arches, of Audience, his Prerogative Court, and his Court of Peculiars: And he may retain and qualify eight Chaplains, which is more by two than a Duke can do.

The Archbishop of York was also Legatus Natus, and had that Authority annexed to his See. He had all the Bishopricks of Scotland under his Province till the Year 1470. He hath the Place and Precedency of all Dukes, not of the Royal Blood, and of all great Officers, except only the Lord Chancellor, or Lord Keeper. He hath the Title of Grace, and Most Reverend Father in God: He hath the Honour to Crown the Queen, and to be her perpetual Chaplain. He is also stiled Primate of England, and Metropolitan of his Province. He hath the Rights of a County Palatine over Hexamshire in Northumberland. He may qualifie Chaplains; and hath divers other Prerogatives which the Archbishop of Canterbury hath within his own Province; but Durham being one, hath in many Things a peculiar Jurisdiction, exempted from the Archbishop.

Privileges belonging to the Bishops are as followeth.

IN their own Court they have power to judge and pass Sentence alone, without any Colleague, which is not done in any other Court: And therefore the Bishops send forth their Citations in their own Names, not in the King's, as the Writs in other Courts run. They may depute their Authority to another (as doth the King) either to their Suffragan-Bishops, their Chancellors, Commissaries, or other Officers, which none of the King's Judges can do. In whatever Prince's Dominions they come, their Episcopal Dignity and Degree is owned; they may confer Orders, &c. whereas no Lay-Lord is acknowledged but in the King's Dominions, who gave him the Title. None of them can be Indicted of any Crime before a Temporal Judge, without especial Licence from the King: A severe Penalty to be inflicted on them that raise any Scandal or false Report. In a Trial where a Bishop is Plaintiff or Defendant, the Bishop may, as well as any Lay-Lord, challenge the Array, if one Knight at least be not returned upon the Jury. In Criminal Trials for Life, all Bishops are to be tried by their Peers, who are Barons, and none under that Degree to be impannelled: but anciently they were exempted from any Trial by Temporal Judges. In Parliament they may Vote in any Thing, but in Sentence for Life, or loss of Member, they being by Common Law to absent themselves; and by Common Law to make Proxies to Vote for them. They are freed from all Arrests, Outlawries, Distresses, &c. They have Liberty to Hunt in any of the King's Forests or Parks, to take one or two Deer, coming or going from the King's Presence; and to have Wine free from Impost, &c. Their Persons may not be seized for Contempt, but their Temporalities only; and their Word only is to be taken, and their Certificate allowed in the Trial of Bastardy, Heresie, &c. And such respect has been shewed their Persons, that an Offence by a Clergyman to his Bishop is called Episcopicide, and punished as Paracide, equal to petty Treason.

Every Bishop may qualifie as many Chaplains as a Duke: They are all Barons and Peers of the Realm, and have place in the Upper House of Parliament, as afore-noted, and take place according to Seniority of their Conſecration, except London, Durham, and Wincheſter, who precede by Statute made in the Reign of King Henry the Eighth.

It will not be amiſs to ſpeak ſomewhat of the Immunities common to all Eccleſiaſticks, as well Commons as Lords Spiritual, as followeth.

All Suffragan Biſhops, Deans, Arch-deacons, Prebends, Rectors, and Vicars, have privilege, ſome by themſelves, others by proxy, to Sit and Vote in the Lower Houſe of Convocation.

No Subſidy or other Tax can be impoſed upon them without their own conſent. No Clergyman may be compelled to undergo any perſonal Service in the Commonwealth, nor to ſerve in the Wars, or to bear any ſervile Office. They are free from the King's Purveyors, Carriers, Poſts, &c. for which they may demand a Protection from the King, cum clauſula nolumus. They are not obliged to appear at the Sheriffs Turns or Views of Frank pledge, nor are impanelled to ſerve upon Inqueſts at Aſſizes or elſewhere. If a Clergyman acknowledge a Statute, his Body ſhall not be taken thereupon; for the Writ runs, Si Laicus ſit, &c. Their Goods are diſcharged from Tolls and Cuſtoms (ſi non exerceant Merchandizas de eiſdem;) but they muſt have the King's Writ to diſcharge them.

As the Clergymen are exempted from the Wars, being, by reaſon of their Function, they are prohibited the wearing a Sword; ſo every Man in the Order of Prieſthood is debarred the Order of Knighthood of the Sword, cum eorum militia ſit contra mundum carnem & diabolum, ſaith Sir John Fern; yet laying aſide their Cures, and alſo lying themſelves to a ſecular Life, they have been admitted. Dei natalin (ſaith Matth. Paris) Johannem de Gateſden clericum & multis ditlatum beneficiis, ſed omnibus reſignatis, quia ſic oportuit, Baltheo cinxit militari. Theſe, and many other Rights, Liberties, and Privileges belong to the Clergy of England, all which the King at his Coronation ſolemnly ſwears to preſerve to them: And they have been confirmed by above Thirty Parliaments; and if any Act be made to the contrary, it is ſaid to be Null by the Statute of the 4th of Edward the Third.

'As to the Form of a Biſhop's Atchievement, 'you have it already in the Diſplay, under the 'Head Marſhalling: Where a Catalogue of the 'preſent Biſhops, with their Arms, are inſerted.

OF

CHAP. IX.

AMONGST the Nobles and Honourable Perſons, Barons have the next Place. And firſt of the Dignity and Degrees of a Baron in general: Secondly, of the Etymology of the Name: Thirdly, of the Antiquity thereof, and of the divers Uſes in former Ages: Fourthly, of the Diviſion, and the Conſideration of the ſeveral Kinds of Barons: And laſtly, a Declaration of the divers and ſundry Priviledges allowed them, and the reſt of the Nobles, by the Laws of this Realm.

The Definition or Deſcription of a Baron.

IT is a certain Rule in Law, Definitiones in jure ſunt periculoſiſſimæ; earum eſt enim ut non ſubverti poſſint; and therefore I do not often find any Definition or Deſcription of a Baron delivered by Writers: Nevertheleſs in this our Kingdom, it is my Opinion, that a Baron may be deſcribed in a Generality, anſwerable unto every ſpecial Kind thereof in this manner.

A Baron is a Dignity of Nobility and Honour next unto the Viſcount: And the Books of Law do make a Difference between Dukes, Marquiſſes, Earls, and Viſcounts, which are allowed Names of Dignity, and the Baron; for they affirm, That ſuch a Baron need not to be named Lord or Baron by his Writ; but the Duke, Marquiſs, Earl, or Viſcount, ought to be named by their Names of Dignity.

Cambden, fol. 1692. ſaith, That our Common Laws do not allow a Baron one of the Degrees of Nobility: But I take it to be underſtood of Barons by Tenure, or Barons by Writ, only: For the Title of a Baron by Patent is in his Letters Patents under the Great-Seal of England adorned by the Name of Status, Gradus, Dignitas; and therefore is requiſite to be named: And ſuch Dignities are a parcel of the Name of the Poſſeſſor, as well as the Title and Style of a Duke, Marquiſs, Earl, or Viſcount. And although there may be conceived this Difference laſt mentioned between the Baron by Tenure or Writ, and the Baron by Patent; yet they being all Members of the Higher Houſe of Parliament, they are thereby equally made Noble, Honourable, and Peers of the Realm, as they are Barons, without any other Diſtinction.

The Etymology of the Name of Baron.

MANY Writers have laboured to place the Etymology and Signification of this Word, wherein (following too much their own Fantaſies) they have bred much Variation of Opinions. As for Etymology of Words, I agree with him that ſaith it is, Levis & fallax & plerumque ridicula; for ſæpenumero ubi proprietas verborum attenditur ſenſus veritas amittitur. It may leave ſome uſe, and ſerve turn in Schools, but it is too light for Judgment in Law, and for the Seats of Juſtice. Thomas Aquinas ſetteth down a more certain Rule, In vocibus videndum, non tam a quo quam ad quid ſumater; and Words ſhould be taken ſenſu currenti; for Uſe and Cuſtom is the beſt Expoſitor of the Laws and Words, quam penes arbitrium eſt, & jus, & norma loquendi, in the Lord Chancellor's Speech, in the Caſe Poſtnati, fol. 61. And foraſmuch as the Word may aptly be apply'd to import Men of ſtrength, Bracton (as before appeareth) not unaptly uſeth the Signification thereof in theſe Words, Sunt & alii potentes ſub Rege qui dicuntur Barones, hoc eſt robur belli.

The Antiquity of the Dignity of Barons, and the ſundry Uſes of the Name.

IT ſeemeth that the Dignity was more ancient than the Name; for in the ancient Conſtitutions there is no mention made of the Name of Barons; howbeit, the learned Interpreters do underſtand that Dignity to be comprehended under thoſe which are there called Valvaſores Majores, and afterwards called Capitanei. For of the Valvaſors, which are thought to be the Barons Valvaſores Minores, and Valvaſini, or Valvaſores Minimi. The like Dignity (before the Conqueſt) had thoſe which of the Engliſh-Saxons were called Thaines. Mills, fol. 28. ſaith, Barons were in France from the Beginning; nevertheleſs, the Name of Baron was not much uſed in this Kingdom until the Norman Conqueſt, after which the Word Baron ſeemeth to be frequently uſed inſtead of Thaine amongſt the Engliſh-Saxons: For as they in general and large Signification did ſometimes uſe the ſame to the Senſe and Meaning, and Import of a Freeman, born of a Free Parentage, or ſuch like: So did the Normans uſe the Word Baron, and therefore called their beſt eſteemed Towns and Boroughs by the Name of Barons: And ſo the Citizens of London were called Barons Londonni; divers ancient Monuments of whom alſo Brittan maketh mention, fol. 272. & lib. 5. cap. 14. Alſo there are divers Charters wherein mention is made of ſuch like Barons. And the Barons of Warwick in the Record of Domeſday: And unto our Time, the Free Burgeſſes of the Five priviledged Ports; and for that alſo divers of the Nobility of Barons, as well Spiritual as Temporal, did in ancient Time ſit in the Exchequer to determine the Matters there ariſing, the Judges of that Court have been, time out of mind, called Barons of the Exchequer. And William de la Pole was created a Baron by King Edward the Third, and made Lord Chief-Baron of the Exchequer.

Moreover, as the Engliſh-Saxons had two kinds of Thaines, the like hath been obſerved as touching Barons; for the King, and the Monarchs of the Realm have their immediate Barons, being the Peers of the Realm: And in like manner certain others of the Nobility, eſpecially the Earls which have Juriſdiction Palatine, and Earls-Marchers, whoſe Countries have confined upon the Coaſts of the Enemy, and had under them, for their better Defence, a kind of Barons; as namely, under the County-Palatine of Cheſter were theſe Barons, viz. the Barons of Hilton, Mountal, Malbank, Shipbrooke, Malpas, Maſſey, Kinderton, Stockport, &c. The Earldom of Pembroke being firſt erected by Arnulphus Montgomery that conquered part of Wales; and therefore the Earl thereof being an Earl-Marcher, had alſo under him his Barons, as by the Parliament Rolls 18 Edw. I. doth appear.

It hath been therefore a common Opinion received, That every Earldom, in Times paſt, had under it Ten Barons, and every Baron Ten Knights-Fees holden of him; and that thoſe which have Four Knights-Fees were uſually called and promoted to the Degree of a Baron.

Alſo Lords and Proprietors of Mannors were, in reſpect of them in ancient remembrance, called Barons (but abſolutely) and the Courts of their Mannors called thereof Courts Barons.

It reſteth now, for the more Explanation of the uſe of the Name of Barons, that we call to remembrance that which hath been afore-ſpoken. That the Cuſtom of our Country is, that if a Baron be created Earl, the eldeſt Son of the ſaid Earl taketh upon him, in the Life-time of his Father, the Name and Title of the Barony, although he want the Priviledges belonging to a Baron.

The Tenour and proper Signification of the Word Baron.

BARONS Honourable are of three kinds, viz. by Tenure, by Writ, and by Creation or Patent. As for Barons by Preſcription, which ſome Men have ſpoken of, they are intended to be all one with the Barons by Tenure, or thoſe whoſe Anceſtors, time out of mind, have been called to Parliament by Writ; for otherwiſe there are no ſuch to be found as Barons by Preſcription only.

CHAP. X.

BARONS by TENURE.

BARONS by Tenure, are thoſe which do hold any Honour, Caſtle, or Mannor, as the Head of their Barony per Baroniam, which is Grand-Serjeanty. And thoſe Barons by Tenure are of two ſorts, Barons Spiritual by Tenure, and Barons Temporal by Tenure. Of Barons Spiritual by Tenure ſufficient is ſaid, whereunto may be added, That it appeareth by all the ancient Writers of our Law, as Brittan, Glanvile, Bracton, and the reſt, that the Archbiſhops and Biſhops of the Realm in the ancient Saxon Days, as well during the time that the Realm was divided into divers Kingdoms, as alſo after the uniting of them into one Monarchy, were called to Parliament or Aſſemblies of State as Wiſemen; not ſo much in reſpect of their Tenure, for in thoſe Days all their Tenures were by a Frank Almoigne; but eſpecially for that the Laws and Counſels of Men are then moſt current and commendable, and have a more bleſſed Iſſue and Succeſs, where they are grounded upon the Law of God, the Root and Beginning of all true Wiſdom. And therefore our wiſe and religious Anceſtors called to their General Council, or Wittenagemote, or Court of Wiſemen (as they called it) thoſe chief and principal Perſons of the Clergy, which by their Places and Profeſſions, by their Gravity, Learning and Wiſdom, might beſt adviſe them what was the Law of God's acceptable Will and Pleaſure, that they might frame Laws anſwerable, or at leaſtwiſe not contrary and repugnant thereunto.

And touching the Temporal Barons by Tenure, mention is made of them in the Books of Law, Records, and ancient Monuments of the Realm; and theſe Baronies were anciently uncertain, and rentable at the pleaſure of the King. But ſuch Incertainty was brought to Certainty by the Statute of Magna Charta, chap. 2.

Bracton doth make expreſs mention of Barons Temporal by Tenure; it ſhall be needful here again to remember the former Aſſertion of Bracton, That the Head of a Barony deſcending to Daughters ſhould not be divided by Partition, which argueth likewiſe the Tenure of Barony. But let us deſcend to other Authority, viz. the Book-Caſe in the 48 Edw. 3. fol. 30. Sir Ralph Everdon's Caſe; by which Caſe of Law 'tis moſt evidently proved that there are Barons by Tenure, which in regard of ſuch their Tenure, ought to be ſummoned to Parliament. And furthermore, That there were or are Barons by Tenure, read the Statute of Weſtminſter 2. cap. 41. where the Fees of the Earl-Marſhal and the Lord Chamberlain are expreſſed, which are to be taken by them upon the Homage done of every Baron by Tenure, whether the Baron holdeth by a whole Barony, or by a leſs.

But here ariſeth a Queſtion: If a Baron by Tenure alien and grant away the Honour, Caſtle, and Mannor holden by Barony, whether ſhall ſuch Alien or Grantee take upon him the State, Title, and Dignity of a Baron, or not? Or what ſhall become of ſuch Dignity of Baronage after ſuch Alienation and Grant made? They which do deny that there are any ſuch Baronies by Tenure, do uſe theſe as their principal Motives or Reaſons: Firſt, If there be any Baronies by Tenure, then the Alience or Grantee of ſuch Honour, Caſtle, and Mannor ſo holden, muſt hold by the ſame Tenure that his Grantor or Feoffer before held; but that was by Barony, therefore ſuch Grantee muſt hold by Barony: And if ſuch Grant or Alienation be made to Perſons Vulgar or Ignoble, then ſhould ſuch Tenure be made Noble, which were very abſurd, and full of Inconveniency; for Ornanda potius eſt dignitate domus, quam ex domo dignitas, utcunque quibus quærenda eſt, ab iis honeſtanda. Milles peroration. 3. Secondly, It is very evident and manifeſt that many ancient Mannors, which in old time were holden by Baronage, and were the Head of Baronies, are now in the Tenures of mean Gentlemen, and others, who neither may, nor do challenge unto themſelves in any reſpect hereof any Nobility, without the great Favour of the King's moſt Excellent Majeſty, who is the Fountain of all Honour within his Dominions. Thirdly, Some ancient Barons there are that have alienated and ſold many of thoſe Caſtles and Mannors which did bear the Name and Dignity of Baronage; and yet themſelves do ſtill retain, and lawfully keep their Eſtate, Dignity and Degree of Baron, and have been, and uſually are, ſuch Alienations notwithſtanding, ſummoned nevertheleſs to the Parliament, and there to take and hold their ancient Place accordingly.

To theſe Objections it ſhall be convenient, for the more eaſie unfolding the State of this Queſtion, to exhibit certain neceſſary Diſtinctions, and upon them to draw true and infallible Concluſions; and then to prove them by Authority of Law, Conſent of Time, and manifold Preſidents: Which done, the Anſwer will be preſently made (as I conceive) to every of the aforeſaid Objections.

Firſt therefore, If a Baron by Tenure, which holdeth any Caſtle, Honour, or Mannor by Baronage, do alien or give the ſame away, he doth it either with or without a Licence obtained from his Majeſty for the ſame. If he doth it without a Licence, then the Concluſion is certain. But by the Laws of this Realm the Barony, Honour, Caſtle, or Mannor ſo aliened without Licence or Conſent, is forfeited; and the ſame Honour, Caſtle, and Mannor ſo holden by Barony, and ſo aliened, aliened, is to be seized in the King's Hands; and the said Forfeiture, and such Dignity and Estate no longer to be born and continue, but to be resumed and extinguished in the Crown, from whence it was derived.

The Reason therefore is notable, if we call to remembrance that which was formerly alledged out of Bracton, That Baronies are the Strength of the Realm, and suffer no Division; they suffer also no Alienation without the Consent or Licence of the Sovereign Monarch; for so should the Realm be infeebled, and base Persons ennobled without desert of Virtue or Proweſs: For where the Thing so aliened is an Honour or Head of a Barony, it differeth much from the ordinary Tenure in Capite, whereof, if the Tenant make Alienation without Licence, he is only to pay a Fine by the Statute of 1 Edw. 3. cap. 12. whereof also before the making of the Statute, there was diverſity of Opinions at the Common Law after the Statute of Magna Charta, cap. 31. And for further proof see Glanvile.

In Edward the Third, certain Lands being parcel of the Barony of Bremberway were aliened by William de Browſe the Baron thereof, without the King's Licence; and in the Argument of the Case concerning the same, Judge Green delivered this for Law. Firſt, That parcel of a Barony or Earldom of the King in chief cannot be aliened or dismembred without his Licence; and if it be, it shall be seized into the King's Hands as forfeited, and the King shall be seized thereof in his own Right again. In 43 Edw. III. it was found by an Office, that William Bishop of Cheſter had leased unto one John Preſton, for his Life, a Mannor which was parcel of the Mannor of the said Bishoprick without Licence, and it was resolved by the Judges, and others of the King's Council, That the same was forfeited; but by mediation of the said Council the Bishop submitted himself to the King, and made a Fine, and several Scire Facias's issued out against them that had received the many Profits, to answer unto the King thereof. And thus much concerning Alienations of Baronies without Licence.

But on the other part, if a Baron by Tenure, who holds any Honour, Castle, or Mannor by Barony, do grant or alien the same by Licence, I must again distinguish: For either such Alienation is made for the continuance of his Barony, Honour, Lands, and Tenements in his own Name, Blood, and Issue Male; or else the same Alienation is made for Money or other Recompence, or otherwise to a meer Stranger: And hereof ensueth this second Conclusion or Assertion, That if such Alienation be made for the continuance of his Barony in his Name and Blood, or Issue Male (as many have made the like) then may such Issue Male, together with the Barony (be it Castle, Honour, or Mannor so holden) hold, and lawfully enjoy the Name, Stile, Title and Dignity of a Baron.

Moreover concerning the second Objection, It is very true that many ancient Mannors which were in Times past holden by Barony, are now in the Hands of Gentlemen, mean and ignoble by Blood, who never do, or may claim any Nobility or Honour thereby. But there hath been some former Gifts made by the King's Progenitors to such as they honoured in Augmentation and Support of their Honour, and for honourable Services, should thus come to the Hands of mean Persons, are twofold: Firſt, For that such Mannors have been aliened by Licence unto such Persons before spoken, of whom such Possessions alone cannot make Noble. Secondly, And that was usually such Mannors as were in ancient Time holden by Barony, that have upon divers Occasions come to the Crown, were extinct; and after the same Lands were given or conveyed to others, reserving other Services than those which at the firſt were due for the same; so that it was no marvel that some Mannors anciently holden by Barony, or other honourable Service, should now be holden in Soccage, or by other mean Tenure.

As to that which was thirdly objected, That some ancient Barons there are which have aliened and sold away those Castles and Mannors of which they have and do bear the Name and Dignity, and yet still themselves do retain and lawfully keep the Dignity and Degree of a Baron, and have been, and are called to Parliament notwithstanding such Alienation:

To that I answer, That it is true; but it proveth nothing against the former Resolution; and therefore for better satisfaction of this Point, it is to be considered, that either such Barons are original Barons by Writ, or Barons by Tenure. Barons by Writ (in this respect now in Hand) are of two kinds; for either in such Writ whereby they are, or their Ancestors were firſt summoned, they were only named by their own Names, or else there was addition given them of the principal Place of their abode, which was done for Distinction sake, either to sever them from some honourable Person of the same Name; or else to give them such honourable Title by addition of the Place, which Place notwithstanding was not holden by Barony: And therefore if such a Baron do alien away that Place which was anciently his Seat, he may nevertheleſs retain his honourable Title, no respect had of such Place.

But if a Baron by Tenure do alien away the Honour, Castle, or Mannor holden by Barony unto a mean Person not capable of Honour, and by sufficient Licence so to do; and after the Alienor which made such Alienation, be called by Writ to Parliament under the Title, or as a Baron to such Honour, Castle, or Mannor so aliened that away which he held by Barony. But thenceforth, after such Writ of Summons he is become a Baron by Writ, such Alienation notwithstanding, forasmuch as the Writ directeth at the Pleasure of the Prince, doth give unto him that Addition of Name and Dignity.

And thus much touching the Resolution of the said Question, and Satisfaction of the said Objections, and of Barons by Tenure.

CHAP.

CHAP. XI.

BARONS by WRIT, which is the ſecond kind of Barons mentioned in the former Diviſion of Barons.

A BARON by Writ, is he unto whom a Writ of Summons, in the Name of the King, is directed, to come to the Parliament appointed at a certain Time and Place to be holden, and there with his Majeſty, the Prelates, and Nobility, to treat and adviſe about the weighty Affairs of the Nation; which Writ is much to the effect of the aforementioned Writ in the Title of Earl, and which kind of Writ is as well directed to the Barons of Tenure, as by Creation by Patents: But thoſe that are not Barons by Tenure, nor by Patent, and have only ſuch Writs, after the receipt of ſuch Writ, and Place taken in Parliament accordingly, ought to enjoy the Name and Dignity of Barons.

Touching the Antiquity of Barons by Writ only, and the firſt Inſtitution thereof, I find little or no mention before the Reign of King Henry the Third; and therefore I conceive that either the firſt, or at leaſt the firſt frequent uſe of ſuch Barons, was had and deviſed 49 Hen. III. in caſe of Neceſſity, and upon a commendable Occaſion: For in the diſorder between the King and his Nobility in thoſe troubleſome Wars, where Seditions and Rebellions were ſtirred up by them againſt the ſaid King, there were many great Battles fought, to the effuſion of much Blood, of which ſaid Rebellions the Right Honourable Simon Earl of Exeter was Ring-leader, for the Defence of their Liberties (as pretended) granted by Magna Charta, and Charter of the Foreſt, which are even to this Day the principal Grounds of the poſitive Law, and are the moſt ancient Statutes now in uſe amongſt us.) And for the defence of other Conſtitutions and Ordinances then made at Oxford: And after divers Fields fought betwixt them at Northampton, Rocheſter, Lewes, and other Places; laſt of all was the Cataſtrophe of that Tragedy finiſhed at Eveſham or Eſam in Worceſterſhire, where the ſaid Earl was ſlain, the King gained the Victory, and the rebellious Barons received their overthrow: Upon which preſently enſued the Parliament holden at Wincheſter in Hantſhire, and afterwards at Weſtminſter, where ſuch of the Barons as were ſlain in the Field againſt the King, and ſuch others of them as were taken Priſoners, or made their eſcape by Flight, were to be attainted, and diſinherited of their Eſtates. And the Number of Barons who had continued faithful unto their Sovereign being ſmall, it was deemed a neceſſary Policy, to ſupply the Number of the diminiſhed Barons with other Perſons of known Worth, Wiſdom, and Repute; by reaſon whereof there were called at thoſe Parliaments the Abbots and Priors of the Realm, as well thoſe that held not by Barons, as others; and divers others of the moſt worthy Laity not holding by Barony; and theſe by means thereof were thenceforth Barons by Writ; but certain of the ſaid Abbots and Priors, which held not by Barony, and thought it a Burthen to their Houſes, got themſelves (upon Petition) afterwards to be exempted, as by divers Records thereof remaining in the Chancery may appear.

This moreover is to be noted concerning the Writ of Summons to Parliament, that thoſe Writs in form of their Directions are divers; ſome directed by ſpecial Name of Barons, as Rex, &c. Edmundo Baroni de Stafford, Johanni Baroni de Grayſtock, Johanni Baroni de Dudley, Edwardo Nevill Baroni Abergavenny, as it was in the Reign of King James.

Some other are ſummoned by the Name of the Party, with addition of the Place (as Johanni Strange de Knocking, Militi, Edwardo Gray de Groby, Militi, Johanni le Scroop de Maſham, Militi, Willielmo Souch de Harringworth, Militi) the chief Caſtle or Mannor of ſuch Baron, which always ſtands afterwards for the head Place of the Barony, whereof the ſaid Baron and his Heirs ſhall be ſurnamed, and called, and ſhall continue that Name of Place, although he do alien away the ſame, as aforeſaid. Some others are named with the Title of Lord. as Sir Hugh Bramſteed, by Writ of the 27*th* of Henry the Sixth, was ſtyled Lord Veyſey.

Johan. Beauchamp Domino de Beauchamp Johanni Domino de Clynton. To ſome others the Writ is directed only by their Name, without any addition of Place or Dignity, as William de Lovell, Mil. William Devereux, Mil. &c.

But the Nature, Quality, and Addition of thoſe Barons by Writ is aptly diſcovered by the debate of a Queſtion moved often amongſt Men, and ſpoken of concerning the continuance and deſcent of a Barony by Writ; which Queſtion, for the more orderly diſpoſition thereof, I ſhall divide into theſe Heads or Points.

QUESTION.

Firſt, Whether a Barony by Writ may deſcend from the Anceſtor to the Heir, or not?

Secondly, Admit ſuch a Barony may deſcend, then, Whether it doth deſcend to the Heirs, although not ſo near as the Heir Female?

Thirdly, Admit it doth deſcend to the Heirs Female; then, Whether may the Husband of ſuch an Heir Female take upon him the Name, Style, and Dignity of ſuch a Barony in right of his Wife, or no?

Thoſe

Thoſe therefore that maintain the Negative, that ſuch a Barony ſhall not deſcend, do ſtrengthen themſelves with theſe or the like Arguments, viz.

The firſt Argument, Whether a Barony by Writ may deſcend?

NOBILITY and Honour, which are given in reſpect of Wiſdom, Counſel, and Advice, cannot extend to any other Perſon, or deſcend from one Man to another; for it is a Rule in Law, That Privilegium perſonæ perſonam ſequitur, & extinguetur cum perſona: But ſuch is the Dignity of a Baron; therefore it is reaſon that it ſhould not deſcend from the Anceſtor to the Heir.

The Second Argument.

AGAIN, If the calling of the Parliament by Writ be the ſufficient inſtrumental Cauſe of ſuch Nobility to the Anceſtor, the not calling of the Heir is a loſs of that Nobility: For if the Heir have defects of Nature in him, as Idiotſie, Frenſie, Leproſie, or the like, whereby he is become unfit for Counſels and Converſations, for what reaſon ſhould he enjoy that Dignity, whereof he is either unworthy or uncapable? For the Effect hath no place where the Cauſe faileth: And hereof they conclude that ſuch Dignities of Baronies by Writ ſhould not deſcend.

If on the contrary part, the Affirmation is thus proved. Honour, which is given in reſpect of Wiſdom and Vertue of him on whom it was firſt beſtowed, is not only a due Recompence for himſelf whilſt he lived, but alſo a memorable Reward thereof to Poſterity. The Words of Cicero to this effect are moſt excellent, Homines bonos ſemper nobilitate favimus, & quia utile republicæ eſt nobiles eſſe & homines dignos majoribus ſuis, & quia valere debet apud nos claros hujuſmodi ſenes fuiſſe, è republica moveretur memoria & mortuorum Honor. Therefore this kind of Honour is Patrimonial and Hereditary; for things which are once granted unto a Man by the King for his Honour, are not again to be returned to his Loſs and Diſgrace, or to his Heirs.

The Third Argument.

Secondly, IF the Infamy of the Father be a Blot to the Poſterity, as the Wiſe-man Solomon affirmeth, The Children complain for an ungodly Father, they are reproved for his ſake; and for that alſo the Law of the Realm doth corrupt the Blood of the Poſterity by and upon the Offence of the Anceſtor; Reaſon would alſo be, that the Honour of the Anceſtor ſhould be likewiſe Honour to the Poſterity; for Contraries do alſo carry their contrary Reaſon. For the determination whereof, 'tis to be noted, that diverſity of Reaſon hath bred diverſity of Opinion. Some there are that do ſpeak, That the Dignity of a Baron by Writ is not diſcendable from the Anceſtor unto the Heir, unleſs the Heir be likewiſe called by Writ to Parliament, and that then it becometh an Inheritance, and not before. But this Aſſertion is repugnant to the nature of Deſcent, which for the moſt part doth carry a Patrimony deſcendable by Act of Law preſently upon the Death of the Anceſtor unto the Heir not at all. Wherefore the Cuſtom of the Country, and the manifeſt Preſidents do prove, that this kind of Baronies doth deſcend from the Anceſtor to the Heir, and there needeth not any Word of Heir in the Writ of Summons; only one Preſident there is in a ſpecial Writ ſometime directed to Sir Henry Bromfleet in the 27*th* of Henry the Sixth, wherein he was ſtyled Lord Veyſey, and wherein there are theſe Words inſerted, Volumus tamen vos & hæredes veſtros de corpore veſtro legitime enatos Barones de Veyſey exiſterent. Wherefore it is very true, that when the Heir of any ſuch Baron by Writ is called to the Parliament, that his Deſcent of Honour is thereby eſtabliſhed and approved of by the gracious Judgment of our Sacred Sovereign: So it is alſo true, that if it ſhall ſtand with his Majeſties Pleaſure, that ſuch an Heir ſhall not be ſummoned at all, then that Nobility is much impaired, and in a manner extinguiſhed in the Cenſure of all Men; for that it hath no other Original but by a Writ of Summons, from the which, by the Judgment of the Supream Sovereign, he is excluded.

As to the ſecond principal Point, Whether the Barony by Writ may deſcend to the Heir Female, it ſhall not be amiſs likewiſe to ſhew the Reaſons on either part, that by conflict of Argument the Truth may the better be diſcovered.

Thoſe that maintain the Affirmative part, do ſay, That in reaſon the Sex of the Heir Female ought no more to bar her Dignity, than the Nonage of the Heir Male ought to bar him, though during his Nonage he be unable to do the Service. But as the Service of the one is for time forborn, ſo the Sex of the other may at all Times be ſupplied by the maturity of her Huſbands Offices of Honour, which do much import the Commonweal, being paſſed by Inheritance, do deſcend to the Heir Female; as the Office of the High Conſtableſhip of England, which deſcended unto the Daughter of Hum. de Bohun, Earl of Hereford and Eſſex. Alſo the Office of the Lord Steward deſcended to Blanch, Daughter of Henry Earl of Lancaſter. The like may be ſaid of the Office of Earl-Marſhal, which deſcended by an Heir Female to the Houſe of Norfolk. All which Offices are as unfit to be exerciſed by a Woman, as for a Woman to be ſummoned by Writ to the Parliament as a Baroneſs, &c.

Many Noble Houſes alſo in England do ſupport and lawfully bear the Dignity of a Baronage unto them deſcended by a Woman.

The Firſt Argument contra.

THEY which ſtand of the Negative part in this Controverſie, do encounter their Adverſaries in this manner, viz. The Writ of Summons to the the Parliament, whereby the Baron by Writ hath his Original, is to call that Honourable and Worthy Perſon ſo ſummoned to the number of that Right, High, and Honourable Aſſembly, and to be a Judge, to ſit, hear, and determine Life and Member, Plea and Right of Land, if there ſhall come Occaſion: Likewiſe to give Counſel and Adviſe in the moſt mighty Affairs of the Realm: But theſe Things are convenient for the Quality and Condition of Men; unfitting, and altogether unbeſeeming the Sex of Women.

Ergo, having reſpect unto the Scope and final Purpoſe of ſuch Writs, ſuch Inheritances ſhould only deſcend unto the Heir Female.

The Second Argument contra.

Secondly, IF it ſhall be anſwered, That although the Heir Female, to whom ſuch Inheritance is deſcended, be unfit in her own Perſon for the accompliſhing of theſe Things; yet ſhe may marry with one ſufficiently able for her, and in her behalf to execute the ſame. This Anſwer will neither ſatisfie nor ſalve the Inconveniencies: For admit that ſuch an Heir Female were at full Age at the Death of her Anceſtor, unmarried; for it doth lye in her own Choice then whom ſhall be her Husband.

The Third Argument contra.

Thirdly, IF ſuch Huſband ſhall be called by the Right of his Wife, the Writ ſhall make ſome mention thereof; for otherwiſe it may well be taken that the Huſband was choſen in his own Perſon, and in behalf of himſelf, and not in regard of his Wife, or ſuch pretended Dignity deſcended unto him. But there was never ſuch a Writ of Summons ſeen wherein the Wife was mentioned. And if the Huſband of ſuch a Wife have been called to the Parliament (which is always by General Writ) not mentioning his Wife, he is thereby made a Baron of himſelf by vertue of the ſaid Writ. Having thus heard both Sides to diſpute Place, it doth now require to interpoſe Opinion to compound the Controverſie. This Point in queſtion is ſomewhat perplexed by means of difficult Preſidents: For firſt it is obſerved, That ſome Preſidents do prove that Baronies by Writ have deſcended unto Heirs Female, whoſe Huſbands have been called to Parliament, whether in regard of themſelves, or in reſpect of their Wives right, it maketh no matter: But ſince it is, that the Marriage of ſuch Ladies gave that Occaſion to be ſummoned, and ſuch Huſbands and their Poſterity have and do lawfully bear the ſame Title of Dignity, which the Anceſtors of ſuch a Wife did before rightfully bear: For by this Controverſie there is no purpoſe to call the Right of ſuch Noble Houſes into queſtion. Howbeit, Secondly, this is to be obſerved out of the Preſidents, and to be ackdowledged of every dutiful Subject, That the King's Majeſty is nevertheleſs at liberty to call to his High Council of Parliament, whom he ſhall in his Princely Wiſdom think fit, which his Majeſty's Noble Progenitors have in former Ages likewiſe obſerved.

And therefore whereas Ralph Lord Cromwell, being a Baron by Writ, died without Iſſue, having two Siſters and Coheirs, Elizabeth the Eldeſt, who married Sir Thomas Nevile, Knight, and Joan the Younger, who married Sir Humphrey Bourchier, Knight, who was called to Parliament as Lord Cromwell, and not the ſaid Sir Thomas. Thirdly, It is to be obſerved, That if a Baron by Writ die without Heir Male, having his Daughter, Siſter, or other Colateral Heir Male that can challenge the Land of the ſaid Baron deceaſed by any ancient Entail, or otherwiſe, the Title of ſuch an Heir Female hath heretofore been allowed, as by the honourable Opinions and Relations of the Right Honourable the late Commiſſioners in the Office of Earl-Marſhal, ſignified to Queen Elizabeth, upon Petition of the Siſter and Heir of Gregory Lord Dacres deceaſed, may appear.

Moreover, in the ſame Pedigree of the Lord Dacres it was expreſſed, That Thomas ſometimes Lord Dacres, had Iſſue Thomas his eldeſt Son, Ralph his Second, and Humphrey his Third. Thomas, the Eldeſt, died in the Life of his Father, having Iſſue Joan Daughter and Heir, who was married to Sir Richard Fines, Knight, and after Thomas Lord Dacres his Grandfather, and Father to the ſaid Ralph and Humphrey, died; after whoſe death Henry the Sixth, by his Letters Patents bearing Date at Weſtminſter the Seventh of November, in the Seventh Year of his Reign, reciting the ſaid Pedigree and Marriage, doth by his ſaid Letters Patents accept, declare, and repute the ſaid Richard Fines to be Lord Dacres, and one of the Barons of the Realm. But afterwards, in the Time of Edward the Fourth, the ſaid Humphrey Dacres, after the Attainder of the ſaid Ralph, and himſelf by an Act of Parliament, which was the firſt of Edward the Fourth; And after the Death of the ſaid Ralph, and the Reverſal of the ſaid Act, by another Act in the Twelfth of Edward the Fourth, the ſaid Humphrey made Challenge unto the ſaid Barony, and unto divers Lands of the ſaid Thomas his Father, whereupon both Parties, after their Title had been conſidered of in Parliament, ſubmitted themſelves to the Arbitrament of King Edward the Fourth, and entred into Bond each to the other for the performance thereof: Whereupon the ſaid King, in his Award under his Privy Seal, bearing Date at Weſtminſter the Eighth of April, Anno Regni ſui decimo tertio, did Award that the ſaid Richard Fines, in the Right of Joan his Wife, and the Heirs of his Body, by the ſaid Joan begotten, ſhould keep, have, and uſe the ſame Seat and Place in every Parliament, as the ſaid Thomas Dacres Knight, Lord Dacres, had uſed and kept; and that the Heirs of the Body of the ſaid Thomas Dacres Knight, then late Lord Dacres, begotten, ſhould have and hold to them and to their Heirs the Mannor of Holbeach. And further, That the ſaid King Edward did Award on the other Part, that the ſaid Humphrey Dacres Knight, and the Heirs Males of the ſaid Thomas, late Lord Dacres, ſhould be reputed, had, named, and called the Lord Dacres of Gilleſland; and that he, and the Heirs Males of the Body of the ſaid Thomas, then late Lord Dacres, ſhould have, uſe, and keep the place in Parliament next adjoyning beneath the ſaid place, which the ſaid Richard Fines Knight, Lord Dacres, then had and occupied.

And that the Heirs of the Body of the ſaid Joan his Wife ſhall have and enjoy, and that the Heirs Males of the ſaid Thomas Dacres, late Lord Dacres, ſhould have to them and the Heirs Males of their Bodies begotten, the Mannor of Jothington, &c. And ſo note, that the Name of the ancient Barony, namely Gilleſland, remained unto the Heir Male to whom the Land was entailed.

Moreover this is ſpecially obſerved, If any Baron by Writ do die, having no other Iſſue than Female, and that by ſome ſpecial Entail, or other Aſſurance, there be an Heir Male which doth enjoy all or great part of the Lands, Poſſeſſions, and Inheritances of ſuch Baron deceaſed, the Kings have uſed to call to the Parliament by Writ, as Baron, ſuch Heir Male, omitting the Husband of the Iſſue of ſuch Heir Female. And this alſo appeareth by a notable Controverſie in the Time of Henry the Seventh, between Sir Robert Willoughby Lord Brook, and Richard Lord Lattimer, for the Barony of Lattimer, which in effect was; The ſaid Lord Brook did challenge the Barony of Lattimer, as Couſin and Heir of Elizabeth his Great-grandmother, who was Siſter and Heir of John Nevill Lord Lattimer, who died without Iſſue: And hereupon exhibited a Petition to Henry the Seventh in Parliament; whereunto Richard Lord Lattimer was called to anſwer, becauſe he then enjoyed the ſaid Title and Dignity.

The ſaid Richard Lord Lattimer did by his Anſwer ſhew, That after the Death of the ſaid John Nevill Lord Lattimer without Iſſue, the ſaid Elizabeth was his Siſter, and next Heir, and married unto Thomas Willoughby Knight, ſecond Son of the Lord Willoughby. But Henry the Sixth, for that the ſaid John Nevill Lord Lattimer was dead without Iſſue, and that the next Heir was Female, did therefore call to the Parliament George Nevill Knight, ſecond Son of Henry Earl of Weſtmoreland, to be Lord Lattimer, as Couſin and next Heir Male of the ſaid John Nevill Lord Lattimer; which George was Grandfather of the ſaid Richard Lord Lattimer, Father of the ſaid Richard. In debate of which Cauſe, the Queſtion now in hand, namely, Whether a Barony by Writ may deſcend to the Heirs Female? was adviſedly conſidered of by the King and his Nobility in Parliament, and in the end adjudged with the ſaid Richard Lord Lattimer; which Preſident doth afford us two Judgments in this Point: And in the time of Henry the Sixth, when the Writ was directed to the ſaid Sir George Nevill Knight, whereby he was ſummoned as Lord Lattimer to the Parliament, and as Heir Male, and not the ſaid Thomas Willoughby Knight, Husband of the ſaid Elizabeth, Heir Female. And the ſecond Judgment was given in the time of Henry the Seventh, whereby the ſaid Barony was adjudged to the ſaid Richard Lord Lattimer, coming out of the ſpecial Heir Male, againſt the Lord Brook, deſcended of the general Heir Male.

But here in this Preſident before remembred of the Barony of Dacres, may be objected to encounter this Concluſion, for there was an Heir Female married unto Sir Richard Fines, who by the Declaration of King Henry the Sixth, was Baron of Dacres in right of his Wife. And there was alſo Ralph and Humphrey, the Heirs Males, before whom the Heir Female was preferred by the Cenſure of Henry the Sixth, and Edward the Fourth. This Objection is eaſily anſwered; for although Henry the Sixth, through the Princely favour which he bore unto Sir Richard Fines, had declared him to the Lord Dacres in Right of his Wife; yet notwithſtanding did Ralph Dacres, being Heir Male then unto the Lord Dacres, and by that Name was attainted in Parliament, Anno primo Hen. IV.

Wherefore the reaſon why the Heir Male could not be regarded was the ſaid Attainder of the ſaid Ralph and Humphrey his Brother; and therefore when Humphrey in the 12*th* of Edw. the Fourth, laboured to have the ſaid Attainder reverſed, he ſubmitted himſelf to the Arbitriment of the King, who to ſatisfie both Competitors, both having deſerved of him after he had admitted them to his Favour, he allowed one to be Lord Dacres, and the other to be the Lord Dacres of Gilleſland.

And thus much concerning the ſecond Point, Whether a Barony by Writ may deſcend unto the Heir Female.

The third Point.

As concerning the third Point, admitting ſuch Deſcent to be to the Heir Female, when there is no Heir Male that may claim the ſame; for then doth this Queſtion take place, Whether the Huſband of ſuch an Heir Female ſhall enjoy the Dignity in Right of his Wife, or no? Wherein we are to reſt upon a Reſolution had and given to this ſpecial Queſtion, which was in this manner.

In the time of Henry the Eighth, when Mr. Winby took upon him the Stile of Lord Talbois in Right of his Wife, having no Iſſue by her; The ſaid King, aſſiſted both by Civil and Temporal Lawyers, gave Sentence, That no Husband of a Baroneſs, in her Right, ſhould uſe that Stile and Dignity, until he had by her a Child, whereby ſhe ſhould become Tenant by Courteſie unto her Inheritance. The ſpecial Reaſons that occaſioned this Sentence, were two.

Firſt, It ſhould be convenient for her Husband this Day to be a Baron and a Peer of the Realm, and and to Morrow, by the Death of his Wife, to become none, and without the Default of the Party.

Secondly, If he had Iſſue by Wife, and were entituled to be Tenant, by the Courteſie of England, of his Wives Lands, if he ſhall not alſo bear the Stile and Dignity of his Wives Barony, then ſhould the Son, after the Death of his Mother, dying in the Life-time of his Father, be a Baron and Lord without Land; for ſo the Father ſhould have the Land as Tenant by Courteſie, and the Son the Lordſhip without Land. And thus much ſaid concerning the Nature, Quality, and Eſtate of a Baron by Writ, and for the Reſolution of the ſeveral Points and Articles of the Queſtion propoſed, may ſuffice.

CHAP. XII.

BARONS by PATENT, which is the Third Kind of Barons mentioned in the former Diviſion of Barons.

THERE is alſo a Fourth Means of Creation, viz. by Act of Parliament: But the Firſt two mentioned, and this other by Patent, is moſt uſual for the Honour of the King; for thereby the Donation doth proceed from His Majeſty only, as from the Fountain of Honour: But when the Creation is by Parliament, the King ever is one, and may be ſaid to be Donor.

A Baron therefore by Creation by reaſon of Letters Patents, is that noble Perſon whom the King, or any of his Progenitors, Kings of this Realm, have created Baron by ſuch their Letters Patents, began in the Reign of King Richard the Second.

This kind of Dignity of a Baron ſhall be of ſuch continuance in Deſcent, or otherwiſe, as ſhall be limited in the Habendum in ſuch Letters Patents contained: For it may be but for the Life of him to whom it is given, or for Term vanter vie, as ſome hold Opinion, in the 32*d* of Hen. VI. for cujus eſt dare eſt diſponere. It may be in ſpecial in our general Tayl; and this kind of Tayl was uſual before the Statute made decimo tertio of Edw. I. by which Eſtate Tayl of Lands and Tenements was created, as appeareth by the Patent whereby Hubert de Burgo was made Earl of Kent in the Time of Henry the Third, by theſe words; Habendum ſibi & hæredibus ſuis de corpore Margaretæ uxoris ſui, ſororis Alexandri Regis Scotiæ, procreatis, & pro defectu talis exitus remanere in directis hæredibus dicti Huberti. And that Eſtates intayl are at this Day of Titles of Honour by the ſaid Statute of Weſtminſter the Second.

QUESTION.

If a Nobleman and his Progenitors have for a long time been called to Parliament, and be a Baron either by Tenure or Writ, and have had in regard thereof a Place certain in Parliament; if afterwards the ſaid Nobleman ſhould be created a Baron of that Barony, and by the ſame Name by Letters Patents, whether ſhall he and his Heirs retain his old Place in Parliament, which he had according to his former Dignity; or whether ſhall he loſe his old Place, and take a new one, according to the time of his Creation?

ANSWER.

THE Caſe of the Lord Delaware lately erected a Reſolution ſomewhat anſwerable to this Queſtion: Thomas Delaware, in the Third of Edward the Sixth, being in ſome Diſpleaſure with William Weſt his Heir and Nephew, who was Father to Thomas late Lord Delaware, and Grandfather to Henry Lord Delaware that Nevis procured by Act of Parliament, by which the ſaid William Weſt was, during his natural Life only, clearly diſabled to claim, demand, or have any manner of Right, Title, or Intereſt, by Deſcent, Remainder, or otherwiſe, in or to the Mannors, Lands, Tenements, or Hereditaments, Title and Dignity of Thomas Lord Delaware his Uncle, &c. After the ſaid Thomas Delaware died, and the ſaid William Weſt was in the Time of Queen Mary attainted of Treaſon by Verdict, but pardoned by the ſaid Queen; and afterwards by Parliament, in the time of Queen Elizabeth, was reſtored; and in the Fourth Year of her Reign was created Lord Delaware by Patent, and took Place in Parliament accordingly, for that by the ſaid Act of Parliament of Edward the Sixth, he was excluded to challenge the former ancient Barony; and after he died. Now whether Thomas Delaware ſhould take his Place according to the ancient Barony by Writ, or according to his Father's Creation by Patent, was the Queſtion. The Opinions of the late Queen's Council, being His Majeſty's Attorney-General and Sollicitor, were, That the Acceptance of the new Creation by the ſaid William Weſt could not extinguiſh the ancient Dignity, for that he had not the ancient Dignity in him at that time of his Creation; but the Dignity was by the Act of Parliament 3 Edw. VI. in the Ballance of Suſpence or Conſideration of Law, and he thereby utterly diſabled to have the ſame during his Life, only ſo as other acceptance could not extinguiſh that Dignity which he then had not, nor could not exclude his Heir, who was not diſabled by the Parliament 3 Edw. VI. to claim the ancient Barony; which Opinion of theirs was seen and allowed by the then Chief Justice of England, and Lord Chief Baron, and so signified to the Lord Keeper. But this to be noted by the Reasons made for the said Resolution, though if the said Sir William West had been Baron, and entituled, and in possession of the ancient Dignity, when he accepted the ancient Creation, the Law perchance might have been otherwise; but that remains as yet unresolved: Nevertheless the Rule is, Eodem modo, quo quid constituitur, dissolvitur. But by a Grant which is but a Matter of Fact, a Man cannot transfer his Title of Honour. And thus much concerning the Degrees of Barons within this Realm upon this Occasion, for the better understanding and direction of that which followeth to be handled. And in this place I think it not impertinent to mention one Case, which I met with in our Books of Common Law, concerning the Descent of a Title of Honour, whereof the Ancestor had Estate in Fee-simple; there is a Maxim in the Law, Possessio fratris in feodo facit sororem esse hæredem: But if a Man, by any of the three Means aforesaid, be created into a Title of Dignity to him and his Heirs for ever, and so have Issue by one Wife a Son and a Daughter, and also a Son by a second Wife; afterwards the Father dieth, and his eldest Son entreth into all his Father's Inheritances, and also enjoyeth the Titles and Dignities which his Father had, but dieth without Issue: In this Case the Dignity shall descend upon the younger Son, though he be but of the half Blood to him that last enjoyed that Name and Title of Descent; and shall not descend to his Sister of the whole Blood. And yet in this case he shall only be her Brother's Heir of all his Fee-simple Lands; and the reason thereof is, because possessio fratris is the Name and sole Cause which may give Title to her, his Sister, which faileth in this case of Dignity; for it cannot be said that her elder Brother was in Possession of his Title of Honour, no more than of his Blood; so as neither by his own act, nor any act to be done by any other, did gain more actual Possession (if so it may be termed) than by the Law did descend to him: And therefore the younger Brother may well by the Law make himself Heir unto his Father of the Honour, when he cannot be Heir unto his Brother: So that this word [Possession] which is no other than pedis positio, extendeth only unto such Things of which a Man may, by his Entry, or other Act, be possessed, and doth require actual Possession. Coke's Third Part, 92.

Having thus much treated concerning the Creations, and other Things incident to the Degrees of Nobility, I cannot omit some Things concerning the Sufficiency and Ability of Estate, which the Law doth require to be in every of them, according to their several Dignities. The Common Law (which always wills Decorum and Conveniency be observed, considering the Charges and Dignities appertaining to these Degrees and Dignities, being Offices of principal Service to the King and Realm, both in War and Peace) hath ordered, that each of them ought to have a convenient Portion and Inheritance in Land to support the said Dignity, which Supplies are as Sinews conjoyned in the same: For in Virtue and Riches (as Aristotle confesseth) all the old Nobility consisted, and which two Properties maketh a good Compliment; for utilior est sapientia cum divitiis conjuncta. Therefore a Knight's Fee which he ought to have is Twenty Pounds Land by the Year; a Baron's, thirteen Knights Fees and a quarter; and an Earl's twenty Knights Fees. For always the fourth part of each Revenues, which is by the Law held requisite for the Dignity, shall be paid to the King for the Relief. As for Example; the Relief of a Knight is five Pounds, which is the one fourth of his Revenue, according to the Statute of the First of Edward the Second. The Relief of a Baron is One hundred Marks, which is also the fourth part of his Revenue. And the Relief of an Earl is One hundred Pounds also, the fourth part of his Revenue. And it appears by the Records of the Exchequer, that the Relief of a Duke amounteth unto Three hundred pounds. And this is the reason in our Books, that every of the Nobility is presumed in the Law to have sufficient Freehold ad sustinendum nomen & onus. And to what value those ancient Fees in the Time of Henry the Third, and Edward the Fourth, at this Day do amount unto, most Men are not unskilful in, Coke's Seventh Part, 33. And in Cases of Decay of Ability, and Estate, as Senatores Romani amoti Senatu, so sometimes they are not admitted to the Upper House of Parliament, though they still keep their Title and Dignity. Sir Thomas Smith de Republica Anglorum 22. And by the Statute made 31 Hen. 8. cap. 10. the Lords have their Places prescribed after this manner as followeth, viz. These four, the Lord Chancellor, the Lord Treasurer, the Lord President of the Council, and the Lord Privy Seal, being Persons of the Degree of a Baron or above, are in the same Act appointed to sit in Parliament, and in all Assemblies and Councils, above all Dukes, not being of the Blood Royal, viz. the King's Uncle, Brother, and Nephew. And these Six, viz. the Lord Great Chamberlain of England, the Lord High-Constable of England, the Lord Marshal of England, the Lord Admiral of England, the Lord High-Steward of His Majesty's Household, and the Lord Chamberlain also of His Majesty's Household, by that Act are to be placed in all Assemblies of Council after the Lord Privy-Seal, according to their Degrees: So that if he be a Baron, then he is to sit above all Barons; or if an Earl, above all Earls. And so likewise the King's Secretaries, being Barons or Earls, have place above all Barons or Earls.

OF THE QUEEN CONSORT, AND OF NOBLE WOMEN.

CHAP. XIII.

A QUEEN, ſo called from the Saxon word Cuningine, as the King from Cuning (by Variation of Gender only, as was their manner) ſignifieth Power and Knowledge, and thereby denotes the Sovereignty due unto them which they enjoyed in thoſe Days, and do now in moſt Nations, being capable of the Royal Diadem, by the common Right of Inheritance, for want of Heirs Male. But in France, by the Salique Law, the Sex is excluded from their Inheritance, by which they debarred the Engliſh Title to their Crown.

There are three kinds of Perſons capable of the Title and Dignity of Queen amongſt us, and each of them different in Power and Privilege. The Firſt is a Queen Sovereign, to whom the Crown deſcends by Birth-right, and is equal in Power to a King, as before noted. She is her Husband's Sovereign, and he her Subject in England, although he were an Emperor: So was King Philip of Spain to Queen Mary; and her Authority is included in the foregoing Chapter of Monarchy, and therefore need not to be here repeated. The Second in Honour is the Queen Conſort; and the Third the Queen Dowager or Queen Mother.

As from the benign Influence of the glorious Planet the Sun, all Creatures (by God's Decree in the order of Nature) receive Life and Motion; ſo from the King (God's Vicegerent on Earth) all Degrees of Nobility take their Advance and Dignity: 'Tis therefore requiſite the King ſhould as far excel his Subjects in Majeſty and Splendor, as doth the Sun the other Planets. And as the Moon is the Mirror of the Sun, repreſenting his Glory by Night; ſo the Queen Conſort, the Counterpart of the Royal Majeſty, ſhines amongſt us, for whom, and for whoſe Poſterity the Nation is bound to ſend up their Prayers to God.

The Queen of England, during the Life of the King, hath as high Prerogatives and Privileges, and liveth in as great State as any Queen in Europe. She is reputed the ſecond Perſon in the Kingdom; and the Law ſetteth ſo high a value upon her, as to make it High Treaſon to conſpire her Death, or to violate her Chaſtity.

She is allowed Regal Robes, Ornaments and a Crown of the ſame Form as an abſolute Queen weareth, and may be (as formerly they were) crowned with Royal Solemnity; the Performance of which Office properly belongeth to the Archbiſhop of York. And although their Coronations of late have been diſuſed, yet they have as much Honour, Honour, and enjoy the ſame Priviledges, as if that Ceremony had been done. And the Manner and Solemnity at the Coronation of a Queen is at large ſet down in moſt of our Chronicles, and in particular in Holinſhead and Stow, upon the ſplendid Coronation of Anna Bulloign in the Reign of King Henry the Eighth, to which I refer the Reader.

The Queen is permitted to ſit in State by the King, and to keep a diſtinct Court from the King's, although ſhe be the Daughter of a Nobleſs; and hath her Courtiers in every Office, as hath the King (though not altogether ſo many;) and hath her Yeomen of her Guard to attend her on foot, and within doors, and her Lifeguard of Horſe for her State and Security when ſhe goeth abroad: She hath her Attorney, Solicitor, and Council for the management of her Law Concerns, who have great reſpect ſhewed them, being placed within the Barr with the King's Counſel in all Courts of Judicature.

Although ſhe be an Alien, and a Feme Covert during the King's Life, yet without any Act of Parliament for Naturalization, or Letters Patents for her Denization, ſhe may purchaſe Lands in Fee-ſimple; make Leaſes in her own Name without the King; hath Power to give, to ſue, and to contract Debts, which by the Law is denied any other Feme Covert; ſhe may not be impleaded 'till firſt petitioned; nor is the formality of fifteen Days Summons to the Defendant needful if ſhe be Plaintiff; nor can ſhe be amerced if ſhe be Nonſuited in any Action; ſhe may preſent by her ſelf to a Spiritual Benefice.

Anciently the Queens had a Revenue called Aurum Reginæ, that is the Queen's Gold, which was the tenth part of what came to the King by the Name of Oblata upon Pardons, Gifts, &c. but of late they keep to their Dowry, viz. Forty thouſand Pounds per Annum, beſides Fines upon the renewing of Leaſes; which ſaid Dowry is as large as any Queens in Chriſtendom.

The like Honour and Reſpect that is due to the King is exhibited to the Queen, as well by Foreigners as by the King's Subjects; as is alſo to the Queen Dowager, who loſeth not her Dignity or Reverence, although ſhe ſhould marry a private Gentleman, as did Queen Katherine, Widow to King Henry the Fifth, who after ſhe was married to Owen Tudor, Eſquire, maintained her Action at Law as Queen of England.

The Queen Dowager takes place next to the Queen Conſort, and in the abſence of the King her Son, or in his Minority, is ſometimes made Queen Regent, or Protectreſs; but this Truſt is uſually by the King's own Command, or at the requeſt of the three States aſſembled in Parliament, to prevent the Danger of an Uſurpation of the Crown: The like Truſt is ſometimes impoſed upon the Queen Conſort in her Husband's abſence, as by King Henry the Eighth twice during his Wars in France.

Note, That during the Minority of the King of England, whatſoever Laws are enacted in Parliament under a Queen Regent, or a Protectreſs, are no longer binding than till the King attains to full Age, after which he may revoke and make void by his Letters Patents under the Great-Seal.

The Daughters of the Kings of England are all ſtiled Princeſſes. The eldeſt is called the Princeſs Royal, and hath an Aid or certain Rate of Money paid by every Tenant in Capite, Knights Service, and Soccage, towards her Marriage Portion, as was levied by King James when he married the Princeſs Elizabeth; and to violate her Chaſtity is by the Law adjudged High-Treaſon.

Of Noble Women.

WOMEN in England, according to their Huſbands Qualities, are either Honourable and Noble, or Ignoble. Their Honourable Dignities are Princeſſes, Dutcheſſes, Marchioneſſes, Counteſſes, Viſcounteſſes, and Baroneſſes.

The Nobleſs (as the French call them) are all Knights Ladies, who in all Writings are ſtiled Dames; all Eſquires and Gentlemens Wives only Gentlewomen.

The third ſort comprehends the Plebeans, and are commonly called Goodwives.

Noble Women are ſo by Creation, Deſcent, or Marriage.

Of Women Honourable by Creation are divers Examples, of which the firſt (as I remember) that we read of, was Margaret Counteſs of Norfolk, created by Richard the Second Dutcheſs of Norfolk. And many of them had their Honours granted by Patents to themſelves, and the Heirs Males of their Bodies to be begotten, with ſpecial Clauſes that their Heirs Male ſhall have Voices in Parliament, Creation-Money, their Mothers Titles; as if a Dutcheſs, he a Duke; and if a Counteſs, he an Earl, with the Ceremony of Mantle, Surcoat, Coronet, &c. The like Grant was to Anna Bullen when ſhe was created Marchioneſs of Pembroke by Henry the Eighth. As was the Lady Margaret, Daughter to George Duke of Clarence, created Counteſs of Salisbury by the ſaid King. Thus alſo the Duke of Buckingham, in the Time of King James I. and the Lady Elizabeth Finch, being by King James created Viſcounteſs Maidſtone, was by King Ch. I. created Counteſs of Winchelſea; the Dignity entailed on the Heirs Males of her Body begotten: Thus was the Lady Jane Richardſon, Wife to Sir Thomas Richardſon, Lord Chief Juſtice, created Baroneſs of Cramont in Scotland by K. Ch. I. Not to ſay any thing of the Lady Mary Fane, Baroneſs Deſpencer, or of the Lady Margaret Leunard, Baroneſs Dacres of the South, being Reſtitutions rather than Creations.

In our Age we have divers Noble Ladies advanced to Degrees of Honour, viz. the Counteſs of Guilford, Groom of the Stole to the Queen Mother, and a faithful Servant to her in her Baniſhment, being then Counteſs of Killimeak in Ireland: The Lady Dudley, Dutcheſs Dudley.

The

The celebrated Beauties, Barbara Villiers, Dutchess of Cleaveland and Countess of Southampton; and Louyse Rene Angelique de Carwell, Dutchess of Portsmouth, Countess of Petersfield, &c.

Of Titles by Descent and Marriage there are Examples enough, so that I need not trouble the Reader with any repetition; I shall only set down some few general Observations not sufficiently discoursed of.

If a King's Daughter marry a Duke or an Earl, illa semper dicitur Regalis, by Law and Courtesie.

Noble Women by Descent, Birthright, or Creation, remain Noble although they marry Husbands under that Degree. Also any Daughter of an Earl or Viscount that continues a Virgin, or marrieth an Esquire, yet she retaineth the Honour that sprung from her Parents, and shall take Place accordingly, and be saluted by the Title of Lady.

If a Gentleman, Knight, or Peer marry a Wife of ignoble Parents, she shall enjoy the Title, Name and Dignity of her Husband, not only during his Life, but when she is a Widow, or afterwards married to an ignoble Person; but this is by the Courtesie (and not by the Law) of the Realm. Whereas on the contrary, let a Woman of Blood and Coat-Armour marry a Yeoman or Churle that is Ignoble, and hath no Coat-Armour, his Condition in point of Honour is in no respect advanced, and she shall retain the Honour, State and Dignity she was born unto: Yet if she have Issue by that Yeoman or ignoble Person, she being an Heiress, that Issue shall have liberty to bear her Coat; but Sir John Fern saith only for Life, and that on a Lozenge Shield, with a Difference of a Cinquefoil.

If a French, Spanish, or other Woman Alien, be married to a Peer of the Realm, or to a Gentleman, and be not denizened, she is debarred all Priviledges and Titles due to her Husband; nor can she claim any Dower or Jointure from him by the Laws of England.

Yet in some things our Laws are wonderful kind to the Female Sex, especially procreandi causa: As thus; if a Man and his Wife separate for some Fraud, or private Loathing of the Marriage Bed, or the like, and so continue for some Years; after which time the Woman bringeth forth a Child, which though got by another Man, and her Husband in all that time not having enjoyed her, yet if he live in the Kingdom he must Father the Child; and if before that time he had no Child, that shall inherit his Lands, if entailed, or left without Will. Also if a Wife be with Child when her Husband dieth, and she marry another Man before her Delivery, the latter Husband must own the Child, which must be his Heir at Law if he were childless.

The Wife's Dignities and Lands descend to her Heirs, not to her Husband; yet to encourage him to play the Man, the Courtesie of England is such, that as the Wife hath the third part of his Estate in Lands for her Jointure, during her Life if a Widow; so the Husband, if he get his Wife with Child, and that Child be heard to cry, he shall enjoy all her Lands during his Life.

The Wife can make no Contract whatsoever that shall stand good in Law, to the detriment of her Husband, without his consent; nor can she make a Will, or dispose of what she hath, whilst she is a Feme Covert; she cannot be produced as a Witness for or against her Husband; nor shall she be accessory to his felonious Acts, although she receive the Goods, or conceive the Fact, if she be not personally an Actor therein.

Female Children are also by Law capable to give their consent to Marriage at Seven Years old; and the Lord's eldest Daughter is to have Aid of his Tenants to marry her at that Age, though she may dissent from this Contract when she comes to Twelve; but if at that Age she doth not dissent, she is bound for Life: She may then make a Will, and dispose of Goods and Chattels by it. At Nine Years of Age she is Dowable: At Fourteen she might receive her Lands into her Hands, and was then out of Wardship, if she were Fourteen at the Death of her Ancestor; otherwise she was in Wardship 'till she accomplished Sixteen Years, and then she was free. At One and twenty she is enabled to contract or alienate her Lands by Will or otherwise.

If there be no Son, the Lands as well as Goods are equally divided amongst the Daughters, who are Co-heirs.

In ancient Times Women amongst the Romans were thought worthy of enjoying peculiar Favours and Respect. And out of their great love and honour to the Mother of Marcus Coriolanus, for diverting his Fury which he threatned the Citizens to their Ruin, for their Ingratitude towards him, the Citizens granted the Roman Dames the Priviledge of wearing the Segmenta Aurea, or Bordures of Gold and Purple on their Garments: They were also permitted to wear gold Ear-rings; to have place on the Way; and in Memorial of the said Preservation, there was erected a Temple dedicated to the Female Fortune.

Anne of Britain, Wife to Charles the Eighth of France, as an ornamental Honour to several deserving Ladies, instead of the Military Belt and Collar, bestowed on them a Cordon or Lace, and admonishing them to live chastely and devoutly; and to put the greater esteem thereon, she surrounded her Escocheon of Arms with the like Cordon; from which Example it is now become the Custom for unmarried Women to bear their Arms in form of a Lozenge, which are commonly adorned with such a Cordon.

Joseph Micheli Marquez, for the further Honour of the Female Sex, gives an Example of the Noble Women of Tortosa in Arragon, whom he calls Cavallero's, or Knights: For (saith he) Don Raymond, last Earl of Barcellona (who by right of his Wife Petronilla, sole Daughter and Heir to King Ramiro the Monk, joyned his Principality to the Kingdom of Aragon) having in the Year 1149. taken from the Moors the City of Tortoſa, who in a few Months after laid Siege to the ſaid City, and reduced the Inhabitants to ſo great a Strait, that their Intentions were of ſurrendring it up to the Moors; but the Women hearing thereof, for the diverting their Ruin, put on mens Apparel, and by a reſolute Sally forced the Moors to raiſe the Siege. And the Earl in acknowledgments of his Thanks for this their Noble Act, as a reward of Honour, inſtituted an Order (not much unlike a Military Order) into which were admitted only thoſe brave Women, and their Deſcendants. The Badge which he aſſigned them was ſomething like a Fryar's Capouch, but of a Crimſon Colour, which they wore upon their Head-clothes. Amongſt the Privileges which this Earl granted them, they were to be freed from all Taxes; to have Precedency of Men in publick Meetings; and that all the Jewels and Apparel of their deceaſed Husbands ſhould be their own, although of never ſo great Value. And theſe Women having thus purchaſed this Honour, deported themſelves after the manner of Military Knights of thoſe Days.

To look further back, ancient Hiſtories take notice of the Amazons, whoſe Fame in Arms is ſufficiently known.

Although Noble Women may not ſit in Parliament, in reſpect of their Sex; yet they are in Law Peers of the Realm; and all or moſt of the Prerogatives before mentioned, which to the Noblemen are belonging, do appertain unto them.

But the Opinion of ſome Men have been, That a Counteſs, Baronneſs, and other Women of great Eſtate, cannot maintain an Action upon the Statute de Scandalis magnatum, becauſe the Statute 2 Rich. II. ſpeaketh but of Prelates, Dukes, Earls, Barons, and of the Chancellor, Treaſurer, Privy-Seal, Steward of the King's Houſhold, and other Nobles, great Officers of the Realm; by which words they conceive, that the Meanings of the Makers of that Statute was only to provide in that caſe for Noblemen, and not for Noble Women.

Alſo if any of the King's Servants within the Check-Roll do conſpire the Death of any Noble-woman, it is not Felony within the compaſs of the Statute 3 Hen. VII. 18.

Honourable Women, as before noted, are of three Sorts, by Creation, by Deſcent, and by Marriage. And the King may create any Woman into any Title of Honour at his pleaſure: and the King by his Letters Patents openly read in Parliament, without any other Inveſture, did create Mary Fane Widow, the ſole Daughter of Baron of Aburgaveny, Baronneſs de le Spencer.

Noble Women by Deſcent are, either thoſe to whom the Lands holden by ſuch Dignity do deſcend as Heir, and they are ſaid to be Honourable by Tenure; or by whoſe worthy Anceſtors, to whom they were Heirs, was ſeized of an Eſtate deſcendable to them in their Titles of Dukedoms, Earldoms, or Baronies; or thoſe whoſe Anceſtors were ſummoned to Parliament, for hereby alſo Inheritance doth accrew to their Poſterities.

Noble Women are alſo thoſe, who do take to their Husbands any Lord or Peer of the Realm, although they themſelves were not of any Degree of Nobility.

Queſtion and doubt hath been made, Whether if a Man be ſummoned to Parliament, and afterwards die without Iſſue Male, the Dignity and Title of Honour may deſcend to the Heir Female. And many Arguments have been pro & contra in that caſe, which at this time I purpoſely omit, becauſe I have before diſcourſed thereof in the Chapter of Barons.

Concerning the Title of Honour deſcendable to the Heir Female by reaſon of a Tenure of her Anceſtors, there needs no more doubt to be made than of Offices of Honour, the which do much Support the publick Wealth, and being of Eſtate of Inheritance, do deſcend to the Heir Female, if there be no nearer Heir Male: As the Office of High Conſtableſhip of England challenged in the Time of Henry the Eighth by the Duke of Buckingham, and adjudged by the Adviſe and Reſolution of the Judges, as by a note of that Caſe extant, whereof Dyer in his Reports hath a Memorial 205. b. Kelway, the Sixth of Henry the Eighth 170. b. which deſcended to the Daughter of Humphrey de Bohun, Earl of Hereford and Eſſex, as before is declared. The Office of the Lord Steward deſcended to Blaunch, Daughter of Henry Earl of Lancaſter, in whoſe right John of Gaunt her Husband enjoyed the ſame. The like may be ſaid of the Office of Earl-Marſhal, which deſcended by an Heir Female unto the Houſe of Norfolk: All which Offices are as unfit to be exerciſed by a Woman, as for a Woman of Honour to be ſummoned to the Parliament. And when a Title of Honour doth deſcend to a Woman, if Queſtion in Law do ariſe between the ſaid Noble Woman and any other Perſon, whether ſhe be of that Degree of Nobleneſs or no, the Iſſue ſhall be tried by the Record thereof, and by the King's Writ it ſhall be certified, and not by a Jury of twelve Men, even as it ſhould have been in caſe her Anceſtor had been Party.

Although the Laws of the Realm regularly do make all the Daughters (where there are no Sons) equally to inherit Lands and Tenements, and to be but one Heir to their Anceſtor; yet it is not ſo in the deſcent of Dignity and Titles of Honour: For Inheritances concerning matter of Honour, being Things in their Nature participating of Superiority and Eminency, are not partable amongſt many, and therefore muſt of neceſſity deſcend unto one, and that is to the eldeſt Daughter, Siſter, Aunt, or Couſin Female, and inheritable where there is no Heirs Males that may lawfully challenge the ſame. And ſo in this Point is the Civil Law.

Nevertheleſs, there was a Judgment in the Time of Henry the Third, touching the Deſcent of the Earldom of Cheſter, after the death of the Earl, who died without Iſſue, his Siſters being his Heirs; which Judgment was, That the ſaid Earldom ſhould be divided amongſt the ſaid Copartners as the other Lands; and that the Eldeſt ſhould not have it alone. But this Judgment was holden Erroneous, even in thoſe Times wherein it was given: For Bracton, a Learned Judge, who lived in that Age, writeth thereof, treating of Partition between Copartners, lib. 2. Caſe 24. by which it is evident, That Baronies and Dignities of Honour do by the Laws of this Realm deſcend unto the eldeſt Copartner; and the Judgment given once to the contrary thereof, Bracton doth rightly account to be unjuſt: His Reaſon is notable; Foraſmuch as the Honour of the Chivalry of this Realm doth chiefly conſiſt in the Nobility, Reaſon would not that ſuch Dignity ſhould be divided amongſt Copartners, whereby through the multitude of Partitions the reputation of Honour in ſuch Succeſſion, and ſo divided, might be impared, or the ſtrength of the Realm, being drawn into many Hands, with decreaſe of livelyhood by ſuch Partition, ſhould be infeebled. In which Reſolution Britton, the Learned Biſhop of Hereford (who compiled his Book of the Laws of this Realm, by the Commandment, and in the Name of Edward the Firſt, accordeth, Britton 187. And therefore, howſoever the Judgment was given, or whenſoever, it is nevertheleſs very evident that it was ſoon redreſſed: For if it were given upon the Death of Ralph, the laſt of that Name Earl of Cheſter, who died about the Seventh of Henry the Third without Iſſue, the Writers of that Time do teſtifie, that the Earldom of Cheſter came wholly unto John Scott, the Son of David Earl of Huntington, and Anguiſh and Maud, the eldeſt Siſters of the ſaid Ralph, if it were given upon the Death of the ſaid John Scott, who died about the Four and twentieth of Henry the Third without Iſſue; yet notwithſtanding the ſaid Judgment ſtood in force, for that the ſaid King aſſumed the Earldom into his own Hands upon other Satisfaction made to the ſaid Siſters, Copartners of the ſaid John Scott, Ne tanta hæreditas inter colos deduceretur Matth. Paris Monaſter. Sancti Allane in Crompton, fol. 366. b.

Nevertheleſs you may read both in the Introduction to the Diſplay, and the Chapter of Differences, That Siſters are allowed no differences of Badges in their Coat-Armour, by reaſon that by them the Name of the Houſe cannot be preſerved, but are admitted to the Inheritance equally, and are adjudged but one Heir to all Intents and Purpoſes whatſoever. And the knowledge of this Point in theſe Days is worthy to be enquired into; for this is to be obſerved out of Preſidents, and to be acknowledged of every dutiful Subject, that the King can advance to Honour whom he pleaſeth: And therefore whereas Radulph Cromwell, being a Baron by Writ, died without Iſſue, having two Siſters and Coheirs; Elizabeth the Eldeſt married unto Sir Thomas Nevill Knight, and Joan the Younger married to Sir Humphrey Bowcher, who was called to Parliament as Lord Cromwell, and not the ſaid Sir Thomas Nevill who married the eldeſt Siſter. And Hugh Lupus, the firſt and greateſt Earl of Cheſter, Habendum ſibi & hæredibus adeo libere per gladium ſicut ipſe Rex tenuit Angliam per tenorem. Hugh died without Iſſue, and the Inheritance of his Earldom was divided amongſt his Four Siſters, and the Eldeſt had not the Seigniory entire unto herſelf.

If a Woman be Noble by Birth or Deſcent, with whomſoever ſhe doth marry, although her Huſband be under her Degree, yet ſhe doth remain Noble; for Birthright eſt Character indelebilis.

Other Women are enobled by Marriage; and the Text ſaith thus, viz. Women ennobled with the Honour of their Husbands, and with the Kindred of their Husbands, we worſhip them in the Court, we decree Matters to paſs in the Names of their Husbands, and into the Houſe and Surname of their Husbands do we tranſlate them: But if afterwards a Woman do marry with a Man of a baſer Degree, then ſhe loſeth her former Dignity, and followeth the Condition of her latter Husband. And concerning the ſecond diſparaged Marriage as aforeſaid, many other Books of the Law do agree; for theſe be Rules conceived in thoſe Caſes: Si mulier nobilis nupſerit ignobili definit eſſe nobilis, & eodem modo quo quid conſtituitur diſſolvitur. It was the Caſe of Ralph Howard Eſq; who took to Wife Anne, the Widow of the Lord Powes: They brought an Action againſt the Duke of Suffolk, by the Name of Ralph Howard Eſq; and the Lady Anne Powes his Wife, and exception was taken for miſ-naming of her; becauſe ſhe ought to have been named of her Huſband's Name, and not otherwiſe: And the Exception was by the Court allowed; For, ſaid they, by the Law of God ſhe is Sub poteſtate viri; and by our Law her Name of Dignity ſhall be changed according to the Degrees of her Huſband, notwithſtanding the Courteſie of the Ladies of Honour and Court: Dyer 79. And the like is alſo in Queen Maries Reign, when the Dutcheſs of Suffolk took her Huſband Adrian Brook, Title Brief, 54. 6. And many other Preſidents have been of later Times. And herewith agreeth the Civil Law, Digeſt. lib. 1. Title q. lege 1. In this Caſe of acquired Nobility by marriage, if queſtion in Law be, whereupon an Iſſue is taken between the Parties, that is to ſay, Dutcheſſes are not Dutcheſſes, Counteſſes are not Counteſſes, and Baroneſſes are not Baroneſſes; the Trial whereof ſhall not be by Record (as in the former Caſe) but by a Jury of Twelve Men; and the Reaſon of the Diverſity is becauſe in this Caſe the Dignity is accrued unto her by her Marriage, which the Lawyers term Matter in Fact, and not by any Record.

But a Noble Woman by marriage, though ſhe take to her ſecond Huſband a Man of mean Degree, yet ſhe may keep two Chaplains, according to the Proviſo in the Statute of 11 Hen. VIII.

Caſe

Caſe 13. for and in reſpect of the Honour which once ſhe had, viz. at the time of the Retainer: And every ſuch Chaplain may purchaſe Licence and Diſpenſation, &c. And Chaplains may not be Non-reſidents afterwards.

And foraſmuch as the retaining of Chaplains by Ladies of great Eſtate is ordinary, and nevertheleſs ſome Queſtions in Law have been concerning the true underſtanding of the ſaid Statute Law; I think it not impertinent to ſet down ſubſequent Reſolutions of the Judges touching ſuch Matters.

So long as the Wife of a Duke is called Dutcheſs, or of an Earl a Counteſs, and have the fruition of the Honour appertaining to their Eſtate, with kneeling, taſting, ſerving; ſo long ſhall a Baron's Widow be ſaluted Lady, as is alſo a Knight's Wife by the Courteſie of England, quamdiu matrimonium aut viduitas uxoris durant; except ſhe happen to cloſe with an Adulterer: For as the Laws of the Kingdom do adjudge that a Woman ſhall loſe her Dowry in that (as unto Lands, Tenements, and Juſtice;) ſo doth the Laws of Gentry and Nobleneſs give Sentence againſt ſuch a Woman, advanced to Titles of Dignity by the Huſband, to be unworthy to enjoy the ſame, when ſhe putting her Huſband out of her mind, ſubjects her ſelf unto another.

If a Lady which is married come through the Foreſt, ſhe ſhall not take any thing; but a Dutcheſs, Marchioneſs, or Counteſs ſhall have advantage of the Statute de Charta Foreſt. 12 Artic. during the time that ſhe is unmarried.

This is a Rule in the Civil Law, Si filia Regis nubat alicui Duci vel Comiti, ducetur tamen ſemper regalis As amongſt Noble Women there is a difference of Degrees, ſo according to their diſtinct Excellencies the Law doth give ſpecial Privileges, as followeth: By the Statute 25 Edw. III. cap. 1. it is High Treaſon to compaſs or imagine the Death of the Queen, or to violate the King's Companion. The King's Reſponſe is a ſole Perſon, except by the Common Law; and ſhe may purchaſe in Fee-ſimple, or make Leaſes or Grants with the King; ſhe may plead and be impleaded, which no other married Woman can do without her Huſband.

All Acts of Parliament for any Cauſe, which any way may concern the Queen, are ſuch Statutes whereof the Judges ought to take Recognizances as of general Statutes: Though the Matter doth only concern the Capacity of the Queen, yet it doth alſo concern all the Subjects of the Realm; for every Subject hath Intereſt in the King, and none of his Subjects within his Laws are divided from the King, who is Head and Sovereign, ſo that his Buſineſs concerns all the Realm: and as the Realm hath intereſt in the King, ſo and for the ſame Reaſon in the Queen, being his Wife.

A Man ſeized of divers Lands in Fee holden by Knight's Service, ſome by Priority (that is by ancient Feoffment holden of others) and ſome other part holden of the King in Poſteriority; the King granteth his Seigniory to the Queen during her Life; and afterwards the Tenant dieth, his Son within Age: In this Caſe he ſhall have the Wardſhip of the Body, and have the Prerogative even as the King himſelf ſhould have had.

The Queen Conſort or Dowager ſhall not be amerced, if ſhe be Nonſuited in any Action or otherwiſe; in which caſe any other Subject, of what degree ſoever, ſhall be amerced: for in that caſe the Queen ſhall participate of the King's Prerogative.

But the Queen ſhall not in all Caſes have the ſame Prerogative as the King; as for Example, Petition is all the remedy the Subject hath when the King ſeizeth his Lands, or taketh away his Goods from him, having no Title by order of Law ſo to do, contrary to the Opinion of ſome ancient Books, as you may ſee Stamford's Prerogative, Caſe 19. But no ſuch Suit ſhall be made to the Queen, but Actions as againſt other Lieges of the King; according as the Caſe ſhall require: For by the ſame Reaſon that the Queen may be Plaintiff or Demandant in Actions without the King, by the ſame Reaſon ſhe ſhall be Defendant without the part taking of ſuch Prerogatives as do appertain to the King.

Againſt the King by his Prerogative nullum tempus occurrit; but it is not ſo with the Queen, 18 Edw. 3. 2. a. And plenarily by ſix Months is a good Plea in a Quare Impedit brought by Philip Regina Anglia, ibidem fol. 1. 13. b. Stamford's Prerogative, Caſe 18. prope finem. In the 22 Edw. 3. 6. it is thus to be read; Note that a Protection was ſued forth againſt the Queen in a Writ which ſhe brought, and it was allowed, though ſhe be a Perſon exempt. Nevertheleſs by this ſhort Caſe following may be obſerved, That the Juſtices do not eaſily ſuffer any Proceedings in Law againſt the Queen (Wife or Widow;) but will hold with their Immunities ſo much as by Law they may.

A Writ of Dower was brought againſt Iſabel Queen of England, and Mother to the then King; and the Court ſaid to the Plaintiff, The Queen is a Perſon of Dignity and Excellency, and we are of Opinion that ſhe ſhall not anſwer to the Writ, but that ſhe ſhould be ſued unto by Petition. And thereupon the Demandant dixit gratis, and ſhe prayed the Court to grant a Continuance of Action until another Day, ſo that in the mean time ſhe might ſpeak with the Queen: But the Court would not agree to make a Continuance; but ſaid, That upon her Requeſt they might give Day præ re pertin. and ſo it was done; for the Queen's Counſel would not agree to a Continuance, for thereby the Queen ſhall be accepted as anſwerable.

Neither do I ſuppoſe that I have digreſſed from any former purpoſe for making mention in thoſe Caſes concerning the Queen Conſort: For notwithſtanding the intermarriage with the Sovereign King, yet ſhe is no other than a King's Subject, whether ſhe be of a Foreign Nation, or a Native born; and though ſhe be by the Favour of the King ſolemnly crowned Queen, yet that is but a Royal Ceremony, and no eſſential Exception, whereby ſhe may not from henceforth be accounted in the rank of Noble Women. And this hath been proved by the Effect in the Reign of King Henry the Sixth, when ſome of the Wives, crowned Queens, have been Arraigned of High-Treaſon, and therefore put to Trial by the Nobles of the Realm as her Peers.

The Wife of the King's eldeſt Son hath alſo ſome Prerogatives in regard of the Excellency of her Husband, which the Wives of other Noblemen have not: For by the Statute of the Thirteenth of Edward the Third, it is High-Treaſon to violate the Wife of the King's eldeſt Son and Heir.

Dutcheſſes and Counteſſes have ſpecial Honours appertaining to their Eſtates; as Kneeling, Taſting, &c. which things are more appertaining properly to the Heralds, than to be here treated of.

Ladies in Reputation.

THE Wife or Widow of the Son and Heir of a Duke or Earl in the Life-time of his Father, is a Lady by Courteſie of Speech and Honour, and taketh Place according as in ancient Time hath been permitted by the Sovereign Prince, and allowance of the Heralds; but in legal Proceedings they are not privileged, nor to be named according to ſuch Names of Dignity. But the King may at his Pleaſure create ſuch Men, in the Life of their Anceſtors, unto Degrees of Lord's of his Parliament, and then the Law is otherwiſe.

If a Noble Woman of Spain come into this Realm by ſafe Conduct, or otherwiſe, though in the Letters of ſafe Conduct by the King ſhe be ſtiled by ſuch her Sovereign Title; yet in the King's Courts of Juſtice ſhe ſhall not be named by ſuch Title, though in common Speech ſhe is ſtiled a Lady.

An Engliſh Woman born doth take to her Husband a French or Spaniſh Duke, though he be made a Denizen, yet ſhe ſhall not bear his Title of Dignity in Legal Proceedings.

A German Woman is married to a Peer of the Realm, and unleſs ſhe be made a Denizen, ſhe cannot lawfully claim the Privileges or Titles of her Husband, no more than ſhe can to have Dower or Jointure from him.

An Engliſh Woman doth take to her Huſband an Iriſh Earl; or if a Lord of Scotland (though he be a Poſtnatus) take an Engliſh Woman to his Wife, their Wives ſhall not participate of their Husbands Titles or Dignity.

But if the King do create one of his Subjects of Scotland or Ireland a Pear of this Realm, then ſhall he and his Wife enjoy all the Privileges of a Nobleman. But if an Engliſh Man by the Emperor be made an Earl of the Empire, his Wife ſhall not bear that Title of Honour.

All the Daughters of Dukes, Marquiſſes, and Earls are by the ancient Cuſtom of the Realm ſtiled Ladies, and have Precedency according to the Degrees of their Parents; And of this Cuſtom the Laws do take notice, and give allowance for Honour and Decency: But nevertheleſs in the King's Courts of Juſtice they bear not thoſe Titles of Honour, no more than the Sons of ſuch Noble Perſons may do: So in this Point the Law is one way, and the Honour and Courteſie of Ladies another. And as a Civilian in like Caſe ſaith, Aliud eſt jus, & aliud privilegium; nevertheleſs the Books of our Law do make mention thereof, and allow of it as a Courteſie, though not as a Law.

Thus much of Women: If I have been too large upon this Subject, I crave their Pardons; and if two ſhort, I wiſh I had been more large for their Honour: Yet let them compare their Conditions with that of their Neighbouring Nations, and 'tis believed they have reaſon to judge themſelves the happieſt Women in the World; but Nemo ſua ſorte contentus.

None truly value what they do poſſeſs:
Birth, Beauty, Titles, Riches in exceſs,
Are all a Plague, if ought elſe we deſire;
The loſs of that makes all our Joys on fire.

CHAP. XIV.

WHEN a (a) Peer of the Realm, and Lord of the Parliament, is to be Arraigned upon Criminal Cauſes, viz. Treaſon, Felony or Miſpriſion of them, whereof he is indicted, and whereupon he hath pleaded Not Guilty, the King by his Letters Patents ſhall aſſign ſome Great and Sage Lord of the Parliament to be High-Steward of England for the Day of his Arraignment, who before the ſaid Day ſhall make a Precept to his Serjeant at Arms, that is appointed to ſerve him during the time of his Commiſſion, to warn to appear before him Eighteen or Twenty Lords of the Parliament (or Twelve at the leaſt) upon the ſame Day. And then at the Time appointed, when the High-Steward ſhall be ſet under the Cloth of Eſtate, with

(a) Lords of Parliament muſt be try'd by their Peers in Caſes Criminal, Co. Lib. 12. fol. 95 Counteſs of Shrewsbury's Caſe, Br. Trials, 103, and 142. Corone 153, and Jurors 48. 10 E. 4. 6. *Cambd. Mr. Bridal, p. 20. in his 18th Remark upon this Privilege, tells us, from Waterhouſe Clerk of the Crown: That upon the Arraignment of the Lord Dacres of the North, temp. H. 8. all the Juſtices of England reſolv'd three Points. 1. That no certain Number of Peers above Twelve is requiſite, fewer cannot do. 2. Twelve muſt agree to the Verdict or he is not Guilty, altho' the Majority of thoſe Impannel'd do. 3. That the Lord Steward cannot adjourn his Commiſſion, but is to diſſolve it; yet there was temp. H. 8. a Precedent, that he adjourn'd his Commiſſion to the next Day only, and then diſſolv'd it. Moor's Reports, 62. m. 844. Vide Co. 3. Inſtit. 41.

If a Nobleman be Indicted in the K. B or the Indictment removed thither, he may plead his Pardon there before the Judges of the K. B. and they have Power to allow it, but he cannot confeſs the Indictment, or plead Not Guilty before thoſe Judges, but before the Lord Steward. Roll 1 part. 297. Roy, v. Signior Norris. Co. 2. Inſt. fol. 49.

If a Peer of the Realm plead Not Guilty to an Indictment, he ſhall not wave his Plea and claim his Priviledge to be Tryed by his Peers. Dalliſon's Reports, fol. 16.

with a white Rod of Juſtice in his Hand, upon the Arraignment of the Priſoner, and having cauſed the Commiſſion to be read, the ſame Serjeant ſhall return his Precept, and thereupon the Lords ſhall be called; and when they have appeared, and are ſet in their Places, the Conſtable of the Tower ſhall be called to bring his Priſoner to the Barr, and the High Steward ſhall declare to the Priſoner the Cauſe why the King hath aſſembled thither thoſe Lords, and himſelf, and perſwade him to anſwer without fear; and then he ſhall call the Clerk of the Crown to read his Indictment unto him, and to ask him, if he be Guilty, or not: Whereunto when he hath anſwered Not Guilty, the Clerk of the Crown ſhall ask him, How he will be tryed; and then he will ſay, By God and his Peers. Then the King's Serjeant and Attorney will give Evidence againſt him; whereunto when the Priſoner hath made anſwer, the Conſtable ſhall be commanded to receive the Priſoner from the Barr, to ſome other Place, whilſt the Lords do ſecretly confer together in the Court; and then the Lords ſhall riſe out of their Places, and conſult amongſt themſelves, and what they affirm ſhall be done upon their Honour, without any Oath to be adminiſtred upon them (b). And when all, or the greateſt part of them, ſhall be agreed, they ſhall retire

At the Entrance of the Lieutenant of the Tower, with his Priſoner the Lord Strafford, the Porter of the Hall, whoſe Office it is, enquired of Mr. Maxwell, whether the Ax ſhould be carried before him, or no? who anſwered, That the King had expreſly forbidden it; nor was it ever the Cuſtom to uſe that Ceremony, but only when the Party accuſed was to be put upon his Jury. Dr. Nelſon's Collection, 2 Vol. fol. 37.

In every Caſe of Treaſon or Felony newly made by Statute Law, the Lords of Parliament ſhall have their Tryals by their Peers, notwithſtanding that the Statute provides not for it by expreſs Words, ſo that the Proviſo incerted for their Tryals in ſuch Caſes, is ſaid by Stamford to be needleſs, Stamford, 153. and the Trial per Pares is given by Magna Charta, cap. 29. Idem 152. Crompton's Courts, fol. 19. B. And Sir Edward Coke tells us, That if he be a Nobleman, and Lord of Parliament, he ſhall be tried by his Peers, albeit there be no Proviſion for it; for of Common Right, in Caſe of Treaſon, Felony, and miſpriſion of Treaſon or Felony, he is to be tried by his Peers. His Comment on the Statute of 1 Jac. c. 11. againſt Polygamy. But maugre what the prementioned Lawyers have written, the Reader may find a Proviſo inſerted in many Acts of Parliament (by our Legiſlators, for the ſurer preſervation, and continuance of this Priviledge,) Namely, 33 H. VIII. c. 12, & 23. 35 H. VIII c. 2. 1 Ed. VI. c. 12. 13 Eliz. c. 2. 1 Eliz. c. 1, & 2. 5 Eliz. c. 1. 23 Eliz. c. 1. 18 Eliz. c. 1. 23 Eliz. c. 1. 1 Jac. c. 1, & 12. 3 Jac. I. c. 4. 13 Car. II. c. 1. 13 Car. II c. 6. 12 Car. II. c. 9 13 Car. II. c. 18. 16 Car. II. c. 4.

It was reſolved by the Judges in the Parliament holden the 2 Car. I. upon Conference concerning the Lord Digby, That when any Peer ſhall be proceeded againſt for Treaſon, that ought to be by Indictment; and that being done, then the King is to appoint a Peer to be Steward for the Time, and to proceed to Arraign him, or otherwiſe to tranſmit in this Indictment by Certiorari, to the Parliament, and there to proceed, or otherwiſe to preſer a Bill in the Parliament, which ought to be paſſed by both Houſes, and it is an Attainder by Parliament, and ſo it was done, 5 R. II. 54. Hutton's Reports, 131. Lord Digby's Caſe. And the Caſe of the ſeveral Engliſh and Scots Peers, Attainted by the preſent Parliament of Great Brittain.

(b) In Trial of a Peer, the Lords of Parliament ſhall not Swear, but they give their Judgment, Super Fidem, & Ligeantiam Domino Regi debitam: So that their Faith, and Allegiance ſtands in Equipage with an Oath, and in the Caſe of a Common Perſon in Trial of Life. Co. Lib. 12. 95. Counteſs of Shrewsbury's Caſe, Cambden's Britania, pag. 169. *Eng. The Reaſon (ſaith a very Learned Lawyer) why Peers of the Realm, are to proceed without Corporal Oath, is, becauſe the Law ſuppoſeth them of ſuch Integrity, as they will do for Juſtice, that others are compell'd to by their Oaths. Lord Coventry in his Speech to the Peers, at the Arraignment of Mervin Lord Audley, Earl of Caſtlehaven.

Concerning this Priviledge of giving a Verdict upon Honour, and not upon Oath, another Lawyer ſpeaks thus: You ſee the great Regard the Law hath to the Word of a Peer of the Realm, when he ſpeaketh upon his Honour; even in a Caſe concerning the Life of Man, and that of a Peer; and therefore ought they much more to keep their Words, and Promiſes in ſmaller Matters, when they engage their Honour for a faſt Cauſe, or Conſideration. Crompton's Courts, fol 13. a.

Though upon the Trial of a Peer, the Lords of Parliament ſhall not Swear, yet it hath been Adjudged, that they muſt anſwer upon Oath, and not upon Honour only, in all Courts as Defendants, as it appears in the Earl of Lincoln's Caſe, wherein it was moved, whereas Sir Henry Fines, Knight, had exhibited his Bill in the Star-chamber, againſt the Earl of Lincoln, for divers Riots and Miſdemeanors, and the Earl of Lincoln had taken Commiſſion forth, to put in his Anſwer upon Oath, in the Country, and he offered before them his Anſwer upon his Honour, but would not put it upon Oath, becauſe he was a Peer of the Realm; which Matter being now reported by the Commiſſioners, it was now moved by the King's Sollicitor, to have the Reſolution of the Judges: And it was held by all the Juſtices of both Benches, and all the Barons of the Exchequer, (in the preſence of a very great Aſſembly, of the Lords, and divers others of the Privy-Council in the Star-chamber,) that the Lords, in Caſes Criminal, (eſpecially where the King is Party) ought to put in their Anſwer upon Oath: And in all Caſes, where they are to be Witneſſes betwixt Party and Party, they ought to be Sworn: The Lord Keeper ſaid, Quod in Judicio non creditur niſi Juratis, and that he cauſed Precedents to be ſearched, and had found divers, ſince the firſt of Queen Eliz. wherein Peers of the Realm being Impleaded in Chancery, or Star-chamber, or Court of Wards, have been always Sworn: And he ſaid, when a Peer affirms any thing, which is not true, upon his Honour, there is not any Remedy; but if he affirms that which is falſe, upon his Oath, there is Remedy, by the Statute of 5 Eliz. c. 9. againſt Perjury; wherefore they are reſolv'd, that the Earl of Lincoln ought to be Sworn; and of the ſame Opinion were all the Lords and Counſellors, which they delivered Seriatim, nullo Contradicente, becauſe it is Juramentum Purgationis, and not Promiſſionis: And Princes are ſworn to all their Leagues and Confederacies, which is called Juramentum Confirmationis; neither is it any Diminution to the ſaid Earl's Honour, to be Sworn about that, which he would not, ſhould be put upon his Honour. Cro. Car. 64. Hutton's Reports, 87. and Sir William Jones's Reports, 152. The Earl of Lincoln's Caſe in the Star-chamber. Since this Reſolution of all the Juſtices, which was given, Anno 2. Car. 1626. the Lords, Anno 1628. in their Houſe, did declare, That the Nobility of this Kingdom, and Lords of the Houſe of Parliament, are, of Ancient Right, to Anſwer in all Cauſes as Defendants, upon Proteſtation of Honour only, and not upon the Common Oath. And in the Year 1640. the Earl-Marſhall reports the Opinion of the Committee, to whom the Conſideration of the Proteſtation of the Peers of this Realm upon Honour, was referred, upon ſome Doubts, that had riſen, in a former Debate of the Houſe of Peers, upon a former Order to that Purpoſe, as follows:

Our Opinions are clear, and that, upon hearing divers Learned Men, of both Laws, ſpeak, That our Anſwers upon Honour only, can be no Impediment to the Common Juſtice of the Kingdom, but a juſt Preſervation of our Ancient Liberties; and therefore we offer it as our Unanimous Opinions, that our former Order may ſtand in full Force, which is Entred in hæc Verba.

Ordered upon the Queſtion, Nemine Contradicente, that the Nobility of this Kingdom, and Lords of the Upper Houſe of Parliament, are, of Ancient Right, to anſwer in all Courts, as Defendants, upon Proteſtation of Honour only, and not upon the Common Oath: And that the ſaid Order, and this Explanation, doth extend to all Anſwers, and Examinations upon Interrogatories in all Cauſes, as well Criminal as Civil, and in all Courts and Commiſſions whatſoever; and alſo the Perſons of the Widows Dowagers of the Temporal Peers of this Land; and that the Lord Keeper of the Great Seal of England, for the Time being, or the Speaker of the Lord's Houſe, for the Time being, do forthwith give Notice of it, together with this Explanation, to all the Courts of Juſtice, and the Judges, Clerks and Regiſters of them, by cauſing our Former Order, with this Explanation, to be Recorded in all Courts, and that all Orders, Conſtitutions, or Cuſtoms, entered or practiſed to the contrary whereſoever, be Aboliſhed, and declared Void; and the Lord Keeper of the Great Seal, for the Time being, or the Commiſſioners for the Great Seal, out of Parliament time, ſhall ſee all Practices to the contrary hereafter to be puniſhed, with Exemplary Severity, to deter others from the like Attempts.

I ſhall

retire to their Places, and ſit down. Then the High Steward ſhall ask of the youngeſt Lord by himſelf, if he that is Arraigned be Guilty or not of the Offence whereof he is Arraigned, and then the youngeſt next him, and ſo of the reſidue one by one, until he hath asked them all; and every Lord ſhall anſwer by himſelf. And then the Steward ſhall ſend for the Priſoner again, who ſhall be led to the Barr, to whom the High Steward ſhall rehearſe the Verdict of the Peers, and give Judgment accordingly. Lord Bacon's Caſe of Treaſon, cap 2. Vide more of this grand Solemnity of Trying a Peer in Crompton's Courts, fol. 82. a. 13 H. VIII. 1 Stamford, 152. 1 H. IV. 1. and in Sir *Tho. The Antiquity and Original of this kind of Tryal, by the Opinion of ſeveral Authors, is grounded from the Statute of Magna Charta, ſo called, not in reſpect of the Quantity, but of the Weight of it. Coke to the Reader before his eight Part, fol. 2. cap. 29. beginning thus, Milus liber homo, &c. nec ſuper eum ibimus, nec ſuper eum mittemus, niſi per legale judicium parium ſuorum. But I take it to be more ancient than the Time of Henry the Third, as brought into the Realm with the Conqueror, being anſwerable to the Norman and French Laws, and agreeable with the Cuſtom Feudale, where almoſt all Controverſies ariſing between the Sovereign and the Vaſſal are tryed per Judicium parium ſuorum.

And if a Peer of the Realm upon his Arraignment of Treaſon, do ſtand mute, or will not anſwer directly, Judgment ſhall be given againſt him as a Traytor Convict, and he ſhall not be preſt to Death, and thereby ſave the Forfeiture of his Lands; for Treaſon is out of the Statute of Weſtminſter, 1. chap. 12. 15 Ed. IV. 33. Dyer 205, & 300. *Co. As touching the Perſon; Firſt the Archbiſhops and Biſhops of this Realm, although they be Lords of the Parliament, if they be impeached of ſuch Offence, they ſhall not be tryed by the Peers of the Realm, but by a Jury of Knights, and other ſubſtantial Perſons upon their Oaths; the Reaſon thereof alledged is, ſo much as Archbiſhops and Biſhops cannot paſs in the like Caſes upon Peers, for that they are prohibited by the Common and Eccleſiaſtical Law to be Judges of Life and Blood. Reaſon would that the other Peers ſhould not try them; for this Tryal ſhould be mutual, foraſmuch as it is performed upon their Honours, without any Oath taken. And ſo by the way you may ſee the great Reſpect the Law hath to a Peer of the Realm, when he ſpeaketh upon his Honour, even in a Caſe concerning the Life of a Man, and that of a Peer; and therefore ought they much more to keep their Words and Promiſes in ſmaller Matters, when they engage their Honour for any juſt Cauſe or Conſideration (c).

Secondly, As touching theſe Perſons, nó Temporal Lords, but they that are Lords of the Parliament, ſhall have this kind of Tryal; and therefore out of this are excluded the eldeſt Son and Heir apparent of a Duke, in the Life of his Father †, though he be called an Earl. And it was the Caſe of Henry Howard, Earl of Surrey, Son and Heir apparent to Thomas Duke of Norfolk, in 38 Hen. VIII. which is in Brook's Abridgment Treaſon, 2. Likewiſe the Son and Heir apparent of an Earl, though he be called a Lord. And all the younger Sons of Kings are Earls by birth, though they have no other Creation; but ſhall not be partaker of theſe or other Priviledges incident to the Lords of the Parliament.

I ſhall cloſe all, with what Doctor Chamberlain has ſaid, touching the Lords Proteſtation of Honour, in all Judicial Proceedings: His Words are theſe,

Though neither Civil Law, nor Common Law, allow any other Teſtimony to be Valid, but what is given upon Oath; yet the Teſtimony of a Peer of England, given in, upon his Honour, without any Oath, is eſteemed Valid: And they were wont to be examined upon their Allegiance, and the Loyalty of their Chivalry, and to put in their Anſwer to a Bill, ſuper Honorem, without taking an Oath: Though of later Times, that Priviledge, by the Negligence of ſome Lords, hath been infringed ſometimes. Maſter Camden (in his Britania, pag. 170. *Eng. As for that common Aſſertion (ſays he) That no Lords of Parliament are to be tried by their Peers, but ſuch as ſit there, Ratione Nobilitatis; it is not only falſe, but frivolous in the Judgment of very many Judicious Men. And indeed, how abſurd, and unreaſonable muſt it needs be, (let all Men judge) that an Archbiſhop of Canterbury, who is acknowledged to be primus par Regni, ſhould be tried by a common Jury of Freeholders, when as the meaneſt Lay-baron, though Created but Yeſterday may not be tried by any under Barons. King

King of England of other Nations: But if the King of England do at this Day create one of his Subjects of Scotland or Ireland an Earl, Viscount, Baron, or other Peer of this Realm; or by his ordinary Writ of Summons under his Great Seal do call him to the Upper House of Parliament, and assign him a Place, and to have Voice free amongst the Lords and Peers there assembled, he shall be partaker with them in all Priviledges.

And thus much concerning the restraint of the Priviledges, in respect of the Persons, 39 Ed. III.

And touching the manner of Proceeding, it appeareth by the said Statute of Magna Charta, chap. 29. That a Peer of the Realm shall be tryed by his Peers only, in case where he is indicted at the King's Suit of Treason or Felony; for the Words of the Statute be, Nec super eum ibimus, &c.

But if any Appeal of Murther or Felony be sued by any common Person against a Peer of the Realm, he shall be tryed by a common Jury of Freeholders, and not by Peers (e).

And so was Fines Lord Dacres tryed in Appeal of Murther (f). The Nobility of this Realm do enjoy this Priviledge, That they are not to be impannelled on any Jury or Inquest, to make tryal or inquiry upon their Corporal Oaths between Party and Party, for they may have a Writ for their Discharge to the Sheriff (g).

But it is a Rule in Law, Vigilantibus non dormientibus subveniant jura. For if the Sheriff have not received any such Writ, and the Sheriff have returned any such Lord on Juries, or in Assize, &c. and they thereupon do appear, they shall be sworn; if they do not appear, they shall lose their Issues, 35 Hen. VI. and in such Case they must purchase a Writ out of the Chancery, reciting their Priviledges; directed to the Justices before whom such Noble Persons are so impannelled, commanding to dismiss him or them that were so impannelled out of the said Pannel, F. N. B. 165. (h)

This Priviledge hath, in two Causes, not been allowed, or taken place: 1. If the Enquiry concern the King and Commonwealth, in any necessary and important Degree or Business of the Realm. And therefore divers Barons of the Marshes of Wales were impannelled before the Bishop of Ely, and other Commissioners of Oyer and Terminer, to enquire of a notable Outrage committed by Gilbert de Clare, Earl of Gloucester, against Humphrey de Bohun, Earl of Hereford and Essex, and his Tenants in Wales, in the twelfth Year of Edward the First, where John de Hastings, Edmond de Mortimer, Theobald Beardmoe, and other Barons of the Marshes, challenged their Priviledges aforesaid, and much insisted upon the same. But it was afterwards answered by the Court, as by the Words in the Record appeareth. The Barons aforesaid did persist in the Challenge, and in the end both the said Earls, between whom the said Outrage had been perpetrated, submitted themselves to the King's Grace, and made their Fines. Secondly, This Priviledge hath no Place in case of Necessity, where the truth of the Case cannot otherwise come to light; for the Words in the Writ in the Register are, Nisi sua præsentia ob aliquam causam specialiter exigatur, &c.

If any Nobleman do bring an Action of Debt upon Account, in case where the Plantiff is to be examined (which is always intended to be upon Oath) upon the Truth of his Cause, by vertue of the Statute of the fifth of Henry the Fourth. ch. 8. it shall suffice to examine his Attorney, and not himself upon Oath.

And this Priviledge the Law hath given to the Nobility, That they are not Arrested upon any Warrant of a Justice of Peace for their good Behaviour, or breach of Peace; nor by a Supplicavit out of Chancery, or from the King's Bench. For such an Opinion hath the Law conceived of the peaceable disposition of Noblemen, that it hath been thought enough to take their Promise upon their Honour in that behalf (i). And as in Civil Causes, the like Rule doth the Court of Equity observe in Cases of Conscience; for if the Defendant be a Peer of the Realm in the Star-Chamber, or Court of Chancery, a Subpæna shall not be awarded, but a Letter from the Lord Chancellor or Lord Keeper in lieu thereof, fixing a Day for his appearance (k).

By the ancient Laws of this Realm, before the coming of William the Conqueror, many good Laws were made for the keeping the Peace; and amongſt others, That all Men at or above the Age of twelve Years, being within the Precinct of Leets, ſhould be ſworn to the King's Allegiance; which we in remembrance thereof do keep at this Day in the view of Frank Pledge, or the Court Leet, becauſe they are Reſident within the Precinct of the Leet (*). 'When a Nobleman is attaint of Treaſon, and hath paſſed on him, the Judgment in Caſe of High Treaſon, viz. of Drawing, Hanging and Quartering, the Courſe is, That the Sovereign makes his Letters Patents directed to the Lord Chancellor, or Lord Keeper, Reciting the Attainder; Yet we minding to diſpenſe with that manner of Execution of Judgment, in reſpect that the ſaid A. Edit. 1677.

'It has been ſaid, and it paſſes for a Maxim in Law, That though in Judgment of Treaſon the King can order the Execution to be by Cutting off the Head, ſince it being a part of the Sentence, that the Head ſhall be ſever'd from the Body, the King may in that Caſe remit all the other parts of the Sentence except that; yet in Felonies the Sentence muſt be Executed in the way preſcribed by Law; and that if the King ſhould Order Beheading inſtead of Hanging, it would be Murder in the Sheriff, and thoſe that Execute it: But this ſeems to be taken up without good Grounds, and againſt clear Precedents; for in the Reign of E. VI. The Duke of Somerſet, though condemned for Felony, yet was Beheaded. And in the Reign of King Charles the Firſt, the Lord Audley being likewiſe condemned for Felony, all the Judges delivered their Opinion, That the King might change the Execution from Hanging to Beheading, which was done, and was not afterwards queſtion'd. So in 32 H. VIII. The Lord Hungerford of Heitsbury was attainted of Buggery, and had Judgment to be Hanged by the Neck, until he was Dead; and yet was Beheaded on Tower-Hill. By which Inſtances it is evident, that it is in the King's Power to change the Execution from Hanging to Decollation, or Beheading. But we find in Hiſtory, That ſome Lords have not met with the uſual Privilege belonging to the Nobility; For Thomas Fines, Lord Dacres of the South, in Anno 33 H. VIII. was Attainted of Murder, and had Judgment to be hanged by the Neck, until he was Dead, and according to the Judgment was hanged at Tyburn; and ſo the Lord Sturton in 3, & 4. Ph. & Mar. was Attainted of Murder, and had Judgment to be hang'd until Dead, and according to that Sentence, he was hang'd. Co. Inſt, 52, & 211. Dr. Burnet's Hiſtory of the Reformation, Part 2. lib. 2. pag. 350.

At the Common-Law, it was lawful for any Man, Noble or Ignoble, to retain as many Chaplains as they pleaſed for their inſtruction in Religion. But by a Statute made 21 Hen. VIII. cap. 13. a Reſtraint was made, and a certain Number only allowed the Nobility: And ſuch Chaplains for their Attendance have Immunities, as by the Statute Statute at large may appear, viz. every Archbiſhop and Duke may have ſix Chaplains, whereof every one may have, and purchaſe Licenſe of Diſpenſation, and take, receive, and keep two Parſonages or Benefices with Cure of Souls; and that every Marquiſs and Earl may have five Chaplains; every Viſcount or Biſhop four Chaplains; and every Baron and Knight of the Garter may have three Chaplains, whereof every one of them may purchaſe Licenſe of Diſpenſation, and take, receive, and keep two Benefices with Cure of Souls.

And foraſmuch as the retaining of Chaplains by Lords and Peers of the Realm is ordinary; and nevertheleſs ſome Queſtions have been concerning the true underſtanding of the ſaid Statute Law, I think it not unneceſſary to ſet down ſome ſubſequent Reſolutions of the Judges touching ſome Matters.

If a Biſhop be tranſlated to an Archbiſhoprick, or a Baron be created an Earl, yet in this Caſe they can have but only ſo many Chaplains as an Archbiſhop, or an Earl might have; for although he hath divers Dignities, yet he is ſtill but one Perſon to whom the Attendance and Service ſhould be done: So if a Baron be made a Knight of the Garter, or Lord Warden of the Cinque Ports, he ſhall have in all but three Chaplains, & ſic de ſimilibus *.

* Co. Lib. 4. fol. 118. Acton's Caſe.

And if ſuch an Officer allowed by the Statute to have one, two, or more Chaplains, do retain accordingly, and after he is removed from his Office, in this Caſe he cannot be now Nonreſident, nor accept a ſecond Benifice of his Complement which was not full before his removing; and in that Caſe it behoveth the Chaplain to procure a Non obſtante, otherwiſe he may be puniſhed for his Nonreſidence.

So if any Earl or Baron do retain a Chaplain, and before his advancement his Lord is Attainted of Treaſon (as it was in the Caſe of the Earl of Weſtmorland) after the ſaid Attainder ſuch a Chaplain cannot accept a ſecond Benefice; for though his Lord be ſtill living according to Nature, yet after the Attainder he is a dead Perſon by the Law, and therefore out of the caſe to have Privilege for himſelf, or for his Chaplains †.

† Expoſition of Terms of the Law, fol. 57. a b. Tit Chapleine. Co lib. 4. Acton's Caſe.

If a Baron have three Chaplains, and every of them have Benefices, and after the Baron dieth; they ſhall enjoy thoſe Benefices with Cure, which were lawfully ſettled in them before: But in this Caſe, although the ſaid Chaplains be reſident upon one of his Benefices, yet now he is become puniſhable for being Nonreſident upon the other; for Ceſſante cauſa, ceſſat effectus ‖.

‖ Co lib 4 fol. 119. Acton's Caſe.

The ſame Law is, if the Baron be attainted of Treaſon or Felony; or if any Officer be removed from his Office, & ſic de ſimilibus.

So if a Lord do any time upon requeſt, &c. retain more Chaplains than are allowed by the Law, the lawful Number only ſhall have privilege; and in this Caſe which of them be firſt promoted ſhall have privilege, and the reſt are excluded; for æquali jure melior eſt conditio poſſidentis *. If a Nobleman doth retain Chaplains above his Number at ſeveral Times, if any of his Chaplains die, the next that was retained ſhall not ſucceed, for his firſt retainer was void; and therefore in this Caſe, it behoveth him to have a new retaining after the Death of the Predeceſſor, and before his Advancement; for quod ab initio non valet, in tractu temporis non convaleſcit †.

† Co. lib. 4. 90. Drurie's Caſe.

If a Noble Perſon retain ſuch a Number of Chaplains as is by Law allowed him, but afterwards the Lord, upon ſuch diſlike or other Cauſe, do diſcharge any of them from their Attendance or Service, the Lord in this Caſe cannot retain other (thereby to give them privilege) during the Life of them ſo retained and diſcharged. And the Reaſon thereof is, becauſe the firſt Chaplains were lawfully retained, and by virtue thereof, during their lives, might purchaſe Diſpenſations to have Advantage according to the Statute: And therefore if the diſcharge of their Service and Attendance might give liberty to the Lord to retain others, by ſuch means he might advance Chaplains without number, by which the Statute might be defrauded. And the ſaid Statute muſt be ſtrictly conſtrued againſt Non-reſidents, & Pluralities, as a Thing prejudicial to the ſervice of God, and the ordinary Inſtruction of the People of God †.

'The Opinion of ſome Men hath been, that a 'Counteſs, Baroneſs, or other Woman of great 'Eſtate, cannot maintain an Action, De Scandalis Magnatum, becauſe the Statute of 2 R. II. 'c. 5. ſpeaks but of Prelates, Dukes, Earls, Barons, &c. by which Words they conceive, the 'meaning of the Makers of that Statute, was only 'to provide in that caſe for Lords, and not for 'Women of Honour. It is actionable for any to deface the Coat-Armour, &c. of any Nobleman or Gentleman, that is placed in a Church or Window; or any where or in any thing by the Parity of Reaſon.

Certain Caſes wherein a Lord of the Parliament hath no Privilege.

THE Statute of Weſtminſter 2. cap. 39. ſaith, If the Sheriff return that he cannot execute the King's Precept propter reſiſtentiam alicujus magnatis; if it be true, he ſhall puniſh the reſiſters by Impriſonment, from whence they ſhall not be delivered without the King's ſpecial Commandment: For none can be privileg'd againſt the King.

In 11 Hen. IV. 15, in homine replegiando, againſt Dame Spencer a Peer of the Realm, (viz. a Baroneſs born) a Capias was granted, becauſe it was an high injury to the Perſon whom ſhe eloigned, and in ſome other Caſes of great contempt a Capias may be Awarded againſt a Peer.

An Abbot, which was a Lord of the Parliament, was impleaded, and he did pray Privilege to appear by an Attorney: and by the Rule of the Court he could not, becauſe the Statute is general, and againſt it; but by a ſpecial Writ out of Chancery he might; and ſo in caſe where he doth pray to be received. For if a Lord of the Parliament, holding Lands of another in Fee-ſimple, doth forbear and withhold to do, and pay his Service to his Landlord, and that by the Space of two Years; whereupon he bringeth a Writ of Ceſſment (which is his Remedy given by Law) thereby to recover the Inheritance of the Land: But the ſaid Lord, for the ſaving of Tenancy, being minded to pay all the Arrearages before Judgment given againſt him (as by the Law he ought to do) in this Caſe he muſt come in proper Perſon, and not by an Attorney.

If a Nobleman be indicted, and cannot be found, Proceſs of Outlawry ſhall be awarded againſt him per legem terræ, and he ſhall be outlawed per judicium Coronatorum (a), but he ſhall be tried per judicium parium ſuorum when he appeals and pleads to iſſue (b).

If any Lord did depart this Realm as Ambaſſador and otherwiſe, by the King's Licence, or without Licence, and do not return at the King's Command, or at the King's Writ, upon his Privy Signet, the King may ſeize his Goods and Chattels.

If a Lord, arreſted upon a Supplicavit for the Peace, do refuſe to obey the Arreſt, and make Reſcous, and the Sheriff do return the Reſcous; upon ſuch return ſhall iſſue an Attachment againſt the ſaid Lord for his Contempt, to take his Body; and this is a way to obtain the Peace againſt any Lord of the Parliament; whereas the Party could not have an Attachment againſt him, if the Sub pœna had been duly ſerved, and peaceably accepted of, although the ſaid Lord had not appeared thereupon.

All Lords are compellable to take the Oath mentioned in the Statute of the 7th of King James, chap. 4. And ſee the Statute of the 7th of King James, chap. 6. who have Authority to miniſter the ſaid Oath unto them.

If a Baron that holdeth by Baron Tenure, have his abſence excuſed by Eſſoyn, he which caſteth his Eſſoyn or Excuſe, ought to find Surety that the ſaid Eſſoyn is true. But in caſe of common Perſons, it ſhall reſt upon the Credit and Integrity of the Eſſoyner; wherein a Lord hath leſſer Privilege than a common Perſon *.

* Vide backwards.

And whereas the Amercements ſhould be offered per pares, the Uſe is to refer them to the Barons of the Exchequer.

When a Peer of the Realm is Arraigned in any Appeal of Felony, he ſhall not have that privilege to be tried by his Peers (as in caſe of Indictment) but muſt undergo the ordinary Trial of Twelve Men.

Alſo in caſe of Indictment, the Defendant (though a Peer) may not challenge any of his Triers (c): And the Judgment to be given againſt any Lord of Parliament in caſes of Felony or Treaſon ſhall be no other, than according to the uſual Judgment given againſt common Perſons. Tho' their Execution (through the ſpecial Grace and Favour of the King) is Beheading.

By Attainder of Felony or Treaſon is corruption of Blood, ſo that their Children may not be Heirs unto them, nor to any other Anceſtor. And if he were a Nobleman before, he is by the Attainder made Ignoble, not only himſelf, but all his Children; having regard unto the Nobility which they had by their Birth. And this Corruption is ſo ſtrong and high, that it cannot be ſalved by the King's Pardon, or otherwiſe than by Authority of Parliament.

But here is to be obſerved, That Nobility is not a thing ſubſtantial, but meerly accidental; for it may be preſent or abſent, without corruption of the Subject whereof it doth depend; for experience ſheweth, That the paſſing of honourable Titles are reſtrained by exorbitant Crimes, when as Nature in the mean while cannot be thruſt away. Wherefore, though the Lawyers do call Extinguiſhment of Nobility, which happeneth by ſuch hainous Offences committed by corruption of Blood: Nevertheleſs they uſe not this manner of phraſe, as though Nobility were naturally and eſſentially in the Honour of Blood, more than any other hereditary Faculty; but becauſe the right of Inheritance (which is by degrees of communication of Blood directed) is by that means determined; and alſo in regard of the hatred and deteſtation of the Crime, it is called corruption of Blood.

And here a Queſtion may ariſe, Whether by Attainder of the Father the Blood be ſo corrupted, that the Son ſhall alſo be barred his Mothers Inheritance, who hath not tranſgreſſed, or no?

They that maintain the Affirmative, ſay, That foraſmuch as none can be procreated or ingendred according to the courſe of Nature, but of a Father and Mother, and muſt have in him two Bloods, viz. the Fathers and Mothers; therefore the Law alſo ſaith, Thoſe Bloods commixt in the Perſon of a Man in lawful Marriage, do conſtitute and make him an Heir; and that none can be Heir unto any, unleſs he hath both Bloods in him to whom he doth convey himſelf to be Heir. And therefore the Heir of the half Blood ſhall not inherit, becauſe he doth want one of the Bloods which ſhould make him inheritable. And upon this reaſon, Britan. chap. 5. ſaith, If a Man be attainted of Felony by Judgment, the Heirs ingendred after the Attainder are precluded from all manner of ſucceſſion in the Heritage, as well of the part of the Mother as of the Father; for ex leproſo parente, leproſus generatur filius.

(c) Though the Law alloweth a Common Perſon, that is Arraigned for Treaſon, or Felony, in Favour of Life, to challenge thirty five of his Jury, without ſhewing Cauſe, and others by ſhewing Cauſe; yet when any Subject, that is a Lord of Parliament, and a Peer of the Realm, is to be tried, either for Felony or Treaſon, he ſhall not challenge any of his Peers at all, nor put any of them to their Oath, the Law preſuming, that they being all Peers of the Realm, and judging upon their Honour, cannot be guilty of Falſehood, Favour, or Malice. Co. Lit. 156 B. & 294. a. Dr. Burnet's Hiſtory of the Reformation, 2 part, fol. 179. Baker in vitâ E. 6. f. 330 Edit. 1660. Hayward's E. 6. fol. 136, & 294. Camden's *Eliz. And when the Father is attainted of Treaſon or Felony, the Blood, in reſpect whereof he is Inheritable, being corrupted, the ſame hath but half his Blood, that is, the Blood of his Mother in him without corruption. And with this doth agree Bracton, lib. 3. cap. 13. Non valebit felonis generatio, nec ad hæreditatem paternam, nec maternam; ſi autem ante felonium generationem fecerit, talis generatio ſuccedit in hæreditatem patris vel matris, à quo non fuerit felonia perpetrata. Becauſe at the time of his Birth he had two lawful Bloods commixt in him, which could not be corrupted by the Attainder ſubſequent, but only as unto that Party who did offend.

But on the Negative part it is ſaid, That the Law is not ſo penal againſt the innocent Child, as to prejudice him touching his Mothers Inheritance, who alſo did not offend; or contrariwiſe, eſpecially in caſe where the Mother was ſeized of an Eſtate in Feeſimple, either in Lands or Tenements, or Title of Honour. And this was the caſe (if I be not miſtaken) of Philip late Earl of Arundel, notwithſtanding the Attainder of Thomas Duke of Norfolk his Father; for he had that Earldom in right of his Mother.

But they do agree, That if the Lands or Tenements, or a Title of Honour, be given to a Man, and to his Wife in tail who hath Iſſue: The Father is attainted of Treaſon, and executed, though this Forfeiture of the Huſband ſhall be no barr to the Wife concerning her Intereſt by Survivorſhip; yet their Iſſue is barred by the Statute 26 Hen. 8. cap. 13. and his Blood corrupted: For in that caſe the Heir muſt neceſſarily make himſelf Heir, as well of the Body of the one as of the other. And yet the Words of the Statute 32 Hen. 8. cap. 28. are, That no Fine, Feoffment, or other Act or Acts hereafter to be made, or ſuffered by the Huſband only of any Mannors, Lands, Tenements, or Hereditaments, being the Inheritance or Freehold of his Wife, during the Coverture between them, ſhall in any wiſe be, or make any diſcontinuance, or be prejudicial to the ſaid Wife, or to her Heirs, or to ſuch as ſhall have Right, Title, or Intereſt to the ſame by the death of ſuch Wife or Wives; but the ſame Wife or her Heirs, and ſuch other to whom ſuch right ſhall appertain after her deceaſe, ſhall or may then lawfully enter into all ſuch Mannors, Lands, Tenements, and Hereditaments according to their Rights and Titles therein. For their is Adverſity taken and agreed for Law between a diſcontinuance which doth imply a Wrong, and lawful Baron which doth imply a Right: And therefore if Land be given to the Huſband, and the Wife, and to the Heirs of their Bodies begotten, and the Huſband levies a Fine with Proclamation, or do commit High Treaſon, and dieth, and the Wife before or after Entry dieth, the Iſſue is barred, and the Comiſee for the King hath right unto the Lands, becauſe the Iſſue cannot claim as Heir unto both. And with this doth agree Dyer 351. b. adjudged, vide 5 Hen. VII. 32. Cott's Aſſize, Coke's eighth part, 27. where it is reſolved, That the Statute 32 Hen. VIII. doth extend only unto Diſcontinuances, although the Act hath general Words, or be prejudicial to the Wife or her Heirs, &c. but the Concluſion, if ſhe ſhall lawfully enter, &c. according to their Right and Title therein, which they cannot do when they be barred, and have no Right, Title, and Intereſt. And this Statute doth give advantage unto the Wife, &c. ſo long as ſhe hath right; but it doth not extend to take away a future barr. Although the Statute doth give Entry without limitation of any Time; nevertheleſs the Entry muſt attend upon the Right: And therefore if the Wife be ſeized in Feeſimple, and her Huſband levy a Fine with Proclamation unto another, and dieth, now the Wife may enter by force of the Statute; for as yet that Fine is not any barr unto her, but her Right doth remain, which ſhe may continue by Entry; but if ſhe do ſurceaſe her time, and the five Years do paſs without Entry, &c. now by force of the Fine with Proclamation, and five Years paſt after the death of her Huſband, ſhe is barred of her Right, and by conſequence ſhe cannot enter. And the Statute doth ſpeak of Fine only, and not of Fine with Proclamation. If there be Father and Son, and the Father be ſeized of Lands holden in Capite, or otherwiſe by Knight's Service, the King doth create the Son Duke, Earl, or other Degree of Nobility, and afterwards the Father dieth, his Son being within the Age of One and twenty Years, he ſhall be no Ward; but if the King had made him Knight in the life of his Father, he ſhould not have been in Ward after the death of his Father, neither for the Lands deſcended, nor for his Marriage, though he be within Age.

NOBILITY AND LORDS In REPUTATION Only.

CHAP. XV.

THERE are alſo other Lords in Reputation and Appellation, who nevertheleſs are not de jure; neither can they enjoy the Privileges of thoſe of the Nobility that are Lords of the Parliament.

The Son and Heir of a Duke, during his Father's life, is only in courteſie of Speech and Honour called an Earl; and the eldeſt Son of a Marquiſs or an Earl, a Lord: But not ſo in legal Proceedings, or in the King's Courts of Judicature. But the King may at his pleaſure create them in the life of their Anceſtors into any Degree of Lords of the Parliament. And according to the German Cuſtom, all the younger Sons of Dukes and Marquiſſes are called Lords, but by courteſie only, which Title deſcends not to their Heirs.

A Duke, or other of the Nobility of a Foreign Nation, doth come into this Land by the King's ſafe Conduct, in which ſaid Letters of ſafe Conduct he is named a Duke according to his Creation, yet that Appellation maketh him not a Duke, &c. to ſue, or be ſued by that Name within this Realm, but is only ſo by Reputation.

But if the King of Denmark, or other Sovereign King come into England under ſafe Conduct, he, during his abode here, ought to be ſtyled by the Name of King, and to retain his Honour, although not his Regal Command and Power. And in this caſe may be obſerved by the way, That no Sovereign King may enter into this Realm without Licence, though he be in a League.

All the younger Sons of the Kings of England are of the Nobility of England, and Earls by their Birth without any other Creation.

And if an Engliſh Man be created Earl of the Empire, or ſome other Title of Honour by the Emperor or other Monarch, he ſhall not bear that Dignity in England, but is only an Earl in Reputation.

A Lord or Peer of Scotland or Ireland is not of the Nobility or Peerage of England in all Courts of Juſtice, although he is commonly reputed a Lord, and hath Privilege as a Peer.

OF KNIGHTHOOD IN GENERAL.

CHAP. XVI.

ALTHOUGH I am not of the Opinion of ſome that vainly derive the Order of Knighthood from St. Michael the Archangel, whom they term the primier Chevalier; yet I may ſay that it is near as ancient as Valour and Heroick Vertue, and may derive its Original from Troy, which bred many Noble and Renowned Knights; amongſt which were Hector, Troilus, Æneas, and Antenor. So among the Greeks were Agamemnon, Menelaus, Peleus, Hercules, Diomedes, Telamon, Ulyſſes, and ſeveral others, whoſe Military and Heroick Acts purchaſed unto them a never dying Fame. And the Romans took ſo great care for the cheriſhing and advancement of Heroick and Military Vertue and Honour, that they erected and dedicated Temples to Vertue and Honour; and from the Infancy of their Military Glory they inſtituted a Society of Knights, which conſiſted of a ſelect Number. And ſome there are that plead to have Knighthood take its riſe from Romulus: For, ſay they, that Romulus having ſettled his Government in Rome, partly for Security, and partly for Magnificence, erected or inrolled three Bands or Centuries of Knighthood or Horſmen; the firſt he called Romene from his own Name; the ſecond Titience from Titus Tacitus; and by the third Luceria, whereof mention is made by Livy. And this Inrollment conſiſted of Three hundred ſtout and perſonable Men, choſen out of the chiefeſt Families, and were to attend him as his Life-guard, both in Peace and War, and were called Celeres, or Equites from their perſonal Valour and dexterity in Martial Affairs.

And to add to the Honour of Knighthood, the Romans oft-times made the Knights Judges for the management of their Civil Affairs, yet continued they of the Equeſtrian Order.

The Romans called their Knights Milites, or Miles, and Equites, or Equites Aurati; the Italians and Spaniards, Cavalieri; the French, Chevaliers; and the Engliſh, Knights.

The Addition of Sir is attributed to the Names of all Knights, as Sir John, Sir Thomas, and the like. And to Baronets the ſaid Addition of Sir is granted unto them by a peculiar Clauſe in their Patents of Creation, although they are not dubbed Knights.

No Man is born a Knight of any Title or Degree whatſoever, but made ſo; either before a Battel, to encourage him to adventure his Life; or after the Fight, as an Advancement to Honour for their valiant Acts. And although Knighthood, according to its firſt Inſtitution, was only a Military Honour; yet of latter Days, it hath been frequently ſeen, that meritorious Perſons in Civil Affairs have this Degree of Honour conferred upon them. Nor are Kings, Princes, or Potentates at at any time limited or confined their beſtowing this Dignity, being at all times free to beſtow it on whomſoever they ſhall in their Princely Favour think worthy to be advanced to the ſaid Honour, either for their Merit, Birth, or Eſtate.

The Enſigns or Ornaments belonging to Knighthood are many, each Country or Kingdom having thoſe peculiar to it ſelf: I ſhall name ſome of the chief.

To the Knights of the Equeſtrian Order amongſt the ancient Romans was given a Horſe, or a Gold Ring. The Germans gave the Badge of the Shield and Launce. The French anciently gave alſo the Shield and Launce, (as Favin notes) but ſince they uſed the Equeſtrian Target.

Another Knightly Ornament is the Military Belt, firſt made of Leather, which afterwards came to be richly adorned with Gold and precious Stones; and to this Belt was added a Sword. Other Ornaments were gilt or golden Spurs, and golden Collars of SS. But theſe have been for a long time laid aſide, and inſtead thereof is only uſed Dubbing with a naked Sword to Knights Batchelors, which I ſhall ſpeak of when I treat of Knights Batchelors.

Many have been, and yet are, the Degrees and Order of Knighthood in Chriſtendom, each Kingdom having ſome appropriated to themſelves: Which though many of them are now extinct; yet I ſhall touch upon them, as I find them Recorded by Sir William Segar in his Volume of Honour Military and Civil, and by Elias Aſhmole, Eſq; in his incomparable Volume of the Order of the Garter, to which I refer the Curious Reader for his further ſatisfaction. And of theſe Degrees or Orders I ſhall firſt treat of thoſe uſed amongſt us, beginning with that of the moſt Noble Order of the Garter; next with the Knights Bannerets; then with Baronets, this being their proper place according to precedency, although ſomething improper, as not being of any degree of Knighthood; next with Knights of the Bath; then with Knights Batchelors; and ſo conclude with thoſe Degrees of Knighthood in Foreign Kingdoms and Countries.

KNIGHTS

Of the moſt Noble

ORDER of the GARTER,

S^T. GEORGE.

CHAP. XVII.

IT was the Cuſtome and Policy of puiſſant Princes in all Ages to invite and ſecure to themſelves Perſons of Renown, and ſuch Heroick Spirits were encouraged with Remarks of Honour, (viz. eminent Privileges of Place, different Habits, and additional Titles) to diſtinguiſh them from the Vulgar, beſides other opulent Rewards: And amongſt thoſe Perſons, the more eminent or excellent of merit were placed in a Superior Orb, that their Glory might be the more ſplended to the World. Such were King David's mighty Men, the Satrapæ of Perſia, the Orders Military amongſt the Romans, and the many Inſtitutions of Knighthood in Chriſtendome: But of all Orders purely Military now extant, I muſt prefer this of St. George, which we call the Garter; not only becauſe it is our own Nation, or that none are commonly admitted but Peers, but for the Excellency of it ſelf.

Firſt, for its Antiquity; Secondly, for its glorious Inſtitution by that Renowned King Edward; And Thirdly, for the many Emperors, Kings, and Princes that have been admitted into the ſaid Fraternity.

Firſt, I find it agreeable to all Hiſtories, that 'twas inſtituted by King Edward the Third, Anno 1350. which was fifty Years before the Inſtituting the French Order of St. Michael by Lewis the Eleventh; Two hundred twenty nine Years before Henry the Third deviſed the new Order of the Holy Ghoſt; full Eighty Years before the Order of the Golden Fleece was inſtituted by Philip the Good of Burgundy; One hundred and ninety Years before King James the Fifth reſined the Order of St. Andrew in Scotland; and about Two hundred and nine Years before the Kings of Denmark begun the Order of the Elephant; which gives it clearly the pre-eminence before other Orders in point of Antiquity.

For the Occaſion of the priſtine Inſtitution you muſt know, King Edward the Third having engaged

The Effigies of the most Hon.ble Henry Somerset, Marques and Earle of Worcester, L.d Herbert, Baron of Chipstow Raglon and Gower, Lord President and L.t Lieutenant of Wales, and the Marches Lord Leivtenant of th Countyes of Glocester, Hereford and Monmouth, and of the City and County of Bristol, Knight of the most noble order of the Garter, and one of the Lords of his Ma.ties most Hon.ble Privy Councell

gaged himſelf in a War with France (for the obtaining of that Crown which deſcended on him in right of his Mother) thought fit to allure to his Party all ſuch Gallant Spirits as were Friends to Bellona; and to that end erected a round Table in the Caſtle of Windſor in imitation of King Arthur's at Winchester, where they were exerciſed at Tilts and Tournaments, and Royally entertained with magnificent Feaſts and other Princely Favours to engage them unto him. But Philip of Vallois, who was in actual poſſeſſion of the Crown of France, countermined him by erecting a like Table in his own Court, whereby he drew away many from King Edward, ſo that being diſappointed in that Project, and yet proving Victorious in his Arms againſt France and Scotland, at his Return he rewarded the moſt eminent of thoſe Heroick Knights that had born the brunt of the Day, and perſevered in their Loyalty, with this Noble Order, which conſiſted of Six and twenty, of which himſelf was one; being all Perſons of choice Endowments, of great renown in Chivalry, and ſuch as ſhould be bound by Oath and Honour to adhere unto him. And upon the death of any one of them, the place was to be ſupplied by another, elected by the King and his Succeſſors, who are Sovereigns of the ſaid Order, with the conſent of the Fraternity; but now the Election is at the entire pleaſure of the King.

There are many Articles confirmed unto them, to which all that are enſtalled Subſcribe, beſides the forementioned Oath, viz. that whilſt they ſhall be Fellows of the Order they will defend the Honour, Quarrels, Rights and Lordſhips of the Sovereign; that they will endeavour to preſerve the Honour of the ſaid Order, and all the Statutes made for the ſame, without Fraud or Covin, Quinam perjurati.

It is alſo eſteemed moſt Honourable, there having been more Emperors, Kings, and Foreign Princes of this one Order, than of all others in a manner in the World; which Honour is obtained by keeping preciſely to the primitive Number, never exceeding Six and twenty; whereas all others of this kind have been ſo frankly communicated unto all Pretenders, that at laſt they loſt their Luſtre and Eſteem in the World. Of this Order there hath been no leſs than eight Emperors, ſeven Kings of Portugal, two Kings of Scots before the Union, five Kings of Denmark, three of Naples, one of Poland, and two of Sweden, beſides many Foreign Sovereign Princes of Italy, Germany, &c. The Order and Inſtitution being Honourable, and by many Learned Pens ſufficiently cleared from the Envy of Froyſart, and other French Men; as alſo from the Folly of Polydore Virgil, who favours the Romantick Story of the fair Counteſs of Salisbury, who being a dancing with the ſaid King Edward, let fall her Garter, which the King took up and tied about his Leg; at which the Queen being jealous, he gave this Motto, Honi ſoit qui mal y penſe, that is, Evil be to him that Evil thinks.

The Patron of this Order is St. George, a Man of great Renown for Chivalry; he ſuffered Martyrdom at Lydda under Diocleſian, ſaith Mr. Selden; ſuppoſed by Dr. Helyn to have been martyred at Nicomedia, the principal Seat then of the Eaſtern Empire; and by others at Dioſprilia or Lyddea in Paleſtine, where he is ſaid to be interred; whoſe Fame was ſo great in the World, that many Temples and Monaſteries were dedicated to him in the Eaſtern Countries, from whence his Eſteem came into England, who celebrated to his Memory the Three and twentieth of April with the reſt of the Univerſal Church: But how long he has been honoured as Patron and Protector of England is diſputable; Mr. Selden concludes before the Conqueſt; And 'tis no marvel (ſaith he) that ſo warlike a People ſhould make choice of ſuch a Soldier-Saint, known by the particular Name of Tropheophorus, of greater Eminency in both the Eaſtern and Weſtern Churches than any other Soldier-Saint. To this Tutelary Saint or Patron of Martial Men King Edward commends himſelf and his Companions, called The Knights of St. George: And having both beautified and enlarged his Caſtle at Windſor to be the Royal Seat of this Order, he cauſed a ſolemn Proclamation to be made in France, Spain, &c. to invite all Military Spirits to attend thoſe Tilts and Tournaments which were intended to be kept, not only on St. George's Day then next enſuing, which was deſigned for the Day of Inſtitution, but for fifteen Days before, and as many after; and that the Memory of St. George might be ſtill continued, he gave them for a part of their daily Habit the Image of St. George encountring with the Dragon or Devil, inchaſed with Pearls and precious Stones, appendant to a blue Ribon, continually to be worn about their Necks.

As for the Habit of this Order, beſides the George and Ribon before mentioned, and a Garter enamelled with Gold, Pearl, and precious Stones, with the Motto, Honi ſoit qui mal y penſe embroydered upon it, which is faſtned about the left Leg with a Buckle of Gold, from whence they were called Knights of the Garter, and without theſe two Ornaments none of theſe Knights are to appear in publique. There alſo properly belonging to this Order a Caſſock of crimſon Velvet, lined with white Sarſnet, on the left Shoulder, whereof is an Eſcocheon of St. George embroidered with a Garter, within the Motto: The Eſcocheon is, Argent, a Croſs, Gules. But theſe to be worn only upon St. George's Day, and when it ſhall pleaſe the Sovereign to celebrate the Ceremonies of the Inſtallations. To each Knight belongs a Collar of the Order made of pure Gold, weighing thirty Ounces of Troy weight, compoſed of Garters and Roſes, enamelled with Roſes red and white; and ſince the coming of King James, there hath been an intermixture of Thiſtles; the Image of St. George enriched with precious Stones appendant to it, to be worn over all the Robes at St. George's Feaſt, and over their ordinary Cloaks, upon all ſuch Days on which the the Sovereign is bound by Statute to make Offerings. Alſo beſides theſe Robes and Ornaments appointed by the Founder, it was ordered by King Charles the Firſt, That all Knights ſhould ordinarily wear upon their Cloaks or Coats, on the left Side, a Star of Silver imbroidery, with the Eſcocheon of St. George within the Garter, &c. in the Center of it. But the Habit doth more lively appear by the Pourtraiture repreſenting the Habit of the ſaid Order.

In ſome of theſe Habiliments theſe Knights are attired in publick, as the diverſity of the Occaſion requireth; but always in their ſtatelieſt Robes and richeſt Collars when the Solemnities of the Order are to be performed, that is, the celebrating of St. George's Feaſt, and in the Act of their Inſtallations, in the Free Chappel of St. George, built within the Verge and Limits of the Caſtle, at the Foundation whereof was appointed a Dean, Prebends, and poor Gentlemen eſtabliſhed, to be maintained with Stipends, by the Name of Knights (or poor Knights) of Windſor, who have provided for them Robes of Cloath according to them of their Order, who are to pray for the Order. Concerning the Ceremony of Inſtallation you are to know, that every Knight is bound to faſten an Eſcocheon of their Arms on a Plate of Metal on their ſeveral Stalls, with an Inſcription of their Names, Titles, and Honour, which they remove as they are advanced in order higher. And in this Order they alſo advance their Banners, Swords and Helmets, which are continually over their Stalls during their being of that Order, that Plate of their Arms being left unto the Stall in which they laſt ſate; the Hatchment taken down to make room for ſuch as ſucceed unto the deceaſed or higher removed Knights, touching which they are placed according to the Seniority of their Creations, and not according to their Dignities and Titles of Honour; ſo that ſometimes a Knight Batchelor hath place before an Earl or Duke; as not long ſince Sir Henry Lea Knight, Keeper of the Armory, had precedency of the Duke of Lenox, beſides Earls and Barons: Only in honour to Strangers who are Sovereign Princes, or Sons or Brothers to ſuch, it is permitted by the Rule of Order that they take place according to the Quality of theſe Perſons; but this by a late Indulgence. Anciently if a King crowned came in place of a Knight Batchelor, he ſate there without any difference; but this Alteration was made, as 'tis ſuppoſed, by King Henry the Seventh, in reference to Foreign Princes; the reſt continue in their Stalls where firſt ſeated; ſo that the Sovereign reſerved to themſelves the Power once in their Lives (ſo ſaith the Statute) to make a general tranſlation of all the Stalls, except of Emperors and Foreign Princes, which Order continues to this Day.

Much may be ſaid in honour of this Noble Order: But it being ſo well and accurately treated of by that great Antiquary Elias Aſhmole Eſq; in a large Volume in Folio lately publiſhed by him, entituled The Inſtitution, Laws, and Ceremonies of the moſt Noble Order of the Garter, that nothing more can be ſaid thereof, which he hath illuſtrated with great variety of uſeful and ornamental Sculptures; I ſhall therefore conclude by ſetting down the Heads of the ſeveral Chapters and Sections by him ſo learnedly treated of, recommending to the Reader the ſaid Volume as a Work fit to adorn and enrich the Libraries of the moſt Curious.

The firſt Chapter treats of Knighthood in general, which is divided into ten Sections.

Chap. II. Of the Religious Orders of Knighthood in Chriſtendom, divided into five Sections.

OF KNIGHTS Bannerets.

CHAP. XVIII.

THIS Degree of Knighthood, called by ſome Equites Vexillarii, or Chevaliers à Banier, is a moſt ancient Order, having been uſed in England ever ſince King Edward the Firſt; and hath been always conferred on moſt deſerving Perſons for their ſignal Valour, as I ſhall anon take occaſion to ſpeak of.

'Tis the Judgment of ſome Antiquaries, that theſe Bannerets were once uſed as a part of the three States of the Realm; and that it was the Cuſtom of Kings heretofore to ſummon by Writ the Lords Spiritual and Temporal, with ſuch other worthy Perſons of this Order as they thought fit to conſult about the Publick Affairs of the Kingdom; which Perſons thus aſſembled were then called a Parliament. And that thoſe Bannerets often ſerving their King and Country, in proceſs of time obtained the Name of Barons, and were admitted into the Peerage, and had their Titles affixed to them and their Heirs. And this was the Uſuage and Cuſtome of the Saxon Kings to conſult their Affairs without the Election of the Commons, as both Ethelred and Edwin did. But whether this be a Truth, or only Opinion, I leave to others to diſpute.

Certain it is, they always retained ſome Enſigns of Honour equal to the Nobility, being allowed to bear their Arms with Supporters, which is denied to all others under the Degree of a Baron: Alſo they take place before all Viſcounts and Barons younger Sons; as alſo before all Baronets, and were of ſuch eſteem, that divers Knights Batchelors and Eſquires have ſerved under them.

This Order in France was Hereditary, but with us only for life to the meritorious Perſon; yet eſteemed a Glory and Honour to their Family. The Ceremony of their Creation is moſt Noble: The King (or his General, which is very rare) at the head of his Army (drawn up into Battalia after a Victory) under the Royal Standard diſplayed, attended with all the Field Officers and Nobles of the Court, receives the Knight led between two renowned Knights or valiant Men at Armes, having his Pennon or Guydon of Arms in his Hand; and before them the Heralds, who proclaim his valiant Atchievements, for which he deſerves to be made a Knight Banneret, and to diſplay his Banner in the Field; then the King (or General) ſays unto him, Advances toy Banneret, and cauſeth the point of his Pennon to be rent of; and the new Knight having the Trumpets before him ſounding, the Nobles and Officers accompanying him, is remitted to his Tent, where they are nobly entertained.

To this degree of Knighthood doth belong peculiar Robes and other Ornaments at their Creation.

A Banneret thus made may bear his Banner diſplayed in an Army Royal, and ſet his Arms thereon with Supporters, as may the Nobles.

Of this Order there is at preſent none extant; and the laſt I read of was Sir John Smith, made ſo after Edghill fight (for reſcuing the King's Standard from the Rebels in that Battel) who was afterwards ſlain in his ſaid Majeſty's Service at Alresford in Hantſhire.

To this degree of Honour Sir William de la More (Anceſtor to the Mores of More-hall and Bank-Hall in Lancaſhire, Eſq;) was advanced by Edward the black Prince for his eminent Service done at the Battel of Poictiers in Franse.

OF BARONETS.

CHAP. XIX.

THE loweſt degree of Honour that is Hereditary, is this of Baronets, which was inſtituted by King James in the ninth Year of his Reign, Anno 1611. They are created by Patent under the Great Seal, a Form of which I ſhall here ſet down, which are generally all of one Form; viz. to a Man and the Heirs Males of his Body lawfully begotten; yet ſometimes the Honour is otherwiſe entailed for want of Iſſue Male. And the Proeme or Argument of the ſaid Patent being for the propagating a Plantation in the Province of Ulſter in Ireland, to which the aid of theſe Knights were ordained, or for the maintenance of Thirty Soldiers each of them in Ireland for three Years, after the rate of eight Pence ſterling per diem, which at firſt was payed into the Exchequer at a Lump, upon the paſſing their Patents; which with the Fees of Honour due to Officers, amounted to above One thouſand Pounds a Man.

Their Titles are to deſcend as aforeſaid; and they have precedency before all Knights, except thoſe of the Garter, Bannerets and Privy Councellors: They are ſtyled Baronets in all Writs, Commiſſions, &c. and the addition of Sir is attributed unto them, as the Title of Lady is to their Wives.

They are to take place according to the priority of the Date of their Patents, and no Honour is to be created between Baronets and Barons.

At the firſt inſtituting of this Order King James engaged that they ſhould not exceed Two hundred in Number, and after the ſaid Number ſhould be compleated, if any for want of an Heir Male ſhould be extinct, there ſhould never any more be created in their room, but that the Title ſhould diminiſh to the Honour of them remaining. But afterwards a Commiſſion was ordained to fill up the vacant Places, who had Inſtructions alſo enacted, by which the Commiſſioners were impowered to treat with others that deſired to be admitted into the ſaid Dignity, which is now allowed without limitation; yet with this Proviſo, that they be of good Reputation, and deſcended of a Grandfather at leaſt by the Father's ſide that bare Arms, and have alſo a certain Yearly Revenue of One thouſand Pounds per Annum de claro.

It is alſo ordained that they and their Deſcendants, viz. their eldeſt Sons, attaining the full Age of One and twenty Years, may receive Knighthood; and that they ſhall in a Canton, or in an Eſcocheon (which they pleaſe) bear the Arms of Ulſter, viz. in a Field, Argent, a Siniſter Hand couped at the Wriſt, Gules. In the King's Army Royal they have place in the groſs near the King's Standard, and are allowed ſome peculiar Solemnities for their Funerals.

Since the firſt Creation of Baronets in England, there hath been ſeveral made after the like manner in Ireland; as alſo the Knights of Nova Scotia in the Weſt-Indies by King James upon the like Deſign, that is, for planting that Country by the Scotch Colonies, and the Degrees likewiſe made Hereditary.

THE INSTRUCTIONS

Within mentioned to be obſerved by Our

COMMISSIONERS WITHIN NAMED.

FOR AS MUCH as We have been pleaſed to authorize you to treat and conclude with a certain number of Knights and Eſquires, as they ſhall preſent themſelves unto you with ſuch Offers of Aſſiſtance for the Service of Ireland, and under ſuch Conditions as are contained in theſe Preſents, wherein We do repoſe great Truſt and Confidence in your Diſcretions and Integrities, knowing well, that in ſuch Caſes there are ſo many Circumſtances incident, as require a choice care and conſideration: We do hereby require you to take ſuch courſe as may make known Abroad both Our purpoſe, and the Authority given unto you, That by the more publick Notice thereof, thoſe Perſons who are diſpoſed to advance ſo good a Work, may in time underſtand where and to whom to addreſs themſelves for the ſame; For which purpoſe We require you to appoint ſome certain Place and Times for their Acceſs: Which We think fitteſt to be at the Council Chamber at Whitehall, upon Wedneſdays and Fridays in the Afternoon, where you ſhall make known to them (as they come) that thoſe who deſire to be admitted into the Dignity of Baronets, muſt maintain the Number of Thirty Foot Soldiers in Ireland, for three Years, after the rate of eight Pence ſterling Money of England by the Day; And the Wages of one whole Year to be paid into Our Receipt, upon the paſſing of the Patent.

Provided always, that you proceed with none, except it ſhall appear unto you upon good Proof, that they are Men for Quality, ſtate of Living, and good Reputation, worthy of the ſame; And that they are at the leaſt deſcended of a Grandfather by the Father's ſide that bare Arms; and have alſo of certain yearly revenue in Lands of inheritance of poſſeſſion, One thouſand Pounds per Annum de claro; or Lands of the old Rent, as good (in Accompt) as One thouſand Pounds per Annum of improved Rents, or at the leaſt two parts in three parts to be divided of Lands, to the ſaid Values in poſſeſſion, and the other third part in reverſion, expectant upon one Life only, holding by Dower or in Joynture.

And for the Order to be obſerved in ranking thoſe that ſhall receive the Dignity of a Baronet, although it is to be wiſhed, that thoſe Knights which have now Place before other Knights (in reſpect of the time of their Creation) may be ranked before others (Cæteris paribus) yet becauſe this this is a Dignity which shall be Hereditary, wherein divers Circumstances are more considerable, than such a Mark as is but Temporary (that is to say of being now a Knight, in time before another) Our Pleasure is, you shall not be so precise, in placing those that shall receive this Dignity, but that an Esquire of great Antiquity and extraordinary Living, may be ranked in this Choice before some Knights. And so (of Knights) a Man of great living, more remarkable for his House, Years, or Calling in the Common-wealth, may be now preferred in this Degree, before one that was made a Knight before him.

Next, because there is nothing of Honour, or Value, which is known to be sought or desired (be the Motives never so good) but may receive Scandal from some, who (wanting the same good Affection to the Publick) or being in other considerations incapable, can be contented out of Envy to those that are so preferred, to cast Aspersions and Imputations upon them; As if they came by this Dignity for any other consideration, but that which concerneth this so publick and memorable a Work, you shall take Order, That the Party who shall receive this Dignity, may take his Oath, that neither he (nor any for him) hath directly or indirectly given any more for attaining the Degree, or any Precedency in it, than that which is necessary for the maintenance of the Number of Soldiers, in such sort as aforesaid, saving the Charges of passing his Patent.

And because We are not Ignorant, that in the distribution of all Honours, most Men will be desirous to attain to so high a place as they may, in the Judgment whereof (being matter of dignity) there cannot be too great Caution used to avoid the interruption that private partialities may breed in so worthy a Competition.

Forasmuch as it is well known, that it can concern no other Person so much to prevent all such Inconveniencies, as it must do Our self, from whom all Honour and Dignity (either Temporary or Hereditary) hath his only Root and Beginning, You shall publish and declare to all whom it may concern, That for the better Warrant of your own Actions, in this matter of Precedency (wherein We find you so desirous to avoid all just Exceptions) We are determined upon view of all those Patents, which shall be subscribed by you, before the same pass Our Great Seal, to take the especial care upon Us, to order and rank every Man in his due Place; And therein always to use the particular Counsel and Advice that you our Commissioners shall give Us, of whose integrity and circumspection We have so good experience, and are so well perswaded, as We assure Our self, you will use all the best means you may to inform your own Judgments in cases doubtful, before you deliver Us any such Opinion as may lead Us in a Case of this Nature, wherein Our Intention is (by due consideration of all necessary Circumstances) to give every Man that satisfaction which standeth with Honour and Reason.

Lastly, Having now directed you, how and with what caution you are to entertain the Offers of such as shall present themselves for this Dignity, We do also require you to observe these two Things. The one, That every such Person as shall be admitted, do enter into sufficient Bond or Recognizance to Our use, for the payment of that Portion which shall be remaining after the first Payment is made, which you are to see paid upon delivery of the Letters Patents: The other, That seeing this Contribution for so publick an Action is the motive of this Dignity, and that the greatest good which may be expected upon this Plantation, will depend upon the certain Payment of those Forces which shall be fit to be maintained in that Kingdom, until the same be well established, the charge whereof will be born with the greater difficulty, if We be not eased by some such extraordinary means; we require you Our Treasurer of England, so to order this Receipt, as no part thereof be mixed with Our other Treasure, but kept apart by it self, to be wholly converted to that Use to which it is given and intended; And in regard thereof, that you assign it to be received, and the Bonds to be kept by some such particular Person as you shall think good to appoint, who upon the payment of every several Portion, shall both deliver out the Bonds, and give his Acquittance for the same. For which this shall be yours and his the said Receiver's sufficient Warrant in that behalf.

CHAP. XX.

THE

Several Enfigns of the Orders Religious & Military

Mentioned in the second Part.

KNIGHTS OF THE BATH.

CHAP. XX.

KNIGHTS of the Bath (ſo called from Part of the Ceremony at their Creation) are commonly made at the Coronation of a King or Queen, at the Creation of a Prince, or of a Duke of the Blood Royal. Thus at the Creation of Henry Prince of Wales, and Charles Duke of York, the ſecond Son of King James, Knights of the Bath were made; and at the Coronation of our late dread Sovereign King Charles the Second, 68 were made; whoſe Names you will find in the enſuing Catalogue.

This Order was firſt erected (ſaith Froyſard) in Anno 1399. by King Henry the Fourth, who, to add to the Luſtre of his Coronation, created 46 Knights of the Bath; and Mr. Selden thinks them more ancient: But that great Antiquary Eliaſ Aſhmole Eſq; is of the Opinion that the ſaid King did not conſtitute, but rather reſtore, the ancient Manner of making Knights; for formerly Knights Batchelors were created by Eccleſiaſticks with the like Ceremonies; and being thus brought again into uſe, and made peculiar to the Degree of Knights of the Bath, they have ever ſince continued: And the better to maintain this his Opinion, ſaith, That they have neither Laws nor Statutes aſſigned them; neither are they to wear their Robes, but upon the Time or Solemnity for which they were created, (except the red Ribon, which they are allowed always to wear croſs their left Shoulder;) and upon any Vacancy their Number (which is uncertain) is not ſupplied.

They are created with much noble Ceremonies, and have had Princes and the Prime of the Nobility of their Fellowſhip. The particular Manner of their Creation is mentioned by many Authors, but moſt exactly deſcribed, and illuſtrated with Figures of all the Ceremonies, by the learned Hand of William Dugdale Eſq; Norroy King at Arms, in his Deſcription of Warwickſhire; to which laborious Piece I refer the curious Reader, borrowing from him, and ſome others, this ſmall Abſtract of their Ceremonies.

When one is to be made a Knight of this Order, at his coming to Court he is honourably received by the Chief Officers and Nobles of the Court, and hath two Eſquires appointed to wait upon him, who convey him to the Chamber without more ſeeing him that day, where he is to be entertained with Muſick; then a Bath is to be prepared by the Barber, who is to trim him; and the King being informed that he is ready for the Bath, he is by the moſt grave Knights there preſent inſtructed in the Orders and Fees of Chivalry, the Muſick playing at his Chamber-door; then they hearing the Muſick, ſhall undreſs him, and put him naked into the Bath, and the Muſick ceaſing, ſome one of the Knights ſhall ſay, Be this an honourable Bath unto you: Then ſhall he be conveyed to his Bed, which ſhall be plain, and without Curtains; and ſo ſoon as he is dry, they ſhall help to dreſs him, putting over his inward Garment a Ruſſet Robe with long Sleeves, and a Hood like unto that of an Hermit; and the Barber ſhall take all that is within and without the Bath, with his Collar about his Neck, for his Fees: Then ſhall he be conducted to the Chappel with Muſick, where being entred, the Knights and Eſquires ſhall be entertained with Wine and Spices for their Favours done unto him: Then they take their Leaves of him, and he and his two Eſquires and a Prieſt perform a Vigil till almoſt Day, with Prayers and Offerings, beſeeching God and his bleſſed Mother to make him worthy of that Dignity: And being confeſſed, he ſhall, with one of the Governors, hold a Taper till the reading of the Goſpel; and then he ſhall give it to one of the Eſquires to hold till the Goſpel is ended; and at the Elevation of the Hoſt, one of the Governors ſhall take the Hood from the Eſquire, and after deliver it again till the Goſpel in principio, and at the Beginning take the Hood again, and give him the Taper again in his Hand, having a Penny ready near the Candleſtick, at the Words Verbum caro factum eſt, the Eſquire kneeling, ſhall offer the Taper to the Honour of God, and a Penny to the Honour of the Perſon that makes him a Knight. This Ceremony being ended, he ſhall be conducted to his Chamber for ſome Repoſe until the King's Pleaſure is known; and then he is dreſſed and attended into the Hall, which is ready for his Reception, being girded with a Girdle of White Leather without Buckles, having a Coif on his Head, Mantles of Silk over a Kirtle of red Tartarin, tied with a Lace of white Silk, with a pair of white Gloves hanging at the ends of the Lace; and this Attire is the Chandler's Fees. Then he is conducted by the Knights on Horſback to the King's Hall, with his Sword, and his Spurs hanging at the Pomel of the Sword, being carried before him; and the Marſhal and Uſhers meeting him, do deſire him to alight; the Marſhal ſhall take his Horſe for his Fee: And being brought to the high and ſecond Table, with his Sword being held upright before him, the King coming into the Hall, doth ask for the Sword and Spurs, which the Chamberlain ſhall take and ſhew the King, who takes the right Spur, and delivers it to the moſt Noble Perſon there, wiſhing him to put it on the Eſquire; which being done, a Knight puts on the left Spur; then the King taking the Sword, which he girts about him, and putting his Arms about his Neck, ſaith, Be thou a good Knight, and after kiſſeth him; then he is conducted to the Chappel, and kneeling, with his right Hand lying on the high Altar, he promiſeth to maintain the Rites of Holy Church until his Death; and ungirting his Sword, with great Devotion he offereth it there to God: Then at his going out, the King's Maſter-Cook, who is there ready to take off his Spurs, ſhall ſay, I the King's Maſter-Cook am come to receive thy Spurs for my Fee; and if you do any thing contrary to the Order of Knighthood, (which God forbid) I ſhall hack your Spurs from your Heels. Then he is conducted again into the Hall, where he ſhall ſit at Table with the Knights; and being riſen, and retired into his Chamber, his Attire is taken off, and again clothed with a blue Robe, having on his left Shoulder a Lace of white Silk hanging, to be worn upon all his Garments from that day forwards, till he have gained ſome Honour and Renown for ſome Feats of Arms, or ſome Prince or Lady of Quality cut that Lace from his Shoulder. After Dinner the Knights muſt come to the Knight, and conduct him into the King's Preſence, to return him Thanks for theſe Honours, and ſo takes his Leave of the King; and the Governors craving his Pardon for any Miſcarriage, and claiming their Fees according to the Cuſtom of the Court, alſo take their Leaves of the Knight. I ſhall conclude this Chapter with giving an Account of the Knights made at the Coronation of His Majeſty King Charles the Second.

Knights Batchelors,

With what is incident to that Degree of

KNIGHTHOOD,

According to the LAWS of ENGLAND.

CHAP. XXI.

THE particular Kinds of Services by which Lands of Inheritance are diſtinguiſhed, are two, viz. Knights of Service, and Knights of Soccage.

And in ancient Time Tenure by Knights Service was called Regale Servitium, becauſe it was done to and for the King and Realm, and Forinſecum Servitium, as appeareth in the 19 Edw. 2. Avowry 224. 26. Aſſ. p. 66. 7 Hen. 4. 19. Coke's ſeventh Part, 8. a. Calvin's Caſe: Becauſe they who hold by Eſcuage ought to do and perform their Services out of the Realm, Litt. 35. & ideo Forinſecum dici poteſt ſit quia, & capitur foris, & hujuſmodi, ſervitia perſolvuntur ratione Tenementorum, & non Perſonarum.

And as Knights-Service-Land requireth the Service of the Tenant in Warfare and Battel Abroad, ſo Soccage-Tenure commandeth the Attendance at the Plough; the one by Manhood, defending the King, or his Lord's Life and Perſon; the other by Induſtry, maintaining with Rents, Corn, and Victuals, his Eſtate and Family.

For Kings did thus order their own Lands and Tenements: One Part they kept and detained in their own Hands, and in them ſtately Houſes and Caſtles were erected, and made for their Habitations, and Defence of their Perſons, and of the Realm: Alſo Foreſts and Parks were there made for their Majeſties Recreation: One other Part thereof was given to the Nobles, and others of their Chivalry, reſerving Tenure by Knights Service: The third Part was beſtowed upon Men of meaner Condition and Quality, with Reſervation of Soccage-Tenure. And in this Manner the Dukes and Nobles amongſt their Menials and Followers diſſipated a great Part of their Lands, viz. to their Gentlemen of Quality to hold by Knights Service, and to others of meaner Condition by Soccage-Tenure.

Gervatius Tilbucienſis, a learned Man that flouriſhed in the Days of King Henry the Second, in his Dialogue of the Obſervations of the Exchequer, hath in Effect as followeth: Until the Time of Henry the Firſt (ſaith he) the Kings uſed not to receive Money of their Lands, but Victuals for the Proviſion of their Houſe; and towards the Payment of their Soldiers Wages, and for ſuch like Charges, Money was raiſed out of the Cities and Caſtles in which Husbandry was not exerciſed: But at the length, when the Kings being in Parts beyond the Seas, needed ready Money for and towards the Furniture of their Wars, and the Subjects and Farmers complained they were grievouſly troubled by Carriage of Victuals into ſundry Parts of the Realm far diſtant from their Habitations, the Kings directed Commiſſions to certain diſcreet Perſons, who having Regard

Court of Exchequer.

The Hon.ble S.r John Fortescue K.nt

S.r Nathaniel Mead Knight,
Serjeant at Law.

Regard to those Victuals, should reduce them into reasonable Sums of Money, the levying of which they appointed to the Sheriff, taking Order withal that he should pay them at the Scale or Beam, that is to say, that he should pay six Pence over and above every Pound Weight of Money, because he thought that the Money would wax so much the worse for the wearing.

And it was anciently ordained, That all Knights Fees should come unto the eldest Son by Succession of Heritage, whereby he succeeding his Ancestor in the whole Inheritance, might be the better able to maintain War against the King's Enemies, or his Lords; and that the Soccage of Freehold be partable between the Male Children, to enable them to encrease into many Families for the better encrease of Husbandry.

But as nothing is more unconstant than the Estates we have in Lands and Livings, even so long since these Tenures have been so indifferently mist and confounded in the Hands of each Sort, that there is not now any Note of Difference to be gathered by them. Lambert Peramb. of Kent, 10. Et quia tale servitium forinsecum non semper manet sub eadem quantitate, sed quandoque præstatur ad plus, quandoque ad minus; ideo eo quantitate Regalis servitii, & qualitate fiat mentio in charta, ut tenens certum tenere possit, quid & quantum persolvere teneatur.

And therefore the Certainty of the Law in this Case is, That he that holdeth by a whole and entire Knight's Fee must serve the King, or his other Lord, forty Days in the Wars, well and sufficiently arrayed and furnished at all Points; and by twenty Days if he hold by a Moiety of a Knight's Fee; and so proportionable.

And in the Seventh of Edw. 3. 246. it was demurred in Judgment, Whether forty Days shall be accounted from the first Day that the King did first enter into Scotland; but it seemeth that the Days shall be accounted from the first Day that the King doth enter into Scotland, because the Service is to be done out of the Realm.

And they that hold per Regale Servitium, are not to perform that Service, unless the King do also go himself into the Wars in proper Person, by the Opinion of Sir William Earle Chief Justice of the Common Pleas, Irium Sept. Edw. 3. 246. but vide 3 Hen. 6. tit. Protection 2. in which Case it was observed, That seeing the Protector (who was Prorex) went, the same was adjudg'd a Voyage Royal.

Also before the Statute de quia emptores terrarum, which was made decimo octavo Edw. 1. the King or other Lord had given Lands to a Knight to hold of him by Service and Chivalry (scil.) to go with the King, or with his Lord, when the King doth make a Voyage Royal to subdue his Enemies, by forty Days well and conveniently arrayed for the War. In this Case the Law hath such regard to the Dignity of Knighthood, that he may find an able Person to go for him, and the Knight is not compelled by his Tenure to go in Person as ordinary Soldiers, who are hired or retained by Prest-money or Wages.

There hath been many and varying Opinions of the Contraries of a Knight's Fee, as you may read in Coke's ninth Part 122. and there it is proved, that Antiquity hath thought that Twenty Pounds in Land was sufficient to maintain the Degree of Knighthood; as it doth appear in the ancient Treatise De modo tenendi Parliamentum tempore Regis Edwardi, filii Regis Etheldred; which also doth concur with the Act of Parliament Anno primo Edw. 2. de militibus: By which Act of Parliament Census militis, the Estate of a Knight, was measured by the Value of Twenty Pounds Land per Annum, and not by any certain Content of Acres. And with this doth agree the Statute of Westminster, cap. 35. & Fitz. Nat. Brev. 82. where Twenty Pounds Land per Annum in Soccage is put in Equipage with a Knight's Fee. And this is the most reasonable Estimation; for one Acre may be more worth in Value than many others.

And it is to be observed, That the Relief of a Knight, and of all Superiors that be Noble, is the fourth Part of their Revenue by the Year; as of a Knight five Pounds, and so of the rest.

And because this Tenure doth concern Service in War, the Tenants are therefore called Milites Militia: For tho' the Word doth properly signify a Soldier, yet Antiquity hath appropriated that Name to the chiefest of Military Profession. In our Law they are styled Milites, and never Equites; yet so, that Miles is taken for the self same that Chivalry is. Bracton, fol. 79. maketh mention of Rode Knights, that is to say, serving Horsemen, who held their Lands with Condition that they should serve their Lords on Horseback. And so by cutting off a Piece of a Name (as our Delight is to speak short) this Name Knight remaineth with us; for Armiger, scil. the Esquire, which is a Degree under the Knight, was in the Military Service to serve on Foot.

Note, He that holdeth by a whole Knight's Fee, must be with the King Forty Days, well and compleatly arrayed for the War, which is to be understood to serve on Horseback. And in all Nations the Name of this Dignity is taken of Horses; for the Italians call them Cavelieri; the Frenchmen, Chivaleris; the Germans, Regters; our Britons, Murgeghe, all riding; and in Latin we call them Equites aurati; for at their Creations, besides the Sword and Girdle, gilt Spurs were added for more Ornament. And when a Knight doth commit any Offence for which he is by the Law to suffer Death, the Use hath been in the Beginning of his Punishment to degrade and deprive him publickly ly of his Honour of Knighthood (for it is but with Life leas'd, or taken away, Mills 81.) by ungirding his Military Girdle, by taking away his Sword, and broken, his Spurs cut off with an Hatchet, his Gauntlets pluckt from him, and the Escutcheons of his Arms reversed.

And in the Statute made 24 Hen. 8. cap. 13. entitled, An Act for Reformation of Apparel, it was permitted for Knights to wear a Collar of Gold, named the Collar of SS.

And altho' this Dignity of Knighthood had its Original, and was given to Men of War and Prowess; yet in all Successions of Ages, and in all Nations, the same also is bestowed upon Men of Peace by the Sovereign Power to deserving Persons, whereby the Service of the Commonwealth at Home is made equal with that Abroad: For as Tully saith truly, Parvi sunt arma foris nisi est consilium domi. But Experience, the faithfullest Counsellor and best Mistress, hath made it manifest both in this modern Age, as well as in that of Tully's, that the Camp hath bred more eminent Statesmen, and happily as good Politicians, as the long Robe: Perhaps for this Reason, one aims chiefly at Glory and Honour, which easily attracts Admirers and Favourers; the other at Riches and indirect Negotiations, which begets Envy and private Enemies.

He that receiveth the Dignity of a Knight kneeleth down, and then the King slightly smiteth him upon his Shoulder, and saith unto him these Words in French, Sois Chivaler au nome de Dieu; and afterwards saith moreover, Avance Chivaltr. See the Book of Titles of Honour due to the Earl Marshal for the making of Knights, 176. For a Knight is not made by Letters Patents, or by the King's Writ, as those of higher Dignity, but by the Sword; for this Honour is supposed to be given on the sudden, and therefore is commonly done by the Sword, altho' the King may by his Letters Patents create a Knight.

Earls in ancient Times had a Power of Knighting; but now neither may the Prince, or any other of the Nobility, make a Knight, but only the King, or Lieutenant General by his Commission. No Man is born a Knight, as he may be to Titles of Honour by Patent; but a Knight may be made assoon as a Child is baptiz'd, except Knights Bannerets. Note the printed Book of Titles of Honour, fol. 218, 313. the first Knight. With us in England there are divers Sorts of Knights, whereof Cambden 171. and Mills, do write at large: But amongst the Romans there was but one Order of them, and they were next in Degree unto the Senators. And they who simply, without any Addition, be called Knights, howsoever they are in Order ranked last, yet by Institution they are first, and of greatest Antiquity; and the other Orders are but late Attributes, according to the several Inventions of particular Princes. And I do not remember that in our Books of Law I have read any Thing concerning the Order of Knights with Addition, viz. Knights of the Honourable Order of the Garter, Knights Bannerets, and Knights of the Bath. But in the Statute 12 Hen. 8. cap. 13. it is enacted, That every Knight of the Garter may have three Chaplains, whereof every one may purchase Licence or Dispensation, and receive, have, and keep two Benefices with Cure of Souls: But they of this Order which I now treat of, are called Knights of the Spur, or Knight Batchelors.

Between Doctors of the Civil Law and Knights hath ever been Question for Precedency, since either of them hath been in Credit in the Commonwealth; as may appear both by the Comparison that Tully maketh between Lucius Murena, a Knight of Rome, and Publius Sulpitius, a Lawyer, either of them standing for Consulship, in his eloquent Oration made for Murena; and many Disputes of Bardal and Bardus, arguing the Case Pro and Con; which though it be disputable in foreign Parts, yet here in England it is without Controversy, and the Precedency thereof is undoubtedly the Knights. But if they be both of equal Degree of Knighthood, then it goeth by Seniority. The Opinion of some Men lately hath been, That Knights Lieutenants (that is to say) such Knights as either have been Ambassadors in foreign Parts, or Judges within the Realm, may and ought to have, during their Lives, Precedency above Men of their own Rank after their Offices expire; and sub Judice his est, not determined by Judgment. But admitting it so to be, by way of Argument in that Case; yet the Heralds do deny that Privilege to the Lord Mayor and Aldermen of London, or Justices of the Peace, who have their limited Jurisdiction of Magistracy confined them: But the former are generally Magistrates throughout the Realm, and their Employment concerneth the whole Commonwealth; and having the publick Justice and Honour of the whole Estate committed unto them, do more meritoriously draw from thence a great Respect of Honour, according to the Generality of their Administration and Employments, which an inferiour and more confined Magistrate cannot have.

The Name of a Knight is a Name of Dignity, and a Degree, as is the Name of Duke, Earl, &c. and in all Actions he shall be styled Knight; otherwise the Writ shall abate.

A Knight must also be named by both his Christian and Surnames, as Sir A. B. Knight. But those Degrees honourable that are made by Patent, may be named only by their Christian Names, and by their Title of Honour, as Gilbert Earl of Shrewsbury; and that for two Causes: First, because of their solemn Creations, (& nomen dicitur à noscendo;) Secondly, There is but one Part of that Title of Honour within England, and therefore it is certain what Person he is; but otherwise of Knights, as it is certainly known in the 8 Edw. 4. 24. a. And Priſot, Chief Juſtice, ſaith, in the 32 Hen. 6. 26. b. That if an Eſquire be made a Knight, he loſeth his Name of Eſquire; but though a Knight be made a Nobleman, or of any higher Degree, he doth ſtill retain the Name of Knight, and ſo ought to be ſtyled in all Writs.

as

Alſo if a Man do recover in an Action by the Name of John Stiles, Eſq; and afterwards be made a Knight, he muſt ſue his Scire Facias by the Name of Knight.

And this Name ſhall not die with him; for if they were bound in an Obligation by the Name of Gentlemen or Eſquires, and afterwards one is made a Knight, and dieth, the Plaintiff in the Action to be brought againſt his Executors, muſt name him Knight, otherwiſe the Writ ſhall abate.

If a Grant be made to H. D. Knight, when he is not a Knight, it is a void Grant; but if it be a Feoffment with Livery, the Livery maketh it good. If the Plaintiff or Demandant do in his Writ name the Defendant or Tenant Eſquire when he is a Knight, the Writ ſhall not only abate, but alſo the Plaintiff may not have another Writ by Journeys Accompt.

But by the Statute made 1 Edw. 6. cap. 7. it is amongſt other Things enacted, That albeit any Perſon or Perſons, being Juſtices of Aſſize, Juſtices of Goal-delivery, or Juſtices of the Peace, within any of the King's Dominions, or by any other of the King's Commiſſions whatſoever, ſhall have the Fortune to be made or created Duke, Archbiſhop, Marquiſs, Earl, Viſcount, Biſhop, Baron, Knight, Juſtice of the one Bench, or of the other, Serjeant at Law, or Sheriff, yet that notwithſtanding he and they ſhall remain Juſtices and Commiſſioners, and have full Power and Authority to execute the ſame in like Manner and Form as he or they might or ought to have done before the ſame. By the Statute of 1 Hen. 5. cap. 5. it is enacted as followeth: That every Writ, Original of Actions Perſonal, Appeals, and Indictments, and in which an Exigit ſhall be awarded to the Names of the Defendants, in ſuch Writs, Original, Appeals, and Indictments ſhall be made the Additions of their Eſtate, Degrees, &c. And a little after it is provided, That if the ſaid Writs of Actions Perſonal be not according to the Record and Deed, by the Surpluſage of the Additions aforeſaid, that for this Cauſe they are not.

John Stiles, Gent. is bound by Obligation to one W. B. the Obligor is afterwards made Knight, the Bond is forfeited; W. B. by his Attorney draweth a Note or Title for an Original, according to the Defendant's Degree, although it varies from the Original Specialty, as it ought to be made by the Statute: But the Curſitor miſtaking, did make the Original only according to ſuch Addition as was ſpecified in the Obligation, omitting his Degree or Dignity, and the Entry of the Capias alias & pluris was according to the ſaid Original; but in the Exigit and Proclamation, and Entry of it, the Defendant was named according to his Degree of Dignity: Upon a Writ of Error after a Judgment, Doubt was, If this might be amended in another Court than where the Original was made; and at the laſt it was reſolved by all the Court, That the Record ſhould be amended by the Curſitor, and made according to the Note and Title delivered unto him by the Attorney.

It appeareth in our Books of Law, that the higheſt and loweſt Dignities are univerſal; for as if a King of a foreign Nation come into England by his Majeſty's Leave, (as it ought to be) in this Caſe he ſhall ſue and be ſued by the Name of a King; ſo ſhall a Knight ſue or be ſued by the Name of a Knight, whereſoever he received that Degree of Honour: But otherwiſe it is as if a Duke, Marquiſs, Earl, or other Title of Honour given by any foreign King or Emperor, yea, although the King by his Letters Patents of ſafe Conduct do name him Duke, or by what other foreign Title of Dignity he hath; for Experience teacheth that Kings joyned in League together by a certain mutual (as it were a natural) Power of Monarchs, (according to the Law of Nations) have admitted one anothers Servants, Subjects, and Ambaſſadors graced with the Title of Knighthood. Therefore though a Knight receive his Dignity of a foreign Prince, he is ſo to be ſtiled in all Legal Proceedings within England. And Kings were wont to ſend their Sons unto their Neighbour Princes to receive Knighthood at their Hands, thinking that it was more honourable to take Arms of ſome other, leſt Affection might ſeem to prevent Judgment, when the Father gave them that Honour. Thus our King Henry the Second ſent unto David King of Scots, and Malcombe King of Scots unto our Henry the Second, and our Edward the Firſt unto the King of Caſtile, to take of them Military Arms: For theſe Terms and Phraſes they uſed in that Age for the Creation of a Knight.

And Knights in all foreign Countries have ever Place and Precedency according to their Seniority of being Knighted, which Privilege is denied to Noblemen; for be they never ſo ancient, in foreign Countries they ſhall go below, as Puiſnes. The Degree of Knighthood is not only a Dignity and Honour to the Party, (for ſo it is termed in Brook's Title Additions 44.) but an Honour to the Kingdom: And therefore it hath been an ancient Prerogative of the Kings of this Realm, at their Pleaſure to compel Men of Worth to take upon them that Degree upon Payment of a Fine. But we ſee by Experience in theſe Days, that none are compelled thereunto, and that is the Reaſon, wherefore wherefore, if the Plaintiff be Knighted, having the Writ, it ſhall abate, becauſe he hath changed his Name, and that by his own Act.

And for that Cauſe alſo, by the Common Law, not only the King, but every Lord of a Manor, ought to have of every of his Tenants a reaſonable Aid to make his eldeſt Son a Knight: And all Lands are ſubject to theſe Aids, except only ancient Demeſne, and grand and petty Serjeanty-Tenures, as the Law hath been anciently delivered: And in Jo. Shelden 131. where alſo it is ſaid, one that wrote a little after the Statute of Weſtminſter the firſt, allows as a good Bar to the Avowry, for the Tenant to plead that the Father himſelf is no Knight; ſo that one not Knighted cannot claim this Aid of his Tenants. Britan. cap. de prices de Avers.

And it was at the Liberty of the Lord to make more or leſs of his Tenants by the Common Law in this Caſe; but by the Statute of Weſtminſter the firſt, Chap. 35. it is put in contrary, viz. foraſmuch as before this Time reaſonable Aid to make ones Son Knight, or to marry his Daughter, was never put in certain, nor how much ſhould be taken, nor at what Time, whereby ſome levied unreaſonable Aid, and more often than ſeemed neceſſary, whereby the People were ſore grieved: It is provided that from henceforth, of a whole Knight's Fee, there be taken but twenty Shillings; and of twenty Pounds in Land holden in Soccage, twenty Shillings; and of more, more; and of leſs, leſs; after that Rate. And that none ſhall levy ſuch Aid to make his Son a Knight, until his Son be of fifteen Years old; nor to marry his Daughter until ſhe be of the Age of ſeven Years: And of that there ſhall be mention made in the King's Writs formed on the ſame, when any Will demand it.

And if it happen that the Father, after he hath levied ſuch Aid of his Tenants, die before he hath married his Daughter, the Executors of the Father ſhall be bound to the Daughter for ſo much as the Father received for the Aid. And if the Father's Goods be not ſufficient, his Heir ſhall be charged therewith unto the Daughter. And this Aid is ſo incident, that altho' the Lord do confirm unto the Tenant to hold by Fealty and certain Rent, and releaſe unto him all other Services and Demands, yet ſhall he have the Aid to make his eldeſt Son a Knight. But the King was not bound by the Statute aforementioned, becauſe the King was not named in the Statute: Therefore by the Statute 25 Edw. 3. cap. 11. the King's Aid were brought to a like Value.

The Intention of the Law is, That an Heir, until the Age of one and twenty Years, is not able to do Knights Service. But ſuch a Preſumption of Law doth give Place to a Judgment of Proof to the contrary, (as Bracton ſaith) Stabitur preſumptioni, donec probetur in contrarium. And therefore when the King, who is the Sovereign Judge of all Chivalry, hath dubbed him a Knight, he by this hath adjudged him able to do him Knights Service, and all Men are concluded to ſay the contrary to it: And therefore ſuch an Heir being made a Knight, either in the Life-Time of his Father, or afterwards during his Minority, ſhall be out of Ward and Cuſtody both for his Land, and Body, and Marriage, by the Award of the ancient Common Law. By Reaſon alſo that the Honour of Knighthood is ſo great, that it is not to be holden under by any; yet if the King do create ſuch an Heir within Age a Duke, Marqueſs, Earl, Viſcount, or Baron, by this he ſhall not be out of Ward and Cuſtody both for his Land and Body. And therefore it is propounded by the Statute of Magna Charta, cap. 3. Ita tamen quod ſi ipſe, dum infra ætatem fuerit, fiat miles, nihilominus terra remaneat in Cuſtodia Dominorum ſuorum. So that although ſuch an Heir within Age be made Knight, and thereby to this Purpoſe is eſteemed as of full Age, yet the Land ſhall remain in Cuſtody of the Lord, till his Age of one and twenty Years, by the Purview of the ſaid Act.

Queſtion. If the Son and Heir of the Tenant of the King by Knights Service, &c. be made Knight in Paris by the French King, whether he ſhall be out of Wardſhip after the Death of his Father, or no? For thereby he is a Knight in England: Coke's ſeventh Part, b. 2 Edw. 4. fol. tamen vide in Coke's ſixth Part, 74. b. mention is only made of Knights made by the King himſelf, or by his Lieutenant in Ireland. But when the King doth make an Heir apparent within Age of a Tenant by Knights Service, a Knight in the Life of his Anceſtor, and after the Death of his Anceſtor, the ſaid Heir being within Age, ſhall in this Caſe be out of Ward, and ſhall pay no Value for his Marriage, neither ſhall the Lord have the Cuſtody of the Land; for in that Caſe, by the making of him Knight in the Life of his Anceſtor, he is made of full Age; ſo that when his Anceſtor dieth, no Intereſt, either in the Body, or in the Land, ſhall inveſt in the Lord; but the Knight may tender his Livery as if he were of full Age: And in that Caſe the King ſhall have primier Seiſin, as if he had been one and twenty Years of Age at the Time of the Death of his Anceſtor, and not otherwiſe. For the Statute of Magna Charta doth not extend unto it; for the Purview of it doth extend only when the Heir in Ward (infra ætatem) is made Knight, then remanet terra in Cuſtodia, &c.

But when the Heir is made Knight in the Life of his Anceſtor, then the Cuſtody cannot remain, which never had any Inception or Eſſence.

Alſo when the Heir, after the Death of his Anceſtor, within Age is made Knight, if after Tender made to him he within Age do marry

ry elſewhere, yet he ſhall not pay the Forfeiture of his Marriage; for by the making him Knight he is out of Ward and Cuſtody of his Lord, for then he ought to be ſui Juris, and may imploy himſelf in Feats of Arms for Defence of the Realm, &c. and therefore may not be within the Cuſtody of another; and none ſhall pay any Forfeiture, but when after any Refuſal he doth marry himſelf, during the Time when he is under the Cuſtody and Keeping of his Lord: And this doth appear by the Statute of Merton, cap. 6. Si ſe mariturierit ſine licentia Domini ſui, & ei conferet maritagium ſuum, &c. which Words cannot be underſtood when he is out of Ward and Cuſtody, no more than when he is married after the Age of one and twenty Years. Note hereby, That the King may prevent his Grantee, or other Lords, of the double Value by Knighthood: Yet in ſuch Caſe, preſently after the Heir is made a Knight after the Death of his Anceſtor, the Lord may have a Writ de valore maritagii for the ſingle.

Alſo by the ancient Common Law of this Realm, if a Villain be made a Knight, he is immediately infranchiſed: And if a Ribald, or a Man of baſe Birth and Condition had ſtruck a Knight, by the antient Law he ſhould have loſt his Hand wherewith he offended.

But in France it was anciently adjudged, That when the Lord of a Villain had Knighted his Villain, being a Gentleman, he became free, and had his Honour lawfully; but if another Lord had Knighted him, nothing had been wrought by it, for none could manumit him but his Lord; and till Manumiſſion or Knighthood he had Civil Freedom for his Ground, but was not capable of it, except by the King only.

It was enacted by Parliament in the ſixth Year of the Reign of King John, in hæc verba, Rex Vicecom. &c. Sciatis quod conſenſum eſt cum aſſenſu Archiepiſcoporum, Comitum, Baronum, & omnium fidelium noſtrorum Angliæ quod novem Milites per totam Angliam invenient decuriam Militum bene paratorum æquis & armis ad defenſionem Regni noſtri.

There hath ever been, and ſtill is, great Uſe of the Services of Knights even in Civil Affairs, and concerning Matters of Juſtice: As in a Writ of Right, which is the higheſt Writ in Law for trial of Titles touching the Inheritance of Lands; the Tenant is at his Election to have his Trial by great Aſſize, or elſe by Battel; if by the great Aſſize, the Writ De magna Aſſiza eligenda ſhall be thus, viz.

Rex Vicecomiti ſalutem, &c. Summoneas per bonos ſummonitores quatuor legales Milites de Comitatu tuo, quod ſint coram Juſticiariis noſtris ad primam Aſſizam cum in partes illas venerint ad eligendum ſuper ſacramentum ſuum, 12 de militibus de viſum de N. qui melius ſciant & velint dicere veritatem adfaciendam recognitionem magnæ aſſuræ inter A. petent. & B. tenent. de uno meſſuagio cum pertinentiis in N. unde idem B. qui tenens eſt poſuit ſecum magnam Aſſ. noſtram & petit recognitionem fieri utrum eorum habent jus in meſſuagium præd. B. qui tunc ſit ibi auditurus illam electionem, & habeas ibi nomina præd. milit. ad hoc breve, &c. And upon the Return of this Writ, thoſe four Knights muſt appear gladiis cuncti, Dier. 79. fol. 103.

If the Tenant make his Election by Battel, each Parties are to chooſe their Champions, and the Court ſhall award the Battel, and the Champions ſhall be at Mainprize, and ſworn to perform the Battel at a certain Day in the Term; and idem dies ſhall be given to the Parties, at which Day and Place a Liſt ſhall be made in an even and plain Ground there quadrant, that is to ſay, every Way ſixty Foot ſquare; and the Place or Court for the Juſtices of the Common Pleas without, and upon the Liſts furniſhed with the ſame Clothes which belong to their Court at Weſtminſter, and a Bar ſhall be there made for the Serjeants at Law; and the Robes of the Juſtices and Serjeants ſhall be of Scarlet, with their Coifs on, as it was the thirteenth of Eliz. and then was made Proclamation with three O Yes: And the Demandant firſt was ſolemnly demanded, and did not appear; whereupon the Manuperors of the Champion were demanded to bring forth the Champion of the Demandant, who came into the Place apparelled with red Sandals upon his black Armour, bare Legg'd from the Knee downwards, and bare Headed, and bare Arms to the Elbows, being brought in by a Knight, namely Sir Jerom Bowes, who carried a red Battoon of an Ell long tipped with Horn, and a Yeoman carrying the Target made of double Leather; and they were brought in at the North Side of the Liſts, and went about the Sides of the Liſts until they came to the midſt of the Liſts, and then came towards the Bar, before the Juſtices, with three ſolemn Congies; and there was he made to ſtand on the South Side of the Place, being the Right Side of the Court: And after that the other Champion was brought in in like Manner, at the South Side of the Liſts, with like Congies, by the Hands of Sir Henry Chequie, Kt. &c. and was placed on the North Side of the Bar, and two Serjeants, being of the Counſel of each Part, in the midſt between them. This done, the Demandant was ſolemly called again, and appeared not, but made Default. Bowham, Serjeant for the Tenant, prayed the Court to Record the Nonſuit, quod factum fuit. And then Dyer Chief Juſtice, reciting the Writ and Content, and Iſſue joyned upon the Battel, and the other of the Champions to perform it, and the Preſtion of this Day and Place, did give final Judgment againſt the Demandant, and that the Tenant ſhould have the Land to him, and to his Heirs for ever; and the Demandant and his Pledges de proſequendo in miſericordia ſericordia Reginæ: And afterwards ſolemn Proclamation was made that the Champions, and all others there preſent, (which were by Eſtimation above four thouſand Perſons) might depart every Man in the Peace of God and the Queen, & ſic fecerunt cum magno clamore, vivat Regina.

Alſo if falſe Judgment be given in the County, which is the Sheriffs Court, then the Writ ſhall be thus: Henricus, &c. Vicecomiti Lincoln. ſalutem. Si A. fecerit, &c. tunc in pleno Comitatu tuo per breve noſtrum de recto inter Johannem L. petentem, & Will. B. Tenentem de uno Meſſuagio & centum Acris Terræ cum Pertinentiis in C. unde idem J. L. queritur falſum ſibi factum ſuiſſe Judicium in eodem, & Record. illud habeas coram Juſticiariis Juris apud Weſtminſterium tali die ſub ſigillo tuo, & per quatuor legales Milites ejuſdem comitatus, & illos qui Recordo illi interfuerunt, & ſummoneas per bonos ſummonitores prædictum B. quod tunc ſit ibi auditurus Recordum illud, & habeas ibi ſua nomina quatuor militum & hoc breve. Fitz. Nat. Brev. itidem E. And thoſe four muſt be Knights indeed. Alſo the Juſtices upon Conſideration of the uſual Words in every Writ of Venire Facias, Coram, &c. Duodecim tum Milites quam alios liberos & legales homines, &c. ſay, that theſe Words [tum Milites] were not at the firſt put into the Writ without Effect, Plowden 117. b. For it ſeemeth that in diebus illis, ſome Knights were returned upon every Venire Facias.

By the Statute of Magna Charta, cap. 12. It is ordained, that Aſſizes of Novel Diſſeiſon and Mortdanceſter ſhould not be taken any where, but within the Counties where they happen, by the Juſtices of Aſſize, and the Knights of the Shire; vide Weſtminſter 2. cap. 30. And by the ſeven and twentieth of Edward the Firſt, cap. 30. de finibus levandis, amongſt other Things it is enacted, That for the Utility of the Realm, and the more aſſured Conſervation of the Peace, the Juſtices aſſigned to take Aſſizes in all Shires, where they take Aſſizes, as it is ordained immediately after the Aſſizes taken in the Shires, ſhall remain both together if they be Lay; and if one of them be a Clerk, then one of the moſt diſcreet Knights of the Shire being aſſociated unto him that is a Lay-man, by our Writ ſhall deliver the Gaols of the Shires, as well within the Liberties as without, of all manner of Priſoners, after the Form of the Gaol-Delivery of thoſe Shires before Time uſed.

Alſo in the Statute of Weſtminſter 21. cap. 38. de non ponendis in Aſſizis & Juratis, it is provided, That the ſaid Statute ſhall not extend to Grand Aſſizes, in which it behoveth many Times Knights to paſs, not Reſident in the County, for the Scarcity of Knights, ſo that they have Lands in the Shire. And by the Law, Knights having Land may be returned upon Juries in ordinary Trials between Party and Party, as other Freeholders may be. And therefore in a Challenge to the Great Aſſize under Edward the Third, one was challenged pur ceo qu'il fait abaner; or as the Abridgment hath it, a Baronet; but it was not allowed: And the Reaſon is given, Car s'il ſoit à Baner, & ne tient pas per Baronie il ſerra en l'aſſiſe.

Of the double Parity of England, that is, of Barons, and all Dignities above them, being Peers of the Realm, and all other under them, are Peers amongſt themſelves; for notwithſtanding that Dignity of Knighthood, they are reckoned amongſt the Commons. And we daily ſee that Knights do ſerve in Parliament as Members of the Commonalty. Nevertheleſs the Sheriff in his Diſcretion will not impannel Knights, but in ſpecial and great Cauſes: As in Caſes of Indictments of a Peer of the Realm, they are to be enquired and found by Knights and Eſquires, though their Trial ſhall be only by their Peers. And in 38 Hen. 8. Henry Howard Earl of Surrey, Son and Heir apparent of Thomas Duke of Norfolk, was attainted of High Treaſon, and was tried alſo by Knights, Eſquires, and Gentlemen, and not by Lords or Peers of the Realm, becauſe he was not of that Dignity by Creation.

Since the Uſe of making every Earl firſt a Baron of ſome Place, (which began, as moſt Writers treat, about the Time of Henry the Eighth) it hath been a Cuſtom to ſtyle their Heirs apparent Lords and Barons, with the Title of their Father's Barony (when Viſcounts, or Barons Heirs apparent are only ſtyled Eſquires;) but this is only a Piece of Civility, and of meer Faſhion; yet it is allowed of in Heraldry, with whom the Rule is, That the eldeſt Son of every one of a created Degree is as of the next Degree under him, which may be applied to Dukes, Earls, and the like: But in legal Proceedings they enjoy no ſuch Matter, nor have by their being Heirs apparent any Prerogative of the greater Nobility.

And in Caſe where a Peer of the Realm is Party Plaintiff or Defendant in any Action or Suit, if the Sheriff do not return one Knight at the leaſt to be of the Jury, the ſaid Noble Perſon may challenge, and for that only Cauſe quaſh the whole Pannel.

By the Statute of Carliſle, 15 Edw. 2. it was enacted, That he who levied a Fine ſhould appear in proper Perſon, to the Intent that his Age, Idiocy, or other Defect might be diſcoverd by the Judges. Nevertheleſs upon Impotency, whereby he cannot come in Court, two, or one of the Juſtices, by the Conſent of the reſt of the Juſtices, ſhall go unto him and take his Recognizance; and if but one of them go, he ſhall take a Knight with him, and ſhall certify it in the Bench of Record, to the Intent that all Things incident to the Fine be examined by them, and then the Fine may be be levied. But after this good Statute, a worſe Cuſtom and Uſe hath come in Place: For by a Dedimus poteſtatem out of Chancery to one Knight, and to a Juſtice of the Peace of the County in ſuch Caſes, is procured and directed to a Knight and two others, who perhaps be neither Knights nor Juſtices, but perhaps Men of ſmall Eſtimation, and unto two or three of them, without ſaying Quorum the Knight ſhall be one; and two of them without the Knight have taken the Recognizance of the Fine, ibid. 101. b. But great Prejudice this Practice of omitting the interpoſing of the uſual Service of Knights in this Behalf hath been to many, and ſcandalous to the Law of the Land, they ſometimes taking Recognizances of a Fine from a Feme Covert, as if ſhe were ſole, and many Times acknowledged by Juſtices. If a Tenant do lay an Eſſoin de morbo lecti, he may have a Writ out of the Chancery to warrant it, by which it ſhall be commanded to four Knights to view him; and if they ſee him ſick, then they are to give him Day, to the End of a Year and a Day. Note the Regiſter, fol. 177. b. Quod Coronator non elegatur niſi ſit Miles in, &c. juxta formam Statuti Weſtm. 1. cap. 10.

It is a received Opinion, that Knights are excuſed from Attendance at Leets, and Britton 29. & 36. is cited to prove it. And by a large Underſtanding of the Intent and Meaning of the Statute of Marlbridge, cap. 10. For the ancient Common Law had ſuch Reſpect to the Degree of Knighthood, that they, nor their eldeſt Sons, were compelled to find Pledges in the Leet or Law-days; for the Statute of Marlbridge aforeſaid was not Introductiva novæ Legis, for it was before the Conqueſt. And the Common Law is not by this Statute abridged. And by the Book called, The Mirror of Juſtice, mentioned in the Preface to Coke's ninth Part, it is ſaid that Knights are excepted: And ſo it appears that the Practice was as well before, as immediately after the making of that Statute of Marlbridge; and Interpretatio Practica is a principal Way and Form of Interpretation of Laws. The Lord Chancellor's Speech, in the Caſe of Poſtnati, fol. 58. And in Divinity, Praxis ſanctorum eſt Interpretatio Præceptorum, ibid. 66. But a Knight, and all Superiors and Inferiors, are bound by Law to attend the County or Sheriffs Court wherein he dwelleth, and at his Peril to take Notice of the Proceedings thereof: For if a Man be outlawed of Felony at a County Court, and one of the ſame County not knowing of the Felony doth receive him, he is Acceſſory. Alſo when the King doth ſummon his Parliament, Writs ſhall be ſent to the Sheriff to make Choice of Knights of every Shire in this Form: Rex Vicecom. N. Salutem, quia de aviſamento & aſſenſu noſtri Concilii, pro quibuſdam arduis & urgentibus negotiis, nos, ſtatum & defenſionem Regni noſtri Angliæ, & Eccleſiæ Anglicanæ concernentibus, quoddam Parliamentum noſtrum apud Civitatem noſtram Weſtm. duodecimo die Novembris proximè futuro teneri ordinavimus, & ibidem cum Prælatis magnatibus, & proceribus dicti Regni noſtri colloquium habere & tractare, tibi præcipimus firmiter injungentes, quod facta Proclamatione in prox. Comit. tuo poſt receptionem hujus brevis noſtri tenendi die & loco præd. duos Milites gladiis cinctos Magiſtidoneos & Diſcretos Com. præd. &c. & electionem & partes ſub ſigillo tuo, & ſub ſigillis eorum qui electioni illi interfuerunt nobis in Cancellaria noſtra ad dictum diem & locum certifices indilate. See the Statute 23 Hen. 6. cap. 15. where amongſt other Things it is enacted, That the Knights of the Shires for Parliament hereafter to be choſen, ſhall be notable Knights of the ſame Counties for the which they ſhall be choſen, or elſe ſuch notable Eſquires or Gentlemen being of the ſame Counties, as ſhall be able to be Knights.

Peers of the Realm are by Intendment of Law ſufficient of Freehold; and that is one of the Reaſons wherefore no Capias or Exigit lieth againſt them for Debt or Treſpaſs.

But the Law hath not that Opinion of the Knights ſufficiency of Freehold: For he may be a Knight without Land; therefore, and then he is not to be returned of any Jury or Inqueſt, howſoever he may be worthy and ſufficient to ſerve the Commonwealth in Marſhal Affairs. The Wives and Widows of Knights in legal Proceedings, and in Courts of Juſtice, have not the Title of Lady, as the Wives or Widows of Noblemen have; yet by the Courteſy of England that Title is given them.

And if in any Action they be not called Ladies, for that Cauſe the Writ ſhall not abate for that Surpluſage, becauſe Domina is general to Women, as Domini to Men. So where Women after fourteen Years of Age are called Dominæ for Ladies or Dames; and with us anciently marriageable Women were called Dominæ; and in our old Engliſh Leets, Dames.

Firſt; Dominæ is often uſed for Women generally, as a ſpecial Honour for that Sex, being not out of Faſhion at this Day; nor with the French; as alſo amongſt the Italians. Domina for them is familiar. But if ſhe be named Comiteſſa or Baroneſſa, whereas ſhe is no Counteſs or Baroneſs in Law, then without Queſtion the naming of her ſo ſhall abate the Writ.

By the Statute of Magna Charta, cap. 21. Knights are freed from Cart-taking, that no Demeſne Cart of them ſhall be taken.

By the Statute 1 Jacobi, cap. 27. it ſeemeth that Knights Sons may keep Greyhounds, and Setting-Dogs, and Nets to take Pheaſants and Partridges in, though they cannot expend ten Pounds per Annum, nor be worth two hundred Pounds; for by the expreſs Words of the Statute, all the Sons of Knights are excepted.

Observations concerning Knights Batchelors.

A Baronet cannot claim the Privilege that Knights have from Cart-taking by Magna Charta 23.

A Baronet's Son cannot keep a Greyhound, &c. becauſe he is not within the Statute of 1 Jac. 27. unleſs he hath ten Pounds per Annum, tamen quære. See the ſaid Statute, and Statute 22 & 23 Car. 2. Quære whether the Baronets Addition doth abate any Action. If one be Knighted in the Life-Time of his Father, it frees him from Wardſhip; but contra of a Baronet. Knights are excuſed from Attendance at Leets, which Baronets are not.

Note, That by the Statute 12 Car. 2. cap. 24. the Court of Wards, Tenures in Capite, Liveries, Ouſter le maines, and other Dependance upon the Court, is taken away; and then was repéaled the Statute 32 Hen. 8. cap. 6. 33 Car. 22.

A Knight Batchelor is a Title (as before noted) borrowed from Horſemanſhip, and therefore ought to be repreſented by the Effigies of a Captain of a Troop of Horſe.

I ſhall here ſet down the Manner of making Knights about the Year of Chriſt 500, near which Time King Arthur reigned in England, as I find it in Sir William Segar's Book of Honour Military and Civil, page 53. where he ſaith, That a Prince being minded to make a Knight, commanded a Stage or Scaffold to be erected in ſome Cathedral Church in his Kingdom, or ſome ſpacious Place near unto it, to which Place the Gentleman was brought to receive that Honour; and being come, was forthwith placed on a Silver Chair, adorned with green Silk. Then it was demanded of him if he were of a healthy Body, and able to undergo the Travel required in a Soldier; alſo whether he were a Man of honeſt Converſation, and what credible Witneſſes he could produce to affirm the ſame. Then the Biſhop or Chief Prelate of the Church took the Bible, and holding it open before the Knight in Preſence of the King and all others, ſpake theſe Words: Sir, you that deſire to receive the Order of Knighthood, ſwear before God, and by this Holy Book, that you ſhall not fight againſt this mighty and excellent Prince that now beſtoweth the Order of Knighthood upon you, unleſs you ſhall be commanded ſo to do in the Service of your own King; for in that Caſe, having firſt yielded up the Collar, Device, and other Enſigns of Honour now received, it ſhall be lawful for you to ſerve againſt him, without Reproach or Offence to all other Champions in Arms. But otherwiſe doing you ſhall incur Infamy, and being taken in War, ſhall be ſubject to the Pains of Death: You ſhall alſo ſwear with all your Force and Power to maintain and defend all Ladies, Gentlewomen, Widows, Orphans, and diſtreſſed Women; and you ſhall ſhun no Adventure of your Perſon in any War wherein you ſhall happen to be.

My Author further ſaith, That this Oath being taken, two of the Chief Lords led him to the King, who preſently drew forth his Sword, and laid it upon his Head, ſaying, God and St. George (or what other Saint the King pleaſeth to name) make thee a good Knight. Then came to the Knight ſeven Noble Ladies attired in white, and begirt a Sword unto his Side; which being done, four Honourable Knights put on his Spurs. Theſe Ceremonies being paſt, the Queen took him by the Right Arm, and a Dutcheſs by the left, and led him to a rich Seat placed on an Aſcent, where they ſeated him, the King ſitting on his Right Hand, and the Queen on his Left; then the Lords and Ladies alſo ſate down upon other Seats three Deſcents under the King: And being all thus ſeated, they were entertained with a delicate Banquet or Collation, and ſo the Ceremony ended.

Of Degrading of Knights.

DEgrading of Knights is not very cuſtomary, Examples being ſeldom found, it being uſed only for great and notable Facts and Offences againſt Loyalty and Honour; as abſcenting themſelves diſhonourably from their King's Service; for leaving their Colours, and flying to the Enemy; for betraying Caſtles, Forts, and the like heinous Crimes.

The Manner of Degrading a Knight hath been as followeth: When a Knight had been found thus diſloyal or corrupt, he was to be apprehended, and armed Cap-a-pe, as if he was going to the Wars, was to be placed upon a high Scaffold made for that Purpoſe in the Church; and after the Prieſt had ſung ſome Funeral Pſalms, as are uſed at Burials, as though he had been dead, firſt they take off his Helmet to ſhew his Face, and ſo by Degrees his whole Armour: Then the Heralds proclaiming him a diſloyal Miſcreant, with many other Ceremonies to declare him Ignoble, he was thrown down the Stage with a Rope; and this was done about the Time of King Arthur, as is affirmed by Mills, fol. 84.

Alſo about the Degrading of Knights theſe Things have alſo been uſed; as the reverſing their Coat of Arms; by ſeizing of their Equipage (except one Horſe) ne qui dignitate factus eſt Eques cogatur pedes incedere; by cutting off the Spurs from their Heels, and by taking away their Sword and breaking it. But of late the Marſhal Law is uſually put in Execution, both in our Civil Wars, as in France, and elſewhere; that is, to diſpatch ſuch traiterous Perſons by a File of Muſquetiers.

CHAP. XXII.

THE Founder of this ancient Order of Knighthood was Arthur King of the Britons, who reigned about the Year of Chriſt 516, whoſe Valour was ſo great and admirable, that many now living do believe the ſame rather fabulous than real. This Noble King having, as Sir William Segar noteth, driven out of England the Saxons, conquered Norway, Scotland, and the greateſt Part of France, (where at Paris he was crowned) and returning Home, lived in ſuch great Renown, that many Princes and worthy Knights came from all Parts to his Court to give Evidence of their Valour in the Exerciſe of Arms. Upon this he erected a Fraternity of Knights, which conſiſted (as ſome ſay) of four and twenty; others, a greater Number; amongſt whom he himſelf was Chief: And for the avoiding of Controverſies for taking Place when they met together, he cauſed a Round Table to be made, from whence they took their Name; which ſaid Table (if you will believe the Inhabitants of Wincheſter) hangs up in their Caſtle, where they uſed to meet; and the Time of their Meeting was at Whitſontide.

Into this Society none were admitted, whether Britons or Strangers, but ſuch as did make ſufficient Proof of their Proweſs and Dexterity in Arms, and ſuch as were renowned for their Virtue and Valour.

The Articles which they vowed to keep were, To be always well armed, both for Horſe or Foot Service, either by Land or Sea; and to be always ready to aſſail Tyrants and Oppreſſors; to protect and defend Widows, Maidens, and Children; and to relieve all that are in Neceſſity: To maintain the Chriſtian Faith, contribute their Aid to Holy Church, and to protect Pilgrims: To advance Honour, and ſuppreſs Vice: To bury Soldiers that wanted Sepulchres: To ranſom Captives, deliver Priſoners, and adminiſter to the Cure of wounded Soldiers, hurt in the Service of their Country: To Record all Noble Enterprizes, to the End that the Fame thereof may ever live to their Honour, and the Renown of the Noble Order.

That upon any Complaint made to the King of Injury or Oppreſſion, one of theſe Knights, whom the King ſhould appoint, was to Revenge the ſame. If any foreign Knight came to Court, with deſire to ſhew his Proweſs, theſe Knights ought to be ready in Arms to anſwer him. If any Lady, Gentlewoman, or other oppreſſed or injured Perſon, did preſent a Petition declaring the ſame, whether the Injury was done here or beyond Sea, he or ſhe ſhould be graciouſly heard, and without Delay one or more Knights ſhould be ſent to make Revenge: And that every Knight, for the Advancement of Chivalry, ſhould be ready dy to inform young Lords and Gentlemen in the Orders and Exercises of Arms.

For what I can find, there was no Robe or Habit prescribed unto these Knights; nor can I find with what Ceremony they were made; neither what Officers did belong unto the said Order, except a Register to Record all their Noble Enterprizes.

Not to pass over this Noble Arthur, give me Leave to repeat what I find mentioned of him by Sir William Segar in the said Chapter. This valiant Prince not confining himself to the narrow Limits of his own Kingdom, left the Government thereof to the Management of his Cousin Mordred, and began his Journey, or rather Conquest, (for in all Places he found Fortune to Favour him.) And after his many Victories gained of the Saxons, Scots, Norwegians, Romans, Saracens, and French, in the End, being laden with Honour, he returned into England, but found Mordred a Traitor, as usurping the Government, and obstructing his Landing: But all that he could do was in vain; for being landed, he fled to London, but the Citizens refusing to give him Entrance, he went into Cornwall, where King Arthur gave him Battel, which proved unfortunate to them both, for Mordred was slain by King Arthur, who was also desperately wounded; and after this Wound (as some say) he was never found alive or dead, which made the Poets to feign that he was taken up into the Firmament, and there remaineth a Star amongst the Nine Worthies: Which Fancy is founded upon the Prophesy of old Merlin, which was his Counsel, and esteemed as a Prophet; who for many Years before affirmed, That King Arthur, after a certain Time, should resuscitate and come unto Carlion, to restore the Round Table. He wrote this Epitaph:

Hic jacet Arturus, Rex quondam, Rexque futurus.

According to Andrew Favin, there was an Order of Knighthood called Knights of St. Thomas, which was instituted by King Richard the First, after the Surprisal of the City of Acon, and consisted of all Englishmen. Their Patron was St. Thomas Becket; their Garment was white; and their Ensign was a red Cross charged in the midst with a white Escallop. But A. Mendo believeth that these Knights were rather some of those which joined themselves with the Knights Hospitallers, for that they wore the same Habit, followed the same Rule, and observed the same Customs as did the Knights of St. John of Acon.

KNIGHTS OF THE THISTLE,

Or of St. ANDREW in SCOTLAND.

CHAP. XXIII.

HUNGUS, King of the Picts, the Night before the Battel that was fought betwixt him and Athelſtan King of England, ſaw in the Sky a bright Croſs in Faſhion of that whereon St. Andrew ſuffered Martyrdom; and the Day proving ſucceſsful unto Hungus, in Memorial of the ſaid Apparition, which did preſage ſo happy an Omen, the Picts and Scots have ever ſince bore in their Enſigns and Banners the Figure of the ſaid Croſs, which is in Faſhion of a Saltier.

And from hence 'tis believed that this Order took its Riſe, which was about the Year of our Lord 810. For King Hungus and Achains (Confederates againſt Athalſtan) went barefooted (in a devout Way) to the Kirk of St. Andrew, to return Thanks to God and his Apoſtles for their Victory; vowing for themſelves and their Poſterity, ever to uſe the ſaid Croſs in their Enſigns in any warlike Expedition.

The principal Enſign of this Order is a golden Collar compoſed of Thiſtles, intermixed with Annulets of Gold, to which hangs the Figure of St. Andrew with his Croſs, and this Epigraph, Nemo me impune laceſſit. But for their common Enſign they wore a green Ribbon, to which hung a golden Thiſtle crown'd with an Imperial Crown, within a Circle of Gold, with the ſaid Epigraph.

Their Grand Meeting was Annually on St. Andrew's Day, in the Church of the Town ſo called; and during the Solemnity of the Feaſt, theſe Knights (which were in Number thirteen, in Alluſion to our Saviour and the twelve Apoſtles) were richly apparelled, and in their Parliament Robes, having embroidered on their Left Shoulders St. Andrew's Croſs within a blue Rundle, and in the Center of the ſaid Croſs was a Crown compoſed of golden Flower de lis.

Having thus treated of the ſeveral Degrees of Knighthood which are or have been uſed amongſt us: In the next Place I ſhall give the Reader an Account of divers Degrees of Knighthood in other Kingdoms, although many of them are now Extinct.

ORDERS

ORDERS OF KNIGHTHOOD

Which are, or were, Inſtituted in PALESTINE, and other Parts of ASIA.

CHAP. XXIV.

Knights of the Holy Sepulchre in Jeruſalem.

THIS Order of Knighthood is held to be the moſt ancient of all thoſe Orders that took their Beginning in the Holy Land; and is ſaid to be inſtituted about the Time that the Temple of Jeruſalem was regained from the Saracens, which was in Anno 1099.

Some Authors ſay, That Philip King of France was the firſt Inſtituter of this Order; but Favin ſaith, That it was Baldwin the firſt King of Jeruſalem, who made the regular Canons (which then reſided in a Convent near adjoining to the ſaid Sepulchre) Knights of the ſaid Order, whoſe chief Duty was to guard the Holy Sepulchre; to relieve and protect Pilgrims; to fight againſt the Saracens and Infidels; and to hear Maſs every Day. The Armorial Enſign belonging unto them was two red Croſſes united into one.

When the Chriſtians were expelled the Holy Land, theſe Knights ſettled themſelves at Perugia in Italy: But by the Bulls of Pope Innocent the Eighth, Anno 1484, they, and all their Goods, were annexed and joined to the Knights Hoſpitallers, then reſiding at Rhodes.

Knights Hoſpitallers of St. John Baptiſt in Jeruſalem, call'd Knights of the Rhodes, now of Malta.

SOmewhat before the Chriſtians took the City of Jeruſalem from the Saracens, certain Chriſtian Merchants of Naples, who traded to theſe Parts, obtained Leave from the Caliph of Egypt (who had then the Government thereof) to dwell near the Sepulchre of Chriſt, and to erect a ſmall Houſe for the Entertainment of themſelves and Pilgrims, and called it The Hoſpital of Chriſtians; together with a ſmall Oratory dedicated to the Bleſſed Virgin Mary. After that the Number of Chriſtians increaſing, they built another Houſe for Women, and dedicated it to St. Mary Magdalen; and at length they built a more large Houſe, which they dedicated to St. John Baptiſt, the others being too ſmall for the Entertainment of Strangers that thither came for Devotion, Devotion, and here they entertained and cured the diseased amongst them. And for their Religion, Charity, and Hospitality, they began to become eminent; and having took St. John Baptist for their Patron, they obtained the Title or Name of Brethren Hospitallers of St. John Baptist of Jerusalem: Then received they the regular Habit of black, with a white Cross on the Garment near their Left Shoulder, and vowed Obedience, Poverty, and Chastity.

This Order is said to be first instituted in Anno 1099, by one Gerard of the Province of Tholouse, a Man of a holy Life, and had large Privileges conferred upon them by King Baldwin the first, who created them Knights, and permitted them to use Arms, and to fight against the Saracens and Infidels for the Defence of the Christian Faith, and to be Guardians of the Holy Sepulchre. At this Time they acknowledged their Obedience to the Patriarch of Jerusalem; but growing in Wealth, they obtained the Favour of the Pope to be absolved from their Obedience, and was by Pope Adrian the fourth received under the Protection of the Papal See.

Gerard being dead, they elected one Raimond for their Rector or Great Master, to whom Authority was given that he should govern and command all Knights of this Order wheresoever dispersed. This Gerard, after he had digested and enlarged their Laws and Institutions, divided that whole Body into three Classes; to wit, Knights, Ecclesiasticks, and Servants: And since which Time the succeeding Great Masters have much added to their Privileges and Dignities; and his Title is now The Illustrious Prince of Malta and Goza.

Saladine having made himself Master of Jerusalem, these Knights retired to the City of Acres, which being also taken, they seized upon the Isle of Rhodes, where they continued as Masters, until forced thence by Solyman the Great in Anno 1522. After which they betook themselves to the Isle of Malta, which with Tripoli and Goza were granted to them by the Emperor Charles the fifth, Anno 1530, and the same Year was confirmed to them by Pope Clement the seventh: And in this Isle they yet continue, and are as a Bulwark to that Part of Christendom.

Knights Templars.

ABout the Year 1118, Hugo de Paganes, Godfrey de St. Omer, with seven other Gentlemen, out of Devotion went into the Holy Land, where they determined to erect, and enter into a Brotherhood; and being come to Jerusalem, they consulted what they should do (though to the Hazard of their Lives) that should be a Service acceptable to God, and Praise-worthy of Men: And being informed that in the Town of Zaffo there resided many Thieves that used to rob the Pilgrims that resorted to the Holy Sepulchre, they resolved to make the Passage more free by destroying or dispersing these Robbers. And for the Encouragement of these Gentlemen in so good an Undertaking, the King assigned them Lodgings in his Palace adjoining to Solomon's Temple, from which Place they were called Knights Templars.

And the King and Patriarch finding their Actions very successful, furnished them with many necessary Provisions: And although their charitable Service made them acceptable unto all, yet for the first nine Years they were in so great a Strait, that they were forced to take the Charity of well-disposed People; however there resorted unto them many Christians, so that their Number was much encreased. And there being all this while no Habit or Order assigned them, Pope Honorius, at the Request of Stephen Patriarch of Jerusalem, prescribed unto them an Order of Life, whereby they were to wear a white Garment; and Pope Eugenius added thereto a red Cross; and in the Presence of the said Patriarch they made their Vows of Obedience, Poverty, and Chastity, and to live under the Rule of regular Canons of St. Augustine. Being thus entred into an Order, they elected an Head or Great Master; and in Process of Time, through the daily Increase of their Number, and their famous Enterprizes, not only for securing the Passages, but also for waging War both by Sea and Land against the Infidels, they became highly favoured of the Christian Princes, who assigned to them great Revenues to be spent in God's Service; and in Process of Time they became exceeding wealthy and powerful, so that they grew proud, and withdrew themselves from the Obedience of the Patriarch of Jerusalem, and joined with the Pope. But in the End they found not the Favour from the Pope as they expected; for by him, or through his Consent, upon some infamous Crimes charged against them, their Lands and Possessions were seized upon, and otherways disposed of, their Order suppressed, and they themselves imprisoned, condemned, and cruelly executed; but according to the Opinion of many Authors, they were unjustly accused by Subornation of Witnesses, meerly to gain their Revenues, which, according to Dr. Heylin, were exceeding great, having no less than sixteen thousand Lordships in Europe.

Knights of St. Lazarus.

THIS Order at the first Institution was only a Brotherhood of Religious Monks, and became an Order of Knighthood in or about the Time of St. Basil, being first instituted upon a most charitable Account, to wit, to take Care of Persons infected with the Leprosy, (which was a Disease very frequent in the Eastern Parts) by Reason of which they were separated from the Society of Men; and had assigned to them a famous Hospital in Jerusalem, called St. Lazarus, for the Reception of Lepers.

And through the Incursion of the Saracens and Barbarians in these Parts, this Order was (as it were) extinguished; but when the Latin Princes joined together in a Holy League to expel them the Holy Land, these Religious Men entred into a Martial Discipline, and performed great Service, insomuch that they gained great Fame and Esteem of Baldwin the second King of Jerusalem, in whose Time this Order much flourished under the Government of a Great Master: And about the Year 1150, they made their Vows of Obedience, Poverty, and Chastity, before William Patriarch of Jerusalem, and submitted themselves to the Order of St. Benedict. They also constituted several Orders to be observed amongst them; viz. to wear a green Cross; and that all, before they entred into this Knighthood, should prove themselves born in Wedlock of Christian Parents, and to be a Gentleman by the Father's and Mother's Side; also to be of an unblameable Life and Conversation, and to perform daily certain Religious Ceremonies.

Knights of St. Bass.

THese Knights were founded under the Rule of St. Basil, and were also called Knights of St. Mary. Their Garment was Sky-colour, with a gold Cross, which they wore before their Breast, having in the midst thereof the Picture of St. Basil, their Patron, and were Officers and Servants to the Kings of Armenia.

Knights of St. Katharine at Mount Sinai.

THE Reason of the Institution of these Knights (which was about the Year of Christ 1063.) was to guard and defend the Sepulchre of St. Katharine their Patron, (whose Body is said to be buried in Mount Sinai, near to which Place a Monastery was erected and dedicated to her Name) to secure the Passage for Travellers who came thither for Devotion sake, and to entertain them during their Abode.

They lived under the Rule of St. Basil the Great, vowed Obedience to the Abbot of this Monastery, and wore a white Garment. But when the Turks became Masters of these Parts, this Order of Knighthood suffered very much; notwithstanding, some Remains of the Order doth yet continue.

Knights of the Martyrs in Palestine.

THese Knights followed the Rule of St. Basil, and wore on their Garments a red Cross, in the midst whereof (within a Circle) were the Figures of Cosmas and Damianus, their Saints and Patrons, who were martyred.

Their Hospital or Place of Abode bore the Name of their Saints; where they exercised all Acts of Charity to sick Strangers and People in Necessity; to redeem Captives taken by the Saracens, and to bury the Dead.

ORDERS OF KNIGHTHOOD IN SPAIN.

Knights of the Oak in Navarr.

THE Inhabitants of the Kingdom of Navarr being almoſt over-run by the Moors, notwithſtanding their great Army raiſed to oppoſe them, for that they wanted an experienced General to command them; at length one Don Garcia Ximenes (who had betook himſelf to a religious and ſolitary Life) was perſwaded to take upon him that Command, which was about the Year of Chriſt 722. And as he was marching out of the City to fight the Moors, there appeared to him from the Top of an Oaken Tree the Sign of the Croſs, which was adored by an innumerable Quantity of Angels. In this Battel he gained ſo ſignal a Victory, that the People elected him their King; and ſhortly after he inſtituted this Order of Knighthood, inveſted therewith the Nobles, and Perſons of Renown in his Kingdom, whom he obliged to defend the Chriſtian Faith, and to own Obedience to him and his Succeſſors, Kings of Navarr. The Habit that he aſſigned them was a white Garment, having thereon a plain red Croſs ſet on the Top of an Oaken Tree in its Verdure.

Knights of the Lilly in Navarr.

GRACIUS King of Navarr, the ſixth of that Name, lying in a languiſhing and ſick Condition, ſent to St. Saviour de Lyra, and other Places of Devotion, to the End that Prayers might be made for his Recovery: In which Time in the City of Naiera (where he kept uſually his Court) there was found the Image of our Virgin Mary iſſuing out of a Lilly, holding her Son betwixt her Arms, and ſuddenly after (if you will believe the Story) the King not only recovered his Health, but divers other Miracles were done on diſeaſed People in that Place; and in Honour whereof the King (in Anno 1048) erected this Order, which conſiſted of eight and thirty, of which himſelf was Sovereign, as were his Succeſſors to be after him. The Badge which theſe Knights daily wore on their Breaſts was a Lilly embroidered in Silver; and on Feſtival Days they wore a double Chain of Gold interlaced with Letters M. after the Manner of a Gothiſh Letter, with an enamelled Lilly in an Oval Medal hanging at it; and their Habit was white.

Knights of the Band.

THIS Order was firſt erected by Alphonſo King of Spain, in Anno 1368, and for this Reaſon: The King conſidering that he had many Enemies to deal with, for his better Security, thought it convenient to inſtitute an Order of Knights, making himſelf Maſter thereof, which he did a little before his Coronation in the City of Burgos, in great Solemnity; the whole Night being ſpent in the Monaſtery of St. Mary Royal in Watching and Prayer; and the Day following, after Maſs, they were inveſted with a red Ribbond of about three Inches broad, which went croſs their left Shoulders, like our Knights of the Bath, being the Badge from whence theſe Knights took their Name. Their Articles are at large ſet down by Sir William Segar, which being too many to repeat, are here omitted.

Knights of the Dove in Caſtile.

THIS Order, according to Favin, was firſt inſtituted by John the firſt King of Caſtile, about the Year 1379, in the City of Segovia. The Collar of this Order was compoſed of Pieces which repreſented the Figure of the Sun in his Glory, to which hung a golden Dove enamelled white, and encircled with Rays: But the King dying the ſame Year, and before it was well received, it became of no great Eſteem.

Ordo de la Scama in Caſtile.

JOHN the ſecond King of Caſtile, for the ſtirring up his Nobles to aſſiſt him in his Wars againſt the Moors, in Anno 1420, did erect this Order, which took ſo good Effect, that in a ſhort Time the Moors were ſubdued. Their Enſign, according to Joſ. Micheli, was a Croſs compoſed of Scales of Fiſhes, from which it ſeemeth to have took its Name; for Scama in the Spaniſh ſignifies the Scale of a Fiſh. Theſe Knights were obliged to fight againſt the Moors, to accompany the King in the Wars, and to die in the Defence of the Chriſtian Religion. Their Rules and Statutes for their Government were ordained by the ſaid King, upon whoſe Death this Order loſt much of its Splendor.

Knights of the Lilly in Aragon.

THIS Order was erected by Ferdinand King of Aragon, in Anno 1403, and dedicated to the Honour of the bleſſed Virgin, in Token of a ſignal Victory which this King obtained againſt the Moors. The Collar was compoſed of Bough-pots fill'd with white Lillies, interlaced with Griffons.

Knights of Mount-joy.

THIS Order was firſt inſtituted in the Holy Land, for the ſecuring theſe Parts againſt the Moors and Saracens, and lay in Gariſon in a Caſtel built on the Point of a Mountain near Jeruſalem: And after the Loſs of the Holy Land, theſe Knights retired into Spain, and performed good Service againſt the Moors; but in Proceſs of Time this Order fell to decay, and were incorporated into the Order of Calatrava. Their Habit was a red ſhort Mantle; and on their Breaſts they wore a white Star with five Rays. They obſerved the Rule of St. Benedict; which afterwards was changed to that of St. Auguſtine, and vowed Poverty, Chaſtity, and Obedience.

Knights of Acon, or Acres.

IN the City of Acon theſe Knights reſided, where they uſed all Duties of Charity to Pilgrims that went to the Holy Land. They aſſumed the Exerciſe of Arms in Imitation of the Knights Hoſpitallers: They followed the Rule of St. Auguſtine, and wore a black Garment, whereon was a white Croſs Pattee; but Joſ. Micheli Marquez ſaith it was a red Croſs; and in the midſt thereof ſtood the Figures of St. John and St. Thomas.

After the City of Acon was taken, they removed into Spain, where they flouriſhed, receiving great Favour from Alphonſus the Aſtrologer, King of Caſtile; but after his Death by little and little they decayed, and in the End were united to the Knights Hoſpitallers.

Knights.

Knights of St. James in Galicia.

THIS Order of Knighthood (called by the Spaniards, Cavalieri di San Jago) is of great Eſteem amongſt them; and was firſt erected upon this Occaſion: When the Arabians had almoſt ſubdued the Country, the remainder of the Spaniſh People refuſing to live under the Obedience of ſo barbarous a Nation, retired unto the Mountains of Aſturia, where they ſettled a Government; and after their Abode there ſome few Years certain Nobles, or Gentlemen of great Quality, (to the Number of thirteen) upon a ſerious Conſultation to regain their Country, reſolved to enter into a Fraternity, and to begin a War againſt the Moors and Barbarians. The Enſign which they wore was a red Croſs in Form of a Sword, with an Eſcallop Shell on it, in Imitation of the Badge of the Pilgrims that go to Jeruſalem to the Sepulchre of St. James the Apoſtle. They elected one their Chief Governor, who was called Great Maſter, who with the thirteen other Knights had Power to chooſe, or remove, any Knight at their Diſcretion; and to make Statutes and Orders for the well Government of the ſaid Society at their Day of Meeting (which is Annually) on the Feaſt-Day of All-Saints in great State, having large Revenues to ſupport their Grandure; this Order being eſteemed the chiefeſt in Spain.

Knights of St. Saviour in Aragon.

DON Alphonſo, for his better enabling to force the Moors out of Aragon (about the Year of our Lord 1118) did erect this Order, electing a certain Number, which he choſe out of thoſe Spaniſh and French Nobles, that aſſiſted him in his Wars againſt the Moors; which Honour engaged them to purſue the War againſt them the more vigorouſly. The Moors being ſubdued, King Alphonſo eſtabliſhed theſe Knights in the Place of the Knights Templars in Montreal, and had a Rule of living ſomewhat comformable unto them, (ſave only to marry) and were obliged to ſupport and defend the Holy Church, and Chriſtian Faith againſt the Moors. Their Habit was a white Mantle, and on their Breaſt they wore a red Croſs. But when the Moors were expelled (being the chief End for which they were inſtituted) theſe Knights were laid aſide, or at leaſtwiſe not regarded, and their Revenues joined to the Crown.

Knights of St. Julian de Pereyro, or of Alcantara.

THeſe Knights take their Name from the Place of their Inſtitution, viz. the City of Alcantara in Caſtiglia (ſeated on the Tago) where they had a ſtately Church, and were richly endowed: They had many Privileges and Orders obſerved amongſt them; their Habit was a black Garment, having on the Breaſt a green Croſs; and their firſt Great Maſter was Ferdinando the ſecond, King of Leon and Galicia, about the Year of our Lord 1176.

Knights of Calatrava in Caſtile.

THIS ancient Order was firſt inſtituted by Don Sanchio the third, King of Toledo, about the Year of Chriſt 1158, and took its Name from the Caſtle Calatrava, which is a Frontier both of Toledo and Caſtile; which Place the Moors took upon their Victory they obtained againſt Don Rodrigro King of Spain, in Anno 714, but after above four hundred Years continuance they were forced thence, and the Place given to the Knights Templars by Don Alphonſo Emperor of Spain, to be maintained as a Gariſon againſt the Incurſion of the Moors; but they not being able to maintain and defend it, withdrew their Gariſon; upon which, leſt the Moors ſhould become Maſters of it again, the King by his Charter gave the ſaid Caſtle and Village to one Don Raymund, formerly a Knight of great Fame, and then Abbot of St. Mary de Fitero, who fortified it, and began the ſaid Order of Knighthood, which flouriſhed very much, and became exceeding Powerful, ſo that the Moors durſt not make any further Attempt. The Habit that they wore was a black Garment, with a red Croſs on their Breaſt, and had many great Privileges, and as great Poſſeſſions in divers Places of Spain.

Knights of Truxillo, or Trugillo.

THIS Order took its Appellation from the City of Trugillo, ſeated in Eſtremadura in Spain; but as for the Time of its Inſtitution Writers are ſilent in; but certain it is, they were in Being in the Year of our Lord 1227, for one Don Arias Perez Dallego, then Maſter of of the Order, took this City from the Moors, and there ſettled a Brotherhood of Knights and Prieſts, who lived after the Manner of a Convent, but what was their Badge or Habit, and what Orders were obſerved amongſt them, is alſo not certainly known.

Knights of our Lady, and of St. George of Monteſa in Valencia.

THeſe Knights took their Riſe from the Diſſolution of the Knights Templars in Valencia, and were inſtituted by James the ſecond, King of Aragon and Valencia, in Anno 1317, for the better Defence of his Kingdoms againſt the Inroads of the Moors; but were ſubject to thoſe of Calatrava before ſpoken of. The Place aſſigned them for their Abode was at Monteſa, where they had a College built and dedicated to St. George by the Pope, at the Inſtance of the King. The Statutes of the Order are the ſame as thoſe of Calatrava; they vowed Conjugal Chaſtity; their Habit was white, with a plain red Croſs; and their firſt Maſter was Guilielmus de Eril, a valiant Soldier.

Knights of St. Mary de Merced in Aragon.

JAMES the firſt, King of Aragon, altho' for his Conqueſts againſt the Moors was ſurnamed the Invincible; yet had he the ill Fate to be a Priſoner to Simon Earl of Montfort in France, where he ſuffered many Troubles, and indured great Hardſhip, which made him throughly ſenſible of the Miſeries the Chriſtians indured under the Tyranny of the Moors. Whereupon he made a Vow to the Bleſſed Virgin Mary, that when he was freed from his Captivity, he would endeavour the Redemption of the Captive Chriſtians: And being ſet at Liberty, he heaped up great Sums to be imployed accordingly; and by the Advice of Raymond de Penafort his Confeſſor, a Dominican Friar, and Pedro Nolaſco a Noble Cavalier, he founded an Order of Knights in Barcelona, called La Neuva Merced, ſo named by the Bleſſed Virgin, who in a Viſion appeared at one and the ſame Time in one Night to the King, to Raymond, and Nolaſco, giving this Order its Name, and directing them in the whole Inſtitution, becauſe of the great Good which the Chriſtian Captives ſhould receive by this Means.

This Order was founded in Anno 1218, and their Feaſt-day for the celebrating the ſame, was Annually on St. Laurence the Martyr in Auguſt. Their Habit was a Coat and Scapular of ordinary white Cloth, and garniſhed with Ribbons and Cordons, wherewith they faſtened it about their Neck; and from the upper Part thereof was a Cap that covered half their Head, but the Monks wore their Coats and Scapulars much longer than the Knights. Theſe Knights profeſſed Conjugal Chaſtity, and Obedience to their Superiors. The firſt General or Maſter was Pedro Nolaſco, who was ſent into the Kingdom of Valencia to redeem Captives; which Journey proved ſo ſucceſsful, that in the Space of ſix Years he ranſomed no leſs than four hundred; nor ceaſe they to ſend Abroad their Agents to Algier, Feſs, and other Places for Redemption of Chriſtian Captives. And being an Order thus charitable, great Sums of Money are Annually collected and put into their Hands for that Uſe; and few die (of any Account) in Spain, but bequeath a Legacy to this Order, inſomuch that they have great Revenues.

Knights of the Roſary in Toledo.

THE Country of Toledo being grievouſly oppreſſed by the Moors, Roderick Archbiſhop thereof, aſſembled together the Nobles and Chiefs of the City, and told them of the great Neceſſity to give their Aſſiſtance for the Defence of the Country, and the Extirpation of the Moors, which they readily imbraced, and many of the Nobles entered into this Order; which was inſtituted for the Defence of the Catholick Religion, to fight againſt the Moors, and to ſay continually a Roſary of the Bleſſed Lady. They were of the Dominican Order, and their Enſign was the Figure of our Lady of the Roſary upon a Croſs flory, quarterly Argent and Sable.

ORDERS OF KNIGHTHOOD In FLANDERS.

Knights of the Golden Fleece, called Toizon d'Or.

THIS Order of Knighthood was inſtituted by Philip Duke of Burgundy, and Earl of Flanders, in Anno 1429, being moved thereto with devout Zeal to undertake the Conqueſt of the Holy Land: The Patron of this Order was St. Andrew: The Sovereign, he to whom the Dukedom of Burgundy doth lawfully deſcend. The Number of theſe Knights at the firſt Election were four and twenty beſides the Sovereign; all of Noble Blood; which were afterwards much increaſed by the Emperor Charles the fifth.

Their Habit a Caſſock of crimſon Velvet, and over it a Mantle of the ſame, lined with white, which openeth on the Right Side, and is turned upon the Left over the Shoulder, embroidered round about with a Border of Flames, Fuſils, and Fleeces; and a Hood of crimſon Velvet on their Heads. The Collar is of Gold wrought of Flames and Fuſils, with the Toizon or Figure of a Golden Fleece which Jaſon won at Colchos, or as ſome ſuppoſe, Gideon's Fleece, which ſignifies Fidelity or Juſtice uncorrupted. And this Collar or Toizon they are obliged upon a Penalty always to wear, not to make any Alterations; and to ſell or exchange it is deemed moſt unlawful.

The Sovereign hath in himſelf Authority abſolutely to give and beſtow this Honour, when and to whom he pleaſeth: And whoſoever entereth into the ſaid Dignity, muſt firſt renounce all other Orders of Knighthood; nevertheleſs all Emperors, Kings, and Dukes, are excepted, unto whom it is diſpenced that they may wear the Enſigns of this Order, if they be the Chief of their own Order. Theſe, with other Statutes and Ordinances, the Knights are ſworn to obſerve and keep. The Day of their Aſſembly was firſt on St. Andrew's Day, which ſince was changed to the ſecond of May, and that but once in three Years, unleſs the Sovereign otherwiſe pleaſeth.

To this Order doth belong four principal Officers, viz. a Chancellor, a Treaſurer, a Regiſter, and a King at Arms, called Toizon d'Or.

ORDERS

ORDERS OF KNIGHTHOOD In PORTUGAL.

*Knights d'*Avis.

IN the Year of our Lord Don Alphonſo Henriquez, firſt King of Portugal, gained from the Moors the City of Evora; and for the fortifying and ſecuring of this Gariſon, he ſent thither ſeveral brave Commanders, who took upon them the Title of Knights of St. Mary of Evora, who not long after were called Knights d'Avis from a Caſtle of that Name, ſeated on the Frontiers of Portugal, which the King gave to Ferdinando de Yanner, Maſter of Evora, to which Caſtle he and his Brethren removed from Evora. The Badge of this Order is a green Croſs flory, like thoſe of Calatrava. They took upon them the Rule of St. Benedict; and none were to be admitted into this Order, but ſuch as were Gentlemen by the Father's and Mother's Side two Deſcents.

Knights of the Wing of St. Michael.

DON Alphonſo Henriquez, King of Portugal, being ſorely oppreſſed by Albara the Moor, King of Savil, for the freeing his Country, raiſed an Army; and before he gave them Battel, commanded all his Soldiers to pray to their particular Saints for happy Deliverance; and the King offered up his Prayers to St. Michael the Archangel, being the Saint he was much devoted unto. When the Armies were engaged, St. Michael (as the Story goes) appeared on the King's Right Side, and fought againſt the Moors, who were routed, and loſt the Day. And in Commemoration of this great Victory, at his Return Home, (which was in the Year of our Lord 1171, or thereabouts) he inſtituted this Order of Knighthood, who for their Badge had a red Sword croſs'd with Flowers de lis, and this Motto, Quis ut Deus. Theſe Knights (before their growing out of Uſe) were of the Ciſtertian Order, followed the Rule of St. Benedict; and by their Obligation were to ſecure the Borders of the Countries againſt the Incurſions of the Moors, to defend the Chriſtian Religion, and to ſuccour the Widows and Fatherleſs.

Knights of St. James.

THE Portugals being ſtill oppreſſed by the Moors, the King Don Denys the ſixth, out of his great Affection to relieve his People, did in the Year of our Lord 1310 inſtitute this Order, and by the Aſſiſtance of theſe Knights (which

(which were Victorious in divers Battels) at length he quitted his Kingdom of them; for which ſignal Service they had many Privileges conferred upon them by the King, which cauſed them much to flouriſh. They profeſs Conjugal Chaſtity, Hoſpitality, and Obedience: Their Enſign is a red Sword, like that of St. James in Galicia: Their Habit is white; and none are to be admitted until they have proved their Gentility by Blood.

Knights of Chriſt.

THE Knights Templars being diſſolved, and their Eſtates confiſcated, Don Denys King of Portugal, ſent to Pope John the two and twentieth, to deſire that an Order of Knights might be inſtituted in Caſtro Marin, which was a Frontier Town of the Enemy, and very commodious for the building a Fort for the reſiſting the neighbouring Moors, which did much annoy his Kingdom; which Requeſt ſeemed ſo reaſonable, that the Pope (in Anno 1319) inſtituted this Order, commanding that they ſhould obſerve the Ciſtertian Order, and enjoy the ſame Privileges and Indulgencies formerly granted to their Great Maſter and Knights; that they ſhould take the Oath of Fidelity; that all the Poſſeſſions in the Kingdom of Portugal formerly belonging to the Knights Templars ſhould belong to theſe Knights, who were obliged to make War againſt the neighbouring Moors. Their Habit was black, with a Croſs Pattee, Gules, charged with another of Argent, which they wore on their Breaſts.

ORDERS OF KNIGHTHOOD In FRANCE.

Knights of Jesus Christ.

THIS Order of Knighthood was instituted in Anno 1206, by St. Dominick, chiefly to fight against the Albigenses or Hereticks, and prescribed to them a white Habit, with a Cross flory, quarterly Sable and Argent, to be worn upon their Breasts; and that they should elect a Master; and this Order was approved of by Pope Innocent the third in Anno 1215. They professed Obedience and Conjugal Chastity. When their Business was ended for which they were instituted, they laid away their Arms, and wholly devoted themselves to a religious Life, and admitted into their Society Widows and Virgins.

Knights of the Passion of Jesus Christ.

THIS Order was instituted by Charles King of France, and Richard the second, King of England, for the Re-conquest of the Holy Land, the Overthrow of the Enemies of Christ, and the Advancement of the Catholick Faith amongst the Eastern People.

In the chief Convent of the Holy Chivalry, (which was to be beautified with stately Structures, as Palaces, a Castle, a Church, and to be richly endowed, and in common amongst them, that they might the better follow the Exercise of their Arms, and other Duties) all Things of publick Concernment were to be heard and debated in the Presence of the King by five sufficient Counsels. The two principal Officers of the Chivalry were, first the Grand Justiciary, who had the Disposal of all chief Offices and Places, and to whom belonged the Judgment of all Criminal Affairs; and next the Grand Bailiff, who was to administer both Civil and Criminal Justice; besides several other Officers of a lower Degree, as the Potestate, the Senator of the General Chapter, the ten Executors of Justice, and the Charitable Commissaries, &c. And for their better living according to the Rules of Order, they were to vow Obedience, Poverty, and Conjugal Chastity.

The Habits which these Knights were appointed to wear, was a Civil coloured Cloth Coat, which should reach down half way their Legs, which was to be girt about them with a Girdle of Silk or Leather about two Fingers broad, a red Cap, and over the said Coat a Mantle of white Cloth or Stuff, with a red Cross of Cloth or Serge about two Fingers broad, broad, which was on the Breaſt from the Top to the Bottom, and ſo round the Waiſt.

The Number of theſe Knights were to be about one thouſand; and each Knight was to have his Eſquire armed at all Points, with three Varlets; one to carry his Helmet and Launce, another to carry his Mail, and a third to lead his Sumpter; and in Time of Peace two or three Horſes and Servants, according as the Ability of the Chivalry would allow. But although this Order was erected upon ſo good a Deſign, yet no great Progreſs was made therein, for it died almoſt in its Birth.

Knights of the Bleſſed Virgin Mary of Mount Carmel.

KING Henry the fourth being deſirous to have a new Order of Knighthood, made his Application to Pope Paul the fifth, who in Anno 1608 confirmed this Order, and preſcribed divers Things (according to the Deſire of the King) neceſſary to the Inſtitution; and further ordained Penſions to the Great Maſter and Knights, out of certain Eccleſiaſtical Benefices in ſeveral Places in France. Upon this the Commandaries and Hoſpitals of St. Lazarus in France were diſpoſed of for the Maintenance of theſe new erected Knights; and thoſe Knights of St. Lazarus that remained in the ſaid Kingdom were joined unto theſe.

Theſe Knights by their Inſtitution are to be choice Gentlemen of France, whoſe Duty is to attend the King's Perſon upon any Expedition of War; they alſo are to fight againſt the Enemies of the Roman Church; and they vow Obedience and Chaſtity.

This Order conſiſts of one hundred: Their Feaſt is celebrated Annually on the ſixteenth of July. The Badge of their Order is a Croſs of eight Points, of a tawny or violet Colour, with a white Border, ſewed on the left Side of their Cloaks, and the Figure of the Virgin Mary of Mount Carmel placed in the midſt within a Rundle, encircled with Rays of Gold, all wrought in curious Imbroidery. They alſo wear about their Necks, in a tawny Ribbon, the like Croſs of Gold enamelled.

Knights of St. Michael.

THIS Order was erected by Lewis the eleventh in Anno 1469, whereinto himſelf, with others the moſt principal Peers of his Kingdom of France, did enter. And the Reaſon that did occaſion the King to erect this Order, was in Memory of an Apparition of St. Michael upon the Bridge of Orleans, when that City was beſieged by the Engliſh; at which Time (as Hiſtories relate) lived a certain Maiden called Joan, of ſo rare a Wit and Valour in Arms, that ſhe was reputed more than a mortal Creature, leading an Army herſelf in the Field againſt the Engliſh; for which good Service, when the Engliſh had vanquiſhed her Army, and took her Priſoner, they in Revenge cauſed her to be burnt for a Witch in the Market-place of Orleans, in which Place is ſince erected a Conduit to her Memory.

This Order is ornified with a great Collar, whereto hangeth the Figure of St. Michael. The Sovereign of this Order is the French King and his Succeſſors. The Number of theſe Knights at firſt were ſix and thirty, which of late Years is much encreaſed, which doth much eclipſe its Luſtre. The Place of their general Aſſembly was at the Church on Mount St. Michael, every Michaelmas Day. To this Order belongeth a Treaſurer, Chancellor, Regiſter, and a Herald, named Monſanmichaele. Their Habit, as now uſed, is as followeth; firſt, Doublet, Hoſe, Shoes, Scabard, with the Band of his Cap and Feather all white, his Surcoat Cloath of Silver, with the Sleeves on; over that a Mantle alſo of Cloath of Silver, tied over the Right Shoulder, and turned up over the Left, and bordered about with a rich Embroidery of Cockles and Knots; and over all the Collar of St. Michael.

THIS Order was inſtituted by Henry the third of France in Anno 1578, in Honour of Whitſunday, on which Day, at an Aſſembly of Eſtates General of Poland, together with thoſe for the Dutchy of Lithuania, he was elected King of Poland; and afterwards upon the ſame Day and Feaſt he was called and accepted of for their King.

The Number of Perſons contained in this Order is ſaid to be one hundred, beſides the Sovereign, which is always to be the King: In which ſaid Number are comprehended four Cardinals, five Prelates, the Chancellor, Proveſt, Maſter of the Ceremonies, Great Treaſurer, and Scribe, who are called Commanders.

Their Grand Feaſt is Annually celebrated the firſt of January in the Church of the Auguſtine Friars in Paris; but if the King cannot be there preſent, then it is to be celebrated where he ſhall perſonally be, and in the greateſt Church, there being divers Ceremonies to be obſerved by them in the Celebration thereof, which are ſet down by Sir William Segar, pag. 88.

Their Robe is like that of St. Michael, only of black Velvet embroidered all about with Gold and Silver of Flower de lis, and Knots of Gold, between fundry Ciphers of Silver and Flames of Gold feamed; alſo garniſhed with a Mantle of green Cloath of Silver, wrought over with the ſame Manner of Embroidery, and both lined with Orange-coloured Satten: Their Hoſe and Doublet is white; their Bonets black, with white Plumes: Their great Mantle they wear turned up over the Left Shoulder, and open on the Right: And over all the Collar wrought of the ſame Embroidery-Work, on which hangeth a Croſs with the Figure of a Dove in the Center thereof.

Note, That theſe five Orders, viz. that of the Garter in England, that of the Toizon in Flanders, that of St. Michael in France, that of the Anunciation in Savoy, (yet to treat of) and this of St. Eſprit, are reputed moſt honourable; and in Token of their excelling all other Degrees of Knighthood, are adorned with great Collars.

Knights of the Order of the Genet.

THIS Order (by Favin) is eſteemed the firſt in France, which was inſtituted about the Year of our Lord 726, by Charles Martel high Steward of France, in Memory of that Famous Battel fought near Tours, where about three hundred eighty five thouſand Saracens and Moors, together with their General Abdiramo, were ſlain; and the ſaid Charles, to reward thoſe that valiantly behaved themſelves in the ſaid Battel, erected this Order of Knighthood, which conſiſted of ſixteen, to whom he gave Collars of Gold made of a triple Chain, interwoven with enamelled red Roſes, at the End whereof hung a Genet of Gold enamelled black and red upon a Bank of Flowers fairly enamelled. Aubertus Meræus ſaith theſe Knights have other Enſigns belonging unto them; as a Ring after the Manner of the Romans, and certain Habits for the Body.

The Reaſon why this Order was ſo called, was from a great many neat ſhaped Horſes called Genets, of which a great Part of the Founders Chivalry was ſaid to conſiſt: But others ſay it took its Name from the great Store of Genet Furs taken amongſt the Spoils of the Victory. But this Order is now extinct.

Knights of the Crown Royal amongſt the Frizons.

THIS Order was erected by Charles the Great, Son of King Pepin, in Anno 802, for the rewarding and honouring thoſe amongſt the Frizons that had valiantly behaved themſelves in his Army againſt the ancient Saxons or Lombards, and to encourage others to Acts of Heroick Vertue.

This Order took its Name from its Enſign, viz. an Imperial Crown, which theſe Knights uſed to wear upon their Breaſts. They were inveſted with a military Belt and a Box on the Ear.

Knights of our Lady of the Star.

THIS Order was inſtituted by King Robert in Anno 1022, in Honour to the Virgin Mary, but was of no long Continuance, being diſcontinued by King Charles the ſeventh, for that it was grown ſo common by the admitting into the Order Perſons of no Merit. Their Habit was Mantles of white Damask, lined with light Carnation Damask, with Surcoats of the ſame; and on the Left Side of the Breaſt of the ſaid Garments was embroidered a Star of Gold; and on their Collar, which was much like that of the Order of the Genet, did hang the Figure of a Star. The Ceremony of this Order was on the Nativity of the Bleſſed Virgin, who was their Patroneſs; and the Place where it was kept, was at the Houſe of St. Owen, near St. Denis, in the ſaid Kingdom of France.

Knights of the Thiſtle of Bourbon.

THIS Order was inſtituted on New-year's-day 1370, by Lewis the ſecond, Duke of Bourbon, for the corroborating his Power and Intereſt for the Aid of Charles Duke of Orleans, and of his two Brothers Philip and John, againſt the Faction of the Houſe of Burgundy. The ſet Number of theſe Knights were ſix and twenty, of which himſelf and his Succeſſors, Dukes of Bourbon, were Chief.

Their Habit was a Mantle of Sky-coloured Damask, lined with red Satten, with broad Welts of Gold embroidered on the Collar. The Bonnet was of green Velvet, with a Taſſel of Gold and crimſon Silk hanging on the Band: Their great Collar was of Gold, wrought and enamelled with green; at the Bottom whereof, in an Oval, hung the Figure of their Patroneſs the Bleſſed Virgin; as alſo the Head of a Thiſtle enamelled green and white. And theſe Knights were obliged daily to wear a Girdle or Belt of watchet Velvet embroidered with Gold, in the midſt of which was wrought the Word Eſperance.

Knights

Knights of the Porcupine.

THIS Order was instituted by Monsieur Lewis of France, Duke of Orleans, in Anno 1393, for the further honouring the Baptism of his eldest Son Charles, which he had by Valentina, Daughter to John Galeas Duke of Milan: And he made Choice of this Device of the Porcupine, with the Words Cominus & Eminus for his Epigraph; which intimated as well something of Revenge, which he bore to his inveterate Enemy John Duke of Burgundy, as the great Hopes he had of this Child. Of this Order were four and twenty besides the Founder: Their Habits were Surcoats of violet Velvet, over which were Mantles of watchet Velvet lined with Carnation Satten; and their Collar was formed of Gold Chains, whereto hung the Figure of a Porcupine of Gold upon a Hillock of Grass and Flowers enamelled.

Knights of the Croissant of Anjou.

RENE Duke of Anjou, King of Jerusalem and Sicily, instituted this Order in the City of Anjou in Anno 1464, in Honour of God, the Support of the Church, and Exaltation of Knighthood: Their Patron was St. Maurice, himself and his Successors were Chiefs. Their Ensign, which they wore on the Right Side of their Mantle, which was crimson Velvet, was a golden Crescent, whereon was the Word L'oz enamelled; and to this Crescent was fastened as many small Pieces of Gold fashioned like Columes, and enamelled red, as the Knights had been present in Battels and Sieges.

The Order of the Ermine in Bretagne.

THIS Order was instituted in Anno 1450, by Francis the first, Duke of Bretagne, in Memory of his Grandfather John, Surnamed the Conqueror; and consisted of five and twenty, of which himself was the Chief. The Habit by him appointed them was a Mantle of white Damask lined with Carnation, with a Mantlet of the same. The great Collar was of Gold, composed of Ears of Corn in Saltier, and at the End thereof hung the Ermine, or Mus Ponticus, passing over a Turf of Grass; at the Edge of which was this Epigraph, A ma vie. But this Order expired when the Dukedom of Bretagne became annexed to the Crown of France.

DEGREES OF KNIGHTHOOD In ITALY.

Knights of St. Mary the Glorious.

IN the Life of Pope Urban, when there was great War amongſt the Italian Princes, which was about the Year of our Lord 1233, there were certain rich Gentlemen of Modena and Bologna, who being fearful of the Troubles, and to be exempt from the publick Charges, moved the Pope to permit them to live in Contemplation, and to erect a new Religious Order of Knighthood; which for a Sum of Money they obtained. Their Habit was a white Caſſock, and a Mantle of a ruſſet Colour; and for their Badge they wore a purple Croſs Pattee on their Breaſts. Knights Knights of Jesus at Rome.

THIS Order was instituted in Anno 1320, by Pope John the two and twentieth, at Avignon in France, and much enlarged by Pope Paul the fifth. Their Badge is a plain red Cross, within a Cross Pattee, Gold, which hangs on a gold Chain. And this Order was chiefly erected for the honouring of some of the Nobles and Persons of Quality in his Territories.

Knights de la Calza in Venice.

THIS Order was instituted about the Year 1400, in Honour of the Inauguration of Duke Michele Stelo, and consisted of a Society of Noblemen and Gentlemen, who entered into a Society, and elected a Person of Eminence for their Chief; and afterwards the said Order was confirmed, and Privileges granted unto them.

On solemn Days their Habit was a crimson Senator's Vest; and their Ensign was a Sun on a Shield, which they used as well for their Seal, as painted on their Banners.

Knights of St. Mark in Venice.

THE Ceremony in creating these Knights is much the same as the Knights Batchelors, being dubbed with the Sword, and their Title a bare Mark of Honour only: They are not governed by Laws or Statutes; they have no Revenue, nor are they under any particular Obligation by Vow, as those of other Orders are. This Honour is conferred as well by the Duke of Venice, as by the Senate, upon Persons of eminent Quality, and on such as have merited well of this Commonwealth, which puts the greater Esteem thereon.

Their Badge of Honour, wherewith they are adorned, is a gold Chain, which hangs over their Shoulders, to which depends a Medal; on the one Side of which is the Emblem of St. Mark, viz. a Lion with Wings, holding in his Right Paw a drawn Sword, and in his Left an open Book with this Motto, Pax tibi Marce Evangelista meus. And upon removing the Body of St. Mark from Alexandria in Egypt (where he was buried) to this City, which was in the Year 828. This Saint hath been taken for their titular Angel and Guardian; and his Picture was anciently painted upon their Ensigns and Banners.

Knights of St. George at Genoa.

THIS Order was instituted by Frederick the third, Emperor of Germany, and dedicated to the Honour of St. George their titular Saint and Patron. Their Ensign is a plain Cross, Gules, which is fastened to a gold Chain, and wore about their Necks.

Knights of the Order of the precious Blood of our Saviour Jesus Christ at Mantua.

IN Mantua 'tis reported that there is kept some of the Blood of our Saviour, with a Piece of the Spunge in which he received the Vinegar and Gall; by which Reliques (as they say) great Miracles are wrought: And in Honour of which Blood, as also for the Defence and Propagation of the Christian Religion, and for the more Noble Consummation of the Nuptial of Francisco, eldest Son to Vicentio de Gonzaga, fourth Duke of Mantua, this Order was instituted about the Year 1608, and consisted of twenty Knights, of which the Great Master was one, who was the said Duke and Founder thereof.

Their Collar is composed of Ovals of Gold, some the Length one way, and some another; in one of which were these Words, Domine probásti, and in the other Flames of Fire flashing out of a Crucible or Melting-pot full of Gold; and at the same hanged another Oval of Gold, wherein were two Angels upright, holding between them a Cross; on the Table of it were enamelled Drops of Blood, and about the Oval the Inscription, Nihil isto triste recepto.

Knights of St. Stephen at Florence.

COSMO Duke of Florence and Sienna, having settled his Government, and living in a peaceable Estate, in Anno 1561, erected this Order, calling those that entered into the said Society Cavalieri de san Steffano. Their Statutes by him constituted are much the same with those of the Order of Malta; only these have the Liberty to marry.

Their Ensign is a red Cross bordered about with Gold: Their chief Place of Residence is at at Piſa, where they have a Church, and a Place of Reſidence built them by the Duke, as being near to the Haven, which receiveth the Gallies wherein theſe Knights ſhould ſerve for the checking the Inroads of the Turkiſh Pirates.

The Duke himſelf, and his Succeſſors, is Great Maſter of this Order, under whom are divers other Officers of Reputation. Their Habit is a long Mantle of white Camblet, and on the Left Part of the Breaſt a Croſs of crimſon Satten, bordered with Gold; and on Feſtival Days they wear a Ribbon about their Necks.

Knights of the Knot in Naples.

LEWIS King of Hungary being reſolved to revenge the Death of his Brother Andrew, whom Joan Queen of Naples, Wife of the ſaid Andrew, had cauſed to be ſtrangled, undertook an Expedition into Italy, and much harraſſed her Kingdom; but after a three Years War, in Anno 1351, they came to an Agreement, and ſhortly after (with the Conſent of Pope Clement the ſixth) the Queen and Lewis Prince of Tarentum were crowned King and Queen of that Kingdom: And in Commemoration of ſo happy a Union, the Prince inſtituted this Order, into which were enrolled ſeventy of the Nobleſt Lords in Naples, together with ſome Strangers.

Their Habit appointed them was a white Garment; and their Enſign was a Knot intermixed with Gold. But this Order expired ſoon after the Death of the Founder.

Knights of the Argonauts of St. Nicholas in Naples.

THIS Order was inſtituted in Anno 1382, by Charles the third, King of Naples, for the Advancement of Navigation, which was much wanting amongſt the Neopolitans; but others ſay it was erected for the preſerving of Amity amongſt the Nobles, who were the Perſons that were inveſted with the ſaid Honour. Their Enſign appointed them by the ſaid King was a Ship toſſed in a Storm, with this Motto, Non credo tempori. Their Habit was a white Garment; and their great Feaſt was held in the Convent of that ſtately Church built by St. Nicholas Biſhop of Smyrna. But by Reaſon of the King's not ſettling a Revenue thereon, upon his Death it became diſuſed.

Knights of the Ermin in Naples.

FERDINAND the firſt, King of Naples, having ended the War which he had againſt John of Lorain Duke of Calabria; his Brother in Law Marinus Marcianus, Duke of Seſſa, and Prince of Roſiano, had raiſed a Confederacy againſt him, and intended to kill him when they were together, by which Means the Kingdom might be transferred to the Duke of Calabria: But this Plot being diſcovered, and the Duke apprehended, inſtead of cauſing him to be executed, the King elected him one of this Order, and alſo admitted thereunto all the Nobles of his Kingdom. The Collar, with which they were inveſted, was of Gold intermixed with Mud or Dirt, to which hung an Ermin, with this Motto, Malo mori quam fœdari.

DEGREES OF KNIGHTHOOD In SAVOY.

Knights of the Annunciation.

THIS Order was inſtituted in the Year 1362, by Amedeo the ſixth, Earl of Savoy, ſurnamed Il Verde, in Memory of Amedeo the firſt Earl thereof, who having valorouſly defended the Iſle of Rhodes againſt the Turks, won thoſe Arms which are now born by the Dukes of Savoy, viz. Gules, a Croſs Argent. The Collar belonging to this Order is of Gold, on which are theſe Letters engraven, F. E. R. T. which ſignify Fortitudo ejus Rhodum tenuit; and to this Collar hangeth a Tablet, wherein is the Figure of the Annunciation, which is their daily Badge which they wear about their Shoulders.

This Order at firſt conſiſted of fifteen, of which the Founder was the Sovereign; which Number was afterwards enlarged. The Church where the Ceremonies were obſerved, and the Chapters held by the Sovereign and the Knights, was firſt at Pierre Chaſtle, which afterwards removed to Montmeillar, and thence to the Hermitage of Camaldule, ſeated upon the Mountain of Turin.

Their Habit is now a purple Mantle ſeeded with Roſes and Flames in Embroidery of Gold and Silver, bordered with the Symbals of the Order, fringed with Gold, and lined with Cloath of Silver, and tiſſued blue; under which, inſtead of a Surcoat, is worn a white Satin Suit embroidered with Silk, and the Breeches like Trouſes half Way their Thighs.

In the ſaid Church were entertained fifteen Prieſts, who were to ſay fifteen Maſſes daily to the Honour of the fifteen Joys of the Bleſſed Virgin, to the Soul's Health of him, his Predeceſſors, and all who have been, were, or ſhould hereafter be Knights of this Order.

Amongſt the Orders by them obſerved, every Knight at his Death was to give to the Maintenance of the Church one hundred Florins, which was to be paid to the Prior for the Time being. That at the Death of any of the Knights, the reſt ſhould aſſemble themſelves to bury the Dead in an honourable Order, and every Knight to wear a white Gown, and ſo make his Offering; each bringing with him four Wax Torches weighing one hundred Pounds, and afterwards for nine Days to Apparel themſelves in Mourning: And that every Knight at his Burial ſhould give unto the Church a Collar, a Banner, his Armour, and Coat of Arms; all which to be offered at the Day of Entertainment at the Church in Memory of the Deceaſed.

Knights

Knights of St. Maurice.

AMADIS the eighth Duke of Savoy, with ten of his Court Knights, retired themſelves to the Deſart of Ripaille, near the Lake of Geneva, where they led a Solitary and Hermetical Life. And in the Year 1434, as well to honour St. Maurice the titular Saint and Patron of Savoy, as of his Launce or Sword and Ring, which as a Pledge of Dominion are delivered to them with great Solemnity at their Inauguration: This Order was inſtituted, and was made ſubject to the Rule of St. Auguſtine. The Habit aſſigned them was an Aſh-colour or grey Gown and Chaperon, with Sleeves faced with red Chambet; alſo a Veſt of the ſame girded about them with a golden Girdle, and on the Breaſt of the Mantle a white Croſs Pommette of Cloth or Taffaty.

About nine Years after (the Papal See being void by the Depoſition of Pope Eugenius the fourth) this Duke for his devout Life was elected Pope, which, with much Perſwaſions he accepted of: But he had not been in it above nine Years, but he reſigned the Chair to Pope Nicholas the fourth, and retired again to a Solitary Life at Ripaille, where he ended his Days in Anno 1451, and was interred in the Cathedral of Lauſanna.

Knights of St. Maurice and St. Lazarus.

THeſe two Orders were erected by Emanuel Philibert, Duke of Savoy, in Anno 1572, and at the Requeſt of the ſaid Duke were confirmed and united into one Order by Pope Gregory the thirteenth, who conſtituted the ſaid Duke and his Succeſſors Dukes of Savoy Grand Maſters thereof, obliging them to ſet out two Gallies for the Service of the Papal See againſt the Turkiſh Pirates.

Their Enſign is a green Croſs of St. Lazarus, charged with a white Croſs of St. Maurice, which they wear either tied to a gold Chain or a Ribbon. Their Habit is a Gown of crimſon Tabby, with a long Train, wide Sleeves, and edged about with white Taffaty, and a Cordon with a Taſſel of white and green fixt to the Collar thereof.

A DEGREE OF KNIGHTHOOD IN SWITZERLAND,

Called, KNIGHTS of the BEAR.

THE Emperor Frederick the second going in Pilgrimage to the Abbey of St. Gall in Anno 1213, gave great Privileges in Acknowledgment of their Assistance in pulling down the Emperor Otho, and establishing himself, and erecting this Order of Knighthood, (which he conferred on several Noblemen) which Annually met at the Abbey of St. Gall on the sixteenth of October, where all new Knights were to receive the Order from the Abbot, the Patron thereof; on which Day such as were to be admitted into the Fraternity, were girded with a Military Belt, (the Sword being first consecrated at the Altar) and adorned with the Collar of the Order.

But this Order took the Title of the Bear in Memory of St. Ursus of the Theban Legion, who was martyred before the Temple of the Sun at Soleurre in Switzerland.

Unto this Order the Founder gave a Collar and a Chain of Gold, to which hung the Figure of a golden Bear mounted on an Hillock, enamelled with black.

But when this Country became a Commonwealth, this Order was laid aside.

DEGREES OF KNIGHTHOOD In GERMANY.

Knights of the Tutonick Order of Prussia.

THE first Institutor of this Order was a wealthy Gentleman of Germany, who dwelt at Jerusalem after it was taken by the Christians, together with divers other Men of his Country; and being exceeding rich, kept an hospitable House, relieving all Passengers and Pilgrims that travelled to Jerusalem, insomuch that his House became (as it were) an Hospital: At length he built near unto his House a fair Church, which he dedicated to our Lady; and many Christians resorting thither, as well out of Devotion, as to visit the Sick, they resolved to erect a Fraternity; and having chosen a Great Master for their Governor, (which was about the Year of our Lord 1190) they imitated the Knights Templars in their Military Employments, and the Knights Hospitallers in their Acts of Piety and Charity; and instituted several Orders to be observed amongst them, being much the same with those of the Knights Hospitallers and Templars, which were afterwards confirmed by Pope Celestine the third: But their Habit was a white Mantle, and on the Breast thereof for their Ensign they wore a black Cross voided with a Cross Potence.

The Holy Land being retaken from the Christians by the Saracens, these Knights returned into Germany, where they had not continued long, ere they went to the Emperor Frederick the second, and acquainted him that the People of Prussia (who were barbarous Idolaters) used Incursions upon the Confines of Saxony, and besought the Emperor's Leave to make War upon them at their own Charges, but with this Condition, that whatsoever they took should be theirs for the Maintenance of the said Order; which Request being so reasonable, was immediately granted them, and confirmed under his Seal: And being thus encouraged, forthwith took up Arms, in which they were ſo fortunate, that in a ſhort Time they not only ſubduded all that Province, but alſo paſſed the River Viſtula, and conquered other People, who became their Tributaries, and received the Chriſtian Faith.

Theſe Knights thus increaſing in Riches and Territories, they built divers Churches and Cathedral Temples, where reſided Biſhops, who were enjoyned to wear the Habit of the Order. And near unto the River Viſtula was a great Oak, where (in Anno 1340) they built the firſt Caſtle and Town, which afterwards took the Name of Mareenburgh, or Burgo di St. Maria, where is now the chief Church belonging to this Order, to which belongeth ſo great Riches, that theſe Knights, for Men and Money, might compare with divers Princes: But about the Year 1525, Albertus Brandenburgh being Great Maſter, he renounced this Order, and became Feudatory to Sigiſmond the firſt, King of Poland, who raiſed Pruſſia into a Dukedom, and this Albertus was made firſt Duke thereof. But ſome of the Knights did afterwards elect a new Great Maſter, and ſettled in Germany, but the Order is now of ſmall Luſtre.

Knights of St. Gereom.

THIS Order received its firſt Inſtitution by Frederick Barborosſa the Emperor, which conſiſted only of German Gentlemen. Their Habit was a white Gown, whereon they wore a black Patriarchal Croſs ſet on a green Hillock; and they followed the Rule of St. Auguſtine.

Knights of St. George in Auſtria and Carinthia.

THIS Order was erected (in Anno 1470) by Frederick the third, Emperor of Germany, principally for the guarding the Frontiers of Germany, Auſtria, Carinthia, Stiria, and Hungary, againſt the Incurſions of the Turks, who before much harraſſed theſe Parts: But ſince the Inſtitution of theſe Knights they have received great Checks.

Their Enſign is St. George's Croſs, which they wear on their Garment, which is white. They profeſs Conjugal Chaſtity, and Obedience to their Great Maſter, whoſe Seat and Reſidence was the Caſtle of Mildſtad in the Dukedom of Carinthia, where there was founded a Cathedral Church of Canons under the Rule of St. Auguſtine; and for their Protector they have, or had, the Emperors.

Knights of St. Michael the Archangel.

THIS Order was inſtituted (in Anno 1618) by Charles Gonzaga Duke of Mantua and Nevers, together with the Contrivance of his Brother Adolph Count of Altham, and John Baptiſt Petrignan Sfortia, chiefly to eſtabliſh Peace and Concord between Chriſtian Princes and their Subjects, and to releaſe and redeem Captives. The Year following this Order was received at Vienna by ſundry Princes of divers Countries; and in Anno 1624, it was confirmed by Pope Urban the eighth.

Their Habit was a white Mantle, over which they wore a ſhorter of blue Silk, with Buskins alſo of blue, and a black ſilk Cap: About their Necks on a blue Ribbon hung a gold Croſs of eight Points, enamelled blue; on the one Side thereof was the Figure of the Virgin Mary with our Saviour in her Arms; and on the other the Figure of St. Michael treading the Dragon under his Feet: And on the Left Side of their white Mantles was a Croſs embroidered with blue Silk and Gold, in the midſt whereof was the Figure of the Bleſſed Virgin with Chriſt in her Left Arm, and a Scepter in her Right Hand, crowned with twelve Stars, ſurrounded with Rays of the Sun, and a Creſcent under her Feet; all which was encircled with the Cord of St. Francis; and the four Angels of the Croſs caſt forth each of them a golden Flame.

But ſome Differences ariſing amongſt the Founders of this Order, was the Cauſe of its ſo ſudden Diſſolution.

Knights of St. Anthony in Hainolt.

THIS Order was inſtituted (in Anno 1382) by Albert of Bavaria, Earl of Hainolt, Zealand, and Holland, upon his Expedition againſt the Turks and Moors. Their Enſign was a golden Collar, after the Faſhion of a Hermit's Girdle, to which hung a Walking-Staff, and a little golden Bell.

Knights of the Tuſin Order in Bohemia or Auſtria.

THIS Order (as 'tis ſaid) was inſtituted by the Archdukes of Auſtria, for the engaging their Subjects to expel the Turks and Heretick

Hereticks out of their Territories, which, for about two hundred Years, had there ſeated themſelves; which coſt the Dukes an exceſſive Charge to maintain a War againſt them, and to no great Purpoſe. But theſe Knights having by Grant for their Support what they gained from them, gave them ſo great Encouragement, that in a few Years the whole Province was almoſt cleared of them by them.

Their Habit was a red, and their Enſign was a plain green Croſs.

Knights of St. Hubert in Gulick or Juliers.

THIS Order was inſtituted in Anno 1473, by Gerard Duke of Gulick and Berg, or Juliers and Mount, in Honour of St. Hubert Biſhop of Liege, who died in the Year of our Lord 727. As to their Habit and Enſign, I have met with no Account thereof.

Knights of the Order of St. James in Holland.

THIS Order received its Inſtitution in the Year 1290, from Florentius Earl of Holland and Zealand, who (in his Palace at the Hague) in Honour to St. James created twelve of his principal Nobles Knights of this Order, whom he inveſted with Collars of Gold, or Military Belts of Silver and gilt, adorned with ſix Eſcallops, to which hung the Figure of St. James the Apoſtle.

DEGREES OF KNIGHTHOOD In SWEDEN.

Knights of the Brician Order.

THIS Order was erected in the Year of our Lord 1366, by the famous Queen Bridget, who for her holy Life was ſtyled and enrolled a Saint; and out of her Zeal for the Honour of Jeſus Chriſt, the Defence of the Chriſtian Religion, the ſecuring the Confines of her Kingdom, the ſuccouring Widows and Fatherleſs, and the Maintenance of Hoſpitality, endowed this Order with a conſiderable Revenue.

This Order was approved of by Pope Urban the fifth, who gave them the Rule of St. Auguſtine: And their Enſign was a blue Croſs of eight Points, and under it a Tongue of Fire.

Knights of the Seraphins.

THIS Order was inſtituted in Anno 1334, by Magnus the fourth, King of Sweden, in Memorial of the Siege laid to the chief City of Upſala. The Collar aſſigned to this Order was compoſed of Patriarchal Croſſes of Gold, and of Seraphins of Gold, enamelled red; and at the End thereof hung the Figure of our Saviour, or of the Virgin Mary.

Knights of Amaranta.

THIS Order was inſtituted about the Year 1645, by Chriſtiana Queen of Sweden, in Honour of a Lady named Amaranta, celebrated for her Charity, Modeſty, Beauty and Courage. And by their Oath they were to defend and protect the Perſon of the Queen, as alſo the Perſons of their Fellow Brothers from Harm; to their Power to advance Piety, Virtue, and Juſtice, and to diſcountenance Injury and Vice.

Their Inſign is a Jewel of Gold, compoſed of two great A A, one being reverſed; enriched on both Sides with Diamonds, and ſet within a Wreath of Laurel Leaves, banded about with white, whereon is this Motto, Dolce nella memoria: And this Badge they wear either hanging at a gold Chain, or a crimſon or blue Ribbon, which they pleaſe.

Here is another Order of Knighthood in this Kingdom of Sweden, called of the Sword and Military Belt, whoſe Collar conſiſted of Swords and Belts conjoined; but by whom and when inſtituted, I am ignorant of.

KNIGHTS

OF THE Order of the ELEPHANT

In DENMARK.

KING Chriſtian the Firſt of Denmark, upon a Religious Account travelled to Rome; and amongſt other Honours, Pope Sixtus the fourth, in Memory of the Paſſion of our Saviour, inveſted him with this Order, and ordained him and his Succeſſors, Kings of Denmark, Chief and Supream of the ſaid Order; which was conferred on the Daniſh Princes, as a Memorial to incite them to defend the Chriſtian Religion againſt the Moors and Affricans.

Theſe Knights were obliged to perform Acts of Piety and Charity, with certain Ceremonies to be obſerved, eſpecially upon thoſe Days on which they wore the Enſign of their Order, which was the Figure of an Elephant, on whoſe Side, within a Rundle, was repreſented a Crown of Thorns with three bloody Nails.

Inſtead of their golden Collar formerly worn by them, they now wear about them a blue Ribbon, to which hangs an Elephant enamelled white, and beautified with five large Diamonds ſet in the midſt.

On the Day of the Coronation of the Kings of Denmark this Order hath been commonly conferred upon the Nobles and moſt deſerving Senators of his Kingdom.

DEGREES OF KNIGHTHOOD In POLAND.

Knights of Chriſt, or of the Sword-bearers in Livonia.

THIS Order was inſtituted by Albert Biſhop of Livonia, about the Year of our Lord 1200, for the Propagation of the Chriſtian Religion in thoſe Parts, in Imitation of the Knights Teutonicks in Pruſſia, to which Order they were united about the Year 1237, and ſubmitted themſelves to their Rule and Habit; by whoſe Aſſiſtance they ſubdued the Idolatrous Livonians, and brought them to embrace the Chriſtian Faith. But in the Year 1561, Gothard de Ketler, then Great Maſter in the Caſtle of Riga, ſurrendred to the Uſe of Sigiſmond the ſecond, King of Poland, ſurnamed Auguſtus, all the Lands belonging to this Order; together with the Seal of the Order, his Croſs, the Keys of the City and Caſtle of Riga, the Charters and Grants of the ſeveral Popes and Emperors which concerned the ſame; the Privilege of Coynage, and all other Matters concerning the ſame; upon which the ſaid Great Maſter received back from the ſaid King's Commiſſioners the Dukedom of Courland, to be enjoyed by him and his Heirs for ever; upon which this Order became extinguiſhed.

Knights of the white Eagle.

THIS Order was erected by Ladiſlaus the fifth, King of Poland, for the further honouring the Marriage of his Son Caſimire the Great with Anne Daughter of Gerdimir Duke of Lithuania, in Anno 1325, and for their Enſign had a white Eagle crowned.

KNIGHTS

OF THE Order of the DRAGON.

OVERTHROWN IN

HUNGARY.

THIS Order was inſtituted in the Year 1418, by Sigiſmund the Emperor, ſurnamed the Glorious, for the Defence of the Chriſtian Religion, and the ſuppreſſing the Schiſmaticks and Hereticks, which he had been victorious over in many Battels.

The Enſign, which they daily wore, was a green Croſs flory; on Feſtival Days they wore a ſcarlet Cloak, and on their Mantle of green Silk a double gold Chain, or a green Ribbon, to which hung the Figure of a Dragon, dead, with broken Wings, and enamelled with variety of Colours. But although this Order was of high Eſteem for a Time, yet it almoſt expired with the Death of the Founders.

Knights of the Order of the Sword in Cyprus.

GUY of Luſignan ſoon after his Poſſeſſion (as King) of the Iſle of Cyprus, which he had bought of Richard the firſt, King of England, for one hundred thouſand Crowns of Gold, in Anno 1195, erected this Order in Commemoration of ſo good and fortunate a Plantation for fifteen thouſand Perſons, which he had brought thither with him.

The Collar of this Order was compoſed of round Cordons of white Silk woven in Love-knots, and interlaced with the Letters S. and R. To this Collar hung an Oval of Gold, wherein was enamelled a Sword, the Blade Silver, and the Hilt Gold, and about the Oval was this Motto, Securitas Regni.

This Honour of Knighthood the ſaid King (who was Great Maſter) conferred on his Brother Amaury Conſtable of Jeruſalem and Cyprus, and on three hundred Barons which he had created in this his new Kingdom: But when the Turks became Maſters of the Iſle, this Order ceaſed.

KNIGHTS OF Saint ANTHONY In ÆTHIOPIA.

ABOUT the Year of our Lord 370, John Emperor of Æthiopia (vulgarly called Preſter John) erected into a Religious Order of Knighthood certain Monks, who lived an auſtere and ſolitary Life in the Deſert, after the Example of St. Anthony the Hermit, and Patron of this Empire, and beſtowed upon theſe Knights great Revenues and many Privileges. And thus being inſtituted, they received the Rule of St. Baſil, ſubmitted to his Conſtitutions, wore a black Garment, and for their Enſign a blue Croſs in Form of the Letter T.

Their chief Seat was in the Iſle of Meroe, where the Abbots both Spiritual and Temporal reſided; but in many other Parts of Æthiopia they have or had great Store of Monaſteries and Convents, with about two Millions of yearly Revenue.

Theſe Knights vow to defend the Chriſtian Religion; to yield Obedience to their Superiors; to obſerve Conjugal Chaſtity; not to marry, or receive any other Holy Orders without Licence firſt obtained from the Abbot; to guard the Confines of the Empire; and to go to War when and where they are commanded.

Into this Order the eldeſt Sons of Noblemen or Gentlemen cannot be admitted, but the ſecond Sons may: And if a Man of any Degree whatſoever (except a Phyſician) have three Sons, he is bound to enter one of them into this Order.

Knights of the Burgundian Croſs in Tunis.

MULLEASSES King of Tunis, who was driven out of his Kingdom by Barbaroſſa, that noted Pirate, was again (in Anno 1535) reſtored thereunto by the Aſſiſtance of Charles the fifth, Emperor of Germany, and King of Spain. And being deſirous to gain the Love of all thoſe that had ſerved in that War, did (as a Reward) confer this Honour of Knighthood upon all thoſe Commanders that valiantly behaved themſelves in his Service. The Enſign that he aſſigned them was the Burgundian Croſs, to which was added a Steel ſtriking Sparks of Fire out of Flint, with this Inſcription, BARBARIA; which third Badge hung to a Collar of Gold.

KNIGHTS OF THE WEST-INDIES.

PERSONS that perform'd valiant Acts in War were by the Mexicans advanced to Honour, and had ſundry Privileges granted them; inſomuch that their chief Nobility ſprang from the Camp. And Montezuma was ſo high a Favourer of Knighthood, that he ordained divers Orders, which he diſtinguiſhed by ſeveral Enſigns.

The principal Degree of theſe Knights were thoſe that had the Crown of their Hair tied with a ſmall red Ribbon, with a rich Plume of Feathers, from which hung ſo many Branches and Rolls of Feathers upon their Shoulders, as they had performed worthy Exploits in War. And theſe were termed Eagle Knights, of which Order the King was the Supream.

The Order of the Knights of the Lions and Tigers were the moſt valiant in War, and always bore with them their Badges and Armorial Enſigns, and went to the War (as did the Eagle Knights) armed Cap-a-pee.

The Order of the Grey Knights had their Hair cut round about their Ears, were not ſo much honoured as the former, and when they went to Wars, were armed but to the Middle.

All theſe Degrees of Knights had their Appartments in the King's Palace, which were diſtinguiſhed by their ſeveral Enſigns: And amongſt the honourable Privileges that they enjoyed, they might carry Gold and Silver, wear rich Cotton, and Shoes after their Faſhion, and uſe painted and guilt Veſſels; all which were prohibited the common People.

The Order of Knighthood of the Blood Royal in Peru was of great Eſteem for their approved Valour; for before they could be admitted into the ſaid Degree, their Manhood was ſufficiently tried; as in managing the Dart, Lance, and other Military Exerciſes; alſo in Leaping, Wreſtling, Running, Shooting, &c. in all which if they were not very expert, they were thought unworthy to receive ſo great an Honour: But being found worthy to be admitted, divers Ceremonies were uſed at their Creation; as putting on them fine Shoes and Breeches; boring of Holes in their Ears; giving them an Axe; and adorning their Heads with Flowers, &c. all which was forbidden the common People.

And the Peruvian Lords at their ſolemn Feaſts at Cuſco uſed to dedicate their Children to Honour, adorning them with Enſigns, making Holes in their Ears, and anointing their Faces with Blood, in Token that they ſhould be true Knights to the Ingua.

The Knights of Cinaloa, which is a Province near New Mexico, were created by giving them a Bow, and ordering them to encounter a Lion, or ſome other Savage Beaſt, which if they ſlew, they were received into Favour and Honour.

CHAP. XXV.

ALTHOUGH by the Civil Law there be no Gentlemen of Title under Knights, but all the reſt went under the Name of People; yet with us there are in this Rank which have Names of Preheminence, whereby they are in Degree above the reſt, as Eſquires and Gentlemen, all which give Enſigns of Coats of Arms, and thereby are diſtinguiſhed from the meaner People; in which Reſpect Bartoll's Tract de Enſignes calleth them Noble: But yet of weak Nobility; for it hath no further Prerogative in it, than it makes them differ from the baſer Sort of People.

Of theſe two Sorts of Gentlemen with us, the Eſquire hath the Priority. But it ſeemeth if an Eſquire be named Gentleman, or a Gentleman called an Eſquire, it is no Offence or Fault in Legal Proceedings.

Eſquire ſeemeth by the common Name we give him in Latin, to have his Original either for that he carried the Armour of the King, Duke, or other great Perſonage; as we read not only in Scripture, as Saul and Jonathan had their Armour-bearers; but in Poets and other prophane Stories, we find that Troclus was Achilles's Armour-bearer, and Clytus Alexander's the Great; whereupon ſome write, that he whom we call Armiger in Latin is a Footman, that with a Spear, Shield, or Head-piece, followeth an armed Knight in Battel; or rather, as ſome others ſuppoſe, it is the Footman armed in the Field: But howſoever the Words be taken, this is ſure, That thoſe Men were of good Accompt in the Old Time, as thoſe that won themſelves Credit out of War; and ſo their Eſtimation remaineth in their Poſterity. And as thoſe were in Times before, ſo are theſe which are in our Days, as deſcending for the moſt Part from their worthy Anceſtors: And our Books of Common Law doth diſtinguiſh them thus, viz.

Knighthood is a Dignity, but Eſquires and Gentlemen are but Names of Worſhip: And Brooks in the Abridgment of that Caſe, Title Noſman de Dignitie, 33, ſaith, To be a Knight eſt gradus; but to be an Eſquire or Gentleman eſt ſtatus; for Gradus continet ſtatus in ſe, & non è contrario. Concerning the Word Worſhipful, read in the printed Book of Titles of Honour the firſt Part, fol. 124, & ſequentia.

In Times paſt every Knight had two of theſe waiting upon him, who carried his Murrion and Shield; and as inſeparable Companions, they ſtuck cloſe to him; becauſe of the ſaid Knight their Lord, they held certain Lands in Eſcuage, like as the Knight himſelf did of the King by Knights Service.

The Beginning of giving Arms in Europe amongſt Chriſtians is ſuppoſed from the Holy Wars; for the Turks paint them not: And ſo with us about Henry the third's Time they became here more firmly eſtabliſhed: And when the Prince enobled any, he uſually gave them the Particular of his Bearing in Blazon. John Selden in his Preface, fol. 5, where you may alſo ſee an Example in King Richard the ſecond.

But now there are five diſtinct Sorts of Eſquires obſerved; and thoſe that have been already ſpoken of are now in no Requeſt. Of theſe these Sorts the Principal at this Day are the eldest Sons of Viscounts and Lords; next are all Noblemens younger Sons; then are accounted those that are select Esquires for the King's Body; the next are Knights eldest Sons successively; in a fourth Rank are reckoned those unto whom the King himself together with the Title giveth Arms, or createth Esquires by putting about their Necks a silver Collar of SS, and in former Times upon their Heels a Pair of white silvered Spurs, whereupon at this Day in the Western Part of the Kingdom they be called White-spurs, for distinction from Knights who were wont to wear gilt Spurs; and to the first begotten Sons only of these doth this Title belong. In the fifth and last Place be those that have any Superior publick Office in the Kingdom; as High Sheriffs, Justices of the Peace, &c. or serve the King in any Worshipful Calling. At the Coronation of Kings and Queens Knights of the Bath are made, Men of Worth and Honourable Blood, to the End that their Majesties may be accompanied in their own Honours, every of which Knights having two Gentlemen to attend them in that Ceremony, who are ever after (by that Service) enabled to be Esquires during their Lives.

But the Name of Esquire in ancient Time was a Name of Charge and Office, and first crept in amongst other Titles of Dignity and Worship (so far as ever I could observe) in the Reign of King Richard the second; vide Sir Thomas Smith de Republica Anglorum, fol. 26, where he saith, That the Esquire is no distinct Order of the Commonwealth.

A Serjeant of the King's Kitchin may bear the Name and Addition of Cook or Esquire, according to the Opinion of Newton: But Jenne saith, Such Officers of his Majesty's Household would be much grieved if they should be named by their Trade or Office. Peradventure in that Case the Writ may be good, because of the Statute, viz. 1 Hen. 5. chap. 5. For the Statute is, That he should be named of the Town, Degree, State, Condition, or Mystery; and when he was named Cook, he observed the Statute, for he hath named him by his own Name of Mystery; and yet he may be in that Case an Esquire, and a Cook.

If a Man be an Esquire or Gentleman only by Office, and loseth the same, he loseth also that Title of Gentility.

Note, That an Esquire or Gentleman is but an Addition to satisfy the said Statute; but Names of Dignity are Parcel of the Name. And thereupon if a Præcipe quod reddat be against John a Stiles Yeoman, and Recovery is had, whereas the Tenant was a Gentleman, yet the Recovery is good. The same Law where a Release is made to John a Stiles Yeoman, who is a Gentleman; and where Addition is given by the Party where it needeth not, by the Law (being no Dignity) it is void. So if a Deed be made to a Gentleman by the Name of a Yeoman; for there is a great Difference between Deeds and Writs.

If an Esquire be to be Arraigned of High Treason, he may and ought to be tried per probos & legales homines, that may expend forty Shillings of Freehold, or be worth one hundred Pounds in the Value of Goods: And so the Statute that doth speak of Men of his Condition hath always been put in Ure, Dyer 99, b. Note, a Knight hath no other Privilege by Statute or Common Law.

The King may make an Esquire by Patent, viz. Creamus te Armigerum, &c. Note the Preface to the printed Book of Titles of Honour, 5. b. & 318.

By the Statute 21 Hen. 8. cap. 13. amongst other Things it is enacted, that the Brethren and Sons born in Wedlock of every Knight, being Spiritual Men, may every of them purchase License or Dispensation, and receive, take and keep two Parsonages, or Benefices with Cure of Souls.

The Son or Sons of any Knight, and Heir apparent of an Esquire is privileged to keep Greyhounds, Setting-Dogs, or Nets to take Pheasants or Partridges, though he cannot despend ten pounds in his own Right, or in his Wife's Right of Estate of Inheritance, or of the Value of thirty Pounds of Estate for Life.

By the precedent Discourse of Knights Batchelors we understand, that all Persons by the Common Law are compellable to take the Degree of Knighthood, or to fine, if they are possest of such an Estate as the King and his Council shall judge fit to maintain that Port in their Country. And this Annual Revenue deemed fit for that Dignity, and the Fines imposed upon such as refused, we find in our Histories and Statutes to vary with the Times; and certainly the best Esquires, or at least none under the Reputation of Gentlemen were compelled, although 'twas at the King's Pleasure: And therefore 1 Edw. 2. Stat. de Militibus, the Parliament (saith Sanderson) more for Ease of the Subject, than Profit of the King, limited it to such as had twenty Pounds per Annum and better; and afterwards 'twas raised to thirty Pounds, (and a plentiful Revenue in those Times, when a Dowry of three thousand Pounds per Annum to a Queen was deemed a great Impoverishment to the Crown and Kingdom:) But the East and Western Part of the World being laid open to the Merchants, Money began to be more common, and by Consequence Land to its Value; so that in the Reign of King Charles the first forty Pounds per Annum being the Rate set for such as ought to be made Knights, or to fine, many Farmers, Leaseholders, Merchants, Innholders, and others were called in, whereby above an hundred thousand Pounds was brought into into the Exchequer: Notwithstanding which divers Persons made Friends, and took the Degree of Knighthood, which occasion'd the Extinguishment of the ancient Tax; for many Esquires by Birth, Wealth, and Education, who bore the chiefest Offices of Honour and Trust in the Commonwealth, disdained to stoop or give Place to those new dubbed Knights, countenanced the Complaints of the Common People against the Law itself as a Grievance, and prevailed so far in the following Parliament, to get it repeal'd, as you may see 17 Car. cap. 20. Since which Time the Difference between the Degree of Knighthood, and Dignity of an Esquire, consists only in Title, a double Rate in the Pole Tax, and Priority of Place, which (as I before noted) is often slighted; unless he be sufficiently qualified by Birth, Parts, or other generous Accomplishments; or are Knights of the Field, who are never abridged of their merited Honour, being acquired according to the original Institution of that Degree amongst all Nations.

And we see our Parliament Men, our Sheriffs, Justices of the Peace, and the Honourable Commanders, and Captains of Cavalry and Infantry, for the most Esquires at their first Election. By the Statute 23 Hen. 6. cap. 15. the Knights of the Shires shall be notable Knights, or else notable Esquires or Gentlemen, born in the same Countries for which they are chosen. See the Statute for the Preservation of the Game 22 and 23 Car. 2. by which, and many other Statutes, they are equally privileged with Knights and other Persons of higher Degree. To represent therefore an Esquire, as now defined, is no easy Task; but according to the ancient Rule, I take him for a Foot Commander.

The Atchievement of an Esquire differs from the Knight Batchelor's only in the Helmet, as you may here observe. I shall also give you other Examples of Esquires, and amongst the rest the Atchievement of my Honoured Friend Robert Logan (vulgarly written Login) Son and Heir to John Logan, Lord of the Manor of Idbury in Oxfordshire; who was of the ancient House of Restalrigge in Scotland, unfortunately ruined for their Loyalty to Mary Queen of Scots: He succeeded his Father at Idbury, was High Sheriff of the County; a Man eminent for his Virtue and Learning; (amongst whose Prayers this Manuscript was found) exemplar in his Life for Charity and Conversation.

THE DEFINITION OR DESCRIPTION OF THE GENTRY, OR Civil Nobility, OF ENGLAND.

CHAP. XXVI.

GENTLEMAN, Generoſus, ſeemeth to be made of two Words, the one French (Gentil) honeſtus vel honeſta parente natus; the other Saxon (Man) as if you would ſay a Man well born: And under this Name are all comprized, that are above Yeomen and Artificers; ſo that Nobles are truly called Gentlemen. By the Courſe and Cuſtom of England, Nobility is either Major or Minor. Major contains all Titles and Degrees from Knighthood upwards. Minor all from Barons downwards.

Gentlemen have their Beginning either of Blood, as that they are born of Worſhipful Parents; or that they have done ſomething worthy in Peace or War, whereby they deſerve to bear Arms, and to be accounted Gentlemen. But in theſe Days he is a Gentleman, who is commonly ſo taken. And whoſoever ſtudieth the Laws of this Realm, who ſtudieth in the Univerſity, who profeſſeth Liberal Sciences, and, to be ſhort, who can live without Manual Labour, and will bear the Port, Charge, and Countenance of a Gentleman, he ſhall be called Maſter, and ſhall be taken for a Gentleman; for true it is with us, tanti eris alii, quanti tibi fueris: And if Need be, a King at Arms ſhall grant him a Patent for a new Coat, if that there is none that of Right doth appertain unto him from his Anceſtors; and if ſo, confirm that upon him. But ſome Men make a Queſtion, Whether this Manner of making Gentlemen is to be allowed of or no? And it may ſeem that it is not amiſs; for firſt, the Prince loſeth nothing by it, as he ſhould do if it were in France; for the Yeoman or Husbandman is no more ſubject to Tale or Tax in England than the Gentleman: But on the other Side, in every Payment to the King the Gentleman is more charged, which he beareth with Content; and in any Shew, Muſter, or other particular Charge of the Town or County where he dwelleth, he is at a greater Expence for the Preſervation of his Honour: And for the outward Shew, in all Reſpects he deports himſelf like a Gentleman: And if he be called to the Wars, whatſoever it coſt him, he muſt appear well accoutred, have his Attendance, and ſhew a more manly Courage and Tokens of a generous Education, by which Means he ſhall purchaſe a greater Fame. For as touching the Policy and Government of the Commonwealth, it is not thoſe that have to do with it, which will magnify themſelves, and go above their Eſtates, but they that are appointed Magiſtrates, &c. are Perſons tried and well known. See Sir Thomas Smith Repub. Angl. Chap. Of Eſquires and Gentlemen. In the five and twentieth of Queen Elizabeth the Caſe was, That whereas it is required by this Statute of the firſt of Henry the fifth, Chap. 5. That in every Writ, Original Proceſs, &c. in which any Exigit ſhall be awarded, that Additions ſhould be given unto the Defendant of their Eſtate and Degree, &c. And the Caſe was, That one was a Yeoman by his Birth, and yet commonly called and reputed a Gentleman; and yet it was adjudged, That a Writ might be brought againſt him with the Addition of Gentleman, for ſo much as the Intention of the Action is to have ſuch a Name given by which he may be known: This is ſufficient to ſatisfy the Law, and the Act of Parliament; for Nomen dicitur, quia Notitiam facit.

But if a Gentleman be ſued by Addition of Husbandman, he may ſay he is a Gentleman, and demand Judgment of the Writ without ſaying (and not Husbandman;) for a Gentleman may be a Husbandman, but he ſhall be ſued by his Addition moſt worthy: For a Gentleman of what Eſtate ſoever he be, although he go to Plough and common Labour for his Maintenance, yet he is a Gentleman, and ſhall not be named in legal Proceedings Yeoman, Husbandman, or Labourer.

If a Gentleman be bound an Apprentice to a Merchant, or other Trade, he hath not thereby loſt his Degree of Gentility.

But if a Recovery be had againſt a Gentleman by the Name of a Yeoman, in which Caſe no Action is neceſſary, then it is no Error: So if any Deed or Obligation be made to him by the Name of Yeoman.

If a Capias go againſt A. B. Yeoman, and if the Sheriff take A. B. Gentleman, an Action of falſe Impriſonment lyeth againſt the Sheriff: But if A. B. Yeoman be indicted, and A. B. Gentleman be produced, being the ſame Man intended, it is good.

If a Man be a Gentleman by Office only, and loſeth the ſame, then doth he alſo loſe his Gentility.

By the Statute 5 Eliz. cap. 4. intituled, An Act touching Orders for Artificers, Labourers, Servants of Husbandry, and Apprentices, amongſt other Things it is declared, That a Gentleman born, &c. ſhall not be compelled to ſerve in Husbandry. If any Falcon be loſt, and is found, it ſhall be brought to the Sheriff, who muſt make Proclamation, and if the Owner come not within four Months, then if the Finder be a ſimple Man, the Sheriff may keep the Hawk, making Agreement with him that took it: But if he be a Gentleman, and of Eſtate to have and keep a Falcon, then the Sheriff ought to deliver to him the ſaid Falcon, taking of him reaſonable Coſts for the Time that he had him in Cuſtody.

A Commiſſion is made to take Children into Cathedral Churches, &c. one in anothers Places, where Children are inſtructed to ſing for the furniſhing of the King's Chapel: Theſe general Words, by Conſtruction of Law, have a reaſonable Intendment, viz. That ſuch Children, who be brought up and taught to ſing to get their Living by it, thoſe may be taken for the King's Service in his Chappel, and it ſhall be a good Preferment to them; but the Sons of Gentlemen, or any other that are taught to ſing for their Ornament or Recreation, and not merely for their Livelihoods, may not be taken againſt their Wills, or the Conſent of their Parents and Friends. And ſo it was reſolved by the two Chief Juſtices, and all the Court of Star-Chamber, Anno 43 Eliz. in the Caſe of one Evans, who had by Colour of ſuch Letters Patents taken the Son of one Clifton a Gentleman of Quality in Norfolk, who was taught to ſing for his Recreation; which Evans for the ſame Offence was grievouſly puniſhed.

And to the End it may withal appear, what Degrees of Nobility and Gentry were in the Realm before the coming of the Normans, and by what Merits Men might aſcend, and be promoted to the ſame, I will here ſet down the Copy of an Engliſh or Saxon Antiquity, which you may read in Lambert's Perambulation of Kent, fol. 364, and Engliſhed thus:

It was ſometimes in the Engliſh Laws, That the People and Laws were in Reputation, and then were the wiſeſt of the People worſhip-worthy each in his Degree, Earl and Churle, Churle, Theyne and Undertheyne. And if a Churle ſo thrived, that he had fully five Hides of Land of his own, a Church and a Kitchen, a Bellhouſe and a Gate, a Seat and a ſeveral Office in the King's Hall, then was he thenceforth the Theynes Right Worthy: And if a Thyne ſo thrived, that he ſerved the King on his Journey, rode in his Houſhold, if he then had a Theyne which him followed, who to the King's Expectation five Hides had, and in the King's Palace his Lord ſerved, and thrice with his Errand had gone to the King, he might afterwards with his Fore-oath his Lord's Part play at any Need; and of a Theyne that he became an Earl, then was thenceforth an Earl Right Worthy. And if a Merchant-man ſo thrived, that he paſſed over the wide Sea thrice of his own Craft, he was thenceforth the Theynes Right Worthy. And if a Scholar ſo thrived, through Learning, that he had Degree and ſerved Chriſt, he was thenceforth of Dignity and Peace ſo much worthy, as thereunto belonged, unleſs he forfeit, ſo that he the Uſe of his Degree remit.

It is obſerved, That the Saxons out of all thoſe Trades of Life which be converſant in Gain, admit to the Eſtate of Gentry ſuch only, as encreaſed by honeſt Husbandry or plentiful Merchandize. Of the firſt of which Cicero affirmeth, that there is nothing meeter for a freeborn Man, nor no Men fitter to make braver Soldiers: And of the other, that 'tis Prizeworthy alſo, if at the Length, being ſatisfied with Gain, as it hath often come from the Sea to the Haven, ſo it changeth from the Haven into Lands and Poſſeſſions. And therefore whereas Gervaſius Tilburienſis in his Obſervations of the Exchequer, accounted it an abuſing of a Gentleman to occupy publicum mercimonium, common buying and ſelling; it ought to be referred to the other two Parts of Merchandize, that is to a Negotiation, which is retailing and keeping of an open Shop, and to a Function, which is to exerciſe Mercery, or as ſome call it, to play the Chapman, and not to Navigation, which (as you ſee) is the only laudable Part of all buying and ſelling.

And again, whereas by the Statute of Magna Charta, cap. 6. and Merton, cap. 7. it was a Diſcouragement for a Ward in Chivalry, which in old Time was as much as to ſay a Gentleman, to be married to the Daughter of a Burgeſs; I think that it ought to be reſtrained to ſuch only as profeſſed Handycrafts, or thoſe baſer Arts of buying and ſelling to get their Living by. But to ſhew how much the Caſe is now altered for the Honour of Tradeſmen, it may be remembred, that Henry the Eighth thought it no Diſparagement to him, when he quitted his Queen, to take Anne the Daughter of Thomas Bullen, ſometime Mayor of London, to his Wife.

The Statute of Weſtminſter 2. cap. 1. which was made in the thirteenth of King Edward the Firſt, was procured eſpecially at the Deſire of Gentlemen, for the Preſervation of their Lands and Hereditaments, together with their Surnames and Families; and therefore one calleth this Statute Gentilitium municipale; and the Lawyers call it Jus Taliatum & Taliabile.

The Children only of Gentlemen were wont to be admitted into the Inns of Court, and thereby it came to paſs, that there was ſcarce any Man found (in former Ages) within the Realm skilful and cunning in the Law, except he were a Gentleman born, and came of a good Houſe; for they, more than any other, have a ſpecial Care of their Nobility, and to the Preſervation of their Honour and Fame: For in theſe Inns of Court are (or at leaſtwiſe ſhould be) Virtues ſtudied, and Vices exiled; ſo that for the Endowment of Virtue, and Abandoning of Vice, Knights and Barons, with other States and Noblemen of the Realm, place their Children in thoſe Inns, though they deſire not to have them learned in the Laws, nor to have them live by the Practice thereof, but only upon their Parents Allowance.

You have heard how cheap Gentility is purchaſed by the Common Law: But if you look more ſtrictly unto the Perfection thereof, you will find it more Honourable; for Gentlemen well deſcended and qualified, have always been of ſuch Repute in England, that none of the higher Nobility, no nor the King himſelf, have thought it any Diſparagement to make them their Companions. Therefore I ſhall ſet down the Privileges due unto them, according to the Laws of Honour, as I find them collected out of Sir John Ferne, Sir William Segar, Mr. Carter in his Analyſis of Honour, and other good Authors: Which is as follows.

THE PRIVILEGES OF THE GENTRY.

1. PRO honore ſuſtinendo; If a Churle or Peaſant do detract from the Honour of Gentleman, he hath a Remedy in Law, actione injuriarum; but if by one Gentleman to another, the Combat was anciently allowed.

2. In equal Crimes a Gentleman ſhall be puniſhable with more Favour than the Churle, provided the Crime be not Hereſy, Treaſon, or exceſſive Contumacy.

3. The many Obſervances and Ceremonial Reſpects, that a Gentleman is and ought to be honoured with by the Churle or Ungentle.

4. In giving Evidence, the Teſtimony of a Gentleman is more authentick than a Clown's.

5. In Election of Magiſtrates and Officers by Vote, the Suffrage of a Gentleman ſhould take Place of an ignoble Perſon.

6. A Gentleman ſhould be excuſed from baſe Services, Impoſitions, and Duties, both Real and Perſonal.

7. A Gentleman condemned to Death ought not to be hanged, but beheaded, and his Examination taken without Torture.

8. To take down the Coat-Armour of any Gentleman, to deface his Monument, or offer Violence to any Enſign of the deceaſed Noble, is as to lay Buffets on the Face of him if alive, and Puniſhment is due accordingly.

9. A Clown may not challenge a Gentleman to Combat, quia conditiones impares.

Many other are the Privileges due to Gentlemen, which I forbear to repeat, referring the Reader to the Books before cited.

For the Protection and Defence of this Civil Dignity they have three Laws: The firſt, Jus Agnitionis, the Right or Law of Deſcent for the Kindred of the Father's Side: The ſecond, Jus Stirpis, for the Family in general: The third, Jus Gentilitatis, a Law for the Deſcent in Noble Families, which Tully eſteemed moſt excellent; by which Law a Gentleman of Blood and Coat-Armour perfectly poſſeſſing Virtue was only privileged.

To make that Perfection in Blood, a Lineal Deſcent from Atavus, Proavus, Avus, and Pater, on the Father's Side was required; and as much on his Mother's Line; then he is not only a Gentleman of perfect Blood, but of his Anceſtors too. The Neglect of which Laws hath introduced other Sorts of Gentlemen, viz. Men that aſſume that Dignity, but are neither ſo by Blood nor Coat-Armour; which Style only hurries them to an unruly Pride, which indeed is but rude and falſe Honour, termed by Sir John Ferne, Apocriphate, and debarred of all Privilege of Gentility. Theſe Gentlemen nomine, non re, ſaith he, are the Students of Law, Grooms of his Majeſty's Palace, Sons of Churles made Prieſts or Canons, &c. or ſuch as have received Degrees in Schools, or born Office in the City, by which they are ſtyled Gentlemen, yet have they no Right to Coat-Armour by Reaſon thereof.

As to the Student of the Law, Sir J. Ferne allows him the beſt Aſſurance of his Title of Gentleman of all theſe irregular Gentlemen, as he terms them, becauſe he is named in ſome Acts of Parliament; yet (he ſaith) he is alſo debarred of all Honour and Privilege by the Law of Arms.

And anciently none were admitted into the Inns of Court (as before noted) but ſuch as were Gentlemen of Blood, be their Merits never ſo great: Nor were the Church Dignities and Preferments beſtowed indifferently amongſt the Vulgar. The Jews confined their Prieſthood to a Family; but Jeroboam debaſed it in his Kingdom, by preferring the baſeſt of his People to the beſt of Duties. The Ruſſians and ſome other Nations admit none to the Study of the Law but Gentlemens younger Sons. The decayed Families in France are ſupported and receive new Life from the Court, Camp, Law, and Eccleſiaſtical Preferments; take the moſt ſolemn and ſerious, who contemn the World; if ſuch are wanting to fill up their Vacancies, the ingenioufer Sort of the Plebeans are admitted: By which Means their Church and State is in Eſteem and Reverence, being filled moſt commonly with the beſt Blood and Nobleſt by Birth amongſt them; whereas with us every Clown, that can ſpare but Money to bring up his Son for any of thoſe Studies, bereaves the Gentry of thoſe Benefices, and robs them of their Support; which grand Abuſe is the Cauſe of the general Corruption in the State Civil and Eccleſiaſtick; whereas were this Preferment made peculiar to the Gentry, they would ſtand more upon their Honour, and live without being a Burthen to their Relations.

The Atchievement of a Gentleman hath no Difference with that of an Eſquire, both their Helmets being cloſe and ſideways.

OF

CHAP. XXVII.

THE Yeomen or Common People, for ſo are they called of the Saxon Word Zemen, which ſignifies Common) who have ſome Lands of their own to live upon: For a Carn of Land, or a Plough Land, was in ancient Time of the yearly Value of five Nobles, and this was the Living of a Stokeman or Yeoman: And in our Law they are called Legales Homines, a Word familiar in Writs and Inqueſts. And by divers Statutes it hath been enacted, That none ſhall paſs in any Inqueſt unleſs they had forty Shillings Freehold in yearly Revenue, which maketh (if the moſt Value were taken to the Proportion of Monies) above ſixteen Pounds of current Money at this preſent: And by the Statute of 27 Eliz. ch. 6. every Juror muſt have forty Pounds Lands. In the End of the Statute made 23 Hen. 6. chap. 15. concerning the Election of Knights for the Parliament, it is ordered and expreſly provided, That no Man ſhall be ſuch Knight, which ſtandeth in the Degree of a Yeoman.

It appeareth in Lambert's Perambulation of Kent, 367. that this Saxon Word Telphioneman was given to the Theyne or Gentleman, becauſe his Life was valued at one thouſand two hundred Shillings; and in thoſe Days the Lives of all Men were rated at certain Sums of Money: To the Churle or Yeoman, becauſe the Price of his Head was taxed at two hundred Shillings. Which Things, if it were not expreſly ſet forth in ſundry old Laws yet extant, might well enough be found in the Etymology of the Words themſelves, the one called a Twelve hundred Man, and the other a Twyhind for a Man of two hundred. And in this Eſtate they pleaſed themſelves, inſomuch that a Man might (and alſo now may) find ſundry Yeomen, though otherwiſe comparable for Wealth with many of the Gentile Sort, that will not yet for that change their Condition, nor deſire to be apparelled with the Title of Gentry.

By the Common Law it may appear in 1 Edw. 2. de Militibus, and 7 Hen. 6. 15. a. Men that had Lands to the Value of twenty Pounds per Annum, were compellable at the King's Pleaſure to take upon them the Order of Knighthood; and upon Summons there came a Yeoman who might expend a hundred Marks per Annum, and the Court was in Doubt how they might put him off; and at laſt he was waved, becauſe he came the ſecond Day.

By this Sort of Men the Trial of Cauſes in the Country proceedeth ordinarily; for of them there are greater Number in England than in any other Place, and they alſo of a more plentiful Livelihood; and therefore it cometh to paſs, that Men of this Country are more apt and fit to diſcern in doubtful Caſes and Cauſes of great Examination and Trial, than are Men wholly given to moil in the Ground, to whom that Rural Exerciſe engendreth Rudeneſs of Wit and Mind. And many Franklins and Yeomen there are ſo near adjoining, as you may make a Jury without Difficulty; for there be many of them, that are able to expend one or two hundred Pounds per Annum.

As in the ancient Time the Senators of Rome were elected à Cenſu; and as with us in conferring ferring of Nobility, Reſpect is had to their Revenues, by which their Dignity and Nobility may be ſupported and maintained. So the Wiſdom of this Realm hath of ancient Time provided, that none ſhall paſs upon Juries for the Trial of any Matter Real or Perſonal, or upon any criminal Cauſe, but ſuch as beſides their Moveables have Lands for Eſtate of Life at the leaſt to a competent Value, leſt for Need or Poverty ſuch Jurors might eaſily be corrupted or ſuborned.

And in all Caſes and Cauſes the Law hath conceived a better Opinion of thoſe that have Lands and Tenements, or otherwiſe are of Worth in moveable Goods, that ſuch will commit or omit nothing, that may any Way be prejudicial to their Eſtimation, or which may endanger their Eſtates, than it hath of Artificers, Retailers, Labourers, or ſuch like; of whom Tully ſaith, Nihil proficiuntur, niſi ad modum mentiuntur. And by divers Statutes certain Immunities are given to Men of Quality, which are denied to the vulgar Sort of People: Read hereof amongſt other, 1 Jac. cap. 127.

By the Statute of 2 Hen. 4. cap. 27. amongſt other Things it is enacted, That no Yeoman ſhould take or wear any Livery of any Lord upon Pain of Impriſonment, and to make Fine at the King's Will and Pleaſure.

Theſe Yeomen were Famous in our Forefathers Days for Archery and Manhood; our Infantry, which ſo often conquered the French, and repulſed the Scots, were compoſed of them, as are our Militia at preſent, who through Want of Uſe and good Diſcipline are much degenerated from their Anceſtors Valour and Hardineſs.

As the Nobility, Gentry, and Clergy, have certain Privileges peculiar to themſelves; ſo have the Commonalty of England beyond the Subjects of other Monarchs.

No Freeman of England ought to be impriſoned, outed of his Poſſeſſion, diſſeiſed of his Freehold, without Order of Law and juſt Cauſe ſhewed.

To him that is impriſoned may not be denied a Habeas Corpus, if it be deſired; and if no juſt Cauſe be alledged, and the ſame be returned upon a Habeas Corpus, the Priſoner is to be ſet at Liberty. By Magna Charta, 9 Hen. 3. no Soldier can be quartered in any Houſe except Inns, and other publick Victualling-Houſes, in Time of Peace, without the Owners Conſent, by the Petition of Right, 3 Car. 1. No Taxes, Loans, or Benevolences, can be impoſed but by Act of Parliament, idem.

The Yeomanry are not to be preſt to ſerve as a Soldier in the Wars, unleſs bound by Tenure, which is now aboliſhed: Nor are the Trained Bands compelled to march out of the Kingdom, or be tranſported beyond Sea, otherwiſe than by the Law of the Kingdom ought to be done: Nor is any one to be compelled to bear his own Arms, finding one ſufficient Man qualified according to the Act aforemention'd.

No Freeman is to be tried but by his Equals, nor condemned but by the Laws of the Land. Theſe and many other Freedoms make them moſt happy, did they but know it; and ſhould oblige them to their Allegiance to their Prince, under whoſe Power and Government themſelves, their Rights and Privileges are preſerved, and quietly enjoyed: Yet ſuch is the Inconſtancy of Mens Nature, not to be contented with the Bliſs they enjoy.

THE SECOND PART OF HONOUR CIVIL.

CHAP. I.

'ALL Chronologers and Antiquaries do agree, That in the Infancy of the Worlds Creation, Men had no Habitation other than Woods, Groves, bushy Thickets, Caves, and Concavities in Rocks and sandy Grounds, to shelter themselves from the Wind and Weather; which Places they fenced about with Sticks, Heaps of Stones, or the like, to preserve them from ravenous Beasts, which otherwise would annoy them. Then by degrees (as the World increased, and Inconvenience being the Mother of Invention) they made themselves small Hutts; from Hutts they came to build Houses, and to co-habit in Hamlets or Villages, and from thence sprang up Towns, Cities, Castles, and fortified Places. Then the Inhabitants of one City or Place waged War against those of another, and the Victorious enlarged their Territories, and made the other their Tributaries; and thus increasing in Number of Inhabitants, formed to themselves a Civil Government; and growing in Riches, some studied one Art, and some another, some addicted themselves to Traffick, whilst others employed their time in martial Affairs. And what are Cities in these our Days, but the Nursery, Habitation, and Receptacle of worthy, ingenious, wealthy, and munificent brave Men; which made Charles the Fifth much to glory that he was a Citizen of Ghent. And Henry the Great, in answer to a Letter of the King of Spain, wherein he declared his many Titles, stiled himself only Henry King of France, and Burgess of Paris.

'Since then that Cities are of such Renown, and the Inhabitants thereof so signal in Coat-Armour, as having such a Mixture and Affinity with the Gentry, it will be necessary, that in this Treatise we take notice of our Cities and chief Towns corporate (being Places of such Concern to the Nation) as to their Privileges, Governments, Courts of Judicature, Magistrates; their Armorial Badges belonging, as well to the said Cities and Towns, as to their several incorporated Companies in London: And first with London.

'LONDON, the Metropolis, Mistress and Bravery of all England, the King's Chamber and Epitomy of the whole Kingdom, of so great Antiquity and Fame in other Countries, that it wanteth no Man's Commendation. As to its Rise, various are the Opinions of Writers. Ptolomy, Tacitus, and Antoninus call her Londinium, or Longidinium; others, Augusta, Troja nova, or Troynovant; others, Caer-Lud, and others Dinas Belin. It is seated no less pleasantly than commodiously on the Banks of the Thames, which in its hasty (but not rapid) Course towards the Sea saluteth its Walls, and payeth its Duty to her, dividing it into two (but unequal) Parts, which are again joined together by a most stately Stone-Bridge, sustained by nineteen great Arches, and so furnished with Houses, that it seemeth rather a Street than a Bridge. And beyond the said Bridge, the Thames with a deep and safe Channel, gives Entertainment to Ships of very considerable Burthen, which daily bring in their rich Ladings from the known Parts of the trading World. And if we consider its great Riches and Traffick with other Nations; its Jurisdiction and Bounds, being about twelve or fifteen Miles in Circuit; its Populousness and Strength in Men and Ammunition both for Sea and Land Service; its well Government, both Civil and Ecclesiastical; the Civility, Ingenuity, and Experience of its Inhabitants in Letters, Arts, Sciences, Manufactures, and martial Affairs; its stately Buildings, both publick and private; as the Palaces of his Majesty, Whitehall, St. James's, and Somerset-House; the several Houses of the Nobility; its Courts of Judicature, and Houses of Parliament; its Collegiate and other Churches for Divine Service; its Inns of Court and Chancery; its Royal Exchange built by Sir Thomas Gresham;

' its Cuſtom-Houſe; its Tower, which con' tains a Palace, a Priſon, Mint, Armory,
' Wardrobe, and Artillery; its Guild-Hall,
' where the Lord Mayor and Court of Alder-
' men meet about the Concerns of the City,
' and where their Courts of Judicature are
' kept; its Halls for the ſeveral Companies;
' its Colleges and Free-Schools; its Hoſpitals
' and Alms-Houſes; its Theatres, Tennis-
' Courts, and Places of Recreation; and its ' great Plenty of all Sorts of Proviſion, which
' its Shambles and Markets are ſtored with;
' it may be deſervedly ſtyled The Miſtreſs of ' the World.

' Its GOVERNMENT.

' This famous City, when under the Go-
' vernment of the Britains, Romans, and Saxons,
' was deſtroyed by the Danes: but Ælfred,
' King of the Weſt-Saxons, having reduced the ' whole Land to one Monarchy, repaired and
' repeopled it, and committed the Cuſtody
' thereof to his Son-in law Alhered, Earl of ' Mercia, after whoſe Deceaſe it returned to
' King Edward, ſurnamed the Elder, who had
' it governed under him by Port-Graves, or
' Port-Reves, which in divers Records are ſtyled
' Vicecomites, Viſcounts, or Sheriffs. In the ' firſt of King Richard I. the Citizens obtained
' to be governed by two Bailiffs or Sheriffs,
' and afterwards obtained to have a Mayor for ' their principal Magiſtrate, the firſt of which ' was Henry Fitz-Alwyn a Draper, who was ' conſtituted, and ſo continued four and twen' ty Years.

' The City within the Walls and Freedom
' thereof is divided into ſix and twenty Wards,
' and the Government thereof committed to
' the Care of as many grave Citizens of good
' Repute and Quality, which are Aldermen,
' each of which hath the Overſeeing of his
' reſpective Ward. And beſides theſe Alder-
' men, there are two Sheriffs which are annu
' ally choſen, as alſo a Lord Mayor, who ac' cording to his Degree and Seniority of being
' Alderman after Sheriff, is by the Conſent of ' the Citizens (that is, the Liverymen of each ' Company) yearly elected; and theſe are clo
' thed in Scarlet Gowns, and wear Gold Chains;
' and as Coadjutors, every Alderman hath his ' Deputy of the Ward, as alſo Common Coun' cil-men.

' This City by its Charter hath ample and
' large Privileges and Immunities granted un-
' to it, which hath been confirmed and enlarged
' by moſt of our Kings and Queens; as, the ' making of Acts and Ordinances for the Re-
' gulation and better Government of the ſeve-
' ral Incorporated Companies, and the Mem' bers thereof, ſo as they are not repugnant to
' the Law of the Nation, and a Detriment to the ' King: They have alſo the Power of keeping
' of Courts, holding Pleas, Aſſizes, and Goal-
' Delivery; with the Puniſhment of Offenders
' by Fine, Impriſonment, or Death, as Occa-
' ſion requireth. The Citizens are not con-
' ſtrained to go out of the ſaid City to War,
' without an emergent Occaſion to ſuppreſs a
' foreign Invaſion; they may paſs Toll-free
' throughout all England; they have a common
' Seal, and armorial Enſigns of Honour; and
' for Recreation have Free-warren or Liberty
' to hunt about the ſaid City; with many other
' Immunities too tedious to ſet down.

' COURTS appropriate to the City.

' The Huſtings is a Court of great Antiquity
' and Concern, being to preſerve the Rights,
' Laws, Franchiſes, Cuſtoms, and Dignities of
' the ſaid City, and is kept by the Lord Mayor
' and Aldermen every Tueſday.

' The Court of Requeſts or Conſcience, the ' Judges whereof are ſome of the Common-' Council-men, who are monthly choſen by the ' Lord Mayor and Aldermen, and ſit twice
' every Week to hear and determine all Mat-
' ters brought before them (betwixt Freemen)
' where the juſt Debt or Damage doth not ex-
' ceed Forty Shillings; for the Proof of which,
' the Plaintiff's Oath is ſufficient for them to ' award the Defendant to pay the ſame, either
' by preſent (or weekly) Payment, as the ſaid
' Judges ſhall think fit; which Sentence can' not be avoided, for it is to be preſum'd, that ' no Man (eſpecially of ſome Repute, which is ' to be conſidered of) will forſwear himſelf
' for ſo ſmall a Sum of Money.

' The Lord Mayor's Court, being an ancient ' Court of Record, held every Tueſday and
' Thurſday by the Mayor and Aldermen, and
' is to redreſs and correct the Errors and De-
' faults which happen in the Government of ' the City; and indeed taketh Cognizance of
' all Matters which concern the City for Re-
' ceipts and Payments of Money, the granting
' Leaſes, purchaſing of Lands, building and
' repairing of Houſes, and the like, and ap-
' pointing their ſeveral Officers to look after the ' ſame.

' The two Sheriffs Courts, one for each Com-
' pter, is on Wedneſdays and Fridays for Tryals
' for Woodſtreet Compter, and on Thurſdays and
' Saturdays for the Poultry Compter; and each
' Court hath its Judge, which is a Lawyer of ' good Repute, for the Hearing and Tryal of
' all Actions brought before them; but if the ' Action brought be above 5 l. it may be by
' the Defendant removed to a higher Court.
' And to theſe Courts belong four Counſellours,
' eight Attorneys, beſides Secondaries, Clerks,
' Keepers of the Compters, ſixteen Sergeants and
' their Yeomen, with other Sub-Officers.

' The Court of Orphans, which meddleth
' with the Eſtates of deceaſed Citizens, to pro-
' vide for the Orphans until they come to Age,
' and to ſee that an equal Diviſion of the Eſtate
' be made, the City being their Guardians.

' The

' The Court of Common-Council, much reſembling and making High Court of Parliament, conſiſting of the Lord Mayor and Court of Aldermen, which may be termed the Higher Houſe, and the Common-Council the Lower Houſe; and theſe make and conſtitute Laws and Acts as aforeſaid, which are binding to the Inhabitants.

' The Court of the Chamberlain for the Binding and making Free Apprentices, and for the reforming Grievances betwixt the Maſter and the Apprentice; and this is an Office of great Truſt, and of ſuch Power, that no Apprentice (if not ſworn by him) can ſet up and open Shop; and thoſe that diſobey his Summons, he hath Power to impriſon or fine. This Office is at preſent committed to the Care of Sir George Ludlam, Kt. a Perſon every way fit for ſo great a Truſt.

' The Courts of the Coroner and Eſcheater, which doth belong to the Lord Mayor.

' The Court of Policies and Aſſurances for Merchants.

' The Court of Halmote, which is kept by the Maſter, Wardens, and Court of Aſſiſtants of every Company generally every Month.

' The Court of Wardmote, or Wardmote Inqueſt for the whole City, being divided into ſix and twenty Wards, every Ward having ſuch an Inqueſt, conſiſting of about twelve or ſixteen of the Inhabitants thereof, who meet at every Chriſtmaſs Time, and enquire after the Diſorders and Abuſes of Tradeſmen in their Weights, Meaſures, and the like; and according to their Miſdemeanours they make their Preſentments.

' The Seſſions of Oyer and Terminer, and Goal-Delivery of Newgate for the City of London and County of Middleſex, holden every Month at Juſtice-Hall in the Old-Baily for the Tryal of Felons, the Lord Mayor being chief Judge, and hath Power of Reprieving.

' The Court for the Conſervation of the Water, and Rivers of Thames and Medway.

' The Court of the Tower, held within the Verge of the City before the Steward by Preſcription, of Debt, Treſpaſs, and other Actions.

' There is no Magiſtrate in Europe that liveth in greater State, and hath more Power than the Lord Mayor of this City, which is evident by the noble Entertainment given to Strangers, and by his great Attendance both at home and abroad: For beſides the Abundance of inferior Officers, he hath his Sword-Bearer, Common Hunt, Common Cryer, and four Water Bailiffs, which by their Places are Eſquires; then the Coroner, three Sergeant-Carvers, three Sergeants of the Chamber, a Sergeant of the Channel, four Yeomen of the Water-ſide, the Under-Water-Bailiff, two Yeomen of the Chamber, with divers others.

' The publick Officers belonging to this City are the two Sheriffs, the Recorder, the Chamberlain, the Common Sergeant, the Town Clerk, and the Remembrancer, who by their Places are Eſquires.

' The Sheriffs (who are Perſons of Repute and Ability) are annually by the Commons (that is the Livery-men of each Company) in Formality choſen on Midſummer-Day; and the Day after Michaelmaſs the Lord Mayor and Aldermen go with them to the Exchequer-Chamber at Weſtminſter, where they are preſented and ſworn, and the two old Sheriffs alſo ſworn to their Accounts.

' On Simon and Jude's Day, the old Lord Mayor, being attended with the Aldermen and Sheriffs in their Formalities, go to the Huſtings Court, where the Lord Mayor elect taketh his Oath, and receiveth from the Chamberlain, the Scepter, the Keys of the Common Seal, and the Seal of the Mayoralty, and from the Sword-Bearer the Sword, all which, according to Cuſtom, he delivereth to them again. On the Day following in the Morning, the old Lord Mayor, with the Aldermen and Sheriffs, attend the Mayor elect from his Houſe to Guild-Hall, from whence in their Formalities they go to the Vintrey, and take Barge to Weſtminſter, being attended by the Liverymen of divers of the Companies in their Barges, which are bedecked with Banners, Pennons, and Streamers of their Arms, &c. which with their Muſick makes a pleaſing Shew. Being come to Weſtminſter-Hall, having ſaluted the Judges, they go up to the Exchequer Bar, where the Lord Mayor taketh his Oath, and after ſome uſual Ceremonies in the Hall, and at the Abbey in ſeeing the Tombs, they return to their Barges, and are rowed back to London, and being landed, go to the Guild-Hall in great Pomp, where a moſt ſtately Dinner is prepared, as well for the Lord Mayor, Aldermen, Sheriffs, and the ſeveral Companies, as for the Nobility, Judges, and Gentry that are invited to the ſaid Feaſt, which oft-times is graced with the Royal Preſence of their Majeſties the King and Queen, and the Duke of York, &c. The Ceremony of the Day being ended, the Lord Mayor is attended to his Houſe, where he liveth in great Grandeur during his Mayoralty, looking after the Affairs of the City, to whoſe fatherly Care the Government thereof is committed.

' Theſe, with other Ceremonies in the electing and ſwearing the Lord Mayor and Sheriffs, being largely treated of in Stow's Survey, and Howel's Londinenſis, I forbear to ſpeak further of them here, but thither refer the Reader.

' Having thus in brief treated of the Government of the City, with its Immunities, Privileges, Courts of Judicature, &c. in general, in the next Place we will treat of each particular Incorporated Company, as Stems thereof. And firſt of the ſeveral Companies of Merchants, next of the ' twelve

'twelve chief Companies out of which the 'Lord Mayor is to be annually choſen, and 'ſo end with the other Companies, as Stars 'of a leſs Magnitude.

'The Eaſt-India Company, though not the an-'cienteſt, yet the moſt honourable and emi-'nent, was firſt incorporated in the 42d Year 'of the Reign of Queen Elizabeth, and ſince 'confirmed, with divers other Priviſeges added 'to their Charter by ſucceeding Kings, having 'now Power of making Acts and Ordinances, 'ſo as not repugnant to the Law of the Land or 'a Detriment to the King, for the good and 'well Government of the ſaid Trade and Com-'pany; likewiſe Power to hear and decide 'Cauſes, and to implead, fine, and puniſh Of-'fenders as they pleaſe; to raiſe and maintain 'Soldiers in their Factories, and to man out 'Ships of War for their further Security, for 'War offenſive as well as defenſive, as Occa-'ſion requireth; alſo the uſing of a Seal, and 'the bearing of a Coat of Arms, viz.

Azure, three Ships under Sail Or, each Sail garniſhed with a Croſs of England; on a Chief Or, between two Roſes proper, an Additament out of the Arms of England, quarterly, Azure and Gules, in the firſt and laſt a Flower de Lis Or, and in the ſecond and third a Lion Paſſant, Gardant, of the ſame.

'This Company is managed by a joint Stock, 'which makes them potent, eminent, and rich, 'and is found ſeveral ways to be very advan-'tageous to the Kingdom; as, in their build-'ing of Ships, in the employing and maintain-'ing of Thouſands, not only in their Ships, but 'in their Plantations and Factories, as at Surat, 'Cambaya, Bambay, Curwar, Baticalè, Calicut, 'Fort St. George, Pentapoli, Muſulipatan, Ouge-'ly, Gonro, Bantam in the Indies, Ormus in Per-'ſia, with ſome other Places of leſs Concern. 'And to their Preſidents, Factors, and other 'Servants they allow good Salaries, and are 'raiſed to higher Preferments, with greater Sa-'laries, as their Merits deſerve. And the great 'Trade that they drive to theſe Places, expor-'ting ſuch vaſt Quantities of our Manufactures 'and Commodities, and importing ſo many 'ſundry and rich Commodities, cannot but 'make them to be very beneficial to the 'Nation.

'This worthy Company, for the better Ne-'gotiation of their Affairs, is governed by a 'Governour, Deputy-Governour, and Com-'mittee conſiſting of Four and Twenty, who 'about the midſt of April are annually elect-'ed by the Adventurers of the ſaid Company, 'of which there muſt be Eight new ones al-'ways choſen, and theſe meet at their Houſe 'in Leaden-hall-ſtreet London (called the Eaſt-'India Houſe) generally twice a Week, and 'keep Courts for the Negotiation of their 'Affairs.

'The Levant or Turkey Company of Merchants, 'by their Diſcovery made the firſt Trade into 'the Seigniory of Venice, and then into the Do-'minions of the Grand Seignior, and including 'the Trade of the Eaſt-Indies, which as then 'was undiſcovered to us by Sea, their Goods 'being brought upon Camels and Aſs-Negroes 'to Aleppo and other Parts of Turkey: But ſince 'the Diſcovery of the Indies by Sea, the Trade 'of this Company is ſomething eclipſed for 'thoſe Commodities which are now brought 'us by the Eaſt India Company.

'The Benefit that ariſeth to this Nation 'from this Company, beſides the employing ſo 'many Ships and Seamen, is in the Exporting 'and Importing of ſo many rich Commodities, 'and in particular, Cloaths both dyed and 'dreſt, at the leaſt Thirty Thouſand Pieces 'yearly, Kerſies, Lead, Tin, Iron, Steel, Wire, 'Pewter, Furrs, Pieces of Eight, Sugar, Hides, 'Elephants-Teeth, Braſil, red and white Lead, 'Indico, Logwood, Cochaneel, Callicoes, Spi-'ces, and ſeveral Indian Commodities. And 'for theſe they import raw Silks of Perſia, Da-'maſcus, Tripoli, &c. alſo Camblets, Grograins, 'Grograin-yarn, Mohairs of Angor, Woolls, 'Cottons, Cotton-yarn of Smyrna and Cyprus, 'Galls of Moſolo and Toccat, the Corals and Oils 'of Zant, Zephalonia, Morea, &c. the Drugs 'of Egypt and Arabia, alſo Turkey-Carpets, 'Cordovants, Boxwood, Rhubarb, Worm-ſeed, 'Senna, Cummin-ſeed, with ſeveral other rich 'Commodities.

'This worſhipful Company of Merchants 'was firſt incorporated in the Reign of Queen 'Elizabeth, and ſince confirmed by her Suc-'ceſſors, and have ample Priviſeges and Im-'munities granted unto them; as making of 'Laws and Orders for the Well-government of 'the ſaid Fellowſhip, Power of deciding Con-'troverſies which ariſe in the ſaid Company 'as to their Trade, giving Oaths, impoſing 'Fines, or impriſoning of Offenders accor-'ding to their Diſcretion, the Uſing of a pub-'lick Seal, and the Bearing of a Coat of Arms, 'viz.

Azure, a Ship in full Sail, each Sail garniſhed with a Croſs Gules, in a Sea betwixt two Rocks, all proper, and a Chief ingrailed, Argent.

'And for the better Management of the 'Affairs of this Honourable Company, they 'are governed by a Governour, Deputy-Gover-'nour,

'nour, and Court of Assistants, consisting of Eighteen, who in the Month of February are annually chosen by a general Consent, out of the Members of the said Company, and these meet and keep Courts monthly, weekly, or as oft as their Occasions require, for the Management of the Concerns of the said Society; as, binding and making free, electing and sending over Consuls, Vice-Consuls, Factors and Servants to Constantinople, Smyrna, Aleppo, Cyprus, and such Places where their Factories are kept.

'The Russia or Moscovy Company of Merchant Adventurers for Discovery of new Trades, was first incorporated in the Beginning of the Reign of King Philip and Queen Mary, upon the Discovery of Lands, Territories, Seignories, and Isles by Seas lying Northwards, North-eastwards, and North westwards from England, and was afterwards confirmed by Act of Parliament in the eighth Year of the Reign of Queen Elizabeth, so that now they enjoy several Immunities and Privileges; as, to raise Soldiers for the subduing of Countries in the Limits aforesaid, and to enter thereupon, and set up the English Standards; to make Acts and Ordinances for the Good of the said Society, so as they are not repugnant to the Laws of the Kingdom; to punish Offenders by Fine or Imprisonment, to use a common Seal, and to bear a Coat of Arms, viz.

Barry wavy of six Pieces, Argent and Azure, over all a Ship under Sail, proper, having on each Sail a Cross of England between three Bezants; on a Chief Argent, a Pile Gules, charged with a Lion of England between two Red Roses.

'The Commodities that this Company exporteth are, woollen Cloaths both dyed and dressed of all Sorts, Kersies, Bays, Cottons, Perpetuances, Fustians, Norwich Stuffs, Lace, Thread, Lead, Tin, Pewter, Allum, Copper, much defective Wines and Fruits, not fit to be spent in this Kingdom, with most Sorts of English Goods. And for these and the like they import Pot-ashes, Tar, Cordage, Cable-yarn, Tallow, Wax, Isinglass, several Sorts of Hides in the Hair, Goat-skins undrest, Cordovants, tann'd Hides, Hogs-bristles, raw Silk, Linseed, Slod, Bever Wooll and Wombs, several Sorts of rich Furrs, Seal-skins, Rhubarb, Castoreum, Agarick, Train-oil, Flax, Hemp, Linen, Caviare, Salmon, Stock-fish, Cod-fish, &c.

'This worshipful Company of Merchants is governed by a Governour, four Consuls, and Assistants consisting of Four and Twenty, who on the first Day of March are annually chosen out of the Members of the said Society.

'The Eastland Company, first incorporated in the 21st Year of the Reign of Queen Elizabeth, and confirmed by King Charles II. by their Charter have ample Immunities and Privileges granted to them, and as large a Scope to traffick in, including the Trade of the Kingdoms, Dominions, Dukedoms, Countries, Cities, and Towns of Norway, Swedeland, and Poland, with the Territories of the said Kingdoms, as also in Lettow, Liffland, and Pomerland, from the River Odera Eastwards, and likewise in the Isles of Finland, Eoland, and Berutholine within the Sound.

They bear Or, on a Point wavy a Ship under Sail proper; on a Chief Gules, a Lion Passant Gardant, Or.

'The Commodities by this Company exported are, woollen Cloaths, Perpetuanoes, Kersies, Serges, Norwich Stuffs, Cottons, Lead, Tin, Pewter, Stockings, Hats, Gloves, together with several Southern and Eastern Commodities, as Sattins, Silks, Spices, &c. and the Commodities by them imported are, Deals, Masts, Timber, Oars, Balks, Clapboards, Bom-spars, Cant-spars, Pipe-staves, Wainscot, and Quarters, Flax, Hemp, Linencloth, Fustians, Cordage, Cable-yarn, Pitch, Tar, Tallow, Hides, Pot-ashes, Wheat, Rye, Iron, Lattin, Copper, Steel, Wire, Quicksilver, rich Furrs, Buck-skins, Train-oil, Sturgeon, Stock-fish, Mather, with several other good Commodities.

'For the Management of the Affairs of this worshipful Company, they are governed by a Governour, Deputy-Governour, and Court of Assistants, consisting of Four and Twenty, who are yearly elected out of the Members of the said Society in the Month of October, and keep their Courts for the Management of the Concerns of the said Company as others do, having also large Immunities granted unto them.

'The Royal African Company of England was by his Majesty King Charles II's. great Prudence and Care, for the general Good of this Nation, and of his foreign Dominions and Plantations, erected into a Company, Jan. 20. in the 14th Year of his Reign, and is likely to prove the most beneficial Trade that belongs to his Crown, as well by the Commodities exported and imported, as by the Negro Trade.

They

They bear Or, an Elephant with a Caſtle on his Back, Sable, enſigned with a Flag Gules, on a Canton quarterly Azure and Gules, on the firſt and laſt a Flower de Lis of France, and in the ſecond and third a Lion of England.

'The Goods of Engliſh Growth exported are, 'Sayes, Perpetuanoes, Broad-cloaths, Welch-'plains, and other woollen Manufactures in 'great Abundance, beſides Quantities of other 'Engliſh Goods and Stuffs; the large Conſumption whereof doth not only enable the Tenant 'the better to pay his Rent, and maintain his Family, but alſo ſets many Thouſands of poor 'People at Work, in making, dying and dreſſing 'of theſe Stuffs and Cloaths: And together 'with theſe Goods of Engliſh Growth, are alſo 'ſent vaſt Quantities of foreign Goods, chiefly 'imported by our Eaſt-India Company, by 'which his Majeſty's Cuſtoms, the Wealth of 'his People, and the Navigation of this Kingdom are much increaſed.

'The foreign Commodities imported are, 'Gold, Elephants teeth, Wax, Hides, and 'other Commodities almoſt all as good as 'Gold.

'And as to the Benefit of the Negro Trade, 'it is ſuch, that by it all the American Plantations are yearly furniſhed with great Quantities of Slaves, not elſewhere to be had; by 'whoſe Labour, and the Planters Induſtry, 'the King and his People are very much enriched.

'The Bounds of this Company's Trade are 'large, viz. from Sally in South-Barbary, to 'Cape Bona Eſperanza incluſive.

'The Voyage out and Home is ſhort, uſually within the Compaſs of a Year. Many Ships 'and Seamen are conſtantly employed in the 'Company's Service; who for the ſecuring 'their Trade, have at a very great Expence 'erected ſeveral Forts and Factories all along 'the Coaſt of Guinea, without which the Trade 'cannot poſſibly be preſerved to this Nation; 'and for that very reaſon this Trade cannot be 'managed but by a Company and a joint Stock; 'for no private Perſon will undergo the Charge 'of Forts and Factories abroad: Beſides, ſuch 'as venture one Voyage, and perhaps no more, 'do uſually conſult the cheapeſt Way in their 'Exports, and will not have that Care to ſend 'ſo good and merchantable Commodities as a 'Company who are conſtantly to trade thither 'will, who are obliged ſo to do, as well for 'ſupporting the Credit of their Trade, as for 'bringing our Engliſh Manufactures into a better Reputation than thoſe of our Neighbours, 'which this Company hath really effected in 'ſeveral Commodities formerly bought in Holland, as Says, Muſquets, Knives, &c. being 'now all exported of our own Make.

'And of this Difference in and between the 'Commodities ſent by the Company, and thoſe 'ſent by private Traders, the Natives of Guinea (who are a ſagacious People) are very ſenſible by the ill Dealings they have met with 'in that kind from ſome private Traders, which 'hath been a thing very diſadvantageous to our 'Engliſh Manufactures and Trade: But theſe 'Miſchiefs have been removed ever ſince his 'Majeſty's ſettling the Trade in a Company, 'with Prohibition to all ſuch interloping Traders.

'This Company conſiſteth of a Governour, 'Sub-Governour, Deputy-Governour, and a 'Generality mixt of divers Noblemen, honourable Perſons and eminent Merchants, to the 'Number of about Two Hundred, out of 'which are annually choſen by Vote, at a 'general Court, Four and Twenty Aſſiſtants, 'of whom any Six, with the Governour, Sub-Governour, or Deputy-Governour, make a 'Court, which by their Charter dated Sept. 27. 1672. is called a Court of Aſſiſtants, and impowered for the well ordering and governing 'of the Affairs of the ſaid Company, ſubject 'nevertheleſs to a general Court when Occaſion requireth.

The Company of Merchants of the Staple (the firſt and moſt ancient Engliſh Company of Merchants trading in Woolls) were incorporated by King Edward III. in whoſe Time they had the Staple for Woolls at Calais.

They bear Nebule of ſix Pieces Argent and Azure, on a Chief Gules a Lion of England.

The Company of Merchant Adventurers (one of the ancienteſt Companies of Merchants in England) were incorporated in the Reign of King Edward I. Anno 1296. Alſo by King Edward IV. and had their Privileges confirm'd and enlarg'd by Queen Elizabeth.

They bear Nebule of ſix Pieces, Argent and Azure, on a Chief quarterly, Or and Gules, in the firſt and fourth two red Roſes, and in the ſecond and third a Lion of England.

The

The Company of Merchants, called Merchants of Virginia, Bermudas, or the Summer-Islands, were never incorporated.

The South-Sea Company, or Merchants trading to the South Sea, and other Parts of America; and for encouraging the Fishery; was established by Act of Parliament in the 11th Year of the Reign of Queen Anne.

They bear Azure, a Globe representing the Streights of Magellan and Cape Horn all proper, on a Canton the Arms of the United Kingdom of Great Britain, and in sinister Chief two Herrings Saltirewise Argent, crowned Or.

'The Company of Mercers being the primier 'Company in London, was 'incorporated into a Fra- 'ternal Society in the 17th 'of King Richard II. and 'hath ample Privileges and 'Immunities granted unto 'them; as, holding of 'Courts for the Negotiation of their Affairs, 'etc. and have their Hall or Place of Meeting, 'a thing accustomary to all other Societies in 'London. They have a common Seal. And 'the Armorial Ensign of Honour given them 'to bear and display on their Banners is, Gules, 'a Demy-virgin, her Hair dishevel'd, crowned, 'issuing out, and within an Orle of Clouds, 'all proper. To this Company Sir Thomas 'Gresham, a worthy Member thereof, was a 'liberal Benefactor, giving them and the City 'of London the Royal Exchange, with all the 'Buildings thereto belonging, upon Trust that 'they should perform as in his Will and Testa- 'ment is declared, viz. That the Lord Mayor 'and Court of Aldermen shall find Four to 'read Lectures of Divinity, Astronomy, Mu- 'sick, and Geometry, within Gresham College (a 'large Structure also given unto them) and 'to give to each Reader 50 l. per Annum; and 'the Company of Mercers to find three Read- 'ers in the same Place, viz. for the Civil Law, 'for Physick, and Rhetorick, with the yearly 'Stipend of 50 l. a-piece; which Gift hath been 'since confirmed by Act of Parliament; where 'every Day (except Sundays) in the Term 'Time the said Lectures are read.

'This worshipful Company (as indeed all 'others are) is governed by a Master, War- 'dens, and Court of Assistants.

'The Company of Gro- 'cers, incorporated in the '20th Year of King Ed- 'ward III. beareth for their 'Armour, Argent, a Che- 'veron, Gules, between 'nine Cloves, Sable.' The Arms were granted by Tho. Benault Clarencieux, in the Time of King Henry VIII. viz. Anno 1531, and confirmed by William Harvey Clarencieux, under the Seal of his Office and Arms, Anno 1562. (Eliz. 4.) and afterwards approved in a Visitation made 1634.

'The Company of 'Drapers, incorporated 'in the 17th of King 'Henry VI. beareth A- 'zure, three Clouds ra- 'diated, proper, each 'adorned with a triple 'Crown, Or.' Their Patent for Arms given them by Sir William Brugges, Garter King of Arms, bore Date Anno 1439, and was confirm'd afterwards by William Harvey Clarencieux, and since by Sir William Segar Knight Garter, and entred in the Heralds Office Anno 1634. 'This Company 'is not a little dignified by having Sir Henry 'Fitz-Alwyn Kt. noble by Birth, a Brother of 'their Company, who was the first Lord Mayor 'of this City, in which Dignity he continued 'four and twenty Years and a Half.

'The Company of Fishmongers were incorporated in the 28th of King Henry VIII. into one Brotherhood, being before two Companies, viz. the Stock-fishmongers and the Salt-fishmongers. They bear for their Coat-Armour, Azure, three Dolphins naiant in Pale between two Pair of Lucies Saltirewise, proper, crowned, Or, on a Chief, Gules, three Couple of Keys crossed as the Crowns.' The ancient Arms were ratified and confirmed by Robert Cook Clarencieux, 1575, and again viewed and entred in the Visitation Anno 1634.

'The Company of Goldsmiths, incorporated in the 16th of King Rich. II. beareth quarterly Gules and Azure, in the first and fourth a Leopard's Head, Or, in the second and third a Cup covered between two Buckles of the last.' The Arms ancient were approved and entred at a Visitation made by Sir Hen. St. George, 1634.

'The Company of Skinners were incorporated in the first of King Rich. II. Their Coat-Armour is Ermin, on a Chief, Gules, three Crowns, Or, with Caps thereunto of the 1st.' The Arms were granted by Tho. Hawley Clarencieux, 4 Edw. VI. and entred and approved in the Visitation 1634. 'This Company hath been highly enobled by having of their Society six Kings, five Queens, one Prince, nine Dukes, two Earls, and one Lord.

'The Company of Merchant-Taylors, incorporated in the 17th of King Henry VII. beareth Argent, a Tent royal between two Parliament Robes, Gules, lined Ermin, on a Chief Azure, a Lion Passant Gardant, Or.' The first Patent was granted by Sir Tho. Holme Knight Clarencieux King of Arms, to the Company of Taylors and Linen-Armourers, Anno 1480. 21 Edw. IV. and confirm'd by Sir Tho. Wriothesly Knight 22 Henry VIII. and also by Robert Cook Clarencieux, 1586, 29 Reginæ Eliz. 'This Company hath also been dignified by having of their Fraternity eight Kings, eleven Dukes, thirty Earls, and four and forty Lords.

'The Company of Haberdashers were incorporated into a Brotherhood of St. Katherine in the 26th of King Hen. VI. and were confirmed in the 17th of King Hen. VII. and named, The Merchant Haberdashers. The Coat-Armour belonging to them is, Nebule of six, Argent and Azure, on a Bend, Gules, a Lion Passant Gardant of England.' The Arms being ancient, were granted by Robert Cook Clarencieux, 1570, (12 Eliz.) and confirm'd at a Visitation in London, 1634.

'The Company of Salters beareth for their Coat-Armour, per Cheveron, Azure and Gules, three covered Salts, Or, sprinkled Argent.' This was first granted to them Anno 1530. 'COVENTRY, the chief Place in Warwick-ſhire, a City ſituated near the Centre of England, bounding the Campane from the Woodland, drawing in the Advantages of both; ancient as Arviragus the Britiſh King, made eminent by the Mercian Leofrick, famed by ſucceſſive Lords and Kings of England; heretofore intruſted with a Mint-Royal, graced with the Seſſion of the higheſt Judicature, the King's Bench, and ſtyled Camera principis; favoured with a wholeſome and temperate Air; its Approaches, Avenues, and ambient Walks, grateful and pleaſing to all Beholders; for ſpacious and continued Cauſeways, not equalled by any City in England, nor inferior to moſt for clean and well paved Streets, refreſhing Springs, uſeful Aqueducts, and goodly publick Structures; once a famous Mart and Empory, reſorted to for Commerce and Trade from Ireland, the Northweſt and other Parts of England; leaving us its large Vaults, Warehouſes, Cellarages, Drapery, Steel-yard, and publick Halls, as Indications of its former Opulency and Splendor.

'It offers to View, amongſt other Remarkables, four Steeples and three Churches, whereof two are Parochial, viz. Trinity and St. Michaels; That, an ancient well built Church, in Form Cathedral, which being impaired by a late Fall of its beautiful Spire, is ſince reſtored to its former Luſtre, at a vaſt Expence and Charge: This, a ſtately, large, and brave inlightned Fabrick; a curious Shell, whoſe Content is One Hundred Yards in Length, and ſeven and twenty Yards in Bredth, beſides ſeveral Iſles and Chapels both on the North and South Sides thereof, ſupported by neat and ſlender Pillars, with five Iſles, whoſe Steeple, for Tower, and lofty tapering Spire, gives Place to none in England. Bablack Church (one of the three) is a ſolid antique Structure, its Form Collegiate, where divine Offices are performed but at ſome Feſtivals in the Year.

'It hath gloried in a matchleſs Wall; and though its Form was irregular for a defenſible Fortification, yet was it built ſtrong, broad, high, and large in Circumference, now only gueſſed at by its Ruins, and its twelve lofty Potts or Gates yet ſtanding.

'No Place compares with this City for a moſt beautiful Croſs of large Dimenſions and Height, adorned with Variety of Statues, Figures, and Sculptures, richly laid over with Gold, and ſet off with becoming Colours.

'It hath (among others) one magnificent Hall called Aula Sanctæ Mariæ, fit for a celebrious Congreſs or Aſſembly.

'Here is a fair Grammar-School, founded by John Hales Eſq; yet ſtyled Schola Regis Henrici Octavi; and another School of late Erection for poor Children, by Mr. Chriſtopher Davenport late Alderman. Appendant to both is a Library with learned Authors, both Print and Manuſcripts; of which Schools the Mayor and Aldermen of this City are Viſitors. The Hoſpitals are two, well and plentifully providing for twenty Blue Coats, eleven poor Men in black Gowns, and two Nurſes in the one, and eight other married Couples in blue Gowns in the other, and a Nurſe.

'To it is annexed very large and rich Commons, great annual Loans and Gifts diſtributed amongſt poor young and hopeful Tradeſmen, together with frequent Remembrances of ſome noble Benefactor or other, who intruſted the City to diſpoſe of their Bounty to others, as among themſelves, viz. Forty Pounds per Annum to St. John's College in Oxford, and Forty Pounds per Annum to ſeveral other Corporations.

'Alſo near the ſaid City, at a Pool called Swanſwell, is a Spring which filleth a ſeven Inch Diameter, of which Water the Quantity

'of

'of five Tun an Hour is daily raiſed to the Top 'of a Turret ſix and thirty Foot high, by a 'Stream out of the ſaid Pool containing nine 'cubical Inches, which moveth an overſhot 'Wheel, and a triangular Crank with Balances 'and Buckets, being an heaving or lifting En- 'gine. From hence the Water is conveyed 'into the Streets of the City and Houſes of ſuch 'Inhabitants as will and do take the ſaid Wa- 'ter at an annual Rent. This Water-work 'was begun by Thomas Sargenſon Maſon, and Bartholomew Bewley Plumber, in the Year 1630, 'and hath been ſince altered and put into the 'Form it now worketh, in the Year 1658, and 'ſo continued by Thomas Bewley, Son of the 'ſaid Bartholomew, who is the preſent Pro- 'prietor.

'The City is Owner of a rich Delf or Mine 'of Coals near adjoining to it, which is hoped 'will in a little time add much to its Revenue, 'the preſent Undertakers uſing that Method 'for the maſtering of the Water, which the 'Inadvertency of former Undertakers either 'could not contrive, or at leaſt not effectually 'proſecute.

'The ſtaple Commodity of the Place is 'Cloth; but to how low an Ebb that Trade 'is now come, every Place can report, and 'competently judge, as well as this City.

'Its Government conſiſts of annual Officers, 'ten Aldermen or Juſtices, with two ſtanding 'Councils, viz. the Upper, the Second or 'Common-Council. The annual Officers are 'the Mayor, Recorder, two Sheriffs, Steward, 'Coroner, two Chamberlains, two Wardens, 'and ſome other attendant and miniſtring Of- 'ficers.

'The Mayor is the Eye of the Body, the 'King's immediate Lieutenant, having the Pre- 'cedency of all. Prince Henry himſelf, when 'in Coventry, refuſed to take the better Hand 'of him, when modeſtly the Mayor ordered it, 'ſaying, He would not reſume a Right of his Fa- 'ther's Grants.

'This Authority is ſolitary or ſocial: Solita- 'ry, as to be Clerk of the King's Market, Stew- 'ard and Marſhal of the King's Houſe, to be in 'Commiſſion for Arrays, and Head of the 'twelve Companies. Social, in the Upper 'Council, which conſiſts of Aldermen and 'ſome Candidates for the Mayoralty, where 'he orders and manageth the particular Affairs 'and Revenues of the City, diſtributes the 'Bounty of Benefactors, ſometimes calling in 'the Aſſiſtance of the ſecond Council, arbi- 'trarily choſen by him and his Brethren out of 'the wealthieſt and diſcreeteſt Citizens, and 'conſiſting of five and twenty, who are as Wit- 'neſſes of their juſt Adminiſtrations, as well as 'Adviſers, in all Alienations of City Lands, 'and Grants of other Nature.

'The Aldermen are Juſtices of the Peace in 'as full Latitude as any other, having ten 'Wards or Precincts aſſigned them, with an 'Appropriation of a Ward to each Alderman, 'as to ſome Reſpects, though otherwiſe every 'one is Juſtice throughout, both as to the Ci- 'ty and County of the City, which is of large 'Extent. Of theſe Juſtices there are of the 'Quorum four, viz. the Mayor, Recorder, and 'two eldeſt Aldermen.

'The Mayor's Inſignia are a Sword, a Hat 'of Maintenance, a great Mace, and ſix ſmal- 'ler, with a Tipſtaff; the Robes black, lined 'with Furr, and on ſolemn and Feſtival Days, 'Scarlet lined with Foins.

'The preſent Aldermen and Juſtices for the 'Year 1676, are William Jelliff Alderman, now 'Mayor the ſecond Time; the Right Honoura- 'ble James Earl of Northampton, one of his 'Majeſty's Privy-Council, Recorder; Joſeph 'Chambers, James Nailer, Julius Billers, William 'Vale, Ralph Philips, Nathaniel Harryman, 'Thomas King, Thomas Bewley, Abel Brooksby, 'Humphry Burton Coroner, Sir. Richard Hop- 'kins Kt. Serjeant at Law, Steward.

'As to the Rights, Immunities, Privileges, 'when and by whom granted, together with 'all other things coincident to this City, from 'its firſt Appearance to its aſcending Grandour 'and Declining or Cadency, they are moſt am- 'ply and learnedly mentioned to our Hand by 'the Pen of the learned Mr. Dugdale Norroy 'King of Arms, to whom we refer the Reader.

'The Arms belonging to this City are, Party 'per Pale, Gules and Vert, an Elephant, Argent, 'on a Mount, proper, bearing a Caſtle on his 'Back, Or.

'WARWICK, the Shire-Town, of good 'Account, being the Place where the Aſſizes 'and general Seſſions for the County are kept; 'is indifferent large, containing two Pariſh- 'Churches, beſides ſome demoliſhed; its Hou- 'ſes are well built, its Streets ſpacious and 'good; 'tis a Place well inhabited, and enjoy- 'eth a good Trade, eſpecially for Mault. It 'is governed by a Mayor, twelve Brethren, 'four and twenty Burgeſſes for Common-Coun- 'cil, a Recorder, &c. ſends Burgeſſes to Par- 'liament. The Arms borne by this Town are, 'a Caſtle triple-towred, having on the dexter 'Side the Sun in its Glory, and on the ſiniſter 'a Creſcent; on the Top of the two fronting 'Towers ſtand two Watchmen with this In- 'ſcription upon the Ring of the Seal, Sigillum 'Ballivi Burgenſium Warwici.

'APPLEBY (anci- 'ently Aballaba) was a City 'in the Time of the Ro- 'mans, and the chief Town 'in Weſtmerland (as it re- 'mains ſtill) at, and be- 'fore the Norman Con- 'queſt; inſomuch that the 'County took Name from 'it, and was ſometimes 'called the County of Appilby. It is traditionally 'reported concernig this Place, That it was un-

'der the Jurisdiction of a Mayor, when London 'was only govern'd by a Bailiff; which how 'true it is, I shall not concern my self; but 'the Beginning of the Mayoralty of London '(formerly governed by Portgraves) is commonly reckoned from the first Year of Richard I. 'and Appleby had a Charter from Henry I. (who 'was Son to the Conqueror) of very great Privileges confirm'd by King John (as is yet to 'be seen) and all the Kings of England successively. It continu'd a Place of great Account 'till 1176, (the 22d of Hen. II.) at which Time 'it was utterly destroyed by the Incursion of 'the Scots under William their King, as appears from a Stone in the School-Garden-'House. And it should seem then, in regard 'of its Loyalty and Sufferings, this King took 'Compassion upon it, and (in all Probability) 'built their Church dedicated to S. Lawrence; and 'for their Arms gave them his own Coat, with 'an honorary Distinction, Gules, three Lions 'passant gardant in Pale crowned, Or, with 'this Inscription on their Seals, SIGILLUM 'COMMUNITATIS BURGII DE APPILBY; and 'on the Reverse St. Lawrence on the Grid-iron, 'kept down by Force, and burning in the 'Flames, from which ariseth a Flag or Standard with three Lions (as before) and the 'Device this, HIC JACET LAURENTIUS IN 'CRATICULA POSITUS, to shew it resisted 'even unto Fire. Now this King Henry II. 'was the first (as all Antiquaries agree) who 'bare for his Arms three Lions; and therefore it must needs be a great Honour to the 'Place, and undoubted Sign or Token of its 'Loyalty (a Quality for which it now is, and 'ever was famous) that he should signalize it 'with his own Coat, distinguished only by an 'honourable Addition of three Crowns. And 'though Mr. Cambden (whose Footsteps Speed 'followeth) tells us, out of William of Newburg, 'That William King of the Scots took this Place 'and Brough by a sudden Surprize, a little be'fore he himself was taken at Aulnwick in Northumberland (which is very true); yet they 'are all mistaken in this, That these two Places 'were not recovered till King John's Time; for 'tis certain, the Scots (after the Country had 'got themselves into an Array) were beaten 'back, and their King taken Prisoner. And 'tis certain also, that though King John did 'bestow them on Robert de Veteripont for his 'good Service; yet he recovered them not 'from the Scots, for they came into his Hands 'propter transgressionem factam per Hugonem de 'Morevilla, by reason of the Forfeiture of Hugh 'de Mervil (a great Man in those Parts, and 'the same (if I mistake not) that killed Thomas 'a Becket) as was given in upon Inquisition 'taken at York, die Jovis proximo post mediam 'quadrageſimæ Anno Regni Regis Edwardi 3.

'And notwithstanding this fatal Overthrow, 'so much of the Town was continued, till the 'Reign of Richard II. (who began in 1377) 'that it paid to the King in Fee-farm Rent 'twenty Marks per Annum, at 2 d. a Burgage, 'which amounts to two Thousand two Hundred Burgages, besides other Houses: But in '1388, (as appears by Records) die Martis in 'festo Sancti Stephani Martyris (which was about '11 Rich. II.) it was so burnt down and wasted 'by the Scots, that of that Rent, upon several 'Inquisitions found and returned, there remained to the King only two Marks per An'num; so that nine Parts in ten were utterly 'destroy'd.

'But notwithstanding this great Devastation that was never repaired, it doth still 'retain its ancient Privileges, which are in 'every respect the same with York, as appears 'from the Confirmation of Henry III. (in whose 'Time here was an Exchequer, called by the 'Name of Scaccarium de Appleby) and King 'John's Charter, which I have seen; wherein 'is expressed and firmly commanded, That his 'Burgers of Appleby shall have and enjoy all the 'Liberties and free Customs which his Burgers of 'York have, well and peaceably, freely and quietly, 'fully, wholly, and honourably (with a Prohibition, That none shall attempt to disturb them 'thereof): And also, That they shall be free from 'Toll, Stallage, Pontage, and Lestage all England 'over, præterquam in Civitate London, nisi forte 'Cives Ebor' quietantias inde habent libertates 'suas in Civitate London; which Exception 'doth very much confirm and strengthen their 'Privileges to them.

'The Corporation consists at present of a 'Mayor, with two Bailiffs, a Court of Aldermen, twelve in Number, a Recorder, Common-Council, and Serjeants at Mace, with 'their Attendants: And (if the Town were 'able to bear it) might take the same Privileges with York in every thing, according to 'their Charter, which has been confirmed by 'all the succeeding Kings of England; and if 'any would know what those Privileges are 'more particularly, I refer him to York, where 'he may possibly meet with Satisfaction. In 'the mean time take these which are now in 'Practice at Appleby, viz.

'They have Power to arrest for any Sum 'without Limitation.

'To elect and send two Burgesses to Parliament.

'To acknowledge Statute-Merchant before 'the Mayor.

'To take Toll both in Fairs and Markets.

'To seize Felons Goods, Felones de se, Waifs, 'Strays, Forfeitures, and Escheats; all which 'do belong to the Mayor for the Time being, 'who takes Place of the Judges of Assize, as 'the Lord Mayor of York is wont to do.

'Their Aldermen are some of them Gentlemen of the Country, for the greater Honour 'and Credit of the Town, who in time of their 'Mayoralty have their Proprætors or Deputies 'there. The present Mayor and Aldermen for 'the present Year 1676 are, John Thwaites Esq; 'Mayor, Lancelot Machel of Guckanthorp Esq;

'who

'who was first Mayor after the King's Return, 'and tore in pieces Oliver's Charter in open 'Court, before he would accept of that Office, 'which he had declined all Oliver's Time: 'Richard Brathwate of Warcop Esq; and Justice 'of the Peace, who contested with the Judges, 'and took Place of them Virtute Chartæ: Robert 'Hilton of Morton Esq; Justice of Peace, Ed'ward Musgrave of Askeby Esq; Justice of Peace, 'Thomas Warcop of Colby Gent. John Routledge 'of Gent. Alderman Leonard Smyth, 'Alderman William Smyth, Alderman Robert 'Harrison, Alderman John Lawson, Alderman 'Thomas Robinson, Alderman John Atkinson, 'which six last are all of Appleby.

'Appleby was very eminent for its Loyalty in 'the late Civil Wars, and most of the Alder'men (except those whom Oliver Cromwell ob'truded upon them) suffered many Imprison'ments during his Tyranny; and so likewise 'did most of the Gentry round about: for it 'is the Glory of the County of Westmerland, 'that there was not one Person of Quality in 'it who took up Arms against his King, and 'but two or three in Cumberland.

'SALISBURY, the 'chief Place in Wiltshire, a 'City of great Antiquity, 'and in the time of the 'Romans, of great Fame; 'at present, a fine, neat, 'and well built City, beau'tified with fair and well 'built Houses; its Streets 'are commodious and 'large, hath a stately Minster or Cathedral, 'to which adjoineth the Bishop's Palace. It 'is a Place well inhabited and frequented, en'joyeth a good Trade, and amongst its Immu'nities, sendeth Burgesses to Parliament. The 'Arms belonging to this City are, Azure, a 'Sword and a Key in Saltire, Or, on a Chief, 'Argent, three Lozenges, Gules.

'WORCESTER, 'the chief Shire-Town, 'commodiously seated on 'the Banks of the Severn, 'over which it hath a fair 'Stone Bridge with a 'Tower upon it. It is a 'City of great Antiquity, 'and at present of good 'Account, being graced 'with well built Houses, and well ordered 'Streets, is well inhabited, enjoyeth a good 'Trade, especialy for its Clothings here made 'in great Quantities. It is a Place of a good 'Largeness, containing nine Parish-Churches 'besides its Cathedral. It is governed by a 'Mayor, a Sheriff, six Aldermen, four and 'twenty principal Citizens, eight and forty 'Common-Council-men, two Chamberlains, a 'Recorder, Town-Clerk, &c. The Arms of 'this City are, Argent, a Fess between three 'Pears, Sable.

'YORK, next to 'London, claims the Pri'ority of all Cities in the 'Kingdom; a City of 'great Antiquity and 'Fame in the Time of 'the Romans; nor hath 'it been much eclipsed in 'its Lustre in all suc'ceeding Ages, and is at 'present a large, fair, 'and beautiful City, num'bring thirty Parish-Churches, and adorned 'with many splendid Buildings, both publick 'and private; it is very populous, and much 'resorted unto, and inhabited by Gentry and 'wealthy Tradesmen. It is a City and County 'of it self, enjoying ample Immunities, send'eth Burgesses to Parliament, is governed by a 'Lord Mayor, twelve Aldermen clad in Scar'let, two Sheriffs, twelve Common-Council, 'a Recorder, eight Chamberlains, and other 'Sub-Officers. It is a Place of great Strength, 'being encompassed with a strong Wall, on 'which are many Turrets and Watch-houses, 'and hath for Entrance four Gates and five 'Posterns. The Coat of Arms belonging to 'this City is, Argent, on a Cross, Gules, five 'Lions passant gardant, Or.

'HULL, a Town of 'no great Antiquity, but 'of considerable Account, 'being very large (though 'containing but two Pa'rish-Churches) is graced 'with fair Buildings and 'well ordered and paved 'Streets, is very well inha'bited and frequented by 'Merchants and Trades'men, having good Store of Vessels belonging 'to the Town, and the more by reason of its 'commodious Haven, Custom-house, and Key, 'its Inhabitants driving a considerable inland 'and beyond-sea Trade for divers good Commo'dities. It is a Place of an impregnable Strength, 'and that made so as well by Nature as by Art. 'It is a Town and County incorporate of it self, 'electeth Parliament-men, is governed by a 'Mayor, twelve Aldermen, a Common-Coun'cil, with other Sub-Officers, and have ample 'Immunities granted unto them. The Coat-'Armour born by this Incorporation is, Azure, 'three Coronets in Pale, Or.

RICH-

'RICHMOND, 'ſeated on the River 'Swale, over which it hath 'a Stone Bridge, which 'ſaid River was by the 'ancient Engliſh eſteemed 'very ſacred, for that in 'it Paulinus the firſt Arch-'biſhop of York, baptized 'in one Day above Ten 'Thouſand Men, beſides 'Women and Children. It is a large Town-'Corporate, containing two Pariſh-Churches, 'is graced with well built Houſes, its Streets are 'paved and well ordered, hath a ſpacious Mar-'ket-place, is well inhabited by Gentry and 'Tradeſmen, enjoyeth a good Trade chiefly for 'Stockings, and woollen knit Caps for Seamen. 'It is governed by a Mayor and Aldermen, 'with Sub-Officers, and amongſt its Immuni-'ties ſends Burgeſſes to Parliament. The Arms 'of this Town are, Gules, an inner Bordure 'Argent, over all a Bend, Ermin.

A DISCOURSE of the Duty and Office of an Herald of Arms, written by Francis Thynne Lancaster Herald, third Day of March, Anno 1605. In a Letter to a Peer.

IN the Height of the Roman Government and Pride of their Glory, the Senator which had consumed his Possessions, whereby he was to maintain the State laid upon him, was removed from the Senate. Whereof Rosinus de Antiq. Roma Lib. 7. Cap. 5. out of Cicero his Epistle ad Q. Valerium thus writeth. Laudatur autem Census in Senatore, ne Splendor amplissimi Ordinis Rei familiaris angustiis obscuretur. Caterum autem angustum Censum Senatorium Sestertium 800 millia fuisse, eumq; ab Augusto ampliatum docet Suetonius & Dio; neq; Solum Siquis Senatorium Censum non haberet, Senator legi non poterat, sed si postquam electus esset Censum labefactasset, Ordinem amittebat.

[a] For the Bastards bearing of Arms there is no Question. But of what Kind soever they be, they cannot by the Laws of England bear any Arms: For no Man can inherit Things annexed to the Blood, but such as are interested in the Blood, which Bastards are not: For they are not any Man's Children, but Filij Populi & concepti ex prohibito Coitu. Yet Custom following the Example of Nations, doth by Courtesy of the Law of Arms cast upon them some Preheminence, to be adorned with the Ensigns of his reputed Father, if he carry his Father's Name; if not, but that he be invested with his Mother's Name (though the World take Notice of his reputed Father) yet shall he have nothing to do with his Arms, unless he assumeth the Name of his Father, and then shall he bear the Arms with a Bastard Difference, according to his Difference of Bastardy; whereof there are 12 Kinds as follow;

1. He that is born of unmarried Parties that never after married.
2. He that is born of a Father married and a Woman unmarried.
3. Of a Father married, but having no lawful Children.
4. Of a married Father, but hath Children.
5. Of an unmarried Father and a Widow.
6. Of an unmarried Father and a married Woman.
7. Of a Religious Man and an unmarried Woman.
8. Of a Religious Man and a married Woman.
9. Of an unmarried Father and his Kinswoman, between whom Marriage is forbidden.
10. Of a married Father and his Kinswoman in any Degree of Consanguinity.
11. He that is begotten of a known Woman and an unknown Father.
12. He that is born of unmarried Persons which after marry; being Bastards in our Law though not in the Civil.

All which in bearing of Arms must observe their peculiar Differences, well known (or at the least ought to well be known) to the Heralds; altho' I suppose few or none of us know it: For these are Arcana Imperij Heraldorum, and must be kept as Secret as the Ceremonies of the Eleusinian Goddess, or Cabala of the Jews; the divulging of which and such like Matters with the printed Books of Arms and Armory (which should be lock'd within the Walls of the Heralds Office, and not publish'd to the Censure of each Man) maketh every Man as cunning as themselves, and bringeth the Herald's Place into small Credit. For I find (I will only give Instance of my self) that I am of less Esteem, since I came into that Office, than I was before. For I feel the Office hath somewhat disgrac'd me, insomuch that now by the lewd Demeanours of some, the Name of Herald is become odious, and will fall to the Ground, If your Lordship (whose Honourable Mind and painful Endeavour do tye all the Heralds to acknowledge them your new framed, or at least revived Creatures) do not put to your helping Hands, and continue the Credit of the Office, and of such Officers as shall deserve well.

[b] Arms cannot be alienated as long as any of the Family is living; that is, so long as any of the Male Line hath Being; for the Males are only of the Line and Family of Agnation, and not the Females; these being called Sorores, quasi seorsim natæ, and as it were born out of the right way and line. So that the Stirps Agnationis, which is the Male, is different from Stirps Cognationis, which is the Line Feminine, as I have hitherto conceiv'd it. And therefore so long as any of the Male Line is living; (for they have all Interest in the Arms as they have in the Blood) None can Sell the Arms of his Family. For as Cassanæus says in his Tractate of Arms. Est quoddam Jus portare Arma spectans unicuiq; de Agnatione & Familia, quod non videtur transire extra illam; quum sint Arma inventa ad cognoscendas Agnationes, Familias, & Domus Nobilium, sunt Nomina ad cognoscendos Homines. And Bartolus addeth, Sicut per Testamentum si esset aliquid Relictum Familiæ indistincte, non nominando Personas Familiæ, illud transiret ad eos tamen de Familia gradatim, ita quod non posset per illud alienari. Sic Arma alicui Familiæ data non nominando Personas Familiæ distincte, ad eos tamen de Familia transeunt, ita quod non possint alienari. Who further writeth, Quod stante aliqua de Agnatione, Familia vel Domo, habente aliqua Arma a Tempore cujus initij Memoria non extat in contrarium, quod talia Arma non possunt vendi aut alienari quocunq; Titulo in præjudicium illorum de Familia, Domo, aut Agnatione.

According to which it seems the Law of Arms was in England in Times past; for that he which had but only Daughters, or one Daughter to succeed him, might have licence of the King to alien his Name of Arms to any other for the Preservation of the Memory of them both; as appear'd in the Case of the Lord Deincourt, in the Time of Edw. 2d, whereof the Record is thus in the Patent-Rolls 10 E. 2. part 2. Mem. 13. Rex, &c. Salutem. Sciatis quod quum pro eo quod dilectus, &c. fidelis noster Edmundus Deincourt, advertebat & conjecturabat, quod Cognomen suum & ejus Arma post Mortem suam in Persona Isabellæ filiæ Edmundi Deincourt heredis ejus apparentis, a Memoria delerentur, ac corditer affectavit quod Cognomen & Arma sua post Mortem ejus in Memoria in posterum haberentur; ad Requisitionem prædicti Edmundi & ob grata & laudabilia Servitia quæ bonæ Memoriæ Domino Edwardo quondam Regi Angliæ Patri Nostro & Nobis impendit, per Literas nostras Patentes concessimus & Licentiam dedimus pro Nobis & Heredibus nostris eidem Edmundo, quod ipse de omnibus Maneriis, &c. quæ de Nobis tenet in Capite, feoffare possit quemcunq; velit, &c. Out of the Preamble of which Deed we gather (as before is said) that because he had a Daughter which could not preserve his Memory, that he might alien his Name and Arms according to the Law, Because none de Stirpe Agnationis was living to forbid the same. But withal it is gather'd, that he could not alien the same without Licence of the Prince (who might dispence with the Law) But because the Law and Custom had permitted that Women should inherit with us both Lands, Honours, Name and Arms; and, Quod consuetudo dat homo tollere non potest.

On this point there be divers Opinions repugnant each to other, whereof one is, that of the Reverend Herald of our Age Robert Glover Somerset, who in his Book de Differentijs Armorum saith, that She during her own Life shall bear her Father's Coat quarter'd with her Mother's. His words be these; In hoc Casu quo Quis vir Nobilis filiam & hæredem Uxorem duxerit, & ex ea unicam susceperit filiam, Materni Census & Hæreditatis heredem futuram; & per aliam Uxorem genuerit filium Paternæ Hæreditatis hæredem; dicta Filia hæredis prædictæ durante Vitæ sua tanquam filia legitima & naturalis utriusq; Parentis eorum portabit Arma quateriatim seu quadrifariæ incorporata, sed liberis ab ea progenitis permittitur tantummodo Delatio Armorum hæreditarie illis ab eorum Avia descendentibus; Sed in contrarium sæpe vidimus ab imperitis nulla ratione propera facta fulcire valentibus.

But saving Correction, I cannot as yet be induced to permit the Daughter during her Life to bear her Father's and Mother's Arms quarter'd; Because quartering denoteth a settled Inheritance of the Arms of both those Houses in that Person that beareth them so quarter'd; which cannot be in her, because the Brother must carry the Arms of the Father from her. Besides she in that doth Wrong to the Heir Male in the Father's Arms, because it wholly belongs to him. Wherefore for my part I rather incline to the Opinion of Others, and among others to Gerhard Leigh, who in his Accidence of Armory doth write, That if she will needs carry her Father's Coat (to shew from whence she is descended) she must carry it in the Chief of her Arms, as he there sets down the Example. But however she may bear the Coat of her Father during Life, either quarter'd with her own, as Somerset has said; or in Chief of her own, as Leigh hath; or in Canton, as others hold, (and that not improbably:) Yet they all agree that her Issue can have no Ways to do with the Arms of the Grandfather, but only with the Arms of the Grandmother: And therefore the Lord Marques cannot by any Opinion bear the Arms of Howard in any whatsoever Order, notwithstanding his Mother should bear them in any of these 3 Forms.

c These Men being called by divers Names were Men of great Esteem in former Ages, being sometimes named but by some part of their Function. But now in this Word Herald (which signifies the old Lord or Master, d and is called in Latin Veteranus of his Years and Experience) are contained all the other Names and Functions which do express some Part of his Office. For he is called Fecialis a Fœdere faciendo in denouncing Wars or making Peace. He is called Nuncius Regis, because of one Part of his Office which is to go on the Kings Message, so that he which in the Saxons Time went on the King's Message, was the same that our now Herald is, and held the same place of a great Person. He is called Caduceator of one Part of his Office, which is to deal in Matters of Peace, and therefore hath his Caduceus or white Staff (omitted now as many other things in his Creation.) The Difference of which Fecialis & Caduceator is set down by Franciscus Philelphus Lib. —— Epist. —— Anno Dom. 142. in this Sort. Vis scire quid interfit inter Feciales & Caduceatores? Feciales eos fuisse apud priscos, qui certa Juris solemnitate Bellum hostibus indicebant; & Caduceatores esse Pacis Legatos, dictos a Caduceo quem Manu gestabant. Which Caduceus Apollo gave to Mercury the Herald of the Gods to bear when he went on their Message. Herald is also called Præco, because he is to denounce his Lord's Proclamation and Messages, the Praises of valiant Men in Peace. And therefore in Blazon of the Arms of any he must blaze them to the Honour and Praise of the Bearer, since Heraldus (as one writeth) est Præco Virtutum non Victoriarum Hominum. And yet I find the Name Heraldus in Latin no ancienter than Æneas Sylvius, and no Mention is made de Rey des Heraz. But I suppose I shall find the Officer, though not the Name, in the Time of Henry 3d, if I mistake it not.

What their Place, Credit and Worth have been in former Ages (when Honour was respected more than now) is declared in the Honourable Ceremonies at their Creation. For the same ought to be by the Prince only (or by Commission especial from him to that Purpose); for so had the last Duke of Norfolk always a Warrant from Queen Elizabeth. And upon some Festival Days. The Order whereof Gerhard Leigh sets down in this Sort.

e The Prince then asketh the Herald, whether he be a Gentleman of Blood or of second Coat Armour. If he be not; the King endoweth him with Lands or Fees, and assigneth to him and to his Heirs congruent Arms. Then like as the Messenger is brought in by the Herald of the Province, so is the Pursivant brought in by the Eldest Herald, who at the Commandment of the Prince doth all the Solemnities; as to turn the Coat of Arms, setting the Maunches thereof on the Arms of the said Pursivant, and putting about his Neck a Collar of S. S. the one S. being Argent, the other Sable, and when he is named the Prince himself taketh the Cup from the Herald, which Cup is all gilt; and poureth the Water and Wine upon the Head of the said Pursivant; creating him by the Name of Our Herald; f and the King, when the Oath is administred, giveth the same Cup to the new Herald; of whose Creation speaketh also Upton: For the Kings of Heralds the Collar ought to be one S. of Gold, and one other of Silver; and so shall your Lordship find in all their Monuments where they are buried, that their Pictures are adorned with such Collars; as appeareth also in the funeral Obsequies of William Aukslowe Clarencieux, whereof I find this remembred in Writing at that Time set down.

Memorandum Anno Domini 1476, the 7th of May was the Funeral of William Aukslowe, otherwise called Clarencieux King of Arms, who was Right worshipful after his Degree. His Crown offer'd by g Ireland King of Arms, his own Coat by Windsor Herald, his Collar by Fawlcon Herald; the King's c Heralds. d The several Names of Heralds according to the several Parts of their Function contained in the Name Herald. e The Creation of an Herald. All the Heralds must be Gent. must have Arms given, if they have none. f The Cup and Collar of S. S. for the Herald. g Ireland K. of Arms. Windsor Herald. Fawlcon Herald.

Coat

Coat remaining always upon the Herſe. And when Maſs was done, his Wife ordained a Right Worſhipful Dinner, where were all the Officers of Arms, with their Wives that would come, and divers Citizens.

For the Cup there needs no further Proof than the Records of the King's Houſe, where I have ſeen it ſet down, although I now remember not in what Place, that the Herald had his Cup given unto him.

In ſuch eſtimation were the Heralds in Times paſt, in the Reign of Hen. 5. and Hen. 6. that Purſevants might be created Knights. And therefore Upton de militari Officio Lib. 1. Cap. 11. writeth. Et eſt ſciendum, quod Nuncij Proſecutores poſſunt eſſe Milites, & militaribus gaudere Inſignijs, & deauratis uti Velvet & alijs Pannis aureis indui, non tamen ſunt nobiles; & tales vocantur Milites linguarei, quia eorum præcipuum Honor eſt in cuſtodia Linguæ. And how the Heralds and Purſevants ſhould wear the Arms of their Maſter, is expreſſed in theſe 4 Verſes.

Cinctorio Scutum dicas deferrè pedinum,
Sic Equitis dignum fert Scapula dextera Signum;
Sed Humero lævo detulit Proſecutor ab avo,
Aſt Heraldorum ſtat Pectore ſons Titulorum.

Some Things in this Diſcourſe I think worthy to touch.

1. That the Heralds might create Inferiour Officers; as, Lyon King of Arms of Scotland doth at this Day make his Inferiour Officers.

2. That he be at all Tornements, Tilts, &c. And therefore (as I note in other Cuſtoms) they ought to have whatſoever of their Furniture falleth from any of them that Torney; But now will not they which begin to Torney pay their Fees, but further bring with them ſo many Servants and Pages into the Tilt, that they take the Herald's Fees of whatſoever falleth from their Maſters, with opprobrious Speech to the Heralds againſt all Reaſon, Orders and Cuſtoms. For why ſhould Men ſerve, if they may not have their Due of their Service? Next in this Place I obſerve, that the Heralds were (and ought to be) at all Marriages of the Nobility, (whereunto now they are never called) becauſe they ought to have the Garment of the Bride; and thus being geſded of their due Fees, they cannot maintain the Port of their Calling, or that the now Garter ſhould equal the Garter of Hen. 5. his Time; when Garter entertain'd the Emperour Sigiſmond at his Houſe in Kentiſh Town. For Reparation thereof ſome have in ſome Sort ſought to relieve them. And therefore K. Edw. 6. [m] did by his Letters Patents free them of all Subſidies, Taxes, Watches, and other Charges of Service. And King Rich. 3. (if my Memory deceive me not) gave them Cold Arbor Houſe; [n] which I cannot ſee how, when, or why they parted from it. Queen Mary (I take it) made them, or at leaſt confirm'd them a Corporation by the Help and Procurement of your Honourable Brother the Duke of Norfolk, who alſo procured them Derby Houſe, which they hold at this Day. And Queen Eliz. gave them Privileges which I have ſeen in Print ſubſcribed per privatum Sigillum. Much more I could ſay for the Heralds, but I ſhall be too tedious, and therefore deſire Your Lordſhip once more to look over the Plot of the Defaults of the Herald's Office, which I gave before to Your Lordſhip, digeſted into a Brief or Table.

If Heralds, my Lord, might truly have Fees of every one which gave them Fees in Times paſt, they might live in reaſonable Sort, and keep their Eſtate anſwerable to their Place. But now (whether it be our own Default, or the overmuch Parcimony of others, or Fault of the Heavens ſince by their Revolutions Things decay when they have been at the higheſt, I know not) the Heralds are not eſteemed, every one withdraws his Favour from them, and denies the accuſtomed Duties belonging to them. And therefore hoping Your Lordſhip will repair this ruined State of ours, I will ſet down what belonged unto us in the Time of King Rich. 2d, out of an old written Roll which came to my Hands.

Further, at Newyears-tyde all the Noblemen and Knights of the Court did give Newyears-Gifts to the Heralds, and out of that Liberality the Heralds did (and to this Day do) give moſt of the Officers of the King's Houſe Newyears-Gifts, although thoſe Newyears Gifts are not half ſo much to us now as they were then, when Silver was but 3 s. 4 d. and every Thing prized under the 3d part that it is now: Whereof I have ſet down one Inſtance in the Time of Edw. 4. as I find it Regiſtred at that Time.

Beſides the Gifts of many other Knights there named; whereof ſome gave more and ſome leſs as beſt liked them.

Beſides I find it Regiſtred in one other Book of Heralds then living, that in Anno Dom. 1477. which was about the 17th of Edw. 4. The King made many Knights of the Bath, at the Marriage of his Son Richard Duke of York to Anne Daughter and ſole Heir to John Mowbray Duke of Norfolk, which not councelled to their moſt Honour, denied a great Part of the Duties (of old Preſidents) given to their Officers of Arms, and referred them to the Lord Chamberlain, [b] who well underſtanding of ancient noble Cuſtoms, went and ſhewed it to the King, and to the Duke of Glouceſter Conſtable of England, [c] which is Judge of every Officer of Arms, who went in his own Perſon, and commanded William Griffith, one of the Marſhals of the King's Hall, to charge every Man of the aforeſaid Company (being under their Juriſdiction) to pay their Duties to the Officers of Arms, &c. Thus far that Note.

[s] Fee at the King's Marriage. [t] The Fees at the Queen's Childing and Churching. [u] The Fees at the Childing and Churching of Princeſſes, Marqueſſes, &c. [x] And when the King wears his Crown, and keeps State upon high Feſtivals, &c. [y] Alſo at the Marriage of the Nobility. [z] At Combats or Juſts. [a] At Rebellions. [b] The Lord Chamberlain is appointed to ſee the Herald's Fees be paid. [c] The Conſtable as Judge of the Officers of Arms.

Our

[a] Our Anceſtors were in Times paſt ſo careful of their Honour, and that every Man ſhould be furniſh'd according to his Degree, that they left not undetermin'd, with what Troops of Horſe every one ſhould be furniſhed when he went Ambaſſadour. And how every Meſſenger from a Sovereign King into England ſhould be received, as I have noted out of antient Books in this Sort.

	Horſe.
A Duke of the Blood Royal (as near as Couſin German)	400
A Duke of the Blood Royal	300
A Duke	300 or more.
An Earl of the Blood Royal	200 or more.
An Earl	100
A Baron of great Blood	40 or 50
A Baron	30
A Knight for the Body	10 or 15
A Bannerett	15 or 20
A Knight	8 or 10
A Squire for the Body, after his Poſſeſſions	6
A Squire	3 or 4
A Gentleman	3

Likewiſe if any foreign Prince or King do ſend to our Sovereign any Meſſengers;

[b] If he be a Knight, receive him as a Baron.
If he be an Eſquire, receive him as a Knight.
If he be a Yeoman, receive him as an Eſquire.
If he be a Groom, receive him as a Yeoman, &c.
And ſo every Eſtate muſt be received as the Degree next above him doth require.

[c] It will not be unpleaſant (I hope) to your Lordſhip to know what the Authority of a King of Arms is in his Province; and for that Cauſe I have here ſet it down.

I. [d] As nigh as he can he ſhall take Knowledge and record the Arms, Creſts and Cognizances, and antient Words; as alſo of the Line and Deſcent, or Pedigree of every Gentleman within his Province, of what State or Degree ſoever he be.

Item, [e] He ſhall enter into all Churches, Chapels, Oratories, Caſtles, Houſes, or antient Buildings; to take Knowledge of their Foundations, and of the noble Eſtates buried in them: as alſo of their Arms, and Arms of the Place, their Heads, and antient Records.

Item, [f] He ſhall prohibit any Gentlemen to bear the Arms of any other, or ſuch as be not true Armory, and as he ought according to the Law of Arms.

[g] He ſhall prohibit any Merchant, or any other, to put their Names, Marks, or Devices in Eſcutcheons or Shields, which belong, and only appertain to Gentlemen bearing Arms, and to none other.

Item, [h] He ſhall make diligent Search if any bear Arms without Authority or good Right, and finding ſuch (altho' they be true Blazon) he ſhall prohibit them.

[i] The ſaid King of Arms in his Province hath full Power and Authority by the King to give Confirmation to all Noblemen and Gentlemen ignorant of their Arms; for the which he ought to have his Fee belonging thereto.

[k] He hath Authority to give Arms and Creſts to Perſons of Ability, deſerving well of the Prince and Commonwealth, by reaſon of Office, Authority, Wiſdom, Learning, good Manners, and ſober Government. They to have ſuch Grants by Patent under the Seal of the Office of the King of Arms, and to pay therefore the Fees accuſtomed.

Item, [l] No Gentleman, or other, may erect or ſet up in any Church at Funerals, either Banners, Standards, Coats of Arms, Helms, Creſts, Swords, or any other Hatchments, without the Licence of the ſaid King of Arms of the Province: or by Allowance of, or Permiſſion of his Marſhal or Deputy: Becauſe the Arms of the noble Eſtate deceaſed, the Day of his Death, the Place of his Burial, his Marriage and Iſſues ought to be taken and recorded in the Office of that King.

[m] Further, No Gentlemen ought to bear their Differences in Armory, otherwiſe than the Office of Armory requireth. And when younger Brethren do marry, erect and eſtabliſh new Houſes, and accordingly to bear their Arms with ſuch Diſtinction and Differences that may be known from their elder Families, out of which they are deſcended; the King of Arms of the Province is to be conſulted withal, and ſuch Differences of Houſes are to be aſſigned and eſtabliſhed by his Privity and Conſent, that ſo he may adviſe them to the beſt, and keep Record thereof; otherwiſe Gentlemen may hurt themſelves by taking ſuch a Difference as ſhall prejudice the chief Houſe from whence they are deſcended.

[n] The King of Arms of the Province is to have an eſpecial Regard, that no Man bear Arms by his Mother, be ſhe never ſo good a Gentlewoman, or never ſo great an Inheretrix, unleſs he bear Arms alſo by his Father's Stock and Living properly belonging to his Surname; Quia apud jus in Angliâ, Partus non ſequitur ventrem

[o] Likewiſe he is to ſee that no Gentleman, deſcended of a noble Race, and bearing Arms, do alter or change thoſe Arms, without his Knowledge, Allowance or Conſent. If any do uſe the Arms of others, or ſuch as they ought not, and will not be reſtrained, he is under a certain Pain. And at a certain Day to warn each Offender to appear before the Earl-Marſhal, or his Deputy, before whom the ſame is to be order'd and reſtrain'd.

[p] Arms appointed for Biſhops ought not to deſcend to their Children, for they are not within the Compaſs of the Law of Arms, which only takes Notice of Biſhops as Officers of the Church, and not as Military Men, or Perſons to be employed in Office or Affairs of Laymen, tho' ſome of 'em have been very great Soldiers. For both Canons and Examples do forbid the ſame, ſince in temporal Actions in Time paſt it was alledg'd againſt them. For it was objected to Hubert Walter, Archbiſhop of Canterbury, being Chief Juſtice and Chancellor in the Time of King John, that he intermeddled in Lay Cauſes, and dealt in Blood. As alſo the ſame was laid againſt other Clergymen for having of Offices in the Exchequer and the King's Houſe, when ſome of them were Clerks of the Kitchin, ſome Treaſurers of the Houſhold, &c. Yea, ſo much did our Anceſtors derogate from the Arms of the Biſhops; as that the Biſhops which were intereſted in the Arms of their Anceſtors, might not bear the Arms of their Houſe, without ſome notorious Difference, not anſwerable to the Difference of other younger Brethren. As did the Biſhop of Lincoln Henry Burgerſche, the Archbiſhop of Canterbury Thomas Arundell, the Archbiſhop of York Richard Scroop, the Biſhop of Norwich Henry Spencer, and many others; who did not bear the common Differences of Arms of younger Sons: But great and notorious Differences, as Bordures, ſome engrailed, ſome with Mittres, or ſuch like; whereof I can ſhew your Lordſhip many Forms. And that it was not before the Time of * Bartolus the Lawyer, in the Government of Charles the IV*th* Emperor, permitted to Gown-men (or as the French termeth them of the long Robe; for under that Name were learned Men, Clergymen, and others comprehended) to bear Armories. Or elſe why ſhould that great Lawyer Bartolus argue the Matter, whether it were convenient that he ſhould take Arms (the peculiar Reward and Honour of Military Service in antient Time) or whether he ſhould refuſe them at the Emperor's hands? For if it had been then uſed that the long Robe ſhould have enjoy'd the Honour of Arms, Bartolus would never have doubted thereof. But ſince it was not then accuſtomed, he made Queſtion whether he ſhould take thoſe Arms or not; but in the end concluded that the Fact of the Prince was neither to be diſputed nor rejected, and therefore was willing to aſſume the Arms the Emperor had given him.

[a] With what Troops of Horſes our Ambaſſadours muſt be furniſh'd with that go out of England. [b] How Foreign Meſſengers of every Degree muſt be receiv'd. [c] The Office of a King of Arms in his Province. [d] To keep and regiſter the Arms and Deſcents. [e] Alſo Arms and Monuments in Churches. [f] To prohibit bearing the Arms of another, or falſe Armory. [g] To prohibit Merchants to put their Devices in Eſcutcheons. [h] Bearing of Arms without Authority. [i] Confirmation of Arms. [k] Giving of Arms to ſuch as bear Office. [l] None to erect Banners or Arms in Churches without the Permiſſion of the King of Arms. [m] Differences of the younger Houſes are to be by the Direction of the King at Arms. [n] None to bear the Arms of his Mother; unleſs, &c. [o] Change of Arms for ſuch as are unlawful. [p] Arms granted to the Clergy ought not to deſcend to their Children.

¶ Altho' the Marſhal in times paſt was but the Conſtable's Deputy, yet was he Aſſiſtant to the Conſtable in all Judgment. For by his Advice moſtly, and ſometime with his, and with the reſt of the Court Military, the Conſtable gave Sentence. Yet was he alſo to hear, and in ſome Sort to determine Cauſes, eſpecially in the Abſence of the Conſtable; which thoſe Marſhals more often, and with more Authority exerciſed ſince the 13*th* of Hen. VIII. in which Edward Stafford (or Bohun) the laſt Conſtable of England was beheaded. Since that time there hath not been any more Conſtables, whereby the Marſhal hath always after ſupply'd the Place of Conſtable, and ſenteneed all Military Matters: Then if the Marſhal does the Conſtable's Office, he hath the ſame Priviledge the Conſtable had. And if the Conſtable might impriſon then (as I think will be well prov'd) the Marſhal may do the ſame, ſupplying the Conſtable's Office: And by Conſequence, all ſuch Deputy-Marſhal Commiſſioners, as have Authority from the Prince, to ſupply the Marſhal's Office, during the Interim or Vacancy of an Earl-Marſhal. Moreover, if they ſhould not have Authority to impriſon, in vain were it then to determine any thing. For if the Parties condemned will not obey, and they have no Power to compel them thereto, which in the end muſt be only by Impriſonment, in vain it is for them (as I ſaid) to decree any thing. But becauſe their Judgments ſhould be eſtabliſh'd, and the Offenders compell'd to perform ſuch Law, there was allowed to the Marſhal his Priſon, which to this Day is called the Marſhalſea. A Thing ſuperfluous and meer frivolous, that they ſhall have a Priſon and not commit Offenders to it: But that Priſon was not appointed to them in vain. For which cauſe it ſeemeth to me, that the now Marſhal's Deputies have Jus incarcerandi; and if any of your Lordſhips ſhould commit one Offender to that Priſon, I would gladly learn what Remedy he hath, either by Action of falſe Impriſonment, or otherwiſe; ſince no Man, I think, will bail him without your Conſents, or any other Judge of Habeas Corpus enlarge him. And then, foolery and needleſs it were for him to ſue an Action of falſe Impriſonment againſt thoſe that ſhall commit. And therefore I ſee not, but that he may remain in Priſon ſtill, upon Commandment of the Marſhal or Marſhal's Deputy, or upon Judgment in the Marſhal's Court, which in a Book Caſe [t] of the 13*th* of Hen. IV. is ſaid to be all one with the Conſtable's Court; which alſo is to be gather'd out of another Book-Caſe in Law Books of 37 of Hen. VI. where one brings an Action at the Common Law, of Aſſault and Menacing. The Defendant pleaded that the Plaintiff did incutiri in Capite; and that if the Plaintiff would charge the Defendant with Treaſon, as he did, he ſaid to the Plaintiff, that he would defend him by his Body during the Life of one of them; which was the ſame Menacing; whereupon it was ſaid, that ſuch Action for appealing of Treaſon, or calling Traytor, lieth not at the Common Law. But to uſe the Words of the Book; [r] Giſt devant le Conеſtable & Marſhal, & la ſera determine par Ley Civille. Whereupon Juſtice Needham, Le comen Ley prendera Conizance de Ley de le Conеſtable & Marſhal, car en appelle de morte eſt bone Juſtificatione, que le mort luy appelle le Treaſone devant le Conеſtable & Marſhall, par qui ils combuteront la, & le defendant vanquiſht le morte almort; & c'eſt bone Juſtificatione, ——— Moyle conceſſerunt, que Comon Ley prendra Notice del Ley del Conеſtable & Marſhal. Tamen Priſott contra, mes puis que les trois diſont ut ſupra Priſott non negavit.

Whereby it appeareth that all the four Juſtices agreed, that the Conſtable and Marſhal had a Law by themſelves, whereof the Common Law doth take notice, as well as it doth of the Eccleſiaſtical Law, being a Law of itſelf from the Common.

Then if they have a Law by themſelves (and the Marſhal, as I gather out of theſe Caſes, is as far intereſted therein as the Conſtable, becauſe the Common Law here, in this Caſe, and in all other Places, calleth it the Conſtable and Marſhal's Court, ſtill joining them together, as it were, in equal Power) it muſt needs follow, that they ought to have Means to execute the Judgments of that Law, which cannot in the End be by any other Courſe but by Reſtraint and Impriſonment, being the laſt Coercion that can be uſed, as we ſee in the Contemners and Reſiſters of the Common Law. Which further affirmeth, that [t] Things of War done out of the Realm ſhall be determined by the Conſtable and Marſhal. Where I alſo obſerve, that the Marſhal is always joined with the Conſtable, as I before touched, and as appears alſo in a Book Caſe of 48 Edw. III. fo. 3. And Stamford in his Pleas of the Crown, fo. 65. As is alſo proved in 13 Hen. IV. fo. 13. Where it is deliver'd, that a Woman ſhall have an Appeal in the Conſtable and Marſhal's Court of the Death of her Husband ſlain in Scotland. And Littleton puts the like Caſe, that if the King make a Voyage into Scotland, and Eſcuage [u] be aſſeſs'd in Parliament, if the Lord diſtrain his Tenant, that holdeth by Knight's Service, of one entire Fee ſo aſſeſſed, and the Tenant plead and aver that he was with the King in Scotland by 40 Days, it ſhall be tried by the Certificate of the Marſhal (of the Hoſte of the King) in writing under his Seal; which ſhall be ſent to the Juſtices. But by this Marſhal of the Hoſt is always intended the Marſhal of England, who is to ſerve in thoſe Wars, which is called the Marſhal of the Armies; as I

* When the long Robe firſt began to bear Arms.

[q] The Marſhal hath Power of Impriſonment.

[r] The Conſtable and Marſhal ſaid to be all one.

[s] The Conſtable and Marſhal have a Law by themſelves, and the Common Law is to take Notice thereof, that Law being the Civil Law, which uſeth and alloweth Impriſonment.

[t] Things done out of the Realm are to be tried before the Marſhal.

[u] Upon what Occaſion Eſcuage is to be paid.

can upon ſome Study ſufficiently prove by Record.

I hope your Lordſhip will not be offended that I peſter you with rhapſodical Things; and therefore preſuming of the ſame, I will ſet down what Heralds I have obſerv'd to be in ſeveral Princes Times by ſeveral Names. In which your Lordſhip may behold the flouriſhing State of that Degree, when it is furniſhed with Kings, Heralds, and Purſuivants of the Prince; and Heralds and Purſuivants of divers Noblemen: For they had alſo Heralds and Purſuivants who went with the King's Heralds to the Chapel before their Lords, who attended on the King. Of which Noblemen's Heralds, ſome of them dealt in Arms, and gave Authority to bear out Differences which they bear. Beſides, I ſhall ſhew therein the firſt Inſtitution of ſome Heralds, which I think ſhall not be diſtaſtful to your Lordſhip to read.

In the Beginning of Edw. III. Andrew Windſore Norroy, beſides theſe Heralds of his Children; Clarenceaux, belonging to the Duke of Clarence; Lancaſter, belonging to the Duke of that Name, who when the Houſe of Lancaſter obtain'd the Crown, was a King of Heralds; which ſo continu'd, until the Houſe of York got the Garland, and brought him back to an Herald. Glouceſter, the Herald of that Duke.

Windſore, whom the King created upon this Occaſion; as hath Bertrande Argentre in his Hiſtory of Little Britain, Hen. V. cap. 46. After the Battel of Aurage, in the Year 1364, which fell in the 38 Edw. III. in which Charles le Blois was ſlain, and John Mountford (aſſiſted by the King) had the Victory through the Engliſh; the News whereof was brought to King Edward; whereupon (to uſe Bertrand's Words) Le Roy d'Angleterre eſtoit a Douvers, qui en ſcente le Novelle entrois Jours que luy fut portie par un Purſcievant d'Armes de Bretayne, Envoye du Count (which was John Mountforde) Lequelle le Roy d'Angleterre fes Son Heraulte ſous le Noſme de Windſore, L &c. where the Matter is ſet out more at large.

The Heraulds I read of in Records in other Princes Times, although they be not all; and whereof ſome have now Being, and ſome have not, are theſe;

JO. KEITHE.

I. COMES Marifcallus ANGLIÆ, is an Earl by Office, and ſo is no other Earl in England but he: The Earles Marſhall have ſometimes been the King's Lieutenant-General in Marſhal Affairs; and by their Office of Marſhalſhip have had Power and Authority to hear, and determine judicially of Queſtions, Doubts, and Differences betwixt Parties concerning Honour and Arms; and to that end the Earl Marſhal holdeth a Court of Judicature, called the Earl Marſhal's Court: As when Arms are uſurped and unjuſtly borne, the Earl hath Power to diſclaim the ſame, and to puniſh the Parties that ſhall falſely aſſume and take upon them the Armories of another, by the Name and Title of a Gentleman, when they are not ſo to be approved.

II. The Earl-Marſhal hath Power alſo, by ſpecial Commiſſion under the Great Seal of England, over the College of the Heralds, prohibiting the Provincial Kings of Arms to give and grant any new Coats of Arms without his Lordſhip's Conſent thereunto; his Lordſhip eſtabliſheth Orders amongſt the Heralds, for their better Rule and Government, and any Doubt or Queſtion, which they cannot decide amongſt themſelves, they refer that to the Arbitriment and Judgment of the Earl-Marſhal.

III. His Lordſhip giveth them their ſolemn Creations according to their Degrees, viz. Kings of Arms, Heralds, and Purſuivants.

IV. The Earl keepeth his Court-Marſhal either at Weſtminſter, in the painted Chamber adjoining to the Parliament-Houſe, or in his own Houſe, where in the great Hall he hath a large Table or Stage four ſquare, built with Rails thereabout, and Benches therein, and an half Pace raiſed above the ſame; there the Earl ſitteth in the midſt thereof, being accompanied on either Side with divers Noblemen, and ſometimes Judges, according to the Validity of the Cauſe that is then to be handled, to the end, that with their Advice and Council he may the more legally proceed.

V. His Lordſhip hath belonging to the ſaid Court a Purſuivant Meſſenger, that ſerveth his Precepts and Summons: He hath alſo a Cryer that ſtandeth on a Corner of the Stage; A Doctor of the Civil Law who ſitteth within the Rails, oppoſite againſt the Earl, to reſolve Doubts. The Regiſter, or Clerke of the Court, ſitteth before his Lordſhip's Foot, on either ſide of whom the Officers of Arms are placed to give their Opinions, being required.

VI. Without the Rails ſtandeth the Lawyers that plead, as Serjeants and Counſellors of the Law, and ſometimes Doctors and Proctors of the Civil Law, as the Cauſe doth require.

VII. The Meſſenger having returned his Proceſs or Summons into the Court, the Cryer calleth the Parties whom the Cauſe concerneth; they preſent their Petition or Bill of Complaint; the Regiſter readeth the ſame; the Lawyers plead pro & contra thereunto; and before the Deciſion the Court taketh Bond of the Parties to ſtand to the Award and Order of the Court-Marſhal.

VIII. When

VIII. When the Court is to be diſmiſſed and prorogued for that time, the Regiſter pronounceth the Prorogation, and the Cryer proclaimeth it aloud, appointing a Day, as his Lordſhip ſhall pleaſe, for the producing of Witneſſes, or for further hearing, or for a final Determination and Judgment.

IX. But if the Cauſe concerneth the Claim of Dignities, as for Baronies, or Earldoms, or honourable Offices, which Differences happen ſometimes between Heirs Males and the Heirs General, then the Party Plaintiff exhibiteth his or her Petition to the King's Majeſty, and the King referreth that to be judicially heard in the Court Marſhal, there as that is found, the Earl-Marſhal advertiſeth the King how he findeth the Right of the Claim to be, and leaveth the Deciſion thereof to the King.

X. In this Caſe the Warrants are ſent forth, in the King's Name, for the Appearance of the Parties in the Court-Marſhal, and are ſerved or ſummoned by an Officer of Arms, who at a Day appointed returneth his Warrant or Writ, and preſenteth the Parties for the Trial of their Claims; if the Cauſe be doubtful or ambiguous, that is ſometimes referred to be heard and determined by the Upper Houſe of Peers in Parliament.

XI. The Earl-Marſhal beareth a Staff of Metal, gilt with pure Gold, at either End tipped with Black, enamell'd. King Richard the ſecond, in the 21*ſt* Year of his Reign, granted to Thomas Holland, Duke of Surrey, Earl-Marſhal of England: Quod idem dux ratione officii ſui habeat, gerat, & deferat quemdam Baculum aureum circa utrumque finem de nigro annulatum, non obſtante quod aliquis ante hæc tempora Baculum Ligneum portare conſueverit, ut patet ex Archivis in Turri Londinenſi.

XII. In time of War with this golden Staff he marſhalleth and ordereth Battels in the Field, and hath the leading of the Van-Guard, and in the time of Peace he beareth it uſually at his Pleaſure: But eſpecially on Feſtival Days in the Court, and in Solemn and Royal Proceedings before the King, and taketh his Place with the Lord Great Chamberlain, or the Conſtable next before the Sword.

XIII. The Earl-Marſhal is placed by Act of Parliament, 31 Hen. VIII. next after the Lord Great Chamberlain and the Conſtable, and before the Lord High Admiral and the Lord Steward, and Lord Chamberlain of the King's Houſe.

XIV. At the Coronation of the King the Earl-Marſhal hath the ordering of the Abbey of Weſtminſter, and ſeeth the Regalities and Robes of King Edward the Confeſſor to be in a Readineſs; there the ſolemnizing is to be holden, and to that end ſendeth to the Office of the Robes, Jewel-Houſe and Ward-Robe to make the Preparations.

XV. He appointeth the Building of the Scaffold whereon the King is to be crowned, and giveth Order to the Gentlemen-Uſhers for the covering and furniſhing thereof with Hangings, Chairs, Traverſes, Carpets, and Cuſhions, &c. eſpecially the Seige Royal wherein the King is to be crowned.

XVI. At which time the Earl-Marſhal is one of thoſe that doth all the neareſt Offices to the King's Perſon; as to help to lead him, and to ſupport his Majeſty in his Chair, putting his Hand with others of the Nobility to ſet the Crown on his Majeſty's Head, doing his Homage firſt, and then preſenting all others of the Nobility in their ſeveral Degrees and Eſtates, being all inveſted in their Robes of Eſtate, wearing their Coronets when they do their Homage.

XVII. The Earl-Marſhal appointeth what Number of Knights of the Bath are to be made at the Coronation of the King, and maketh Election of them forth of the Nobility, or of the worthieſt Knights Sons and Heirs; and directeth by Letters in the King's Name unto them to appear by a Day, for the Proviſion of ſeveral Habits and other Things neceſſary. The Day being come, the Earl-Marſhal, with the Lord Chamberlain of the Houſhold, give them their Oath, after they are all bathed, and are in their Hermit's Habit; and after they have feaſted and re-veſted themſelves in other Habits, they ride to the Court with their Eſquires; the Earl-Marſhal preſents them to the King the ſame Day, to receive the Order of Knighthood.

XVIII. Of every Knight of the Bath the Earl-Marſhal receiveth a Fee in Money, viz. five Pounds for the Horſe the Knight rideth upon, and a Mark for the Horſe's Furniture.

XIX. At the Creation of any great Eſtate; as Duke, or Marqueſs, or Earl, the Earl-Marſhal ought to have the Furniture of the ſaid Eſtate, or Compoſition for the ſame; as alſo by antient Cuſtom he hath had the like, of Archbiſhops, Biſhops, and Abbots at their Conſecrations.

XX. At the funeral Obſequies of Kings, Queens, and Princes, the Earl-Marſhal is a chief Commiſſioner appointed with the Lord Treaſurer, the Lord Chamberlain, and others of the Lords of the King's Council, to give Orders to the Ward-Robe for the Diſtribution of Black for Mourners, for the furniſhing the Hearſe with Velvets, Palls of Cloth of Gold, Eſcutcheons, Banners, and Hatchments; giving Charge to the Officers of Arms to give their Attendance, and to ſee all Things royally and princely performed.

XXI. At Combats, Barriers, Tournaments, and Juſts royal, the Earl-Marſhal is the chiefeſt Officer, to ſee thoſe Matters and Actions of Honour and Arms accompliſhed; there alſo he hath the Appointment of the Judges; and riding with his Tipſtaves round about the Liſt, or Tilt, ordereth every thing at his Command, at which time the Knight-Marſhal is but his Attendant.

XXII. Touching Duels and private Quarrels between Gentlemen, growing upon diſgraceful Words, Blows, or Challenges, the Earl-Marſhal hath Power and Authority to ſtay and commit the Perſons; confining of them, and taking of ſufficient Bonds for their good abearing and forthcoming; compelling the Offenders to make Satisfaction to the Parties injured, according to the Form and Advice of a Book publiſhed in Print to that Effect, by the Appointment of our late Sovereign King James of happy Memory.

Sic Subſcribitur,

WILLIAM SEGAR, Garter,

Principal King of Arms.

Observations on the Office and Officers of Arms, concerning their Proceedings in Visitations, their Dignity and Power: Also two Grants, the First, of Edward VI. to the Kings, Heralds and Pursuivants, whereby they are discharged of all Subsidies and Fifteenths, and all other Taxes, &c. for ever; the Second, a Grant by Philip and Mary of Darby-House to the Use of the said Corporation, for their Office.

HAVING gone thro' Mr. Thynne's Epistolary Tract of the Duty and Office of an Herald, and also given you the Earl-Marshal his Office both in Peace and War, by Sir William Segar, Garter, I proceed to some further Collections, which I presume can neither be improper nor unpleasant to such as shall approve of the former:

It is to be observed, that as they are incorporate and collegiate, so for their more regular proceeding have they a Publick Signet, with which they seal and authorize all such Business or Affairs as are concerted by the Office in general.

" * Garter is the principal King of Arms, and " goeth first as the only Ring-leader of them all; " not so much for the Antiquity of his Creation, " as for the Supereminence of the Order of the " Garter; for he was but instituted by King Henry V. " His peculiar Office is with all dutiful Service to " attend upon the Knights of the Garter at their " Solemnities; to advertise them which are cho- " sen of their new Election; to call them to be " enstalled at Windsore; to cause their Arms to " be hanged up upon their Seats; and to marshal " the Funeral Rites and Ceremonies of them, as " also of the greater Nobility; as of Princes, " Dukes, Marquesses, Earls, Viscounts, and Ba- " rons; and to do many other Services unto the " King and State.

" The Privileges of Garter King of Arms, his " Goods and Servants; as appeareth in the black " Book of the most honourable Order of the Gar- " ter; whereof this antient Institution following " is enregister'd.

" Hii tres hujus Ordinis Officiales, viz. Scriba, Gar- " terus Rex Armorum, & Hostiarius ab atra Virga " nuncupatus; ipsi cum suis tam rebus quam Ministris " in suis Officiis permanentibus sub perpetua Supremi " protectione ac propugnaculo securè durabunt. Unde si " quævis Injuriâ, seu Violentia ipsis inferatur, vel ab " eis qui Supremo Subjecti sunt vel externis, quoties " causas suas arbitrio Supremi Submittent, ipse cum " Sodalibus exhibebit eis justitiam aut exhibendam ex " æquo & congruo procurabit. Si vero pars adversa " causam suam Supremo Submittere detractabit, ipse " cum Comilitonibus eum erga Officiales hos animum ha- " bebit, ut ipsorum causam, quoad justum atque æquum " erit cum debito favore tueri velit.

King [a] Henry V. in a Chapter of the Order of the Garter, as Sovereign of the same, with the Advice and Consent of the Knights Companions, did ordain and constitute an Officer, for the Service of the said Society, by the Name of Garter.

That for the Dignity of the Order, the Office of King of Arms was annex'd thereunto by the said King Hen V. In respect also of which Garter is there call'd [b] Sovereign of the Office of Arms over all the Servants of Arms of England. And the same Officer hath been since call'd [c] Chief and Principal King of Arms, and so [d] acknowledg'd by the rest of the Kings, the Heralds, and Pursuivants themselves. So that in his Ordination he was first constituted Garter, and then the Appointment therein follows, to make him King of Arms.

That Garter and Principal King of Arms are two [e] distinct Offices united in one Person, doth thus appear in the separate Employments.

Garter's Employment is to [f] attend the Service of the Garter, in reference to which he hath allow'd him,

I. A Mantle and Badge.
II. A House in Windsor Castle.
III. Pensions both from the Sovereign and [g] Knights.
IV. And also Fees.

The King of Arms's Employment is to perform Services relating to the Office of Arms, to whom appertains,

I. A rich Coat and a Crown.
II. Lodgings within the College of Arms.
III. A Pension out of the Exchequer.
IV. And likewise Fees.

But the chief Character of a distinct Office is the Oath.

Garter's [h] Oath relates only to Services to be perform'd within the Order, and is taken in Chapter before the Sovereign and Knights Companions, at his Admittance into the Office. But he takes no Oath before the Earl-Marshal, when created King of Arms; he being regulated by the Laws of the Order, the Sovereign's Pleasure, and consequently their Officer, and not subject to the Earl-Marshal's Authority; nor as Garter (but as King of Arms) intermeddles with any thing under it.

[i] A King of Arms his Oath is peculiarly fram'd to his Employments in the Office of Arms, and distinct from Garter's; and taken before the Earl-Marshal, or his Deputy at his Creation, under whose Jurisdiction he also is, viz. so far as the Earl-Marshal his Power, Rules, and Orders extend.

[i] See the Oath for a more perfect Definition thereof.

But

But they reach not within the Order of the Garter, nor as King of Arms can he act there.

The Office of Garter hath been acknowledged by the Officers of Arms to be a diſtinct Office from King of Arms, as appears by their Reply to Sir William Dethick's Anſwer, 14 March, Anno 1601. who was charg'd with embezelling Books out of the Office of Arms, in theſe Words——

" [k] It is known his Father was poor in Books, " but only ſuch as concern'd his Office of Garter " (not the Office of Arms) and are hereditary " to the ſame.

So alſo where the Lords Commiſſioners for the Office of Earl-Marſhal obtain'd from King James an Annuity of 200*l. per Annum*, to the ſaid Sir William Dethick, [l] in reſpect of the Surrender of his Patent, and relinquiſhing the Office of Garter to Sir William Segar.

That * Garter is an Office of the Order appears from the Statutes. Item, There be ordain'd five Officers appertaining to the ſaid Order, viz. Prelate, Chancellor, Regiſter, King of Arms named Garter, and an Uſher at Arms, named the Black Rod.

The ſame Officers (and no other) are enumerated in the Conſtitutions made for the † Officers of the Order, and particularly belonging thereunto, and Garter one of their Number.

Here in expreſs Text, Garter is ſaid to be an Officer appertaining to the Order, not to the Earl-Marſhal; and conſequently not to his, but to the Sovereign's Nomination.

The three || Officers, viz. Regiſter, Garter Rex Armorum, and Black-Rod, are under the Protection of the Sovereign; and if any Injury be done them by Subjects or Foreigners, they ſubmitting their Cauſe to the Judgment of the Sovereign and Knights Companions, they ſhall be bound to receive them and do them Juſtice, and if the adverſe Party will not ſubmit, they ſhall be bound to take part with, and favour the Officer.

It will be objected that the Earl-Marſhal ought to nominate Garter, becauſe the King hath given him Power in his Patent for that Office under the Great Seal, to nominate Officers in theſe Words [m] Una cum omnibus & ſingulis Dignitatibus præcedentiis, &c. Officiis & Nominationibus Officiariorum, &c. eidem Officio Comitis Mareſcalli Angliæ, qualitercunque, ſive quomodocunque ſpectantibus, aut de jure pertinentibus.

Reſp. I. By theſe Words it is evident that the Power of Nomination is granted to the Earl-Marſhal, of ſuch Officers as belong to the Office of Earl-Marſhal only. But Garter (as Garter) is an Officer belonging to, and under the Juriſdiction of the Sovereign and Knights of the Garter, and wholly independent to the Earl-Marſhal, until he be created King of Arms, and then dependent of him only in relation to that Office. But admit Garter were within his Juriſdiction, the Signification of theſe Words [n] Nominationes Officiariorum in the Latin Letters Patent, are explain'd in all the Engliſh Commiſſions to be, to recommend, or to commend the Names of meet and skilful Perſons to the King; which is no more than preſenting of Names by the Earl-Marſhal to the King, for him to make Choice of, but not to limit or reſtrain his Royal Power and Prerogative, that he may not refuſe ſuch Perſons as ſhall be ſo recommended to him. And when this is done, neither the Earl-Marſhal nor his Deputy can create Garter a King of Arms, without a particular Commiſſion or Warrant, ſign'd with the King's Hand, and to him directed.

II. Admit alſo that the Power of Nomination of Garter had been by particular Name granted to the Earl-Marſhal by the aforeſaid Letters Patents, yet, they paſſing under the Great Seal, it can have no Effect within, or upon the Rules and Statutes of the Order, or upon any Officer relating thereto. For ſo was it averr'd in the Biſhop of Salisbury's Caſe, Anno 12. Car. I. And ſince that time (ſome Years before the Earl-Marſhal's Patent was granted) in [o] two Chapters of the Order, the Great Seal or other Seal is accounted ineffectual, and over-ruled in Vindication of the Honour and Privileges of the moſt noble Order of the Garter. And ſeeing the  Reſtraint is now thus put upon the Great Seal, Garter henceforward ought to have his Patent for the Office of Garter under the Seal of the Order only; and that other for his Penſion as King of Arms under the Great Seal; for he needs no Great Seal to make him King of Arms, that Dignity he receives by Creation.

Nor did any Officer of Arms [p] receive any Benefit or Profit in the Office of Arms, till he had taken his Oath and had his Creation; which being paſt, he had immediate Title to his Fees, tho' he have no Patent; of which there are many Inſtances.

III. It appears before, that the Sovereign, with Conſent of the Knights of the Order, inſtituted the Office of Garter; and that Garter hath been always ſworn [q] in Chapter, and received his Habit, Badge, Privilege, and Penſion from the Sovereign; which being ſo, his Succeſſors ought undoubtedly to nominate upon a Vacancy, unleſs a Relinquiſhment of this Privilege be produced from the ſame Authority that erected the Office; for it will not be enough, for the Earl-Marſhal to ſhew that his Predeceſſors have nominated Garter to be principal King of Arms; but he muſt ſhew that they firſt nominated him Garter.

IV. If Garter had been heretofore accounted the Earl-Marſhal's Officer, it would ſomewhere appear that his Predeceſſors had made Rules and Orders for Garter to walk by, touching his Employments within the Order (becauſe they have frequently done that, as he is King of Arms, and a Member of the Heralds College.) But neither does Garter execute any part of his Office as Garter within the College of Arms; nor as he is King of Arms doth he any thing within the Order.

And here may be noted, that the King's Declaration 15 June, 1673. for aſſerting the Earl-Marſhal's Juriſdiction in many enumerated Particulars, extends to Officers and Things within the Office of Earl-Marſhal only, and particularly to Garter as King of Arms, and not otherwiſe. And the Earl-Marſhal his Order, 17 June, 1673. for Garter's bringing his Books, Rolls and Papers, into the Office of Arms, relates only to ſuch wherein he is concern'd as King of Arms, and not to such as concern the Order of the Garter.

V. The Case concerning an Officer peculiarly appointed to the Service of the Order, to whom ever since his Institution the Office of King of Arms hath always follow'd of Course, and hitherto never disjoin'd nor separated; why may not the Sovereign, after he hath chosen a Person to the Office of Garter, impose upon the Earl-Marshal to recommend him King of Arms? This will be no strange thing if it be consider'd, that the Office of King of Arms was at first annexed to Garter, and that by the Sovereign and Knights Companions: And also that it is a declar'd Prerogative belonging to the Sovereign within the Order, that he can, and doth impose [r] upon the Knights Companions Nomination of such foreign Kings and Princes to his Election, as he shall please.

Besides, the Order of the Garter is in the Nature of a distinct Sovereignty [s] govern'd by Laws and Assemblies of its own, and wholly independent from other Laws: And that the King, as Sovereign, in Matters and Things relating thereunto, hath sole and absolute Power in altering, changing, and [t] explaining; himself being the supreme Law and Interpreter thereof, and consequently no Grant can prescribe or bound the Sovereign, who hath the [u] Regulation of the whole as his undoubted Privilege.

It may be further objected, that Garter hath been always chosen from among the Officers, and therefore he that is not an Officer there, ought not to be admitted Garter.

That Garter hath been always so chosen is deny'd; for John Smert, second Garter, was no Officer in the College of Arms, before he obtain'd the Office of Garter. And Sir Tho. [x] Wriothesley was neither King of Arms, nor Herald, nor Pursuivant pertaining to the King (only Pursuivant to the Prince, which was next to no Officer) before he was made Garter.

But it follows not, that because the Sovereign hath for the most part been pleas'd to chuse his Garter out of the Society, that therefore he is of Necessity oblig'd still to do so, in Case he hath greater inducing Reasons to the contrary.

King Hen. V. (Garter's Founder) saith expressly that Garter shall be [y] Sovereign of the Office of Arms. And King Hen. VIII. That he shall be [z] chief of the Officers of Arms. But no where it is said that he shall be chosen from among that Society; for the Office of Garter is not fix'd upon the Officers of Arms; but the Office of King of Arms is annex'd unto that of Garter. But if the King were oblig'd to chuse Garter from among the Officers of Arms, it were but making him (whom he intends for Garter) a Pursuivant over Night, and chusing him to be Garter the next Morning.

Besides, Garter's Qualifications are there set down; to be a Gentleman of Blood, and of Arms, and of clear Reputation, * which if any one want, (if he be an Officer of Arms) the Law of the Order doth absolutely prohibit his Election.

Wherefore, if another Person be as knowing in the Ceremonies of the Order, and qualified for the Employment as the Statutes require, what can hinder but that the Sovereign may nominate him thereto, if he please?

He has allow'd him a rich Coat and Crown, Lodgings in the College of Arms, a Pension out of the Exchequer, and likewise Fees.

There have been many Remonſtrances between Garter and theſe provincial Kings concerning their particular Prerogatives: In which each Party has been ſo partial in his own Cauſe, that it is no eaſy matter to ſay what was each King's Right. Garter was for granting and confirming Arms, whilſt Clarencieux and Norroy inſiſted upon it as their Privilege only; with many other Things too tedious to name. But theſe Matters have been ſince regulated by the Earl-Marſhal, who has ſo ordain'd, that to all new Grants, Garter ſhall firſt ſign and ſeal; and then the King of that Province in which the Receiver lives, and both have their Fees. But either Clarencieux or Norroy may give a Confirmation, without being compell'd to have Garter's Aſſiſtance.

Heralds, though by their Place created Esquires (which is as much as a King of Arms is by his) were ever Gentlemen of a less Account than those Kings of Arms. Their adjunct Titles shew that anciently they attended on Noble Personages, Peers of the Realm in Martial Expeditions, &c. But tho' as such they had divers Privileges, yet had they not such as pertained to the Kings of Arms, or Heralds of the Sovereign. At this time, and for many Years, the Heralds chief Function is to assist with the Kings of Arms in performing the Ceremonies of all Coronations, publick Installations, Processions, Creations, Festivals, Funerals, and other Solemnities; at all which they must be habited in their respective Ornaments of Dignity and Office, as you may more clearly perceive in the following Orders, viz.

* Ashmole's Patent for Windsor Herald.

Orders

Orders to be obſerved and kept by the Officers of Arms, made by the High and Mighty Prince Thomas Duke of Norfolk, Earl-Marſhal of England, Anno 1568, the 18*th Day of* July, in the 10*th Year of the Reign of Queen* Elizabeth.

WHEREAS before this Time, the *Earls-Marſhals of England have not only had the nomination and placing of all the Kings, Heralds, and Purſuivants of Arms into their ſeveral Offices, but alſo further Authority by Vertue of the ſaid Office of Earl-Marſhal, to make Orders and Statutes to be obſerved and kept by the ſaid ſeveral Officers of Arms, as the ſaid Earl-Marſhals ſhall think more meet and convenient; not only binding them to obſerve their Duties to their Prince and Country, according to their ſeveral Oaths taken at what Time as they were created and made Officers of Arms, but alſo further to enjoin them to ſuch Orders to be obſerved and kept amongſt themſelves, as every one of them may do their Duties one to another, according to his Place and Ancientry in the ſaid Office of Arms. Wherefore upon divers and ſundry good Conſiderations, and for the taking away of ſundry Abuſes and Diſcords, which are and do daily increaſe amongſt the ſaid Officers of Arms, and for the better increaſe of Learning and Knowledge, to be henceforth had and continued in the ſaid Office of Arms, and to the Intent that they thereby may be the more able to ſerve well in their Vocation and Calling in the Times of Peace and War; It is therefore order'd and decreed by the High and Mighty Prince Thomas Duke of Norfolk, now Earl-Marſhal of England, That theſe Orders and Statutes hereafter following ſhall be inviolably kept and obſerved by the ſaid Kings, Heralds, and Purſuivants of Arms, in every Clauſe, Article, and Sentence, according to the true Content and Meaning of the ſame.

I. † It is ordered and decreed by the ſaid Earl-Marſhal, That the Houſe commonly call'd Darby-Houſe in London, and now the College of Heralds, ſhall be ſeverally divided amongſt the Kings, Heralds, and Purſuivants of Arms, in ſuch Sort as they themſelves ſhall agree upon in their Chapter by the moſt Voices. Provided always, that the lower Room in the ſaid Houſe, lying on the South Side of the Gate (wherein at preſent the Records of the Office of Arms do remain) ſhall ſo ſtill continue as a Library or Office for the ſafe Cuſtody and Preſervation of the ſaid Records.

II. Item, ‖ It is order'd and decreed by the ſaid Earl-Marſhal, That all ſuch Records, Rolls, Books and Pedigrees, as at this Preſent are remaining in the ſaid Library, or hereafter are to be brought to the ſame, ſhall ſo ſtill remain as Records of the ſaid Office; not to be taken thence by any of the ſaid Officers of Arms, nor any one of them, without the Conſent and Aſſent of the Three Kings of Arms for the Time being, or Two of them at the leaſt, whereof Garter to be one. Provided alſo, that at what Time as either Clarencieux or Norroy, or their Deputies for the Time being, ſhall make his or their Viſitations according to their Oaths taken at their Creations; it ſhall be lawful for any of them to take forth of the ſaid Library ſuch of the ſame Books and Records as ſhall be needful and neceſſary for their ſaid Viſitations. Provided always, that the ſaid Kings of Arms ſhall be bound to bring again into the ſaid Office of Arms immediately after his or their ſaid Viſitations all the ſame Books, as alſo the Gatherings of their ſaid Viſitations.

III. Item, †† It is further order'd and decreed by the ſaid Earl-Marſhal, That for a more certain ſure and true keeping of the Records in the ſaid Library and Office of Arms, no Perſon ſhall have any Entry or Recourſe into the ſaid Office or Library, without one Officer of Arms to be there preſent with him. But that for the avoiding of all Inconveniencies that may otherwiſe happen, certain of the Company of the Office ſhall continually give Attendance in the ſaid Office or Library by the Month, in this Manner, viz. The eldeſt Herald and Purſuivant ſhall begin to attend within the ſaid Office or Library from the firſt Day of the Month, and there continue at convenient Times till the laſt Day of the ſame Month incluſive; which ended, the ſecond Herald and next Purſuivant ſhall begin to attend likewiſe for the next Month; and ſo the Reſidue to follow in Order and Ancientry, until that they have all gone through; and then they to begin again, and ſo to continue the ſame Order for ever. And furthermore, the ſaid Heralds and Purſuivants, that ſo ſhall give Attendance, ſhall alſo do their Diligence in the Abſence of the Kings of Arms, to anſwer all ſuch as ſhall have to do in the Office any otherwiſe. Provided always, that they ſo attending ſhall not deliver out of the ſaid Library, or Office, or otherwiſe, any Arms, Creſts, or Pedigrees; or otherwiſe enter into any Book of Record any Arms, Creſts, or Pedigrees; or alter any Record without the Conſent of the three Kings of Arms, or of one of them at the leaſt. And all ſuch Sums of Money as ſhall ariſe, grow, and be obtained in the ſaid Library or Office, by way of Search, Pedigree, or ſuch like, ſhall be put into a common Cheſt; and at the End of every Month ſhall be divided and diſtributed in like Manner as the Prince's Largeſſes are at this preſent, and wont to be. Provided always, that there ſhall be no Pedigree ſet forth, or made in the Office, nor without the Office, without the Conſent of the three Kings of Arms jointly together; or two of them at the leaſt, whereof Garter to be one. The Profits thereof to be divided as followeth. Provided always, that it ſhall be lawful for the two Kings of Arms Clarencieux and Norroy, or either of them, in their Viſitations, to make or ſet forth in Paper only, ſuch Matches of Deſcents of any Gentlemen as they ſhall take Notes of in their Viſitations; ſo that to the ſame Deſcents, they, nor any of them ſhall not ſubſcribe their Names. And if any of the ſaid Officers do at any Time hereafter make, or ſet forth any Pedigree of

* The Earl-Marſhal's Authority to ſet Orders among the Officers of Arms.
† Diviſion to be made of the College of Arms, as by Chapter they ſhall agree.
‖ The Records to be kept in the Library, and not to be carried thence, but by the Conſent of the three Kings of Arms.
†† Attendance to be given monthly in the Library by the Heralds and Purſuivants, according to their Ancientry.

Deſcent,

Deſcent, to any Perſon or Perſons, contrary to the Meaning and Intent hereof, Then it is agreed by the ſaid Earl-Marſhal, that he, or they ſo doing, ſhall loſe all the Profit and Dividend that may riſe unto him or them by Vertue of the ſame Office. It is therefore further agreed, that he that ſhall travail to ſet forth any Deſcent, in ſuch Order as is aforeſaid, ſhall have in Conſideration of his Pains, his double Part thereof, according to his Degree in the ſaid Office.

IV. Item, *It is order'd and decreed by the ſaid Earl-Marſhal, that Garter ſhall be reputed and taken as the Chief and Principal King of Arms; and that he ſhall have the chief Preheminence, Place, and Voice before all other Officers of Arms in all their Chapters and Aſſemblies; the proclaiming of the Queen's Majeſty's Style, and alſo all other Styles of Honour; the bearing of Letters Patents at the Creations of all Noblemen, and their Gowns that they wear before their Creations; his Place with the Judges in all Juſts, Triumphs, and Tournaments Royal, as the other Kings of Arms have; the Certificates of the Elections and Deaths of all Knights of the Honourable Order of the Garter, and their Gowns at their Inſtallations: And alſo, the placing of the Lords in Parliament and all other Aſſemblies of Honour, with all Fees thereunto belonging. And further it is order'd, that † Garter, Clarencieux, and Norroy, or any of them, according to the ancient Order amongſt the Officers of Arms, ſhall have the only ſummoning and calling of Chapters, to be holden by the ſaid Officers of Arms at the College aforeſaid. And that no Chapter ſhall be hereafter holden by the ſaid Officers of Arms, except there be preſent at the ſaid Chapter the three Kings of Arms, if ſo many of them be living, and four Heralds; to the Intent that no Matter may be there ended without the Aſſent and Conſent of eight Voices, whereof the Voice of every King of Arms ſhall be accounted and taken for two Voices, according to the laudable Cuſtom of ancient Time uſed in the ſaid Office of Arms. Provided always, that it ſhall not be lawful for the ſaid Officers of Arms, in any of their Chapters aforeſaid, to make any Ordinance, Article, or Decree which ſhall be contrary or not agreeable with any part of theſe Orders herein ſpecified.

V. Item, ‖ It is order'd and decreed by the ſaid Earl-Marſhal, That for the better Increaſe of Learning and Knowledge to be henceforth had and continued in the ſaid Office of Arms, and Fellows of the ſame; and to the Intent that they thereby may be more able to ſerve well in their Vocation in Times both of Peace and War: It is therefore decreed, that the three Kings of Arms, as Occaſion ſhall ſerve, ſhall hold and keep a Chapter for the only debating and diſcuſſing of ſuch Doubts, Queſtions, and Controverſies, as by Poſſibilty may riſe and grow, not only upon the Bearing, Uſing, Pailing or Quartering of any Arms or Enſigns of Honour, or upon the Deſcents or Pedigree of any Noble or Gentle Perſonages; but alſo of the right Uſage and Ceremonies to be obſerved at Coronations, Creations, Funerals, and all other ſuch like Solemnities and Aſſemblies of Honour and Worthineſs: And of the Laws, Ordinances, and Orders of the Field; and of the ſummoning of Towns and Holds; the taking, uſing, and ranſoming of Priſoners: As alſo, of their doing of Meſſages, or giving of Defiances; as of their Behaviours and Demeanours in the proclaiming or uttering of any Thing that may be given them in Charge to declare, utter, pronounce or do to any foreign Potentate. As alſo the receiving, entertaining, placing and Service of Ambaſſadors, or any other foreign Eſtate; and generally of all other Things appertaining to their Office. In which Chapter this Order ſhall be uſed and kept.

VI. That every Purſuivant and Herald of Arms, (beginning with the youngeſt of the ſaid Office, and ſo proceeding in due Order, at one Chapter a Purſuivant and at the next a Herald) ſhall after the Officers of Arms aſſembled and ſet in their Places, ſtanding before them put forth three Caſes or Queſtions, which by Poſſibility may chance to happen upon any of the aforeſaid Matters. And after the Caſes or Queſtions ſo propounded, and by them heard and well underſtood; the Kings of Arms ſhall chooſe and appoint, whether of the three Caſes they will have argued and debated in that Chapter. Whereupon the ſaid Herald or Purſuivant that putteth the ſaid Caſes ſhall firſt of all plainly and diſtinctly declare what he thinketh thereof, and what Reaſons and Authorities have moved him to be of that Mind and Opinion. And then every Purſuivant, Herald, and King of Arms, (beginning at the youngeſt, and ſo proceeding in due Order) ſhall in like ſort declare what their Opinions are in the ſame Caſe; to the Intent that being thus exerciſed by Conference and Conſultations amongſt themſelves, they may, as good Officers, be the more able and ready to do their Duties and Service to their Prince and Country; upon Pain that every of the Officers of Arms making Default of ſuch Meetings, Aſſemblies, for Exerciſe of Learning, and not being lawfully letted by the Prince's Service or other Cauſe reaſonable, ſhall forfeit ſuch Summs of Money as ſhall be thought meet in their ſaid Chapter.

VII. Item, It is alſo order'd and decreed by the ſaid Earl-Marſhal, That Clarencieux and Norroy within their ſeveral Provinces ſhall have the diſpoſing and ordering of all Combats, fighting in Liſts, bearing of Banners, crying of Juſts and Prizes, and their Places with the Judges in all Juſts, Triumphs, and Tournaments, with all Fees and Commodities thereunto belonging; ſaving and reſerving to the other Officers of Arms ſuch accuſtomed Fees and Droicts as heretofore they had and enjoy'd.

VIII. Item, †† It is alſo order'd and decreed by the ſaid Earl-Marſhal, That Sir Gilbert Dethick, Kt. otherwiſe called Garter Principal King of Arms, ſhall have the ordering, marſhalling, and ſetting forth of the Burials of all ſuch Noble and Honourable Perſonages, as now are, or at any Time hereafter ſhall be, of the Honourable Order of the Garter, and their Wives; in ſuch ſort as his Predeceſſors in the Office of Garter have heretofore had and enjoyed. And that he ſhall further have the Burials of all the Nobles, being Peers of this Realm, and of the High Court of Parliament and their Wives; with the two Archbiſhops of Canterbury and York, and the Biſhop of Wincheſter only. As alſo the ordering and ſetting forth of the Burials of the Heirs Apparent of all Dukes, Marqueſſes, Earls, and their Wives. And it is further order'd, that he the ſaid Garter ſhall take to ſerve with him at the Funerals of the aforeſaid Noble and Honourable Perſonages, firſt Clarencieux and then Norroy, Kings of Arms; and ſo ſucceſſively one after another, the Heralds and Purſuivants of Arms in Order, according to their Ancientry and Degree in Office. And ſo to begin again.

IX. Item, * It is alſo order'd and decreed by the ſaid Earl-Marſhal, that Clarencieux and Norroy ſhall within their ſeveral Provinces have the only ordering, marſhalling and ſetting forth of the Funerals of all other Gentle and Noble Perſonages, viz. that is to ſay all Eſtates from a Baron downwards (except Knights of the Order, and their Wives) without the Lett or Interruption of any other Officers of Arms. And the ſaid Clarencieux and Norroy ſhall take to ſerve with them at the ſaid Funerals (as Occaſion ſhall ſerve, and as the Place ſhall require) other the Heralds and Purſuivants of Arms ſucceſſively, one after another in order, according to their Ancientry and Degree in Office. It is alſo order'd, that Norroy King of Arms ſhall have a Turn at the Funerals in the Province of Clarencieux among the ſaid Heralds and Purſuivants, as the eldeſt Herald. It is moreover order'd and decreed by the ſaid Earl-Marſhal, that if it ſhall fortune any of the Kings of Arms to be in the Prince's Service, in Viſitation, or Sickneſs, or otherwiſe abſent; that then one of the ſaid Kings of Arms to be the other's Deputy, as tho' he himſelf were there preſent. And further it is order'd and decreed, that if it fortune any of the ſaid Heralds or Purſuivants to be viſited with Sickneſs, that then it ſhall be lawful for every of them in Time of Sickneſs to aſſign his Deputy to ſerve for him at any ſuch Funeral; which Deputy ſhall be accountable to him of all Droicts and Commodities, received or had for any ſuch Funerals. Provided alſo, that the ſaid Deputy ſo ſerving, ſhall be allowed his reaſonable Charges of him then being ſick; any Thing in theſe Articles to the contrary notwithſtanding. Provided always, that at what Time as any of the ſaid Heralds or Purſuivants ſhall ſerve at any of the Funerals aforeſaid, the King of Arms not being preſent thereat, the ſaid Heralds or Purſuivants ſo ſerving, ſhall within one Month next after the Funeral, pay to the Kings of Arms to whom it ſhall appertain, ſuch ordinary Fees as at this preſent are uſed, or heretofore have been accuſtomed.

X. Item, † It is alſo order'd and decreed by the ſaid Earl-Marſhal, That every King of Arms, Herald, and Purſuivant that ſhall ſerve at any Funeral, as is aforeſaid, ſhall bring into the Library or Office of Arms a true and certain Certificate, under the Hands of the Executors and Mourners that ſhall be preſent at the ſaid Funeral, containing the Day of the Death, the Place of the Burial of the Perſon ſo deceaſed; and alſo, to whom he or ſhe married; what Iſſue they had, what Years they were of at the Time of the ſaid Burial, and to whom they were married; to the Intent that the ſaid Certificate may be Regiſter'd, and to remain as a perpetual Record in the ſaid Office for ever.

XI. Item, ‖ It is alſo order'd and decreed by the ſaid Earl-Marſhal, That from henceforth there ſhall be no new Arms granted to any Perſon, or Perſons, without the Conſent thereunto of the Earl-Marſhal had. Provided always, that it ſhall be lawful for Garter, Clarencieux, and Norroy, and every of them jointly together to give new Creſts, and for Confirmations as ever heretofore they have done; the Profits whereof to be equally divided amongſt them three, ſo as no other Officer of Arms ſhall intermeddle or have to do with the ſaid Grants of new Arms, Creſts, and Confirmations, or receiving any Part of the Commodities riſing thereof; for that the ſame Droicts have always been due to the ſaid three Kings of Arms ever heretofore, and to no other Officer of Arms, as may appear by all old Precedents in the Office. And that no Patents of Arms be granted, unleſs the Hands of the three Kings of Arms be thereunto ſubſcribed, the Profit whereof to be equally divided amongſt them three.

XII. Item, †† It is alſo order'd and decreed by the ſaid Earl-Marſhal, That the three Kings of Arms, Garter, Clarencieux, and Norroy ſhall yearly, within one Month next after the Feaſt of St. Andrew the Apoſtle, bring and deliver to the ſaid Earl-Marſhal, or his Deputy appointed for that Purpoſe, at Howard-Houſe in London, one Book, containing a true Copy and Tract of all ſuch Patents and Grants of new Arms as have been granted by the ſaid Kings of Arms, or any of them, within one Year next before the bringing in of the ſame Book; which Book ſhall be intituled and called the Earl-Marſhal's Book; to the Intent that it may ſo appear unto him what new Arms have been given the ſame Year.

XIII. Item,  It is alſo order'd and decreed by the ſaid Earl-Marſhal, That the three Kings of Arms, Garter, Clarencieux, and Norroy may make, appoint, ſubſtitute and ordain the one of them to be the other's Deputy, in Times of their being in the Prince's Service, in Viſitation or Sickneſs, or otherwiſe abſent; as concerning Funerals, and other Functions in the Office of Arms, in every Thing, or Things, as if they themſelves were there preſent; any Article, Statute, Ordinance or Cuſtom heretofore made and uſed to the contrary notwithſtanding.

XIV. Item, It is order'd and decreed by the ſaid Earl-Marſhal, That all Statutes, Orders, and Decrees heretofore had or made ſhall be clearly taken away and of none Effect, after the Date of theſe preſent Orders. In Witneſs whereof I the ſaid Earl-Marſhal have to theſe Preſents ſubſcribed my Hand, and thereunto ſet the Seal of my Arms the Day and Year aboveſaid.

Viſitations which are perform'd by the Provincial Kings of Arms, &c. are in the Nature of the Circuits of our Judges. For as theſe take the Kingdom round for the Adminſtration of Juſtice, at ſuch and ſuch particular Times, ſo do thoſe, and there inquire into all Matters concerning Nobility and Gentility; ſuch as Arms, Creſts, Pedigrees, Titles, or Deſignations, &c. taking ſtill as they go Cognizance of all, and degrading Interlopers and Upſtarts. The Time allotted for theſe Viſitations was once in about thirty Years, becauſe then it is ſuppos'd every one might readily bring Proofs without too much Trouble to either the King of Arms or himself; it being a Time within Memory, whereas much longer Time would exceed Memory, and might endanger other Evidences being lost. The Reason urg'd by our Kings of Arms for not continuing this excellent Custom (as I'm inform'd) is from the continued Disturbances of the State, which has employ'd, either in Services Abroad, or at least from their Seats very many of our Gentry. Yet methinks these resident being so numerous above the rest, I could wish that they had been taken; for Visitations are never in Parliament sitting.

But tho' these Provincial Kings have Power specified in their Patents, not only to grant Arms, &c. but to enjoy all the Power, Prerogative, Fees and Privileges of their Predecessors, whereby they should seem authoriz'd to make Visitations, to demolish unwarrantable Monuments at their Pleasure; yet have they always a special Commission for visiting their Province, as you will see by that of Mr. Dugdale, Norroy, now following.

*CHARLES the Second, by the Grace of God King of England, Scotland, France and Ireland, Defender of the Faith, &c. To our trusty and well-beloved Servant William Dugdale, Esq; Norroy King of Arms of the North-East and West Part of our Realm of England, from the River of Trent Northward, and to all our loving Subjects greeting. Forasmuch as God of his great Clemency and Goodness hath committed to our Empire and Government the Nobility, People and Commons, of this our Realm of England, and other our Dominions; We minding of our Royal Power and absolute Authority to visit, survey, and view throughout all our Realms of England, and other our Dominions, as well for a due Order to be kept and observ'd in all Things touching the Office and Duties appertaining to Arms. As also for Reformation of divers and sundry Abuses and Disorders daily arising and growing for want of ordinary Visitations, Surveys, and Views in Times convenient, according to the ancient Form and laudable Customs of the Laws of Arms. And that the Nobility and Gentry of this our Realm may be preserved in every Degree, as appertaineth as well in Honour as in Worship. And that every Person and Persons, Bodies Politick, Corporate and others may be the better known in his and their Estate, Degree, and Mystery, without Confusion or Disorder; have therefore constituted, deputed, ordained and appointed for Us, and in our Name, our said trusty and well-beloved Servant William Dugdale, Esq; Norroy King of Arms, of the North-East and West Parts of our Realm of England, from the said River of Trent Northward, by himself or his sufficient Deputy or Deputies, under the Seal of his Office deputed and authoriz'd, to visit all the said Province, and all North-Wales, and all the Parts and Members appertaining to the Office and Charge of the said Norroy King of Arms, according to the Laws of Arms, from Time to Time, as often and when he shall think most meet and convenient for the same. And to convent and call before him the said Norroy, or his Deputy or Deputies, at such certain Places and convenient Time as he, his Deputy or Deputies shall appoint, all manner of Person or Persons that do or pretend to bear Arms, or are styl'd Esquires or Gentlemen, within all the aforesaid Parts of our Realm of England and North-Wales, and to cause all such Person or Persons then and there to produce and shew forth by what Authority and Right they do challenge and claim the same. And we do hereby further grant to our said Servant and his Deputy and Deputies, full Power, Licence and Authority, not only to enter upon reasonable Request and at reasonable Times of the Day into all Churches, Castles, Houses and other Places at his or their Discretion, to peruse and take Knowledge, Survey and View of all Manner of Arms, Cognizances, Crests, and other Divises of all and singular our Subjects, as well Bodies Politick as others within all the aforesaid part of our Realm of England and North-Wales, of what Dignity, Degree, Estate or Mystery soever they be of, lawfully authorized to have, use or bear any such Arms, Cognizances, Crests or other Devises, with the Notes of their Descents, Pedigrees, Marriage and Issue; and the same to enter on a Record in a Register or Book of Arms, according to such Order as is prescribed and set forth in the Office, Charge and Oath taken by our said Servant at his Creation and Coronation. And also to correct, controul and reform all Manner of Arms, Crests, Cognizances, and Devises unlawful or unlawfully usurped, born or taken by any manner of Person, or Persons, within all the said Province and North Wales aforesaid, contrary to the due Order of the Law of Arms: And the same to reverse, pull down, or otherwise to deface at his or their Discretion; as well in Coat, Arms, Helms, Banners, Standard, Pennons, and Hatchments of Tents and Pavilions. As also in Plate, Jewels, Paper, Parchment, Windows, Grave-Stones, Tombs or Monuments, or elsewhere, wheresoever they be placed or set; whether they be in Shield, Escocheon, Lozenge, Square, Roundel or otherwise, contrary to the ancient Laws, Customs, Rules, Privileges, and Orders of Arms. And further We by these Presents do give and grant to the said Norroy, his Deputy and Deputies, full Power and Authority to reprove, controul and make infamous by Proclamation (to be made at the Assizes or General Sessions within the same his Province and within North-Wales aforesaid, to be had and kept, or at any other Place or Places as he or they shall think most fit and convenient) all and all manner of Person and Persons, that unlawfully or without just Authority, Vocation or due Calling, do or have done, or shall usurp or take upon him or them any manner of Title of Honour, Dignity, or Worship, as Esquire, Gentleman, or other. And likewise to reform and controul all such as at any Funerals or Interments shall use or wear any mourning Apparel, as Gowns, Hoods, Tippets, or such like, contrary to the Order limited and prescribed in the Time of the most noble Prince, King Henry VII. otherwise or in any other sort than to their Estates and Degrees doth or shall appertain. And that no manner of Person or Persons shall at any solemn Funeral, or other Interment of any Person of Quality, or otherwise within the aforesaid Province and part of North-Wales, furnish, supply and accomodate the said Funerals or Interments with any Palls of Velvet, without the special Licence of our said Servant, or such other of our Officers of Arms unto who mby reason of their Offices it shall appertain, or his Deputy or Deputies, first had and obtained. And furthermore by these Presents We prohibit, forbid, and straitly command that no Painter, Glasier, Goldsmith, Graver, or any other Artificer whatsoever he or they be, within the said Province of the said Norroy and parts of North-Wales, shall take upon them to paint, grave, glase, devise or set forth by any Ways or Means any manner of Arms, Crests, Cognizances, Pedigrees, or other Devises appertaining to the Office of Arms, or in any other Form or Manner than they may lawfully do and shall be allowed by the said Norroy, his Deputy or Deputies, according to the ancient Laws and Statutes of Arms. And We forbid, and ſtraitly command all our Sheriffs, Commiſſioners, Archdeacons, Officials, Commiſſaries, Scriveners, Clerks, Writers, or any other whatſoever they be, to call, name, or write in any Aſſize, Seſſions, Court, or other open Place or Places; or elſe to give or uſe in any Writing the Addition of Eſq; or Gentleman to or for any manner of Perſon or Perſons whatſoever, unleſs they be able to ſtand unto, or juſtify the ſame by the Law of Arms of our Realm; or elſe to be aſcertained thereof by Advertiſement in Writing from the ſaid Norroy King of Arms, or his Deputy or Deputies reſpectively. And further, We ſtraitly charge and command that no other Perſon or Perſons ſhall intromit or meddle in any Thing or Things touching and concerning the Office of Arms, within the ſaid Province and Parts of North-Wales, without the ſpecial Licence and Authority of the ſaid Norroy in Writing, under the Seal of the ſaid Office, firſt had and obtained from the ſaid Norroy (the Right of Garter, principal King of Arms, in and concerning the ſaid Office of Garter always to him ſaved and reſerved.) All which ſaid Power, Preheminence, Juriſdiction, and Authority above ſpecify'd for Us, our Heirs and Succeſſors, We do give and grant by theſe Preſents to the ſaid William Dugdale, Eſq; Norroy King of Arms, his Deputy or Deputies, ſo long as he ſhall continue, or be in the ſaid Office of Norroy King of Arms, of the North-Eaſt and Weſt Parts of our Realm of England, in as large and ample Manner and Form, in any Thing and Things, as any of his Predeceſſors, or any other bearing the Name and Title of Norroy have, or had, did, or might do, by force of any Letters Patents, granted by any of Our Predeceſſors to them or any of them; or as of Right he or they, or any other ought, or might have uſed to do or exerciſe by Force of his ſaid Office; together with all manner of Fees, Droicts, Profits, Advantages and Emoluments whatſoever thereunto belonging, or due and accuſtomed for the ſame. Wherefore We will, and ſtraitly charge and command all and ſingular Our Juſtices, Mayors, Sheriffs, Bailiffs, and all other Our Officers, Miniſters, and Conſtables; and all and every our loving Subjects, That in Execution of the Premiſes they effectually employ their beſt Aid, Aſſiſtance, Furtherance, and Councels to Our ſaid Servant, his Deputy or Deputies, ſo often and when, as he, or any of them ſhall require the ſame, in all that they conveniently may, and as they tender Our Favour, and will anſwer the contrary at their Perils. And further, by theſe Preſents we do authorize our ſaid Servant to nominate and appoint, under the Seal of his ſaid Office, ſo many Deputy or Deputies reſpectively, as ſhall be thought expedient for the better Execution of all and ſingular the Premiſes. And if there happen to fall out in the Viſitation of Our ſaid Servant, his Deputy or Deputies, any manner of Scruple, Doubt, Queſtion, or Miſdemeanour of any Perſon or Perſons whatſoever, that cannot be conveniently decided or ended by Our ſaid Servant, or by ſuch Deputy or Deputies, or Attornies, as he under the Seal of his ſaid Office ſhall name and appoint; Then Our Will and Pleaſure is, that our ſaid Servant, or ſuch Deputy or Deputies, or Attornies, (named as is aforeſaid) ſhall command ſuch Perſon or Perſons, whom the ſaid Queſtion, Scruple, or Miſdemeanour ſhall concern, under a certain Pain, and at a certain Day to appear before the Earl-Marſhal of England for the time being, before whom the ſaid Scruple, Queſtion or Miſdemeanour ſhall be heard and ordered, according to the Laws and Cuſtoms of Arms in that Caſe provided, and of antient Time uſed; any Law, Proclamation, Cuſtom, or Uſage to the contrary, in any wiſe, notwithſtanding. In Witneſs whereof We have cauſed theſe our Letters to be made Patents. Witneſs Ourſelf at Weſtminſter, the ſeventh Day of July, in the fourteenth Year of Our Reign.

This Commiſſion being acquir'd, the King of Arms, or his Marſhal, i. e. Deputy, ſets out upon his Survey, accompanied with ſuch other Officers of the College as he ſhall ſuppoſe neceſſary, together with a Painter to make Draughts of ſuch Monuments, Arms, &c. as he ſhall have Occaſion to take Notice of; ſending his Circular Warrants to the Bailiffs of the ſeveral Hundreds or Wards in the County he intends to viſit firſt; requiring them to be aiding and aſſiſting in their Place, to ſummons all ſuch Gentlemen, or reputed Gentlemen, as are reſident in his Hundred or Ward. The Form of which Warrant, together with a Recommendation from the Biſhop and Chancellor of the Dioceſe, I have thought meet to inſert.

To Robert Maſtby, Bailiff of the Ward of Cheſter.

* THESE are to require you, and in the King's Majeſty's Name to charge and command you forthwith upon Sight hereof, to warn thoſe Knights, Eſquires, and Gentlemen, whoſe Names are under-written, and all the reſt within your Ward, as well thoſe that aſſume the Titles as others, perſonally to appear before me Richard St. George, Norroy King of Arms, on Thurſday being the 24th Day of Auguſt next, at Widow Hudſpithes in Clapitt-Street within the City of Dureſme; (where I intend to ſit for the regiſtring of the Knights, Eſquires, and Gentlemen within your Ward) and that they bring with them ſuch Arms and Creſts as they now uſe and bear, with their Pedigrees and Deſcents, and ſuch of their Evidences and ancient Writings, as if need require, may juſtify the ſame; that I knowing how they uſe and challenge thoſe Titles, and bear their Arms, may make Entrance of the ſame accordingly. But if I ſhall not hear from them upon this Notice by you given, then theſe Contempts will enforce me to proceed as my Commiſſion appointeth in ſuch Caſes; not only to adjourn thoſe that be Gentlemen to anſwer the ſame, before the Lords and Commiſſioners for the Office of Earl-Marſhal of England on a Day prefix'd; but alſo to diſclaim and make infamous by Proclamation all ſuch as ſhall refuſe to make Proof of their Gentry, having uſurp'd the Title thereof without juſt Authority, and juſt Calling. Of all theſe things charge them not to fail, as they will avoid the further Peril and Trouble that may enſue. Dated at Dureſme this 14th Day of Auguſt, 1615.

And should it so happen, that any the Receivers of such Summons or Notice by the Bailiff (regardless of the King's special Patent or Commission under the Broad Seal of England) should shew such Contempt as to refuse their Attendance; then is the King of Arms to summon such Refusers to attend personally the Earl-Marshal himself in his proper Court at a particular Time, then and there to answer for the said Contempt. The Form of this Summons you may see in the Copy of a real one.

To John Lister, Bailiff of Easington-Ward.

* FOrasmuch as you whose Names are underwritten, have shewed yourselves obstinate and contemptuous against the King's Commission and Authority, in refusing to make your Appearance before me at Durham, where I lately sat for the registring of such Gentlemen as are resident within your Ward, according to such Warning as was given you by the Bailiff thereof: I must therefore proceed as my Commission enjoineth me in such Cases of Contempt. These are therefore in his Majesty's Name strictly to charge and command you, and every of you, that you make your Personal Appearance before the Lords Commissioners for the Office of Earl Marshal of England, on the first Day of November next, there to answer, and shew just Cause of this your Disobedience and Contempt; thereof fail you not, as you will avoid the Forfeiture of 50*l.* a piece to his Majesty, and the further Peril and Trouble that by any of your Contempts may ensue.

Dated at Duresme this 22*d of* August, 1615. RICHARD ST. GEORGE, NORROY King of Arms.

The King of Arms, upon a Visitation, is allowed to take with him out of the Office such Books, and prior Visitations, as concern or relate to the Counties he intends to visit, which always lie open before him, whenever he sits to do Business; and generally contain fair Pedigrees of such Gentry as have been resident any considerable time in the County. By this means neither have much Trouble; one, two, or at the most three Descents being often sufficient to clear a Title; which Descents may be justified by the Church Register.

And for such Gentlemen, &c. that having transplanted themselves thither from any other Quarter of the Kingdom (provided either by their Name, or any other Inductive, the King of Arms is inclined to believe them Gentlemen) should not have any attested Pedigree, Escutcheon, &c. nor yet otherwise sufficient to prove a prescribed Right; yet may they enter themselves, and as many Generations upwards as they can clear, together with such Arms as they have used; but the latter must in a Note have their Title respited, till a further Proof thereof be brought; which those Gentlemen are left to bring at the Visitation of the Country out of which they came, or by sending for such Accounts out of the College Registers of those Parts, and by sending to those Parts for such Evidences, or their Copies, as may be found serviceable. But then it is to be noted, that all such Transcripts of Evidences, and such Depositions as are thus transmitted, are to have their Verity attested upon Oath before a Master in Chancery, or his Proxy or Deputy (which are frequent in the Country) or else are they of little Service.

As every Gentleman may enter as many of his Posterity as he can prove, or as may join him to a Pedigree in some prior Visitation; so also doth every Man sign his Descent with his own Hand; which serves as a firm Testimony to his Descendants, who doubtless may very well know it.

But for such Usurpers of Dignities as have vaunted in the Ensigns and Titles of Gentility, &c. without any Ground or Reason for their so doing; these are obliged, under their own Hands, to disclaim all Pretence, Title, &c. for ever; (unless called thereunto by the King, the original Fountain of all Honours and Dignities) and for their Presumption in publickly using such Titles and Ensigns, before they have a Right, they are degraded by the publick Cryer in the Market-place nearest to them.

The Form of their Disclaim runs thus.

Cheshire,

3 Sept. 1663.

Having shew'd you (I think) sufficiently the Use and Management of these Visitations, I proceed to touch lightly upon the Office of the Kings of Arms and Heralds, in marshalling of the Funerals of Kings, Princes, Nobles, and Gentlemen. I need not repeat here each Man's particular Province or Right, having shew'd it already in the Duke of Norfolk's Orders.

The Heralds in the Funerals of Men of great Estates do first order and appoint such Numbers of Standards, Banners, Pennons, Escutcheons, &c. as are suitable to the High Dignity of the Defunct; then dispose them in proper Order, name the suitable Number of Mourners, and marshal such Estates as attend the Corps, according either to their Relation to the deceased, or the Honours or Dignities they bear, in such Order as they are to march; disposing themselves in their proper Places, being habited in the Ensigns of their Office and Dignity, bearing aloft the Trophies of the deceased Noble, during the Procession, according to the antient and laudable Custom of England. The same is perform'd, for those of lesser Rank, with Distinctions according to their Titles.

I have often wonder'd to see that our Nobility and Gentry, whose Predecessors have been so fam'd for their gallant and noble Observance of Honour, &c. should be content to see such mean Persons supporting the Ensigns of their Ancestors Glory and Grandeur (and perhaps before the Corps of a Father) rather than that the Kings, Heralds and Pursuivants (whose Place it is) should carry them in their Coats of the Arms of their Sovereign, embroider'd with their Crowns, Collars, &c. which speak an Honour done even at that instant from the Prince, in the Persons of his Ministers attending in the Royal Surcoat.

As the King of Arms, in his special Commission before mention'd, hath Power to correct, pull down, and deface all Arms and Ensigns unlawfully put up in any publick Places; and for that end to call in to his Assistance the civil Power of his Province; so you will here see an Instance thereof in the aforesaid William Dugdale, Norroy King of Arms, his Petition as follows.

To the Right Honourable the Lords Commissioners for the Office of Earl-Marshal of England.

* THE humble Petition of William Dugdale, Esq; Norroy King of Arms for the North Part of this Realm sheweth, That your Petitioner is by his Majesty's Letters Patents, under the Great Seal of England, lawfully invested into the Place and Office of Provincial King of Arms, for the North Parts of this Realm, in as full and ample manner as any of his Predecessors have been. By Virtue whereof, the Direction and Ordering of all solemn Funerals there, doth of antient Usage belong to him. And moreover, that for the better asserting of your Petitioner's Right therein, his said Majesty, by his special Commission under his said Great Seal (whereby he hath impowered your Petitioner to visit his said Province, for registring the Descents and Arms of the Gentry therein residing; and for pulling down, correcting and defacing all Arms and Ensigns of Honour unlawful, or unlawfully set up in any publick Places therein) hath straitly charged and commanded, that no other Person or Persons shall intromit or meddle with any thing touching and concerning the Office of Arms within your Petitioner's said Province, without the special Licence and Authority of your said Petitioner in Writing, under the Seal of his said Office, first had and obtained. Nevertheless, that one Mr. William Meinell, by the Help of Francis Nower a Painter Stainer in London, in the Month of October last past, did make and prepare divers irregular and unjustifiable Escutcheons, Atchievements, Penons, and Ensigns of Honour and Arms; and did upon Saturday the 27*th* of the same Month marshal, order, and direct a great and solemn Funeral at Bradley in Derbyshire, within your Petitioner's said Province, for Francis Meinell an Alderman of London, to the great and apparent Injury and Damage of your Petitioner, and Affront to his Majesty's Authority, under whom your Petitioner holds his said Place and Office.

Your Petitioner therefore most humbly prays, that your Lordships will be pleased to direct your Letters unto the Justices of Peace, and other his Majesty's Officers in the County of Derby aforesaid, exciting them to give such Assistance to your Petitioner, in the pulling down and defacing such Escutcheons and Atchievements, as he shall find to be hung up there by the Appointment and Direction of the said William Meinell, or any other. And that your Lordships will also be further pleased to send for the said William Meinell and Francis Nower, to answer this their Misdemeanour in the Premises, as your Lordship's Predecessors have heretofore done in the like Cases.

And your Petitioner shall pray, &c

By this Petition you see that all Atchievements, Banners, Standards, Penons, &c. unlawful, or unlawfully set up in publick Places, &c. are to be taken down and defaced. But see the Commissioners Answer to the said Petition.

† After our hearty Commendations. Whereas We have received certain Information from William Dugdale, Esq; Norroy King of Arms for the Northern Parts of this Realm, that one Mr. William Meinell, by and with the Help and Contrivance of Francis Nower, a Painter Stainer in London, hath in the Month of October last irregularly caused to be hung up certain irregular unjustifiable Penons, and other Ensigns of Honour and Arms, in the Parish Church of Bradley, within the County of Derby, as Memorials for Francis Meinell an Alderman of London, lately deceas'd; to the manifest Injury and Damage of him the said Norroy, (unto whom, by his Office, the ordering and directing of all Things of that Kind, within his said Province, do of antient Right duly and properly belong) and to the apparent Affront of the King's Authority, under whom the said Norroy, by Vertue of his Majesty's Letters Patents under the Great Seal of England, holds his Place and Office. We therefore his Majesty's Commissioners for the Office of Earl-Marshal of England, unto whom it chiefly belongeth by reason thereof, to give Countenance and Aid unto this his Majesty's Servant, in the Preservation of Order in all Things appertaining to Honour and Arms, and to prevent that Confusion therein, which by the exorbitant Practice of Painters will otherwise inevitably happen; have thought fit to advertise you of this Matter, and to desire you, as you tender his Majesty's Service herein, to give all Aid, Countenance, and Help to him the said Norroy, in the pulling down of those Atchievements and Penons, as by the Tenor of his said Majesty's Commission you are required to do. And so We bid you heartily farewel; resting

To our very loving Friends Sir John Curson, Kt. and Bar. German Pool, Esq; and other his Majesty's Justices of the Peace, and Officers in the County of Derby, or any of them.

* William Dugdale's Petition to the Commissioners for the Office of Earl-Marshal for Assistance in pulling down unlawful Escutcheons, &c. † The Commissioners Answer to the said Petition.

All Persons are to take Notice that Sir * Edward Walker, Knight, Garter principal King of Arms of Englishmen, hath given full Power, Licence, and Authority to Richard Philips of Stratford upon Avon, in the County of Warwick, to paint, or cause to be painted in all Churches, Chapels, and other Places where Need shall require, the Arms of our Sovereign Lord King Charles the Second, and the Royal Family, within the Counties of Warwick, Worcester, and Glouceſter. And to paint the several Escutcheons, after the Decease of such of the Nobility within the said Counties, as he shall be ordained to paint at the Instance of the said Heirs, Executors, or Administrators, or any of them. Prohibiting all others within the said Counties (but such as he shall appoint) to meddle with, or paint the Arms of his Majesty within the Counties aforementioned, as they will answer before such Officer or Officers as have Power to punish them for doing thereof. Dated under his Hand and Seal of the Office, 30*th* Day of May, in the 16*th* Year of the Reign of our Sovereign Lord King Charles II. of England, Scotland, France, and Ireland, King, Defender of the Faith, 1664.

Upon the Death of a Pursuivant, Herald, &c. The Earl-Marshal doth nominate or recommend such Person to the King to succeed, as he shall think fit and able. But then this Nomination is not such as shall any ways restrain the Royal Prerogative of putting in another, if such should be his Majesty's Pleasure; tho' I do not remember any Instance of that Kind.

The Form of this Recommendation follows.

WE the Lords Commissioners for the Office of Earl-Marshal of England do hereby certify, that Robert Chaloner, Bluemantle, eldest Pursuivant of Arms, is a fit Person to succeed in the Office of Lancaster Herald, now void by the Death of William Ryley, Esq; and do hereby recommend him to his Majesty for a Grant of the said Office accordingly. Given under Our Hands this 24*th* Day of July, 1667.

E. Manchester.

If the King thinks meet to accept that Recommendation, he orders his Patent, gives a special Commission to the Earl-Marshal for his Creation, and an Order to the Master of the Great Wardrobe, willing him upon Sight thereof to deliver, or cause to be deliver'd a rich Coat of the Royal Arms, embroider'd upon Velvet with Gold, as formerly was accustomed, &c. After which the said Herald proceeds to the College, where he is created in Form.

There are also besides these Heralds and Pursuivants in Ordinary, the like Places extraordinary, who wait for a Vacancy to be in Ordinary. They can receive no Fees in the Office, but formerly had a Coat, &c. allowed them as the rest, and might attend at Processions, &c. tho' of late that Privilege is deny'd.

An Order made by Thomas of Lancaster, Constable of England, for the placing of the Kings, Heralds, and Serjeants at Arms.

WE Thomas of Lancaster, Son and Brother to the most noble King of England and of France, Duke of Clarence, Earl of Arundel, Great Seneschal of England, and Constable of the King Our Sovereign's Army, to all to whom these present Writings shall come greeting. Whereas of late divers Questions and Debates are grown between certain of the King Our Sovereign's Gentlemen, and the Kings of Arms, being and remaining in the Service of my Lord the King, on the other Party: In that the said Parties will say and maintain to have Right and Privilege by reason of their Offices, to go and place themselves nearest before the King's Person, when he either rideth or goeth any whither abroad, or in the Place of him that carrieth the Sword before him; and likewise on solemn Feast Days, when the Meat should be served on the King's Table, to go before the Master of the Houshold, or High Steward. Upon which Differences the said Parties have divers times gather'd together, and come before Us, and requested Us, That as we are their Judge, and that to Us belongeth the Course and Knowledge of all Causes, Questions, and Debates which happen amongst them; That they might be certain of the Order which they ought to keep, and in what Manner and Form they ought to go; that We will not refuse them our Appointment, and thereof to make plain Declaration. We give to weete, That with great Advice and ripe Consideration of the Matters beforesaid; and by the Advice and Counsel of some Officers and Lords of the Privy-Council to my Lord the King; and of divers others well acquainted with the antient Ordinances and Statutes Royal; We have said, declared, appointed and ordained; We say, declare, appoint, and ordain by these Presents, That as often as the King shall ride or go to the Church on Foot or on Horseback, or in any Army in Field, or in Town, or other Place or Places, where the King's Honour ought to be maintain'd: The chief King of Arms or Herald, being present wearing the King's Arms, shall from Henceforth keep his Place, and go strait before the King's Person, or him that shall carry his Sword before him. And the other Kings of Arms and Heralds (because one Coat of Arms representeth all the King's Coats) shall go strait before the other Lords. And this shall be for the King's Estate. And the said Serjeants, which were principally founded and ordained for the Conservation of the Person of the King and his Lords, shall keep Place, and go on either side, that is, on the right Hand and on the left, before him that shall carry the Sword, or before the other Lords, to keep and defend them away from the Press of People on either Side. And also that on solemn Feast Days, or any other Days, when the King shall keep his Royal Estate, or make any solemn Feasts, the said King of Arms and Heralds shall go strait before the Master of the Houshold or High Steward, going before those Messes of Meats that shall be served at the Table before the King. And on the other Party the said Serjeants at Arms shall go and keep their Places on the Sides, as on the right Hand and on the left Hand of the Master of the Houshold, or High Steward, or any other in his Place going before the Meats and Services of the King, to keep and defend them from the Press of People, and to make large Way to the said Master of the Houshold, and to such as shall bear the aforesaid Meats. And if that it shall happen that there be but one King of Arms, or Herald, and one Serjeant of Arms, they shall go cheek by cheek before the King's Person. And if there be two Serjeants of Arms, the said King of Arms or Herald shall go and place himself between the said Serjeants of Arms that shall go on each Side, either of the King, or of his High Steward as aforesaid. Which Ordinances and Agreements We will henceforth to be holden, kept, and observed by the said Gentlemen Kings of Arms, Heralds, and Serjeants of Arms, so, and in such Form and Manner as is abovesaid, without contraryng the same in any Manner that may be. And to the end that it may be a Thing sure and stable for ever, We have given and granted unto the said Parties, at their Requests, these Presents, whereunto for Witness we have set our Seal. Given at the Royal Siege of my Sovereign the King, before the Town of Caen, in his Dutchy of Normandy, the 3*d* Day of September, Anno Domini 1417.

The true Copy of the Patent granted by King Edward VI. to the Kings, Heralds, and Pursuivants of Arms; whereby they are discharged of all Subsidies and Fifteens, and all other Taxes, Tolls, and such like for ever.

EDWARD VI. by the Grace of God King of England, France and Ireland, Defender of the Faith; and of the Church of England and also of Ireland in Earth the Supreme Head: To all them, to whom these Presents shall come, Greeting. Whereas our faithful Subjects the Lords and Commons of Our Realm of England, being together assembled in our Parliament lately holden at Westminster, this present Third Year of Our Reign, did grant unto Us a certain Relief to endure by the Space of three Years then next to come, That every Lay-Person being as well Our natural Subject, as also every Estranger having Goods and Chattels to the Value of Ten Pounds, and above, should pay to Us every Year during the said three Years, Our natural Subject for every Pound of the Value of his Goods and Chattels 12 d. and every Stranger 2 s. as in the Estatute or Act of the said Parliament among sundry other Things therein declared evidently and plainly doth appear. And albeit the said Estatute, or Act, doth oblige Our well-beloved Servants Christopher Barker, alias Garter, Kt. King of Arms, Thomas Hawley, alias Clarencieux King of Arms, Gilbert Dethick, alias Norroy King of Arms, Leonard Warcoppe, alias Carlisle Herald of Arms, Charles Wriothesly, alias Windsor Herald of Arms, Bartholomew Butler, alias York Herald of Arms, William Harvie, alias Somerset Herald of Arms, William Flower, alias Chester Herald of Arms, Laurence Dalton, alias Richmond Herald of Arms, Robert Fayrie, alias Portcullis Pursuivant, Martin Mavouf, alias Rougedragon Pursuivant, Edmond Atkinson, alias Bluemantle Pursuivant, Simon Newboth, alias Rougecroix Pursuivant, William Lambard, alias Risebank Pursuivant, Nich. Fellow, alias Calais Pursuivant, Hen. Fellow, alias Guisnes Pursuivant, and Hen. Ree, alias Berwick Pursuivant, to the Payment of such Sums of Money of every Pound of the Value of their said Goods and Chattels as are claimed in the said Estatute, and assessed and taxed upon them, and every of them no less effectually, without any Exception than the same bindeth the rest of Our Subjects. Yet nevertheless, for as much as sundry Records and Testimonies of great and honourable Antiquity, and of no less Credit, have now lately reduced to Our perfect Knowledge the Kings of Arms, Heralds and Pursuivants of Arms, elected as Persons vertuous, and for their Qualities, Knowledge, and Experience, meet to serve in the Affairs of the Common Wealth, have been heretofore by Emperors, Kings, and Princes of Christian Realms, upon most worthy and just Considerations, not only maintained and supported honestly, as well with yearly Stipends and Pensions, as daily Profits, Advantages, and Commodities, sufficient to the Necessity of the Decent and convenient Living of them and theirs in honest State without any Impeachment; (which daily Profits, Advantages, and Commodities, are now lately much decayed to their Hindrance, especially in this Our Realm, as is before alledged) but also have been by the same sundry Emperors, Kings, and Princes, enriched and adorned Time out of Man's Memory with divers and sundry Kinds of Privileges, Liberties, and Franchises, which are, among others, that they and every of them be free, exempt, quiet, and discharged not only from all Subsidies, Dismes, Fifteens, Reliefs, Contributions, Taxes, Gifts, Grants, Benevolences, and generally from all other manner of Charges, as well in Time of War as Peace, in all such Realms and Dominions as wherein they made their Demoure, but also in all Markets and other Places from Tolls, Fines, Customs, Impositions and Demands: And as well from Watch and Ward in all Cities, Towns, Castles, Burroughs and Villages; and from the Election or Appointment to any Office of Mayor, Sheriff, Bailiff, Constable, Scavenger, Church-Warden or any other publick Office or Room in Cities, Towns, Castles, Burroughs, and Villages of what Degree, Nature, or Condition soever the same be of. And forasmuch also as we understand all Kings of Arms, Heralds and Pursuivants of Arms, have always heretofore from the Beginning of the Office of Arms enjoyed, and presently do enjoy all and singular the Privileges, Liberties, and Franchises aforesaid, with many others in all Christian Regions, without any Disturbance, Lett or Impeachment to the contrary; We therefore considering the same, and earnestly minding as well the Advancement of the said Office of Arms, as the quiet and honest Supportation of Our Servants and Ministers thereof, do of Our especial Grace, certain Knowledge and meer Motion, by the Advice and Consent of our most dearly beloved Uncle Edward Duke of Somerset, Governour of our Person and Protector of all our Realms, Dominions, and Subjects, and of the rest of Our Council, by these Presents not only ratify, and generally approve, give, grant and confirm to the said Kings of Arms, Heralds and Pursuivants of Arms, and to every of them, and their Successors in their Rooms and Offices for ever, for Us and Our Successors all and singular the Privileges, Liberties, and Franchises before recited, and all such other Privileges altho' here not recited as have been of honourable Antiquity upon just Considerations to them granted by Emperors, Kings, and Princes of right famous Memory heretofore: But also do especially by these Presents pardon, remit, release, and utterly for Us, Our Heirs and Successors, exonerate the said Christopher, Thomas, Gilbert, Leonard, Charles, Bartholomew, William, William, Laurence, Robert, Martin, Edmond, Simon, William, ham, Nicholas, Henry, Henry, and all and ſingular other our Purſuivants of Arms as well Ordinary as Extraordinary, altho' they be not here expreſsly named, and altho' they be already or hereafter ſhall be certified in Our Exchequer, without their proper Names with the Addition of their Offices, and every of them, of all and ſingular ſuch Debts, Sums of Money and Demands, whatſoever they be, that are granted to Us for the Relief aforeſaid, as upon the ſaid Chriſtopher, Thomas, Gilbert, Leonard, Charles, Bartholomew,, William, William, Laurence, Robert, Martin, Edmond, Simon, William, Nicholas, Henry, Henry, and all and ſingular Our Purſuivants of Arms, whatſoever they be, or any of them are by any Ceſſor of Taxes aſſeſſed or taxed to Our Uſe, and certified or not certified into Our Exchequer by any Our Commiſſioner or Commiſſioners, or Our Aſſigns in any County or Counties of this Our Realm of England or Wales, and charged upon them or any of them, in Our ſaid Exchequer, altho' the ſaid Kings, &c. in the ſame Certificates be certified or not certified by their proper Names and Surnames, with the Additions of their Offices and Miniſteries. And We by the Advice and Conſents aforeſaid, do freely give and grant by theſe Preſents to the ſaid Kings of Arms, Heralds and Purſuivants of Arms, and to every of them, the ſaid Debts and Sums of Money that are aſſeſſed, taxed, and put upon them and every of them without Accompt, Anſwer, or any other Thing to be yielded paid or done to Us for the ſame. Furthermore We of Our more abundant Grace, by the ſame Advice and Conſents do by theſe Preſents grant, that as well the ſaid Chriſtopher, Thomas, Gilbert, Leonard, Charles, Bartholomew, William, William, Laurence Robert, Martin, Edmond, Simon, William, Nicholas, Henry, and Henry, that now are Kings and Heralds of Arms, and divers other Purſuivants of Arms, that now are at this Preſent, altho' they be not expreſsly named in theſe Preſents, and every of them; as alſo all and ſingular other Kings of Arms, Heralds and Purſuivants of Arms, that hereafter ſhall be, as well in Our Time as in the Time of Our Heirs and Succeſſors, and their Heirs, Executors, and Adminiſtrators, and every of them as well of and for all and ſingular Sums of Money to Us granted and aſſeſſed and taxed and put upon the ſaid Kings, Heralds, and Purſuivants of Arms, that now are or ſhall be, for the Relief aforeſaid, already certified and returned or to be certified and returned into Our Exchequer or not returned: As alſo of all other Debts, Sums, and Demands of Money, whatſoever they be, that hereafter ſhall be given, granted, put forth, taxed and aſſeſſed upon the ſaid Kings, Heralds, and Purſuivants of Arms that now are, or that hereafter ſhall be, or any of them for any Relief, Subſidy, Diſmes, Fifteens, Quote, Benevolence, Gift, Contribution, or any other Grant hereafter to be made to Us, Our Heirs, or Succeſſors Kings of England, by Authority of Parliament or otherwiſe. And furthermore by theſe Preſents, We, by the Advice and Conſents aforeſaid, do grant that albeit the ſaid Kings of Arms, Heralds and Purſuivants of Arms, that now are, or that hereafter ſhall be Kings, Heralds, and Purſuivants of Arms, are not yet certified into our Exchequer, by any Commiſſioner or Commiſſioners of this Our Realm of England that now are, or that hereafter ſhall be upon the Relief aforeſaid, granted to Us aforeſaid, or that hereafter ſhall not be certified into Our Exchequer by their proper Names and Surnames, with the Addition of their Offices, and every of them upon any other Reliefs, Subſidies, Diſmes, Fifteens, Quotes, Benevolences and Contributions, to be hereafter given and granted to Us, Our Heirs and Succeſſors, Kings of England, hereafter by Authority of Parliament or otherwiſe. Yet nevertheleſs by the Advice and Conſents aforeſaid, We will by theſe Preſents, and firmly command as well the Treaſurer, and Barons of Our Exchequer, that now are, and that hereafter ſhall be; as alſo all and ſingular Our Commiſſioners, Aſſeſſors, Taxers, Collectors, and other Our Officers, Miniſters and Subjects, and thoſe of Our Heirs and Succeſſors, Kings of England, that ye and every of you upon the only Demonſtration of theſe Our Letters Patents, or Our Writ or Writs thereupon made, proſecuted, and directed out of our Chancery under Our Great Seal to the ſame Barons, Commiſſioners, Aſſeſſors, Taxers, Collectors, or other Our Officers, Miniſters, and Subjects, or to thoſe of Our Heirs and Succeſſors, Kings of England, or any of them, do upon the Oaths of the ſaid Kings, Heralds, and Purſuivants, and Officers of Arms, or any of them made, given, and taken before Our ſaid Barons, Commiſſioners, Taxers, Aſſeſſors, Collectors, or any other Our Officers, Miniſters, and Subjects, to whom or any of them it doth in this Caſe appertain, exonerate, diſcharge, and cauſe to be exonorated and diſcharged the ſaid Kings, Heralds, and Purſuivants of Arms, and eve- of them againſt Us, Our Heirs, and Succeſſors, and every of them, as well of all and ſingular ſuch Sums of Money or Demands as are upon them or any of them aſſeſſed, taxed, and rated for the Relief to Us granted aforeſaid: As alſo for all and ſingular other Subſidies, Diſmes, Fifteens, Quotes, Benevolences, Contributions, Gifts and Grants, hereafter to be made, paid to Us, Our Heirs and Succeſſors, Kings of England. And this without any other Writ, Precept, or Commandment of Us, Our Heirs, or Succeſſors, or without any Confeſſion of Our General Attorney, or of the Attorney of Our Heirs and Succeſſors hereafter to be had, made, and proſecuted, any Eſtatute, Act, Ordinance, Proviſion, Reſtraint, Proclamation contrary thereof, heretofore made and ordained, or hereafter to be made and ordained notwithſtanding. And by the Advice and Conſents aforeſaid, We will, and by theſe Preſents do grant and command that Our ſaid Kings of Arms, Heralds, and Purſuivants of Arms have their Letters Patents ſealed and delivered under Our Great Seal of England frankly and freely without Fine, great Fee or little to be paid or yielded to Us or to Our Uſe in Our Chancery for the ſame. Tho' expreſs Mention be not made in theſe Preſents of any other Grants made by Us, or any of Our Progenitors to the ſaid Kings of Arms, Heralds and Purſuivants of Arms, or of the very Certainty or true Value of the Premiſſes, or any Eſtatute, Act, Ordinance, Proviſion, Reſtraint, or Proclamation heretofore had to the contrary notwithſtanding. In Witneſs whereof we have cauſed theſe Our Letters to be made Patents. Witneſs Ourſelf at Weſtminſter the 4th Day of June, in the 3d Year of Our Reign.

And that they and their Succeſſors for ever by the ſame Name be Perſons able and capable in Law, and ſhall have and bear the ſame Name for ever. And that the ſaid Garter King of Arms of Engliſhmen, Clarencieux King of Arms of the South Parts, Norroy King of Arms of the North Parts, and the Heralds and Purſuivants of Arms and their Succeſſors, by this manner of Name, may and ſhall be able to purchaſe Lands, Tenements, Rents, Hereditaments, and Poſſeſſions, as alſo Goods and Chattels whatſoever; and for Lands, Tenements, &c. in righteous Cauſes, for any manner of Goods and Chattels in any manner of Actions, Cauſes, Demands, Quarrels, and Pleas, as well real as perſonal, or in any kind of mixed, or of what kind of Nature the ſame may be in any Court, before any Juſtice or Judge, ſpiritual or temporal, may or ſhall be able to plead and implead, anſwer, and be anſwered for ever, even as in like manner as other of our Liege People, Perſons able and capable in Law, have accuſtomed to plead and implead, anſwer, and to be anſwered. And that the aforeſaid Garter King of Arms of Engliſhmen, Clarencieux King of Arms of the South Parts, Norroy King of Arms of the North Parts, and the Heralds and Purſuivants of Arms, and their Succeſſors, might at their liking dwell near together, and at congruent and opportune Days, Places, and Times, might meet or come together to intreat, communicate, confer and agree amongſt themſelves, as often, and when it ſhould pleaſe them one with another for Counſel and Adviſement for the good Eſtate, Erudition, and Government of their Faculty aforeſaid: And that their Records, Emoluments, and other gotten Goods, might be more ſafely kept in ſure Cuſtody; And that they might have ſome Place or fit Manſion in the ſame Place: We of Our aboundant Grace have given and granted, and by theſe Preſents for Us, Our Heirs and Succeſſors of Us the ſaid Queen, do give and grant to the aforeſaid Gilbert Dethick, now Garter Principal King of Arms of Engliſhmen, Thomas Hawley, alias Clarencieux King of Arms of the South Parts, William Harvey, Norroy King of Arms of the North Parts; and the other Heralds and Purſuivants aforeſaid, and their Succeſſors; All the ſame our capital Meſſuage, or Houſe, called Derby-Houſe, with the Appurtenances, ſituate and being in the Pariſh of St. Bennet and St. Peter, within our City of London, in a certain Street there leading from the South Door of the Cathedral Church of St. Paul to a certain Place called Paul's Wharf: And alſo all our Houſes, Buildings, Chambers, Shops, Cellars, Gardens, void Grounds, Foundations, Eaſements whatſoever; appertaining to, or belonging to the ſame capital Meſſuage, or Houſe called Derby-Houſe, or with the ſame ſet, let, or uſed, or occupied, now being in the Tenure or Occupation of Sir Richard Sackvile, Kt. and lately parcel of the Lands, Poſſeſſions, and Hereditaments of the Right Honourable Edward Earl of Derby, and the Reverſion and Reverſions of the ſaid capital Meſſuage, or Houſe, and of the other Premiſes, with the Appurtenances, and every Parcel thereof; as alſo the Rents, and all other Profits reſerved upon any Demiſes, or Grantings of the Premiſes, or of any Part or Parcel thereof, done howſoever as fully, freely, and wholly, and in as ample Manner and Form as the ſaid Edward Earl of Derby, or any other or others heretofore ever had, held, or enjoyed the Premiſes, or any Part or Parcel thereof, or at any time had poſſeſſed, or being ſeized, or ought, or ſhould have held and enjoyed. And as fully, freely, and wholly, and in as ample Manner and Form as the aforeſaid capital Meſſuage or Houſe; and all other the Premiſes came, or ought to have come to Our Hands, or to the Hands of Our moſt dear Brother Edward the Sixth, late King of England, by Reaſon or Pretext now being, or ought to have been. To have, hold, and enjoy the aforeſaid capital Meſſuage, or Houſe, and all other and ſingular the Premiſes, with the Appurtenances, to the aforeſaid Gilbert Dethick, Kt. alias Garter King of Arms of Engliſhmen, Thomas Hawley, alias Clarencieux King of Arms of the South Parts, William Harvey, alias Norroy King of Arms of the North Parts, and the Heralds and Purſuivants of Arms aforeſaid, and their Succeſſors for ever, to the proper Uſe and Behoof of them the ſaid Gilbert Dethick, alias Garter, King of Arms of Engliſhmen, Thomas Hawley, alias Clarencieux King of Arms of the South Parts, William Harvey, alias Norroy King of Arms of the North Parts, and others the Heralds, and the Purſuivants of Arms aforeſaid, and their Succeſſors for ever. To hold of Us, Our Heirs, and Succeſſors of Us the ſaid Queen, in free Burgage within our City of London, for all Rents, Services, Exactions, and Demands whatſoever, therefore in any manner to be yielded, paid, or done to us the ſaid Queen,

Our Heirs and Succeſſors. And moreover, of Our abundant Grace We have given, granted, and by theſe Preſents for Us, Our Heirs and Succeſſors, do give and grant to the aforeſaid Gilbert Dethick, King of Arms of Engliſhmen, Clarencieux King of Arms of the South Parts, Norroy King of Arms of the North Parts, and other Heralds and Purſuivants of Arms aforeſaid, all Iſſues, Rents, Revenues, and Profits of the ſaid Meſſuage Capital, and all other and ſingular the Premiſes, with the Appurtenances, from the Feaſt of the Annunciation of the bleſſed Virgin Mary laſt paſt, hitherto coming and growing. To have to the ſaid Garter King of Arms of Engliſhmen, Clarencieux King of Arms of the South Parts, Norroy King of Arms of the North Parts; and the other Heralds and Purſuivants of Arms aforeſaid of Our free Gift, without Account, or any other thing therefore to be yielded, paid, or done unto Us, Our Heirs and Succeſſors in any manner. For that expreſs Mention of the true yearly Value of any other Value or Certainty of the Premiſes, or any of them, or of other Gifts or Grants, by Us, or any other of Our Progenitors before this time, or at this preſent not being or made unto the ſaid Gilbert Dethick, alias Garter King of Arms of Engliſhmen, Clarencieux King of Arms of South Parts, Norroy King of Arms of the North Parts, and the other Heralds and Purſuivants of Arms aforeſaid, and their Predeceſſors, or any Statute, Act, Ordinance, Proviſion, or Reſtraint made, ſet forth, ordained or provided to the contrary, or any other Thing, Cauſe, or Matter whatſoever, in any wiſe notwithſtanding. In witneſs whereof we have cauſed theſe Our Letters to be made Patents. Witneſs Ourſelves at Our Manor of Hampton-Court, the 18*th* Day of July, in the Firſt and Third Years of Our Reigns.

HERALDS,

IN ENGLISH, LATIN, and FRENCH,

A.

A Batement in Heraldry, is underſtood to be ſome accidental Figure, annexed to the paternal or principal Bearing of any Family, whereby the ſame is abaſed, as to its Dignity, and rendered of leſs Eſteem. Of this Sort may be properly accounted all thoſe additional or ſubſtractive Alterations in Coat Armours, which denote Juniority of Birth, or a Removal from the Honour or Dignity of the principal Houſe. My Author, Mr. Guillim, indeed, from Leigh, &c. hath ſet forth certain Figures, which he gives as the ſignificative Symbols of ſundry baſe, and ungenerous Actions, and terms them Abatements of Honour: But I never yet met from him, or any other, One Inſtance of the bearing of theſe Whimſies (for ſo I cannot but term them) conſidering that as Arms are by them, and all, agreed to be Inſignia Nobilitatis & Honoris, ſuch can no ways admit of any Mark of Infamy or Baſeneſs which would make them ceaſe to be Arms, and change to deſpiſeable Badges of Infamy and Diſgrace, which all would covet to lay aſide, rather than carry: Beſides, properly and legally Speaking, as no hereditary Honour or Dignity can be in Fact abaſed, ſo neither can their Marks: Both indeed may be forfeited, as in the Caſe of Treaſon, where the Scutcheon is totally reverſed, intimating a total Suppreſſion of the Honour or Dignity. See more of this in my Diſcourſe of Abatements, printed in the Diſplay. The Latins term them Diminutiones vel Diſcernicula Armorum.

Accidents in Arms are both thoſe Abatements beforehandled, and the ſeveral Points of a Shield, whereby we expreſs the local Poſition of any Figure therein.

Adumbration, is a Shadowing; and when any Figure is born ſo ſhadowed, or obſcured, as that nothing but the bare Purfile or (as Painters ſay) the Out-line is viſible, ſuch is ſaid to be adumbrated: In Latin, Adumbratus. As this Form of Bearing, is ſo very ſingular, I ſhall conceal my Objections againſt the Blaſon, which I cannot approve; ſome term ſuch Adumbration, Tranſparency, which though it may ſomething plainer deſcribe the Bearing, yet I cannot like it.

Alerion, a ſmall Bird painted without Beak or Feet, like the Martlet or Martinet. Vid. Martlet.

Ank'red, this Term I never knew to have been uſed, but to define a particular kind of Croſs, whoſe Extremities reſemble the Flooks of an Anchor. Mr. Gibbon blames Morgan for this Blaſon, and Charges him with giving a wrong Draught. I will ſay no more as to the Diſpute in relation to either; but that Monſieur Baron, in his L' Art Heraldique, has much the ſame Figure which he terms Ancré, and the better to explain himſelf in Latin, Anchoratus. And, methinks, 'tis much if ſo learned an Advocate ſhould be unacquainted with the Book of his own Country, to which Gibbon imputes Mr. Morgan's Errour. Beſides Favin (as he allows) has the ſame Term in one place, as well as a Croſs of Malta, (a) or a Croſs of 8 Points, Crucem Malthenſem, or Octogonam; it may be termed alſo according to Mr. Gibbon, Crucem ad Singulas ejus extremitates, in duos acu-

(a) He gives Two Draughts, like to Gibbon's and Morgan's; perhaps they may be two Croſſes, his Croſs Ancrè like our Meline not pierced.

tos angulos terminantem; or else in duos aculeos, seu spicula prodeuntem. The Figure is among my Crosses in the Display, and was the Badge of the Knights of the Order of St. Mary of Mount Carmel, and of St. Lazarus in France; as also of those of St. Maurice (as Favine); and likewise of the Trinitarian Fryars which they wear on their Breast and Left Shoulder, as Mr. Gibbon has observed, and as may be seen in the Monasticon Anglicanum, besides being the Ensign of Maltha, and born in the Collar of the Knights du St. Esprit.

Annulet——a Ring. In Latin Annulus, as the Book of St. Albans; but Camden in the Arms of Vipont uses Annellus.

Animé, a French Term, and used when the Eyes, &c. of any rapacious Creature, are born of a different Tincture from the Creature it self: We say incensed (the Latins, Animatus or incensus) of such or such Tincture.

Argent, the common French Word for Silver, of which Metal, all white Fields or Charges are supposed to consist. In Latin, Argenteus, sometimes Albus or Candidus, but the Latter are not so proper as it is supposed to represent the Metal Silver, and not a Colour.

Armed, This we use when the Horns, Teeth, Beak or Tallons of any Beast, or Bird of Prey (being their Weapons) are born of a different Tincture from those of their Bodies, saying Armed so and so. The French use the same Armé, and the Latins Armatus.

Armes, in French the same; in Latin, Arma, a borrowed Name (by way of Figure called Metonymia subjecti) from the Military Habiliments (properly called Arms) on which these Figures were antiently painted or emboss'd. They have other Names alluding to their instructive Qualities, as Tessera Gentilis, Insignia, Symbola, &c. Coats of Arms, or Coat-Armours; other borrowed Names, signifying the same Things, and used from the ancient Custom of Embroidering these Emblems upon Surcoats, i. e. those loose Habits of Silk which the Ancients wore over their Armours to keep them clean. In Latin, Tunicas Armorum gerunt, &c.

Armorie, or Armory, One Branch of the Heraldique Science, consisting in the Knowledge of those Coat-Armours above-mentioned, as to their Blazons and various Intendments.

Armorist, a Person well skilled in the Knowledge of Armory.

Arraché, a French Word, here signifying any Member forcibly torn off from the rest of the Body. We say Erased, the Latines, Extirpatus. Vide Erased.

Atchievement; by this Word, we understand the Arms of some Person or Family born, together with all the exterior Ornaments of the Shield, as Helmet, Mantle, Crest, Scrolls, and Motto, together with all such Quarterings, if any there be, as the said House or Line may have atchieved by Alliances, &c. So marshalled in their Order as the Science directs.

Attired, Thus we express the Horns of Stags, Bucks, Antelopes, &c. when of a different Tincture from their Bodies or Heads, supposing them rather Ornaments than Weapons, as they are not Beasts of Prey, but of a mild and pacifick Disposition.

Avelane, a Term peculiar to the Form of a Cross, whose Quarters resemble the Philbert-Nut; in Latin, Crux Avellana.

Azure, by this we understand the Colour Blue; the French have also Azur, the Latins, Cyaneus Cæruleus or Asureus, according to the Book of St. Albans, Vredus, Chifletius, Camden, &c.

B.

BArbed and Crested, the Latin, Barbula and Crista, Vredus in Hennenbergh. The Common English term is Wattled and Combed, and signifies the Comb and Gills of a Cock, when particulariz'd for being of a different Tincture from the Body.

Barnacles, Instruments used by Farriers to curb and command unruly Horses; in Latin, termed Pastomides.

A Bar; this is an Ordinary in form of, but less than the Fess, called by the French, Fasce en devise. Sir John Fern gives it in Latin, by the Word Trabes; but Mr. Gibbon approves better of Vectis, in regard the former expresses rather the bigger Sort of Timber or Beams; which as for Vectis he tells us that Cornelius Kilianus Dusleus (a great Etymologist) makes it the Latin for the Belgick Word Hameyde: Says he Hameyde est obex Vectis, Repagulum, sive Lignum transversum, quod ostiis opponitur in postem. And this Word, adds my Author, The Lord De l'Espinoy, in his Researches of the Nobility of Flanders, uses in the Blazon of the Arms of the Illustrious Family of the Vander Hameydes of Hainault, who take their Name from Hameyde, one of the 22 Baronies of that Province, thus, D'Or à trois hameydes de Gueuls, that is, Or, 3 Humets, Gules, or Bars Couped; and according to my Author, in Latin, thus, Tres miniatos Vectes à latere Scuti disjunctos in Solo aureo. Chifletius uses Tænia transversa in Hungaria and Luxembergh; and so Vredus in Saxe Modern. Fasciola, the Diminutive of Fascia, my Author thinks to be a very good Word; but this disagrees with our English Practice, which denies the Fess any Diminutive; yet it is consonant to the Custom of France, and other Nations who do allow it. Old Blazoners used Barra, and for a Barrulet Barrula.

Bar-gemel——i. e. a double Bar. The French term these Jumelles, and the Latins, according to the French Advocate Baron, Jugaria fasciola, or Instita bijuges. Our Countryman, Mr. Gibbon, has Fasciolæ gemellæ, geminæ, or geminatæ, and Fasciolæ duplices, as though they were Diminutives of the Fess, which I am inclined to believe, though some of our Writers are so much against that Ordinary's having any Diminutive.

Baron, the lowest Title of Peerage in England.

Baronet, the Diminutive of Baron, signifying a Degree of Dignity above Common Knighthood, and inferiour to a Baron; as much as to say, a little Baron; the same is Hereditary, and was instituted by King J. I.

Baron and Femme, Terms used to express the Arms of a Man and his Wife, marshall'd together, as he beareth Baron and Femme, &c. i. e. He beareth as Man and Wife, &c. The Words are French, and literally translated, are Man and Woman.

Barrelet or Barrulet, the Diminutive of the Bar, consisting of a quarter Part, or one Half of the Closet, in the Latin, Barrula, by some Fasciola transversa, in French, Burelle.

Barruly, in French, Burellé, in Latin, transversè fasciolatus, that is a Field divided barr-ways, in many equal Parts.

Barry,——The Ancients, saith Mr. Gibbon, rendred it by Barratus: Vredus, from the French, who as often term it Fascé or Facé, as Burellé, uses the Word Fasciatum in Coucy; But in Vieville, he terms it Taniatum; And in both Places he adjoins the Adjective transversus, which considering the Etymology of Fascia, is there needless. We understand it to be a Shield divided transverse into 4, 6, or more equal Parts, and consisting of two or more Tinctures interchangeably disposed. Note, that with us in England, gland, the Number of Pieces is always even; and by that means it is, that we underſtand when a Field is divided Bar-ways, or when it is charged with Bars. But the French, and other Nations are not ſo nice in theſe Points, they as often ſay Barry of 7 or 9, as 3 or 4 Bars.

Barry-Bendy; by this we underſtand a Shield, equally divided into four, ſix, or more equal Parts by Lines drawn tranſverſe, and diagonal, interchangeably varying the Tinctures of which it conſiſts. The Ancients, as Mr. Gibbon obſerves of the Book of St. Albans, would blazon thus, Arma Barrata Bendaria ex albo & rubeo. But I ſhould think it much more intelligible, thus, Scutum in ſex partes & tranſverſe & oblique de Argento & colore rubeo (viciſſim contra poſito) diviſum.

Bande,——a French Term, the ſame with our Bend.

Bandé——as our Bendy.

Banderole, Petite Enſeigne, a ſmall Banner or Banner Roll, as we ſay.

Barry-Pily; this is Mr. Guillim's Method of expreſſing this Form of Bearing: Gerrard Leigh is worſe in his Barry-Bendy, Bara calls it Pointes en face, and names the Number of Pieces. Segoine, a Learned Frenchman, has Parti Emanché, ſo hath Monſieur Baron, who renders it in Latin, by Runcinatus, Cuſpidatus, or Cuſpidatim mutuo inſectus. Mr. Gibbon in his Introductio ad Latinam blazoniam, Something after Bara's Opinion, holds them to be Piles in Feſs, counter-placed, and accordingly blazons the Arms of the Landas; Quina (ex argento) pontis pila tranſverſa, totidémq; è minio, viciſſim contra poſitæ, totum Clypeum tranſeuntes; or inſtead of Pontis Pilæ, he tells us we may ſay, Cuſpides tranſverſæ. He adds totum Clypeum tranſeuntes, to diſtinguiſh it from Party per Pale, dancetté: And if I may give my Opinion, Party per Pale dancetté, throughout, is a Conciſe way, and full as expreſſive as any. The French ſay, Emanché d'Argent & de Gueuls of ſo many Pieces.

Baſe, the Bottom of the Shield.

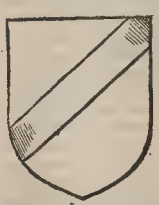

In Baſe,——denotes the Poſition of any thing placed in the Bottom of the Shield. The Latin in ima parte, as Chiffletius in Auſtria vetus, in imo in Sicilia.

Baton or Batoon, is a French Word ſignifying a Staff or Cudgell, 'tis generally uſed as a Mark of Baſtardy. The Ancients uſed to expreſs it in Latin by the Words Fiſſura and Baculus. Mr. Gibbon is for the Diminutive Bacillus, which he thinks exactly anſwers to the French Baton. Vredus uſes the Word Vectis which the aforeſaid Author thinks with the Adjunction of obliquus might do better for a Bend; but if the Bend ſignifies the Shoulder-belt, I think it very improper there alſo.

Becqué, a French Word ſignifying beaked. When the Beak and Legs of any predable Fowl are of a different Tincture from the Body, we ſay Beaked and Membred of ſuch Tincture. Baron renders it in Latin, Roſtratus & Tibiatus. Chiffletius has Roſtro & Cruribus in Carniola and Germania; Vredus the ſame in Pologna, Pomerania, and Brandenbergh.

A Bend, La Bande in French, is one of the nine Honourable Ordinaries, containing a third Part of the Field when charged, and a Fifth when plain. The Ancients expreſſed it in Latin by Benda. Cambden has Area tranſverſa and Areola tranſverſa, which Latter being a Diminutive, ſhould rather ſuit the Bendlet. But Mr. Gibbon juſtly objects againſt the Word, which, ſignifying the whole Floor of any Thing, is much more proper for the Field than any Charge, and in that Senſe, as he obſerves, Chiffletius oftentimes uſeth it; as alſo doth Vredus: beſides the Adjective, as he further obſerves, had been better obliqua than tranſverſa, as better denoting its Location. Chiffletius expreſſeth it ſometimes by Baltheus, and ſo doth Vredus, which agrees exactly with its Deſcription in La Trophée d'Armes Heraldiques, (viz.) La Bande repreſente le Baudrier, the Bend repreſents the Baudrick, or Shoulder-Belt, which Peacham more fully deſcribes to the ſame Effect. Learned Camden indeed will have the Feſs to be the Baltheus militaris, and the Truth is, as Mr. Gibbon obſerves, they may both be termed Baltheus, ſo they be diſtinguiſhed with proper Adjectives, as the Former, by the Adjunction of obliquus or humeralis, the Latter by tranſverſus or lumbaris. Chiffletius uſeth alſo Tænia diagonalis for a Cotiſe which Adjective Gibbon thinks renders it ſo proper an Expreſſion, that he keeps the Word Tænia (as doth Baron in his L'Art Heraldique) entirely diſapproving of Faſcia, which is uſed by Vredus, unleſs there be adjoined the Adjective, obliqua or diagonalis, by Reaſon Faſcia ſignificat Vinculum per medium partem cingens tranſverſé

A Bend-Siniſter, differs from a Bend only in its Location, as appears by the Cut, and may be rendered in Latin the ſame way, by the Addition of the Word ſiniſtra; but the French call it une Barre, and their Advocate Monſieur Baron, renders it in Latin, Vitta.

A Bendlet, is the half of a Bend, the Ancients expreſſed it in Latin, Bendula.

In Bend; by this Term we underſtand ſuch Things quick or dead to occupy that Part of the Scutcheon to which the Bend is allotted, or that they are placed obliquely reſembling a Bend. Mr. Gibbon from Vredus renders it in Latin, obliqué dextrorsùs poſitum; and from Chiffletius in Marchionatu Sancti Romani Imperii, obliquè dextrorsùs & ſiniſtrorsùs poſitum, i. e. in Bend dexter and ſiniſter too.

Per Bend, or party per Bend, by the French is rendred Tranché; in Latin, according to Vredus, obliquè dextrorsùs bipartitum; Chiffletius has in obliquum bipartitum; and for both Party per Bend dexter and ſiniſter too, Scutum obliquè dextrorsùs & ſiniſtrorsùs Sectum, which is what we uſually term per Saltire. Note, That if this Line of Partition had been Indented, Ingrailed, &c. You muſt have uſed the Adverbs Dentatim, Ingrediatim, &c. or elſe the Adjectives.

Bendy, by this we underſtand a Field or Charge divided into four, ſix, or more Parts, diagonally, and of various Tincture. With us the Number is always even, but Foreigners mind not that, with whom you may as often meet Paly, Bendy, Barry, of ſeven and nine, as of eight or ten. Chiffletius, in old Burgundia, terms Bendy of ſix Scutum Sexies auro & cyano obliquo dextrorsùs faſciatum, which by the help of obliquo is expreſſive; and as Gibbon informs me, Vredus imitates him, but he himſelf rather recommends oblique taniatum & vacerratum, in regard of the genuine Signification of Faſcia.

Bendy-Pily,——See Pily Bendy.

Bevilé, is by ſome uſed to expreſs any thing broken or open, like a Bevel or Rule uſed by Carpenters, &c. but I do not approve it.

Bezants or Beſants; by theſe we underſtand certain round and flat Pieces of Bullion, without Impreſs being ſuppoſed to be the Money of old Byzantium, now Conſtantinople, whence they have that Name. Monſieur Baron renders them in Latin, Byzantius nummus, but Sir George Mackenzie from Chaſſaneus, and other Authors calls them Beſanta, the French ſay Beſant; with us they are always ſaid to be of Gold, but Foreigners have them of Silver alſo.

Billets, in French, Billettes; Theſe Guillim would perſwade us to be Billet doux; but Treſor Heraldique ſays, moſt Authors take them for Bricks. And accordingly Sir George Mackenzie in his Science of Heraldry, tells us, that many Engliſh Families ſettled in France bear them to denote their Extraction from England, where ſo much Brick is made, and, together with Monſieur Baron, and others, renders them in Latin, Laterculi. Mr. Gibbon has Plinthides, from Chiffletius, and Vredus in Brienne, Chaſteau-villain, and Eu (a Term borrowed from their Form.

Billetty, in French Billeté, ſignifies ſomething ſtrewed as it were all over with Billets, in the Latin it may be Laterculatus, or you may ſay Scutum cum Laterculis ubique ſtratum.)

Blazon or Blaſon, is an obſolete Word, ſignifying (as Mr. Nisbet, an ingenious Scots Author, in his Treatiſe upon Cadency informs me) the blowing or winding of an Horn, and introduced as a Term in Heraldry, from an ancient Cuſtom the Heralds (who were Judges) had of Winding an Horn at Juſts and Tournaments, when they explained and recorded the Atchievements of thoſe Knightly Sporters. The Word, through Cuſtom, is now brought to ſignify Deſcription; for to blazon, is to deſcribe the things born in Arms, as they ought with their proper Significations or Intendments. The Antients rendred it by Blaſonia. Monſieur Baron has Nobilium vel Gentilitiorum Scutorum explicatio, and you may uſe Deſcriptio ſeu Recitatio.

Blazonry, the ſame as Blazon.

Blanche, a French Word ſignifying White.

Blanch-Lyon, a Title or Deſignation of One of our Engliſh Purſuivants at Arms; in Latin it may be Armorum Servulus, quem à Leone dicunt albo.

Bordure, is a French Word ſignifying a Border, the Ancients expreſſed it in Latin by Borduru. Camden, as Mr. Gibbon obſerves, uſes Limbus in Stuarts Arms, Chiffletius the ſame in new Burgundia, and ſo Vredus in Crubeck, &c. But in Dreux and Norimbergh he uſes Margo, and Inſtita in Savoy. Monſieur Baron has Margo extimus, but Peacham has Fimbria, which conſidering its genuine Signification, is the more proper Word.

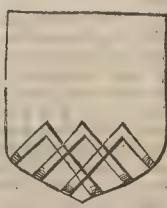

Bordured, i. e. bordered, by the Ancients (as in Libro Sancti Albani) Borduratus and Fimbriatus, which laſt is beſt.

Bottoné or Boutomé, See among Croſſes.

A Water-Bouget: This is a Bearing very rarely to be found in any foreign Author, though frequent, and very ancient in England. It may be rendred in Latin, ſaith Gibbon, Uter aquarius militaris; for ſuch indeed it is, being anciently uſed by Soldiers, to fetch Water to the Camp. And thus accordingly he blazons the Coat of Roſſe, a Baron of great Account under King Henry II. and that married the Daughter of the King of Scots, viz. Geſtabat tres utores aquarios militares ex argento, in Scuto miniato.

Branched, any thing ſpread into Branches.

Brazed, is a Term I never met with, but to deſcribe this manner of Bearing three Chevrons; it comes from the French Word Bras, which ſignifies Arms, which are often folded or interlaced.

Breteſſé, ou des Baſtonnades; the French thus term what we call imbattiled, counter-imbattiled, that is imbattiled on both Sides. In the Latin, Utrimque pinnatus, is very expreſſive.

Briſé, a French Word ſignifying any thing broken, as a Chevron, or other Ordinary; in the Latin, fractus, or Ruptus will ſerve, but then the Form in which ſuch Ordinary is broken, ought to be expreſſed.

Briſure, by this Word the French expreſs filial or familique Differences born in Coat-Armour, becauſe as they ſay, they ſeem to break the principal Figure with which they are carried. Their Countryman Baron, renders it in Latin, Adſcititia Sectio, we term them Differences, and in Latin, Diminutiones vel diſcernicula Armorum, thus Mackenzie.

Brochant, any thing running as it were over another, in Latin, ſupercurrens.

Bu-

Burelle, See Barrelet.
Burellé, See Barruly.

C.

Aboched or Aboſſed, from Aboche in French which ſignifies an Head, is uſed when Beaſts Heads are born without any part of the Neck full faced. Mr. Gibbon in Latin renders it Cervorum, Taurorum Ora, Harts or Bull's Heads aboſſed, to juſtify which, he quotes Chiffletius, who has Leopardorum roſtra, or Leopardorum Ora, blazoning the Arms of Stanley, In Scuto Argenteo, Taniam obliquam cyaneam, tribus cervinis oribus impreſſam aureis; but as this will not do ſo well where the Horns are of another Tincture, he has Tria cervina capita argentea (ora obvertentia) quibus cornua ſunt aurea in parma nigra for Cavendiſh.

Cabré, This is a French Term ſignifying erect. Monſieur Baron has Cheval cabré, we ſhould ſay an Horſe Saliant, or erected on his hind Feet, in Latin, erectus or ſaliens, might ſerve.

Caltraps, by ſome Cheval Traps, and in French, Chauſſe-trappes; Mr. Gibbon is for Gal-traps, they being uſed in War, thrown into the Way, to gall the Horſe, which they do, always having one Point upright, howſoever they are flung. Boſwel terms them Murices and Tribuli, but in regard Murex and Tribulus have other Significations, Mr. Gibbon is for adding bellica inſtrumenta, and thus he blazons the Arms of Trapps, Tria bellica inſtrumenta (Muricesvel Tribulos vocant) nigra, in Campo candido.

Canton, is a French Word ſignifying a Quarter, or rather a Corner, as the Figure repreſents. The Book of St. Albans, Camden, and Vredus call it Angulus, and Gibbon thinks Angulus quadratus, dexter & ſiniſter is ſignificant for both our Canton, dexter and ſiniſter, Vredus, he informs us, doth alſo uſe Quadrans Angularis. He himſelf blazons the Coat of Sutton, Scutum muris Armenii vellere, ſimulque Quadrante angulari dextro nigro, decoratum; or thus, Scutum argenteum Pontici muris maculis interſtinctum & in dextro angulo quadratè nigrum: Or thus, ad dextram colore nigro quadratè angulatum. But then taking Quadra to be a better Word than Quadrans, he uſeth that in his Blazon of Sir Stephen Fox's Arms, viz. Clypeus argenteus, maculis Armenii muris interſtinctus, cui impositur Tignum caruleum, tribus Vulpinis capitibus aureis Collum laceris impreſſum, itidèmque (ad dextrum angulum) Quadra cyanea Lilio Gallico decorata. This Figure is one of the nine honourable Ordinaries, and of great Eſteem.

Cantonnée, this is alſo a French Word, and uſed by them to expreſs the Poſition of ſuch Things as are born with a Croſs, &c. between, which the Scots for the generality imitate, when we ſay a Croſs between four Scallops, &c. They ſay De gueules à la Croix d'argent cantonnée de quatre Coquilles de meſme. The Book of St. Albans, and Vredus, ſaith Gibbon, render it Angulatus, which Baron alſo hath, and Stipatus. 'Tis my Opinion, Crux inter quatuor, &c. is as expreſſive.

Carbuncle or Eſcarbuncle, One of the precious Stones. The Ancients drew it in this Form, meaning to expreſs by thoſe Beams or Rays which iſſue from the Center, which is the Stone, its tranſcendent Luſtre. Gibbon from Vredus and Chiffletius calls it Carbunculus Linearis, by the latter Word, meaning thoſe Lines or Rays.

Caſque, the French Word for Helmet, in Latin, Galea.

Cercle,——a French Term, in Latin rendred by Baron, Diadematus.

Chappeau, is the common French Word for a Cap or Hat; but here it is taken for an ancient Cap of Dignity worn by Dukes, being Scarlet coloured Velvet on the Outſide, and lin'd with a Fur; of late frequently to be met above an Helmet, inſtead of a Wreath under Gentlemens Creſts But formerly they were rarely to be found the Right of private Families, among whom they became ſo frequent together with Ducal Coronets by the Grants of Robert Cook, Eſq; Clarencieux, and others ſince him; but by his in particular.

Chaperonne, An old French Word, ſignifying an Hood; whence by way of Figure called Metonymia Subjecti, it is become the Name of thoſe little Shields containing Deaths Heads, and other Funeral Devices, placed upon the Foreheads of the Horſes that draw Hearſes at pompous Funerals, vulgarly now called, by Corruption, Chaperoons or Shafferoons, becauſe theſe Devices were anciently faſtned to the Chaperonnes thoſe Horſes uſed to wear with their other Coverings of Eſtate, juſt as Arms are become the Name to the ancient Devices painted upon Arms, that is Shields, &c.

Chaperonné, that is, Hooded. Monſieur Baron renders it in Latin, Calyptratus. I have given you one Inſtance in a French Coat, of bearing a Chief after this manner, in the Diſplay, whither I refer you.

Chapournet, a little Hood uſed by Guillim erroneouſly in the Coat above-mentioned, to be in his Diſplay.

Charge; by the Charge of a Shield, we underſtand the Impreſs or Figures therein contained. In Latin it may be Impreſſus or figura.

Super-charge; by this Heralds expreſs one Figure charged or born upon another, as a Roſe upon a Lyon, a Lyon upon an Ordinary, or the like. In Latin it is figurâ ſuper, vel in figuram poſita.

Charged, a Shield carrying ſome Impreſs or Figure is ſaid to be charged therewith. Chiffletius and Vredus uſe the Adjectives Impreſſus and Exaratus in many places. Vredus uſeth alſo Onuſtus, and Chiffletius, Adpictus, but makes it applicable indeed to the thing born, not to the Field, and then Inſcriptus, which he uſeth in both Senſes. Monſieur Baron hath Impreſſus and ferens. Camden hath Scutum Ornatum; and as Mr. Gibbon obſerves, you may alſo ſay Scutum Inſignitum, ſeu decoratum. The French ſay, chargé.

Checquy or Checquer Bearing. The Ancients ſaith Gibbon, uſed Scaccatum, which ſhould rather be Scaciatum, as Peacham has it; but Teſſellatum, uſed by Petra Sancta, adds my Author, is a much better Word. Camden has, Argento & rubro interſtinctus; which Adjective is not particular enough ſerving as well well for Lozengy, Fusily, &c. Chiffletius says, Tessellarum Ductibus distinctum, and Vredus the same, and for a Fesse checquy, Ductu triplici tessellatum. Baron uses the same, also quadris contextus. The French Word is Echiqueté. 'Tis observable from Bara, Favin, and others, that the French mention of how many Panes their Checquer Work consists, and sometimes they only mention the fewest Number that appears, accounting as it were the rest a Field, or the Continent, as D'Azur à quatre Pieces d'Eschiquier d'Or, &c. but in England we are not so nice, but say only Checquy.

Chef, the French Word for a Chief, See Chief.

Chesse-rook, The Latin Term for this is, Alvei lusorii latrunculus, or lusorius latrunculus. Argent three Chesse-rooks, two, one, Sable, Tres lusurii Latrunculi duo, unus, coloris nigri, Scuto argenteo adjecti: Or thus, In parma argentea ternos alvei lusorii latrunculos atros.

Chevron; The Book of St. Albans renders it Signum Capitale, the Head-Tire of certain Women Priests. But this Conceit Mackenzie and Gibbon reject, together with the Term. The same Book hath also Tignum, which as proper for Barge Couplings or Rafters of an House, which the Chevron represents, is by most approved. Sir John Fern has both, Boswell the former, and Peacham the latter. Camden useth Chevernus, but with an, ut vocitant, allowing it to be barbarous Latin. Chiffletius, Vredus, and Baron have Cantherius, which together with Tignum.

Gibbon seems to approve, blazoning the Coat of Sir Nicholas Rainton, Lord-Mayor of London, Anno 1632, thus, In Scuto pullo Cantherium duobus hinc inde Cantheriolis aureis præcinctum, & inter tria quinquefolia ejusdem metalli interpositum. Sable, a Chevron between two Couple-Closes, and three Cinquefoils, Or. The Chevron is one of the Nine Honourable Ordinaries, and by Guillim, &c. said to contain a fifth Part of the Field.

Per Cheveron, or Party per Chevron. The Ancients used partitum ad modum signi Capitalis, but bipartitum ad modum Tigni or Cantherii, is much better. The French saith Gibbon would blazon such a Coat as Ashton, viz. per Chevron Sable and Argent, D'Argent chappé vestu, alias mantelé de Sable, beginning below, and in their Latine, Scutum argenteum ex nigro palliatum, alias manteliatum. I do not remember to have met any such Partition my self, I have such a Coat which I found to be blazon'd, De Sable à la point D'Argent, making the Bottom a Charge, which Baron reckons among the Pieces Honorables.

Cheveronel, is a Diminutive of the Chevron, containing one half, some as Leigh make this the same as the Couple-Close, others say, the latter is one half of the former. Gibbon makes no Difference, calling them both in Latin, Tigillum or Cantheriolum.

Cheverony, (in French, Chevronné,) signifies a Shield laid out into several equal Partitions, Chevron-wise. Baron expresseth it by Cantheriatus of so many Pieces; and Gibbon for Cheverony of six Gules and Argent, has Sex tigna miniata invicem & argentea, or thus, Clypeum in senas æquales coccineas vicissim & argenteas (pro tignorum modo) delineatum partes.

A Chief, in French, un Chef, a Word signifying an Head, as that is the Head of the Shield; 'tis one of the nine Ordinaries, and contains a third Part of the Field. The Ancients used Caput Scuti; but as Gibbon observes, the Substantive Summum is a better Word.

In Chief, by this we understand any thing born in the chief Part, or Top of a Scutcheon. The Ancients used in Capite, but in Summo, is better, I think.

Cimier, is a French Term, rarely or never used by us, and rendred in Latin by Monsieur Baron, Accessio Scuti coronaria.

Claricords, Vide Rests.

Clarine, is a Term by which French Heralds express a Collar of Bells round the Neck of any Beast, &c. Vache clarinée d' Azure. We should say a Cow, gorged with a Collar of Bells Azure. Monsieur Baron useth Cymbalatus & Claviculatus.

Clarions, Vide Rests.

Cleché, is a French Term, signifying any Ordinary pierced throughout, that is, when the whole Figure is so perforated, as that the chief Substance is lost, and nothing visible but the very Edges. Baron has Foratus; the Book of St. Albans, &c. perforatus, either of which, with the Addition of ad extrema, or extremitates, is very expressive, but without methinks they are not, especially in Crosses, &c. which admit of various Forms of Perforation.

Close; This is a Term borrowed from the French Word Clos, which signifies any thing closed or inclosed, and by us used to express the close bearing of such Birds Wings as are generally addicted to Flight, as an Eagle, Falcon, or Swallow, &c. close. But we do not say thus of the Peacock, Dunghil-Cock, &c. whose Action it generally is, that being understood in Latin; it may be rendred, Falco alis depositis, dimissis, contractis, &c. It is used also for Horse-Barnacles, or Bits, when they are not extended (as they are usually carried) as a Barnacle close, Pastomis clausa sive contracta; and for the bearing of an Helmet, with the Vizor down, Galea clausa, or a Close Helmet.

Closet, The diminutive, or half of the Bar.

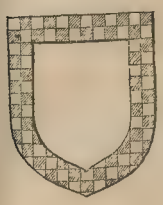

Colour, This the Ancients used to express by the Word Tincture, in Latin Tinctura, but of late the Word Color has been more frequent.

Combatant, that is to say fighting, in common French, in Latin, pugnantes, and used when any two Figures are represented in such an Action.

Componé, alias Gobony. Chiffletius in Burgundy for a Bordure, componé (which is the Figure annexed) hath Limbus ex argento & coccino angularibus compositus. Vredus follows him; but Mr. Gibbon thinks it is better to say Ductu Simplici, vel singulari è talibus coloribus tessellatum, or quadrangulatum; or as Chiffletius in Carniola says, Tessellarum argenti & minii ductu areolatum. Monsieur Baron hath Compositus, and Gibbon doth not find fault with it, but that he doth not think angularibus, when joined therewith, sufficiently expressive.

Conter-

Contre-Componé, as the French, or as we often say Counter-compony, is, when the Figure is compounded of two Panes, as the Cut; it may be expreſſed in the ſame manner as Componé afore-mentioned, with the Addition of duplici.

Conter-changed, or (as moſt commonly written) Counter-changed, denotes when any Field and Charge are divided or parted by any Line or Lines of Partition, conſiſting all interchangeably of the ſame Tinctures. The Book of St. Albans uſeth (ſaith Gibbon) De dictis coloribus tranſmutatum, and as he obſerves, we may ſay, Ex eiſdem coloribus viciſſim commutatum, which Adjective Camden alſo uſeth in the Arms of Alfreton; and thus he gives us the Arms of Calvert, Sex palos aureos & atros cum Baltheo humerali, in totidem Teſſellas (è dictis coloribus ſubalternatim commutatis) ſubdiviſo, i. e. Paly of Six Or and Sable a Bend counterchanged. But as it is Paly of ſix, not ſix Pales, I ſhould rather approve of Scutum de argento & atro ad modum Pali in ſex partes diviſum & ornatum cum Baltheo humerali, in totidem Teſſellas (è dictis coloribus ſubalternatim commutatis) ſubdiviſo.

Contrebandé, this is entirely a French Term, and uſed by them to expreſs, what we call Bendy of ſix per Bend ſiniſter counter-changed. Baron gives us the Coat of Gontin, viz. Contrebandé de Sable & d'Argent de quatorze pieces, that is of fourteen Pieces, counting the ſeveral Area's or Panes into which the Shield is divided, a Method never to be met with in our Practice.

Contrebarré, by Baron, Contravittatus; the ſame as our Bendy Siniſter per Bend counterchanged, as in the Coat of Melec, viz. Contrebarré d'Azur & d'Or de quatorze pieces.

Contr'écartelé, in Latin, Contraquadripartitus, and with us Counterquartered, or quarterly quartered, as I take it, that is, when any one of the Grand Quarters conſiſts quarterly of two or more Coats.

Contrechevronné, in Latin, contracantheriatus, ſignifies a Shield, as we ſay, Chevronny, and parted by ſome Line of Partition, but to ſay what Line (having never met with the Bearing to my remembrance) I am at a loſs, unleſs it ſhould be as in this annexed Figure, for ſo he gives his Contrebande; I mean, parted by the Line quite the Reverſe of thoſe with which the ſeveral general Diviſions of the Shield are made, and thus he alſo gives his Contrefacé, &c. following.

Contrefacé, by Monſieur Baron, rendred Contrafaſciatus, is by the French Heralds underſtood to ſignify what we call Barry per Pale counterchanged; but then as I obſerved under Contrebandé they always ſpecifie the Number of Panes into which the Field is divided, as in the Coat of Jurou, ſet forth in the ſame Author, viz. Contrefacé d'Or & de gueules de huit pieces.

Contrepalé, by Baron Contrapalatus, the ſame as our Paly per Feſs counterchanged, as in the Arms of Jouy, a French Family, viz. Contrepalé d'azur & d'Argent de huit pieces.

Contrepotencé, or as we ſay, Potent counterpotent, is uſed to expreſs what ſome, as Leigh obſerves, anciently called Varry cuppe, or Varry taſſie, and what he terms Meirre, though on what Account I know not, the Figure moſt certainly agreeing moſt with the Heads of Crutches in old Engliſh, called Potents; and all French Authors uſe Potencé contrepotencé, which Vredus renders in Latin Patibulatum, as ex hoc & illo colore Scutum patibulatum; and Baron in his L'Art Heraldique has contrapatibulatum.

Contrevairé, This Sort of Fur I never met with among Engliſh Writers, but the French have it as in the Coat of Du Bois, ſet forth by Monſieur Baron.

A Cotice or Cotiſe, is the fourth part of the Bend, and with us ſeldom if ever born but in Couples, with a Bend between them, whence I ſuppoſe they might have received that Name from the French Word Coſte, which ſignifies a Side, they being as it were born upon the Side of the Bend. Chiffletius, Baron, and others, render it in Latin, Taeniola, that is, a little Bend or Bendlet as we ſay; for the French do not allow ſo many Diminutives to their Pieces honorables as we.

Coticé, This may at firſt Sight ſeem to be what we term Coticed, but it is not; being the French Method of expreſſing any Scutcheon divided Bendways into many equal Parts, as in the Coat of Anois, which Baron blazons Coticé d'Argent & d'Azur de dix pieces.

But

But where it is divided indeed into but six, they say Bandé de six, &c. that is, Bendy of six, &c.

Cotoyé; This is the French Method of expressing what we understand by cottised; for Cotoye, signifying properly any thing accoasted or sided, doth very well here for the Bend. Monsieur Baron renders it in Latin, Utroque latere accinctus. But this Blazon wou'd not suit the Custom of England, which say only Cottised, that is, sided, as they mean, or a Bend between two Cottises, which may be rendred more plainly thus; In parma nigra Taniam diagonalem inter Taniolas duas gerit de Argento, or in scuto atro Taniam diagonalem argenteam & duabus taniolis, itidem argenteis, comitatam.

Couchant or Couché——both these are French Words, the former being the Participle, signifies lying along, or couching; the other, any thing couched or laid along; 'tis understood of a Beast, when so born in Arms. Monsieur Baron renders it Jacens; But Mr. Gibbon more properly useth Accubans and Cubans.

Coupé, by this is meant one of the honourable Lines of Partition among the French, viz. the same as our Party per Fess, and represents, as they tell us, a Cut overthwart the Shield received in Battle. Monsieur Baron useth Sectum, or transversé or horizontaliter bipartitum.

Couped, is as much as to say Cut, and is used to express when the Head or any other Limb of an Animal is cut off from the Trunk, and not forcibly erased or torn therefrom when the same appears jagged, &c. Couped is used also to denote such Crosses, Bars, Bends, Chevrons, &c. as do not touch the Sides of the Shield, but seem as it were to be cut therefrom. Mr. Gibbon useth à latere scuti disjunctum; and Chiffletius has, Oram scuti minime pertingens.

Counterpassant, by this we understand two Beasts, passing the contrary way to each other.

Counter saliant, when two are leaping different ways from each other.

Counter-tripping, as Counterpassant, applied only to Deer, who are said to trip.

A Couple-close——is so termed, I suppose, from its enclosing by Couples the Chevron, as it is most frequently carried; in Latin it may be Tigillum or Cantheriolus. Vide Cheveronel, which some take to be the same.

Courant, is a French Word signifying Running or Posting forwards, in which Sense we use it. Currens will serve in Latin Blazon.

Couronné, Crowned, in Latin, Coronatus, Redimitus.

Cousu, in Latin, Sutus, or adsutus that is sewed, being a Term we have taken from the French, to express any Ordinary as Chief, Bordure, &c. that we find born of Metal with Metal, or Colour with Colour; because it is a Rule, that Metal cannot be carried upon Metal, nor Colour upon Colour, but is understood to be sewed to, not carried upon the Field.

Crenelé, the French Term for imbattiled, frequently used by us also. See Imbattiled.

A Crescent, is that sort of half Moon, that hath its Horns turned upward; wherefore the French term it Croissant montant. Chiffletius hath Lunula and Luna Cornuta, neither of which sufficiently difference it from the Increscent, Decrescent, or Crescent reversed. Mr. Gibbon expresses the Posture of its Horns as Lunula cornibus sursum versis; when reversed, he has Cornibus deorsum versis; and for an Increscent or Decrescent, Lunula, with the Word increscens or decrescens.

Creste or Crête, is a French Word, signifying a Cap, or Comb, a Plume of Feathers upon the Head, or the like; in this Sense do we use it, thereby understanding those Devices with which Soldiers were wont to ornament the Tops of their Helmets, and render themselves terrible in Fight. Minshew in his Dictionary tells us it is Crista: Conus Galea, which as Gibbon observes, he takes out of Virgil, Lib. III.

A Cross; the common Latin Word is Crux, and for a Crosslet or little Cross, Crucicula according to Vredus, or Crux minuta as in Chiffletius. But this is to be understood of a Crosslet or little Cross, when it is not Crossed at the Extremities, which we term usually a Cross Crosslet, for then should you use the Adjective cruciata, or recruciata. In French a Cross is written Croix.

Crossways or in Cross; by this we understand the Position of such Figures, whose Location seems to form a kind of a Cross. Chiffletius and Vredus have in or ad modum crucis collocata.

Cry de Guerre, or the Cry of War, is any Sentence become a general Cry throughout an Army, upon its approach to Battle, with which the Assailants animate their Friends, and strive to discourage their Enemies. The Scots who have been much accustomed to this, term them Slughorns, or the Cry of War, but why Slughorn, I am to seek. The Latins, according to Monsieur Baron, have Alalagmus gentilitius.

D. ante A.

Dancette, by the French Danché or Dentelé in Latin, Denticulatus, Serratus, Runcinatus, &c. is a larger sort of Indenting. See Indented.

Debruised, a Term peculiar to the English, by which we would intimate the grievous Restraint of any Animal who is debarred its natural Freedom by any of the Ordinaries being laid over it.

A Delf: This Mr. Gibbon fetches from an old World Delve, which signifies to dig, and takes it to be a square Turf, or Clod of Earth, cut up by a Spade. He approves best of Delves, and so blazons them in the Coat pertaining to the Family of Delves. He thinks they may be properly writ, Glebas seu Cespites, longulé (seu oblongé) quadratos.

A Delf-Tenne, that is, a Delf of a Tawny Colour, which some of our Heralds would perswade us is the Rebatement, or Badge of Disgrace for him that revoketh his Challenge; But of these Whimsies I have already spoken sufficient.

Demi, or Demy, in French signifies half, and thus we use it as demi or half-Lion. Camden has Leo dimidiatus. Vredus has dimidius, and adds abs summo diruptus, to signify an halving per Pale.

Device, a French Word, signifying some witty Conceit, pointing out some more hidden Mystery. Monsieur Baron calls it Verbum Scutarium.

Diamond, the hardest and most valuable of all the precious Stones, 'tis of a blackish Cast; wherefore some of our fanciful Heralds have used the Word Diamond to express the Colour Black, among the Atchievements of Peerage, as though the Majesty of a Prince was lessened, to be told, that his Robe was Purple or Scarlet, or that his Shoes were black, or as though they really ceased to be Velvet, Leather, or the like, by being upon him.

Diapré,

Diapré, that is diapered, or a certain dividing of the Field in Panes, like Fret-work, and filling the same with Variety of Figures. Baron renders it variatus, which alone is insufficient, for those several Things of which it is variated, ought to be expressed.

Differences, are certain Additaments to Coat Armour, whereby something is added or altered, to shew Juniority, or a Removal from the principal House; in Latin, Diminutiones seu Discernicula Armorum. The French call them Brisures. See Brisure.

Diminution, a Lessening by the Addition of Differences, &c.

Displayed, is understood with regard to the thing spoken of, as a Display of Heraldry, the Title of Guillim's Work. But Display here meant, respects the Position of the Eagle's Body, or the Body of another Bird, so expanded as is our Spread-Eagle or Eagle display'd. Chifletius, Camden, and others, use Expansus. Vide Eployé.

Dormant, the Participle of Dormir, which in French signifies to sleep, or take a Nap. We thus express any Creature sleeping in Latin, Dormiens.

Doublings, We understand by these the Doublings or Linings of Robes or Mantles of Estate, or of the Mantlings in Atchievements.

Dragonné, a Term which the French use in their Bigenerous Serpents, to express such, whose hinder Part partakes of the Dragon, and especially when of a different Tincture from the rest of the Body.

Dragon's-Head, a Planet by which some whimsical Persons blazon the Colour Tenne or Tawny, in the Arms of Princes.

Dragon's-Tail, another Planet, used for the Colour Murray.

Drap de Banniere des navires, or Maritime Banner, Pannus vexillaris nauticus.

Drapeau, an Ensign or Standard: Vexillum.

Duke, the highest Title of English Peerage, next to the Prince of Wales; in Latin, Dux a Ducendo, from the Great Commands Dukes antiently had.

E.

AN Earl, the third Degree of English Peerage, being above a Viscount, and below a Marquess; in Latin, Comes.

Ecartelé, See quarterly.

Echiqueté, See chequy.

Ecu, the French Word for Scutcheon or Shield; in Latin, Scutum.

Ecusson, a little, or In-Escutcheon, in Latin, Scutulum.

Effaré, is a French Word, signifying any Thing scared, or put into a Passion, and is used to express the Action of an Horse or Unicorn, in such Case: As Licorne effareé, an Unicorn raised up in a fright, &c. in Latin, elatus.

Emanché, Vide Manche.

Emaux de l'Ecu, Scuti metalla & Colores, the Metal or Colour of the Shield.

Enaluron, is a Term Guillim makes use of to express a Bordure charged with Birds, as with an Enaluron of Martlets, &c. But Mackenzie justly condemns it, saying, it proceeded from Ignorance of the French Tongue. En aluron, signifying in Orle, or Form of a Bordure, and is applicable as well to the bearing any thing in that Form, but better omitted at all times.

An Endorse, is an Ordinary, containing the eighth Part of a Pale.

Endorsed, the Corruption of indorsed, erroneously used for addorsed, which signifies Things born Back to Back, indorsed being something added upon the Back of another. See Addorsed.

Englanté, in Latin, Glandibus opertus,

Engrailed, is a Term derived from the French Word Graisle or Gresle, which signifies any thing struck with Hail, which the Edges of this Bend seem to resemble, like to the Edges of the tender Leaf, which is often a sufferer thereby. It is rendred by the French, and most Foreigners in Latin, Striatus, and thus I will blazon the Coat of Ratcliff, In scuto argenteo gerit taniam atram diagonalem striatam. But it were better to say on both Sides, seeing it is not every where so written. Some have used Ingradatam.

Enté, is a French Word, and signifies any thing grafted or ingrafted; 'tis used by Foreign Heralds to express a Method of Marshalling, more frequently to be found abroad. I do not remember that I have met with one Instance of this Practice with us till now, which is the fourth grand Quarter of his Majesties Royal Ensign, whose Blazon I thus give; Brunswick and Lunenburgh, impaled with antient Saxony, enté en pointe, that is, grafted in Point or in form of that Ordinary. The French call it La Pointe, which resembles in some measure the lower part of our Party per Chevron. But we have not such an Ordinary in our Practice. Mr. Baron calls this enté insitus.

Entoyer or Entoire, an unaccountable Term like Enaluron, and used by some to express a Bordure, charged entirely with things without Life. I suppose Entire might at first give Birth to this Term; however, let that be as it will, in no place but this has it been used, and by none here of our most learned.

Enurny, another of those Terms apply'd to Bordures charged with Beasts.

Environné, is a Term the French use, when a Lyon or other Figure is environed or encompassed round with other things, and say environné with so many Bezants, &c. in Orle, or whatsoever other Form their Position may resemble. Mr. Baron useth Septus to the same End.

Eployé——Aigle eployé, is an Eagle displayed; some French Heralds have expressed this by Biceps; but Monsieur Baron justly condemneth them, and useth expansis alis, knowing that it regards the Action of the Creature, not its having two Heads, which has been also a mistaken Notion of some of our Writers, who would have an Eagle displayed, to be always an Eagle with two Heads; and therefore Mr. Gibbon from the Lord De l'Espinoy, in his Recherches of the Nobility of Flanders, mentions Aigle Sengle & doubles, and from Favine, Aigle simple & Aigle à fuele teste, which, as he adds, is worthy of Remark.

Equipé, the French Word, from whence our equipped, used generally to express a Knight armed at all Points. Mr Baron has instructus. You may say ad Bellum paratus.

Equipolé, Mr. Baron renders it in Latin, Alveolis alternatis descriptus.

Erased or Eraced; this Term signifies any thing torn or plucked off from the Part to which Nature fixed it, and as Gibbon observes, in small Creatures as Birds, Ermines and the like, it may be latiniz'd Distractus or Avulsus. But in Lyons and other Beasts where a more forcible Pull is required, you must describe it by Lacer or Laceratus, which well expresseth jagged, and Baron has extirpatus; but Old Heralds used Irasus; and some a little more refined, Erasus, but that, as Gibbon observes, must rather signify coupy, if there be such a Word, seeing that nothing cuts smoother than a Razor.

Ermine, is supposed by some to be the Tails of the Armenian Weasel or Rat, which being Black at the End, and the rest of pure White, composes a scarce and excellent Fur, fit for the Habits of Princes. Yet Writers do not agree in this Point, for some will have the Fur to consist of the whole Skins and Tails, and others are for fetching this little Creature out of the Kingdom of Pontus, each blazoning suitable to his Opinion. Mr. Gibbon, after speaking of others, blazons the Coat of Whetnall, viz. Vert, a Bend Ermine; gerentis in Clypeo viridi Baltheum humeralem muris armenii vellere impressum; and then anon, as leading to the Opinion that the Tails only are used, he finds fault with Vellere, and adviseth us rather to follow the French, who call them Mouchetures d'Hermines, that is, Ermine Spots; And so to say Muris Armenii (seu Pontici) maculis respersum, sive interstinctum, to which Mackenzie also enclines. But above all, the English are the most extravagant, we have found a particular Name for it, according as it appears in Colour, which Custom, the French and other Nations justly explode, viz.

Ermines, by this we would have you understand the Field to be Black, and the Spots White, as if the Number, whether singular or plural, would instruct the Tincture. The French say, Contre-Hermines, or De Sable Semé d'Hermines d' Argent, which is significant.

Erminites, The proper Signification of which Word must be little Ermines, as it is a Diminutive; but you must understand, if you can, that this signifies quite another thing, viz. a white Field powdered as before, with Black, but then every such Spot hath a little Red Hair on each.

Erminois, I will not venture to account for this Word, but know that it signifies a Yellow Field powdered with Black; for which the French say, D' Or semé d'Hermines de Sable. And I would ask the most strenuous of my Countrymen, if their Method, as it is intelligible, is not preferable; and how in Case of Need, they would write to be understood in another Country or Language as we understand them? I am sure they must take other Measures, or be laughed at upon such an Occasion; and I do not see but that Reason looks, to the full, as well in England, as any where.

An Escutcheon or Escotcheon, is as much as to say, a Shield, it being used here from the French, l'Ecu, or the Latin Word Scutum, which signifies the Shield or Buckler, and is derived from the Greek, Σκύτος, Corium or Pellis; because those ancient Shields were covered with the Hides of Beasts.

An Escutcheon of Pretence——is that Escutcheon in which a Man carries the Coat of his Wife, being an Heiress, and having Issue by her. 'Tis placed with us, as a Note of such Fortune, sur le tout (as the French say) that is over all (but they bear it not always on that Account) or over the Coat of the Husband, who thereby shews forth his Pretensions to her Lands. In Latin it may be rendred thus, after having blazon'd the Atchievement of the Husband (viz.) & in parma &c, (jure ejus indicante &c.) And I think, if super totum posita, or superposita was annexed, 'twould be better, because we in England only understand the Bearing of an Heiress in that manner; nay, I do not see why that Right should not be particulariz'd as to the Lands of his Wife; because as I have just now mentioned, that Form of Bearing among Foreigners doth not denote her to be an Heiress, and him to have Issue by her, as according to our Practice it doth, though with us the abovementioned Blazon would be perfectly understood.

Esquire,——According to Bracton, and other learned Authors, was anciently a Name of Service in regard of their Attendance on the Bodies of great Nobles or Peers, whose Arms they carried. Whence in Latin they were stiled Armigeri, or Bearers of Arms, but not of the Arms of their own Families as hath been erroneously conceived by some, but the Shields or Weapons of their Over-Lords as Learned Camden terms them. However these Armigeri were generally, if not always, Gentlemen of Blood; and as it was, and will be ever thought an Honour to serve, in such gallant Enterprises, such great Persons; so hath process of Time made that the Title of a Dignity betwixt that of a Gentleman, and a Knight.

Estoile, is a French Word, signifying a Star. See Mullet, and there you will find the Difference, &c.

Expanded or Expansed, See Display'd, it signifying the same.

F. ante A.

FACE,——is the French Word for our Fesse. See Fesse.

Facé,——is among the French the same as our Barry. See Barry.

A Fer de Moline, Milrind de, Inkmoline, or Inke de Moline, signify all the same thing, viz. the Iron of a Mill. The French, saith Gibbon, sometimes term it Anille, and sometimes Fer de Moulin, and hold it, according to Segoing that learned Advocate in his Tresor Heraldique, to be La piece de fer qui soustient la Meule tournante d'un Moulin, that is, that piece of Iron that upholdeth the moving Mill, wherefore we may term it in Latin, Ferrum molendinarium. I have given you their Form in three different Ways, the two former having been frequent in England, and the Latter in France, and the Low-Countries; being exhibited, saith Gibbon, by Bara, & Pratique des Armoires (p. 142.) which Latter describes it thus, Il le fait à guise de deux Croissans adossez & accouplez de deux plaques de fer, like two Crescents addorsed and coupled by two Plates of Iron.

A Fesse,——is one of our nine honourable Ordinaries, containing always a third Part of the Field, as in the Figure annexed. 'Tis taken for the Middle Belt, which some term Cingulum honoris, on which Account some call it Baltheus, which might do with the Adjective transversus, but not otherwise, because of the Bend before spoken of. But Chifflerius, Vredus, Camden, Baron, Minshew, and Mackenzie, use Fascia; quod significat Vinculum per mediam partem cingens transversè. Camden indeed useth Area and Arcola, and Vredus hath Zona, but these would suit better the Field, if any thing, and are very improper here.

Fess-ways, or in Fesse, Mr. Gibbon hath Fasciatim, & in loco Fasciæ, or Ordinatim ad Modum Fasciæ, which two last I think are very expressive; we understand thereby several things born after the manner of a Fess, that is, in a transverse Position.

Party per Fess, by this we understand any Shield dimidiated transverse. The Antients saith Mr. Gibbon used partitum ex transverso. But he adviseth us to to the Adverb transversè, as transversè sectum or bipartitum, also the Adverb Fasciatim; or else Ad Diametrum bipartitum. The French use only Parti, which denotes the manner of Partition only to themselves, therefore not to be followed.

The Fess Point, by this we understand the exact Middle of the Shield.

The Field, in an Escutcheon, is understood to be the whole Surface of the Shield, or the Continent, and so called (I suppose) because it contained those Atchievements which anciently were acquired in the Field. The Ancients latinized it by Campus. Vredus indeed has sometimes Area, Alveum, & Solum, which last Gibbon thinks to be the proper Word for the Ground Work of any Painting or Embroidery. However, of latter Years, Blazons in Latin have not expressed Bearings so frequently in a Field, as in a Shield, &c. Whence the Words Scutum, Parma, Clypeus, &c. have been of most frequent Use.

Fiché, A French Word, signifying our Fitchy, See Fitchy.

A File of three or more Labels. See Label.

A Fillet, is an Ordinary, which, according to Guillim, contains the fourth Part of a Chief.

Fimbriated, by this we understand an Ordinary, &c. having a narrow Bordure or Hem of another Tincture, in Latin Fimbriatus, and in French, Frangé, that is, edg'd or fring'd.

Fitchy or Fitché, this Word Mackenzie thinks we have corruptly taken from the French Word Fiché, which signifies any thing fix'd, being derived, as I suppose, from the Latin Word Figo, to fix or fasten. We use it chiefly in Crosses, when their lower Parts are made to pitch in the Ground, on which Account some old Blazons have picheé, and when the Points have been double, double-picheé. Vredus calls such Form Spiculatus, as Crux in imo Spiculata. Some have used Figitanus, and figitivus, as the Book of St. Albans, both of which Mr. Gibbon disapproves, especially the Latter, and rather recommends figibilis, or figenda, as a Cross, &c. fixable, or to be fastned.

Flanch, Flanque, or Flasque: Leigh would make these two distinct and Subordinate Ordinaries, but Mr. Gibbon very judiciously accounts them both One, and properly written Flanque, and that the last is no Word in Heraldry, and the first but a Corruption. Un Flanc, being a Side in French, which this Ordinary is as it were to the Shield; therefore my Author terms it in Latin, Latus or Latusculum, and (from its Form) adds the Epithet Gibbosum. He thinks also we may call it Segmentum gibbosum, or Orbiculi Segmentum; it being the Segment of a circular Superficies. They are ever born double.

Flanqué, that is flanck'd. By this the French express our Party per Saltire. Baron renders it in Latin, In decussim seu decussatè quadrifidus or quadripartitus. It may be also decussatus, or quadripartitus ad modum literæ X. And accordingly the Italians say, In forma della littera X. See Party per Saltire.

Fleury, Flory, Fleurty, Floretty, all which as Gibbon observes, amount but to Flowered, and are but corrupt Expressions to the same end, though some will have it they signify different ways of Flowering. The French use Florencé, and their Countryman Mr. Baron has Liliatus, which Gibbon also useth out of Camden, Vredus, &c. Chiffletius hath indeed foliatus, which is not so proper, because all Things flowered or flory in Arms, respect only the French Lilly or Fleur de lis.

Formé or Formy. See the Cross Pateé.

A Fret——is so termed as I conjecture, because the Pieces of which it is composed, seem to fret each other, by their alternate Superposition. Some have termed this a true Lover's Knot: Some others Harrington's Knot, because it is their Arms, and Nodo firmo their Motto. This Blazon might serve for their Coat, to those who know the Bearing, which it in no Case explains, therefore must not be used. Mr. Gibbon is for calling it Heraldorum Nodus Amatorius, or Heraldicus veri amoris Nodus. But no one can by this tell the Form of Heralds True Lovers Knot; therefore I must beg Leave to tell him his following Blazon, which he gives for those who dissent from his Opinion, is much better (viz.) Retis unicam maculam & duas Taniolas obliquas (dextram scilicet & sinistram) cuncta simul pro veri amoris nodo intertexta, which as he saith is Mathematical enough. The Ancients used Fretum simplex, which is barbarous Latin.

Fretty——in French, Fretté, is of six eight or more Pieces. The Ancients were wont to say Arma frettata of so many Pieces. Vredus hath Clathris scuto superpictis; and some instead of Clathris, Cancellis; some use the Adjectives Calthratus and Cancellatus, among whom is Monsieur Baron. But I am rather of Mr. Gibbon's Opinion, who blazons such a Bearing by Bacillis, as hereafter; for Arms laticed, which the French term Treillie, have their Pieces passing all over, and nail'd in the Joints; whereas these Bastons or Batons pass interchangeably one over and under another; so that laying aside both Clathrus and Cancellus, he blazons the Coat of the Lord Willoughby of Parham, viz. Azure fretty of eight Pieces: Or, thus. Gestat Scutum caruleum, octonis bacillis aureis impressum obliquis (quatuor dextris, totidemque sinistris) qui alius super alium (vicissim & subter) subalternatim interponuntur. Mr. Guillim derives the Term Fretty from the French Word Reiz, which signifies a Net, which if so, Reticulatum would be a very proper Word, as in the Coat of the Ancient Lords Etchingham of Sussex, viz. Azure Fretty of six Argent. Parmam caruleam tribus, ex argento, taniolis dextris, totidemque sinistris Reticulatum. But in this Variety of Opinions, I shall leave every one to his own Way, recommending only this, that he takes that Care in his Blazon, so to describe the Form, as that a Draught may be made therefrom.

Furché, See the Cross Furché.

A Furr in Heraldry is understood to be, either Ermine or Vaire, which are oftentimes carried instead of Metal or Colour in the Arms of Gentlemen. The Linings or Doublings of Mantlings in Atchievements are understood to be of Furr, whether powdered or plain.

A Fusil, The Ancients used Fusillus, Chassaneus calls it Fusa, and Peacham, Fusus, which Word Mr. Gibbon very much approves, the same being a Spindle, which is what we understand by the Fusil, and which when born of a Rhomboidal Form, is supposed to have the Yarn upon it, though when smaller, 'tis a Fusil simply.

Fusilly, by this Word we understand any Thing entirely full, as it were of Fusils. Guillim out of Upton has Fusillatum, but Gibbon is rather for Fusis interstinctum or distinctum, distinctum, as fusis aureis & caruleis interstinctum for Fusilly Or and Azure.

G.

Galthraps, See Calthraps.

Gambe——this is a French Word, signifying the same as Jambe, that is, a Leg or Shank, and in this Sense some Heralds have used it as a Chevron between 3 Lyons Gambes erased, &c.

A Garbe, this Term we have borrowed from the French Word Gerbe or Jarbe, by which they express a Sheaf of any kind of Grain, and so we understand it. Gibbon from Ferne calls it Fascis frumentarius, which is a very proper Expression.

Gardant is a French Word, signifying guarding, preserving, &c. in Heraldry 'tis understood to represent any Thing full-fac'd, because that Action seems to imply a Watchfulness. In Latin it may be rendred Obverso ore, as Camden has it, or you may say Leonem os obvertentem, &c. The French use Gardant, and we take it from them.

Re-gardant, by this we understand any thing looking behind him, in Latin you may use Retrospiciens.

Knights of the Garter, See Knight.

Garter,——is the Designation of the Principal Herald, or King of Arms in England, who is so termed in regard of his Place, being to attend upon the Knights Companions of the Order of the Garter in their Chapters, &c.

Gartier, according to Guillim, is an Ordinary, the Diminutive of a Bend, containing one half, and representing a Garter.

Gemells, See Barrs-gemells.

A Gentleman, is one whom his Birth and Race hath made Noble, in Latin, Generosus.

Gentry, by this we understand the Lesser Nobility, as Knights, Esquires, Gentlemen. In Latin they may be called Nobiles Minores.

A Goar, See Gore.

Gobone, or Gobonated, saith Gibbon, is a Word used in Carving, (as to Gobon a Lamprey or the like, in seven or eight Pieces) it is the same with Componé, which see,

Contre-Gobone or Counter-gobbony, is the same as Contre-componé, which see.

A Gore, is one of the whimsical Rebatements, and signifies, according to Guillim, a Coward; 'tis a Figure consisting of two arched Lines drawn one from the Sinister Chief, and the other from the Sinister Base, both meeting in an acute Angle, in the Middle or Fess-point.

Guirony——See Gyrony.

Gules, by this we understand the Colour Red. Mackenzie thinks it might come from the Hebrew Word Gule, which signifies a Rose, which Flower is generally Red, or else from Gulude, a Piece of Red Cloth. 'Tis in Latin, Ruber, &c. and known in Etching by perpendicular Lines.

Gusset, is one of the whimsical Abatements of Honour, for a Person who is either Lascivious, Effeminate, or a Sot, or all; being formed by a Line drawn from the dexter or sinister chief Points, and falling down perpendicularly to the extream Base.

Gutty; by this we understand any thing full of Drops, Guttis respersum or imbricum, according to Gibbon; at which time we shou'd name the Colour of those Drops, as for instance, gestat parmam argenteam guttis atris respersam. There is an English Author saith Gibbon, so finical, that he will have red Drops to be Gutté de Sang, or Drops of Blood; those that are black, Gutté de Poix (of Pitch;) if white Gutté de l'Eau (of Water;) and if blue, Gutté de Larmes, that is, Drops of Tears. But the French and other Nations know not these Novelties; but say Gutté of such or such Colours.

Guzes,——by these we understand Roundles born of the Sanguine or Murrey Colour. But this also is another Whim of the English, who give different Names to each Roundle, as they differ in Tincture; the French and other Nations, saying torteaux de Murrey, &c. always naming the Colour of which they consist.

Gyrony or Guirony, or Gironé or Gironné, as the French say, signify the same, our Expression being but theirs corrupted. The Word Giron in French signifies the Lap; for suppose one sitting (the Knees posited somewhat asunder) imagining also a traverse Line, from one Knee to the other, the same with the two Thighs, makes a Giron. The Ancients used to term such Bearings Arma contra conata, of so many Pieces. And thus doth Fern, Mackenzie, and others. But Gibbon thinks the Word something barbarous, and adviseth us rather to the Substantive Conus, whence the other is coined, saying, Scutum Segmentis duodenis in conorum modum, ex auro vicissim & cyano, interstinctum; or else Scutum conis duodenis, aureis vicissim & caruleis interstinctum; for Gironny of 12 Or and Azure; But rather than all, he chuseth the Word Cuneatus, from Cuneus, a Wedge, of which Form a Giron is, saying, Scutum Segmentis denis, ex auro vicissim & cyano, cuneatum; for Gironné of ten Or and Azure. Sometimes where the Girons are formed directly by the several Lines of Partition, he describes them by those Lines, in all which, the Reader is left to his own Humour.

H.

Habergion, is a little Coat of Mail, or only Sleeves and Gorget of Mail.

Hauriant, a Term used to express any Fish erected upright, being taken from Hauriens, piscis hauriens halitum, or piscis anhelans erectus.

Heaulme, the French Word for an Helmet.

An Herald, is an Officer of Arms, termed by the French, Herault, quasi Herus Altus. But Verstegan brings it from the Teutonick Words Here, exercitus, and Healt, Pugil magnanimus, as though they took Name from being Champions of an Army. Their Business was to declare War, or proclaim Peace, and to execute Marshal Messages, &c. The Romans called them Caduceatores & Feciales à Fœdere faciendo. Of the great Esteem, &c. in which they were held, see my Tract of their Power, &c. Their Office now is to Marſhall all Royal and Noble Cavalcades and Ceremonies at Coronations, Inſtallations, Creations, &c. to record and blazon the Arms of the Nobility and Gentry, and to regulate any Abuſes relating to their Uſe, &c.

is

Heraldry, in Latin, Ars Heraldica; in French, L'Art heraldique, or the Heralds Art, being a Science conſiſting in the Knowledge of thoſe Royal Ceremonies, Arms, &c.

The Honour Point is as it were the Neck of the Scutcheon, between the Feſs or Middle, and the Chief Point; it is termed the Honour Point in regard it frequently contains Augmentations of Honour, as the Neck of a Man frequently ſupports the Ornaments of a Honourable Eſtate or Dignity.

An Humet, See a Bar.

Humetty, See Couped.

Hunters Horns (or Bugle Hornes) are of two Sorts, ſemicircular and ſtraight; the firſt are termed in Latin, Litui or Buccinæ incurvæ, and are frequent in Arms; the other Buccinæ porrectæ, and ſcarce to be met with in Coat Armour. When the Baudrick or Belt is of another Colour, it is mentioned; as Buccinam incurvam cæruleam ceſto appenſam rubro in parma aurea, that is Or, an Hunters Horn Azure, ſtrung Gules.

Hurts or Huerts; theſe ſome Heralds take to be Bruiſes, others think them Hurtle-berries, being little blue Roundles, which the French, and other Foreigners term Torteauxes d'Azure, and which I would have an Eye to in any Tranſlation into Latin, ſaying Tortellæ Cæruleæ, &c. We in England only, diſtinguiſh the ſaid Roundles by different Names according to their Tinctures.

I.

Jeſſant, is a Term which ſome Heralds uſe to expreſs a Lyon, or any other Figure, born jacent, or as it were over all, having a Chief or other Ordinary under ſome part of it; it is alſo uſed to expreſs the bearing of Fleurs de Lis through Leopard's Faces, as in the Coat of Morley, in the Diſplay. But whence, or why, they have ſuch a Term, I am to ſeek.

Imbatteled or Crenelle, which latter is the French Word, and derived from Cren, which ſignifies a Notch. The old Word among Heralds, was Kernellatum. But Vredus uſeth Pinnatus, ſo doth Baron, Mackenzie, and Gibbon, who blazons the Coat of Boile, Earl of Burlington, Clypeum (argento & coccino, dextrorſus obliquo, & pinnato) bipartitum; Or thus, Oblique dextrorsùs, argento & coccino in Pinnorum modum junctim bipartitum: Or, as you may ſay, Loricis operato; Party per Bend crenellé Argent & Gules.

Imbordured; by this Guillim would intimate any Field bordured with the ſame Tincture.

Impaling, is properly the halving or dimidiating any thing by a perpendicular Line; in Heraldry 'tis uſed to expreſs the Manner of Marſhalling the Arms of Man and Wife, which anciently was done in that manner; that is, the dexter half of the Man's Coat was joined with the ſiniſter half of the Woman's; but of later Years, the two Coats compleat, are joined together, yet retain the ſame Term, and are ſaid to be impal'd.

Increſcent, See Creſcent.

Indented: Liber Sancti Albani hath Indentatus, Vredus Dentatus (ſo hath Skinner) Denticulatus, which is uſed alſo by Baron, Mackenzie, &c. and much approved by Gibbon.

Indorſed, by this we underſtand any thing born back to back; but I think Addorſed a much better Expreſſion, the other ſignifying ſomething upon the Back of another. The Book of St. Albans hath ad invicem terga vertentes, which word invicem, Gibbon doth not approve, as it ſignifies rather ſomething done by Courſe than any fixed Poſition; recommending us rather to Vredus, who uſeth obverſis tergis (in the Ablative Caſe, Abſolute) and Tergo obverſis.

Inescutcheon, is a ſmall Scutcheon, born within the Shield, and one of the Ordinaries according to Guillim.

Ingrailed, is the Form of the Line here drawn, and is called by Spelman, imbricatus, and in the Book of St. Albans, ingradatus, both of which are condemned by Gibbon, who adheres rather to Guillim's ingrediatus, becauſe the Points ſeem to enter into the Field. Yet he doth not think that ſufficiently expreſſive of it ſelf, ſeeing the ſame might be ſaid of Inveck'd. Therefore he blazons Colepeper's Coat Argent, a Bend engrailed, Gules; Baltheum Humeralem ſanguineum, utrinque ingrediatum in parma Argentea, id eſt, per totam utramque oram in Semilunulas delineatam. If a Croſs be engrailed, he terms it Crucem ingrediatam, hoc eſt, ad oras, in Semilunulas delineatam. But the French, who take it to repreſent any thing ſtruck, and notched by Hail, uſe Striatus, as doth Mackenzie and others. See Engrailed.

Invecked, is according to the Example, and more frequent in France than among us. They term it Canelé, that is, furrowed. The Book of St. Albans hath Invectus, and ſo hath Guillim, who brings the Term from inveho. But Gibbon as before, in ingrediatus, thinks it not ſufficiently expreſſive, unleſs we come in with an id eſt Gibbis, or lineis gibboſis, infra Clauſum, for a Chief; and variis gibbis, or variis lineis gibboſis utrinq; operatum, for the Example. What is one way on the upper Side, being the contrary on the Other, you cannot uſe Linea arcuata or Convexa. If a Croſs be Inveck'd, he expreſſeth it, Crucem invectam; hoc eſt (ad oras) gibbis (ſeu gibboſis lineis) operatam vel delineatam.

Iſſuant, corruptly (as I ſuppoſe) uſed from the French, Iſſant, the Meaning of which, is iſſuing or coming forth, which alſo is the direct Signification of the Word Naiſſant. Yet Heralds diſpute their Significations when uſed as Terms in Heraldry: Some being of Opinion, that when a Lyon is termed Iſſuant, he ſhews but his Head, the Top of his Tail, Tail, and the Ends of his Fore-Legs; whereas Naiſſant is generally underſtood to be the upper half of the Lyon; wherefore to avoid confounding theſe Terms, as Mr. Gibbon obſerves, we ſhould expreſs what part of the Lyon appears, and ſay either a demy-Lyon, as Leo dimidiatus emergens, or Leo emergens ad humeros; ad lumbos, &c. & Caudam, or extremamq; caudam monſtrans. The Words naſcens, exeuns, &c. are as good.

Junelles, See a Bar gemell.

Jupiter, one of the Seven Planets, uſed by ſome whimſical Heralds, to expreſs the Colour Blue, when born by Princes or Free-Eſtates.

K.

A KING——derived, as is ſaid, from the Old Saxon or Teutonick Word, Koning or Konnen, ſignifies a Sovereign Prince or Ruler, in Latin, Rex à regendo.

A King of Arms, is one of the Principal Heralds, of which we have three, Garter, Clarenceulx, and Norroy, in Latin, Rex Armorum, with his adjunct Title.

Knight, is derived from the Saxon Word Cnicht. Bracton calls them Rad-cnichts Gallant bound by Tenure, with their Servants and Dependants to attend their Sovereigns in his Wars, whence anciently it was a Name of Service; in Latin, they are ſtiled Milites, Equites, Equites aurei, &c. but ſee Logan's Analogia, herewith bound.

Knight Banneret, A Dignity almoſt forgotten in England, but formerly of great Account, being obtained for Service in the Field, they preceed Knights Batchelors. See the Analogia Honorum.

Knight and Baronet, is an Hereditary Dignity, as much as to ſay, little Barons, they preceed Knights of the Bath, and Knights Batchelors. See the Analogia.

Knight-Batchelors, i. e. Knights ſimply, being the loweſt, but moſt ancient Order. See the Analogia.

Knights of the Bath, is another Dignity, almoſt wore out, they preceed Knights-Batchelors, but give place to Baronets. See the Analogia.

Knights of the Garter, is the Sovereign Order of Knighthood in England, firſt Inſtituted by King Edward III. See the Analogia.

L.

A LABEL: Authors differ concerning what this really is, wherefore we need not wonder it hath met with various Names. Camden has Lemniſcus Quintuplex, triplex, quadruplex, &c. Vredus has Lemniſcatus, tribus palis lemniſcatum, & quatuor vacerris lemniſcatum. Chiffletius uſeth Limbus tripes; Vredus Limbus quinquepartitum; and Lambella quinque partium; which laſt Word is a Barbariſm, and the other more proper for a Bordure. Vredus hath alſo Faſciolà triſida, (in Capite;) to diſtinguiſh it from a Feſs of three Pieces. But Gibbon approves beſt of Faſciola tripliciter lemniſcata, or quadrupliciter, &c.

Labels, the Ribband that hangs down from a Mitre or Coronet.

Langued, See before in Armed, in French Lampaſſé, or Langué.

Leopards-Heads (rather to be termed Faces) Chiffletius hath Pardorum Roſtra, but a Roſtrum, ſtrictly ſpeaking, is applicable to Birds. Mr. Gibbon uſeth Ora Leopardorum, for which he appeals to Camden.

A Lozenge, or Lozange, as the French ſay, the Ancients expreſſed by Lozangia, a barbarous Word. Chiffletitius, Fern, &c. have uſed Teſſera and Teſſella, &c. Baron hath Plinthium, which ſignifies a Tile; he hath alſo Rhombus oxigonius which is very expreſſive, and approved by Mr. Gibbon, together with its diminutive Rhombulus, uſed by learned Camden, and to which he ſeems moſt enclined, as by his Blazon of the Coat of Hyde viz. in Scuto cæruleo, Tignum aureum inter tres Rhombulos ejuſdem coloris interpoſitum. Azure, a Chevron between three Lozenges Or. It differs from the Fuſil, in that it is more upon the Square. See Lozenges in the Diſplay.

Lozengy or Lozangé, may be expreſſed by Rhombulis interſtinctus as Clypeus Rhombulis argenteis & rubeis interſtinctus, Lozengy Argent and Gules.

M.

A Manch, which the French, by reaſon of the Old Faſhion, call Manche mal taillé, or a Sleeve ill cut out; we may very properly term it Manica antiqua forma.

A Mantle, ſuch as Arms are uſually adorned with, may be termed Mantelium or pallium, according to Gibbon; but that methinks ſhould regard the Cloak Mantle, and not our foliage Work now in uſe, which Mackenzie tells us, was never intended to repreſent a Covering to the Bearer or his Shield, but only to his Helmet, and carried to ſhew the Variety of its jagged Cuts ſuſtained in Battle, which was in ſome meaſure of their Form, by the fluttering of the Wind. See my Diſcourſe of Mantles in Guillim's Diſplay.

A Marqueſs, a Title of Engliſh and Scotch Peerage, next to a Duke. See the Analogia.

Mars, the Name of one of the Planets; in Heraldry 'tis by ſome uſed to expreſs the Colour Gules, or Red, in the Armes of Princes and free Eſtates.

Marſhal, is derived from the German Words, Mar, an Horſe, and Scalch a Ruler, and ſignifies a Maſter of Horſe, according to that Etymology. With us now we have ſeveral conſiderable Officers ſo deſigned, particularly the Earl Marſhal of England, whoſe Office, &c. ſee in my Tract to that End herewith bound up.

Marſhalling, in Heraldry, is underſtood to be the regular ranging or diſpoſing of diverſe Coats in One Shield, to denote Marriages, Deſcent, Alliances, &c. in Latin, Cumulatio Armorum. A Mart-

A Martlet, in Latin, Merula, according to Vredus, is a little ſwift Bird, that uſed to build in Caſtles and high Turrets; 'tis painted without Feet, and is what we term the Martinet, ſo frequent to be ſeen in our Suburbs, under the Corniſhes of our Houſes, whoſe Feet are ſo ſhort, as very ſeldom to be ſeen, and their Wings ſo long, that, ſhould they pitch upon a Level, they would not be able to riſe; wherefore they alight not, but on Places aloft, that they may take Flight again, by throwing themſelves off.

A Maſcle, in French, Macle, was written by the Ancients, Maſcula; but Legonius, Le Trophee d'Armes, Baron, Mackenzie, and indeed moſt late Authors uſe Macula, in that they are ſaid to repreſent Spots in certain Flints about Roſes by ſome, and by others the Maſh of a Net. You may alſo term them Maculæ Retium or Caſſium, or Rhombulos evacuatos.

Maſſoned, which ſignifies the Setting or Joining of Stones in a Building, by the French, Maſſonné, and in Latin, Lapidum juncturis fuſcis, according to Chifletius. But Baron uſeth only Glutinatus.

Meirre, See Counterpotent.

Membré, being the French Word for Membred or Legg'd, as we ſay, is in Latin, Tibiatus. See Beak'd and Membred.

Mercury, the leaſt of the Seven Planets, is by ſome uſed to expreſs the Colour Purpure, in the Arms of Sovereign Princes.

Meſie, See triangled.

A Milrind, See Fer de Moline.

Moline, See Croſs Moline.

Mooted, by this we underſtand any Tree that is eradicated or torn up by the Roots. In Latin, Eradicatus.

Montant, by this the French expreſs any Animal lying upon its Back, with its Belly upwards careleſsly. In Latin, Reſupinus.

Morné, a French Word for any thing born lame or imperfect. In Latin it is rendred by Baron Mutilus.

A Motto, is an Italian Word, ſignifying Verbum, that is, that Word or Saying which Gentlemen carry in a Scroll under (generally and ſometimes over) their Arms. Camden renders it in Latin by Inſcriptio. Some will have it Epigraphe. But there is nothing better than the two Former, and Dictum. Of theſe Motto's, ſome allude to the Name of the Bearer, others to the Bearings, and ſome to neither; containing only ſome ſhort Sentence, either Divine, or Heroick, juſt as the Deviſer was diſpoſed.

A Mound, is the Sign of Imperial Authority, being a Ball or Globe, encircled, and having a Croſs on the Top, frequently to be met with in the Pictures of Princes.

A Mullet. All French Authors, ſaith Gibbon and Mackenzie, take this for the Rowel of a Spur, which Molette ſignifies in their Language, and they affirm it muſt be always pierced, which differenceth it from a Star, that is never ſo. Our Engliſh, are ſome of them for having it a Meteor, or falling Star, making other Diſtinctions betwixt them and Eſtoiles or Stars, which I omit. Rotula calcaris is Latin for a Rowel of a Spur, and Minſhew ſays, that the Greeks call a Rowel, ἀστεολον, which is Stellula: If ſo, as Gibbon obſerves, then is Stellula calcaris, a moſt proper Expreſſion; and my Author is for differencing the Mullet from the Eſtoil, by expreſſing the waved Form of a Star's Rays, with us, and the Plainneſs of the Points of a Mullet. In aream Cyaneâ tres Stellas aureas, radiis ſex planis corruſcantes.

N.

NAiant, thus we term Fiſhes, when they are born in a tranſverſe or ſwimming Poſture, ſuppoſing them to be ſwimming, which the Word implies. In Latin we may ſay Nantes.

Naiſſant. See Iſſuant.

Nebulé or Nebuly, is, as in the Figure. The Ancients uſed Nebulatum; but whereas Nebula, ſignifies rather a Miſt than a Cloud, Nubes and Nubilum are more proper; and thus Mr. Gibbon blazons the Arms of Blount, viz. Scutum, ſenis (ex auro & atro) faſciolis nubilatis, exaratum. We uſe it from the French Nebuleux, which ſignifies Cloudy, their Term is ſometimes Nuancé, from Nuaux, a Cloud, and ſignifies Cloudy alſo.

Naurry, is a French Term, rendred in Latin by Monſieur Baron, Nutritus.

O.

AN Ogreſs, a Term which Heralds (only in England) give to Roundles that are Black, the French, and other Foreigners, ſay Torteauxes de Sable, and Tortellæ atræ, may do well in Latin.

Ombré, is ſhadowed in French, in Latin Inumbratus. See Adumbration.

Ondé, is waved or wavy in French. See Undy.

Onglé, that is Ungulatus, or as we ſay armed, when the Claws or Tallons of any rapacious Creature are of different Tinctures from their Bodies; in Latin I ſhould blazon them, as having Talons of ſuch a Colour, much rather than to ſay Armed, as it is more generally underſtood.

Or, is the Term by which we expreſs the Metal Gold, which the Word in French ſignifies, 'tis known in Etching by little Pricks or Points.

An Ordinary, is any one of thoſe Figures which by their Ordinary and frequent Uſe are become proper to the Science, ſuch as Pales, Bends, &c. whence 'tis that they are termed honourable Ordinaries.

Oreillé, in Latin, Auritus.

Orenge, Thus ſome have termed thoſe Roundles that are tenne, ſuppoſing them to be Oranges.

An Orle, in vulgar French ſignifies a Selvidge or Welt. The Ancients uſed Orula, which is ſomething barbarous. Vredus and Camden have Limbus, with the Addition of Duplex for the double Orle or Teſſure. The Book of St. Albans hath Tractus ſimplex, and Upton Tractum triplicatum, But Mr. Gibbon thinks, that if to Limbus (which ſignifies a Bordure) we added à Latere Scuti disjunctus, to ſhew that (as in the Figure) it doth not touch the Extremities of the Shield, it would be better, as it would alſo to add to Tractus, Scutum totum internè præcingens, denoting thereby, that this Trace goes round the Shield in the inner Side, and thus he blazons

In Orle, that is, ſeveral things born Orle ways, or in form of an Orle. Chiffletius uſeth ad oram poſitus, which Gibbon approves, and uſeth alſo.

Over All, thus we term any Figure which is born over another obſcuring Part thereof, together with part of the Field. The French term this kind of Bearing Brochant ſur le tout. The Latins, according to Vredus, In totam Areain protenſum; Toti ſuperinductum, and Omnibus impoſitum & ſuperimpoſitum.

P.

A Pale, is in Heraldry one of the nine honourable Ordinaries, containing a third Part of the Field, as in the Cut. Chiffletius, Vredus, Peacham, and others, uſe Palus, and Vredus hath alſo Vacerra.

A Pall or Croſs-Pall. See the Croſs-Pall.

A Pallet, is as much as to ſay, a ſmall Pale, it containing but one half thereof. In Latin, Palus minutus.

Party per Pale, by this we underſtand a Field dimidiated by a perpendicular Line. Chiffletius and Vredus hath abs ſummo bipartitum. The latter hath alſo ad perpendiculum bipartitum, and the Book of St. Albans, partitum Secundum Longum. The French ſay only parti. Vide Parti.

In Pale, by this we underſtand Things born one above another, in form of a Pale. The Ancients were wont to ſay, palata; tres Coronas palatas, as in the Book of St. Albans; But Gibbon recommends us to In palum collocatas, or palari ordine diſpoſitas. Vide One above another under the Letter, U.

Paly or Palé, as the French ſay, is when the Shield is divided into four or more equal Parts by perpendicular Lines, and for which the Ancients uſed Scutum palatum. But Mr. Gibbon from Vredus adviſeth us to Palus ſextuplex aureus & coccineus, or Sex palos aureos & coccineos. Paly of ſix Or, and Gules. Baron has Palis exaratus.

Paly Bendy, is when the Scutcheon is divided by Lines perpendicular and diagonal from the dexter chief Point. It may be tranſlated after the manner of Barry Bendy, &c. whether turn.

Pannes, is the Term by which the French underſtand Furrs, and their Countryman Baron renders it in Latin, Pelles. From this Word Mackenzie conjectures did proceed our whimſical Pean.

Papelonné, in Latin, Papillionatus.

Parti, this is the French Method of expreſſing Party per Pale. Baron renders it ſimply Partitus, ſometimes in Palum vel perpendiculariter diſſectus, which is much better, becauſe it denotes the manner of Partition.

Paſſant, by this we underſtand a Lyon, or any other Creature, paſſing along in a gradual Pace. Chiffletius and Vredus uſe Gradiens & incedens, ſo alſo doth Baron and Gibbon.

Paſſé, en Sautoir, by this the French expreſs any thing born in Saltire. See in Saltire. Baron Latinizeth it by Decuſſatus, or Decuſſim trajectus, which in my Opinion is better.

Pean, is to be underſtood as a Sort of Ermine where the Ground is Black, and the Powderings Yellow. The French ſay, de Sable Hermines d'Or, and I ſuppoſe our Pean may be introduced through Ignorance, from Des Pannes, which Name the French give to Furrs in general.

Pearl, is one of the precious Stones. In Heraldry, ſome whimſical Heralds have blazoned Silver in the Bearings of Peers, from a Duke to a Baron, and no lower.

Pellets, the ſame as Ogreſſes. See Ogreſſes.

Perforated, See pierced.

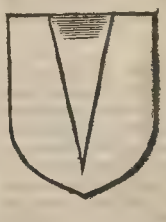

Pertranſient, is a paſſing or ſtriking through. In Latin, pertranſiens.

Pery, is a French Term, Latiniz'd by Baron, In medio poſitus or Situs.

A Pheon, is a kind of Miſſile Inſtrument, or Dart, with a Barbed Head, which Head is frequently born in Coat Armours, and termed a Pheon's Head by us; the Figure is in the Cut. The French call it Fer de dard, and accordingly Ferrum Jaculi is a proper Expreſſion in Latin, as Portat, in Scuto aureo ferrum Jaculi cyaneum acie (vel Cuſpide) deorſum poſita; i. e. Or, a Pheon's Head Point downwards, Azure.

Pierced, is when any Ordinary, &c. is born pierced. The Book of St. Albans hath Perforatus; but ſee more under the Title of a Croſs quarterly pierced.

A Pile, is an Ordinary as in the Cut, and taken for thoſe Piles on which Bridges, &c. are built. The Ancients uſed Pila ſimply. But Gibbon is for Pila pontis. The French according to Favine, (when he blazons the Arms of Sir John Chandois) ſay D'argent à un pieu (c'eſtoit un pal) aguiſé de gueuls. Which Word Pieu ſeems to be derived from Pied, a Foot, which if ſo, well may it be thought pes pontis. The Italians and Spaniards term them Cuſpides.

Pily Bendy or Bendy Pily, conſiſts of Piles placed Bend-ways, and extending from one ſide of the Scutcheon to the other, as in the Draught, which Gibbon Latinizeth thus, Pilas pontis obliquas (incerto numero) aureas & cyaneas viciſſim contrapoſitas, & per totum Scutum protenſas, cum angulo quadrato dextro, muris Armenii

Armenii vellere ſtrato. that is, Pily, Bendy, Or and Azure, a Canton Ermine; by the Name of Buck of Lincolnſhire.

A Plate, is a Silver Roundle, or Piece of Buſſion, without Impreſs: Foreigners render it in Latin, Beſantæ Angenti, according to the old way, or Nummus Bizantii Argenteus; it repreſenting the Silver Coin of Bizantium, or Conſtantinople, as it is now called.

A Point, is an Ordinary, ſomething like to a Pile, and riſing out of the Baſe. The French reckon it among their twelve honourable Pieces, and call it, according to Baron, Cuſpis.

In Point; thus we ſay when Swords, Piles, &c. are ſo born, as that their Points reſemble the end or point of a Pile. Mr. Gibbon in the Arms of Hollis, late Earl of Clare, has duabus (pontis) pilis, obliquè poſitis, & fere in imo cocuntibus, that is two Piles in Point.

The Points of a Star, with us are taken to repreſent its Rays, and therefore Radii, as Vredus uſeth, is a proper Expreſſion.

Point Champain or Point Champion Tenne, Point Dexter parted Tenne, Plain Point ſanguine, and Point in Point ſanguine, are all whimſical Abatements of Honour, as Leigh and Guillim would make you believe.

The Points of an Eſcutcheon are the ſeveral different Parts of an Eſcutcheon, denoting the Local Poſition of any Figure; as in the dexter and ſiniſter Chief Point, Feſs, Baſe, &c.

Pometté or Pometty. See a Croſs Pommetté.

Potent. See Croſs Potent.

Potent Counterpotent. See Conter or Contre-potent.

Powdering, is the Strewing or Filling up a Field irregularly with any ſmall Figures, as Ermine Spots, and their-like. In Latin, repletus.

A Prince——is one that governs a State, or the eldeſt Son of ſuch an One, ſtrictly ſpeaking; but we now-adays ſtile our Dukes the High and Mighty Prince, &c. in Latin, Princeps.

Proper——When any Animal Vegetable, &c. is born in Coat Armour, of its natural Hue or Tincture, we term ſuch thing to be born proper, that is, of its proper Colour. In Latin, Color nativus, or naturalis. Vredus hath the former.

Purflew, is a Term by which ſome fancy to expreſs a Bordure, or other Furr.

Purfiled or Purfled, is any thing traced out or sketched, in ſhort; in Heraldry it is underſtood to be what the Arms-Painters term the ſetting off of any thing; that is, thoſe hatching Strokes with which they particularize the Form of any Figure they ſhall have rubb'd in with a flat Colour; for ſuch, for want of better Judgement, has been the too common Method of Painting among thoſe of that Profeſſion, who are much amended of late Years, at which, it ſeems, ſome are diſpleaſed, who will have every thing ancient, to be Orthodox. Heralds ſay a Lyon Gules, or the like, purfiled Sable, Or, or the like; but this too is almoſt out of Doors now; and if it were quite, it were no matter. I never met it in any Foreign Author of Note.

Purpure or Pourpre, as the French ſay, is the Colour Purple. In Latin, purpureus color.

A Purſuivant, is the loweſt Order of Officers of Arms in the College, and may be termed Attendants on the Heralds, when they marſhal publick Ceremonies, &c. In Latin Gibbon deſigns himſelf Servulus Armorum of ſuch a Title, as quem à Mantelio dicunt cæruleo, that is Blue-mantle Purſuivant at Arms, which may ſerve as a Rule for the other Deſignations.

Q

A Quarter, is a Quadrangular Ordinary, reſembling a Banner, and containing a fourth part of the Field. The Antients uſed the barbarous Word quartera; Vredus has pars, which may as well ſerve another part as this; but then in other Places he has Quadrans, as alſo hath Chiffletius and Gibbon from both them.

Quarterly, is when a Shield is divided into four equal Parts, in form of a Croſs. The Ancients, as in the Book of St. Albans, uſed Scutum quarteratum & Arma quarterata; Camden hath quarteratim, and Gibbon Quadripartité which is better Latin; but the Blazon he gives preſently after, viz. Scutum in quatuor partes, lineis, ad crucis modum, ductis, ſectum, is more expreſſive, though more prolix.

Quartering; by quartering is underſtood the Marſhalling divers Coats in ſeparate Area's or Quarters in one Shield, for which ſee my Account of Marſhalling in the Diſplay. The Latins call Quarterings, Camulationes Armorum.

Queüé, in French, ſignifies a Tail, and is uſed to expreſs a Lyon with two Tails, as queüe furché, Caudibus duabus in Latin, or a Forked Tail.

R.

Racourcy, is a French Term, latinized by Baron Acciſus or Aſtrictus.

Raguly, See the Croſs Raguly.

Ramé, is a French Term latinized by Baron, Faſtigiatus.

Rampant, is the Participle of Ramper, which in French ſignifies to creep, wherefore Chiffletius hath for it Prorepens; but Segoing, a learned French Gentleman, takes it rather for a Corruption from the Latin Word Rapiens, which in French is Raviſſant, and accordingly Bara pag. 99, hath Rampant or Raviſſant; and the Book of St. Albans, Leonem rapacem. Yet Camden, in reference to the Action, hath only erectus, which Mr. Gibbon alſo follows, as doth Monſieur Baron, who hath alſo inſiliens, by theſe making a diſtinction betwixt Rampant and Raviſſant, which Latter he terms Irruens ſeu Rapiens.

Rangé, is a French Term, by which they underſtand ranged or placed, as ſo many Martlets, &c. placed in Saltire, Bend, or the like. Baron hath Ordinatus in Latin, which is a very good Word.

A Rebatement, is the ſame as Abatement. Vide Abatement.

Rebus's, by this, in Heraldry, is meant ſuch a Coat, as by its Figures alludes to the Name of the Bearer; as three Caſtles for Caſtleton, a Bear for Bernard, three Salmons for Salmon, &c. The French term theſe Des Armes parlantes, and we ſometimes, Canting Arms.

Recroiſé, is a French Word, ſignifying croſſed, as a Croſslet croſs'd, or as we ſay a Croſs-Croſslet. In Latin, Crucibus iteratus. See Croſs Croſslet.

Regardant, is a French Participle, ſignifying Retroſpiciens in the Latin, or looking behind, or towards the Tail in Engliſh.

A Reſt, is as the Figure before you; but that is not their only Name, for moſt Authors differ as to what they are. Leigh and Boſwel will have them to be Sufflues, i. e. Inſtruments that tranſmit the Wind from the Bellows to the Organ, being derived from Soufflet, a French Verb, ſignifying to blow; And which the Learned Segoing makes uſe of in his Blazon of the Arms of De-fargues, who carry, ſaith he, pag. 447. De gueuls à deux Soufflets d'Argent en Pal; that is Gules, two Sufflues in Pale Argent. Others again there are who will have them to be Reſts for an Horſeman's Staff, or Lance, and thus, omitting many Engliſh Authors, doth Favine, Tom. 2. pag. 170. blazon the Arms of one Branch of the Family of the Arando's of Spain, as D'Argent à la Bordure d'Or chargée de huict Arreſts de Lance d'Azure, which with us would be Argent a Bordure Couſu, Or, charged with eight Reſts (for Lances) Azure. Guillim places them among Muſical Inſtruments, calling them from Old Rolls Clarions. Gibbon ſpeaks of a Manuſcript he had, and another he had ſeen, which call them Claricymbals or Clavecimbals, in Latin, Clavecymbala; and his Opinion is, that the Old Rolls Guillim ſpeaks of miſtook Clarions for Claricords (Claricords and Clavicords, being by Minſhew, and others, rendred the Engliſh of Clavecymbala or Clavecordia, which anſwers to Harpſicords and Virginals,) and accordingly he blazons the Coat of Grenvile Clavecymbala tria aurea in Scuto rubro: And thoſe who will have them to be Reſts he adviſeth to hold them as Brackets or Organ Reſts, which, ſaith he, they reſemble; and thus he blazons the Coat of Beſſing of Staffordſhire, viz. Tria Organorum fulcra cyanea, in ſolo aureo; i. e. Or, three Organ Reſts Azure. But to my Reader I ſay only, utrum horum mavis accipe.

Reſarcelé, See the Croſs recercelé, or reſarcelé.

The Regalia, by this we underſtand all the Enſigns of any particular Honour or Dignity, which are uſed at a Funeral Pomp; it conſiſts of Banners, Guidons, Penſions, Standards, Helmets, Shields, Surcoat, Sword, Helmet, &c.—— in Latin, Regalia.

Reverſed, is any thing born the upper Side or End downwards.

A Ribbon, according to Guillim, is an Ordinarie, the Dimiuutive of a Bend, containing an eighth Part, and couped from the Scutcheon, reſembling a Ribband, or Ribbon of Silk. But the French term it a Baton or Cudgel. The Latins, Bacillus.

Rompu, is a French Word, ſignifying broken, from Rumpo to break; 'tis uſed to expreſs broken Chevrons, Bends, and the like; in Latin, Ruptus ſeu fractus.

Rouge Croix, or Rouge Croſs, that is, Red Croſs is the Title of one of the Purſuivants at Arms, in Latin, Servulus Armorum quem è Cruce dicunt rubeâ.

A Roundle, is a round Figure born in Arms, Camden terms it Globulus (adjecto colore); our Engliſh have a Whim to diſtinguiſh all Roundles, by Names, according to their Colour; but the French call all Torteauxes of this or that Colour, except they be of Metal, and then they term them Bezants. See Bezants and Torteaux.

Royalty, is Kingſhip, or Regal Dignity: The Enſigns of Royalty in England are, the Crown, the Scepter and Croſs, the Scepter and Dove, St. Edward's Staff, four ſeveral Swords, the Globe or Orb and Croſs, &c. all which may be ſeen in Aſhmole's Treatiſe of the Garter.

Ruby, is one of the precious Stones, and by ſome uſed in Heraldry, to expreſs the Colour Red, among the Arms of the Nobility to Barons, Viſcounts, Earls, &c.

S.

SABLE, by this we underſtand the Colour Black, the French uſe the ſame, and we have it from them. But whence they took it, is the Queſtion. Guillim thinks it might be from Sabulum, in regard of its groſs and heavy Aſpect. But Mackenzie thinks it was, becauſe, the beſt Sable Furrs are Black. In Latin it may be ater, niger, &c.—— It is known in Etching by Strokes, both perpendicular and tranſverſe.

Sallant, as the French ſay, or Salient, ſignifies leaping, and in Latin may be expreſſed by the Participle Saliens.

A Saltire——The Ancients uſed Saltatorium. Upton ſays it was an Inſtrument to catch wild Beaſts, whence it muſt come from Saltus, a Foreſt. Others ſay it was an Inſtrument to ſcale Walls, by which it muſt come à Saltando in muros, from leaping up on Walls. But moſt Authors agree it is born in imitation of St. Andrew's Croſs. And De Vargas tells us it had beginning in Spain, from a Victory gain'd over the Moors on St. Andrew's Day by the Conduct of Don Lopez Diaz de Haro in the time of King Ferdinand the Third; therefore Crux Sancti Andreæ is a proper Expreſſion. Vredus, Baron, and Others, have indeed ſometimes Decuſſis, which ſignifies the Form of any thing repreſenting the Letter X. The French term it Sautoir.

Sanguine, in Heraldry is underſtood the Murrey Colour. In Latin Color Sanguineus.

Saphire, is one of the precious Stones, by ſome Heralds uſed to expreſs the Colour Azure, in the Coats of Noblemen.

Sardonyx, another precious Stone by which ſome expreſs the Murrey Colour in the Coats of Noblemen.

Saturn, one of the Planets uſed by ſome to expreſs the Colour Sable, in the Arms of Sovereign Princes.

A Scarpe, is a Scarf, and derived from the French Word Echarpe. Guillim holds it a diminutive of the Bend ſiniſter, ſomething broader than a Baton.

A Schallop, or an Eſcallop, is a Sea Shell-fiſh, which Camden in Arms terms Conchylium.

Scotcheon or Scutcheon. See Eſcotcheon.

Segreant, corruptly termed Sergreant, by ſome, is the proper term for a Griffin, diſplaying his Wings Segreant ſes aiſles, as ready to fly; and as Gibbon informs me, in the Regiſter of St. John of Jeruſalem, ſuch a Griffon is termed Volant. Gibbon latinizeth it erectus (expanſis alis.)

Sciant, is a French Word ſignifying only ſitting; in Latin, Sedens.

Semé; the Ancients uſed Pulveriſatus, as Scutum pulveriſatum Crucibus cruciatis, i. e. Semé of Croſs-Croſslets. Camden hath Interſtinctus, Diſtinctus, Inſperſus, and Reſperſus. Chiffletius hath Conſperſus, and Sparſus, and Sparſis interto numero, and ubique ſparſis; both which are alſo uſed by Vredus, and are very proper Expreſſions; as they denote an irregular Strewing without Number, or all over the Field. Baron has Sparſus and repletus, which will alſo do with ubique.

Shapourree,

Shapournet, a Corrupt Word. See Chapournet.

Sinister, is a Latin Word, signifying the left Side, or Part of any Thing.

Sinople, is the French Term for Green, and us'd from a Name of a Place in the Levant, where the best Materials for dying Green are found, and not as has been by some suggested from the Greek συν ἅπλον.

Slipp'd, as in Trefoiles, or any Branch slipp'd from the Stemm; Gibbon hath Trifolium, &c. cum caule, &c.

Sol,——the Sun or principal of all the Planets in Heraldry, some use it to express Gold in the Arms of Soveraign Princes.

Sommé, is a French Term, by Baron rendred fastigiatus.

Soveraignity, is the Quality of a Soveraign Prince.

Soutenu, is a French Word, by Baron latiniz'd Fultus.

Stamand Colours, by this we understand such Colours, as having no Body do only stain; such are Tawney and Murrey.

Stars, Vide Estoils or Mullets.

Staves, of a Carbuncle, by these we understand its Rays, it being a Stone of exceeding Lustre; Uredus hath Radii.

Suffluc. Vide Rests.

Supporters, are those Animals which Noblemen carry to support their Shields, call'd by the French Supports ou Tenans, by the Latines, Talamones & Atlantes, according to Baron; But considering how Atlas is said to support, I cannot much approve of that Word.

Sur le tout, in French is over all; Cunctis superstratus or impositus, saith Baron. See Over all.

Surmounted, by this we understand any Figure born over another, the French say surmonté, and we may latinize it superinductum.

T.

Taillé, is the French Term, by which they express our Party per Bend sinister, obliquè sinistrorsum sectum, vide Party per Bend.

A Taw, or Cross Taw is an Ordinary in Form of the Greek T. See the Cross Taw.

Tawney, in Heraldry Tenné.

Tayl forked, See queve furchè. Chiffletius and Uredus, have Cauda Bifida; And Bartholus in the Blazon of his own Coat, Caudis duabis.

Tiercé, this is a French Term, by which they understand a Shield tierced or divided into 3 equal Areas, the manner of which they describe by Tiercé en pal, en face, &c. in Latin Baron useth in Palum, Fasciam, &c. tertiatum. I never met with this among Us, who say, per pale or per Fess, &c. a Pale or Fess, &c.

Timbre, in English is an Helmet, in Latin Galea.

Timbré, a French Term, Latiniz'd Galeatus, having an Helmet.

Topaz, one of the precious Stones, by which some express the Metal, Or, or Gold, in the Arms of Noblemen.

A Torce, is a French Word, by which some express a Wreath, or Pieces of Silk wreath'd or twisted, on which Crests are frequently plac'd.

Torteauxes, are certain Roundles, by some taken for Cakes, by others for Bowls, and by a 3d sort as Gibbon informs me, for Wounds; in Latin they are Tortellæ; And all Roundles if not of Metal Foreigners call Torteauxes; But we in England who have a mind to be singular, term only those that are red so.

Tourné, is a French Term, in Latin obversus.

Tranché, this is the French Method of expressing Party per Bend. See per Bend.

Trangle, thus the French term a Bar or small Fess, Fasciola.

Transparency, See Adumbration.

A Trefoile, in French signifies a 3 Leav'd Grass, or a sort of Grass with 3 Round Leaves, in Latin Trifolium.

Treillé, is a French Term, and signifies lattised. Ferne from Bara renders it of Batons dexter & sinister, but it may be of Sticks Paly and Barry, and to distinguish Mr. Gibbon hath, In parmâ cæruleâ clathrum Candidum, è bacillis dextris & sinistris constantem, qui alius ad alium purpureis clavis affiguntur. This bearing is very like to fretty, differing thus, that these Pieces do not alternately pass under and over each other, but are carried throughout and always nail'd in the Joints, as in the Example.

A Trecheur or Tressure, as we say, is the same Thing as an Orle; in Latin, it may be Limbus à Latere scuti disjunctus, or Scutum totum Tractus internè præcingens. Vide Orle.

A Double Tressure, the same with the Addition of Duplex, & triplex for one that is 3 fold. These Tressures are frequently born flory & flory counterflory, Cum floribus gladioli contrapositis, &c. as in the Book of St. Albans; But I shou'd much rather use Liliatus, either simply, or if counterflory, by saying flory on both sides.

Triangle, Contre-triangle so termed by Jean Boisseau, in his promptuaire Armorial. Bara, useth Barry indented, the One in the other; Others Barry Bendy Lozengy counterchanged. Sir John Ferne calls this form Meslé, which is a French Word signifying mingled, which expression is not particular enough; for as Mr. Gibbon observ'd of Interstinctus for Checquy that it may be apply'd to other Forms, so also he observes may Triangle, Contre-triangle be represented after two other Fashions, One consisting of Lines Paly, Barry and Bendy dexter; The other of Lines Paly, Barry and Bendy sinister. To specifie these Differences therefore, the disposition of these Lines must be express'd; As to the first he Latinizes it thus, Scutum lineis transversis, & itidem obliquis, cum dextris tum sinistris, in triangulos varios ex argento & nigro conformatum. As to the 2d sort you may say, Lineis perpendicularibus, diametricis, dextrorsumq; diagonalibus, &c. and the 3d in like manner using only Sinistrorsum instead of Dextrorsum.

Tripping,——as a Buck or Doe passing in its proper gate, which is with a sort of Trip. More suo incedens, is a proper Expression.

Counter-tripping, is when two are born in that Action, the one passing in as it were, the other out of the Field, which ought to be specified as one passing to the right the other to the left.

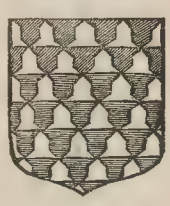

Trunked,——is when the Trunk of a Tree is born lopp'd of its Branches and Cut from the Root.

V.

Vairé,——is in Heraldry a kind of Fur like the Cut before you, some take them for Pots, Bells, or Caps rang'd upon a Line counterwise; however I shall not harrangue upon what they are, 'tis sufficient for me at present to tell you, that Gibbon after having sifted all, concludes from the best, to blazon it thus, Scutum Petasis aureis & rubris variegatum, and much in the same manner doth Mackenzie. See Vaire in the Display. When this Vairé consists of White and Blue, we say only Vaire, if of other Colours we mention them, but in Latin we ought to express the Colours of all.

The Cut above is the only Form I ever met with in England, but Baron hath set forth two more, the former of which is according to the 2d Example, the Arms of Du Bois, which he calls Contre-vair. And the other according to the 3d being the Arms of Durant, and by him Blazoned Vair en pointe.

Vaire Cuppy, or Vairy Tassy. See Counter-potent or Meirré.

Venus, one of the 7 Planets, by which some express the Colour Green in the Coats of Soveraign Princes.

Vert, is the Common French Word for Green, and in that Sense us'd by Heralds; Color viridus in Latin.

Verse,——is a French Term Latiniz'd by Baron, In verticem abjectus.

Vires, is a French Term in Latin Armillæ.

Virolé, Armillatus.

Viscount, a Title of English Peerage, below an Earl and above a Baron; in Latin, Vice comes.

Undy or Vavy; by this we understand any Thing formed of a waved Line; Chiffletius hath Undulatus; and the Book of St. Albans, Undosus and Undatus.

Voided, by this we understand any Ordinary so Evacuated, as that nothing but the bare Edge thereof remains to shew its Form. Camden hath evacuatus, as the Latin.

A Voider, is an Ordinary, as Guillim tells us, much like unto a Flanque or Flanch, but the Line of which it is formed, saith he, doth not bow altogether so much. For my part, I do not think the Flanque to have any Diminutive, but shou'd render this in Latin the same way, as I believe it to be all one.

Vol,——is a French Word, signifying in Latin Ala.

Demy-Vol, Ala simplex.

Volant, that is flying, and thus we term any Bird born in that Action. In Latin Volans.

Upon, or above another (which we commonly call in Pale); Chiffletius and Vredus have Alter Alteri impositus, or superimpositus, or else, as in Gibbon, palari ordine dispositæ.

Urdée, See a Cross, urdée.

W.

Wavy, See Undy.

Wastels, See Torteauxes, which are the same.

Water-Bouget, See under the Letter B. for Bouget.

A Wreath, or Torce is rendred Tortile by Camden in his Letters Patents. See Torce.——

A Wyvern, is a Kind of flying Serpent, the upper part resembling a Dragon, and the lower an Adder or Snake; some derive it from Vipera and so make it a winged Viper, others make it a Kind of Ferret call'd Viverra in Latin; though, if I might give my Opinion, it owes its being to the Heralds, and can boast no other Creation.

Now for as much as we have touch'd upon the Cross, it may not be improper to latinize their several Forms so far forth as they shall occur to my Memory, among which some are essential to them, and others but meerly accidental, as not proper to them only, or as Crosses, but proper also to other Ordinaries, such are Bordured Checquy, Componé alias Gobonè, Contercompone, Fretty, Imbattiled, Indented, Ingrailed, Inveck'd, Nebuly, Vair, Voided, Wavy, &c. to translate which into proper Latin, I refer you to their several Titles.

A Cross Baton, according to Leigh, but Bara and the French generally term it Potencée, as do the English now from them, a Cross Potent, by reason of the Resemblance its Extremities bear to the Head of a Crutch. Chiffletius hath Crux pedata from Pedum, a Shepherd's Crook, or Staff, or indeed any Walking Staff. Vredus hath patibulata Crux, but as Gibbon observes neither of these represent it otherwise to the understanding, than as if it was that long Cross whose traverse is plac'd at the very Top of the Trabs palaris, or erect, and resembling a T-like Gibbet (frequent in foreign Parts;) therefore he thinks it more expressive to say Crux ad singulos ipsius terminos pedata seu patibulata; or else omitting the Form Crux Hierosolymitana, or the Jerusalem Cross, which it is every where known to be.

A Cross of 4 Bastons, in true Loves Knot (according to Leigh) which Gibbon approves and thus latinizeth, Crux é quatuor bacillis constans, qui alius super alium vicissim & subter, pro veri amoris nodi modo interponuntur. Bara, a French Author hath Quatre Batons passez l'un sur l'autre, en forme de Croix; and une Croix composée de quatre bastons; But neither of these so plainly express their alternately fretting each other into a sort of Knot, as do the above-mentioned Method of Leigh and Gibbon.

But a Cross of 4 Bastons not interlac'd may be term'd, Crux é quatuor Bacilis constans.

A Cross

A Croſs Bezanty, or of Bezants; Leigh hath Crux talentata, for ſome takethem to be Talents; or you may ſay, Crux è nummis Byzantiis aureis compoſita. In French, Croix beſanté.

A Croſs Botoné, or as the French ſay Boutonné, terminates at each end in 3 Buds, Knots, or Buttons, reſembling in ſome Meaſure the 3 leaved Graſs; on which account Segoing in his Treſor Heraldique terms it. Croix trefflée. Baron hath Globoſa Crux. And Gibbon the better to explain the Form, Crucem ad ſingulas ejus extremitates in tres gemmas (vel nodos) pro trifolii ſpecie terminantem. 'Tis the Badge of the Order of St. Maurice.

A Croſs cercelé, or as Leigh ſays Sarcelé, but the former is the proper term, that Word ſignifying in French circling, or Curling, and ſo is this Croſs at its Ends. The Book of St. Albans calls it in French, Croix recercelée, and Engliſheth it a Croſs revers'd. Bara (ſaith Gibbon) and moſt French Authors call it, Croix Ancrée, becauſe it reſembles the Vloeck, or Flook of an Anchor. And according to this Acceptation, Chiffletius uſeth, Crux anchorata, the Book of St. Albans, Crucem reverſam, or a Croſs turn'd backward at the Ends. But Gibbon adheres rather to anchored, and accordingly blazons the Coat of Monceux, viz. Gules, a Croſs cercelé; and in dexter angle an Annulet, Or; In ſolo rubro Crux anchorata aurea, cum ejuſdem metalli annello, ad dextrum Scuti angulum poſito. This Croſs was the Badge of the Order of St. Saviour in Arragon, as Mr. Aſhmole in his Garter.

A Croſs corded, according to Leigh and Trophée d'Armes. The Book of St. Albans hath Crux Cordata de Argento; but Gibbon thinks it had been better expreſs'd Crux ſune albo, in varios à ſummo ad imum Gyros verſato, circumvincta; elſe a Man might ſuppoſe it but once tied about.

A Croſs Couped, Vide Humetty.

A Croſs Croſlet, according to Leigh; Bara calls it Croix croiſée, that is a Croſs croſſed, which is a much better Expreſſion than Croſlet, which ſignifies only a little Croſs. The Book of St. Albans has Crucem Cruciatam, and Vredus Cruciculam brachiatam, for indeed the Lines added to the plain Croſs, ſtand like Arms extended from the Body.

A Croſs of 4 Ermines, or as I think more properly 4 Ermine Spots in Croſs, 'tis the Coat of Hurſton of Cheſhire, and in Latin thus, In ſcuto argenteo, quatuor muris Armenii maculas in Crucis modum collocatas.

Croix Eſtoilée, as in Le Trophée d'Armes, that is a Star Croſs, and conſiſting of four rays ſtraight; in Latin, Crucem ſtellarem è quatuor planis radiis ad diametrum & perpendiculum poſitis conſtantem.

A Croſs Fichée, may be of two Sorts, that is, where the lower part is entirely made like to a Spike, or where there is a Spike as it were coming from the very foot. The firſt Sort Gibbon is for terming Cruces quarum pars inferior, vel ab ipſo umbilico (vel centro) ſpiculata eſt, vel in ſiculum prodit. The other Sort Vredus expreſſeth in imo ſpiculatam, or we may ſay ad pedem ſpiculatam.

A Croſs Flory, Fleury or Fleurette, is by the French term'd Florencée, as in Bara, and Trophée d'Armes; as alſo Fleurdelisée and by the Spaniards, Cruz floreada, being born by the Order of Calatrava on their Breaſt. This Mr. Gibbon aſſures us to be the true Form, and tells us the Book of St. Albans after the Spaniſh Method terms it Crux florida, as doth Mackenzie and others. But Gibbon himſelf approves rather of Liliatus, as Crux liliata, in regard flory reſpects only the French Lilly, or fleur de Lis. Yet as he ſaith, Liliatus ſimply doth not expreſs the Difference between this and that other Croſs flory, which ſome term patoncé, which terminates in a ſort of fleur de Lis, without any purfile or Tract betwixt the Croſs and the Flowers. Therefore to be more particular, he hath Crucem ad ſingulos cujus terminos (filo, lineâ, vel inſtitâ mediante) tria lilii folia apponuntur. Or thus, Crucem equalis longitudinis, ad cujus quatuor metas totidem lilia adjunguntur, for the firſt, and for the ſecond; Crucem in liliorum folia (nullâ lineâ ſeu filo interpoſito, vel interjecto) deſinentem.

A Croſs

A Croſs formy, according to Leigh, or Pattée according to Bara, Guillim, and moſt Authors, Gibbon renders Crucem verſus extremitates ſuas patulam, becauſe its Ends are broad and open as in the Cut.

A Croſs formy fitchy, or Pattée fitchée in foot, which is the proper Blazon, it not being fichée from the Center; in Latin thus, Crucem ad quatuor ejus extremitates patulam, & Cujus quidem ima pars eſt ad pedem cuſpidata.

A Croſs fourchy, or as the French ſay fourchée, that is forked, the Book of St. Albans renders Crux furcata, but becauſe the Prongs of a Fork are generally ſharp at their Ends, it were plainer deſcribed to ſay, Obtuſis terminis furcata, or Crux ad ejus extremitates obtusè biſida.

A Croſs humetty, according to Leigh. Bara hath Coupée or Racourſie, that is Cut or drawn in from the Sides of the Eſcutcheon. The Book of St. Albans hath Crux aqualis longitudinis ex omni parte, which is very ſignificant, or we may ſay as Gibbon obſerves, Crux aqualis longitudinis oram Scuti minimè pertingens. Vide Humetty or Couped.

A Long Croſs: Bara makes it like a Croſs of Paſſion, that is the traverſe Beam, a pretty deal below the Top. Leigh hath another Long Croſs, or Croſs Taw, of which by and by. Le Trophée d'Armes, calls this Croſs Croix haute; and Gibbon thinks on that account it may be rendred in Latin, Crux longa or Crux alta.

A Croſs of Maltha, or a Croſs of eight Points. This is latiniz'd by Gibbon, Crucem Malthenſem or Octogonam, or Crucem ad ſingulas ejus extremitates, in duos acutos angulos terminantem; or elſe in duos aculeos ſeu ſpicula prodeuntem.

A Croſs Maſculy, or of Maſcles; in Latin Crucem è Maculis retium, or è Rhombulis evacuatis, which Adjective Mr. Gibbon omits, taking them always to be voided, and I am of his Opinion, Crucem è Rhombulis Conſtantem.

A Croſs Moline; many of our Countrymen are out about this Croſs, which they Confound with the Croſs cercelée, whereas it ſhou'd be always ſquare pierced, it being a Milrind diſpos'd in Croſs. The Book of St. Albans hath Crucem molendinariam, which is very well; or as Gibbon obſerves, You may ſay, Ferrum molendinarium, in Crucis modum diſpoſitum; where you ſee the piercing is not mentioned but underſtood.

La Croix nyllée. This Peacham from Bara tells us, is like unto the Croſs cercelée, but ſomething narrower and never pierced. But Mr. Gibbon thinks it ought to be always pierced, as deriv'd from Anille a Milrind, and being nothing but a ſlender Croſs Moline; and thus accordingly Monſieur Baron blazons the Arms of Joulles, which is ſuch a Croſs (though not engrav'd ſo narrow or ſlender), viz. D'Or à la Croix anillée de Sable, that is, Or, a Croſs Moline Sable. And 'tis my Opinion they are one, not two ſorts of Croſſes, but drawn ſometimes broad ſometimes ſlender, either through the Ignorance or Caprice of the Engraver. Baron's Draught is as in the Margin.

A Croſs Patonce; Mr. Gibbon is much puzzl'd to find out whence this Word is taken, and cannot at laſt, which makes him conclude it to be a Corrupt Expreſſion; and that the proper term is flory or fleury, as it reſembles and is by moſt term'd; He renders it in Latin, Crucem in liliorum folia, nullo ſilo interpoſito, deſinentem, that is, having no line or tract, dividing the Croſs from the flowers or flory part. See Croſs flory.

A Croſs Patriarchal; this is ſo term'd by Favin and Le Trophée d'Armes, and alſo Croix de Loreine, by the laſt Author. The Viſcount of Therouanne in his Recerches of the Nobility of Flanders, and particularly in the Arms of the Viſcounty of Roulers, ſtiles it a double Croſs, viz. De Sable à une Croix double d'Argent, as doth alſo Sibmacher of of Norimbergh in his Book of Cuts, where he gives the Arms of Aſchafenbergh, a Town in Germany, ſaying, ein doppelt creutz, i. e. a double Croſs. It is term'd a Croſs Patriarchal, for that as the Staves of Popes are thrice Croſſed, ſo thoſe of Cardinals and Patriarchs are twice Croſſed. In Latin Mr. Gibbon hath Crucem Patriarchalem, or Crucem Lotharingiæ, or Crucem duplicem, i. e. duabus tranſverſis conſtantem trabibus.

This Croſs is the Badge of the Canons Regulars of the Holy Sepulchre, which they carry upon their Shoulders, vid. Dug. Monaſt. Ang. as alſo of the Order of St. Gereon; and being made at the Ends like the Croſs of Malta, is the Symbol of the Order of the Holy Ghoſt, Vid. Aſhm. on the Garter.

A Croſs quarterly pierced according to Leigh; others have ſquare pierced; the French in general percée en quarre, which is much the better Expreſſion. Its Latin ſaith Gibbon is Quadratè, or, Teſſalatim in centro, ſeu in umbilico evacuata, penetrata ſive percuſſa.

A Croſs Round pierced, the Latin is Orbiculatim in Centro perforatam, which term Gibbon uſeth, becauſe all Holes made with Piercers or Augers are Round.

A Croſs pierced Lozange ways, You may expreſs it ad modum Rhombuli, in Corde ſive umbilico percuſſam, penetratam ſive evacuatum. But in Caſe ſuch Figures as theſe appear in the Center of a Croſs of different Colour from the Field, you are not to ſuppoſe the Croſſes to be pierced, but charged, and muſt ſay for the firſt Teſſellâ or Quadrâ, for the ſecond Globulo, and for the third and laſt, Rhombulo Impreſſam, ſpecifying alſo the Colour of thoſe Super-charges.

A Croſs double Pitchy, as in Leigh; Bara calls it a Croſs of 8 Points or Doublement fichée; and to diſtinguiſh it from the Croix octogone or Croſs of Maltha before mentioned, Gibbon thus blazons it, Crucem octogonam cujus (ad ſingulas ſuas extremitates) bina cuſpides parvulo lineari intervallo infernè diſſociantur. For in the Croſs of Maltha the two Cuſps or Points at each End make at their Bottoms (where they riſe) an acute Angle or Corner, whereas in this Croſs the Points are ſeparted at Bottom by a lineary Interval or Space.

A Plain-Croſs: Vredus, and the Book of St. Albans hath Crux plana; but Blazoners of latter Days have ſaid only a Croſs, its Plainneſs being underſtood, and which I think to be ſufficient.

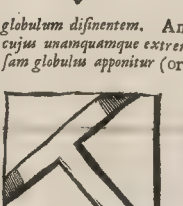

A Croſs pointed at the Ends, ſuch a one is born by Duckenfield of Cheſhire, and by Gibbon blazon'd Crucem evacuatam nigram (ejus Scuti minimè pertingentem) & ad ipſos extremos terminos in Cuſpidem prodeuntem.

A Croſs pommellée, according to Leigh; by Peacham Pommée, Bourdonnée or Pommetée by Bara, Baron and Trophée d'Armes, who adds too of 1, 2, or 3 pieces, meaning knobs; All which terms ſignify the ſame, being deriv'd from the French Pommee an Apple, and for the third, Bourdon ſignifies a Pilgrims Staff, which is always depicted with ſuch a knob at the Top, and I ſuppoſe might give birth to that term. The former Draught is according to Leigh; but Bara cloſeth up his Croſs, and places his Pomell thereon. Baron hath ſimply Crux globata; but Gibbon who is generally very particular, hath for the firſt, Crucem ad ſingulos ejus terminos in globulum diſinentem. And for the ſecond, Crucem ad cujus unamquamque extremitatem lineâ adumbrante clauſam globulus apponitur (or lineâ mediante.)

A Croſs portate, as in Leigh, ſo call'd, becauſe lying in Bend as over a Man's Shoulder; we may term it ſaith Gibbon, Crucem longam T portatam, or rather obliquè poſitam, or elſe we may ſay, Crucem longam (cujus trabs tranſverſa ad ipſiſſimum ejus faſtigium affigitur obliquè poſitam. In Engliſh we ſhou'd ſay a long Croſs T portate, or oblique diſpos'd.

A Croſs Raguled and Trunked; thus Leigh and Guillim; the Form Raguled, Camden renders Nodoſa, Crux Nodoſa without mentioning Trunked, which the Book of St. Albans renders truncata, it ſeeming to be made of two trunks of Trees without their Branches, of which they ſhew only the Stumps. But for as much as trunk'd in Heraldry is often taken taken for couped, and Crux truncata might be thought a Croſs couped, Mr. Gibbon (willing to keep the Blazon of Leigh, &c.) hath Crucem nodis truncatis aſperatam. The Bearing is very Ancient, for Julius Cæſar gave for his Badge a Boars Head on a ragged Staff, and the Maritime Standard of the Dukes of Burgundy is a Saltire thus jagged.

A Croſs Reſarcelée, according to Bara and Ferne; which is as if one Croſs was ſew'd to another, the French Word ſignifying to edge or hem again. But Mr. Gibbon notwithſtanding the Severeneſs of ſome of our Heralds, who will allow nothing but Bends to be Cottiſed, thinks by a parity of Reaſon, not Bends only, but Pales, Feſſes, Chevrons, yea Croſſes, &c. may be cottiſed alſo, and ſo he Blazons this Coat, Cæruleam Scuti aream, deauratâ Cruce lineis argenteis ſuccinctâ decoratam, i. e. Azure a plain Croſs, Or, cottiſed, Argent.

A Croſs Tau, ſo Leigh, Bara calls it Croix de T; Trophée d'Armes Croix Taf, Croix Tau, Croix T; or Croix de St. Anthoine; and indeed St. Anthony is always pictured with ſuch a Croſs upon his Shoulders. In Latin ſaith Gibbon, we may term it Crucem Tau, or Crucem ad formam literæ Græcæ Tau patulæ compoſitam; or in modum capitalis literæ T, Romanæ patulæ formatam; or Sancti Anthonii Crucem, and thus doth Mackenzie blazon it. This Croſs muſt be always broad in its extremities.

Croix de quatre pieces de Vaire appointées, according to Bara, i. e. a Croſs of 4 pieces of Vaire, their Points turn'd one to another; by Gibbon thus latiniz'd, Crucem è quatuor Petaſis (quorum apices ſunt alia verſus aliam poſitæ) conſiſtentem; or thus, Quatuor petaſos (verticibus, altero alterum reſpicientibus) in Crucis modum collocatos.

A Croſs Urdée, is the name which Leigh gives to this Form of Croſs; but whence he fetcheth the Term is not eaſily conceiv'd. Mr. Gibbon as it terminates in the Form of Card-diamonds or Lozanges, latinizeth it thus, Crucem ad Ipſos extremos terminos in Semi Rhombulum, prodeuntem; by which one might make a Trick or Draught.

Note, That Saltires may be varied according to the ſeveral Forms of Croſſes, excepting two or three; as long, nor Partriarchal, &c. they can't be, neither can they be well fichée at one Foot but at two: And the Blazons us'd for the Croſs will do for them alſo.
